

A BIG JOB — A big crane was brought in today to lift the tail section of an American Airlines jetliner in the search for more bodies of victims in Monday night's crash near Cincinnati. Workers reported quite a task in getting the crane up the steep hillside where the plane crashed, killing 56. At least 49 bodies had been recovered this morning.

Cong Spring Trap but Suffer Losses

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A Viet Cong force ambushed a South Vietnamese unit on a main highway east of Saigon today, but 130 of the Communists were killed by combined ground and air action, a U.S. spokesman reported.

The spokesman said American and Vietnamese planes hammered the attacking Viet Cong and killed 100 of them.

He had no information on government casualties or other details of the action 5 miles west of Baria.

A large force of U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops pressed an offensive in sandy, rolling coastal terrain 350 miles northeast of Saigon, but results were meager.

Two Viet Cong were reported killed and 18 suspects were detained in the search-and-destroy mission 18 miles northwest of Chu Lai on the coast of the South China Sea.

No allied casualties were reported, a U.S. military spokesman said.

STORMED ASHORE
The Americans stormed ashore yesterday with the Vietnamese in the first joint amphibious operation of the war against the Viet Cong.

Col. Thell Fisher of Springfield, Va., was in command of the operation, the first time an American was put in operational control of a Vietnamese fighting unit.

No major ground action was reported elsewhere in the country.

A new U.S. tactical fighter squadron arrived in Viet Nam to bolster the air war against the Viet Cong.

SEN. HARRY BYRD

Conservative Virginia Dem Quits Senate

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Sen. Harry F. Byrd, for years head of Virginia's dominant Democratic organization and a strong voice for economy in Washington, announced his resignation from the U.S. Senate today.

Gov. Albert S. Harrison Jr. relayed the 75-year-old senator's decision to a hastily called news conference.

The resignation is effective immediately, and Harrison said he planned to name an interim successor.

Under Virginia law, an interim appointee to the U.S. Senate serves only until the next general election—in this case until November 1966.

Byrd was reelected in November 1964 to his sixth six-year term.

Harrison gave no intimation of whom he might have in mind to succeed Byrd, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, which must clear major portions of the administration's programs.

Clouds May Carry Rain

Generally cloudy with possibly a few light showers through tomorrow is the weatherman's forecast for the Pontiac area.

Temperatures will continue about the same, with lows falling into the high 30s tonight and highs tomorrow rising to near 44 to 50.

Skins will clear Saturday with temperatures turning a little cooler.

A sunny but frosty 34 was the low recording in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. The 2 p.m. reading was 51.

'Big Aluminum' Kills Price Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three of the nation's four big aluminum producers backed down today in the face of stern Johnson administration opposition and canceled price increases the government had called inflationary.

The Aluminum Co. of America — No. 1 in the industry — called it quits last night by rescinding the increases announced Monday.

Reynolds Metals followed suit two hours later. Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp., third biggest, joined the procession midmorning today.

That firm called the price rises "restorations" and said its action followed "similar cancellations by other major producers."

That left Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., as the one big holdout at the time.

In New York, Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., the fourth firm and one which initiated the price increase two weeks ago, indicated today it would follow the cutback.

'WILL BE COMPETITIVE'
"We will be competitive," the company said in a statement.

Alcoa's decision to cancel the price increase was announced at a hastily called night press conference by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. He hailed it as "a patriotic act."

The defense secretary also said the government agreed to an immediate resumption of negotiations for the orderly disposal of a surplus of 14 million tons of aluminum now held in national stockpiles.

McNamara said he believed the government would be able to limit the amount of aluminum disposed from the stockpile to less than 200,000 tons and thus "avoid disruption" of prices.

Last Saturday when federal officials denounced the price increase, they also announced that the government was considering releasing 500,000 tons from the stockpile in 1966.

On Monday, officials of the Office of Emergency Planning announced they had begun making preparations for the immediate release of 100,000 tons of stockpile aluminum, rising to 300,000 tons the amount of aluminum the government planned to make available.

McNamara said he believed the government would be able to limit the amount of aluminum disposed from the stockpile to less than 200,000 tons and thus "avoid disruption" of prices.

2 More Attacks in Nankin Twp.

Women Say Assailant 'Light-Haired' Man

DETROIT (UPI) — Police today were searching for a light-haired young man in an effort to end a series of attacks on women and girls in a quiet suburban subdivision west of here. Two women were attacked yesterday.

One housewife, Mrs. Robert Villeneuve, 28, was slashed on her face by a "slim blond-haired young man" in her Nankin Township home minutes before her husband was to return from work.

The laughing youth knocked her unconscious with a bottle and fled before her husband came home.

Later in the day a man answering the same description but with "light-brown hair" tried to break into the Nankin Township home of Mrs. Helen Varner, 42.

He struck Mrs. Varner once, demanding money. He fled when she told him she had none.

Wayne County Sheriff's officials said they could find no direct connection in the two incidents. However, they did rule out the possibility of a lone "maniac."

Mrs. Villeneuve, an expectant mother, was raked by a small pocket knife as the youth knocked her down and stood over her.

She slashed her face only deep enough to draw blood, giggling as she tried to squirm away.

Mrs. Villeneuve told police she had received harassing phone calls twice during the week.

She said a third phone call yesterday warned her "I'll be over in just a few minutes because your husband will be home pretty soon."

GIVE TRIBUTE — American Legionnaires this morning gathered around the soldiers' monument at City Hall to pay homage on Veterans' Day. Waldron Sale Is Announced; Will Reopen

A Pontiac landmark for 38 years, the Waldron Hotel has been sold to a Detroit group for an undisclosed figure in excess of half-a-million dollars.

Closed since Sept. 1 by a labor dispute, the hotel was expected to reopen next week.

The hotel has been sold to a three-man group headed by Earl Mercier of Detroit, who owns hotels in Detroit and Ohio.

The sale of the Waldron was announced by a spokesman for the Simone Management Co., of Detroit, owners of the hotel since 1952.

The sale price was "in excess of a half-million dollars."

Mercier and two attorneys, Marvin Kramer and James Ginn, both of Southfield, have formed the Waldron Hotel Inc.

Mercier reportedly will manage the 81-room hotel at 36 E. Pike.

The sale includes some 10 to 15 offices located in the hotel building, which forms the "Waldron block."

The new owners were slated to meet today with officials of Local 794, of the Hotel Restaurant Employees and Bartenders, Union.

Arrangements were to be made for the rehiring of the hotel's 50 employees, who struck the hotel Sept. 1 after their contract expired in July and new terms could not be worked out.

Officials Are Still in Dark Over Cause of Blackout

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's populous Northeast struggle today to return to normal as government agencies sought an answer to the paralyzing power failure.

Businesses and transportation facilities, crippled by the 10-hour blackout that spread across seven states and into Canada Tuesday night, hopefully looked to near normal operations today.

Power conservation is being observed in New York City, hardest hit by the massive technological breakdown. Full power is not expected to be restored for several days.

The Veterans Day holiday is contributing to the return to normal. Schools, government facilities, banks and some businesses are closed today — granting a day's grace to New York's heavily taxed transit operations.

The closed facilities also will require far less power.

HUNT GOES ON
Cause of the historic breakdown remains as dark as the blackout itself, but state and federal agencies are making intensive investigations.

James A. Lundy, chairman of the New York Public Service Commission, said he was confident the reason for the failure will be uncovered. It

Britain Quickly Halts Dealings; Leaders Fired

Move to Break Away From Commonwealth Is First Since 1776

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith declared Rhodesia independent today, the first such declaration against Britain since the American colonies broke away in 1776.

Britain retaliated swiftly, in effect outlawing Rhodesia. Prime Minister Harold Wilson declared in the House of Commons that Smith and his ministers had been fired — an action which will be ignored in Rhodesia.

Wilson asserted his government will have no dealings with the Rhodesian regime.

He expelled Rhodesia from the sterling area, banned exports, including British purchases of Rhodesia's $112 million a year tobacco crop, ended all British aid, suspended trading preferences.

Britain embargoed the shipment of all arms to this central African country, and asked for an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council.

Britain's allies, including the United States, and commonwealth members are expected to join in ignoring the declaration and in imposing economic sanctions.

From outside the commonwealth, Sweden became the first to announce it will not recognize the Rhodesian government.

While Smith still was speaking on the radio, British Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs announced that Smith and all his

FT. GORDON, Ga. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is in generally satisfactory condition today following the second attack of angina pectoris or heart pains suffered yesterday, his doctors reported.

The physicians said in a bulletin:

"Gen. Eisenhower spent a good night without further pain or discomfort. He is comfortable this morning and his general condition is satisfactory."

In effect the physicians were renewing what they said last night after recurring heart pains forced his return to an oxygen tent.

Readers Let Off Steam About Traffic

Traffic, like the weather, is 60 miles per hour in a 30 m.p.h. zone.

A stiff fine wouldn't be enough for these traffic turtles.

I have attended many seminars and conferences on traffic safety and have come to the conclusion that the record of the elderly is excellent, especially when placed side by side with the record of the younger people.

More Indictments in Loan Fraud Case?

DETROIT (AP)—A government attorney says there may be more indictments in the home loan fraud case in which financier Ben Levinson and others are defendants.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Barton Morris said Wednesday such a possibility existed. He declined to elaborate.

Morris headed the investigation that led to indictments Tuesday against Levinson, mortgage company head and Democratic party fund-raiser, and 15 other men and several real estate and mortgage companies.

Falsification of loan applications to the Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration is alleged by the government in connection with transactions on $4 million in property.

Levinson declined comment on his indictment, referring questions to his attorney, George B. Woods.

U-M Official Tells House Committee Dormitory Costs Low as Possible

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The University of Michigan's dormitory charges to students are the lowest economically possible, Marvin Niehuss, U-M executive vice president, told a legislative hearing Wednesday.

The higher education subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee is inquiring into University finances, including its $1.8-million increase this year in student tuition fees.

Students as well as U-M administrative officials testified Wednesday. Dormitory costs were one subject under discussion.

Gary Cunningham of Memphis, Tenn., president of the Student Government Council, criticized what he called high-rent private housing for students. He proposed the university play a larger role in the general community so that its influence could keep such costs down.

The university's dormitories, total capacity 7,700, are described as crowded. The average charge per student for the academic year of eight months is estimated at $650.

Rep. George F. Montgomery, D-Detroit, a subcommittee member, raised a question whether current dormitory occupants are paying part of the charges to future residents under the university's debt retirement policy on the buildings.

Niehuss said the dormitories are operated on a nonprofit basis. He also said the dormitories provide meals and cleaning service to students and these services are not generally available elsewhere.

U. S. college students borrowed more than $250 million for the 1964-65 school year through federal, state and individual college lending programs.

OK to Sell Debentures

LANSING (AP) — Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co. has been given permission to sell $40 million principal amount of its debentures, due in 1965, the State Public Service Commission has announced.

A record total of more than $56 million was spent on petroleum explorations in Australia in 1964.

Incumbent Trails as Filipino Vote Count Hits Halfway Mark

MANILA (AP) — The vote of President Diosdado Macapagal, seeking a second term, was reached near-commanding proportions today as counting in the Philippine presidential election passed the halfway mark. Official totals, however, were lagging far behind the unofficial tallies, and there was no sign of a communications breakdown.

Macapagal, 58, the Nationalist party candidate, also appeared to be carrying his vice presidential running mate, Sen. Fernando Lopez, with him.

Lopez had 2,121,654 votes to 2,065,894 for Liberal Sen. Gerardo Roxas. In the early counting Lopez and Roxas had traded position several times.

Almost 48 hours after the polls closed Tuesday, the official election commission totals were running more than 2 million the votes behind the unofficial count. Unofficial estimates said 8.5 million persons voted. The official figure has not been announced.

Provincial and municipal chairmen of the election commission, into whose custody the ballot boxes are delivered, were ordered to investigate the causes behind the delay. Police officers from both parties. "There must be some monkey business," said Juan V. Borra, treasurer, into whose custody mission. "It couldn't have been a communications breakdown."

Farmers in the U. S. have decreased 3.9 million since 1900.

Fault Texas Justice in Jack Ruby Crime

Those harboring homicidal proclivities will be well advised to exercise them in Texas. In the onetime republic and the 28th state admitted to the Union, the dispensation of justice is not only subject to prolonged postponement but is also amenable to negotiation.

We cite the case of JACK RUBY who, motivated by strong retributive passion against the accused slayer of President JOHN F. KENNEDY, gunned him down as he was being transferred from the Dallas jail to another place of custody.

Moreover, by killing his victim in full view of 80 million TV viewers intently watching the sequence of events transpiring in Dallas, Ruby in effect incontrovertibly identified himself as the murderer.

All this happened two years ago. There then ensued a chain of frantic, rather ridiculous, legal maneuvers, climaxed by a shift of top defense counsel, before RUBY was tried for first degree murder, found guilty and sentenced to death.

Now, with a writ of habeas corpus, a general appeal of the death sentence and the question of RUBY's sanity still not judicially decided, District Attorney HENRY WADE, who prosecuted the case, is agreeable to reduction of the death sentence to life imprisonment.

Under Texas law, a person sentenced to life can conceivably be freed in seven years.

But no. One of Ruby's attorneys has made a "counter offer" of a five-year term. The district attorney, however, does not feel "this would be a proper punishment."

We now await the next episode of the legal serial portraying the life and time of JACK RUBY.

It would be difficult to envision a more egregious travesty of justice than that offered by the RUBY case. The way it is headed, the convicted murderer may wind up accountable to the law for nothing more than a misdemeanor.

Government Is Taking Silver Out of 'Silver'

Marking discontinuance of the use of silver in coinage, the government has put into circulation new-style copper-nickel quarters. Silverless dimes and half-dollars possibly will be ready for circulation before the end of the year.

For the scholarly, the coins shown form "CU," the chemical symbol for copper, one of the elements of the new coins.

A worldwide silver shortage, the pressure of rising prices, and an insatiable demand for silver coins combined to make the debasement of America's silver coinage unavoidable. Existing silver coins will remain in circulation, but now new ones will be struck after the copper-nickel coins become available in quantity.

Until Congress last July approved the change, the silver coinage system had been in use with relatively minor changes since the first coinage act was adopted by Congress in 1792. The high silver content of the dime, quarter, half-dollar and silver dollar not only gave United States coins high intrinsic value but also helped to support public confidence in paper money.

But Treasury officials believe the public will adopt the new silverless coins with a minimum of trauma. And it will take a lot of hoarding to absorb a significant number of old coins.

The Treasury estimates there are presently three billion quarters, one billion half-dollars, and seven and one-half billion dimes in circulation. It will be years before these coins attain any value as collectors' items.

State School Gives Real 'Basic' Course

Critics of modern education complain that much of the information received today is impractical and of little use in everyday living.

Their attention is directed to an orientation program offered by Michigan Technological University at Houghton.

Located in the Upper Peninsula, in the midst of almost 10 million square miles of forest, Michigan Tech provides its freshmen with a course in wilderness survival.

Can you be more practical than that?

Power Blackout May Be Benefit

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—Maybe the electric power blackout in the Northeast Tuesday night was a good thing for the nation as a whole. In may compel new thinking on distributing electricity in case more critical times come.

But it was gruesome for a while, wondering what had happened. There probably wasn't a person who didn't wonder: Was it just an accident? Or was it sabotage by enemies, saboteurs, or misguided citizens?

Yet, it wasn't as gruesome as wondering what would happen, under present arrangements for distributing electric power, if the real thing, a nuclear attack, had struck the whole United States.

Joseph C. Swidler, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, said the facts that have come in so far "aren't really adequate for an appraisal of causes, much less cures."

"It's apparent that we'll need a great deal of study and industry thinking—and perhaps some fairly important technological renovations."

He left unclear what he meant but it does seem incredible, thanks to what happened Tuesday night, that a nation which some day could suffer a nuclear attack would have a power system, or systems, so centralized that one disruption could throw a whole group of states into darkness.

CANT BE TOLERATED Swidler said "we can't tolerate a system-wide interruption under the highly developed power conditions we have today." So perhaps the result will be a much more decentralized power system.

Because there was no fear of worse to come — like a nuclear attack — there was no panic. But there would be panic if such an attack came, and with the central power plants destroyed, the whole nation was left in darkness.

In that situation, remembering the fantastic traffic jams in New York City alone Tuesday night in the darkness, even the movement of troops might be impossible and communications from the government to the people, telling them what to do and what to expect.

In case of attack, and even with a broad power failure, the United States would probably be able to retaliate with its own nuclear weapons from American bases which, the Pentagon says, have auxiliary power of their own.

CIVILIAN CHAOS

But if an attack came, and the rest of the nation was blacked out as the Northeast was Tuesday night, it seems pretty plain the civilian population, if not the defense structure, would be in chaos.

Thus it is to the interest of the nation to act now to prevent a repetition of Tuesday night.

David Lawrence Says:

U.S. Sensitive to N-War Chance

WASHINGTON — What happened on Tuesday night may yet become known as the electric shock that changed history. A spectacular example of how the lives of 30 million people are adversely affected without a moment's warning can only bring to mind what LAWRENCE the mechanical devices of modern science can do to the life of a people, either by accident or intent.

The mere fact that lots of persons thought immediately of sabotage when the impact of the electric-power failure hit many of the cities and towns simultaneously in eight states is an indication of how sensitive the nation is to the possibility of sudden war in a nuclear age.

Whether the true cause of the interruption of electric-power service will ultimately be found attributable to man's failure or to the breakdown of a piece of machinery, there will always be the thought that a secret agent who knows the location of vulnerable spots in the power system can inflict colossal damage without being observed or detected.

There may be ways to reduce the potential harm that can be done by tampering with the electric-wire apparatus of the country, and alternate systems for emergency can doubtless be devised.

APPREHENSION The feeling of apprehension will continue, however, because in a nuclear age, it is not just the dropping of a bomb that would be planned by the enemy but preliminary moves which could first paralyze the business and economic life of the country through instantaneous sabotage of vital facilities.

What it all emphasizes is that secrecy and clandestine operations by an enemy government constitute a danger that has not been eliminated and that will require the pursuit of more intensive crusades which seek to convince all peoples that theoretical peace does not assure a comfortable peace.

As long as there is friction in the world and governments, while professing to be interested in peace, carry on subversion and infiltration inside other countries, there will be widespread fear.

The two major Communist countries — Russia and Red China — continue to assert their right to go into other countries and establish secret agencies for the purpose of performing acts of sabotage at critical moments.

CLAIM INTEREST Outwardly, all the principal governments in the world today claim to be interested in maintaining peace. But threats of war continue, and the possibility of a nuclear clash is always present.

There are, of course, to protect the military operations by alternate systems of electrical power and communication, and undoubtedly industry can similarly be protected by auxiliary lines.

But the idea that, despite modern mechanical progress, it is feasible for somebody with a handful of tools to sever a major power line in an unknown spot and put a nation in darkness for several hours is a worrisome thought for the American people today.

It points up the urgent need for renewed efforts to bring government closer together so they may realize that peace is really a common objective and that a nuclear war would be suicidal.

Sometimes it takes unrelated incidents to awaken the conscience of mankind.

The electric-power failure in the United States unquestionably will stimulate a significant discussion not only in this country but in other countries throughout the world.

U.S. Marine in Viet Nam Gives Views on Protests

I am a member of the Third Marine Division, serving in the Vietnamese struggle for independence. I am very proud that I am an American and even prouder that I am able to help these people. It disgusts me to hear about so-called mature Americans who march and protest what the United States is doing over here. What do they know about what's going on here? Who are they to say that we don't belong here? I think the Communists are instigating most of these marches.

There are three types of men over here with different feelings for this conflict. First you have the men who go along with the protests because they feel it will help them to get out of here. They don't fully understand why we are here and what it means to the free world. Second, you have the majority of us here who know why we are here and wouldn't give up the fight. The third and smallest group are the ones who are just putting in their time.

These men who go out on two and three-day patrols and come back and find out there wasn't any hot chow or water for needed showers are worth more to the U.S. than all of the marchers put together. They may get a little riled, but later they are laughing like nothing ever happened. There's always tomorrow!

But for some of these men there is no tomorrow. These men who make the supreme sacrifice should be given a hero's funeral and their names go down in history as the greatest men America has ever produced. These men, some without a tenth grade education, are worth more to the United States than all of those college marchers put together. We should praise these men, not condemn them.

'Need More Funds to Help Protect Property'

On November 1, I talked to an assistant prosecuting attorney concerning thefts and destruction of property by vandals in the Highland area. It seems Mr. Bronson, the prosecutor, cannot get sufficient funds or manpower to investigate or follow through on these cases. I am asking all landlords and other taxpayers to write to the proper authorities to put the power and funds into Prosecutor Bronson's hands so he can better protect our investments.

Comment on Waterford High School Bands

We have two high schools in Waterford and two bands. In Waterford's band each member is awarded a letter if he has good attendance, good participation and good conduct. Some are first year students. At Kettering the band members practice many long hours, rain or shine, and some have been there for nine years of band participation, yet their instructor does not feel that they are deserving of a band letter. Can anyone tell me where the difference lies?

Gives Reasons Not to Change Driving Age

The minimum driving age should not be changed because some teen-agers graduate from high school and are in college at 17 and parents can't take them everywhere they need to go. Raising the age would cause a lot of teen-agers to hitchhike or drive without a license. Just as many older people are the cause of accidents as teen-agers and you don't see the State doing anything about that. If the teen-agers are going to drive fast at 16, they will at 18.

2nd Alabama County Faces Protests Supporting Federal Control in Rights Crimes

EUTAW, Ala. (AP) — A campaign of street demonstrations may spread to a second Alabama county this week in a move to bring federal legislation covering violence against civil rights workers, Negroes marched here Wednesday.

"We must awaken the entire state of Alabama," said Hosea L. Williams, a former government chemist who is directing the new drive.

Williams said Wednesday night in Birmingham, after meeting with a group of Negro leaders, that he would lead another march today in this west Alabama town of 2,700 and probably go into Greenville, in Southern Christian Leadership Conference, headed by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., would mobilize slowly.

Because of the need for more planning and organizing in Birmingham, he said, King's scheduled trip to Alabama's largest city might be delayed possibly until January.

Williams, SCLC director of voter registration and political education, said he felt that not enough Birmingham Negro leaders had agreed to participate in the drive for federal legislation and mass registration of Negro voters in Alabama.

The SCLC drive, the second Alabama-based campaign of 1965, seeks enactment of laws making it a federal crime to threaten, assault or kill persons in the pursuit of, constitutional rights. The move started after four civil rights slayings this year in Alabama. There have been no convictions to date in the cases.

"This is an all-white justice we can no longer tolerate," Williams said Wednesday at the Greene County Courthouse rally. He said this county was selected as the starting point of the SCLC drive because 80 percent of the 13,600 residents are Negroes.

who with Williams led the march, said Negroes were demanding integration of schools, law enforcement agencies and equal job opportunities. The white school here was integrated briefly this fall but the lone Negro pupil withdrew after a few days. A Negro boycott of stores continues.

Stress Planning at Conference

Is Discussed at OU

Progress in housing and a federal push for long-range community planning were emphasized yesterday in the first of a series of seminar-type conferences at Oakland University.

More than 200 local government officials and representatives of private enterprise participated in the Congressional Conference on Community Growth.

The afternoon-evening conference was cosponsored by Congressmen William S. Broomfield, R-Royal Oak, and Billie S. Farnum, D-Waterford Township, with OU's Division of Continuing Education.

Philip N. Brownstein, commissioner, Federal Housing Administration, was the conference keynote speaker.

Brownstein, who detailed progress in private housing, said that the forces of growth and decay create problems of their own.

LACK PLUMBING

Despite the permanent vacation land quality to luxurious homes in the Birmingham area this area — the area outside of Detroit — has one out of every 20 homes without plumbing, he said.

Citing the expansion of housing, Brownstein said 20,000 homes a year have been added in the Detroit metropolitan area in the decade 1950-60.

Meantime, FHA insures 35 per cent of all new homes in the $17,500-and-under price range. Over-all FHA has roughly 14 per cent of the new housing market.

And what is the average new home like?

AVERAGE HOME

Brownstein, basing his figures on those homes handled by FHA put the price at $15,000. It has three bedrooms, 1½ baths, 1,100 to 1,200 square feet of living space and probably is single story.

Home buyers are getting much better quality today, according to the FHA commissioner. "Although we've not made the progress we'd like to."

Oakland County is experiencing just about every situation—price or form of development—happening in the housing field, he said.

In addition to the expanding urban society, this area, like others, has the migration of low income families to older neighborhoods.

CAN'T AFFORD UPKEEP

"This has given custody of our aging housing inventory to those who can least afford it up-keep," claimed Brownstein.

Brownstein's talk was followed by small group meetings on specific problems associated with private and public problems in urban growth.

Kermit G. Bailer, assistant administrator, community programs, of the newly-designated Department of Housing and Urban Development, was the evening speaker.

Bailer explained provisions of the new Housing and Urban Development Act.

Pair 'Good' After Surgery on Same Day

CHICAGO (AP) — A Wisconsin couple, married for 37 years, had heart surgery together and are reported in "very good condition" today.

Mrs. and Mrs. Alvin Dru'yor of Prairie du Chien, Wis., underwent open-heart surgery Wednesday by Dr. M. S. Mazel. The operation, called a cardiopexy, was to unblock arteries leading to the heart.

Dr. Mazel said the Dru'yors probably will be up and walking today and will be back at work in two or three weeks.

Mrs. Inez Dru'yor, 60, was tabbed for the operation after accompanying her husband, Alvin, 62, to Chicago for a physical examination two weeks ago.

Tests disclosed that she had a heart condition, similar to the one her husband had for seven years, only worse.

More Leave Gas Danger Site Today

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Another Army hospital train leaves today to evacuate several hundred more of the elderly and the infirm before a barge loaded with potentially deadly chlorine gas is raised from the Mississippi River.

The first trainload left yesterday for Central Louisiana State Hospital in Alexandria, 106 miles away.

Salvage crews will start at 8 a.m. tomorrow the job of lifting the barge from water 60 feet deep near Louisiana State University.

The barge, loaded with 600 tons of liquid chlorine, was sunk Sept. 10 by Hurricane Betsy.

President Johnson ordered the barge found and raised so it would not threaten anyone in Baton Rouge, which has a population of more than 27,000.

DANGER ZONE

An area five miles around the barge has been designated a danger zone.

Officials fear if any of the tanks break open during the lifting operation, chlorine would combine with the air and form deadly gas.

There is no plan for compulsory evacuation although thousands of persons plan to leave town while the salvage is in progress.

The city's universities, government offices, schools and churches will be closed to encourage people to leave.

NO PLANS

More than 17,000 gas masks were sent here after the barge sank, but there are no plans for general distribution. More than 5,000 have been handed out to persons who must stand by during the lift.

Red Cross emergency shelters were set up in Bogalusa, New Orleans and Opelousas and 20,000 cots and 40,000 blankets are ready.

The Army Corps of Engineers, working with a civilian salvage controller, expect the operation will take around 10 hours, if all goes well.

A derrick barge capable of hoisting 800 tons — the largest of its type in the world — will be used in the operation. The derrick has 20-story lifting booms.

300 MADE TRIP

Nearly 300 aged and ill persons made the four-hour trip from Baton Rouge to Alexandria yesterday.

Turner Bowen, a state hospital official, said 180 patients and family friends were moved into the hospital while 154 stayed aboard the train, which stood on a hospital spur track.

Above, Beyond the Call of Duty

CHICAGO (AP) — When Clayton Collins was drafted into the Army in June 1964 he didn't have to go.

He had the necessary requirement for deferment — two children—but he declined to use his fatherhood status to avoid military service. He didn't tell his draft board about the children.

"I must do my part," Collins, 22, told his neighbors in Hoffman Estates, a suburb west of Chicago. "Mary Anne and the children will be safe here with her parents while I'm away."

A week ago Mrs. Collins, 20, lost their third child—whom they had planned to name Clayton Jr.—through a miscarriage. This week Mrs. Collins was informed by the Defense Department that her husband was killed in Viet Nam Nov. 5 while a personnel carrier in which he was riding rolled over a land mine.

Collins, a baker before he entered military service, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lottie Collins of Detroit.

Word Power to Success—28

Knowing Prefixes, Suffixes Aids Vocabulary

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the 28th in a 30-part series entitled "Word Power to Success." The series is designed to help improve spelling, grammar and vocabulary.)

By The Reading Laboratory, Inc.
Written for NEA Special Services
Learn syllables which stand before:

They're prefixes like pre, post, fore.
Complete the picture, as you should:
Learn suffixes like less, y, hood.

So far we have considered two ways of increasing your vocabulary: 1) put old knowledge to work and derive old words from words you already know; 2) find the clues to the meaning of a strange word in the surrounding words and sentences.

The third way to develop your vocabulary is to come to all new reading—prepared with a knowledge of the meanings of prefixes and suffixes.

First of all, there are not very many of them; secondly, they occur with very great frequency; thirdly, they occur so frequently that you will not have to make a separate effort to memorize their meanings. Here again, fall back on your old knowledge and make it work for you. Suppose we do just that.

Autobiography, automobile. The common prefix in all these is auto. What does auto simply find the element that is common to all the meanings of those four words. You discover that auto means "self": "biography" written by the man himself; "self-moving"; "self-acting"; "self-governing."

Forewarned, forearmed, forefront, aforementioned, foreboding. You have the common prefix fore; you need the meaning. What element is common to the meaning of each word? "Before" in advance? Now you know the meaning of another prefix.

INTER IS PREFIX

Intercom, international interstate, intersect. The prefix inter, you know, means "between, among."

Intramural, intracoastal, intragroup. The prefix intra means "inside of; within."

Now do the same for such prefixes as circum, anti, ante, sub, de, post, ad, trans and whatever few others there are, and you will come to new words prepared at least with a knowledge of their prefixes. Suppose we try this method now with words you know and learn the meanings of some suffixes.

Boyhood, widowhood, motherhood, knighthood. The common suffix is hood. Examine what each word means to you: "the condition of being a boy"; "the condition, or state, of being a widow"; "the condition, or state of being a mother"; "the condition or state, of being a knight."

STATE OF BEING

The suffix hood, whenever you encounter it in a new word, will mean what you have just now discovered for yourself: "the condition, or state of being."

Tactless, faultless, spiritless, fixless and derive the meaning for meatless. The common suffix is less, and the common element in the meaning of each word is "without, lacking."

The more you practice this, the more deeply imbedded are the meanings of these prefixes in your memory of words; and, etc.—may all be learned the richer the storehouse from same way. Add this additional which you may continue to draw purpose to your reading: Be on new meanings from old knowledge the lookout for prefixes and suffixes.

A QUIZ

See how well you can do with the following bold face words by making use of these words not in bold face.

- 1) irremediable; 2) irresponsible; 3) readable; 4) irresistible; 5) irreverence; 6) remedy; 7) polysyllable; 8) syllable; 9) polygon; 10) polygot.

13) postwar; 14) posterior; 15) cardiograph.

No. 1 means "not able to be remedied." No. 7 means "having many syllables." No. 11 refers to the area "behind, or after, the heart." If you missed any of the three, go back and see the clues you could have used.

11) postcardinal; 12) cardiac; (Next: Using Your Dictionary.)

People in the News

By The Associated Press

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who returned to New York last night from a tour of Viet Nam, said he was asked by some servicemen if the antiwar demonstrations reflect the feelings of "most young people in the United States."

He said he had assured them that "The majority of Americans are in support" of Viet Nam's right to self-determination.

Claude Rains Turns 76 in Hospital

Actor Claude Rains spent his 76th birthday yesterday recuperating from surgery at New England Baptist Hospital, Boston.

A hospital spokesman said Rains underwent an abdominal operation Monday to prevent internal bleeding. He was reported in satisfactory condition.

Jill St. John Is in Good Condition

Actress Jill St. John was reported in good condition today at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, where she had been admitted for a routine checkup.

Miss St. John, 25, entered the hospital Tuesday and was expected to remain two or three days.

Bliss Recovering, Will Return to Ohio

Republican National Chairman Ray Bliss, 57, hospitalized five days ago with chest pains and a muscle spasm, leaves Albuquerque, N.M., today for his home in Akron, Ohio.

His physician planned a last-minute physical examination as a precautionary measure. Bliss said he had no further discomfort since leaving the hospital Tuesday.

Bliss became ill last Friday while attending the Western States Republican Conference. Doctors said they found no trace of any heart ailment.

Comedian Gregory Wants to Be Chicago Mayor

Comedian Dick Gregory, a Negro, says he is planning to run for mayor of Chicago in 1967 as an independent Democrat.

Gregory said he would aim his campaign primarily at Negroes, who make up 23 per cent of Chicago's 3.5 million population. He said he would expect to receive some non-Negro votes from persons who would vote for Mayor Richard Daley, a Democrat, if Gregory were not in the race.

Gregory and four other persons are being tried in Circuit Court in Chicago on charges of disorderly conduct stemming from a demonstration Aug. 2 near Daley's home.

Gregory and other integrationists have been protesting the policies of School Supt. Benjamin C. Willis.

U.S. Raids on Missile Sites Increased

SAIGON, "South Viet Nam, were hit by conventional ground fire. (AP) — U.S. air attacks on Soviet-built missile sites in North Viet Nam have been sharply stepped up, but the Reds' conventional antiaircraft guns have taken the heaviest toll of attacking American planes.

Air Force and Navy fighter-bombers have destroyed or damaged seven surface-to-air installations in the past week and 10 since the beginning of the month. Only three SAM sites were hit between the end of July and November.

Seven planes, including rescue aircraft, were lost in attacks on missile installations last weekend, but only one was downed by a missile. The others opened tactics to minimize the danger from the SAMs.

"It's a risky business," said a U.S. military spokesman. "The concentration of flak aimed at our planes is as heavy as, if not heavier than, any in World War II."

POTENTIALLY DANGEROUS

Missiles are one of the Communists' most potentially dangerous weapons, but their success seems to have been relatively limited. Of the more than 140 planes lost since U.S. bombings of North Viet Nam began, only seven are known to have been shot down by missiles.

Much of the credit is due the American pilots who have coped from the beginning with the missile threat. They have developed tactics to minimize the danger from the SAMs.

Pilots returning from raids against missile installations have reported being fired on by the SAMs. But some of the assaults have been carried out with great speed — one took only 40 seconds. Pilots say the Communists may not have had time to launch the complex projectiles with any degree of accuracy.

On the other hand, all the SAM installations are heavily protected by automatic weapons and antiaircraft guns which can produce withering fire in seconds.

MOBILE INSTALLATIONS

All except two of the 13 sites hit so far were mobile installations. These can be erected and dismantled within a day.

Informed sources have said that as many as 30 fixed SAM installations ring the cities of Hanoi and Haiphong. There are indications that the number of portable facilities is much higher and that these are spread throughout much of the country.

U.S. planes have never attacked any of the fixed installations around Hanoi and Haiphong. In one attack against a mobile site, however, they flew to within 22 miles of Hanoi, the closest penetration yet made toward the capital.

Until this month, when specially trained hunter-killer teams began stalking the skies in search of the missiles, the reported Wednesday.

LOOKING AHEAD — New York Mayor-elect John V. Lindsay talks to newsmen yesterday as Gov. Nelson Rockefeller looks on. They pledged to work together for the best interests of New York City and discussed the investigations into Tuesday night's massive power failure. However, they did not talk about their roles in the Republican party.

Nation's 'Togetherness' a Strain on Technology?

NEW YORK (AP) — "Togetherness" may be straining the back of America's technology.

This was seen today as an underlying factor in the staggering power failure that struck the populous Northeast Tuesday night.

It also is a trend of the times. The citizenry is converging on the cities — in the dense, modern "megapolit" which have mushroomed in an industrial nation.

'MANY PROBLEMS'

And when the bulk of people become concentrated in small areas, "many problems are compounded," says Dr. Abram Jaffee, director of the manpower and population program of Columbia University's Bureau of Applied Social Research.

Not only does it make them jointly dependent on common facilities, such as power and water, he said, but subjects them to common troubles, such as air pollution.

That wasn't the situation when people were more dispersed, he said in an interview. "There was plenty of water when the only ones here were the Indians."

New York City has just gone through a trying summer water shortage as a prelude to the monumental engineering failure which plunged 80,000 square miles into a night of darkness and paralysis.

MAGNIFY IMPACT

In both cases, the impact was magnified by the immense concentration of population.

Citing statistics, Dr. Jaffee noted that a steadily swelling proportion of the nation's population has moved into the big city areas, particularly on the seaboard.

"For the last couple of decades," he said, "the population has been emptying out of the center of the country toward the water" in urban centers on the East and West coasts, the Great Lakes and Gulf Coast. Perhaps, he suggested, "we have an unconscious urge to return to the sea from which we came."

Whatever the reason, about 70 per cent of the population now lives in urban areas, about 140 million of the nation's 196 million people, compared to about 57 per cent in 1940 — or 75 million out of 132 million.

The Northeast, with its approximately 30 million people, or nearly a sixth of the population, is the heaviest urban concentration, a condition which both taxes facilities and gave the power collapse such stunning scope.

Nearly two out of three new housing units built today are single-family structures, compared to only one out of 10 in the early 1950's.

Mrs. Wilson Hostess for WNFGA Tea

Wilson, hostess and national president; Mrs. Marvin L. Katke, Kirkway Drive, first vice president, Michigan Division; and Mrs. Clarence E. Maguire, Grosse Pointe Woods, Michigan Division president.

Pontiac Press Photos

Mrs. George O. Cutter, Overhill Road, national recording secretary, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, offers tea to Mrs. D. B. Varner (left), South Adams Road, Avon Township, and Mrs.

William B. Hartman, Watkins Lake, international tea chairman, Pontiac branch, WNFGA. Mrs. Varner took her turn at the tea service and Mrs. Hartman was one of the hostesses.

Annual Event Brings Out 1000

By MADELEINE DOEREN

One thousand members of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association attended the 10th annual International Tea, Wednesday, in Meadow Brook Hall.

Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson, national president of WNFGA, opened Meadow Brook for the annual affair sponsored by the Michigan Division.

The proceeds will aid the International Farm Youth Exchange program, only one of its kind in existence.

Operated on the adult level for those who have been leaders in 4-H groups, the program helps promote friendship and understanding between peoples.

Two-way in its scope, it reaches Michigan farm families who have been hosts to many foreign IFYE's.

General chairman for the event was Mrs. W. K. Goss of Ann Arbor, international cooperation chairman for the Michigan Division.

LOCAL HOSTESSES

Mrs. Robert Alton, president of the Pontiac branch, along with Mrs. Robert Oliver, Mrs. William B. Hartman and Mrs. Parker Rockwell, Michigan conference treasurer, mingled with other hostesses, some in native dress.

Austria, Turkey, Israel, Sweden, India, China and Holland were some of the countries represented in costume.

Alternating at the tea table at the request of Mrs. William B. McCallum of Birmingham, chairman, were Mesdames D. B. Varner, Marvin Katke, Leslie C. Allman, H. Earl Hanson, Frank R. Chapman, George Cutter, Nelson Miles, Arthur K. Hyde and Mrs. Rockwell.

FROM OHIO

Arriving from Findlay, Ohio were some 30 charter members of the Buckeye branch, first WNFGA branch in Ohio. Sponsors are Mrs. Elton McDonald and Mrs. McCallum.

Mrs. Lawson McKenzie of Winger Court, international president and founder of the Detroit branch of Ikebana, presented her house-guest, Mrs. Hisako Komine of Tokyo, who presided at a Japanese tea ceremony in the sunroom.

Only five women attend the ritualistic service of powdered green tea from heirloom pieces. There are 38 steps in the hour-long ceremony which dates back to the 15th century. This gives the tea-drinkers time to contemplate on purity, harmony of man and nature, beauty and tranquility.

Mrs. Komine is past international president of Ikebana International.

Among recipients of funds for study in Nepal and the Philippines through the IFYE program are Robert Harter of Carson City and Mrs. Robert Schaffer of Brighton, respectively.

Yearly Spread Starts Evening's Activities

The annual cooperative "spread" of Omega Mu Sigma sorority was held in the Birmingham home of Mrs. Merritt A. Snyder Wednesday evening.

Mrs. John Guenther showed movies of the sorority's previous parties. Guests were Mrs. M. L. Miller, Mrs. Alvin Winger Jr., Mrs. Marjorie Safford, Mrs. Philip Peters and Joy Snyder.

Mrs. Carroll Harper was appointed chairman for the group's annual Christmas basket.

Mrs. Guenther will play hostess in her Silver Lake home for the Christmas party on Dec. 14. Mrs. L. Carl Cos-will be the cohostess and Mrs. Patrick Cullen will assist.

WSU Prof Will Speak

As a community service, Pontiac Branch of the American Association of University Women has invited the public to a free lecture at 8 p.m. Monday in the Oakland County Court House auditorium.

"Revolution in Modern China" will be the subject of Dr. Milton Coveney, associate professor of history, Wayne State University.

A member of the American Historical Association and Phi Beta Kappa, Dr. Coveney has authored the book "The Ancient Near Eastern Tradition."

He is considered an authority in the areas of development of historical thought, history of religion and history of ideas.

Shows Film to Gardeners

Floyd P. Miles presented the film "God's Creation" at the Tuesday meeting of the Dirt Gardeners Club. Members and their guests gathered in the Pontiac Mall's community room.

Among the guests were Mrs. Andrew Kulich, Mrs. Clifford Lampron, and Mrs. Charles Frick.

Mrs. Robert Haskins of Spring Street, West Bloomfield Township, will be hostess to the Waterford Township Book Review Group at 1 p.m. Monday.

Mrs. Arthur Selden will review the book The Oysters of Locmariaquer, by Eleanor Clark.

The hostess will be assisted by Mrs. Harley Stephens and Mrs. Arthur Arnold.

Interested area women may attend the meeting.

Language talents have been so built up in United States diplomacy that 17 out of 20 Foreign Service officers now speak one foreign language.

Meeting Tonight

Stringham School PTA, Waterford Township, will meet at 7:30 this evening for an "International Night" program. Waterford Township High School students spending summers in other lands will be guests.

New glamour for the granny gown. Juli of Slumbertogs accents the feminine empire waistline with ruffled lace and velvet ribbon. Made in a new improved flannelette called Touch of Luxury, it's Sanforized. About $8. Background color is pink or blue.

First Appearance of Quintet Friday

The Meadow Brook Wind Quintet, all first desk players of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, will make their first appearance of the season Friday at 8:30 p.m. in the Gold Room at Oakland University.

The performers, Albert Tipton, flute; Arno Mariotti, oboe; Paul Schaller, clarinet; Charles Sirard, bassoon, and David Krehbiel, French horn, will be joined by Oliver Green, bass clarinet, for the performance.

The program will include Mozart's Divertimento No. 8 in F major (K.213), Pierre's "Pastorale Variee," Gunther Schuller's Quintet, Milhaud's "La Cheminee du Roi Rena" and Janacek's "Youth" Suite.

Tickets at $3 are available at the University.

PGH Slates Awards

Adult volunteers of the Pontiac General Hospital will be honored Friday at an "Awards Luncheon" at 12:30 p.m. in Dev-on Gables.

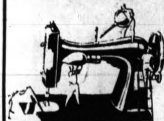

Family Affair

CHADWICK, Mo. (AP) —It took three Gimlin signatures to validate the marriage license for John Gimlin and Jeanne Harvill. As Christian County recorder, the groom's father, Arthur Gimlin, issued the license. His mother, Mrs. Helen Gimlin, had to sign her consent, as John at 19 was under age.

Save Hours by Making Tasks List

NEW YORK (UPI) — List making is time saving for the housewife, it says here.

Organize your tasks and set yourself a regular routine, says the education bureau of one watch manufacturer. Suggestions on time-saving:

- List the family's daily (even weekly if you make a chart) appointments on a kitchen bulletin board that is scheduled just like a man's daily business calendar. Begin with breakfast — when to start preparations, when you will serve it.

- List telephone calls for the day and instead of interrupting other work each time you think of someone, make the calls in batches. If one line is busy go on to the next call.

Willie Snow Ethridge Charms Town Hall

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor

Willie Snow Ethridge was born with a zest for living and every day she's thankful for that trait.

Not often does an audience identify itself so completely with the speaker as did the Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall audience Wednesday.

Mrs. Ethridge talks as she writes — about people and the little commonplace things of life that appeal to everyone. It was a happy talk.

Overworked as the word "charming" may be, it is the right description for this white-haired grandmother of 13. Southern born, she still talks in what she terms Georgian type English; but her accent is a soft one, her voice melodious and her laughter hearty.

Willie Ethridge puts herself into whatever she's doing at the moment. When she talks, she uses her entire body to emphasize a point.

For 28 years, the Ethridges lived in Louisville, Ky. where Mark Ethridge was editor-publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

After his retirement from that paper, the couple went to New York where he edited Newsday for two years.

Now they are settling in Chapel Hill, N.C. for their retirement years. Retirement is hardly the proper word for this pair.

Mark Ethridge conducts a weekly seminar at the University of North Carolina and his energetic wife continues to pursue the active life she's led for years.

She's interested in just about everything and believes in living in the present. She savors every day.

The Ethridges are building a new house on a stream in the country, halfway between Chapel Hill and Sanford, N.C., where one of their daughters lives. Their younger son is in Chapel Hill, a second daughter in Pittsburgh and Mark Jr. in Detroit. (He writes for The Detroit Free Press.)

Willie Snow Ethridge, with 11th one coming out this month, "You Can't Hardly Get There From Here."

Most of her books are the biographical essay type. "Nila" is a biography of her Russian friend, Nila Magidoff who spoke at Town Hall a few years ago.

"I tell all, I hold back nothing," said Mrs. Ethridge from the stage of the Huron Theater. She makes no apologies for writing about her family, says her husband may be hard to live with but he makes good copy.

GETS INVOLVED
You have to be interested in and excited about people and life in general to write the informal essay. You must feel strongly when you write or readers won't feel any emotion.

If she can get across this zest of hers in her writing, she feels she will have done a fine job and is a successful informal essayist.

Willie Ethridge intends never to stop looking for subjects to write on and people to write about.

Her husband says that if she dies before he does, he'll put on her tombstone, "The Lord called her up and she could go."

Willie Snow Ethridge (left) autographs one of her books for Mrs. Jack H. Mamassian, Shellmar Lane, before speaking to the Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall on Wednesday. Writer, lecturer, traveler, she kept her audience at the Huron Theater in almost constant laughter for an hour.

Neglected Children--a Blot on Society

By JEANNE NELSON

Here in the midst of today's affluent society, there is a cancer. Its name? Child neglect.

One glance at the caseload of the Oakland County Juvenile Services Division tells the story of this condition.

No respecter of money, position, marital or moral status, the infection has been a prime factor in the establishing of the Oakland County Child Care Facility.

James Hunt, director of Juvenile Service in Oakland County hits it squarely on the head when he says, "Neglect is where you find it."

"NORMAL" HOMES

The idea that most cases of neglect are those from broken homes or homes where the father has deserted is a mistaken one.

On the contrary, over half of the child neglect cases brought to the attention of the authorities come from homes that are intact.

The strangest instances of neglect or mistreatment have been found more than a few times in homes where parents have neglected only one child while showing normal behavior to the rest.

Now that recent laws have been passed requiring medical personnel to report any cases of physical mistreatment of a child, the job of discovery has become somewhat easier.

Poverty is not an explanation of the situation. Most of the cases reported to the juvenile division are those in which the income is average.

RESPECT RIGHTS

Parents, of course, are assured their full legal rights in court when a petition of neglect has been brought against them.

However, long before the court action, steps have been taken by the juvenile division's investigators to insure factual information leading to the neglect charges.

What happens to these neglected children once they become wards of the court? Some are removed to the Oakland County Children's Home, others to Camp Oakland.

Many are placed in foster homes or in private boarding facilities. Those who require psychiatric therapy will be placed in such facilities as Hawthorne Center.

Once the child has been removed to an upgraded atmosphere, the juvenile division's work is far from over. It is the purpose of this division to work with the family of the neglected child.

RE-EDUCATION

Hunt says that the department's job is to re-educate these parents so that someday the child may return home to live.

After a child has been placed in a new environment, he has a number of adjustments to make. Perhaps he has never had any direction (this is common) or been required to keep regular hours.

He must then be taught how he can benefit from a more normal atmosphere. Most of these neglected children are academically retarded and need a great deal of make-up work.

With a different home atmosphere and with the help and encouragement of their caseworkers, the youngster, frequently improves in his school work.

Often a work-education program is the answer. Whatever direction a child's program takes, its main function is to prove that the youngster can be SUCCESSFUL at something.

Denim's Bowling to Velveteens

Ranch-style pants have gone sophisticated, reports the National Cotton Council.

Usually made of sturdy denim, Western-cut pants show up in elegant cotton velveteen this fall.

Plush navy blue velveteen is used for pants and matching ranch-style jacket in one new leisure-wear ensemble. The outfit comes with a red and gold printed cotton shirt.

Lubricants made of petroleum were used for the first time in 1869.

"Why am I here?" These words come from a small child whose world has been suddenly changed. Little does she realize that for her own protection and welfare she must be separated from her family. James VanLeuwen, director of the Oakland County Child Care Facility (left) and James W. Hunt, director of the county's Juvenile Service Division, take the first steps in making this too felt wanted and cared for in her new environment.

Why Grow Old?

by JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Be it wartime or peacetime there is never any shortage of spare tires which circle the feminine waist. The thickening waistline might almost be called a badge of middle-age since it is such a usual occurrence with passing years.

As a matter of fact, from a fairly early age on a woman must begin doing battle with calories and inactivity if she hopes to keep the tape-measure honest!

The battle must be fought from three directions. In the first place stretched or lax abdominal muscles add inches to the waist measurement. Poor posture can also make a difference of inches.

If you have any doubt that this is true, try allowing your abdomen to protrude and then measure your waist. Next pull your abdomen in and hold it that way while you measure again.

Then of course there are our enemies, the fatty deposits, which cling to our waistlines as though they love us. Well, it isn't mutual! It's a one-sided love affair because there is nothing a woman hates much more than a roll over the girdle!

A slim waist gives the impression of youthfulness. Fortunately this measurement responds more quickly and happily to diet and exercise than any other.

If you are overweight you will have to count calories as well as exercise. The prescription for exercise consists of abdominal toning and flattening exercises, along with some which stretch and slim the waist.

Remember that you will be giving your health a boost as well as your figure. A strong abdominal girdle of muscles is a necessity for best condition and most energy.

Stand as far away from the wall as you can and still keep your right hand on the wall and your left arm by your ear and touch the wall with the fingers of your left hand. After 10 times turn so that your left side is toward the wall and your right arm by your ear.

If you would like to have the waist-slimming exercises which have been tested in my private classes, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for them. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

New Old-Fashioned Look

The newest look in fashion is the old-fashioned look of lace.

Showing up everywhere this season are dresses trimmed with flattering, feminine lace. It's used for collars and cuffs, demure bibs and deep yokes, and as an outline for Empire waists and becoming bateau necklines.

The National Cotton Council reports that new simply-cut shifts take on an air of elegance with trimmings of heavy cotton lace. One cotton corduroy shift, in soft chocolate brown, features a deep yoke of rich creamy lace, echoed in scalloped cuffs on the dress's long fitted sleeves.

A touch of lace also adds delicate charm to straight-line shifts in sturdy cotton hopsacking. The dresses are accented with bibs and cuffs of snowy white tucked cotton, edged in frilly lace.

Stars in Youngsters' Eyes? It's Up to Adults

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
United Press International
WESTPORT, Conn. (UPI) — Weep a lot, milady — and you, too, sir — about a child who doesn't know how to make something out of a paper box.

The child probably is "average" and has everything a child of his age should have. But if he doesn't know the dozens of things he can turn a paper box into, he is pathetic.

"AVERAGE CHILD"

"My definition of the average child is the one with all the wonder spent," reports Bette Donaher, guidance counselor at Saugatuck, an elementary school in this community made famous by Sloan Wilson's "Man in the Grey Flannel Suit."

It is a community of creative persons and headquarters of the famous artists and famous writers school. It is a place, too, where there is genuine concern among thinking adults about the so-called average child.

In that respect, it qualifies as typical town, U.S.A. Mrs. Donaher sees the average child as "a kind of amorphous entity, neither significant nor unimportant — a gray something or other."

RESIST THOUGHT

"We resist the thought that this can be the destiny of a human being," she observes in the current issue of the Saugatuck "P. T. A. Primer."

"In a packaged, dehydrated, synthetic, automated, scheduled environment, it is not difficult to know where the wonder went," Mrs. Donaher said.

She sympathizes with parents who wonder what happened to the two busy little hands that couldn't get enough of feeling and touching not so long ago, and which just are idle hands now.

TRIUMPHANT GLOW

"Have you ever contrasted the triumphant glow that filled a little boy when he finally transformed a box into something, with the dull response which he offers now 'when he has everything that a boy his age should have'?" she asks.

A boy of 10 grunts when the wonder's spent. Before the wonder went, his speech was vital and vibrant.

What children need is wonder watchers, or guardians of wonder, Mrs. Donaher suggests.

SENSE OF HISTORY

"We need adults who can give children a sense of history transmitted through a knowledge of a family's beginnings," she said. "We need adults who, if they are fortunate enough to know a language other than English, enrich their children's life with its use."

CAPABLE ADULTS

"We need adults who do more than take the children to the beach. We need adults who can intrigue children with the story of the shore and the sea.

"We need adults who may forget to look at a spelling paper, but who never forget to radiate an involvement in their natural surroundings — the birds, the plant life, the insects that live with us."

Mrs. Donaher recalled that Texans say — "If you hold your hat on my head, I can't grow."

"If we are caring, and thoughtful and if we hold open the doors, we'll save the wonder — and 'average' will be a term for the statistician," she concluded. Said another way:

It's up to adults to keep stars in children's eyes.

Allergies, Blood Pressure 2 of Man's Most Common Ailments

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles supplied by the Oakland County Medical Society in observance of third annual Community Health Week, Nov. 7-13.)

Allergies and high blood pressure are two of the most common physical ailments known to man.

Both ailments are alike in one respect: Each requires a high degree of management, and a tolerance on the part of the patient.

Half of the people in the world sneeze or sniffle, wheeze or itch, suffer intestinal disturbances or other uncomfortable symptoms because of their allergies.

High blood pressure is a common, but complex disease which requires careful, long-range management, even though the actual cause may never be determined.

An allergy is a person's abnormal reaction to certain substances to which he has become sensitized.

ALLERGIC REACTION

In an allergic reaction, the body's expected reaction is altered to certain things that contact the skin, are eaten, inhaled, or injected.

Approximately half of our adult population suffer from allergies and one third of our children are afflicted.

Many parents believe that children will outgrow their allergies, but they seldom do.

Allergies rarely get better without specific treatment. Consequently, allergies need to be identified early and treated adequately.

HEALTH HISTORY

Careful study of an allergy patient's health history will show most of the following:

- Skin rash, beginning a few days after birth and lasting several weeks.

- Colic, beginning about the third week and lasting three months or more.

- Infantile eczema, "weeping eczema," appearing between three months and six years of age.

- Respiratory allergy, occurring in childhood and continuing with increasing severity into adulthood.

Among the most common forms of respiratory allergy are:

- Coldlike symptoms that occur more frequently than might be likely from exposure to infection. They usually represent allergic reaction in the lining of the nose and the breathing tubes rather than a "cold."

- Perennial allergic rhinitis, or year-around "runny nose" and chronic nasal obstruction.

- Pollinosis, a reaction to pollen, usually respiratory, although other body systems can be affected. Tree pollens, grass pollens, ragweed pollen and many other air-borne pollens cause trouble at certain times and places.

- Bronchial asthma, a recurring spasmodic contraction of the bronchi. It may be avoided by treating allergies in early childhood.

Medical treatment for a major allergy — or even a minor one — involves a careful review of the patient's life for clues to the causes.

The procedures the physician may follow include:

- A medical life history in which the physician inquires into every facet of the patient's life to detect clues to the allergens involved.

- A complete physical examination, with routine laboratory tests.

- Specific allergy tests to discover the substances to which the patient reacts.

- Specific desensitizing treatments to build up immunity gradually.

- General care involving supervision of diet, drugs for temporary relief of symptoms, and other recommendations according to the patient's needs.

HELP HIMSELF

To help himself, the patient can avoid the substances that trigger his allergic reactions, accept and live within limitations presented by his allergies and avoid self-medication.

He should also carry a health data card and some durable signal device worn about the neck, wrist, or ankle listing the major allergies and all drugs that are likely to produce a reaction.

Medically known as arterial hypertension, high blood pressure is an abnormal state of circulation that may be a cause, as well as a result, of arterial disease.

If hypertension goes untreated, the course from onset to death is approximately 20 years. In its later stages it is complicated by failure of the heart, brain or kidney, either singly or in combination.

ORGAN FAILURE

Once organ failure begins, the average survival of the untreated patient is about six years.

Primary or essential hypertension, for which no underlying cause can be identified, represents four of every five instances of persistently increased blood pressure.

It occurs more commonly in those with a family history of increased blood pressure. When untreated, essential hypertension tends to destroy kidney tissue, causes changes in the adrenal glands, and leads to deposits of cholesterol in the artery walls (atherosclerosis) and hardening of the arteries (arteriosclerosis.)

Secondary hypertension has many causes, the most common being kidney disease, tumors of the adrenal gland, and abnormalities of the large arteries that reduce blood flow and, therefore, increase pressure.

HYPERTENSION

Diagnosis of true hypertension at any age is made when there is a persistent diastolic pressure of 90 millimeters of mercury or more, or evidence of vascular changes.

Patients suffer vascular deterioration proportional to the severity of their hypertension.

Reduction of high blood pressure to normal levels reduces or arrests the progress of vascular changes with a decrease in both morbidity and mortality.

Hypertension requires a lifetime of management.

WORKING TOGETHER

The patient and his doctor, working together, must plan a living pattern, supplemented by various medical procedures, that will result in the longest and most useful life that the patient can live.

Since the doctor's management of the patient involves his interpretation of the patient's reaction to the various medicines, diets, living routines, and prescribed exercise, he must know his patient's emotional tone, living habits, and possible dissatisfactions.

Therapy to lower the blood pressure can range from simple sedation and use of recently-discovered drugs that lower blood pressure to drugs that actually block the nerves that constrict the small arteries.

There is also a need for care of kidney infections, diabetes, and other complicating factors.

Lowered blood pressure tends to decrease damage to the brain, kidneys, and blood vessels and to increase life expectancy.

WEIGHT CONTROL

Diet and weight control may be prescribed to protect the arteries from cholesterol deposits in their linings and to maintain a low, normal weight.

There is a high correlation between overweight and high blood pressure.

Quite often simple weight reduction to one's normal range will reduce hypertension without added drug therapy.

A planned way of life involving regulation of living is an essential part of the management of hypertension.

CLOSE RAPPORT

Since this presupposes the doctor is understanding of his patient's way of life, there should be close rapport between the patient and his physician.

It is essential that the patient understand his disease, know the need for continued treatment, and be willing to tolerate the occasional undesirable and unpleasant side effects of some of the drugs used. He must

Testing Biggest Rockets--Reds

Said Soviet Reason for Rejecting LBJ Bid

MOSCOW (UPI) — The commander of Soviet cosmonauts claims Russia already has "tested" space packages heavier than the Proton 1 and Proton 2 record-breakers, it was learned today.

Informed sources said Maj. Gen. Nikolai Kamanin recently told a meeting of Soviet writers this was the reason behind the Kremlin's rejection of President Johnson's invitation to Russian scientists to watch a launching at Cape Kennedy.

Assuming such an invitation would have to be reciprocated, Kamanin claimed:

"We couldn't show them our rockets, as they are and will continue to be the largest with the longest range."

As Kamanin spoke, these other claims of Russian rocket strength were reported:

• The government newspaper Izvestia said Soviet rocketry "is ahead of the United States."

• Prof. G. Petrovich wrote that a vehicle weighing 400 to 500 tons will be sent into space by the end of the 1970s.

• The government claimed even its "medium-range rockets" can reach the most distant continents.

CLEAR NOTICE

Observers said these claims amounted to clear notice that the Russians hope to put up manned space stations first, and to use them as spaceports for the first flights to the moon and planets.

Kamanin, according to the sources, referred to the two 12-ton Proton Sputniks launched earlier this year. They are the heaviest vehicles to have been orbited to date.

"But we can launch even heavier spacecrafts," Kamanin said. "The possibility exists to do so. These and much heavier vehicles have been tested and recorded."

The general did not claim the heavier vehicles have been orbited. It was speculated they may have been fired into the Pacific Ocean west of Hawaii during Russia's current rocket test series.

Labor Unit Hearings to Continue

LANSING (AP)—A continuation of a series of hearings on reorganization of the State Labor Department will be held at Lansing Nov. 30 and Dec. 1.

The public hearings, to be conducted by the House and Senate Labor committees, will be held in the House of Representatives chamber.

Proposals to be considered will include establishment of a migratory labor and apprenticeship and training division within the new Department of Labor, the possible transfer of the present labor relations function of the Public Service Commission to the department and possible placing of anti-poverty programs in the reorganized department.

Other topics discussed will include improvement of labor safety programs and the most effective location of the department headquarters.

VOICE CRITICISM

Rep. James Bradley, D-Detroit, chairman of the House Labor Committee, said anyone with a proposal or criticism about the department will be heard.

"Michigan citizens have been forced to endure unsafe conditions and inadequate services because of persistent treatment of the Labor Department as a stepchild of state government," Bradley said.

"These hearings are an important part of the over-all effort by the present Legislature to rectify the neglect and inactivity of previous legislatures which resulted in Michigan's Labor Department becoming one of the worst in the nation."

At the latest count, Japan had 763,400 teachers in primary, junior high and high school. Of these, 55,22 were women. In some prefectures, teachers over 45 and married teachers are being asked to resign.

Moon-Return Spacecraft to Be Test-Fired on Pad

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)

U.S. scientists, taking a new step in the nation's Manned Lunar Landing program, tomorrow plan to testfire an Apollo spacecraft similar to one that is to return three moon explorers to earth in three years.

The Apollo rocket unit, called the service module, will be fired for the first time for 15 seconds while anchored to a former Titan launch pad only 3,000 feet from the two-man Gemini 7 spacecraft being readied for launch Dec. 4.

The test will be a key milestone in preparations for the initial unmanned launch of a full-scale moonship in early January.

H.E. McCoy, chief of the Manned Spacecraft Office at the Kennedy Space Center, said testing of the 81-foot three-section spacecraft "is going well. . . it's going better than I had hoped."

But the static firing of the lunar return engine — to be used in January to ram the Apollo back toward earth — is a critical test that must be passed before launch preparations can proceed.

"Friday's our goal," McCoy said in an interview yesterday, "but we're going to pull the trigger when we're ready." He explained that spacecraft test schedules are not as firm as launch dates and delays are not uncommon.

In January, the Apollo will be hurled 280 miles high on its initial flight by a new Saturn IB super rocket, and then driven back into earth's atmosphere at 18,750 miles per hour to test the heat shield that must withstand 5,000-degree temperatures on lunar returns.

A recovery force will be standing by in the south Atlantic Ocean near Ascension Island to retrieve the scorched spacecraft after it is lowered gently into the sea by three parachutes.

"Although no astronauts will be aboard for the first launch, the spacecraft contains almost all of the systems necessary for a 14-day manned space mission," said Dr. Joseph Shea, Apollo program manager, when the craft was delivered by North American Aviation to the space agency last month.

GIANT SHIP

The Apollo ship, a giant compared to the two-man Gemini capsules now flying, is as tall as an eight-story building with its emergency escape tower, the pilots' cabin, the service module and an adapter section that will another unmanned "job" to the manned flight late next year.

North Ireland Ministers Get Police Protection

BELFAST, Northern Ireland
(UPI) — The government last night ordered police protection for the homes of Northern Ireland's premier and other ministers because of terrorist threats. The danger was apparently posed by Republican extremists who want to end the partition of Ireland.

Leftist Abducted in Paris

Kidnaping Splits France, Morocco

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — The kidnaping of Moroccan leftist leader Mehdi Ben Barka has developed into a major issue between France and her former North African protectorate.

A French police report delivered to Morocco's King Hassan II accused Moroccan Interior Minister Mohamed Oufkir — generally regarded as the second most powerful man in the country — of personally organizing and directing the kidnaping on Oct. 29 in Paris.

Nothing has been heard from Ben Barka since, and his friends fear he may have been killed.

President Charles de Gaulle reportedly was enraged by the alleged violation of French sovereignty by Oufkir and his Moroccan security services.

Diplomatic sources say de Gaulle expects King Hassan to dismiss Oufkir as proof of the king's good faith and noninvolvement in the kidnap plot.

Hassan is in seclusion at his palace at Fez, in central Morocco, reportedly pondering his decision.

Oufkir, a former French army officer, was the right-hand man of the last French governor of Morocco. After independence in 1954, he quickly changed sides and joined the government of Hassan's father, the late King Mohamed V. He rose rapidly in power and influence.

His rightist views are well known, and he is considered the king's strongest defense against a leftist uprising.

Ben Barka, 41, was his bitterest enemy. The idol of Morocco's leftist students and labor unions, Ben Barka lived in exile in Geneva but traveled frequently to Paris and kept in touch with his Moroccan political friends. He was sentenced to death in absentia for allegedly plotting against the monarchy. Hassan annulled this in 1959.

The king recently planned to invite Ben Barka to end his exile and join a royal cabinet of national unity. Ben Barka reportedly posed one condition: The dismissal of Oufkir, whom he charged with suppressing leftist movements in Morocco and ill treating their leaders.

The French police report said they had established that Oufkir later returned to Morocco. A French airline official said Oufkir later returned to Morocco and a Moroccan policeman reported Oufkir was under arrest in France in connection with the kidnaping a few hours later.

The Humor's Grim but So's the Job

By TOM TIEDE
 PLEI ME, Viet Nam—(NEA)—A single candle lit the table as the weary GIs picked at C-rations tins and sipped hot soup. Faces were worn and no one seemed to hear the occasional snifter fire whistling through the blackout area.

One man, however, did.

"When you hear 'em," he snickered, "at least you ain't dead yet."

In the dark, you could see only his teeth, his eyes and the silk thread, luminous dinner jacket he insisted on wearing over sweat-stained fatigues.

BAITED HOOK

"What do you think about Martin Luther King?" somebody baited him.

"Who?" he answered mockingly.

"You heard."

"Oh yeah, our leader. I ain't saying anything against the man."

VIET OPPOSITION

"They say he's opposed to U.S. troops in Viet Nam."

"Then he better not get in my way when I go home."

"Why's that?"

"Because, white or black, I'll treat him like he was Viet Cong."

GRIM HUMOR

This is Dan Redmond, 30, of Fort Myers, Fla. Outspoken, bop, clever, grimly humorous. They call him the combat comedian.

He is a member of the Special Forces, the Green Berets. Code name: Screwdriver. Rank: Sergeant First Class. Occupation: Killer.

"Doesn't it bother you, Red? somebody asked.

"What?"

"Shooting people."

"Now!"

"You can sleep at night?"

RID OF 'SUCKERS'

"I sleep damn well better, knowing I've gotten rid of a couple of the suckers who might otherwise be out in the dark shooting at me."

"You got a family?"

"Sure, ain't everybody? Most beautiful wife and handsomest kids in Florida. I ain't no Mr. America, exactly, but my family's gorgeous."

"How do they like it, Red?"

"What?"

"Your shooting people."

JUST A JOB

"They don't think of it that way and neither do I. We think of it as a job somebody's got to do. I can do it as well or better than most, that's all. Anytime, anywhere in cold blood, if necessary."

"What do you mean?"

"Like, once I had a VC prisoner I was trying to keep alive with morphine because I figured maybe he'd talk. Well, the others on the patrol said it wasn't worth it, that a wounded prisoner was dangerous to the mission and the men. So they told me to shoot him."

"Did you?"

"In the heart, five times."

It took Dan Redmond three of his seven Army years to get into Special Forces—the military's elite corps. He says it would take them at least 10 years to drag him back out.

A great outfit, says he, a special breed of cats.

"Maybe I joined," he explained, "because I don't like being a common citizen. Maybe I like being a common citizen. This way I can."

"I get paid to kill, including $65 a month combat allowance... and I think I earn it. But I'm human. Sometimes I think maybe I'm neglecting my family, that maybe for once I'd like nothing but a hot shower and a bottle of booze."

SHOWERS, BOOZE

"But then, how about it if there wasn't any guys like me? If everybody chose to take the showers and booze? If everybody was just a common citizen? How about it then, huh? Where would we be?"

The candle flickered. In the distance the shots still crackled. Dan Redmond got up to leave and noticed there was a soup spot on his dinner jacket. "Maybe," he said, "they'll think it's blood and I'll get me a Purple Heart."

The combat comedian. A very funny guy.

UAW to Ship Clinic, Supplies to Viet

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union announced Wednesday night it will ship a fully equipped pediatric clinic along with three tons of food and medical supplies to trade unionists in South Viet Nam.

Walter Reuther, president of the Detroit-based union, made the announcement here and said the value of the clinic and equipment was estimated at $250,000.

It will be flown to South Viet Nam within a week, the announcement said.

15 Pct. of Vehicles Fail National Safety Check

By CHARLES C. CAIN
 AP Business News Writer
 DETROIT (AP)—Nearly 15 per cent of the approximately three million cars and trucks examined in the National Vehicle Safety Check this past summer failed to get a passing grade.

As in years past, faulty lights topped the list of items which flunked the test. Hazardous brakes, faulty exhaust systems, bad tires and below-par windshield wipers were runners-up.

Thomas R. Reid, director of civil and governmental affairs for Ford Motor Co., released results of the nationwide examinations conducted by the Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee and Look magazine.

It marked the 18th year the two groups made the vehicle safety checks in cooperation with the Association of State and Provincial Safety Coordinators. More than 4,200 local community groups and government agencies participated in the program this year.

20 STATES

Reid said 20 states and the District of Columbia now require vehicle inspection, while the rest have to rely on voluntary programs such as AIHSC.

The AIHSC program is part of the auto industry's support for the President's Committee on Traffic Safety and is designed to eliminate in as many cases as possible potential accidents, the Ford executive said.

Outlining AIHSC's goals, Reid said: "Nearly 60 per cent of the autos and 70 per cent of the trucks on U. S. highways today are five years old or older, but there is a good chance that many of the car owners never have had their car specifically checked for safety."

MAIN GOAL

"Our goal is to get as many of those cars as possible inspected for safety to make certain the vehicle is as fit as it can be to be on the road."

One of the most satisfying parts of the AIHSC program, he said, was that more than 50 per cent of the motorists whose vehicles were rejected on the first test, had some repair work done and brought their car or truck in for a second test.

New Judge Orders Hearing in Strike

DETROIT (AP)—Circuit Judge Benjamin D. Burdick, newly named to handle Wyandotte Chemicals Corp. strike litigation, Wednesday ordered a hearing for Monday on a strikers' contempt of court charge against the company.

Local 7-827 of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, on strike for six months, charges the company violated an injunction against hiring strikebreakers. The company denies the charge. The union and company are at odds over a new contract.

Burdick was assigned to replace Judge Thomas A. Brennan as justice after the company had complained Brennan had made prejudicial public statements about the strike.

Blackout Lights Up Glow in Hearts of New Yorkers

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — General prosperity never knits people as closely together as does general trouble.

That's when they learn "the buddy system."

The overnight blackout here proved this anew. The metropolis wasn't left in total darkness. It was lit by a warm glow.

On ordinary days this filar made up of eight million crowded individual human islands, most of whom are indifferent to each other and dwell in a protective, shell-like isolation.

PRIVATE WOES

If they have private woes, they generally bear them alone.

Each has his own ambition or goal, and sometimes each feels like all the other 7,999,999 people are getting in his way. So they step on each other's toes, and race against each other for taxicabs, parking spaces, depart-

tickets, and subway, bus or train seats.

The unofficial policy is "devil take the hindmost." If a stranger starts to speak to them on the sidewalk, their first reaction is one of suspicion: "What

me?"

It is this attitude that gave rise to the oldest cliché about

New York City: "It's a great place to visit, but I sure would hate to live there."

TRUCE CALLED

But when general trouble comes, a truce is called here in the routine fight. The prisoners of the concrete and high glass canyons realize how much dependent on each other they really are.

The herd then becomes a real herd. Instead of seeking petty disadvantages, people help each other. Sharing a new discomfort brings them together in a new camaraderie. Grumpiness is replaced by a feeling of genial good will. The complainant is laughed out of face.

It was that way during the famous blizzard of 1888. It was that way during the record two-foot-plus snowfall of 1947. And it was that way during the great blackout of 1965, when most of the lights went out, subways stopped, and even the television sets went blank.

When a power breakdown spread a deepening pall across the metropolis, the common place became an unknown. The city turned into one vast friendly neighborhood, lit only by car lights, matches, candles, flashlights that roved like fireflies, and a big full mellow harvest

EERIE ADVENTURE

Everybody had an eerie or comic adventure. They climbed up and down inky stairwells.

Stranded employees in lofty sky-

played cards by candlelight, bunked down on office couches.

Heaven only knows how many stenographers got kissed in darkened corridors by junior ex-

their first names before.

Said a commuter sitting huddled against a chill wall in

will blame the whole thing on me. She'll think I did it just to get a night in town."

A drunken bum wandering up

Broadway called out over and over: "It's a big joke. Everybody's scared."

But most weren't.

SLEPT ON FLOOR

A visiting Englishman remarked cheerfully: "I slept on the floor of a taproom in my hotel because I didn't want to trudge up 15 floors to my room.

My back is stiff. I had forgotten how hard a taproom floor is — haven't slept on one for years."

Another fellow coming to work met a blind man and asked him what he thought of the blackout.

"It didn't bother me," said the blind man, tapping away.

For days people will be telling each other their experiences, feeling a kindling warmth that all feel who have met trouble together. But it gradually the warm human glow will evaporate and they will become private islands again as the routine frictions of the commonplace wear them apart.

Computer 'Plays' True Trumpet Notes

By Science Service

ST. LOUIS—The clarion notes of a trumpet are now sounding forth from a machine.

For the first time, the sound of a trumpet has been generated by a computer with such fidelity that professional musicians are unable to tell the difference between the computer sound and the real one, members of the

were told here.

and was used to achieve the trumpet notes by Jean C. Risset,

French physicist and composer on visit to Bell Laboratories for the past year.

Men Must Find Sustenance on the Moon

By Science Service
NEW YORK—The men in future lunar bases must become self-sufficient if man is ever to realize the full research value of the moon.

The seemingly airless, waterless moon is actually capable of providing both oxygen and water, while the lunar vacuum provides excellent insulation for storage of low-temperature materials such as liquid oxygen in the opinion of Dr. Peter E. Glaser of Arthur D. Little, Inc., Cambridge, Mass.

Several processes have already been developed for producing water, and thereby hydrogen and oxygen, from silicate rocks such as are probably found on the moon.

Honor Space Official

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—Christopher C. Kraft Jr., an official at the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex., receives the distinguished alumnus citation of his alma mater, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, at a formal ceremony today. Kraft, 41, was graduated in 1944 with a degree in aeronautical engineering.

One of them, developed by the Aerojet-General Corp., Azusa, Calif., continuously recycles itself; that is, it produces as by-products the materials necessary to keep itself going.

Once man has established bases on the moon, he must begin to decrease his reliance on earth for life-support materials. Dr. Glaser told a New York Academy of Sciences conference on Planetary and Space Mission Planning.

POWER SOURCE

A limitless power source already exists—the sun. But food, water, and atmosphere must be found, or created, "on location," if the great cost and risk are not to become prohibitive.

Learning about the moon itself is not the only reason for man to go there, pointed out Dr. Paul D. Lowman, Jr., of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The moon may provide clues to the origin of earth's own continents, as well as of the earth-moon system.

According to the latest census, the Chinese Nationalist island of Taiwan has a population of 12 million.

Live Hand Grenades Donated to Goodwill

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Goodwill Industries, which repairs castoff clothes, toys and furniture and sells them for charity, found four live World War II Japanese hand grenades in a box from one of its pickup trucks Wednesday. A bomb removal squad from nearby Marine Air Force Base was called to take them away.

Tass Raps FBI Activity Against U.S. Red Party

MOSCOW (UPI)—Tass, the official Soviet news agency, last night accused the FBI of espionage and subversive activity against the American Communist party. Tass criticized the alleged use of paid informers at the current trial of the party in a Washington court.

OH BOY DOES MRS. O'HARE LOVE US!

Last month we said:

THERE'S NOT ONE DISSATISFIED OWNER OF AN RCA Whirlpool APPLIANCE

We went on at some length about Whirlpool quality and Whirlpool service. Then we topped it all off by saying:

"Neither factory nor distributor nor dealer nor serviceman wants an RCA WHIRLPOOL appliance in the field that can cause its original purchaser any dissatisfaction because of mechanical malfunction. We feel confident when we say, 'There is not one dissatisfied owner of an RCA WHIRLPOOL appliance in this area.' Tell us if we're wrong!"

Well, Mrs. O'Hare, 19447 St. Marys, Detroit, did. She was unhappy and she didn't pull any punches when she told us about it!

Here's what she said:

"I had my doubts..."

... "but I was delighted with the service."

"The serviceman gave me several helpful washing hints."

Whirlpool Corp.
21300 Shingfield
Oak Park, Michigan

Mrs. O.T. Washington

When I called it was on an impulse and I had my doubts as to what would be done. In raising my opinion to you I found a sympathetic listener, and assurance that something would be done. Even after this I thought I would receive a letter, but I got an immediate service call.

The repair man that came to the house repaired my washer in a very short time, and gave me several helpful washing hints, now how I can get better service out of my washer.

I was delighted with the service and will tell you about it to my friends.

Yours Truly,
Mrs. O'Hare

Thank you, Mrs. O'Hare

We're glad you called. Otherwise we might never have been able to prove to you that our interest in our customers doesn't stop with the sale. And that we're bound and determined there will never be a dissatisfied RCA WHIRLPOOL appliance owner in the Pontiac Area!

Chill Between LBJ and Fulbright Developing Into Deep Freeze?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's approval of a European-Asian fact-finding tour by Sen. Mike Mansfield has raised new speculation over White House relations with Sen. J.W. Fulbright.

While Mansfield, the Senate Democratic leader, and four colleagues are assessing relations with European allies and probing conditions in Asia, Fulbright, the Arkansas Democrat who heads the foreign relations committee, is scheduled to attend a minor conference in New Zealand.

Fulbright has contended that the Johnson administration overreacted when it intervened militarily in the Dominican Republic. He has suggested a new and longer pause in North Vietnam bombings to encourage the Communists there to negotiate.

The White House has said this would not do any good. Fulbright heads a group scheduled to attend a meeting of British Commonwealth parliamentarians in Wellington, New Zealand, the first week of December. While this may furnish valuable contacts, it seems unlikely to produce any world-stirring pronouncements.

STILL A FREEZE

The freeze that seems to have developed in relations between the President and Fulbright after the latter's Sept. 15 criticism of the Dominican course, shows no signs of breaking. Senatorial colleagues said Fulbright wrote Johnson a note while the President was in the hospital for his gallbladder operation and get back an acknowledgment from a staff member.

It was not exactly clear how the Mansfield trip materialized. But it was known that it was not authorized through the foreign relations committee and that Fulbright was surprised by the announcement.

Mansfield has been critical of some aspects of Johnson's Vietnam policy. But he has supported the President's course despite his original opposition to escalation of the war.

He said Wednesday in a statement:

"To the extent that we speak abroad, it will be solely to stress the essential unity of this government in the search for an equitable and lasting peace in Viet Nam and for stable and mutually satisfying and useful relations with all nations similarly inclined."

ONE OTHER

Mansfield's group will include one other foreign relations committee member, Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt. Others going along are Sens. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, J. Caleb Beggs, R-Del., and Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

The extent of White House interest in the trip was indicated by the fact that the Mansfield group will travel by Air Force jet while Fulbright's delegation and another headed by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., were told they would have to get slower planes or commercial accommodations.

Machinery accidents occurring in farm work areas are responsible for almost 900 deaths a year, according to the National Safety Council.

Touring Royalty Begins 4 1/2-Day Stop in Arizona

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Britain's Princess Margaret gets a look at the stark beauty of the old West today — and probably a kitchen refrigerator where an invitation to her wedding once was stored.

The princess and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, arrived Wednesday from Los Angeles for a 4 1/2-day rest to break up their three-week tour of the United States.

No trace of the laryngitis that plagued her in smoggy Los Angeles was present when she made a plane-side speech at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base.

Waiting at the plane along with Gov. Sam Goddard were her host, Lewis Douglas, and his wife. Their daughter, Sharrman, and Princess Margaret became close friends when Douglas was ambassador to Great Britain in 1948-50.

COCKTAIL PARTY

Douglas invited 200 neighbors, business acquaintances and old friends to a cocktail party Wednesday night at the picturesque Arizona Inn to meet the royal pair.

"She's a darling," said a guest as the princess made the shortest social stop of her trip so far — 45 minutes.

As Princess Margaret circulated among the guests, someone splashed a drink on her beige, chiffon dress.

"I got wet, did you?" she said with a smile.

QUIET DINNER

After the party, the Snowdons returned to the Douglas home for a quiet dinner.

For most of her trip, the princess has been nearly the last to leave a party, saying once of Sharrman, who was encouraging her to get a little more rest: "She's a bit anxious, isn't she?"

"Tucson is the place the princess really planned her trip around," said an acquaintance. "She's really wanted to come here for years, ever since Sharrman first told her about it."

So close are the princess and the Douglases that when they did not reply to her wedding invitation, she sent them another cable.

MEXICAN HELP

"What happened," said a friend of the Douglases, "was that Lew and his wife were in New York and their Mexican help couldn't read the invitation when it arrived at the ranch."

"The help saw the big, red royal seal on the back and thought it might melt. So they put the invitation in the refrigerator."

The Douglases attended the wedding. They found the first invitation months later, still in the refrigerator.

The Douglases maintain two residences in Arizona — a 200-acre farm in the Fort Lowell section of Tucson and a big ranch at Sonita, 60 miles southeast. The royal pair is expected to remain at the Tucson home, traveling to the ranch only for a visit.

THEY'LL DECIDE

"We're going to let them decide what they want to see," Douglas told newsmen.

Among suggestions offered to the Snowdons Wednesday night were a view of the Grand Canyon and a visit to Lake Powell, both in northern Arizona, a trip to the Papago Indian Reservation and one to Kitt Peak Observatory near Tucson.

Two State Men Killed in Week's Viet Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Michigan men were killed in action in Viet Nam this week, the Defense Department said Wednesday. It listed them as Army Pfc. Dennis Lichota, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Lichota of Detroit, and Army Staff Sgt. Robert F. Townsend, Royal Oak.

Spurred by Parents

Doctors Probing 'Crib Death' Cause

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — She never something was wrong the moment she awoke. She roused her husband. "It's 8 o'clock," she said, "what about the baby?"

The baby, a healthy three-month-old, had been waking her parents at 6:45 each morning as regularly as an alarm clock. The mother had checked the infant at 6 a.m., found her sleeping, and had gone back to bed.

NOT BREATHING

Now, hearing nothing, she checked again. The baby was cold and was not breathing. Frantically, the mother called the fire department to send the crew with a resuscitator, but the infant could not be revived. The child was pronounced dead a short time later at a hospital.

Dr. Gale Wilson, King County autopsy surgeon, told the parents he saw many such cases every year. The death would be entered as acute pneumonia. Doctors didn't know what brought it on, but whatever it was, it was terribly fast. Some 15,000 such deaths occur in the United States each year. In the Seattle area, eight bereaved couples have formed the Washington Association for Sudden Infant Death Study. Thanks in part to their efforts, an ambitious research project is under way to determine what causes what doctors call the sudden death syndrome, but commonly known as "crib deaths."

The association got its start with a card of sympathy. Mrs. Francis R. Jones, a Seattle policeman's wife, sent one to State Sen. and Mrs. Fred H. Dore. Mrs. Jones did not know the Dores, but had read in a newspaper that they had found their youngest child dead in its crib on the same day she and her husband lost a baby in the same way.

Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Dore became acquainted. Then Mrs. Dore heard of another crib death and wrote a note of sympathy to the parents. A few couples got together and held a meeting, with a pediatrician as a speaker.

They learned that pathologists in various parts of the country had been doing research on possible causes of the sudden unexplained deaths.

But most studies were hampered, the parents were told, by being limited to autopsies performed in coroner's offices. Sen. Dore went to see King County Coroner Leo Sowers and asked him if he was aware of the problem. He was very aware of it, Sowers said. Nine years earlier, he and his wife had lost a child to the sudden death syndrome.

With the help of Dore, a Democrat, and Sowers, a Republican, a bill was put through the 1963 Washington Legislature. It changed the coroner law so that cases of sudden infant death could be referred to the University of Washington Medical School for autopsy.

A $20,000 appropriation was passed and renewed in 1965. After a two-year preliminary study, the university medical school transferred the base of the research project to Children's Orthopedic Hospital and Medical center.

3-YEAR GRANT

Children's Orthopedic has received a $144,000 three-year grant from the National Institutes of Health for the study. Drs. J. Bruce Beckwith and Abraham Bergman, faculty members at the university who are on the staff at the hospital, are conducting it. Sowers has made Dr. Beckwith a deputy coroner.

Earlier in his career, Dr. Beckwith performed 300 autopsies on sudden infant death victims in four years as a pathologist with the Los Angeles County coroner's office. Dr. Bergman, a pediatrician, also has had previous experience with the problem.

They expect it will be at least three years before they have any conclusive results.

"We're satisfied that there is more than one factor," says Dr. Beckwith, "but probably the majority will be found to be due to one cause."

Dr. Bergman has found the syndrome to be very uncommon beneath the age of three weeks, most common between two and three months, uncommon after six months and almost unheard of after one year.

"We feel it is the single most common cause of infant death outside of the newborn period," says Dr. Bergman. "We know it is happening all over the world. There is research being done on it in various places in the United States, in England and, we understand, in Czechoslovakia."

Bloomfield Miracle Mills OPEN EYES, 'TIL 9

DIP FOR APPLES — Combine ½ cup creamy peanut butter with two tablespoons minced crisp bacon. Beat in one cup dairy sour cream. Stir in one teaspoon prepared horseradish. Serve as a dip for red apple slices. Makes about 1½ cups, enough for eight guests.

Put Fig-Nut Sauce on Plain Cake

A handy topping with tropical flavors can dress up plain cake or pudding.

Hawaiian Topping
1 cup thinly sliced dried figs
½ cup pineapple juice
1 tablespoon honey
1 tablespoon rum
½ cup chopped Macadamia nuts

1 cup heavy cream
Simmer figs in pineapple juice and honey for five minutes; cool. Add rum and nuts. Whip cream; fold into fig mixture. Serve over plain angel food, chiffon or pound cake. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Chocolate Web Givens

To make a "spider web" trim atop a white-frosted cake, melt a little chocolate. With a teaspoon, drizzle the chocolate over the frosting in pinwheel fashion.

Then quickly run the tip of a small spatula from the center of the cake to the edge in spoke fashion, pulling the chocolate from each band of the pinwheel.

Pretty Platter

Separate mounds of cooked peas and cooked diced carrots make a pretty serving platter when they surround a whole, cooked head of cauliflower. A little grated yellow cheese may be sprinkled over the cauliflower.

Fry Eggplant, Add Sauce, Bake a Bit

A new version of a favorite casserole-style recipe is suggested.

Eggplant Parmesan Casseroles
1 medium eggplant (1½ pounds)
2 eggs, slightly beaten
½ to ¾ cup fine dry bread crumbs
½ cup (about) olive oil
½ pound thinly sliced Mozzarella cheese
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
Tomato Sauce

Fare eggplant; cut into 15 to 18 crosswise slices; dip in egg, then in bread crumbs. In a large skillet, adding oil as needed, fry eggplant until tender and brown; drain on brown paper.

Place alternate layers of eggplant, cheese and Tomato Sauce in 6 individual heatproof glass pie dishes (8 by 1 inch). Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven until bubbling hot — 20 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Tomato Sauce: Into a large saucepan, turn 1 can (1 pound and 3 ounces) regular tomatoes, 1 can (1 pound) Italian-type plum tomatoes, ¼ cup tomato paste, ¼ cup olive oil, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper to taste, ½ teaspoon oregano and 1 clove crushed garlic.

Bring to a boil; simmer, stirring occasionally, for about 40 minutes.

Signal Lights AND Men Guide Pilots Onto Carriers

By BOB POOS

ABOARD AIRCRAFT CARRIER MIDWAY (AP) — The time was when landing signal officers aboard aircraft carriers were a colorful looking bunch. They were the brightly attired guys armed with paddles who coaxed pilots down onto the deck.

The bright suits and paddles are no more. A large bank of electrically synchronized red and green lights now tells pilots whether they are too high or too low.

The landing signal officers are still at their posts, however, almost on the carrier's stern at the port side. And the job is no less important.

An officer on the Midway noted:

TALK TO PILOTS

"Often they just talk to the pilots—young ones who get nervous—and give them confidence."

Talking on two telephones, one to the approaching airplane and one to other signal personnel perched high up in a glassed-in enclosure on the ship's superstructure, the LSO's advise pilots that:

"The deck's foul. Now it's clear."

"She's pitching a little and rolling some."

"You're doing fine. Bring her on in."

Kelley Asks New Laws

HOUGHTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley asked support Wednesday night for new legislation which he said would be designed to combat improper sales of hearing aids.

Kelley, speaking to the Chamber of Commerce and service of the deaf, discussed state efforts to fight frauds against consumers.

He called attention to a new law taking effect Jan. 1 which will protect homeowners against home improvement swindlers.

Occasionally, a plane hits the very end of the flight deck, the ramp," as the carrier people call it.

To provide for this emergency, the Navy has rigged a large, heavy wire mesh net over the side for the landing signal officers to leap into.

"If one hits," advised Lt. J.G. Tom Murray, St. Clair, Mo., "don't be the last one in."

Lt. Cmdr. Verne Jumper, Los Angeles, added: "But don't be the first one in either. These other guys weigh too much."

STOOD ON DECK

As they discussed the possibility of imminent disaster, Lt. Bill Clark, Los Angeles, stood on deck almost in the path of an approaching plane, looking for all the world like a bull fighter bringing a dangerous bull in past him.

If planes seemed to be angling in too close to the port side, Clark moved toward them as if to force them over physically.

When they seemed to be too far to the other side, he crowded his side of the ship as if to pull them over magnetically.

After the planes are properly lined up, they have a target of four heavy cables called "arresting wires" that snag a hook on the airplane's tail.

Up in the glassed-in tower a Navy enlisted man's sole duty is to call out to sailors below decks how much pressure to apply on drums connected to the arresting cables.

MAXIMUM TENSION

Maximum tension is set to pull up three Sky Warrior jets, nicknamed Whales because of their size. Much less tension is applied to stop the little propeller-driven Skyraiders that are called Spads after the famous fighter plane of World War I. Pilots have implicit faith in the men on deck who bring them in. One reason they have is that all the LSO's are pilots themselves. The job is rotated through the various squadrons on the ship.

"It's the second best job aboard," Clark said. "Flying's the best, of course."

U.N. Debate on Red China 'Ridiculous'

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst In the glass-enclosed, upended match box which is the headquarters of the United Nations, world diplomats once again are arguing the merits or demerits of membership for Red China.

It is a ridiculous debate, and perhaps even purposeless. For in the end there is no certainty that Red China would accept membership if offered, and might even prefer to attempt to humiliate the world body by ignoring it.

Generally, it is conceded that if not this year, then next year or the year after, supporters of Red China's entry into the U.N. will muster a sufficient number of votes.

But the facts of the case either demand that the debate be dropped or that its premise undergo a major change.

The facts are that the United Nations Charter pledges each member nation to the settlement of all disputes by peaceful means but Red China actively promotes world revolution by violent methods and rejects peaceful co-existence except on its own terms.

CHIEF OBJECTION

This is the principle upon which the United States bases its chief objection to Red Chinese membership.

On the other hand, when the United Nations came into being after the close of World War II, its planners deliberately set up a Security Council which would be the watch dog of world peace and whose decisions would be binding upon all member nations.

As permanent members of the council they named the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China, each with a veto power.

Presumably, these were the major world powers upon whom responsibility for world peace would rest.

Through the events of 1949 which drove the Nationalist Chinese from the mainland and confined them to the island of Formosa, the Nationalists today scarcely can qualify as a world power. Yet they continue to hold a seat and a veto in the Security Council.

Proponents of a seat for Red China base their case on the undoubted fact that it is a power in being and, regardless of the U.N. charter, must be recognized.

N. J. Klan Leader Misses Job Hearing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank K. Rotella Jr., the king kingle of the New Jersey Ku Klux Klan, failed to appear at a hearing yesterday to answer charges of misconduct and incompetence brought by his former employer, the city welfare department.

The department suspended Rotella when it learned of his Klan membership. He worked with Negroes as a social case worker.

The department said it would hold "an inquest" into the charges against him. The hearing officer will rule later on making the suspension a dismissal.

Exam Set Nov. 17 in Station Robbery

Two suspects charged with armed robbery demanded examination at arraignment in Municipal Court yesterday, requesting that the court appoint counsel to defend them.

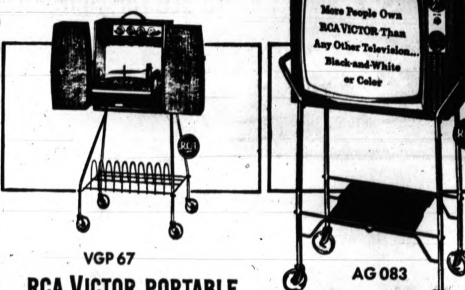

Fred D. Dyer, 18, of 1117 Stanley and Tommie L. Childers, 20, of 5531 Rowley, Waterford Township, were ordered held on $10,000 bond each.

Examination was set for Nov. 17.

The two were apprehended by Oakland County Sheriff's deputies and Waterford Township patrolmen following a $50 robbery of the Clark Service Station at 948 Oakland Tuesday night.

German Way Adds Kraut to Pork

The Pennsylvania Dutch are known for their superbly delicious but plain and simple food. They have a saying that "them what works hard eats hearty" and accordingly their own tables fairly groan when they sit down to eat.

Pork and sauerkraut are a favorite flavor combination for these people of German descent. Named by the Germans, who numbered it among their favorite foods, it was natural that sauerkraut should also become popular with them in their new country.

Recipes for Kassler Ripchen, pork loin with sauerkraut; Sauerkraut Und Speck; pork; and Spareribs and Sauerkraut are almost sure to appear in a book of Pennsylvania Dutch "cookery."

Kraut, Chops Und Apples is a succulent oven meal especially popular around harvest time.

Tender, meaty loin pork chops are browned and set atop tangy kraut that has been mixed with crisp apple slices, dark seedless raisins, small white onions and brown sugar.

Kraut, Chops Und Apples

6 loin pork chops
12 small white onions
2 medium apples, cut in quarters
1/2 cup seedless raisins
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 cups undrained sauerkraut
1 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon pepper

Brown pork chops. Mix together onions, apples, raisins, brown sugar, kraut with half the salt and pepper. Arrange in 2-quart casserole. Top with chops; sprinkle on remaining salt and pepper.

Cover and bake in 350 degree oven 1 1/2 hours or until pork is tender. Makes 6 servings.

Expert Says to Put Pork Into Freezer

The last half of November and the first half of December should be ideal times to put pork into the freezer advises Mrs. Josephine Lawyer, Michigan State University Consumer Marketing Agent. Although supplies are smaller than a year ago, the amount available will be at a peak during this period.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reports that about 70 per cent of the pork carcass is salable retail cuts, 20 per cent is hard, about five per cent is lean trimmings which go into sausage, and five per cent is waste.

This means that a hog weighing 210 pounds will yield about 147 pounds of retail cuts (a side would yield half this or about 73 pounds).

A breakdown of the pork carcass provides the following cuts: Frozen pork will not store as long as other meats, so plan on keeping it at zero degrees, or lower, and use it within three or four months. Cured and smoked pork cannot be stored in the frozen state as successfully as fresh pork. Fresh sausage may be stored at zero degrees or lower for one to three months.

Salt should not be added before freezing because it hastens the development of rancidity.

INFORMAL CLINIC — The waiting room of Pontiac General Hospital's new outpatient mental health clinic, 18 Seminole, has an informal atmosphere like the living room it formerly was. Secretary Mrs. Lemuel Mindigall, 400 Joslyn, will greet patients seeking treatment at the clinic.

Provides Outpatient Care

Open House for Mental Health Clinic

A clinic to treat emotional and mental ills without confinement will have its formal opening tomorrow in Pontiac.

An open house to show Pontiac General Hospital's new outpatient Mental Health Clinic is scheduled from 2 to 6 p.m.

The clinic at 18 Seminole is appropriately located in an informal atmosphere for such facilities. But then, it is unusual in other aspects, too.

Housed in a converted two-story brick home, the new clinic sets several "firsts."

It is the first tangible program established in the county under the community mental health services bill passed in 1963 by the State Legislature.

HOSPITAL LINK

Also, it is the first outpatient mental health clinic in the county to be associated with a general hospital.

The clinic exists through a contractual agreement between Oakland County, Pontiac General and the Michigan Department of Mental Health.

Preventive and therapeutic mental health services are to be offered by the new clinic, directed by psychiatrist Dr. H. L. Woodward.

Opened on a part-time basis in May, the outpatient clinic now operates a full 40 hours per week on a daytime schedule of 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

INITIAL STAFF

The clinic's initial staff consists of Dr. Woodward, Chief Psychiatrist; Social Worker Loren O'Dea, Psychiatric Social Worker Audrey Bailey, a part-time consulting clinical psychologist and two part-time psychiatric social workers.

In addition, there are three student social workers and a teacher adviser from Wayne State University.

With its carpeted floors, the clinic offers a quiet informal atmosphere. Except for a boarded up fireplace, the waiting room looks almost like a typical living room.

Pontiac General financed the remodeling of the clinic facilities, formerly used by the hos-

REMODELING COST

Cost of the remodeling was about $10,000, including furnishings.

Dr. Woodward, who came to the United States ten years ago from Finland, interned at Pontiac General. She had her residency at Northville State Hospital.

The clinic currently has 190 patients. Dr. Woodward describes the response to the clinic as good.

She looks toward expanding the clinic's staff and hours. Plans are already under way for evening hours.

WIDE SCOPE

Psychiatric ills brought to the clinic have run a wide scope of man's emotional and mental problems.

Dr. Woodward said many young people, most in their early 20's, have sought help. Most of the problems arise from marital difficulties.

The outpatient services are offered to adults, 17 years old and up. One patient is 66 years old.

OFFICE SPACE

Facilities include three offices and a waiting room on the ground floor, an office and patient interview room on the second floor and two group meeting rooms in the basement.

The outpatient clinic, operating under a proposed 1965-66 budget of $112,000, offers its services to those with a limited ability to pay.

A sliding payment scale, based on a patient's income and number of dependents, is used to determine fees.

Indigent cases will also be handled.

It's Police Work —by the Numbers

A lone policeman in a patrol car spots a suspicious vehicle in front of him and radios the car's license number to a dispatcher at headquarters.

Within 30 seconds the patrolman knows:

- The car was stolen three days ago from a dealer in Columbus, Ohio.

- Believed in the car is a 27-year-old ex-convict.

- He recently served a term for armed robbery and is considered dangerous.

This is computerized law enforcement.

A dispatcher feeds the license information and vehicle description into a computer.

The machine chatters and pours out facts which could not only result in apprehension of a criminal but also protect a policeman's life.

GOAL OF STUDIES

This kind of operation is the goal of studies currently being made by representatives of the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police, the Michigan Sheriffs Association and the Michigan State Police.

Oakland County Sheriff Frank W. Irons and Capt. Leo R. Hazen are among law enforcement officers from throughout the state participating in a series of conferences held at Lansing on the possibilities of a computer network.

"It would certainly be a big boost for us," Hazen said.

"Communications that now take a day or two — even by teletype — would be almost instantaneous."

INSTANT CHECKS

He cited instant checking of wanted persons, car registrations, ownership of weapons and even individual criminal methods as uses of the proposed computer system.

The network as now considered would cost close to $1.5 million, according to police authorities.

Purpose of the meetings, is to formulate a concrete proposal to present to the legislature early in the 1966 session.

The system, if given the go-ahead from state lawmakers, could be operational by late next year, law enforcers said.

Firemen Give Data on Waterford Work

The Waterford Township Fire Department answered 68 alarms last month, including 10 building fires.

Altogether, the fire fighters combated 35 fires last month compared with 28 in September and 54 the preceding October.

The report indicated that the department has handled 428 fires the first 10 months this year, 191 less than the number of fires covered for the same period last year.

However, total fire damage is $193,120 so far this year against $122,197 for the same period in 1964.

Pontiac School Affairs

Remedial Reading Is Discussed

Remedial efforts in the elementary reading program and other programs aimed at boosting student achievement were discussed by several administrators and teachers in a report given to the Pontiac School Board at its regular meeting last night.

The report was the third in a four-part series dealing with reading instruction and uses of pupil testing to determine the need for special reading programs.

Among those commenting on current efforts both in remedial reading and community school activities were Bert C. Van Koughnett, principal of McConnell School, Mrs. Harry Killian, principal at Bethune and Mrs. John Fournier, a special reading teacher.

Mrs. Fournier outlined to the board a five-point approach to reading problems, including diagnostic testing, interpretation of results, selection of remedial materials, use of new teaching aids and consideration of special problems.

"The 'deprived child' is usually a dependent learner with a short attention span," she said. "He needs consistency and regularity of instruction, even if these sessions are only for 20 minutes."

Mrs. Fournier said the special remedial program was restricted to pupils with problems specifically related to reading development.

Students are given the special attention of a remedial course until sufficient improvement is shown or factors other than poor reading skills are holding a student back.

"One of our students showed a gain of two and six-tenths years in one year of remedial instruction," she said.

ANOTHER FAILED

"Another failed to gain at all — it later turned out the problem was psychological."

Van Koughnett's emphasis on the "self-esteem" attached to learning was also mentioned by Mrs. Killian in her discussion of community school contributions to educational achievement.

"With parents coming to school," she said, "we can already see a change on the part of their children."

"This 'extended school' is needed to combat apathy and a low level of aspiration."

In other business board members present approved without exception proposed guide lines to the function of the Pontiac School District's Citizens' Committee on Human Relations. Absent due to illness was Mrs. Lucille Marshall.

Proposed by-laws for the committee will be discussed at a future meeting.

Tentative agreement on the by-laws between the committee and the board was reached at a joint meeting Tuesday night.

Passed by a five-to-one vote was a request from the Pontiac Educational Secretaries Association for recognition as sole bargaining agent for the school district's secretaries and clerical workers.

* * *

Russell H. Brown voted against the proposal after representatives of the Pontiac City School Employees Union, Local 719, said they intended to petition the State Labor Mediation Board to hold an election determining bargaining rights.

PRESENT STATUS

Local 719 is the presently recognized representative of engineers, firemen, bus drivers, custodians, cafeteria workers and maintenance men employed by the school district.

Robert Anderson, president of the local, said he had been approached by some secretaries who he said expressed a desire to be represented by the union in salary negotiations.

In other action the board officially authorized Dr. Whitmer to submit to the state preliminary application for financial assistance under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Formal approval was also given to the purchase of two future school sites for a total $14,250. (tendent Richard C. Fell after taking an option to buy on the recommendation of assistant Superintendent at the last meeting.

KIWANIS DANCE — Busy preparing for the Kiwanis Club of West Pontiac dance-party Saturday night at Waterford Township High School are Mrs. John Stefanski (holding poster) of 4500 South Shore, Waterford Township, and Mrs. John Condon of 697 W. Huron. The four-hour event, in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of Kiwanis International, will begin at 9. Canned goods, toys, clothing and other donations will be used to fill Christmas baskets for needy families.

Schools Caught in Cost Spiral

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a two-part series on Monday's special election in the Farmington School District.)

By PAT McCARTY
FARMINGTON — To provide room for a constantly increasing number of students, the Farmington Board of Education needs to build more schools.

It is seeking approval Monday of a $6.1-million building bond issue.

But a new school alone is not enough.

Also required are teachers and books and maintenance of the building.

And the cost of these is going up.

MILL INCREASE
As a corollary to its bond issue request, the board is asking for renewal of a 3-mill operating levy and approval of a new 4-mill levy, both for 10 years.

The 3-mill tax would replace one due to expire in 1966.

The 4-mill levy would be used only to the extent that the debt service levy is reduced below its present level of 11 mills.

To reduce the debt retirement levy to 7 mills, the board plans to make use of the state bond loan fund.

BORROW FROM STATE
Districts with building programs requiring more than a 7-mill levy can borrow additional funds from the state at a low interest rate.

Thus, the Farmington School Board can maintain the total school levy at $2.50 per $1,000 of state equalized property valuation.

School officials are facing the prospect of educating an estimated 17,000 students by 1970.

They have watched enrollment figures jump more than 1,000 a year — from 8,723 in 1960 to the present 14,631.

Meanwhile, costs have been increasing.

SALARY INCREASES
Accounting for much of the rise are teachers' salary increments and what Schools Supt. Gerald V. Harrison identifies as "built-in inflationary cycle."

School costs now are going up an average three percent a year, he noted.

Projections indicate the district, which now has 570 teachers, will need an additional 31 teachers each year for the next five years.

Salaries and wages account for 85 percent of the school's budget.

DISTRICT CHECKS
This year, district pay checks are expected to total $5,482,016, with $913,657 going for supplies, heat, lighting, insurance and maintenance.

Harrison estimated the median teacher's salary at $4,650. By 1970, it will be $7,400, he said.

While it now costs about $470 per year for each child enrolled in the district, the figure is predicted to go to $545 in the next five years.

With 1 mill worth about $120,000 in revenue, local taxes this year will constitute 41.7 percent of the school system's income.

OTHER FUNDS

This source is expected to produce $2,667,176, augmented by $3,553,510 from the state and $130,002 in county and federal funds.

These are the income statistics for this year. Voters will decide Monday what the picture will look like next year.

NOTE TO VOTERS — Taking precedence, for the moment, over football games and such is a reminder to Farmington School District electors to vote Monday in the special election. North Farmington High School Principal Harold Humble (left) and Schools Supt.

Gerald V. Harrison post the notice on the school's outside bulletin board. In the background is an addition built with funds from the district's $5-million bond issue approved in 1963.

Rezoning Approved for Apartment Units

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — The rezoning Committee's recommendation that it be denied. Township Supervisor Lee B. Valentine said the committee was concerned with water pollution, but that both the State and County Boards of Health have approved a septic tank system for the apartments.

The committee also claimed it is spot zoning, but Valentine said the land surrounding the area is presently being subdivided.

In other action, the board tabled a request to rezone 50 acres off Cooks Road, north of Seymour Lake Road, from agriculture to trailer coach park.

A development company has recently started work on a general guide for future planning in the township, and wants all trailer park zoning tabled for the present.

Card Party Friday
TROY — Morse School PTA will hold a fund-raising card party at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the school, 550 Hickory.

Four Districts Seek Grant
The four districts went to the township board to get a grant to build a district maintenance building. The school systems will conduct planning studies on how to improve the programs of the four-district area.

UTICA — The board of education, in cooperation with Romeo, Chippewa Valley and Warren Consolidated schools, has applied for a grant of $30,000 under Title III of the Secondary-Elementary Act.

School Study Duties Divided

Two-Month Deadline Set on Unit Reports

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The citizens' committee exploring needs of the West Bloomfield school system last night divided itself into three groups for preliminary study.

The subcommittees will spend some three months investigating the current school situation before beginning work on recommendations.

Given a Jan. 15, 1966 deadline for their reports were the financial structure, community characteristics and growth projections and curriculum study subcommittees.

The general committee is to make its recommendations to the board of education by April 15.

Organized last month, the committee is headed by Joe U. Davenport, 3500 Woods Point, Orchard Lake.

COORDINATORS NAMED
Subcommittee coordinators were named last night.

They are O. D. Dillman and Earl Krep, financial structure; Leonard Grossman, community characteristics and growth projections; and James Neubacher and Frances Cohen, curriculum study.

Kreps also is in charge of the public relations subcommittee.

The 39-member committee last night toured the new West Bloomfield Junior High School and heard a presentation by Principal Richard Phelps.

DISTRICT HISTORY

Schools Supt. Dr. Leif A. Hogen gave a resume of the district's history, its growth, student valuation and budget highlights.

The next meeting of the citizens' committee is scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday at West Bloomfield High School.

The speaker will be Henry Moses, chairman of the West Bloomfield Township Planning Commission.

S. Lyon School Board

Given Bond Sale OK

SOUTH LYON — Authority to sell bonds for a $2-million building program has been granted to the South Lyon Board of Education by the State Municipal Finance Commission.

The bond issue, approved by district property owners in June, will finance construction of a new high school, an addition to the existing high school and remodeling of elementary units.

Cityhood Drive On in Farmington Twp.

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Responding to an annexation scare, Farmington Township officials have proposed that the township incorporate as a city.

Petitions bearing more than 400 signatures will be presented to the Oakland County Board of Supervisors in an attempt to sparked by rumors that the City of Farmington would attempt to annex the portion of the township which includes its industrial development.

PROPOSAL DEFEATED
A proposal to annex some 550 acres was defeated by the township voters affected Nov. 2, although it had support from a large majority of city voters.

Township officials want to make certain there will be no such elections in the future.

The township retained its property this time, but another group of voters in another election might change the picture, they reason.

"Once we lose it, we've lost it," Township Clerk Floyd A. Cairns said.

INDUSTRIAL AREA
Of primary concern is the township's industrial area around 10 Mile and Haggerty.

Township officials are aiming their drive at keeping that tax base.

"We've spent a lot of money in developing our industrial area — a lot of time and money on planning and zoning," Cairns said. "It would upset everything if we were annexed."

The incorporation petitions were circulated by members of the Township Board and Township Planning Commission, who hope to see an election on the matter in the spring, Cairns said.

Levy Renewal Vote Dec. 13
School Election Set in Brandon District

BRANDON TOWNSHIP — School district voters will be asked on Dec. 13 to approve renewal of an 8-mill tax levy for three years.

The levy expires this year. It is the district's only extra-voted operating millage.

The district's total tax rate is 29.70 mills or $29.70 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. In addition to the 8 mills, 8.7 mills are allocated by the county and 12 mills are for building debt.

The deadline for registration is 5 p.m. Monday at the township clerk's office. All registered voters in the district are eligible to vote.

Ronald Sutton of 578 Mill has been appointed to the board of education replacing Charles Pangus, who resigned last month.

A past member of the Brandon Township Board, Sutton is an employee of the General Motors Proving Grounds.

He will serve on the board until June, at which time he must run for election to retain the seat.

Board Recognizes CEA as Sole Agent

CLARKSTON — The Clarkson Board of Education Monday night agreed to accept the Clarkson Education Association (CEA) as the sole bargaining agent for the professional staff.

However, evidence must be submitted showing that a majority of the teachers favor the move.

The action stems from a recently passed state statute. The request was made by members of the professional staff.

School Bazaar Saturday

AVON TOWNSHIP — The large variety of gifts, toys, clothing, linens, toiletries and food. There will also be Christmas stockings, greeting cards, wrapping paper, ribbons, and a Santa Claus to pose for photos.

A ham dinner will be served from 3 to 6 p.m. under the direction of high school girls who are members of the Junior Associates.

The bazaar will feature associates.

Learned His Trade

Wayne Newton Strikes It Rich

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — Wayne Newton's first job in show business was a Christmas show for a labor union in his native Roanoke, Va. He was 10, and the fee amounted to $10, which he split with his brother. He's a big boy now, all of 23, and he estimates his earnings so far this year amount to three-quarters of a million dollars. That doesn't include November and December.

How did the young Virginian come so far? By learning his trade, which is singing and playing everything from banjo to violin. He acquired his education in the toughest school for an entertainer: the Las Vegas lounge.

The lounges of that gold-rush town are people-packed boxes where performers must compete with the rattle of dice and ice cubes. "Hecklers? I've seen every kind," says Wayne.

"When I get them in clubs now—days, it's a cinch for me to handle the situation." Newton recently completed a two-week run at the Coconut Grove, a booking he had avoided for three years because "I wasn't ready." On opening night there could be no doubt that he was ready. Many leading figures in the entertainment world gave him a standing ovation at the close of his power-charged act.

I talked to Newton before he left town and found him to be respectful and earnest. Like Elvis Presley, he addresses reporters as "sir." Like other multitalented stars who become big enterprises — Newton has two corporations, is forming a third — he refers to his performing self as "we."

"We got our first big break in my legs and hips."

when Jackie Gleason saw us in Phoenix and put us on his television show," he will say. "He put us on his show 12 times."

Newton is still cherub-faced, but there is less of him than I expected from his photographs.

"Dropped 50 pounds this year," he explained. "I'm down big enterprises — Newton has to 170 and I may take off five or six more pounds. I'm 6 feet 2, so third — he refers to his per- the weight wasn't unusual for my height, except that it was all

The greatest advantage of the artificial two no-trump response to show the equivalent of a forcing raise of partner's major suit opening is that it gives an extra round of bidding to explore slam possibilities. The opener rebids three of his suit with a good hand and no singleton, and to four of his suit with a bad hand and no singleton. When he has a singleton he shows it irrespective of the strength of his hand by bidding three of the singleton suit. South's three spade rebid was right up North's alley. North had a very sound hand and the one weakness was three little spades. When South showed a singleton in that suit, North was ready for the Blackwood routine. Then after South showed two aces and two kings, North was able to bid the grand slam with complete confidence. How did North know that his partner held the right two kings? Because South had shown a singleton in spades by his three spade bid and the ace of spades when he showed two aces. Hence, South's singleton spade was the ace and he could not also hold the King. This hand came up when we were first experimenting with this bid. It occurred in a sectional tournament and when the results were in we were delighted to find that no one else had bid the grand slam and that over half of the field had stopped at game.

For Friday

"The wise man controls his destiny." Astrology points the way. ARIES (Mar. 21 - Apr. 19): Emphasize practical approach. Concentrate efforts on harmony at home and work. Leave little to chance. Be there in person. Sagittarius and "I-lead-me" attitude. TAURUS (Apr. 20 - May 20): Those close to you tend to be ultra-sensitive. Be tactful. Take them into confidence. Broad new ground through original, creative approach. And "I-lead-me" attitude. GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Income approach. Stick to kind, proven methods. Find ways to speed or streamline progress. Your relationship with constructive outlet. Be aware, alert — or over-learn. CANCER (June 21 - July 21): Remember resolutions, past promises. You may need to be clear in views, motives and goals. Some around you attempt to sow seeds of contention. You gain through display of frankness, sincerity. Know this! For exchanging news, gaining information. People who were allies in past could make reconciliation. Accent change, change of activity. Romantic interests favored later. LIBRA (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Be sure of personal goals. If necessary, be a realist. No time to waste. Be rational. Ally. Key is being true to your own decisions. SCORPIO (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Many remind you of past promises. Be sure you obtain true value. Coordinate efforts. No time to waste. Be rational. Ally. Key is being true to your own decisions. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Many remind you of past promises. Be sure you obtain true value. Coordinate efforts. No time to waste. Be rational. Ally. Key is being true to your own decisions. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): You tend to attract others with their problems. Be mature, considerate. You will have to be SELF-RELIANT. Friends may be well meaning — but they do not appear to have the facts.

States, Congress Said in Tax Power Struggle

LANSING (AP) — The states are of civil rights is peripheral, are locked in a life-and-death to this," he said.

struggle with Congress over State Revenue Commissioner Clarence Lock told the National Tax Association Conference in New Orleans Wednesday that state sales, use and business income taxes on multistate business could have a devastating effect on Michigan.

It would force now autonomous states to share in the supervisory power of the Internal Revenue Service, said Asst. Atty. Gen. William Dexter, and even provide for the administration of some state taxes by the U.S. Treasury Department.

"This is shaping up into a real political battle—and the stakes will be the survival of the states as separate political entities," said Dexter, a specialist in the subject, assigned to the State Revenue Department.

The political ramifications are so great "that congressional intervention in the states in the developed after a two-year study by a special subcommittee on state taxation, has the blessing of the House Judiciary Committee.

It would affect four kinds of taxes on interstate business: Any income taxes or taxes based on income, such as franchise fees based on gross receipts; Michigan's business activities tax, or gross receipts taxes; sales and use taxes, and franchise or capital stock taxes.

A state would not be entitled to impose an income-type tax on a corporation doing business within its boundaries unless it had a business location in the state (defined as the ownership or leasing of real property within the state) or had an employee located within that state.

They contend a 1959 law, a preliminary to the proposed legislation, "is so broad there is no basis left for the federal system," Dexter said.

The proposed legislation, developed after a two-year study by a special subcommittee on state taxation, has the blessing of the House Judiciary Committee.

It would affect four kinds of taxes on interstate business: Any income taxes or taxes based on income, such as franchise fees based on gross receipts; Michigan's business activities tax, or gross receipts taxes; sales and use taxes, and franchise or capital stock taxes.

A state would not be entitled to impose an income-type tax on a corporation doing business within its boundaries unless it had a business location in the state (defined as the ownership or leasing of real property within the state) or had an employee located within that state.

They contend a 1959 law, a preliminary to the proposed legislation, "is so broad there is no basis left for the federal system," Dexter said.

The proposed legislation, de-

Lock called the two-factor formula unfair, adding:

"Under the congressional plan, a state like Ohio which imposes no tax on income could say to industry, locate your plant here. Flood our neighboring states with salesmen, but be careful not to have your employees spend their time in any one of those states."

NO INCOME TAX

"Under the two-factor formula, and the jurisdictional standard proposed, a company operating in this manner would owe no state income tax to any state," he added.

The marketing state, the revenue commissioner said, "makes a most substantial contribution to the net income to be taxed, because it is axiomatic that without a market there is no sale and without a sale, there is no profit."

The market state could levy a sales-and-use tax if the out-of-state firm made regular deliveries within its boundaries, except for direct mail sales.

The states, however, would be encouraged to adopt a model tax statute included in the House bill turning administration over to the U.S. Treasury.

MORE TAXES

"Michigan theoretically could benefit from the two-factor formula because of the nature of the automobile business, but then other states which could not levy any income-related taxes on the 'Big Three' would have to pile more taxes on their intrastate business," Dexter said.

The real question, however, is this transfer of policy-determining power from state capitals to Washington," he said. "Even our state court systems could suffer. The bill provides for an appeal board that could pull a tax case out of the Michigan Supreme Court if any of the sales-and-use tax if the out-of-state firm made regular de-appeal."

Mankind's Dream to Control Weather Is Nearer Fulfillment

By ELIZABETH WHARTON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One morning in 500,000 B.C., John Doe Pithecanthropine grumbled at the rain, struck a spark to warm his cave and dreamed of being able to control the weather.

This morning his grandson, countless times removed, woke in an air-conditioned room, drove to work in an air-conditioned car, entered his air-conditioned office, and dreamed of being able to control the weather.

It has been one of mankind's most persistent—and, so far, most illusory—dreams.

Modern man can control his environment to a considerable extent. Pithecanthropine's great-grandson is rarely subject to the elements unless he wants to be—and even then in a sense he controls his environment through the expertly engineered fabric he wears.

He seeks clouds to bring rain to parched fields; he shields his tobacco crops or his coffee beans from the sun to let them ripen more slowly; and he lights smudge pots in his fruit orchards to guard against freeze.

STORM WARNING

He even sends Tyros satellites into space to warn him of storms.

His buildings are temperature-controlled. Even his fishing camp is likely to have a portable electric fan to stir up a breeze.

But a vast portion of his land area remains unwarmed desert and his polar ice caps represent thousands of miles of frozen wastes.

So man wonders: Why can't some of the moisture from the Antarctic ice caps be diverted to rainfall over the desert? And wouldn't the warming-up of the ice caps also serve to moderate the climate of Greenland, and the Yukon Territory of Canada, and Russia's Siberia to become more hospitable to a mankind fast running out of living room?

SERIOUS PROPOSALS

Dr. Joseph Smagorinsky, acting director of the Institute for Atmospheric Sciences in the Environmental Sciences Service Administration (ESSA), told UPI in an interview that serious proposals for diverting the polar ice were made as recently as three or four years ago, but do not now have a priority among weather modification scientists.

But he said possible new avenues of research currently are being studied by a panel under the sponsorship of the National Academy of Science.

The panel has been at work for two years and will be ready with its final report within the next two or three months. The report, he said, will contain recommendations for basic lines of research on both small and massive ways of tampering with the weather.

At the same time, Smagorinsky said the entire field of weather modification is being changed by the rapid perfection of computers.

SIMULATE WINDS

Within the next 5 to 10 years, he predicted, it will be possible to simulate the actual natural circulation of the atmosphere to such an extent that proposals for massive tampering can be tested so accurately that results can be predicted to within a tiny degree.

Some of the long-standing ideas for altering climate include:

- Melting the polar ice by laying down a carbon-soot covering on the ice to absorb the sun's rays and expedite melting.

Drawback: The world's coastal cities would be devastated by the resulting increase in the ocean level.

- Exploding a number of nuclear devices in the Arctic Ocean at a precise depth to create a mist so fine it would remain as fog overlying the ice, thus acting as a blanket to prevent heat escape and create melting. Same drawback.

- Building a dam across the Bering Straits so warm Pacific water could be fed into the Arctic Ocean and warm up the north. A Russian scientist estimates the cost at $17.5 billion, to be shared jointly by the United States and Russia.

- Diverting the Gulf Stream, perhaps through the explosion of hundreds of nuclear devices in the straits between Florida and Cuba. Obvious drawbacks: You'd create so much radioactivity you'd off-set all you had accomplished.

But once the computer models are perfected, Smagorinsky said, these proposals could easily be tested.

It also would be possible to ask purely hypothetical questions scientists would like to know the answers to: Like what would happen if you removed the Rocky Mountains; or what would be the result of cutting down all the trees in the United States.

Already the scientists are using the computers for a greater and greater degree of fidelity in reproducing the natural properties of the atmosphere.

MODERN EFFECTS

This is helpful, Smagorinsky said, in assessing the long-range results of "inadvertent modification" such as the increase of carbon dioxide in the earth's atmosphere from the automobile and industrial pollution; the growth of cities with their very real warming effects; whether the imminent use of supersonic transports (SST) in the stratosphere will affect the atmosphere.

Smagorinsky expects the answers to most or all of these within a year or two. It is essential to know these answers, he says, before it is possible to extrapolate results of the "purposeful modifications" which are man's deliberate attempts to alter the weather.

It is pretty well agreed that once man starts tampering with his atmosphere, he'd better be right. Disaster could result from an error that started small and

Pork's the Meat to Buy in Fall

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

If we lived on a farm, this would be hog-butcher time. There are, no doubt, many of our readers who have participated in this autumn ritual.

But most of us don't live on farms. We go to the supermarket for our meat. And I'm fairly sure that far too many home-makers don't know about any pork cuts—beyond chops and spareribs.

If you ever see pork neckbones in the meat case, buy them. They're as tasty as spare ribs and much cheaper. You prepare them in the same way.

If the price of pork chops is too high for your budget, buy pork steak which is sometimes cheaper. Or many supermarkets will cut a pork roast into chops and sell the whole package for less per pound than center cut chops.

Pork is a hearty meat and fits well into cold weather menus. It is a meat that teams well with fruit or vegetables and savory sauces.

The Chinese have perfected the art of preparing pork with vegetables.

A word of caution: fresh pork must be thoroughly cooked to make it safe to eat. Only by thorough cooking can you be sure that parasites called trichinae which sometimes infest pork are killed. You may eat beef and lamb rare, but you must have well-done pork.

Pork can be fried, braised or baked. Chops are a little dry when broiled, but they can be successfully grilled, either indoors or out.

Shoulder pork roasts have an excellent flavor and the added attraction of costing less than loin roasts. But either one will be fit for a king or anyone else to eat if you prepare it in the following manner:

Marinated Pork Roast
1 cup vegetable oil
1/2 cup wine vinegar

Chutney Is Fine With Cold Meat

Allow this chutney to mellow before using.

Tomato-Raisin Chutney
1 1/2 pounds tomatoes, skinned and diced
1 large green pepper, diced
1 large onion, diced
1 cup raisins
1-inch piece candied ginger, minced
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup cider vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon cayenne

In a kettle, mix together all the ingredients. Cook and stir often over low heat until thick—about 1 hour. Pack into sterilized jars and seal. Makes four 1/2 pints.

Better Not Freeze

Potatoes, unless they are French fried, have a tendency to disintegrate and change in texture and flavor when placed in the home freezer.

BAKED PORK CHOPS

1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup soy sauce
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons dry mustard
2 teaspoons salt
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
4-5 pound pork loin or shoulder roast
Cling peach halves, broiled
Parsley
Frozen French fried potatoes, heated Combine vegetable oil, wine vinegar, lemon juice, soy sauce, Worcestershire sauce, dry mustard, salt, garlic, and ginger. Put pork roast in a glass baking dish and pour marinade over it.

Refrigerate, marinate 12-24 hours, turning meat occasionally.

Put meat on spit of oven rotisserie unit and rotate until meat thermometer reads 170 degrees (loin roast) or 185 degrees (shoulder roast). Garnish platter with cling peaches and parsley. Serve with French fries.

Put Plum Jam on Pork Chops

Here is a simple-to-fix, yet simply delicious, dish with oriental flavor which calls for rib pork chops, plum jam and ginger. Trimmed chops are first brushed with kitchen bouquet, the bottled browning sauce, then topped with a mixture of plum jam and seasonings and baked until tender, browned and glazed.

Baked Pork Chops With Plum Topping
4 rib pork chops, about 1-inch thick
2 teaspoons kitchen bouquet
1/2 cup plum jam
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
1 tablespoon vinegar

Trim excess fat from chops, then brush both sides of the chops with kitchen bouquet, the bottled browning sauce, then topped with a mixture of plum jam and seasonings and baked until tender, browned and glazed.

Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven until chops are tender, about 1 hour. Skim any excess fat from sauce before serving. Makes 4 servings.

Ice is hot for Carstairs.

Let's play it cool together.

Listen. Hear that tinkle? Carstairs on the rocks. What a beautiful way to start the perfect evening.

Sharp Losses in Aluminum

Stock Mart Irregularly Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was irregularly lower early this afternoon in slack, Veterans' Day trading. Aluminum shares showed some sharp losses following the rescinding of the aluminum price boost as a result of a Government plan to release stock piled up on the market. This situation — reminiscent of the conformation in 1963 between the steel industry and President Kennedy over a steel price increase — was a depressing market factor. Brokers also cited the Rhoads declaration of independence.

General Motors, Johns-Manville and Chesapeake & Ohio were fractional gainers.

FRACTIONAL LOSERS

In a second-day reaction to the Northeast power failure, Consolidated Edison and Niagara Mohawk Power were fractional losers.

Prices were mixed in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

U.S. Education Week Marked

Parent-teacher conferences at five Pontiac schools, a pancake supper and a demonstration of American Indian culture are among today's activities observing National Education Week.

Parents and teachers will meet at Owen, McConnell, Malaga, Herrington and Alcorn schools both today and tomorrow.

In addition, the Herrington PTA is sponsoring a pancake supper scheduled for tonight.

Mrs. John Moffat, third grade teacher at Irving, today presented to parents and students a discussion of art work and music among the American Indians. Parents later attended a luncheon at the school.

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK — Wage-price guidelines are at the root of the price-increase commotion between the Johnson administration and the aluminum industry.

In the view of the administration, the guidelines are a "Great Society" as some businessmen view it, as a guideline is an unwarranted interference in the free operation of the market place.

The administration feels that the aluminum industry in announcing a half-cent increase to 25 cents a pound crossed the line and threatened inflation.

Guidelines, or areas of permitted price increases, exist for many other industries, but the aluminum industry is the only one that has been criticized for its guidelines.

Some labor leaders as well as businessmen have criticized the guidelines as unworkable and inequitable. But most criticism comes from businessmen and bankers, such as David Rockefeller, president of the Chase Manhattan Bank in New York.

"I fear we are in danger," he said, "of backing inadvertently into a managed economy and I am convinced this is not the high road to the good life. The forces of the market place can be blunted by overregulation."

Some businessmen, in fact, speak of an admitted economy being the forerunner of a planned economy which could lead to a controlled economy with the market place no longer the determinant of prices.

The wage-price guidelines are intended to head off serious inflation, which the administration feels could make the "Great Society" less than great. Nevertheless, inflation is perhaps a greater threat now than in any time since Johnson assumed the presidency. The administration feels that the guidelines are a necessary step to head off inflation.

There is little doubt the administration is thinking far beyond the immediate problem with the aluminum industry, thinking perhaps of the dampening effect its action will have on other industries thinking of boosting prices.

Johnson's strength of his reply to the aluminum industry, the administration may feel the "Great Society" itself has been threatened.

Summons for the day-long conference were Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Undersecretary of State George W. Ball and McGeorge Bundy, Johnson's special assistant for national security affairs.

Officials said topics would include operations in Vietnam, the Nov. 17 conference of hemisphere foreign ministers in Rio de Janeiro and the Dec. 6 American visit of West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

Johnson spent a quiet, recuperative day Wednesday, staying up late Tuesday to get reports on the Northeast power failure.

It was early Tuesday that LaPorte died Wednesday.

Roger LaPorte, 20, who was burned over 95 per cent of his body, was the third American to die of self-inflicted burns this year in pacifist demonstrations.

LaPorte died Wednesday.

Bellevue Hospital's Roman Catholic chaplain, the Rev. Alexander Buettell, said LaPorte was "clear and expressive" when he received the last rites of the church in which he once sought priesthood.

He had attended a Catholic seminary and once wanted to join the Trappist order.

LITTLE PAIN
The youth was in very little pain when he died, the hospital said, because his nerve ends were severed when he was burned.

He died Tuesday that LaPorte stood before the United Nations, poured the gasoline on his clothing and ignited it.

Ten days ago, Norman R. Morrison, 32, a Quaker, burned himself to death in front of the Pentagon in Washington in a protest against U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Last March 16, Alice Herz, 82, set herself afire on a Detroit street corner and died 10 days later. She said before her death that she had protested her anger against the arms race.

Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR
Q "We are a married couple in our late forties with two children, 3 1/2- and 5 1/2-years old. Our assets are $16,000 in savings and $75,000 in life insurance. I make $10,000 a year. Since our income cannot grow, and we know little about investing, would you advise us as to how to grow our money and how much we should invest?" D.M.

A I like your strong insurance position. This should not be disturbed. On the assumption that you can borrow on your policies in the event of an emergency, I believe you should invest $10,000 of your savings in strong growth stocks which appear capable of enhancing your capital over the years ahead.

I suggest Corn Products, which should show record share earnings this year of about $2.50 and which could possibly increase its dividend. I like Honeywell—strong in instrumentation and controls for consumer as well as guided missile markets—and expanding rapidly in the computer field. As third choice, I believe you should invest in a diversified fund, our greatest general merchandise.

Q "We have adequate insurance, an emergency cash fund, and several thousand dollars in savings. We have no blue chips but are interested in the purchase of some. Right now I'd like to invest in Lorton Industries and American Hospital Supply. My husband is interested in Insurance Company of North America. What do you advise?" L.P.

A You have both picked excellent stocks to begin a high-grade portfolio. Why not buy some of each? Lorton has had a remarkable record which seems likely to continue. American Hospital Supply leads its field, which could benefit importantly when Medicare goes into operation.

Insurance Company of North America is one of our oldest business enterprises. It underwrites all kinds of insurance, including life. The shares like other of its type—have come down in price and look relatively cheap.

On Veterans Day

U.S. Shows Viet Support

NEW YORK (AP)—Veterans Day takes on added significance as Americans vote to tell their fighting men in Vietnam "we're behind you."

In Main Street parades, in blood-dripping platforms, in blood-dripping and among the long rows of white crosses in military cemeteries, the nation pauses to remember, reflect and dedicate.

Miss Sylvia Peterson, teacher at Irving, will show to parents next Tuesday projects developed by elementary students on Greek, Egyptian and Babylonian cultures.

Dr. Robert B. Turpin, school board member, and his wife are scheduled to speak to Bethune parents next Thursday on "Family Living" following an open house at the school.

Parent-teacher conferences have been scheduled for next Thursday and Friday at LeBaron, Longfellow and Wiser elementary schools and Lincoln and Eastern junior highs.

BLOOD DRIVE

Students at Alabama College at Montevallo have scheduled a blood drive for U.S. troops, plus a fund raising campaign to provide a special gift for the American forces. Other activities include a flag-raising ceremony and a speech by Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala.

Dave Watson, commander of the VFW post in Montevallo, said the hope behind the town's parade is that it "will for his first major foreign affairs review since his Oct. 8 surgery."

Summons for the day-long conference were Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Undersecretary of State George W. Ball and McGeorge Bundy, Johnson's special assistant for national security affairs.

Officials said topics would include operations in Vietnam, the Nov. 17 conference of hemisphere foreign ministers in Rio de Janeiro and the Dec. 6 American visit of West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

Industry spokesmen say the misable movement, exist primarily for wages and prices. They permit price increases to industries whose productivity gains lag behind the average for the economy.

But, said Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors: "Under the guidelines, such industries — those with productivity increases above average — should not be raising prices."

Judging from the past experience it may be permissible to cross the lines slightly. Some say this was done in the steel industry wage agreement. But if the administration feels the lines are literally violated, it now appears it intends to blow the whistle.

Death Takes Pacifist Who Set Self Afire

NEW YORK (AP)—A young pacifist has died of burns suffered when he doused himself with gasoline and set himself afire in front of the United Nations in a protest against war.

PCH to Pull Out All Stops Against Bay City Rival

Pontiac Northern coach Dave Schmidt will have a good chance to scout Pontiac Central thoroughly Friday night before the improving, idle Huskies meet PCH next week.

Central coach Paul Dellerba has made it clear there'll be nothing saved for the annual intracity clash with PNH when the Chiefs collide with Bay City Central at 8 p.m. tomorrow on the Winner Stadium turf.

"We're not going to hold anything back at this time," the rugged PCH mentor said Wednesday afternoon. "We've got to use everything at our disposal."

As important as it is for Central to defeat Northern at this time, the two schools meet, all PCH followers know that this fall the game of the season is Bay City Central.

The powerful Wolves are unbeaten, averaging better than five touchdowns a game, the top team in the state in the coaches' opinion (UPI weekly poll) and the No. 2 team in the sportswriters' minds (AP poll).

Yet, Pontiac Central can win the Saginaw Valley Conference championship by beating their Bay City visitors and assure itself a rating position among the top three or four.

The Chiefs have only a 6-6 tie with Bay City Handy marring their record in seven starts and are among the top five currently in both polls. Their excellent defense has yielded only three touchdowns all season.

Leading that unit is Dan Irwin, a linebacker who calls the signals and plugs the holes. He and Leroy Jackson, the other linebacker, have displayed outstanding pursuit.

Along the five-man front line are ends Jim Shorters and Rick Fox, tackle Tom Jenkins and Mark Post, and 160-pound middle guard Paul Roberts.

In the secondary are cornerbacks Ken Seay and Tom Howard, and safetyman Karl Williams and Art Wiggins. Wiggins is the least noticeable but most effective of the four whose extensive experience has molded them into a superior quartet.

A big question is plaguing the squad's coaches: will Jackson's injured knee respond to treatment in time for the game?

A three-year regular at guard, the 180-pound senior is PCH's top candidate for all-state honors. If he can't start, then Roberts would move to offense and share the middle guard duties with Ken Vollmar; while Larry Jackson will fill Leroy's linebacking spot.

Ever since Pontiac had a two-week layoff in the middle of the season the offensive line play and the scoring punch have improved. A return to the fundamentals of blocking during the break was the key.

The holes have been bigger for the backs to hit through and quarterback Jerry Murphy's passing has been sharp with added protection from the line.

The senior also has done a fine job with his play calling in recent games. A very effective screen pass play has developed since the layoff, too.

Dellerba concentrated the practice efforts this week on refining the offense and defense. In addition, the backfield has been working to improve a seldom used offensive play for a possible surprise weapon against Bay City.

"Mostly, we're trying to do a more spirited job this week, trying not to make any mistakes," the coach reported. That's a big feat if the Chiefs can do it, and they have a big assignment tomorrow night. The Northern coaching staff could be scouting PCH at its best.

A crowd of at least 6,000 now is expected as the local ticket sales have boomed this week. Osburn's Men Stores have sold almost 1,000 and have a rapidly dwindling supply of $1 tickets.

Not many are expected to go on sale at the stadium due to the heavy advance sale. Bay City Central officials have sold out their allotment of 2,500, and ticket requests have been reported from Flint, Detroit and even Ann Arbor.

The Central hopes could receive a big boost this afternoon if the northern varsity (6-1) can knock off the once-titled young Wolves at Bay City and win the SVC reserve grid title.

Waterford, Kettering Ready for Annual Clash

Township Foes Play Tomorrow on WTHS Field

Meeting Will Be 5th Between Teams; One Change by Captains

For the past eight weeks, Waterford's Skippers and Kettering's Captains have been carefully watching the progress of each other.

The watching will end tomorrow night when the two township rivals clash on the WTHS field in the 1965 football finale for both squads.

It's the big one for both teams. It's the one both have been working toward for the past weeks. And both are ready.

"I think it will be a tight game," said Kettering coach Jim Larkin. "We are ready," says John Moffat, the head coach of the Skippers who served as Larkin's assistant before moving to WTHS this season.

The meeting will be the fifth for the two foes with Kettering holding a 3-1 edge. The Captains took the first game in 1961, 13-12, lost 19-13 in 1962, but won 13-7 in '63 and 13-4 last year.

BRIGHT HOPES

Both squads started the season with bright hopes, but the breaks and the ball took the wrong bounce and both will enter the game with not-too-optimistic hopes.

Kettering owns the best mark, 3-3-2.

"It could be a lot better if we could move three points around," said Larkin, referring to a 13-13 tie with Romeo, a 19-19 deadlock with Lapeer and 27-28 loss to L'Anse Creuse. The Captains latest outing was a 6-0 loss to Pontiac Northern.

Although it's the final game, Larkin will introduce at least one surprise in the game.

The surprise, which is probably no surprise at all, was the moving of sophomore fullback Gene Brunner, a 6-2, 215-pounder from the junior varsity to the varsity.

Brunner gives the Captains some much-needed speed and power at the fullback slot. With Brunner in the backfield with quarterback Dick Cooper, and halfbacks Lyle Miceli and Jerry Harkey.

A PUZZLE

Waterford has been a puzzle. The Skippers, 2-4, have displayed a strong defense, allowing 102 points in eight games, but they haven't had the offensive spark necessary to be a winner.

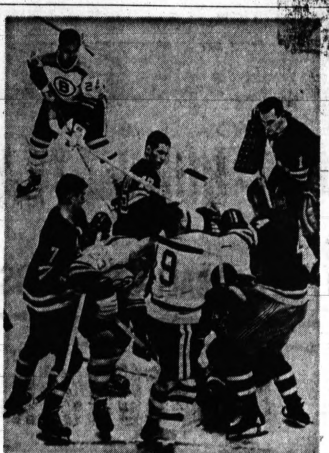

Even Moffat is at a loss to explain the ineffective offense.

"We just seem to bog down for some reason. We get into (Continued on Page D-2, Col. 2)

Lakers' Pair Total 70 in Win Over Pistons

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Detroit Pistons blew a three-point lead in the last four minutes and fell to the Los Angeles Lakers, 133-125, in a National Basketball Association game Wednesday night.

Jerry West and Elgin Baylor combined for 70 of the Los Angeles points and West scored nine of the Lakers' final 13 points in the surge that carried them from a 120-117 deficit to the win.

Wings Slow Hull but Tumble, 5-2

By The Associated Press
 Detroit's struggling Red Wings won the battle but lost the war.

The National Hockey League's defending champions, mired in fifth place, ran smack into unbeaten Chicago and red-hot superstar Bobby Hull, who had scored 11 goals in his first six games, Wednesday night.

So the Red Wings held Bobby without a point — no goals and no assists — but the Black Hawks got their firepower from scoring champion Stan Mikita and romped, 5-2.

The victory gave the Hawks six victories and a tie in seven starts and moved Chicago one point ahead of Montreal which played a 3-3 tie with Toronto. Boston and New York tied 2-2 in the other NHL game Wednesday night.

BIG GUN

Mikita was the big gun for the Hawks, scoring two goals, one while Chicago was shorthanded. Eric Nesterenko was sitting out a five-minute penalty when Mikita and Doug Mohns broke up ice in the third period.

Mohns faked Detroit goalie Roger Crozier and then fed Mikita, who pucked the goal home.

Other Chicago scorers were Len Lunde, Phil Esposito and Bill Hay. Billy Harris and Gordie Howe netted Detroit's goals with Howe's 50th of his fabulous 26-year career.

Third period goals by Ron Ellis and Orland Kurtenbach lifted Toronto into its tie against the Canadiens. The deadlock ended a three-game Maple Leaf losing string.

Ellis flicked with two Canadiens in the penalty box and then after sitting out a two-minute penalty himself, the young left wing returned to ice and set up Kurtenbach's tying goal.

Montreal Coach Toe Blake, unhappy over blowing the two-goal margin, was in a sarcastic moor. "My guys just felt sorry for the Leafs," he said. "They felt sorry for them so they gave them a point."

Ranger Coach Red Sullivan was just as disturbed with New York's tie against the cellar-dwelling Bruins. New York also blew an early two-goal margin and Boston got the tie when Ed Westfall scored early in the third period.

"There's more to this game than just scoring goals," Sullivan fumed. "You've got to skate and you've got to check. We sure weren't doing that in those last two periods."

Sullivan said he was particularly irked at his top line of Rod Gilbert, Jean Ratelle and Doug Robinson. "They just weren't doing the job, I don't know why but I'm sure going to find out."

First period goals by John McKenzie and Phil Goyette gave the Rangers, unbeaten in five, their early lead. But Parker MacDonald scored just 44 seconds after Ranger goalie Ed Giacomin was injured in a melee around the New York goal and replaced by Don Simmons.

Westfall then tied it in the opening minutes of the third period beating Giacomin, who returned after taking four stitches over his left eyebrow, with a 30-footer.

Defenses Best at MSU-ND

NEW YORK (AP) — Top-ranked Michigan State and fourth-ranked Notre Dame will only on stonewall defenses, as well as high-powered offenses in their crucial football game Nov. 20.

The Spartans of Michigan State are the major college leaders in defense against rushing on stonewall defenses, while the Irish have moved up from third to second place according to statistics released late Wednesday by the NCAA's Service Bureau.

Michigan State has allowed but 50.4 yards per game on the ground while Notre Dame has yielded only 65.6 yards. In addition Michigan State is third in total defense with 181.1 yards per game and first in scoring defense with 5.8 points per game. Notre Dame is the high-scoring team with 35.7 points per game.

Southern Mississippi, with a yield of only 154.5 yards a game, leads in total defense for the third straight week. Toledo topped the field in pass defense, 56.4, for the third consecutive week.

Texas is first in punting with a 44.2 mark, barely topping Arizona State's 44.1.

Pick Clint Jones as '65 Mr. MSU

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan State student body elected right half Clint Jones Mr. MSU this year.

He's also putting in a strong bid for Mr. Touchdown and will be a main MSU threat against Notre Dame.

Jones, leading ground-gainer and scorer on the nation's No. 1 football team, will duel for honors with halfback Bill Wolski when the Spartans clash with the Irish in their climatic fight of the collegiate season Nov. 20.

Jones sprinted for four touchdowns in a 35-0 blanketing of Iowa while Wolski was scoring five TDs in a 69-13 runaway over Pittsburgh.

The MSU junior from Cleveland tops the Big Ten in scoring with his 68 points. He's the workhorse of the MSU backfield with his 130 carries for a 636-yard net.

The versatile Jones, 6-foot and a solid 200 pounds, also is second leading pass receiver for State with 23 throws pulled down for 282 yards.

working out with weights on the campus and adding protein tablets to his diet.

He likes to use his arms to shove off tacklers, the elusive back said, but couldn't do it as well last season because of pinched nerves in his shoulders. The added strength he's picked up since has eliminated the pinched nerves and helped in this department, he reported.

In the off-season, Jones uses Brother movement, helping up his speed in track and was der-privileged youngsters.

Irish Battering Ram Eagerly Awaits MSU

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Bill the second half against Michigan State when I was a sophomore, wants just one more.

That game in 1963 produced a 12-7 Michigan State triumph for the eighth successive Spartan victory over the Irish.

"Last year, when we beat Michigan State 34-7, I was on the bench with a pulled hamstring suffered the week before against Pitt," recounted Wolski.

It was the third quarter against Pitt last Saturday that Wolski again sustained a leg injury.

Wolski, although carrying far fewer times, has a slightly better per rush average than Michigan State's Jones, 5.1 to 5.0 yards. Jones has carried 130 times for 638 yards and nine touchdowns, compared with Wolski's 81-for-409 and eight TDs.

Wolski pulled a leg tendon in his five-touchdown performance as Notre Dame crushed Pittsburgh 69-13. The feat earned the 200-pound scotter recognition as Associated Press Back of the Week.

Wolski, like Coach Ara Parseghian and the rest of the Irish to a man, said: "We don't have an open date before Michigan State — we play a team which can knock us off, North Carolina."

However, Wolski admits under prodding he'd like to be in top shape against the Spartans whose halfback Clint Jones is a mercurial counterpart of Notre Dame's Pounding Pole.

"I never had a real good shot at Michigan State," said Wolski. "I was hurt on the first play of

Coach Notes Improvement

Wildcats Laud Wolverines

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—As far as Coach Alex Agase of Northwestern's football Wildcat is concerned, Michigan now is playing like a Big Ten champion should.

"I feel Michigan now is the team everybody expected them to be at the start of the season," said Agase Wednesday, as he readied his Wildcats for Saturday's Wolverine invasion.

"They really have jelled. Carl Ward is the kind of halfback who does things you just don't coach."

"In looking at films, I can't help wondering whether Michigan doesn't still have Bob Timberlake. That Wally Gabler really can run the option play."

Agase rated Northwestern in good physical shape for the Michigan test, except that two-way end Cas Banaszek may be restricted to defense because of injury.

TOP PLAYER
Banaszek, a 228-pounder, is Northwestern's bellwether.

"I don't know of a weakness

Cas has—as a player or person," said Agase.

Like Michigan, Northwestern has a deceptive record as both a battle for a conference first division finish, each with a 2-3 record in a four-way tie for fifth.

"Michigan has more momentum than we have," appraised Agase. "They have won going away in their last two starts form."

Michigan's passing, featuring Gabler's tosses to Jack Clancy, can't be matched by Northwestern, although Banaszek has snagged 19 passes for 183 yards.

However, defensively, the two clubs are fairly well matched—Michigan rated No. 4 and Northwestern No. 5 in the latest Big Ten statistics.

Michigan Practices Northwestern Plays

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Michigan's gridders spent Wednesday running against plays of Northwestern, the Wolverines' opponent Saturday.

The offense with Jack Clancy, Jim Bright of Miami share 11th in the country in pass receiving, at split end drilled against a simulated Northwestern defense.

with a tough loss at Minnesota last Saturday.

RUNNING STRENGTH
"But we have our running strength going again after a midseason injury slump."

For a while, the Wildcats limped along with only fullback Bob McKelvey healthy among their ball carrying big three. Now halfbacks Ron Rector and Woody Campbell are back in action.

Michigan's passing, featuring Gabler's tosses to Jack Clancy, can't be matched by Northwestern, although Banaszek has snagged 19 passes for 183 yards.

However, defensively, the two clubs are fairly well matched—Michigan rated No. 4 and Northwestern No. 5 in the latest Big Ten statistics.

Gridders Share Honor in Mid-American Loop

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Safetyman Joe Soulliere of Bowling Green and linebacker Jim Bright of Miami share Player-of-the-Week honors in the Mid-American Conference, commissioner Bob James reported Wednesday.

Soulliere became the first defensive performer to win the Back-of-the-Week honors for the effort against Marshall last Saturday.

Bright gave Miami this season's "best defensive guard I've seen" in view of Mielke's representation for the fourth straight week.

Jim Grabowsky Big 10 Leader

MSU's Steve Juday Tops in Total Offense

CHICAGO (AP)—Jim Grabowski, Illinois; Bob Griese, Purdue, and Steve Juday, Michigan State lead the Big Ten football statistical parade, official figures showed Thursday.

Grabowski increased his lead to 613 yards in 130 carries in 5 Big Ten games.

Griese tops the aerialists with 76 hits in 142 shots for 884 yards and a .535 average. Juday is the total offense leader, passing for 731 yards and rushing for 107 for an .838 tally and a top 6.0 yard average per play.

Other individual leaders include: Pass receiving—Karl Noonan, Iowa, 27 for 300 yards; punt returns—Drake Garrett, Michigan State, 13 for 11.8 average; conference scoring—Clinton Jones, MSU, 68 points; punting—Ron Rector, Northwestern, 17 for 42.1 average; kickoff returns—Al Randolph, Iowa, 11 for 22.5 average.

Pros to Pick Nov. 20

AFL Draft Date Irks NCAA

NEW YORK (AP) — Seeking to solve what it calls a baby-sitting problem, the American Football League has set Nov. 20 for its college draft and once again has incurred the wrath of college officials.

As a result of the AFL move Wednesday, the National League says it may be forced to change its mind and follow the younger league in holding an early draft.

The AFL action, announced by Commissioner Joe Foss, ignited the college-pro controversy all over again. The dispute lasted last year over alleged secret drafts, player-hiding, early signings and double signings.

Following that extended battling practices which have only been a completely negative morale factor since there will be increased pressure on the drafted player, on his team and on his college — at exactly the wrong time.

TWO REASONS

Foss said Nov. 20 was selected for two reasons.

"First, it is the day on which a majority of college teams complete their schedules," he said. "And, further, I personally feel that drafting on the 20th will go a long way toward eliminating so-called baby-sit-

But James Corbett of Louisiana State, chairman of the NCAA committee on pro relations, didn't take that view.

"The AFL action," he said, "makes a mockery of that league's agreement with the sitting with prospects and we want to get the chance to talk a draft as early as Nov. 20 can with these prospects."

Humble Hoople Picks SMU Over Arkansas

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Pigskin Genius

Egad, friends, despite the rash of unexpected results which plagues the collegiate grid powers each Saturday, the Hoople System continues to function normally.

Last week our batting average was a satisfying .722, with 26 winners of the day's top 36 contests — kaff-kaff!

Although it is not my nature to brag, I do feel a duty to my laboratory assistants to point out to the scoffers among you that the Hoople System correctly forecast the amazing upset by the Air Force as they scored their first-ever victory over Army — har-har-huff!

And now for a look at this week's festivities.

Maine Aiming for Top Spot in Grid Poll

By The Associated Press

Unbeaten Maine has closed the gap in its bid to replace North Dakota State as the nation's small-college football leader.

The Black Bears from Orono, Me., trail North Dakota State by only 18 points in the latest ballot by a special panel of 14 regional experts in the weekly Associated Press poll. Maine was 41 points behind a week ago.

In the most recent vote based on games through last Saturday, North Dakota State collected six votes for first place and 103 points. Maine polled 83 points followed by Los Angeles State 64, Middle Tennessee 59 and Long Beach State, 55.

Points were awarded on a basis of 10 for first place vote, nine for second etc.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses, follow:

1. North Dakota State (6) 83-103
2. Los Angeles State (5) 64-60
3. Middle Tennessee (4) 59-55
4. Long Beach State (3) 55-50
5. East Carolina (1) 41-37
6. Northern Illinois 39-35
7. North Carolina 36-32
8. Colorado Western 31-27

Mustangs! Yes, dear readers, Arkansas' 20-game string is going to be broken as the Mustangs — led by coach outrance the Razorbacks at Dallas. I forecast a 17-13 triumph for S.M.U. In the Big Ten, the on-a-n-off Northwestern Wildcats will be "on" this week as they upset the potent Michigan Wolverines.

PICKS MSU

The mid-western juggernauts, Michigan State and Notre Dame racing full-tilt on a collision course, will tune up for their Nov. 20 meeting with relatively easy victories. We foresee Michigan State thumping Indiana, 36-10, and the Irish outpointing North Carolina 33-20.

Now go on with the forecast.

Soph QB Is Suspended

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) — Sophomore quarterback Jon Henderson will miss the last two Colorado State University football games for being absent for a bed check last week. He was suspended Wednesday.

Tulsa End Continues Records

NEW YORK (AP) — Howard Twilley, Tulsa's pass-catching whiz, continues to pull away in record-breaking fashion from his major college football opposition in scoring and pass receiving.

The 5-foot-10 end caught 15 passes and scored 36 points on five touchdowns, a two-point conversion and four conversion kicks against Louisville Saturday.

This makes him first in scoring with 110 points and tops in pass receiving with 106 grabs and 14 touchdowns and 1,486 yards. In scoring, his runner-up is Roy Shivers of Utah State with 90. In pass catching, his closest rival is John Love of North Texas State with 64.

Twilley's 106 catches shattered his own all-time high of 95 set in 1964 and extended his career marks for total receptions to 223, touchdowns catches to 30 and receiving yards to 3,050. He still has two games to go.

OTHER LEADERS

Other individual leaders, according to figures released today by the NCAA's Service Bureau, include:

Kick-scoring — Charley Gogolak, Princeton, 72
Kickoff returns — Eric Crabtree, Pittsburgh, 558 yards
Punt returns — Larry Wahl, Nebraska, 445 yards Interception returns — Bob Sullivan, Maryland, 8
Steve Bramwell of Washington, second in kickoff returns with 513, set a career record in kickoff and punt return yardage with a total of 2,064 on 111 returns. This topped the old record, set by Vanderbilt's Lee Nalley, in 1948, by 101.

'Clubless' Besselink Still Favored

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The 16,000 Mexican Open gets underway today with a new course, more than 150 of some of the world's best golfers and an anticipated cry from big Al Besselink.

Besselink, winner of the Caracas Open and second-place finisher in the Hawaiian championship last Sunday, discovered Wednesday that his golf bag had been squashed in the airplane en route to Mexico City from Honolulu. Every club was broken but his putter.

Despite the accident, Besselink was ranked among the men to beat, along with defending champ Art Wall, PGA "Rockie of the Year" Romero Blanco, Billy Maxwell, Gene Littler and Tommy Bolt.

The tourney is being played for the first time over the 6,000-yard par-72 Bellavista Golf Club course.

The stress will be on accurate putting instead of power drives, said Blanco, adding that about a 277 — or 13 under par — should take home the pesos.

The field of entrants from 11 countries is the largest in the history of the tourney. There was speculation that Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, a golf fan, would turn up as a spectator.

Blanco copped the rookie of the year title by winning more than $10,000 in his first five appearances after joining the U.S. pro tour last April.

The Mexican galleries will be pro tour last April.

Seek Warrant in Shooting

A warrant charging him with assault with the intent to commit murder has been ordered against a Highland Township service station attendant accused of shooting a State Police trooper yesterday.

Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson is seeking the warrant against William C. Slaughter, 62, of Fenton, now hospitalized under police guard.

Jury's Rhyme: Lick in Time Not a Crime

NEW MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Five licks with a paddle don't constitute assault and battery, a Wetzel County jury has found.

The jury found Russell Fisher, a northern West Virginia schoolteacher, innocent of the charge, a misdemeanor.

Martha Price brought charges against Fisher after he paddled her son, Wilbur, 10. The boy is a fifth grade pupil at the Smithfield Elementary School.

Fisher, a teacher for 27 years, requested a jury trial in a hold-the-peace court. He testified the jury Wednesday that "in order to maintain discipline," he struck the boy five times "on an unmentionable place."

Slaughter, hit in his left arm, was in "fairly good" condition at McPherson Community Health Center, Howell.

WENT TO STATION

Palmer and Edward Hancock, 33, both troopers from the Brighton State Police post, went to the service station shortly after 7 a.m. to serve Slaughter with three traffic warrants.

Slaughter asked if he could check the gasline pumps, police said, and the troopers waited inside the station.

The attendant turned out a 45-caliber pistol in his hand, fired several shots into the building and said he would not be taken in, troopers said.

The troopers attempted to talk Slaughter into dropping the gun, but he started to run around the building they said.

EXCHANGE GUNFIRE

The three exchanged gunfire. Hit by a shot near his wrist, Palmer fired the bullet which injured Slaughter as the trooper was falling to the ground.

Five customers and another attendant witnessed the gunfight, police said.

School Bus Meeting Set

Sen. Carl W. O'Brien, D-Pontiac, is scheduled to meet tomorrow night with parents from north side school districts seeking additional school buses for student transportation.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 at the Joslyn Avenue United Presbyterian Church at 3rd and Joslyn.

Mr. Thomas Holsting of 385 Northfield said transportation was needed for students attending Pontiac Northern High and Kennedy and Madison Junior highs.

"Our children now pay 30 cents a day to ride city buses to school," he said.

STATE COLLEGE ROLLS UP 74 Pct. Over '59

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Michigan colleges and universities have a 74.3 per cent greater enrollment than six years ago, the Michigan Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers reported Wednesday.

The report said total enrollment at Michigan's 76 colleges and universities is 256,939, compared to last year's 219,525.

Harris B. Olson of the University of Michigan's registrar's office, chairman of the association's committee on statistical information and research, presented the report.

Olson said the increases of the last two years—27 and 15 per cent—were out of predictions. He termed them a "sharp contrast" to the increases of up to 7 per cent in prior years.

The freshman enrollment this year increased 27 per cent, the report said.

Board Elects 5 Area Men

The election of five area men to the Michigan Regional Board of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith was announced today.

They are Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson of Oak Park; Rabbi Ernst Conrad of Temple Beth Jacob; Rabbi Isaac Goodman of Congregation B'nai Israel; David Udelv; and Dr. Maurice Thome, all of Pontiac.

The purpose of the league is to combat prejudice and discrimination.

The league operates 28 regional offices in the country, with its Michigan headquarters in Detroit.

Find Wife Is Guilty in Stabbing

A 45-year-old Waterford Township woman was found guilty of manslaughter yesterday by a Circuit Court jury in the slaying of her husband last February.

The verdict was returned against Mrs. Valerie Troy of 605 Desmond.

Assistant Prosecutor Bernard P. Paige had sought a conviction on second-degree murder during the two-day trial before Judge Frederick C. Ziem.

The jury deliberated 1½ hours in finding Mrs. Troy guilty of the fatal stabbing of her husband, Herbert, 47, on Feb. 27.

Troy was stabbed in the chest with a 15-inch butcher knife.

DEFENSE ATTORNEY Clarence Smith argued that Mrs. Troy was attacked by her husband and blacked out when he began twisting the collar of her nightgown around her throat.

Mrs. Troy told Waterford Township police that she and her husband had been drinking and that they began to argue during the evening.

The couple's two sons, Gary, 22, and Patrick, 19, testified at the trial. Neither were home when the stabbing occurred.

Mrs. Troy will be sentenced Dec. 7 at 9 a.m. She faces a possible 15-year maximum prison term.

Clouds, Chill Stay Over S.

By The Associated Press

The nation's weather pattern showed only minor changes today, with much cloudiness, chilly air across northern areas and seasonably mild conditions in southern sections.

Temperatures moderated slightly in the cold air pocket from the northern Plains to the northern Great Lakes region and in the Ohio valley and west. Windy conditions were mostly freezing, with the mercury dropping to the teens again in parts of northern Maine.

Wednesday was the coldest Nov. 10 in Caribou, Maine, with a record low of 10 above and a high of 24. Record low marks for the date also were reported in other cities in the Northeast.

Light rain and snow fell in scattered sections of the country. Showers sprinkled areas from the northern and central Pacific Coast region to the northern Rockies. Drizzle sprayed the Rio Grande Valley and from the central Plains to Wisconsin. Snow flurries fell in North Dakota and in the Lake Superior district. A light rain belt extended over eastern parts of Georgia and Tennessee to West Virginia and parts of Pennsylvania and Delaware.

HEAVY RAIN

Fairly heavy rain splashed areas Wednesday over the Virginia southward across the Carolinas and eastern Georgia. Nearly two inches of rain doused Beaufort, S.C., in a thunderstorm. A blizzard with 1½ inches of rain, hail and wind gusts up to 46 m.p.h., swept Savannah, Ga.

Commoner Earl Lives It Up With Wife of Royal Earl

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — I can tell my grandchildren that when Princess Margaret was visiting the United States, she and I were living in the same house — the house was called the Beverly Hills Hotel — and up in the Presidential Suite on the VIP floor, the Princess kept asking for me, personally. The Princess kept saying, "Oh, waiter!"

And that was me in Margaret's Set. Twice covering the Princess' social affairs in London — and three years apart — I received royal recognition while standing very near Her Highness, in my dinner jacket, of course, my pencil poised to make jottings on a small discreet pad. Twice her dual escorts smiled me, sharply clapped their hands, and cried out, "Waiter! More champagne!" My name was everybody's lips in the royal entourage. It was Earl this and Earl that, and even the photographers kept yelling, "Hey, Earl! Just one more!"

Actually the Princess impressed the hotel, which is accustomed to royalty — movie royalty — with her non-autocratic manner. About 20 bouquets were waiting in her suite, and she personally inspected each one and read the cards of all the senders.

She was on a working schedule. Half an hour after arriving at the hotel, Margaret and Tony were out again — "Sightseeing," one aide said.

The "sightseeing" was principally a cocktail party given by Vincent Price.

"They were most gracious," said Stewart H. Hathaway, managing director of the hotel. "As they were leaving to go sightseeing, Lord Burdon bowed to me and, with a nice sense of humor, said, 'Mr. Hathaway, we've had a pleasant stay and will see you again some time.'"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Dance star "Killer Joe" Piro'll take a troupe to Viet Nam to entertain GIs . . . Peter Falk, filling out his "Who's Who" questionnaire, wrote: "Hobbies — Betting and playing pool. I also read a lot!" . . . Rita Tushingham, star of "The Leather Boys," says she's tired of portraying unwed mothers: "Mary Poppins made it big — and she wasn't a fallen woman!"

MARINES STORM ASHORE — U.S. Marines storm ashore during joint Vietnamese-U.S. landing assault near Tinh Tuy, South Viet Nam, yesterday. Marines wear protective life vests along with battle equipment. The joint operation marked the first time an American was in operational control of a Vietnamese fighting unit.

Cong Suffer Heavy Losses in Ambush on S. Viet Unit

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A Viet Cong force ambushed a South Vietnamese unit on a main highway east of Saigon today, but 130 of the Communists were killed by combined ground and air action, a U.S. spokesman reported.

The spokesman said American and Vietnamese planes hammered the attacking Viet Cong and killed 100 of them.

He had no information on government casualties or other details of the action 5 miles west of Baria.

A large force of U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops pressed an offensive in sandy, rolling coastal terrain 350 miles northeast of Saigon, but results were meager.

Two Viet Cong were reported killed and 18 suspects were detained in the search-and-destroy mission 18 miles northwest of Chu Lai on the coast of the South China Sea.

No allied casualties were reported, a U.S. military spokesman said.

The Americans stormed ashore yesterday with the Vietnamese in the first joint amphibious operation of the war against the Viet Cong.

Col. Thel Fisher of Springfield, Va., was in command of the operation, the first time an American was put in operational control of a Vietnamese fighting unit.

No major ground action was

Waldron Sale Is Announced, Will Reopen

The Waldron Hotel, a Pontiac landmark for 38 years, has been sold, it was announced today.

Closed since Sept. 1 by a labor dispute, the hotel was expected to reopen next week.

Sale of the hotel to a group headed by hotelman Earl Mercer of Detroit was announced by a spokesman for the Simone Management Co. of Detroit, owners of the hotel since 1962.

The sale price was "in excess of a half-million dollars."

Mercier and two attorneys, Marvin Kramer and James Ginn, both of Southfield, have formed the Waldron Hotel Inc. 81-ROOM HOTEL.

Mercier reportedly will manage the 81-room hotel at 38 E. Pike.

The sale includes some 10 to 15 offices located in the hotel building, which forms the "Waldron block."

The new owners were slated to meet today with officials of Local 794, of the Hotel Restaurant Employes and Bartenders Unions.

Arrangements were to be made for the rehiring of the hotel's 50 employees, who struck the hotel Sept. 1 after their contract expired in July and new terms could not be worked out.

FT. GORDON, Ga. (AP) — Doctors describe former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's condition as comfortable following a second series of heart pains which forced his return to an oxygen tent.

The pains yesterday were "more prolonged and of longer duration" than the mild attack of angina pectoris, or heart pain, which occurred just after midnight Monday night, doctors said.

Announcement of the sudden reversal in the condition of the 75-year-old five-star general came about an hour after the doctors had said he was making a good recovery and might be playing golf again in two weeks.

Late last night, Capt. Wallace Hitchcock, Ft. Gordon press officer, said Eisenhower had been "comfortable since 5 p.m."

But he wouldn't say whether this meant that Eisenhower was completely out of pain or there had been any solid improvement in his condition.

'Big Aluminum' Kills Price Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's top two aluminum producers have backed down in a dispute with the Johnson administration and canceled price increases the government had labeled "inflationary."

The Aluminum Co. of America — No. 1 producer in the country — ended a week-long battle with the government last night and rescinded a price hike it made Monday.

Blackout Clue Is Still in Dark

Northeast Struggles to Return to Normal

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's populous Northeast struggled today to return to normal as government agencies sought an answer to the paralyzing power failure.

Businesses and transportation facilities, crippled by the 10-hour blackout that spread across seven states and into Canada Tuesday night, hopefully looked to near normal operations today.

Power conservation is being observed in New York City, hardest hit by the massive technological breakdown. Full power is not expected to be restored for several days.

The Veterans Day holiday is contributing to the return to normal. Schools, government facilities, banks and some businesses are closed today — granting a day's grace to New York's heavily taxed transit operations.

The closed facilities also will require far less power.

HUNT GOES ON

Cause of the historic blackout remains as dark as the blackout itself, but state and federal agencies are making intensive investigations.

James A. Landy, chairman of the New York Public Service Commission, said he was confident the reason for the failure will be uncovered. It apparently originated in upstate New York.

Uppermost in the minds of government and industry leaders is the prevention of a recurrence. Some warned that it could happen again unless the cause is tracked down and eliminated.

Wilson Halts Dealings With African Nation

Smith, Aides Fired by Queen Elizabeth; U.N. Meeting Sought

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith declared Rhodesia independent today, the first such declaration against Britain since the American colonies broke away in 1776.

Britain retaliated swiftly, in effect outlawing Rhodesia. Prime Minister Harold Wilson declared in the House of Commons that Smith and his ministers had been fired — an action which will be ignored in Rhodesia.

Wilson asserted his government will have no dealings with the Rhodesian regime.

He expelled Rhodesia from the sterling area, banned exports, including British purchases of Rhodesia's $112 million a year tobacco crop, ended all British aid, suspended trading preferences.

Britain embargoed the shipment of all arms to this central African country, and asked for an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council.

EXPECTED TO JOIN

Britain's allies, including the United States, and commonwealth members are expected to join in ignoring the declaration and in imposing economic sanctions.

From outside the commonwealth, Sweden became the first to announce it will not recognize the Rhodesian government.

While Smith still was speaking on the radio, British Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs announced that Smith and all his ministers had been dismissed on orders of Queen Elizabeth for "an unconstitutional act of independence."

Two More Women Molested in Nankin

DETROIT (UPI) — Police today were searching for a light-haired young man in an effort to end a series of attacks on women and girls in a quiet suburban subdivision west of here. Two women were molested yesterday.

One housewife, Mrs. Robert Villemonte, 28, was slashed on her face by a "slim blond-haired young man" in her Nankin Township home minutes before her husband was to return from work.

The laughing youth knocked her unconscious with a bottle and fled before her husband came home.

Later in the day a man answering the same description but with "light-brown hair" tried to break into the Nankin Township home of Mrs. Helen Varner, 42.

He struck Mrs. Varner once, demanding money. He fled when she told him she had none.

Wayne County Sheriff's officers said they could find no definite connection in the two incidents. However, they did not rule out the possibility of a lone "maniac."

RAKED BY KNIFE

Mrs. Villemonte, an expectant mother, was raked by a small pocket knife as the youth knocked her down and stood over her.

She slashed her face only deep enough to draw blood, giggling as she tried to squirm away.

Mrs. Villemonte told police she had received harassing phone calls twice during the week.

Readers Let Off Steam About Traffic

Traffic, like the weather, is something to talk about, but Pontiac Press readers go a step farther. They write about it. During the past month scores have offered their views and made suggestions about drivers and motoring habits.

Their letters all have appeared in the Voice of the People column on the editorial page. They condemn, praise and blame with one objective—to make streets and highways safer.

The following are excerpts taken from a number of the letters:

I would suggest taking all drunk drivers off the road, along with the ones that speak to young folks.

... Slow drivers cause more accidents than anyone else.

Do you know why there are 60 miles per hour in a 30 m.p.h. zone? ... A stiff fine wouldn't be enough for these traffic truants. I have attended many seminars when placed side by side with the record of the younger people.

'Good Driving Not a Matter of Age'

Good drivers come young and old — and so does a bad driver, I don't think you can come do bad drivers, according to Pontiac Police Chief William K. Hanger.

Hanger spoke in response to Voice of the People letters expressing conflicting views on the comparative driving abilities of older and younger people.

"I think a driver must be judged individually," Hanger said. "Unless a person's driving record shows

CLOSED SESSIONS

In Washington, government and industry experts on power system operations seek in closed sessions today the cause of the power failure through a study of utility operation records.

Chairman Joseph C. Swidler of the Federal Power Commission, acting on direction of President Johnson to make a sweeping investigation to pinpoint the cause and come up with recommendations to avoid a recurrence, said yesterday he expected a preliminary report would be made to the President by the weekend.

But Swidler said it may be difficult to determine the exact cause.

The commission met yesterday with an industry-government group which Swidler said included some of the country's outstanding experts on electrical power system operation and design to plan procedures to be followed in the investigation.

SENT QUESTIONS

A list of 19 technical questions was sent to 21 companies providing electrical service in and adjacent to the area which was blacked out.

Mayor Picked by Council in Sylvan Lake

Donald A. Tew, Sylvan Lake councilman for 2½ years, was elected mayor last night, and Willis M. Brewer was appointed the city's representative on the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

Tew, an attorney and for the last 10 years the assistant friend of the court for Oakland County, succeeds E. V. Geizer, who was defeated in last week's election.

Tew, who was first appointed to the council in June 1963 and then won a three-year term five months later, was named to the post by a 3-1 vote of fellow councilmen, with one abstaining.

Brewer, the manager of the secretary of state's office in Pontiac, replaces Councilman John D. McKinlay on the board of supervisors.

2nd Alabama County Faces Protests Supporting Federal Control in Rights Crimes

EUTAW, Ala. (AP) — A campaign of street demonstrations may spread to a second Alabama county this week in a move to bring federal legislation covering violence against civil rights workers. Negroes marched here Wednesday. "We must awaken the entire state of Alabama," said Hosea Williams, a former government chemist who is directing the new drive.

Williams said Wednesday night in Birmingham, after meeting with a group of Negro leaders, that he would lead another march today in this western Alabama town of 2,700 and probably go into Greenville, in Butler County, Friday. About 100 Negroes marched behind Williams from a church to the Greene County Courthouse Wednesday and cheered a call for an end to "all-white justice."

Williams indicated that the announced campaign of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, headed by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., would mobilize slowly. Because of the need for more planning and organizing in Birmingham, he said, King's scheduled trip to Alabama's largest city might be delayed possibly until January.

Williams, SCLC director of voter registration and political education, said he felt that not enough Birmingham Negro leaders had agreed to participate in the drive for federal legislation and mass registration of Negro voters in Alabama.

The SCLC drive, the second Alabama-based campaign of 1965, seeks enactment of laws making it a federal crime to threaten, assault or kill persons in the pursuit of constitutional rights. The move started after four civil rights slayings this year in Alabama. There have been no convictions to date in the cases.

"This is an all-white justice we can no longer tolerate," Williams said Wednesday at the Greene County Courthouse rally. He said this county was selected as the starting point of the 13,600 residents are Negroes.

Williams said Wednesday at the march, said Negroes were demanding integration of schools, law enforcement agencies and equal job opportunities. The white school here was integrated briefly this fall but the lone Negro pupil withdrew after a few days. A Negro boycott of stores continues.

The Rev. William M. Branch, who with Williams led the march, said Negroes were demanding integration of schools, law enforcement agencies and equal job opportunities. The white school here was integrated briefly this fall but the lone Negro pupil withdrew after a few days. A Negro boycott of stores continues.

Willie Snow Ethridge Charms Town Hall

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor

Willie Snow Ethridge was born with a zest for living and every day she's thankful for that trait.

Not often does an audience identify itself so completely with the speaker as did the Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall audience Wednesday.

Mrs. Ethridge talks as she writes — about people and the little commonplace things of life that appeal to everyone. It was a happy talk.

Overworked as the word "charming" may be, it is the right description for this white-haired grandmother of 13. Southern born, she still talks in what she terms Georgian type English; but her accent is a soft one, her voice melodious and her laughter hearty.

Nothing By Halves
Willie Ethridge puts herself into whatever she's doing at the moment. When she talks, she uses her entire body to emphasize a point.

For 28 years, the Ethridges lived in Louisville, Ky. where Mark Ethridge was editor-publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

After his retirement from that paper, the couple went to New York where he edited Newsday for two years.

Now they are settling in Chapel Hill, N.C. for their retirement years. Retirement is hardly the proper word for this pair.

Mark Ethridge conducts a weekly seminar at the University of North Carolina and his energetic wife continues to pursue the active life she's led for years.

She's interested in just about everything and believes in living in the present. She savors every day.

NEW HOUSE
The Ethridges are building a new house on a stream in the country, halfway between Chapel Hill and Sanford, N.C., where one of their daughters lives. Their younger son is in Chapel Hill, a second daughter in Pittsburgh and Mark Jr. in Detroit. (He writes for The Detroit Free Press.)

Willie Snow Ethridge, with 11 books behind her, has a 12th one coming out this month, "You Can't Hardly Get There From Here."

Garden Unit
Helps Park
Rochester branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, presented a check to William Hopkins, of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, at Tuesday's meeting in the Congregational Church, Rochester.

This donation, according to Mr. Hopkins who is chief naturalist of the Authority, will purchase a lapidary set for stone polishing at the Nature Center of the Stony Creek Metropolitan Park.

"I tell all: I hold back nothing," said Mrs. Ethridge from the stage of the Huron Theater. She makes no apologies for writing about her family, says her husband may be hard to live with but he makes good copy.

GETS INVOLVED
You have to be interested in and excited about people and life in general to write the informal essay. You must feel strongly when you write or readers won't feel any emotion.

If she can get across this zest of hers in her writing, she feels she will have done a fine job and is a successful informal essayist.

Willie Ethridge intends never to stop looking for subjects to write on and people to write about.

Her husband says that if she dies before he does, he'll put on her tombstone, "The Lord called her up and she could go."

Willie Snow Ethridge (left) autographs one of her books for Mrs. Jack H. Mamassian, Shellmarr Lane, before speaking to the Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall on Wednesday. Writer, lecturer, traveler, she kept her audience at the Huron Theater in almost constant laughter for an hour.
