Workers Battle After Storm

East Digging Out After Storm

DOWNTOWN ERIE AT NIGHT — As night falls in Erie, Pa., this street (10th street) shows the effect of a 33-inch snowfall which paralyzed the city. Stalled cars made it impossible for snowplows to reach the curbs.

Plows, Tanks Start Clearing Clogged Roads

Drifts Hit New York; Snow Belt Stretches Across 3 States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Workers labored in a giant snow removal job in the storm-swept areas in the Eastern Great Lakes region today.

Biting cold and snow squalls hampered the work in Western New York. However, only light flurries were reported in most other areas of the storm belt.

Army tanks, bulldozers and snow plows were pressed into service in removing the tons of snow from highways and streets and restoring transportation and business to normal operation.

The cold weather spread across the snow belt, which stretched across the northeastern corner of Ohio, the northwestern section of Pennsylvania and eastward into upstate New York.

Train and bus service was not operating on schedule in many cities. Thousands of cars remained stranded on snow-clogged highways. Many communities were isolated. In western New York, at least four deaths were attributed to the storm.

DRIFTS TO 10 FEET

Drifts of 10 feet were reported in western New York, which was hit by the storm which swept in off Lakes Erie and Ontario. A blizzard was reported moving south toward the Mohawk Valley today. Up to 20 inches of snow was reported and temperatures were below zero in some areas.

Erie, Pa., one of the hardest hit cities with 33 inches of snow, continued in a state of emergency.

Mayor Arthur Gardner who declared the emergency after the Thanksgiving Day storm, said he hoped to end it within 24 hours. Some 500 National Guard troops joined in the cleanup operations in the lakeport city of 130,000.

Opening two main Buffalo-Cleveland highways, Routes 5 and 20, was a job undertaken by highway crews of Pennsylvania, Ohio and New York. All motorists were stopped from crossing New York into Pennsylvania.

FOOD BY HELICOPTER

One of the towns isolated, West Springfield, Pa., got food supplies dropped from two helicopters flown from Pittsburgh. More drops were planned today if roads remained unopened into the village of 1,500 about 30 miles west of Erie.

* * *

Springville, N.Y., a village of 4,000 some 30 miles south of Buffalo, also was snowbound. The snowfall was reported to have measured from 40 to 48 inches in depth.

The light snow flurries continued near the Great Lakes region during the night and in the Upper and Middle Mississippi Valleys. The flurries were expected to move into New England during the day.

* * *

Generally fair weather prevailed in most of the country except the Upper and Middle Mississippi Valleys eastward to the Atlantic Coast. Showers, however, were forecast for New Mexico and Arizona.

The Eastern and Central sections of the country were the coldest spots, with freezing weather as far south as Northern Florida.

Air Crash Kills 34 on Outskirts of Paris

PARIS (INS)—Thirty four persons, including 13 Americans and Italian opera conductor Guido Cantelli, were killed early today when a New York bound Italian airliner crashed and exploded outside Paris.

Two Italian passengers, a man and woman, survived the crash but both were in serious condition. Three homes in the village of Paray Vielle Poste were destroyed by the crash.

An inhabitant of one of the houses, Marcel Cramoisi, was reported by police to have died today as a result of the crash.

Among the dead were two American fashion experts Elizabeth Green and Mildred Kador both of New York.

The women had received gold medals from the Italian fashions association in Turin, Italy, last Wednesday.

The new four engined DC6B making its sixth crossing developed trouble in flight, just after taking off from Orly airport where it stopped off to refuel and pick up passengers on its way from Rome.

The plane, containing 25 passengers and a crew of 10, exploded in the air and dived downward in a huge sheet of flames.

The airliner first grazed a two-story building. Then it plunged burning into a residence.

Towering columns of smoke and flame belched high above the village in the early morning darkness as the craft's 5,000 gallons of gasoline burst into fire.

* * *

Six fire trucks rushed to the scene, but the intense heat of the fire hampered the workers. The 33 bodies were extricated from the wrecked mass two and a half hours after the crash.

The New York offices of the Italian airline released an incomplete list of the passengers and crew members but was able to name all the Americans aboard. (There was none from Michigan in the list.)

American Consul John Wood went to Orly airport where he reported that according to the preliminary investigation, 13 Americans had been killed.

He said he was awaiting word from the next of kin of the Americans on disposition of the bodies which were taken to an improvised chapel in one of the local council buildings.

The snow fell as the rescue workers recovered bodies. U.S. and Italian consular officials reaching the scene in bitter cold found odd pieces of clothing scattered about the ground and bits of cloth on the trees nearby.

* * *

A body of a baby was pulled from the wreckage along with the 32 other victims.

Conductor Cantelli, one of the dead, was on his way to see American conductor Arturo Toscanini in New York. Cantelli was the conductor at Milan's famed La Scala opera house.

The plane which made its maiden voyage last Nov. 5, was captained by Attilio Vazzler, known to American aviators as a seasoned pilot.

Token Gesture Toward U.N.

Battalion of British Troops Set to Leave Canal Zone

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP) — The withdrawal of a battalion of British troops from the British-French expeditionary force in the Suez Canal Zone is set for Monday.

This will be the token withdrawal promised by Britain in what it described as a gesture of good will toward the United Nations. The U.N. General Assembly has called for all British, French and Israeli forces to leave Egyptian soil.

At the United Nations in New York, behind-the-scene pressure mounted today to get Britain and France to pinpoint a withdrawal of their armed forces from Egypt.

It came as the U. N. General Assembly called a special weekend meeting on the thorny Suez invasion issue.

The Assembly prepared to act on a resolution by 21 Asian-African nations for an immediate pull out from Egypt by the two Western powers and Israel. Many delegates appeared uncertain how they would vote.

Israel said she has pulled back to some degree on all Egyptian fronts. Neither gave details.

Canadian Gen. Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, U. N. force Commander, scheduled a visit to Cyprus today for talks on the withdrawal plans. Burns will inspect the Port Said area Sunday preparatory to bringing in more U. N. troops.

Despite mounting pressure at U. N. headquarters in New York, Britain, France and Israel were standing firmly on their position that a complete withdrawal will be made only when what they have called a "competent" U. N. force takes over.

W. S. Tominsky Heart Victim

Press Report Faulty, Listed Brother Stanley as Stricken

The eleventh heart attack victim of the Michigan deer hunting season Thursday was Walter Stanley Tominsky, 62, of 1059 Premont St., not his brother Stanley John Tominsky of 431 Marion Ave., as The Pontiac Press reported yesterday.

He died Thursday in an Iron River hospital five hours after being stricken on his way back from hunting.

No Winner — Contest Goes on to No. 25 — $700

After another week and 7,242 entries for Pot-O-Gold puzzle 24, the judges found no winner, so that brings the total for puzzle No. 25 up to $700.

If you haven't already done so, clip out the puzzle from Friday's Press and see if you can find the winning answer. Just be sure to have it mailed by Tuesday, otherwise it will not be counted.

And you might just as well save your time if you send it in an envelope. The rules definitely state that all entries must be on a postcard, and all those mailed in envelopes are disregarded.

For a check on the answers for Puzzle No. 24, see page 7. By reading the explanations for last week's puzzle, you might get some ideas on how to figure out the right answers for No. 25. $700 depends on it.

American Gals and Eisenhower Please Prince

NEW YORK (AP) — Morocco's Crown Prince Moulay Hassan flew into town today, hoping for a chance to see President Eisenhower, and pleased by what he sees in American women.

"American women," he said, "are an example of what women throughout the world would like to be and do."

The Prince said that during his 10-day visit, he plans to ask for a

The prince said the Sultan himself wants to visit President Eisenhower when the White House calendar permits it.

Young Men (?) Pay for Mailbox Spree

PORT HURON (AP)—Because they tore out 24 rural mailboxes by the roots, four youths were out bright and early today digging 24 post holes along a 2½ mile stretch of highway.

They were under order by Justice George Hart who sentenced them yesterday for a Thursday night mailbox spree.

The youths are Charles Sarsfield, 17, of Avoca; Lavern Lisek, 18, of Jeddo; Charles Beam, 19, and Donald Smith, 21, both of Melvin. All of the Port Huron area youths were fined $25 each.

Sherry's Mother to Be Sentenced for Burning

Brothers, Sisters Back 7-Year-Old's Testimony of Maltreatment

By PETE LOCHBILER

A Circuit Court jury, 11 of them parents, took 40 minutes yesterday to find Ada Wyatt, 33-year-old mother of 12, guilty of child cruelty.

Her husband, William, 29, was found innocent of the same charge.

Mrs. Wyatt was convicted, mostly on her own children's testimony, of torturing and cruelly punishing a daughter by her previous marriage, Sherry Wilkinson, 7.

Wyatt had been accused as her collaborator.

The Keego Harbor couple impassively heard the verdicts returned by the 10-woman, two-man jury after a five-day trial.

Judge George B. Hartrick, who termed the mother's alleged acts "the work of a fiend," will sentence her Dec. 3. Conviction can bring up to four years imprisonment and $2,000 fine.

Mrs. Wyatt remained free under $1,000 bond.

Her mother broke her arm and leg; hurled a butcher knife at her face, splitting the lip and loosening two front teeth; and held the hand over the stove as punishment.

SAT ON HOT [illegible]

She said her mother sat her on the hot stove and that she had been tied to her bed.

All of the children are in Oakland County Children's Home awaiting a court hearing on their custody. No date has been set.

The charges resulted from the discovery of 10 of the children unattended in their home last Aug. 23. Two older girls had run away and already were at the children's Home.

The conviction came after three hours of argumentation by Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor and defense attorney Milton R. Henry.

Absent when the verdict was announced, Henry had not indicated

Police Wonder Just How Cold It Really Was

They were stumped by the story Ezelle Moore, 32, of 546 Bloomfield Ave., told at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Clinic.

Moore claimed he was trudging home with numb feet near midnight on Franklin road, south of Nebraska avenue, when he thought he heard a gun shot.

Fallen to the sidewalk, he examined his left ankle. There was a gun wound which Moore claimed he had never felt.

City Students Give Views on Haircuts

The plight of Robert Phernetton, 16-year-old ex-Romeo High School student, whose expulsion from school for his lengthy haircut is still a major topic of conversation, was hashed over by Pontiac High School students in a survey this week.

* * *

Students quizzed informally on the recent ruling by the Romeo Board of Education against such so called "Elvis Presley haircuts" ranged from "okay" to "terrible."

Most emphatic was one teenager Jack Schatzley, who said, "I think the school board was right in setting up a rule like that. As people dress and look, that's how they're going to act. People are more well-mannered and poised if they look like they should.

An 11th grader, young Schatzley also said he felt the Romeo Board of Education was "completely justified" in their decision.

Senior Jean Austin agreed with Schatzley. "I think haircuts like that look terrible on boys. They look like sissies except for maybe short ducktails. I think if a person is dressed a certain way, he acts the same way. If you were in a format you wouldn't run around and get into trouble, because you wouldn't be dressed for it.

Jean also felt the educators were justified.

Sam Savvas, an 11th grader, said "I think the haircuts themselves are okay. They maybe don't look like men's haircuts, but I think students should have the privilege of chosing what they wear and do. It's the whole principle of the thing." Savvas continued. "If a person can't come to school the way he wants, it's pretty bad."

"Not too many kids at Pontiac High have the long side burns," Savvas observed.

Jean Arnold, another PHS teenager, gave the girls' angle. "I don't care for the haircuts at all. I think they look terrible, but if a person wants to wear them, I don't think he ought to be prohibited from it like in Romeo."

Carl Code called it "good action" for the school board to take. "I tried to get a group to try such a thing at our high school, but school officials didn't go along with it. I still think it was a real good idea and I think it should be adopted in other schools."

That's a Big Buck

Arrives in Jamaica

It Will Be Cold — but Not So-o-o Cold

Cloudy and not so cold is the U. S. Weather Bureau's forecast for tonight. Snow likely will accompany tonight's low of 24-28.

Tomorrow is expected to be cold and windy with snow flurries, high 26-30. West to southwest winds at 15-20 miles an hour will shift to northerly at 20-25 tomorrow.

The lowest temperature recorded was 16 in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m.

Applies for Injunction to End Dock Strike for 80-Day Cooling Period

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today received a board of inquiry's report on the Atlantic and Gulf Coast longshoremen's strike and immediately moved to halt the walkout by court injunction.

* * *

The White House said Asst. Atty. Gen. George Doub has left for New York to apply for an injunction under the Taft-Hartley Act which would end the strike for an 80-day "cooling off" period.

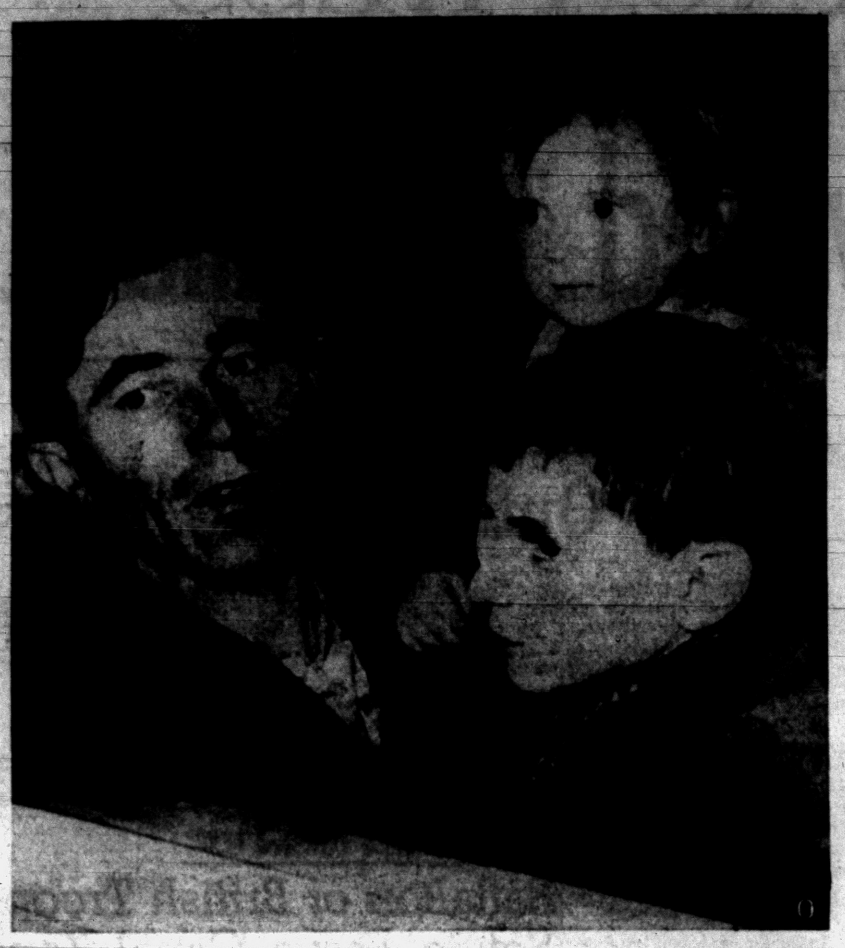

* * *

Doub is scheduled to appear in U.S. District Court in Manhattan at noon. The striking union, the International Longshoremen's Assn. (Ind), already has said it will abide by any court order.

This would mean that some 60,000 longshoremen in ports from Maine to Texas presumably would return to work Monday if the court issues an injunction today. Shipping in East Coast and Gulf ports has been paralyzed for nine days by the walkout.

In his formal instructions to the attorney general, Eisenhower reviewed briefly the steps already taken in connection with the dispute and said:

"In my opinion these unresolved labor disputes have resulted in a strike affecting an entire industry or a substantial part thereof engaged in trade, commerce, transportation, transmission or communication among the several states and with foreign nations which strike, if permitted to continue, will imperil the national health and safety."

be any different than other schools about the haircuts," was Janet Eddy's opinion about the situation. "I saw the picture of the boy who wore the haircut. He didn't look so bad although I do think a regular haircut looks better." She did think a boy should be required to be neat when he comes to school.

George Mekras doesn't care for the Presley haircuts. "I have a brush cut," says Mekras. "The long ones are okay if kept combed. I imagine that's the reason the Romeo boy didn't win his case. He probably didn't keep his hair neat.

Mekras felt the board was justified in expelling Phernetton, because "they were authorities."

* * *

Jim Stoglin, another 11th grader, said he didn't believe in real long hair and he emphasized the "real." "I have partly long hair," Stoglin said, "but no sideburns or anything like that.

"I don't feel the Romeo Board of Education was right in making such a ruling, though," he continued, "because the board wouldn't know where to stop. Guys having regular haircuts might end up having to get theirs cut. I think it's up to the person."

* * *

And young Phernetton? His case is at a standstill now. A court decision upheld the board's haircut policy and this week he was refused admission to Almont High School. Authorities there say they will back the Romeo board's views.

Radiation Tests Show Warhead

Experts Say Soviets Are Moving Toward Super Weapons

WASHINGTON (INS) — U. S. experts say radiation tests show the Soviet Union has been moving consistently since 1953 toward a super nuclear warhead for intercontinental rocket missiles.

The experts said yesterday that while the U. S. was testing bigger and bigger H-bombs, the Russians emphasized smaller, more compact hydrogen devices that could be carried by planes or space-travelling rockets.

One source said charts show that during the past year the Soviet thermonuclear blasts have averaged substantially smaller in size than those of the U. S. even though this country has given up testing big bombs and is concentrating on smaller devices.

While the smaller blast force does not prove that a weapon is more transportable, the experts said this would be a natural result of steps to reduce the more destructive of all bombs into a missile warhead.

These experts emphasized that the American H-bomb development is more varied than that of the Soviets. At least twice as many U. S. tests have been staged.

But the experts added that "transportability" may prove to be a telling factor if there is ever a nuclear showdown.

They pointed out that even when the H-bomb has been reduced in size its power remains so great that getting it to the target is the only military problem.

Gregory May Fill Office on Sen. Potter's Backing

Sen. Charles E. Potter has recommended Lapeer County Sheriff Clark W. Gregory for appointment as United States marshal in eastern Michigan.

The marshal's office was left vacant in Detroit by the recent death of William A. Nowicki.

Ex-Marine Gregory, 40, was appointed sheriff in 1952 when Sheriff Leslie C. Mathews resigned after serving ten years in office.

Less than a month after taking office, Gregory and Deputy Ronald Reedy were mauled by a group of angry farmers as they sought to evict a widow whose farm had been sold to satisfy a judgment levied by the receivers of the defunct Lapeer County Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

* * *

Subsequent trials and appeals lodged the farmers' advisor, Clayton C. Gilliland in Southern Michigan State Prison, and two farmers charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice were acquitted.

Gregory announced recently that he would not seek office again, because the $5,000 salary was too low.

Potter made the recommendation in a letter to Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell. Gregory's name is expected to be forwarded to the Senate for confirmation by President Eisenhower.

America Opens Her Heart—Again

Relief Units Forming to Aid Hungary Refugees

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Americans from Maine to California are opening their hearts and hearths to Hungarian refugees.

* * *

Rich and poor have offered money, food, clothing and homes for the frightened victims of Soviet terror in Hungary.

Federal, state and city government agencies are lending a hand. Churches, schools and colleges have been quick with pledges of help.

* * *

The first refugees—weary men, women and children — landed at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey last Wednesday. Several hundred more arrived in planes there and at Milwaukee later in the week.

Two more planeloads are due at McGuire today.

The refugees are the vanguard of 5,000 authorized by President Eisenhower to enter the United States. Even more may follow later.

Meanwhile, the offers of aid are growing into a flood.

* * *

The American Red Cross says it has allocated more than $250,000 for relief of Hungarians in their revolt-torn homeland, in refugee camps in Austria and in the refugee reception center at Camp Kilmer, N. J.

The American Friends Service Committee in Philadelphia set a goal of $100,000 for its Hungarian Relief Fund.

The 73 refugees who won a warm welcome in Milwaukee yesterday were assured of homes and jobs before they set foot in American soil. "More than enough" sponsors in the Wisconsin city offered to meet the needs of the refugees.

* * *

In Chicago religious organizations applied to bring five refugee families to the Richmond-Petersburg area.

An Alabama committee for Hungarian relief was formed in Birmingham.

Individuals also pledged help. Herbert Bray, a Kansas City, Kan., electrician, and his wife said they planned to make a 360-acre farm available to a Hungarian refugee family rent free.

If any of the Hungarians yearn to become American cowboys, they have a chance in Montana. Five Montana ranchers have offered jobs to refugees.

College students mapped drives on campuses across the country to aid those fleeing Soviet oppression.

* * *

Junior Chamber of Commerce members ate a bean soup and brown bread luncheon at Salisbury, Md. They paid a quarter for the meal with the rest of the regular $1.65 luncheon charge going to Hungarian relief.

At Kenmore, N. Y., 1,300 Methodist Church families will observe "self-denial lay" next Thursday by eating bread and soup only. Residents of State College, Pa., will be asked to eat "mush and milk" and donate what money they would have spent CARE and the Red Cross.

* * *

The governors of Kansas, California and Utah have proclaimed "Hungary days" next Sunday.

* * *

Meanwhile, Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind) said in Washington today that the "honor of the United States will be sullied if we are satisfied to meet the Soviet attack on Hungary with pompous words and pious social work."

He said in a statement that he is "shocked" that the United States did not take stronger action against Soviet intervention in the Hungarian Revolution.

whether the decision will be appealed.

GUILTY OF BURNS

In instructing the jury, Hartrick said the parents could only be found guilty because of the burns to Sherry's hand. The other evidence, he ruled, was allowed to show the possibility that the mother could have held her daughter's hand over a gas flame.

Hartrick's instructions were that Wyatt could be found guilty of encouraging or assisting in the torture.

There was no evidence, he said, that the stepfather himself tortured the girl.

Doctors have stated Sherry may never regain full use of the hand. She is unable to unclench her fingers.

* * *

The girl was partially unclothed in court to show the jury scars on her body.

Summarizing his case, Taylor pointed out that Sherry was the only child who had suffered frequent injuries. The six children younger than Sherry are by the present marriage.

Henry reminded the jury the Wyatts belong to a lower income group and were not able to afford expensive medical treatment for the girl.

Wyatt, a helper at an area supermarket, testified he worked seven days a week and often was away from home over a week at a time because of his job.

Hungary Rulers Accuse U. S.

Charge Radio Hidden in American Legation in Budapest

VIENNA (AP)—Hungary's puppet government accused the United States today of operating a secret radio transmitter in its Budapest legation.

The accusation came only a day after Yugoslavia charged that former Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy had been lured from his diplomatic mission on Budapest's embassy row and kidnaped by Soviet secret police.

* * *

Josef Cardinal Mindszenty has been given asylum in the U.S. legation, target of today's note.

Nagy found refuge in the Yugoslav Embassy and Mindszenty in the U.S. legation Nov. 4, the day Russian tank divisions struck throughout Hungary in an all-out attempt to put down the anti-Communist rebellion.

Budapest Radio quoted the note as saying operation of radio sending and receiving sets was "illegal" and demanded an immediate halt.

* * *

If there is a transmitter in the American legation it has been installed in the past two weeks. The legation had no direct communication with the outside world in the week following the Russian attack, when American Correspondents also took refuge there.

Wailes and a handful of American diplomats remained in the legation after the correspondents were allowed to leave Hungary.

Mindszenty has been unable to leave.

* * *

The Kadar government said Nagy and 51 companions who left the Yugoslav Embassy Thursday had gone of their own free will to neighboring Romania—a tightly locked Soviet satellite many Hungarians feared could be the next stop to Siberia.

But Yugoslavia's official press charged they were kidnaped by Soviet security police in betrayal of a promise of the Kadar government to let them return safely to their homes.

The Yugoslavs said Nagy was whisked off without even a toothbrush.

They said a young Hungarian couple in the Nagy group was not permitted to take their baby with them to Romania.

Nagy's disappearance threatened to bring another explosion inside revolt-shattered Hungary and disrupt relations between Yugoslavia and the other Communist nations.

Notes Sent to Hungary

Messages from local residents to relatives in Hungary are now being accepted by Oakland County Chapter, American Red Cross, it was announced today by P. H. Hoffman, president of the Detroit chapter.

Forms are being printed in three languages and are for family news of strictly personal nature. Persons to whom messages are directed will be able to send replies on the same form, Hoffman said.

Says We're Losing Out

MANILA (AP)—Sen. Monroney (D-Okla) says the U.S. "give-away" foreign aid program in Asia is losing friends for America—not winning them. Monroney, five other senators and nine congressmen arrived in Manila yesterday from the Interparliamentary Union Conference in Bangkok.

Pontiac Deaths

Walter S. Tominsky

Walter S. Tominsky, 62, of 1059 Fremont St. died Thursday in the General Hospital at Iron River. He suffered a heart attack while deer hunting.

He was born in Ludington on Sept. 22, 1894, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Tominsky. He came here 30 years ago from Ludington.

Mr. Tominsky was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic Church and had been employed as a machine operator at the American Forge & Socket Co.

Besides his wife, the former Ethel A. Sumner, he leaves two sons, Charles Strevel of Davison and Eugene Tominsky of Ludington; three daughters, Mrs. Eleanor Doyle of Fontana, Calif., Mrs. Harold Hill of Yale and Mrs. John McGuigan of Port Huron.

Other survivors include three brothers and three sisters, Anthony of Milwaukee, Wis., Stanley Tominsky, John Tominsky, Mrs. Mary Tobatto, Mrs. Francis Wasik, and Mrs. Ann Peacock, all of Pontiac.

* * *

The Recitation of the Rosary will be at 3:30 Sunday afternoon in the Pursley Funeral Home.

The funeral will be at 10 a.m. Monday from St. Joseph's Catholic Church with the Rev. B. F. Jarzembowski officiating. Burial will follow in Mount Hope Cemetery.

Seeking Volunteers for Bloomfield CD

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — About 100 volunteer auxiliary police and many other workers are needed for the Bloomfield Township Civil Defense being formed, according to Mrs. V. H. Nelson, assistant to director H. A. Houston.

A meeting is called for 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Township Hall for all interested in offering police, welfare, communications or other department duty in the new CD unit.

Citizens are needed, Mrs. Nelson says, to register all persons in the township, utilizing cards such as those used during World War II which include a loyalty oath.

Burglars Overlook Valuable Jewelry

Sixty dollars in cash and eight cigarette lighters were taken from an Avon Township home in daytime breakin Wednesday, the Oakland County Sheriff's Department said today.

Owner Mrs. Jame Klein, of 1695 Bretton Dr., told investigators several valuable rings were overlooked in the burglary. She said she returned home in the afternoon to find both doors open.

The Day in Birmingham

Asking Reconsideration on Masonic Site Decision

BIRMINGHAM — A Wednesday night decision of the planning board against use of the Arlington-Maple lot for a Masonic Temple hould be reconsidered at next Wednesday's planning meeting, according to City Planner Herbert Herzberg.

The board heard objections by residents living within 300 feet of the proposed site of the Masonic building, and the absence of those asking the rezoning led them to believe the Masonic group had lost interest in the location.

Yesterday afternoon Raymond Cecil, just returned from a hunting expedition, said he was unaware there had been a meeting. A member of the Masonic Temple building committee, he has its power of attorney for the zoning problem.

Learning that Cecil had not been notified of the meeting, Herzberg checked the mailing list for the notifications, and found that some property owners within the 300 foot radius had been missed in the mailing as well.

A letter to board members will carry Herzberg's request for reconsideration, he says.

* * *

In two other zoning matters, Herzberg has the planning board's approval for studying requests for changes from multiple dwelling to business C zoning for Ruth A. Carll and G. Muttersbaugh.

The Carll properties are at 201 and 227 Merrill St., and 364, 368 and 384 Henrietta St. Muttersbaugh has a new house on Floyd street, which he says he is unable to sell as a residence but could rent as an office, and his present home at 1151 Floyd could be sold, he says, as an office.

Planning for a new bank in Birmingham, a committee of local men is examining available personnel to find people who are "competent and willing to start from scratch," says Cassam A. Wilson, senior partner with the law firm of Wilson, Ingraham and Kavanaugh.

The group has chosen as site of the bank, if it is formed, the building at the corner of Martin and Pierce. With renovating, it would serve, with drive-in parking facilities available, Wilson says.

After changes in the committee since it formed some weeks ago, it now includes Richard Wilson of Wilson Drug Co., R. S. Webber, a manufacturer's representative; E. W. Nelson, one-time banking commissioner who retired Sept. 1 from a vice presidency of the Wabeek Bank and Trust Co., and C. G. Hassberger, an official with Dearborn Motors Credit Corp., and Cassam Wilson.

Municipal building renovations on the second floor should be done in two weeks, according to Building Inspector Andrew Butt, but the commission room will not be complete for a month.

All offices on the floor are being redone, with some occupants being shifted to new quarters.

$3,000 Fire Hits Couple's House

New Furniture Lost in Afternoon Blaze at 356 S. Anderson

Emmett Schmidt, 26-year-old factory worker, and his wife, Joyce, 17, retained only their car and the clothes on their backs, they said.

Flames caused by an overheated basement furnace had gutted their four-room rented home at 356 S. Anderson St. There was no insurance.

Expecting her first baby in two months, Mrs. Schmidt returned home as firemen brought the 45-minute blaze under control about 5:30 p.m.

In tears she told them of $850 worth of new furniture destroyed.

"We were just getting started and the baby is coming — that's what really hurts," she said. "We had taken our savings to buy a new stove and refrigerator, a kitchen set and a couch and television set for the living room. The beds were new, too."

It was the second stroke of hard luck to hit the young couple this year.

They were married in May, a month after Schmidt was in a serious auto accident in Holly. After the wedding, he returned to the hospital for three month's of extensive skin-grafting.

They are staying with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moore, 234 S. Shirley Ave.

Gets Gashed Forehead

J. W. Calvary, 24, of 1030 Mohegan, Keego Harbor, suffered a gashed forehead early this morning when the car in which he was riding struck the rear of a truck on U.S. 10 near M15 in Independence Township.

Driver of the car, John R. Welch, 25, of 532 Judson Ct., told sheriff's deputies that Calvary fell against his arm as he was about to pass the truck. Calvery's condition is reported as fair by Pontiac General Hospital.

But Pontiac Man Is Still Missing

Three Missing Hunters Turn Up Safe

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three deer hunters reported missing turned up safe and sound today.

Donald Green, 20, and Danny Tousegnant, 16, both of Sands, walked out of a Marquette County woods Friday night. The pair had disappeared Thursday.

Alvin Harmon, 44, of Clare, who wandered away from his hunting companions in the Temple area near Clare Thursday, also found his way out of the snow-filled woods Friday night.

Still missing is Stanley Streeter, 65, of Pontiac, who vanished Nov. 15 while hunting in the Upper Peninsula's Porcupine Mountains.

State police said deep snow forced them to abandon temporarily their search for him.

Since the deer hunting season opened Nov. 15 there have been seven accidental gunfire deaths. In addition, a Newaygo County farmer was shot to death by a party of hunters he ordered off his land and a 9-year-old boy died of exposure after getting lost with an uncle while hunting in Alger County.

* * *

Eleven hunters have died of heart attacks.

Last year in a similar 16-day season, 10 hunters were killed.

But hunting had its less serious side too.

Two teenage brothers got their buck near Port Huron, but they needed persistence to do it, and help from their grandfather to keep it.

The 200-pound, 10-pointer walked within 75 feet of where they were setting and they emptied their shotguns at it. But the deer took off from the woods.

* * *

Ronald Mott, 16, and his brother, Richard, 15, took off after it. When the deer dropped with a broken leg a half mile later, they used their hunting knives to kill it.

A conservation officer, attracted by the shots, came up and found both boys under the 17-year-old age limit. They were not, so far as he could see, accompanied by an adult—so he prepared to confiscate their buck and their guns.

* * *

Just then Rene Mott, the boy's 60-year-old grandfather came trotting up to save the day. The boys, he said, were with him.

And about 18 miles west of Houghton along the Lake Superior shore, where a man had been charging hunters $4 a crack to pass through a big gate into a hunting area, the gate was found blown up.

Former Malaria Victims Given OK to Donate Blood

Former malaria victims may be able to donate blood provided they have not had malaria or used malaria drugs in the past two years, officials of Oakland County Chapter, American Red Cross, announced today.

National Red Cross officials in conjunction with the National Institute of Health and Civil Defense officials announced a 15 per cent increase in blood quotas over the country.

The extra blood will be used for a domestic bank of serum albumen for Civil Defense. Nationally, this means 66,000 pints of blood per year in the bank.

* * *

Serum albumen is used to treat shock cases in wars and disasters.

The local chapter was notified of the increase in a bulletin from Don Millar, administrator of the Detroit Regional Blood Program, who stated that the 126 pints per month would have to be sent from the local chapter to laboratories in Indiana.

Local chapter blood secretary, Marguerite Buttolph, says "At least 25 more pints per week are needed. Even without this new development, our collections are low. We are not collecting less than last year, but we are releasing an average of 40 pints per week. Last year the average was 25 pints per week."

Still Remains Critical After 4-Car Collision

Mrs. Margaret McCraig, 51, of Detroit, remains in critical condition at Pontiac General Hospital with severe injuries suffered Thanksgiving Day in an accident which proved fatal to her niece, Pauline O'Malley, 24, of Flint.

She is under treatment for a fractured pelvis, multiple rib fractures, and internal injuries. The accident, involving four cars, occurred on US 10 at White Lake road, Springfield Township.

Reasons Given for Israel's Bold Strike Into Egypt

(Why did Israel slash at Egypt in a military move that raised war tension in the Middle East and throughout the world? What new actions do the Israelis have in mind? This is the fourth of six reports from world capitals explaining from all angles a situation that has brought the world to the brink of disaster.)

By SERGE FLIEGERS

TEL AVIV (INS) — The "one week Sinai war" that changed the balance of power in the Middle East started Oct. 29 when local radio programs were interrupted to transmit the words "pickled cucumbers," "buttered noodles" and descriptions of other delicacies.

These terse gastronomic announcements actually were code messages ordering Israel's tough reservists into action. Within 48 hours, "pickled cucumbers" and other units were pouring into the Sinai desert in long columns.

* * *

Israeli commanders had chosen their hour to strike well. There was no moon and the columns advanced across the naked desert in a darkness broken only by the distant light of the stars.

By the time the moon's first crescent appeared a week later, the Israelis had defeated Egypt's vaunted military might. They had chased part of its Russian-equipped army across the Suez Canal. And Israel found itself in possession of the Sinai area.

The moon determined the hour of the attack but not its reasons, which were two-fold:

Firstly, Israelis felt they had been goaded beyond endurance by incessant attacks of Fedayeen — Egyptian trained and inspired "self-sacrificers" — who struck across Israel's vulnerable borders to kill its citizens, blow up its vital water pipes and generally spread fear and destruction.

The second reason for the attack — less official — was that Israeli and allied intelligence had discovered that the Egyptian army, augmented and equipped by the Russians, was preparing an annihilation blow against Israel.

SECRET DOCUMENTS

This latter discovery, the Israelis say, was substantiated by "most secret" documents urging Egyptian officers to the "annihilation of Israel and her destruction in the most brutal and cruel battles"; also by discovery of vast underground arsenals in Sinai with enough war material to equip an invasion army and even an "expeditionary force" from abroad.

Israeli Chief-of-Staff Moshe Dayan and other Israeli leaders unanimously deny that they had a "secret pact" with Britain and France to attack Egypt.

* * *

Gen. Dayan told this correspondent he was "playing by ear." If that's true he was playing in close harmony with the commanders on Cyprus who struck at Egypt 48 hours after Israelis entered Sinai.

Asked by this correspondent whether the same Israeli objectives could have been achieved without Anglo-French intervention, Gen. Dayan said:

"It might have taken two days longer and resulted in more casualties but the result would have been the same."

Some observers feel that the Anglo-French intervention harmed Israel since it lessened the impact of the victory. If the Israelis had beaten Egypt alone, they would have proved their might to the Arab world. Because of the Anglo-French diversion at Port Said, Nasser can claim he was not beaten by the Israelis but withdrew his army from Sinai to withstand the Anglo-French onslaught.

Dayan said his forces fought in Sinai "with one hand behind our back" because at the time heavy Israeli troop concentrations were kept along the Jordanian and Syrian frontiers.

SOLUTION SOUGHT

But while Israeli soldiers are standing guard, Israeli diplomats are increasing their efforts to find a solution to the Middle East problem. In the United Nations and in Western Capitals they will press for a plan that would ultimately give them peace with their neighbors.

Their main objectives, according to Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, are: Peace with Egypt and other Arab states, cessation of the Arab economic boycott against Israel, freedom of movement for Israeli ships through the Suez Canal and Gulf of Aqaba.

"For these objectives — which mean the difference between a peaceful, progressive middle east and a Middle East plunged continually into strife and the possible starting point of World War III — We are willing to negotiate. And if negotiations fail we are willing to fight again, and if must be, die."

Pilot Drops Message, Drops Uncle Besides

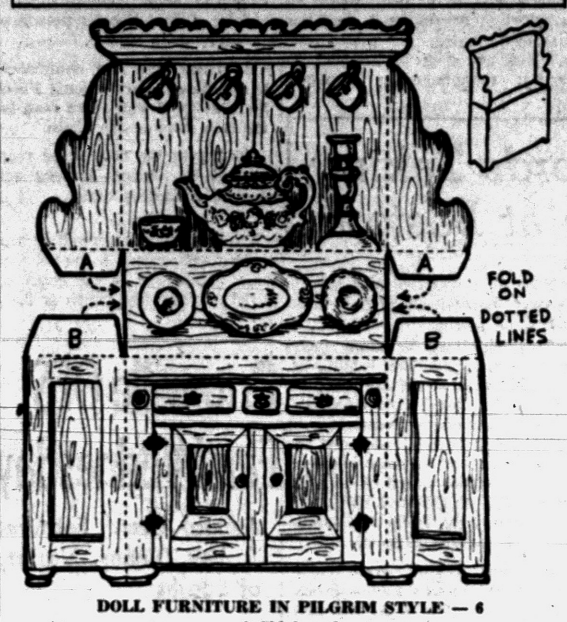

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Edward R. Baird, a Norfolk attorney, was injured seriously while duck hunting when he was struck by a low-flying plane police said was piloted by a nephew.

Princes Anne County authorities quoted the nephew, Edward B. Segar, 22, as saying he was trying to land a note, enclosed in a cup, into the duck blink occupied by Baird and his son, Edward Baird Jr.

Baird suffered a fracture of the skull and a mutilated left hand as a result of being struck by a wind tip as he tried to wave the plane away. De Paul Hospital attendants listed his condition as satisfactory after surgery.

DOLL FURNITURE IN PILGRIM STYLE — 6
A Sideboard

In the main room of a Plymouth colony house there was usually some kind of sideboard, with drawers to hold knives and spoons — forks were rarely used — and cupboards to hold table linen.

Use your crayons to color the sideboard brown, the china blue and white, and the candlestick yellow like brass. Paste the picture down on heavy brown construction paper. Cut out the parts carefully.

Fold the upper portion upright on the dotted line, and fold the scalloped sides forward. Fold the front cupboard part down, so that the center portion is flat. Paste the tabs marked A under the center portion. Fold the sides of the cupboard section back and paste the tabs marked B under the center part.

Then the sideboard will look like the small model in the upper corner, and you can add it to your group of pilgrim doll furniture. To complete your little room you can cut small oval mats from colored construction paper, crayon patterns on them, and lay them on the floor.

Find 15 Dead Dogs in Demolished Home

BALTIMORE — Police were puzzled today about how the bodies of 15 dead dogs got into a partially demolished house.

Most of the bodies were in boxes and paper sacks in the cellar of the building. A few others were exposed on the first floor of an adjoining house.

Robert Reid Browne, 30-year-old artist, told police he was wandering through the house yesterday looking for old door panels to paint when he found the dead dogs.

Butter Exports Gain

CANBERRA—Australia exported 189,000,000 pounds of butter during the 1955-56 season—an increase of 33 per cent over the year before and the highest for many years. Great Britain bought 87 per cent of the exports.

Multimillion Dollars in Firms Are Welcomed in Utica Area

UTICA—The Sterling Township and Utica areas this week are welcoming two gigantic industries, a new $6,000,000 Thompson Products Inc., plant, ready to begin production, and a new half-million dollar shopping center.

* * *

The plant, located in Sterling Township, is beginning its manufacture of underchassis steering linkage and wheel expansion parts for all cars in its new modern two story building.

The Michigan division of the firm moved to its new location from Detroit, and will employ 1,900 persons, 1,600 of them in its factory.

Features of the building, with colorful atmosphere throughout, include cafeteria, medical center, shower and locker facilities for all employes. Recreational facilities are to be added.

At Utica, the just completed half-million dollar National Food Store at 43075 Van Dyke road is the 65th store of the chain.

Along with the new super market will be Sanders Bakery and Rosebud Creamery outlet.

* * *

A large parking area will accommodate 260 cars. A number of large prizes are to be given on grand opening day, which is Tuesday, Nov. 27.

Expand Phone Service

UTICA — An expansion program by the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. is underway here. New underground cables are being installed to provide for the fast growing area. According to local Bell manager Robert L. Kilpatrick, underground conduits are to be installed on Auburn road, Van Dyke and Ruby streets and Shelby, Clinton River and Canal roads.

Daniel E. Fords Taking Honeymoon at Boston

Mrs. Lewis Erb of Huntington Woods and Daniel E. Ford of Grosse Pointe Farms spoke their vows at the First Methodist Church of Royal Oak at a private service Tuesday evening, Nov. 20. Dr. Paul Durham officiated.

Mrs. Erb has for many years had business interests locally, being Chairman of the Board of Directors for Royal Oak Wholesale. She has served the community as a civic and social leader and the most prominent of these has been member of the Board of Management of South Oakland YMCA and chairman of the Women's Committee of Beaumont Hospital.

Mr. Ford is executive director of the Detroit Lumbermen's Assn. A director of the National Retail Lumber Dealers Assn., Washington, D. C.; advisor on Insurance and Pensions for the American Trade Assn. Executives, Washington, D. C.; member of the National Assn. Executive Club, Washington, D. Calls Experiment Success

Cuts Cider Selling-Size

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—One southwestern Michigan farmer found substantial success this fall in apple cider sales after switching from the conventional gallon jug to half-gallon cardboard containers.

* * *

Howard Gilmer, who grows about 90 acres of apples on his Augusta farm in Kalamazoo county, says the switch jumped sales 5,000 gallons over last year.

"We sold about 10,000 half-gallon containers before Halloween. Our jug sales are about the same as last year. So, cardboard cartons have given us an increase of about 50 per cent," Gilmer reports.

Most of Gilmer's cartons are sold through groceries and other retail outlets in Battle Creek. He claims retailers and housewives accept the carton more readily than the old style jug.

* * *

"About four years ago we tried quart cartons," Gilmer recalls. "We didn't sell 200 of the 2,000 cartons we purchased. The quart containers were too expensive and consumers didn't seem interested in such a small package of cider."

Church, Club Uniting in Holly for Family Night

HOLLY—Mt. Bethel Church and Mt. Bethel Extension Club are joining together for a Family Night program on Sunday night.

Manslaughter Charge for Montgomery

Herbert B. Montgomery, 52, of 475 Arthur St., who police say admitted accidentally shooting his wife during a quarrel in their home Oct. 29, will be arraigned today on a charge of manslaughter, Assistant Prosecutor Robert D. Long said.

* * *

Montgomery, brought back from Louisiana to face prosecution, is charged with slaying Elizabeth Montgomery, 37, with a .32 caliber pistol.

Montgomery claims the woman was shot in the chest during a tussle for the gun, Det. Sgt. John Williams said.

* * *

Her body was discovered three days later. Montgomery admitted fleeing, Williams said, because he was "scared and confused." He was arrested in Monroe, La., Nov. 14.

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

Chapter 26

Steve and I were walking toward Ninth Avenue when, prompted by the time of day, an unpleasant thought stopped me in my tracks. I told Steve about it . . . about my session at the studio with Wendell Kipp, his threat to expose my masquerade as Hester Frost, dancing teacher.

Steve said, "You really think he'd go to Bell about you, Connie?"

"I don't know. But if he did, Mr. Bell would tell Mr. Bolling . . . and when Mr. Bolling caught up to me . . . I'd rather not think about that."

"It could be embarrassing."

"Only embarrassing? Don't comfort me. It would tip off Bolling that you were the Waltzer, that's all. I'd better keep my date with Kipp."

"I don't like his attitude toward women."

"Steve, it's only a cocktail date. I'll be safe. You know the Wellington bar . . . it's so respectable, dull even."

"Gee, kid! I hope you won't be bored!"

"Now, don't be . . . Steve, I might be able to find out something about Kipp. And maybe about Anita and Stubbs."

"I'm going to find out about Stubbs. From Harriet."

"You're going to stay around here?"

"I'll research the bars for Harriet and Mrs. Zeigler. If I don't find them, I'll wait outside their rooming house for them."

"Listen, after my date with Kipp . . ."

"Let's call it an appointment with Kipp."

". . . I have to go back to the school. I've got to teach tonight to keep Mr. Bell off my neck."

"All right. If I'm not home, I'll still be here."

"See you at home or here. Steve . . . control yourself now. Don't come down to the Wellington. If Kipp sees you again . . ."

"I'll control myself. And listen, you drink ginger ale! Don't let Kipp get you loaded. You just make sure you can remember everything tomorrow morning. God, what murder can make a man do! I'm throwing you to the wolves!"

"Just one. Do I look all right?"

"Damn it! You want to look all right?"

"No, but . . . do I?"

"You look too good! Don't try so hard! Look, Connie, if that guy so much as lays a finger on you . . ."

"He won't. I've learned a thing or two lately. You punch him in the stomach, being careful to avoid his belt buckle."

"What?"

"So long, darling. Don't worry."

I was quite a bit late for my date. It was almost five-thirty when I got to Washington Square and the Wellington. It was a sedate old apartment hotel. Its cocktail lounge had white linen on the tables, and a headwaiter. He met me at the doorway.

I said, "I'm meeting Mr. Wendell Kipp here."

"You're Miss Frost?"

"Why, yes."

"I have a message for you from Mr. Kipp."

"Oh," I said hopefully, "he can't make it."

"Well, he's had to change his plans. He wants you to join him in his apartment. It's 12C. The elevator's in the rear of the lobby."

"Oh . . . thank you."

I stood irresolutely in the lobby for a moment. Then I stopped being silly. After all, I was a big girl; I could take care of myself. Then, too, I shouldn't be so selfish. I was doing this for my husband.

I got into the elevator.

Wendell Kipp opened the door of apartment 12C. I was slightly taken aback by him. He wasn't at all the hideous ogre that my fears had twisted him into. Actually, he was quite attractive. His eyes . . . there was a softness about them that was warming. And the flattery in his welcoming smile was rather charming.

"Come in, Hester," he said, and I noticed for the first time how deep and pleasantly masculine his voice was. "So nice to see you, come in."

"Well, now that I'm here, I might as well."

He closed the door after me. He didn't lock it and put the key in his pocket. But then it wasn't that kind of a door.

"May I take your coat and things?"

He helped me off with it. He didn't breathe down the back of my neck. He led me out of the foyer into a large living room. There was a fire burning in the white fireplace. It was a cozy fire, but there were no burning candles. The room was brightly lighted with electricity. There was no exotic incense. The room smelled faintly of Bab-O.

He was saying, "Sorry to change our plans, but I'm afraid I mustn't leave the apartment."

"Have you been a bad little boy?"

He laughed delightedly, and for the first time I realized that Wendell had a gaiety about him, a sense of humor. I could feel myself relaxing.

"No," he said. "I've been an angel. It's my wife . . . oh, no, don't be alarmed. She isn't here. She flew to Florida this morning for the weekend and I'm expecting a call from her. I thought I'd better be here. Won't you sit down?"

"In a moment . . . what a lovely room!"

"Thank you. What would you like to drink?"

"Ginger ale."

"Ginger . . . ale? Are you serious? I thought people just used ginger ale to baste baked hams."

* * *

I laughed delightedly . . . and for the first time I realized that Wendell had a wit all his own. I sat down on a large, lush sofa. It was so very comfortable, heavenly, lovely. I relaxed some more.

"We'll have old fashioneds. Scotch old fashioneds."

"Nice," I said.

But I surreptitiously watched him mix the drinks. He didn't put any drops of anything in mine that he didn't put in his. It was a delicious cocktail. One sip and I knew I wanted another one.

"Some music?" Wendell indicated a stunning record player-radio-television set. "I have all of Gershwin."

"Oh, yes!" I said. "Play all of Gershwin."

For a moment then the two of us, without feeling the nervous compulsion of strangers to talk to each other, just sat together listening to Gershwin, sipping our drinks. Wendell smiled at me, a surprisingly shy, disarming smile.

"Happy?" he asked.

"Mmmmm," I said.

"Is that lamp too bright for you?"

"A little," I said.

Thoughtfully, he snapped it off, and the fire in the new softness of the room's light seemed to extend its comfort toward us, enfold us.

"This is such a lovely, lovely room," I said.

"Would you care to see the rest of the apartment?"

"Oh, yes!"

"I'll fix us each another drink."

While he did just that I strolled about, and a group of three small water colors hanging over the fireplace caught my eye. I said, "Wendell, these are charming. Who did them?"

"They're nothing really . . ."

"But they are?" I stepped closer and saw the signature W. Kipp on each painting. "Why, you did them!"

"Well . . . yes."

"Wendell!" I said, truly amazed. Each moment I was unearthing another facet of this fascinating man's character. He was artistic, and he was modest. "Wendell, you are remarkable . . . do you know that?"

"Not really."

"Yes, really!"

"Please," he murmured, "let's not talk about me . . ."

Where, Oh Where, Is My Picture?

While consumers don't sing it, we hear a refrain these days from those who have ordered pictures (usually of children) from itinerant photographers and are anticipating early delivery. Some will report that they thought there was a local studio—until they tried to find it. And others will express disappointment in the work and state that the photograph delivered is not like the sample. Satisfaction in photographs depends upon the skill of the operators—and you leave a lot to chance when money is handed out to a floater—before you see the finished work. INVESTIGATE BEFORE YOU INVEST—and don't make advance deposits on orders to unknown people.

Wilson Should Remain on With Suez Crisis

One of Oakland County's most patriotic, distinguished and capable citizens has been home, looking hale and hearty in spite of a recent operation. We refer to Secretary of Defense, Charles E. Wilson.

This is an especially happy omen. With the European situation as critical as it is now, this Nation needs the best minds it can muster in all important posts. Certainly, the Secretary of Defense falls under an especially strategic and vital category.

★ ★ ★

The Nation needed Wilson badly when President Eisenhower was elected the first time, and it needs him quite as desperately now. Originally, he was faced with the titanic task of bringing order out of the utter chaos and confusion that slowly compounded under Harry Truman. Over a four-year period he has provided the American people with an infinitely better defense at a saving of several billion dollars a year.

Politically, this is unusual.

We have more for less.

The American taxpayers can thank Charles E. Wilson and his loyal and faithful corps of assistants for the change. Another Oakland County resident, Roger M. Kyes, played a key role when the mess was at its worst.

Now with the European situation bad because of general discord around the Suez area, Secretary Wilson is needed just as much as he was four years ago.

There have been rumors of his retirement. Certainly he has earned peace and quiet for the balance of his life, but just now he possesses a talent that the Nation can again utilize to the utmost. Should things go badly in Europe, and should we suddenly require a rapid expansion of arms and munitions, there is no man in the world so well equipped and so well prepared to make a major contribution. He left the top post in the largest manufacturing corporation there is. That position is never gained through friendship, "pull" or peanut politics.

It's won by sheer ability.

★ ★ ★

Thus the 170 million people of this country have been blessed with the best there is in a vital spot in Washington.

★ ★ ★

His big family is dubious.

They better understand the ravages of time on "C. E." and the toll exacted by the intense pressure under which the Secretary of Defense continually labors. It is a trying time and a trying decision. Secretary Wilson has always evinced an intense loyalty to the President of the United States.

We feel this continues.

★ ★ ★

The decision rests between them. Oakland County is proud of the wonderful job Secretary Wilson has done thus far, and secretly, privately and confidentially, The Press hopes he continues — at least for the immediate present.

Men a Minority in U.S.

Women in the United States are slowly outnumbering men, according to the Census Bureau.

Of a total estimated population of 168,091,000, the Bureau says, there are 1,381,000 more females than males. This isn't a sudden development. The ratio between the sexes has been changing since 1910. At that time men were ahead 106 to 100.

But by 1940, the Bureau points out, the figures were about even. During the middle 1940s women took the population lead and have been gaining ever since. There is nothing mysterious about this population imbalance.

For one thing more men than women have been dying. Another factor was the preponderance of males among immigrants earlier in the century. Since then immigration has fallen off and women now hold the edge among newcomers to the United States.

There is nothing to indicate that the present ratio between the sexes will continue, however. Already, for example, males outnumber females in the below 24 year age groups. Another noteworthy fact is that in the five to thirteen group there is a tremendous population gain of 31.7 per cent. At the same time the population above age 65 has risen from 12,000,000 to 14,500,000 since 1950.

★ ★ ★

It is interesting to note that the median age of Americans now is 29.9 compared to 30.2 in 1950. This is the first decline since 1800 and the reason, of course, is the larger proportion of children in our population.

Burns Well Qualified

Big Assignment

Canadian General Leads U. N. Army Into Egypt

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, the commander of the U.N. emergency force in Egypt, faces one of the toughest jobs of his career.

★ ★ ★

The mission of Burns and his international police force is a blend of diplomacy and arms—and the strictest neutrality in trying to separate the belligerents in Egypt.

Why did the U.N. pick on Burns?

The first reason is that the Canadian general, who soon will be 60 years old, already was U.N. truce supervisor in Palestine.

When he took that job in 1954 it was a very hot one. Count Bernadotte of Sweden, one of his predecessors had been murdered by Jewish extremists.

★ ★ ★

Burns also had a nucleus of officers on the truce observation team around which the unprecedented U.N. force could be built.

A QUIET MAN

The general also had done as good a job as could be expected in Palestine in the attempt to keep the peace. He is a quiet man, who says very little, is credited with seeing both sides of an argument and is not likely to lose his temper.

★ ★ ★

Burns has been a professional soldier most of his adult life. He is a graduate of the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont., and the Imperial Defense College in London.

He was attending a course at the college when war broke in 1939. He remained in London to aid in organizing the frst Canadian troops who responded to the call.

Later he served in Italy, and then after the war settled down with his wife and daughter at their home in Ottawa.

★ ★ ★

He became interested in the United Nations, joined the U.N. Association in Canada and began doing some lecturing in behalf of the world organization.

NAME MENTIONED

When the U.N. began looking for a Palestine mediator in 1954, his name was mentioned because some of his lectures had been noted by officials.

★ ★ ★

Burns also had these qualifications for the job: He was a Canadian, therefore from one of the "smaller" powers.

He was neither Jew nor Arab and was not known to have any prejudices against either. He also was an army man and therefore able to judge a military situation.

The general, whose full name is Edson Louis Millard Burns, likes to relax with a little fishing. But he won't get a chance amid the feuds and passions of the Middle East.

A Great Three-Member Team

Days of All Faiths

Tells of St. Catherine, Hanukkah

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday afternoon in Paris there will be a great parade of unmarried women, most of them around 25 years old, in honor of their patron, St. Catherine of Alexandria. The real point of the parade is to give eligible men a chance to see that not all the nice girls are married.

Not one single fact about either Catherine's life or her death has been authentically established, but there is a wealth of legend about her. The story is that she lived in the fourth century, she was the daughter of an aristocratic family, and she was a great scholar and a great beauty. In the course of her studies she learned about Christianity, and was intellectually interested in it, but her academic point of view changed to a complete conversion and surrender when she was visited by a vision of the Blessed Virgin holding her Child.

From that time on, both her beauty and her scholarship got her in trouble. She heard the Emperor Maxentius was beginning a cruel persecution of the Christians, and she walked boldly up to the imperial personage and told him what she thought of such action. He tried to argue with her, but she was much too smart for him. He called in 50 of his top scholars to defend the pagan gods, but even they were no match for Catherine. She converted them, and the Emperor ordered them all burned.

* * *

Here is where her beauty saved her—for a worse fate. She was not burned with her 50 converts because the Emperor wanted her as his consort—he already had a wife. Naturally she declined this doubtful honor and the Emperor, enraged but still not willing to give up hope and put her to death, had her beaten.

The crowning insult put upon his imperial majesty was that Catherine proceeded to convert his wife and 200 of his best soldiers. Maxentius ordered them all killed. The 200 soldiers were quickly dispatched, but for Catherine the Emperor devised a special, slow and agonizing death on a spiked wheel. It is from this legend that we get the name "Catherine wheel" for that popular item of fireworks.

FEAST OF LIGHTS

Twenty-one centuries ago a little band of Jewish soldiers fought and won the first recorded battle for religious liberty. They resisted and overcame the mighty Syrian hordes, who if victorious would have wiped out Judaism both as a faith and as a way of life.

But this war, which is called the Maccabean War because the Jews were led by Judas Maccabeus, did far more than rescue one religion from extinction. The English historian, Cecil Roth, said, "The Maccabean War determined the future of civilization. It decided that modern civilization should have a Jewish-Christian ethic."

It is, therefore, a victory of world-wide importance that the Jews celebrate with their eight-day Feast of Lights, called Hanukkah, which begins Thursday. At first there was considerable hesitation among the rabbis about allowing Hanukkah to become a religious festival, for it is not permissible for Jews to associate human bloodshed and worship. For this reason there are no military references in the symbolism of this festival.

For eight days each year, beginning on the 25th day of the month of Kislev, Jews give thanks for and draw inspiration from the great event which meant the survival of Judaism, rather than from the fighting or the bloodshed that event involved.

On each of the eight days they light candles, one the first day, two the second, and so on. A special nine-branch candelabrum, called a Menorah, is used, the ninth place being provided for an extra candle from which the others are lighted. The special significance of the candle ceremony is that it recalls the rekindling of the lights in the Temple when the holy place was re-dedicated after the Maccabean warriors had captured it from the Syrians.

LI'L ONES

Dr. William Brady's Mailbag:

Foot Cramps Are Sign of Tetany

Man aged 63 seems in good health . . .check-up recently, and doctor said he is a very healthy man except that he smokes too much. However, for some months now he has been having severe charley horses in his legs and feet at night. They wake him and he suffers greatly . . . (Mrs. R. J.)

Answer — Not charley horse. Cramps. Not a "check-up." A medical, health or physical examination. The cramps are typical of tetany. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet on "Adult Tetany."

Please send me your book "Why Have Headache?" I have suffered with periodic sick headache for years—attacks every two or three weeks that put me down and out for 48 hours. My grandmother was a faithful follower of your teachings, and she was always after me to get the book but I never seemed to get around to writing . . Family doctor says nothing physically wrong with me . . . (Mrs. E. S. Van P.)

Answer — It doesn't require much writing—just write: Pamphet Why Have Headache, please, sign your name, and mail it to me with a stamped envelope bearing your address. Grandma WAS a follower? You mean she isn't any more?

When I was a little girl it was a daily custom of mine to go into the granary, put a handful of wheat in my dress pocket and chew it. Never thought of germs . . . (Mrs. B. F. W.)

Answer — Yahbut. I want to continue teaching, so let it go at that. The pamphlet "Wheat To Eat" is available on request, if you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Gratitude for your foot salve. Had terrible feet (suppose it was a fungus growth). The trouble cleared up promptly after the first application of the salve. . . . (N. D.)

Answer — Detailed instructions in booklet "Care of the Feet" for which send 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I was taking two lemons a day, was told I could take three. Does this thin the blood, or is it not advisable to take too many? (N. C. D.)

Answer — Take all you like. Lemon or lemon juice does not thin the blood. The very thought of it makes me shudder.

Want to thank you for your pamphlet on Bed-Wetting Habit. I truly feel my prayers were answered through your advice. Gave my 8-year-old daughter one grain quinine twice daily for three weeks. It worked . . . (Mrs. M. P. E.)

Answer — Pamphlet on bed-wetting habit available on request if you send stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Told the doctor I'd like to be with her, and she wanted me to stay with her at the time of the birth. He said "Sorry, but the rule is only doctors and nurses can be with the patients."

Answer — The best place to have a baby is not subject to any such "rule"—home.

Our 8-year-old son no longer wets the bed, thanks to the fine advice in your pamphlet. Have you some good advice for our 14-year-old daughter who is unhappy with blackheads and pimples . . . (Mrs. R.H.M.)

Answer — For pamphlet "The Bed-Wetting Habit," or one on "Acne — Blackheads and Pimples," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope. If you ask for both, inclose 25 cents in addition.

Signed letters, not more than one page, or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Pastors Must Be Star Salesmen

Notice this naval officer's compliment for a star salesman of religion. Every clergyman is supposed to imitate St. Paul who was probably the best salesman Christianity has ever had. A good salesman, however, must sell himself before he can persuade others to accept his ideas or his wares. So clergymen must be deft Applied Psychologists.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

* * *

He and my oldest son George went through aviation training together and have been firm friends ever since.

Since Frank is the type of well rounded personality typical of our best military officers, he supports the church and moral enterprises not just with lip service alone but by faithful attendance thereat.

In a recent letter, he mentioned Dr. John H. Hanger who is a pastor in Jacksonville. And Frank's praise of Dr. Hanger merits reproduction, for clergymen often fail to realize their constructive influence on the people in their audiences.

"Indeed, strangers often receive such a soul tonic from a single shy visit to a church that their entire lives may be altered, yet they may never thank the clergyman face to face.

So this letter from Frank Hill reflects the helpful influence of thousands of faithful clerics everywhere.

* * *

"Dr. Hanger is truly a great man," wrote Frank Hill. "He has an unusual ability to reach the people and make each one feel important.

"He has such a relaxed way of giving a sermon. He exudes a joyous outlook on life which is contagious.

"He could speak all day long and hold the interest of his congregation. And I have also become acquainted with Mrs. Hanger and the children.

"She fits in so perfectly with her husband, for she is cheerful and also has a sincere smile and warm greeting for everybody, including the strangers.

"I heard her conduct a Sunday evening service at which her sister sang, and they both gave the program a distinct lift. The entire Hanger family sets a high standard."

CLERICS ARE SALESMEN

Every clergyman is supposed to be a star salesman of ethics. But the cardinal rule in all sales work is that the salesman must first sell himself to the prospect or he will never be able to sell his merchandise or ideas.

So a clergyman must learn how to win friends and be popular in his own right, or he can't expect to attract converts to his religious ideas.

And among the churches where the clerics marry, this stellar salesmanship extends even to the wives and children.

Such a clergyman's family should cooperate as a team in helping show that morality is fun and religion is a happy way of life instead of a gloomy affair.

* * *

Occasionally a splendid clergyman may have a wife who fails to do her part. Or he may have children who forget their allegiance to the family team.

As a rule, however, there is a very high degree of family loyalty and cooperation in a clergyman's family, as demonstrated by the Hangers at Jacksonville.

It is largely a tribute to the talented clergymen of this generation that the percentage of church membership in America has zoomed to 60 per cent from a mere 25 per cent at the start of this 20th century.

So go to church tomorrow and pay your clergyman a deserved compliment when he makes an interesting sermon or does anything else that helps advance the cause of moral progress.

And if he isn't a good speaker, send him my booklet "Public Platform Strategy." Enclose a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit) when you send for the booklet.

Clergymen are usually topnotch public speakers but sometimes they get too academic and thus put their listeners to sleep.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Band Parent Astonished at Small Playing Space

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

Being a band parent, I was quite astonished to see the crowded conditions under which the band at Madison Junior High must work. How a band director squeezes a 50-piece band into approximately 30x40 feet of space is beyond me. Wasn't this to have been a band room where there would be ample elbow room for these young musicians?

As I understand it, the vocal department takes over the band room for two periods and an academic class two periods. Why should this be when the teachers have a large room in which an academic or vocal class could easily be taught? Besides, the the faculty has a faculty lounge at the opposite end of the building. Do the teachers need two rooms?

A band needs a complete room to itself. With equipment, such as music stands, folders and whatever else a bandleader must need for rehearsing, the band should have the room. If there were no other rooms available for teaching vocal or academic classes, I would most certainly go along with the conditions as they now exist, but do the teachers need two rooms?

'Hunting No Cause for Heart Attacks'

I am annoyed every fall when I hear people say, "Well, I see hunting brought on seven fatal heart attacks. Isn't it awful?"

No, it isn't awful, for hunting didn't do it. Probably seven men out of that huge number would have had heart attacks if they'd been wearing their slippers and sitting in a bath robe in their favorite easy chair. A certain percentage will always be afflicted. Hunting isn't responsible and let's keep that clear.

Lists Frailties of 'Blue Law'

Those commissioners that want to close up the town every Sunday must not go outside at all on the Sabbath. We'd have automobiles stalled all over Oakland County for lack of gas. How about the drug stores if you needed a prescription? How about the Sunday papers? How about—oh, finish this yourself.

Questions Losses of Chiefs' Games

Another losing football season has been completed for the Chiefs. Too bad when you compare it with a brilliant winning season for the junior varsity. Why is it these same J.V. boys get beaten when they make varsity? Lack of thorough coaching in blocking and tackling is the obvious reason.

Elmer Engle of the Bay City squad lays down the law to his boys and the results are evident. Before he came, Pontiac found Bay City an easy mark. Since Royal Oak got a new coach four years ago, we haven't beaten them once. As these teams were easy marks for Pontiac before their new coaches, there must be something in who's coach.

After keenly observing the Chiefs all season, I note the players' eagerness to play the game, but they just don't know how. Also, I notice other coaches call each play by sending in a substitute. We seldom do this unless a player gets hurt. Certainly a coach is more qualified to set the plays up than an over-anxious quarterback. We give our Pontiac boys the best of equipment and a good field to play on.

Praises Press' Religious News

The Pontiac Press should be commended for the fine article on the churches by Mary Anglemier in Wednesday's issue. It was heartening to see how the whole community has rallied to the Thanksgiving day spirit. The Pontiac Press has always done a better all around job covering church news than most newspapers. It gives more columns to religion and church news and activities. In these days of rapes, arson, murder and bandits, it is comforting to find a newspaper fighting for a greater religious faith and activity.

Calls Eden Move a Double Cross

No one has asked me, but I think Eden double crossed the United States about as completely as it has ever been done. Dulles certainly had cause to think he was dealing with an honorable gentleman, for that's what England has produced, by and large. Eden is done in world politics. I think he's done in England. No one will believe him any more. Shame on the British Lion for having a man of that kind in so important a job.

List and Explain Puzzle Answers

The following are correct answers and explanations for Pot-O-Gold Puzzle No. 24 which appeared in last week's Pontiac Press.

1. If an old lady looked ROSY after a siege of illness, everyone would notice it; she would look blooming, fresh, "in the pink." Being spry or agile, is more a matter of physical activity than of appearnace.

2. A TIC, a little nervous twitching of the eyelid, is really a nuisance when you're trying to read. After every few words, there goes that flutter again, one of those minor annoyances we all have now and then. A cut in the eyelid would have more bearing on the whole effect to see rather than the limited "trying to read."

3. Mr. Smith's ANGER would be something for the neighbors really to talk about, with his voice booming out. The range of his voice has more to do with the tonal scale of which the voice is capable; a voice of great range is not necessarily loud, and the neighbors might very well be left out of this juicy bit of gossip altogether.

4. A HOBO, or tramp, is about as unmarriageable as any man could be; you'd be pretty astonished if a glamour girl married one. A boor is rude and a boob isn't very bright; still, the boors and the boobs manage to get girls who see them through the rosy glow of love—even very charming young ladies often marry them.

5. To ABET a card sharp in his trickery, requires a really deft skill. Certainly he could not be helped by any clumsy signals, or mishandling of a deal that the opponents would soon catch onto. Since most professional card cheats allow their prospective victims to win at first, in order not to scare them off, it does not require skill to beat them, at least for awhile.

6. A TOPER, or drunkard, undoubtedly heads the list of those who produce phrases that others can't understand. In addition to the blur of words he can't say very clearly, there's such a mental fuzziness that he's uncertain what he wants to say. Poets speak in terms of melody in words, often an end in itself. But usually, upon analysis, there is at least a figurative meaning.

7. The KIT, taken on a camping trip, might be vital in case of an accident or other emergency. Dad would want to make sure that it was in good shape, because he might have to depend on it if something happened to his kid or kin.

8. Riding a HORSE is one of the very best possible ways to get exercise, bouncing up and down in a way that really stimulates circulation. The shore, or beach, is often used just to lie on, though you might get up and throw a ball back and forth. The water along the shore is usually where the exercise gets into the picture.

9. GAPS in the heavily wooded area of a mountainside would be sought out by amateur climbers. A guide, or a professional climber, would look for a pass, a narrow passage that someone had worked out before; but a group of amateurs would go at it in a haphazard way, looking for spaces between the trees that they could walk through.

10. The NORM, or pattern to be followed, has been very much stressed in Communist countries, where speedy workers se tthe pace, and all the others were expected to break their backs to follow it. It wasn't just more work that was demanded; everybody was supposed to keep up with the norm set by one worker who happened to be extra fast.

11. A TENOR usually has the starring male role in an opera or a musical, so that a wife would be impressed if her husband's singing in the shower was a beautiful tenor. Beautiful tones or notes would not in themselves indicate the same possibility of success.

12. RELAYS is suggested by the clue, one "after" the other, where one team or one step follows another, in a sort of continuing chain. Layers follow one "upon" another, as in laying cement, or making a cake—one on top of another, rather than after.

13. A continuous loud NOISE would certainly be disturbing if you're trying to sleep. The basic fact about a snore is that is is a noise.

14. If frivolous Jane's answers were always TRUE, mother would be very pleased that in spite of her daughter's trivial, silly manner, she was truthful and trustworthy at heart. Cute answers would please the girl's friends or beaus, rather than her mother.

15. REGAL has a definite association with a king, since it means royal. With so many former kings fretting out their days in exile, it can hardly be said any longer that they have definite connection with a realm, or a kingdom that they rule over.

16. If a CIRCLE, or group of prople drawn together by similar tastes has an interest in the history of religion, one would certainly expect scholarly discussion of the subject. A cleric, or clergyman, concerns himself primarily with the needs of his parishioners, rather than with religious history.

Oakland Home Council Announces Yule Party

The Oakland County Home Demonstration Council will hold its annual Christmas party combined with a business meeting at 10 a.m. Dec. 5 at the home of Mrs. William Tiberg, 144 Ogemaw, Pontiac.

There will be an exchange of gifts, a musical program and several other events following the morning business meeting, Mary Hixon, home demonstration agent said.

Presiding over the day's activities will be Mrs. Laura Perry of Clarkston, county chairman of the Home Demonstration Council.

Story of Ike's Life Told in Mural Form

ABILENE, Kan. (AP) — Fifty thousand dollars worth of murals illustrating President Eisenhower's life from boyhood to the presidency were to be unveiled today in the main lobby of the Eisenhower Museum.

The President sent word that he could not attend ceremonies unveiling the murals but he was to send a message to be read on the occasion.

The murals are the gift of the National Academy of Design. The gift was made possible through a request of Mrs. Mary Gertrude Abbey in memory of her husband, Edwin Austin Abbey, an artist who died in 1917.

* * *

Louis Bouche of New York and Ross Moffett of Provincetown, Mass., painted the murals on canvass. The canvass then was cemented to the four walls of the museum lobby.

School in Japan: 70th Birthday

Tragedy and Death Has Not Killed Spirit of Hiroshima Girls

During the first week of October there was celebrated the 70th anniversary of an educational institution whose history is a record of triumph over incredible tragedy.

Hiroshima Girls' School, Hiroshima, Japan, an institution of the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist Board of Missions, was opened in the autumn of 1886 in rented rooms, grew in work and influence through the years, was destroyed in 1945, and today—rebuilt and still growing—continues its work.

It was the first atom bomb which destroyed the school, on Aug. 6, 1945. By that time Hiroshima Girls' School had developed into an institution with two departments—high school and college—and an enrollment of over 900 girls. When the bomb fell on that summer morning it killed 350 students and totally demolished the buildings.

Three months after the bomb fell the school had rented four classrooms of a partly-destroyed grammar school and started all over again, with less than 100 students. One year to the day after the bomb fell, the school dedicated new, temporary buildings on the site of the ones destroyed. Two years to the day after the bomb fell, the school dedicated new senior high school buildings on its original site.

Additional buildings for the college department was completed during the quadrennium just ended, and today Hiroshima Girls' School has an enrollment exceeding one thousand in its high school department and over three hundred and fifty in its college department.

Missionary's Work Will Be Broadcast on March of Medicine

The Rev. Duncan D. McColl, pastor of the First Christian Church, is directing his congregation in the study of the Roman Epistles. Each Sunday one or two chapters are reviewed and the highlights held up for close consideration.

Tomorrow chapters three and four will be discussed with the theme, "Salvation by Faith." Visitors are always welcome, stated the pastor.

The work of Dr. John Ross, missionary at Lotumbe, African Belgium Congo will be featured in a broadcast over the March of Medicine Telecast, Tuesday at 9:30 EST on WWJ Detroit.

Dr. Ross spends 14 hours a day operating, visiting the sick and carrying the message of Christ to the people of the Congo region.

Bible Words for Today

PROVERBS 3: 5, 6 — "Trust in the Lord with all your heart, and do not rely on your own insight. In all your ways acknowledge Him, and He will make straight your paths." (RSV)

* * *

It is not so simple in a complex society to believe that God is weaving a design for his creation, that He is guiding the destiny of man, that man can know the will of God. Yet, as one looks upon the annals of human history, surely it is the guiding hand of God that has written it. God makes night to cover the face of the earth. He clothes the lilies of the field. He knows when one sparrow falls to the earth. Events occur daily that can be interpreted only as the guidance of God.

But how can man know the guidance of God? It comes from trustful seeking in all the ways of life. Then man can move from one task to another sustained by the sureness of God's hand upon his life. The complexities of life do not deter for He is making straight our paths.

Outdoor Church Programs Gain in Popularity

The significance of the outdoor church program, which is interesting a wider segment of the church-going population each year, is pointed up by figures just released by the National Council of Churches' Bureau of Research.

During the summer of 1955 more than 650,000 persons attended 5,559 camps and conferences in the United States. This marked an increase of 15 per cent over the previous summer.

The church's outdoor program is rapidly becoming the concern of the entire church world, says Dr. Virgil E. Foster, editor of the International Journal of Christian Education, in the November special issue devoted entirely to this movement.

The National Council of Churches' committee on camps and conferences, speaking through this issue, is seeking to provide better training for the 63,000 leaders of these camps and conferences.

Confident Living

Vision, Prayer Succeed Where Will Power Fails

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

One night about a year ago, after I had given a talk, a woman came up to speak to me. Although she had a pretty face and an attractive disposition, she was very heavy with surplus weight.

"How old would you say I am?" she demanded.

"Madam," I answered, though surprised, "I may have done a lot of foolish things in my life, but I have always made it a rule never to try to guess a woman's age."

"Would you say I am somewhere around 50?" she asked.

I thought I could be safely conservative. "Yes, maybe so."

* * *

You're wrong by 20 years," she said, triumphantly. "I'm 30. But as you can see I have a weight problem. I really want to get thin. My doctor gives me a diet, but he can't give me the will power to follow it. Why, when I see a box of candy . . ."

"I know," I interrupted, "you empty the box."

DR. PEALE

FEELS DISINTEGRATED

She grinned and nodded. "I feel all scattered apart inside," she said. I was delighted with the picturesque accuracy of that phrase. That was it, of course — the flabbiness of her inner life was reflected in the flabbiness of her body.

"This is a battle you will never win by will power," I told her. "Every time you look at a box of candy and say to yourself, 'No, I won't eat a single piece of that,' you only tend to fasten it's tempting image more firmly in your mind."

"That is exactly what happens," she agreed, "though I have never had it put to me in quite those words."

* * *

"Why don't you try spiritual imagination instead," I suggested. "Paint a picture on your mind of the beautiful, slender person you want to be. Say to yourself, 'There I am; that is what I am going to be.' In doing this you will be pitting your imagination against your desire, and imagination is far the stronger. We can become what we picture more surely than by attempting to remake ourselves by trying to muster up flabby will power.

ASK GOD'S HELP

"And there is something else you can do. Tell the Lord that you realize what a tragedy it is to be defeated by anything — even if it is only candy, fried potatoes, pastry and whipped cream. Say to Him that you want to be master of yourself. He will help you. Such prayers can make you stronger than any temptation.

"You can succeed in dieting through imagination, faith and prayer. If you do your part and get some real spiritual motviation, you will see results."

Several months after this conversation a very nice looking woman came up to me after church. She was attractively dressed, youthful and vibrant. It seemed that I had met her, yet I couldn't place her. She smiled at me and asked, "How old would you say I am?"

"Not a day over 20," I replied promptly.

GUESS AGAIN

"Wrong by eleven years," she said, and reminded me of our former encounter. I hadn't recognized her, she was so changed.

"I'm organized now," she said, "drawn together, straightened up — and thinner."

Organization — that's the secret. That means to get yourself under control and be master of yourself. No one can exercise mastery if he is flying apart all the time. That is one of the great services religion performs for us. It tightens us up and fuses us together so that our personalities are no longer disorganized.

* * *

If you can make your religion the organizing force in your life, you can handle any personal problem.

Ike's U.N. Policy Backed by Churches

NEW YORK — In a message to President Eisenhower the National Council of Churches strongly supported the President's announced policy of acting through the United Nations in the current world crisis, and urged "vigorous concerted efforts by the United States" and other countries in the U. N. to work for just and durable long-range political settlements.

The message, signed by Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, of Philadelphia, National Council president, hailed United Nations action taken so far to halt the fighting in the Middle East. It also welcomed U. N. demands for withdrawal of Soviet forces from beleaguered Hungary.

Boston University Offers Course on Alcoholism

In Massachusetts, Boston University has added a course on alcoholism to its night school schedule. Designed to help meet the growing problem of alcoholism in industry, the course has been planned for personnel officials, company medical staffs and foremen.

Sponsored by the Boston Personnel Managers Club and the Boston Committee on Alcoholism, the course is taught by Dr. David Landau, Medical Director of the Alcoholism Committee.

TV Popular in Seoul, About 5,000 Viewers

Television only introduced in Seoul on June 16, has already become a popular source of entertainment.

Within two months after its establishment, it was estimated that 5,000 persons watched each presentation, most of this audience viewing the screens of the 50 sets installed in public parks, commercial centers, and railway stations.

There were only 200 sets altogether in Seoul during this initial stage of broadcasting.

FRANCIS KORNEGAY

DR. CHARLES L. DINKINS

Men of Trinity Baptist in Charge of Services

Fathers and sons will gather in the dining room of Trinity Baptist Church at 7:30 toinght for the annual Father-Son Banquet.

The fathers will be heard matching their voices against the sons in contest; the father and son of the year will be chosen by the judges with an award going to the ideal father and son. Judges will base their choice on the relationship in play, home and church.

The Oakland County Children's Home and the Pontiac Big Brother Club are cooperating in providing fathers for boys with no father, and sons for fathers with no sons.

Francis Kornegay, assistant executive director of the Detroit Urban League, will be guest speaker.

Mr. Kornegay received his B.S. degree from North Carolina College, Durham, N.C., and a Phi Beta Sigma award, his M.A. in "Guidance and Personnel" in 1941 and is now working for a Ph.D. degree from the University of Michigan. He is a former employe of the United States Treasury Department.

The recording secretary of the Detroit Council of Churches, Mr. Kornegay has served as columnist for the Detroit Tribune "Labor and Industry" and edited articles on "What the Employer Wants."

Sunday will be annual Men's Day at Trinity with the theme "Men for Christ."

Men will teach all Sunday School classes. Alexander Spears will lead the youth group. Teenage boys are scheduled to present a special program at Sunday School.

At the morning worship hour, laymen will be in charge of the service. The Men's Choir will present special music directed by Luther French and the Boys' Choir will also sing.

Dr. Charles L. Dinkins of Nashville, Tenn., will speak at the 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. services. A former member of the International Sunday School Board, he is a member of the board of directors of the World Council of Churches, dean of the Tennessee Leadership Education Congress, member of the board of directors of National Baptist Convention of America, Inc., and minister of the First Baptist Church of Nashville.

Dr. Dinkins holds several degrees from Oberlin College. The chairman of Men's Day at Trinity Baptist is Vernon Page, president of the Men's Club.

Exhibit Shows Rise in Culture for Germans

Three rare objects—a page from the Ulfilas Bible, the evangeliar from St. Chapelle in Paris, and the Golden Madonna from the thesaurus of the Essen Cathedral—are on display with a wealth of other valuable pieces in the Krupp Villa Huegtl, Essen, Germany, according to the German Tourist Information Office.

Called "The Rise of Occidental Culture," the exhibit shows the treasures, borrowed for the occasion, of one hundred German and forty foreign owners.

The visitor is led through displays of the Roman and early Christian culture of this European region, including archeological finds of Roman times, evidence of the migrations of the Franks, and costly codictes and secular and ecclesiastical works of art from the Merovingian and Carolingian periods of the Christian epoch.

Protestant Missionaries Increase by 25 Per Cent

NEW YORK—America is sending 25 per cent more Protestant missionaries to foreign countries than four years ago.

A new survey of the entire Protestant foreign missionary enterprise shows an all-time high total of 23,432 overseas missionaries from the United States and Canada—22,680 from the United States alone. The figure four years ago was 18,576.

The new count is more than twice that of 20 years ago, when there were 11,289.

The figures were released today by the Missionary Research Library, maintained jointly by the National Council of Churches' Division of Foreign Missions and Union Theological Seminary. They covered 213 agencies or 95 per cent of all known groups.

The survey showed that Protestant missionaries are serving in 100 foreign countries, with 35 per cent in East, Southeast and Southern Asia; 29 per cent in Africa south of the Sahara Desert; and 26.5 per cent in Latin America.

Despite some semi-official attempts to discourage entry of new missionaries into India, that country leads all others in the number represented, with 2,127 as reported by 82 per cent of the agencies covered.

Next is Japan, with 1,562 and the Belgian Congo with 1,195. China, once host to 4,492 American Protestant missionaries, now has one, held in prison. (He is the Rev. Paul Mackensen, United Lutheran, held by the Communists in Shanghai.)

Six out of every ten missionaries are women. However, the study showed that fewer single women are serving in foreign missions than formerly.

* * *

About 28 per cent of missionaries are ordained, against 34 per cent four years ago when the last previous study was made. Missionary families average two children.

In addition to ordained missionaries, whose chief duties are evangelistic or in ministerial training, more than 2,000, roughly 11 per cent, are medical doctors and nurses.

Non-ordained missionaries also include farm technicians, school teachers, literacy experts, radio broadcasters, film makers, construction engineers, architects, air pilots and ground crews.

* * *

For study purposes foreign missionaries were defined as North Americans who are employed in full-time overseas service by Protestant foreign missions boards and agencies.

Youth Groups Will See Film

Church School Staff to Make Christmas and New Year Plans

The film, "The Jealous Heart," will be presented to the young people of First Presbyterian Church at 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

Tuxis devotions will be led by John Doerr. Refreshments will be served by Paul Tremper.

Ruth Ann Hoffman will be in charge of the devotions for the Pioneer Group with Mrs. D. O. Newman and Mrs. John Livingstone providing the refreshments.

The Church School Staff will meet on Tuesday evening under the direction of the Rev. Galen E. Hershey. Plans for the Christmas season will be completed and suggestions for the new year made.

The Couples' Club will meet Wednesday evening. Dr. Russell Curtis, coordinator for the Pontiac High School, will speak and present the film, "Education by Prescription." A discussion will follow.

Hosts will be Mr. and Mrs. Sid Savage, the Rev. and Mrs. Galen E. Hershey and the Rev. and Mrs. Edward D. Auchard.

Mrs. Gordon Doule and Ruth Carmean will assist Mrs. Sid Savage in the nursery during the 11 o'clock worship hour. Mrs. Savage and Mrs. Doule are registered nurses.

Parents of the infants are asked to assist in the nursery occasionally.

Earl Van Dyke is chairman with a committee comprised of William Herrmann, Stephen Napier, Reginald Shaw, George Beauchamp, Forrest Wood and Lester Carlson.

Samoan Studies on Scholarship

Descendant of Royalty Attends Illinois School on Methodist Grant

A descendant of one of the royal families of Samoa has completed study as a Methodist Crusade Scholar and is now continuing study on a scholarship from the Illinois Conference of the Methodist Church.

Miss Penelope John Alailima, of Salamumu, western Samoa, student for a year at Ohio Wesleyan University, is now at MacMurray College, Jacksonville, Ill., for another year of study before returning to her work of teaching in her homeland.

According to a Methodist official in Samoa, "her calling as a Christian rates higher than her noble standing in Samoan families."

One of fifteen children of a Samoan Methodist minister (a district superintendent), Miss Alailima has taught in Methodist mission schools and "sometimes," she says, "I taught in Methodist Sunday schools."

* * *

Her mother, from whom Miss Alailima received her royal heritage, has been a district president of the Methodist Women's Christian Association of Samoa.

Awaiting the student's return to Samoa, in addition to her family, is her fiance, and it is hoped that the wedding will take place shortly after the young lady arrives.

Korea Starts Building Huge Training Center

Construction of the largest vocational training center in the Republic of Korea has begun at Kyonggi Technical High School in the western section of Seoul. It is being developed by the City of Seoul with UNKRA aid.

When completed, it will train more than 1,000 students in mechanical engineering, architecture and civil engineering.

Repeat Nativity Scene

GREENFIELD, Mass. — A Nativity scene with life-size figures will again be placed on the town common this year. The town park department will erect the creche and assume charge of it.

Church Group to Present Mock Wedding

Young women of the Newman AME Church will present an evening of entertainment featuring the Biblical setting of King Solomon's wedding with a large cast.

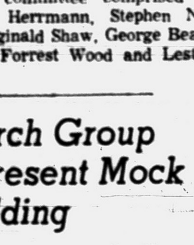

The performance will be at 8 o'clock tonight in the New Bethel Church, Branch at Warner streets. Directors of the mock wedding are Mrs. Carl Moss, Mrs. Leroy Grayson and Mrs. Juanita White.

The entertainment will benefit the building fund. The Rev. J. Allen Parker is pastor of the Newman Church.

WAS MARY THE MOTHER OF GOD?

Mary, the virgin mother of our Lord Jesus Christ, has always held an important place in the thinking of the Christian Church.

Mary was indeed "blessed among women," as we read in the Bible. But there is no Scriptural basis for assuming that she possesses any power or influence over the Lord Jesus Christ in the exercise of His divine power.

The gospels clearly state that Mary, a virgin, became the mother of our Lord. It was from Mary that Jesus derived His humanity—but not His deity. Jesus respected Mary. On the cross He took thought for the welfare of His aging mother and committed her to the care of His disciple, John.

Yet Mary needed a Saviour. In the Bible we read that Mary said, "My spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour." (Luke 1: 47)

The Bible never refers to Mary as "the Mother of God." In the history of the Christian Church she was never called "the Mother of God" until the middle of the fifth century A. D.

The truth of the Gospel is centered in Jesus Christ, the Son of God, not in Mary His mother. The Bible says: "Thou shalt call his name JESUS: for he shall save his people from their sins." (Matthew 1: 21)

Bible-believing Protestants have preserved the Bible emphasis in giving supreme place to the person and work of Jesus Christ. Jesus alone has made possible our salvation. The Bible says that "if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved." (Romans 10: 9)

Dance Season Welcomed

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Fox (left) are pictured as they chatted with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tillson Friday. Mr. Fox is president of Viernes Dance Club which held its first dance of the season Friday evening at Elks Temple. Mr. and Mrs. Tillson, new members, were introduced to club members at the dance.

Who Gets Extra Food After Party?

BY EMILY POST

"About two weeks ago several couples decided to have a party. One of the couples has a very nice playroom and said we could have the party there. It was decided among the couples what each should bring to the party.

* * *

"As I am a rather good baker, I was asked to bring the dessert. I baked two pies and a cake. The two pies were eaten but not the cake. Some of the other food was also left.

"What I would like to know is, would it have been proper for each guest to have taken home the uneaten food that she brought, or should it have been left at the house where the party was given? I would very much appreciate your opinion on this matter."

"Dear Mrs. Post: I have been asked to play the organ at a friend's wedding. I am still going to college where I am majoring in music and do not have too much money. The bride would like certain selections played for which I will have to buy music.

"I do not intend to accept a fee for my services. Would it be proper for me to give her this as my wedding gift, or must I give her a present in addition? I have been invited to the reception following the ceremony."

Answer: I think the gift of the music is both gererous and ample.

"Dear Mrs. Post: During a recent illness I received a great many flowers and cards and notes. Is it necessary now for me to answer individually each one of these kindnesses, or is someone who has been seriously ill excused from writing thank-you notes?"

Answer: Very few people expect any thanks for get-well cards or notes, but you would say "thank you" as you encounter these friends. For flowers or gifts, thank-you notes should be sent little by little to those you have not thanked personally.

Sorority Gathers at Johnson Home

Mrs. Herbert Johnson entertained members of Alpha Chapter of Beta Theta Phi sorority recently in her home on Lowell street.

Mrs. Lester Cross and Helen Turek conducted the pledging of Mrs. Jack Greathouse, Mrs. Homer Tinney and Mrs. Lucy Rene. The members made plans to further their project, that of assisting the women patients at Pontiac State Hospital.

Mrs. Glenn Grim of East Beverly avenue will entertain the group at the next meeting.

Dinner-Dance Set

Reservations are being taken by Oakland Hills Country Club for its President's formal dinner-dance, Dec. 1. William H. Breech is president. Cocktails will be served from 8 to 9 p.m. with a special presidential dinner menu from 9 p.m.

Dr. and Mrs. Lynn Allen Jr. are pictured at the first Viernes dance of the season held Friday at Elks Temple. Dr. Allen is vice-president of Viernes this year.

MRS. JOHN TOUSCANY

Newly Married Couple Will Live in Birmingham

Susan McKnight became the bride of John F. Touscany this noon at Church of the Resurrection, Lansing. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Jerome MacEachen performed the service.

Susan's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Irwin H. McKnight of East Lansing and John's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Touscany of Clarkston.

For the single-ring ceremony, the bride chose a blush pink satin gown with a scoop neckline banded with lace. The lace was repeated in the small cap which secured her veil of pink silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. John Campbell of Grand Rapids was matron of honor wearing a pink taffeta ballerina-length dress with a bustle back. Her flowers were American beauty roses.

Jacqueline Touscany of Clarkston, Suzanne Scott, Catherine Reigel and Mrs. Jack Spalding of East Lansing were her other attendants. they were gowned similarly to the matron of honor.

* * *

Thomas Brennan of Birmingham was best man, and ushers were Raymond Yasiek of Detroit, Bob Eby of Flint, Robert McKnight and Peter McKnight of East Lansing and Peter Kenyon of Saddle River, N. J.

Following the reception being held in the Lansing Country Club, the couple will honeymoon in New York City.

The bride is a graudate of the University of Michigan and John was graduated from Michigan State University.

* * *

Grandparents of the infant are Mrs. B. Irene Kemp and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Lawson, all of Baltimore, Md.

Top Designers Stress Elegance

Oleg Cassini is one of the top designers who has launched a group of late-day dresses in baby soft corduroy. Trimmed only with touches of gold, in buckles or buttons, they are rewarding examples of fine workmanship and great elegance.

Brigance, perhaps the leading exponent of sophistication in casual clothes, also gives corduroy the glamor treatment. He likes to quilt it for surface interest, and combines pinwale with embroidered silk to make a flattering fireside costume.

And the new combination of gold threads in white corduroy offers a wealth of designer interpretations for after-five wear in both cocktail and at-home versions.

Coming Events

Emor L. Calkins WCTU will meet with Mrs. Frank Hardenburg, 75 Foster St., Tuesday for a 12:30 p.m. sack luncheon.

Pontiac Republican Women's Club will meet Monday at 1:30 p.m. at Adah Shelly Library. Robert C. Miller will be guest speaker.

Bethel 40, International Order of Job's Daughters, will meet at Roosevelt Temple Monday at 7:30 p.m. for initiation.

Couple Married in Miami Shores

* * *

A four-tiered veil of pure silk French illusion fell from her crown delicately beaded in pearls and paillettes on lace. She carried an arrangement of calla lilies.

Joyce is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Arthur Dyckes of Miami Shores, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. John Robert Slavsky of Dow Ridge are John's parents.

* * *

Bishop Alexander Zaleski of St. Alphonsus Church, Dearborn, celebrated the Nuptial Mass at 10:30 this morning in St. Rose of Lima Church, Miami Shores.

ATTENDS BRIDE

Mrs. Dixon Hall of Detroit wore a ballerina-length gown of iridescent mint green taffeta for her duties as matron of honor. The fitted princess bodice extended to form a bell-type skirt in front. At the back the skirt was pleated to create fullness.

* * *

Short white gloves complemented the three-quarter-length sleeves. She wore a matching headpiece and carried an arrangement of rust-colored chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Charles Carroll Jr. of Miami, Mrs. Ben Battle Jr. of Miami, Joan Dyckes of Miami, cousin of the bride, Mary Lou Abell of Glasgow, Ky., Mary Jo West of Detroit and Susan Whelchel were the bride's other attendants.

Their gowns were identical in color and style to that of the honor attendant.

* * *

GOWNED IN MAUVE

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Dyckes chose a street-length gown of mauve peau de sole fashioned with three-quarter-length sleeves. She wore a corsage of orchids.

The new Mrs. Slavsky changed to a brown plaid suit with brown accessories for the honeymoon trip to Michigan. The newlyweds will reside on Virgie lane at Orchard Lake.

Joyce Marie Dykes became the bride of John Robert Slavsky, Jr. in a ceremony at Miami Shores, Fla., this morning. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Arthur Dyckes of Miami Shores. Mr. and Mrs. John Robert Slavsky of Dow Ridge are John's parents.

Pastor to Attend Civil Defense Class

The Rev. Wesley C. Wibley, pastor of the First Assembly of God Church and chaplain of the Pontiac Squadron Civil Air Patrol, will leave Monday for Battle Creek.

He will attend the special Staff College Course on the church and civil defense sponsored by the Federal Civil Defense Administration. The course will begin Tuesday and conclude Thursday.

Social Set Listed Now in Blue Book

N. Y. Social Register Lists New Names, Omits Many Old

NEW YORK (INS) — There's a new 1957 model in New York that's bound to set the tongue awagging —both because of what it has and what it doesn't have.

* * *

The 1957 New York Social Register—the blue book of the blue bloods—made its appearance Friday, proving again that it takes more than a well-known name to get inside its hallowed pages.

The Astors are down to five listings, and the Vanderbilts fared little better.

But many of the old faithful of other years still are on hand.

* * *

Mrs. Ann Eden Crowell Woodward, the former model who accidentally shot her sportsman husband, William Woodward Jr., last year, was still among the "listed" despite rumors she would be dropped this year.

Former All-American football star John Sims (Shipwreck) Kelly got a marriage listing and brought in his new bride, the former Kay Hannon of Boston. But such a listing usually indicates the name will be dropped the next year.

Laura S. Rockefeller, daughter of the Laurance S. Rockefellers, did the expected and brought in her groom, James H. Case III, son of the president of Colgate University.

But the list of the absent also reads like a Who's Who in the social set.

* * *

Among the more famous names not in the Social Register this year are—Her Serene Highness Princess Grace of Monaco, who some thought would get a courtesy listing because she maintains a Fifth Ave. apartment; Margaret Truman, long an entry in the Washington Social Register but now the bride of a working newspaperman in New York.

Also the Alfred G. Vanderbilts, now in the throes of divorce; Winthrop Rockefeller and his former wife, Bobo, whose separation also hit the headlines; and Mrs. Audrey Bruce Currier, granddaughter of the late Andrew W. Mellon and once tagged "richest baby in the world," who was married last November to a relatively unknown Bostonian.

Board of Directors Holds Meeting

At the recent board of directors meeting of Northern Oakland County Girl Scout Council, Mrs. E. J. Lally Jr., reported on the Girl Scout Conference held in Milwaukee, Wis., attended by representatives from Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Mrs. John McNeeley announced the appointment of Carolann Bingham, scout field director, to the leisure time committee of the Greater Pontiac Advisory Council.

Middle-Age Blues Aren't Unusual

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

There is sometimes great frustration at middle age. This is understandable. There are many reasons for it. Since most persons experience this in some form, it might be helpful to investigate some of the reasons.

Early in life most people find themselves saddled with heavy responsibilities, financial and emotional. Because of these pressures they are pushed down a certain path for many years. If they are lucky it is the right path. If not, they are trapped, but do not have time to realize it until middle age.

With a man, the trouble may be that he is caught in a career which he would not have chosen had he not had to choose at such a young age. He married and has had the responsibility for the support of his family.

He cannot afford to make a change, to work at what he is really most interested in. He is so busy with the pressure of his financial responsibility that until mid-life he never has a breather in which to wonder why he is doing what he is doing.

Then there are the emotional angles. Perhaps you married the wrong woman or man, and you suddenly take stock, and realize it. However, by this time you are so trapped by habit, by so many shared experiences (not all of them unhappy), that you do not have a chance. But just the same you take a moment and think things over.

VALUES INVOLVED

Actually, anyone with perception and love who has invested for many years in a human relationship, especially one as close as that of a husband or wife, has many values involved. Nevertheless, you may look at the past with a nostalgic viewpoint.

* * *

Then, of course, at middle age your energy may not be just what it once was. Also this is the time when physical weaknesses begin to show up. Maybe you always had a tendency to arthritis, or your blood pressure begins to advance at a rapid rate.

I would like to give a woman of this age a special warning. Most of the new experiences and physical disabilities which you may experience at this age are NOT due to menopause. There has been an old wives' whispering campaign about this perfectly natural phase so that women approach it with fear and blame everything unusual on the change of life.

This attitude has cost many women their happiness and others their lives. The only change menopause makes is that you can no longer have children. If you have any unusual symptoms, report them to your doctor immediately.

* * *

So, if you are feeling frustrated at middle age, remember that you are not alone. Investigate the reasons for your distress, weigh the values carefully.

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 32 "Menopause," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Most persons experience frustration at middle age. The thing to do is to investigate some of the reasons.

U.S. Homes Add Touch of the Orient

* * *

Even if you aren't adept with chopsticks, it's fun to designate some nook or cranny in your house or apartment where you can set a low table (about 10 inches off the floor) and surround it with huge, soft cushions where your guests can sample rare Chinese tea, or that wonderful dish—Sukiyaki.

Or if you don't want to go to such Oriental extremes, try one of the colorful Chinese or Japanese screens on your dining room wall, a rare ivory figurine on your library table, or a colorful Oriental lantern to brighten the foyer.

* * *

And there is nothing more beautiful than a Japanese cloisonne vase filled with the handsome artificial flowers now available, or a cloisonne flower pot with the real McCoy.

Another interesting Oriental touch is provided by the use of delicate, lacy fans which can be hung on the bedroom walls or elsewhere in the home.

Topcoat News in Men's Wear

Many men who yearn to trade in last year's buggy every time new models appear, think nothing of walking around in a topcoat or overcoat that has seen better days.

They fail to realize that such an outercoat is as out of tune with the times as an automobile of early 1950 vintage. New topcoats and overcoats have been styled up and trimmed down in keeping with the trend toward a narrower silhouette in men's fashions, the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear notes.

The newer coats are lighter in weight but just as warm as their more burdensome forebears. Not only are they more comfortable and flattering, but they are a powerful reminder that clothes more than ever indicate a man's position in the world.

Prevent Discomfort for Bed Patients

To help prevent bedsores, wash the bedridden patient's back with soap and water daily. For added comfort, follow up with an alcohol rub to toughen the skin, and dust with powder to keep the skin dry.

Past Points the Way to Happiness

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Some older people spend their time weeping over the good old days. This, of course, prevents their making the new days any good.

Other oldsters live in the present and the future, create their own good new days. Many times, the key to happiness in the new days lies in some activity of the past.

For example, Mr. and Mrs. R. are as happy a pair as you'd meet. Both are around 70. They have a hobby which keeps them busy several hours every day.

It brings them into contact with young people, a very important thing, and brings in a little spare income, too.

"It began," Mrs. R. told me, "about 10 years ago. My husband had retired from his company—forced retirement — and was at loose ends.

"I spent all my time keeping the house overly clean, writing too many letters to the children and grandchildren. It was a lonely and senseless existence for us.

WHITTLING AWAY

"One day, my husband was sitting on the porch whittling. There's nothing wrong with whittling. You can make intersting things.

"But to him it was just a way of wasting time. I realized he might be sitting there whittling for another 20 or 30 years.

"It was a depressing thought, so I threw myself into the housecleaning. I went to the attic, a cleaning job I'd been putting off for months. I saw the dollhouse our girls had had when they were little.

"It was still charming. I burst into tears, thinking of the old days when the house was full and life had some real purpose.

* * *

"I don't know how long I was there, but I do know that my husband finally came and joined me. I guess he thought I'd collapsed. We both stood and looked at the dollhouse and oddly enough, we both had the same idea at once!

MAKING DOLLHOUSES

"Well," she concluded, "we began that day making dollhouses and furnishing them. Henry makes the most charming furniture. I do the curtains and accessories and such.

"We began doing it for fun. Now we have a ready market for every one we make. Our Christmas orders keep us going all year.

"We go at a leisurely pace. We enjoy every bit of it. We're really meeting people and participating in life which, for a while there, I was afraid we'd never again do!"

It takes an open mind to see the possibilities in the present instead of thinking of the past."

* * *

If you'd like to start developing an open mind, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope in care of The Pontiac Press, and I'll send you my "Pointers Toward an Open mind."

Why Do Office-Seekers Strive to Appear Folksy?

Public Would Rather See Candidates Behaving in Natural Manner

By RUTH MILLETT

I don't know who stage-managed Adlai Stevenson's TV appearances.

But somebody should have tipped off the Democratic nominee for president that they made him just too folksy.

One night he appeared on our television screens carrying a big sack of groceries up to the door of his home.

A shot of a presidential candidate carting in a week's supply of bacon and eggs is incongruous enough, but they didn't even let him put his sack down.

All the while he discussed political issues, he held firmly to the sack of groceries. He looked more like a suburbanite caught by a chatty neighbor than a presidential candidate with an important message for the people.

WHY BE FOLKSY?

Of course that was the whole idea. But why? Where does the idea that the American people want everybody to be folksy originate from?

* * *

Why would anyone think we who watch TV would be more impressed by a candidate talking politics from behind a paper sack than from behind a desk? If an important man has something important to say to an audience of millions, why can't he say it in character?

Marilyn Monroe could teach political stage managers an important lesson: Don't strain to be folksy. Just be yourself.

Who ever saw, or wants to see, a picture of Marilyn Monroe down on her hands and knees scrubbing a kitchen floor?

* * *

And who wants to see a candidate for the highest office of the land delivering a speech on world affairs from behind a sack of groceries?

DON'T BE FOOLED

Please, Mr. Candidate. Don't let 'em kid you into thinking that if you are just your own dignified self you won't get a hearing. Don't think you have to remind us of the man next door.

We like the man next door, sure. But it never occurs to us he might make a good president.

The plump figure usually has a pretty neck and shoulder line so can wear a wide and low decollete. Little cap-sleeves will hide large upper arm. And nothing, but nothing breaks up wide expanses as do the new panels.

Washington Likes to Go to Bazaars

Events for Charity Star Exotic Items of Many Lands

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Bazaars are big business in the nation's capital. You can literally "shop around the world" buying exotic delicacies and art objects donated by the foreign embassies and officialdom. You can see most of the town's bigwigs and actually have fun while contributing to charity.

* * *

Folks had a chance to try out chopsticks while eating Oriental shrimp, chicken and rice dishes at a Japanese Embassy style benefit for the Japanese International Christian University of Tokyo, which graduates its first class next April.

Among those assisting with the tea-pouring were Mrs. A. D. P. Heeney, wife of the Canadian ambassador, and Mrs. William J. Sebald, wife of the deputy assistant secretary of state.

FOREIGN FOODS

Mrs. Charles Thomas, wife of the navy secretary, was in charge of the bazaar's foreign foods committee and garnered for the sale such items as sardines from Portugal, Christmas cakes from Norway, candied fruits from Cuba and chocolate from The Netherlands.

* * *

Among the scads of other bazaars was the annual benefit for the American Friends Committee and a foreign exchange student program of the Sidwell Friends School, where many prominent papas and mamas send their youngsters.

Mrs. Ernest E. Dematitis, wife of a diplomat, was bazaar chairman.

Among those contributing unusual gifts were Mrs. Amaral Peixoto, wife of the Brazilian ambassador, and Mrs. Thor Thors, wife of the Icelandic ambassador, both of whom were honorary chairmen.

Convenient Duster Travels Compactly

This makes sense; a duster that folds up into its own pocket for travel;

You can buy such an Orlon-nylon duster that won't wrinkle from packing, can be sudsed in basin or washing machine, and never needs ironing.

Car Cleanliness, Wonderful Asset

How does your family "buggy" rate on cleanliness? If an honest answer makes you blush for shame, try giving your car's interior a good scrubbing with soap or detergent suds.

Dress of Hooded Beauty Sure to Delight Juniors

Mr. Mort's junior following will delight in this hooded beauty that converts so gracefully into a cowl collar when indoors. The hooded look is hot news these days, as well as being smart warmth.

Cut on the bias, it drapes effectively whichever way you wear it and is faced with the same fabric on the inside. The straight lines of the dress are softened with a slight blousiness in the bodice and darts over the hips.

Make this designer-sized model in corduroy, shantung, tie silks, jersey, plaid or checked wools. The pattern, which is cut by hand, is accurately perforated, making the high style detail extremely easy to handle.

And in case you prefer the new longer length, the extra yardage is figured. From this chart select the one size best for you:

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips Inches	Length From Nape of Neck to Waist
9	33½	25½	34½	16
11	34½	24½	35½	16¼
13	36	26	37	16½
15	37½	27½	38½	16¾
17	39	29	40	17

Size 13 requires 3½ yards of 54-inch material for dress. To order Pattern 1288, state size, enclose $1. Address American Designer Patterns, Box 535, G.P.O. Dept. P-6, New York 1, N.Y.

Classic Pattern Booklet 12 and all-new Pattern Booklet 13-X are available for 50 cents each. If paid by check, add four cents.

Plan to Divide Missile Control

Defense Head Studies Compromise to Settle Army-Air Force Feud

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson has before him today a compromise plan to settle the long-standing Army-Air Force controversy over the control of guided missiles.

Wilson so far has given no indication of his view on the plan or whether he will approve it in the form drawn up by his subordinates.

* * *

Under the plan, the Army would be given operational control of all current antiaircraft missiles and would have primary responsibility for using several missiles now in advanced stages of development.

The Air Force would have operational control over medium and long-range missiles launched from the ground.

* * *

The current programs for research and development of missiles would be unchanged. The Redstone missile center at Huntsville, Ala. has been told to continue its top priority work on the 1,500-mile medium-range Jupiter, being developed for use by both the Army and the Navy.

'TEENAGERS' IDOL — The joy of the teenager rock 'n' roll set takes to serious drama in his first starring role in Twentieth Century Fox's CinemaScope film, "Love Me Tender." Debra Paget costars as his No. 1 girl friend. The show is now at the Oakland Theater.

Boys Rescue Trapped Pups Under Logs

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — This is a story of two puppies, a mother dog and three boys who risked life and limb to rescue them.

* * *

It began Wednesday when Johnny Henderson and Sammy Freedell, both 10, heard "a little whining and a little barking" under a log-filled pile of debris in a dump near their homes.

Unable to move the logs, the youngsters called on the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. When the SPCA representative showed up, however, there wasn't a sound from under the logs.

* * *

"They didn't believe there were any dogs there," said Sammy.

Armed with a flashlight, the two boys found a narrow cave leading under the logs and crawled snake-like into the darkness until they heard cries.

"We knew the thing might cave in any minute so we had to be careful," Sammy said.

Sammy was the first to come face-to-face with "Shakey," a fat puppy named on the spot for his rather unstable condition.

Then Johnny went back in to return with "White Tip," another pup also named for his general description — white tail markings.

But the boys still heard the barking of a dog, even though they hadn't seen another in the cave.

Yesterday 11-year-old Danny Henderson wound up the operation by pulling "Butter Milk — she turned out to be the mother — from the recesses under the logs.

Fire Engines Crash . . . Into Each Other

BELMONT, Calif. (AP) — Two fire engines, their siresns blaring so loudly that the crews couldn't hear the other, collided in this San Francisco suburb last night, slightly injuring the drivers.

Fire Chief Harry Chamberlain estimated damage at around $40,000. He reported ruefully they were answering an alarm from a sanitarium where, it turned out, there was no fire — only smoke from a furnace backfire.

Reflections

WRAP THEM SECURELY MAIL THEM EARLY

J. I. VOORHEES

Our Postmaster gives up the three R's for Christmas mailing — Right Packing, Right Wrapping, and Right Addressing. And the boys who handle our packages add, "Please mail them early."

When we spend time, thought and money for a gift we want it to be delivered—as it is, not shattered, crushed or way late. Use a heavy container. Use ample cushioning material. Tie it securely. Put address on box, wrap it in strong brown paper and PRINT address on outside. And above all things, mail it early.

M. E. SIPLE

Our Post Office is unusually efficient but think of the many times our package is handled — local, trucked to a terminal, sorted, banged into a mail car, again crushed at a terminal, sorted, stacked in a car, dumped at a destination, heaped mountain high, waiting for delivery.

Gunman's Loot — Turkey

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mrs. Betty Bascom told police an armed man came to her front door while she was alone with her baby last night and demanded: "Let me in. I want something to eat." She said the intruder, keeping a revolver on the table before him, ate two turkey sandwiches she prepared, then left.

Child, 2, Disappears, Kin Held for Murder

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—The father and grandmother of two-year-old Billy Beaver have been accused of murdering the youngster who disappeared Wednesday from his crude log cabin home during bitter cold weather.

Prosecutor Russell L. Daugherty obtained murder warrants against James Beaver, 24, and Mrs. Virginia Beaver, 64, even though he said they "failed to react" to lie-detector tests.

* * *

Investigators said Mrs. Beaver earlier had given conflicting accounts of the youngster's disappearance from his home 20 miles east of here. They said neither she nor the boy's father could read or write. His 18-year-old mother is expecting another child.

An enormous 60 pounds for his age, he was clad only in bib overalls, socks and a sweater when the parents last saw him, investigators said. They were told James Beaver and his wife had left him in the grandmother's care while the parents were on a firewood-collecting trip.

Both the father and grandmother told a newsman they were innocent.

Julie Gives Answers About Effect of Divorce

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Julie London, you doll, take the stand!

Q—"Haven't you had a great success in the movies since your divorce from Jack Webb?"

Q—"Do you think it helped you become important on records?"

A—"I'll never know for sure."

Q—"One more question and we'll get off that embarrassing subject. In view of your success since you split up with Jack, are you glad it happened?"

A—(Unenthusiastically)—"In some ways, yes, and in some ways, no."

JULIE

Her chin sank down on her upraised knee and she added: "As long as it had to happen; I'm glad it happened when it did instead of 10 years later. It's been three years now. Time softens you a lot."

Q—"You're still friends?"

A—"In a ridiculous sort of way."

Miss London plays an alcoholic singer in "The Great Man," a Jose Ferrer film based on Al Morgan's hit novel about radio. But she wouldn't say whether she's portraying a girl now known as one of TV's Big Names.

Q—"But everybody thinks it's about . . ."

A—(Smiling evasively)—"It's a composite!"

Q—"Is it possible you could get an Oscar for the part?"

A—"I'm not even thinking of it." Aside to her girl friend, Kay Saunders: "Wouldn't THAT be the end?"

A—"Oh, I'm 30." (Laughing). "JUST!"

Q—"How do you play this alcoholic singer part?"

Q—"Is that good for a girl singer like you with a big reputation to protect?"

A—"I think my father made the greatest comment—he's the one who goes to all my movies. He said, 'I forgot you were in the picture. I forgot you were my kid'."

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . .

Danny Kaye, asked by Rob't Q. Lewis about his films being banned in Syria, shrugged, "So? I'll stop buying their halvah" . . . There'll be more tests of atomic weapons in Nevada in April.

H'wood success story: Roger Corman, an office boy at 20th Century-Fix five years ago, is a TV producer now—at 150G's a year . . . Leona Anderson, "the world's worst singer," boasts her album, "Music to Suffer By," can be played at any speed and sound just as horrible . . .

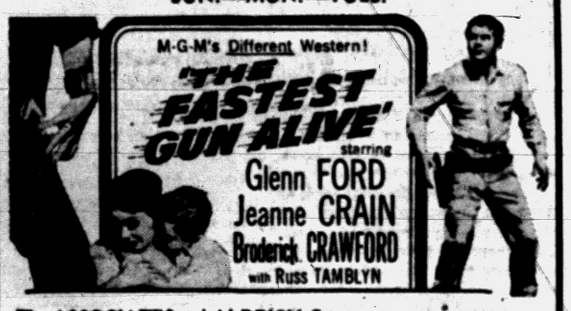

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Fred Allen said it: "TV is making rapid strides. A year ago everybody thought it was bad; today only 90 per cent of viewers think it's lousy."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "One way to go to the dogs is to put your money on the horses."—Norman Wilner.

Stays Home, Bags Deer

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Gene C. Stein, 36, whose home is near a large wooded area four miles north of Grand Rapids, bagged a six-point, 150-pound deer Thursday as he strolled from his back yard. Stein carried his shotgun on the hike. He was unsuccessful on three previous trips to Northern Michigan's deer country.

Fans' Wishes Cheer Up Ailing Funnyman Hardy

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Oliver Hardy, felled by a stroke Sept. 14, still clings doggedly to life. If the wishes of his fans can help him, he'll make it back to recovery.

* * *

I dropped by Hardy's modest Van Nuys home to check on his condition. Mrs. Hardy, a small, attractive woman, told me the once-rotund comic is much the same as when he left the hospital last month. His right side is paralyzed. He is unable to speak. He requires nurses 24 hours a day.

"His spirits seemed to improve when we brought him home," she reported. "But he seems to get frustrated by his inability to do things. He will sit and look at a newspaper for a long time and appear to get irritated because he can't absorb it.

* * *

"We put him in a wheelchair one day and brought him into the den to see TV. He always was such an avid watcher. But it was evident that he couldn't comprehend what was going on.

"Stometimes he gets so upset over his inability to get better that he seems to wish that it were all over with."

Mrs. Hardy said her husband finds encouragement in the flood of letters that has poured in since his illness. She showed me a couple of boxes of messages from all over the world. Here are some of them:

Auckland, New Zealand — "I do hope that you will soon recover and once more enjoy life. You have, with your good partner Stan, made many happy hours for millions of people the world over."

Jativa, Spain — "In the name of all our children — who have enjoyed so much all your lovely pictures with your old friend Stan Laurel — I am sending our very best wishes and good luck."

* * *

Dublin, Ireland — "Kindly let him know that one who got many laughs watching him on the screen in my schoolboy days wishes him God's blessing for a speedy and lasting delivery."

A whole class of school children in Noroton, Conn., fashioned their own get-well cards. "We appreciate the messages so much," Mrs. Hardy said, "even though we haven't had time to answer them."

Partner Stan Laurel is living quietly with his wife in nearby Santa Monica. Illness has kept him inactive professionally of late, but he reports he is improving steadily.

Delay Ecorse Hearings

DETROIT (INS) — Probate Judge John W. Conlin has adjourned the removal hearing of Ecorse Mayor William Voisine and three Ecorse councilmen until Jan. 7.

An estimated 50 miles of permanent piping for water lines and steam services are installed for tenants in the Empire State building.

ONE OF A HANDFUL OF PICKED MEN—
THIS IS HIS STORY!

Somewhere at a secluded Air Force base you will find them. They're only a few because of what it demands—to fly what man has never flown before. Treat them as special—they are the Rocket Pilots, U.S.A.F.
One of them stands out from the others —there is no place he will fit. His name is Linc Bond and his slashed wrists, now healed, tell something—and his eyes mask something. Whatever he does he will have to do it alone—and there is a girl who understands this . . .
In the past few months there have been several great motion pictures. They will now be joined by this one. There are few adventures to match this story of a Rocket Pilot, U.S.A.F.—as played by

Best All-State Grid Team Ever Is on Its Way

DETROIT (AP)—Never in the 16-year history of the Associated Press All-State High School football selections have so many of Michigan's coaches and sports writers taken part in the balloting.

Every coach in the state was polled, and nearly 300 responded to the call. In addition, Associated Press member newspapers and radio stations from all sections of the state took part.

The finest recognition that can come to a high school player in Michigan is to be named to the AP squad. The Pontiac Press took part in the selections and will have a complete rundown on the teams—with pictures. The class A team will appear in the Press on Tuesday, November 27, the class B team on Nov. 28, the class C team on Nov. 29 and the class D squad on Nov. 30.

Quarterback Tom Kollin booted a 15-yard field goal against Avondale as Clawson walloped the Jackets 37-6 to clinch the Oakland B League title. It was the only field goal kicked in Oakland County during the 1956 season.

Coach-of-the-Year

DAVE SMITH
Walled Lake High School

Honors in the balloting for county-coach-of-the-year went by a wide margin to Dave Smith, who in his first season at Walled Lake guided the Vikings to their first unbeaten and untied season since 1945.

Walled Lake took honors as the state's 2nd ranked team in class "B" and walked off with the Inter-Lakes championship.

Born in Detroit and a graduate of Charlevoix High School, Smith entered the service for 46 months after which he played football at Michigan State from 1952-54.

In 1955 he became assistant coach at East Lansing High during which time he completed studies for a B. S. degree at MSU.

Outstanding coaching honors also went to Dave Freeman of Waterford and Bob Acton of Clawson.

Other coaches who were mentioned prominently in the balloting were Joe Bechard of Troy and Don Hoff of Bloomfield Hills, two schools which had winning seasons for the first time in many years.

Skippers' Unsung Hero

Clayton Roth of Waterford placekicked 22 extra points in 26 attempts this season to lead all county scorers in that department. His nearest rival was Clawson's Tom Kollin, who converted 19 times.

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Picking an honor team of any kind is no easy task. It requires a long process of balloting, tabulating, re-balloting and hours of weighing individual merits of coaches and writers.

Of the 32 Oakland County High Schools, 26 coaches replied and cooperated. This was a true sampling of the entire county.

Where there was any doubt as to whether any player merited the position, opposing coaches were polled by phone and in their recommendations rested the final decision.

Four schools did not participate because of league ruling.

HONORARY CAPTAIN JOHN WALKER

John Walker . . . 6-0 . . . 190 . . . senior . . . fullback . . . Walled Lake High School . . . was near unanimous in the balloting. A powerful runner who gained 900 yards rushing, scored 56 points and was a pillar on defense, Walker is without doubt Oakland County's "Player-of-the-Year." And by his support in the balloting he can be considered the honorary captain of the All-County team.

• • •

QUARTERBACK TOM KOLLIN . . . 5-10 . . . 175 . . . senior . . . Clawson High School . . . walked off with the honors as the County's top signal caller. Tom led Clawson to the Oakland "B" title.

HALFBACK RON BREWER . . . 5-11 . . . 180 . . . senior . . . Southfield High School . . . was the County's top scorer and ground gainer. He ran a close second to Walker in the balloting.

HALFBACK LYNDIE SALATHIEL . . . 6-0 . . . 180 . . . senior . . . Waterford High School . . . led the Skippers to their best record in history (8-1). Scored 13 touchdowns and was touted for his punting.

DEFENSIVE BACK RON ELMY . . . 5-11 . . . 185 . . . senior . . . Avondale High School . . . was named to the team for his defensive wares. He received top billing in this respect from all opposing coaches.

DEFENSIVE LINEMAN BOB WALSH . . . 6-1 . . . 195 . . . senior . . . Royal Oak High School . . . was the first name that came to the minds of opposing coaches and others who saw him backing up the Acorn line.

END LARRY WERSCHKY . . . 5-11 . . . 170 . . . senior . . . Berkley High School . . . was the top vote getter for the end slot. Highly rated by his coach as a fine pass receiver with good defensive abilities.

END PETE MADELANS . . . 6-0 . . . 175 . . . senior . . . Orchard Lake St. Mary . . . is the lone Class "C" school player on the team. He is a rugged lad who in a few short years has made his mark in American athletics after coming to the U. S. as a displaced person.

TACKLE JIM SAMEC . . . 5-11 . . . 195 . . . senior . . . Ferndale High School . . . took leading honors in the battle for the tackle post. Jim opened the holes for his backs and was just as effective on defense.

Trojans, ULCA Clash in Crosstown Battle

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The old college spirit figures importantly today in the crosstown football fracas between Southern California and UCLA before an expected 65,000 at Memorial Coliseum.

The game, to be telecast nationally by NBC with the kickoff at 4:30 p.m., EST, shapes up as just about even between two squads hurt badly by injuries and Pacific Coast Conference penalties.

Pros Schedule Opening Draft Next Monday

NFL Seeks to Combat Canadian Competition; Packers, Cards Begin

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Football League will make its bonus selection and hold at least four rounds of its annual 30 round player draft on Monday, seeking for the second straight year to meet the early Canadian competition for U.S. college football talent.

• • •

Prior to last year, the NFL bonus selection and draft were held annually at the league's yearly meeting in mid-January. Canadian professional football, however, begins seeking talent in mid-November and early December, forcing the NFL to move up its draft date.

Under league rules, once a team wins the bonus player, it drops out of the drawing until all 12 teams have won. This year, only the Green Bay Packers and the Chicago Cardinals will participate in the draw. The Pittsburgh Steelers won last year and surprised by selecting a comparative unknown, Gary Glick of Colorado A. & M.

The scuttlebutt is that if Green Bay wins, it will go for a hard running half back the likes of Jimmy Brown, Syracuse; Jim Swink, Texas Christian; Jon Arnett, Southern California; Clarence Peaks, Michigan State, or Oklahoma's Tommy McDonald.

The Cardinals seem more likely to select an outstanding quarterback with such prospects as Notre Dame's Paul Hornung, Stanford's John Brodie, Purdue's Len Dawson, or Georgia Tech's Wade Mitchell.

When it comes to the regular draft, the clubs will select according to their standing in the league as of Sunday, Nov. 25, with the last place team picking first and the first place club last.

SUSPENDED—Hammer thrower Cliff Blair, from Hingham, Mass., was lost to the U. S. Olympics when he was suspended yesterday in Melbourne for violation of the amateur code. The claim was that he was writing for a Boston newspaper.

Marks Shattered, U.S. in Lead

MELBOURNE (AP)—Uncle Sam's muscle men and fleet runners swept gold medals in the 100-meter dash, 400-meter hurdles, hammer throw and broad jump today in one of America's finest Olympic hours to take a commanding lead over Russia in the unofficial point total.

Three Olympic records were shattered and another was tied to the delight of another capacity crowd of 100,000 that jammed the huge stadium on a hot, windy afternoon.

Passing the Russians, Germans and Swedes in the point table, the powerful United States team made a shambles of the second full day of actual competition. In addition, the Americans qualified a full three-man quota in the 800-meter run and pole vault and put Isabelle Daniels of Jakin, Ga. into Monday's finals in the women's 100-meter dash.

With only the middleweight event in the weightlifting division and the team foils in fencing still to be decided on the day's program, America's point haul for the day already had reached 65 for a total of 100. Russia was second with 80 points.

Hal Connolly, the 220-pound Bostonian who finished third in the trials at Los Angeles, toppled the favored Russians and won the hammer throw with a new Olympic record heave of 207 feet 3½ inches. All six finalists, including the former record holder, Joszef Csermak of Hungary, bettered the old mark. Al Hall of Hoboken, N.J., placed fourth with a toss of 293 the American basketball team left no doubt about its superiority by humbling little Thailand 101-29 to reach the second round. All-America Bill Russell played only nine minutes against Thailand which gave away about eight inches per man in height. An upset 76-67 victory by France over Russia, the team expected to press the United States, shocked the crowd.

A high wind and rough water on Lake Wendouree at Ballarat upset the rowing program and forced rescheduling of the repechages (second chance) to Sunday, originally an open date.

Yale's eight-oared crew, upset in the first heat, will be the only American competitor in the repechages as the six other U.S. entries in the other events won their first heats and advanced to Monday's semifinals.

Tom Courtney, the former Fordham half-miler from Livingston, N.J., Pittsburgh's Arnie Sowell and Lon Spurrier of Delano, Calif. sped into the 800-meter finals Monday by breezing through the eliminations.

Courtney and Spurrier finished 1-2 in one heat in 1:53.6 and Sowell won the other in 1:50 as Jim Bailey, the Australian who broke the four-minute mile barrier as a student at Oregon, was eliminated with a surprising seventh place finish.

Counting the high jump victory by Charlie Dumas of Los Angeles in yesterday's competition, the U.S. men's track and field forces had won five of the first seven gold medals with Russia and New Zealand each taking one. The other medal in track and field had gone to a Czechoslovakian woman in the discus.

Shortest priced winner in the 45-year history of Laurel was Alsab. The colt paid $2.20 for $2 in 1941.

Friday's Olympic Results

MELBOURNE (AP)—Saturday's Olympic winners:

TRACK & FIELD

400-meter Hurdles — Glenn Davis, Clinton, Ohio, 50.1 seconds (equals Olympic record set by Eddie Southern in semi-finals)

'M'-OSU Tilt Top-Rated

CHICAGO (AP) — It's Michigan at Ohio State today in the top battle of the Big Ten football conference and once again the contest has championship bearing.

Ohio State's defending champions can grab a share of the conference title by whipping their arch-rivals from Ann Arbor. However, a loss could drop the Buckeyes as low as a tie for fourth place.

While Michigan (4-2) and Ohio State (4-1) battle before a sell-out crowd of 82,000, Illinois (1-3-2) will be at Northwestern (2-3-1); Minnesota (4-1-1) at Wisconsin (0-3-2); Indiana (1-4) at Purdue (0-4-2); Kansas State at Michigan State (4-2), and Notre Dame at Iowa (5-1).

Iowa has already wrapped up a share of the title with its 6-0 triumph over Ohio State last week and is top choice to represent the conference in the Rose Bowl.

Should Michigan defeat Ohio State, Minnesota could finish second with a victory over Wisconsin and Michigan would finish third. Michigan State, which has finished its Big Ten season with a 4-2 mark, would end up in a fourth place tie with Ohio State. Michigan State and Ohio State were picked to finish one-two before the season began.

Iowa was picked as an also-ran but Minnesota was given an outside chance.

Wisconsin and Purdue will be seeking their first conference victories of the season. Wisconsin is a 7-point underdog to Minnesota but Purdue is favored to beat Indiana by two touchdowns. Both games are traditional battles with the Old Oaken Bucket riding on the Purdue-Indiana tilt.

Northwestern, seeking its best finish since 1950, is an even bet against Illinois. The Wildcats, under Coach Ara Parseghian, have been a big surprise in carving a 2-3-1 record. The tie was a scoreless contest against Minnesota.

Nate Clark, Podoley Head Small College All-State 11

By DAVE DILES
Michigan AP Sports Editor

Nate Clark and Jim Podoley, a pair of touchdown-talented halfbacks who dealt out defeat with dazzling individual brilliance, head the 1956 Associated Press All-state small college football team announced today.

The scintillating stars, Clark from Hillsdale and Podoley from Central Michigan, ran away with the honors in the first AP selections, released after balloting of all of the state's small colleges and member newspapers throughout the state.

Clark, the nation's leading scorer a year ago and "more valuable than ever this year"— in the words of his coach, Muddy Waters —was the leading vote getter and rates the honorary captaincy of the first team. The senior sprinter, who played his high school ball at Benton Harbor where he was named to the Associated Press All-State Class A high school team in 1951 and 1952, wound up a brilliant career at Hillsdale with 84 points, and had a four-year total of 51 touchdowns.

Clark was a Little All-America choice last season, and both he and Podoley are in the running for honors this year.

With Clark and Podoley in the first-team backfield are freshman quarterback Tom Schwalbach of Northern Michigan and fullback Bob McNamara of Central Michigan.

1st TEAM	POSITION	2nd TEAM
Kinsannon, H'dale	E	Weller, M. Tech.

Bears Favorites for NFL Feature

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The high-scoring Chicago Bears today were 7-point favorites to defeat the New York Giants in tomorrow's big game which will go a long way toward deciding the conference titleholders in the National Football League.

• • •

The odds-makers are giving the Bears the edge on the strength of a 7-game winning streak which boosted them into first place in the Western Conference. The Bears hold a half game lead over Detroit which lost its share of the top spot by bowing to Green Bay on Thanksgiving Day.

• • •

A crowd of close to 70,000 is expected to witness a bruising struggle in Yankee Stadium. The Bears have scored 288 points—most in the circuit. The Giants' hope is their crack defensive line.

New York, the Eastern Conference leaders with a 6-2, record, will depend on the running of Frank Gifford and Alex Webster plus the passing of Charley Conerly. The Giants, however, have no one to match the brilliance of Harlon Hill, the Bears' end who will have two and three men on him which will open areas for Bear runners and other pass receivers.

• • •

A Giant setback and a Chicago Cardinal victory over Pittsburgh would produce a deadlock for first place in the Eastern. The Cards lost to the Steelers 14-7 last week but they'll be on their home grounds tomorrow. Chicago is favored by 6½ points.

• • •

The streaking Washington Redskins take on the Cleveland Browns in another important game. The 'Skins are 3-point favorites over their successive triumps over the Browns, Cards, the Lions and the Giants.

Rounding out the 5-game program, San Francisco will be at Philadelphia and Los Angeles at Baltimore.

22-inch Rack Is Leader

Another shift has been effected in the leadership of The Pontiac Press Big deer contest.

Thurman Bowers of Milford held the top spot in the widest antler division only two days, with a 17½-inch entry, from his 202-pounder.

Now comes Lee Waltz of 8312 Tindall Rd., Davisburg, with the newest leader. Waltz brought in a 19-point, rugged antlered buck that was estimated to have weighed more than 200 pounds. The spread was 22 inches. It was 4½ inches wider than the former leader.

Waltz downed his buck in farm country west of Davisburg. Rack was a freakish set of horns. Two of the points were palmate, or joined for several inches from the base by a flat blade. Others had short knobs protruding from them. Buck's hair was very dark, which hunters say is the mark of a "swamp deer."

• • •

Harry Mitchell, 2889 Lansdowne, Drayton Plains, almost had a leader, Friday, with a 19⅝ inch spread on his 200-pounder, taken near Hillman. Several others in his party also got their deer. Previously, Verne Mitchell, 677 Elizabeth Lake Rd. reported an 18-inch spread on a fine 11-pointer taken at Iron River. George Lindbloom, Pontiac man, hunting in his party got an 8-pointer.

Bear-Giant Game on TV

The Chicago Bears-New York Giants game will be televised Sunday into the Detroit area on Channel 2 (WJBK). The match was moved in place of the Washington-Cleveland game originally planned for TV into Detroit.

Your Neighbor's House

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Using the style of farm houses in their native state of Pennsylvania, Mr. and Mrs W. L. Shaffner built a red brick home in the hills north of Rochester. While their house is not brand new, it is so interesting that we couldn't pass it by.

Ballytore—so named because it means "very high hill" and is the name of the town in Ireland from which both their ancestors came, is a sprawling, comfortable looking house set in the middle of five acres.

The Shaffners have been Oakland County residents for many years. Before moving to Rochester they lived in Birmingham. Mr. Shaffner has just retired. Unfortunately, he was out of town the day we photographed Ballytore. And his wife couldn't be persuaded to pose.

When it was time to choose a color scheme for the living room, the Shaffners started with a handwoven rug from Mexico. They found its gray-green color unusual and difficult to match. But they succeeded in mixing paint the same color, used it for the walls in the living room and the dining room. The green cotton draperies are also a good match.

The living room is oriented to take advantage of the glorious view to the north. Sixty feet down from the house a little creek runs through the Shaffner property. The rest of the acreage is rolling and left in its natural state.

"We live all over our house," Mrs. Shaffner said. The house is comfortable looking, with plump-cushioned chairs everywhere and convenient lamp tables filled with reading material.

The upholstered furniture is covered in flowered material, mainly rose and red. One chair next to the fireplace is plain green. The sofa beside the window has a small green triangular figure on a beige ground.

The Shaffners have filled their house with antique furniture. Some of the pieces, like a walnut chest in the bedroom, belonged to Mrs. Shaffner's grandmother. Other items they bought just because they liked them.

In the hall stands a cherry grandfather's clock dated 1799. This clock has been in the family for all but twenty years of its existence. It has a brass face with three separate dials. One tells time, one tells the day of the month and the third tells the phases of the moon.

The name of the maker, Isaac Thomas, is engraved right on the clock, as well as the place, Willis Town, Pa., where it was made. This Thomas is no relative of the other clockmaker, Seth Thomas.

All the lamps in the house are made from vases or antique objects with shades of handwoven linen. These shades were once old bed sheets and table cloths and are completely washable.

Pennsylvania made, the walnut gateleg table in the dining room is Queen Anne style with duck feet. The huge cherry cupboard has brass hardware. One wall looks paneled, but opens to reveal cupboards for dishes and linen.

The kitchen is a large room with two distinct work areas. The stove and washer and dryer are set back to back with a copper ventilating fan above to care for both. Counter tops are green. Next to the stove is a work unit with a copper top. Its burnished surface is excellent for receiving hot pans.

For her menu planning and kitchen accounts Mrs. Shaffner has an unusual desk. Once it served a ticket agent in an office of the New York Central PENNSYLVANIA FARMHOUSE — Transplanted to the Michigan countryside, this Pennsylvania style of house is right at home in the Rochester Hills. Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Shaffner, formerly of Birmingham, designed and built the kind of house they had always wanted. The exterior is red brick with white trim and white shutters. It is a one-story house except for the bedroom section.

Pontiac Press Photos by Jim Mahar

COMFORTABLE CHARM — The windows in the living room overlook a ravine and a view of distant hills. The furniture is informal and comfortable. Against the gray-green walls and carpet the flowered chairs stand out. Prints on the wall are framed in old wood frames. Lampshades were made from handwoven linen sheets and table cloths.

DUAL PURPOSE KITCHEN — On one side of the dividing counter in the kitchen is the stove. On the side nearest the camera is the laundry section. The counter on the end is made of copper. A copper ventilating hood has been installed above both sets of appliances. Cupboards are all wood, finished in their natural shade. The floor has an interesting floral pattern on a beige background.

Brick Farmhouse Has 2-Story Wing

Railroad. Dating back to about 1885, it still has cubby holes for tickets and account books.

Between the kitchen and living room is an area known as the work room. It is the efficiency center of the house. There is a sewing counter, a mixing counter and a package-wrapping counter. In addition there are dozens of cupboards.

Down the hall from the living room is a tiny room known as the library. Next to the window is a small fireplace. Walls and ceiling are covered in a small patterned paper. A book and magazine rack is built into one wall.

The other is a table used now for a telephone table. Whoever made it used whatever wood he had on hand. Consequently, the top and front are pine, the leaf poplar. Two legs are maple, one is cherry, the fourth is walnut. One might say it is a one-of-a-kind item.

Nowadays, not many homes have separate dressing rooms. The Shaffners have one next to their bedroom. Painted in the same green as the rest of the house, it has walls full of closets. The bath room adjoins it.

Although the bedroom is on the same floor as the living room it is on the second floor of the house because of the sloping character of the land. Walls and ceiling are papered in green with yellow flowers. Spreads are yellow quilted ones. The linen rug is gray.

For a low table in front of the loveseat Mrs. Shaffner uses an old walnut ballot box from Pennsylvania. This has a small drawer in the back, obviously once used for the black balls. Inside the box has partitions. Here Mrs. Shaffner keeps her wool for rug-hooking.

In the basement level of the house there is a guest room, a Victorian sitting room and a large recreation room. The Victorian room is quaint and formal and rather stiff in appearance.

The table is a hutch pine table from Pennsylvania. On the long settee there is a blue and white handwoven cover. A dry sink has been lined with copper. For a lamp table there is a dough box.

Old hanging brass lamps have been wired for electricity. One table lamp has a coffee mill for its base; another has a candle mold. Shades are blue and white checked gingham. The lamp on the sink is made from a toy coal range complete with utensils. This one has a copper shade.

White shutters gleam against the red brick of the exterior. Not far from the garage Mr. Shaffner has just completed a small red and white tool shed.

Informal charm and provision for relaxed living have been the goals of the Shaffners. How well they succeeded may be seen in the accompanying pictures. We were charmed with the house.

HOLIDAY DECORATION — This little choir boy and girl are very easy to make from the full-size pattern. And when they are finished you can put one on either side of your front door or out in the yard, where all passersby will see them. If you wish you can string letters between the two saying, "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year."

To build these little choir people all you need do is trace the full size patterns on plywood, masonite or wall board, then saw out and finally paint them just as the pattern specifies. It's very easy. The painting is no trick at all, you trace the features on the wood, then paint over the tracings.

To obtain the full size Choir Boy and Choir Girl Pattern No. 153 send $1 to Steve Ellingson, Pontiac Press, Van Nuys, Calif.

Kitchen Cabinets of Wood Best in Natural Finishes

One of the most important points to consider in planning your new kitchen is the finish on the cabinets, home stylists advise. The finish must be protective, attractive, easy to maintain and long-lasting.

* * *

If your cabinets are of wood and are factory-made units, they will score high on all four counts, the stylists say. Factory finishes given wood kitchens are similar to fine furniture finishes—numerous coats applied under ideal conditions by fault-proof assembly line procedures.

As in furniture, there is almost a total absence of the old time shiny, glossy finishes. The finish in a modern wood kitchen is in the wood rather than on it, providing greater protection and serving to highlight the natural beauty of the wood instead of concealing it.

The finishes are laboratory and site-tested to assure maximum protection. This, in combination with proper kiln-drying of the wood and use of moisture-resistant adhesives in the manufacturing process, eliminates moisture as a problem.

CHECKS WARPING

These factors, plus the hollow-core grid construction for cabinet doors, also virtually eliminates any possibility of warping. Wood cabinets are invulnerable to rust, chipping or discoloration.

* * *

Maintenance of wood kitchen cabinets becomes one of the joys of a homemaker's life. All that is required to keep the wood sparkling and fresh is to wax the cabinets once a year, or twice a year if kitchen traffic, including children, is especially heavy. Nothing is so unreceptive to smears of fingerprints from the hands of children than well-finished wood, as any homemaker with a wood kitchen or wood-paneled walls will testify.

* * *

The final joy is that the mellow warmth of wood cabinets will always be the magic touchstone for the decor of your kitchen. They are the permanent element, blending with any accessory colors you may have in your kitchen from time to time.

'Age' Hardware This Easy Way

The antique effect sought in refinishing a basement playroom in knotty pine or similar wood finish can be extended to modern hardware on doors and light switches.

There's a simple way to "age" your present hardware back to the appropriate era without going to the trouble and expense of buying wrought-iron hardware.

The only equipment you'll need is a screwdriver, a couple of ordinary nails, and an easy-to-use metal tube of plastic aluminum such as can be bought in any hardware store.

* * *

First, remove the hinges, door knobs and switch plates and squeeze a fairly thick layer of plastic aluminum over the exposed surfaces. Before the aluminum hardens, press the heads of the nails into it with varying pressure and from different angles so that the impressions resemble hammer marks.

In some spots you can stipple it with the point of a nail to make it look like old wrought iron that had been exposed to the weather. After the plastic aluminum has thoroughly dried, paint the surface with a flat black paint.

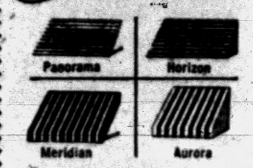

The finish job so nearly resembles true wrought iron that you'd have to take a chisel to it to tell that the hardware is anything but a hand-forged item.

JOLLY ELF — You can easily make this jolly little elf for a Christmas decoration. Put a cheerful paper or tape face on a styrofoam ball and top it with a red or green felt cap. Using artificial holly leaves and red berries, make a perky little elf skating by a holly berry tree. Use your imagination to create holiday pieces with other inexpensive materials.

See Peak Year for U.S. Building

WASHINGTON (INS)—The government has reported that new construction declined during the month of October but still promises to be a billion dollars higher at the end of the year than in 1955.

It estimated the seasonally adjusted rate of new building during October at $4,126,000,000, down from the $4,250,000,000 in September, but still above the $4,037,000,000 chalked up in October, 1955.

The joint statement from the Labor and Commerce Departments said new construction activity so far this year has been at rates which indicate the year's total will exceed 44 billion dollars, compared with 43 billion dollars last year.

The statement said most major construction categories, except for private housing, were in good shape.

* * *

Spending for private industrial plants, highways, public utilities, office buildings, sewer and water facilities, churches, and public schools were at an alltime October high.

The value of work put in place on new private housing declined more than normal for the season to a level 14 per cent below the October record of a year ago.

Rug Absorbs Moisture

Iron Clothes Faster

No Sure Cure for Dampness

With the winter recreation room season just around the calendar, householders with basements might profitably ponder ways and means of keeping dry where it's low.

Sidewalk superintendents who watched the builder thoroughly waterproof the basement during construction should avoid smug complacence. Leakage, of proofing and poor drainage, but proofing and poo rdrainage, but even the tightest basement may fall victim to condensation.

There is no single sure cure for condensation. The symptoms of condensation can be treated, however. Three methods of treatment are:

1. Ventilation. Outside air forced into the basement should be warm enough to raise the temperature of the wall surface above the dew point.

* * *

2. Heating. Uninsulated appliances such as water heaters often dissipate enough heat in the summer to help prevent condensation. Fuel-burning furnaces help in the winter. However, such heating appliances must be vented to a chimney, because the products of combustion contain a large amount of water, which would aggravate the condition if not carried off.

3. Dehumidification. Condensation can be prevented by removing moisture from the air. This process lowers the dew point below the temperature of the wall and floor surfaces. Dehumidification is most effective when windows and doors can be closed and least effective when humidity is increased by such activities as laundering.

Sales of home laundry appliances — mainly washers and dryers — probably will reach a record 6,000,000 units this year.

Diseases of the heart are responsible for about 27 per cent of the deaths of white persons in the U.S., and the trend is slowly rising.

SLIGH DINING ROOM FURNITURE — Sligh of Grand Rapids previewed its newest dining room furniture at the Southern Furniture Market recently. The 48-inch round table has a top of pie-shaped matched veneers and comes with two or three 18-inch fillers. Legs are tipped with brass. The buffet has its own especially designed brass pulls of far eastern flavor. Wood is figured American walnut in a choice of the new brown or a lighter finish.

Get Galvanized Home Wares

Galvanized ware describes household and industrial articles made of durable steel coated with zinc to give them a high degree of rust resistance. In addition to its ability to withstand abuse and corrosion, galvanized ware is easily kept clean because its smooth, hard surface will not absorb unpleasant odors.

Some of the ordinary household items made of galvanized steel are garbage cans, pails, sprinkling cans, baskets, rubbish burners, laundry tubs and coal hods. Many galvanized steel articles are corrugated to give them added strength without excessive weight.

* * *

Galvanized steel products are made by either of two methods. One is to dip the manufactured article into molten zinc and the other is to fabricate the article from zinc coated steel. Both processes combine the durability of steel with the rust proof qualities of zinc.

All galvanized ware is fire-proof and such items as ash cans and garbage cans have close-fitting covers to make them fly and rodent proof.

The human body has more than 500 muscles and they comprise approximately one-half the total body weight.

Keep Disaster Supplies

Floods, fires and other disasters often shut off food, water and light to families whose homes have been damaged or whose sources for those elements of living have been impaired or destroyed. Civil defense authorities say every home should be equipped with emergency supplies to meet these and other hazards.

Although most American homes are not in areas where hurricanes, floods, tornadoes and earthquakes are a real source of danger, everyone is subject to possible attack by enemy aircraft without warning.

If emergency supplies are kept available in a "disaster kit" in every household, no one will be caught short should an emergency arise.

* * *

These supplies may be stored conveniently and safely in a covered galvanized steel ash or garbage can, and kept in a place quickly accessible. These galvanized steel cans are available in several sizes, so there is one to fit the space needs of every family. Fire, moisture and rodents cannot destroy supplies kept in these strong, durable and rust-resistant containers.

Among the items to be stored in these containers are bottled water, canned foods, flashlights and extra batteries, candles and matches, blankets and durable extra clothing for each member of the family. These are essential supplies, but other things may be added. With additional supplies, some families may need more than one container.

Way to Test Carpet

Before buying a carpet, put small samples of it under the legs of a chair at night. Then the next day, see if the indentation disappears when the chair is removed.

Cedar Chests in Style for Space-Saving Folk

* * *

The narrower and higher storage piece can be used not only in the bedroom, but with the imaginative addition of a lamp, a gay vase or stately candlesticks, in foyer or living room.

Protection in Unity

You can protect your home, your neighborhood and your country by working with other persons and organizations in your community in rebuilding and replacing — remodeling to avoid obsolescence — and keeping your home in good condition by painting and repairing as soon as necessary.

Screens Provide Space, Privacy

The urge to "push back the walls" can be removed from the list of common frustrations that plague modern homemakers.

The Oriental-inspired open floor plan — in which sliding screens substitute for walls, doors and partitions — offers welcome relief to the woman hemmed in by the smaller room dimensions that have become an economic necessity.

Aside from their practical aspects — providing an illusion of unlimited space, the means of quickly transforming living and dining rooms into one large entertaining area, and allowing more natural daylight to pass through — screens are often a room's saving grace from a purely decorative standpoint.

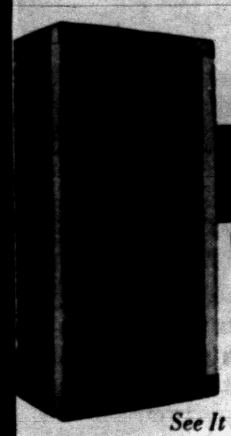

Apartment as well as private home dwellers are turning to a myriad of new adaptations of this ancient, Far Eastern practice.

In the increasingly prevalent kitchen-dinette combination, for example, translucent sliding panels are more satisfactory than doors or solid walls, since they segregate the two areas without blocking the light or view from either side.

* * *

Choice of materials is as endless as the uses for screens, and prices range from budget to luxury categories. The Oriental materials, of course, comprise an important segment in themselves — including split or natural bamboo, grasscloth, leaves and butterflies laminated in plastic, and Chinese lacquer or rubbing applied to wood.

GROVECREST MANOR CONVALESCENT HOME — Now open at 161 State street, Pontiac's newest convalescent home is an attractive building. This large home was completely remodeled and a wing added on the back. Rooms for two, three and four patients, as well as private rooms, will accommodate thirty-three people. The exterior is covered with aluminum siding. A parking lot has been provided in the rear. The interior decoration makes extensive use of pastel colors. Melvin Eller was the contractor.

Time-Payment Plan

Ask your paint dealer about the latest time-payment programs available to homeowners and do-it-yourself painters. You can choose one of several plans he will recommend that will enable you to do an extensive paint job — the whole house inside and out if it needs it —rather than one room now and another one later. You'll be surprised to learn how easy it is to do your painting and pay for it "out of income."

Weather-Strip Garage Door

Keeps House Warmer Where Attached Wall Is Not Insulated

Homeowners who do an otherwise good job of weather-stripping their windows and doors, often overlook the serious heat loss through cracks around the door of their attached garage, warns Richard J. Wilson, weather-stripping adviser.

"Many homes have been built with an un-insulated wall separating the living quarters from the garage," Wilson points out. "Heat flows through those walls into the cold garage. The problem of heat loss into the garage is especially acute in split-level homes where there are living quarters above the garage area.

"Obviously the warmer the garage can be kept, the lower the amount of heat that will be lost to it from the house."

Weather-stripping of overhead garage doors is an easy assignment for the average home handyman. Rubber cushions have been especially designed for garage doors and come in individual packages of either eight or nine feet—the exact lengths for most doors.

In addition to keeping out cold air, the rubber weather-stripping also prevents splintering, slamming, freezing, water leaks and

Compact Mirrors Help

Where a full-length mirror is an absolute must—and where isn't it for good grooming—designer Paul McCobb overcomes space limitations with a wrought-iron framed pier mirror which he combines with a hanging ledge dressing table —all to fit into a fractional wall section. Tiny pivoting circular shelves at either side of the ledge provide added space for grooming items.

Keep Vacuum Clean

Empty the dust bag of your vacuum cleaner often — this does much to insure good cleaning action. In the average home, this should be done at least once each week.

Save Now by Caulking

Even if your house is only a few payments old, it's quite likely that a tour of inspection of the exterior will turn up more than a few cracks and crevices. And if yours is an older house it's a sure bet you'll find them.

Cracks and crevices at the construction joints are inevitable in every house no matter how new and well built it is. But each crack left unmended is an open invitation to moisture that causes rot, to drafts that boost heating bills, to insects seeking room and board, and to dust and dirt.

The solution is to plug up the crevices with a caulking compound, a stick-to-anything substance that you can squeeze from a special caulking gun or from a king-size toothpaste-type metal tube. Unless you have a great many large cracks to fill, the tube of compound holds plenty for average use. It has a special beveled tip to facilitate application and a "key" to help you roll it easily and without waste.

There are two kinds of caulking jobs you may encounter.

One is preventive caulking to keep a house new by heavily coating the joints where cracks may eventually occur, thus circumventing future trouble and maintenance costs.

The second, curative caulking, is more difficult since it can involve filling large openings. Sometimes it means replacing rotted boards that earlier caulking would have saved. If an opening is large, pack first with oakum, then caulk.

Whichever kind of caulk job your house needs, you'll find it a money-saving effort well worth the few hours it will take you to do it.

Separator Wall Useful, Attractive

One of the most sought after designs for the adjoining kitchen-dining or kitchen-living area is to use a low counter height separator wall as the divider.

* * *

This counter has many purposes. It serves in some homes as the snack bar headquarters, as a pass bar when serving in the dining area, and beneath the counter is ample room for kitchen storage. The housewife will find that by having her counter storage area constructed to her own specifications, it will be much more satisfactory then trying to fit a factory built set of drawers into her space. It is easy to build cabinets and builtins to any shape or size when the carpenter or cabinetmaker uses either fir or hemlock, for they are so flexible.

A good way to finish the front of the pass counter facing the dining area is with attractive panel boards of fir or hemlock to match the rest of your kitchen builtins and walls.

When these woods are finished to bring out the natural grain and texture they create a room or living space of great charm for no two boards are exactly alike. Some may have a birdseye, a tight knot or a particularly attractive grain. These unusual features can all be brought out when clear varnish is used.

Existing Homes Gain Popularity Over New

Two existing homes are sold for every new one put on the market, says Practical Builder. The magazine quotes the National Association of Real Estate Boards as reporting sales up as much as 35 per cent over last year in some areas, with many purchasers expecting to do considerable remodeling of their newly acquired homes. Among the reasons people reportedly like older houses are that room sizes are larger, trees are in, public improvements exist, and there's often excellent possibility of renting part of the house.

Air Conditioning Units Described

Highly bewildering to the average person is the technical description of an air conditioning unit, so it is comforting to know that basically the best known residential gas air conditioning equipment all operates on the same general principles.

One widely publicized system is completely packaged in a weatherproof cabinet located outside the home. The cabinet contains the gas motor, liquid chiller unit, condenser and compresser.

This type of installation cuts operating costs by using ordinary water pipes to circulate the chilled liquid from gas motor unit to coils inside the house.

Another well-known brand has its gas engine-driven compressor unit located on a concrete slab next to the house while the evaporator is installed in the main trunk of the duct system inside.

Other makes have specifications for indoor installation with special attention paid to sound deadening, better air cleaning and more continous air circulation than was formerly available.

Most of the residential gas air conditioning units now on the market, according to the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association, are engineered for installation in combination with gas-fired furnaces. Air conditioning units that may be readily installed in existing heating systems are also available, GAMA points out.

Sliding Glass Doors Being Made Available

There are several manufacturers located throughout the country who are making sliding glass doors available in either polished plate glass or Thermopane double-pane insulating glass.

In sections of the country where pleasant weather prevails, polished plate glass rates high in popularity. Where the weather tends to become seasonally more severe, homeowners choose Thermopane for its insulating value against heat loss in the winter and excessive heat gain in the summer.

Replace Old Furniture

When you find a piece of furniture growing shabby, replace it. A single piece of shabby furniture can rob a room of its charm, make it look faded.

MAKE IT CONVENIENT—In space under the stairs, in a corner of the basement or garage — wherever the home workshop is set up, a great deal of space is not the first requirement. Important point is to arrange tools so that work follows a natural sequence. Here, combination saw-jointer is in the center of the shop, positioned so that the home craftsman takes only a couple of steps from bench to saw. Drill press is close to the bench where it can serve many uses.

Illusion of Large Rooms Through Use of Mirrors

If you have a room in your home which frustrates you with its short walls and low ceilings, try using mirrors to add a new look of depth and sparkle, advises Ralph Sherwin, chief designer for the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company.

* * *

"The high cost of undertaking extensive interior alterations is often a strong deterrent to making dreamed-of expansion changes in 'match box' rooms," points out Mr. Sherwin, "but the simple solution to many a problem of small rooms lies in the use of mirrors which are low in cost when compared to the expense and general confusion involved in removing a wall or raising a ceiling."

Thanks to today's modern method of twin - grinding plate glass which is used in the manufacture of high - grade mirrors, homeowners are able to obtain mirrors of the highest degree of distortion-free clarity yet attainable, and at reasonable cost, too.

One of the most common problems encountered in homes both new and old, is the dilemma of short walls. One solution lies in the use of rectangular mirrors which are hung horizontally to give the illusion of greater length to the wall.

In this way the outside view is reflected, giving the wall a pleasing, living mural effect. Natural light in the room is increased and the wall seems to be "pushed back," giving the entire area a feeling of spaciousness and sparkle.

* * *

Sherwin cautions against placing mirrors too high up on the wall so that from a sitting position only the ceiling is reflected.

Hang it low enough to pick up the image of furnishings and in this way you will enjoy the full decorative effect provided by the mirror when you are both sitting and standing.

To give the feeling of height to low ceilings and at the same time create a distinctive furniture setting, Sherwin suggests suspending a mirror vertically as a backdrop for a side table.

By placing an attractive lamp at one side of the table, either on the top of the independent floor-standing type, a functional furniture unit is formed. The soft tones of the lamp are reproduced in the mirror, radiating charm and light to the entire room.

The vertical line of the mirror itself, and the similar nature of the reflection tend to make the ceiling appear higher.

Psychology Works

Workers in one large factory had to lift and carry black metal boxes which they complained were too heavy. As a test, and unknown to the workers, the boxes were cleaned and repainted over a weekend in a bright green. The next week when the workers came back they thought the boxes were new ones and unanimously praised the "new lightweight containers."

Retouch Oak Floors

Oak floors finished with floor seal, a relatively new type material, can be readily retouched in worn areas without revealing distinct lines between the new and old finish. Unlike surface finishes, such as varnish, seal penetrates the wood fibers. It is noted for unusual resistance to scratching.

New Dust Collector

Now home handymen no longer need choke on the dust and fumes of their power tool endeavors. The world's first big-capacity, industrial type dust collector designed with the home workshop in mind is offered by Rockwell Manufacturing Co., Pittsburgh.

Cover Outside Steps With Steel Hatchway

You can obtain permanent protection against the weather by covering the outside steps with a steel basement hatchway. Double-leaf hatchways, available at building supply dealers, usually can be installed by a home handyman in a few hours.

Flexible Devices Good

Most homebuilders agree on a a height of 36 inches for kitchen counters. Some adjustment of this height is possible through variation of the toe space. Another device affording flexibility is a pull-out lap board. Tests show that a lap board height of 26 inches si the most comfortable level for seated work.

Adhesives Nice to Have Around

Homeworkers Agreed Glues Are Necessity to Complete Tool Box

It's easy to go wrong in choosing the correct type of glue for home repair jobs or hobbies.

Basically, glue is one of the easiest "fix-it" materials to use, particularly those types sold in handy fold-up metal tubes. This easy application, however, gives rise to the popular but erroneous notion that any glue will glue anything. Failure can be avoided by selecting the correct adhesive for the job at hand.

Liquid animal glue, casein glue and resorcinol glue are all fine for wood. The animal glue is ready to use but won't stand much moisture. Casein needs mixing and is virtually waterproof, while resorcinol is water-proof but tricky to mix.

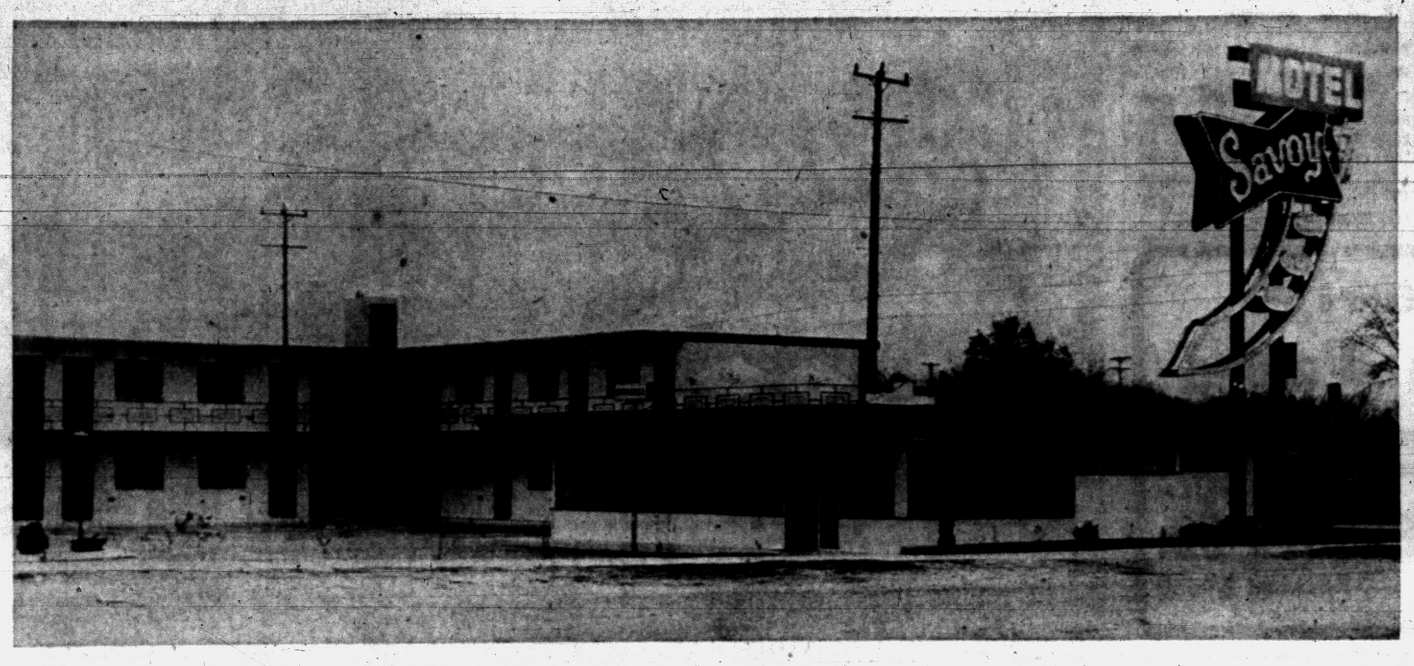

For repairing toys, making models and repairing small china items about the house cellulose adhesives, generally sold under various brand names as "household cement," are excellent. These glues come ready to use in metal tubes and are water-resistant and flexible.

For heavy jobs about the house, such as fastening fixtures to tile walls, replacing brick and fastening objects to metal or glass, you can use a rubber base adhesive. This can be applied to the surface with either brush or trowel or directly from the tube.

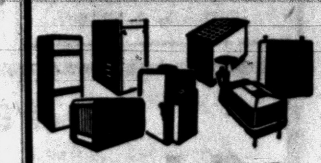

If you want to cover your kitchen counter or table top with laminated plastic then a contact bond type of adhesive is required. These are strong glues and, as the name implies, grip upon contact. This means that you don't need any clamps to hold the plastic down while the adhesive sets. The hitch here is that you have to be right the first time—the cement grips so well that it's difficult to move things about after even a brief moment of contact.

Another useful adhesive to have around the house is liquid solder. Several firms sell liquid solder in fold-up metal tubes for fastening metal, wood or glass. The joint is not as strong as with some types of adhesives, but it is satisfactory for many minor household repair jobs.

Glass may be made now to transmit or absorb ultraviolet or infrared light.

SAVOY MOTEL — Pontiac's newest motel is a two-story cement block building located on Telegraph and Menominee roads. The block is covered with a new product that is sprayed on; tiny bits of glass are embedded in this "paint." The U-shaped building is so constructed that even in rooms right on Telegraph road almost no noise is heard from passing traffic. The manager's apartment (in the rear of the building at the right) has sprayed-on acoustical ceilings — another innovation in building. All units are steam heated from a central heating plant. In the summer blowers send chilled water throughout the building for air conditioning. The buildings are white with orange doors and aqua trim.

Build 'Fruit Cellar' on Carport

Remember grandmother's root cellar? It was always a little child's delight to see the rows of canned fruit and vegetables and the wonderful variety of red-colored jams and jellies. But the root cellar of the past was always hard to get at, either away from the house or reached via the sliding cellar door from outside the house.

* * *

Today's housewife has her modern root cellar, but what changes have been wrought. Some of the most ingenious food cellars, not the deep freeze or cold room variety, are just a step away from the kitchen door.

* * *

The modern wife has it easy in the cellar department. Spacious, airy, and well lighted food storage closet is being designed to fit carport, right outside the kitchen door.

FITS CARPORT WALL

The room can be large or small, narrow, square or oblong, just so it fits cosily into the storage wall of the carport. When closed, it is just another storage compartment, but open it up and see the wonders of home canning and preserving spread before your eyes.

* * *

Care must be taken in designing the food cellar to insure safe preservation of all kinds of canned goods. Walls should be built of wood to give maximum insulation—wood such as Douglas fir which is durable and easily obtained. The room should be insulated between the stud walls of fir. Shelving, of course, will look best if it, too is built of fir to match the walls.

* * *

The door should be of double construction to prevent freezing inside the food cellar during the winter months, and it should be provided with a lock for the times the family is away from home.

A good many carports have been built without too much attention to their architectural affinity with the remainder of the home. Some are just lean-tos. Others can stand a bit of touching up to make them really become an integral part of the home.

* * *

Here's where the housewife without a good food cellar can have her heart's desire. It is mighty easy to build a storage wall along one side of the carport, even after the carport is completed.

IMPORTANT POINTS

Just a few principal points should be kept in mind. The storage wall should be built of the same kind of lumber as the rest of the home, so it doesn't stand out in bold relief as an afterthought. If the house has been built of Douglas fir boards and battens, then the outer walls of the carport storage wall will work best if they too are designed in the same pattern.

Have the carpenter or builder build a good frame of fir 2x4s and cover the outside with the desired matching siding. You can then pack insulation in between the studs before you apply the sheathing inside the cellar.

This will insure a good heat and coldproof room, ideal for food storage. Arrange for an electric light inside to avoid the dark groping which grandmother had to contend with.

You need not paint the interior of the food cellar unless you want to try your own hand at painting, but it will certainly look much more cheerful and presentable if it is painted.

* * *

Painting will make it possible to use lower and less costly grades of fir lumber for the inside sheathing, but good shelving lumber will be the safest to use.

'It's Time to Go to Bat,' Says Housing Chief Cole

WASHINGTON (INS) — Federal Housing Chief Albert M. Cole has signaled a change in administration thinking that could restore the vigor sapped from the housing industry this year.

* * *

Abandoning a virtual "stand pat" policy, Cole said the point has been reached that no further drop-off in home financing can be risked by the government and the country.

In a speech before the National Association of Real Estate Boards at St. Louis, Cole uttered the words that many people had been waiting to hear from him all year.

The Federal Housing Chief did not spell out a course of action but said proposals will be ready for early consideration by Congress when the lawmakers convene in January.

The timing of the statement was designed to encourage builders in planning for next year. He gave them a notice of several months that the government is ready to "go to bat" to keep housing production on an even keel in an expanding economy.

Cole acknowledged that the 20 per cent decline in starts this year was due to rising money rates and that piece-meal action to date has been largely ineffective.

Higher or flexible interest rates on government-backed mortgages —as advocated by the realtors, among others — was discounted, however, as a single solution to the problem.

Several courses of action would be open to the housing agency in conjunction with, or in addition to, new legislation.

Cole indicated that whatever is done will be keyed to a flow of credit necessary to sustain construction of more than a million new homes a year.

October figures reported by the Housing Chief placed the number of new units at 973,000 in the first 10 months—enough to anticipate some 1.1 million for the year. He said the market demand in 1957 would not be less than in 1956.

A report by the Census Bureau backed up the assertion, frequently voiced by Cole as well as by the housing industry, that the decline in starts this year did not reflect overbuilding.

In a report on available vacant dwelling units, the Bureau said there had been no change since 1950 in the ratio of vacant houses for sale, at one-half of one per cent of the supply.

Units for rent increased in the six years by one per cent, to a total of 2.1 per cent, making a 2.6 per cent vacancy rate. Of some 49 million dwelling units in the country, about 55 per cent of them are occupied by the owners.

A penetrating floor sealer of good quality, correctly applied, not only enhances the appearance of the hardwood floor, but makes scrubbing unnecessary and thus adds to the life of the wood.

WASTE NOOK? — Do you have waste space in the bedroom corner just at the entrance to the bath? Then here's a way to put it to work. Build storage drawers in the corner with knee space for a dressing table, using west coast hemlock or other durable soft wood. Pastel paints will give dainty effect to chests of drawers. Table top can be formica or hemlock finished with natural grain texture, heavily varnished.

Find Good Cleaner for Rayon Carpets

American Viscose Corporation, world's largest manufacturer of rayon for use in the carpet industry, recently made tests of all types of household rug cleaners to find the best ones for cleaning rayon and rayon blended carpeting.

It has long been known that solutions of many home detergents have a tendency to overwet the pile and cause matting. Some alkaline solutions, the tests showed, produced a yellowing on light shades; and that many powdered cleaners were inclined to stain.

Results of the tests—as recently released in printed form by Avisco, endorsed one which has a clay base containing solvents, and is just sprinkled on the carpet, brushed in and vacuumed off. If used periodically for touching up traffic areas and over entire rugs every few months it will keep rayon carpeting clean and new looking with colors fresh and bright.

Even Temperatures With Gas-Fired Heat

A recent improvement in gas-fired central heating units employs a new principle of air distribution that keeps the temperature even in every room—from floor to ceiling and wall to wall. There's so little variation, in fact, that this particular manufacturer backs his guarantee of home heating comfort with a bond.

Since every manufacturer endeavors to improve his brand of heating units and keep pace with his competitors, the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association suggests consultation with your local gas company to learn which model is just right for your needs and meets your budget requirements.

You'll find many to choose from, ranging from inexpensive to deluxe types of systems, although price is not necessarily the criterion of satisfactory performance, GAMA points out.

Roll Your Own Roof

Among this week's new products is a new type of "roll your own" galvanized, corrugated steel roofing, offered to farmers and suburbanites by Ceco Steel Products Corp., Chicago. These 31-foot rolls can be stretched across the roof like a rug. The firm says ordinary roofing time is cut 25 per cent.

BEDROOM LEVEL — This bedroom level plan shows its relation to the living level. A folding wall can be used to divide the master bedroom if desired, making two rooms out of the large space. There are two baths on this level.

ENTRANCE LEVELS — This plan for the entrance and living levels shows the walled garden terrace. When placed on a narrow lot, this house has its living area at the rear. There is a second terrace off the dining room.

ON A WIDE LOT — If your lot is 75 or 80 feet, you can turn this house sidewise to look like this. The one-car garage can be entered from the front end and the maid's room is shifted to the rear.

Now Split Level Homes Built on Narrow Lots

Design HW-20 for The House of The Week presents a new concept of tri-level planning. It offers you the options of adjusting the house to three, four, or five-bedroom use.

It provides nine good size rooms—ten if you count the room-size foyer—all in a perimeter area of only 1,550 square feet, a medium size. It can be built in city, surburban or country locations.

Rudolph A Matern, the architect, has designed HW-20 for construction in six different variations with merely slight plan changes. All of the six versions are shown on the study plans. They demonstrate:

1. That this house can be built on a 40-foot lot in areas where 10 to 14-foot side yards are acceptable. Elsewhere a 45 to 50-foot lot should suffice. As shown in the plans on this page, you can have a one-car garage and a maid's room (the fifth bedroom) on the lower level.

2. You can also build on a narrow lot with a two-car garage by eliminating the maid's room. This suitability for a modest site solves the problem of increasing land costs as well as making a modern home available to families who already own urban land.

3. Turned sidewise, this house becomes an attractive resign for a wide lot—75 or 80 feet. In this option the one-car garage can be entered at the front of the house and the maid's room shifted to the rear adjoining the family room.

4. Another wide-lot version offers a two-car garage, entered from the front, in which case the maid's room is eliminated and you have a three or four-bedroom house. This bedroom flexibility is provided by a folding wall.

5. For a still wider lot to afford driveway turning space, or for a corner property, the four-bedroom version can have its two-car garage entered from the side.

6. Also fitting larger lots and corners is the orginal version with the fifth bedroom restored and a one-car garage entered from the side.

As narrow lot project, this plan shows a walled garden terrace at one side. This utilizes the land width to the maximum. Iron gates in front create a dramatic entrance to the house across the paved terrace. With a garden pool in the corner of the stone wall and with colorful planting boxes, this terrace becomes a picturesque outdoor living room.

Four steps lead up from the foyer and produce a raised living room effect. A folding wall between the foyer and family room opens an expanded area for large scale entertaining. Sliding glass doors open both the foyer and the family room to the outdoors.

The kitchen, located between the dining room and family room, has a dinette corner and a balcony overlooking the lower level. This latter feature permits a mother to keep an eye on her children playing in the family room.

A real convenience is the lower level bathroom, adjacent to the maid's room, garage, family room and kitchen. Two other bathrooms are upstairs.

The master bedroom suite in the front of the house is planned with a folding partition making it possiple to divide this area for a private study, guest room, sitting room or nursery.

No matter which way you turn this house, it presents grace and interest in its exterior, accented by overhangs; stone walls and planters.

BLUEPRINTS for HW-20 include plans for a basement under the living room end of the house. This is a detail that can be readily omitted. Living room, dining room and kitchen can be built over a crawl space, or on the grade as the front part of the house is built.

A separate conversion sheet for basementless construction is included with all working drawings for this house. A modern horizontal heating plant can be installed in a small crawl space adjacent to the chimney.

FOR A NARROW LOT — This new split-level plan fits a narrow lot and presents a dignified appearance. Where 10 to 14 foot side yards are acceptable, this house can be built on a 40 foot lot. The plans show six different variations of this one house.

A 'Doggone' Way to Spend a Holiday

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The 28-foot yacht Vandal piled up on a sand bar because Cindy, a dog had had enough of cruising.

* * *

Mrs. Wood E. Hankins said she and her husband, their son, Billy, 15, and the 70-pound boxer were off Elliot Key when Cindy helped to be set ashore. Billy started shorward with the dog in a dinghy. Partway the dog jumped overboard, upsetting the rowboat.

The boy's father moved up with the cutter-rigged yacht, throwing Billy a line. The yacht was blown onto a sand bar, pounding waves damaged and flooded the craft.

* * *

The Hankins waded onto the key — carrying their dog — and spent chilly Thanksgiving night there without being able to kindle a campfire. The Coast Guard brought them to the mainland.

Wealthy Trio Found Starving and Freezing

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An elderly Philadelphia couple and their daughter were found yesterday near starvation and suffering from exposure in their unheated home. Scattered about the house was $5,600 in cash and another $9,000 in bank desposits and savings bonds.

The parents, Meyer Golob, 75, a retired pants presser, and his wife, Fannie, 73, were taken to Philadelphia General Hospital. Their daughter, Rose, 50, was admitted to Byberry State Mental Hospital. Police said all three suffering from malnutrition and exposure.

The heater was cold and no fuel and little food could be found in the house, police said.

Wuvs You, Wuvs You Wails Woeful Wooer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Taylor Norden sued for divorce but after wife Edna appeared in court with a hatbox full of love letters he had written her in happier days, he changed his mind.

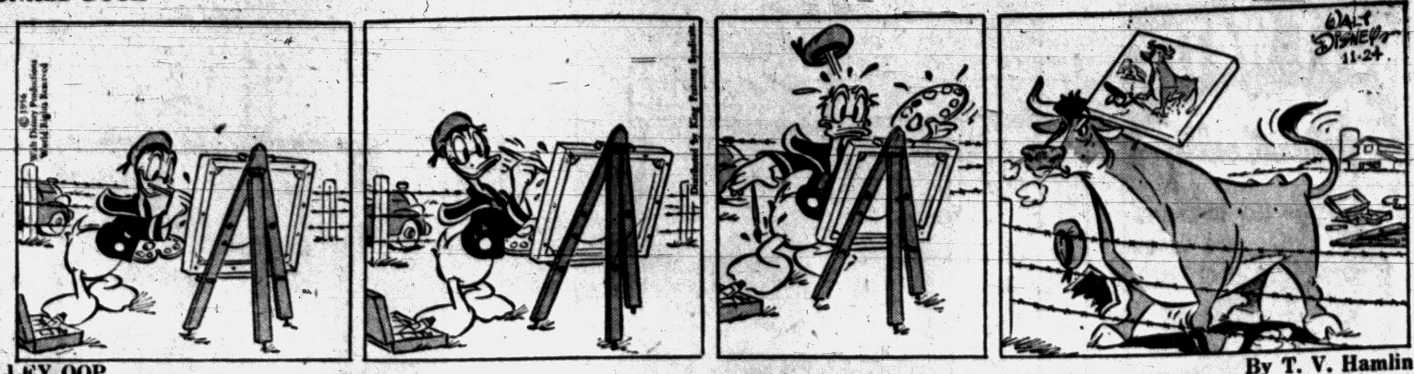

Their attorneys had a courtroom conference that wound up with Norden dropping his suit and agreeing to pay her $2,500 in alimony. The court then issued her the divorce.

One of Norden's missives said: "I wuvs you, I wuvs you, I wuvs you."

Edna, who is 55, let the court know that as a University of Wisconsin English teacher, she once gave Taylor an "A" grade in competition when he was a sophomore student. He is 33 and a vocational guidance counsellor.

You Can't Lose! Pot-O-Gold Is Fun, $$ or Both

$700 isn't to be scoffed at, and here's an easy way to come by that tidy sum. All you have to do is read the rules, study the clues and come up with the correct solution. This week's puzzle will be worth $700 plus $25 for a subscriber if no winner is found for Puzzle No. 24. Even with a winner for last week it's worth $100, and it's fun besides. How can you go wrong?

The puzzle consists of (1) a number of circles which contain a few scrambled letters, and (2) a corresponding list of clues to these words printed below. The object is to arrange each group of circled letters into a word that best fits its clue. The word which you select for Circle No. 1, then would be the one which you would print in the space to the right of (1) below.

You'll notice that some circles contain $ signs in pots of gold. You may use such a symbol as any letter you wish. However, it and all letters in that circle must be used. The $ sign, of course, can represent ANY letter in the word.

Do the same in all the other circles. Study the clues carefully and arrange all the letters into words that you believe best conforms to these clues. Use your $ signs to help you spell out the right words.

OFFICIAL CONTEST RULES

1. Anyone is eligible to enter the POT-O-GOLD contest with the exception of Pontiac Press employes or their immediate families.
2. A contestant may submit as many entries as he or she wishes but they must be on official entry blanks printed in this newspaper.
3. To submit an entry the contestant must print his answer words in the proper spaces, cut out the area enclosed by dotted lines and attach it securely to a 2-cent postcard. No entries will be accepted if they are in envelopes. Entries for Puzzle No. 25 must bear a Tuesday, Nov. 27, postmark (or before). No entries received after that time, whether mailed or delivered by hand, will be declared eligible. The Press is not responsible for entries lost or delayed in the mail.
4. Sorry, telephone calls or mail concerning details of the contest cannot be answered or acknowledged.
5. The Pontiac Press will award a cash prize of $100 a week to the winner of each weekly POT-O-GOLD contest. If more than one winning answer is received the prize will be divided equally among the winners. If any week or weeks should pass without any winners, the prize will be added weekly until a winning solution is submitted.
6. Winners will be awarded an extra cash bonus of $25 each if they are Pontiac Press subscribers of record on the day winners are announced. Only one such bonus can be awarded to each prize-winner, no matter how many weekly prizes may accumulate.
7. Each week's puzzle will be published Monday, Wednesday and Friday until the contest's end. Either or all will be considered as official entry blanks.
8. Winners and correct solutions will be announced each Friday of the week following individual contests. Official keeper of answers will be Frederick C. Ziem, prosecutor for Oakland County. Only the General Features Corp., originators of the puzzles, will know the solutions until after each contest is over. Answers will be delivered to the Press judges by Mr. Ziem after the final deadline.
9. There is only one correct solution to the POT-O-GOLD puzzle, and only that correct answer can win. The decision of the judges is final and all contestants agree to abide by the judges' decision. All entries become the property of The Pontiac Press and none can be returned.
10. Completed puzzles must be addressed to POT-O-GOLD, POST OFFICE BOX 58 Pontiac, Michigan. Winners will be notified either by telephone or in the mails.

50-Year Landmark Goes Up in Flames

* * *

The fire in the home, owned by Mrs. Almon C. Wilson of Rochester, was discovered by Wilson, who was asleep when it broke out in the basement ceiling. Cause of the blaze was undetermined, according to Romeo Fire Chief Walter Werth.

The house, which was insured, was valued at more than $35,000.

Cite Rising Costs, Mideast Tension

Little Chance of Tax Cut Next Year, Officials Say

WASHINGTON (INS) — High-ranking administration officials said yesterday the possibility of a tax cut next year is remote now because of rising military costs, international tensions and a booming economy.

* * *

The officials said the Middle East situation has injected "a new dimension of uncertainty" into the whole domestic economic picture and has made the prospect of a cut even more dim.

Officials said international tensions are putting new pressure on government spending and narrowing any prospective surplus which could be used to balance a tax slash.

They added that the business boom, plus international uncertainty, is aggravating inflationary pressures and a tax cut would only add to the boom.

* * *

The result of this, they said, is that President Eisenhower's legislative proposals to the 85th Congress, which convenes Jan. 3, are not expected to include recomendations for any aierial tax cuts.

ONE RAY OF HOPE

The officials held out one ray of hope—they also did not see much chance of the administration asking Congress for more taxes.

* * *

Officials said that, to have a tax reduction of any consequence, it would be necessary to have a budget surplus of three or four billion dollars a year. But they declared there is no prospect of such a surplus as long as the present situation continues.

One official declared that, with new pressures on government spending, it would be well to find ways to cut outlays in a number of less urgent sectors.

He suggested slowing down on the new highway-building program and holding off on river and harbor projects and various public works until slack times.

WOULD REVISE PLAN

He declared that the law passed by Congress this year authorizing a $27,500,000,000 interstate highway building program should be revised to provide for more flexibility in carrying out the program.

This would not mean, the source said, that the program would not be completed in the 13 to 15 years contemplated now. It should be possible, however, he said, to speed up construction in slack times and taper it off in boom periods.

* * *

Under the program as authorized, he said, the government will be going ahead full speed on a mammoth road-building program at a time when most other areas of the economy are bidding for labor and materials. He commented that "this is not good economics."

Vandals in Town — Wreck Power Shovel

Oakland County detectives today are investigating a report that a power shovel was badly damaged by vandals sometime yesterday in Avon Township.

A crowbar was believed to have been used to punch holes in the radiator and smash windows. The vehicle's battery and other parts of the outside were destroyed.

The shovel, which is owned by Otto Jenkins, of 1227 Meadowlawn, White Lake Township, was parked at 2605 N. Adams Rd. when the destruction occurred.

Jenkins told detectives it was not the first time the shovel had been damaged but that the previous occasion had only been minor incidents.

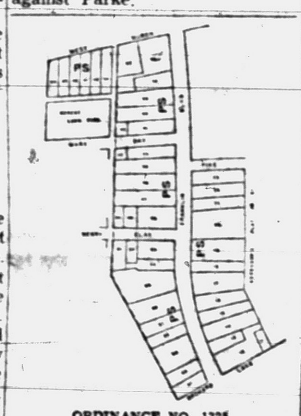

Youth Killed by Auto Trying to Save Family

WARRENTON, Va. (AP) — When fire broke out in the house while his father was at work, 5-year-old John Thomas Dovel ran for help for his mother and her three other children.

State police said the youngster raced from a side road onto heavily traveled U.S. 15-29 eight miles south of here directly into the path of a car driven by Frank E. Parke, 27, of Barrie, Ontario.

Judge Gillis Takes Pledges

Starts Fund for Children of 2 Slain Flint Troopers

DETROIT (AP)—A fund for the education of five Flint children, left fatherless when their State Police fathers were slain by a gunman, is being raised by a University of Detroit group.

Detroit Recorders Judge Joseph A. Gillis spent most of his Thanksgiving setting up a foundation in behalf of David and Michele Lappi, their three-day-old baby brother, and for Joann Marie and Mary Beth Pozza.

State Troopers George E. Lappi and Bert A. Pozza were shot to death Monday in a gun duel with Harry G. Richards, 63. Mrs. Lappi gave birth to a son, Daniel George, a few hours after her husband's funeral.

Judge Gillis noted that the widows will receive about $5,000 in insrance and an annual pension of about $2,600, each, along with a share in a fund being collected through the Saginaw Valley Law Enforcement Officers Assn.

CITES NEED

"But it won't be enough to assure an education for the children," he told fellow members of the 1922 U. of D. Law school class.

Judge Gillis got pledges of $50 each a year from seven members of the class and said he expected to get similar promises from 19 others.

"In 10 years we should have more than $12,000," he said, "and it will keep growing. By the time these youngsters are ready for college, there will be enough for them to get through."

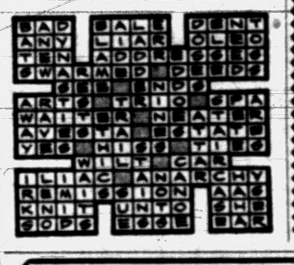

Hungarian Stage Star Does Best Act —— Flees

VIENNA (AP) — Pretty Violetta Ferrari, 23, popular Hungarian stage and move star, is reported to have fled from behind the Iron Curtain into Austria.

The actress was tipped that the Soviet-backed Hungarian regime's state police were about to arrest her for participating in the anti-Russian revolt, and she feared deportation to Russia.

She fled so suddenly she was forced to leave her 3-year-old child.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Moroccans Now Calm but Not Too Happy

By PRESTON GROVER
Chief of AP Paris Bureau

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — When this country shakes loose the last remaining threads of French authority, it will begin its life of full independence with a better industrial and governmental plant than any Middle Eastern Arab country.

Despite all this, Moroccans harbor a mass of dislike and distrust for Frenchmen. Nor are the Moroccans well prepared to take over the plant rapidly falling into their hands.

ATMOSPHERE CALM

The atmosphere here is better than it was before independence was granted. Terrorism has disappeared. The Sultan has influence and is not the hothead the French once considered him Perhaps he is their best friend in Morocco now, even if an angry one.

Yet the country still presents a rather unhappy picture, not only to visitors, but to many Frenchmen who plan to live here.

Another factor presents itself with increasing force to visiting Americans. This country of almost nine millions is of growing importance to the United States. It lies alongside American communications through the Mediterranean. An enemy here, having access to the big airbases Americans now occupy, could cut the United States off from the Mediterranean and Southern Europe.

This threat does not look great now. Inquiries disclose no active Communist threat. But experience with Egypt and other Arab peoples shows how quickly things can change.

COUNTRY AMAZING

This is an amazing country. You can ski and pick oranges in the same general area, just as in California. Farm land around Meknes is rolling and rich, like Iowa. Casablanca looks like a bustling Southern port in the United States, with wharf cranes and palm trees wingling.

Buildings in Casablanca run up 12 and 14 stories. The metropolis has two hotels almost as fine as the best in Europe. In other respects there is a Texas oil town atmosphere, with some people making scads of money and showing it off in fine mansions and garages full of big American cars.

AMERICANS TOLERATED

There isn't the automatic dislike of white faces there was before independence was granted. White faces no longer represent police and colonial dominance. Just at the moment, America and Americans are fairly popular. American stock goes up fastest when French stock is going down.

* * *

Americans are not popular with the French down here. The French and Moroccans share one belief — almost the only one they share — that America is trying to muscle in on Morocco. Some of the French talk as if it could happen here as it did in Indochina.

* * *

So long as the French army remains in Morocco, the Moroccans will feel they aren't independent. But if the army left suddenly, Algeria might go to pot more rapidly, and moreover, the French population in Morocco would panic. And the Moroccans know they must keep a lot of Frenchmen here for a long time to keep industry and the government going.

France's biggest failing in Morocco, and in Algeria as well, was that so few Moroccans were trained for the civil service and for technical jobs.

BUSINESS AT PEAK

Despite their differences with the Moroccans, many French businessmen are making money. Nevertheless you sense that things may have reached a sort of high point, and that a slow descent may follow.

Many Moroccans think the Americans are coming in with both people and money to help out in any future economic crises. Some Moroccans have dreamy ideas that America will almost support the government in return for the right to use the bases. Wiser ones know it isn't going to be like that. In a pinch, the new Spanish bases can replace those in Morocco.

Doctor Dies Operating on Nursing Assistant

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Dr. Charles Hugh Maguire, 47, operating on a nurse who had assisted him during surgery many times, was fatally stricken by a heart attack yesterday.

Immediately after he collapsed, a fellow surgeon placed him on an operating table, opened his chest and tried unsuccessfully to revive him by massagin the heart.

Piper Laurie Now Seeks Genuine Stardom in TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Once upon a time there was a girl who had something that millions of girls wanted. She was a Hollywood "star," with all the fame and fortune that goes with it.

* * *

But she found that being a "star" is not all that it's reputed to be. She wanted to earn the title through her accomplishments as a dramatic actress — and she found that Hollywood was not giving her the chance. So—except for one picture a year—she gave up her lucrative contract and began seeking other things.

Her name is Piper Laurie, a pretty, red-haired young woman who was born in Detroit and became known for barefoot roles in movie sagebrush sagas.

* * *

Sunday night she takes on her first starring television role in CBS-TV's "The Road That Led Afar." She — and several professional actors — are pretty excited with what she does with the role.

"Although I've been called a 'star,'" she said the other day. "I'm not the most experienced actress in the world. I would like to be, and I found more attention given to my acting on 'The Road That Led Afar' than in most of the pictures I've played.

* * *

"See, I have to thank the people at the studio for all they've done for me. But they took me when I was young and said, 'You are a star,' and cast me in certain types of pictures. And the people whose judgments I respect heard I was a star, but they saw the junk I was making—or they didn't bother to see it at all.

"I want to do something in which I can take pride. After seven years in pictures people say about me, 'Isn't she cute? Doesn't she look just lovely?' That's not what I want. I want people to respect me as an actress a little bit. I don't want to make a pretentious debut as a dramatic actress. I want things to be just right.

* * *

"I think that television offers me the best experience possible at this time. In this role the directors have given me a sense of freedom in acting for the first time in my life."

In "The Road That Led Afar" Miss Laurie plays a woman who marries a man (Dan Duryea) with four young children and faces the problem of winning their confidence and affection.

CHANGE IN CAREER — Piper Laurie, who believes that the movies pushed her into a false stardom without developing her acting ability, is now seeking a more genuine fame via television. She'll portray an unglamorous role on the CBS-TV's General Electric Theater Sunday at 9 p. m.

Oakland County Electronic Association
We Thought You'd Like to Know
The Oakland County Electronics Association, with the very able assistance of the Better Business Board of the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce, has been successful in keeping fraudulent TV service operations at a minimum in the Pontiac area. Our local association, in cooperation with other simular organizations, have formed a state-wide alliance to control fraudulent practices and better serve the people of Michigan. The operators cannot always be found guilty of illegal practices because the laws concerning such operations are very general. In the next session of our state legislature a bill will be introduced concerning state licensing of TV service dealers. We urge you to support this bill because of its many benefits to you, the consumer. We are sure that state licensing will assure you satisfactory service at reasonable prices and remove the threat of these "Trick Artists." This association was founded and is supported by reliable LOCAL businessmen. Give these firms your vote of confidence. When you need TV or Radio service, call your neighborhood OCEA member. You'll be glad you did.
