South Reeling Under Stormy Wintry Blows

By The Associated Press

Snow such as many Southerners had never seen blanketed the South today from the Gulf of Mexico to Virginia, paralyzing traffic and communications at many places and causing at least seven deaths.

The snow and sleet storm turned to rain in some sections overnight, adding glazed highways to the already dangerous driving conditions. Numerous highways were closed to traffic.

Almost four inches of snow, the most this century, fell on New Orleans, leading to snowmen in the usually torrid French Quarter and an occasional flying snowball on Canal Street.

Hattiesburg, in southeast Mississippi, had 12 inches of snow and Chatom, in southwest Alabama, reported 10 inches. Both towns are near the Gulf in an area where even a snow flurry is a rarity.

Unequipped to deal with accumulations of snow and slick streets, most larger Southern cities suffered monumental traffic jams. Temporary loss of power and telephone lines was reported throughout the South.

Factories and stores closed early in most cities yesterday so employes could get home before streets became impassable.

Two persons died in Alabama traffic accidents attributed to the snow.

Fresh northeasterly winds tore a small boat from its moorings on a marsh island off the southeast Georgia coast, marooned two men and their three sons on the island and then pushed high tides over the island.

Two of the boys died from exposure. The others were rescued after more than 30 hours.

In Mobile, Ala., two children died from gas fumes from an unvented stove. In Atlanta, a gas explosion shattered one floor of an apartment building, killing one person and injuring two.

The snowstorm blew northward from the Gulf, reaching Tennessee, the Carolinas, and Virginia before threatening the nation's capital with several inches of snow.

TOOTS TO TEARS — One-year-old Timothy Arthur Larkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Larkin of 3556 Richmond, Waterford Township, is a tot with a familiar tale. The Timmy to the left and the Timmy to the right are as different as last night and this morning were to many elder New Year's celebrants. Do you share his plight? Don't worry, the world isn't really 20 years older, it just feels that way. Tomorrow, after the bowl games, things will get back to normal.

Tempers Toast With Renewed Threat to West

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev toasted in the new year today with an appeal for further lessening of cold war tensions in 1964. But at a convivial Kremlin reception, Khrushchev said his only difference with Communist China is on "how to bury capitalism."

Sitting next to a surprise guest, ex-Premier Nikolai Bulganin, who fell into disgrace after a Communist party power struggle in 1957, Khrushchev was in an expansive mood as he proposed 13 toasts.

His face clouded, however, when he recalled the demonstration in Red Square two weeks ago by several hundred African students protesting the alleged murder of a medical student from Ghana.

Warning the African students, Khrushchev said: "At home, if they want to stand on their heads and shake their legs in the air, then they can do so if the government permits it. But we will not allow it.

★ ★ ★

LEADS PARTY

The cheerful Soviet leader led the Kremlin gathering of 2,000 persons, including foreign diplomats and newsmen, after releasing texts of messages to President Johnson and Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

To Castro, he pledged to support Cuba in the event of an attack by "United States aggressive circles."

★ ★ ★

Khrushchev also took note that this is the fifth anniversary of the Cuban revolution.

PLEDGES AID

"The Soviet people fulfilling their internationalist duty, will continue to render all-round assistance to their Cuban brothers in their struggle for a new life," he added.

Khrushchev's message to Johnson, cited the ban on nuclear testing in the atmosphere and added:

"We should like to hope that the coming year will see further and more substantial progress both in adjusting the key world problems and in bettering relations between our two countries for the sake of the Soviet and the American people and for a more lasting world peace."

De Gaulle Addresses Nation

Urges H-Bomb as French Aim

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle has urged France to make development of a hydrogen bomb a prime goal in 1964.

In a New Year's Eve radio and television broadcast to the nation, de Gaulle said France can meet the threat of aggression and achieve the independence worthy of a great nation only with the might of the H-bomb.

He said France's other goals in the new year are European unity, helping underdeveloped nations and contributing to the cause of world peace.

★ ★ ★

In this way, de Gaulle said, France is taking back into its hands the destiny it lost when it capitulated to Nazi Germany in 1940.

PEACE, STABILITY

He said France had gained peace and political stability in the past year.

He described European unity as a condition for "a truly concentrated political, economic and strategic understanding with America."

He also defended his decision to keep Britain out of the Common Market, saying he opposed "the admission of a new member which could not go by the rules."

★ ★ ★

De Gaulle expressed hope that the Soviet Union and other Communist bloc nations in Europe would continue to improve relations with the West.

CHINA IGNORED

His failure to mention Communist China, which has been seeking closer French ties, was regarded as a pointed ommission.

★ ★ ★

De Gaulle said the population of France, once plagued by a low birthrate, grew by nearly 600,000 last year, and now totals 48 million.

Eleven Dead in State Traffic

Worst Crash Kills 3 Near Cass City

By the Associated Press

Three of the victims died in a head-on collision of two cars near Cass City last night.

A Richmond couple was killed and their daughter was critically injured in one car in the accident near Cass City.

Clem Hardy, 43, and his wife, Wanda, 40, died. Their daughter, Carol, 16, was taken to a Cass City Hospital. The third victim was the driver of the other car, Ronald Brown, 25, of Snover.

TRAFFIC COUNT

The Associated Press began counting the traffic fatalities for the holiday period at 12:01 a.m. Tuesday. The count ends at midnight tonight.

Other victims:

Barbara Hanlon, 22, of Grand Rapids was killed today while she was a passenger in a car that was struck from behind, police said.

Officers said the car in which she was riding was pushing a disabled vehicle when a third auto hit them on U. S. 131 south of Rockford in Kent County.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac Merchants See Booming '64

By ALLEN PHILLIPS

They all say the 12 months ahead can well top booming 1963, and could be the best in recent history.

Added to this are some strong convictions that downtown Pontiac will begin to feel a resurgence that has long been in the planning stage.

★ ★ ★

"I believe 1964 will be the year when urban renewal comes into its own," predicted Max Adams, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

NEW BUSINESS

Adams said he looks for new businesses to locate in the downtown area, as well as expansion and modernization of existing establishments. This will also take place at outlying shopping centers he said.

"I also believe four or five new small industrial plants will locate here in 1964. At the same time, present and proposed construction of motels and apartments will add stability to our area."

This optimism was reflected by Monroe Osmun, general manager of Osmun's, Inc.

★ ★ ★

"I'm very encouraged about 1964. I think it's going to be a terrific year, because as the auto industry goes so goes Pontiac.

CRUCIAL YEAR

"But it could also be the most crucial year downtown Pontiac ever faced. It's the year things are going to start happening. I can say that sometime in January we'll have some important statements to make about this," said Osmun.

Taking a similar view was A. C. Girard, president of

'Tax Cut Key to Business'

By ROGER E. SPEAR
(Special to the Pontiac Press)

The new year should be a good one for business and the stock market, but 1964 will not exhibit unrestrained boom conditions.

Frankly, the administration's tax cut holds the key. With it, we can expect continuation of the current period of prosperity, which economists otherwise consider as ripe for a downward turn.

Our nation's economy traditionally travels in cycles, and only artificial measures such as a war or a tax cut can displace normal expectations.

★ ★ ★

Since 1964 is an election year, it seems reasonable to presume that a tax cut will be enacted, so this forecast is predicated on that assumption.

TOTAL OUTPUT

Gross national product (GNP), our total national output of goods and services, is estimated at $583 billion for 1963, up a healthy 5 per cent over 1962. We believe that GNP could take another 5½ per cent jump in '64, hitting $616 billion.

Consumer prices, which hit

Michigan Is Ruled by New Constitution

LANSING (AP) — Michigan stepped into 1964 today in the symbolic style of the New Year baby on the picture.

Starting from 12:01 a.m., the state sported a new constitution, its first new one in 55 years.

★ ★ ★

In the New Year 1964, and in succeeding years, Michigan's form of government will be changed significantly.

Many differences will follow as elements of the new constitution become effective.

Most will take time. An early example, however, will be in the field of civil rights.

★ ★ ★

On Friday Gov. George Romney swears in the eight-man commission which will be entrusted with the duty of protecting every man's privileges in the area of civil liberties.

The commission also will have authority to enforce all men's responsibilities in the same area.

LOCAL AUTHORITY

This authority, as defined by Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley, faces possible court challenge from groups which may protest preemption of local authority.

Michigan's politics, now in the budding stage for 1964 campaigning, will undergo changes under the new constitution.

★ ★ ★

In 1966, Michigan will start electing its governor to four-year terms instead of the present two years. State and county officers also will be elected for four years.

The April Spring elections are abolished.

HIGHWAY TEAM

State highways will be under the supervision of a four-man bipartisan commission appointed by the governor. The present highway commission's post will be eliminated.

A new appellate court will handle appeals from lower courts, a system designed to reduce the Supreme Court's burden.

The more than 100 state agencies and bureaus now existing will be consolidated into no more than 20.

Constitutional powers heretofore limited to the three big state-supported universities — the University of Michigan, Michigan State and Wayne State, — will be extended to smaller state schools.

REAPPORTIONMENT

Reapportionment of the State Legislature also is ordered in the new constitution.

A bipartisan commission — as approved by the two major political parties — will redistrict House of Representatives on the basis of population and the Senate on a formula hinged to population and area.

★ ★ ★

Gov. Romney, who helped to write the new constitution as a Republican delegate to the constitutional convention, hailed its advent today.

"Without a doubt," he said, "Michigan's new constitution places Michigan in an unequaled position to prepare outselves to meet the challenges of the future."

★ ★ ★

Terming the new document a "citizens effort right from the beginning," Romney also said it shows that "Michigan is a problem-solving state where things get done that need to be done."

Booming '64 Seen

Community National Bank, who pointed out: "I-75 and other arterial highways are going to expand our area.

"And, there's no question in my mind that with the Pontiac Motor plant operating at top efficiency it's hard to predict other than a good year."

★ ★ ★

Girard added that Community National itself has a $350,000 modernization of its main downtown office headed toward completion this spring, as well as construction plans for three new branches.

Another banker's view came from Milo J. Cross, president of Pontiac State Bank.

"We here at the bank are very hopeful. Presently we have proposals for a dividend and issuance of more stock up for approval by stockholders on Jan. 21. We also have three branches under construction which should open by May 1.

"I think local business will be good due to operations at the General Motors plants. This will also be reflected in increases in outstanding loans and savings accounts."

STRONG INDICATION

"Housing starts we are servicing at this time are four and one-half times greater than a year ago. Along with the contemplated amount of commercial construction, everything looks real good."

Clarkson said First Federal assets increased by over 30 per cent in 1963, to $57 million, and he looks for a like gain during 1964. One or two new branches will also be opened.

★ ★ ★

Howard Nelson, manager of the downtown Sears Roebuck & Co. store felt the opening of 1964 was a good time to squelch rumors his firm is losing interest in Pontiac.

NOTHING TO FEAR

"Despite the news of a new Sears store to be built in Troy, I want to say there is positively nothing to fear we are moving this operation out of town. We still need a store here to serve our customers. They have proven they like to shop downtown."

Asked about a possible relocation into the renewal area, Nelson would only state that "We are very much interested. We would not have had a property agent look at that land if we weren't."

The overriding feeling that '64 will be a good business year is by no means restricted to the city's core. Satellite shopping center spokesmen were equally enthusiastic.

★ ★ ★

"It looks good to me, since all the shops and plants are doing well," said Roy Schroeder, manager of the K-Mart store in Glenwood Plaza.

REASON TO HOPE

He admitted he had every reason for hoping for a successful year, as his K-Mart has the biggest sales volume in the 53-outlet national chain. Schroeder said the store will continue to update its services to meet customer demand.

At the opposite side of Pontiac, Tel-Huron Center Merchants Association President Irving J. Gordon, was similarly cheerful.

"We're going to celebrate our tenth anniversary this spring, and the center will undergo redecorating," Gordon revealed.

★ ★ ★

"As for 1964, if anything it will be better than '63. Pontiac Motor is really going to town, and they're our bread and butter."

BIG PROMOTIONS

To the north, at the Mall, Roy Smith, S. S. Kresge manager and Merchants Association president, said shoppers there could look forward to "our biggest sales promotions throughout the year."

"Our stores all did well over Christmas, and I don't see any reason for a letup.

"We've only been open for less than two years and yet the Mall has won customers from a 45-mile radius who like to shop in our indoor center."

★ ★ ★

A happy note was also sounded southward at Bloomfield Miracle Mile, where Lion Store manager and Merchants Association President Marvin Talan sees two-way optimism.

AIR OF CONFIDENCE

"There is a prevailing air of confidence by consumers and by our merchants as well," he stated. "We are eagerly looking forward to 1964."

Congress Is Relieved as Works Bill OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional leaders, still weary from their battle over foreign aid, breathed easier today with President Johnson's signing of the $4.4-billion public works bill.

Johnson, who had considered vetoing the "pork barrel" works measure, reluctantly signed it yesterday but announced he would ignore a provision requiring congressional approval for transfers of Panama Canal property.

The President had no quarrel with the bill's projects or the money involved, but he said the Panama provision was an encroachment on the authority of the executive branch and was unconstitutional.

★ ★ ★

His decision to go ahead and sign the measure anyway brought a sigh of relief from congressional leaders who were not looking forward to another early contest between Johnson and Congress.

CONFERS ON DECISION

Johnson conferred with both House and Senate leaders about his decision on the works bill and it was apparent that he followed their advice in not killing the legislation by a veto.

However, in announcing that he would not abide by the contested provision on Panama Canal property, he probably was acting on his own.

That in itself may set the stage for some kind of hassle with Congress, but not of the intensity or magnitude of the battle he would have been certain to set off by vetoing the bill.

The public works measure, a favorite of lawmakers because it provides for undertakings in their home districts, carries funds for hundreds of flood control, reclamation and other projects.

It also includes funds for the Atomic Energy Commission for the current fiscal year, which started last June 30, and this would have made any veto very difficult.

Johnson directed Army Secretary Cyrus Vancet to ignore the Panama provision.

He said he would "treat the provision as a request for information" and told Vance to keep the appropriate congressional committees informed of Panama Canal property transfers.

Makes Profit of $750,000

Chrysler Executive Uses Stock Option

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lynn Townsend, president of Chrysler Corp., made a profit of about $750,000 in six months through the company's stock option plan, records of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC showed Tuesday.

The profit was on sale of 12,000 shares of Chrysler stock. He still holds 5,000 additional shares which he purchased under the stock option plan and this represents a paper profit of more than $300,000.

George Love, Chrysler board chairman, purchased 20,000 shares on July 11 but there is no indication from SEC records that he has made any recent sale. After purchasing the 20,000 shares in July, Love held a total of 42,000 shares.

SEC records do not show whether Love acquired part of his stock under the option plan. The law would not require Love to report until Jan. 10 on any sales or purchases made in December.

RIGHT TO PURCHASE

The argument made for such options is that they provide an incentive for executives to work toward improving the company's earnings and financial position.

★ ★ ★

The option is usually granted for a given period, and if the stock rises during this period the executive can exercise the option, buy the stock, and sell it at a profit. However, he must hold the stock six months in order to receive the most favorable federal tax treatment of the profit.

Many Chrysler executives exercised options in April, May and June and a large percentage of the stock bought was sold in early December.

PLAN CRITICIZED

The Chrysler situation has been criticized by Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., who has said that the dealings are an example "of corporate insiders receiving at their own initiative large income on which they don't pay normal tax."

Profit on the sale of stock which has been held more than six months is taxed as capital gain. The rate ranges from half the normal income tax in brackets below 50 per cent up to a maximum tax of 25 per cent.

Chamber Looks Back Over an Active 1963

Leading the list of community projects in which the chamber's influence was felt is the new municipal parking lot south of Shain Park.

The chamber backed the controversial move along with new parking arrangements on Maple and other improvements to expedite traffic flow in the business sections.

The organization worked to bring the Birmingham Arts Festival back to the downtown district. About 25 of its members worked on various festival committees.

ELBOW GREASE

Members' ideas and elbow grease also went into the Michigan Week observance.

The retail merchants division sponsored a parade and outdoor fashion show as the Michigan Week finale.

Also held by the retail division was the first annual dinner dance for the chamber. Other activities include purchase of $900 worth of new outdoor Christmas lights for downtown streets, a successful Men's Night and cooperation with Seaholm High School in its retail training classes.

For the fifth consecutive year, the chamber held a Halloween parade and parties, keeping several thousand youngsters occupied.

VARIOUS PROJECTS

Representatives of the chamber worked on various projects with the Birmingham Board of Education, City Commission, YMCA, Oakland County Planning Commission, the Oakland County Non-Partisan Committee for the New Constitution, the Jaycees and other service clubs and organizations.

A Sunday closing law for retailers and Birmingham's central business district development plan were endorsed by the chamber. It went on record as being opposed, to a state income tax.

Twenty-eight members were added to the chamber to bring the total to 325.

Hoffa Says U.S. Made 1st Contact

DETROIT (AP) — James R. Hoffa Tuesday denied authorizing anyone to approach the government to deal for his resignation as Teamsters Union president if federal charges against him were dropped.

Hoffa charged that "people representing the federal government" had approached him. Hoffa said they sought to arrange for him to leave office and for several aides to resign in return for the government dropping grand jury action.

★ ★ ★

A spokesman for the Justice Department said he knew nothing of the alleged deal.

Hoffa replied to the reported deal in an interview recorded Tuesday by station WWJ-TV in Detroit. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch had said Hoffa reportedly instigated the proposal in which he would have quit the union presidency and resigned his union membership.

REJECTED BID

The newspaper story said the government rejected the bid by Hoffa's representatives.

Hoffa said he rejected the bid by the government representatives.

Hoffa and six others face trial in Tennessee on charges of tampering with a federal court jury. He also has been indicted with seven others in Chicago on charges of conspiracy to obtain $20 million fraudulently in Teamsters funds.

Witness Cool During Battle

Shoot-Out Follows City-Store Robbery

While an imperturbable witness got out of his car and walked into the Pearce Floral Shop after an exchange of gun shots last night, two bandits who had robbed the store escaped.

Five shots were fired at the fleeing holdup men by Lee Gray, 62, the store's watchman and guard. Gray opened fire after one of the robbers shot at him.

★ ★ ★

Minutes earlier, shortly before 7:30 p.m., the gunmen entered the store while Gray and four other employes were working in a back room. One of the gunmen, Gray told police, ordered them to lie on the floor.

TAKE CASH

Then the shooting began, but no one apparently was hit by the shots.

★ ★

The bandits separated after running east about a block, one dashing across the street and the other fleeing to the rear of buildings on the same side.

Police said Campbell then entered the floral shop.

an all-time high in November 1963, can be expected to continue their climb. We estimate inflation's toll will be about 1½ per cent during 1964.

Corporate profits, which were on balance up in '63, should maintain their rise in '64. We look for an 8 to 10 per cent increase.

★ ★ ★

Despite President Johnson's commendable economy moves, government spending may still increase by about $3 billion in 1964 as a result of past appropriations.

MORE TO SPEND

Consumers will have more money to spend in '64. Not only will income rise, but the expected tax cut will result in more spendable dollars. For these reasons we project consumer spending to rise over 5 per cent in '64, hitting an all-time high of some $393 billion.

Consumer credit, however, may be approaching a crucial point. We see evidence of a tapping out, as people become unwilling to go further in debt.

With two good auto years back-to-back having increased installment payments for many families, we can expect greater increase in sales of soft goods, services, and lower-cost durables than in the big-ticket items that are usually financed.

Unemployment will probably remain unchanged at around 5 per cent in 1964.

BEST ON RECORD

To sum it up, with the economy at high levels, large gains will be hard to come by, but 1964 should be one of the best years on record for most American businesses.

Although there is a possibility of a mild recession late in the year, its effect will probably be spotty.

Some sectors may even rise while others dip, giving us another so-called rolling readjustment — an opportunity and a challenge for alert investors.

The stock market, reflecting booming business conditions, will most likely move on to new highs in '64, but it will be a year when the popular averages will mean little.

The Dow-Jones industrial average, for example, is hovering near all-time highs. Yet our studies show that in the last four months of '63 over 60 per cent of all stocks were declining.

TREND TO CONTINUE

We look for this highly mixed market to continue in '64.

For the benefit of the average-watchers, however, we estimate that the high for the average will be around 810 in the first half. The low may be 690, probably toward the latter part of the year.

We estimate that the Dow earned $40.75 in '63, giving a price-earnings ratio of 19.0 with the average at 773. This is the lowest high for the ratio in five years—1961 saw 23.2, and in 1962 it was 20.1.

We look for the Dow to earn about $44.00 in '64, and for price-earnings ratios to remain around current levels: i.e., no runaway bull market fired by unwarranted enthusiasm or get-rich-quickitis.

The average investor would do well to watch his stocks closely in 1964. A broad move carrying virtually all stocks with it is very unlikely.

Stick to quality issues, but don't confuse brand names or corporate image with investment potential. Some well-known companies are trending downward in earning power, while others maintain steady but undramatic increases.

Don't buy on hunch or tip: stick to reasonable price-earnings ratios considering earnings growth prospects, and "mother" your investments carefully in this Leap Year.

THE ECONOMY

Consumer Prices: up 1½% to new all-time highs.
Corporate Profits: up 8 to 10%.
Consumer Spending: up 5% to an all-time record $393 billion.
Unemployment: unchanged at 5%.

THE STOCK MARKET

Dow Earnings: $44.00 in '64.
Price/Earnings Ratio: to remain around 19.

SUMMARY

A year in which investors should not "Leap."

James Kelly, 43, of Marshall was injured fatally yesterday when his auto struck a tree off U. S. 27 in Calhoun County.

Hawaii Band Concerts Canceled by Termites

HONOLULU (AP)—The Royal Hawaiian Band's Sunday afternoon concerts at Kapiolani Park are being called off until Jan. 19 because of termites.

Nazareth Is the Symbol of Challenge to Pope Paul

NAZARETH, Israel (AP)—The community in the hills of Galilee where Jesus grew up and worked as a carpenter is busily preparing for the arrival of the man Roman Catholics regard as the vicar of Christ.

By Christian tradition, it was in Nazareth that the Virgin Mary learned she was to give birth to the messiah; it was here that Jesus spent a great part of his life before embarking on the road that led to Calvary. It was from here that he descended to the Sea of Galilee and met Simon the fisherman, whom he named Peter.

Next Sunday, Pope Paul VI will become the first head of the Roman Catholic Church since Peter to set foot on this soil.

★ ★ ★

He will find a city that in many ways is a microcosm of the segmented Christian church that he hopes one day to unite.

ARAB MAJORITY

Nazareth, situated in the heart of the state of Israel, has an overwhelmingly Arab population. Christians of one persuasion or another—most of whose ancestors were converted hundreds of years ago in the days of the crusades—comprise about half the city's 28,000 population.

★ ★ ★

The largest group of Nazarene Christians is the Greek Orthodox, followed by the Greek Catholics, who have ties to the Vatican but pray in Arabic instead of Latin. There are about 3,000 Roman Catholics in the city. The remaining Christians belong to one of several Protestant denominations.

★ ★ ★

Pope Paul VI will spend 75 minutes in Nazareth—the longest stop on his 11-hour itinerary in Israel. He will say Mass at the Grotto of the Annunciation where Christians believe the Archangel Gabriel told Mary of the coming birth.

Nazareth has almost 30 churches. Their grounds cover more than a third of the city's area. Most Christian and some Moslem children attend missionary schools run by the Roman Catholic, Greek Catholic, Greek Orthodox, Baptist, and Anglican churches.

OUT OF ITS TIME

Primitive shops and stalls line the narrow streets that twist upward into the hills of Galilee. Shops display water jugs and vases and straw baskets and copper plates made by native craftsmen. Any of the objects could have been made yesterday or 3,000 years ago.

★ ★ ★

Although most Nazarenes are not Roman Catholics, all seem enthusiastic about the Pope's visit.

★ ★ ★

"It is a great honor for all of us," said a craftsman who attends the Roman Catholic Church.

"We seek words of encouragement from a man of God," said a Greek Catholic shopkeeper. "God hears us all—in Latin, Arabic or Hebrew."

Said a Moslem friend of the shopkeeper: "The Pope is a good man and he seeks to bring all men together in peace."

11 Area Drivers Lose Licenses

Ordered Off Road by Department of State

Eleven area motorists recently had their drivers' licenses either suspended or revoked by the Michigan Department of State.

Samuel Blanton, 1875 Mead; and Robert F. Flanigan, 1987 W. Avon, Rochester, were ordered to show proof of financial responsibility due to convictions of drunken driving.

Johnson Uses Veto 1st Time

Disapproves a Bill on Court Jurisdiction

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI)—President Johnson announced his first veto yesterday. He disapproved a bill which would have allowed the U.S. Court of Claims to consider a new trial for a separated foreign service officer seeking lost salary.

The employe, Robert Alexander, was separated from the foreign service in 1953. He challenged this action as invalid and in 1958 brought suit in the court of claims for lost salary.

The court decided against him in 1960.

Alexander asked for a rehearing and on April 16, 1960, the court rejected his motion.

BILL PASSED

This year, Congress passed a bill to confer jurisdiction on the court to entertain a new motion for a new trial on the basis of additional evidence.

"Mr. Alexander has had his day in court," Johnson said in a memorandum of disapproval.

Because Congress adjourned yesterday, Johnson killed the measure by simply deciding not to sign it. This is known as a pocket veto.

The President's memorandum explaining his decision said there was "nothing in the record to indicate that diligent use of the court's procedures would have failed to obtain the evidence relating to the handling of (Alexander's) discharge which he now offers to establish."

Parolee Gets Prison Term for Larceny

A 35-year-old parolee who gave his address as the Roosevelt Hotel was sentenced to a 3½- to 4-year prison term yesterday for larceny from the Faygo-Oakland Distributing Co. at 831 Oakland.

He is Richard Baker, who was permitted to plead guilty Dec. 5 to the larceny charge although he and 28-year-old Robert Zimmerman, of 53130 Briar, Shelby Township, were originally charged with breaking and entering.

Zimmerman also pleaded guilty to the larceny count, but Circuit Judge Stanton G. Dondero, who sentenced Baker, postponed Zimmerman's sentencing until June.

The two were accused of taking several cases of soft drinks in the Sept. 27 incident.

WAS PAROLED

Baker has served time previously on burglary and auto theft convictions. He was paroled last year.

Millage and College on Ballot

Area School Issues Face Decisive Year

By L. GARY THORNE

The new year will likely see two far-reaching school proposals presented for public favor.

On June 8 Pontiac area voters will confront a millage proposal and a countywide community college proposition.

Both issues are expected to be on the annual school ballot.

Electors in the Pontiac School District will decide on a millage to replace the 8.75-mill levy that expires this year.

NOT DETERMINED

The length and amount of the millage has not yet been determined.

However, a citizens' committee, after a holiday recess, will resume a probe of school needs next week preparatory to the June balloting.

Chosen by its chairman, James L. Howlett, and the Pontiac school board, the citizens' group is expected to recommend a millage figure early this year.

★ ★ ★

Chairman Howlett expects the 42-member committee to wrap up its study this month and begin writing a final report.

PROJECTION STUDIED

The committee has been studying a bulky ten-year projection of school needs.

Tentative indications forecast a slight increase in the 8.75-mill tax levy, but the final decision rests with the school board.

The citizens' committee, according to Howlett, has not yet drawn any firm conclusions from the projections.

★ ★ ★

The second ballot proposition on June 8, which in fact may be as many as three proposals, two-year community college.

WAS DEFEATED

Defeated last June, the college question has also been under study by a citizens' group.

A countywide vote will be conducted on this issue.

Last year, the establishment of a college received a favorable vote, but a 1-mill tax levy for its operation was soundly trounced.

Thus, the whole issue failed.

The college citizens' committee, chaired by Wendell Brown, will probably present the same ballot package this June. The group is concerned with organizing an effective campaign to put the college issue across.

WASN'T UNDERSTOOD

The issue, according to some committee members, lost because voters failed to understand it. The group hopes to dispel such misunderstanding this year.

Pontiac school officials have carefully mapped plans for their millage campaign.

In addition to the citizens' group, a survey is being made of residents to determine what new or additional services the local schools might provide.

The returns on the opinionaire, included in the school district's annual printed report, will be weighed by school officials before a final millage figure is set.

The two ballot proposals in 1964 could have far-reaching effects not only on Pontiac schools but also on local pocketbooks.

However, officials recognize that the opinionaire makes no mention of costs for additional or new services.

Teen-Ager Learns His Lesson Well

PORTOLA VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Marley Hay, 13, who paid attention to a school lecture on fire prevention, saw smoke curling under a bedroom door at his home.

He carefully opened the hot door slightly to let the family dogs, Jack and Putzi, squeeze through to safety.

★ ★ ★

Then he called the fire department. Firemen said had the boy opened the door wide a smoldering mattress would have burst into flames, possibly destroying the house.

Retail expenditures on boating in 1962 were estimated at $2,500,000.

Farmers More Efficient in Man-Hour Output

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers are outpacing industry in efficiency. On the farm, the gain in output per man-hour for agriculture was more than double the figure for industry.

From 1950 to 1960, farmers gained 5.1 per cent in labor efficiency, while non-farm workers gained 2.2 per cent.

Airman Third Class, Danny C. McGowen has completed the course for physiological training specialists at the United States Air Force School of Aerospace Medicine at Brooks AFB, Tex.

The airman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley C. McGowen of 218 Victory Drive is a graduate of Pontiac Northern High School.

FISK

Lt. Fisk was graduated from Detroit Country Day School in 1959 and received his bachelor of arts degree from the University of Michigan in 1963. He is a member of the National Society of Pershing Rifles.

Specialist Four Arthur B. Burgess, son of Mrs. Lillian A. Burgess, 4101 Skinner Lake Road, Lapeer, and the late Mr. Burgess, was recently graduated from the Seventh U.S. Army Non-Commissioned Officer Academy in Bad Tolz, Germany.

Burgess, a telephone installer in the 269th Signal Company near Orleans, France, entered the Army in August, 1961 and arrived overseas on April, 1962.

Army Pfc. Richard L. Zolman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph D. Zolman, 1478 Vinewood Avenue, received a certificate of achievement while serving with the U.S. Army General Depot in France.

Zolman received the award for his outstanding performance of duties as an administrative specialist in the depot's headquarters company near Braconne.

David A. White, son of Mrs. Frances White of 5710 Mary Sue Street, Clarkston and the late Mr. White, was recently promoted to specialist five in mid-November while serving with the 1st Infantry Division at Fort Riley, Kan.

He entered the Army in 1958 and was stationed in Germany before his present assignment. He is a 1956 graduate of Pontiac Central High School.

Ex-Con Sentenced for Area Burglary

A 20-year-old Pontiac ex-convict was sent back to prison yesterday for his Oct. 10 burglary of a Waterford restaurant.

William J. Webb, of 50 E. Kennett, was given a 2½- to 15-year term by Circuit Court Judge Stanton G. Dondero. Webb pleaded guilty Dec. 5 to breaking and entering the Burger House, 4286 Dixie.

Webb, who was released from prison last year after completing a two-year term for unlawfully taking and using an automobile, was arrested along with two juveniles Oct. 10 by police investigating a bowling alley break-in.

The three admitted seven recent burglaries, police said.

Slower Rise in Food Prices

Last Year's Increase Greater Than Normal

EAST LANSING (AP)—Housewives can expect retail food prices to continue to rise during 1964, although not as rapidly as during the past year.

That's the prediction of Mary Zehner, an agricultural economist at Michigan State University.

★ ★ ★

The prices of cereals, pork, fruit and vegetables are expected to rise slightly. Dairy products will remain about the same. Prices on beets, eggs and broilers will drop slightly.

"A 1½ per cent rise in retail food prices in 1963 was somewhat greater than during recent years," she said. "Prices increased only 7 per cent during the past decade."

INFLUENCING FACTORS

Several factors influenced 1963 price rises, she said.

Costs of processing and marketing food from U.S. farms were up over previous years. A winter freeze in Florida increased prices for citrus fruits and winter vegetables. Reduced supplies of other fruits and vegetables also caused price jumps.

An increase in the price of sugar affected other items because it is an important ingredient in canned goods, bakery products, soft drinks and food mixes.

As another trend, said, more of the food dollar is being spent at lunch counters, restaurants and cafeterias as incomes go up and more wives are working.

Devilish Device

Sleep Machine Will Subvert Humanity

By BOB VOELKER
Written for Hal Boyle

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Now comes the most devilish device of all. And the Russians are at the bottom of it.

★ ★ ★

They talked about it not too long ago—right out in the open—and there was hardly a ripple in world opinion.

It's a sleep machine.

IN TWO HOURS

What the Russians do is wire this sleep machine to a person—and almost presto—the person dozes off and gets the equivalent of a full night's sleep in about two hours.

Countrymen, be warned.

★ ★ ★

The day will come when great production lines will be turning out sleep machines like toasters. Everyone will have one. Two hours sleep will become standard.

Then what will happen if a guy dozes off in church? What possible excuse could he have?

NO OLD ALIBI

And when his wife wants him to do some nasty, little job around the house, he'll never be able to use the old alibi: "I'll do it tomorrow. I'm tired."

★ ★ ★

The same GIs will be hearing sergeants talk like this:

"Okay men, these barrack lights will be out at midnight and revejlle is at 2 a.m. We got a full 22-hour schedule tomorrow."

SCHOOL KIDS

Think of the school kids. They will be buried under mountains of homework.

★ ★ ★

Future generations will be hearing things like this:

Bartender: "See that guy on the end of the bar? I couldn't stand him when he was in here only five hours a day. Now he's here 11 hours a day."

★ ★ ★

Night cop: "Don't these people ever go home?"

Housewife: "George, I have so many club engagements these days I simply must buy some more new clothes."

SUBVERSIVE

In the end, society will become sleepless. Sleepiness will be subversive. The warning will be:

★ ★ ★

Help of Civic-Minded Citizens Needed for Pontiac's Growth

(In keeping with our policy of running guest editorials from time to time, our New Year's Day message has been written by Max T. Adams, manager, Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.)

Aware that we stand on the threshold of a new day for the Pontiac area, and that we can go but one way — straight ahead, your chamber of commerce is ready to shoulder the heavy responsibilities in the coming year, depending on the help of every civic-minded citizen of our community.

ADAMS

The year 1963 has seen the birth of the Greater Pontiac Industrial Development Corporation, the purpose of which is to bring new industry and new jobs to Northern Oakland County.

★ ★ ★

Through the work of its fine committees, the chamber has promoted programs stressing fire and traffic safety. Plans are under way for the redevelopment of the central business district, to be one of the finest in the Country, with a mall type shopping area. The Aviation Committee has spent many hours of study, attended many meetings and hearings in an effort to bring additional air service to our municipal airport, also maintaining and improving of the service now in existence.

Urban renewal projects have been furthered by trips made by the manager to both Washington, D. C., and Chicago. Meetings of the Human Relations Committee of the City have been held at the chamber offices regarding equal rights for people of all races, colors and creeds in the obtaining of work in our area.

In an effort to keep the Baldwin Rubber Plant for Pontiac, and to retain the jobs of over 700 people, your chamber is now engaged in negotiations with several firms in the hope that one of these firms will purchase the plant. These are but a few of the activities which your chamber promotes in its efforts to co-ordinate community progress and prosperity.

Let us set forth our resolutions for the coming year. Be it resolved that:

The chamber of commerce achieve its goals for the Pontiac area by earnestly striving to reach them. Our community will never become a progressive, dynamic one if we follow our individual paths, leaving the efforts to others. We must become personally involved in meeting the problems of life and society.

Realizing that each day brings a new scene of changes, the chamber will assume the responsibility of becoming the eyes and ears of Northern Oakland County, striving always to keep pace with the complicated economic and social expansion.

Being aware that the chamber of commerce is made up of people, therefore having tremendous potential of ideas, we will attempt to kindle the ideas of growth and development, then attempt to channel the resultant ideas into constructive use for the betterment of the people involved.

The chamber will attempt to narrow the distance between education and industry, remembering that the greatest of today is the community leader of tomorrow.

Above all the chamber will strive to make citizens aware of the danger in taking our precious freedom for granted, and will promote in Americans the expression of their God-given heritage.

We stand together at the foot of progress mountain, the peak — a dynamic new Pontiac, is in sight. Bound together by the rope of community spirit we shall scale the height. Come climb with us.

'Little Guy' Has Uneasy Feeling

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — The little guy, any little guy going home on New Year's Eve, felt like a man blowing feathers. He tried to clear his head on a lot of things but they floated back and stuck.

MARLOW

It had been a good year for him, in a way. He had a job, which millions didn't. There hadn't been any war, or even fear of war, at least in this country. Next year looked peaceful, too.

But he felt a little uneasy. He didn't have any illusions about peace in the world. Peace, he knew, was like a blanket on a nest of tigers. Even when they were quiet they were hungry.

That wasn't really what made him uneasy. There had been other New Year's Eves when he went home, just as he was going now, and thinking just about the same thought, most always about himself.

Now it wasn't so much about himself. That was the difference. Something outside himself and bigger than himself had troubled and hurt him like a pain ever since that day when President John F. Kennedy was killed.

★ ★ ★

It had spoiled the taste of life for him a bit. Christmas hadn't been the same for him as any other Christmas. Now New Year's Eve wasn't, either.

A brilliant young man, a father and a president, a good man, for no one could say he wasn't, suddenly dead, shot like a tin can and maybe for just about as much reason.

BRILLIANT YOUNG MAN

To this day, the little guy didn't know the reason and had never even heard one. Nobody seemed to know. That made everything worse. Even a completely crazy reason would have been more understandable than none.

So far as he knew the president had been killed for nothing. Lee Harvey Oswald had been charged with it but Oswald had been killed, too, before his story could come out and for a reason that also isn't clear.

★ ★ ★

It made the little guy think about the things he had managed not to think much about as the years went by and he grew older and his children grew up.

THE BIG, REAL WORLD

It was the things about the world he lived in, the real one, not the little one he inhabited which was pretty much limited to the office and the people on the street where he lived and a few friends.

But the little guy knew the big world is overloaded with people — sick, or stupid or stuffed with hate—for whom violence is a form of conversation.

He couldn't help thinking, and this was what gave him the uneasy feeling: if this can happen to a president, what else can happen? He had a greater sense of uncertainty than any he had known in his whole life.

★ ★ ★

He thought of his wife, his kids, himself, of the kind of world he'd like to live in as he went home this New Year's Eve, hoping life would be the way he wanted but not at all sure any more it ever would be.

Outlook for 1964

U.S. Faces Old, New Problems

(Editor's Note: The world plunges into 1964 — and into some new as well as old problems and questions. The following dispatch gives the outlook for East and West in the new year ahead.)

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cold war tensions between the Soviet Union and the West should continue to decline in 1964. But the new year is expected to bring a sharpening of the conflict between the Soviet Union and Communist China with an unpredictable impact on world affairs.

Officials of the new administration of President Johnson are optimistic about the outlook for East-West efforts to strengthen peace.

If initial probings go well, particularly in disarmament negotiations, a meeting between Johnson and Soviet Premier Khrushchev stands high on the list of international possibilities even though it will be a U.S. presidential election year.

★ ★ ★

U.S. officials are sensitively aware that the new government of Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas - Home in Britain is actively interested in a top-level conference.

USEFUL MEETING

Also, political observers here think it may be possible that Johnson, who presently has no summit plans, would find summit sessions useful for dramatizing his own declared interest in seeking more peaceful East-West relations.

This would hold true particularly if preliminary talks laid a basis for a Johnson-Khrushchev meeting on some new measure to follow up the limited nuclear test-ban treaty of 1963.

Johnson already has said he would go anywhere anytime he felt a meeting with another world leader would have constructive results.

★ ★ ★

He might find it desirable, too, to have a session with French President Charles de Gaulle.

At the moment he does not think special effort on his part would accomplish anything. At the same time it is understood that if there is a chance for any improvement in U.S.-French relations, Johnson would not stand on his dignity but would go to Paris or elsewhere.

DOMESTIC PROBLEMS

The array of domestic problems which seem destined to dominate the President's 1964 schedule include civil rights legislation, a bill to cut federal taxes, a shakeup in the worldwide foreign aid program, and a reorganization of the U.S. role in the Alliance for Progress in Latin America.

The latter two are essentially domestic problems because they arise out of the conflict between the Congress and the White House each year over foreign aid funds. Johnson has to find some way to make the program more appealing to Congress.

In international affairs, Johnson has taken on a heritage of difficulties, in spite of—or some [illegible] because of—improvement in Washington - Moscow relations.

The Atlantic alliance is growing weaker over internal differences including France's go-it-alone policies in Europe and the split over U.S.-West German efforts to set up a nuclear missile fleet for operation in European waters.

Bob Considine Says:

Commercial Air Service to Connect Moscow, NY

NEW YORK — Looks like there will be nonstop commercial plane service between New York and Moscow before 1964 is very old.

CONSIDINE

The American carrier will be Pan Am. Its Boeing 707's and DC8's will make the easterly run in about eight and a half hours, and fly westerly to New York against the prevailing winds in perhaps 10½.

Aeroflot, the Soviet Airline, will use TU114's. They are huge turbo-props with each of the four engines spinning two sets of immense four-bladed propellors, one clockwise the other counterclockwise.

The TU114 has been seen in this country only once. One of them brought Nikita Khrushchev nonstop from Moscow to Washington in under 12 hours when he visited the U. S. in 1958.

The Russians have a much more modern plane in the works, the IL62, a pure jet in the 707 and DC8 class but one whose four engines will be mounted at the rear of the fuselage, like the Caravelle.

NOT READY

The '62 won't be ready for another year or two.

There is also a repeated rumor that the Russians are working secretly on a supersonic airliner and hope to spring it as a dramatic fait accompli, a la Sputnik I.

The TU114 is obsolescent, but impressive. For domestic flight configuration it can seat 220 passengers. Its "dining room" serves 48 at a sitting. It has a large galley located in the belly of plane. The plane sits remarkably high on its spidery landing gear.

★ ★ ★

There are puzzling aspects to the decision of the Russians to make this arrangement at a time when the unevenness of the deal will lift eyebrows around the world.

SHARP CONTRAST

To begin with, there will be the sharp contrast between the number of Americans visiting Russia and the paucity of Russians coming to America.

The arrival and departure of each plane will be a memorable demonstration to the world that Americans are free and Russians are slave, one can come and go as he pleases and the other can go only if he is certain not to defect when the TU114 reaches John F. Kennedy International Airport, New York.

The difference in the equipment, service, food, etc. will be so marked as to reflect seriously on Russian claims to equality or superiority as a major nation.

There is a certain section of opinion here that holds the Russians have made their move at this time to facilitate their access to Cuba.

As of now, TU114's touching down in New York will not be permitted to fly out of here for Havana. But in time they may be allowed to fly from New York to Mexico City, and it's easy to go on from there to Castroland.

Voice of the People:

City's Firefighter Group Concerned About Wages

In 1960 a survey was made here of firemen and policemen wages and the Yarger Plan was adopted by the city as a fair plan to follow regarding wages. We welcomed this survey and endorsed the findings as they occurred with our own. This plan has already been allowed to fall behind and we're at the bottom of the wage scale in cities with which we were compared.

If this continues, in the light of everyone around us getting wage raises, there is little doubt that getting new firemen will be much harder. A new fire station on Walton Boulevard is practically finished and it has been impossible to get enough men to run this station. They've been trying for the past 6 months to recruit men and out of 18 who were eligible for the last examination only 3 passed.

We are proud of being firemen and yet we realize more and more that there is little regard, by the city administration, for our plight. I'm sure a little investigation would show that these things are true.

Carl Widdis, President
Pontiac Firefighters Association

Liberal Replies to Conservative Senator

As a Liberal I resent being lumped in one group with Communists and Socialists by "Senator From South Carolina." I also fail to see why he and the group he speaks of must "struggle against me." These groups always seem to get the word "freedom" into their titles and yet many of them would deny me the freedom to back the political and economic philosophies I think best for our country. Many of these so-called "conservative" groups, particularly from the South, do not believe in freedom for Negroes and non-white people in our country even though it is guaranteed them in our Constitution.

I don't know what their idea of freedom is, but I am inclined to like the version set forth in the "Constitution of the United States of America." Perhaps if we all "struggled to keep this document alive and working equally for everyone we wouldn't have so much time to "struggle" against each other.

Reviewing Other Editorial Pages

Japanese Economy

The Japan Times Weekly

The Economic Deliberation Council has adopted a report calling for greater administrative emphasis on a "stable economic development" rather than on the present high rate of growth.

The expression "economic stability" is apt to mean different things to different individuals; still the council's report has some concrete proposals.

It recommends immediate measures to check rising commodity prices and urges the expansion of public investments in housing, roads, railways and parts, which, it says, lag far behind the development of other industries.

The Economic Deliberation Council's report says the rapid economic expansion has fostered a sharp upswing in consumer prices, a glaring disparity in productivity between large and small enterprises and a lag in investments designed to build up the nation's public facilities.

With these assumptions we can largely agree. It may be added that the economic expansion has favored some sections of the nation more than others. The phenomenal postwar economic progress of Japan has benefited all sections of the population to a considerable extent, and the nation as a whole has been the gainer.

The war was destructive of capital, and the acquirement of fresh capital has been Japan's outstanding problem since peace was concluded.

In the struggle to secure capital for business development and expansion, the small enterprises have encountered much greater difficulties than the big corporations. This is only natural although it is to be regretted.

That in some cases there has has been expenditure that was not strictly necessary may be true. The report speaks of "the enthusiasm of private enterprise for equipment investments that has assumed proportions far beyond expectation."

Generally speaking, however, we must perforce acknowledge that this "enthusiasm of private enterprise" has raised the nation economically to great heights—so much so that Japan's postwar economic recovery is widely acknowledged by other nations to be one of the wonders of the modern world.

Civil Rights

The New York Herald Tribune

When the going got rough, when the Negro seemed to be knocking his head against a stone wall of bigotry and racial prejudice, Paul Robeson ran away. He abandoned the battle, as well as his country, to indulge a juvenile's taste for Marxist idealism, leaving it to others to stay at home to fight for civil rights.

★ ★ ★

Fortunately for the Negro community and the country as a whole, there were other men, of sterner stuff than Robeson, who did stand and fight — men like Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Roy Wilkins, A. Philip Randolph and Whitney Young Jr. These and others like them were the men in the line of march to Washington.

Now that the back of the opposition to civil rights has been broken, Robeson returns, anxious to jump on the bandwagon. An older man, one might have hoped that he would now be the wiser. But unhappily that does not seem to be the case. According to his wife, he has not at all been disillusioned with communism:

"He thinks it's terrific. He always has and always will."

In short, Robeson always will be a juvenile, with a big voice but a small mind which had become so poisoned by the injustices to a minority of his country that it became totally blind to the incomparable injustices to the majority in the Communist world.

With such a warped outlook, Robeson would be more of a hindrance than a help to the civil rights movement.

By PHILIP J. KEUPER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK — Anthony (Tino) DeAngelis stood in a small courtroom in Newark, N.J., and calmly stared straight ahead.

He had just heard a federal grand jury accuse him of moving $40 million in forged warehouse receipts from soybean oil across state lines. It was the first formal accusation in a case that has shocked and baffled the financial world on both sides of the Atlantic.

DeAngelis walked out of the courtroom, free on bail. He was still the mystery man in what many observers predict may prove to be one of the biggest financial scandals in American history — a scandal that could cost its victims $100 million.

★ ★ ★

Some of the world's biggest banks are concerned with the case. So are, among others: Commodity exchanges and dealers, export firms, warehousing firms, the New York Stock Exchange, thousands of investors, corporation lawyers, the FBI, the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, an angry U.S. Senator, storage tank workers, bankruptcy courts, and — indirectly — the Chicago underworld.

NIGHTMARE

For Wall Street, it has been a nightmare come true. Ira Haupt & Co., one of the nation's biggest brokerage firms has gone under, leaving the New York Stock Exchange to rescue the firm's 20,000 clients from loss of money or securities. The rescue operation already has cost the exchange more than $6 million.

DeAngelis worked as a butcher and meat processor after quitting high school in New York at 17. In 1949 he bought control of Adolf Gobel Inc., a hog slaughtering firm. By 1953, Gobel was bankrupt.

Two years later DeAngelis reappeared as president of another firm, Allied Crude Vegetable Oil Refining Corp. In a few years, Allied had become the biggest exporter of fats and oils in the United States. Last month, Allied, too, was bankrupt.

★ ★ ★

DeAngelis, 48, apparently had hoped to sell vegetable oils to Russia in the aftermath of a big U.S. - Russian wheat deal. Buying on credit, Allied accumulated large numbers of contracts for future delivery of vegetable oils — thick liquids used in salad oil or margarine.

PRICES DROP

Last month, a shipping squabble stalled the Soviet - American wheat deal. In turn, prices of vegetable oil contracts dropped sharply on the commodities exchanges. Allied's brokers, Haupt and another New York firm, J. R. Williston & Beane Inc., asked the company for cash to cover the drop in value of the contracts.

DeAngelis' answer, on Nov. 19, was to file for bankruptcy for Allied.

This left Haupt holding the bag for at least $18 million; Williston for $610,000. On Nov. 22 — to shore up investor confidence — the New York Stock Exchange said it was liquidating Haupt and would put up as much as $12 million to protect Haupt clients for loss of cash or securities left with the firm. Williston, meanwhile, was absorbed by another brokerage firm.

★ ★ ★

Allied, before its bankruptcy, reportedly had taken delivery on huge amounts of cottonseed and soybean oil. The company had used this oil as collateral to borrow money to buy more vegetable oil.

CREDITORS

With Allied bankrupt, its more than 50 creditors moved in to have a look at the vegetable oil, supposedly stored in big tanks on the Bayonne, N.J. waterfront. They were stunned, they said, to find most of the oil missing: about a billion pounds in all, enough to fill 15,000 railroad tank cars.

A big export firm, Bunge Corp., said it had made loans of $15.5 million to Allied. For security it held warehouse receipts for 160-million pounds of soybean oil supposedly stored in four tanks. A surveyor found two of the tanks empty, a third half full and the fourth filled with watered soybean oil.

Banks were alarmed. Some had made big loans, with food oils stored in the tanks near the Allied plant as security. Banks are known for insisting on the strictest sort of security for loans. Now, some faced the prospect of holding warehouse receipts for commodities that perhaps didn't exist.

The FBI began an investigation. In Newark, a federal grand jury was impaneled. DeAngelis asked in Bankruptcy Court about Allied's dealings, took the Fifth Amendment 58 times on grounds that his answers might incriminate him.

GOVERNMENT PROBE

In Washington, Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., called for a government investigation. DeAngelis' companies, said Williams, had once sold the government millions of pounds of salad oil — much of which, claimed the senator, was either inferior or packed in leaky containers.

In Chicago, authorities refused an operating license to a refining corporation of which DeAngelis was part-owner, on grounds that one of the officers was associated with other enterprises that were infiltrated by gangsters.

There were further complications involving the 200 storage tanks near the Allied plant, the biggest such storage facility in the East. Most were operated by American Express Warehousing Ltd., a subsidiary of American Express. Some Allied commodities were stored in these tanks. Others were stored in tanks operated by Harbor Tank Storage Co.

A jumble of pipes linked most of the tanks. One Allied worker testified that it would be an easy matter to shuttle liquids from one tank to another. Agents for foreign banks said they had to crawl atop the tanks to find out to whom the tanks belonged.

DeAngelis broke his silence at a news conference. A rotund 5-foot-5, he occasionally twiddled his thumbs as he talked. He charged that the whole affair was the fault of the U.S. government. Agriculture Department forecasts of vegetable oil export sales had proven too high, DeAngelis said, and led Allied into trouble.

"Mr. DeAngelis' troubles," replied an Agriculture Department spokesman, "are not with the Agriculture Department but with his creditors."

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, there was growing speculation as to whether most of the missing food oil ever existed. By implication, this would mean that false collateral was used for loans.

Donald McDonald, president of the New York Produce Exchange, said he didn't see how such a vast amount of commodities could disappear.

Then, two Allied employes testified at a court hearing that they had been logging phony measurements and padding inventory figures on oils in some tanks for the past nine months. Water, said one worker, was pumped into tanks to make them look full.

DeAngelis' indictment by the federal grand jury followed a few days later. The government said he knowingly took 18 forged warehouse receipts from Bayonne to New York during October and November. The receipts, said the government, claimed that Allied had 400 million pounds of soybean oil in storage and were used to obtain loans.

★ ★ ★

Whatever the outcome of the case, the scandal has already had these effects:

The New York Stock Exchange is considering changing its rules to protect customers of member brokerage firms that also deal in commodities.

Congress may get legislation that would give the government a bigger role in regulating commodities trading.

DeAngelis, as a vegetable oil processor, had the right to trade in cottonseed oil contracts on the New York Produce Exchange without a nickel down. The exchange already has changed this rule.

An etimated 280,000 Americans will die of cancer in 1963.

Don't Let Cold Put Freeze on Camera

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

When winter arrives with its snow and cold, many a photographer treats his camera as though it were a bear . . . something to go into hibernation.

Every season has its beauty, in Mother Nature and in people's activities, and winter is no exception.

Good winter pictures are not hard to find or to take. In fact, after a snowfall, even the most prosaic and familiar objects around us look different and beautiful under a mantle of snow.

TOO MUCH TROUBLE

Possibly the hardest thing to overcome is the feeling that it's too much trouble to get the camera, load up and to get started on shooting.

To begin, carry a camera in a small gadget bag when you go outdoors just as you did in warm weather.

When you have a camera handy, the initial inertia is overcome and half the battle is won.

SUDDEN CHANGE

A sudden change from warmth to very cold air could cause condensation on the lens with a loss in image quality.

Snow reflects light in all directions and when it is the dominant feature, it is classed as a "light subject" and the exposure is rated accordingly — either by a faster shutter speed or a one-stop smaller lens opening.

NORMAL EXPOSURE

However if people or objects in the scene are more important as the center of picture interest, then the exposure is for average subject matter or a normal exposure.

To stop winter action of skiers, sledders or skaters, stand so that the action comes toward the camera either head-on or at about a 45-degree angle.

A shutter speed of 1/100th of a second should be sufficient. Focus on a predetermined spot about 15 or 20 feet away and keep the camera steady when you squeeze the button the instant your subject reaches the spot.

SLOW SPEED

Follow the action, even broadside, by panning with the camera and use a slow shutter speed of about 1/25th second for the exposure.

In this case, the subject will be reasonably sharp if your camera is synchronized to the action, but the background will be a complete blur.

Junior, coming down hill on his sled will look like an Olympic bob-sled contender.

To avoid too bright reflections of the sun which may "wash out" colors in your scenes, use a Skylight or a Pola-Screen filter. A Skylight filter absorbs glare and needs no exposure compensation.

Can Senses Improve IQ?

Theory Is Explained by Tennessee Doctor

NASHVILLE (AP) — A psychologist at Peabody College here foresees the day when a good mother may turn the radio on full blast beside her baby's crib to improve the child's intelligence.

Dr. Carl Haywood is testing a theory that the earlier a person — or animal — has sensory experiences, the greater the chance of establishing interconnections between nerve cells and the brain, hence the development of greater learning ability.

Haywood's experiments have been with chickens and ducks.

★ ★ ★

Newborn chicks and ducklings have a tendency to follow the first moving object they see, he says, usually their mother.

PROVES POINT

To prove his point about earlier learning and that genetic tendencies can be altered, Haywood mounted a decoy duck on a track.

The fake duck zooms around giving out recorded duck calls. Young ducks and chicks follow along obediently — a tendency Haywood says is strongest under normal circumstances from 9 to 12 hours after hatching.

Haywood also hatched a batch of chicks in a room containing flashing lights, music and other assorted noises.

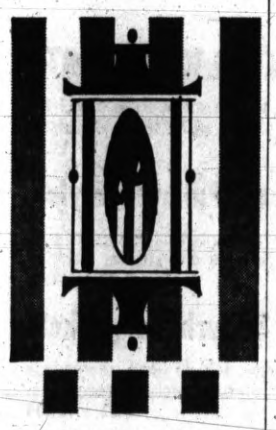
He found these chicks would follow the decoy best at six to nine hours after hatching — considerably earlier than the others — and that their "following tendency" lasted longer than in chicks reared in a quiet atmosphere.

He concludes the "learning" of the second batch of chicks also was better instilled.

Yugoslav Disappointed With First Swim in Sea

PREKO, Yugoslavia (AP) — At the age of 66, Jovan Kesic came from his Bosnian village to the Adriatic to have his first swim in the sea.

"I didn't like it," he said disappointedly. "It's salted."



Three knocks on the door . . . The eye in the peep hole . . . "who sent cha?"

. . . You don't need an invitation . . . Come on in. Enjoy succulent steaks and chops and seafoods from the seven seas in an atmosphere reminiscent of Chicago's prohibition days when the "word" at the door was fit and proper.

$3.7 Million Set for UP Road Work

LANSING (UPI) — Some $3.7 million in highway construction projects in Michigan's Upper Peninsula will be placed under contract during 1964.

Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said today that contracts to be awarded include nearly 40 miles of highway 10 running through 15 counties.

The largest single project is for modernization of M28 in Ontonagon County and M35 in Marquette County.

In announcing the contract schedule, Mackie said that more than 1,000 miles of state highways in the Upper Peninsula have been modernized or repaired in the past five years, and more than $100 million spent since 1957.

Gov. Romney Reviews State Job Salaries

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney yesterday received salary recommendations for 142 executive department jobs calling for a net additional cost to the state of $145,000 a year.

The civil service commission prepared the pay scales as an advisory to Romney, since the jobs do not come under the commission's jurisdiction.

Auburn U. Set for 1st Negro

Violence Discounted During Registration

★ ★ ★

Whether the student, Harold A. Franklin of Montgomery, Ala., will be allowed to live in a dormitory hasn't been determined. U.S. Dist. Court Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. is studying Franklin's request for court order to make campus housing available.

★ ★ ★

Helmeted state troopers will draw a tight security ring around the 1,871 - acre Auburn campus—as they did when the University of Alabama was integrated last June — when Franklin registers Saturday for the winter quarter. The more than 11,000 students at the 104-year-old land-grant college have been warned to behave themselves.

Auburn authorities still are trying to block the admission of Franklin. A U.S. District Court order requiring the university to admit him has been appealed.

CHARGES DISCRIMINATION

Franklin asked Judge Johnson Monday to compel Auburn to let him live in a dormitory. As a graduate student, he had been told that applications for dormitory quarters would be received only from undergraduates.

★ ★ ★

Franklin again charged discrimination. University authorities replied that Auburn always has put a ceiling on the number of graduate students permitted to live on campus. Twenty-two of them, all white, had been accepted before the rule went into effect Dec. 1, eight days before Franklin applied, the university said.

★ ★ ★

Wallace, militant segregationist who dropped an attempt to physically block admission of two Negroes at Alabama last summer only after federalized National Guard troops marched in, said he doesn't plan to appear at Auburn. He is to leave for the West Coast Monday—the day classes resume — for a speaking tour in behalf of states rights.

★ ★ ★

University authorities have laid down rigid rules of conduct for students, and mailed copies of the regulations to parents.

Israel Fish to Be Hotel Specialty

NEW YORK (AP) — The Waldorf Astoria Hotel has ordered a half ton of the kind of fish that St. Peter is said to have caught in the Sea of Galilee.

It is called St. Peter fish and the hotel said it was believed they never had been tried before in this country.

The fish are found in Israel's Sea of Galilee, which Pope VI will visit next Sunday. According to Christian tradition, it is the same fish that St. Peter caught there.

★ ★ ★

"We feel it is a very excellent fish and the American people will enjoy it very much," Clyde J. Harris, director of catering for the Waldorf said.

DUE FOR LENT

He said he hoped the first order would arrive Feb. 12, the beginning of Lent. If they are liked, the fish will remain on the menu.

In addition to being a good fish, Harris explained, "we also feel we should trade with Israel."

The Waldorf now is building a hotel in Tel Aviv. It is expected to open next year or in 1965.

Harris said the fish tastes something like a bass and is "not too bony."

He did not say what the hotel is paying for the fish, but in Israel the price was said to be $1.65 a kilogram. A kilogram is a little more than two pounds.

Through April of 1963 auto dealers sold 2,424,000 American-built cars, compared with 2,180,000 cars sold during the same months of 1962. 1955 was the best year thus far for the sale of American-built cars — 7,170,000.

Year of Challenges Ahead

Romney Predicts 'Prudent Progress' in 1964

LANSING (AP)—Emphasis in Michigan government in 1964 will be on "meeting the needs of the people, continuing a program of fiscal integrity, and further implementation of the new constitution."

So says Gov. George Romney in a "What's Ahead For '64" report, summarizing his first year in office.

"The coming year will challenge all of us as citizens, as political party members or as public officials to carry forward on this thrust toward the future," said Romney.

He indicated special stress in 1964 will be placed on expanding educational institutions for an increase in college students and new facilities for mental health.

FISCAL INTEGRITY

But the governor added "nothing has a firmer commitment from me than fiscal integrity," and said the proposed 1964-65 state budget will be "prudent but progressive."

"We will not spend more than we have," he said.

★ ★ ★

Romney repeated that no broad program of state fiscal reform will be sought in 1964.

OTHER AREAS

But areas other than education and mental health in which action will be attempted were listed as welfare, public health, youth problems and traffic safety.

Regarding the new constitution—on which implementation was begun in a 1963 special legislative session — the governor termed 1964 "a crucial year."

He said the transition period immediately after Jan. 1 is vital to finishing up the work of effecting the new document, the adoption of which "was without a doubt the most important single accomplishment of 1963."

★ ★ ★

There were some pitfalls and drawbacks that he hadn't expected, he said, adding:

★ ★ ★

"During my life, I have worked hard and long at various times, but as governor, I have worked harder and longer without a break than ever before.

"I enjoy it. I have found many satisfactions as well as many drawbacks. It is a rewarding, stimulating and challenging experience. The experience has provided me with a greater appreciation of public officials of both parties and the jobs they do, the responsibilities they carry.

★ ★ ★

"By the same token, it has sharpened my insight into the potential for good that accompanies public office, and has forced the regrettable recognition that in too many cases the potential is not realized as fully as it should be."

★ ★ ★

Romney also said his experience has reemphasized need for "less narrow, blind partisanship that ignores merit in favor of personal party gain."

1963 Was a Big Year for Congressional Probes

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

But, despite a busy session, they left themselves a shelf-full of unfinished business for 1964 — including a much publicized investigation of the Senate's own employes.

That investigation, focusing on the outside activities of Robert G. (Bobby) Baker, former secretary to the Senate Democrats, barely reached the public hearing stage before the holiday recess. The Senate Rules Committee plans to resume hearings soon after Congress reconvenes.

Another investigation marked incomplete at session's end was one of 1963's most extensive congressional inquiries — the Senate Investigation Subcommittee's study of the multi-billion-dollar contract for development of the TFX warplane. This one also will resume early next year with more testimony from former Navy Secretary Fred Korth.

CRIME STUDY

The investigations subcommittee completed its general study of organized crime — the inquiry which made a television personality of a humdrum exhoodlum named Joseph Valachi and added to the language yet another synonym for the Mafia, Cosa Nostra. Still to come, however, are the subcommittee's hearings on narcotics traffic.

Hearings by a House commerce subcommittee on television rating services also were completed. The subcommittee record, however, was held open — awaiting actions to be taken by the television networks. Continuing is a House freedom-of-information survey.

One widely publicized Senate investigation wound up in stalemate when it came time to draft a report. That was the investigation into stockpiling programs which was launched with the blessing of the late President Kennedy.

★ ★ ★

The report, sharply criticizing some officials of the Eisenhower administration, was prepared by chairman Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and two subcommittee Democrats. It was opposed by the two subcommittee Republicans, Sens. Clifford P. Case, N. J., and J. Glenn Beall, Md. They were joined by Sen. J. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C.

TIGHTENS PROCEDURE

Still under consideration is a bill, tightening up on stockpiling procedures, which was a more harmonious outgrowth of the stockpiling investigation.

A House investigation produced the year's loudest fireworks. There was rioting in the corridors of the old House office building in September when the House Committee on Un-American Activities sought to question some of the 50 students who visited Cuba in defiance of State Department regulations.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee completed a study of lobbying activities by Americans for foreign interests. The committee still is considering amendments to the Foreign Agents Registration Act.

★ ★ ★

Also under study, by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, is the State Department's firing of Otto F. Otepka, former State Department security officer.

LBJ Eyes Running Mate With Greatest of Care

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Choosing a 1964 vice presidential running mate may be a more delicate task for President Lyndon B. Johnson than it has been for any presidential nominee in recent decades. He has some odd dilemmas.

Most leading Democratic professionals, including Southerners, take it for granted that Johnson, with his Texas base, will pick a liberal—perhaps a Catholic—from a northern industrial state.

* * *

COMPOSITE

Their views, sampled by this reporter in a check of states coast to coast, suggest he may be looking for a remarkable composite of youth and wide experience—with a clear line of inheritance from the late John F. Kennedy.

On the experience factor there is no dissent. The shock of Kennedy's assassination seemed to settle that issue.

New Jersey's Gov. Richard Hughes sums it:

"I don't think the country will ever again accept a lightweight as a vice presidential nominee."

* * *

STRESS YOUTH

Yet several veteran professionals were deadly serious in stressing its importance for Johnson in 1964. Says one:

"There was a tremendous involvement of young people with John F. Kennedy. They feel a heavy loss.

"They believe power is back in the hands of older politicians again and they're unhappy about it."

SEES TROUBLE

"If we don't come up with a young one for vice president, we're going to be in serious trouble."

Just how young is young enough, these party men do not make wholly clear. It is presumed they would prefer a candidate under 50.

Significantly, some Republican politicians who freely assailed Kennedy now talk about finding a youthful prospect much like him for their top spot next year.

* * *

Both parties are mindful that by 1964 some 5 million more young people will be of voting age than was the case in 1960. It is a rich market.

TOUGHEST DILEMMA

The question of a candidate's possible identity with what many political figures now are calling the "Kennedy tradition" may prove the toughest of all Johnson's dilemmas in naming his running mate.

The key to the puzzle is Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. A Democrat of national stature says:

"I would think the one marriage Lyndon Johnson has got to make is with Bobby Kennedy."

* * *

HIGH ON LIST

To some, this means the younger Kennedy should be high on the list of vice presidential prospects.

To others it simply means "He's got to be in the campaign somewhere," presumably in full support of Johnson's choice for the No. 2 place.

Robert Kennedy himself is as yet giving no clue to his future political intentions. They may take shape slowly.

* * *

But he can appreciate his special status, and the value to Johnson of his personal network of political contacts.

COSTLY MATCH?

Studies of Southern sentiment confirm early guesswork: the attorney general's name on a Johnson ticket might cost the President a sizable part of his evident heavy southern support.

Bobby Kennedy, even more than his older brother, has been a symbol to southern segregationists of the federal government's pressures on civil rights.

In the South and elsewhere, too, he served from the outset as a lightning rod attracting heavy charges that otherwise might have been directed at his brother.

* * *

These factors explain why politicians disagree so strongly as to the specific role the attorney general should play next year.

OUTSIDE SOUTH

Outside the South, however, his importance to the Johnson cause is broadly accepted. His name will likely be on all vice presidential lists for months to come.

The other principal prospects make up a now-familiar roster: Senators Hubert Humphrey and Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver (who is related to the Kennedys by marriage), U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, New York's Mayor Robert Wagner, Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California.

The word from key sources is that friesds and supporters already are actively working for the two Minnesota senators, Wagner, and Brown.

* * *

There are even a few riffles for Undersecretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., though he is on no one's "serious" list.

STEVENSON

Stevenson is a relatively recent "mention." He has experience, demonstrated capacity, name value as a two-time presidential nominee.

But he will be 64 next year—and his link with the "Kennedy tradition" is uncleas. Nor are his desires known.

Convict Sentenced for Hitting Inmate

Albert Bomer walked into the recreation room at Camp Pontiac, a minimum security prison in White Lake Township, and hit a fellow inmate over the head with a five-pound weight lifting bar. That was July 7.

Bomer, 18, of Detroit, yesterday was sentenced by Circuit Court Judge Frederick C. Ziem to a 2- to 4-year prison term for felonious assault on Edwin Wudyka, who was asleep when attacked.

Authorities said Bomer and his victim had an argument shortly before the assault.

The first college of denistry in the United States was started in 1839.

Is Life Drab for You? Paint It Turquoise

By JOY STILLEY
Written for Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—I may not be an artist, but I certainly am a painter.

I don't paint still life, though, or landscapes or abstracts or even portraits. I paint furniture.

My husband isn't surprised anymore to find that the chest of drawers which was an unobtrusive gray when he left for work has become shiny black by the time he returns home.

* * *

I have to restrain myself in redecorating the living room, because upholstery and paints aren't very compatible, but I did once change a gray chair into a green one with a fabric spray.

In the rest of the house anything is fair game. When I get in a painting mood everything from door knobs to switch plates is likely to take on new and strange hues.

When my daughter decided that she had outgrown her pink room and wanted something more sophisticated as befitting her 13 years, I was really beside myself with enthusiasm.

* * *

Out came the spray can and on went the paint. At present everything from her desk to her television set is white, flecked with gold, including a few things which looked better in their natural state, such as a shelf full of books and my hair, both now speckled.

* * *

As for the walls, she decided they should be turquoise.

After I found out that the paint I was using was the kind that will cover anything, there was no stopping me. Every object in the room which wasn't white became turquoise.

WHEEE!

I painted her wastebasket, her jewelry box, her cellophane tape dispenser, and even the tapes on the venetian blinds. They make an ominous crackling sound when you raise the blinds but they do match the room.

* * *

As for my son's belongings, his bookcase, chest and desk started out a cheery bright red, but as he grew older I altered them to gray when his walls were gray; and to sandalwood when the room was repainted that color.

* * *

Hardly a piece of furniture in the house is so poor that it can boast only one coat of paint. But I'm sure the laundry hamper I've had most of my married life can claim the record.

It was pink when I got it. I made it a nice clinical white. Then I went through a phase of having the bathroom color scheme tones of gray and black. The hamper spent a year or so in mourning, but finally I decided to brighten things up with yellow towels—and a yellow hamper.

* * *

Recently there was a little paint left when I finished my daughter's room, and it seemed like a shame to waste it. So now that hamper is turquoise.

Little Indians Want the Cavalry to Win

* * *

The chief, a Brooklyn resident whose name for social security purposes is Jules Haywood, explains:

Smoked Cigarettes Reach 253 Billion

* * *

The Agriculture Department, reporting the estimate today, said cigarette output and consumption reached new highs for the seventh straight year.

An estimated 7.2 billion cigars and cigarillos — small cigars—also were smoked this year, the department said, the highest total in 40 years.

* * *

Do Women's Clubs Need a Defender?

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor

You know how members of a family will fight among themselves, but gang up on anyone who threatens the individual? Right now, I feel a little like a member of such a family.

During my teen years I vowed scornfully that I would never grow up and waste my time attending women's club meetings!

But I did grow up and join a number of women's clubs. For several years I worked hard as a clubwoman and believed in what I was doing.

Then a period of rebellion set in and I said "no" to everything. I had grown tired of business meetings that were anything but business-like; of committees that talked for hours without getting anywhere; of inefficiency, back-biting and wasted hours.

POSITIVE SIDE

That is all in the past. Now I have a different view of the same clubs. As women's editor, I'm aware of the frustrating aspects, but I'm also aware of the tremendous amount of good done by women's groups.

★ ★ ★

What started my thinking on this subject was a magazine article from the English publication "Wife", sent to The Pontiac Press by a former Pontiac woman, Mrs. R. T. Johnston of Lines, England.

This article, written by Ginette Spanier who spoke at Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall last year, pokes a little fun at women's clubs—in fact, at Pontiac, Michigan women's clubs. And I quote:

"We in Europe have absolutely no idea of the important role played by Women's Clubs in American life. In Pontiac, Michigan, which you can cross in 10 minutes in a car, there are 250 Women's Clubs—Cooking Clubs, Sewing Clubs, Study Clubs and rich clubs which can afford famous and expensive speakers."

CAN'T COUNT

She's wrong about Pontiac's having 250 clubs. When we in the women's department last counted, there were almost 500 organizations in this area.

★ ★ ★

And if Town Hall (the organization that hired Madame Spanier to speak) is rich, it is probably news to the board of directors. But perhaps she wasn't referring to herself as the "famous and expensive speaker."

★ ★ ★

Madame Spanier continues: "To us there is something slightly comic and rather pathetic about those rows of women minked up to the eyebrows filling cinemas at ten o'clock in the morning.

"Firstly, we forget that there is no household help to speak of in the United States, yet when all these ladies appear, dressed as we would dress for a cocktail party, the houses they have left are impeccably clean and tidy."

★ ★ ★

After reading the first sentence, I'm mad! What's pathetic or comic about women trying to learn something or attempting to keep up with world affairs?

AUTOMATIC HELP

Then I'm flattered that Madame Spanier thinks we're such good housekeepers. We could say that if the European beats were up to date in their homes, they'd have more time to do other things. American efficiency has freed the homemaker from a certain amount of drudgery her European sister still endures.

But when I read the next paragraph, I'm annoyed again.

★ ★ ★

"Can you see us turning out in hundreds to hear a lecture on Foreign Politics or the Art of Eighteenth Century Silversmith."

Doesn't she know that we're always trying to improve ourselves and that we have a passion for courses and lecture series? We're not content to sit home and let the world pass us by.

★ ★ ★

Again, my mood changes as I read the following paragraph:

★ ★ ★

"Lastly, we completely discount the astounding sums of money collected and the hours of real work given to charity by these same women.

★ ★ ★

It is in great part thanks to them that the immense modern hospitals I saw owe their their existence and that Cleveland, to name only one town, has one of the greatest symphony orchestras today."

THIS IS IT!

It was a woman's group that started Pontiac General Hospital.

It was a group of women who worked hard to establish the symphony, then to organize Town Hall to contribute funds for it.

Women's groups pour out thousands of dollars in scholarship funds; buy equipment for schools and hospitals; support foundations and clinics.

★ ★ ★

America was founded on the principle of cooperation. It was necessary to our survival that we help one another. Seemingly we have never lost that attitude. We still band together for mutual benefit.

EXPANDED INTERESTS

Women have time to concern themselves with larger community problems and to alleviate some of the ills and inequities that still exist.

★ ★ ★

Granted that there is waste motion; that club meetings are NOT models of efficiency; that members fight among themselves for prestige—it would still be a poorer world if these clubs did not exist.

Man is a social being; women are more so. We seem to function best in a group.

Everyone knows that if a woman donated money to a cause instead of paying a baby-sitter while she works harder than she ever does at home, the end result would be the same amount of money.

But the feeling of satisfaction would not be there. That is the intangible reward most people want.

THREE CHEERS

So I say, "Bravo" for our Pontiac area women's organizations. They are making this a better world in which to live.

Stain Simulates Hardwood Tones

Hardwood tones can be simulated on such inexpensive woods as pine, birch and fir with a new stain system for wood molding, trim, doors, built-in, furniture and paneling. The system consists of colorants in plastic pods and two bases, light and dark.

Large chips of translucent vinyl encasing fine chips of actual marble create a floor in three dimension effect. This new vinyl asbestos tile has a background of tinted white with color accents in onyx, brown and sharp white.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Q. "I have read that if you sleep on your stomach you will become flat chested. Is this true?"

A. It seems perfectly logical to me that sleeping on the abdomen would tend to flatten the bust just as a tight bra, which flattens rather than supports, would.

Q. "I am in my 40's, and as the years and my figure have spread, I find myself short, heavy and stomachy. Added to this I have a large bust and small hips, also a thick waist. It's not a pretty picture and I would like to do something about it.

You may smile when you read this, but I would like to have larger hips. I realize that this could be skeletal, but I would like to appear more in proportion.

The irony of the matter is that when I take off weight — yes — you guessed it — it comes off of my hips mostly. What to do?"

A. The figure you describe is a well-recognized type — large bust — thick waist — straight up and down hips. You probably have very thin legs also. However, it is possible to modify it some.

In the first place your letter sounds as though you are quite a bit overweight. If so lose the extra pounds. Your bust will be about the first measurement to reflect the loss. You will be able to reduce your waist somewhat.

Q. "Is there anything I can do for a flat bust except wear a padded bra? I have heard that there are exercises which give one a fuller bust. Have you ever known anyone who actually increased the size by doing such?"

A. Yes. I have seen this happen many times in my classes. The bust itself does not become larger but the bust measurement does because you can enlarge the underlying muscles with exercise.

Salt for First Snowflakes

CHICAGO, Ill. (UPI)—Most persons start to remove snow and ice around the home after the storm. But experts at the Salt Institute here say the easiest and by far the most effective way to clear steps, sidewalks and driveway is to start when the first snowflakes touch the ground.

As soon as the snow starts falling, spread about a quarter of a pound of salt over each square yard of pavement. A handful will do for each ordinary sidewalk square.

In a light snowfall, this may eliminate the need for shoveling. In a continued snowfall, a second application of salt should be spread after the snow accumulates to a depth of two or three inches.

When Is Our Budget Not a Budget?

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

Please, some help with my husband! He claims we have what amounts to a budget, but I don't agree. He's forever at me about the charge accounts being too high, but I don't know how we stand so how am I to know how much to spend?

MARY FEELEY

He puts the money in the checking account and writes checks for everything. Another thing, I never have any money of my own to spend.

His salary per week is approximately $130. However, for two years he has been on six days a week and it looks like that will continue for some time. For the six days, it runs $170.

Our house payments are $91 including taxes and insurance. Utilities are about $11 in summer and no higher than $30 in winter. Phone, $7, car is $60, a loan, $35, his life insurance $12 and he has $10 a week put in his credit union.

HAULS RIDERS

He also makes $15 a week hauling riders to work.

My husband's motto is "If you need something, buy it." But I'd like to go more on a plan. So could you please help? I'd also like to have a nicer home. We have two girls, 6 and 8.

Mrs. W. H. B., Dayton, Ohio.

Dear Mrs. B.:

Whoever said women were the inconsistent people? Any man who says to his wife, "If you need something, buy it," and then growls about her spending, is asking for trouble. He deserves it, too.

Your husband should allot a certain amount every week for household spending, and turn it over to you without having to be reminded. Of course, he's floundering around like you are — since he evidently doesn't know just how much it does take to run your end of the business.

Unless you both go over your financial situation together, you will never get it on a workable basis.

What has been done in the past is water over the dam. So save the arguments and look over this budget setup:

SAVE ARGUMENTS

Rent, $91; utilities, $31; other household operating costs, $15; food, $107; clothing, $35; loan, $35; loan on car, $60; life insurance, $12; savings, $20; personal allances, $42; miscellaneous, $36; medical, $15; recreation, $20; car operating, $40. The total is $559.

This is using the $130 a week income, rather than the $170. While you're getting the bigger income right now, I gather it isn't permanent. So better not count on it.

Instead, take that extra day's pay and put it in the savings bank, where it will earn interest. It can help you plan toward better living quarters.

Since your husband makes that extra "hauling" bonus, it can be used to increase personal allowances to provide something for you and the children to call your own. The cost of operating the car shouldn't consume it all.

The important thing is to decide between you which bills you will pay, and are responsible for, and which ones he will pay. You'll both be happier if you know how much is too much!

(You can write Mary Feeley in care of The Pontiac Press. She answers questions of widest interest in her column.

February vows are planned by Brenda Carolyn Singleton, daughter of the James H. Singletons of McKinley Drive and Robert Wayne Ervin, son of Mrs. Howard A. Ervin of Commonwealth Avenue and the late Mr. Ervin.

Husbands Vain About Nice Hands

In winter, sportsmen and men who work with their hands often develop cracked, dry fingernails that break off to the quick. Generally, men tend to use harsher soaps than women and these boost the possibility of dry, roughened hands and nails. A manicure repairs this damage.

For your home manicure you need emery boards, petroleum jelly, hydrogen peroxide, cuticle scissors, cotton swabs, a buffer, a small bowl of soapy water and a warm hand towel.

To begin have him dip his fingertips in the warm, soapy water for a few minutes to soften the cuticle on each nail. Dry his hands and work a small amount of petroleum jelly into the cuticle.

When the cuticle is softened, push it back gently with a cotton swab. Clip any hangnails and bits of dead skin with a cuticle scissors. Next, shape the nail straight across or slightly rounded, for filing with an emery board.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Eunice Farmer:
"When you are putting a lining in a skirt, do you always have to match the color, or can you use a different color?"
Mrs. S. K.

Dear Mrs. S. K.:
If you are under-lining the skirt (which means basting the lining to the skirt fabric and then making the darts, seams, etc., as one piece of fabric, you will usually use the same color lining.

If you want to make a separate shell lining, it is fun to use a contrasting color, to match the lining of a jacket, a blouse, scarf or whatever. With spring just ahead of us, why not make a separate lining out of a gay print to match the blouse. Even if you're the only one to see it, it makes you feel gay just to put it on.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. L. Waterman, West Springfield, Mass., is this week's winner of a Tailor Trix Pressing Board for this suggestion.

"Here is a perfect way to keep pleats in line when they are washed! If you are hand washing pleated skirts of synthetic fibers, pin the pleats in place at the bottom of skirt, now machine stitch about one-half inch from the bottom, over the pins, using the longest stitch.

"After the skirt has been laundered, you can easily pull the pleats in perfect position. They can be lightly pressed before removing the machine stitching."

new look, take a tip from a friend of mine who is a top fashion model. Paint it with liquid black or brown shoe polish. Rub the excess polish off and the jewelry will have the new charcoal or bronze look which is so popular this year.

★ ★ ★

"Dear Eunice:
"Do you ever line a pleated skirt?"
"A Faithful Reader"

To my knowledge, a pleated skirt is never lined.

★ ★ ★

"Dear Eunice Farmer:
"I see so many large snaps in suits that are covered with the lining material. Is there any special trick to this?"
Mrs. E. T. N.

Dear Mrs. E. T. N.:
Instead of trying to hide snaps, they can almost look attractive if covered neatly with the lining fabric or a solid crepe to match your jacket. Get the very large snaps and cut a circle of lining about one-fourth inch larger. With small stitches, hand sew continuously around the outer edge of the circle, place snap in the center and draw up the thread so that it fits tightly over the snap. Fasten the thread firmly on the wrong side. Clip the tiniest thread at the center for the prong to fit through. Neatly hand sew the snaps in place on your garment. For accuracy, sew one half on first and then snap the top half in place before marking the position for the other part of the snap.

Happy New Year to all my Sew Semple fans: If you were to make a resolution let's try to remember that sewing, like any other skill, becomes fun as you achieve knowledge and perfection. In other words; keep trying!

September vows are planned by Ferne Elaine Kerr and Thomas William Richardson, son of the William Richardsons of Cooley Lake Road. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Almeda Kerr of Irwin Drive and Donald M. Kerr of Highland Road.

Mr. and Mrs. James T. Simmons of Van Syckle Avenue announce the engagement of their daughter Mary Lee to James Henry Pointer Jr., son of the senior Pointers of South Francis Street.

Poinsettias Decorate Altar for Ceremony

The Michael Korens of School House Drive and the Edmond G. Paynes of Lincolnshire Drive are parents of the couple.

Plain white satin encircled both waistline and hemline of the bride's gown of white brocaded satin, styled with detachable chapel train. A pearl coronet held her bouffant veil of silk illusion.

Yellow Rapture roses in her bouquet designated the honor matron, Mrs. Frank Phelps. With Mrs. Terry Stein who attended her sister, were Mrs. Jack Materna and Patricia Shannon serving as bridesmaids.

The couple will reside on Newberry Street.

make you late?

When you wear an Omega Seamaster calendar watch you always know the correct date . . . no guessing, ever. No being late for appointments either . . . because you forgot to wind your watch and it stopped running. Seamaster doesn't need old-fashioned hand-winding . . . or power-cells which need replacing. It's gravity-powered . . . a pendulum-like rotor winds the movement (and keeps it wound) while you wear it.

Why don't you join the thousands of men who rely on the "carefree" Seamaster (it's water and shock resistant, too) . . . to keep them up-to-date and up-to-the-minute. There's an Omega Seamaster to suit every need. Other Omega watches for men and women, $65 to over $1000.

Wife Better Duck

This Is a Disagreement?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: During a disagreement, my husband broke my nose and gave me two black eyes and I couldn't go to a family Christmas get-together because I didn't want my people to see me looking like that.

ABBY

But when he loses his temper, I'm the one who gets it in the neck. Don't tell me to leave him because I've tried it and I'm the one who crawls back.

SLAP HAPPY

DEAR HAPPY: Any woman who gets "slapped around" more than once either figures she has it coming, or she likes it. Practice your foot work and learn to duck.

DEAR ABBY: What time do you think an 11-year-old girl should go to bed? This will settle an argument between my mother and me.

THE GIRL

DEAR GIRL: She should go to bed whenever her mother says she should. And THAT should settle the argument.

DEAR ABBY: When a boy asks me to a night movie, my mother gives me money and tells me to buy my own ticket because then I won't feel like I have to kiss him goodnight.

I really try to pay my own way, but the boy never lets me. I have kissed a few boys goodnight but it wasn't because they paid my way to the movies.

Do you think I should put up a harder fight when a boy wants to buy my ticket? And is it okay to kiss him goodnight if I had an especially good time?

FIFTEEN

DEAR FIFTEEN: When a boy invites a girl to the movies, he expects to buy her ticket, and he shouldn't have to put up a fight to do so.

Don't confuse a "thank you for a lovely evening" with a kiss. A kiss means "I like you." And "thank you" means I enjoyed myself.

DEAR ABBY: Why are so many people shocked when they put "R.S.V.P." on invitations and two days before the wedding or party or whatever it is they have to start calling up the invited guests to see if they're coming?

I'll bet if you stopped 100 people on the street and asked them what "R.S.V.P." meant, they couldn't tell you. It stands for "Respond, if you please," in FRENCH, and how are we supposed to know French?

If they had put down, "Call us up and tell us if you can make it," and then the phone number, it would make a lot more sense.

Silence of Poverty, Oppression, Fear Overwhelm Haitians

By WARD CANNEL

PORT - AU- PRINCE, Haiti (NEA) — After half a week in the fearful silence that chokes Haiti, this reporter heard his voice, an angry decibel too high, echoing through the presidential palace with a last, desperate attempt to get an answer — any answer:

"Is it correct to call Haiti a Caribbean country?"

"I'm so sorry," said the executive secretary of the country's public information office, "but I can't give you that information. You'll have to put your question in writing to the boss."

★ ★ ★

The boss, of course, is Dr. Francois Duvalier — Papa Doc — the president, dictator and deity of the country where there are no answers except exile or death.

WEAPON SILENCE

Papa Doc has for five years managed to survive the fate of Batista, Trujillo and Perez-Jimenez with the weapon of silence.

Despite overwhelming pressure from the outside, the indications are that he can keep his bloody regime in power for as long as he wants to with that one weapon in his arsenal.

Nobody in Haiti today can — or will — answer even such nonstrategic questions as the country's average rainfall, population, birth rate or mortality.

★ ★ ★

Nobody will tell the extent of disease, malnutrition or other basic facts of survival in the country.

KEEP IT SECRET

Even a query as to the beginning of the rainy season is met with a hasty glance over the shoulder and a lowered voice:

"I think it begins in September," a French resident said. "But please don't use my name or I'll be given 24 hours to pack up and leave."

Questions closer to the heart of the matter — dissatisfaction, unrest, opposition to Papa Doc — are not even permitted by most people.

★ ★ ★

With that greeting, he saw this reporter to the door and said goodby.

But even a deaf and mute visitor to Haiti today can see for himself what no one dares put into words.

The foreign embassies which allow it are filled with Haitians who have claimed political asylum.

★ ★ ★

CHECKS BOUNCE

A survey of foreign banks doing business with Haiti reveals that no one can tell when a government check is going to clear or bounce. It all depends on how the national treasury is that month.

A tour of the countryside shows vegetable farms gone to seed because nobody can afford to buy anything at the market price.

There is no ship in the calm, protected harbor. Night clubs are closed five or six nights each week. Magnificent restaurants are empty.

It is the very nub of the situation that in the presidential palace, fortified against its starving and terrified electorate by machine gun, rifle, tank, pistol and antiaircraft gun, there is a sign that reads:

"No member of the armed forces may be in possession of a weapon when entering the president's office."

Barry Going to East State

New Hampshire Host for Three-Day Visit

HILLSBORO, N.H. (AP) — Publisher Richard Howard of the weekly Hillsboro messenger said yesterday Sen. Barry Goldwater will visit New Hampshire next week.

Howard said his newspaper will carry a story Friday that Goldwater will be in New Hampshire next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The Arizona Senator is announcing his political intentions Friday, and his backers are reported confident that he will enter the race for the Republican presidential nomination. The New Hampshire presidential primary March 10 will be the first in the nation.

"Barry Goldwater will return again to New Hampshire during the latter part of January and early February over a three-week period," Howard said.

Howard Long has been active for Goldwater and is one of those asked to be a member in an official state advisory committee for the Goldwater campaign.

Year Filled With Zany Crimes

Keystone Kops Strictly Amateurs

By MEADER G. PATTINGTON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The year 1963 produced some outstanding oddities in the theft department.

In Alexandria, La., thieves cleaned out one home, including the kitchen sink. And, in Milpitas, Calif., someone walked off with the town's jail, a trailerlike affair on wheels.

A Denver thief, who apparently thought big, took an earth mover, 22 feet long, 10 feet high, 10 feet wide, painted bright yellow.

★ ★ ★

DISPLAY HOUSE

along with a German shepherd dog purchased as a watchdog.

Another thief in Los Angeles was arrested for stealing a bus, remarking that he had always wanted to drive some thing big.

And, for the third time in four years, a man in Baltimore was arrested for stealing an airplane.

★ ★ ★

An auto thief returned a stolen car to a man in San Diego after using it a month and complained in a wordy letter that it needed new spark plugs, a wheel alignment, a new radio and that the back seat was very uncomfortable.

LOOK OUT BELOW

A careless thief in Los Angeles threw suede jackets out of a store window. Two policemen, after getting out from under the pile, made the arrest.

A widow in Buffalo had $8 taken from her cash register. However, the gunman had given her a $10 bill for a purchase, which she kept. Net profit: $2.

Some burglars have an odd

The owner said he used the refrigerator as a strongbox because it was insulated and nearly fireproof.

Food was very much in the 1963 larceny spotlight. In Tucson, Ariz., a returning couple found burglars eating ice cream and drinking milk in their kitchen.

Yeggs opened a vault in a Fort Worth, Tex., lumber company. The net take, one pie; placed there for safekeeping by the manager.

NICE PUSS

Another group in Topeka, Kan., looted a home and invited in a stray cat for some milk.

And, on the second time for stealing a jar of olives, a thief in Wichita, Kan., was sent to jail for a year.

Some thieves had a rough time of it. In San Francisco, one was scared off from his attempted crime when the owner of an apartment threw a pack of firecrackers at him over the transome.

And in a store in Lincoln, Neb., as the would-be holdup artist pulled his trusty gun, the barrell moved forward, the cylinder and cartridges fell out. The bumbling gunman left.

LONG ARM OF LAW

A judge in Albany, N. Y., had his overcoat stolen, and another judge in Camden, N. J., lost his car.

However, two policemen at Coon Rapids, Minn., finding a gasoline can standing at the rear of their police car, arrested the man underneath who was stealing gasoline.

★ ★ ★

SURPRISE

In addition to the wanted man two others sought for burglary walked out. The surprised pair thought the police were after them.

Animals were in the 1963 larceny news.

At LaPlace, La., thieves stole 150 alligators from a snake farm. And at Albuquerque, N. M., the loot consisted of seven baby skunks, a baby coyote and a monkey.

★ ★ ★

But the most twisty job was in the stealing of the entire stock of a worm farm near Jacksonville, Fla.

NO, FIDO, NO

A watchdog at a home in Kansas City, Mo., watched quietly as a burglar robbed his master's home and then bit the policeman sent to investigate the crime.

★ ★ ★

MEAN THIEVES

The year's meanest thieves were probably those who broke into a man's apartment and stole his wooden leg.

After Denials

Romney Acting Like Presidential Aspirant

LANSING (UPI) — Gov. George Romney, after 18 months of denying he wants to be a candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, has begun acting like a prospective nominee.

Romney, whose election in 1962 broke a 14-year stranglehold Democrats had held on Michigan's gubernatorial office, said yesterday he'll begin a campaign aimed at molding Republican party opinion next Tuesday with a speech in Washington.

Romney, who will talk at the National Press Club, said, "I expect to discuss the opportunity I think we have as Republicans to establish the right programs to meet the nation's needs."

★ ★

What the needs or problems are Romney wouldn't say. "I am not going to make my speech here," he said with a laugh.

2ND STATEMENT

Romney's statement about his ambitions to help shape national Republican policies was his second on the subject in as many days. Monday he also acknowledged that discussion of himself in national terms by others has put him into the line-up of prospective Republican presidential candidates.

The 56-year old governor, who has enjoyed a meteoric rise in politics since stepping out of his job as president of American Motors less than two years ago, still insisted he is not actively seeking the presidential nomination.

"My position is just the same as it was 18 months ago — I said I would not be a candidate, that I would not seek it (the nomination)" Romney said.

★ ★ ★

The governor said he would be willing to accept further invitations around the nation that will "permit me to express my views on what we ought to do in 1964 to deal with the basic problems to meet the nation's needs."

FUND DRIVE

On Jan. 17, Romney said he and his wife Lenore will be in Salt Lake City "for a sort of homecoming and Republican party fund - raising affair," and on Jan. 29 he will be in Washington to take part in a national television fund - raising drive for the party.

★ ★ ★

"Whereas I haven't been taking on out-of-state engagements, I expect to do so because it's in keeping with making whatever contribution I can, particularly when you are concerned with the affairs of a state that is effected by what happens nationally.

"For a number of years, I didn't feel basic issues were being faced and discussed," Romney said.

New Year Arrives in Mixture of Merrymaking, Messages

The holiday was observed with a mixture of revelry and tradition, and with renweed hope for peace and unity.

★ ★ ★

President Johnson in a New Year's statement called on Americans to give thanks "for the providence and for the blessings that are ours."

Japan's Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda sent greetings to Soviet Premier Khrushchev hoping for "further efforts in 1964 toward realization of world peace and security."

JARRING NOTES

There were a few jarring notes.

French President Charles de Gaulle spoke of building thermonuclear armament, and Chinese Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek spoke of "military and political moves" to regain China's mainland from the Chinese Communists.

AP Photofax

REVENUE POST — Sheldon S. Cohen, 36, a Washington lawyer, was picked by President Johnson as chief counsel of the Internal Revenue Service. Cohen is a Democrat.

President Johnson partyhopped among four celebrations at Austin, Tex. Midnight found him at a Headline Club party in a hotel. Just before 12 o'clock he waltzed with a woman who asked him to dance. Less than an hour later he ws back at his ranch near Johnson City, Tex.

Khrushchev sent Johnson a message expressing hope for further progress in bettering relations between the two countries.

TOASTS '64

As Khrushchev toasted 1964 at a Kremlin party of some 2,000 of Moscow's elite, he appealed for further easing of world tensions—but said his only difference with China's Communists was on how to bury capitalism.

In Berlin, the Communists in the east lifted a ban on fireworks for the first time since World War II—and in the west a similar ban as usual was ignored.

Colorful flames swept across the wall in both directions as nearly 60,000 West Berliners celebrated with relatives and friends on the east side of the wall through special holiday entry permits.

Throughout Italy, the tradition of throwing out old dishes, jugs, bottles and glasses set up a New Year's Eve clatter and symbolized the world's desire to forget the past and turn to the hope-filled future.

HORNS HONKED

On Paris' Champs Elysees, a horn-honking salute to 1964 carried out another tradition. Spaniards observed still another by eating 12 grapes at midnight in Madrid's Puerta del Sol Square.

In Buenos Aires tons of ticker tape, pages out of 1963 calendars and shredded newspapers were thrown out of windows.

★ ★ ★

New York's traditional mob scene in Times Square at midnight, which drew the biggest crowd in recent years, had to vie for the limelight with a new celebration at another city landmark—a benefit ball for 3,000 persons in Grand Central Terminal.

LBJ Parties Round Austin for New Year

He said his wife Lady Bird preferred to stay at the LBJ Ranch and watch movies with nine of her relatives who gathered there for the holiday.

The President stayed at home long enough for a steak dinner before journeying to the Texas capital. In Austin, the President spent about an hour at a private club called "The 40 Acres" adjacent to the University of Texas campus, where his older daughter, Lynda Bird, is a sophomore.

FRIEND'S HOME

Then his police-escorted motorcade drove to the home of a friend, Austin attorney Frank Irwin, secretary of the Texas Democratic party.

The next stop was the Driskill Hotel downtown, where Johnson first went to a party thrown for the White House staff by the White House press corps. He spent more than an hour there before proceding to the Headliners Club in the same hotel.

Fund for Mrs. Tippit Near $465,000 Mark

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dallas police said Tuesday they have counted over $464,937.18 in contributions to the widow of Dallas patrolman J. D. Tippit in the 39 days since he was slain Nov. 22.

Kennedy's Legal Home Was in Boston

By CORNELIUS F. HURLEY

BOSTON (AP) — The building is nine stories high, and it overlooks the parking lot at the Massachusetts State House.

A third floor apartment, number 36, is one of five in the building. It has a living room, two small bedrooms, a bath and a tiny kitchen and dinette.

★ ★ ★

The name on the lease is John F. Kennedy.

This was the legal home of the late President, a registered voter at that address, 122 Bowdoin Street.

ONE VISIT

Kennedy visited the apartment only once after he was elected President. That was in January of 1960, a week before the inauguration. He stayed overnight while in Boston to attend a meeting of the Harvard Board of Overseers and speak to the Massachusetts legislature.

But it was in this 15- by 22-foot living room that Kennedy planned strategy for his campaigns, first for the U. S. House, twice for the U. S. Senate and for nomination and election to the presidency.

Right after World War II, when Kennedy first ran for political office, he had a room at the old Hotel Bellevue on the next corner, close to the apartment of his grandfather, the late John F. Fitzgerald. He rented the apartment in 1947. It was a shabby place in those days, furnished with odds and ends, the stuffing showing in a couple of armchairs.

The apartment got a face lifting when the late President's mother, Mrs. Rose Kennedy, dropped in for a visit in the early 1950s.

After one look, she called in the building superintendent, the late Joseph Murphy, and had him clear away all the old furniture.

She refurnished it with a desk, a divan and a couple of armchairs, floor and table lamps, and even a few pictures — of ships and seascapes.

Kennedy never carried a key to the apartment. When he'd appear for a stay, Joe Murphy would let him in, and provide breakfast. It usually was the same, fruit juice, couple of soft boiled eggs, toast with jam and coffee.

The apartment had another face lifting in 1960 when the President's youngest brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, opened his successful campaign for the Senate seat the President had held.

Much of the President's furniture was moved to his Cape Cod home at Hyannis Port.

The two bedrooms became offices, and two of three desks were set up in the living room.

Telephones were installed in all the rooms.

The apartment now has been restored somewhat to living quarters. One bedroom is used for storage. The other has a couple of cots in it.

The lease still is under the name of John F. Kennedy, but Sen. Kennedy said he intends to use it.

As the former legal home of a president, perhaps it should become some sort of a national shrine,.

There has been one other suggestion — the building should be marked with a plaque, and made an additional point on Boston's Freedom Trail. Tourists follow the trail to see such sights as Faneuil Hall, the "Cradle of Liberty" the Paul Revere house, Old North Church, and the site of the colonial "tea party."

World War II Vet Heads German Army

BONN, Germany (AP)—Gen. Hienz Trettner, a World War II commander of German troops in Russia and Italy, today was named new commander-in-chief of West Germany's armed forces.

Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government chose Trettner, 56, to succeed Gen. Friedric Foertsch, 63, who retired.

Tougher Line Against Cuba Seen in U.S., Latin America

WASHINGTON (AP) — A somewhat tougher line toward Communist Cuba appears likely in 1964 on the part of both the United States and its Latin American neighbors—several of whom have been reluctant in the past to take meaningful steps against the Castro regime.

What form the new pressures will take and how effective they will be remain to be seen. At present there seems to be no strong prospect of any armed intervention unless Castro brings it on himself by overt aggressiveness.

Much of the U.S. effort seems likely to be directed again toward checkmating Castro's brand of communism by massive efforts to alleviate the poverty and social inequalities on which it feeds in many Latin American countries.

President Johnson is committed to a vitalizing of the Alliance for Progress, a $1-billion-a-year, cooperative development program which has been under con-

[illegible] Congress who feel it is not accomplishing enough and is not properly supported by those it is intended to benefit.

Some of these critics insist that toucher economic measures are needed to multiply the bearded dictator's home-front problems to the point where he will have neither the time nor the money to foster Red rebellion in other Latin American nations.

The economic news from Cuba is increasingly bad. Like the Russians and other Com-

Secretary of State Dean Rusk recently included Cuba in a list of what he termed "very large and dangerous" [illegible] fronting the free world nations.

Diplomats here from Latin America say there is an increasing realization in that area that communism not only is menacing governments in power, but the economic and social advancement of the hemisphere countries as well.

No longer, they feel, are Communists, either Cuban or local, considered merely a nuisance created by a few left-wingers with chronic complaints against the established order.

The hemisphere [illegible] say that the more reasonable conservative elements are powerful throughout Latin America and that forays of Communist agitators, saboteurs and propagandists are now being recognized as costly, not only to day-to-day business operations, but to basic political and economic progress of their countries.

The overthrow of Argentina's President Arturo Frondizi early in 1962, only a few weeks after Argentina sought to water down a denunciation of the Castro regime by other hemispheric nations is cited as an example of weariness with pro-Cuba policies.

Communist efforts at disturbing the peace and sabotage, such as have occurred in Venezuela, have come to be recognized as a force that might well get out of hand if not held in check.

The United States has stressed economic and diplomatic isolation as means of weakening the Communist dictatorship to the point where [illegible] would be able to overthrow it.

U.S. officials have given indications of a determination to tighten the economic screws on the Fidel Castro regime through friendly approaches to free nations to hamper, in every way possible, the Soviet-Cuba economic cooperation.

★ ★ ★

Washington still believes more could be done in forcing the Soviet Union to use its own ships in handling cargo into and out of Cuba, thus requiring [illegible] building by both.

Retail Trade at All-Time Record; Foreign Trade, 'So-So'

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK — Retail trade spurted to an all-time peak but foreign trade marked time in 1963. The 1964 outlook for both is good.

Retailers sold goods totaled at an estimated $246 billion this year against the previous record of $235 billion in 1962.

Tremendous demand for new cars was a major factor in the good showing.

Merchants felt the major trends in 1963 were a desire by customers for higher quality goods and for more service even if it meant paying more.

BIG INNOVATION

The big innovation by department stores was the renting of merchandise and service.

Among the discount stores, the strong ones consolidated their positions but poorly capitalized smaller ones encountered difficult times.

A survey by the National Retail Merchants Association indicated that merchants see the first half of 1964 heralding a banner year for sales and profits.

Sixty-six per cent of those surveyed expect a rise in sales in the first half of next year and 51 per cent feel profits will be ahead of the like period of 1963.

The problems ahead were listed as expense reduction, the need to revitalize downtown areas, too many stores, and federal interference in retail industry affairs.

* * *

At yearend, foreign traders were hopefully scanning the horizon for signs of a coming new era of worldwide trade expansion.

Global tariff talks, due to start in Geneva in May, were expected to be pivotal in establishing the future climate for commerce in the free world.

Most signs seem to portend the advent of lower tariffs and a flourishing world trade but the pressure of growing protectionism in some major markets could instead herald new barriers and a leveling off of trade.

Toy Plane Causes Odd Predicament

HOBBS, N.M. (AP)—When a toy airplane fluttered in flight and fell on the roof of a home here it started a chain of circumstances that saw the fire department called out and a woman taken to the hospital.

When Randy Brown's airplane fell on his home, his stepmother, Mrs. Bobbie Brown, went up on the roof for the toy. She stepped on a nail on the roof and her injury prevented her from climbing down unassisted.

★ ★ ★

The fire department was called and the crew brought her down on a ladder. Then she was taken to a hospital.

Hunters Do as Instructed

WINDSOR, N. Y. (AP) — A Windsor man who posted a sign on his barn saying "Please do not ask permission to hunt," returned from work in nearby Binghampton to find several hunters in his woods.

When he inquired whether they had read his prominently displayed sign, one replied:

"We did read it. We thought you just didn't want to be bothered."

An average of four billion asphalt shingles are used on houses in this country each year, roofing specialists report. One third of these are used in new home construction and the rest in reroofing.

A Bloomin' Weed Feeds Conversation

College Mascot Isn't Bothered by Nosy People

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) —A group of Texarkana citizens got a chance—one by one—recently to prove the old saw that one should not stick his nose where it does not belong.

The chances came when a group of University of Houston students parked an innocent looking, tarpaulin covered trailer in front of a restaurant.

Those who couldn't resist peeking beneath the tarpaulin found themselves face to face with a live cougar in a cage.

Assassination Tops News Stories of 1963

John F. Kennedy

By The Associated Press

"President Kennedy died at 1 p.m." The flash on the Associated Press wire told the incredible news.

The 35th President of the United States, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, had been assassinated while riding through Dallas, Tex., in a motorcade. He was 46 and had been President two years, 10 months and two days.

Editors of AP member newspapers and radio and TV stations agreed that the swift tragedy of Friday, Nov. 22, and its aftermath obviously was the No. 1 story of 1963.

★ ★ ★

Gov. John B. Connally Jr. of Texas, riding in the President's car, was shot and injured by the assassin.

PRONOUNCED DEAD

Kennedy was pronounced dead at Parkland Hospital.

At 2:30 p.m. Lyndon Baines Johnson was sworn in as President, on the presidential jet at Love Field, Dallas. The late president's body and his widow were aboard for the trip back to Washington.

Stunned Americans, striken as at a death in their own families, wept, filled the churches, read newspapers, marveled at the composure of Jacqueline Kennedy and watched TV as the flag-draped coffin solemnly was moved from the East Room of the White House to lie in state in the Capitol, from there to St. Matthew's Cathedral for Requiem Mass, finally for burial to Arlington National Cemetery.

★ ★ ★

Television watchers on Sunday also saw Lee Harvey Oswald, 24, accused killer of the president and of a policeman who had confronted Oswald, fatally shot by a Dallas nightclub owner, Jack Ruby.

MOURNING DAY

Americans, joined by citizens of many other countries, observed Monday, Nov. 25, as a day of mourning for JFK.

There was violence. Medgar Evers, Mississippi field secretary for the NAACP, was shot in the back and killed outside his home.

★ ★ ★

Four Negro girls died and 23 were injured when Birmingham's 16th Street Baptist Church was dynamited on a Sunday morning.

MORE VIOLENCE

Before the day was over, more violence erupted and two more persons were dead and six injured. Six white persons were shot and several white-operated stores burned in nights of disorder in Cambridge, Md.

And nonviolence. Negroes staged sit-ins, wade-ins and picket lines, North and South, to dramatize their demand for equal treatment.

★ ★ ★

And the schools. James Meredith was graduated from the University of Mississippi; Cleve McDowell became the first Negro in the Ole Miss law school, without federal marshals who had accompanied Meredith's arrival a year before.

TWICE RESISTED

Gov. George Wallace of Alabama twice resisted school integration, then gave in when President Kennedy nationalized the state National Guard.

The University of Alabama and elementary schools in four Alabama cities enrolled their first Negro students.

Parochial schools completed integration throughout Georgia, 800 Negro children in Prince Edward County, Va., without any schooling since 1959, began classes in four privately financed schools; 120 southern school districts announced desegregation this fall, compared with 46 in 1962.

★ ★ ★

No. 3 story of 1963 is a scandal which rocked Britain and nearly toppled the government.

DENIED RUMORS

War Minister John Profumo, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan by his side, denied before the House of Commons on March 22 all rumors that he had an improper relationship with 22-year-old Christine Keeler.

However, on June 5, Profumo resigned and admitted that he had lied. Investigation revealed that Christine also had been sharing her favors with a Soviet naval attache and suspected spy, Evgeny Ivanov.

In a storm of public disapproval, Macmillan's opposition and some members of his own Conservative Party accused him of negligence and insisted that he resign at once. Macmillan resisted these pressures.

★ ★ ★

But the biggest scandal in the party's 11 years in power was not over. Society osteopath Dr. Stephen Ward was tried in June on charges of living on the immoral earnings of Christine Keeler and Mandy Rice-Davies.

PILL OVERDOSE

Dr. Ward swallowed an overdose of drugs on the last day of the trial and died without learning he had been convicted.

Christine Keeler received a nine-month sentence in December for perjury in another court case involving another of her lovers.

The United States, with a big troop and money commitment in South Viet Nam, remained vitally interested in the progress of the war against the Communist Viet Cong.

DEMANDED FREEDOM

Diem declared martial law and attempted to break Buddhist opposition, a move attributed to his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu. Some Buddhist monks responded by publicly burning themselves to death.

Sharp-tonguer Mme. Nhu, considered by many the power behind the power behind the throne, was on a three-week speaking tour of the United States when the military coup took place and resulted in the deaths of the president and his brother.

OTHER CHOICES

The editors' other choices for top 10:

5. The atomic submarine Thresher, rated the world's fastest and deepest diving sub, disappeared April 10 after a steep test dive, with 129 men on board.

Search for the Thresher was abandoned Sept. 5, after the recovery of a single bit of copper tubing from the Thresher's hull in the Atlantic 220 miles east of Boston.

FOLLOW POLICIES

He announced he would follow the policies of his liberal predecessor and work for peace and keep open the pathways of friendly dealings with all Christian denominations.

On Sept. 29, Pope Paul opened the second session of the Ecumenical Council, convened and recessed in 1962 by Pope John.

7. After years of negotiation, a test-ban treaty was initialed July 25 by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union, pledging an end to nuclear testing in the atmosphere, outer space and under water.

All three countries hailed it as a bleak-through in easing Cold War tension.

OKAYED TREATY

The U. S. Senate approved the treaty Sept. 24, by an 80 to 19 vote.

8. The Supreme Court, ruling on cases from Maryland and Pennsylvania, on June 17 declared unconstitutional Bible reading and recital of the Lord's Prayer in public schools as part of required classroom exercises. Justice Potter Stewart was the lone dissenter.

9. David Fellin, 58, and Henry Throne, 28, trapped in a Hazleton, Pa., mine for 14 days, were rescued Aug. 27.

First contacted after they had been trapped six days and given up by many for dead, rescuers began drilling and finally pulled the two men to the surface in safety harnesses, through an 18-inch shaft more than 300 feet deep.

Rescuers were not able to locate a third miner, Louis Bova, who was separated from Fellin and Throne by fallen debris.

10. In a sharp exchange of letters last spring, the Soviet Union and Red China exposed deep policy disagreement and competition for leadership of world communism.

Mao Tse-tung called for violence and subversive penetration of non-Communist countries while Khrushchev favored peaceful coexistence and drew the line at nuclear war. U. S. analysts consider that a de facto split exists between Russia and Red China.

FAREWELL KISS—Millions watched via television as Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy kissed the casket of her assassinated husband, President John F. Kennedy. Daughter Caroline knelt beside her mother and said goodby to her beloved father.

Top News Makers

By the Associated Press

John Fitzgerald Kennedy has been chosen newsmaker of 1963.

Kennedy was selected for the fourth straight year by editors of AP newspapers and radio and TV stations.

Kennedy's dealings with the Soviets were relatively calm in '63.

★ ★ ★

In the spring, Kennedy and Khrushchev agreed on a direct communications "hot line."

CHARLES de GAULLE

REPORTED TO NATION

After the nuclear test ban was signed Kennedy reported to the nation, stressing the treaty's opportunities and overoptimism; in October he approved the sale of U.S. wheat to Russia; in November he called the arrest of Yale Prof. Frederick Barghoorn in Moscow "unwarranted and unjustified" and the Russians released Barghoorn.

At home, the Senate cut $800 million from the President's foreign aid bill and the administration's top priority tax cut and civil rights bills didn't get through Congress at all.

★ ★ ★

AT BERLIN WALL

In a 10-day European swing in June, he was greatly moved by the Berlin Wall, conferred with leaders in West Germany, Italy and England and visited his ancestral village in Ireland.

Then on Nov. 22, as the vigorous young President began looking toward the election campaign of '64, he was assassinated in Dallas, Tex.

Charles de Gaulle, who threw a wrench into Kennedy's "grand design" for a united Europe, was the editors' choice for newsmaker of the year in foreign affairs.

★ ★ ★

De Gaulle, who would prefer Europe united under French leadership, vetoed England's entry into the Common Market.

ATOMIC FORCE

He announced France would build its own atomic force and not join the British-American agreement to establish a multinational Polaris missile force.

He signed a treaty pledging French-West German cooperation with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and refused to sign the test-ban treaty worked out by the U.S., Britain and Russia.

Other winners in The Associated Press poll of its newspaper, radio and television members were: science, Linus Pauling; business, Keith Funston; labor, James Hoffa; religion, Pope John XXIII; sports, Sandy Koufax; entertainment, Elizabeth Taylor; literature, Robert Frost; woman newsmaker, Jacqueline Kennedy.

★ ★ ★

Linus Pauling, nuclear scientist and pacifist, this year became the only recipient of two full Nobel Prizes.

NOBEL PRIZE

Already winner of the 1954 Nobel Prize for chemistry, on Dec. 10, he accepted the 1962 Nobel Prize for peace.

Keith Funston, $125,000-a-year president of the New York Stock Exchange, endorsed the "principal purpose" of the Kennedy tax cut bill before the Senate Finance Committee; visited Russia with a group of businessmen and talked with Khrushchev about capitalism; told the Securities and Exchange Commission that the New York Stock Exchange would cooperate in SEC attempts to cure abuses in stock trading.

★ ★ ★

Hoffa's union won an important representation election victory over the AFL-CIO in April.

CONTINUES BLAST

Pope John XXIII, newsmaker in religion, in April dedicated a 15,000-word encyclical titled Peace on Earth to "all men of good will."

On May 28, the 81-year-old [illegible] spoke[illegible] he [illegible] the car when he [illegible] ...ages from a stomach tumor, was confined to his apartment. Near death and in pain for four days, Pope John prayed hour after hour, before dying June 3.

BASEBALL STAR

Southpaw Sanford (Sandy) Koufax won the first (striking out 15, a World Series record) and fourth games of the World Series as the Los Angeles Dodgers took four straight from the New York Yankees.

Prior to the series, Koufax won 25 National League games, was the league's earned run leader for the second straight year and by fanning 306 batters in 311 innings he broke his own strike-out record.

"Cleopatra" and "The V.I.P.s" starring Elizabeth Taylor, the highest paid performer in motion pictures, opened in 1963 and the actress signed for a third picture at her usual $1 million.

POPE JOHN XXIII

TV TOUR

In October she guided a TV tour, "Elizabeth Taylor's London."

In June Miss Taylor and Richard Burton announced they both would get divorces and marry; in September they flew to Mexico where he began a film.

American poet Robert Frost, winner of four Pulitzer Prizes for poetry, whose latest book was published on his 88th birthday last March, on Jan. 5 was awarded the Bollingen Prize in Poetry of the Yale University Library.

Jacqueline Kennedy, woman newsmaker, began the year by being named one of the 10 best dressed women in the world. She celebrated her 34th birthday in June and her 10th wedding anniversary in September.

A son, Patrick Bouvier Kennedy, born Aug. 7, lived less than two days.

Mrs. Kennedy took a 15-day vacation abroad with her sister and brother-in-law in October and returned to her role as White House hostess Nov. 20.

Constitution No. 1 State Story

The victory came nine months ago. It was voter-adoption of a new state constitution, a document Romney helped write and for which the newly chosen governor campaigned.

★ ★ ★

The defeat was that suffered last month by Republican Romney when the GOP-controlled legislature killed his tax and fiscal reform program, something else he sought to build citizen-pressure for.

Only seven points separated these stories, but they far outdistanced No. 3, "Impact of the Kennedy Assassination on Michigan."

'TOP TEN'

Here are the "Top Ten" chosen by editors and newscasters of Associated Press member newspapers and radio-television stations — the men nearest the news.

2.	Fiscal Reform Defeated	246
3.	Assassination Impact	188
4.	Smoked Fish Botulism Scare	148
5.	Romney's First Year	140
6.	Booming Auto Sales	137
7.	Racial Demonstrations	91
8.	Detroit's Olympic Bid	62
9.	Democratic Party Shake-up	61
10.	Lions' Karras Suspended	54

★ ★ ★

A No. 1 vote was worth 10 points No. 2, nine points, No. 3, eight, etc. At least 22 different stories received votes.

★ ★ ★

It was the second consecutive year in which Romney and the new constitution proved to be the top Michigan news. In 1962, Romney's election as governor, ending 14 years of Democratic rule in Lansing, was rated No. 1. Conclusion of the convention which wrote the new constitution ranked No. 2.

TAX DEATH

The legislature's killing of tax reform was ranked No. 6 in 1962. That killing was of Democratic Gov. John B. Swainson's program, a part of which the Senate battled over all night and then passed, only to reverse itself later.

Also a repeater from the big stories of 1962 was "Booming Auto Sales," but this apparently lost something in its two-year run. It was No. 6 this time; No. 4 a year ago.

There was no 1963 happening of the dramatic proportions of 1962's No. [illegible] — the [illegible] wire collapse of the Wallenda troupe's human pyramid in which two died at Detroit's Shrine Circus.

But 1963's No. 4 was one with far more personal interest, both direct and indirect. That was the botulism poison scare in which at least four Michigan persons died from eating tainted fish and which put the Great Lakes fishing fleet out of business for a time.

CANNED TUNA

The first two Michigan deaths were charged to canned tuna; the next two to Michigan-smoked whitefish. Then authorities reported five southern deaths had been traced to Michigan - packaged smoked chubs. Housewives quit buying fish.

★ ★ ★

Racial demonstrations moved on the Michigan scene in 1963. There were many, with Detroit's "Walk To Freedom," which drew 100,000 participants, topping all the rest. Combined, the demonstrations were ranked No. 7.

★ ★ ★

Two sports stories made the first 10 category this time, where none made it last time. They were Detroit's all-out but unsuccessful bid for the 1968 Olympic Games, No. 8, and the National Football League's betting - scandals that resulted in suspension of Detroit's star tackle, Alex Karras, No. 10.

DEM HASSLE

The ouster of John J. (Joe) Colins and the election of Zolton Ferency as Democratic State Central Committee chairman, accomplished with the help of delegates from the United Auto Workers Union, was ranked No. 9 among 1963 stories.

Former Gov. John B. Swainson quarterbacked the unseating of Collins, choice of the party's national committeeman, Congreeman - at - Large Neil Stabler, who had masterminded party strategy since the election of G. Mennen Williams to the first of his six successive terms in 1948.

★ ★ ★

Four - convict escape from Southern Michigan Prison and slaying of Mrs. Douglas Watkins, a Brooklyn housewife, which tied for No. 1 with 48 points each.

Debate on Sleeping Bear Dunes National Park; Michelle Moran's Kidnaping at Lansing; Dedication of Sault Ste. Marie's International Bridge; rising traffic fatalities; the Romney-Washington ruckus over Aid to Dependent Children of the Unemployed.

An elephant's Lansing rampage; attempted ouster of Dr. Eugene Elliot as president of Eastern Michigan University; Detroit Tigers fail again; Chrysler to build new Michigan stamping plant.

Leafs Snap Detroit String

Third Period Goal Deluge Sinks Wings

Smith, Martin Star for Losers; Toronto Gains Tie for 3rd

DETROIT (AP) — Goalies Johnny Bower and Terry Sawchuk must have felt like New Year's Eve was being celebrated at their own nets in the Toronto Maple Leafs-Detroit Red Wings hockey game.

Within three minutes and 46 seconds, the Leafs and Red Wings banged in six goals—three each—as Toronto won a wild 5-4 battle in moving into a second place tie with Montreal in the third period before 14,282 fans watching the Leafs put an end to Detroit's three-game unbeaten streak. It was Tuesday night's only NHL action.

★ ★ ★

Toronto was leading 2-1 when Floyd Smith, scoring his first of two goals for Detroit, started the fireworks at 8:33. Smith had scored only once before in 15 games.

In rapid succession then came goals by Dave Keon—his second of the game—and Dick Duff, Smith again, Frank Mahovlich and Pit Martin with his second. Martin's hit the net at 12:13.

Keon and defenseman Tim Horton led Toronto's attack. Horton set up both of Keon's goals and shot one himself. Mahovlich's counter was his 13th of the season.

Up to the time of the third period blasting, the game had been a duel between Sawchuk and Bower.

★ ★ ★

'M' Cracks Record in Routing U-D Five

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Powerful Michigan failed to become "first by the first" but the heralded Wolverine basketball team may make it by the first of February.

The Wolverines, who lost their opportunity to take over the No. 1 spot in the poll when they were upset by UCLA last Friday, smashed the University of Detroit, 117-87, last night.

Coach Dave Strack's celebrated 1-2 punch of Cazzie Russell and Bill Buntin teamed up for 65 points as the Wolverines turned the game into a rout late in the first half and coasted to the victory.

PAIR HITS 65

Russell, the smooth 6-5 sophomore guard who could start for most NBA teams right now, poured in 36 points and Buntin, the 6-7 junior center who also grabbed 21 rebounds, added 29 points.

The 117 point total before the roaring New Year's Eve sellout crowd of 7,100 fans broke a flock of records including the school scoring mark.

The most points ever scored in the past in one game by a Michigan team was 110 on Feb. 26, 1962 against Indiana in a 110-89 victory.

It was also the most points ever run up by a team at Yost fieldhouse and the most points ever scored by both teams at Yost. Just to make things complete, it was the most points ever scored against U-D.

Kentucky is now the nation's No. 1 rated team but the unbeaten Wildcats just sqqueezed by Duke, 81-79, last night — and Michigan clobbered Duke with Ease, 83-67, just 10 days ago.

Michigan, the odds-on-favorite to win its first Big Ten title since 1948, now has a 9-1 record this season. The Wolverines we 7-0 and No. 2 in the nation before losing to UCLA but now have come back to beat both Pittsburgh and U-D in convincing style.

The game against U-D was close for the first five minutes as the Wolverines didn't move ahead for good until Russell sank a free throw to make it 11-10 with 4:36 gone in the game.

Michigan then took control of the game and pulled away to a 43-34 margin late in the first

The Wolverines pumped in 10 straight points to make it 53-34 and it was then all over but the shouting at ancient, creaky Yost fieldhouse, which has never seen such excitement since it was built way back in 1922.

Sun Bowl Loser Doesn't Alibi After Illness

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Southern Methodist Coach Hayden Fry attributed little importance to an attack of stomach disorder among SMU players in their 21-14 loss to Oregon in the Sun Bowl Tuesday.

"We lost to a real fine team," Fry said.

Several SMU football players were stricken Saturday night and Tuesday morning by an illness that produced nausea, vomiting and diarrhea. All apparently recovered quickly. Team physicians would not say what caused the illness.

Fry used all his players in the game and said they seemed to get stronger as the game went on.

★ ★ ★

SMU substituted freely, sending in at least one player after each play, and in some cases a whole new team after a series of plays.

One physician attended the team on the field, and it was reported that no player received any medication.

Eastern Foes Helped Chargers' Title Bid

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The San Diego Chargers will be principals in next Sunday's American Football League championship game because they won the 1963 Western Division title.

But it seems unfortunate, from the San Diego viewpoint, that the Chargers won't be playing the team with the best record against Eastern Division competition. If they were, the Chargers couldn't possibly lose the 8-3 game.

They'd be playing against themselves.

Instead, they'll play the Boston Patriots, who won the Eastern Division championship in a playoff with the Buffalo Bills.

The Chargers, strangely, had only a .500 record in their own division. They beat Kansas City twice, but split two games with Denver and lost twice to Oakland.

Against Eastern Division teams, on the other hand, the Chargers won eight games and lost [illegible]. They won [illegible] from Boston, two [illegible] Buffalo, two from New York and two from Houston.

Sandlot 'Hall' Set to Honor Big Leaguers

WICHITA (AP)—Four major league managers are among the 25 initial nominees to a Sandlot Hall of Fame sponsored by the National Baseball Congress.

One player was chosen from each of the organization's national tournaments from 1935 through 1959. They will be honored at the opening of the 30th tournament in Wichita Aug. 14, with Stan Musial, former St. Louis Cardinal star, as master of ceremonies. Five more names will be added in 1966.

The four managers among the initial 25 are Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees, Fred Hutchinson of Cincinnati, Bobby Bragan of Milwaukee and John Pesky of Boston.

Bragan played in the 1936 tournament, Hutchinson in 1937, Pesky in 1938 and Houk in 1942.

Others include Satchel Paige, from 1935; Willard Ramsdell, who played for Chanute, Kan., in 1939 and went on to the Brooklyn Dodgers; Lou Kretlow, who played for Enid, Okla., in 1943; Rex Barney, who played for Ft. Riley, Kan., in 1944; Harvey Haddix, who starred with the St. Louis Cardinals after playing in the 1946 tournament; Dick Groat, from the 1950 tournament; and Ray Washburn, from the 1959 tournament.

Wildcats Rally in Second Half

Kentucky Sweetens Rating in Sugar Bowl Win

By The Associated Press

The Wildcats, down 10 points to Duke at halftime of the Sugar Bowl basketball tournament's championship game, staged a second half comeback and pulled out the title 81-79. Terry Mobley's set shot with seven seconds left produced the deciding points.

Duke, No. 9 in this week's Associated Press poll, rolled to a 47-37 halftime margin before Kentucky's Cotton Nash got hot. Nash, who led the Wildcats with 80 points, scored 20 after intermission.

FREEZE

With less than a minute to go and the score tied, Kentucky stole the ball and went into a freeze to set up one shot. Randy Embry dribbled most of the time away before feeding Mobley whose 10-footer hit the backboard and fell in.

★ ★ ★

Auburn took third place in the tournament 62-52 over Loyola of New Orleans in a game delayed 45 minutes when a power failure left the Loyola Field House without lights. But they stayed on for the Kentucky-Duke game.

Nash, who scored 58 points in two games, was named the tournament's outstanding player.

[illegible] won the Charlotte Invitational in a 102-68 romp over Princton. The Wildcats shot a phenomenal 62 per cent and ran up a 55-36 halftime lead winning their ninth straight. Texas took third place in the tournament, coming from behind to whip Penn 69-61.

The nation's longest winning streak remained intact as Vanderbilt dumped Virginia Military Institute 87-71. It was the 15th straight victory over two years for the No. 6 Commodores.

Loyola of Chicago, upset in the Quaker City Tournament, regained its scoring touch with a 105-92 victory over Indiana in the feature game of a Chicago Stadium doubleheader. Skip [illegible] 33 points and 21 rebounds helped Illinois to its second victory of the season over Notre Dame, 87-78, in the opener.

The Ramblers, No. 3 in the poll, were paced by 6-foot-7 Les Hunter, who scored 37 points before folding out midway in the second half and Ron Miller who hit 32. Dick VanArsdale had 36 for Indiana.

In other games, St. Louis nipped Ohio State 91-89 in double overtime and Georgia Tech stopped Navy 88-73. Sophomore Rick Rineberg scored two baskets with just over a minute remaining in the second overtime as the Billikens won their fifth straight and pushed their record to 7-3. Ohio State is 5-5. Georgia Tech controlled the boards in the second half to overtake Navy after the Mids led at halftime, 38-37.

Pontiac Press Photos

Defense Key Item in PCH-PNH Tilt

Defense will probably be the key Friday when the fast moving offenses of Pontiac Northern and Pontiac Central's basketball representatives clash.

Only once all season has either team put less than 70 points on the scoreboard; but both have their sights set on 50 Friday night at Pontiac Central.

That 50, of course, are the points that will be awarded the winner in the scrap for the All Sports Trophy. PNH has jumped into a 350-marker lead and the Chiefs must begin winning the 100 points-per-sport involved in the competition.

The Huskies will have a height advantage but the Central supporters expect their team's speed and exceptional jumping ability to offset this advantage.

An interesting and important duel shapes up in the backcourt. PNH boasts two of the finest offensive backliners in the county in Mike Burklow and Jerry Reese.

The Chiefs have one of the better ballhawking guards in Bill Morgan. His effectiveness against the PNH duo could be a turning point in the contest.

Whoever grabs the victory Friday night will undoubtedly need the better defensive effort. Both have high scoring attacks that have averaged better than 76 points a game.

PCH has won four of five games while tallying points at a 77 ppg clip. It was "held" to 64 in the only losing game.

At the same time, the 65 scored by Flint Central in the Chiefs' lone loss was the most they have allowed while giving up an average of 55 ppg.

★ ★ ★

Northern has surrendered points a 60 ppg pace in sweeping past four straight opponents. The Huskies, at the same time, were scoring an average of 83 per game.

TOP GAME

PNH's best effort of December was the 95-56 beating of Livonia Franklin. Central's top game was a 90-43 romp over Midland.

The Chiefs have only played at home twice and each time have scored in the 90s.

Last season the two intracity rivals met three times (once for the district playoff title) and PNH won twice on its home court.

Northern and Central have not played a common foe. The former opened the season at Flint Southwestern with a 12-point win.

A reserve contest at 6:30 p.m. will precede the varsity contest Friday.

Pontiac Press Photo

FIRST TIME — Fred Zittel of Pontiac Central will make his debut in the city series game against Northern Friday as a head coach. The Chiefs have compiled a 4-1 record.

Waterford League Sets Puck Tryout

There is still time for area youths who want to play ice hockey this winter to join teams in the Waterford Township Recreation Department program.

Three leagues covering boys 18-and-under have been organized with 15 teams. Final practice sessions are planned for Thursday night this week.

Seven teams are in the 18-and-under Senior League: the defending champion Mountain View Rangers, Lakeland Pharmacy, Union Lake Optimist, Wixom-Walled Lake, North Side Boys Club, Lotus Lake and Joe Duran's team.

★ ★ ★

In the Intermediate League (15-and-under) are four squads: Elizabeth Lake Estates, Mountain View Rangers, Drayton Merchants and Lotus Lake.

The four teams in the Junior League (12-and-under) include Detroit, Lotus Lake No. 1, Lotus Lake No. 2 and the Mountain View Rangers.

The leagues will play Thursday nights and Saturday mornings when the weather allows. There is no player fee but all must supply their own equipment.

Thursday night's practice schedule has four 45-minute sessions. At 6:30 o'clock, the two Lotus Lake junior entries will practice.

At 7:15 p.m., the Lotus Lake and Elizabeth Lake intermediate squads are slated for ice time; at 8 p.m. the Union Lake and Duran team seniors will practice; and at 8:45 p.m. the Wixom-Walled Lake and North Side sixes will be on the ice.

★ ★ ★

Prospects may contact team managers at the practice sessions or they should call the township recreation department as soon as possible. Bob Beedle is the supervisor of the leagues.

Last Practices for City Fives

Teams in the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department's men's basketball program will have their last chance for practice game action Thursday.

Five games are slated at two sites, Pontiac Central and Madison Junior High School, with the first tip off slated for 7 p.m.

At PCH the schedule will have Southwest Community Club playing the Bachelor's Club in the opener, followed by a Wilson All Stars-Beckers clash at 8 p. m. and the 300 Bowl will play Messiah Baptist at 9 p. m.

The Madison card has an opening tilt between West Bloomfield Heating and Town and Country, and an 8:30 p.m. clash involving White Lake Pharmacy and the Pontiac Police.

The league will split into three classes following the completion of the practice schedule and begin regular season competition next week.

All league managers are requested to meet at 6:30 p. m. Thursday at PCH to discuss the classifications of teams, scheduling and roster deadlines.

Ladies' Golf Tour Adds Atlas Valley

FLINT (AP) — The Ladies' Professional Golf Association will play in a 54-hole tournament at Flint's Atlas Valley Country Club next July 17-19, it was announced today.

The $10,000 event, to be known as the Yankee Ladies' Open Invitational, will be preceded by a $1,500 pro-amateur tourney July 16. Plans are under way for a special hole-in-one event to be conducted after one of the regular rounds.

The announcement of the tourney was made by Joseph Megdell, president of Yankee Stores, and Leonard Wirtz, LPGA tournament director.

Kegler Makes Jackpot Spare

Ray M. Westlake, a 146 average bowler, became the first contestant Sunday to make the jackpot spare in 300 Bowl's Make That Spare contest.

Westlake won a $400 sofa, $35 in cash and gift certificates totaling $125 for converting the 2-4-5-8, the 5-7 and then the 6-7-8-10 spares.

He is the third sparemaster crowned in the weekly contest at "300."

Howe's Lanes had a 240-256—695 performance by Hal DeLongchamp Monday night in the Dixie All-Star League. Ivan Craycraft bowled a 278 game.

★ ★ ★

There was a "century club" performance by Ruth Reene at Auburn Lanes last Thursday. A 120-average kegler in the Auburn Trios League, she rolled her first 200 game, a 221, that helped the Chevelles team capture four points.

Also Thursday at Lakewood Lanes, the Ivy League credited Vance Chapman with 234—619 totals, Bob Hoekey with 215-211—617 scores and Earl Weber with 207-236—600 efforts.

Friday's Huron Bowl Ladies' Matinee featured the 230—536 scoring of Eva Johnston. Marcia Wittler hit 205—524 and Ruby Palmer 514. Dorris & Son Realtors lead by one point.

Unwanted Night for Raccoons Set for Jan. 11

Raccoons will have their night Jan. 11, but its the kind of occasion ringtails try to avoid during the fall and early winter.

The Pioneer Coon Hunters Club will hold its annual meeting and banquet that night at the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club. Raccoon will be the subject of conversation and also will be the main course for the banquet which will start at 7 o'clock.

Top Grid Feats of '63

Jolly Roger Flies High

NEW YORK (AP) — There were Larry Rakestraw's 26 completions for a record 405 yards for Georgia in a game against Miami.

There were the seven touchdown tosses by Northern Illinois' George Bork against Whitewater, Wis. State.

There were the three touchdown passes caught by Oregon State end Verne Burke against Southern California.

And there was the game in which Billy Lothridge kicked three field goals, two extra points, threw two touchdown passes and averaged 40 yards on six punts against Duke.

But the season's most spectacular one game-performance on the football field according to associates of the nation's sports writers and sportscasters, belonged to Jolly Roger Staubach, Navy's brilliant and the AP's All-America quarterback.

PROVIDED THRILLS

The experts were not unanimous on which of Staubach's performances was the most spectacular but they agreed that the scholarly-looking Heisman and Maxwell Trophy winner provided thrills and heroics in virtually all of his performances on the gridiron.

"I nominate the game in which Staubach completed 14 of 16 passes for 237 yards against Michigan, passing for two touchdowns and scoring another," wrote one expert.

★ ★ ★

"How [illegible] Roger's [illegible] Nov. 2 Oct. 26. pletions in 17 attempts for 208 yards against William and Mary when he also ran 91 yards and scored a touchdown?" offered another.

★ ★ ★

"Staubach was at his jolliest against Duke, running 12 times for 72 yards, completing 14 passes for 122 and scoring twice," said another.

★ ★ ★

In all, 15 of the 63 voters selected Staubach's performances as the most spectacular. Eight picked Rakestraw's brilliant effort against Miami Oct. 18. Six thought Bork's multiple touchdown feat was the greatest. Lothridge received four votes for his one-man exploit, as did Sherman Lewis for his spectacular play for Michigan State

Bass Still Legal on Pontiac Lake

Stays Closed to Spearing; Pike Caught

There was good news and bad—depending on how the individual fisherman looks at it—concerning Pontiac Lake.

The Conservation Department reports that the lake will continue to carry its experimental tag until April 23. Earlier reports indicated the designation would be dropped today.

Black bass will remain legal on Pontiac Lake until April 23. Whether the season will close at that time until the June 1 opener on other lakes is still not clear.

Because the lake will continue on the experimental list until at least spring, no spearing will be allowed. The lake contains a good population of large pike and spearing specialist have been itching for a crack at it.

Black bass season closed on all other lakes in the county yesterday. Winter spearing for pike opened today.

Cold weather has kept anglers who do not have shanties away from the lakes.

The hardy who have been out report fair success.

He uses 5-inch shiners and has lost one big calico and one big perch on his tip ups in the last week. His large pike measured 30 inches.

Big Lake has been producing medium-sized perch and fair catches of calicoes. The same holds true for Kent Lake where bluegills are starting to move.

★ ★ ★

Oakland County lakes open to ice fishing for rainbows has been cut in half this winter by the Conservation Department. Those still open:

Square, Stoney, Deer, Hartwig, Alderman, Oxbow, Orchard, Cedar Island, Union, Cemetery, Crotched, Sugden, Graham, Elizabeth and Maceday.

Duperow and Davison lakes are open in Lapeer County and Chemung and Lake Appleton in Livingston County.

The rainbow season on these lakes closes Feb. 29.

FILM SAFARI — Denny Haver, a national pistol champion and Canadian guide, smiles over a lynx dropped with his scope-equipped 44 magnum handgun. He made the kill while filming Ontario Safari for Wally Taber Associates. Haver will show this film and another, Canoe Country, at Walled Lake High School Jan. 11, at 8 p.m. and at Pontiac Northern High Jan. 12, at 2:30 p.m. Tickets are available from members of the Multi-Lakes Conservation Association.

Grosbeaks End Year's Absence From Area

★ ★ ★

Sunflower seeds are the favorite food of this winter cousin of the summer rose-breasted grosbeak, according to James Card, feed chairman of the Pontiac Audubon Club.

Other unusual birds reported wintering in the area and attending feeding stations regularly are the flicker and the golden-winged woodpecker at the Arthur Dodge feeder on Lake Angelus. A Yellow-bellied Sapsucker, another of the woodpecker tribe, has been at the McGeen feeder on Lake Angelus Road.

★ ★ ★

The Gary Wilsons of Commerce Road, Union Lake, report a Towhee at their station. Reports of similar unusual birds at local area feeding stations are welcomed by Pontiac Audubon members so they may be added to the Christmas count.

Deer-Car Mishaps Cost $400,000 During 1963

LANSING (UPI) — The spiraling increase in car-deer accidents in Southern Michigan will have to get much worse before the public will be ready to take action, is the opinion of a conservation official.

The 52,000 deer herd in the southern portion of the state has created a headache and a hazard.

★ ★ ★

The headache is about $300,000 worth of damage to agricultural and horticultural crops in southern counties.

The hazard is 1,643 known car-deer accidents, which insurance companies estimate cost some $400,000 last year.

"We are not optimistic that we are going to solve the problem until it gets much more serious," said conservation biologist David Jenkins.

"Even though we should start to control the herd now, we probably won't get action. We can put on special controlling seasons and will for certain hot-spots this year. But most of the deer in Southern Michigan live on private land," Jenkins said.

"This means it is a self-controlling thing. There will be more interest in more deer shot as the deer create a greater problem."

Part of the problem is the "tremendous reproductive rate of the herd," Jenkins said.

The herd is growing about 14 percent a year, according to Jenkins, over and above the number of animals killed through hunting in the bucks only season and in accidents.

★ ★ ★

However, even though the conservation officials plan to create anterless deer seasons in various parts of the southern trouble area, they can take no action in regard to the number of deer accidents.

"We do not have the authority to act on auto damage," Jenkins said, "and if we set up seasons they will be based on crop damage."

Junior Editors Quiz on ICE CREAM

QUESTION: Who invented ice cream?

ANSWER: Ice was a great luxury for the ancient peoples, especially for those who lived in warm climates. They could not make ice; but they could and did bring blocks of ice down from mountains.

It is known that the Romans made water ices and that Marco Polo, coming home from his famous trip to the far east, is supposed to have brought a receipe for adding milk to water ices, making a kind of ice cream.

But it was the Italians who really started ice cream on its way. For a long time they had used ice brought down from the mountains; until, about 1550, someone discovered that if salt was added to ice it would become colder, and that milk and flavoring could be frozen by it.

At first, this delicious dish was reserved by Europeans chefs for the nobility, but the secret soon leaked out.

In America, ice cream was known in the early 1700's but its use was rare until Dolly Madison served it in the White House in 1809.

State Employes Set for Freeway Watch

LANSING (AP) — In lieu of a highway department patrol program which had been planned to start at midnight, state employes will be asked to help watch for stranded motorists on Michigan's freeways.

That was the outcome of yesterday's meeting between Gov. George Romney, Highway Commissioner John Mackie, and State Police Commissioner Joseph Childs.

Mackie originally had intended his department to start the patrols on 170 miles of I-96, but Romney objected this would be an expensive duplication of work the state police could do.

Monday, Mackie was told by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley there was serious doubt such a program could be operated by the Highway Department, or with highway funds, and Mackie abandoned his idea.

NEED FOR AID

But he told Romney today there is a need for assistance to freeway motorists whose cars are disabled by mechanical trouble, flat tires, or running out of gas.

Childs presented a plan, calling for a supplemental legislative appropriation, for building the state police strength from its present 1,152 men to 1,352 by the end of next year.

★ ★ ★

Romney suggested as an "interim solution" that all state employes to be asked to notify state police of cars which appear stranded on freeways. This would be done during the regular travels, on and off duty, of the employes.

Childs cautioned that employe should not be told to stop for such cases because "this can be a little tricky on the freeways."

SUPPLEMENTAL FUND

"What I had in mind," Mackie said, "was a supplemental appropriation to permit the state police to start the service now. Is there any possibility of authorizing the overtime for state police for help this winter?"

Childs said he had no figures on what this would cost the state but said it would be a "sizable sum."

★ ★ ★

'Love With a Proper Stranger'

Intense Humanity in New Film

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD—New movie—"How they build those things up in the books and in the movies," says Natalie Wood in "Love With a Proper Stranger." All I felt was scared and disgusted with myself."

THOMAS

She plays a New York shopgirl who finds herself pregnant after a thoughtless vacation dalliance. In the opening scene she confronts a directionless young musician Steve McQueen with the news that he is going to be a father. He doesn't remember her.

★ ★ ★

This is the basis for one of the best comedy - dramas in a long season, a second success for the young makers of "To Kill a Mockingbird." Having helped Gregory Peck to an Oscar, producer Alan J. Pakula and director Robert Mulligan may well do the same for Natalie Wood.

There is an intense humanity about "Love With a Proper Stranger," but it should not be mistaken for a problem picture. There is a bountiful supply of genuine humor and, in reverse sort of way, romance.

RESPOND WELL

Pakula and Mulligan were meticulous in their casting, and all the performers respond beautifully to Mulligan's knack for character definition. The two leads are well-nigh perfect.

Natalie Wood's large and expressive eyes portray everything that is required of the role of Angie—bewilderment, hurt, defiance, terror. All the notes are there and none is false.

★ ★ ★

Steve McQueen has a difficult characterization of the musician whose irresponsibility should not be mistaken for indifference. He captures all the quirks with an ad lib quality that makes him completely believable.

The rest of the cast also shines, especially Edie Adams as a hospitable stripper, Herschel Bernardi as Angie's indignant brother, and Tom Besley as a bumbling suitor.

Body Found in Tank at Jackson Prison

JACKSON (AP) — The body of a man tentatively identified as a Southern Michigan Prison inmate who was reported missing six days ago was found yesterday in a settling tank of the prison's disposal system.

The body was believed that of John Lesler, 28, who was serving a three to four-year sentence from Ingham County for larceny from a building.

An autopsy was scheduled. Prison authorities declined to comment on the possibility of foul play.

Time to Establish Goals

Junior High School---Years of Decision

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.

Junior high years are the years of decision. And unless some planning takes place during the seventh or eighth grades, the ninth grade comes as a shock!

At this point, whether a student goes to college may depend on the kind of courses he chooses.

In Europe, a student's educational future is mapped out by the state or the school authorities. In the United States, all paths are left open to those who can qualify.

Junior high pupils who choose goals and work out plans for their future in cooperation with their parents are happier and more successful than those who drift. Drifting leads to lack of responsibility, poor mental health and lower grades.

LOSES GUIDANCE

At the start of junior high, a student loses the guidance of teachers who have had him in charge throughout the day. He now meets a new teacher each class period.

These new teachers are primarily concerned with subject matter. Over-all organization of the day's work is in the hands of the student for the first time. Unfortunately, these changes come suddenly.

For pupils who are, at the most, two months older than when they left the close supervision of the sixth-grade teacher. Now they are expected to be quite mature and make important decisions on their own.

DR. NASON

There is still another hazard. At this age they are often too influenced by what the gang thinks. Then, too, they see only the immediate situation. These things are normal at this age.

Face with all these new responsibilities of planning for the present and future, the student needs the help of his parents. Here are some things parents should keep in mind:

Homework becomes more important. An interested parent can urge students to plan their homework and insist that the student take this responsibility seriously.

A review of a student's work and/or a conference with the teacher may bring to light deficiencies in learning skills and know-how.

If the student has gotten by with inefficient skills up to this point it would seem futile for parents to relax and assume that the school will now solve the problem without their help.

★ ★ ★

Schools cannot give the individual program guidance unassisted. Junior high children are not ready to make their own decisions as to selection of courses nor the allotment of study time.

Parents, students and teachers can solve the problem working cooperatively.

Opening lead — ♠ 6 (by East out of turn).

By OSWALD JACOBY

One of my most unusual mistakes of 1963 was when I called the wrong penalty. I was South, and if you want to see my problem just look at the South hand.

JACOBY

I opened one no-trump and was promptly raised to three. Everyone passed and East led the six of spades out of turn.

The game was duplicate and I could accept the lead, whereupon dummy would go right down on the table; I could demand a lead of a spade or forbid a lead of a spade by West or I could simply treat that six of spades as a penalty card.

None of these choices was particularly appealing, but I finally decided that I would accept that spade lead. Perhaps my partner would have something in the suit. The roof did not fall on me, but I surely had made the worst possible choice.

Dummy showed up with the queen of spades, but unfortunately it was a singleton. West played his ace and returned the suit and spades were established against me.

Of course, I did have 10 top tricks and proceeded to run them off, but had I barred the spade lead I would surely have made at least one trick more than I did gather and in duplicate those extra tricks are right important.

While this article is on mistakes I want to point out that my partner's raise to three no-trump was the correct bid with his hand. We were playing duplicate and there was no reason for him to suggest a diamond game.

OUT OUR WAY

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR
For Thursday

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Be responsible for own statements, actions. And make same demands of others. This is day when cards must be placed on table — face up! Be practical, frank and SPECIFIC.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Accept challenges. Be prepared to engage in research work, absorb knowledge. Later, opportunity for SELF-EXPRESSION is enhanced — so is chance to express feelings to one who "counts."

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Stress maturity. Don't be quick to take offense. Realize others may be restless, sensitive — apt to lash out for no reason. Be patient, thorough — and SYMPATHETIC.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Make plans for travel carefully. Avoid miscalculations — stress safety. Finish projects . . . tie up loose ends. Learn by teaching. Highlight sincere approach. COOPERATIVE attitude.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Realize there are opportunities on near horizon. Includes those of a ROMANTIC nature. Also, strive for self-expression. Be dramatic, but factual. Take steps toward tightening budget.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Cycle high. Avoid unnecessary worry. Look to future instead of past. Long-range plans due to pay off. Consult marital or business partner before taking action. Highlight optimism.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Key is willingness to EXPERIMENT. Concentrate on expanding circle of contacts. Check opportunities for enhancing professional standing. Fine evening for social activity.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Be aware of prestige, professional opportunities. Build solid base by checking facts, figures. Then STATE YOUR CASE. Higher-ups will listen—and be impressed!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Favorable Moon aspect corresponds to day of travel, communication, opportunity to be HEARD. Investigate various possibilities. Don't stand still!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Favorable news due regarding partners, money, budget. You can begin to "spread your wings." Family member offers encouragement. Respond with AFFECTION.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Slow down! Survey facts, figures. Avoid self-deception. Get true picture. Be analytical. Say NO to proposal which might call for "shady" maneuvers.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Key is responsibility. Say YES to challenge. New Year promises change, variety, travel, opportunity for PERSONAL FULFILLMENT. Be ready, capable and willing.

★ ★ ★

IF THURSDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are practical, but possess many artistic qualities. Deep appreciation of music and literature indicated.

SPECIAL: . . . high for LEO, VIRGO, LIBRA. Special word to PISCES: Be aware of impression made on outsiders. Watch personal appearance.

Medical Advances Hailed by Doctors

By L. GARY THORNE

In reviewing 1963 from a medical standpoint, Oakland County doctors found it marked by significant advances on both a national and local level.

Solid advances in the ability to provide spare parts for the human body through organ transplantation was hailed by Pontiac surgeon Dr. Carl Birkelo "as a most significant event in the long list of medical achievements."

Dr. Birkelo, a spokesman for the county medical society, explained that kidney transplants between identical twins have been possible for the past ten years.

However, he said that transplants between persons genetically different even though related were a gamble against staggering odds until now.

And why has this failed in the past?

STRUCTURAL DIFFERENCE

The surgeon said that since humans are structurally different, our organs are not interchangeable.

When an organ from one body is transplanted to a second body, the second body reacts to the new organ like it would to germs, he explained.

Dr. Birkelo said in the past X rays were used to attempt to kill off the defensive mechanisms. The difficulty here was that X rays were not selective.

LOST ABILITY

New drugs have been developed to take the place of X rays but which do not destroy the antibodies the body normally needs to fight disease, he added.

Dr. Birkelo said the odds on a successful kidney transplantation have risen to 50 per cent. It also opens up new horizons.

★ ★ ★

The surgeon said that liver and lung transplants have been unsuccessful, but the work is being continued with every hope of success.

OTHER AREAS

In other areas of medical progress in 1963, Dr. Murray B. Levin, 35 S. Johnson, has high hopes for a new substance — interferon — to prevent viral infections.

Dr. Levin said evidence is accumulating that viruses and cancer may have a connection. If certain cancers do have a virus cause, anti-cancer vaccines may be developed through interferon.

CANCER RESEARCH

What about cancer research during 1963?

Dr. Jack Kevorkian, Pontiac pathologist, said two new substances, promine and retine, which appear to be hormones produced by the thymus gland, appear to control the growth of tumors.

Promine stimulates growth, while retine inhibits it. The growth of tumors in animals, Dr. Kevorkian said, has been controlled by administering these chemicals.

He said the new substances have not yet been given to humans.

Medical news in 1963 recorded local hospital expansion and controversy between medical doctors (MD) and doctors of osteopathy (DO).

GROUND BREAKING

St. Joseph Mercy Hospital broke ground for a new five-story addition, which will increase the hospital's bed capacity to 331 beds.

The project, to be completed in 20 months, is expected to cost $3.5 million.

In other news, Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital dedicated its new facilities with a one-day open house in May, unveiling a new addition that hiked the hospital to 406 beds.

SUCCESSOR

Dr. Martin succeeded the late Dr. Walter H. Obenauf.

The Oakland County Medical Society approved a resolution for a combined staff at the proposed Rochester Unit of Crittenton Community Hospital.

However, area osteopaths, backed by the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, refused the offer of a joint staff of MD's and DO's.

★ ★ ★

The osteopaths cited "the numerous restrictions and the lack of official presentation of the plan . . . to the osteopathic profession" for the combined staff proposal.

LBJ Pledges Aid to Viets

U. S. to Stand Beside Red Battling Nation

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — President Johnson assured South Viet Nam today the United States will stand beside the embattled Asian nation as long as U.S. men and arms are needed in the struggle against Communist guerrillas.

Johnson also said the United States will oppose any effort to neutralize Viet Nam, a solution France's President Charles de Gaulle appears to favor.

In a New Year's message to Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, chief of the military government, Johnson said:

"The U. S. government shares the view of your government that 'neutralization' of South Viet Nam is unacceptable. As long as the Communist regime in North Viet Nam persists on its aggressive policy, neutralization of South Viet Nam would only be another name for a Commmunist takeover."

TOLD OF SITUATION

Johnson said he had been apprised by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge about "the serious situation" in South Viet Nam's war against the Viet Cong guerrillas.

"The United States will continue to furnish you and your people with the fullest measure of support in this bitter fight," Johnson said.

★ ★ ★

"We shall maintain in Viet Nam American personnel and materiel as needed to assist you in achieving victory."

Johnson predicted South Viet Nam would become increasingly capable of driving the foe from the field, allowing U. S. personnel to be "progressively withdrawn."

PLANNED OPERATIONS

Johnson said he was pleased to learn from McNamara, who recently visited South Viet Nam, of vigorous operations—planned against the Communists. He also praised Minh for trying to improve the standard of living of the people.

"So I pledge the energetic support of my country to your government and people," Johnson concluded.

Kites First to Power Horseless Carriage

★ ★ ★

By steering the lower kite with two cords, he navigated without any other power.

Treated for Injuries After Road Mishap

Francis Plunkett, 18, of Detroit received emergency treatment at Pontiac General Hospital for injuries suffered when the car he was driving went off the road in Highland Township at 4:23 a.m. today.

Plunkett was driving a 1961 Ford reported taken without permission earlier at Alpine Inn, according to sheriff's deputies.

Deputies said the car went out of control while rounding a curve on M59, about four miles west of the Alpine Inn.

Prepares for Birthday Celebration

Nevada Primping 'n' Prepping for Centennial Year

She's been primping for two years now to provide a big birthday party for Nevada residents and to entice as many non-Nevadans as possible to join in the fun.

And if the out-of-state folk decide to stay for a few days, drop a few coins in the slot machines and spend some money for souvenirs, so much the better.

The spree starts Jan. 1 and runs all year but has a focal point in Admission Day activities in Carson City, the capital, Oct. 31.

BIG SPENDERS

Gov. Grant Sawyer calls it "an opportunity for us to let the nation and the world know that Nevada is dedicating itself to a new century of progress with the same enthusiasm and fervor exhibited by our forefathers one hundred years ago."

SHOWMAN

The man chosen to see the state takes advantage of every practical promotion opportunity is Clyde Anderson, whose showman's background runs from the circus to theater and television production.

"We're a glorified tourist bureau in a way," Anderson says from behind a desk cluttered with papers and a variety of gadgets bearing the centennial seal.

The commission has a budget of $250,000 and figures to augment that with another $80,000, having sold rights to the seal for commercial uses.

The commission couldn't hope to sponsor the programs it wants, even with $2 million, Anderson says.

Anderson and the commission encourage communities with established events such as fairs and rodeos to package them in a centennial theme.

The Washoe County committee decided to revive the national air races, discontinued after the 1952 edition in Cleveland, partly because of safety reasons.

COSTUME BALLS

Visitors will be able to watch the camel races in Virginia City and burro races in Nye County — both with centennial twists.

Poll Shows Swainson Is Favorite

DETROIT (AP) — A poll ascribed to a Democratic source was reported today to have shown former Democratic Gov. John B. Swainson favored for the party's nomination for governor.

The poll, reportedly taken prior to Swainson's decision last Saturday not to run, also was said to have given him an edge over Republican Gov. George Romney in a theoretical contest for governor.

★ ★ ★

Swainson was not available immmediately for comment.

TAX DEFEAT

A Detroit newspaper reported the poll, which was said to have been conducted on a statewide basis over a two-week period following the failure of Romney's legislative tax reform program.

According to the poll, Swainson was favored for the Democratic nomination over Rep. Neil Staebler by 59.5 per cent to 40.3 per cent.

★ ★ ★

He was favored by 65.4 per cent to 33.1 per cent over State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie and by 74 per cent to 24.5 per cent over Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh.

He was favored over Romney by 50.1 per cent to 49.5 per cent.

Public Schools End Holidays on Thursday

Students of Emmanuel Christian, St. Trinity Lutheran, and Seventh-Day Adventist schools will also report tomorrow.

Negotiating in NY

Extend Transit Strike Time

NEW YORK (AP) — The Transport Workers Union extended its 5 a.m. deadline for a strike against New York City's subways and buses twice today —to 7 a.m. and then to 9 a.m.

In announcing the first 2-hour extension, 35 minutes before the original deadline, a union spokesman said: "Serious negotiations are going on."

Six minutes before the 7 a.m. deadline the spokesman announced another extension and told newsmen only: "No other questions."

Michael J. Quill, international president of the AFL-CIO union, said Tuesday night that unless a contract was reached by 5 a.m. the union would defy a court order and strike.

REACHED IN PAST

Twice in the past, settlements were reached at the last minute on New Year's Eve or shortly after. The strike threat, part of Quill's bargaining tactics, never has been carried out in the union's 26 years of negotiating with the Transit Authority.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner took a suite at the hotel where negotiators met throughout New Year's Eve and morning. He kept in touch with both sides.

State Supreme Court Justice Samuel H. Hofstadter issued the order against the union, saying "the catastrophic consequences of a strike" warranted the court's intervention.

Quill said the union would strike, "injunction or no injunction," even if its officers went to jail.

BASED ON ORDER

The judge based his order on the state's Condon-Wadlin law, which prohibits strikes by public employes and provides penalties up to dismissal. It already has been invoked.

Negotiations had been deadlocked for more than two months. It was reported that the Transit Authority made its first offer shortly before the 5 a.m. deadline.

The union, which represents 35,000 employes, sought a 32-hour, four-day week and a 15 per cent increase in wages. Present pay averages $2.83 an hour for a 40-hour, 5-day week.

5 Killed, 16 Injured in Fireworks Blast

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Five persons were killed and 16 were injured last night when exploding fireworks and fire leveled a two-story supermarket in north Charleston.

Charleston County police said the fireworks were stored in a back room of Livingston's Supermarket, a cement block and frame building used as a distribution point for fireworks during the holiday period.

It was not known how much of the explosive material was stored in the building, nor had authorities pinpointed the cause of the explosion. A tractor-trailer loaded with more explosives was moved away from the rear of the building after the first blast shook the supermarket.

Wells residents are thinking of sprucing up their buildings with false fronts and Eureka citizens are putting life into the old opera house.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Milo Shagena of Clarkston, Mrs. Roy Budrow of Clearwater, Fla. and Mrs. Irene Davis of Lansing; five sons, James E., Birdsey and Lawrence, all of Pontiac, Worde of Lake Orion and Calvin of Auburn Heights.

Also surviving are 26 grandchildren, 43 great-grandchildren, three great-great-grandchildren and a brother.

WILBURN McNEW

Service for Wilburn McNew, 46, 1113 LaSalle, Waterford Township, will be Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at First Assembly of God Church. Burial will be in Perry Mount Park Cemetery.

Mr. McNew, a member of the First Assembly of God, died yesterday of a heart ailment. He worked for Baldwin Rubber Co.

MRS. PERCY SCOVILLE

Service for Mrs. Percy (Ruth) Scoville, 65, of 611 E. Madison will be from the Greene & Harrel Funeral Home, Bloomington, Ind. Her body will be taken there from the Voorhees-Siple Funeral Home after 9 p.m. today.

Mrs. Scoville died ... after a long illness.

Card of Thanks 1

THE FAMILY OF ELMER HOLMquist wishes to express sincere appreciation to all friends and neighbors who helped and comforted us in our time of bereavement. We shall always feel grateful to the Rev. V. L. Martin and the Rev. John Toroni for the comfort they gave to the family. The family would also like to thank the staff of One West, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, and the Voorhees Siple Funeral Home.

'63 News in Review

By United Press International

YEARS OF CRISIS, 7:30 p. m. (2) Past year's major news events and their probable effect on '64 are reviewed by team of CBS newsmen.

VIRGINIAN, 7:30 p.m. (4) Ed Begley stars as newcomer to Medicine Bow who plans to force ranchers to sell out.

BEN CASEY, 9:00 p. m. (7) Dana Andrews stars as doctor, at hospital for refresher course in neurosurgery, who is tormented by self-doubt.

ELEVENTH HOUR, 10:00 p. m. (4) Piper Laurie stars as young woman found living in world of fantasy, squalor after her overprotective mother dies.

NOT AMUSED — Everyone seems to be enjoying life except Cary Grant and Audrey Hepburn in this scene from "Charade," color comedy to run at the Miracle Mile Drive-In through Jan. 14. The film also stars Walter Matthau and James Coburn and features a score by Henry Mancini.

Roof-Thatching to Hit Top

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — This is the season for what Undersecretary of Agriculture Charles S. Murphy once described as "turbulence in the crystal ball."

WEST

Pundits, taxi drivers, television announcers and others equipped with occult powers have been telling us what we can expect in the year ahead.

At the same time, pundits, taxi drivers, television announcers and others equipped with bifocal hindsight have been explaining what happened in the year just past.

Among them, they have pretty well preempted the field, but I refuse to be left out. And so, as my contribution to the year-end wave of forecasting and reviewing, I predict that roof-thatching will make a comeback in 1964.

This ancient craft already is on the upswing in England. A thatched roof, which may cost as much as $1,120, has become a sort of status symbol in the mother country.

★ ★ ★

According to the National Geographic Society, English thatchers are getting more business than they can handle. There is even a shortage of thatch.

QUESTION OF TIME

It is only a question of time before thatching becomes fashionable in this country. And when it does, it will go a long way toward solving our economic problems.

There is, for example, the pressing matter of finding employment for workers who lose their jobs because of automation. Thatching could be the answer.

It takes a skilled thatcher upwards of two months to thatch an average-sized cottage in England. He uses a mallet, knife, shears and something called a leggett which is used to beat the thatch into place.

★ ★ ★

At that rate, a thatcher would spend a year on a ranch style home in the U.S. suburbs. At least until someone invented an electronic leggett.

GROW THATCH

And what of farmers sorely beset by surplus production of corn, cotton and other crops? Let them grow thatch.

It takes some four million reeds in five-foot lengths to cover a cottage roof. Think what would be needed for a thatched-roof split level!

It is true that America is a backward nation as far as the art of thatching is concerned, but that handicap can be overcome.

★ ★ ★

Possibly some of the underdeveloped countries to which we have been sending peace corpsmen will, in return, send volunteers over here to help us learn thatching.

New and Old Included in 'Best' Picks of 1963

BY EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — As we head into 1964, the World's Fair and the presidential elections, it's time once again to select the Broadway and Hollywood Bests for the past year.

We're probably overlooked a few—we usually do—but maybe you agree with those we've chosen.

WILSON

Biggest money-movie success: Darryl Zanuck's "The ongest Day." . . . Biggest Break: Jackie Gleason's wrist. . . . Most publicized foreign entanglement: Liz and Dickie in Mexico. . . . Best Misspelled Singer: Barbra Streisand. . . . Best "new" actor: John Huston in "The Cardinal." . . . Best movie under three hours: Were there any?

Best new public figures: Jane Fonda, Tish Sterling (daughter of Ann Sothern and Robert Sterling). . . . Most biting film performance: The asp in "Cleopatra." . . . Movie comeback of the year—almost: Grace Kelley. . . . Actor of the Year: Albert Finney.

Hottest new comic: Woody Allen. . . . Hottest new comedienne: Kay Stevens. . . . Kookiest characters: Elaine Stritch, Laurence Harvey. . . . New singing greats: Robert Goulet, Jerry Vale. . . . New male singers: Jack Jones, Frank Sinatra Jr., Joe Valachi. . . . Most popular movie title in the Kremlin: "How the West Was Won."

Biggest afterthought in a movie ad: Rex Harrison's picture in the "Cleopatra" ad. . . . Sex Symbols: Claudia Cardinale, Rommy Schneider, Carol Lynley, Carroll Baker, Elke Sommer. . . . Movie newcomer: Joey Heatherton. . . . New master of ceremonies: Pat Buttram. . . . Most stared-at girl in town: Mona Lisa.

Bust-dressed gal: Singer Anna English. . . . Biggest showstopper: Hefty Tessie O'Shea in "The Girl Who Came to Supper." . . . Fastest-spreading sport in the U.S.: Jackie Gleason. . . . Sports lover of the year: Bo Belinsky. . . . Newest matinee idol: Jack Cassidy in "She Loves Me."

Biggest new male heartthrobs: George Hamilton, George Peppard, James Garner. . . . Most unpronouncable Broadway title: "Arturo Ui." . . . Biggest blow to elocution: Yogi Berra joining Casey Stengel in managing N.Y. baseball teams. . . . Sunniest new name in the political whirl: Happy.

Movie's best wiggle: Ann-Margaret's. . . . Biggest new records: "Dominique" by the Singing Nun, Soeur Sourire; "Blue Velvet," by Bobby Vinton; "Deep Purple," by April Stevens and Nino Tempo; Connie Francis' "Where the Boys Are"; and Steve Lawrence's "Go Away, Little Girl." . . . Top Songs: "Call Me Irresponsible," "Wives and Lovers."

NEW CAFE STAR: Beautiful Cyd Charisse (with husband Tony Martin).

Man of the Year: John F. Kennedy. . . . Woman of the Year: Jacqueline Kennedy.

And now a Happy New Year to all.

(The Hall Syndicate, Inc.)

Martini Steel Is New Term for the Industry

NEW YORK (AP) — There's a new, unofficial term for the growing number of high-strength, low-alloy steels developed through research—martini steel.

Just as the dry martini contains only a dash of vermouth added to gin, so do martini steels contain only a dash of alloying element to give them certain desired characteristics.

For example, as little as .01 of 1 per cent of columbium or vanadium added to ordinary carbon steel produces a high-strength steel that is also easily weldable and formable.

★ ★ ★

As little as .035 of 1 per cent of tellurium increases the machineability of steel.

Cock-a-Doodle 'Don't'

MOUNT DORA, Fla. (AP) — It's against the law for roosters to crow in Mount Dora. Municipal Judge Jesse D. Willmott has begun strict enforcement of the city rooster ordinance. Thirteen roosters were banished at court Wednesday morning.

Tax Dollars Set Record in Michigan

LANSING (UPI) — State revenue from the sales and use taxes, spurred by continued high auto sales, poured into Michigan's treasury at a record rate during the first six months of fiscal year 1963-64, Revenue Commissioner Clarence Lock reports.

In December, sales and use tax collections ran 10 per cent over the amount collected from the levies in the same period a year ago, he said.

The $44,774,696 collected in December "gives us a sales tax total for the first six months of the fiscal year of approximately $239 million and use taxes of about $26 million," Lock said.

★ ★ ★

For the six month period the sales tax is running about $14 million ahead of the comparable period a year ago, and the use tax is up $3.4 million.

BUSINESS ACTIVITY

"Business activities taxes for the first six months have also shown a strong increase of about $5 million, or about 13 per cent," Lock said.

He noted that approximately 60 per cent of the gain in the sales and use tax take "was caused by higher sales of motor vehicles with the remaining 40 per cent being distributed over other types of business.

Lock said if sales tax collections continue at their present rate the total revenue form the 4 per cent levy for the entire fiscal year would be $477 million. In the fiscal year 1962-63, the sales tax generated only $455 million in state revenue.

★ ★ ★

Lock said the economic outlook for the state continues to be very good with no dark clouds on the horizon.

Canada Gets First of U.S. N-Warheads

NORTH BAY, Ont. (AP) — The United States made its first delivery of nuclear warheads to Canada Tuesday night under a controversial agreement approved by Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's Liberal government last summer.

★ ★ ★

Atomic warheads for 28 anti-aircraft Bomarc missiles were delivered to the Bomarc base seven miles north of this community, the Royal Canadian Air Force announced.

COST $375 MILLION

The Bomarc complex at North Bay, 180 miles north of Toronto, was built at a cost of $375 million. About $255 million was contributed by the United States.

Nuclear warheads also will be installed at a Bomarc base at La Macaza, Que., 80 miles north of Ottawa.

★ ★ ★

Canada has given permission for storage of nuclear warheads for U.S. jet interceptors at Harmon Field, Nfld., and Goose Bay, Lab., and U.S. nuclear warheads also will go to Canadian army Honest John rocket units in West Germany.

The United States will control use of the warheads.

This Pair's Birthday was Political Start

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (AP) — It hardly would be a surprise if twins Ned T. and Harry Lee Bentley grow up with an interest in politics.

Born a week before the 1963 election, they were named for Kentucky's governor-elect Edward T. (Ned) Breathitt Jr. and his lieutenant governor, Harry Lee Waterfield.

The twins were delivered by Dr. Roy Sanders who was elected a state representative.

Mother Was Correct; Sandbox Dangerous

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Donn Strock hastens to explain the circumstances when she admits she injured her elbow falling out of her children's sandbox.

Seems she was looking in the box for sharp garden tools which might hurt the young sters.

New Cotton Mill Starts Operation in Nigeria

The plant, jointly owned by the English Sewing Cotton Company, United Africa Company, and Dunlop Rubber Company, Ltd., is expected to produce about five million pounds of yarn per year and employ more than 1,000 people.

Agent, 82, Is in It for Life

He's been in the business 50 years and during that time has placed more than $14 million of life insurance.

Manned Flights Not Likely This Year

Astronauts to Have Life Easy in 1964

By ALVIN B. WEBB JR.

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — America will circle the earth with its largest satellites and shoot for the moon and Mars with complex probes in 1964 — but its astronauts likely will sit out the year on the sidelines.

Delays and setbacks in the multibillion-dollar U.S. space program appear to offer the new year as a 365-day blank check for the Soviet Union to fatten its already well-padded lead in manned spaceflight.

The last American astronaut flight was the 22.9-orbit voyage of L. Gordon Cooper last May 15-16. The next is scheduled for no earlier than October 1964.

★ ★ ★

But financial problems which delayed development of a new capsule, and severe vibration troubles which ate up valuable time in proof-testing a new booster, make that flight — a two-man, three-day voyage in the new Project Gemini — highly unlikely in 1964.

FIRST OF '65

The United States will probably have to wait until the first part of 1965 for its next astronaut shot.

It is a safe bet Russia will capitalize on the U.S. troubles. Just what direction the Soviet program will take in the months ahead remains, as usual, locked behind Iron Curtain secrecy.

Some U.S. experts, taking note of reports that Soviet scientists are developing a new booster with perhaps 3 million pounds of thrust in the booster stage, look for a Russian push in space along three fronts in 1964:

● The orbiting around earth of larger unmanned satellites. Dr. Wernher Von Braun, probably America's most famous space scientist, said recently he would "not be surprised" if the Soviet Union launched a satellite weighing 40 to 50 tons sometime soon.

★ ★ ★

● More shots at the moon. The Soviets, with few exceptions, have been notably inactive in the moonshot field since their spectacular doubleheader in hitting the lunar surface with one probe and circling it with another in 1959.

MORE KNOWLEDGE

Russia, like the United States, needs more basic knowledge of the moon before it can risk manned lunar landings.

● The linking up of two or more spaceships, perhaps larger and more elaborate versions of the cosmonaut-carrying Vostoks, to form a small platform in orbit. This could be the forerunner of larger manned space stations the Soviet Union is planning for 1965.

On the U.S. front, much of the money being poured into its two largest manned space programs — the two-man earth orbit Project Gemini and the man-to-the-moon Project Apollo — will be consumed on the ground:

● In February, 14 new astronauts will join the present 16 pilots in the U.S. space pool. All will spend weeks and months in training.

★ ★ ★

● American scientists plan to launch two, and possibly three, unmanned Gemini flights before risking an astronaut trip.

TEST CAPSULES

The first, set for late February, and a tentative second flight will send instrumented test capsules on one-way flights into orbit. The third, late in the year, will be a suborbital mission to test recovery techniques.

● Engineers and technicians, meanwhile, will fire dummy Apollo capsules into the skies above White Sand, N.M., to try out emergency escape systems for the manned lunar flights.

● The Von Braun team at Huntsville, Ala., is shooting for a date in late summer for the first static-firing, in a lock-down test, of the mighty Saturn-5 rocket being built for the manned moonshot. The 7½-million-pound thrust Saturn-5 will not fly, however, until early 1966.

★ ★ ★

The new year shapes up as a generally lackluster one, as far as spectaculars go. But there are some bright spots on the schedule, particularly in the early part of the year.

CLAIM TITLE

Standing on a launching pad at Cape Kennedy today is a Von Braun-built Saturn-1 rocket that in late January or early February, will give the United States a chance to claim title to having orbited the world's largest artificial satellite.

The 1½-million-pound thrust Saturn-1, America's most powerful space rocket and forerunner of the Saturn-5, will be launched on its first orbital voyage. If the shot is successful, its 80-foot long second stage, weighing nearly 19 tons, will swing into orbit around earth.

Later in the year, the Federal Space Agency plans to use the same rocket to send a satellite with a 100-foot wingspan into orbit to measure meteorites, pieces of space debris that pose a constant threat to manned missions.

Simultaneously, America will level its sights again on the moon, still its most elusive target in space, and on the planet Mars.

After a year of grounded inactivity, congressional investigation and subsequent cutbacks, the moon-probing Ranger program will once again swing into gear. In the first four months of 1964, the United States plans to take two shots at the moon with Ranger probes.

The complex mechanisms will carry along gear to photograph the lunar surface — and, hopefully, to end six years of frustration which have seen a dozen U.S. failures in as many attempts at earth's closest neighbor in space.

In the last half of 1964, Mars — the so-called "Red Planet" that many scientists consider to be the only other spot in the solar system where life as it is known on earth might exist — will swing into the shooting range.

U. S. scientists are building two Mariner probes — similar to one that made a spectacular flight by the planet Venus in 1962 — to swing by Mars and study its reddish, vividly marked surface.

Russia, which has made previously unsuccessful cracks at Mars, also is expected to try again. Earth and Mars will not be in a scientifically "ideal" relationship for probes again until 1966.

Other U. S. space developments in 1964 will include:

Tiros — the nation's first weather-photography satellite. Another in the series probably will be launched in the summer to keep tabs on hurricanes and other severe storms.

★ ★ ★

Nimbus — the controversial and oft-delayed follow-up to Tiros. The U. S. Weather Bureau has removed its support from the program, but the Federal Space Agency plans to launch the first of the newer, heavier weather satellites from the West Coast early in 1964.

SMALL MOONLETS

Relay — another, lower orbit, communications satellite in the Telstar tradition. The space agency plans to put its second relay satellite into orbit from Cape Kennedy in early 1964.

Echo-2 — a silvery, balloon satellite 135 feet in diameter. This is a larger version of the 100-foot Echo balloon America orbited in 1960, and which still hangs in the sky. Echo-2 may open the way to the first direct U. S.-Soviet cooperation in space, in communications tests.

Scientific satellites — a number of moonlets to study the more scientific aspects of space, including solar winds, radiation, meteorites, cosmic rays and magnetic fields. These will be sent into orbit from both the east and west coasts.

BAD AXE FIRE — The Irwin Hotel Building in Bad Axe, Mich., was destroyed by fire early yesterday, loss estimated at $60,000. The building was a landmark in the community and housed a furniture store. Tom Casey, lone occupant of the building, escaped from the third floor after he smelled smoke.

South Reeling Under Stormy Wintry Blows

By The Associated Press

Snow such as many Southerners had never seen blanketed the South today from the Gulf of Mexico to Virginia, paralyzing traffic and communications at many places and causing at least seven deaths.

The snow and sleet storm turned to rain in some sections overnight, adding glazed highways to the already dangerous driving conditions. Numerous highways were closed to traffic.

Almost four inches of snow, the most this century, fell on New Orleans, leading to snowmen in the usually torrid French Quarter and an occasional flying snowball on Canal Street.

Hattiesburg, in southeast Mississippi, had 12 inches of snow and Chatom, in southwest Alabama, reported 10 inches. Both towns are near the Gulf in an area where even a snow flurry is a rarity.

Unequipped to deal with accumulations of snow and slick streets, most larger Southern cities suffered monumental traffic jams. Temporary loss of power and telephone lines was reported throughout the South.

Factories and stores closed early in most cities yesterday so employes could get home before streets became impassable.

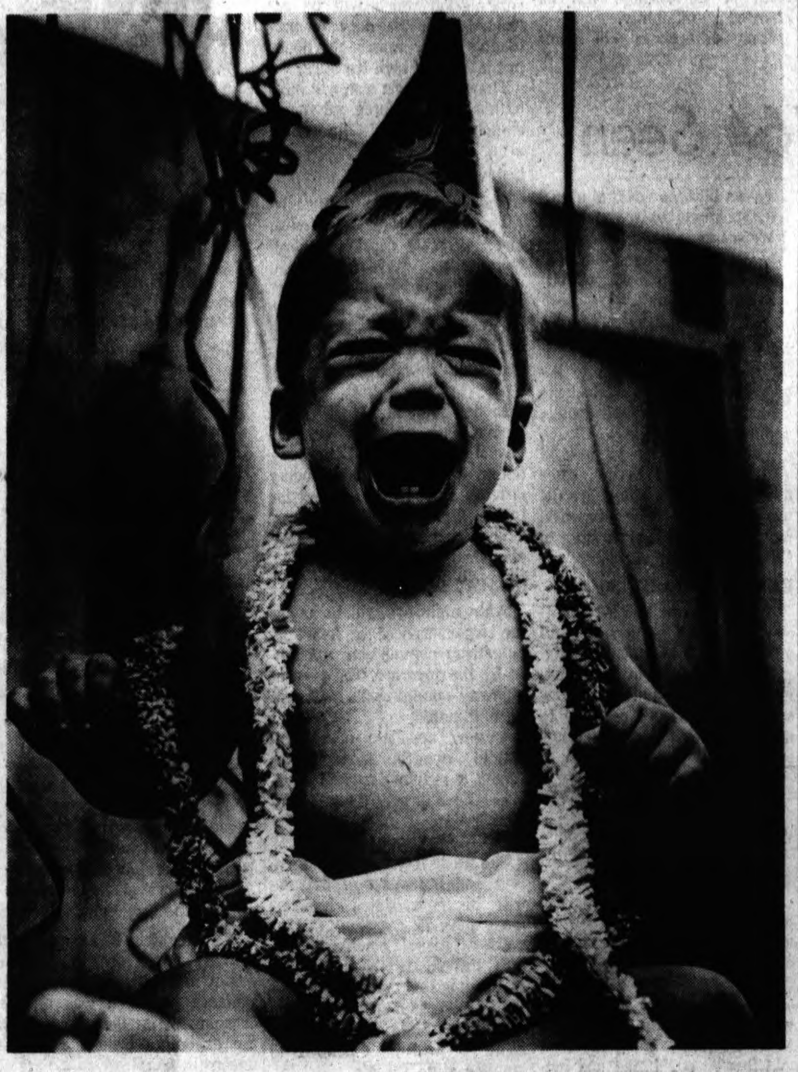
Two persons died in Alabama traffic accidents attributed to the snow.

Fresh northeasterly winds tore a small boat from its moorings on a marsh island off the southeast Georgia coast, marooned two men and their three sons on the island and then pushed high tides over the island.

Two of the boys died from exposure. The others were rescued after more than 30 hours.

In Mobile, Ala., two children died from gas fumes from an unvented stove. In Atlanta, a gas explosion shattered one floor of an apartment building, killing one person and injuring two.

The snowstorm blew northward from the Gulf, reaching Tennessee, the Carolinas, and Virginia before threatening the nation's capital with several inches of snow.



TOOTS TO TEARS — One-year-old Timothy Arthur Larkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Larkin of 3556 Richmond, Waterford Township, is a tot with a familiar tale. The Timmy to the left and the Timmy to the right are as different as last night and this morning were to many elder New Year's celebrants. Do you share his plight? Don't worry, the world isn't really 20 years older, it just feels that way. Tomorrow, after the bowl games, things will get back to normal.

Tempers Toast With Renewed Threat to West

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev toasted in the new year today with an appeal for further lessening of cold war tensions in 1964. But at a convivial Kremlin reception, Khrushchev said his only difference with Communist China is on "how to bury capitalism."

Sitting next to a surprise guest, ex-Premier Nikolai Bulganin, who fell into disgrace after a Communist party power struggle in 1957, Khrushchev was in an expansive mood as he proposed 13 toasts.

His face clouded, however, when he recalled the demonstration in Red Square two weeks ago by several hundred African students protesting the alleged murder of a medical student from Ghana.

Warning the African students, Khrushchev said: "At home, if they want to stand on their heads and shake their legs in the air, then they can do so if the government permits it. But we will not allow it.

★ ★ ★

LEADS PARTY

The cheerful Soviet leader led the Kremlin gathering of 2,000 persons, including foreign diplomats and newsmen, after releasing texts of messages to President Johnson and Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

To Castro, he pledged to support Cuba in the event of an attack by "United States aggressive circles."

★ ★ ★

Khrushchev also took note that this is the fifth anniversary of the Cuban revolution.

PLEDGES AID

"The Soviet people fulfilling their internationalist duty, will continue to render all-round assistance to their Cuban brothers in their struggle for a new life," he added.

Khrushchev's message to Johnson, cited the ban on nuclear testing in the atmosphere and added:

"We should like to hope that the coming year will see further and more substantial progress both in adjusting the key world problems and in bettering relations between our two countries for the sake of the Soviet and the American people and for a more lasting world peace."

De Gaulle Addresses Nation

Urges H-Bomb as French Aim

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle has urged France to make development of a hydrogen bomb a prime goal in 1964.

In a New Year's Eve radio and television broadcast to the nation, de Gaulle said France can meet the threat of aggression and achieve the independence worthy of a great nation only with the might of the H-bomb.

He said France's other goals in the new year are European unity, helping underdeveloped nations and contributing to the cause of world peace.

★ ★ ★

In this way, de Gaulle said, France is taking back into its hands the destiny it lost when it capitulated to Nazi Germany in 1940.

PEACE, STABILITY

He said France had gained peace and political stability in the past year.

He described European unity as a condition for "a truly concentrated political, economic and strategic understanding with America."

He also defended his decision to keep Britain out of the Common Market, saying he opposed "the admission of a new member which could not go by the rules."

★ ★ ★

De Gaulle expressed hope that the Soviet Union and other Communist bloc nations in Europe would continue to improve relations with the West.

CHINA IGNORED

His failure to mention Communist China, which has been seeking closer French ties, was regarded as a pointed ommission.

★ ★ ★

De Gaulle said the population of France, once plagued by a low birthrate, grew by nearly 600,000 last year, and now totals 48 million.

Eleven Dead in State Traffic

Worst Crash Kills 3 Near Cass City

By the Associated Press

Three of the victims died in a head-on collision of two cars near Cass City last night.

A Richmond couple was killed and their daughter was critically injured in one car in the accident near Cass City.

Clem Hardy, 43, and his wife, Wanda, 40, died. Their daughter, Carol, 16, was taken to a Cass City Hospital. The third victim was the driver of the other car, Ronald Brown, 25, of Snover.

TRAFFIC COUNT

The Associated Press began counting the traffic fatalities for the holiday period at 12:01 a. m. Tuesday. The count ends at midnight tonight.

Other victims:

Barbara Hanlon, 22, of Grand Rapids was killed today while she was a passenger in a car that was struck from behind, police said.

Officers said the car in which she was riding was pushing a disabled vehicle when a third auto hit them on U. S. 131 south of Rockford in Kent County.

Pontiac Merchants See Booming '64

By ALLEN PHILLIPS

Leaders of Pontiac's business community speak with one voice on the economic prospects for 1964.

They all say the 12 months ahead can well top booming 1963, and could be the best in recent history.

Added to this are some strong convictions that downtown Pontiac will begin to feel a resurgence that has long been in the planning stage.

★ ★ ★

"I believe 1964 will be the year when urban renewal comes into its own," predicted Max Adams, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

NEW BUSINESS

Adams said he looks for new businesses to locate in the downtown area, as well as expansion and modernization of existing establishments. This will also take place at outlying shopping centers he said.

"I also believe four or five new small industrial plants will locate here in 1964. At the same time, present and proposed construction of motels and apartments will add stability to our area."

This optimism was reflected by Monroe Osmun, general manager of Osmun's, Inc.

"I'm very encouraged about 1964. I think it's going to be a terrific year, because as the auto industry goes so goes Pontiac.

CRUCIAL YEAR

"But it could also be the most crucial year downtown Pontiac ever faced. It's the year things are going to start happening. I can say that sometime in January we'll have some important statements to make about this," said Osmun.

By ROGER E. SPEAR
(Special to the Pontiac Press)

The new year should be a good one for business and the stock market, but 1964 will not exhibit unrestrained boom conditions.

Frankly, the administration's tax cut holds the key. With it, we can expect continuation of the current period of prosperity, which economists otherwise consider as ripe for a downward turn.

Our nation's economy traditionally travels in cycles, and only artificial measures such as a war or a tax cut can displace normal expectations.

Since 1964 is an election year, it seems reasonable to presume that a tax cut will be enacted, so this forecast is predicated on that assumption.

TOTAL OUTPUT

Gross national product (GNP), our total national output of goods and services, is estimated at $583 billion for 1963, up a healthy 5 per cent over 1962. We believe that GNP could take another 5½ per cent jump in '64, hitting $616 billion.

MANY FIRSTS — Mrs. Ernest Hunt, 33, of 683 Hillwood, Milford, holds her 6-pound son, the first baby born in a Pontiac hospital in 1964. Born at 2:50 a.m. today, the baby accounted for two other firsts as well. It was the first time the year's first baby was born at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, and he was the Hunts' first son. They have two girls. The father is a designer and commercial artist.

City to Be Covered by Blanket of Snow

A snowy afternoon and evening today will be followed by partly cloudy skies and warmer temperatures tomorrow. Snowfall will total two to four inches.
