Joins Ike in Battle With
Sen. McCarthy Over
'Usurped' Power

WASHINGTON (INS)—Another high Senate Republican leader sided with President Eisenhower today in the battle over what the White House has called "usurpation" of executive authority by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

After visiting Eisenhower at the White House, Senate GOP Policy Committee Chairman Homer Ferguson (Mich.) declared that members of Congress "should not invite everybody who has a complaint to come first to Congress."

During the Army-McCarthy hearings, the Wisconsin Republican has called on federal employees to come to him with any information they might have about corruption or subversion.

On Saturday, Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) and Sen. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) both criticized McCarthy for his stand. Today Ferguson declared: "I look at this thing as a joint task that can only be solved by joint effort. The way I feel is that congressional investigations should work with the executive."

"I am sure the President and all under him, if requested, would furnish all the necessary information so that Congress can do its proper investigating. We should not invite everybody who has a complaint to come first to Congress."

Tornadoes Skip
Through Kansas

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Several tornadoes skipped through eastern Kansas and western Missouri yesterday, causing heavy farm damage in a few areas but no personal injuries.

One twister cut a 20-mile swath, leveling scores of farm buildings from Sark, Kan., to Fort Scott, Kan. Hundreds of trees, utility poles, television aerials and chimneys were toppled in Fort Scott.

Saturday night tornadoes killed four children and injured a score of other persons in a 30-mile strip of farm country near Norfolk, Neb.

WIRES SNAPPED, TREES BROKEN—The tree shown in top picture, at the rear of the Kelley Spencer home, 24 James St., fell onto a telephone cable during the height of last night's thunderstorm. Scores of phones were out of order due to falling trees and branches.

Wind downed fruit trees (lower picture) in the backyard of L. O. Hamby, 30 N. Sanford St. The trunks were split by the gale and the trees toppled into the driveway of the Hambys' neighbor next door.

Cohn Denies Ever Asking
New York Spot for Schine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Roy M. Cohn denied today ever asking that Pvt. G. David Schine be assigned to the New York area—disputing testimony from both Secretary of the Army Stevens and Army Counselor John Adams.

Cohn insisted Adams was "quite mistaken" in declaring that Cohn exerted extreme pressure to get a New York assignment for Schine.

Dien Bien Phu Nurse
Happy to Be in Paris

PARIS (AP)—Lt. Genevieve de Galard Terraube, the heroine of Dien Bien Phu, returned smiling today to her native France.

"I am happy to be home and I am happy to see my mother," she said, speaking into a battery of radio and television microphones.

About 100 newsmen were on hand as the 19-year-old nurse stepped briskly from the Air France plane that bore her home from Indochina, but a police detail kept them from questioning her.

Miss de Galard had said in Calcutta that she would explain in Paris why she had sent greetings to the rebel Vietnamese leader, Ho Chi Minh, on his 54th birthday last month, but she was given no chance for any explanations. She had refused to explain in Calcutta, saying she was fearful of being misunderstood. She was a working prisoner of the rebels at the fallen fortress when she sent the greetings. Her release came a few days later.

Martians Fail to Keep Date
at Girl's Home

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—If the Martians won't come to 9-year-old Linda Sue Russell, she's going to build a space ship and go to them.

Last week little Linda Sue, a pert, impressionable youngster, wrote a letter to the Martians telling them to come to her house Sunday night.

"What business I am writing about is to stop the earth people from fighting," Linda Sue wrote. "All they have is war, war, war and I'm getting tired of it, so be here."

Linda Sue even enclosed a hand-drawn map telling the Martians to land their space ship at a nearby playground. She said she would leave her window open and promised "I will never tell anybody about you."

But the Martians didn't show. "I felt sort of mad because they didn't come," Linda Sue said. "When I grow up and become a scientist, I'm going to build a spaceship and go and see them. As soon as I'm 12 I can start studying for it."

What Linda Sue wanted to tell the Martians was to "scare the people on earth."

"That's what I want them to do," she said, "because there's too much war. If the people on earth are scared by maybe the Martians making the ground shake, they'll stop fighting because maybe then the Martians will break up the earth and we'll have to talk peace with the Martians."

Mrs. Arthur Russell, Linda Sue's mother, says her daughter is quite serious in her plans to see the Martians.

"She was so displeased when they didn't come," Mrs. Russell said, "that she decided what she had to do was to go and see them. She's sure she can build a space ship after she's a scientist."

Ike Invited to Vacation

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today was invited to spend his 1955 summer vacation at Mackinac Island.

The invitation was extended at the White House by members of the state's congressional delegation, which recently passed a resolution urging the President to go to Michigan next year.

Power and Phone Lines
Down; Heavy Traffic
Stalled

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A wind borne rainstorm swept across southern Michigan Monday night damaging buildings, power lines, communications, and bringing the threat of tornadoes to scattered communities.

The violent storm was blamed for at least two deaths.

John Knox, 41, of Swartz Creek, was killed when lightning struck a big elm tree on the edge of M21, three miles east of Ada. The tree fell on Knox's car. The victim's wife, Frances, 42, and two young children were hospitalized in Grand Rapids.

A bolt of lightning killed 68-year-old Joe Haines near Benton Harbor. Haines, a itinerant fruitpicker, was sitting in his one-room home.

The lightning bolt glanced off a tree, pierced the roof of the home, and struck Haines. His wife, Irene, 48, sitting on a bed beside him, was unharmed.

A dozen communities were isolated from telephone service at the peak of the storm.

High winds reaching to gusts of 58 miles per hour in the Grand Rapids area struck at the peak of the homebound Memorial Day weekend traffic.

State Police reported fallen trees blocked US112 near Hillsdale for a short time Monday night. Other roads blanketed with holiday motorists also became temporary impassable.

The storm moved in across Lake Michigan and reached Detroit about 9:30 p. m. The storm tore off a porch on an east side home, tore down a tree which fell across a parked car, destroyed a garage, and broke a glass window in an east side store.

A small tornado reportedly struck at Coldwater Lake near Coldwater. The baby twister skipped across the lake and struck a vacant cottage at Idlewild Beach, ripping off the roof. High winds also damaged other cottages near the lake.

What witnesses described as two small tornadoes dipped into Washtenaw County. One hit in the yard of the Robert Gilbert farm, six miles west of Ann Arbor, felling seven trees, one of which blew across Gilbert's house. Another wrecked a chicken house and lifted a brooder house off its foundation at the Clarence Troitz farm, 18 miles west of Ann Arbor.

Traffic Claims 20 Victims

Michigan Counts 35 Dead
Over Memorial Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 35 persons lost their lives by violence over Michigan's long Memorial Day weekend which opened under warm, sunny skies and ended in a violent wind and rain storm.

Traffic accidents claimed 20 lives, nine persons were reported drowned, and six died in fires, falls and other accidents.

The toll was well above last year's Memorial Day death count of 12 traffic victims, 8 drownings and 5 miscellaneous accidents.

So far, the nation counted 345 persons killed in auto accidents from 6 p. m. Friday until midnight Monday. In addition, 86 persons drowned and 70 others were killed in miscellaneous mishaps.

The sudden rain and wind storm added to the heavy traffic hazards faced by thousands of motorists returning Monday night from northern parts of the state.

Lightning was blamed for the death of one motorist near Ada. The list of latest reported deaths:

Wiley W. McClellan, 67, of Detroit, was fatally injured Monday when his car collided with a bus from Selfridge Air Force Base at Harper and 15-Mile Rd. on Detroit's east side.

Capt. Lloyd W. Smith, skipper of the ore carrier James E. Ferris, fell overboard and drowned Monday while his ship was on a down-bound passage in the St. Mary's River near Detroit.

Election to Show
Farm Sentiment

South Dakota Primary to Echo Voters' Views on Price Props

PIERRE, S.D. (AP)—The nation watched the South Dakota primary election today for possible clues as to how the farm belt feels about flexible price supports, as advocated by the Republican administration.

Democratic candidates for nomination for governor, that party's only statewide contest, have injected national issues into their campaigns by accusing the GOP of backing "unsatisfactory farm legislation."

Democratic leaders, laying stress on the rigid 90 per cent parity payments now being made as opposed to the flexible program, also have been striving for a larger than usual vote as a "signal of protest" to Washington.

Party chieftains expected a turnout of some 35,000 Democrats for the primary, about 15,000 more than two years ago, as a result of this drive.

E. F. McKellips, Alcester banker, favored for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination over Ed C. Martin of Chamberlain, a rancher. By agreement, the two made no personal campaign attacks on each other and bought no radio time for their speeches.

Social Security
Up for Revision

House Bill Would Add
10 Million to Rolls, Hike
Benefits and Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislation to add an estimated 10 million persons to the social security rolls and to boost benefits and taxes comes before the House today for debate and almost certain passage. Drafted by the House Ways and Means Committee and embodying in large part recommendations by President Eisenhower, it was docketed under "take it or leave it" procedure. It cannot be amended on the floor.

The legislation has little if any opposition. The Senate has not acted.

Besides extending social security coverage to large new groups, the legislation would provide for increased benefit payments, larger annual contributions by employers and employees, and a more liberal income test for people already receiving payments under the 17½-year-old program.

A major provision would boost from $3,600 to $4,200 the maximum annual wage on which both benefits and taxes are based. At the present rate of 2 per cent—for both workers and employers—this means an additional payment of $12 annually into the social security fund by each covered worker making $4,200 or more and by his employer.

The new benefit structure would boost monthly payments now being made to an estimated six million persons by a minimum of $5. The new monthly (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Boy Anglers Worm
Way Into Fish Tank

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP)—Adults couldn't seem to get a nibble but two small boys in a boat in the outer harbor hauled in fish hand over fist yesterday.

Someone, no doubt a jealous adult, investigated and then the police arrived. Seems the boys, 12 and 14, were fishing in a floating tank in which many varieties of fish, some rare, were being kept alive to be put into an aquarium now under construction.

The police salvaged what they could of the boys' catch and tossed them back into the tank. The boys were taken to the Juvenile Bureau, given a little talk about fishing in a private tank, then were released to their parents.

700 Families Without Light; One Inch Water
to Benefit Crops

Oakland County mopped up today after high winds and thunderstorms Monday night blocked dozens of roads with falling trees and left 700 families without lights.

The thunderstorms rode 50-mile-an-hour winds into Pontiac, dumping an inch of rain on homecoming vacationers and thirsty crops.

They ended a day of unsettled weather that had seen temperatures rise to 84—the warmest day this year by two degrees.

The U.S. Weather Bureau predicts partly cloudy and cooler weather, however, with a low of 54 to 58 degrees tonight and a high Wednesday of 70 to 74.

But Monday morning's low, 61 degrees, was lower than this morning's 64-degrees. The mercury hovered at 64 at 8 a. m. and rose to 70 by 1 p. m. today.

Monday night's rain "was a blessing" for local farmers, county agricultural agent Edmund W. Alchin said today.

"It may have come too late to bring in a top hay crop," he said, "but other crops will benefit greatly. It definitely broke the drought."

But the high winds that carried the rain were anything but a blessing to road crews and utility companies.

Detroit Edison Co. said falling trees took down two main supply lines. One fallen line cut off power to 500 West Bloomfield and Commerce Township homes from 8:30 until 11 p. m.; the other darkened 100 Walton boulevard area buildings, including the Haven Sanatorium and Danish Old People's Home, from 9 p. m. until after midnight.

Lightning blew out fuses in six other transformers supplying a few homes each.

Consumers Power Co. said Pontiac damage was lighter, with only about 30 to 40 homes left without power. Much of the city's trouble was caused by branches that took down drop lines running from poles to customers' homes.

Michigan Bell Telephone Co. said some 25 Pontiac telephones were dead Monday night—95 in the Auburn avenue area and 30 along Orchard Lake road just outside of town. A falling tree at the home of Kelley Spencer, 24 James St., took down phone lines, power lines and one of the lines that supplies city fire alarm boxes.

Several families said their oil tanks were blown over.

An elm tree, 105 inches around at the base, crashed down on the roof of a garage at the home of Robert C. Bowden, 124 Whittemore St. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

President Attacks 'Dividers' of Nation in Columbia Talk

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower last night deplored division within America on how to fight communism. He called for "more knowledge and intellect and less prejudice and passion."

A "crusade of truth" is needed both at home and abroad, he told a dinner highlighting the 20th anniversary of the founding of Columbia University.

"Through knowledge and understanding," he said, "we will drive from the temple of freedom all who seek to establish over us thought control—whether they are agents of a foreign state or demagogues thirsting for personal power and public notice."

The President mentioned no names in denouncing "would-be censors and regulators" and those who "divert our attention from" the main battle "in opposing communism—an over-all goal on which he said Americans are united above all others.

emotion when he referred to "demagogues" and "division." Those parts of his speech were thunderously applauded by his listeners.

The nationally televised speech was heard by some 1,800 alumni, faculty members and friends of Columbia University who jammed the ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel and another 400 who overflowed into an adjoining dining room. A score of college presidents were in the audience.

It was a homecoming of sorts for Eisenhower, who was Columbia's president from 1948 until shortly before his inauguration last year. Applause interrupted the 30-minute speech 21 times.

After stating that America is completely united in opposing communism, the President added:

"Yet, my friends, and I say this sadly, is there any other subject that seems, at this moment, to be the cause of so much division among us?"

In addition to criticizing those who cause "division," the President attacked "doubters" who "begin to fear other people's ideas" and "begin to talk about censoring the sources and the communication of ideas."

"The honest men and women among these would-be censors and regulators may merely forget that the price of their success would be the destruction of that way of life they want to preserve," he said.

"But the dishonest and the disloyal among them know exactly what they are attempting to do—perverting and undermining a free society while falsely swearing allegiance to it."

He cautioned against allowing "ourselves to be persuaded that every individual—or party—that takes issue with our convictions is necessarily wicked or treasonous."

When that happens, he said, (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Birmingham City Manager Marks 25 Years Service, Honored by Commission

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM — City Manager Donald C. Egbert hadn't planned on attending two meetings in the commission room of the Municipal Building today.

He knew about the City Commission meeting at 8 tonight. But the one at 4:30 came as a surprise.

Unheralded into the room, he was greeted by all the familiar faces he works with every day.

Today, Egbert marks the end of 25 years of service to the city. 18 of them as city manager. That in itself is somewhat of a record.

Birmingham was a sleepy village of 9,250 population when Egbert arrived June 1, 1929 to take up duties in the building inspection department.

He climbed the ladder rapidly, working in the engineering department and earning the titles of building inspector and city assessor.

In December, 1936, he was named city manager.

In 35 years, Egbert has seen Birmingham change from a village to a city, double its population, triple its budget.

No one had parking problems in 1929, and no one in his right mind would have built a terrace or an industrial plant out in the "country." All this, he has successfully coped with.

Egbert, 51, is married to the former Maie Dowd. He has one son, Dwight N., and two grand-children.

To mark the 25th anniversary, he was presented with a pair of leather-encased field glasses.

Holding its last meeting of the season, the Laymen's League of the Unitarian Fellowship will have Dr. B. Hjalmar Larsson as guest speaker following a 6:30 dinner tonight at the Community House.

Larsson, former chairman of the Laymen's League at Church of Our Father in Detroit, will show slides and talk on his recent trip to Europe. Highlight of the speech will be a description of the Nobel Prize award ceremonies which he attended.

The public is invited to attend the program, starting at 8 p.m.

Roy Scout Troop B-27 will pitch tents and hold an outdoor camp meeting from 7-9 tonight in the vacant lot at 14-Mile and Southfield Rds., next to the home of Larry Ruby. The event is in preparation for next weekend's campout at the D-Bar-A Ranch at Metamora.

Electronic art, a new combination of science and abstract design, will be illustrated in 50 photos on display all this month at the museum of Cranbrook Institute of Science. The museum is open daily from 2 to 5 p.m.

Ben F. Laposky, mathematician and artist, developed the new art after years of research with electronic circuits and geometric design. The design compositions are formed by electrical waves made by a device similar to a television receiver.

Rev. Lyle Loomis, field worker of the district board of education, will be guest speaker at a recognition dinner at the First Methodist Church at 7 tonight, for the Christian education staff of the church.

Diane E. Kapica
Prayer service for Diane E. Kapica, 34-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kapica of 1944 Sheffield Ave., was held this morning at the Spiller-Gramer Funeral Home, Clawson, with burial in Mount Olivet Cemetery. She died suddenly Sunday at Children's Hospital, Detroit.

Surviving besides her parents are a brother, Leonard, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baker of Clawson and Mrs. Martha Kay of Detroit.

Cohn Denies Asking Area Spot for Schine

York area after Schine completed his eight weeks basic training at Ft. Dix, N.J.

Cohn first said that couldn't be answered yes or no, but later came out with a "no, sir." He added that the subcommittee wanted Schine available for some important subcommittee work, when that would not interfere with Schine's training, and it was up to the Army to decide what arrangement could be worked out.

Cohn testified he had no recollection of ever saying Secretary Stevens had "doublecrossed" Sen. McCarthy by saying at a news conference Nov. 13 that he knew of no current espionage at Ft. Monmouth, N.J.

Jenkins recalled that Stevens had testified that Cohn accused him of doublecrossing McCarthy. Jenkins asked Cohn several times to say whether he did or didn't use the word.

Cohn said his best recollection was that he never used the word at any time when he talked with Stevens.

Cohn said McCarthy did feel that Stevens had made untrue statements at the news conference, and this "disturbed" McCarthy.

Cohn said McCarthy objected to statements by Stevens that:

1. There was no espionage at Ft. Monmouth.
2. None of the suspensions at Monmouth involved theft of removal of documents.

Cohn said McCarthy also was disturbed that Stevens had told of the number of suspensions—35. He said Stevens previously had refused to give the number of suspensions to the subcommittee on grounds this was security information.

Cohn also testified he had no recollection of telling Adams Dec. 8 or 9 that Stevens had again double-crossed him by cancelling week day passes for Schine.

Cohn agreed he talked with Adams about the matter, but said he could not place the dates definitely.

Cohn said a plan eventually was worked out so that Schine could be made available after training so that he could talk with members of the McCarthy staff in connection with the finishing of committee work by Schine.

Cohn was under instructions to be prepared, on his return to the witness chair today, to give the investigating senators copies of documents and reports on which he said Schine worked while on pass from Ft. Dix.

Before the hearing opened, Cohn told reporters he was ready to produce a "great bulk" of such papers.

Monday morning's rain in northern Michigan started some vacationers home early. Pontiac Police, Michigan State Police and Oakland County Sheriff's department said traffic flowed smoothly and was no heavier than for "an average warm non-holiday weekend."

The three police organizations reported 26 accidents in this area over the weekend, none serious except the crash that took the life of two-year-old Bobby Dwaine Posey Sunday night.

Oakland County's parks reported the heaviest crowds of the year. More than 10,000 people crowded into Cass-Dodge Park. Four Kensington Metropolitan Park, and Highland and Pontiac Lake recreation areas. Kensington's crowd of 60,000 was the biggest, with Sunday the heaviest day at all four areas.

Maximum monthly benefits for a retired worker would be hiked from $5 to $8.50.

Those increases, affecting persons already receiving benefits, would become operative two months after the bill becomes law.

Most of the other changes would become effective next Jan. 1.

For covered workers not yet retired, the maximum monthly benefit would go up to $108.50. It now is $85. The top for a retired worker and his wife, if she is over 65, would jump from $127.50 to $162.75. The maximum payable to any one family would be raised from the present $168.75 monthly to $200.

Persons already retired but having small earnings from part-time work would get a break. Existing law cuts them off from benefits

President Criticizes America's Dividers

"then indeed we are approaching the end of freedom's road."

He also warned against confusing "honest dissent with disloyal subversion," noting that "we are descended in blood and spirit from revolutionaries and rebels—men and women who dared to dissent from accepted doctrine."

Turning to global matters, the President said America is committed to two far-reaching policies: "First and foremost, we are dedicated to the building of a cooperative peace, based upon truth, justice and fairness."

"Second: to pursue this effectively, we seek the strengthening of America—and her friends—in love of liberty, in knowledge and comprehension, in a dependable prosperity widely shared, and in a military posture adequate for security."

In such policies, he said, "there is no iota of aggression, no intent to exploit others or deny them their rightful place and space in the world."

He said his administration knows that "every negotiation with the Communists would be fraught with traps and pitfalls." But he said, "Positive, determined day-to-day toil would pay real dividends among free nations."

Hunt Kidnapers of Six-Year-Old

13-State Alarm Out as Girl Disappears on Manhattan Waterfront

NEW YORK (AP)—A 13-state kidnapping alarm was sent out today on a Florida man's report that a 6-year-old girl entrusted to his care had vanished from his truck parked on the lower Manhattan waterfront.

The missing child is Jane Marie ("Jennie") Hoffman.

A police canvass of the waterfront area turned up the information that a 200-pound woman known only as "Toni" had been seen with a child whose description fitted that of the missing youngster.

The brown-haired, brown-eyed girl was reported missing by Walter Howard Hicks Jr. of Tampa, Fla.

He told police the girl had been placed in his care by her mother, Mrs. Blanche Whitted, and showed them a letter she purportedly wrote stating her willingness to have him adopt her daughter.

Hicks said he left his trailer-truck parked on West street about 1:15 a.m. When he returned an hour later, he said, "Jennie" was missing from the sleeper platform behind the driver's seat.

Police said "Toni," who was described as about 32, was wearing men's grey trousers and a grey shirt. She was seen near the waterfront with a child and asked directions to "the Jersey Truck Terminal" in Jersey City. New Jersey police were alerted to watch for the woman.

Mrs. Whitted, police said, was described by Hicks as an upstate New Yorker whom he met here about a week ago. Why she had given him custody of the girl was not made clear.

Hams to Revive Forgotten Isle

Ship Accident Recalls Jinx Associated With Atoll Near Mexico

WASHINGTON—The "Island the World Forgot" is being remembered briefly as radio amateurs of the Americas listen for short wave signals from a tiny coral outcrop in the eastern Pacific.

Clipperton Island, a lonely atoll 670 miles southeast of Acapulco, Mexico is to go on the air if an expedition of U. S. "hams" reaches its goal. Their storm-battered schooner, engines disabled, had to radio recently for rescue aid, however.

Their distress call indicated that the isle still carries a jinx. For on that insignificant speck of rock amid empty ocean occurred not only piracy and shipwreck, but also one of the most fantastic and tragic stories in the annals of adventure.

Although France now owns Clipperton, until 1931 its claim was contested by Mexico.

In 1914, amid political upheaval in Mexico and the outbreak of World War I, supplies for the colony on Clipperton, numbering at least 30 men, women, and children, somehow were forgotten. Ships simply stopped coming.

After a year the desperate garrison commander, Captain Ramon de Arnaud, took the only three men still strong enough to pull oars and set out to row to the mainland, 675 miles away. They were never heard from again.

A hurricane struck soon after. Then the lighthouse keeper went insane, murdered the remaining men, and set himself up as king. One of the women he sought to enslave killed him with an axe as he slept.

On July 18, 1917—after three years of isolation—Clipperton was visited by the U. S. S. Yorktown while on Naval patrol. Three women and eight children survived. Their terrible story was pieced together as they were taken to the mainland. But because war still raged abroad, the tragedy received little notice at the time.

From 1943 until the end of World War II, a U. S. Navy weather station was maintained on Clipperton.

Mexico long mapped the ocean outrider as the Island of Passion.

MR. AND MRS. FATO OF '54—Speranza Gorini, 345 pounds, left, tries to embrace Felice Alberani, 440 pounds, but finds the task difficult. It was all part of a celebration in Turin, Italy, at which the admission was a minimum 220 pounds. After the feast, they were named "Mr. and Mrs. Fato of 1954."

(Isle de la Passion), following a legend that sailors of Cortez, landing there in the 1500's, fell into a fight among themselves. In 1705 the island reputedly became the lair of John Clipperton, freebooting renegade mate of the English navigator William Dampier.

The island was forgotten until 1858 when a French ship landed a boat to hoist the imperial colors of Napoleon III. Mexico protested, but did nothing else for 40 years. Then in 1897, a year after another French man-of-war visited the island, it sent a gunboat of its own.

Ownership of the island grew more controversial after a British company received a concession in 1906 to work phosphate deposits there. The question was referred to the International Court at The Hague with no result, and then to the King of Italy for arbitration.

After thinking it over for 22 years, the Italian monarch awarded Clipperton to France.

Other than the U. S. Navy weathermen, however, only a few shipwrecked fishermen have lived on Clipperton since the tragedy of 1917. All that remained in 1949 were a few rails from the phosphate era, a ruined building or two and a rusted steel jetty at the edge of the reef, washed by surf.

Memorial Day Saves Waldorf in Flag Problem

NEW YORK — Memorial Day solved a protocol problem for the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel yesterday.

In residence there were President Eisenhower, here to deliver a speech; Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia; Prime Minister Adnan Menderes of Turkey; Maj. Gen. Ferrn Gutierrez de Sota, Spanish deputy chief of state; and Rear Adm. Anibal O. Oliveri, Argentina's secretary of the Navy.

The hotel usually honors a guest of such rank by flying their nation's flag. But this time there weren't enough flagpoles.

After a look at the calendar, the hotel's general manager, Harold K. Hastings, declared the United States flag should fly alone.

On Memorial Day, he said, "you fly but one flag."

Adventists in Accord With Local Unions

SAN FRANCISCO — Some 1,500 agreements have been reached with local unions to permit Seventh Day Adventists to hold jobs without belonging to the unions, delegates to the church's General Conference were told yesterday.

Carl B. Haynes, head of the church's Industrial Relations Commission, said the agreements are in line with the Adventist program to "stand apart from both management and labor groups."

"We do not try to antagonize labor because we agree that the objectives of organized labor are good and right," Haynes said. He added that under the agreements, Adventist workers contribute the equivalent of dues and assessments to union welfare and relief funds, and stay home when a strike is called.
