M'Carthy-Army Inquiry May Be Shortened Soon

Sen. Mundt Sees Hour Nearing When Issues Will Be Narrowed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said today an attempt may soon come to shorten the public probe of the flaming dispute between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and his aides and top military officials.

Mundt, chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee during the televised inquiry, said the hour may shortly be at hand for efforts to narrow the issues that have now been pitted before the senators in seven days of under-oath hearings without signs of let-up.

Secretary of the Army Stevens, who first took the witness stand the opening day, April 22, was still there when the group recessed for the weekend yesterday, although several others have testified for briefer interludes. Stevens was listed for another appearance Monday.

As the hearings closed yesterday, Ray H. Jenkins, special subcommittee counsel, drew from Stevens an acknowledgment that when the Army secretary was thinking of relieving Maj. Gen. Kirke B. Lawton from command at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., he so informed McCarthy "to find out how Sen. McCarthy felt about it."

Ft. Monmouth, a radar research center, was then a target in McCarthy's hunt for alleged espionage.

Stevens, under stiff questioning, said that McCarthy wanted Lawton continued in command because the general was "cooperating fully" with McCarthy's investigation, and that in fact Lawton was left in command at Ft. Monmouth and still is.

But the secretary said he was "not afraid" of a McCarthy reprisal if Lawton was removed, that he gave McCarthy the information on Lawton as part of his own policy of cooperating with the Senate probe, and that he decided to retain Lawton strictly 'on the merits" of his case.

Mundt said the inquiry group discussed in a closed session yesterday the possibility that opposing counsel could get together to narrow some of the issues in dispute.

Baseball Contest Ending Tonight; Glynn Is Leading

The Man About Town Baseball Contest closes with today's games. It is quite a coincidence that among the 1,406 contestants nobody picked Glynn, and he has been at the top of the list for several days.

Should Glynn still be leading at the close of the contest, the $250 in U.S. Savings Bonds will go to the person who picked the second place winner and comes the nearest to that player's percentage. Standings of the five leading batters after Friday's games follow:

The telegram follows:

"Your splendid editorial support helped St. Lawrence Seaway legislation to reach House floor consideration Wednesday, May 5.

"Firmly believe one final expression may be decisive.

"Opponents desperately trying upset program by crippling amendments like Brownson substitute which would prevent United States participation by making financing impossible."

17,600 Children to Get Salk Shots

Number Taking Part in County to Exceed First Estimates

Parents will let 7,635 children in 72 Oakland County schools line up for shots Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in the field test of Dr. Jonas E. Salk's new polio vaccine.

Another 1,417 youngsters in the first, second and third grades of 17 Pontiac schools will get their shots the first three days of next week.

The total number of county children signed up for the program jumped to 17,600 Friday as parents cleard another 1,600 children for the test. County officials thought at first that only some 15,000 would take part

Each youngster will get three shots—the second a week after the first and a third shot some weeks later.

County schools outside Pontiac which will take part in the test Monday are Ferndale's Wilson School; Southfield's Angling Road school; and Lamphere and Vandenberg schools in Royal Oak township. Other Monday clinics are planned for Daniel Webster, Martin Road and United Oaks schools in Hazel Park and in Lockman, Upton and Whitter schools, Royal Oak.

Vicious Winds Lash 6 States, Kill 1, Injure 56

23 Texas Communities Suffer Most Damage From Tornadoes

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Tornadoes and vicious winds lashing six states in the Southwest and Midwest left one person dead, at least 56 injured and caused damage estimated in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Texas suffered the most damage—39 injured in 23 towns and communities. Other states hit yesterday included Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, Missouri and Iowa.

Mrs. Doot Sowell, 73, of Many, La., was the only fatality reported. Her body was found draped around a fence post. Six persons in the Sowell home were injured.

One twister injured five members of a family near Cedar Rapids when it tossed them about 100 feet into a field. Their farm home was destroyed.

Two were hurt in Arkansas, three at Versailles, Mo., and one in Oklahoma.

Eleven children were hurt in an east Texas twister that struck the Beulak schoolhouse, 12 miles southeast of Lufkin.

West of Lufkin, another tornado swirled past the Grapeland, Tex., school building, in which 600 children were attending classes. The school escaped damage, but destruction in downtown Grapeland was estimated at $25,000.

Houston, Fort Worth, Dallas, San Antonio—all felt the force of the spring storms that damaged a Negro housing project in west Dallas so extensively that 18 families had to be evacuated.

Home, farm building and power line damage was extensive throughout the five-state area.

In northwest Arkansas, Sheriff Bruce Crider said loss in the heart of Washington County's major chicken producing section would run above $75,000.

Northern Air Mass to Cool Off County

Cold air from the north is expected to send the mercury plunging from the 70, today to the 50-degree mark Sunday.

The U. S Weather Bureau forcasts showers and a low of from 46 to 50 degrees tonight and a high of only 48 to 52 Sunday. The temperature stood at 70 degrees at 2 p.m. today in downtown Pontiac.

Rain is expected by Sunday night.

Correlation Ready for Today's Racing Classic

United Press Telephoto

18 Top Horses to Run in Derby

Over 100,000 People Will See Historic Race at Churchill Downs

LOUISVILLE (INS) —Thoroughbred racing's greatest show, the Kentucky Derby, will be staged today at historic Churchill Downs.

Upwards of 100,000 fans, including dignitaries from every field and the ever present $2 bettor, are expected to jam into the ancient racing plant to watch the colorful event.

Millions more will see it on television.

The 18 best three-year-old horses in the nation, excluding those who defaulted because of injuries, will make the traditional run for the roses.

The winner will enrich his owner by some $100,000, and establish itself as the top three-year-old in the land.

The race is scheduled to start at 4:30 p. m. (EST), and slightly more than two minutes later it will be over. But within that short period is crammed more drama, interest and excitement than probably any other single sporting event in the country.

Particular interest was created in this year's derby because of sectional favorites included among the large field. Correlation, the pre-race favorite, and Determine, probable third choice, have done most of their racing in California, which has been able to produce only one derby winner.

Hasty Road, the top money-winning two-year-old in history, is a strong Midwest representative and is a probable co-third choice. Goyamo, the second choice, and Fisherman, the last of the "big five", are eastern campaigners.

Polio Testers Stop Sampling of Blood

Oakland County Polio Test headquarters said today that no more blood samples will be taken from child "polio pioneers" until two weeks after their third shot.

Many children of McConnell School in Pontiac and Pierce in Birmingham gave blood samples as well as getting injections this week in the test of Dr. Jons E. Salk's new polio vaccine.

Mrs. Howard Rieman, county volunteer chairman for the vaccine field test, said that "blood sampling is vital to knowing how well this vaccine works.

"By taking blood samples before and after the shots are given," she said, "we can tell whether the vaccine does make blood form more antibodies against polio. We must have blood samples from two per cent of the youngsters given the injections. If we find that the vaccine works on two per cent, we figure it works on all of the children."

Berkley Airman Exposed to Radiation at Bomb Tests

A Berkley airman was among 30 American servicemen who received physical examinations Friday after being exposed to radiation during recent hydrogen bomb tests.

He is A. 1. C. Wendell S. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Smith of 1875 Larkmarr Blvd.

Another Michigan man, S. Sgt. Lyie Winchester, of Saginaw, also was given an examination.

Doctors at Tripler Army Hospital, Honolulu, said all the men, including Army, Navy and Air Force personnel, had been exposed to "moderate amounts of radiation" during the Eniwetok detonation.

According to Smith's brother, Roger, letters from Wendell gave no hint of the seriousness of the radiation or of the tests.

Roger said his brother, who has been in service five years and overseas since Christmas, was hospitalized once before, about March 1, for radiation exposure during an earlier test. He spent two weeks in a hospital then, but suffered no ill effects, Roger said.

An Army statement issued Friday said: "Despite the fact that there is nothing apparently wrong with the men, they are going to be given complete medical examinations prior to their return to full duty.

"Although none of the group experienced symptoms of radiation illness, they have been under close observation since their exposure at Eniwetok last month," said the Army dispatch.

Gas Rate Cut Is Ordered

Consumer Power Co., Consolidated Buyers to Share Refunds

LANSING (UP) — The Michigan Public Service Commission today ordered Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. and Consumers Power Co. to reduce gas rates $5,426,659 annually.

The two firms serving more than one million gas customers were directed to file immediately new rate schedules reflecting the amount of decrease effective May 1.

John H. McCarthy, Public Service Commission chairman, said the action was taken to give Michigan rate payers the benefit of the lower rates for natural gas which the two companies will receive by virtue of a Federal Power Commission ruling affecting Panhandle Eastern Pipeline wholesale gas charges.

Both Michigan Consolidated and Consumers were granted rate increases late in 1952 on the basis of higher natural gas charges by Panhandle. However, Panhandle's higher rates became the subject of Federal Power Commission review and on April 15 the agency granted only about 60 per cent of the requested rate hike.

As a result, companies purchasing natural gas for resale will be refunded certain sums yet to be determined by the FPC, McCarthy said. Michigan customers of Consolidated and Consumers will share in refunds when the amounts are determined.

Under the new FPC rate schedule for Panhandle, Michigan Consolidated rates will be reduced $2,517,076 annually while Consumers Power rates will be reduced $2,909,583.

Million Heir Held on Holdup Charges

TORONTO, Ont. (AP)—A Canadian heir to a 2½ million dollar fortune faced charges today he aided in a $41 holdup.

Handsome, 21-year-old John Leonard Smallman was booked by police yesterday and released on $1,000 bail.

Smallman denied the charges he was an accomplice in the beating and robbery last December of Lawrence T. Nash.

The police said they had been looking for Smallman some time but he had been absent from his swank North Toronto apartment. Two other men still are being sought.

Smallman gets $850 income monthly from his estate and his work as a jewelry salesman. He was due soon to receive $150,000 a year interest on the fortune left to him by a great aunt seven years ago. Earlier this week his wife gave birth to their first child.

Dulles, Molotov in Secret Huddle

Top East-West Officials Talk on Atomic Energy International Pool

GENEVA (AP) — U. S. Secretary of State Dulles and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov went into a private huddle today to carry on their talks on President Eisenhower's plan for an international atomic energy pool.

It was the second meeting between the two top East-West diplomats since they came here for last Monday's opening of the conference on Far Eastern questions.

The meeting today was held in strictest secrecy. Molotov had indicated early this week he was ready to deliver Russia's reply to super-secret "concrete" proposals made by the United States March 19.

These talks between the Americans and Russians have been going on behind the tightest cloak of secrecy since Eisenhower proposed an international pool of atomic energy raw materials and know-how for peaceful uses in his address to the U. N. General Assembly last Dec. 8.

There is nothing that would prevent Dulles and Molotov from going over other problems, including the currently bogged-down discussions on Korea and the projected talks on Indochina here at Geneva.

Dulles had a full weekend schedule before he leaves Monday to return to Washington. This includes a meeting with Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith, who is arriving today to head the U. S. mission at Geneva after Dulles departs.

Thousands Stay in Fields, Await More Tremors

First Toll of Injured 130; King Flies to Inspect Worst Hit Areas

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Greek officials reported today the earthquakes which struck Central Greece yesterday and crumbled whole towns killed at least 20 persons and injured 130. More than 25,000 were made homeless.

Earlier official reports had the death toll as high as 150.

Light tremors continued throughout the day after the violent initial shock lasting 20 seconds. The Athens observatory reported 38 disturbances, three of them violent.

King Paul and Crown Prince Constantine cut short an inspection of army units in Thrace to fly to Volos in the Gulf of Pegasai, where the earthquake destroyed the town hall and split open a section of the quay. From Volos, they will inspect the worst hit areas.

The quake disaster was the worst since the shocks that devastated the Greek Ionian Islands last August, killing up to 1,000 persons and destroying the homes of 120,000.

Yesterday's stricken area stretched from the East Coast into the Pindus Mountains, where shattered villages could be reached only over donkey trails. Destruction appeared to center around Granitsa, 135 miles northwest of Athens, with the towns of Sofadhes, Farsala, Karditsa and Domokos hardest hit.

Thousands of persons slept in open fields—some because they had no home to return to and others because they were afraid to go back to the towns they had fled.

The government sped supplies and medicine to the earthquake victims and dispatched troops to repair communication lines. A religious holiday which had closed down communication and government offices hindered the relief measures.

Clardy Subpoenas 89 to Red Hearings

DETROIT (UP) — Rep. Kit Clardy (R-Mich) said today a total of 89 persons have been subpoenaed to testify before the House Un-American Activities subcommittee which opens hearings into communism here Monday.

Clardy wound up a one-man probe Friday preliminary to the public hearings. He said two new witnesses gave "valuable information" but he declined to identify the witnesses.

He said there would be no television of the hearings which will last through next Saturday in Detroit and then move to Flint and Lansing.

Oats Planting Delayed

Local Orchards, Pastures Benefit From Late Rains

Above-average precipitation has ended fears that last year's near-critical drought conditions would plague Oakland County farmers again this spring.

Edmond W. Alchin, Oakland County agricultural agent, said orchards and pasture lands are in excellent condition.

He did admit that soggy ground has delayed oats planting, but pointed out that the advantages of the heavy rains far outweight the disadvantages.

"The soil moisture situation was nearing the critical stage," Alchin said. "But thanks to the heavy rain and snowfall so far this year that situation has been completely reversed."

The U. S. Weather Bureau has recorded 11.73 inches of precipitation — nearly 2.5 inches above normal.

Commeting on the moisture's effect, Alchin said:

"The wheat, hay and pasture crops are in excellent condition and fruit is at least five days ahead of normal.

"Oats planting is about 10 days late right now on many farms. The first 15 days of last month farm work went well, but since that time rains have been frequent and heavy, and farm work has been held up."

"Lawns and flowering shrubs are ahead of normal, too," Alchin said.

The agricultural agent foresaw little danger of a killing frost, and weather bureau records back him up.

"It would take quite cold temperatures to have a real effect on most crops and plants, except in low-lying areas," he said.

Weather bureau records for the past 70 years show that the average date for the last killing frost of the year is April 27.

There still may be a light frost, however. May 15 is the average date for the last light frost, according to Miss Margaret Supplee, weather bureau meteorologist.

Donor's Heart Pumps Patient's Blood While Doctors Repair Damaged Heart

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Hearts of human donors are being used successfully at University of Minnesota to provide the life blood for patients whose own hearts are idled during surgery.

The circulatory systems of the patient and a healthy donor are coupled while surgery is performed on the former, with both under anesthesia. Three successful operations have been performed here through use of the new technique, developed after operational experiments on 70 dogs.

Dr. C. Walton Lillehei, chief of the team which perfected the new method, said it opens the way for heart repairs never before accomplished and probably would permit many children, doomed to invalidism or early death because of deformed hearts, to live normal lives.

In the three successful operations, surgeons corrected interventricular septal defects—holes in the inner walls of hearts—that prevented proper blood circulation.

Because of the limited time available, due to the necessity of keeping the blood coursing through malformed hearts, previous operations to close such holes have been impossible, Dr. Lillehei said.

Under the new method, circulatory systems of the patient and donor are linked by means of plastic tubes. A small pump, like those used in creameries and breweries, is employed to accelerate blood through both persons.

Lungs of the patient are collapsed while those of the donor carry on the work of blood purification for duration of the operation.

Dr. Lillehei said the first such operation, "performed after considerable soul-searching on my part," was done March 26 on 13-month-old Gregory Gliden, Hibbing, Minn. The child's father, Lyman, served as donor.

While his father's blood coursed through his son's body, surgeons worked 17½ minutes on Gregory's open heart. The surgery was successful but the child later contracted pneumonia and died.

Dr Lillehei said the idea of coupling circulatory systems of dogs so that heart surgery could

Birmingham High School Students Will Take Over Operation of City Monday

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM — A woman as Birmingham's city manager? It will happen for the first time in history Monday when Birmingham High School seniors hold their eighth annual Civic Control Day, with Ann McDonald in the driver's seat.

Complaints registered by students over the city's lack of interest toward their project in past year will be non-existent this time, if City Manger Donald C. Egbert and his assistant, Jack Walker, have their way.

A complete itinerary has been mapped out for the teenagers, who will run the city for a day.

Meeting at 9 a. m. at the Municipal Building, "Mayor" John Hubert and the city commissioners will be sworn in by their own city clerk. Following a discussion of city problems with Egbert and Walker, the mock Commission and other "city officials" will tour the city.

They will sit in on a trial if one is scheduled. Otherwise Ralph W. Moxley, police-chief-in-reality, will explain court procedures. Before lunch the seniors will meet their counterparts.

The student Commission will receive a two-hour briefing before they preside over an hour-long session prior to the regular 8 p.m. Commission meeting.

Also doing their share are Boy Scouts here and in Bloomfield Hills, who will pick up newspapers and magazines from the entire area next Saturday. These should be left in the garage or at the curb, weather permitting.

Kiwanians will paint the exterior of a deserving family's home as a climax for their part of the program.

The DPW has announced that residents may call the department for pickup of items too large to be included on regular collection days. Final reports will be submitted for national contest judging in Washington.

Lurie Brothers Construct Empire From Fruit Stand; Newest Wrigley's to Open

Wrigley's will add store number 59 to its family of neighborhood supermarkets Monday from 6 to 9 p. m. when the public is invited to inspect the new Tel-Huron store in Pontiac's newest shopping center.

Store hours will begin Tuesday at 9 a. m.

JOHN LURIE

The fabulous Michigan chain began 30 years ago with a fruit stand. With ingenuity and enterprise John E. Lurie, president, and his brother, Nathan W. Lurie, secretary - treasurer, began buying out other stores.

In 1937 they opened their first self-service store and dreamed of the day when self-service would supplant the clerk era.

Wrigley's major growth came in July 1951 when the Lurie's bought the entire Packer's Supermarket chain. They then became the largest retail food distributors in Michigan.

NATHAN

In March 1951, construction began on a large food warehouse at 13901 Joy Rd. which today is in daily operation. It is the source for hundreds of trucks that keep the shelves of all the stores supplied.

Packaged meats were another Wrigley innovation.

The new store located at 45 S. Telegraph Rd. in the Tel-Huron Shopping Center, will replace the present store at 398 Auburn St.

The building was designed by Tel-Huron Architect Paul Moffett, of Birmingham. It was built by Edwin Gage, of Pontiac.

The store is ultra-modern offering the latest features in modern supermarket construction — including eight magic-eye checkout stands, automatic doors, air-conditioning, extra-wide aisles and fluorescent lighting. A master-incinerator for disposal of all burnable materials is another new feature of this market.

Departments for self-service meat counters, a large frozen food section, a dairy department and a wide variety of imported and domestic fruits and vegetables have been provided. Awrey Bakeries have a department here.

Parking facilities for 500 cars are available at the center and a canopy has been installed for inclement weather. Picture, page 16.

Heart Surgeons Use New Technique

be undertaken first was advanced by Dr. Morley Cohen, a life insurance fellow at University of Minnesota from Winnipeg, Man. The joining of arteries and veins of two dogs for surgery proved successful.

A second operation on a human came April 20 when 3-year-old Bradley Mehrman, St. Louis Park, Minn., had his heart worked on 27 minutes while his father, Jack served as donor.

Pamela Schmidt, 5, Minneapolis, born with a gaping hole in the wall separating her heart's pumping chambers, was the third patient. She had been living in an oxygen tent 10 months recently.

Undersized because of that condition, Pamela eight days ago was linked with the circulatory system of her father, Ronald, for an operation. Yesterday she was wheeled into the auditorium of the university's heart hospital as a smiling sample for newsmen and photographers of what the new technique can accomplish.

Army Engineers OK Saginaw Flood Curb

WASHINGTON (AP) — A multi-million-dollar flood control project for Michigan's Saginaw River valley was one step further advanced today.

It now has the approval of the Army board of engineers for rivers and harbors. A considerable road still lies ahead, however.

The board gave its approval yesterday after being so urged by Claude A. Stewart, vice chairman of the Saginaw Valley Regional Planning Commission. The board acted after a brief hearing.

The project, including flood control or major drainage projects in several areas, would cost 11½ million dollars.

The board of engineers recommendation now goes to Maj. Gen. Samuel D. Sturgis, chief of engineers. Sturgis must pass on it before it can go to Congress.

MORTGAGE OR MARRIAGE — Pontiac State Hospital patients and staff are rehearsing a one-act melodrama-comedy, "Do Your Worst", to present Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. during the hospital's "open house."

State Hospital Standing By for Sunday's Open House

Pontiac State Hospital stood ready today to open its doors Sunday on its eighth annual open house, "The Modern Approach to Mental Illness."

The hospital's staff and volunteers will show visitors through the 3,000-patient hospital from 1 until 4 p. m. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday and 6:30 to 9 p. m. Wednesday.

"We're eager to give you a look into the way our hospital works," Dr. Ivan A. LaCore, medical superintendent said. "We hope everyone in Oakland and other nearby counties who can spare a free moment will drop in for a tour. We like the public to see what we're doing — and why."

The hospital marks Mental Health Week with an "open house" each year.

The hospital's staff and patients will present a one-act comedy, "Do Your Worst," Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at 3:30 p. m. and demonstrate how music, recreation and work are used to help patients get well. Special movies titled "It's a Big Problem" and "Psychodrama" will be shown twice each afternoon.

The hospital's staff has sent special invitations to 6,000 people in the 10 counties the hospital serves — every club and group it could reach. More than 5,000 people attended the open house last year.

Hospital officials said American Red Cross volunteers addressed 2,000 invitations. Pontiac Business School, headed by Byron Chapin and Birmingham Junior League, led by Mrs. George B. Squibb, addressed another 1,000 each. Kingswood and Cranbrook School students also did 300 letters.

About 50 Junior League members will help during "Open House," leading tours, greeting guests and giving information.

Dr. LaCore and Miss Marguerite Parrish, director of social service, said the hospital's psychiatric aides, attendants, psychiatric nurses and other employes have worked on the project. Mrs. Ruby Eargle, superintendent of nurses and Mrs. Eleanor McCurry and Miss Dorothy Roe, occupational and recreational therapy directors, are among those who helped plan the open house program.

McCallum Sworn In as Municipal Judge

Cecil McCallum was sworn in Friday as Pontiac Municipal Court judge by City Clerk Ada R. Evans and is expected to begin duties Monday.

McCallum, who was elected April 5, does not begin his regular six-year term until July 4. He was appointed April 20 by the Pontiac City Commission to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge Charles P. Webster.

Attorney Odin H. Johnson, who was named to complete Webster's term, resigned after being defeated in the April election.

CELEBRATING MAY DAY—The youths pictured above left early today for Lansing to take part in the statewide May Day youth activities sponsored by the Michigan Elks Clubs. The 36 high school students from Pontiac and area are being sponsored by Pontiac Elks Lodge 810. They are being accompanied by Russell M. Dodd, the lodge's exalted ruler. The event is part of a national movement throughout the nation today.

36 Area Youths Take Part in Elks May Day Program

Thirty-six youths from the Pontiac area today are taking part in the 6th annual state-wide Elks May Day youth activities at Michigan State College in East Lansing.

The mass meeting of hundreds of youths from throughout Michigan coincides with the Elks National Youth Leadership Contest.

"The May Day movement is held each year to combat the Communist May Day in Russia and elsewhere," said Walter A. Giddings, secretary of Pontiac Elks Lodge 810, which is sponsoring the local youths.

Highlighting today's affair will be the selection of Michigan's two most outstanding youths and a meeting with Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

Local candidates for the outstanding award are John P. Niggeman Jr., 17, of Pontiac High, and Loretta Barnard, 17, of Roosevelt High School.

The winners in the contest will participate in a forthcoming contest for the national title in Washington, D. C.

The youths, also from Waterford, Walled Lake and Keego Harbor, will be taken on tour in the State Capitol by Gov. Williams and will meet with officials of the legislature from their home districts.

Following the tour the youths will be entertained by the Lansing Elks and Boy Scouts during a special program.

Kindness Brings Happiness

W. E. SIPLE

T. P Schindler was 80, penniless, ward of the County, slept and ate in a cubicle 8x8, in a cheap hotel in the slums. Until his Empire collapsed he was known around the world as one of the very wealthy men; ships, mines, railroads, oil and cattle. Alena, a girl about 16, came in to clean his room.

Her hair was a dark brown mop, teeth were even but stained, nose thin and long, sallow chin, ghostly voice but her eyes were soft as those of a doe; her heart melted as she watched the old man; she brought rich soup and delicacies from home. He would have paid her instead he inspired her with stories of girls, like her who through charm and personality had won husband and families. She soaked up his yarns like a sponge.

One morning her hair was lustrous, piled high on her head and around her face. Rouge outlined her lips and her cheeks were a healthy pink. She wore a dainty white blouse. Her voice tinkled as she spoke.

"Alena! You're beautiful!" the old man exclaimed.

"I want to be like those girls you told about," she answered happily.

She married. Thomas Franklin Schindler found a job, as baby sitter, to baby Thomas Franklin.

Rochester Couple to Mark Fourth of July in Denmark

ROCHESTER — Mr. and Mrs. Herman Klingenberg are probably the first Rochester couple who ever went to Denmark to celebrate the Fourth of July.

The Klingenbergs, who live at 415 Main St., plan to leave Rochester today. After visiting friends and relatives in Toledo and Washington, D. C., they will sail from New York City May 12 on the Norwegian ship Oslofjord.

They will land at Copenhagen where they will visit more relatives. Of course, the celebration of the Fourth of July is only one incident in their visit. However, it is an interesting incident to Americans as well as to them.

Danes who have come to the United States and then returned to Denmark have formed an American Club at Aalborg, Denmark. Each years since 1912 they have put on a Fourth of July celebration in the Rebild Hills outside that city. The celebration attracts a tremendouss crowd.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Klingenberg are American citizens. They have lived in this country for six years. They used to manage the Danish Old People's Home on Rochester road. Since 1950 they have lived in Rochester where he has been employed at the National Twist Drill Co. They plan to return to Rochester in September.

Michigan State College Extension Service has indicated it would send one of the new men to Lapeer County.

Ickes' 2nd Book Due on May 4

Tells About Roosevelt's Fear of Revolution If He Halted Relief Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—The late Harold L. Ickes wrote in 1938 that President Franklin D. Roosevelt feared a possible revolution if he followed "conservative" Democratic advice to halt relief spending and farm aid in an effort to balance the budget.

Ickes, secretary of the interior 13 years in the Cabinets of Roosevelt and President Truman, told of this in the second volume of his diary, covering the period from Roosevelt's second election in November, 1936 to Hitler's invasion of Poland in September, 1939.

* * *

The 335,000-word volume, titled "The Inside Struggle," is being published May 4 by Simon and Schuster. Excerpts will appear in the May 18 issue of Look magazine out next week.

* * *

"The Inside Struggle" traces the happenings of Roosevelt's second term and tells of the New Deal President's unsuccessful battle to add six justices to the Supreme Court, of Roosevelt's ill-fated attempt to purge anti-New Deal Democrats in 1938, of setbacks in the mid-term elections that year, and of behind-the-scenes White House social doings.

Ickes, the self-styled "old curmudgeon," registered strong criticism of his fellow Cabinet officers and of Democratic congressional leaders in this portion of his diary, which ultimately will run to six million words. Among those who came under his fire was Rep. Rayburn (D-Tex), then House majority leader and now minority floor leader there.

Among other things, Ickes wrote in March 4, 1938, that Roosevelt told him he (Roosevelt) would have read Bernard M. Baruch out of the Democratic party, if he had not needed Baruch's financial help to renominate Alben W. Barkley as senator from Kentucky—a post Barkley is again seeking.

* * *

It was in a Dec. 24, 1938, diary entry that Ickes related that FDR told him two "conservative party leaders" argued the way to preserve party solidarity was to balance the budget by dropping all federal spending for relief and public works, except for 800 million dollars to match state and local funds, and by stopping all farm benefits. The two leaders also were quoted as urging against a tax boost.

* * *

"The President remarked," Ickes' diary said, "that this would mean calling out the troops to preserve order. It might even mean a revolution, or an attempted revolution."

Ickes said that when the President asked these leaders if they would be willing to have it announced that they were in favor of such a program, "both hastily demurred . . . they did not want to take any responsibility."

Court-Martial Arguments End

Dickenson Is Portrayed as Mentally Unstrung by Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — A jury of high ranking Army officers was confronted today with conflicting portraits of Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson as a man with "character defects" and a mentally unstrung boy who had been prepared "for crucifixion."

Those portrayals of the 23-year-old GI from Cracker's Neck, Va., came in closing arguments yesterday by the prosecution and defense at the precedent-setting court-martial in which Dickenson is accused of collaborating with the enemy while a prisoner of war in Korea and with informing on his buddies.

The trial stood recessed over the weekend. On Monday morning, the eight-member military court—or jury—will receive its legal instructions and then begin its deliberations. A two-thirds majority is required for conviction and Dickenson faces a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

The prosecutor, Col. C. Robert Bard, used an hour for his summation against the former POW and concluded that this was the big issue:

"Whether the voice of the people is to be heeded and obeyed by persons in uniform or whether they are to be disregarded and violated at will."

Bard said the psychological defense thrown up by Emery was "too nebulous, too close to character defects to be of any value." He referred to testimony by some doctors, used by the defense, that Communist pressure tactics had impaired Dickenson's sense of what was right and what was wrong.

The prosecutor said the facts show a clear "pattern of behavior," in which he claimed that shortly after Dickenson learned certain facts about his fellow POWs, the Communists moved in on those POWs.

Bus Company Revenues Drop Because of TV

PORTLAND, Me. (UP) — TV is blamed for reducing the revenues of the company that operates intra-city buses here.

Elmer W. Reisinger, general manager of the Portland Coach Co., said evening and Sunday bus service has been curtailed "because people are not coming in town to the movies, bars and clubs like they used to."

He said the company started losing money at a fast rate last year when Portland got a second television station.

3 Union Leaders to Prod for Jobs

Lewis, Beck, McDonald Meet, Will Ask Ike for Spending Projects

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three of the nation's bigger unions have laid the groundwork for united action against unemployment and the Taft-Hartley Labor Relations Act.

A plan for joint efforts by the United Mine Workers, the AFL Teamsters Union and the CIO Steelworkers was drawn up yesterday at a luncheon meeting of their leaders.

* * *

Afterward, mine workers President John L. Lewis told newsmen he, Dave Beck, the teamsters' president, and David J. McDonald, president of the steelworkers, had agreed to try to prod the government into a spending program to fight unemployment.

* * *

The three unions claim a total membership of some three million and Lewis said nearly a half million of these are now idle.

Lewis also said the three unions would join political forces to continue to work for outright repeal of the Taft Hartley Act and to influence the course of legislation in which they are interested on the federal, state and local levels.

Lane didn't get the aspirin. He said he didn't need it because the excitement of the fire cured his headache.

Seaway Hopes Revived

True to Chairman Allen's predictions, the House Rules Committee has given the Dondero-Wiley seaway bill a favorable report and sent it to the House floor.

This action by a committee in which the measure has been stalled for many weeks is worthy of mention on two counts. Though waterway advocates feared foes on the committee could kill the bill, the vote for a favorable report was seven to five.

Also notable is the fact that never before in the 30 year fight over the project has legislation affecting it proceeded as far as this bill.

The bill, already passed by the Senate, was sponsored by Rep. Dondero, chairman of the House Public Works Committee, and Chairman Wiley of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. While Administration leaders expect a fight on the House floor, they are confident of final approval there.

Any other result, of course, would convict the lower chamber of complete disregard of the national interests in a project which should have been built 30 years ago. It also would be final notice to Canada that we are willing to let her build the waterway and charge us what she will for using it.

Patrol Boys Rewarded

One Pontiac and two Oakland County Safety Patrol boys will enjoy deserved rewards next week when they will be guests of the AAA on a four day trip to the Nation's capital.

During their stay in Washington the boys will take part in the Safety Patrol assembly and traditional parade along Constitution Avenue.

Besides meeting Michigan's Senators and Representatives they will be taken on sight-seeing trips to the Capitol, the FBI and the Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials.

We congratulate our three winners, Charles Garcia of the Wilson School here, Alfred Douglas of Royal Oak and Thomas Coats of Clawson. They have helped maintain the high standards of the invaluable service provided by School Safety Patrols.

Their selection for this trip indicates they are worthy colleagues of the five Michigan patrol boys who saved classmates' lives last year and who will be honored guests.

Aid For Medical Schools

One of this Nation's gravest problems is a shortage of doctors and another, the lack of sufficient operating funds for the medical schools which have to train them.

Serious though this second problem is, the country can be thankful that it not only has been recognized but that something has been done about it.

Credit for that something belongs to the National Fund for Medical Education. Its success in persuading industrial leaders that they should assist our medical schools is one of the hopeful developments in what otherwise might be a disheartening situation.

Last year, for example, one medical school, at the end of its financial rope, was about to close. Cash aid from this fund saved it and averted a tragedy.

All told there are 79 medical schools in the United States. Their troubles, according to the National Fund, are born of the fact that collectively they need $10,000,000 a year in additional operating income. If that amount were forthcoming they could fill the 200 openings they have for qualified medical educators.

With that additional teaching strength, the number of medical students graduated annually would be increased and the shortage of doctors correspondingly eased.

"On all counts," he said, "I believe that the support of medical education is clearly and directly in the interest of corporations, and I believe that they may properly regard it as an addition, a relatively small addition, to the cost of their own medical programs."

Kalamazoo Gets Results

★ ★ ★

Kalamazoo tried it and had only eight traffic accidents, as against a daily average of thirteen. It reported two Detroiters who were concerned in crashes there probably didn't know there weren't supposed to be any accidents that day.

★ ★ ★

While this was said in jest, it calls attention to the fact that thinking about safe driving does promote safety. Perhaps a "No Accident Day" would help in Pontiac.

Race Shapes Up

Politicos Giving Ferguson an Edge Over Moody

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING (AP) — Well, we've got Michigan's second big political contest of the year pretty well lined up now and it looks like Ferguson vs. Moody.

U. S. Sen. Homer Ferguson, Michigan's senior senator, has announced he will seek his third six-year term. He is a Republican.

And, of course, the former U. S. senator from Michigan, Blair Moody, already is in the Democratic race.

Patrick V. McNamara, Detroit school board member, also is in the Democratic primary contest and there are recurrent rumors that energetic little William J. Cody of Detroit may toss his stetson in too. John Campbell a 39-year-old clerk at the Willow Run Airport, has announced for the Republican nomination, also.

But when you boil it all down, at least in politicians' minds, it should be Moody and Ferguson in November.

The Republican organization is highly confident that it can re-elect Ferguson while most Democrats you talk to are extremely doubtful that they can elect Moody.

Men on both sides of the party fence ask how Moody can knock off the solidly entrenched Ferguson in 1954, in a purely state election, when he couldn't knock off the relatively new Charles Potter in a presidential year which always brings out a larger independent vote than the off-year elections.

They note also that Moody has done little, if anything, between 1952 and 1954 to strengthen his ties in outstate Michigan.

True, he has appeared infrequently at some party functions, but he has been too busy earning a living in Washington and Detroit to build many fences in the hinterlands.

Veteran Democratic leaders regard Moody as strong enough to win the nomination, but not strong enough to win the election.

That is the forked stick on which the Democratic Party apparently finds itself caught. It is no secret in the Capitol that the Williams administration would have preferred to see Moody stay in private life.

However, Gov. Williams cannot let that attitude become public because he appointed Moody to the Senate in the first place and campaigned arm-in-arm with him during much of the 1952 battle.

Hence, Williams virtually endorsed Moody in Washington last week, speaking to various newsmen for quotation.

If McNamara stays in the race—as he seems determined to do now— it appears that he may have the support of the Michigan Federation of Labor unions while Moody will get the backing of the CIO.

Insiders say it would be a mistake to assume that this will mean a definite split in labor ranks, but it certainly will not make for chumminess among labor.

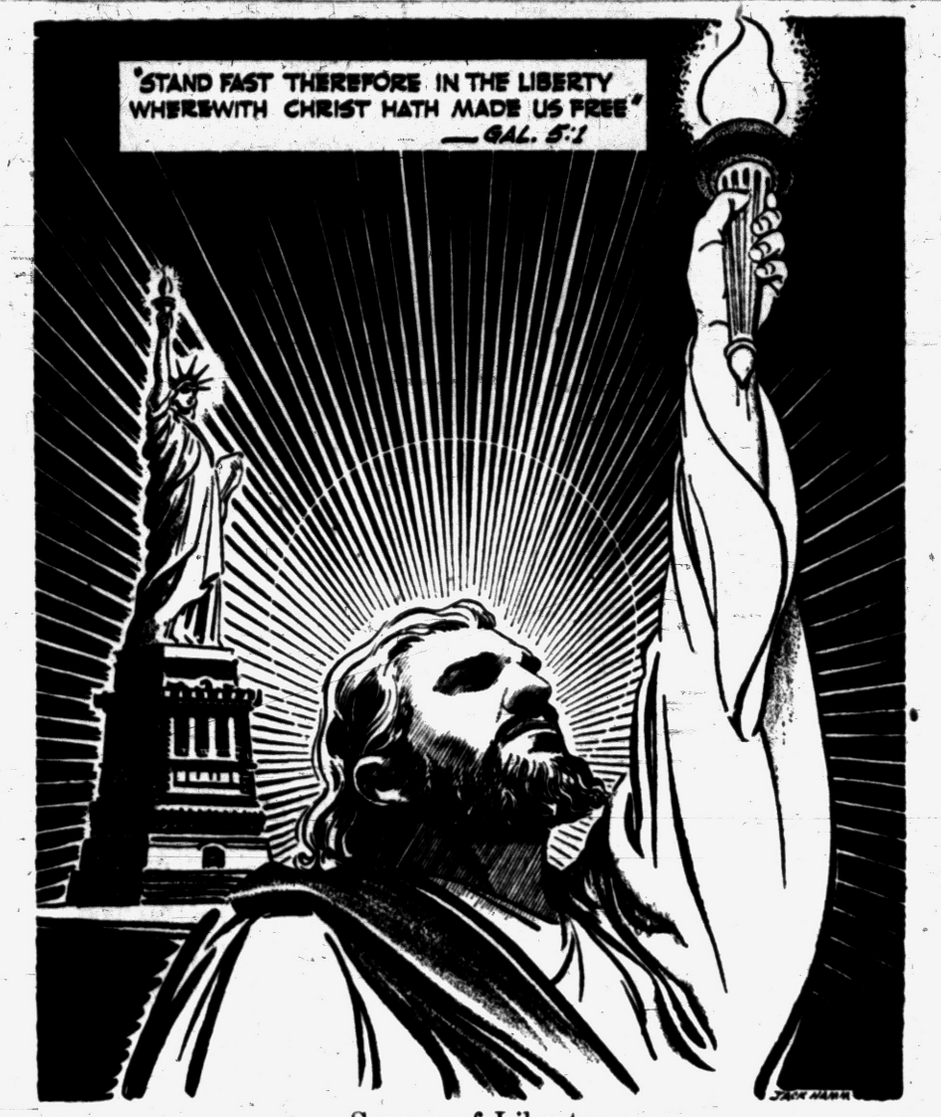

Democrats seem to think their only hope of upsetting Ferguson lies in a sizeable business recession before November, or some major slip by the Eisenhower administration. Ferguson has tied himself so firmly to the President that he can hardly let go if things go wrong.

Many observers think one reason that Williams decided not to seek the senatorship was that the business slump anticipated by some folks this spring failed to materialize—at least in the force they hoped. He, too, possibly had counted on unemployment and poor business to oust Ferguson.

Ferguson is not popular, many think, in the overall Republican Party but he has demonstrated that he is a campaign plugger and that he probably is still a winner. That's enough for the organization. And with control of Congress so shaky, the Republican Party nationally cannot afford to drag its feet on even one of the sons.

It would seem that this is the Democrats' only hope of electing a senator in Michigan and many of them concede that it must become stronger to give them an odds-on chance.

Says Kindness to Animals Helps Child Learn How to Respect His Fellowmen

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

It is not for the purpose of education alone, but that everyone may be awakened to a true spirit of kindness for the dumb animals that the week of May 2-8 is designated as "Be Kind to Animals Week."

Kindness to animals on the part of children is the gateway through which enters respect to parents and members of the family circle, later kindness to playmates and their fellowmen.

The boy who is cruel to his pets will grow up to be a menace to society. Many of the most dangerous criminals were those who in early life were cruel to helpless animals.

Mercy for all things is but an aspect of that larger kindness without which mercy to man is incomplete. May the time come when all mankind will find delight in a fond love for the creatures that minister unto us in a thousand ways.

Do not abandon stray or unwanted animals. Take them to the nearest animal shelter or call the Oakland County Animal Shelter, Federal 2-8262.

Days of All Faiths

National Family Week Will Be Observed by Protestant, Catholic, Jewish Churches

By REV. HOWARD V. HARPER

Mayday has never been a great day in America, mainly because the Puritans frowned on such frivolity and never let the celebration get started in this country. But our European ancestors made a great thing of it, and by many it is still observed.

It goes back to very ancient times. All civilizations, in their early agricultural stages, expressed their joy and their gratitude to the gods each year when the fertility of nature was renewed.

The May-baskets of flowers and the Maypole dances, with which we are at least somewhat familiar, come from the old Roman Floralia —the festival of flowers.

In Sweden, and in other parts of Europe, the big event of the day is a sham-battle between two husky youths representing Winter and Summer. To everyone's great joy Summer, of course, always wins, and Winter is buried in effigy.

All three major faiths in America (Protestant, Catholic and Jewish) will observe this week as National Family Week.

The observances will be of a simultaneous rather than a joint nature, with each faith following its own customs and methods in emphasizing the fact that a nation is only as strong as the families that make it up, and that the strength of the family is religion.

Church members will be encouraged to examine their own lives from the standpoint of their individual contributions to the religious quality of their homes. Congregational groups will analyze and discuss ways of correcting social conditions that have an adverse influence on American family life.

National Family Week, which is being celebrated for the twelfth time this year, always begins on the first Sunday in May and leads up to Mother's Day and the (Protestant) festival of the Christian Home.

May 3, called the Invention (finding) of the Cross, commemorates the discovery, by St. Helena in 326, of the Cross on which the Lord was crucified. Helena was the mother of the great Roman Emperor Constantine.

Along with the Cross, Helena is said to have found the four nails that were used in the Crucifixion, and the small plaque that bore the sarcastic inscription "The King of the Jews." There are many ancient legends about all these grim instruments of history's most infamous act.

There have been many notions about the kind of wood from which the Cross was made. People of some Middle European countries believed that it was made from an elder tree, and the result was that these people would go without fuel to heat their homes and cook their food rather than burn elder wood.

There was a superstition in these lands, not always supported by experience, that a person caught in a thunderstorm was sure to be safe under an elder tree because lightning would never strike the tree of which the Cross was made.

Another tradition said the Cross was made from an aspen tree, and this theory gave rise to two ideas about the constant motion of aspen leaves.

One was that ever since the Crucifixion the aspen has trembled at the recollection of its awful guilt; the other was that because the aspen was the only tree that did not tremble on the actual day of the Crucifixion it was doomed to quiver forever thereafter.

Still another notion was the Cross was made from the wood of the mistletoe. This legend said that up to that time the mistletoe had been a fine tree, tall and sturdy, but for its part in the Crucifixion it was punished by being reduced to the small, parasitic condition in which it is now seen.

St. Helena is said to have started home with the four nails. One of them she threw into the Adriatic Sea when her ship was tossed by a storm. The storm abated instantly. The other three were taken to Rome to the Emperor Constantine.

Paying Compliments Can Change Your Personality

Are you an introvert? Or an extrovert? Rate yourself on the test items below. You can always change your personality so if you don't like the present you, why not re-model yourself in the next 30 days via the "Compliment Club" and the other methods outlined below?

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

"Dr. Crane, I am unquestionably an introvert," he said "so I should like to change my personality.

"In fact, I have lost two secretaries because they said I don't compliment my employes but am thinking solely of production figures and chemical symbols.

"So how would you recommend that I alter myself in the quickest possible time?"

House-to-house selling is about the fastest way to change from an extreme introvert.

So the "Compliment Club" is a dandy substitute. It requires you to pay one sincere compliment per day to each of three different people. And you must keep it up for at least 30 days.

Maurice can pay 5 or 10 per day, if he chooses to help speed up the process. You must pay close attention to people and search out their virtues if you wish to pay them honest praise.

This process turns your attention off yourself. And the introvert is usually thinking of himself or of inanimate objects, such as chemical breakers or ledger sheets or machinery, etc.

You aren't born an introvert or an extrovert. These conditions develop from your childhood environment.

The first born child leads a lonely life with his toys and books and wooden blocks for playthings. They can't talk back or fight him or make him socially conscious.

If he wants to dawdle or daydream, they don't interrupt. After several years of such an environment, he may become relatively inattentive to people.

The second child and other later youngster in the same family soon become more extroverted. For they find other children on the scene when they are born, so must adjust to human beings.

The introvert tends to hoard his toys or money or even his candy, while the extrovert eats his or squanders his funds in Prodigal Son style.

The introvert is slow in dressing and may daydream while he sits in a state of almost suspended animation.

The introvert likes machinery or tools or inanimate objects. The extrovert enjoys people and likes to talk his way along.

The introvert shuns the telephone and lets others of the family answer it, largely because he is not very skillful at conversation.

The introvert carries grudges and burns longer inside when a customer slams a door in his face or a traffic policeman bawls him out.

The introvert longs to be a writer so he can earn money without having to mingle with people in close contact.

The introvert chooses credit work or accounting, music or engineering, machinery or farming while the extrovert likes saleswork, politics, etc.

But you can always change yourself by deliberate effort since these attitudes are simply due to your past habits and surroundings.

A shy, introvertive chemist can become a star salesman quickly, but it takes more out of him, for rebuffs disturb him unduly.

For further differences between introverts and extroverts, send for my "Vocational Guidance Kit," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus a dime.

It contains several tests, among which is one for Introverts vs. Extroverts and is lots of fun for parties.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

But the former governors that had been before me were chargeable unto the people, and had taken of them bread and wine, beside forty shekels of silver; yea, even their servants bare rule over the people: but so did not I, because of the fear of God. —Nehemiah 5:15.

Reader Asks What to Do About Arthritis; Brady Says: 'As I Said Before . . . .'

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

THE MAIL BOX

Let's Be Frank

When arthritis gets you down you don't care what it is or what you call it or how you define it or whether . . . All you want is to get well as fast as possible. So why not put aside all this humor and tell us what to do about it . . . ? (R. S.)

Answer—How long, O Lord, how long! What in the blue blazes have I been trying to tell you? If any reader is curious to know what I think about insidiously developing joint disability of more than a year's standing he may send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask in writing for the pamphlet Calcium & Rheumatiz. A clipping will not suffice.

Namby-Pamby

Used fresh castor oil as you suggested, touching warts each night with it and each morning if I remembered. The warts just fell off leaving the skin unmarked and smooth. Take the Iodin Ration. Also do the belly breathing exercise . . . even feel a little conscience stricken smoking a cigaret while writing this . . . (O. A. B.)

Salt Is Not Food

Friends declare that food to which one adds salt yields many more calories than it does unsalted . . . (L. A. C.)

Out, Dan Druff!

Using your ointment for dandruff I now have a clean scalp, but I have lost the prescription . . . (G. O. L.)

Answer — Send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope for booklet The Hair and Scalp.

Soap and Water

You said soap and water is the best germicide, disinfectant, antiseptic and sterilizer for domestic or personal use. Is soap and water likewise the best deodorant? (S. R.)

Answer — I didn't say sterilizer. Otherwise yes, and now I say soap and water is the best deodorant for domestic or personal use. I do say that ordinary soap and water washing and ironing practically sterilizes clothes, bed clothes, bandages etc., for sanitary, medical, surgical or obstetric purposes. People who use "powerful" (looking or smelling) germicides to "fight germs" in the home are soft in the head I think.

Skeptics

Received your article about calcium, D and arthritis. I decided to try taking calcium and D—at first skeptically. The general overall feeling of well-being I noticed after two weeks or so encouraged me, so I kept on and today I am free . . . Now I eagerly read your articles . . . (F. M.)

Answer — As the veterinary remarked, the mule had no faith in his medicine . . . skeptics may send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask in writing for the pamphlet Calcium and Rheumatiz.

Wiggle Your Ears

Received your pamphlet on head noises and deafness three months ago. Belive it or not, on giving my ears a couple twists (exercise No. 4) I got my hearing back with a bang, and it has remained good . . . (Miss E. M. O.)

Answer — I believe you, for a lady never . . . Any reader who asks for it in writing (clipping will not suffice) and incloses stamped, self-addressed envelope, may have the pamphlet on Deafness and Head Noises.

Whole Wheat Flour

Is the 100% whole wheat flour sold in grocery as good as one would grind at home? (Mrs. M. S.)

Answer — Rarely, because it deteriorates after a day or two. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet Wheat To Eat.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Percy Eggleston of Elizabeth Lake road and the late Mr. Eggleston. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo M. Wessman of Savoy drive.

For the late afternoon ceremony Sally chose a gown of Chantilly lace and tulle which fell into a train. Her fingertip veil was secured with a band of pearls and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis and ivy surrounding a white orchid.

Barbara Waldorf of Waukegan, Ill., and Anne Nolan of Centerline were bridesmaids wearing cocktail-length gowns fashioned of dusty rose taffeta. They wore tiny beaded crowns and carried bouquets of brown orchids.

Lynda Eggleston preceded her sister down the aisle in the role of maid of honor. Her blush pink gown was similar to the bridesmaids' and she also carried a bouquet of brown orchids.

Diane Eggleston, another sister of the bride, wore pink organdy and a pink rose headpiece as flower girl. She carried a small cascade of pink roses and carnations.

Too Many Miss the Boat Because of Self-Inflation

By LAURA Z. HOBSON

By International News Service

To most of us, missing the boat means missing out on a chance or opportunity.

But to Mrs. Lottie Davies Healy, of Miami Beach, Fla., it will always mean arriving at Pier 88 in New York just in time to see the Liberte head out for the open sea.

Even people who have never missed anything more glamorous than a commuting train or the bus to town can appreciate how she felt.

Sympathizing French officials, gallant as all get-out, commanded a special tug to take Mrs. Healy on a dash down the bay, and it all ended with rope-ladder drama.

The whole episode, however, set me speculating about peoples' habits when time tables are involved.

Some folks are late all their lives. No matter where they're supposed to be at a certain time, they're not there.

Ask them for dinner at seven; they get there at half-past. Ask them for half-past seven; they get there at five after eight.

After a while you get cagey. If you want to fix things so dinner won't be stone cold and ruined, you cheat by asking them half an hour before you want them. Once the pattern becomes clear, I just give up and just never ask them.

It strikes me that such people are rarely delayed legitimately, but are mysteriously impelled to show how all-fired important they are.

But those who actually are very important people rarely keep others cooling their heels in anterooms or reheating the soup in the kitchen.

They got to be important in the first place by using time, not misusing it.

The worst offenders about time and appointments are supposed to be women. This is a man-invented notion, and not exactly unbiased.

For it's just like a man to grouse if she's late, and if she's not, to decide she's too anxious.

ANNE FOGARTY

And at Weddings, Too

Dress Will Star at Parties

Anne Fogarty is fast becoming one of America's favored designers. At one time a designer dedicated to juniors, her following now includes women of all ages who cannot resist the flattering, young look of her fashions.

Her dress today is terrifically Anne Fogarty, with princess lines sharply cut into the waist, then gradually widened to wonderful fullness. It is a dress to make in pique or linen for parties now.

In silk (taffeta would be especially good) with ruffly petticoats beneath, it's the kind of dress that makes you look cool even when you're not. For informal weddings, bride or bridesmaids, it lends itself to any of the bridal materials.

To receive the full benefit of lines devised to give you a tiny waist, be sure to wear a waist cincher or a "merry widow." It goes without mentioning that petticoats are definitely in order.

This pattern is cut in designer sizes.

Bust	Waist	Hips	Size
32½	23½	33½ inches	9
33½	24½	34½ inches	11
35	26	36 inches	13
36½	27½	37½ inches	15
38	29	39 inches	17

Size 13 requires 6⅛ yards of 39-inch material for the dress. To order Pattern 1171, address Spadea Syndicate, Inc., P. O. Box 535, Dept. P-6, G.P.O., New York 1, N. Y. State size. Send $1. Airmail handling 25 cents extra.

Girl Upset Over Lad's Showing Off

She Wants to Calm His Too Raucous Behavior

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

There's always a fly in the ointment. You get to feeling that the lad is absolutely perfect—and suddenly one tiny detail of difference matters terrifically. You want to rub out that spot, correct his fault for him and make him over to suit yourself.

We won't mention the possibility that something might mar your perfectiotn in his eyes. Let's just concentrate on how to behave when he's the one who's misbehaving.

This girl is stewing over the influence an audience has on her boy friend. She's sure she can change all that, of course. Here's what she writes:

"Dear Miss Woodward: The boy I date is very attractive when we're alone. But as soon as he gets with a crowd, he begins to cut up.

"He laughs too loud, talks too loud; he's a show-off. I'm embarrassed to death by his behavior, yet I still like him. Is there any tactful way I can tell him about his annoying antics?"

But I've a few questions to ask. Are you yourself on the quiet, timid side and slightly envious of anyone who can let himself go and have a hilarious time? Could it possibly be that your crowd is so dull and stuffy that your boy friend feels it necessary to appoint himself the joker in order to liven things up?

Is he the type that gets so exhilerated and excited at a party that he can't help being a bit raucous? The answers may help you to understand why you let yourself be so upset by things he does.

If you're in the habit of criticizing each other openly, you'll tell him how you feel. But it may accomplish nothing. Since you've identified your emotions with his behavior, you'd better stick close to him at parties.

"We're making too much noise" might quiet him down. "We might break something" might calm the roughhouse. Take him aside for a little twosome chat when he seems nervously excited. Hold him down tactfully—instead of pointing out his flaws to him. It will be easier on everybody's emotions.

If you can sweetly and gently exercise a restraining influence on his exuberance when you're with a crowd, he'll form new habits of behavior. That sort of helping would do you both good.

* * *

A boy friend can be jealous of other things besides competition, without his girl friend realizing it's the cause of the rift between them. A boy can be quite resentful of being shut out of a part of his girl's life.

She may not understand why, as this girl doesn't. But here's her story:

"Dear Miss Woodward: We understand each other well—we're of the same religion, our families are close friends, we have much in common.

"But one thing stands between us to cause friction. I belong to a lodge. He doesn't believe in any lodge that has secret work in it. I try to avoid mentioning it, as I know he dislikes it so.

"I don't want to drop out of the lodge because I like this work. Have you any suggestions for easing the fricitton between us?"

It seems quite clear that your boy friend dislikes and distrusts any activities that you have to keep secret from him. And not talking about your lodge makes it even worse.

There must be something you can tell him, something about the lodge that is common knowledge. There must be something you can let him in on that will make him understand what this activity means to you. Some way you can make him feel that he's not completely shut out.

He's not going to change his opinion or his attitude until he has some information to go on. It's up to you to remove the cause of friction between you without violating any pledges of secrecy you've made.

You can persuade him to like your lodge activities just because you do. And for the same reasons.

Don't Realize the Advantages

Many Modern Girls Shun Careers in Stenography

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"Why do so many young women have a block against stenography nowadays?" a mother writes me.

"When I was a girl, we thought it was wonderful to have a good secretarial job. As a matter of fact, stenography saved my life.

"I was widowed when my little girl was 4, and I was able to go out to work, make a good living, and send her through high school.

"Through good times or bad I have always been able to find work, and at a decent salary, too."

"This has saved our economy future, but now my daughter turns up her nose at learning stenography. Why is that so?"

It's true that there is a great distaste nowadays for learning stenography, and for secretarial work.

The other day a young woman was telling me about her college classmates, all of them out a year in the business world.

"What are they like?" I had asked. "Well," she said brightly, "some of them have talent, and the rest are secretaries!"

Yet the fact remains that many, many of the most successful career women start as secretaries. And most girls, unless they are very low at clerical aptitude and manual dexterity, can manage to learn stenography and typing.

1. Explain to her that stenography can open the door to dozens of interesting fields which she couldn't enter without it.

2. Explain that if she has any real talent, it will come to the surface and she will get an opportunity to move eventually into administrative and creative work.

3. Explain that by putting in a stint as secretary, she will learn the business and be prevented from the kind of foolish behavior that makes some girls rush in where angels fear to tread.

4. Explain that stenography is a skill which is even better than money in the bank. Banks can fail, but the good stenoghrapher can always make a living.

Also, after she is married and her children are in school, she can find herself a part-time job more readily than any other worker.

5. Give her a copy of "Today's Secretary," a magazine which discusses the interesting aspects of secretarial work.

By EMILY POST

The following letter involves a question of payment: "My husband and I recently went on a motor trip with another couple. We used their car as it is a newer model than ours and we thought it would be much more reliable on a long trip. We of course, paid half the running expenses of the car.

"However, during the trip something went wrong with the car and required a repair job before we could continue our trip. The bill for this was quite a sizeable one and the owner of the car has hinted that my husband should pay half of it.

"I told my husband to just ignore it as I do not feel it is our obligation to share this expense. Will you please give us your opinion on this matter?"

Answer: If it was a part that was about to wear out, then I think you should not be expected to pay for it merely because you happened to be sharing the car at the time.

But if the car was thoroughly gone over and in perfect condition when you started out, and the part that gave out was definitely damaged by the wear and tear given the engine on the trip, then Ido think you might offer to pay half of the bill.

Dear Mrs. Post: At a party to which only some of the guests have taken presents, isn't it polite to put them aside and open them later rather than to open them in the presence of those who bought none and thereby cause them embarrassment.

Answer: Showing complete lack of appreciation for the thoughtfulness of the givers, in order to coddle the chagrin of the empty-handed, would be just about the most strange and unfair behavior that I have ever heard of.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a school teacher. Should I rise when the principal of the school, a man, comes in to my classroom?

Answer: Yes, because you are in the position of hostess, who always rises to greet a visitor.

Make Weaving Frames

I am sure that all of you have seen the little weaving frames which may stores have on sale. You do not need to buy one of these, for they are easy to make, and if a group of you is going to use looms as a craft project, it will save you a great deal of money if you make your own.

I am sure that Dad will want to help you with any part of it which you find hard to do.

Make the frame by using 1-inch stock which you will find at the lumber company. The corners will need to be mitred so that they will fit together.

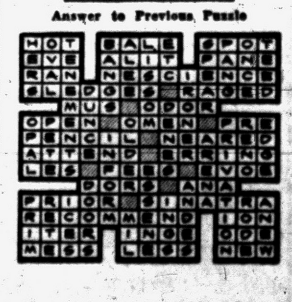

Put 18 1-inch brads or finishing nails along each side of the frame. They should be about five-sixteenths of an inch apart, and opposite each other.

The weaving can be done in either of two ways. You can buy jersey loops at most dime stores, and these come in all colors. It is much more inexpensive to make your own loops. This can be done by asking neighbors and friends to save their wornout nylons for you.

You then cut the stockings into rings by cutting the stockings right across every inch. You will have many rings from each one as they can be cut from the top to the ankle. Dye them if you like.

Loop across the 18 brads, then weave the opposite loops in and out of the first loops, using a wire hook. Interlocking the edges to finish.

Grace Lutheran Church will celebrate the second anniversary of its new sanctuary with two special services at 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. Sunday.

Guest speaker for the day will be the Rev. John Streit of Covenant Lutheran Church, Detroit, assisted by the pastor, the Rev. Otto G. Schultz.

The senior choir, directed by Henry Elling, will sing the anthem "O God Our Help in Ages Past." "Gratitude Offerings" will be received at the two services.

Changes in schedule, effective this Sunday and in the future, were announced today. Early worship and church will be held at 9 a. m. instead of 9:30 as in the past. Also, a second Sunday school will be conducted at 11 a.m. along with the regular worship service.

The pastor reports that during the two years since the dedication of its new building, both church and Sunday school attendance have doubled. Total membership is approaching the 1,000 mark, with 700 adult members listed.

In line with its policy of serving as a center to promote community needs, the church now lists among its active organizations the Grace Ladies' Guild, Fellowship Group, Altar Guild, Lutheran Laymen's League, Walther League, Usher's Club, Senior Choir, Boy's Choir and Boy Scout Troop 244.

Michigan Week Prayers Asked

Local Churches Stress Spiritual Foundations of Wolverine State

Many Pontiac area churches have been stressing the spiritual foundations of Michigan, as the state prepares to observe Michigan Week.

Special prayers will be offered Sunday throughout the state in gratitude for the democratic freedom citizens of this state enjoy, and for the continuance of freedom, prosperity and spiritual awareness here and throughout the nation.

Prayers are urged for the governor, legislators and leaders of Michigan.

Dr. G. Merrill Lenox, executive director of the Michigan and Detroit Councils of Churches, suggests a prayer that "every citizen of our beloved and beautiful state may dedicate himself anew to God and His service, recognizing that the only true purpose of life is to do His holy will."

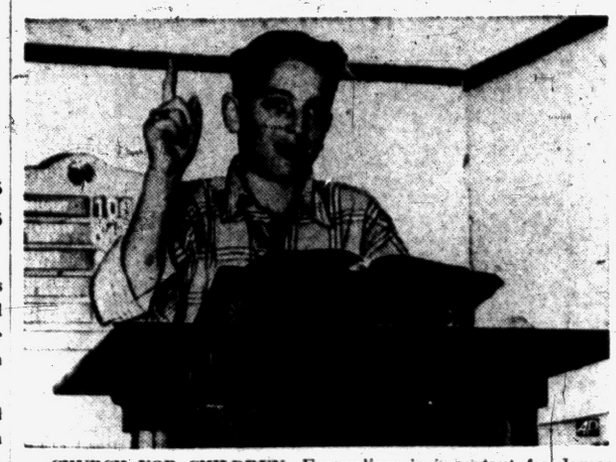

Church Sponsors Exhibit of Modern Religious Art

By Religious News Service

NEW YORK — The second annual Exhibition of Present Day Religious Art opened in the parish house of the Church of the Ascension (Episcopal) here and will continue through May 9.

The exhibition was originated last year in an effort to "bridge the gap between the Church of today and modern artists." Paintings and sculptures were selected by the art committee of the church's Fellowship Forum.

Included are works by Zoltan Sepesky of Cranbrook, Georges Roualt, Abraham Rattner, Pachner, Sister Mary Corita, Reuben Rubin, Hans Moller, Randall Morgan, Samuel Adler, Louisa Jenkins, Robert Vickery, Andre Girard, John Shayne, Lita Rocher, Letterio Calapi, Jean Charlot, Alfred Crimi, Oronzio Moldarelli, Moissaye Marans, Koren Der Harootian, Emmanuel Viviano and Alfred Van Lope.

CHURCH FOR CHILDREN—Evangelism is important for James Leroy Pritchard, 12. As a member of the Children's Church of America he hears the pastor preach Sunday mornings, takes his turn in the pulpit at an evening service.

Children's Church Helps Cut Juvenile Delinquency

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Five years ago they were Oklahoma City's forgotten children. Today they are leading better lives because a ragged urchin, many years ago, was dragged to Sunday school by a friend.

The children are the congregation of the non-denominational Children's Church of America, founded by the former ragged urchin, the Rev. L. M. Stevenson, "bicycle preacher."

They laughed when he first pedaled through the streets, coaxing youngsters to Sunday school and riding them there on the handle bars.

He cut a ridiculous figure, he admits, but there's nothing funny about the change he has made in young lives.

More than 100 children come from a section known to police as a spawning bed for juvenile delinquents and criminals. "The Reverend" has graduated from his bicycle. For a time he used taxicabs, then a station wagon. Now he is buying a bus. He goes out after the members.

Stevenson, as first, was disconcerted that many children who promised on Saturday to be in church Sunday weren't there.

"More often than not," he says, "they were in jail."

He set out to get them out of jail and into church. When juvenile officers give up on a child in trouble, the minister takes them into his home if they have no other place to go.

His project is backed by the inter-denominational Wesleyan Youth, Inc., organized by Stevenson and supported by more than a thousand businessmen.

One of his "incorrigibles" at 16 had a criminal record that shocked even a hard-bitten judge. On Sundays you can find this erstwhile tough guy at the Children's Church teaching Sunday school.

Such cases have drawn nationwide attention. District judges here swear by him and jurists elsewhere have written to learn his formula.

"I lay claim to no magic formula," he says. "But I do not deal with juvenile delinquents — only kids who need help."

His charges range from tots to 18-year-olds.

Each Sunday morning he delivers a sermon. That night it's the children's turn. Someone is assigned a topic to talk on, and must seek out quotations in scripture.

"It's something," Stevenson smiles proudly, "to watch a 12-year-old who used to spend his nights stealing, or smoking marijuana, lecturing his fellows on faith."

The member who brings the most visitors to Sunday school gets a prize — the choice of 50 cents or a Bible. These broke youngsters invariably choose the latter.

On Monday nights they all go roller skating and there are picnics and other outdoor festivities to keep the mischievous from backsliding.

"The children were sullen and unruly at first," he recalls, "and some parents were even hostile."

First Presbyterian to Dedicate Window

A new stained glass window will be dedicated at the 11 a.m. worship service in First Presbyterian Church Sunday, the third in a group of sanctuary windows whose theme is the parables of Jesus.

A gift of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Oliver, the window depicts in colorful style the Parable of the Talents. Three pictorial medallions are predominant. The central theme is fidelity to Christ.

Dr. William H. Marbach, pastor, will preach at the dedication service. His topic will be "Our Best Investment."

The window completes the lower east side group and is located at the back of the church. Its glass was imported from Belgium and creative art work was done by Charles J. Connick Associates, Boston.

Two other windows are planned for the west side, to be placed this summer, and space has been reserved for a third west window in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Marbach.

Central Methodist Church to Hold Family Program

The Rev. Milton H. Bank will mark the beginning of Family Week at Central Methodist Church Sunday by preaching on "Teachers of the Spirit" at the 10:45 a.m. service.

A Family Night Fellowship will be held Sunday evening, starting with a potluck family supper at 5:30, followed by programs for nursery, primary, junior and youth groups.

Theme of the program will be "A Troubled World Needs Christian Families." A film, "Faith of Our Families," will be shown for the adults.

City Offers Up Peace Prayers

Residents Join Nation in Humble Supplication for Divine Aid

By proclamation of the mayor, and in accordance with the will of the people, thousands of men, women and children in Pontiac and surrounding communities will pause today to pray for peace as cities all over the nation observe May Day — Pray Day.

In stores, offices and factories—in kitchens and nurseries — in club rooms and churches — in Pontiac and in America — individuals will kneel or bow their heads in supplication to the Most High for an understanding among nations and a lasting peace.

"The power of prayer is greater than the power of the H-bomb. The power of the Creator is greater than the power of the creation.

"In this belief, we urge that every person join in a great nation-wide plea for Divine aid," said Robert E. Erickson, of Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce. Jaycee organizations all over America have sponsored the international May Day-Pray Day movement.

They ask you and your children — sometime today — to pray that God bring together the Communist leaders and the leaders of our own country and other free nations so that they may, hand in hand, conduct a zealous search for lasting peace.

They have appealed to church leaders, clubs, veteran and civic organizations and educational leaders to urge their members to join in the gigantic prayer movement for world peace.

A Junior Chamber of Commerce resolution expressing the sincere desire for lasting peace is being forwarded to the Kremlin. Endorsements from pastors and religious organizations also will be delivered to the Russian capitol.

Protestant churches all over America are supporting the program. Catholic churches for some years have set the month of May aside for special daily services and prayers for the conversion of Russia and world peace.

In proclaiming May 1 as a day set aside for special prayer, Pontiac Mayor William Donaldson stated:

"May Day-Pray Day is designed to give new, lofty significance to the Communist holiday and to provide an opportunity for those of this community to join together for a single purpose in exercising the most powerful force at our command — prayer."

Music Fellowship to Hold Program at First Baptist

There'll be music in the air Sunday afternoon and evening at First Baptist Church, when two special programs present the work of the Oakland County Chapter of the National Church Music Fellowship. Three Pontiac area choirs will be featured in special numbers and group choral anthems.

The featured evening concert which begins at 7 p.m. will include well loved hymns and solo, violin, piano and organ selections.

For those who are unable to attend in the evening, a 3 p.m. program will include an address by guest director Talmadge J. Bittikofer on the work of organizing and maintaining a volunteer choir. A general discussion period and a presentation of the work of the NCMF will follow.

For the evening concert, the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian choir will sing "Jesus Lover of My Soul," "They Have Taken Away My Lord," and "My God and I." William T. Coffing is the director.

James Vandersall will direct the Drayton Plains United Presbyterian Choir in "Let Mount Zion Rejoice," "Crown Him Lord, and a tenor solo by the Rev. Roy Lambert — Gounod's "Sanctus." James Vandersall will give a violin solo, "Adagio," from Concerto in G minor by Max Bruch.

"Lift Up Your Heads," "The Beatitudes," and "Calvary" will be sung by Pontiac First Baptist Choir, with W. Howard Schoof directing.

The offertory number will be an organ and piano duet by Mrs. Miss Mildred Barnett, pianist.

Closing numbers on the program will be by the combined choirs, under the direction of Talmadge Bittikofer. They will sing: "Beautiful Savior," by Christiansen; "Battle Hymn of the Republic," Steffe-Ringwald; and "Springs in the Desert," by Jennings.

Mr. Bittikofer, the guest director was formerly on the faculty of Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, as an instructor of music, W. Howard Schoof of First Baptist Church is program director.

"We wish to extend an invitation to all who enjoy music to attend what we believe will be a truly fine concert," the Rev. H. H. Savage, pastor of the local church, said. "Everyone is welcome."

Church Plans Week of Musical Programs

Providence Missionary Baptist Church will begin a week of musical emphasis with a 3:30 p. m. program Sunday featuring the Flying Cloud Singers of Detroit, a sextet specializing in spirituals. The three church choirs will participate in the Sunday program and in musical programs to be held at 8 p. m. each night next week.

Monday's program will include Verdiman Siggers, the "blind evangelist" of Mt. Zion Baptist Church, Detroit, and the Male Chorus. The Wandering Travelers and Calvary Gospel Singers will be featured on other evenings.

On Sunday at 1:30 the young people of the church are sponsoring a dinner. Mrs. Louise Edwards is their leader.

Church Women to Mark Fellowship Day Friday

"The Christian woman's trusteeship" is the theme of May Fellowship Day, May 7, when church women of all denominations will gather in their local communities "for friendliness and fellowship" across sectarian and racial lines. The day is sponsored by United Church Women—a department of the National Council of Churches.

It will be observed in worship services and meetings in which the women will examine their economic role as citizens, consumers, homemakers, and neighbors. Mrs. Spann Milner, of Atlanta, Ga., is national chairman of the day.

The United Church Women of Pontiac have scheduled a May Fellowship breakfast May 10 at Oakland Park Methodist Church. Reservations will be accepted until May 8.

Everyday Religion

BY DON D. TULLIS

"A CHURCH ON FIRE"

The sirens are sounding. A church is on fire. The neighbors are standing around watching. One man says to another,—"Well John, this is the first time I ever saw you at church." John replies, "This is the first time I ever saw a church on fire."

A church on fire! That is quite a novelty. Present day religion has lost much of its burning zeal. There are no tongues of fire descending upon its members, nor are they bearing any burning brands to set the world ablaze. Their paeans of praise are not potent enough to prompt another Pentecost.

Excellent organization, hard work, good sermons and helpful music combine to attract large numbers of worshippers, but the message is not spreading like wild fire.

There is need of more emotion,—more spiritual warmth in the worship service. Not the old time shouting type, but a joyous inner urge that expresses itself in smiling faces and hushed hallelujas. Cold intellectualism can never start a fire.

During a service in a dignified church a man shouted out "Amen." An usher rushed to his side and asked "What's the matter with you?" He said "I'm getting religion." "This is no place to get religion" replied the usher. There is something more than comedy in this incident.

The disciples of certain godless philosophies are putting us to shame by their zeal and their devotion to their faith. This is our fault and not the fault of our Gospel. Our Gospel is a furnace of fire, which, if released will give light to those who sit in darkness, warmth to those who feel the chill of defeat and healing to those who are sick of soul.

It is the duty of the church to release this fire, by making contact with its source, for where there is no contact there is no release of energy.

It must also work for greater unity. Pentecost came only when the disciples were all together in one place. A united church is essential to a redeemed humanity.

And there must be real consecration and dedication to the task. God gives no fire to be wasted. To have it, we must use it.

A church on fire! A burning church is sparked by a burning pulpit. If the priest is on fire it will spread to the people, and a people ablaze with zeal will set the world on fire.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

In a seaport town on the Mediterranean, a man was defending himself against charges which had been brought against him. He looked up at the judge before whom the hearing was being held and very earnestly asked:

"Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you that God should raise the dead?"

That question was asked almost 1,900 years ago in a town called Caesarea. The judge was a king named Agrippa; the prisoner was St. Paul.

The message is that the dead do rise and that the resurrection is not only the resurrection of Jesus, but the rebirth possible to all of us.

It was a message vivid in our minds Easter morning. But Easter is two weeks past. Is the message still vivid? Does it compel your emotions? Does its promise illuminate your spirit?

Or is it beginning to be relegated to the "dead issues" of past events?

This exciting promise is very clearly stated in the Bible and it is expressed in words that are among the most resonant in that great Book: "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live: and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."

Look outside and see how, each year, the fact of resurrection is demonstrated. It's spring again, not only for the trees, the grass, the flowers, but for the hearts of men.

You begin to realize that death can be more than death of the body, that there is a living death that men rise from only by the miracle of resurrection.

Riding on the subway, on a bus, on a train, have you ever looked at the faces around you? Have you ever noticed how many of them seem gray and hopeless? And have you ever thought that yours may appear just the same way to those who look at you?

Too many of us are "zombies," walking dead. We have lost our faith, our hope, our belief in our great future. We go on by force of habit, but the zest of living has gone out of our hearts.

If that is your frame of mind at this post-Easter season, you need to learn to live again. You need to experience resurrection. The message of new life is directed to you; its promise is a promise for you. It can be expressed in short and simple words: believe and live; believe and God will raise you from death to real life.

What is death anyway? We recognize death of the body by the absence of specific things: breathing, walking, talking, by lack of response and participation. We also recognize it by a lack of vitality, eagerness, enthusiasm, power, or faith.

But aren't there many people able to breathe, walk, talk and move who haven't that second group of attributes? If you are one of them, actually how much different is it from being dead?

The miracle of resurrection is the miracle of revitalization through faith. It is the casting off of fear and the taking on of hope. It is to cast out of your life old dead things and live with a glorious new spirit.

Perhaps you made this Easter your Easter. Made it your personal Resurrection. Remembered that He promised you: "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

Do you still remember?

Catholics Set Daily Services to Honor Mother of Christ

Today will see the beginning of May Devotions to the Mother of Christ in Roman Catholic churches in Pontiac and throughout the world.

Catholic churches in the city have scheduled special services at 7:30 tonight and every evening this month to honor the Virgin Mary and to pray for peace. Services will include the recitation of the Rosary and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Pope Pius XII has designated May 23 as a Children's Day of Crusade for Peace. This Sunday also has been set aside by Cardinal Mooney as Family Communion Sunday in Pontiac and the archdiocese of Detroit, to coincide with the Papal declaration.

On the afternoon of May 23 Pontiac Catholics also will join in a gigantic "pilgrimage of prayer" to be held at University of Detroit Stadium. Over 80,000 are expected to converge there to honor the Mother of Christ and send up their solemn petitions for peace during this Marian Year.

The practice of reciting the Rosary as a means of asking God's intervention for peace began in 1683 when the Turks were besieging Vienna and threatening the whole Western World. At that time the Pope called for special prayers to honor the Mother of God and to plead that She pray to God for a miracle to save the Christian world.

A signal victory was won at Vienna and the Turks were driven back although they far outnumbered the Christian defenders.

Prayers for peace are also recited every Sunday of the year in Catholic churches, following all Low Masses.

At the final session, a continuing committe was named to work out plans for future liaison between the two faiths.

Roosevelt Case Still Up in Air

Judge Permits Jimmy to Change Separation Suit to Divorce

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The James Roosevelts may obtain a divorce or separate maintenance decree if and when their sensational marital dispute comes to trial.

And if there is a trial, the famed "infidelities letter," signed by the eldest son of the late President and dated Feb. 27, 1945, will be part of the record. The letter lists nine instances of misconduct with women, which Roosevelt has denied.

Superior Judge Kurtz Kauffman yesterday allowed Roosevelt to amend his separate maintenance suit to a divorce action, but denied his motion to strike the letter from the record. Mrs. Roosevelt's suit for separate maintenance was not an issue in the hearing.

Neither Roosevelt, who is running for Congress in nearby Los Angeles, nor his estranged wife, Romelle, was in court.

The ruling on the divorce motion in effect placed the divorce on file. The charge is unspecified extreme cruelty.

Judge Kauffman also overruled Roosevelt's demurrer to Mrs. Roosevelt's contention that his infidelities letter and another one he signed and dated the same day constitute a contract. The other letter offered Mrs. Roosevelt half his property and half his net income for life.

"We consider the judge's rulings a victory for our client," said Mrs. Roosevelt's attorney, Robert Schifferman.

However, Roosevelt's counsel, Samuel B. Picone, told newsmen, "the ruling does not pass on the validity of the letter. That will be ruled upon at the time of trial."

Mrs. Roosevelt's separate maintenance suit charges cruelty and adultery. She named three co-respondents. Roosevelt, who is paying her $1,625 a month under a court order, has denied these charges also.

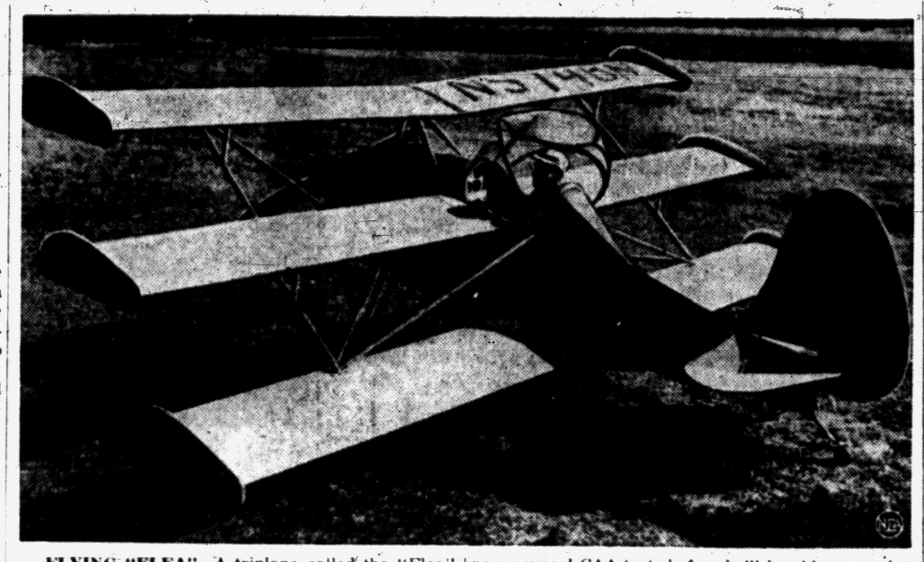

Robert Taylor Engaged to German Film Actress

Taylor confirmed yesterday the two will marry but said no date has been set for the ceremony.

Miss Thiess has two children by her former husband, a German movie director. One child is with her and plans are being made to bring the other from Germany before the wedding.

Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck were divorced in 1951 after 11 years' marriage. He and Miss Thiess met two years ago.

FLYING "FLEA"—A triplane called the "Flea" may soon be sold in "build-it-yourself" kits for less than $1,000. George Frisbee, its inventor, demonstrates the plane in Milwaukee, Wis. It still has to pass several CAA tests before he'll be able to market the Flea. The plane is 15 feet long, has a 20-foot wing span and reportedly travels about 100 miles per hour.

Many Drivers Worse Mentally Than Criminals

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A psychologist says many chronic bad drivers are in worse shape mentally than criminals — and some persons driving cars would be committed as legally insane.

Dr. Alan Canty of Detroit told the Midwestern Psychological Assn. here yesterday he studied 812 bad drivers (determined by traffic tickets) and 812 criminals for a year. He found more bad drivers were stupid, psychoneurotic, alcoholic, emotionally unstable, immature, or egocentric.

On one score, the drivers got the nod on the criminals — more criminals were anti-social, Canty said.

Timing Device Stops Party-Line Gossiping

CLIMAX (UP) — A gadget called a "conversation timer" has been installed by operators of the Climax Telephone Co. in an effort to eliminate service tieup complaints caused by partyline gossipers.

The operators, Mr. and Mrs. John Collver, said the timer sounds a buzzer seven minutes after a conversation starts on local calls. Sixty seconds later the connection is broken.

U-M Lining Up Broadway Hits

Lillian Gish Leads Off May 10th in 'Bountiful'; 4 Others Listed

Starting the season off May 10 through May 15 wil be Lillian Gish in "The Trip to Bountiful," the long-time, well-known star's performance will be supported by Kim Stanley who made a name for herself as the tomboy sister in the hit play "Picnic."

Moving into Ann Arbor next will be John Cecil Holm's mystery comedy "Gramercy Ghost," starring June Lockhart and John Dall. The play is scheduled to run May 17 through May 22. Dall appeared in last year's drama season, portraying the young Scott in "The Hasty Heart."

U-M alumnus Arthur Miller's hit "The Crucible" will be next on the bill, running May 25 through May 29. The cast will be announced later for this hit show, lauded by critics as "the best play by an American author to reach Broadway this season"

Barbara Bel Geddes in Andre Roussin's "The Little Hut" will take over the Ann Arbor drama scene from June 1 through June 5. Hiram Sherman is featured as male lead in this farce which played two years in Paris and London before coming to New York last year.

Publicist Asks Damages From Charles Laughton

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Publicist Russell Birdwell has filed suit for $35,000 against actor Charles Laughton.

Birdwell alleged in his complaint yesterday that a May 1, 1952, agreement called for his services as Laughton's public relations counselor for five years for $50,000. But the actor paid him only $15,000 and has refused further payment since last August, the publicist asserted.

Hollywood Not So Glamorous for Vacationers

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — So you want to see Hollywood on your vacation?

You're liable to be disappointed. You probably want to watch them make movies. Unless you're a VIP you won't be permitted on a movie set.

And Hollywood itself is likely to be a disappointment. The studios, which are spread out in five communities besides Hollywood, look much like any other kind of factory from the outside. Hollywood Boulevard is the same as most other main drags in medium-sized cities.

* * *

I don't mean that Hollywood isn't worth seeing. It is. But you have to realize that you won't be dazzled by the glamor you have read about all these years. I'll give you an idea of the sights you might enjoy in Holywood.

You can get inside the studios—if you'll pay for one of the bus tours. At least two of the studios have a deal with sightseeing outfits whereby tourists can be driven through the lots. But you'll just see the buildings and some outdoor sets. You won't be allowed off the bus.

There are also some tours conducted to the stars' homes. Or, if you have your own car, you can buy a map from hawkers on Sunset Boulevard. It directs you to the homes of 300 stars.

* * *

You want to see some stars in the flesh? That's not easy. You might blow yourself to a ticket to a movie premiere — if you can get one. Or if you're really eager, you can sit in a grandstand outside a preem and ogle the mink-clad babes as they parade by.

If you want to see the actors at feeding time, you could attend such bistros as Ciro's, Mocambo, Brown Derby, Romanoff's, Chasen's, La-Rue, Lucey's, etc. That is, if the maitre d' will give you a seat. And if you can afford the prices, which range from fantastic to outrageous.

If you are alert and ambitious, you can see the stars at other places — in the swank stores and book shops of Beverly Hills, outside radio, TV and film studios, at legit openings, charity shows, the better hotels, etc.

* * *

Stripper Stripped Out of Right to Sue

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A judge ruled that pretty Mrs. Shirley Ann Stough, 17, strip-teased herself out of any legal right to sue for damages when she peeled before a fashionable stag party.

Circuit Court Judge Harry Adams yesterday, threw out of court the $25,000 damage suit filed by Mrs. Stough and her 21-year-old husband, Eugene, against the Sphinx Secret Society.

Mrs. Stough charged the Sphinx, a cotton carnival organization, violated an agreement that the stag party would be limited to members of the society. Instead, she said, it turned into a public affair.

The young mother was arrested at the party, held in downtown Hotel Gayoso last April 6, and forfeited $102 bond on charges of indecent conduct and "suspicious person."

Her husband, a grocery store clerk, was arrested when he went to the station to try to get his wife out of jail. He also forfeited $102, charged with aiding and abetting the strip-tease and "suspicious person."

Screaming Eagle Unit to Be Activated May 15

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army announced today the airborne division, famed "Screaming Eagle" unit of World War II, will be activated May 15 as a training division at Ft. Jackson, S. C.

McCarthy, Wiley at Burlington's U. S. May Day

BURLINGTON, Wis. (AP) — This southern Wisconsin city—normal population 4,700—today welcomed thousands of visitors for a close look at an American-style May Day.

The theme for the day-long program on "May Day-U. S. Way" was Americanism—reminding citizens of "their greatest asset—citizenship in this great country." And the theme behind that theme was retorting to communism which traditionally is glorified on every first day of May.

Officials of "May Day-U. S. Way" expected Burlington to be jammed with 25,000 people, which would be the largest crowd in this city's history.

* * *

Heading the list of visitors was the full slate of Wisconsin's 12 elected spokesmen in Washington. Republican Senators Wiley and McCarthy filled main speaking roles.

"May Day-U. S. Way," sponsored by the American Legion, opened with church services in the morning. A parade consisting of some 70 floats depicting the bill of rights followed. A luncheon was scheduled to be followed by a speaking program on the high school athletic field.

Following his speech, McCarthy will fly to Oshkosh to attend a state meeting of Young Republicans.

Queen, Duke See Children Today

TOBRUK, Libya (AP) — Britain's Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, arrived here by air today for a reunion with their children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, whom they haven't seen for more than five months.

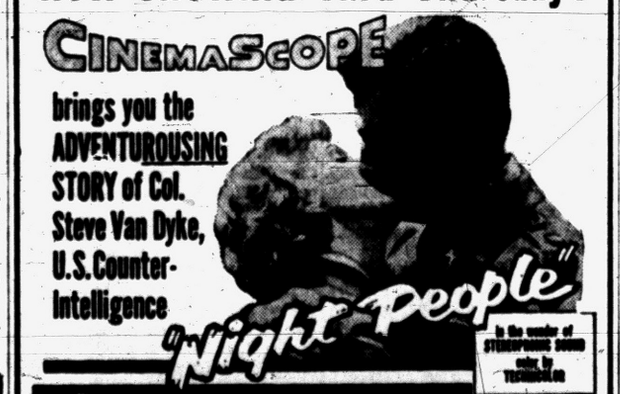

The royal couple flew in from the British African protectorate of Uganda on the final stage of a British commonwealth tour that has taken them around the world.

The 5-year-old heir to the British crown and his 3-year-old, blue-eyed sister came to this newly created independent North African kingdom aboard the royal yacht Britannia.

Slip of Mask Reveals Bandit as Clerk's In-Law

Police said Mrs. Josephine Russell, a bookkeeper at Surrett Battery Co., told them the mask of one of the gunmen slipped and she recognized the man as her brother-in-law.

As a result of her information, police arrested Gifford Russell, 20, of Marblehead. Harry Bennett, 19, his brother, Irwin, 20, and William G. White, all of Nahant, later were arrested.

Mrs. Russell said the holdup was foiled when other employes entered the office. A $2,000 payroll had been distributed a few hours earlier.

Fat Lady Loses Weight, Also Job in Sideshow

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Doctor's orders have driven Mrs. Frank Amand out of business. At 420 pounds she was billed as Baby Thelma in a circus sideshow but her physician said she had to come down to 200.

After she had knocked off 73 pounds, her husband, a 125-pound circus performer, had to go to a hospital with tuberculosis. Now Thelma must be the family breadwinner but at some other job.

Richest Derby Looms as 5-Horse Race

By ORLO ROBERTSON

LOUISVILLE (AP)—The Kentucky Derby, America's premier horse race, will be run for the 80th time at sprawling Churchill Downs today with five outstanding contenders for the richest winner's purse in history and 13 other three-year olds apparently just out for the ride.

* * *

The 18 colts, whose names were dropped into the entry box yesterday, are survivors of an original field of 137 nominated for this $100,000 added glamor race starting at 4:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

* * *

The others, including two of the future book choices, dropped by the wayside either through injuries or failure to show the speed and endurance necessary to be a serious contender at the mile and a quarter derby distance.

* * *

If all 18 of the overnight entries parade to the post as the band strikes up "My Old Kentucky Home" the owner of the winning horse will bank a net of $102,800 as compared to the previous high of $98,050 won in 1951 by Count Turf. The race will gross $124,850, only a little over a thousand short of the high mark three years ago.

Even if there are as many as two scratches, and the track conditions will decide that, the winner still will take down in excess of a hundred grand.

* * *

The weather man forecast showers for today, such as have been falling at intervals most of the week. But it will take much more than a few showers to mar the carefully groomed racing strip. It'll be cloudy and humid for the spectators.

Some 100,000 people, forming a cross section of American life, planned to be on hand for the big event which will be televised nationally by the Columbia Broadcasting System from 4 to 4:45 p.m. EST, and Broadcast by the same company from 4:15 to 4:45.

All of the reserved seats, 46,000 of them in stands stretching for three-eighths of a mile along one side of the oval, were sold months ago. Thousands of other spectators watch the turf classic from the infield.

Middlecoff on Top at Frisco With Subpar 69

Three-Under-Par Card Gives Memphis Dentist 3-Stroke Edge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Strapping Dr. Cary Midlecoff, the one time Memphis tooth yanker, turned into the second lap of the 54-hole $10,000 San Francisco Open invitational golf tournament today pacing the field by three important strokes.

* * *

The golfing ex-dentist, a former National Open champion, turned in a three-under-par 69 in yesterday's opening round. Under the prevailing weather conditions it was a remarkable performance.

* * *

To become the only player to crack par, Middlecoff bucked winds that at times reached 40 m.p.h. The present associate pro at Kiamesha Lake, N. Y. bagged seven birdies in his 34-35 carding. It included a two-over par seven on the 12th when he hit two shots into the trees, one in the rough and another into a trap.

* * *

Only two other players were even able to equal par in the windstorm. Marvin "Bud" Ward, twice national amateur champion and now a pro at nearby San Mateo, and Shelley Mayfield, Chicopee, Mass., trailed the leader with 72s. Ward's first round effort was a 35-37. Mayfield, an ex-Seguin, Texas, boy, came in with a pair of 36s. The field was spread out plenty going into the second session. Doug Ford, young hotshot now playing out of Kiamesha Lake, opened fire today with 73 shots; behind him George Buzzini of nearby Diablo, equalled the figure.

Fine Hitting, Hurling Win for Tigers

Little League's Future in Hands of Committee

Special Group Studying Good, Bad Points of Junior Baseball

By DICK HOENIG

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — The future of the small fry baseball world series is in the hands of a special committee making a national study of its good and bad points.

* * *

P. J. McGovern, president of Little League, Inc., the non-profit organization that has brought organized baseball to 8—12-year-olds through the world, today announced appointment of a three-man group to carry out what he called "a realistic survey" of the problem.

* * *

National Little League world series, the climax of league, district, state and regional tournament play, has been conducted in this Little League founding city the last seven years.

It has brought some criticism on the basis that it is unnecessary and raises terrific strain on the youngsters, but the Little League organization isn't convinced.

Little Leaguers are now found in every state of the nation and in at least eight foreign countries including Korea and Cuba. McGovern estimates that 250,000 boys are active Little League members while some 500,000 more play in organized "farm systems" for the younger groups. The list of franchised leagues for 1954, not complete, is up to a record 3,500 compared with last season's total of 2,800.

Radatz Bests McCormick

Berkley Blanks Bluejays, in Spite of No-Hitter

COUNTY BASEBALL

Waterford	3,	Van Dyke	2
Berkley	2,	Southfield	0
Farmington	8,	Walled Lake	0
Lake Orion	14,	Romeo	4
Birmingham	9,	Mt. Clemens	0
Lapeer	8,	Oxford	3
Clarenceville	10,	Northville	1

By JACK SAYLOR

Want to see a no-hitter? One pretty sure formula is to be on hand when Dick Radatz of Berkley is slated to pitch.

For the 3rd straight time Friday, Radatz was involved in a no-hitter. Berkley was a 2-0 winner Friday, but it was Southfield's Tom McCormick that hurled the hitless ball.

He was a tough luck loser in the 6th inning on an error, walk, fielder's choice, a wild pitch and another error. Both pitchers were brilliant as Radatz yielded only Harvey Bradley's 4th-inning single. Each fanned 13 batters.

Two games ago, Radatz was beaten, 7-0, by Cranbrook on Steve Hayes' no-hit job, and last time out, the rangy Berkley right hander turned in a no-hitter himself, 9-0, against Farmington.

Good pitching was prevalent all around the Inter-Lakes loop Friday. Southpaw Carl Dryden tossed a 3-hit shutout as Farmington beat Walled Lake, 8-0 and Waterford edged Van Dyke, 3-2, on Barry Fell's 3-hitter.

A control artist, Dryden whiffed 9 without issuing a walk. In the Waterford game Bill Gard's single in the 7th inning drove in Jerry Kruskie with the winning run. Kruskie had walked and stolen second.

Elsewhere, Birmingham's Dick Sheldon narrowly missed joining the no-hit circle as he shut out Mt. Clemens, 9-0, yielding only a scratch single in the 7th inning. He struck out 14 and walked four.

Lapeer defeated Oxford, 8-3, though out-hit, as the Wildcats committed 8 errors. Lake Orion thumped Romeo, 14-4, scoring nine runs in the final inning, and Clarenceville drubbed Northville, 10-1, with all scoring coming in the 1st two frames.

Rookie Tuttle's Single in 12th Nails 2-1 Win

Sensational Victory Keeps Bengals Close to Leading Chisox

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some high heroics at bat and on the pitching mound pulled out a sensational 2-1 victory for the Detroit Tigers over the Washington Senators in 12 innings last night.

So today the ambitious Bengals still were pressing hard on the 1st place Chicago White Sox and hopeful of overtaking them before Sunday's New York invasion.

GARVER

Three singles after two were out in the 9th gave Detroit the tying run last night and another three singles put over the winner in the 12th in a ding-dong two hour and 47 minute battle.

Ned Garver, in his 3rd successive brilliant exhibition of the young season, held the Senators to five hits before retiring in the ninth for a pinch hitter.

Bob Porterfield, allowing only 10 hits, went all the way for Washington and missed a 1-0 victory by a hair.

He had two men out in the Tiger 9th when Jim Delsing, Harvey Kuenn and Ray Boone delivered successive singles, Delsing scoring the tying run on Boone's blow.

Almost the same thing happened in the 12th. Boone opened with a single and after Wait Dropo went out Al Kaline also singled. Rookie Bill Tuttle then singled into center to score Boone.

By KEN ALYTA

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)—A sharp looking white jacket was pressed and hanging in Billy Joe Patton's locker here today as he headed for the finals duel with Alex Welsh in the 54th North and South amateur golf tournament.

Patton said he bought the coat last month to wear at the Masters tournament at Augusta, because he wanted "to look nice when they presented me something."

Most galleryites were of the opinion that Billy Joe, the 32-year-old lumberman, would don the jacket this afternoon to receive the silver coffee service, earmarked for the winner.

* * *

The bespectacled Morganton, N. C., man whose third place finish in the Masters brought him national acclaim and a match with President Eisenhower, scored a 3 and 2 semifinal victory yesterday. So did Welsh, the 34-year-old Rockford, Ill., attorney.

Patton's victim was William Hyndman, Abington, Pa., who last year also lost in the semifinals, to Bill Campbell, the winner in the finals. Welsh won from Frank Meacham of Roanoke Rapids, N. C.

Patton, seven under par in winning four earlier matches, was two over par against Hyndman and won the last four holes by coming from behind to close out.

Also somewhat off his earlier form, Welsh was five over against Meacham who was playing his first North-South.

Mt. Pleasant and Brethren Win B-D Relays Crowns

BY PRESS WIRE SERVICE

Sixteen Class A teams — including Saginaw Valley Conference powerhouses Flint Northern, Saginaw High, Pontiac and defending champion Arthur Hill — share the spotlight with 58 Class C squads today in the 2nd day of the giant Central Michigan College Relays.

Mt. Pleasant and Brethren were stamped as favorites for state high school track championships three weeks hence following triumphs in yesterday's competition.

Mt. Pleasant won the Class B title in a nip-and-tuck battle with Inkster, outscoring the latter 40 to 37 1-5. Brethren breezed to the class D crown with 65 1-5 points. Troy finished 8th in Class C with 16 points, Roseville was 25th with four and Milford 27th with 3 1-5 points.

It took a disqualification in the mile relay to give Mt. Pleasant the nod over Inkster. Competing in the event for the 1st time, Inkster sent three freshmen and a senior after victory in the mile race.

The overanxious Inkster sprinters jumped the gun and lost eight points, more than enough to win the championship.

Despite the loss, four Inkster runners shared in three record-breaking performances. The quartet of Herman and Arthur Frederick, Bill Collaway and Otis Lee won the 880 relay in 1:33, the 660 in 1:08.2 and the 440 in :49.9.

In all, 16 of the 32 existing records for the events were shattered.

Fascinator Winner of Pre-Derby Feature

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 1 (AP) — Maine Chance Farm's Fascinator refused to give ground in a stirring stretch duel with Queen Hopeful Friday and took a one-length decision in the historical Kentucky Oaks. Blue Violin was third.

A derby eve crowd of 25,000 cheered the bay daughter of War Jeep to victory at 17 to 1 odds.

Victory in the "Fillies' Kentucky Derby," a race that has been run since 1875, was worth $22,200 out of the $31,000 purse. Fascinator had won $18,750 in four previous races this year.

Strike May Hit Briggs Stadium

Stadium's work force of groundsmen, ushers, stilesmen and guards, members of an AFL union, voted yesterday to strike, 84-12. They want more pay.

In effect, the strike vote turned down President Walter O. (Spike) Briggs' proposal that the wage dispute be postponed until July 12. By that time, Briggs said, the management would be better able to gauge season attendance.

Stadium employs approximately 150 men. Forty-four of them did not take part in the voting, according to a tabulation announced by the state labor mediation board.

Under state law the strike must be called within 30 days in order to be legal. Employes are members of Local 79 of the Building Service Employes Union.

Tigers, now in the East, return home May 11.

Present pay rates include $1.65 hourly for groundsmen and $5 per single game and $7.25 for doubleheaders for lower deck ushers, $7 and $9 for upper deck ushers, $7 and $9 for stilesman, and $6.50 and $8.50 for guards.

Pontiac Netters Drop Fifth Straight Match

Gonsalves, Smith Meet

CINCINNATI (AP) — A pair of high-ranking lightweights, Johnny Gonsalves and Wallace (Bud) Smith, tangle in a 10-round televised boxing match here starting at 8 p.m. (EST) over ABC.

Gonsalves is rated 7th among the challengers for Paddy DeMarco's title and holds a decision over DeMarco within the past year. Smith dropped from 1st to 4th after suffering a loss to Joe Miceli in February.

Union Nine to Practice

Local 594 Class A baseball team will hold a practice session at 2 p.m. Sunday at Wisner field.

Cubs Purchase Bilko

CHICAGO, May 1 (AP) — The Chicago Cubs Friday bought Steve Bilko, 25-year-old first baseman from the St. Louis Cardinals.

Bilko played in 154 games for the Cards last year. He provides the Cubs with their second first baseman. The other is Dee Fondy.

Jensen Bids for Batting Lead in American League

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Jackie Jensen, 27-year-old outfielder, a former member of the New York Yankees and Washington Senators, is making a strong bid for the early season lead in the American League batting race in his first season with the Boston Red Sox.

* * *

Jensen, obtained by the Bosox from Washington last winter, is hitting at a healthy .386 clip, a mark which places him second to Cleveland's Billy Glynn. The latter, setting the pace with a .419 average, has been sidelined in recent games in favor of third baseman Al Rosen, who has taken over Glynn's first base post.

In the National League, Ransom Jackson of the Chicago Cubs maintains a commanding margin. Although he collected only five hits in 18 times at bat last week, Jackson is at .477 and his closest competitor, Johnny Temple of Cincinnati, is at .379. Temple produced 11 safeties in 25 trips last week (a .440 rate).

* * *

Rookie Bill Tuttle of Detroit is third in the American League with a .381 mark. He's followed by Billy Goodman of Boston with .373, Bobby Avila of Cleveland with .362 and Westlake with .353 Tuttle had seven hits in 13 at bats last week, Goodman 7-for-16 and Avila 6-for-16.

Behind Temple in the National League come Ray Jablonski of St. Louis, .375, Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn, .368 and Duke Snider, also of the Dodgers, with .367.

* * *

Jackson and Gil Hodges of Brooklyn share the National League home run lead with five apiece. The No. 1 runs batted in position also is held by two players, Gus Bell and Jim Greengrass of Cincinnati. Each has 16. Ferris Fain of the Chicago White Sox has driven in the most runs in the American League, 13.

Athletics' Pitcher Bob Trice May Make Jump From Minor to Major League Stardom in Year

By BEN PHLEGAR

Associated Press Sports Writer

If big Bob Trice can keep up his fast start he may make the jump from International League Rookie of the Year to American League Rookie of the Year in one season.

* * *

The lean, Georgia-born Negro, first of his race to play for the Philadelphia Athletics, has started, finished and won three games. And each time he's pitched he's gotten better.

* * *

Trice joined the A's in the dog days of last September and posted a 2-1 record after winning 21 for Ottawa in the International League.

* * *

This year he made his first start against Boston and won 6-4 even though he was reached for 11 hits. In his second appearance he shut out the New York Yankees 1-0 on six hits. Last night against the Baltimore Orioles he had a one-hit shutout going for eight innings and wound up with a 5-1 three hitter.

The only Baltimore run came as Bobby Young singled, moved to third on Gil Coan's double and scored as Eddie Waitkus grounded out.

The loss was the first of the year for Duane Pillette who had won two.

Trice, who is 25, is only one full season away from Class C ball. He won 16 and lost 3 for St. Hyacinthe in the Provincial League in 1952 and played 62 games as an outfielder that same season.

* * *

Trice's fine pitching pushed the Athletics into third place in the American League, a game and a half behind the fast moving Chicago White Sox who whipped Boston 5-0 for their ninth victory in 11 games.

* * *

Bob Keegan, who never has been a big spring winner, scattered nine hits for his third straight success for the White Sox. He's won eight in a row over two seasons.

MSC, Michigan at Big 10 Top

Spartans Lead After Dumping Illini; U. M. Blanks Purdue

Michigan's two entries in the Big Ten baseball race — Michigan and Michigan State — were the big show today.

Spartans were riding on top with a 2-0 record after smashing Illinois 17-3 and the Wolverines were pressing at 3-1 after blanking Purdue 6-0.

Both were engaged in doubleheaders at home today, Michigan State with Purdue and Michigan with Illinois.

Jack Ritter's string of strikeouts —he fanned 16 men to come within two of the Big Ten record—headlined Michigan's victory over Purdue Friday. Don Eaddy drove in five of the six runs on a homer and double.

At the same time Bud Erickson held Illinois in check for MSC, limiting the Illini to six hits until he eased up in the 9th to permit two runs on four singles. Spartans collected 17 hits.

MCS vaulted into the league lead when Ohio State lost to Northwestern 2-1 for its 1st defeat in three games.

Maple Golfers Win

Birmingham High School's golfers nipped Mt. Clemens Friday by two strokes at the Gowanie Country Club at Mt. Clemens. Score was 328-330. Jim Kraus was medalist for the Maples with 76. Bob Goldsmith had an 82, Terry Laundry, 84, and Mike Conroy, 86.

Zueleta Gets TKO Verdict Over Italian

NEW YORK (AP) — Paolo Rosi claimed it was a butt. Orlando Zueleta said, "I butted him with a left hook." Whatever caused it, the cut that poured blood down the face of the Italian import cost him last night's lightweight bout at St. Nicholas Arena.

After watching the cut bleed from the 2nd to the 8th round, referee Albert Berl suddenly decided he had seen enough. At 46 seconds of the 8th round, he stepped between the two lightweights and declared Zueleta a technical knockout winner.

Waterford Golfers Win 4th Dual Test

Waterford High School's golfers took their 4th victory in 5 dual meets Friday at Pontiac County Club by defeating Ferndale, 332-340, in a 4-man, 18-hole test.

Welcome Mat Accentuates Hospitality Theme at Contemporary E. M. Douglas Home Overlooking Cass Lake

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

Hospitality is infinite in the new E. M. Douglas home on Dow Ridge road — and it is also a built-in feature.

From the four special eating areas, where Mr. and Mrs. Douglas enjoy pursuing the culinary art, to the first-floor bathhouse with separate ladies and gentlemen dressing rooms, and into the recreation room with its mission brick fireplace, comfortable ranch oak chairs and knotty cedar bar — the welcome sign is out.

When Mr. and Mrs. Douglas selected their high lot, they had to have 20 feet of the Cass Lake shore promontory pushed back to give a sweeping lake view from each window of their new home.

It is a two-faced house. One front faces the lake and the other equally attractive front overlooks a wooded area with a winding drive.

Red brick teams up with Tennessee ledgerock in exterior building material and the same red brick forms a terraced wall on the roadside front. Post lanterns light the way for night callers.

Chartreuse, the trim note on the outside, marches directly indoors and serves as both the basic color and accent note for most of the rooms.

One step up from the entrance hall, the living room with its wheat-stalked, white, oak paneling has a full wall of built-in bookcases.

To separate the living room from the step-down dining room, a ledgerock fireplace and chimney follows the Douglas aim to keep all lines horizontal in this unit. The stone is in three widths with each row matched to size.

A color highlight and interest note is the built-in grill with its bright coral hood. It is attached to the left side of the fireplace chimney. Burnished copper has been used for the grill binding and for the two protective slip-in copper sheets which are inserted to keep grease from spattering into the room.

The hood, said Mr. Douglas who designed it, has a metal frame and a two-inch thickness of plaster to insulate it.

Living room, dining room, den and hallway floors are done in cork tile with other floors in interesting asphalt patterns.

"Easy to care for and absolutely no worries about what children may spill when they come to visit," Mrs. Douglas pointed out.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas chose true Western colors for living room furnishings — green, brown and red with the emphasis on comfort in upholstered pieces.

Stressing ease of care and simplicity, Mrs. Douglas placed tall, split philodendron in each corner of the dining room's full-wall windows dispensing with any curtains or draperies. Wrought iron railing borders the step-down area into this room and furnishings include a sawbuck dining table with all chairs and buffet being in bleached maple.

For summer living, a screened-in porch is adjacent to this room.

The kitchen, with its separate dining unit, is yellow walled and has red, inlaid linoleum placed to chair height on the walls. This matches the counter tops of the birch cupboards and is picked up in the floor tile pattern of red, brown and beige. A built-in three-sided bench is upholstered in foam rubber covered with lipstick red leather.

White cabinets and facilities are backgrounded by a yellow wall in the laundry room. The room leads to the basement floor.

Located in the basement is a

DOUGLAS DOW RIDGE HOME—On a high ridge overlooking Cass Lake, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Douglas built their new red brick and ledgerock home. A house with two fronts, this view is from Dow Ridge Road and shows the ledgerock section used in the garage area and for trim notes in the rest of the spacious one-floor and full basement structure. The winding driveway circles in front of a red brick terraced entrance where carriage lamps are placed for night light. Chartreuse has been used for trim accent and this color moves inside for interior walls and trim.

LAKESIDE VIEW—From Cass Lake, the many-windowed home of the E. M. Douglases has a sweeping view of not only the lake but the surrounding wooded hillsides. At the right is shown the patio and grill they use for outdoor cooking and entertaining. Preferring horizontal and vertical lines, they kept their home design free of any curves. The house plan includes a living room, dining room, den, two bedrooms and two bathrooms, kitchen and breakfast area, laundry room and full basement. This lower floor has a recreation room, dressing room area for bathers, workshop and storage room.

AUTOMATIC KITCHEN SEASONED WITH RED, BROWN, YELLOW—Walls in a pale yellow are lined with inlaid red linoleum up to chair height in this kitchen designed for efficiency plus beauty. All automatic appliances are installed with cupboards in natural birch. A double-sized maple chopping block is Mrs. Douglas' pride and joy. In the breakfast corner, a three-sided built-in bench is upholstered in lipstick red leather over foam rubber. The yellow, white and red laundry room, seen through the door of the kitchen is located adjacent to this room and it, too, relies on color and wide windows for beauty.

STAIRS LEAD TO LAKE—A hard sand bottom beach is located directly in front of the Douglas home. This is reached by descending a series of stairs and is overlooked by a sun deck built directly above a well house. Limestone has been placed into the steep hillside with colorful perennials planted for warm weather enjoyment.

FOR OUTDOOR COOKING, DINING—Informal dining is part of the Douglas hospitality. This complete grill with oven, accompanied by a table and benches provides a lovely spot for outdoor group entertaining. By placing red brick on its sides for the patio floor, circular spots of green moss have grown through to give a patterned effect. The same brick is used for the grill construction that was employed in the house.

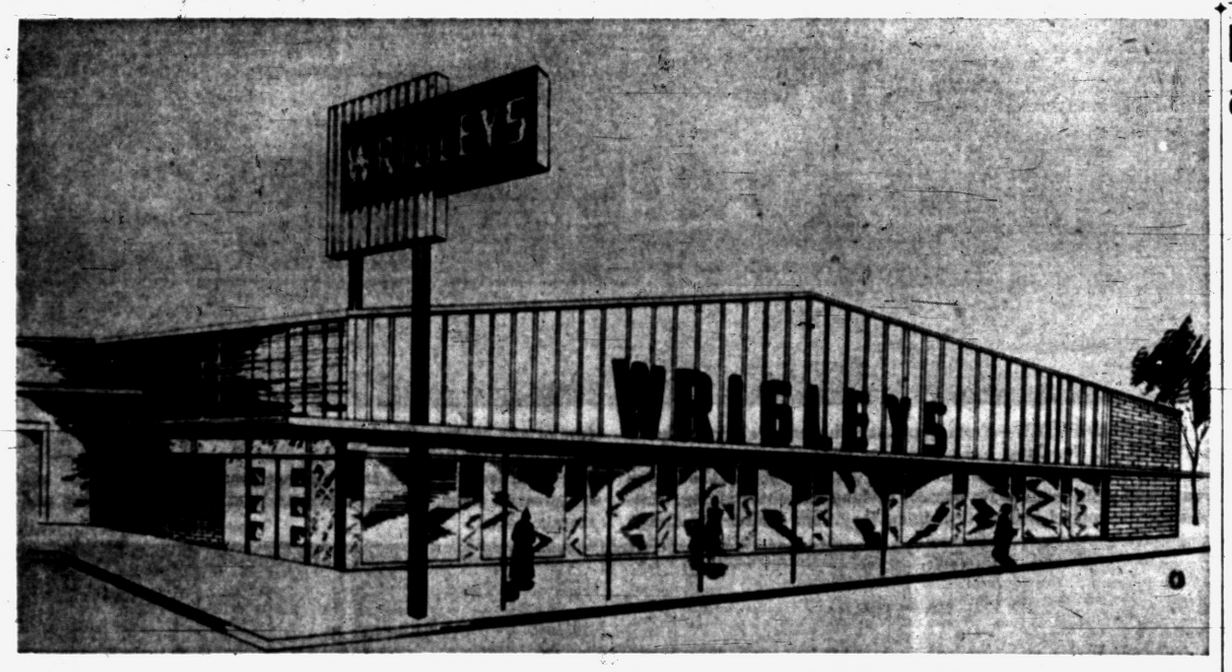

WHITE OAK WALLS REVEAL WHEAT STALKS—A Tennessee ledgerock fireplace wall separates the living room and step-down dining room of the Douglas home. Walls are paneled in wheat stalked white oak with one wall section featuring built-in bookcases. Cork tile has been placed on the floors and in the living room is covered with a grass rug. At the left of the fireplace is the coral hooded built-in grill designed by Mr. and Mrs. Douglas. The edges are bound in copper with two copper sheets inserted for cooking.

WRIGLEY'S PRODUCE HEADQUARTERS—A view of the produce section of Wrigley's warehouse looking toward the 12 loading truck bays. Loading operations are carried on from two parallel and identical lines of merchandise which extend toward the trucks. Hauling is done by mechanical lift trucks. Perishable products are moved in and out of the warehouse within 24 hours, assuring customers of freshness and quality. It is a giant building located at 13901 Joy Rd., just west of Schaefer and is in daily operation.

WRIGLEY'S TEL-HURON STORE—Ready for an open house on Monday from 6 to 9 p.m. is the new Wrigley's market located in the Tel-Huron Shopping Center at Telegraph and W. Huron Streets. Shown is an artist's conception of the completed building. It is the 59th Wrigley's store in Michigan. Modern in every detail, it will be managed by Eugene Piche. There are 15,000 square feet of business area in the new building and adjacent parking facilities will accommodate 500 cars.

Fixing a Leaking Faucet Is Simple

Three Simple Tools and a New Washer All That Is Required for Job

A leaky faucet is one of the most annoying things on earth, and even a slow drip, over a period of several weeks, can kick your water bill way up. Do-it-yourself faucet repairs are easy to make and take only a short time. Try stopping that drip yourself.

You'll need just three tools: an adjustable-end wrench, a screwdriver and a pair of pliers. You can buy boxes of washers at a hardware or dime store.

Faucets vary widely in style and shape, but all compression faucets are basically the same. On some, a chrome cap hides the handle screw, or you may have to remove the handle and unscrew a larger chrome cap to find the packing nut. You'll soon see how your faucet works.

Before starting repairs, shut off the water. You may find a shut-off valve under the fixture. If not, turn off the main valve at the meter, then follow these steps for fixing that leaky faucet:

1. Remove the packing nut. Clamp adjustable-end wrench on nut and turn counterclockwise. A piece of cardboard between wrench jaws and nut will prevent marring of chrome finish. If faucet has a round nut, use a pipe wrench.

2. Unscrew packing nut completely and keep turning spindle in same direction until it can be lifted easily out of faucet. You'll find the villain, the worn-out washer, at the end of the spindle, held in place by a brass screw.

3. Remove screw and faulty washer. If screw has become corroded and tight, apply penetrating oil. Be sure to clean away all broken pieces of old washer. Faucet will still leak if new washer does not contact faucet seat firmly.

4. Now select new washer of the right size and shape. If necesary, file outside edge of washer so it will fit snugly into recess at end of spindle. Screw new washer onto spindle and reassemble faucet. Replace brass screw if damaged.

Build Up Tool Supply Slowly; Learn Their Use

A fable about a boy with a bundle of sticks he wanted to break has its meaning for today's home craftsman. Unable to even bend the bundle, he asked for advice. His father told him to break each stick separately.

The beginning home handyman too often feels he should buy numerous tools and much material. Doing so often is frustrating, so the experts advise him to take it easy, buying just essential tools and materials and learning their use and application in simple projects.

Lumber dealers are good sources of tools needed in the home workshop, and they can advise the beginner which ones he should obtain first.

They can tell him also about basic materials to have on hand.

Gaining confidence in the use of a few fundamental hand or power tools, the home craftsman can make a success of his initial undertakings and then branch out to build an under-stairs project, line the old coal bin, and build some basement or kitchen cabinets.

Hospitality Prevails at Douglas House

Again, thinking of the convenience and comfort of their guests, Douglas placed a plate rail around the wall at chair height.

"People are always looking around for a place to put a glass or a plate or an ashtray. This is the answer," he pointed out.

One corner has a built-in bar with high stools. The fireplace is mission brick with black mortar to carry out, again, the horizontal lines.

Upstairs, the bedroom wing on the first-floor has two large rooms with bathrooms. The master bedroom is done in green with bright, cherry bed spreads and blond maple furniture. Part of this area is the master bathroom in pink carnation and maroon tile.

A very important part of a well-planned home, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas believe, is plenty of wall-cabinet and closet space. Every room has storage areas in the walls with even a full garage wall lined in tool storage cupboards.

Outside, the Douglas home boasts an exterior grill built on a brick patio. Tiny holes in the bricks are centered with soft green moss. Besides the table and chairs, the outdoor grill section has a full-sized cooking and baking unit. A series of stair flights leads down to a sun deck above a well-house.

Blessed with a hard sand beach, the Douglases have found not only a suburban type of living in this Cass Lake home, but their site has offered them extensive recreational opportunities.

The Duke of Wellington and Napoleon are said never to have met personally, although they once were within a quarter of a mile of each other during the battle of Waterloo.

Plastic Curtains Insure Privacy, Ease in Cleaning

A woman whose kitchen is exposed to her neighbor's gaze all day long, made tier curtains of plastic in a pretty bright color. She likes them so well she made another set for her bathroom. It is easy to toss them into the household washer and have them emerge fresh and sweet and ready to hang in just a few minutes.

They are fine especially for basement laundries, because they let in an abundance of light, are easily washed and ensure a large degree of privacy.

Scale Can Weigh Unknown Particles

MADISON, Wis. (UP) — Invisible masses as small as one-six hundred trillionths of an ounce can be "weighed" with historadiographic apparatus constructed over a two-year period by medical school scientists at the University of Wisconsin.

The machine consists of three units—a power supply, X-ray tube and exposure chamber and a vacuum pump. It was constructed along the lines of an earlier model used in Sweden.

It doesn't weigh microscopic materials in the usual sense. It exposes the matter to X-rays. The scientists then determine the amount of radiation absorbed

The experts explain that protein, which makes up most of the individual cell mass, will absorb X-rays. Through an intricate system of comparison, the scientists can find out how much a tiny unknown particle weighs.

New Detector Is Eating Away Termites' Safety

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A listening device so sensitive it detects a termite's footfall, the crunch of food in its jaws and the tom-tom-like sounds it uses to communicate, promises to make the pest exterminator's job easier.

The instrument consists of a tiny microphone, a hip pocket power unit and earphones compact enough so termite detectives can work in the smallest nooks and crannies. It is hoped the microphone, developed by the UCLA Department of Entomology, will render obsolete the present "bore and chisel" method of termite detection.

Thin Steel Used for Walls

NEW YORK (INS) — The men who make steel say that skyscrapers may now be constructed faster, cheaper and with more usable space by the use of thin "curtain walls, which eliminate the necessity of thick conventional masonry walls.

An Electric Drill Is Aid to Painter

Smooths Surfaces, Also May Be Used to Mix Paint in the Can

Paint the easy way! A portable electric drill will speed the job, new products can work for you, and handy tips should turn the trick on obstacles.

An electric drill makes the job of preparing surfaces for painting a lot easier. Use the sanding attachment to smooth rough spots and feather the edges of bare spots, but go easy so no deep marks are left.

To prepare metal surfaces, eavestroughs, for example, remove rust and scale with the wire-brush cup or wheel attachment, whichever is handiest. A wire brush leaves the metal surface clean and smooth. Then you can spot-prime the metal with a special primer such as red lead.

An electric drill does a thorough, speedy job of mixing paint, too. Buy or make a mixing attachment; it's a stiff wire bent in L-shape to fit the paint can. If the mixer spatters the paint, punch a hole in the center of an extra lid. Insert the wire, secure it in the drill, then cover can, and mix.

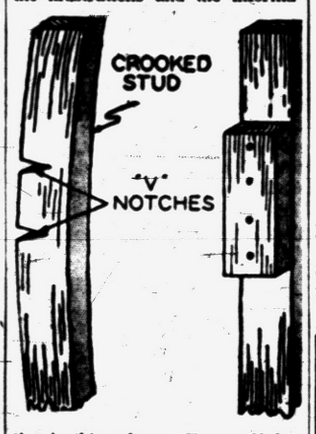

Among new products on the market is a liquid masking solution used for protecting metal hardware that's difficult or inconvenient to remove.

The liquid brushes on quickly. After the painting is finished, just peel the masking off. It saves a tedious clean-up and makes the job neater.

Roller and paintbrush extensions, some adjusting to any desired angle, spread paint on high spots and other hard-to-get-to places. An extension will often save hunting up a longer ladder and is also handy for rolling paint onto floors. For small jobs and touch-ups, a pressurized spray can is just the thing. A spray reaches where brushes won't, and the spray can is always ready to use, requires no clean-up afterwards. Use it on grills, toys, toots, shutters and bare metal.

Cutting Notches Best Way to Straighten Stud

Straightening a stud already in place on the wall of a building may be accomplished by following the illustrations and the information in this column. The method is prescribed by American Builder, authority in the field of home construction.

Cut several V-notches into the 2 by 4, going about half way through. Have someone help you by pushing in on the stud from the cut side while you nail on a short piece of 2 by 4.

Hal Boyle Says:

Conductors Should Trade Batons for Baseball Bats

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — How does a symphony orchestra conductor make 100 musicians behave when all he has is that little switch in his hand called a baton?

I have always thought a maestro might do better if they'd change the ground rules and let him wild a baseball bat. Or perhaps a bow and arrow. Then, if the bassoon player yawned when he should be bassooning, the maestro could let him have an arrow right in the forehead.

Whether the arrow should be blunt, pointed or poisoned would be entirely up to the maestro. After all who would miss a bassoon player?

* * *

But Andre Kostelanetz, a top conductor in both the classical and popular field, says I am all wrong. He says that the general level of music wouldn't be raised even by providing maestros with shotguns. He buys his own batons by the gross, friends say. He may snap half a dozen during rehearsals, and is reported in moments of exasperation to have broken them across his own head.

* * *

"A conductor cannot inflict his authority upon an orchestra," Kosty said at a luncheon in his duplex apartment overlooking the East River. "His authority is the result of knowing what each of the 100 musicians is supposed to do, getting each to do his task well, and suffusing them all with enthusiasm ..... blending 100 voices into one musical effort."

* * *

Kosty has done perhaps as much as any man in his own lifetime to make good music enjoyable to the masses as well as the classes. His 200 recordings—the latest is a symphonic treatment of the opera "Carmen"—have sold more widely than those of any other conductor: 25 million disks. A fellow musician estimated that if these were all stacked on top of each other the pile would be three times the height of Mt. Everest. (And how would the mountain climbers like to have to scale that!).

Kostelantez, born in Russia, started playing the piano at five, and heartily disliked it. Today, at blue-eyed musical precisionist. He 52, he is a stocky, partly bald, works with the intensity of a man leading a revolution which, in the world of music, is what he has helped to do. He has done much to encourage native American composers and feels their work is now being recognized, even in Europe.

* * *

"It is very clear we cannot stop," he said. "We must have new people to compose new music to reflect our times.

"Each new piece does not have to be an imperishable masterpiece. Even Beethoven's full stature was not realized when he was alive. Time is the test."

Asked to name a single American piece of music that would still have world recognition a century from now, Kosty immediately picked George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue."

"It shows all the signs of immortality," he said.

* * *

"With us," said Kostelanetz, "the wind is as important as it is to an athlete."

* * *

He himself travels 0,000 to 100,000 miles a year conducting 30 to 40 concerts. He estimates he has journeyed a million miles by air. Half the time he wields his baton without a score before him, but may spend a month preparing to conduct a major work.

Kosty never diets but eats sparely, prefers fruit. He keeps fit with calisthenics, motoring and swimming.

* * *

His own philosophy of living is simple:

"A certain amount of industriousness is necessary, and one must keep a full-time interest in what one is doing. The exact truth is that success in this world doesn't just fall out of your sleeve."

He has no particular favorite musical composition in the vast repertoire he knows by heart.

"The composition I am working on at any given moment dominates me so that it has to be my favorite music," he said.

A warm-blooded animal keeps a blood temperature which is nearly the same from day to day and from season to season, but a cold-blooded animal changes its temperature with changes of the weather.

Spurned Lover Kills Girl, 16, and Mother

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A youthful spurned lover killed his would be sweetheart and her mother last night and critically wounded himself.

The father consented but Eulalila refused to date Rodriguez.

* * *

The spurned young man called on the girl Friday and when she refused to go out with him, told her:

"If you won't have anything to do with me, I'll shoot you."

The frightened girl went to the home of a neighbor but later returned to her own home.

Rodriguez apparently had been hiding in bushes near Eulalila's house and when she entered, he burst in and shot her twice in the chest with a .22 caliber revolver. Her mother fled into another room but Rodriguez followed and fired two bullets into her chest.

Then he dived through a window screen, ran to his room a short distance away and barricaded himself inside.

When police broke into his room they found he had fired two bullets into his chest.

Dcotors said he probably will live.

Democrats Meet for Party Dinner

Dissension Hits Ranks as McNamara Charges 'Machine Politics'

DETROIT (AP) — Democrats get together for their big Jefferson-Jackson Day rally tonight. Ahead of the affair, however, there was anything but full peace in the family.

McNamara, acting on the eve of the $25-a-plate party blowout which headlines Sen. Symington (D-Mo.), charged Friday that the state party machinery has been "rigged" in favor of his August state primary opponent, ex-Sen. Blair Moody.

McNamara, onetime city councilman and former AFL labor leader with a reputation for bluntness, accused party heads of "scuttling" historic neutrality and restoring to "machine-tactic deals."

The charge brought an immediate denial from Neil Staebler, Democratic state chairman, and Ernest Lacey, national committeeman. Moody himself said he would avoid "controversy" in the matter, referred to McNamara as "my friend," and said he felt the entire party, "including Pat and myself," should get behind the ultimate nominee.

There was irony for the Democrats in the incident. It happened almost simultaneously with Republican Sen. Ferguson's formal announcement, amid apparently strong GOP harmony, of his candidacy for a third term. He announced from Washington Friday.

At the same time a third possible Democratic candidate for the Senate nomination came along.

Probate Judge William J. Cody, of Detroit, announced he was "seriously considering" making the race. Cody made a good race for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1944. Some party sources said Cody's statement may have been made as a "feeler."

Local Doctor Hurt in Crash

Osteopath Is in Critical Condition After Auto Strikes Tree

A Birmingham doctor is in critical condition today at Harper Hospital in Detroit with injuries suffered yesterday when his car struck a tree at Franklin and 13 Mile Rds.

Dr. Robert S. Kelly, 37, of 6223 Dakota Dr., a physician at the Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, has possible arm and leg fractures and internal injuries, according to the local hospital. Dr. Kelly was transferred from the osteopathic hospital to Harper Hosptal in Detroit last night.

A witness to the accident, Taylor Paisly of 26675 Carol, Franklin Village, said Dr. Kelly was traveling south on Franklin road about 30 miles an hour and drove into the tree, according to Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies Sgt. Donald Francis and Bill Hargraves.

Two doctors from the osteopathic hospital, Dr. Lynn Hershey and Dr. H. E. Jones, were called to the scene to give medical attention to Dr. Kelly, Hargraves said.

Police Arrest Driver, Find Bettor Charge

A Pontiac man arrested on a traffic warrant late Friday after leading Pontiac Police on a three-mile chase finally was booked for illegal possession of betting slips.

Patrolmen James LaPonsie and Lawrence LaBair said they noticed Frank Stephens, 47, of 179 Lake St., driving an auto bearing a license plate number listed in a warrant.

The patrolmen said they chased Stephens' car through the Southwest side, and that he ran a red light being halted at Branch and Warner Sts.

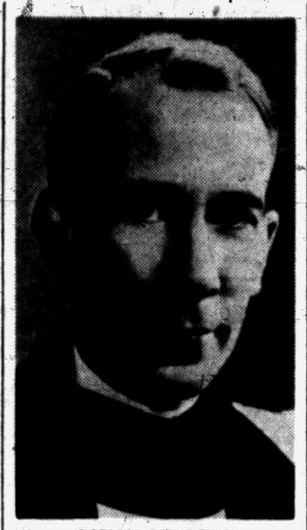

Once at Police Headquarters, Stephens tried to convince police he had paid the traffic ticket by producing a receipt from his billfold. Several policy slips accidentally dropped to the floor when Stephens was searching his wallet, according to the patrolmen.

City of Pontiac Employs 622

Figure Doesn't Include Workers at Hospital or Those on Part Time

Some 622 persons are now employed in full-time jobs in 20 Pontiac city departments other than Pontiac General Hospital, according to James R. Stelt, city personnel director.

The payroll for this group in March totaled $198,934, said City Finance Director Oscar Eckman.

Seven part-time workers are currently employed in 19 city departments, while the parks and recreation department utilizes 111 persons working only a few hours weekly.

The department of public works employs the most persons with 171. Of these, 17 work at the sewage treatment plant, 36 in waste collection and the rest at Lake Street Yards.

The police department includes 125 employes and the fire department 104. The water department has 51 persons.

It is said that the 300,000 tons of material used in the construction of the Empire State Building, in New York City, contained about $17,000 worth of radium.

Ralph Bellamy Getting Out of Man Against Crime

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK — TV gossip . . . Ralph Bellamy has filmed his final Man Against Crime and will do no more. He made $4,000 a week but he's had it. He'll share heftily in re-run money . . .

Oscar Hammerstein II reneged on a spectacular one-shot showing of Show Boat, after CBS-TV had poured plenty of selling into the event. Would have starred Gordon MacRae, Patrice Munsel, Charlotte Greenwood, Ed Wynn . . .

Irving Berlin will okay a TV auto-biography with only a few gentle provisions: a two-hour show, five months preparation, supervision of all details; and oh, yes — $1,000,000.

Sam Levenson quiets his auditor's demands (now that he's not on TV) by night club engagements in Philly, Las Vegas and (June 10) the Copa here . . .

Paula Stone's new TV "Angel Auditions" was a modest, low-keyed gab session suitable when the competition is not too tough.

Though it was on film, Paula seemed more than a little nervously, gigly and shrill, which she'll surely get over by next time.

Audrey Hepburn turned down $25,000 for one telecast, and they'll go higher . . .

After biting everyone in sight, TV's chimpanzee, J. Fred Muggs, is scheduled to appear tomorrow in Jacksonville, Fla. for a humane society drive! . . .

CBS will be the only network listening in on Harry S. Truman's 70th birthday (and $70 a plate) dinner in the Waldorf May 8 . . .

Lois Hunt (Q. Lewis Shows) is taking no chances: She pays her $1 a year license fee annually to keep her standing as a dental hygienist.

Pittsburgh Transit Strike Is Postponed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The order went out last midnight that the strike halting Pittsburgh's trolleys and buses was on, but early today — 1½ hours later — the 2,700 AFL workers seeking higher wages were told to stay on the job "for at least one week" more.

The "stop-strike" order came from Harry Butler, president of Division 85, AFL-Amalgamated Assn. of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes which represents the Pittsburgh Railways Co. bus and trolley drivers.

Butler said he had agreed, in the public interest and due to urging from Mayor David L. Lawrence and AFL and CIO leaders, to resume negotiations with management.

The drivers, now earning about $1.98 an hour, want a 30-cent-an-hour hike in pay. The company said it can't afford it.

To Visit Institutions

LUM — Frances Potter, principal of the Lapeer State Home and Training School, will visit mental institutions in Europe next autumn.

Record at NYU Wins Motorman Scholastic Key

Four years of putting in an 84-hour week—42 hours on his subway job and an equal amount of hours at New York University—has just brought him election to Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary fraternity.

A native of England, Salkind came here before World War II, served with the U. S. Army and Air Force, and now is a naturalized citizen.

Fingering his Phi Beta Kappa key, Salkind, 35, heaved a sigh of relief yesterday and said:

"In all my years of knocking about it's the one solid achievement I've had—with the exception of the children, of course."

Salkind is married to the former Mary Brown, a part-time TV actress. They have two children, Michele Ann, 2, and Philip Paul, 13 months.

No Way to Stop Mirror Fogging

Garage Floor Should Slope Slightly Toward the Door

Q—Is there any way to keep a bathroom mirror from fogging?

A—No practical way. Fogging is caused by the high concentration of moisture in the air. Special non-fogging mirrors are made with concealed heating elements which keep the glass at a high enough temperature so that moisture doesn't collect.

Q—I have been told that a garage floor should slope slightly toward the door. Is that correct?

A—Yes, it's an excellent idea. Gasoline vapor is heavier than air and it can collect in explosive quantities in hollows in a supposedly level floor. But if the floor slopes, the vapor will flow out under the door.

Q—I am planning to put a new asphalt roof on my house. Would it be wise to select green shingles to match the window shutters?

A—If you would like the complete color scheme which that would give you, go right ahead. Color is largely a matter of personal preference, and any homeowner should feel free to use the colors that appeal to him. In your particular case, you might select an asphalt shingle color from the large variety available and then re-paint the shutters if desired. The roof color is chosen first because it is a lasting color. Colors of other parts of the house may need to be painted many times during the life of a roof.

Q — Must a paint brush be cleaned thoroughly if it is going to be used again within two or three days?

A—No, thorough cleaning isn't necessary. Clean out some of the paint, and then wrap the bristle end of the brush in waxed paper. Seal the edges of the paper with tape to keep out the air.

Q—Is it necessary to paint copper door and window screens?

A—Copper won't rust, but it will corrode and protection is needed for that reason. Use spar varnish or screen enamel. If the varnish or enamel is thinned heavily, it won't be so likely to accumulate in the mesh.

New Screening Material Is Made of Glass Yarns

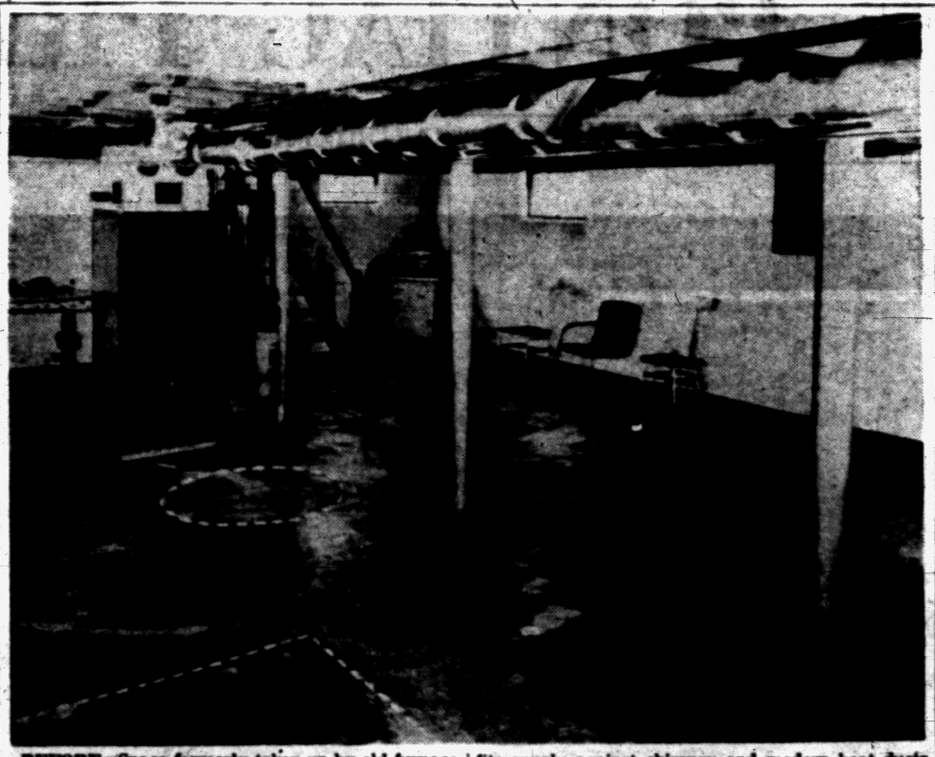

New screening material for windows, doors and porches is available in roll form through retail outlets this spring. It is made of fiber yarns coated with vinyl resins. It won't rust or corrode, needs no paint, has a permanent color and is not supposed to s h r i n k, stretch or bellyout under pressure.

We poked a pencil through it, scratched the hole together again and couldn't find the place we punctured. You can burn the coating off over a direct flame, but the glass fibers remain.

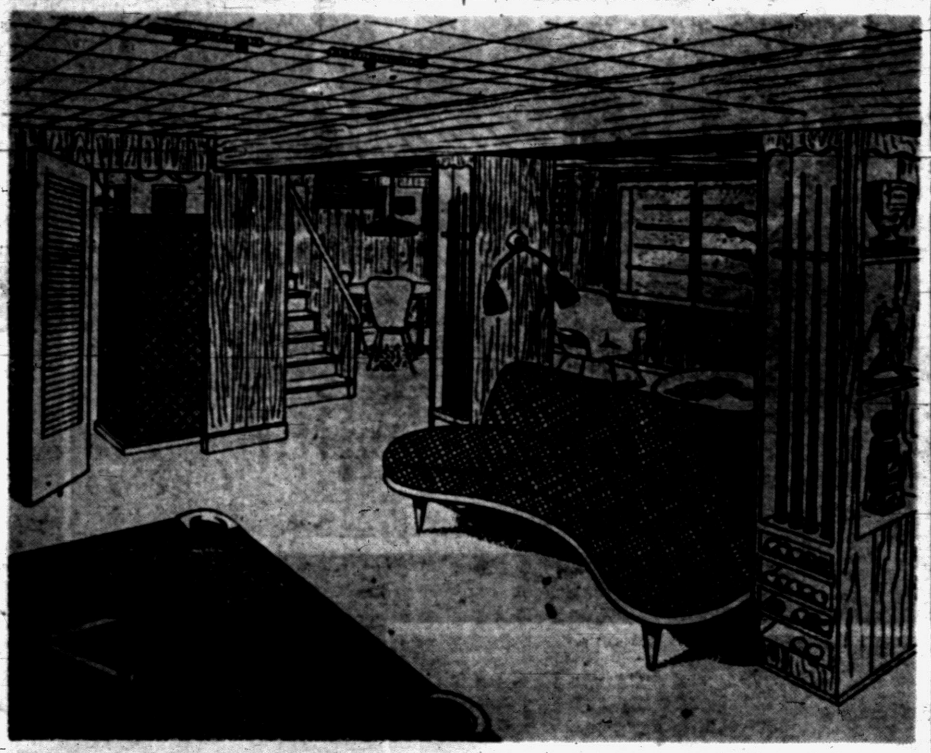

One feature of the material is that you can cut it with ordinary scissors, without raveling, making it easy to frame. And if you do tear a big hole in it, you can patch it by using your wife's electric iron.

Cut the patch slightly larger than the hole, cover the patch with wax paper, set the iron on cotton heat and use the tip or edge of the iron only on the lap to be fused. Light pressure does the trick. Don't use the iron flat or it will flatten all the yarns it presses on.

You also can patch this screening with natural nail polish or household cement, but it is difficult to avoid filling up the openings.

AFTER—Here's designer's idea of how basement could be renovated now that new heat system has been installed. Plenty of room is provided for pool table, lounge furniture, card table, and show cases for sporting equipment.

Gold Mine of Space in Many Basements

Many a space-hungry Oakland County family is living right on top of a gold mine of wasted space, according to the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association.

This is the space currently taken up by the old gravity-type furnace, which is still so common in older homes.

To prove what a gold mine the basement is, the Association estimates that at present building prices, the space in a 22 by 24 foot basement is worth more than $3000.

If your house has an old-type heating system, you can reclaim the space for far less than its value by installing a new, forced warm air heating system, the association points out.

The new furnace can be installed neatly in one corner of the basement and all the pipes can be tucked up between the joists, clearing the decks for many decorating possibilities.

One plan might be to make the basement into a stag retreat for the men in the family.

A partition could be built to separate the room from the furnace and laundry, and walls and ceilings could be paneled in any number of inexpensive wall board materials.

Then there would be room for lounging furniture, pool table, card table, and bar, as well as show cases for trophies and sporting gear.

Cabinet for Youngsters Encourages Cleanliness

Make your little one feel that he or she has an exclusive spot in the family bathroom. Dad can construct a small grooming cabinet for the small fry and mother ca decorate it with clever decals or paint it if she's the artistic type.

See that there's enough room inside for a comb and brush, toothbrushes, nail brush, and s m a l l bathtub toys. Perhaps a little mirror on the outside or the inside of the door would help.

Grooming can be fun for little folks and they really take pride in their soapy clean-ups when they can mimic the big people by using duplicate accessories on a small scale.

New Carpet Sweeper Gets in Close to Walls

A new carpet sweeper has recently been introduced that permits cleaning close to walls, under low furniture and around furniture legs.

It is smaller and more compact than regulation models, but sweeps the same area because it is equipped with a brush that extends the full length of the sweeper itself.

Automatic Ironer Eases Chores of Homemaker

After the long winter, everyone wants a fresh, clean-looking house for spring. Easter is the accepted time to have everything spic and span. It is no chore to was curtains, draperies, slipcovers, bed spreads, scatter rugs, etc. in the household washer.

In the home with an automatic ironer heavy pieces are finished beautifully, with no effort by the homemaker, because the ironer exerts all the pressure. Any other method is hard on the woman and hard on the articles to be ironed.

Garden Words Confuse Many

Most Terms Should Be Self Explanatory, but Here Are Definitions

The word evergreen to many seems to spell "pine" while the word deciduous just does not explain a thing to others.

Failure to call plants by their botanical names is most understandable but when a gardener who has reached voting age does not know an annual from a perennial — then he should invest in a garden dictionary.

While gardeners may be said to speak a language of their own, many of the words which seem confusing are, or should be, self-explanatory to anyone who understands the English language.

ANNUAL: Plants which grow from seed, attain their growth, flower and produce seed in one year (or less), then die, having completed their life cycle. Annual is derived from the Latin word meaning a year, and is, of course, used as a noun. Example: Zinnia.

BIENNIAL: A plant which, started from seed, requires two seasons to come to maturity. The first year it makes top growth and usually a fleshy root. The second year it produces flowers and seed, living on the food stored up in the root and then dying. Example: Hollyhock.

PERENNIAL: Plants which live more than two years are known as perennials, as distinguished from annuals and biennials. Though trees and shrubs are perennial in habit, the term is generally applied to herbaceous rather than woody plants. Example: Peony.

HERBACEOUS: Properly this means any plant with soft green stems and foliage which dies to the ground and comes up again the following year, as distinguished from trees and shrubs which have woody stems living from year to year. Example: Delphinium.

Vacuum Your Floors

Even the manufacturers of wooden flooring for homes urge the daily removal of dust and dirt, which is just one more way yof emphasizing the great usefulness of the household vacuum cleaner. The precaution is perfectly natural, if one only stops to think about it, because dust and dirt settle everywhere.

Make Do

MAKE-DO—Removing old putty when replacing a broken window pane is a tough job unless the putty is softened first. Soak a piece of string in kerosene. Place it next to the putty and light it. Work in a small area at a time so the putty will hot reharden before it can be removed. Don't use gasoline alone; it burns too fast.

HARNESS THE SUN—Proper orientation includes careful planning of the house's position in relation to the seasonal position of the sun. By facing the large glass areas to the south and shielding them with a roof extension, the welcome winter sun, low in the southern sky, is admitted but the high summer sun is excluded.

Annual Flowers Hard to Move

Sowing Seeds Directly Far More Advisable Than Transplanting

All annual flower seeds may be sown directly in the garden; and there are a number which should be, because they are difficult to transplant.

These include alyssum, California poppy, godetia, kochia, leptosyne, linaria, lupin, matthiola (evening scented stock), nasturtium, dwarf phlox, poppies, portulaca and salpiglossis.

Much the same technique should be used in the garden as in sowing in a seed box, particularly as to shallow planting, and covering the seeds with porous soil.

Identification of the seeds, and of their location, is also important, since with slow germinators it is easy to forget exactly where they were sown.

Seeds are subject to many hazards which human skill cannot wholly avoid, but the careful operator may count upon a high average of success.

Prepare a smooth seed bed, loosening the soil to a depth of six inches. Work into it 4 pounds of plant food for each 100 square feet.

Then outline with a string the area to be covered with each variety.

Then sift a light covering of porous soil over the seed and firm it lightly.

Now, until the seeds sprout the soil must be kept moist; and this requires daily sprinkling with a fine spray, taking care not to wash the seeds out of the soil.

Wax Oilcloth Lining

If you are an oilcloth user, lining your cupboard shelves with it, wash the oilcloth first with hot soapy water and dry thoroughly. Then give the cloth a thin coating of wax to keep dishes from sticking to it.

Date Announced for Home Week

Better Family Living Goal of Demonstration Agents

Past accomplishments will be reviewed and new goals set as more than 40,000 Michigan homemakers observe National Home Demonstration Week, May 2 through 8.

They'll join with home demonstration members to emphasize their aim of better family living as expressed in the theme "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World."

The home demonstration program came into being in 1914 when the Smith-Lever Act became law and the Extension Service was established. The U. S. Department of Agriculture, land-grant colleges and the local county governments cooperate in the extension education program.

In Michigan the home demonstration program is carried on throughout the state as part of the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service.

Through this program women receive up-to-date information on foods and nutrition, parent education and child development, home furnishings, home management, housing, clothing and other phases of home economics.

In 1953 there were 2,519 organized home demonstration groups in Michigan. In Oakland County 90 home demonstration groups participated in the educational program this year.

County home demonstration agents, supported by specialists at Michigan State College and the U. S. Department of Agriculture help these women make use of all available resources.

Home demonstration work in Oakland County is offered through home demonstration agents, Mrs. Josephine H. Lawyer and Mrs. Frieda A. Bennett, of 1260 West Boulevard.

Proper Use of Spray Gun Generally Misunderstood

Advent of inexpensive paint spray guns, which have proved adequate for light duty around the home, has lightened the effort of painting and heightened the pleasure in it for amateur painters.

But spray - painting equipment and technique is pretty generally misunderstood by amateurs and even some pros. As a result, the equipment is mistreated or expected to accomplish more than it was intended to do.

Such low-power spray guns as the types that attach to vacuum cleaners and the electric-vibrator models are not meant to handle heavy finishing materials. And it helps not in the least to thin the materials excessively, a common mistake.

Nor are the smaller, inexpensive spray guns adequate for painting large surfaces, such as doors and walls. Those jobs should be left to their big brothers—the diaphragm and piston-compressor types.

A compressor capable of developing 30 to 40 pounds of pressure makes for a good household spraying unit. The better makes can be bought for from $50 to $85, and in some places they can be rented from paint dealers.

The consensus among paint authorities seems to be—don't spray-paint the interior walls of an occupied dwelling, no matter what type of spray gun is used. Even if only one room is painted, the spray settles all over the house and generally makes a mess of things. In a confined area spray painting is a fire hazard and has some other drawbacks as well.

A spray gun in practiced hands, however, cannot be beaten for quality of finished work it produces. And the more expensive types will apply practically everything from lead house paints to enamel, lacquer, varnish and shellac. But if you are new to spray painting, there are several things to bear in mind.

Preparation will take longer than the actual painting. Dirt and dust must be wiped away. The surface to be painted must be smoothed with sandpaper, and if the old finish is in poor condition it should be removed. All surfaces not to be painted must be masked.

The finishing material should be thinned—if thinning is required at all—according to the manufacturer's directions. Then it is thoroughly mixed and strained through a piece of cheesecloth.

Begin painting only when you are certain enough material has been mixed to finish the job. Avoid painting outdoors on windy, damp days, or when the temperature is below 40 degrees.

Make the actual spraying stroke a sweeping motion, always holding the gun six inches from the surface and perpendicular to it. Pull the trigger after the stroke has started and release it before the stroke ends. Painted strips should overlap one half of their width.

Hardwood Floors Help to Cut Fatigue

Fatigue begins with the floor. The ideal floor must be resilient, warm and smooth.

THE SPLIT LEVEL HOUSE — Originally designed for rocky hillside sites to save on excavation costs, this split level house now is winning wide popularity on flat land because of some of its economies. A compromise between the rambling one-story and the regular two-story house, it covers less area than a one-story house, but still raises the sleeping area above the ground level. The half flights of stairs are considered an advantage. In the model shown here, bedrooms are above the garage and basement hobby room. The living area is midway between these two levels. This is Plan H-235P by the Homograf Corp., 11711 E. Eight-Mile Road, East Detroit. The house covers 1,257 square feet and has 18,187 cubic feet. (Further information is available from the architects.)

Doors Hide Washer

A couple who thought they had no room for a washer blocked off part of a hallway with a pair of shutter doors. There is ample space for the appliance and the impression is created of large, roomy vistas behind the closed doors.

Greater Relief Seen From Heat

Statistics Show Rise in Air Conditioner Units Installed Since 1946

It looks as though Americans will be cooler this summer than ever before.

This promise of greater relief from heat and humidity during the hot summer months is seen by the Weatherstrip Research Institute after an analysis of air-conditioning industry figures.

These statistics show that the installation of central residential air-conditioning systems has risen 15 per cent since 1946, and the installation of room air-conditioners has increased about 70 per cent during the same period of time.

However, getting the maximum efficiency from these air-conditioning units during the summer months depends to a large extent on whether or not a home's windows and doors are fully weatherstripped, the Weatherstrip Research Institute points out.

The reason is that metal weatherstripping around doors and windows keeps cool air inside the home in summer the same way it keeps cold air outside in the winter.

How to Remove Stains

To remove a grease or oil stain from one of the miracle fiber fabrics, rub on a thick soap solution and rinse in cold running water until the water runs clear. Then launder the whole garment as usual.

Door-Mirror Aids Child if Frame Marked in Feet

A full-length door mirror in the room of a growing child gains usefulness if the door frame is marked with feet and inches. Children find good posture before the mirror means "record heights" on the yardstick.

The mirror is easily installed with a set of plastic clips; the yardstick can be marked with plastic lettering which will not injure the door finish.

Mail Boxes to Get Color

Soon all post office mail boxes may gleam with silver, red, white and blue — if a new Post Office Department proposal is approved. The suggestion is that boxes be painted an easy-to-see aluminum with red, white and blue stripes as trimmings.

Lumpy Cement No Good When Strength Needed

If the lumps can be easily broken by hand the cement is still okay to use for small jobs but should not be used where strength or watertightness is vital.

Do-It-Yourself

'Quickie' Wallpaper Ready

NEW YORK—Sensation of the Home Furnishing Show was the new quick "do-it-yourself" wallpaper which tempted thousands of women visitors to hang sample rolls of wallpaper on the experimental walls provided for the purpose.

The new wall covering is electronically trimmed for seamless matching, is super washable and comes with built-in, non-staining adhesive that makes mess, paste and waste of time a thing of the past.

The surface has a sealed finish that enables the home-maker to scrub off dirt and keep her paper looking constantly new and fresh.

The simple routine for hanging this new product can be mastered in one 2-minute lesson. The homemaker cuts a strip of Quick wall covering long enough to reach from molding to baseboard, rolls the strip and wets it in a water tray which Birge provides. Once the paper has been placed on the wall it is just a matter of smoothing out the air bubbles with a da sponge or soft cloth.

The homemaker can "quick change" an average sized room for as little as 14 to 20 dollars and pick her patterns from 142 styles especially created for the new wall covering.

MAKE DO—For mounting pictures in frames, old phonograph needles are ideal. Place a cardboard backing over the picture and pinch the needles part way into the frame, using a pad on the outer edge to protect the frame from the pliers.

Colonial Courting Mirror Once Was Token of Love

Here's a charming decorating accessory that would fit nicely in a bedroom, study or living room. It is a reproduction of an Early American courting mirror which you can make with fir plywood and standard wood moldings in an afternoon.

The heart piece cut in the top of the frame is a symbol of romance and the piece gets its name from the colonial courting custom under which a suitor would give his fair lady a mirror of this type as a token of his affection.

You can make the courting mirror from the illustration shown here. It requires a piece of fir plywood three-eights inch thick. Lumber dealers stock small panels of fir plywood and a piece as small as 12x16 inches will do. Here's the list of materials you'll need (A) One piece fir plywood three-eights inches thick, 12x16 inches, Back; (B) One piece standard molding 4 feet long by three-quarter inches wide; (C) One piece 4 feet long, ¾x½ inches; (D) One mirror 8x11 inches.

Start by cutting out the back from the plywood. First, draw a penciled grid on a piece of paper, spacing your lines 1 inch apart. The pattern shows just half the piece. You can get the full size pattern by reversing the part shown.

Then cut the molding and facing strips as shown in the pattern. Be sure to cut the angles for mitered corners carefully.

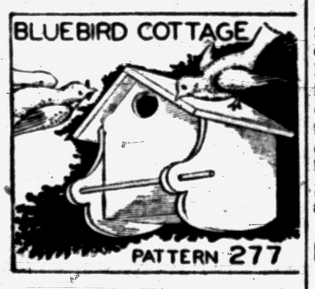

Then glue and nail the frame for the glass onto the back and set in the glass. Next, lay the moldings over the frame so that the inside edge overlaps over the glass as shown in the detail. Glue the molding into place, nailing from the back.

Finish the mirror frame natural or paint it to harmonize with the decor of the room where it will be used.

One good finish is an antique ivory finish. To apply it, paint the courting mirror ivory. When this has dried, rub into the finish a touch of raw turkey umber in paste form. Before finishing, be sure to sand the item carefully.

First, sand with 0 sandpaper. Then dampen the plywood frame with a wet rag and let stand for 12 hours. Then sand again with 00 sandpaper or rub down with fine steel wool.

IN THE HOME WORKSHOP

This bluebird house is a perennial favorite with bird lovers. The pattern also gives directions for a popular wren house. A great deal depends upon where they are hung. Well up under the roof overhang at the gable ends of the house and the garage is the favorite place for house wrens. High in a tree standing apart in the orchard or a corner of the lawn seems to be preferred by bluebirds. Pattern 277 with both designs will be mailed the day order is received. The price is 25 cents. Space for Closet Easy to Discover in Most Homes

Your house may not have enough closet space, but it probably has lots of space for a built-in closet.

And the built-in—whether it's the work of a professional carpenter or a skilled householder—can offer a perfect chance for multi-purpose design.

A full-length plate glass mirror on the closet door is a necessary aid to dressing. Or, if two doors are built to open toward each other with blank space between, full-length mirrors on each door and a third on the center-piece will serve as a three-way dressing mirror.

The same three-way construction, using a half-length rather than a full-length mirror on the center area, leaves room for a built-in vanity table.

Room dividers, either of permanent or "floating closet" type also can provide extra storage space. Possible locations are between living room and front door, creating coat storage and entrance hall; in the bedroom, creating clothes closet and private dressing room; between living and dining areas for storage of linens and china area for storage.

Lamp Easy to Build

Here's an easy way to build an attractive lamp which will add interest to living room or bed room. Build a half-inch wood frame around an eight-inch or 12-inch glass block. Mount your wiring and socket to the frame and add a support for the shade.

Place Heater Near Taps

The best place for a water heater is as near as possible to outlets to minimize the cooling of water in the pipes. This is another advantage of having kitchen, laundry and bathrooms close together.

Paint Firms Answer Demand for Color on American Homes

WASHINGTON — In the last few years there has been a complete revolution in the manner of using color on the interior walls of our homes. Now, well under way, is a color revolution for home exteriors.

It had its beginning in the newly built developments where the all-too-similar "cookie cutter" houses looked so much alike that their owners turned to their paint-color cards for the variation that created individuality.

As you drive along the street in such an area, you are, of course, aware of the wide variety of attractive colors now being used for the purpose. But if you are in a plane, looking down from your magic carpet, the fascinating wealth of color you are likely to see is an even greater delight to your eyes.

In this connection, one noted colorist has commented: "When seen from the air, the houses look like so many Japanese lanterns scattered about . . . cherry red, banana yellow, chocolate brown, emerald green . . . French blue. Truly a feast for the eyes, these are mostly small houses, painted on a weekend by the owner."

The color revolution hasn't stopped with the new little houses on the edges of the towns and cities. It has invaded the subdivisions where more costly homes are being built and is even causing the owners of older, more sedate houses to think twice before repainting with the traditional white.

An example of this is the great favor that is now being enjoyed by barn red.

For many years, even paint-color cards for interior surfaces contained only a limited number of hues, usually quite light in value. After World War II, a new day dawned in the paint industry. Manufacturers developed effective and ingenious color systems which make it possible to obtain any color of the rainbow for the walls and woodwork of your household.

Now that homeowners have enjoyed the wealth of unlimited color selection for the interiors of their homes, they are looking to the outside. They have a greater appreciation of the decorative possibilities that grow out of the use of the more unusual, more subtle greyed colors — ones that are similar to the so-called decorator colors."

The trend is bound to result in a great deal more beauty to be enjoyed both from the ground and from the air.

As you plan your spring painting program, you'll enjoy considering some of the new types of color schemes for the exterior of your home. As you plan, remember to give thought to the type of indoor-outdoor color correlation that keeps interior views that are visible from the outside in harmony with exterior coloring.

Take the coloring of your roof into account, too—as well as the colors of adjacent buildings. Remember, also, that bright accent colors should not be used on too-large areas and that they should emphasize only the architectural features that are well placed and in good proportion to the rest of the structure.

Floors Reduce Fatigue

Fatigue begins at the floor, say the flooring manufacturers. They contend that an ideal floor must be resilient, warm and smooth. These three qualities reduce strain on leg nerves and muscles, loss of body heat and facilitate walking.

In laying close-grained flooring, all nails should be "set" to insure proper fit of tongue and groove.

WEST LONG LAKE CONTEMPORY—At 3385 West Long Lake Rd., West Bloomfield Township, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Hanby have a seven-room contemporary home with a conventional interior. In place of the customary exposed beam areas used in modern homes, there are the traditional partitions. Both the living and recreation rooms have large fireplaces. Exterior is built of Roman brick with redwood paneling. Light-green shakes are used on the garage section. The light roof gives an illusion of height to the one-story structure. Built by Bruce Kinzler Construction Co., it is located on a 2½ acre site.

Never lay flooring in a cold damp building. Heat it for 10 days to at least 70-degrees regardless of the season.

Philippine Airlines Tries Helicopters

MANILA (UP) — The Philippines Airlines is experimenting with helicopters to see whether they can be used advantageously in the islands.

Two of the three-place Bell helicoptors, such as those first used in the Korean war, were placed in service last December.

One is based at Manila International Airport and the other is based at the airport at Cebu for use in the Central Philippines.

A PAL spokesman said the two machines had been used primarily for transportation to out-of-the-way places which vehicles have a hard time reaching on a charter basis.

PAL has no plans for further purchases in the immediate future, he said, although the worldwide airline envisaged use of larger helicopters in a "feeder" system to supplement its present trunk line system throughout the country.

One of the difficulties that will have to be overcome, he said, is the question of who would build the necessary heliports—the airline, the government, the cities involved or a combination of all.

Painting Tips to Ease Chores

Spring or Fall Is Time to Put Outside Finish on House

By HUBBARD COB

It being about the time of year when people start thinking about outside painting, we thought we'd pass on a few tips on this subject that we have picked up in one way or another.

If you have shutters on your home you'll find it a good deal faster and easier to take them down and paint them on the ground than trying to do the job while you are on a ladder.

And speaking of ladders, sometimes it's necessary to rest a ladder just where a window happens to be. The thing to do here is take a piece of lumber somewhat longer than the window is wide and tie it to the top of the ladder. The length of lumber will rest on the window frame and prevent the ladder coming in contact with the delicate sash.

And you may find that even the longest ladder you can borrow isn't quite long enough to reach certain areas. In this case, try a brush extension.

Few people can paint for long without spilling some of it and if there are shrubs and bushes around your home the paint is sure to get on them. For this reason, cover foundation planting with a drop cloth before you start work. If you spill paint on masonry, wipe it up at once with turpentine. If you give it a chance to soak in you never will get it out.

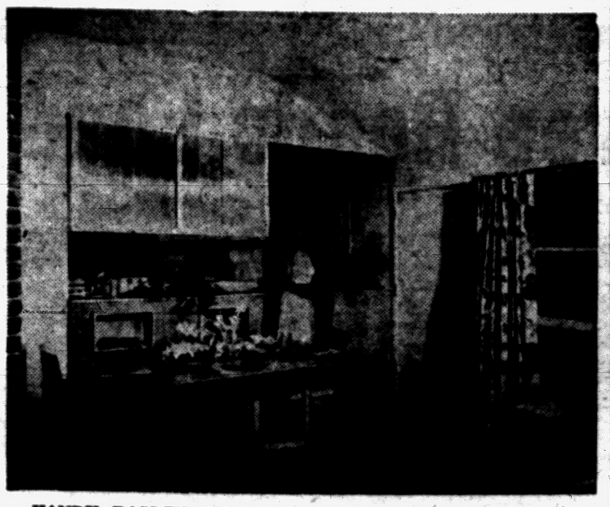

Outside house paint is made so that it chalks away thus keeping itself clean. This is fine for houses and fences but isn't good for outdoor furniture. For furniture, use and outdoor enamel.

Try to do your outdoor painting either in the spring or fall. In the summer it's too hot and there are too many bugs about who like to sit on freshly painted surfaces.

HANDY PASS-THROUGH—A pass-through between the kitchen and the dining area saves many dozens of steps a day in serving meals. The pass-through illustrated here has a convenient hanging cupboard above the usual counter. All the dishes and silver needed for a meal can be laid on the counter from the kitchen side and then can be easily reached from the dining room side later. A hanging cupboard of this type can have doors on both sides.

Occasional Washing Makes Brooms Last

Household brushes and brooms will last longer and do a better job if they are thoroughly washed occasionally. Ammonia water is good for this purpose.

Use two tablespoons of ammonia to a quart of water. Let the brush or broom straws soak for half an hour, then rinse them well and hang them up to dry.

Heat Before Flooring

When laying flooring always heat a house to at least 70 degrees for 10 days regardless of the season and keep the flooring stored indoors.

'Squirrel' House Cleaners Never Get Homes Cleaned

Do you use the squirrel method of house cleaning? Or can you bear to part with old, faded garments and outdated magazines?

If you want to have a successful spring cleaning session you'll need to make up your mind to (1) discard, (2) tag curtains, draperies, rugs, bedspreads for cleaning. (2) Sort all washables for the laundry before you think about beginning cleaning chores.

Next — make a list of tasks. Big chores should be turned over to the man of the house and a few easy assignments to the youngsters.

Assemble cleaning equipment and products before you begin. Worn out equipment makes the job harder and brooms, mops and the like are inexpensive enough to make replacement a good investment.

The room by room cleaning method is best and one or two rooms a day will help you do a more thorough job, than if you try to tackle all rooms at once.

Powdered soap or detergent: Soak a cloth in soap and water solution, wring out thoroughly and clean baseboards, backs and sides of stairs, cabinets and other wood surfaces. Go over radiators, too.

Walls painted with enamel or high gloss paint may be washed with a mild application of detergent or soap. Wipe down closet walls. Scrub linoleum and wood floors with soapy water. Rinse with clear water. Wash wood painted furniture, overlapping washed areas so they won't streak when dry.

Liquid or paste wax: Wax floors with self-polishing floor wax which needs no buffing or paste wax which takes longer to apply but leaves a prettier finish usually.

Rubber tiles, asphalt tiles and linoleum in the kitchen should be waxed to a brilliant sheen. A thin film of liquid wax on woodwork will help protect it so that future soil, finger marks and spots will whisk off with a damp cloth.

Apply the wax after the woodwork has been washed thoroughly and dried. This technique may be applied also to Venetian blinds, painted trim in the children's room, book cases.

Scouring powder: Hard to beat for spots and finger marks that are stubborn, tile floors, bathroom walls, tub, basins. Good for scouring stove and oven parts. New sudsing type cleansers are especially good. One turns golden when wet.

Spot removers: After vacuuming upholstered pieces, remove cushion sections, cleaning underneath, brushing away loose soil. Brush debris on to paper and burn to destroy moth eggs.

Go over upholstery and rugs with moth spray using pressurized can or spray gun.

Remove spots with spot remover. First make sure there is no dust in area to be cleaned. Use a soft clean cloth testing cleaning fluid in an inconspicuous spot. If it works go ahead on the rest of the upholstery. Work in a room that has good air circulation. The cleaned area will dry quickly if an electric fan is allowed to blow on it.

Glass cleaners: Use on all glass surfaces, windows, mirrors, chrome fixtures. Use to shine ice box, sink, stove and outside of bathtub making day-to-day wipe-up easier.

Polishes: This is an excellent time to shine up darkened copper chafing dishes, silver coffee services, trays, etc. Paste silver polishes are safe, quick and efficient and there are any number of good copper polishes available.

If rugs are to be stored at home, vacuum carefully on both sides and spray with moth repellents before you put them away.

Each day after chores are over spray an air refresher around the house, take a good hot bath, brush your hair and squirt cologne liberally on yourself—and relax.

MARBLE DRESSER TOP — The lower half of this cabinet already had good lines and a fine mahogany finish. All it needed was a white marble top, shaped to fit, to make a handsome and prfactical server. Now it's more in scale with a small dining room that the tall old china cabinet was, and still it provides a lot of storage space.

Clear Glass Block Here

Techniques developed in the manufacture of television bulbs are being used to produce a super clear glass block. Possessing the clarity of the face of a television tube, the clear glass block are ideal for locations in the home where you want outside view without sacrifice of protection against the weather. Sturdy and more enduring than conventional window glass, the clear block also have the insulation value of an eight-inch brick wall.

If you're going to paint both ceiling and walls, do the ceiling first.

Cabinets Have Bins

One of the interesting features of the new steel kitchen cabinets is a bulk storage bin for flour, sugar, or meal. Tip-out bins are available as well as compartment styles which fit handily into drawers of undersink and counter cabinets.

Closet Accessories Built with Masonite Pegboards

Masonite "Peg-Board" panels and metal hangers, which take the headache out of home storage, may be obtained now from most building material dealers. This happy combination of holes and hangers gives homemakers a versatile method of hanging a variety of things ranging from kitchen utensils to lawnmowers.

As illustrated, these strong, splinter-free panels have scores of perforations. Into them are slipped self-locking hangers and fixtures which hold the items to be stored. Of course, the hangers can be moved to whatever spot desired on the "Peg-Board" panel.

The panels, which come in standard sizes from two feet by three feet to four feet by eight, may be attached to an existing wall or directly to studs in new construction. The large panels may easily be cut with a cross-cut saw into the sizes wanted.

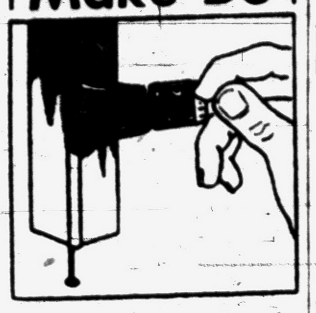

Here are a few of the uses for "Peg-Board" panels in the home—in the kitchen for hanging utensils, in the workshop for tools, in the utility closet for brooms, mops and dustpans, in the garage for garden equipment, in the sewing room for spools and scissors, in closets for hats, neckties and shoes, in the bedroom for a useful and decorative bed headboard, in a child's room for a wall, in the living quarters as a decorative divider.

Oil on Windows Helps to Reduce Sticking

Doors and windows usually stick because moisture enters through the raw edges causing them to warp or swell.

Apply a thin coat of the two-to-one boiled linseed oil and turpentine mixture with a cloth to the window grooves and unpainted edges of the sash, window frame or door. Allow to dry thoroughly before using.

Make Do

When painting wooden legs of a table or chair, drive a nail part way in the bottom of the leg. This trick will let you paint right to the edge without having the legs stick to the paper when they dry.

Spackle Makes Painting Surface

Cracked, Oft-Painted Wall Can Be Reworked Easily, Quickly

By HUBBARD COBB

We have a friend who lives in an apartment. In the apartment is a bathroom and this bathroom has been painted and repainted so many times that the paint film is probably a quarter of an inch or so thick. What makes things worse is that the paint has cracked, crazed and alligatored to such a degree that the walls now look like a relief map of the Grand Canyon.

Our friend wanted to do something about these walls and he didn't want to remove all those coats of paint. He also didn't want to move. What he finally did may be of interest to any of you who have a similar situation on your hands.

First he went over the walls with a broad putty knife and removed all loose paint. In some cases a hunk of the finish plaster came off along with the paint. When he was finished with this operation he went over the wall surface with a wire brush which removed small loose particles that the putty knife had missed. When he was finished he had a real horrible looking wall on his hands.

He got hold of some spackle, mixed it with water into a nice workable paste and applied it over the wall with a squeegee—similar to the kind used by window washers. This did a fine job of coating the wall with the spackle. When the spackle was dry he gave it a light sanding to cut down some of the high spots and then gave it a coat of wall primer and sealer. When this was dry he applied his finish paint.

The resulting effect was a nice smooth paint job. What was even better was that the whole job only took a matter of hours rather than days.

Glossy Finish Helps Bricks Round Fireplace

Here's a trick that works wonders for either painted or unpainted bricks around your fireplace or for other interior brickwork:

First, clean the bricks thoroughly, then brush on a two-to-one mixture of boiled linseed oil and turpentine. This gives the brickwork an attractive, glossy finish that's easy to dust.

Protects Lawns

Spraying With Chemicals Helps to Defeat Crabgrass

If your lawn was ruined or spoiled last year by crabgrass, take some precautions this year to avoid a similar fate.

Today's crabgrass killers contain either potassium cyanate or phenyl mercury compounds. The former costs less, and with one application gives quick control of average infestations; mercury treatments usually need repeating at least once.

Mercury compounds, however, are less likely to cause tip burning of desirable lawn grasses and are easier on clover, too, chemical should be used if conditions aren't favorable for growth of the preferred grasses.

If your lawn has a slight infestation, a late spring application just as the crabgrass seedlings appear may suffice.

Discoloration is more prevalent in dry periods, so don't apply during a drought, unless you can water your lawn thoroughly a day or two before treatment and continue regular watering afterward.

If the infestation is heavy, late summer may be the better time to curb crabgrass. Then follow up with aerifying, feeding and reseeding, so the lawn appears brown with dead crabgrass for the shortest time possible.

Spraying in time to prevent seed formation cuts down next year's infestation. Don't use these chemicals on a new lawn or one with much bent grass.

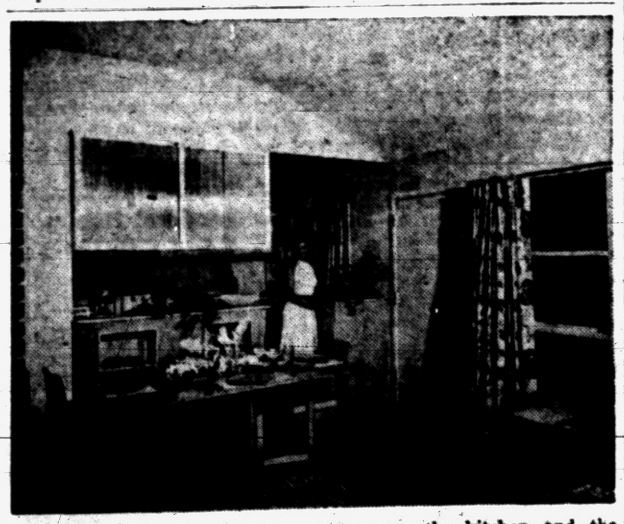

DO-IT-YOURSELF — The upper half of an unwanted china cabinet was removed from its base and set on an unfinished dressing table. Its antiqued pink finish matches the full-gathered faille skirt. The china shelves came out to make room for a gilt-framed mirror and little glass corner shelves. When not in use, the glass doors will close to keep out dust.

Paint Before Storage

Be sure that wood storm sash frames are well painted before they are stored away for the summer.

If they are left uncoated in spots, the wood will absorb moisture and the sash may warp out of shape preventing it fitting in the window frame.

STEP-SAVER—A pass-through between the kitchen and the dining area saves many dozens of steps a day in serving meals. The pass-through illustrated here has a convenient hanging cupboard above the usual counter. All the dishes and silver needed for a meal can be laid on the counter from the kitchen side and then can be easily reached from the dining room side later. A hanging cupboard of this type can have doors on both sides.

Achieve Color in Garden Beds

Satisfactory Variations Can Be Gotten With Several Species

Colorful displays of bloom in the summertime are not hard to achieve—neither are they expensive. Your can be successful even with plantings on a modest scale, or you can go off the deep end with everything in the book.

First there are annual flowers easily grown from seed. They are planted in the spring, bloom and die. They are not too much work to get started, nor too much to worry about on the caretaking side. Or you can have roses, or such summer flowering bulbs as gladiolus.

The cutting garden is just a way of saying you've got your planting arranted in rows in beds so they are easy to tend, easy for your wife to cut for indoor floral displays. She'll love it.

Gladioli also produce wonderful cutting flowers, particularly if the bulbs are planted a row at a time a week apart. This spreads out your blooming period, and gives color over a long period.

For your display beds, you also have a wide variety from which to select. And don't sell the petunia short in this situation, particularly as a color relief to your evergreens. They'll give you color, vigorous and continual bloom.

Bienniak, such as hollyhock, sweet William or English daisy, have vegetative growth the first year, flower the next, then die. You can buy plants this spring which will bloom this year.

Although no two eggs in the usual bird"s nest are exactly alike they usually closely resemble each other.

Cedar Fumes Kill Moths Before They Get Started

Newly hatched larvae, however, become paralyzed and die of starvation when exposed to the fumes of cedarwood oil. That explains the effectiveness of cedar closets in protecting garments against moth damage.

Lacy-Looking Place Mats Now Available for Homes

Lacy looking place mats in gold and silver are now available for home entertainers.

These are particularly effective with dark and informal china which should please devotees of the casual method of entertainers.

The design for a gun rack shown above combines several good points not found in ordinary gun racks. The wooden pegs which support the guns are adjustable to level any type of gun in a horizontal position. The hinged arms which fit over the guns are held in place when the drawer at the bottom is closed and the guns are safely secured when the drawer is locked. The vertical rack for one gun is made in two parts and the gun is secured with a small padlock. Pattern 405 shows exactly how to cut out the various parts, assemble and finish the two designs. Price of the pattern is 25 cents. Write to Workshop, Pontiac Press.

Ecru Curtains Step Into Style Picture

For women who appreciate the delicate color of embroidery and old lace, it's good news to know that ecru curtains have been revived.

Doesn't that give you ideas for those "used-to-be-white" tailored curtains? With a package of all-purpose ecru dye, you can convert them into a lovely shade, giving windows a really high style.

INDIVIDUAL SLEEPING COMFORT—Achieving both individual sleeping comfort and proximity is possible in the master bedroom by placing twin beds together against the wall. One bed is extra firm, the other of normal firmness to satisfy his and her comfort requirements. Recessed lighting and monochromatic color scheme provide a restful atmosphere.

In a war between Paraguary and an alliance of Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay starting in 1864, Paraguay lost an estimated half of her 500,000 people in five years of fighting.

Woman Becomes Plumber Strictly Through Accident

You'd never know it, but pretty Lavaughn Garner is the plumber at a large Oklahoma City, Okla. hotel. Because of her size she can get into spots and do many jobs a husky man would find difficult or impossible. Lauvaughn became a plumber by accident. She was an elevator operator, but when the hotel became shorthanded she offered to pitch in. To everyone's surprise she was fearless, had good mechanical knowledge and was willing to learn. Before long she quit elevators to become a full-time plumber.

Short Boards Give New Floor Pattern

Short lengths of hardwood flooring, too short to include in standard length bundles, are now being marketed by lumber dealers because of the unusual patterns they make possible in a hardwood floor. You can get northern hard maple and birch in an attractive blending of tones.

The laying of the short lengths involves no more of a trick than any hardwood floor laying. You can get free pamphlets on the proper procedure.

One point seems obvious, however, and that is a colid and smooth subflor. Shorter lengths are not going to provide the bridging afforded by longer strips. But a subfloor of plywood; or an underlayment of hardboard ought to offset this hazard.

Realtor Cites Occupational Shifts Affecting Real Estate

Vast industrial and scientific changes in the last 40 years have created new callings by the thousand, altering the outlook of people and the market for real estate and housing. Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, pointed out today.

"When people change their ways of making a living, it changes their society," he explained. "It changes the outlook of the individual and the kind of a home or neighborhood he wants to live in.

Occupation	Per Cent in Each 1910	1950
White Collar	21%	37%
Foreman and Skilled	12	14
Agricultural	31	12
Semiskilled	15	28
Laborers	14	6
Servants	7	3

"Note the great increase in white collar and semiskilled callings: the great shrinkage in agricultural occupations and laborers," Mr. Nelson said. "Servants, as you might expect, have shrunk to a mere 3 per cent of those gainfully employed.

"The table shows why an increasing part of our population desires home ownership. The number of laborers and servants, whose work is uncertain and who must be ready to move from place to place, has consistently shrunk. Those whose callings form a basis for more stable incomes and higher earnings have increased.

"Here is a picture of a classless society. Here is no overwhelming majority of 'peasants' or of ignorant 'workers.' The table shows that we have a middle-class society. That is why our country loves freedom and will seek to maintain it.

"Time was when there were neighborhood distinctions in connection with how people made their livelihoods. Now, if a man's work is honorable, no one thinks of social cleavages. If a man pays his way, carries his civic obligations, and acts like a good neighbor, he is accepted as a part of any neighborhood.

"This has a bearing on the kind of neighborhoods that we must plan for the future. They should make provision for the needs of a good family life rather than distinguish between fine homes and modest ones. They should have facilities for recreation that family life needs. There should be enough churches, since 50 per cent of our people now belong to a church. Diversity and depth of education are needed to meet the complexities of our society.

"The promise of American life, which generations have struggled for, is being realized. Voices of criticism in our midst are loud and long. Everybody wants to get into the act of social guidance. That's good. So do we. We want to clear up blight and slums and create cities adapted to the needs of the great new society that we are building."

This set of matching pieces was designed for the utmost in economy and ease of construction. The various parts are all stock dimensions to be found in the nearest lumber yard. A common hand saw is all that is needed to cut the pieces to size as they are all straight cuts. The use of a pattern showing the amount of lumber to buy in each width and the angles of the saw cuts will prevent waste of material in sawing the members ready for assembling. This calls for a hammer and nails; nothing else except a little paint to seal the joints. The backs are removable units. The numbers in the sketch are 25c each and will be included in the Lawn and Garden Furniture Packet of five patterns for $1. Write to Workshop, Pontiac Press.

TROY TOWNSHIP—Part of the ever-growing residential picture in Troy Township is the new development at Belham and Crooks Rds. This home offered by Fred Blackwood, of Birmingham, is of red brick with variegated green shingles for the roof and two-toned green for trim. Strictly California contemporary in design, it has high windows offering the ultimate in furniture arrangement possibilities. Built on half-acre lots, there are full ceiling-to-floor window sections and the front door has a Greek key design for decor.

Glass Block in Garage

Replace worn window sash in your garage with sturdy glass block panels. The glass block will offer better protection against prowlers, insulation value equivalent to an eight-inch brick wall, and bring cheerful daylight to the interior. Cleaning problems will be simplified, too, because the glass block can be wiped clean with a damp cloth.

Wood Polishes Brightly

Right-Angled Tables Used in Front of Long Sofas

However, the tables — with frames of striped zebra wood, and with tops of black formica and white micarta—can be used with equal effectiveness in front of picture windows.

Cleanliness, health protection, long wear, economy — these are the factors to look for when considering floors for any new building.

Kitchens Join Dining Rooms

Combined Units Alter Living, Eating Habits of Owners

A new approach to home planning is reviving the comfortable old custom of eating in the kitchen.

The little white cubicles that passed for kitchens in most houses of the 1920s and '30s were not big enough to eat in, even if anyone had wanted to. And builders — until even more recently — had been making the dining room smaller and smaller, until it too no longer had the spirit of comfort and cheer that should be associated with good food.

Today's approach is to combine these two small spaces—the kitchen and the dining room—in one larger area for both food preparation and service. By a wise selection of materials and finishes, architects and builders are making this room a handsome one, so handsome that it is suitable not only for the family but also guests.

Cabinets in wood finishes or pleasant, warm colors are used to make the kitchen-dining room as livable as any room in the home. The accent is on plenty of storage, so that the room can be made tidy quiickly after meals, and kept tidy easily.

Ventilation is a prime consideration in these new kitchens. Usually a fan is built into space above the range, so that cooking odors will be carried off quickly and not permeate the room.

Colorful casseroles, well-designed cooking utensils, and china and earthernware for serving meals may be used to decorate the kitchen-living area. These articles can beautify the room between meals and come to the table in a useful role when food is served.

Over 90 per cent of the maple flooring sold today is made from slow-growth Northern Maple.

Acid Helps Clean Mortar Off Brick

If you have trouble with mortar splashed on brickwork, do the following; use an old screwdriver or putty knife to knock off chunks of mortar. Then soak bricks thoroughly with water and apply hydrochloric acid added to 10 parts of water. Apply this with a fiber brush.

Steel Cabinets Feature Swing-Out Mixer Shelf

A unique steel kitchen cabinet shelf mechanism provides both an out-of-the-way storage place and an excellent work surface for an electric food mixer. The shelf, hidden behind the door of a steel base cabinet while in storage position, can be pulled out and up to swing the mixer into position for use.

Fiber Washers Needed

Closet Serves as Drying Room for Wet Clothes

Wish you had an indoor clothesline, handy to get to yet out of sight? Here's the thing—the next best to an automatic dryer. And you build it yourself.

It's a closet, 5 feet wide and 6 feet high. In 10 square feet of floor area, you get over 30 feet of drying "line."

The rods rest in notches placed in stepladder arrangement for easy access and they're removable, so you can store them on the top rack when not in use. A small, boxed-in heater with air intake and fan (just inside the door), and screened vents at the top of each side provide good air circulation.

This closet was built in a utility room, and is finished to match the other cabinets. But by changing the location of the vents, it could be made part of a storage wall—or built in a garage or carport.

Power Tools Speed Work for Putterers, Handymen

Every amateur home handyman, whether serious about his efforts or merely a putterer, has at some time thought of owning power tools to speed his work.

With serious home handymen now tending to outnumber the putterers, quite a run on power tools is the result.

Being a relatively new breed, unaccustomed to such luxuries, they don't always know what they are buying and why. This column may help them get what they need for what they want to spend.

First let's take a look at portable electric drills. They're among the first power tools the handymen will buy. Novices will buy them, sometimes not knowing that electric drills nowadays can be equipped to do many more jobs than drilling in wood and metal.

Some models have accessories for sawing holes, for drum and flat sanding, for brushing, scraping and buffing, for grinding, cutting and one even has a hedge-clipping attachment. The little power drill has grown up.

Electric drills are priced at $10 and up. The least expensive is a small drill for delicate hobby jobs. Its bigger brother starts at about $15 and is ideal for standard home uses.

Another highly favored tool is the jig saw. It, too, has a bigger brother — the band saw — and is a popular investment because it can do many things a band saw can't.

The jig saw is nearly as versatile as a power drill, for with some imagination on the operator's part it can be made to do such jobs as filing, sanding of wood, metal and plastic, pattern cutting, besides its primary sawing duties.

It can make interior cuts a band saw cannot make, and, equipped with a heavy blade, will rip-saw wood. It will cut circles and sharp corners—is very easy to use.

Most-popular makes have one-quarter horsepower motors, and cost up to $100 or so with the motor. Smaller vibrator-powered ones can be had for as little as $10.

The band saw, unlike the jig saw with its short blade, has an endless, belt-type blade that circles continously on two wheels. Generally heavier than the jig saw, it will cut heavier material faster, in long or short graceful curves or straight lines. It will also cut thin sheet metal.

The home craftsman, whose workshop boasts the power tools previously mentioned, is getting serious about his handy work. This is when he turns to the circular (table) saw and makes fast cuts through heavy stock, sawing perfectly straight lines.

It will make miter cuts, bevels, grooves, moldings, etc., and can be turned into a grindstone or sander. With different blades it can be used on metals and even stone. The eight-inch blade is best for home use.

You can spend from less than $40, not including the motor, to about $300 with motor. Of course, you get what you pay for.

Well-equipped workshops wouldn't be seen without a drill press. Besides drilling holes up to one half inch in metal and two inches in wood, the drill press will also polish, sand, grind, rout, shape, plane surfaces, tenon and mortise and do other jobs when equiped with accessories. It costs from about $30 to more than $100 without motor.

Besides all these power tools and more, there are multipurpose tools on the market that will saw, drill, sand, do lathe work and combine many of the best extra features of some of the aforementioned power tools, all for about $200 and less.

Aluminum Clothes Line Desirable Home Feature

They will not wear out, rust, rot or crack. They cost less than sash cord or plastic. Any type of clothes pin can be used on them.

Modern Mixing Bowl Flexible to Aid Pouring

A pouring lip and handle are great conveniences on a mixing bowl.

One type, the Plas-Tex mixing bowl is flexible and squeezeable, which aids in emptying it and scraping the sides clean. It's shaped to keep contents gravitating to the middle. Also, it's ruggedly made of polyethylene that won't scuff.

Woomera City Is Testing Site

Australian Town Is Busy as Atomic Explosions Boom It Into News

WASHINGTON—Woomera, in the "dead heart" of Australia, 300 miles northwest of Adelaide port, is one of the world's liveliest testing grounds for guided missiles and supersonic craft.

Its enormous range flashed into news prominence recently when Britain's second and third atomic explosions were set off far in the interior.

But the Woomera project, a joint British-Australian undertaking, has been busy since it was established in 1947 for rocket-launching experiments.

"Woomera" is a sardonically apt name for the site, says the National Geographic Society. It was the obrigines' word for the notched throwing stick that native warriors once used to gain greater force and accuracy in hurling spears.

The test course of the administering organization, officially known as the Long Range Weapons Establishment, stretches more than 1,200 milesfrom central South Australia to the continent's northwest coast.

Its path lies through a parched, windswept wilderness where on e can travel endlessly without seeing any sign of life, except perhaps a kangeroo, a dingo, or an ostrichlike emu.

After the atomic blasts last fall, observers reported that even these assaults by fire and force semed to ad dnothing to its chronic desolation.

At the head of the range, Woomera Town is a man-made oasis in the arid waste. Built to house scientific, technical and labor personnel, it nowhas several thousand inhabitants.

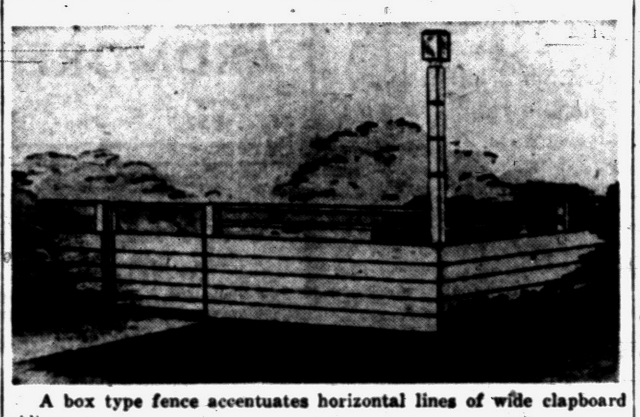

Gardens, a school, church, shopping district, and a cricket field make for near normal community life. But Woomera, like similar research centers around the world, is set apart from other cities.

Invisible security walls isolate it from casual visitors, and residents within must watch their words lest they inadvertnetly reveal restricted information.

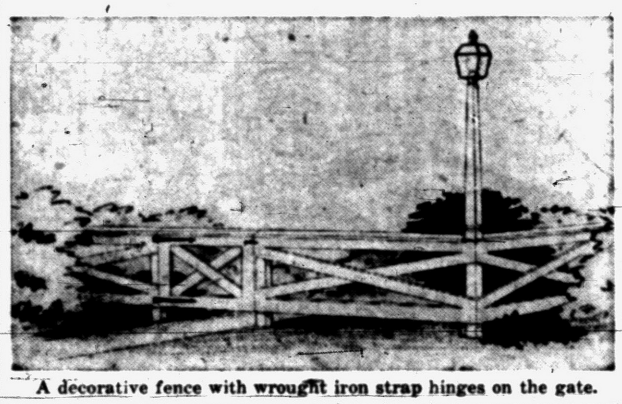

Woomera's daily places of business are in laboratories and technical offices, on near and distant launching sites, and its three airfields.

Develop Ceramic Block Superior to Cement Type

CHICAGO (UP) — Scientists at Armour Research Foundation have developed a new lightweight ceramic building block which they say has many advantages over the common cement block.

The new block was perfected in a project sponsored by the Arabian American Oil Company and research workers hope it will solve the problem of providing low-cost housing in Saudi Arabia.

The block is made entirely of ceramic clay. It consists of 90 per cent bloated clay and is pressed into the standard size of 8 inches by 8 inches by 16 inches with three cavities.

It weighs only 22 pounds, considerably under most cement blocks and can be handled easily by one man. It also provides high insulation and a load-bearing strength of 1,000 pounds per square inch.

The blocks can be produced in a variety of colors ranging from buff to dark maroon, and because of their fine-pore structure, can be cut or trimmed easily.

Nails can be driven securely into them, eliminating the "nailing blocks" that must be used with cement units.

Nest-Building Bird Blamed for Fire

OMAHA (UP) — A nest-building bird got the blame for a fire which caused several thousand dollars damage to the home of Mrs. Grace Boyce here.

Fire Inspector Dan Mulcahey reasoned the bird had unwittingly carried a piece of smoldering cloth or string to the nest, the burned remains of which were found at a spot under the eaves where the fire started.

SHAPE Village Proves Model

International Amity Is Daily Reality for Folks of 10 Nationalities

PARIS (UP) — Blonde Scandinavian babies tumbling with dark-eyed Italians, mothers chattering in fantastic French-English mixtures, and soldiers in sky-blue Greek uniforms are daily proving different nationalities can live together successfully.

Statesmen's speeches make much of Atlantic Alliance harmouy. Almost ignored in the oratory, however, is this practical project in day-to-day living among 13 nations.

"It's something we'll never forget," said U. S. Major Robert Cranston of Fort Worth, Texas. "And for the children, the contacts they make will be invaluable later when they try to understand all the problems and disagreements between nations."

Belgian Sgt. George H. Deraedt, who married a girl from his native Ghent, agreed on benefits of the unique comn.unity.

"It proves that with a little effort, all the nationalities can get along together," he said. "I've never heard of any trouble."

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower first SHAPE commander, started building SHAPE village in July, 1951, to ease the French housing shortage and to push his doctrine that "each one of us must be just one-fourteenth national and 13 parts international."

The site chosen was a 55-acre wooded hillside tract in St. Germain, about 10 miles west of Paris and eight miles from SHAPE.

Ninety-five days after work started, the first 18 SHAPE families moved into the modernistic, balconied three and four-storied apartment blocks dotted in a long curve amid the trees.

Now there are 305 apartments and all the trappings of a small town—markets, schools, Boy and Girls Scouts, Sunday School and athletic teams.

Rents range from $37.75 a month for a small apartment for an enlisted man—combined living room-dinette, kitchen, bathroom, and one bedroom—to $155.75 for the largest five-room place for an officer.

In three months, with our Swedish and Swiss teaching methods, they can learn a basic vocabulary of 400 words and take part in the lessons," he said. "Once a week, national instructors come in for specialized subjects.

Most of the foreign children end up speaking far better French than their parents, and even help mother interpret in the shops."

IN THE HOME WORKSHOP

with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

Martins are gregarious birds and like to make their nests near the house. It must be 10 to 12 feet off the ground or it will not be used.

As this Colonial mansion, complete with chimney has no framing, it is made from three-quarter-inch glued-up stock. Use any widths of scrap found around the workshop.

The pattern gives tracing diagrams for the shaped parts and large drawings showing just how to cut out the pieces and the steps in assembling. This pattern is included in the Bird House Packete which will be postpaid for $1. If only the martin house is ordered the price is only 25c.

Fort Belvedere Loses Status as Royal Apartment

LONDON (INS) — Fort Belvedere, where King Edward VIII reached his decision to abdicate, has been stripped of its royal status.

A Buckingham Palace announcement said that Queen Elizabeth had decided that the mansion is "no longer required as a grace and favor residence."

"Grace and favor" residences are rent-free apartments in royal palaces and mansions distributed by the ruling monarch to members of the royal family or old retainers for "services rendered."

Fort Belvedere, on the edge of Windsor Great Park, Surrey county, 25 miles from London was given to the Duke of Windsor when he was Prince of Wales by his father, King George V, in 1929.

The rambling 40-room mansion with its turrets and tower was built in 1750 by King George II as a gun platform.

During his seven years occupation of Fort Belvedere, from 1930 to 1936, the Duke of Windsor made considerable alterations and improvements. He put in a hard tennis court, an open-air swimming pool and central heating. The interior decorating and replanting of the gardens with scores of rosetrees were supervised by him.

Have Rugs Professionally Cleaned of Ashes, Salt

If ashes or salt have been tracked in during the winter weeks your rugs and carpets should be professionally cleaned without delay. Loose rugs and carpets should be sent to a cleaning plant, where they can be thoroughly washed and rinsed.

If the carpets are fastened to the floor, you can probably have them cleaned right in your home. Either method is good insurance, for in most homes, rugs and carpets represent the biggest furnishings investment.

Putting on Screen Doors?

Now is the time to put up your screen doors. If the screws won't hold because the old holes in the jamb become too large, the holes can be filled with plastic wood. This will harden overnight, and by morning the screws will have new, hard and durable wood to bite into.

This is the best anniversary

our U. S. Savings Bonds ever had

Born in days of trouble, in May 1941; and out of our faith in America; Savings Bonds have become today the greatest nation-wide savings program in history. They did their vital share for defense and for victory and for stabilizing our economy. But they have done another great thing for us:

For, consider: Through all these troubles, they did and continue to do something more than promote our country's economic well-being. They were buying for us, as individuals, things we needed for our own security; for our own happiness, for our own betterment:

- On the roads, new cars bought by Bonds
- On the hills and in the valleys of America, new homes
- On the farms, new equipment for better crops
- In colleges, sons and daughters getting extra education
- And all over America, new independent businessmen; thanks to the start given by Bonds.

And now the happiest fact of all—after doing all these things for ourselves and our Country, we still own more U. S. Savings Bonds today than ever before—thirty-seven billion dollars worth!

At year's end, three-fourths of all matured E Bonds were still being held at interest by their original owners.

So, this is truly a happy anniversary for America's happiest habit—the Bond-buying habit. It means more and more secure homes for America. And that means a stronger, more secure America. Let's make the next anniversary an even better one!

Oriental Influence Setting New Styles in Furnishings

The oriental influence on our homes today is very real and grows more important.

It is the influence of the best that becomes our way of living from vastly older civilizations, the simplicity of the Japanese house, the beauty of Chinese furniture design that developed through so many centuries.

So much that has been called oriental, and Chinese in particular, is as foreign and mysterious to the mysterious East as it is to us, distorted as it has been and mass-produced here, or there but for our market only.

But the oriental that is an influence now comes from what the orientals themselves have used and lived with so long, and is chosen not to bedazzle us, but for the virtues it has that we can live with, naturally, without affectation.

Today's goals of clear spaces, natural materials, bringing the improvement in lighting, use of outdoors indoors and easy care all can be reached by oriental pathways. The oriental as decoration is simpler and only one of its values today.

Today in Tradition, the gallery of traditional furniture greats in Chicago's Merchandise Mart, exhibits two groupings out of the total of 10 which illustrate the oriental influence.

The handsome chest and chair, with their softly dull finishes showing the wood grain, gracefully make themselves at home in many homes, whether or not a point is made of their Chinese design inspiration.

The rattan furniture, designed by John Wisner, is stained dark, is a type of room that is practical and suitable as well as very much in style.

Insurance Man Realizes Risks of Rural Living

NACOGDOCHES, Texas (AP)—Insurance man Marvin McBride has been telling his friends about the perils on his farm.

McBride stopped his car on his farm to move a log that blocked the road. He almost touched a rattlesnake. The snake crawled into a hole in the log.

It Is Now Called Cure for Insomnia

People in the gas industry are wondering if all this talk about insomnia is just a lot of air — the wrong kind or air. They're surveyed homes with all-year air conditioning systems and learned that seven out of ten families rest better at night after installing the conditioner.

It may not solve all insomniac problems, the men say, but you can rest assured it's worth thinking about when you get tired — but not sheepy enough — counting sheep.

Hulas Help Keep Housewives in Proper Trim

MILWAUKEE (UP) — Matrons of suburban Shorewood are keeping their figures trim by hula dancing under the instruction of a woman who never has been to Hawaii.

The women, dressed in home-made grass skirt outfits, attend hula classes at the Shorewood Opportunity School every Monday and wiggle to recorded Hawaiian music.

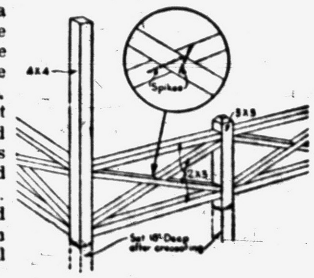

Instructor Val Weimer never has visited the Islands but she knows about 25 ancient and modern hulas. She learned them from a San Antonio, Tex., woman.

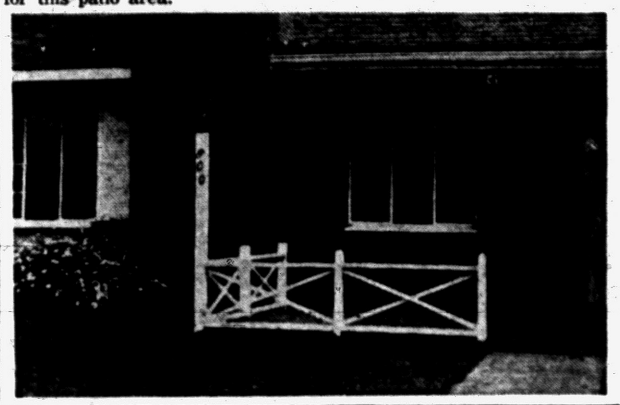

Miss Weimer said the swaying, tropical dance is an excellent way for women of all ages to keep slim and trim enough to wear the proper dress of holokus and grass skirts.

Most of her pupils make their own customes, using colored cellophane for the "grass" of the skirts.

Patio in Front Yard Adds Beauty to Home's Exterior

HOME MADE PATIO—The patio shown below is a charming extra that will add immeasurably to the appearance of any home. The drawing at right gives adequate directions for the home craftsman. The lamp post should be about seven feet high. Fence posts should be creosoted below the ground as a protection against moisture and should be set about 18 inches deep. A pavement of used bricks, laid in a basket-weave pattern on tamped sand or cinders, is ideal for this patio area.

British Are Making Old Bailey More Like Home

Rebuilding of the war damaged building, at a cost of more than 1½ million dollars, has included a suite of rooms where jurors can relax while awaiting their call. Additionally, a basement restaurant has been opened and, for the first time jurymen, witness and spectators can eat inside the building.

Before sweeping, dusty floors should be watered down with a water pistol or other fine-spraying instrument. This will keep the dust from rising into the air.

English-French Menus No Help

A Hot Dog Is Just Not the Same Beast to Gallic and American Tongues

PARIS (INS)—Parisian restaurant owners, with an eye on American tourist dollars, are striving valiantly to make it easy for the trans-Atlantic visitor to order food or drink.

One of their efforts is to print their bill of fare in English.

But the results can sometimes be confusing to the newly-arrived American in Paris.

For instance, take what a well-known eatery along the famed Champs Elyssees has to offer.

Under the heading of "American Specilties" you can find "hot dog poche sur a l'huile" or again "steach en peper."

The hot dog you understand, as you do toast.

But the "pooche sur" throws you.

Inquiries with the waiter don't get you very far.

The head waiter then comes along and, with a liberal waving of his hands, goes into a dipping motion.

What he's trying to tell you is that the dish is a Parisian variation of the lowly hot dog — the sausage dipped in batter and served on toast.

If with your rudimentary French, you figure that "francfort pommes a l'huile" are frankfurters with apples in oil, you are way off base.

And don't let "steach en peper" baffle you.

It turns out that steach is a typographical error for steak and peper stands for pepper. In other words a steak sprinkled with black pepper.

Should you go in for drinks at the same establishment, you can pick between a manathen cocktail or a whiskey American.

Manathen, you've guessed, stands for Manhattan.

It won't do you any good to suggest to the management that if they print menus in English, they should be made understandable to innocents from abroad.

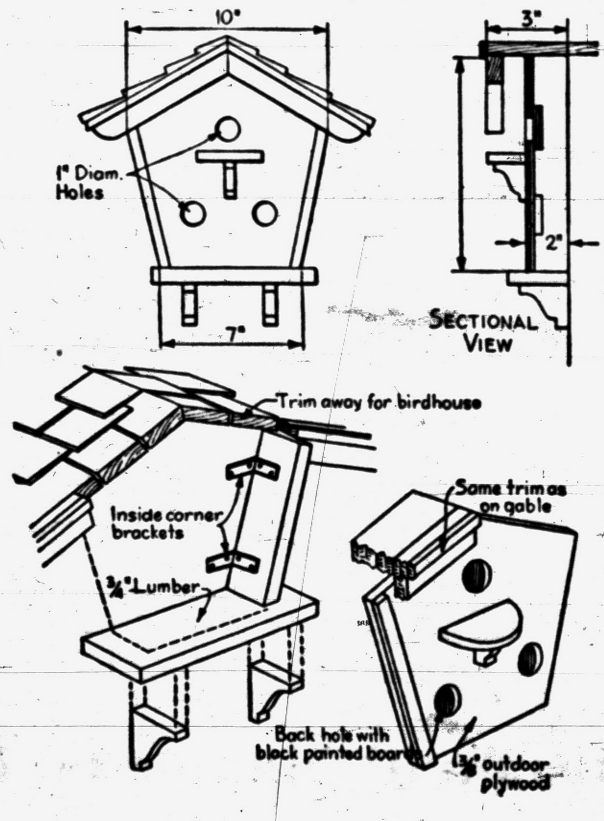

For, inconspicuously displayed near the restaurant door is the sign:

"We speak English
"more or less."

FOR EVERY BIRD, A BIRDHOUSE — A plain gable can be given a quaint decorative touch with a small birdhouse. A few pieces of lumber, plywood and hand tools will do the trick. Drawings below give the dimensions and construction details for the birdhouse. Use exterior plywood for the face, and, if desired, close the holes with thick plywood or boards painted black. Use the same kind of trim as on the gable.

May Bad Time for Spittlebugs

Soil Low on Moisture Especially Susceptible to Damage

EAST LANSING — Better examine clover and alfalfa fields during the first week of May for spittlebugs. The pests can do a lot of damage, especially if the soil is sandy or low on moisture.

That's the word from Extension Entomologist Ray Janes, of Michigan State College. He advises inspecting a number of places in a field.

If one spittle mass per three stems occurs, Janes suggests treating — if the soil is sandy or tends to be drouthy during the growing season.

If the soil is heavy with plenty of moisture, it won't pay to treat unless there are at least twice that number of spittlebugs.

Janes says lindane is the best insecticide to use. The 25 per cent wettable powder should be used at the rate of one-half pound per 100 gallons of water and the 20 per cent emulsion at the rate of two-thirds of a pint in the same amount of water.

You also can use a one per cent lindane dust at 30 pounds to the acre. That insecticide, however, is poisonous and should be applied only if there are 35 days between the treatment and harvest.

If toxaphene is used — the recommended rate is one quart of a 72 per cent emulsion per 100 gallons of water — allow 40 days between the treatment and harvest.

Hardboard Solves Farmer's Problem

Farmer James Scarlan found a leaky building on his farm near Odebolt, Iowa, was damaging the grain inside. He cured the trouble by covering the exterior with 4 by 8-foot sheets of hardboard. He caulked the joints and covered them with battens. Expense and time involved were small, he reports.

Keeping Rug Perfectly Clean Preserves Color

The Carpet Institute has named various colors as being a good choice for floor coverings this season.

The homemaker who selects any of the shades should be careful to see that it is kept perfectly clean, thus to retain the color chosen in the first place. The vacuum cleaner should be used from the very beginning of the carpet's use, daily over heavily traveled areas and at least once a week everywhere.

The National Safety Council offers the following instructions for the safe and correct use of wrenches:

1. Use wrenches that are the right type and size for the job. Never use a piece of pipe on the handle to get more leverage.
2. Use only wrenches having jaws in good condition; keep pipe wrench jaws sharp and clean.
3. Never use a shim to make the wrong size wrench fit the nut.
4. Do not use a wrench as a hammer. Such use weakens it.
5. Always place the wrench on the nut so that the pull on the handle tends to force the jaws further onto the nut.
6. Pulling on a wrench is safer than pushing. If you must push, keep your knuckles in the clear.
7. Avoid falls; see that your footing is good before you pull.

Give mother a break by building her a laundry hamper on wheels! As illustrated, the hamper is designed for use under the clothes chute, from where it can readily be wheeled on its casters to the sorting table.

Obtain some 1 by 2-inch lumber, sufficient to make the boxlike framework of the hamper. The size will depend considerably on the space available, but suggested dimensions are 24 inches square and 30 inches deep.

Also obtain a smooth material in 3-16-inch thickness. Nail these panels to the inside of the framework after drilling a pattern of holes for ventilation.

To simplify the ventilation problem, use peg-board panels, which have scores of holes.

If Mother has no laundry sorting table and is compelled to prepare washer loads on the floor, why not cut a piece that will fit over the stationary tubs? She then will have a portable sorting table, useful for other purposes, too, such as a working surface for a hobby.

New Calk Compound Comes in a Tube

A new calking compound for squeezing into cracks and crevices around sinks and tubs looks and feels like white tile, but it comes in a tube. It is a plastic rubber compound, formulated to prevent shrinkage, crumbling, or discoloration with age — common complaints about calking materials. It dries overnight and if used around colored fixtures, it can be painted any color to conform with your decorating preferences. It's waterproof. The manufacturers say it can also be used for moldings, sills, frames, counter backs, glazing repairs, and other joints.

Farmers Sow More Grass

Excess of Grain Calls for Converting Acreage to Pasture

There's too much corn, too much wheat, too much of all the crops that have been paying best, consequently farmers this year will be growing a lot more grass.

Pasture and forage may be the best alternatives for land taken out of grain and oilseed crops, but remember that those added grass acres can lower your income unless you do some sharp planning.

More than half the extra forage that will be grown on diverted acres in the corn belt will be utilized by beef animals. How, then, can the cattleman get more beef dollars from the grass he plans to grow?

If you have a tall-growing pasture mixture, such as brome and alfalfa, consider cutting the grass with a field chopper and hauling it to cattle in dry lot.

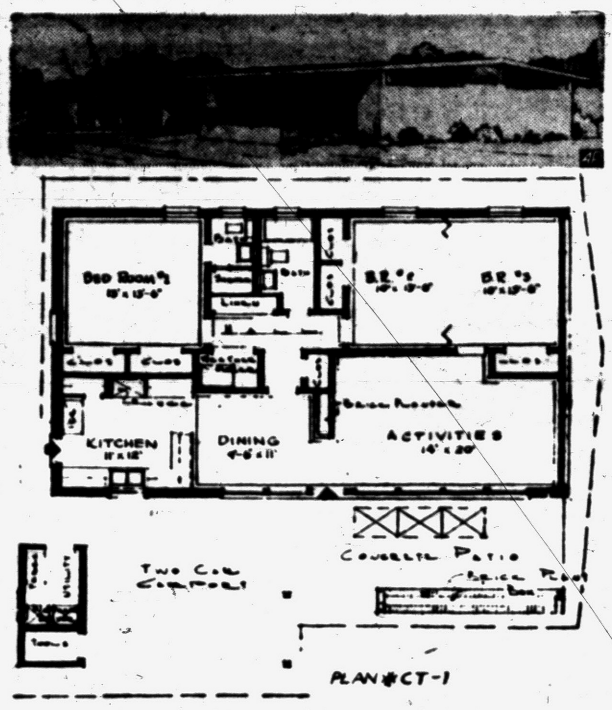

When that method was used last summer at Iowa's Castana substation, each acre of brome-alfalfa clippings, fed to dry-lot steers on a limited corn ration, netted $51.64 above an equal area grazed by cattle given a full feed of corn.

Put in practical terms, figures compiled by W. H. Hale and coworkers on the Iowa staff show you can net about three times more from high-producing grass if you haul it to cattle, rather than grazing it.

Dale Sebens, an eastern Illinois beef man, makes similar use of grass. Last year, he started chopping when the feed was 7 to 8 inches high.

To June 1, his steers got four pounds of grain apiece along with the green feed. For the next month, they got eight pounds of corn a day. July 1, he began increasing the grain and pushed the steers to full feed as soon as he could. He began topping out cattle Aug. 10.

With this method, no grass is trampled down and wasted. Some feeders have found that it's best to wait until alfalfa reaches prebud stage before chopping. Otherwise, steers may bloat on it about as readily as when they graze it.

ALL-FAMILY HOUSE—An activities room supplants the usual living room in this home designed for the living requirements of the modern family. Two children's bedrooms can be separated by a folding partition as indicated on the plan. This is a house designed for year-round air-conditioning, with engineers of the Carrier Corp. cooperating with Architect Charles B. Witchell, 2214 Cedar Spring, Dallas, Texas. It is one of three variations built and sold in Carr P. Collins' Plymouth Park development at Dallas for less than $13,000 with land. Further information and plans available from architect.

Homemade Barbecue Pit Easy for Anyone to Build

Outdoor barbecue season is upon us again, but it's caught a lot of us with our fireplaces down. We've let another year slip by without fixing up a backyard spot for playing chef.

There are as many ways to build permanent outdoor fireplaces as there are places to erect them, but one of the simplest and soundest types of construction calls for building in prebuilt metal fireplace units. They combine metal grills, doors, grates and ashpits in single, integral units.

They form a framework for the masonry and often save construction time and labor. Outer walls may be of brick or stone.

The unit is spotted on the slab (which should be six to eight inches thick, two thirds below grade and one third above). Masonry work begins with firebrick for inner walls, adjacent to sides and back of metal unit.

Firebrick is set on edge to conserve space and brick, and is lightly buttered with fire-clay mortar for 1-16-inch joints. The firewall beneath the level of the lowest grate may be of common brick, but firebrick around the grate area is advisable, for it prolongs the life of the structure.

It is necessary to make allowance for expansion and contraction of metal parts in the fireplace. To do this, corrugated cardboard sheets are placed against the sides and back of the metal unit before firebrick is laid. When the first fire is lighted, the cardboard burns away, leaving a space for expansion between firebrick and metal.

When the firewall is finished, an outer wall of stone or brick is started. As the wall progresses, the joint it makes with the inner wall is buttered lightly with fireclay mortar.

All common brick in the structure should be thoroughly soaked with water just before setting. Mortar joints in brick should be no more than a half inch wide, while stone joints may be as wide as three quarters of an inch.

Jounts should be treated before the mortar sets. For rustic effect on stone work, joints are raked with a stiff piece of wire bent into a loop. Brick joints can be made flush—by whisking away excess mortar with a trowel—or tooled into a concave shape with a piece of pipe.

A flat stone cap is cemented to the top of the walls to keep moisture from seeping down between inner and outer walls, where it might freeze and crack the masonry.

A chimney is unnecessary unless the fireplace is to burn wood or coal, which, of course, produce a lot of smoke. No chimney is needed on charcoal-burning fireplaces.

Chimney top should be fairly high, at least at eye level, and taller if high shrubbery or buildings are nearby. Chimney should be lined with firebrick. Sometimes a damper is included to afford better control of the draft for broiling.

Soft Shades Preferred

When planning your new kitchen or remodeling the old one, remember what the color experts suggest. According to recent surveys, homemakers prefer soft shades like grey and pastels because of their long-term livability.

Strawberries Are Profitable

Gross of Up to $2,000 Per Acre Possible for Part-Time Farmer

"The part-time farmer who seeks profit as well as fun from his farming enterprise should not overlook strawberries," says Hans H. Haugard, assistant Oakland County agricultural agent.

Haugard explains that strawberries do not lend themselves to mechanized methods and that most of the work must thus be done by hand.

Profit-wise, he states that gross returns of $2,000 per acre are not uncommon. He lists the following measures for strawberry growers to realize maximum profits:

Produce out-of-season varieties by cultivating at least in part some everbearing varieties;

Sell locally at retail.

Strawberries can be grown on almost any well-drained soil he says, and require little fertilization. "Perennial weeds, quack grass, etc. should be cleaned out thoroughly before the strawberry bed is set," he states.

He stresses that early planting is important to get high yields.

The following advice is issued by Haugard:

"In a new bed, that is, in its first season, the blossoms should be picked off, so that the plants will produce runners. The runners should be spaced six to seven inches apart in rows 18 to 20 inches wide. The rows should be about 40 inches apart. At this spacing, about 7,000 plants will cover an acre.

"As a part-time farming venture, one man can take care of an acre of strawberries with the exception of the picking. You can, of course, charge a little less per quart and let people come in and pick their own. Yields of 7,500 quarts per acre are not uncommon.

"Virus-resistant strains of Premier and Catskill are now available to Michigan growers. These two varieties are in good demand on Michigan markets.

"Profits from strawberries are in direct proportion to the amount of painstaking care and attention to detail put forth in producing good berries."

Clean Furnaces Last

Annual furnace cleaning is a safety precaution. About 20 per cent of furnaces cleaned annually are found to be defective.

If not discovered in time, these defects could lead to asphyxiation because of fume escape or to an actual fire.

Getting Soaked Still Preferable to Electrocution

Nature is likely to do some divot-digging of its own on golf courses. Rain-harried players had better hurry to the low ground and away from hilltop trees when Jupiter Pluvius starts shooting his bolts from the blue.

No tree is immune to lightning, and if the trees on your favorite course are unrodded, skeedaddle to the valleys and away from the hills.

Golfers are particularly vulnerable to lightning bolts. They'll congregate under the biggest tree when it rains. And it is just those woody giants that are most likely to be hit, particularly if they're on high ground.

But other conditions like depth of roots, moisture-retention of bark and wetness of soil also enter into it.

Careful study of these factors often makes it possible to provide golf courses with reasonable protection by rodding key trees.

Of course the danger extends beyond the links. More than 400 electrocutions by lightning were reported by the National Safety Council last year. Other extensive damage was caused by resulting fires.

Sparing the rod can spoil the tree and endanger lives and property, too.

Make Rug Last Longer With Coat of House Paint

Thinking of throwing out that faded fiber rug? To make it last another season give it a coat of your favorite color house paint thinned with turpentine (one part turpentine to three parts paint.) Work the paint thoroughly into the fiber with the brush to obtain the best results.

DENIM GOES HIGH HAT!—Once denim was the lowly, sturdy material that only found its way into men's overalls. Today, in the gayest of colors and designs, it appears in milady's boudoir, the living room and at all the windows. The above slipcover, dressed in "Joseph's Coat," shows what can be done with striped decorator denim. It comes in a number of subtle shades making any color scheme possible. Denims are sanforized and now are available at leading department stores.

Seeds Require Help for Growth

Need Air, Water, Food to Win Out in Struggle for Existence

Like you, seeds need air, water and food. There must be available in the top inch of garden soil to which the first stages of their struggle for existence will be confined.

It is always a struggle, and seeds need help to overcome the hazards which they encounter in getting a start in life.

Seeds may drown if water stands too long over them because of poor drainage.

Water excludes oxygen from the soil and should never stand more than half an hour on the surface of the garden.

A cold spell may delay germination, enabling moulds and fungi to attack the dormant seeds, to weaken or destroy them.

This can be prevented by using a disinfectant such as spergon or arasan.

Take as much of either as you can lift on the end of a toothpick, drop it into the seed packet and shake it well to coat the seed.

Always do this when seeds are sown early, before the ground warms up, for diseases are most dangerous then.

Seeds may be sown too deep. Small seeds should be barely covered, even the large seeds not more than an inch.

If you have a compost pile, there is no better way that you can use the humus from it than in preparing a special soil with which to cover seed. This should be mixed with sand, half and half.

In addition to making sure that the seed sprouts will be able to emerge, this loose soil will hold moisture and keep the soil beneath it from drying out. It is therefore especially desirable in hot weather.

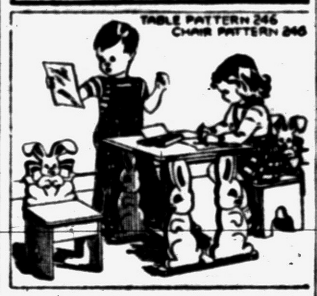

Check Rug Quality

When buying a rug or carpet, look at the back. The more rows to each inch, the better the quality. Also, unless the pattern shows on the back, it is bound to wear off.

A packet of five full-size patterns will be mailed for $1. Ask for Outdoor Play Equipment Packet No. 1. Write to Workshop, Pontiac Press.

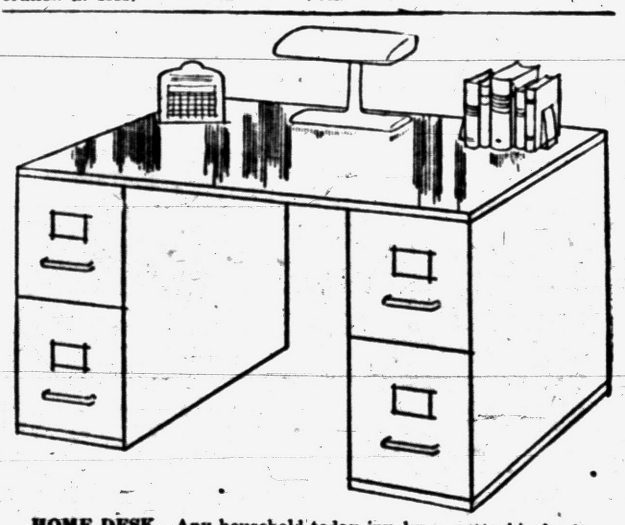

Storm Windows Cut Moisture, Fuel Bills

Modern storm windows more than double the insulating value of a window, reducing condensation and frosting on panes as well as saving fuel.

The most practical way to install them is to hook them on hinging hangers. Adjusters placed at each side, instead of one in the center, are most satisfactory for ventilation because they hold the storm windows more rigidly in a wind.

You can get these adjusters at your hardware store or building supply dealer. This is a good season to install them, to save you time and cold fingers next fall.

The pink bollworm pest can reduce the oil content of cotton seed as much as 20 per cent.

HOME DESK—Any household today involves pretty big business with all the service contracts involved in modern equipment, household bills, installment buying, insurance, and personal income taxes.

One of the easiest ways to build a serviceable business desk on a minimum outlay is to use two old standard two-drawer filing cabinets with a suitable desk-top surface spread over and between them. A sheet of plywood finished with hardboard facings provides an unbroken surface.

You can get plywood of this type at your lumber yard in ¾-inch thickness. Space the filing cabinets 24 inches apart to allow for leg room and measure accordingly. Drill holes in the cases—one near the front and another about half way back near the extreme outer edges—and fasten the top with wood screws applied from the under side.

Pamper Pet Appliances for A-1 Performance

Electric sheets and blankets can be washed successfully in warm soapsuds if you don't twist or wring them. To avoid damage to delicate wires, just squeeze out excess water by hand.

* * *

Keep all small appliances covered with plastic or cloth protectors when not in use. Keeps dust and dirt out, and retards tarnishing. Saves you hours of polishing.

* * *

Pay special attention to keeping the drain pipe clean in a non-mechanical refrigerator chilled by "real" ice. Remove the pipe and drain trap often, wash them in hot soapsuds, and scald with boiling water to kill bacteria.

* * *

It's modern efficiency to keep your flatware and silver service as bright as your appliances. And there's one way to do it.

Reserve one drawer or compartment for the silver and line it with silver cloth. This is a soft, beaver-brown flannel that contains millions of silver particles that act as a barrier against tarnish-causing sulphur gases in the air.

* * *

Use a cloth soaked in turpentine to remove paint splashes from enamel-surface equipment such as refrigerators and washing machines. Once the paint is off, wash away the turpentine with soapy water; otherwise, it will dry to a sticky film.

* * *

Thirsty appliances can't perform their task efficiently. Keep a small oil can filled with light oil in the kitchen utility cabinet, for first-aid to hard-working motors.

* * *

Don't overload your washing machine, because free circulation of soapsuds and rinse water is essential for maximum soil removal. It pays to run an extra load, if necessary, to avoid crowding the washer.

* * *

Never allow egg mixtures to dry on mixer beaters. Soak in cold water, never hot, immediately after use. Makes washing-up easier.

* * *

An electric toaster should never be immersed in water. Instead brush away crumbs and wipe the outside with a well-wrung-out soapy cloth. Rinse with a clean damp cloth, and then rub the surface dry.

* * *

An electric blender is a quick way to make the thick soap jelly recommended for washing surfaces and fabrics that should not be saturated with water.

Just place 1 cup of warm or cool water and 1-5 cup soap in the glass container of the blender, put on the cover, and run about one minute until the contents are thoroughly blended.

* * *

When a freezer is completely defrosted is the time to wash the inner walls with warm soapy water. Take out baskets and dividers and suds them carefully, too. Rinse and dry all surfaces and equipment.

Air Conditioner Has Winter Use

Experts See Its Value in Better Ventilation and Good Health

AUBURN, N. Y. (UP)—Owners of air conditioners are not getting full value from their units if they put them in "moth balls" over the winter, according to an expert here.

Many year-round health, comfort and housekeeping benefits are to be derived from air conditioners in addition to hot weather cooling, according to Herbert L. Laube, president of a room air conditioning firm.

For example, he pointed out, by setting the control of an air conditioner on "ventilation," it is possible to get healthful circulation of fresh, filtered air without dust, dirt, drafts, smog, smaze or pollen from open windows. At the same time, stale air, smoke and other odors are exhausted.

Winter heating also can be improved. In cases where a radiator is located directly below a window and this area has generally been a "hot spot," the air conditioner can be turned on "fan" and the heat normally pocketed in the area will be evenly circulated.

In offices and apartments where heat comes from a central source and is often "too hot," the air conditioner turned on either "ventilation" or "cooling" can be used to combat it, he said.

If, on the other hand, the heat supplied is "too cool," it is possible to turn the control to "heat" on the latest room units and raise the room temperatures as much as 10 degrees.

Housekeeping is easier, he added, because, with an air conditioner to filter out dirt, there's less dusting, less film on windows and blinds and exposed silver stays tarnish-free longer because humidity which causes silver to blacken is taken out of the air.

TRICKS FOR SPRING—A garden for your mail box, a bird house made out of a cheese box, a growing keg can make your garden more attractive and interesting.

Factory Makes Steel and Its Own Snowfall

PROVO, Utah (UP) — In addition to being the largest steel plant in the west, the Geneva works of the U. S. Steel Corp. here apparently has a further distinction—the ability to create its own snowstorms.

For three days in a row, a light snowstorm occurred over the plant, although no snow was reported anywhere else in the country in which it is located.

A Provo weather observer theorized the freak condition may have resulted from three days of low fog in the area, combined with heat, steam and gases from the plant. He described the phenomena as a "local" storm.

Empty paint cans under the feet of a ladder will spread weight to keep the ends from sinking into soft earth. The American Home magazine says the cans act like snowshoes and cut the danger of ladder shifting while you're on it.

Electronic Air Filter Will Reduce Cleaning

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP) — The thorough housecleanings of spring and fall may become things of the past.

A new electronics air filter promises to cut cleaning to once every two or three years.

The maker says the device provides the nearest approach yet to dust-free air in the home. The filter, for use in warm air heating systems and all-weather air conditioners, picks dirt out of the air in much the same manner small bits of iron and steel are drawn to a magnet.

Comfort in Floors Found to Cut Worker Fatigue

It has been demonstrated that increased comfort in floors has a definite beneficial effect on workers' energy by retarding fatigue. Such comfort in floors, means first, resilience — to decrease nerve strain and retard foot and leg fatigue.

Second, comfort means warmth —a floor that reduces loss of body warmth by conduction, for greater comfort during winter months especially.

Also, floor comfort means smoothness — to make movement easy to workers on the move. Finally, it means dryness—an essential feature for body comfort.

There are about 17,000 producing oil wells in Illinois.

Don't Wash Walls Before Repainting

The question as to whether or not interior walls should be washed with soap and water before they are painted is asked each spring.

Except in the kitchen, where walls are likely to have grease on them, it seldom is necessary to wash them with cleaners. Merely wipe thoroughly with a dry mop.

Lumber Dealers Assisting FHA

Association Attempting to Tighten Regulations for Title I Repairs

For some months the National Retail Lumber Dealers Assn. has been assisting the FHA in tightening up its regulations so as to prevent irresponsible individuals from defrauding the public by misusing FHA's Title I repair and maintenance program.

Scores of retail lumber and building materials dealers, who normally help home owners improve and modernize their properties with the aid of Title I loans, have complained about the illegitimate activities of itinerant individuals who invade their localities and mislead the public into signing exhorbitant contracts.

The Title I program, properly administered, is a sound and desirable means of extending credit insurance to families who want to modernize and repair their homes and repay the cost over a period of time.

Ohio Realtors' Board Urges Tree Planting

The Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards is again this year urging its Realtor members to cooperate with conservation groups in presenting a shade tree to each home buyer and to encourage farmers to plant more trees.

Sales of Summer Furniture Zooming

That wrought iron or rattan chaise you're planning to purchase this spring will constitute a portion of $120,000,000 worth of summer furniture sales expected during 1954.

This all-time high will represent an increase of 19½ per cent in sales over the previous year, and a 100 per cent gain over figures of six years ago, reports Harold J. Siesel, secretary of the National Association of Summer Furniture Manufacturers.

By way of contrast, Mr. Siesel notes, summer furniture did not even represent five per cent of the overall furniture field a few years ago.

Clean Furnace Annually, Don't Risk Asphyxiation

Regular cleaning of a furnace will prolong its life. Soot and fly ash, when allowed to remain over a summer in a furnace, invite corrosion which in time can call for total replacement.

Assist Callers, Display Address Conspicuously

Most houses have official street numbers. But finding the numbers is something else again.

If you want to be found when a telegram comes announcing you're the heir to a legacy, post your house number where everybody can see it.

Any postman will tell you that the mailbox and the house number go together like ham and eggs.

This sort of uniformity makes it easier finding a number on a dark night. Of course, illuminated numerals help, too, and that problem can be solved easily with light reflecting or absorbing materials.

Perhaps your house numbers are illegible, poorly located or otherwise outmoded. Why not make a distinctive set yourself? All you need is wood and a scroll saw or coping saw, which cuts curves.

First design the letters so they're large enough and look right. Transfer the design to board and start cutting.

Sand down any rough edges. The numerals may be mounted directly on the siding, using waterproof glue or finishing nails, or placed on a piece of hsped wood.

Some families, particularly in outlying areas, like to identify their names with nameplates. These may be similarly made and mounted on a board, which is fastened to a tree out in front or hung from a post.

Clean Heater, Ducts Ease Housecleaning

Unless a heating system, including the furnace and ducts, is cleaned annually, dust and dirt will be circulated through the house in the warm air that rises from the radiator in the furnace to wall and floor registers. This accounts for the smudgy spots often found adjacent to heat outlets in many homes.

European types of earthworm are often more vigorous than those in other areas of the world and when introduced into such areas, frequently displace native species.

Drawers Aid Housekeeper

Unit Built Into Closet Keeps Linen Dust-Free and Neat

For easier housekeeping, a battery of shallow built-in drawers may be located in an entrance-wide closet. With so many drawers, its simple to classify the linens and keep them neatly pressed.

Some drawers may be assigned to pillow cases and others to sheets, guest towels, face cloths or other items. If the closet is near the dining room the drawers can be used similarly for table and kitchen linens.

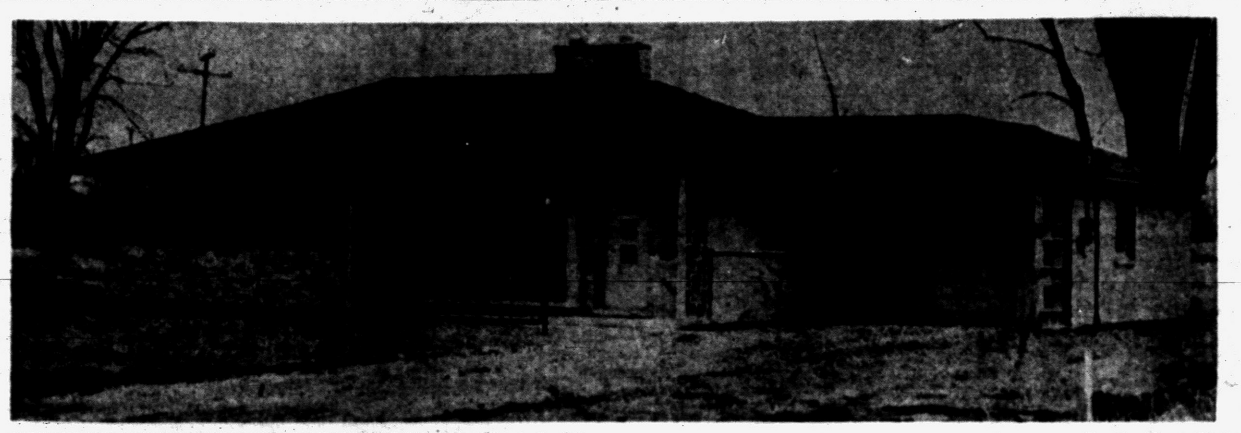

As illustrated, the drawers are held in place and operate on two side walls made of lumber. Each slides between 1 by 4-inch wood pieces screwed horizontally on the uprights.

The drawers are made by nailing together 1 by 2-inch wood strips and attaching a bottom of 3/16" hardboard. The dust-protectors on the front also serve as pulls. They, too, are hardboard, a smooth, splinter-free material widely used in furniture.

A detailed plan for this biult-in linen closet may be obtained free by writing Home Service Bureau, Suite 2039, 111 West Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill., and requesting free plan No. AE-269.

Patching Roof Useless

Patching a weathered roof is rarely worthwhile. A more economical procedure is to reroof with asphalt shingles while the old roof is sound enough to be used as a base for the new material. This saves tearing the old roof off.

CHEROKEE HILLS MODIFIED RANCH STYLE—On Okemah drive in Cherokee Hills (just off Elizabeth Lake road) is this attractive, new, beige brick home with green trim. Full ceiling-to-floor window sections are used. It is a six-room plan with spacious yard. It is being handled by Carl Bird, of Pontiac.

IN THE HOME WORKSHOP

Shelves often may be as attractive as a picture for use in an important wall space. Providing, of course, they are made with good lines and proportions. When such shelves are arranged with flowers, figurines or small objects that one likes to collect, they bring a room to life with color and interest. On this pattern there are an even dozen designs that may be used in either modern or period rooms. The lines to follow in sawing out the pieces are traced directly onto the wood. The interlocking style of joints makes assembling easy, as no brads or screws are used. A copy of this pattern will be mailed for 25 cents. It is also included in the Living Room Packet No. 1 at price of $1. Write to Workshop.

The pair is so designed that it can be used—when fitted together at the end curves—as a table for eight, and when separated, the larger will serve as dining space for four and the smaller for two persons.

The larger of the two component parts can likewise serve as desk or game table. Actually, this particular pair of tables solves the where - to - store - extra - table - leaves problem: No extra leaves are needed.

Preservative Halts Warping, Swelling

Woodwork manufacturers combine the best qualities of nature and science by treating ponderosa pine exterior doors and windows with a water repellent preservative in accordance with standards of the National Woodwork Manufacturers Association, Inc.

The preservative effectively reduces shrinking and checking of wood during dry weather, and swelling and warping. Treated doors and windows are less likely to stick, and paint is less likely to blister.

Floor Expert Offers Advice

Fashion Now Suggests Leaving Surface Bare Instead of Covering

NEW YORK (INS) — It's once again fashionable to show off a wood floor instead of covering it up with carpeting.

But too many wood floors aren't worth showing off, says Joseph Sassano, because women don't know how to take care of them.

Sassano does know — it's been his business for 35 years. He's a white-haired, blue-eyed man of 60 who's known unofficially in the trade as the "Floor King." Officially, he's president of General Floorcraft, Inc., a firm that turns out polishers, scrapers and cleaners.

"Too many women," Sassano lamented, "still think you can wash a wood floor. The worst thing for a wood floor is water, because it marks the wood and raises the grain.

"Never, never wash a wood floor."

Instead, Sassano said, a wood floor should always be waxed. But even this must be done just so.

"You have to start with a clean floor," Sassano pointed out. "If the floor is pretty beaten up, I would suggest having it scraped and sealed. The scraping is pretty much a professional chore, but sealing can be a do-it-yourself job.

"Buy a liquid or paste sealer, plain or colored, and fill in all the pores of the wood. Put on one coat and then steelwool it, put on a second coat and steelwool that, too. The wood pores should be sealed, but don't leave any sealer on top."

After that, Sassano explained, comes the waxing. And he's all in favor of a polishing-type wax, not the "self-polishing" variety.

"We in the trade call those self-polishing waxes water-emulsion waxes — and water is not good for wood floors. So I always advise using either a paste or liquid polish-type wax, the kind that must be buffed in order to bring up a luster."

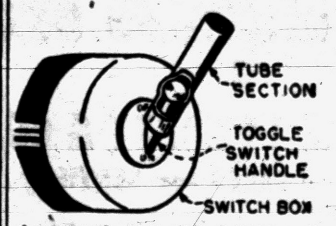

It's only for wood floors that Sassano disdains self-polishing waxes. He pointed out that self-polishing waxes were developed specifically for rubber and asphalt tile floors, which can take no other kind of wax.

To keep the wood floors looking bright after they've been cleaned and waxed, Sassano suggests a re-waxing every two to three weeks. He added a warning, however:

"Fresh wax should go only on a clean floor. That means you should dry-clean the traffic areas with steel-wool. Dirt gets embedded in the old wax, but the steel-wool treatment loosens the dirt and removes scuff marks. It also burnishes the old wax into a hard finish, and sometimes you won't need fresh wax as often."

Tubing Makes Toggle Switch

If the toggle switch on a power tool is difficult to reach take a short section of stiff tubing and slip it tightly over the toggle switch handle. This lengthens the handle and brings it within reach. Use either plastic or stiff rubber tubing.

ORDER YOUR OWN—It will save the amateur builder time and embarrassment if he knows the terms by which to order building materials.

Know How to Measure Material for Big Projects

Let's say you are going to build a garage, finish an attic room, build a porch, or some such major construction. And let's say that you've never done this type of work before — you're strictly a novice handyman.

Since you will have to order your own material, you'll need to know how to go about it. After all, you don't want to give your material dealer the correct impression that you don't know what you're talking about.

If you are building a garage or porch you will begin with the concrete footings for the foundation, or you may be planning to erect the structure over a slab. At any rate, you will order the concrete by the cubic yard.

To determine the number of yards of concrete needed, multiply the length of the area it will occupy by its width and depth in feet, then divide by 27, the number of cubic feet in a cubic yard.

To order foundation blocks you must first translate the square feet of wall surface you plan to build into square inches. In other words, multiply the square feet of wall surface by 144, the number of square inches in a square foot. Next, divide the result by the number of square inches in a single block. An 8x8x16-inch block is 128 square inches. The answer is the number of blocks needed for the wall.

Next comes the lumber. If you are finishing an attic, one of the first tasks before you is the subflooring. This can be ordered by square feet of the floor area to be covered. Add 20 per cent for waste. Siding, sheathing and finish flooring are ordered in the same way.

Baseboards and 2x4s for studding and other use in partitions are simply ordered by the lineal foot.

Estimate insulation in square feet, but allow 10 per cent for waste.

If you plan to use dry wall (plasterboard, plywood, fiberboard or hardboard) in an attic, order it by panels. To estimate this, divide the square feet to be covered by the square feet in one dry-wall panel.

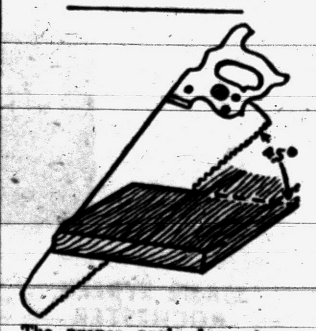

Order roofing materials by the "square," which is equal to 100 square feet. To determine the squares in a roof, first find the square feet of roofing and divide by 100.

You'll be using many pounds of nails, varying from 2-penny to probably not larger than 30-penny. It will come in handy to know the length of these nails when it comes to asking your dealer for them.

Two-penny nails are one inch long. Sizes progress by quarter inches up to 10-penny nails, which measure 3 inches. Sizes then jump to 12-penny, 3¼ inches; 16-penny, 3½ inches; 20-penny, 4 inches; and 30-penny, 4½ inches.

Remember when ordering subflooring that there are four types; plain, tongue-and-grooved, T&G end matched (has tongue-and-groove on ends as well as edges), and plywood. One of the least expensive is the simple tongue-and-groove. Order it in random lengths.

There are also three general types of insulation: reflective, batts and blankets. Before ordering, check on the distance between centers of studs and rafters in your home. Insulation comes in widths from 16 to 24 inches.

The proper angle for using a crosscut saw is 45 degrees.

Plant Food Helps Too

Hot Water in Vase Helps Cut Flowers Stay Alive

ITHACA, N. Y. (INS)—Hot water in the vase, not cold water, will keep cut flowers alive longer.

That's a tip from Kenneth Post, professor of floriculture at Cornell University, who lists nine ways to add hours to your flowers.

His nine rules are:

1. Wash the flower container with soap and water before each use to remove bacteria. Bacteria clog the water-conducting tubes of the flowers and cause them to wilt.

2. Cut the flower stems with a sharp knife or sharp shears, either on a slant or straight across. Flowers keep just as well if the stems are cut across, but they must be cut since a fresh cut absorbs water freely.

3. Remove any foliage that will be below water. Submerge foliage decays and hastens cut-flowers fading.

4. Use hot water of 110 F, about bath temperature. Place the stems in this hot water and let it cool naturally. Hot water moves easier and faster in the stem than does cold water. Be certain the base of the stem is covered.

5. After you place the flowers in hot water, wrap a piece of paper around the group. The paper prevents rapid air movement over the flowers and reduces water loss from them. After about two hours, you may arrange the flowers and they continue to take up water.

6. Use a commercial flower food in the water, since this prevents bacterial growth and kills fungi. However, commercial flower foods do not work in city water that is high in carbonates.

7. Keep the flowers cold at night, since the longer flowers are kept in temperatures of from 30 to 35 degrees, the longer they keep. The life of your flowers will double by placing them in a cold room or refrigerator at night or when not in use.

8. Warm air removes water from flowers faster than they can absorb it, and heat makes them mature fast. So do not place flowers over a radiator. Don't place them in a draught either, since air blowing over flowers causes water loss faster than it is absorbed.

9. Boil poinsettias, poppies and dahlias, since the milky substance that oozes from their stem plugs the water conducting tubes. Place the base of the stems of these flowers in boiling water for 30 seconds, then in water of 110 degrees, and they will keep.

Pamphlets by Thousands

Gardeners' Queries Flood Department of Agriculture

WASHINGTON (UP)—You don't have to tell the Agriculture Department spring is here: The annual calls for help from home gardeners tipped it off long ago.

The amateurs who haven't yet developed a green thumb are asking the department to bail them out with information ranging from how deep to plant squash seeds to how often you spray a rosebush.

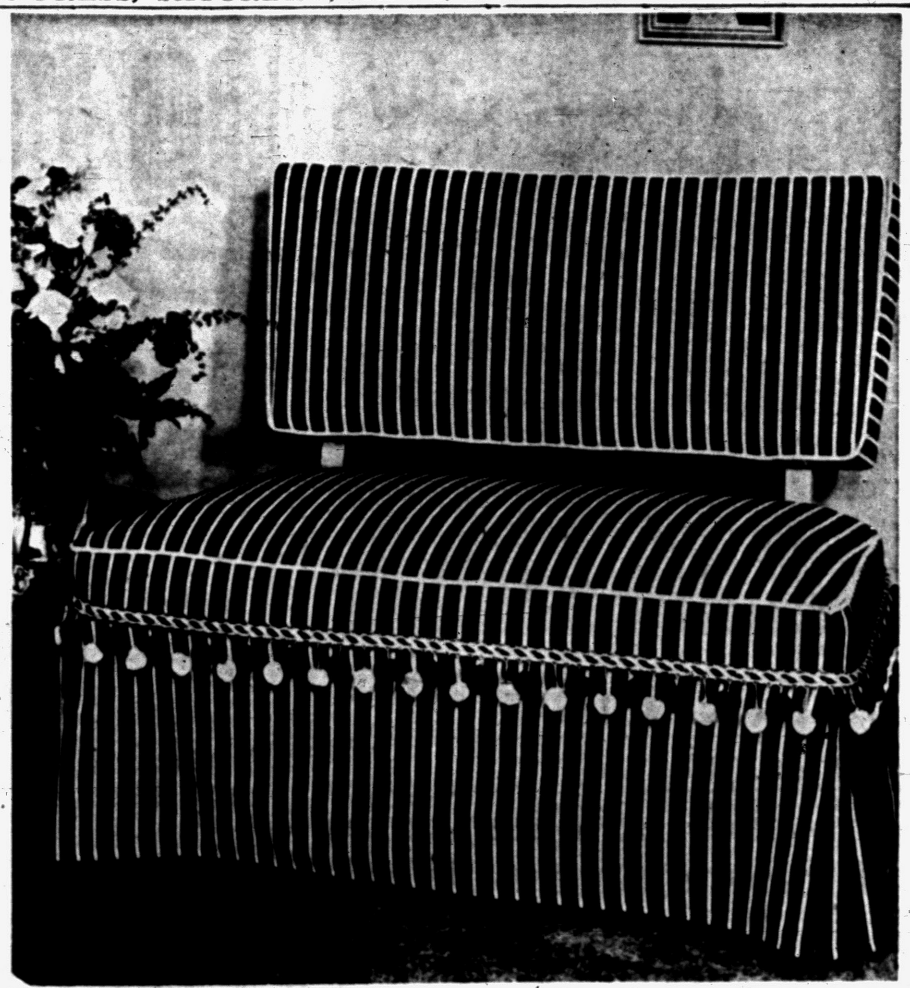

The not-so-amateur gardeners are asking for more technical information such as the newest insecticide for aphids.

Richard A. Hollis, information specialist in the department's big mail room, said that about one-fourth of the gardeners' questions are sent on to technicians in the department's various research branches for answers. The rest, he said, are handled with a department pamphlet.

The most popular pamphlets are those on roses, insects and diseases, vegetable gardening and flower gardening.

"Roses for the Home" was mailed to 28,500 people in March compared with only 8,700 in February. Mailings of the "Suburban and Farm Vegetable Gardens" jumped from 3,600 in February to 9,600 in March; "Growing Annual Flower Plants" from 7,000 in February to 12,400 in March.

Hollis said he is temporarily cleaned out of the gardeners' "Handbook on Insects and Diseases," requests for which rose from 9,600 in February to 15,000 the first half of March. The Government Printing Office has gotten a fast order for more reprints from the department.

Record-Setting Readers Move to New Libraries

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UP) — The librarian at Ft. Campbell, Ky., can expect to have some heavy readers soon.

Sgt. Saul Sorkin of Brooklyn, N. Y., is being transferred there after after setting a local record by reading an average of more than 20 books a month during his two years of training here.

Being transferred with Sorkin is the runner-up, Sgt. George Brady, of Shallmar, Md., who read from five to 10 books a month during the same period.

Industrial Plant Buildings Should Be Fireproofed

In 1953, 105 manufacturing plants and 48 warehouses in the United States and Canada had fires which caused building and equipment losses of more than $250,000 each. The total was more than $150 million. But this is only a small part of the financial shock suffered by these companies.

A major fire stops production. This may lead to a loss of skilled labor, retail dealers, and market prestige. A prolonged production stoppage encourages the development and use of tenacious substitutes.

Even with a generous insurance settlement a burned-out company faces a trying period of high overhead and low profits while it rebuilds and retools. Then it must recapture old markets. Statistics show that a large percentage of companies never live through a serious fire.

Obviously, insurance is not the whole answer to the potential disaster of fire. Any steps taken by management to prevent fire, or restrict the spread of fire, or reduce the damage of fire shrinks the possibility of a prolonged work stoppage.

Of all the fires which caused losses of more than $250,000 last year, only 4 per cent occurred in fire-resistive buildings.

When all of these factors are considered, there is only one conclusion: It pays to fireproof industrial buildings.

Decorators Making More Extensive Use of 'Accents'

NEW YORK—If Mrs. America starts talking about an accent, she doesn't necessarily refer to speech. The newest note in decorating circles is to have an accent piece in a room, actually a conversation or highlight note.

These accent pieces may be many things. One may dramatize a room because of the color employed; another may accomplish this by using a strikingly different material. An accept piece might even employ a combination of old materials in a completely novel manner.

Specifically illustrating an accent piece is a screen introduced recently. Of blonde walnut, with sculptured edges, the screen is held together with over-sized silver hinges. Viewed over-all, the piece is an instantaneous eye-catcher.

Pewter, increasingly an accent note in hardware, is skillfully used to decorate provincial grouping. For example, a leaf and scroll floral vine wood-carving can be used on the front of a chest of drawers, with heart-pierced pewter pulls.

Several other accent pieces have been developed recently. Tables —some with brass bases, others with wood—colorfully utilized tiny squares of Venetian glass in mosaic patterns for distinctive tops head the list. Also leather in exotic colors such as gold, black, chamois, pussy willow and delphinium for accent purposes has been used.

One designer has used strips of leather, in basket-weave effect, as a shelf under a glass-topped cocktail table.

Carrara glass as insets on the top of a buffet is another designer's contribution to talked-about conceptions. Sliding doors on the buffet feature pigskin leather in tile design. Another manufacturer is showing travertine marble insets on the top surface of a server designed for dining room or even for a foyer.

A French Provincial wing chair forsook the customary small patterned fabric for upholstering in a bold modern plaid. Result: a conversation piece equally at home in a modern or French Provincial setting.

Ever hear of ermine in connectioin with furniture? One manufacturer has created a bedroom suite in a milky-white finish on mahogany, called "Ermine"—and resembling, at least colorwise, that fur. Talk about conversation pieces!

Air Conditioner Easily Installed

Best to Leave Wiring to Professionals; Rest Not Difficult

Most homeowners can install a room air conditioner themselves; however, if a new electric circuit has to be added to operate the conditioner, leave that part of the job to the professional.

Detailed installation instructions are available at your dealer's. Though they vary some for different brands. Follow these basic steps:

1. Remove from the operating unit the ventilated metal hood that extends outside the window.

2. Center the hood in the window opening and fasten it to the sill with the metal supports and screws provided by the manufacturer.

3. Lower the bottom sash onto the hood so that the flange at the top of the hood is inside the sash.

4. Cut and attach the panels that seal the openings on each side of the hood.

5. Slide the operating unit into the hood and put on the inside cabinet.

Before installing the conditioner, check it for damage. Plug it in, set the control to the cooling position and let it run. After a short time the evaporator coil should feel cool, then test the other positions.

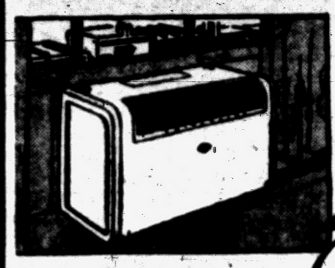

Treat Bread Board for Easier Cleaning

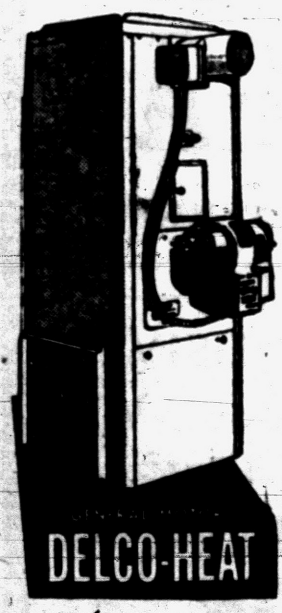

If you treat the surface of your bread board, it will clean easily, quickly.

First, scrub it and let it dry thoroughly, then sand the surface smooth. Apply warm boiled linseed oil with a soft cloth. Let bread board stand for 30 minutes before rubbing oil into the wood and wiping off excess oil.

The board should stand for at least 24 hours before using. Sand it very lightly after it's dry.

The utility room is an excellent place to hang work clothes or gardening apparel. Just stick up a few of the new, inexpensive plastic hooks which adhere to the wall without making holes—and without the use of nails, screws, or tools.

LAPEER ROAD BRICK—This home was designed for five children in the family of Sylvester Cudnohufsky, of 3650 Lapeer Rd., Pontiac. Built by Beechler N. Rossman, of Pontiac, it has three bedrooms, two bathrooms, a kitchen with breakfast area, combined living and dining room and a recreation room. There are two fireplaces, one in the living room and another in the basement recreation room. Besides the full basement, the house has a two-car garage. The exterior building materials are red brick and ledgerock. Gray has been used for trim color.

Calk Before Painting

The most important step in preparing to paint a house is to seal all openings through which moisture can enter. Check all flashing and calk all joints to keep water out. Leaks not only can destroy a good paint job, but also can destroy lumber.

Good Bedding Care Helps to Eliminate Sleeplessness

Good bedding represents an investment in health and happiness, for a well-rested person is less susceptible to disease and less easily irritated by minor annoyances in his daily routine.

Here are a few tips on how to protect that investment—to preserve its comfort and durability so that it pays real dividends:

To distribute wear more evenly, turn mattresses regularly, end for end one time and side for side the next. Latex requires no turning. A mattress pad should be used with all types. Turning bedsprings and boxsprings twice a year is sufficient.

When changing the bed linen, open the windows and leave the bed uncovered for an hour or two to give it a thorough airing. Sun the mattress occasionally to kill possible germs and help keep the upholstery from packing down.

Clean the mattress and bedspring thoroughly once a month with a vacuum cleaner attachment or soft brush. A dry cloth will do an adequate job of cleaning metal springs. Never beat an innerspring mattress as the construction can be seriously damaged. Also, never bend or roll a mattress when moving it.

Pillows require very little special attention. Simply fluff them every day and air them out of doors in the shade once a month, if possible. A fabric pillow cover under the pillow case helps insure protection against perspiration.

Never try to wash feather pillows as the process requires special equipment and should be done only by professional laundries. Latex pillows may be tubbed at home.

Fair, Warmer for Home Colors

Bright Shades Taboo; Outdoors Comes Inside New Houses

Indications are that tints used in decorating new homes not only will be warm in tone, but also subtle. Bright shades will be restricted to the role of accents.

One reason for this already obvious trend is that homes are being designed to bring the outdoors indoors through wide windows and terraces, and natural colors of trees and flowers seem almost to be in the room. This makes subtle indoor coloring imperative.

A second reason is the increasing emphasis on quality materials in home construction certain to last the life of the house. Their colors must be chosen for long-term livability.

1. In a sunny room, use cooler shades than in a room relying on artificial lighting. The main thing is a warm looking result.

2. Certain colors have a natural affinity for each other. For example, if walls are beige with a rosy cast, select upholstery in brown with touches of white, and in pink and rose. Accents can be bright blue.

3. Rooms in which a lot of work is done should be especially cheerful. The kitchen is an example. Warm pastels still are the leading choices for walls and counter tops, with accessories playing the bright color role.

4. The whole house should have color unity. Because one room gives on another, there should be no startling transitions in color mood.

Fix Up Garage With Paneling; Improve Looks

There is no good excuse for allowing an old shed or garage to look like the shack shown in the illustration. Just think of the replacement value, and then decide to give the building a face-lifting.

Of course, the panels should be painted. When the project is completed, everyone will think you have a new building.

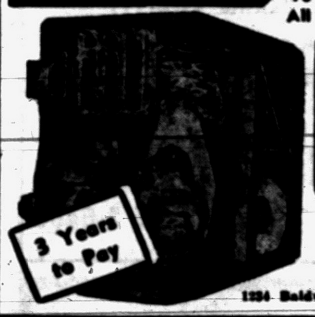

Incidentally, straighten out that sagging door and apply a weather-resistant panel over it. The door will stay true and will be better than new.

Electric Water Units Multiply

Increase From 50,000 in 1932 to 700,000 in '53 to Aid Farmers

From 50,000 electric water systems in 1932 to over 700,000 in 1953—this is the 21-year record of the industry which has brought the numerous blessings of running water under pressure to three out of five of the nation's farm families during that period.

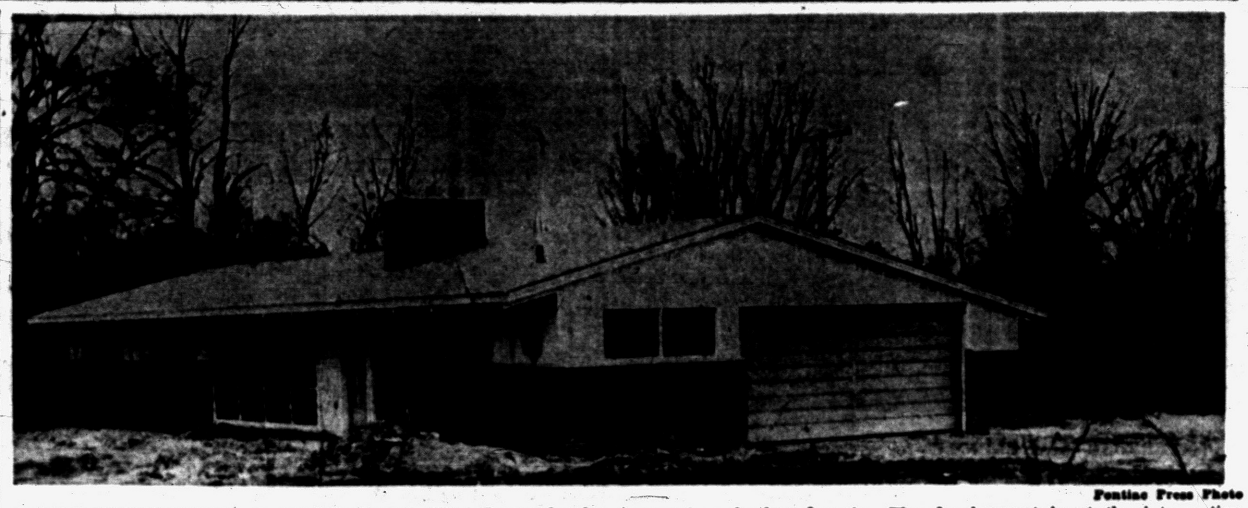

Much of the success of the pump industry in selling water systems to America's farm families has been due to National Water Systems Month, an annual event which will be held again in May for the sixth consecutive year.

Running water under pressure is the one thing above all required to give the farm or non-farm rural home every convenience and comfort of a home or apartment in the city, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau points out. That fact will be emphasized repeatedly during National Water Systems Month by the manufacturers of electric water systems, REA and privately-owned companies supplying electrical power, and interested government agencies.

A home beyond reach of municipal water mains must first of all have running water before there can be an indoor plumbing system with modern bathrooms and powder rooms, a new kitchen with cabinet sink, and a forced hot water central heating system, not to mention the numerous electrically-powered time-and labor-saving appliances that depend upon running water for their operation.

Running water saves time and labor in carrying out just about every task on the farm—savings which reduce costs and boost profits accordingly. Live-stock grow fatter on less feed with plenty of water to drink, bringing a higher price in the market. Running water also permits irrigation to protect crops against dry spells, and provides virtually the only effective protection against sudden fire for the home located in a rural area.

PINE MANOR MODEL—Located in the new Pine Center development, planned and built by the B. L. Smokler Company, is this lovely California contemporary with red brick and white clapboard trim. Extra width has been given to the extended house-brick wall which conceals a backyard patio. The development is at the intersection of Long Lake and Middlebelt Rds. and is being planned in a community fashion with a central playground for children. All on one floor, this plan has exposed beamed ceilings.

Newly Developed Paint Used to Cover Up Rust

If the galvanizing has been well-weathered, soap and water and a clear rinse will be enough. But rusted areas have to be sanded clean.

The usual procedure in handling rust is to clean it thoroughly to the bare metal by using steel wool, emery cloth or modern production papers. No painter, who knows his ropes, will paint over rust because he knows that rust will continue to develop even under paint.

So roof gutters, cornices and other outside metal work are carefully cleaned. A stiff wire brush removes loose scales, steel wool or other abrasives down to the shiny metal. Then the spots are touched up with zinc chromate primer, primer, available at any paint store.

Its manufacturer claims that it offers all the advantages of hot-dip galvanizing. It is quick-drying (1 hour), can be applied with brush or spray gun. The maker says a gallon covers 500 square feet and that it "prevents rust creep."

Passage Urged for Housing Bill

President of Builders Calls Headline Hunting Poor Substitute

R. G. Hughes, president of the National Assn. of Home Builders, today said it would be "a major tragedy for the American people and the Administration's No. 1 political mistake if it substituted headline hunting for passage of a housing bill which would benefit millions of people needing more adequate housing."

"While I realize there may be some publicity value inherent in investigations, the facts show that the FHA operations currently under question represent far less than one per cent of the Agency's total operations. Let's not let a very small tail wag a very big dog."

Hughes said the pending housing legislation, which already has passed the House and awaits Senate action, should not be postponed while investigators probe alleged irregularities which for the most part, occurred years ago under another administration.

"Such action would be comparable to the White House holding up military legislation while probing a rumor that a few mess sergeants made off with some potatoes several years ago," he said.

Hughes said investigations make good headlines but that the people want and need additional housing. Passage of the housing legislation now pending in the Senate will do much to help the industry maintain a high production volume, he added.

"The White House readily admits that housing is a main prop of our post - war economy," Hughes pointed out. "I hope they won't forget it."

He charged that the circus atmosphere under which the attacks on FHA operations were made gives the public a false impression of FHA.

Summer Furniture Gains Dignity, Moves Indoors

NEW YORK—Today's "extended" homes—that gain added living space by utilization of the out-of-doors for either patio or "second livingroom"—have changed the styling of one-time summer furniture.

Because these pieces often must serve during the winter months as part of the indoor decorating scheme—with storage problems thereby eliminated—styling has become increasingly important in all summer furniture styles, luxury or low-cost.

As a result, new indoor notes can be seen in every manufacturer's line. Wrought iron is being used in new ways, in combination with many new materials and even in new brown finishes; rattan has been slimmed down for silhouette interest, and new plastic finishes and wood-grained plastics have been introduced to blend with wood and fabrics.

Often, summer furniture actually sets the tone of a room in winter months. As an example, a low coffee table with rush chairs can become the focal point of a conversational group indoors in winter.

A simple wrought iron frame wrapped around in nylon cord has three individual sections which form a chaise lounge for use either in or out of doors as the season dictates.

Pennsylvania Dutch TULIP KNIFE BOX

Afternoon's Work Results in Dutch Tulip Knife Box

Here's a striking pattern for a Pennsylvania Dutch tulip knife box with a dozen uses you can make in an afternoon with fir plywood for your family or friends.

The original which inspired this design was found on a farm in Lancaster, Pa., an area world-renowned for the Pennsylvania Dutch motifs in decoration. This one is decorated with a gay tulip design—one of those for which this part of the country is famous.

Today it can be used for knives, forks or spoons. You can serve hot biscuits in it, or keep it as a letter box or catch-all. The family will love one, and it will make an excellent gift.

To make the knife box from the pattern shown here a small piece of fir plywood ⅜ inch thick is needed. A piece as small as 16" by 21" will do. From it cut the following pieces:

Cut out the special shapes with a jig or coping saw. Use the same pattern in reverse for the other side and end.

File or plane the bottoms of the sides and ends so they fit properly on the bottom piece and then assemble, glue, and nail the parts into place.

To finish the item, first sand all sharp corners. Then dampen the surface with a wet cloth and let it stand for 12 hours. Sand again with 00 sandpaper or rub with 0 sandpaper, rounding off with fine steel wool.

When making this glass cupola for the garage the light from the barn lantern hanging from the ceiling will be a happy medium between a glaring flood light and a full moon.

On the darkest night there will be a friendly glow over the premises. The glass sides are four basement windows. The curved rafters and the roofing sections are cut from a pattern which includes details for fitting the cupola to the roof.

The chanticleer weathervane and an American Indian tracing design are on pattern 241. Patterns are 25 cents each. The Homestead Improvement Packet of five patterns for other valuable outside improvements is priced at $1, postpaid. Write to Workshop, Pontiac Press.

To protect tight-grained floors and keep them handsome, the use of natural penetrating-type floor finishes are highly recommended. These finishes are nationally distributed and available at local paint and hardware stores, or from the lumber dealer.

Treat Wood Furniture Before Using Outdoors

This will insure many years of usefulness. And speaking of outdoor wood furniture, check to be sure that the fasteners are noncrossive — such as aluminum nails or brass screws.

Ordinary corrosive fasteners will rust away and the furniture will be useless.

UNION LAKE CINDER BLOCK—Painted green with white trim, the Union Lake home of Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle F. Frendewey, of 4505 Green Lake Rd., Route 5, Pontiac, has four rooms and a large bath. Located on a spacious lot, the Frendewey home has large rooms. The living room has a fireplace. The chimney is painted green to harmonize with the rest of the house.

Big Cost Saver

Finish Interior Yourself After Having Shell Built

Most floks don't start thinking soon enough about cutting costs to give them more house for less money.

Many let economy decisions slide until after the lot has been bought, plans and specifications completed, and after they have a handful of estimates which are all too high.

Then they make last-minute slashes which cut out some necessities, like good kiethen and efficient heating equipment, but leave non-essentials in, like jigs and jogs in the perimeter.

The formula for cutting costs simply can't be boiled down to one "here's how," complete in a few paragraphs. But these sound pointers can affect the basic costs of any new or remodeled house.

Each cost-cutter has been utilized by builders who have been most successful in selling the maximum house for the minimum price. Capitalize on their experiences, and profit by experimentation which extends over 15 years and runs into millions of home units.

Cost-Cutter No. 1: A rectangular 1-or 2-story house, with a gable roof having no intersections, saves on both materials and labor for all trades, from the day the excavation is begun until the exterior is completed.

Cost-Cutter No. 2: Frame this rectangular house from wall to wall with trusses. By doing so, you will be taking advantage of many years' research by engineers and the experience of many leading small-home builders who have found this method practical.

Cost-Cutter No. 3: Finish the entire inside of a house as though it were one large room. The trusses provide clear floor space from wall to wall, and there are no partitions to cause delays except the ones around the bathroom.

Have the electrician, plumber and heating contractor install whatever roughing-in is necessary in the outside walls, overhead in what will be the ceiling and in the rough floor. You'll be amazed at the speed of applying the finished wall and ceiling materials.

Cost-Cutter No. 4: Install partitions and closets which can be readily moved, just are furniture is moved when family requirements change. Pay to have the shell of the house and the fixed partition around the bathroom complete, then finish the interior yourself.

Buy or make closets in sections and install them to serve as room dividers. Where there aren't closets between rooms, make or buy partition units about 3 feet wide so they are easily handled. Arrange the plan so that traffic lanes and halls areas are kept to a minimum.

Use Keyhole Saw for Hinge Cutting

In the recreation room or den, antique hinges and scrolls are decorative and in good taste. A material with the appearance of wrought iron, but inexpensive, is Masonite Leatherwood, an embossed hardboard, which can be cut to the desired shape, with a keyhole saw or similar tool. Drill holes for screws and apply to the dor or wall. A coat of penetrating sealer will keep the scrolls or simulated hinges neat.

AWNING TYPE WINDOWS—Made of pine, these windows are the new, awning type which are gaining favor. They operate smoothly, are contemporary in styling and are ventilated at night by means of opening the bottom sash only. Nearly 100 per cent air circulation is possible when all the sashes are open and yet there is freedom from rain damage.

ECONOMY MODEL—Without basement, without attic, this house is designed for economical construction. Ample storage space is provided in a combination heater room and workshop behind the car port. The flat roof is ventilated above ceiling insulation and is designed to be covered with white marble chips to reflect radiant heat of the sun. This is plan WS-362 by Winston S. Sharpley, architect, 3011 Fleetwood Ave., Roanoke, Va. The house covers 1,300 square feet, plus storage and car port. An exterior of brick veneer and stained redwood is suggested.

Floor Care Suggestions Increase Life of Surfaces

Many homemakers ask questions concerning the right way to care for floors. Mrs. Josephine H. Lawyer, county home demonstration agent, makes the following suggestions for proper care of floors:

Wood floors are easily cleaned by using one tablespoon of trisodium phosphate to one gallon of water. When cleaning wood floors, use as little water as possible and rinse thoroughly, again using as little water as possible.

Many homemakers having penetrating seals for floor finish much prefer to use the manufactured floor cleaners. These are excellent to use since they are used sparingly and since there is no danger of raising the grain.

Wood floors may be waxed with polishing wax or self-polishing waxes. Three thin coats of paste wax give a good finish for wood. Each coat of wax should be applied thoroughly, and should be dried and polished before applying another coat of wax.

A damp cellulose mop will keep floors clean without removing the wax protection for a long time.

Linoleum floors are easily cleaned by the same methods used for wood floors. It is preferable to use a mild soap solution on linoleum rather than the use of syndets or synthetic detergents. The syndets have a tendency to dry the natural oils in linoleum, leaving it brittle and and hard.

If a water solution is used, it should be used sparingly. Rinse thoroughly with as little water as possible. Many wood floor cleaners are available for linoleum. There are also preparations which clean and rewax it at the same time.

Either polishing wax or self-polishing wax may be used on linoleum. Varnish, plastic, lacquer, or shellac should never be applied. These dry the oils in the linoleum and after becoming scratched and worn become extremely difficult to remove without damaging the surface.

Asphalt tile and rubber tile floors may be cleaned with a mild syndet solution. Always use water sparingly and rinse thoroughly if a water solution is used.

Again some homemakers prefer using a floor cleaner for asphalt and rubber tile—never use polishing wax. Asphalt tile is extremely hard flooring but the asphalt ingredient softens when it comes in contact with solvents such as found in polishing waxes. This loosens the color so it runs like dye in fabric.

Most rubber tile today is a combination of new and reclaimed rubber. Many rubber floors include an ingredient which absorbs the solvent in polishing wax, resulting in swelling of the floor. A good rule to remember is to always read labels before buying wax to be sure that it is for asphalt or rubber tile.

Homemakers are encouraged to use the proper methods for cleaning and caring for floors. Improper cleaning methods can be costly ones, and once a floor is damaged it is sometimes impossible to repair.

Sappy Wood Difficult to Cover With Paint

It's best to avoid painting over wood that is very sappy for this condition makes it difficult for the paint to penetrate.

If you must, however, wipe the wood down with turpentine to remove some of the sap and use a little more turpentine in the prime coat than ordinarily would be the case.

Yellow Tops for Kitchens

Professional kitchen planners have found that yellow is rating tops this year for kitchen decoration. In dark kitchens, especially, soft yellow walls create an impression of sunlight that adds much to the pleasure of the "kitcheneer" who spends many hours there.

Here Are Tips for Varnishing Furniture

Apply one or two coats of varnish to furniture allowing each coat to dry thoroughly. Then rub with steel wool or fine sandpaper. Apply final coat of varnish.

After it is dry, rub with pumice stone and water if a dull finish is desired. If a higher polish is desired, rub with boiled linseed and pumice stone. If a glossy finish is desired, rub final coat with rottenstone and boiled linseed oil.

Marble Gaining Popularity for Household Furnishings

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

It doesn't take a divining rod to spot the trend in home furnishing toward wider use of marble. You see the polished slabs in contemporary furniture designs and in period reproductions.

Young homemakers are discovering what their grandmas knew all the time: marble looks elegant and is eminently practical. It fits as smoothly into the uncluttered modern interior as it does in the cozy traditional room.

If you're lucky enough to find or inherit an old-time marble-topped commode, you've got a wonderful server. Marble can take hot or cold dishes, damp glasses and food spills without ringing or staining.

Any cosmetic casualties are sponged off with soap and water. Periodically a coat of clear wax buffed on with a borrowed polisher keeps the top gleaming.

A slab of marble on a simple wrought-iron base makes a luxurious and practical coffee table. You can "design" your own table to suit your needs. It won't be cheap, but, considering that marble's beauty never wears out, the cost is not exorbitant.

To keep costs down, use standard sizes and shapes. Go shopping for the top at a marble yard or a cut-stone dealer. A friend of mine is haunting old houses that are to be torn down to find a marble mantel which she hopes to convert to a long narrow coffee table.

At a marble yard you will find a wide selection of shadings, veinings and colors, including black, white, pink, buff and green. The simplier the table top design, the less it will cost.

My neighbor found that a three-foot square of fine domestic marble, polished on top and sides, would cost $42. This gives you a rough idea of cost, although prices will vary according to size, thickness and grade of marble.

The table base in metal or wood could be worked out by an experienced household handymen. But marble is darned heavy—weighing 16 pounds per square foot—so the base must be well-built and designed to support this weight.

My neighbor took her problem to our local blacksmith and he is building the wrought-iron base.

Marble has an inherent beauty that looks its most elegant, I think, in the simplest settings which are also the least expensive.

Build Shallow Shelves to Contain Bowls, Pans

If you're building or remodeling a closet for storing cleaning equipment, it's a good idea to install several shallow shelves so that bowls and pans can be stored singly.

On deeper shelves, they have to be stacked in nests—and you know you always want the one at the bottom.

A Little Linseed Oil Helps Make Putty Stick

If putty gets hard, add linseed oil and knead until soft and pliable. Before applying putty, coat the window frame or other surface with boiled linseed oil. This makes the putty stick better and prevents the wood from drawing the oil out of the putty causing it to dry and chip.

Use Hardboard in Splash Area

Refinished Paneling Makes Moisture-Proof Resistant Surface

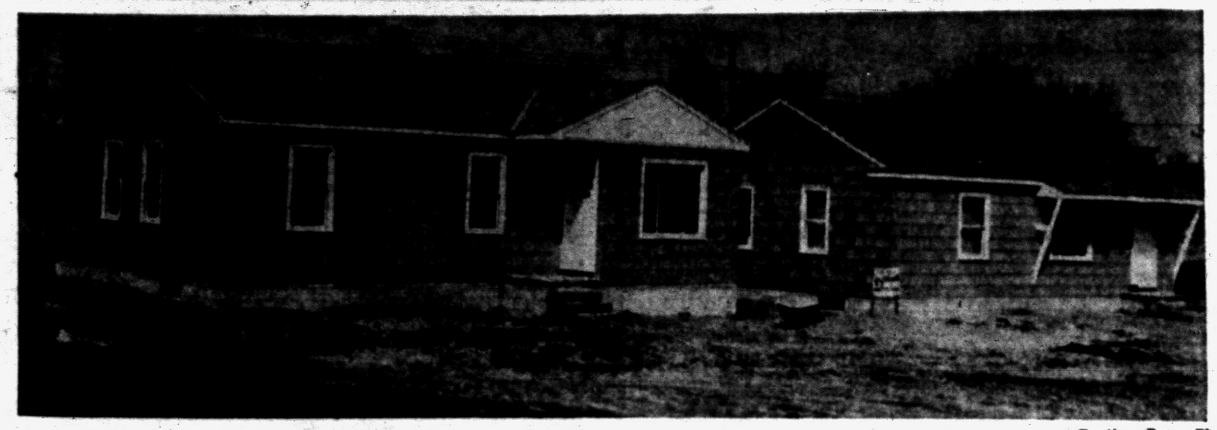

The "splash area" between the kitchen sink and cabinets is one of the most difficult places in the house to keep clean. This is the portion of the kitchen that takes the worst beating yet gets the least thought from many housewives.

This is true because for as long as the housewife can remember there hasn't been anything she could do about the "splash area" except scrub it and suffer in silence.

Happily that situation is rapidly becoming a thing of the past as modern women learn that the familiar prefinished wallpaneling that they've been using on their bathroom and kitchen walls and ceilings makes an ideal moisture resistant surface for the splash area.

Prefinished wallpaneling is made of tempered hardboard and has a factory baked enamel surface, which is as easy to keep clean as a refrigerator. It is easily cut to size and can be applied on almost any wall surface. This makes it especially handy in the splash area as one piece is all that is required to seal out moisture and dirt.

Another feature of prefinished wallpaneling that pleases the lady of the house is that it comes in a large variety of gay colors and patterns that give her the opportunity to inject lively contrasting colors into her kitchen.

Plastic Pipes Used in Water Heaters

Plastic pipe, which weighs one-sixth to one-fourth as much as steel and costs only a third as much as copper, is finding new uses in the home.

Latest application of the light weight pipe is for cold-water dip tubes in automatic water heaters. (Dip tubes convey cold water from the top of the heater tank to the bottom, close to the course of heat.)

The plastic tubes help eliminate internal rust and corrosion caused by the electrolytic battery action that results when metal pipe is used.

Decals Decorate Glass

Repair Broken China With Waterproof Cement

Let this dry for a short time and then apply a second coat. Press the pieces together and tie or clamp them secure until dry for several days.

The longer the joint is held under pressure, up to a point, the stronger will be the joint.

Consider 18 Major Points Before Purchasing Land

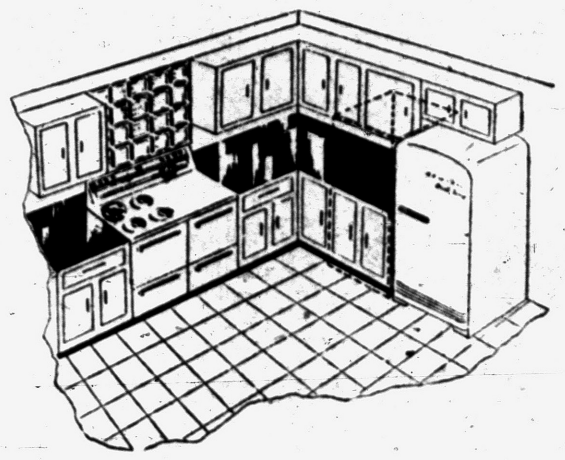

There are at least 18 points to consider in the purchase of a lot for a new home. They are presented below as questions. A "yes" answer favors the site, indicating the value will tend to remain near its present level. A "no" is a mark against it.

1. Is the late the right size and shape for the house you plan to build?
2. Is it well drained?
3. Is the soil good?
4. Are there shade trees?
5. Will the site be adequate without grading or filling?
6. Are these services available: water, sewers, gas, electricity, telephone, paved street, sidewalks, street lighting, fire and police protection, garbage removal?
7. Is the site close to transportation, schools, churches, shopping?
8. Is it distant from industrial or commercial developments, railroads, run-down areas, dumps and marshes or other health hazards?
9. Will zoning regulations permit the type of home you plan and prohibit undesirable building in the area?
10. Are all assessments against the land paid?
11. Are all taxes paid?
12. Will the owner give a merchantable title?
13. Will the owner furnish a written statement that there are no liens against the property.
14. Are the boundaries clearly carked?
15. Are taxes in the area reasonable?
16. Is the site close enough to your job so that transportation costs will not be unduly high?
17. Will a financial institution appraise the land at a figure that is in line with the purchase price?
18. Is it the block, neighborhood and community in which you would like to live for many years to come?

Placing Ladder Properly Helps to Avert Accidents

A safety rule in using a straight ladder is to place the bottom one-fourth as far from the bottom of the wall as the ladder is long.

The bottom of a 12-foot ladder should be set 3 feet from the wall. If the bottom rests on a slippery floor, use braces or cleats to hold it firmly.

PROJECTED KITCHEN PLAN — Planning ahead makes possible additions and appliance replacement without major remodeling costs. Dotted line indicates area planned for the addition of an unright freezer unit.

Ideal Kitchen Plans Grow to Satisfy Family Needs

The ideal kitchen plan grows and changes with the family's needs.

The first step in any remodeling of the kitchen to make room for the needed new equipment is an apraisal of the present plan.

Compare the cupboard space you now have and may have to give up against the advantages of the new equipment.

That old catch-all closet, the cramped broom closet, the too-small cabinets and drawers—you may well be better off without them. The larger and new appliances will actually provide more storage space.

For example, a new range will take no more or very little more space than the old model, yet many come equipped with two large ovens for doubled baking.

There are convenient outlets for small appliances to eliminate clutter on working surfaces. They are equipped with deep-well cooking units, warming drawers and rotary roaster attachments for barbecue cooking. The larger storage drawers are for greater flexibility of storing utensils.

Refrigerators, too, are designed so that there is more food storage in the same floor area. Many additional items can be stored in the vegetable crispers, meat storage compartments, and door shelves of these newly-designed refrigerator cabinets.

Count up the advantages of having a freezer. It will cut down on the number of shopping trips. It makes possible buying in quantity at seasonal price savings.

Attics Provide Needed Space

Bedroom, Recreation Facilities Built Easily in Most

That extra space needed in the home may be literally under your own roof—in the attic.

Thousands of houses have attic space that could be turned into a spare bedroom, recreation space or a sewing and work room. In many cases, the work can be done mostly by the family itself, thus keeping the cost down.

A word of caution, however, before starting on such a project. Look over the space realistically. If major structural changes will be needed, they may cost more than the additional space will be worth. If in doubt consult an architect and get impartial advice.

Locate the attic bathroom immediately over a bath in the story below, so that costs on piping can be kept down.

Don't try to get too many rooms out of attic space. Little, cramped rooms never are satisfactory. It's better to settle for one good, big, comfortable room and a bath when

Remember that you are not remodeling for midgets. It often seems a shame to waste all that low space under the eaves, but neither you, your children nor your guests will be happy if they constantly have to duck low roof lines.

Take advantage of this low space by turning it into storage. If some of the storage space will be hard to get at and use conveniently, plan on storing seldom-used items in it.

Stop and consider — in case of fire, how much would it cost to replace your home today? If your insurance is based on its original cost, you might be several thousand dollars short at today's high building costs! Better see us soon!

44 YEARS IN PONTIAC

Varied Furniture Breaks Monotony in Dining Room

Not so long ago, people thought a home just wasn't a home without a dining room. Today we realize what a foolish notion that was because, for many families, eating in the kitchen or living room makes good sense.

But foolish notions are still with us. Now, to be modern, you don't have a separate dining room.

We have other notions, too: That every window must be curtained, that TV be allowed either to rule the living room or else exiled to a den where only two or three can enjoy it.

They had tried eating in the living room and found that, for them, it just didn't work. Neither did they want TV in the living room—but they did want it in some place with plenty of chairs for everyone.

You'll also note the dining area takes advantage of another kind of view: the lawn and terrace beyond full-length windows.

HOUSE WITH A FUTURE—Adding rooms for a growing family becomes an economical project in a house like this. It is planned for expansion. The main part of the house can be built first with attic unfinished. Breezeway and garage can be added. Then the house can be enlarged four ways. Basement and attic provide space for several extra rooms. Breezeway and garage also can be converted for future rooms. This is Plan 52496 designed by Architect Herbert C. Struppman for the Archway Press, 117 West 48th St., New York 26, N. Y. There are 1,215 square feet on the first floor, 685 feet upstairs. (Further information and blueprints available from architect).

If you want the family to treat your pipes with proper respect, make a rack for them and let it include humidor drawers that will keep tobaccos moist. The larger of these two pipe racks also has a drawer for pipe cleaners and odds and ends. It is 17 inches high, 12 inches wide and holds a dozen pipes. The smaller rack is the same width but only two-thirds as high and holds a half-dozen. Clear pine or any wood that takes a high polish can be used. The humidors are air-tight glass jars. The pattern gives tracing diagrams for the shaped parts as well as the steps in assembling and finishing. Ask for pattern 406 and enclose 25 cents. Write to Workshop Pontiac Press.

Sleep Theories Puzzle Moderns

Elizabethan Physician Offered Weird Advice on Sight Saving

To protect theireyesight, many people living in the days of Queen Elizabeth I were extremely careful about how they slept, for Dr. Walter Bayley, the queen's physician, contended that vision could be affected by sleeping positions.

"It is best to begin sleeping upon the right side and then turn to the left side," the doctor advised. He warned against sleeping on the back and said that "to turn upon the face is worse for the sight."

Amusing though it may seem, another sleep theory, prevalent in Charles Dickens' time, dictated that one always sleep in a north-south position so that the magnetic currents from the poles would run straight through the body and never across it.

Dickens, himself, so staunchly believed this theory that he carried a compass with him and checked the position of the bed before he decided on a lodging place.

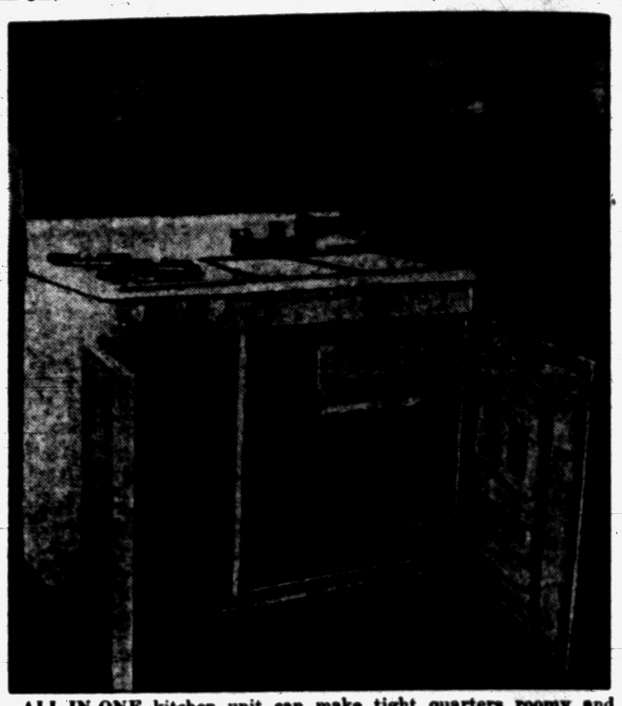

Just as these theories have been disproved by science and classified among the host of old wives' tales, the belief that sleeping on one's left side strains the heart has been discarded.

In the first place, the heart is not really on the left side, but more centrally located.

Furthermore, one position is as good as another, experts say, unless it has been assumed for too long and becomes tiresome.

The average sleeper, however, subconsciously takes care of this by shifting position from 20 to 45 times a night so that all of his muscles get a chance to relax.

The most modern theory on how to sleep, supported by doctors and scientists alike, is to relax in whatever position seems most comfortable upon a level, resilient mattress and bedspring combination and a fluffy, buoyant pillow that give firm, even support to the body.

ALL-IN-ONE kitchen unit can make tight quarters roomy and turn bachelor living into a dream. The unit houses a double sink, six-cubic foot refrigerator, three top burners and an oven with broiler rack.

ABA Now Shipping Iced Semen in State

EAST LANSING—The Michigan Artificial Breeders' Cooperative at Michigan State College has expanded its service to include shipping frozen semen to inseminators in the state.

The new service may revolutionize artificial breeding for some dairymen a spokesman said

When semen can be frozen, a supply from one sire can be built up. That allows a breeder to order semen from a certain bull to maintain families within the herd.

Most of the state's dairymen however, will continue to use unfrozen semen because the frozen material is more expensive.

Mattresses Last Longer if Properly Cared For

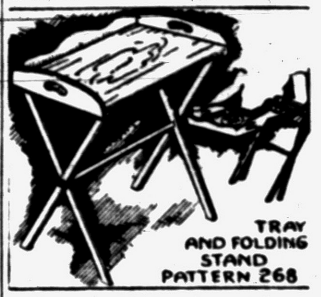

Your mattress will last longer if you give it some special care. See that it's aired, turned, and brushed or vacuumed frequently. And treat soiled spot immediately for sure removal success.

Try sponging them with thick soapsuds, then again with clean water. Either let the air dry the spot or turn on an electric fan or hair dryer to blow it dry in a hurry.

Clean Before Painting

IN THE HOME WORKSHOP

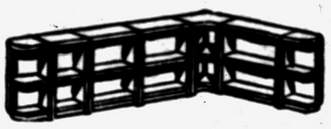

These quickly made stand-and-tray sets will have many uses in the house and out of doors next summer. They are quite easy to make with the use of a pattern from which the irregular shaped parts are traced directly onto the wood. The stand should be made from clear pine, maple or other close grained wood that is free from defects. The tray would be nice made from the same kind of solid stock but plywood might do for the bottom of the tray. Ordinary upholsterer's webbing, three inches wide is used on the collapsible stand. The pattern covers each step in cutting, assembling and finishing both pieces. Price of the pattern is 25 cents. Write to Workshop, Pontiac Press.

Counters Show Good Planning

Less Than 3 in Kitchen Considered Inadequate for Efficiency

To judge the efficiency of a kitchen, count the counters.

If work surfaces add up to less than three, the meal preparation room is inadequate. And any number above three qualifies the kitchen for special honors.

There are several "buts," however. For one thing, the counters must not add to a homemaker's work, but subtract from it, and therefore must be of easily cleaned material.

Secondly, location of counters is important. For example, a lot of counter footage, but all on one wall away from appliances, would do little good. Work surfaces must be installed at three centers, at least: food preparation, cleaning and cooking.

Food preparation center: a minimum of 15 inches of counter space next to the refrigerator for setting articles to be taken out or put in, and at least 35 inches for preparing food.

The experts offer still further advice, namely, that these surfaces be well lighted for the sake of both safety and reduction of fatigue, and that colors be selected to harmonize with the personality of the woman who works in the kitchen. Safe choices are gray and pastels, unless counters are used for color accent purposes.

FRONT OF HOFFMAN HOUSE—A contemporary house with a reclaimed brick and redwood exterior was built for the Robert Hoffman family on Rockaway in Bloomfield Hills. It is located in a development which was once part of Eastover Farms. An architect associated with the Campbell Construction Co., of Detroit, Hoffman is looking forward to the day when he plans a still more modern home for his family of four. Although simplicity is the keynote of interior decor, Mrs. Hoffman has relied upon color—turquoise, pumpkin and other vibrant shades—for beauty.

Cedar Gives Protection, Provides Beauty Besides

Lining an existing closet with aromatic red cedar is a low-cost project that pays dividends for the home craftsman, lumber dealers say. Not only does it afford moth-safe storage for seasonal clothing and household woolens, but it helps beautify the home and add to its value.

Maple Block Floor Is Easily Installed

Hardwood strips assembled in square blocks and other patterned designs provide a sound and economical flooring for residences and apartments. This type of flooring is usually laid directly over concrete subfloors with the use of a mastic adhesive. It can also be nailed to softwood subfloors or to existing wood finish floors. Of the northern hardwoods, leading decorators favor the light-toned hard maple as the ideal species to lay when floors play a featured role in the over-all decorative scheme.

400,000 Colors Available

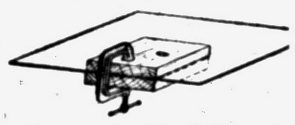

If tempted to think color selection is limited when planning to paint, remember that there are 400,000 colors that can be detected by the naked eye. With the spectroscope 4,000,000 can be detected. With the color-mixing systems that have been developed, selection of paint colors is virtually unlimited.

Paint Before Sanding

When re-decorating a room and planning to sand the floor be sure to finish painting first. Sanding and refinishing the floor should come last.

Try This in Drilling of Sheet Material

A magazine for builders, recently disclosed a fool-proof method of boring holes in thin material. Simply place a block of wood on each side, holding the blocks together with a "C" clamp and then boring through the blocks. This method provides a clean, smooth cut with no ravels or splinters.

Utility Cabinets of Steel Hold Almost Everything

Versatility of steel kitchen cabinet storage space is exemplified in the specially-designed utility units which are available. Narrow 9-inch base utility cabinets, for instance, are fashioned to hold trays, large griddles, cookie sheets, and other such kitchen equipment.

But there also are steel utility cabinets 24 inches wide and as much as 84 inches high for storing linens, brooms, mops, cleaners, and even clothing if desired.

Many Types Available

Easily Operated Doors Please Garage Owners

The garage of today has emerged from its place of obsecurity on a rearyard alley and has become an integral part of the house.

One of the most important developments in garage design responsible for this change has been the automatic and rolling door.

Available in many different styles and makes, these easy-operating garage doors may be installed in older garages

One popular type of door used in residential garages opens upward. This is advantageous in that it rises over snow, ice, or swollen ground. It is out of the way of wind or car and permits the automobile and other objects to be placed within a fraction of an inch of the door.

This type door operates by means of rollers moving on steel tracks or guides which are mounted on the jamb and extend back horizontally from the lintel.

One or more springs connected to the door by a steel cable, accurately counter-balance the door. These doors can be obtained to operate manually, mechanically or electrically.

Many types of garage doors can be equipped with electrically operated devices which cause the door to open or raise when the automobile passes over a driveway plate.

Driveway switch posts are also popular, permitting the driver to operate the garage door by pushing a button. This makes it unnecessary to leave the car to open or close the door.

Another type of garage door widely used is that which works on the sliding-folding principal. In this case the weight of the doors is carried by hangers running in overhead trolley tracks, and when opened the doors are compactly folded together and swing clear of the jamb-line opening.

Somewhat similar to the roll-up doors is the swing-up type, which are one-piece doors designed on the pivot principle. These doors are carried completely into the building, some makes of which reduce the height of opening only four inches. The garage need be no longer than the car as the door will operate with the rear bumper resting against it.

These old-time shelf and bracket designs are being adapted for use in modern homes. Their graceful lines will harmonize with the choicest treasures. Actual-size tracing designs for shelf and four brackets are on pattern No. 380, price 25c. Write to Workshop, Pontiac Press.

BATHROOMS INVITE GLASS WALLS — Carrara structural glass is pre-cut by glass dealers, then merely cemented in place on bathroom walls.

Bath Can Be Redecorated in Structural Glass Panels

In exactly 22 easy steps you can redecorate your bathroom walls with luxurious Carrara structural glass at a cost consistent with modest homes and incomes, if you do the work yourself.

The secret is to install the glass panels only where Carrara's durability, resistance to steam and water, and easily cared-for surface will serve best — in the tub enclosure, wash-basin splash panel and along the base of the wall.

Then the rest of the walls and ceiling can be painted or wallpapered as the home owner sees fit.

The glass manufacturer which suggested this approach points out that the handy fellow of the house doesn't have to worry about establishing levels, aligning walls or cutting and fitting at the job. Whether or not the tub is exactly level, the tub panels merely rest on the tub's edge. Base follows the floor with no trimming or leveling.

All the cuttings of panels to fit the tub enclosure and of holes in the glass where plumbing comes through the wall will be done by the shop that takes the order. Then the glass is merely cemented to the wall.

This type of installation takes about 63 square feet of Carrara glass in the average bathroom. The glass wall around a five-foot tub (most common size) can be made up of six panels—two back panels, 59¼ inches wide by 24 inches high, and four end panels, 28¼ inches wide by 24 inches high. Base panels are 14 inches high.

The glass is made in a variety of colors and black and white. For installing it you'll need mastic and pointing compound, trowel or mastic comb, putty knife and level.

Three things are necessary before the glass can be ordered. Measure the back wall along the tub length; measure the various lengths of base; make cardboard patterns of the locations of plubing outlets. The patterns are turned over to the dealer for cutting.

Gypsum wallboard walls will support Carrara glass if securely nailed at four-inch intervals. Gypsum board, ½-inch thick, should be fastened to studs with four-penny, cement-coated nails.

Carrara glass, when ready for installation, must be coated on the back with mastic, and the trowel or mastic comb is used to make wavy serrations in the mastic to allow for expansion when pressure is applied in setting.

For waterproof seal along back rim of the tub, a thick coating of mastic is applied with putty knife. The bottom back glass panel is placed on cardboard tabs pressed into mastic on the rim. Pressure is applied for proper adhesion to the wall. All other bottom panels are set in this manner.

Upper panels are handled in the same way except that they are buttered with pointing compound on edges that meet another surface.

Dip Nails in Linseed Oil for Easy Driving

To drive nails easier, dip them in linseed oil. And, strange as it seems, this same treatment helps keep nails from bending, helps prevent wood rot. Try it on finishing nails or wire brads.

HOME OWNERS QUESTION BOX

Q—Is there any way to make screws "bite" in wood or plaster holes which have become too large?

A—Yes. Roll steel wool into a long, narrow wad and force it into the hole with a pencil. The screw will turn into the steel wool, taking a firm grip.

Q—My roof has been repaired several times recently, but new leaks continue to appear. How can this be corrected so that I can rely on the roof to keep out rain?

A—Your trouble is that your roof is so old and weathered that patching is futile and you need a complete reroofing job. A single apparent leak in a badly weathered roof is probably evidence of other similar leaks that have not been noticed and is usually the forerunner of other, larger leaks that will appear in a relatively short time." Reroofing is the only solution when repair is not practicable. Shingles can be laid on top of most old roofs for new protection from the weather.

A—The piano should be placed so both its ends are equally distant from a radiator, a register, or a stove. It should not be placed near a window frequently left open for long periods. Every effort should be made to keep the piano in a dry area because dampness will rust the metal parts and swell the action.

It is a good idea to store flooring piled loosely, in the building for at least three days before laying.

Tight Fit on Window Keeps House Warm

A house will be warmer in winter if the windows are kept locked. Locking keeps the sash tightly closed, making the window more airtight.

A window also will close more tightly if all grooves and joints around the sash are kept clean. If windows do not fit properly, they should be weatherstripped.

Don't Paint When Windy

Never paint outdoors when there is a high wind — unless you want dust and bugs blown onto the fresh paint. Best time to paint is during clear, dry weather.

SPLIT LEVEL HOUSE—Sloping terrain reduced construction costs for this three-level house.

Split Level Houses Gain in Popularity, Add Value to Once-Poor Property

The growing popularity of the split level house is adding real dollar value to property which formerly was considered impractical for home sites because of the irregularity of the terrain.

Frequently, the sloping lot simplifies the designer's problems and actually helps to reduce construction costs. In this house, the architect uses the incline of the lot to enhance the appearance of the house while taking fullest advantage of the land area available.

Built on three levels, the house is distinguished by its unusual brightness and comfortable roominess. A four-foot wide balcony extending the full width adds a note of luxury to the exterior while providing shade for the patio below.

The kitchen is large and roomy, 8 by 14 feet, but sink, work counters, range and refrigerator are arranged in a compact U pattern to insure top efficency. The sink is located on the adjoining utility room wall so that the same plumbing installations can serve both rooms.

The living room is on the second level off a small foyer which serves the front entrance. Large double pane windows extending across the rear of the 22-foot long room create a feeling of greater depth.

Casement windows, just above eye level, on the other perimeter wall help to carry out the general impression of open brightness. A fieldstone fireplace with a wide hearth lends an air of cozy comfort to the entire room.

The foyer, with a large double closet, protects the living room from the entrance. Stairways to the dining room on the lower level and to the third level are located in the foyer.

The third level includes two bedrooms, the bath, and a large room which serves as den and playroom and can be pressed into use as an extra bedroom. The rear bedroom measures 10 by 8½ feet and has a handy closet. The larger bedroom is 12 by 11 feet and also has a roomy closet.

The 14 by 14 foot den opens onto the balcony which is protected against rain and sun by an overhanging roof. A closet off the den is available for extra storage space. Bedrooms, den and bath are served by a common hall.

From the exterior, the house has an imposing appearance usually found only in more expensive structures. The vertical redwood siding stands out sharply against the sloping green background of the surrounding area.

Cost of the house, exclusive of lot, is estimated at $18,000 to $20,000, according to the designer.

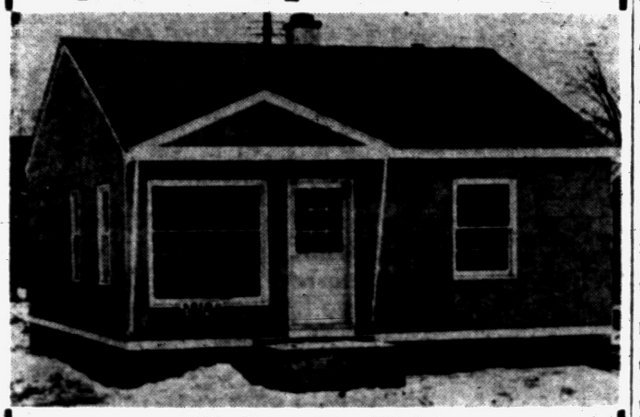

Cutting Boards Built-in

Built-in cutting boards add convenience to today's steel kitchen cabinets. The cutting board may be fashioned as a permanent counter top, in the form of a sliding shelf insert in a base cabinet, or as a sliding top for the bread box drawer of a base unit.

MAKE DO—Discourage birds from perching on the tops of shutters by stretching an aluminum wire between two aluminum nails. This contrivance is inconspicuous and will not rust.

Copy Colonial Accessory to Lend Charm to Home

The historic shelf which inspired the pattern for this reproduction came from Williamsburg, Va., home of the earliest settlers of America. You can make one yourself in an afternoon or evening with fir plywood.

Although time has dimmed the factual record of this particular antique, it must have been an important piece of decoration in a beautiful Virginia home. It may once have held a jar of lavender, an antique covered jar of rose petals, or an early vase.

With its simple, graceful lines, a copy today will serve as a charming furniture accessory in any contemporary home. It is a perfect place for one of your favorite knick-knacks, a small set of books or for some nice teapots.

You can make this wall shelf from the pattern shown here with a small piece of one-half inch fir plywood. Lumber dealers have fir plywood in stock; small panels and a piece as small as 19x18 inches will do.

1 piece 4¾x18 inches, shelf (C).

Then make a grid on piece of paper, spacing the lines 1 inch apart. Draw the full-size outline of the sides on the grid from the pattern shown above. Then cut out the two sides with a jig saw or coping saw.

To assemble the shelf, place wood glue on each end of the two shelves. Screw or nail the shelves into place. Use 4d finishing nails or No. 6 1-inch flathead screws.

You can finish the piece with stain, varnish, wax or paint. First sand the piece with 0 sandpaper and then dampen the surface with a wet cloth. Let stand for 12 hours and rub with 00 sandpaper or fine steel wool.

Patterned Glass Adds Decoration to Surfaces

The decorative setting of your windows can be carried to furniture surfaces, upright room dividers and elsewhere by covering drapery material with patterned glass, says June Cabot, home arts consultant.

Seen through the glass, the material assumes a rippled, geometric or eccentric appearances according to which some 20 glass patterns is used.

While the terraced stand was designed for a bay window it will fit nicely into any sunny angle. It is three feet ten inches high with the top shelf 14 inches long and the bottom shelf 30 inches long. You get the green and white rope effect which borders the shelves by tracing the sawing and painting designs directly onto the wood. This is a well-balanced stand that is suitable for small pots of African violets or large geranium plants. Price of pattern 366 is 25 cents postpaid. Write to Workshop Pontiac Press.

Eliminate Door Jams in House

Traffic Problems Can Often Be Solved by Changing Swing

Ever get caught in a door jam? Several homeowners have found themselves literally in that sort of fix in a busy entrance or upstairs hall.

The whole family constantly ran into a jam of doors, and doors ran into one another and any furniture placed nearby.

Luckily, doors are movable—and removable. There are at least four easy ways out of a door jam. Any one may solve your particular problem.

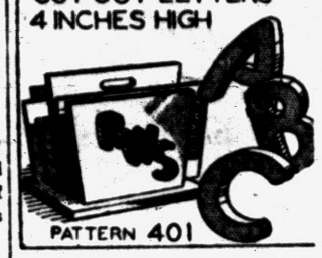

1. Sometimes by simply changing the swing of the door you can get out of your door jam. Reversing the swing to left or right may work for closet doors in a bathroom or small bedroom, for example.

2. Consider changing the swing in or out, too.

3. If you haven't space for a door to swing, install one that doesn't have to, like the sliding door.

4. Sloping ceilings won't allow you to use a sliding door? Then try a door that is hinged in three panels, fashioned after a folding screen. Not only does it take a small swing space, but it's decorative, too.

These letters may be cut from wood with an ordinary hand fret saw, but a table model jig saw using a jewelers' blade would be far the most satisfactory for plastics and metals. Shadows Can Add to Garden

Shading Can Be Made to Develop Interesting Patterns

Gardeners all are aware of shadows—but usually as something to be avoided. When shade is deep, plants that must have bright sunshine just won't grow. Non-gardeners often think of a shadowy place as a cheerless, dreary place to avoid.

Why, then, deliberately introduce shadows into modern gardening? Because controlled and planned shadow play offers a wonderful way to make any garden more interesting.

And it can be done without introducing growth problems and without any cost other than some thought. No outlay. No upkeep.

To exploit shadow play in a garden provide:

1. A simmple shadow pattern. This requires thoughtful pruning of plants so that branches are individuals, not tangled masses.

2. Uncluttered display space to catch the shadows. These must be plain, whether they are flat or vertical. Lawn grass and pavings on non-obvious patterns are fine. So are simple board fences or plain brick walls, though they need a coat of white paint for greatest effectiveness.

Wheeled-Cart in Kitchen Handy as Work Counter

If you have a small kitchen here is an idea for combining two home-making aids in one. Instead of having a snack bar fastened permanently to the wall mount this table-like surface on wheels.

In this way, it may be pushed to the wall when serving meals and also may be wheeled anywhere in the kitchen, from refrigerator to range, when you need an extra work counter.

Plan Remodeling Before Talking with Contractor

Families that fail to get firm bids, or change their minds midway in a project, or fail to cooperate well with workmen are asking for trouble.

Too often a family's idea of the end result is still vague even after the project is under way.

Neither the owner nor his wife has figured out just how the furniture will fit in, or whether structural changes may be needed in another room.

When the plans are definite — when the family knows exactly what it wants—contractors should be asked for firm bids. The plans should be down on paper, and the contractor to do the work should have, or should give, a memorandum on exactly what he will do for the price quoted.

Quality materials always should be used in remodeling. Substitues are more expensive in the long run.

Before workmen come in on a remodeling project, the room in question should be cleared so that they can work easily. Workmen should not have to worry whether furnishings or fittings will be damaged — put them away!

Other rooms should be closed off during remodeling. Keeping dirt and debris out of them will save alter cleaning up, and fussing about inadvertent damage.

A wise plan is to lay down mats at strategic points near the remodeling project, so that both workmen and members of the family can clean their feet before going into other areas.

Also, if the workmen do not clean up at night the housewife will find it advisable to sweep up floors and get dust and dirt out of the way before it is tracked into other rooms.

Blisters Give Warning

Constant vigilance must be maintained to prevent damaging moisture from entering the walls of a house. Signs of uncontrolled moisture are most readily detected around window frames, on siding, gutters and downspouts and on porch posts and steps. Blistered paint is a warning signal that you need to take immediate action to protect your home.

Deciding When to Repaint No Tough Job for Anyone

WASHINGTON, D.C. — How can you tell when a house needs painting? It's not difficult. But you can't reckon the time that a good coat of paint should last by counting the years since its application.

The type of weather in the vicinity always plays a major role in determining the lifetime of a coating. Hard winters, dust storms . . . excessive sunlight—all are likely to shorten the serviceability of paint. Mild weather conditions probably will lengthen the term of service.

Actually, the horizontal surfaces on the outside of a house usually reveal when the paint needs to be renewed. When the coating wears so thin that the surface beneath shows through, they present a visual SOS.

The coatings on window sills and other ledges are the tell-tale spots that warn when it's time to repaint. Vertical surfaces are less vulnerable to weather attacks.

Nearly all of today's paints are made to last long and to withstand weather. They also are designed to chalk slowly so that they give a repaintable surface. They also are formulated to clean readily.

It is not necessary to repaint just because a surface is dirty. Beneath the dirt may be a coating that's still in fine condition.

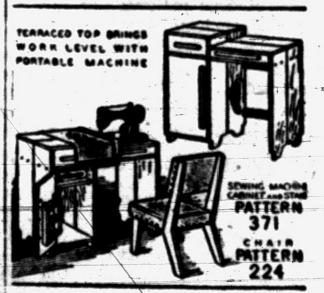

Contractors can be engaged for house-washing. Home-owners often undertake the work themselves. In addition to ladders and planks, all that is needed is a wide scurb brush with fibre bristle and any good detergent.

Even when planning to repaint, it's important to make sure that all surfaces are free from dust, dirt and grease. When painting over a dirty surface there's a risk that the dirt will mix ith the new paint, causing smeaers that may necessitate a second coat.

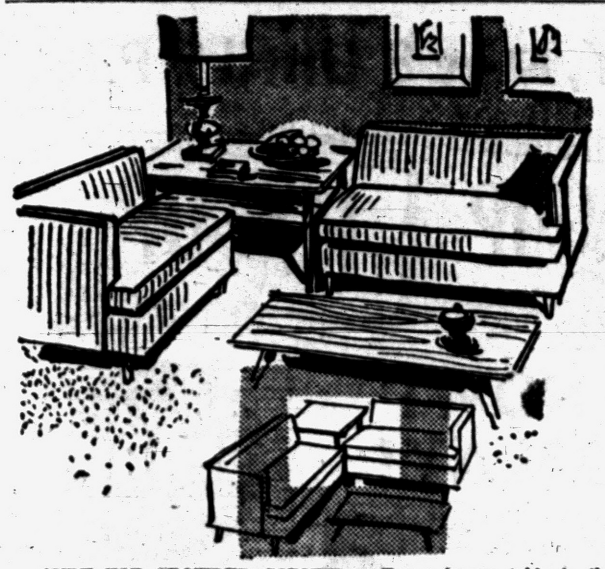

While preparing to renew an exterior paint job be sure to wirebrush any peeling paint, then to dust and prime any bare spots. Let the primer dry overnight before beginning to apply a new coating over the entire surface.

IN THE HOME WORKSHOP

This terrace stand is another case where necessity was the mother of invention. It is the result of a vain search for a ready-made stand for a portable sewing machine. It had to be the right height for the machine and have a terrace that provides a broad surface on a level with the machine foot to support the work smoothly. When typing the terrace holds the copy at easy reading distance. There is storage space for one machine as well as a shelf and two easy-to-make drawers for materials. The patterns are so complete that any week-end cabinet maker can build these pieces with ordinary hand tools. Order patterns by number enclosing 25 cents for one or 50 cents for both chair and desk. CURE FOR CROWDED CORNER — Try a longer table in the corner with an arrangement of sectional furniture. It does wonders. It cures crowding—actually makes it possible for at least one extra person to join the corner conversation grouping and sit comfortably. When the table in the corner is the usual square, the corner edges of seating pieces meet and create a knee problem. Two persons at the corner ends bump knees and have half as much room for their feet as they need. The longer table moves one sectional unit enough inches away from the other to make sure of extra space comfort. Oddly enough, it's a table that gives the room more seating area. The table can very well include a practical shelf, and in a table this long the shelf is easy to reach, as a lower shelf on a square table can't be.

Masking Tape Aids Woodwork Painter

Paint that splatters on varnished woodwork is troublesome to remove completely. Often fine drops aren't seen until too late. You can save time, do neater work by using masking tape and newspaper. Just move tape and paper on as work progresses.

It's simple to do a professional job of enameling a door after it has been removed and laid flat. Painting a door in a horizontal position will help prevent runs and speed work. First, if you can, remove hardware for a neater job.

Painting with a roller is the fastest method of covering interior walls and ceilings. But "paint in" corners and edges with a brush, wherever the roller won't reach or where there's a chance of daubing finished areas such as a light ceiling.

Use Two-to-1 Mixture for Natural Wood Finish

The two-to-one mixture will tend to darken or blonde woods. Do not use on redwood siding.

Several coats may be required to achieve desired color and for the oil to effectively penetrate into the wood. Wait for at least one week between aplications for complete drying.
