Here's Miss Front Page for July. She's Judy Bassett, of East Iroquois Road.

Judy is currently at Eastern Michigan College where she graduates after summer school with a degree in physical education. She plans to continue at Southern California where she will receive a certificate in occupational therapy.

Judy is 21 years old and is a graduate of Pontiac High School. Her hobbies include all sports with special emphasis on swimming, fishing and horseback riding. She has been active in Girl Scout work and worked on a dude ranch one summer. She's an all around young lady of exceptional poise, grace and appearance.

And incidentally, her pappy is one of the top executives here at The Press and his first knowledge of our July selection takes place when he reads these lines.

Lucky Hunch Wins Man Drowns in Weather Contest in Kent Lake

A lucky hunch paid off for a Milford mother. It brought her victory and a $100 savings bond in The Pontiac Press Weather Man Contest.

Mrs. William R. Scott, 33, of 4365 England Beach Rd., guessed within three minutes the actual hottest moment in June.

She forecast 2:17 p.m., June 17. The hottest moment of the month turned out to be 2:20 p.m. June 17 when the thermometer soared to 94 degrees.

How did she pick the time and date she submitted to The Press? "Well, 2:17 p.m., June 17, was the exact time and date I was baptized," said Mrs. Scott. "I just played a hunch."

Employed at Socomey-Mobil Oil Co., Pontiac, Mrs. Scott has been married 16 years and has three children. Her husband is a factory worker employed in Detroit.

Although Mrs. Scott has carried off June's honors, there will be another Weather Man Contest for July, for which entries closed Saturday afternoon.

Hoad Leads 3 Aussies Into Wimbledon Semi's

WIMBLEDON, England (U)—Top-seeded Lew Hoad defeated a teammate, Mervyn Rose, 6-4, 4-6, 10-8, 6-3, today to lead three Australians into the semi-finals of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

Second-seeded Ashley Cooper defeated Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-3, 7-5, 6-1. Neale Fraser eliminated Ulf Schmidt of Sweden.

The last American hope was eliminated when Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, former champion, was upset by Sven Davidson of Sweden 5-7, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

Liquor Drowning Poles

LONDON (INS)—The Polish Press Agency has announced that Poland is being drowned in alcohol. "The plague of drunkenness" in the Communist country "is assuming frightening proportions," the agency reported yesterday. It added that alcohol consumption has increased by 100 per cent since 1954.

Dr. Ralph Uber, 40, and Robert Swenson, 33, both of Yakima, were described by the Kittitas County Sheriff's Office as being in good condition.

Mr. Adams is in the Cascade Range, 105 miles southeast of Seattle.

The four men, reached by one of six rescue parties making their way up the rugged mountain, were found huddled on the ice fall at the 9,300-foot level.

Two of the men, David Bishop, 22, of Tappanish, Wash., and Mike McGuire, 20, of Yakima, a student at Colorado School of Mines, Golden, Colo., were exhausted from their ordeal on the 12,307-foot mountain.

Rescue 4 Climbers From Icy Peak

Rescue parties from Seattle, Yakima, Ellensburg, Goldendale and Longview, Wash., and Hood River, Ore., were on the mountain when Uber and the others were found and started their way down to safety.

Mishap on Water Skis Takes Life of Visitor From Upper Peninsula

Marvin R. Lakli, 22, a resident of the Upper Peninsula town of Aura, who had been staying with friends at 3217 Kathryn St., Garden City, became Oakland County's second weekend drowning victim Sunday afternoon.

The first victim, Charles Koonitz, 27, of 18904 Maplewood St., Livonia, drowned when the seven-foot pram he was in was swamped in the choppy waters of Loon Lake, Commerce Township, early Saturday.

Lakli, who drowned in Kent Lake, Lyon Township, was water skiing at the time of the fatal accident. A friend, Milton Kivela, of 6075 Bailey St., Dearborn, was driving the boat which towed Lakli.

Kivela told Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies that he turned to see Lakli fall off the skis, and he dove from the boat to rescue the floundering man. He grabbed Lakli, but could not hold him and he finally sank into about 20 feet of water.

Witnesses on shore, about 300 to 500 yards away, substantiated Kivela's report. Deputies do not yet know exactly what caused Lakli to fall from the skis, but the discovery that one ski was damaged led them to believe he may have hit a floating object.

The body has not yet been recovered. Dragging operations were halted after dark Sunday night, to be resumed early today.

Hurricane Death Toll Rises as Workmen Probe Debris

Display May Be Visible Again Tonight

Michigan Watches Northern Lights

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan was treated to a spectacular display of northern lights—the Aurora Borealis—for almost five hours Sunday night and early today.

They appeared as bright shafts of light through the sky with waving streamers of pale green, greenish white and white.

SEEN ALL OVER

The lights were visible through the entire Great Lakes region, the weather bureau said.

The weather bureau predicted clear skies again tonight and said the lights may again be visible. Strong sunspots are causing the emanations.

Washington offers a forecast for the next 18 months of more freak weather over the world, and more brilliant northern lights displays.

STUDY EFFECTS

Scientists of many countries concentrated today on studying the effects of a major explosion on the sun which coincided nicely with the opening of the International Geophysical Year.

Actually, the flare erupted three days ago, but its effects were not noted until early yesterday.

Russian scientists at Moscow were the first to report it. They flashed word to IGY communications centers all over the world, including the IGY world warning agency at Ft. Belvoir, Va.

The word was passed promptly along to scientists at 2,000 IGY stations from the arctic to the antarctic, alerting them to intensify their observations and measurements.

Studies of the sun are just one phase of the concentrated scientific study.

IGY is a cooperative scientific effort by 62 nations—including Russia and most of her satellites—to glean new information about the earth, its oceans, its atmosphere and the sun which strongly affects life on the planet.

About 10,000 scientists are participating in the 18-month studies, opening officially today.

Practical benefits such as better weather forecasting, improved communications and navigation are hoped for as a result of the pooled research.

The solar flare—a giant geyser of solar particles and radiation streaming out, probably hundreds of thousands of miles from the sun's surface—reached the earth yesterday in the form of magnetic storms in the high atmosphere.

Such high-altitude storms, which sometimes disrupt radio and telegraph communications, are "as tempestuous as hurricanes are in weather disturbances," said a special bulletin from American IGY headquarters.

Radio blackouts were expected to occur in many places throughout the world before tonight today.

"Aircraft and ships at sea dependent on radio navigation and communication have been alerted to take precautionary measures in view of the impending radio blackout," said the IGY announcement.

Already, the phenomenon has caused brilliant displays of the aurora—Northern and Southern lights—at high altitudes in the Northern and Southern hemispheres.

Solar flares of varying intensity occur periodically on the sun—reaching maximum intensity in 11-year cycles, as do sun spots.

In fact, the 18-month IGY was timed to conform with the peak of the current 11-year cycle of solar activity.

Workmen probing the debris of hurricane and wave-stricken Cameron today uncovered many additional bodies, sending unofficial estimates of the final death toll upward once again.

The Lake Charles American Press said the toll would run between 400 and 500, probably about 450, basing its estimate on the rapid discovery of more victims during a systematic check of the surrounding marsh.

The grim news of a climbing toll broke as Louisiana prepared a mass burial for the nameless dead.

The threat of disease and pestilence hung like a culture over the West Gulf Coast of Louisiana today as rescue workers found themselves in a race against time to clean up the dead—human and animal.

Rescue operations, already gruesome, are being made almost horrifying by thousands and maybe millions of poisonous water moccasins which are swimming about everywhere.

Eighty-eight injured are under treatment in Lake Charles and six of these are in critical condition.

An estimated 70,000 head of cattle are floating in the slimy marsh country of south Cameron parish, where 105-mile-an-hour winds shot ashore at 4 a.m. Thursday followed by waves of near tidal proportions, which drowned most of the cattle, leaving salty water to take a toll of those that survived the first hours.

PORTABLE PUMPS

Portable pumps went into the fight today to save some 15,000 to 20,000 of Cameron parish cattle that survived Hurricane Audrey.

The air literally smells of death. In Lake Charles, where most of the survivors are being cared for, the refugees today obeyed the biblical admonition, "Visit the sick, bury the dead."

No one really knew how many of either there are.

UNOFFICIAL GUESS

Val Peterson, President Eisenhower's personal representative, said at least 200 and possibly 500 persons died. "But it's a very unofficial guess," he added.

Van Atta Backers Expected to Ask Trial Board Hearing

Backers of dismissed Waterford Township Police Chief Frank Van Atta are expected to demand a trial board hearing for him tonight when the township board meets at 7:30 in the township hall.

The group questions the dismissal of Van Atta without considering his seniority rights. Van Atta, whose post was eliminated as a result of a sharply reduced budget, joined the Waterford police department when it was organized three years ago.

The board is expected to take action in the rezoning of Williams Lake road property, from the railroad to Coventry, from residential to commercial. This area is known as the Burlington Lake Park Subdivision.

Previously, the Waterford Zoning Board approved the rezoning but it was turned down by the Oakland County Zoning Board which objected to "ribbon-type" zoning in the township.

Petitions with 163 names protesting the zoning change have been submitted to the board, according to Clerk James Seeterlin.

A low bid by Howell Construction Co., to pave one mile of Crescent Lake road, will be acted upon tonight, Seeterlin said.

Board members also will review and discuss the rural zoning ordinance.

Kennedy to Run in '60?

PHILADELPHIA (INS)—Sen. J. F. Kennedy of Massachusetts has said he hasn't "planned" on running for the presidency in 1960, but indicated he would accept the Democratic nomination if offered to him.

Mayflower Uses Her Own Power for New York

NEW YORK (U)—Moving under her own power, the Mayflower II sailed slowly across New York Harbor today as other craft tooted a welcome.

By midmorning, the ship was peering the Statue of Liberty, an scheduled to dock at Pier 81 on the Hudson River by noon.

A brisk wind gave her a proud stance as she made her approach.

The tiny bark, a replica of the Pilgrims' ship, arrived under tow from Newport, R.I., and was tied up at a Staten Island pier at 3 a.m.

Delayed at Newport for almost a day by high winds and heavy seas, the Mayflower II made its way to the city through Long Island Sound and the East River into the harbor. The little ship had left Newport shortly after Saturday midnight, towed by a commercial tugboat.

Protests but OKs Bill

LANSING (U)—Gov. Williams, saying he acted "under duress," today affixed his signature to the controversial school bill, thereby providing for 25 million dollars a year in increased whisky and cigarette taxes.

County Golfer Has Poor Start in Open

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (U)—The British Open got under way this morning with 269 players scrambling over two courses, the "old" and "new" at historic St. Andrews.

On the par 36-38-72 for the 6,992 old course layout, Angel Angelini of Italy, shot 37-33-70 to take an early qualifying lead.

Peter Thomson, winner of the past three years, had 35-35-71, while American Gene Andrews fired a 38-34-72.

Tom Draper, Royal Oak amateur, virtually shot himself out of the tournament with a first round 11-39-50. Draper had double bogies on the par-4 first and sixth holes.

Reflect Peak Business in 1956

State Tax Receipts Soar

LANSING (U)—The State Revenue Department today reported 1956-57 state tax receipts hit a new peak, reflecting record business activity.

"Despite all claims to the contrary, Michigan business, of which tax collections represent the most accurate barometer, reached an all-time high record," the department said.

Sales tax yield hit $309,600,000, or about 2.7 million dollars over the preceding year, notwithstanding a drop of about five million dollars in revenue from automobile and building materials.

Collections from retail transactions in other businesses more than offset the decline in automobile and building materials.

Business activities taxes moved up to $64,300,000, compared with $59,400,000 in 1955-56.

The three-cents a package cigarette levy totaled $27,200,000, a gain of about $500,000.

Other yields included: Intangible taxes, $23,500,000, up $2,200,000; inheritance taxes, $11,100,000, an increase of $2,600,000; and corporation franchise taxes, 47 million dollars, up more than two million dollars.

Rector Returns From the Dead

United With Wife, Sons After Listed Drowning Last April 26

PASCO, Wash. (U)—The rector of the Episcopal church here, believed drowned in an Idaho lake April 26, returned to his home and his parish late last night.

The Rev. Andrew Daughters, 37, returned from the dead while attending a communion service yesterday morning in Grace Episcopal Cathedral in San Francisco. He was dressed as a workman and his hands were calloused.

The first indication of returning memory came as he read the parish bulletin. He asked a fellow worshipper if the date, "June 30," was correct. When informed it was, he sought help from Canon Richard Byfield, the clergyman who had conducted the service.

Talking with Canon Byfield, the Rev. Mr. Daughters regained knowledge of his identity. He held a tearful telephone reunion with his wife. He was given the clothing of an Episcopal clergyman. With his workman's clothes in a paper bag, he flew from San Francisco to Portland, Ore., and then to Yakima, Wash.

At Yakima, he was met by his wife and the Rev. Charles May, the Episcopal rector at Kennewick, Wash., and a friend of the Daughters.

The three then drove to Pasco, arriving late last night. Daughters' four sons, aged 3 to 13 years, greeted him.

Search for Daughters started after his boat was found abandoned and damaged on Lake Coeur d'Alene. A week later the search was given up and Daughters was listed as "presumably drowned." A memorial fund for the aid of his children had been started.

The parish had chosen a new rector and had called the Rev. Lester Kinsolving, vicar of St. Thomas Church at Rodeo and St. Philip's Church at El Sobrante, Calif.

Billy Graham's Mother Joins His Crusade

NEW YORK (U)—Evangelist Billy Graham's mother joined him on the platform at Madison Square Garden last night to tell of the virtues and blessings of a Christian home.

They were heard by an audience announced as 19,200, including 700 standees. An estimated 5,000 gathered outside, unable to be admitted to the arena because of building regulations. A spokesman said it was the largest turnout during the 45 days of Graham's New York crusade.

Graham's mother, Mrs. Anne Morrow Graham, a little woman in her 60s, urged that parents rear their children in the Christian faith and the Bible and take them to church and Sunday school. She said she and her husband, William Frank Graham Sr., a North Carolina dairy farmer, did their best to instill a feeling for God in their children.

Graham, before introducing his mother to the Garden audience, went outside to speak briefly to the crowd there. Some of those who could not get inside were members of a delegation that came by special train from Louisville, Ky. Loudspeakers later carried his sermon to those outside, Graham said. "The home is regarded by all Christian nations as the basis of civilized society," and he added:

Severe 'Back' Bruises Given Meter Reading

DALLAS (U)—Water meter reader James W. Martin asked the City Council to approve a $75 hospital bill.

His injuries involved an automobile accident.

The doctor's report listed "severe bruises" along with a series of lengthy medical terms relating to anatomy. The accident report noted that Martin had his back to the automobile at the time it nudged him. He also was leaning garded by all Christian nations as the basis of civilized society," and he added:

"Any nation can only be as strong as its homes. The greatest men of our days were not fashioned on battlefields but in the cradle at the fireside."

Total attendance at the Garden meetings to date was announced as 805,800. Graham's call last night for "decisions for Christ" brought 597, making a total of 24,952 since the meetings began May 15.

Graham's office announced there will be no meetings at the Garden tonight and the next two succeeding Monday nights, to give the evangelist and his associates a rest. They have had only one night off so far during the New York crusade.

Graham spoke yesterday afternoon at an open-air rally in Harlem, New York's main Negro neighborhood. A crowd estimated at 5,000 heard him preach from the steps of the Salem Methodist Church.

Trash Man Returns Rings Worth $1,250

NEW ORLEANS (U)—A city trash collector has returned to the owner two diamond rings worth $1,250, found hidden in a venetian blind that was discarded.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Canovadi concealed the rings at the top of the blind. The rings were forgotten and the blinds were changed.

When the loss was discovered, city sanitation worker Jacob Dalgren was contacted. He had taken the blinds home without realizing their hidden value.

"We need legislation," he said. "But we must have the love of Christ in our hearts to back up the legislation. Prejudice has its roots in sin."

Graham said the solution to the racial question lies in love for one's neighbor.

The meeting was sponsored by the Heart of Harlem Neighborhood Church Assn. of the Protestant Council. It was one of a series of meetings to spread his message to various neighborhoods of the city.

Twins Equal in Court

MILES CITY, Mont. (U)—Dick and Dan Biery of Rosebud county are 20-year-old twins. Both have twin model sedans. Both were fined $10 in justice court after pleading guilty to driving their twin vehicles, bumper to bumper, 68 miles an hour in a 55-mile-an-hour zone.

Police Investigation Suggested by Press

The Pontiac Press believes the local police situation demands a complete investigation.

Current developments indicate an unhealthy state of affairs in general. There must be sound criticisms in several directions. The matter must be investigated, studied and definite corrections applied.

We believe that DONALD S. LEONARD could very profitably be retained by the City to conduct an investigation with the chips falling where they may. We feel the citizens would be one hundred per cent behind Mr. LEONARD and would accept his findings.

Certainly it would be inexpedient for a group of local people to cope with the problems. They're too complex and there are too many ramifications. Also, personalities would creep in to modify or distort the ultimate solution.

LEONARD is under obligations to no one. His own personal reputation as a high police official would be at stake and would guarantee an impartial finding.

We need the truth.

We may have to strengthen, modify or even discard our current Civil Service procedure. Perhaps we voted it with too little understanding. Perhaps it is sound except in isolated instances.

All of these are complex factors and require the services of an expert. It is no place for a group of amateurs. Their honesty and good intentions will avail us nothing if they do not understand the requirements of both sides.

We feel Chief HERBERT STRALEY is completely honest and we think he has a splendid grasp of his duties and the requirements of his office. We also believe he has lacked diplomacy at times and at intervals his public and departmental relations have been badly bungled.

On the other hand, it appears as though his hands are tied and he is helpless in certain functions of his office. This is ridiculous. The men on the force must be accountable to their chief. He must possess the power to hire and fire. Perhaps in some circumstances there could be redress to the Board of Appeals but no executive officer anywhere can function properly without definite and clear cut authority. This cannot be delegated to a board. Make no mistake about that.

What does the word "Chief" mean? Are we going to make it a mockery?

If we do, the taxpayers and the City will be the big losers in the end. It won't be the Chief, the men or the Board.

Efficiency will end. Morale will ebb away. Pontiac will end up with nothing but shoddy indifference, and a weak, spineless police force, accountable only to a nebulous shadow.

What a farce.

This is no time to duck the issue. Constructive steps must be taken. The Press is not hipped on the idea of retaining Leonard and if a better solution is offered we will be the first to cheer. But SOMEONE from outside should be invited to make an investigation and submit recommendations.

LEONARD is an expert with unusual experience and he understands this locality and its problems. We feel he is especially qualified and he just finished an investigation of precisely this type in San Antonio. That's his current occupation. But if the Commission favors someone else, by all means let's have him.

The citizens of Pontiac are unhappy with the situation as it is now. Furthermore, it's very dangerous to the enforcement of law and order.

The list of gluttons for punishment is no doubt headed by dentists who accept only children as patients, followed next by barbers who specialize in cutting children's hair.

The manufacturers are turning out cars that operate and run as smoothly as velvet. The only jerks in them are those behind steering wheels.

Sheriff Asks for Another Record Like Memorial Day

Fourth: What you should not celebrate with a fifth.

We're being put on our honor by Sheriff Frank W. Irons in regard to our traffic behavior over the July 4 holiday. Our record over Memorial Day was super-excellent, and Frank feels that, with the same care we can do as well over the Fourth. Anyway, he will have the men on the job to jog our memory on any shortcomings.

Today completing 27 years on the Oakland County Board of Auditors is Robert Y. Moore, who has been its chairman for 21 years. Congratulations, Bob.

Evidently knowing where good company abounds, a beautiful butterfly with a wingspread just under six inches appeared in our editorial room the other morning.

Another two-pound brook trout, a rugged individualist, was taken the other day by Patrick Brosius in a little creek near his home in Waterford Township, that has no connection with any river or lake in which any fish have been planted.

Here's a glad-welcoming hand to Oakland County's newest Village,

Wood Creek Farms,

in the northeast corner of Farmington Township, which has elected

Alger Clark as president; also a full set of other officers — and voted for a three mill tax limit.

From the president of a Detroit horticulture club,

Mrs. Hortense Burnaby, comes a letter asking if we have any more marsh marigolds among the wildflowers "in the swamps around Pontiac." We still have them a little further out, but we call them by their low brow name, cow slips — and will continue to do so.

A pair of mourning doves, nesting near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Farnsworth near Rochester, show an even greater devotion to each other than the devotion for which that bird is famous. Both try to sit on the nest at the same time.

Oakland County loses its second oldest woman in the death of Mrs. Susan Frederika Keck of Lake Orion, who died recently, aged 105. The oldest is Mrs. Eliza Beaumont Taylor of Highland, who will be 108 on her next birthday.

Wagering his pile for a month that the Detroit Tigers would be in the first division on Aug. 1,

Jack Smithfield of Birmingham, according to his wife (with whom he bet), now wants an extension to Sept. 1 — or next April.

Just Don't Overlook Anything

David Lawrence Says:

3 Events Reveal Ideals of Mankind

WASHINGTON — Three momentous demonstrations of moral force that can help the cause of human betterment in the world have just been made.

Though not in themselves inter-related, nevertheless all three had as their common denominator the ideals and rights of man. History will record that on the same day — June 28 — these three developments occurred:

1. President Eisenhower took off his shoes in accordance with Oriental custom as he entered the new Islamic Center in Washington and paid his respects to the 270,000 Moslems of the world. He said:

"America would fight with her whole strength for your right to have here your own church and worship according to your own conscience."

This is a message that will resound throughout Asia and the Middle East where too long an erroneous impression has prevailed that Western nations are intolerant of any other religions except their own.

2. Pope Pius XII, one of the great statesmen of modern times, told the American Jewish Committee that he was with them in their fight for the rights of man. He deplored racial discrimination and the persecution of Jews in various parts of the world. The visiting delegation, after leaving the Vatican, said they had found "a great friend" in the Pontiff.

One Catholic prelate, according to a New York Times dispatch from Rome, said afterwards that "a new chapter" in the Vatican's attitude toward Jewish problems had been opened. No precedent for a formal address by the Pope to a Jewish group in the 18 years of Pope Pius' pontificate could be recalled by Vatican officials.

While the group from the American Jewish Committee had just visited Israel, it is itself non-Zionist. Its main function is to urge respect for the civil rights of Jews everywhere. The Pope's comments will have far-reaching effects in every country where Catholic influence against intolerance can be substantial.

3. The secretary of state of the United States, John Foster Dulles, gave expression to American idealism in a remarkable speech at San Francisco outlining point by point why the United States refuses to extend diplomatic recognition to Red China.

Perhaps the most poignant section of the speech was the secretary's explanation of why a gangster regime like Soviet Russia is "recognized" while the one in Peking is not.

He traced in detail the manner in which the United States, after waiting 16 years, finally set forth in 1953 certain conditions for recognizing the Communist government at Moscow. These conditions were not accepted by Moscow, he said, but have since been flagrantly violated. Dulles added:

"It can, I think, be said with confidence that recognition would not have been accorded the Soviet Union even in 1953 had there been clear warning that the Soviet promises given in that connection were totally unreliable, that aggressive war would soon become an instrumentality of Soviet policy, and that it would be neutral toward Japanese aggression in Asia."

"In the case of Communist China we are forewarned. That regime fails to pass even those tests which, after 16 years, the Soviet regime seemed to pass."

Dulles proclaimed unending opposition to the admission of Red China to the United Nations. He cited the many aggressions committed by Red China including the war in Korea which cost so many American lives.

He says America will never succumb to the argument of "inevitability" of recognition. He places his faith in certain "fundamental beliefs" and one of them is "the future of human freedom." (Copyright, 1957)

Dr. William Brady Says:

Define Arthritis, Doctors —and That's a Challenge!

There can be no doubt what I mean by rheumatism. I mean physical degeneration of joint tissues.

There is no telling what your doctor means by arthritis. Try to get any reputable physician to define chronic arthritis in writing, over his signature.

Many times I have cited here the candid statement made by the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation in its Bulletin on Rheumatic Disease May 11, '54: "Besides, the various drugs in use today have not shown conclusively that they can alter the natural course of the disease or prevent crippling."

The bulletin referred to "arthritis and rheumatism" or "rheumatic disease" in general and to "rheumatoid arthritis" in particular. "The various drugs in use today," included the "wonder drugs" which had been foisted upon victims of the arthritis obsession up to that time.

No doubt the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation can defend its ambiguous title and its equivocal classification of chronic joint disability with medical mumbo jumbo to satisfy most of the doctors who string patients along like that and reduce most of the patients to embarrassed silence.

CHALLENGE FOR DOCTORS But you can neither satisfy nor silence a jackass about this: I challenge any reputable physician or recognized medical authority to point out what difference, if any, there is between "arthritis" and "rheumatism."

In the booklet Chronic Joint Disability (for a copy send 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope) I call the condition which is the cause of most such trouble Rheumatiz (physical degeneration of joint tissues).

Essential cause of Rheumatiz, I believe, is nutritional deficiency through the years from early childhood up to the present. I know of no medical remedy or cure. But literally thousands of reports from individuals who have or had rheumatiz convince me that correction of faulty nutrition, not for a week or a month but from now on, will retard, arrest or reverse the degeneration process and to prevent, relieve or cure the rheumatiz.

In any case I am sure the advice I give about this popular joint disability can do no harm.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady. If a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Teach Children to Be Independent

Lois is correct, so her Daddy should be happy to send her to this church camp. Teen-agers are more likely to obtain that exalted "mountain top" religious experience at such camps than in their home churches, for then they are in a homogeneous audience with specially trained leaders who nurture this natural idealism of youth.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE Case V-325: Lois Q., aged 15, is a high school sophomore.

"Dr. Crane, I want to go to our church summer camp," Lois began.

"But my Daddy thinks I should stay home and help mother. Besides, he seems to be afraid to let me go off with the other girls."

"For he says I am too young to stay away from home and I'll probably be homesick the first night and telephone for him to come after me."

"But I have been active in our young people's society a church, and 8 or 10 of the boys and girls have already signed up for this week at the camp."

"There we shall take Bible courses every morning and have games in the afternoon. They say it is a wonderful Christian camp, so will you please show me how to persuade Daddy to let me go?"

Lady Car Buyers Request Salesmen's Consideration

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but those will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical to its nature.

We lady car buyers would like more consideration from some of the used car salesmen than we got this past week around Pontiac. When we go to a car lot, we have been sneered at, laughed at and flouted with. What's the matter, men? Is it a crime for a woman to go on a car lot to buy a car? Isn't our money as good as that of a man car buyer? We are just curious to know why.

Sympathizes With Writer

I read the story told by C. R. Elliott about his dog. I always thought that a field to run and play was a dog's heaven; now it seems a dog can't even go for a daily run in the fields near his home without a chain around his neck. Something should be done about this and, instead of taking money from the family and making them feel they shouldn't have a dog at all, why doesn't the dog warden pick up some of the stray dogs in the city that don't even have a home?

'Can Anyone Offer Anything Better?'

Did we see a letter comparing Christian woes to heaven's joys? Ah, me, how twisted can we get? There are no woes in a true Christian's heart, whereas the "joys" of heathenism are man-made folly, eventually leading to physical and mental degeneration, heartache and suffering. The choice is ours. I'll take the Christian way. Does anyone have anything better to offer?

Waterford Pioneer Tells of Expense

If Waterford had been annexed to Pontiac, the combined city could build the $200,000 Frank Steere library easily and glory in all that beautiful property and bird sanctuary. The assessed valuation would be so great it would only mean a pittance to each taxpayer. Waterford may have half as many people as Pontiac, but it only has about a tenth of the assessed value. We have been proud of "no industry" in Waterford, but it is expensive when it comes to paying the bills.

'Weather Woman' Praises Articles

This is to let The Press know one reader really appreciates those "Know Your Weather" articles. It has always been one of my favorite topics and having studied and observed the elements for quite a few years, I have my own personal predictions and am usually right as rain concerning the latter. Before a rain I usually feel depressed, but observation shows that nearly all animals are and feel better as soon as that wet blessing refreshes them and their gardens. ## '9 Months O.K. on Condition'

Even if they don't make full use of the schools 12 months a year as they should, I'd be more charitable if they taught the old fashioned three "R's" and did away with ballet dancing, saxophone playing and folklor. The number of "graduates" that can't read, write and spell adequately is shocking.

Long Shocked

Smiles

It's funny how a man will stand out in the blazing sun to fish because it's too hot to go to church.

Church camps are doubly valuable for young people like Lois, for they offer several dividends.

First, they make the teenagers grow up, as by letting them live away from parents and close kinfolk for a week or more. But they also permit the young folks to obtain unequalled nurture in the realm of idealism. For it is during the teens that we usually make our high resolves.

That's when we think noble thoughts and want to become missionaries or physicians or nurses. And summer church camps usually are equipped with talented religious leaders who know how to inspire youth.

The faithful churchmen at home have such a mixed audience that they can't slant their sermons especially to teenagers. For they have everybody in the congregation, from crying babies to great grandparents.

But the song leaders and speakers at church camps have the know-how, plus a homogeneous audience, so they produce "conversion" and transformed lives that home churches seldom can duplicate.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Asks Gym Class in Kindergarten

ANN ARBOR (U)—A plea for physical education classes in kindergarten and all through elementary school was issued by a University of Michigan professor.

Prof. Paul Hunsicker of the physical education department deplored the lack of regularly scheduled gym classes in the nation's elementary schools.

He cited inadequate athletic and recreation facilities as the reason why young children "don't learn to master their motor skills."

Hunsicker said 91 per cent of elementary schools in the United States do not have gymnasiums and suitable play areas.

"But this shouldn't deter them from teaching the skills or lead-up games associated with activity," Hunsicker said.

He said younger children have a faster rate of learning and more free time to practice athletic skills than college and high school students.

Hunsicker called for a more vigorous recreation program taught by "competent and sympathetic teachers."

WASHINGTON — The number of horses on U. S. farms in 1931 dropped below the five million mark for the first time in census history, according to Department of Agriculture reports.

That's the Way the Stone Bounces, Says Engineer

Pebble Pitcher Saves Taxpayers' Cash

ANN ARBOR (U)—Some people pitch pebbles for play.

But for E. H. Leslie, an Ann Arbor engineer, dropping stones to see how high they bounce is work. Leslie's mission is to learn why highways chip and crack, pop out and become pockmarked with ruts.

He says inferior stone or gravel make inferior concrete. And this causes inferior roads.

Durable stones such as limestone, igneous and metamorphic rocks are best suited for highway use, says Leslie. Such stones

ABSORB MOISTURE

Stones like sandstone and chert absorb moisture, Leslie says. They don't bounce very high and aren't very roadworthy, Leslie refers to them as "iron nuts."

"It's just like a bomb," says Leslie. One iron nut will blow up a yard of concrete.

These "iron nuts" look hard, but inside they're clay. Leslie can tell the difference when he bounces them.

At Leslie's laboratory is the testing device. Stones are poured over a lip to an angled metal plate eight feet below. The stones ricochet toward three containers lined up single file.

The best stones bounce into the receptacle farthest away. Leslie calls this the "product bin."

Good stones mixed with some bad ones carom to the middle container. This is the "recycle bin" and its contents are reprocessed to separate the good from the bad.

STONES THUD

Poor stones thud onto the plate and plummet to the "reject bin" nearest of the three. These soft pebbles are the "iron nuts" which don't make good roads.

Two nearby gravel pits already are employing Leslie's stone separation methods commercially. He believes widespread use of stone selection by bouncing can lessen the dent on the taxpayer's pocket.

"Throughout the United States," says Leslie, "one dollar is spent on maintenance of principal roads for every two dollars spent on new road construction. The answer to the problem would save billions of dollars.

"Get the poor quality stones out of your rock pile and you will build highways that last." So far, nearly $250,000 has been spent on Leslie's invention. But he says one plant could separate about 100 tons of stone an hour.

Leslie, a former University of Michigan engineering professor, began his work on the stone bouncer about a year and a half ago. Now he has plans to market it through a firm in Pittsburgh.

Batista Rally Draws Poor Crowd in Cuba

SANTIAGO DE CUBA (U)—A rally staged by President Fulgencio Batista's supporters drew a poor house and won no converts in this capital of resistance to the government.

Most local residents stayed home, behind locked doors. Some of the paid demonstrators at on their hands at the open-air rally yesterday.

Heavily armed troops, police, coast guardsmen and private armies of trigger-happy gun slingers hired by Cuban politicians swarmed through the city—but the local sympathizers of rebel leader Fidel Castro kept out of their way.

Elsewhere, however, there were outbreaks of violence—some of it apparently in reprisal for what the antigovernment groups considered the "provocation" of the Santiago rally.

Bombs exploded in Havana and other cities. Three tobacco warehouses were burned at Pinar del Rio. A band of youths in Camaguey forced a radio announcer at pistol point to read antigovernment proclamations.

Ike's Brother Vacations

Girard Sets Wedding Date

Army Allows GI to Marry

CAMP WHITTINGTON, Japan (U)—The U. S. Army today granted Specialist William Girard permission to marry his Japanese fiancée. The young soldier tentatively set Friday as the date for the wedding.

Final approval was granted by 1st Cavalry Division Headquarters, said Maj. Stanley Levin, legal adviser to the 21-year-old Ottawa, Ill., soldier.

"We're tentatively setting the ceremony for 3 o'clock Friday," Levin said. "Girard is quite happy about it."

Girard and Miss Haru (Candy) Sueyama will wed in the white chapel at Camp Whittington, 40 miles north of Tokyo, where Girard is under Army restriction.

Girard planned to marry Candy in March before he became the center of an international controversy over foreign criminal trials of U. S. servicemen.

The U. S. Supreme Court is expected to rule this month whether the Army can hand Girard over for Japanese trial for the Jan. 30 fatal shooting of a woman scrap metal collector on a U. S. firing range.

Levin said the religious ceremony will follow official processing by U. S. consular officials, who will go to the camp from Tokyo.

The marriage has yet to be cleared by Japanese officials. American servicemen marrying in Japan are required to register the marriage with Japanese town officials and then have the papers witnessed by the U. S. consul.

A Methodist Army chaplain, Maj. Harry C. Rickard of Winchester, Va., said earlier he would perform the religious ceremony if the Army approved of the marriage. Girard frequently attends Protestant services in the Army chapel.

Right Answers to Pot-O-Gold Worth $1,500

You're a rare one indeed if you can pass up an opportunity to win $1,500, especially when it takes no more effort than Pot-O-Gold. Besides the chance of winning all that money, you'll find you have lots of fun trying to outwit the puzzle people. Read all rules and clues carefully.

The new puzzle contains a series of squares which are alphabetically lettered and a corresponding list of sentences with two clue words. Each of the words is numbered. The object is to select the word which you think best fits the clue sentence. You then place the number of that word in the square which has the same letter as the clue sentence.

In other words, you will read the clue labeled A and decide which of the two words makes the most sense in the sentence. You then write the number of that word in the puzzle square marked A.

Do the same with all other squares. Read all the clues carefully and be sure the right numbers are in the right squares.

- Completed puzzles must be addressed to POT-O-GOLD, POST OFFICE BOX 58, Pontiac, Michigan. Winners will be notified either by telephone or in the mails.

Meet Ahmed, Algerian Terrorist:

"We Shall Kill, Kill, Kill, Until Last Frenchman Leaves"

PARIS (NEA) — Ahmed clenched his fists, made an obvious effort to control his rage, and whispered in my ear: "We shall kill, kill, kill until the last Frenchman has left the soil of Algeria."

The young Arab terrorist's face was pale and haggard, and though only in his early twenties, his coal-black hair was already streaked with wide patches of gray. But his eyes, set deep in their sockets, glowed with hatred; his measured words, though spoken in a whisper in the dingy and noisy cafe, sounded like the hiss of an exploding bomb.

OTHERS FAIL

"Violence has been used all too often and it has brought no good, Ahmed," I said.

"We must use violence when all other methods fail," he replied.

"What will happen to the more than a million Frenchmen whose great-grandfathers created modern Algeria should your National Liberation Front win the fight against France?"

"The French are not the Arab's concern. We never asked them to come to our country."

When I first met Ahmed (which is not his real name) four years ago he was one of several thousand North African students at Paris Sorbonne, a happy and carefree dark-skinned youngster who roamed the cafes of the Latin Quarter. The son of a well-to-do Algerian wine merchant, his life's path then seemed smooth and untroubled.

But three years ago Ahmed was sucked into the secret terrorist Arab "army" which is determined to "liberate" Algeria from French domination. Today, he is a suspected killer, a hunted man wanted by the French police.

The last time I saw Ahmed two years ago he was already deeply immersed in his terrorist activities. This time I made no effort to contact him, but somehow he discovered my presence in Paris and after three days of prolonged negotiations we finally agreed on a place where we could meet in relative safety.

Even while we were talking, Ahmed's friends were engaged in a campaign of murder.

In the eastern part of Paris an innocent French locksmith was

KILLED IN CAFE

Another Frenchman was shot and killed in a cafe owned by an Algerian, but frequented for years by Frenchmen as well as North Africans.

Elsewhere in Paris the terrorists killed an Algerian cafe owner and a young Arab suspected of pro-French sympathies.

In Algeria itself, time-bombs killed 10 Frenchmen in a dance hall while the French press announced gleefully the death of 60 rebels at Melouza—the very Algerian village where some weeks earlier the terrorists themselves had massacred indiscriminately some 300 peaceful Arab men, women and children.

"Aren't you revolted by all these senseless murders, Ahmed?" I asked.

The terrorist replied calmly: "My personal view does not matter in this case. We are fighting a war of independence. There are innocent casualties in every war."

Fireworks Sales Boom

TOKYO (AP) — An increased foreign demand for Japanese fireworks is expected to bring in about a million dollars this year. Since 1951 Japanese explosives — known to the Japanese as fiery flowers — have been used in such places as New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Bangkok, Cairo, Mexico City and Damascus. Makers report they have orders this year from Chicago.

New High School OK'd

DETROIT (AP) — A bond issue of $6,500,000 was approved by Lincoln Park to finance a new high school, auditorium and a year-around swimming pool. No tax increase will be required.

Wife Serves as Area Doctor Half Century Pair Mark Birthday, Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Sheppard, home of their daughter, Mrs. Roger Heath, 7244 Engleman, Center Line, will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary on July 4th at an open house at the Sheppard home.

MR. AND MRS. HERBERT SHEPPARD

Mrs. Sheppard, known better as Dr. Emma Sheppard, has been a practicing physician in the Detroit area for 49 years. She was born July 4, 1877 in Petrolia, Ontario.

Because of her deep desire to be of service to others, she overcame many obstacles to become a doctor. She graduated from Detroit Homeopathic College of Medicine and Surgery in 1908.

Dr. Sheppard was one of the first to pass the Michigan State Board Examinations. This was an outstanding accomplishment in those days since she was a "woman."

Mr. Sheppard, born May 2, 1878 near Inlay City was a cabinet maker and builder.

He met his wife when he was ill and she nursed him back to health. He retired from his work many years ago to devote his time to his wife's profession. Many relatives live in and around Pontiac.

The Sheppards have three living children. The oldest, Mary Louise, is Mrs. Loren Hancuff and is teaching at Farmington. William, a son, and his wife Isabel have two children. They reside in Worthington, Ohio.

The youngest daughter, Elizabeth, wife of Roger Heath and mother of Faye 13, Robert 9, and Scott 6, will act as hostess at the open house Thursday from 3 to 6 p.m.

Beverly Lubahn Weds in Saturday Ceremony

LAPEER—The candlelit, flower bedecked altar of the Monroe Street Methodist Church Saturday evening was the scene of the marriage of Beverly Jane Lubahn and William Henry Kelly.

MRS. WILLIAM KELLY

Parents of the young couple are Mr. and Mrs. Dan Lubahn and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kelly, all of Lapeer.

Escorted to the altar on the arm of her father, the bride wore Chantilly lace over white tulle, and carried a bouquet of white roses. A matching necklace, a matching sequined belt held her fingertip veil of silk tulle in place, and she carried a white Bible topped with white orchids tied with white satin streamers.

Maid of honor was Patricia Rowden and bridesmaid was Mrs. Arthur Lubahn.

The junior bridesmaid and flower girl were Sue Ann Lubahn, sister of the bride and Sally Lubahn, niece of the bride. Ring bearer was Robert Fuller.

Assisting his brother as best man was Phillip Kelly and the ushers were Arthur Lubahn, brother of the bride, Norman Laidler, Jerry Binsinger and James Hancuff.

Following a reception held in the church parlors for 300 guests, the couple left on a wedding trip to northern Michigan.

Tonight Milford Summer Band Rehearsals Start

MILFORD—Rehearsals for the Community Summer Band will get under way at 8:30 p.m. tonight in the band house, according to conductor, Phil Hadrill.

This unique organization is open to any musician in the county and last year members came from Waterford, Pontiac, Leonard and Walled Lake.

Using the Milford High School Library of Music, the band played concert at the Kensington Park and thousands of spectators enjoyed the music last year.

In order to participate a member must be able to read music, and have had some previous band work, Hadrill said.

The first concert is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Saturday, July 13. High school and college students are urged to join the organization.

School Meeting Due

METAMORA—The annual meeting of School District No. 4, Metamora, will be held at 8 p.m. Monday, July 9, at the schoolhouse. Two members of the board will be elected.

Kuekes - Schiffmann Rite Read

ORCHARD LAKE—Honeymooning in New York City are the new Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Kuekes, who were married in an 8 p.m. service, Saturday in Cedar Crest Lutheran Church, Oxbow Lake. After one week, the pair will return to reside at 4495 Bluebird in Commerce.

At their marriage ceremony, performed by Rev. Howard E. Claycomb, the bride, former Mary E. Schiffmann, chose to wear a gown of white peau de soie. It was princess style with a chapel train, a Sabrina neckline and short sleeves.

The headpiece of cap de peau de soie trimmed in seed pearls held a fingertip veil of illusion. Her bouquet was white roses, lilies of the valley and ivy on a lace covered Bible.

Ten Pontiac Area Men Awarded Certificates

Ten Pontiac area men were awarded certificates for the Michigan Building Maintenance Course at the 24th annual Conference of the Michigan Assn. of School Employees held recently at Michigan State University.

They are: Pontiac—Lewis Horner, Ernest Miller, David Simmons, Milton Batchelor and Claud I. Houts; Clarkston—Louis Jaenicke Jr.; Waterford—Township—Glen L. Sutton, Harold R. Campbell and Fred W. Mayers; Lake Orion—Basil Gilmore.

The certificates denote completion of 300 hours of class work with MSU school maintenance specialists.

TV Runs Power Plant

HARSBRANGET, Lapland—The Ligga power plant in Lapland is the first water-power plant in the world to be controlled by television and operated by remote-control radio.

Experimental apparatus has been installed by the Swedish State Power Board. When it is perfected, the Ligga plant will be operated from the larger Harsbranget plant, 11 miles away, as a "slave" plant.

Cedar Crest Service Read

200 Witness Wedding of Marietta Neubacher and Robert Jones

CLARKSTON—In a 6:30 p.m. ceremony Saturday at Cedar Crest Lutheran Church, Marietta Neubacher became the bride of Robert Coleman Jones. The service, in the presence of 200 guests, was performed by Rev. Howard Claycomb before an altar decorated with glads and mums.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Neubacher of 4088 Rich Rd., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Jones of 87 Robertson Ct., all of Clarkston.

For her wedding the bride chose an Empress styled gown fashioned of tulle and imported Chantilly lace, with a boat neck and short sleeves.

The bodice was appliqued with lace medallions and beaded with seed pearls and sequins. The bouffant skirt had four tiers of lace extending into a small sweep in back.

She wore a Juliet cap made of lace securing a fingertip veil of pure silk French illusion. For the bouquet she carried a hand cascade of white roses.

Attending as matron of honor was Mrs. Brenda Eilers of Detroit with Nancy Curtis of Clarkston and Patricia Heider of Missouri as bridesmaids. Niece of the bride, Roberta Lynn Neubacher, was the flower girl.

Best man was Jack Brooks of Clarkston with Richard Johnston, of Clarkston and Robert and Joseph Barrons, brothers of the bride, as ushers.

Vera Becker Wed in Inlay Service

IMLAY CITY—Vera Becker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Becker, Cass City, became the bride of Robert Barrons, Imlay City, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barrons Saturday in the First Congregational Church, Imlay City.

The bride designed and made her chapel-length gown of white satin and Alencon lace and carried a white orchid on a white Bible.

Jeanne Murray, Crosswell, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Stella Becker, Cass City and Linda Becker, Capac. Ann DeMain, Brown City, was flower girl.

Tom Burns, Bay City, was best man and ushers were Gene Becker, Cass City and Gerald Hurshburger, Wilmet. Grant Davis was the ring bearer.

Following a two week trip to Quebec the couple will make their home in Imlay City.

Commerce Slates Red Cross Unit for Tomorrow

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP—Residents of the Commerce, Union Lake and Walled Lake areas will have an opportunity to donate blood Tuesday at Multi-Lakes Conservation association's clubhouse.

A mobile unit of the American Red Cross will be set up to handle donations between the hours of 4 and 10 p.m. The clubhouse is located at 3800 Newlyn road, Commerce Township.

The Red Cross unit is from the Pontiac chapter.

Residents need not be a member of the Association to make a contribution. All donations will be credited to the Association's blood bank or to any other blood bank at the request of the donors.

Anyone who contributes a pint of blood to the Association's blood bank will be eligible to draw upon that bank if the need arises.

2 Chinese Women Hang Themselves

HONG KONG—Two Chinese women, deceived by men, recently hanged themselves in Hong Kong—wearing red trousers with scissors in the pockets.

It is an old Chinese belief that anyone committing suicide in this garb will have his or her spirit transformed into a violent ghost that will wreak vengeance on an enemy. The women were both in their 30's.

One, a widow, had come to Hong Kong with her life savings (some $600), but was talked out of the money by a man who proposed marriage; then disappeared. When she went to see her closest friend, and found that she, too, had been betrayed by a man, they walked together into the country and hanged themselves from the same tree.

Railway System Grows

JERUSALEM—Israel's railway system, currently undergoing modernization, has grown from an initial trackage of 140 miles in 1948 to 390 miles today. The system has been overhauled and is being completely dieselized.

Fire Damages Home

A fire early Sunday morning did $230 damage to the home of R. J. Huett, 357 N. Hospital Rd., according to Waterford Township firemen who answered the call. They blamed faulty wiring in the attic for the blaze.

DeCou-Nozicka Rite Read Take Lake Placid Trip

ORCHARD LAKE—In the Martha-Mary Chapel, Greenfield Village, Dearborn, Saturday at 7:30 p.m., Elaine Margaret Nozicka became the bride of John E. DeCou Jr. The double ring service, performed by Rev. W. B. Abbott, was held before an altar decorated with candles and flowers.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Nozicka of Dearborn and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. DeCou Sr. of 7450 Honeyuckle, Orchard Lake.

Choosing a gown of lace and tulle, the bride was given in marriage by her father. The dress featured short sleeves, chapel train and a scalloped neckline with iridescent sequin trim.

The very full skirt was set off by tiers of tulle. Her fingertip veil was attached to the headpiece of lace and sequins. For her bouquet, the bride carried a cascade arrangement of amazon lilies, stephanotis and a white orchid.

Maid of honor was Jacqueline Todd while Mrs. Jerry Dvorak, sister of the bride, Ann DeCou, sister of the bridegroom and Jeanne Korte, served as bridesmaids. Flower girl was Kathleen Dvorak, another sister of the bride.

With William King as best man, Frank Lawrence, Keith Bixley, John and Robert Nozicka, both brothers of the bride, seated the guests.

A buffet supper for 250 guests was held at Lovett Hall in Greenfield Village. After a trip to Lake Placid, the pair will return to reside in Dearborn.

Southfield Collision Hospitalizes Woman

SOUTHFIELD—Mrs. Fred Ekdahl, 40, of 416 Florida St., Laurium (Mich.) is in serious condition in Beaumont Hospital from injuries received when the car driven by her husband, 50, was struck by another early Sunday morning.

According to Sgt. John Reed of the Southfield Police Force, Ekdahl was driving east on 12 Mile road and had stopped at the intersection of Northwestern Highway, when his car was struck from behind by a car driven by Mrs. Betty M. Rood, 32, of 21200 Parker St., Farmington.

Ekdahl and his two sons, Michael, 17, and John, 5, were treated for minor injuries and released. Mrs. Rood is being held by Southfield Police on a charge of drunk driving.

Twins Are Wed in Double Rite

Dryden Sisters Marry in Saturday Ceremony, 300 Attend

DRYDEN—A double wedding ceremony was solemnized by candlelight at Dryden Methodist Church, Saturday evening, when the twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Abbott of here were given in marriage by their father. Janet Louise Abbott became the bride of Henry W. Schalau of Attica and Jeanne Annette exchanged vows with Donald F. Derby of Oxford.

The twin brides wore identical princess—styled, waite length gowns of bouffant crystallette with iridescent pearl—trimmed necklines.

Their fingertip veils were secured by small crowns fashioned of white braid and velvet. Identical cascade bouquets were of white chrysanthemums and miniature pink sweetheart roses, set in white lace with streamers.

Janet's attendants were Mrs. Jeanette Gilbert of Metamora and Mrs. Lola Hruska of Metamora, while Mrs. Betty Derby of east Lansing and Sarah Seidel attended Jeanne.

Robert Gilbert of Metamora assisted Henry as best man and Robert Derby was best man for his brother, Donald.

Ushers were Douglas Abbott, Donald Sutton of Oxford, Vance Chapman of Dryden and Paul Schalau.

Could Probably Buy Egypt

Suez Viewed as Creek by Wealthy Golden Greek

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

If the Suez Canal were for sale, Aristotle, Socrates, Onassis probably could buy it without selling a single El Greco. In fact, given a little help from his brother-in-law he probably could make a pretty attractive offer for all of Egypt.

And the deal undoubtedly would pay off. Somebody would discover an oil field under the pyramids and a diamond mine beneath the canal.

POOR SUBJECT

Fifty-year-old Onassis is called the "Golden Greek" with reason. To an interviewer last January he said: "I'm just a truck driver—a poor subject for an interview."

The reporter thought otherwise, remembering that Onassis owns one of the world's largest tanker fleets; controls the Monte Carlo Casino and all the choice properties in Monaco; has an estimated $300 million fortune; bosses 30 corporations; owns the Greek National Airlines; maintains the most lavish yacht afloat; owns a fortune in art treasures; and pays a publicity man to keep his name out of the papers.

The publicity man falls when Onassis pulls such deals as he did this week, flying to Cairo and making tentative arrangements to construct two oil pipelines parallel to the Suez Canal.

Actually, the five-foot-three-inch Onassis is too busy making and spending money to worry much about making headlines. He had his first million by age 24 and is on his way to his first billion.

He is a complex man who dotes on his young wife and two children; never carries cash in his pockets; has won fights with some of the world's most powerful governments and business firms; and buys old masters as if they were penny postal cards.

Onassis has one arch-foe in business, his brother-in-law Stavros Niarchos, 47, another "Golden Greek" with fingers in many pies.

Each move one makes in business usually leads to a counterstroke by the other. The canal pipeline deal, if it goes through, means it's Niarchos' turn now.

Londoners See Longer Life Expectancy Rate

LONDON (UINS)—Londoners are living longer.

Everybody in Britain's capital complains about the weather, noise, diesel fumes, smog and what have you but a review of mortality in the county of London shows that women of 65 now have an expectation of life of 15 years compared with 11 years at the turn of the century.

For men of 65 the expectation is 12 years compared with 10 in 1900.

CHAPTER 31

Ordinarily Delaney would have locked the store and gone home hours ago, but he was still there when I reached town, proof that he was anxious to make any kind of sale and get out of the valley. I stomped snow from my boots before I went in.

He had scrawled the words of a simple agreement stating that I would buy his store and house for $3,000, possession to be given and payment to be made within ten days. I signed it and handed it back.

"Got another copy, Will," he said. "One for both of us."

I signed it, too, and folded it and slipped it into my pocket, thinking gloomily that I had been a fool, that after the beating Mathers had taken he would leave the valley, leaving me with a store on my hands.

At the sound of a shot I alerted. For a moment I wasn't sure where it came from, but Delaney seemed to know. He said smugly: "I hope they plug each other."

I grabbed his fat shoulder and shook him. "Who are you talking about?"

"Dillingham and Kathy Morgan."

I went out of the store on the run, untied my horse, and swung into the saddle. This was the finish. I don't know why I was so sure. Just a feeling, maybe. But it made sense. Dillingham and Turner had been working on their scheme all summer. Now Turner was dead and his friends had been cleaned off Box P range. Dillingham would be wild, but he should be after me, not Kathy.

When I reached her house I saw that the front door was open, lamplight blurred by the whirling snow. I ran to the house, and when I made the step up to the porch I saw Kathy lying in the center of her front room.

I went in, slamming the door, and knelt beside her. She was alive, her pulse strong and regular. Blood had trickled down her forehead and dried, making a brown stain above her left eye. It wasn't a bullet wound; she'd been knocked out by a blow.

I carried her to the couch. She was beginning to stir. When I turned toward the kitchen door, I became aware of the shambles the house had become. Dillingham had taken an ax and smashed holes in the floor and the wall. Chairs were upended, drawers jerked out and emptied. The upholstery on the back of the couch had been ripped by a knife.

I found a dishcloth in the kitchen and wet it at the pump. The same thing had happened there. Even the pantry had been emptied; supplies and broken dishes were scattered all over the kitchen floor. I returned to the front room, where, sitting down beside Kathy, I began to wipe her face, all the while trying to figure out what had hit Dillingham. He was a bully who probably got pleasure out of sheer destruction, but why at Kathy's?

She came out of it within a minute or so.

"Did he hit you with a gun barrel?" I asked her.

"Yes, I tried to kill him but I missed. Before I could shoot again, he cracked me. That's all I remember." She licked her lips and felt her head. "Get me a drink, Will. There's a bottle in the pantry if he didn't take it."

I found it, and a cup that wasn't broken, went back into the front room, and poured her a drink. She sat up long enough to get it down, then fell back, clutching the top of her head.

"What was he after, Kathy?"

She opened her eyes to look at me, her right hand still holding her head. "You don't know, do you, Will? You really don't know. That Dillingham. You can fight something that's in the open, can't you? Like Turner and his clodbusters. You cleaned 'em off Box P range slicker'n a whistle, but you didn't know you'd turn Dillingham into a wild man. You don't savvy anybody who waits and waits, do you? Me and Dillingham were good waiters, for a while. I wanted him to wait some more, but he wouldn't. Had to rob me, and get out, but I'll get him. I'll get him if I chase him to the end of the earth!"

"What was he after, Kathy?" I asked again.

"Money. What else would make him do a thing like this?" She swore for a full minute. "I had better'n $4,000 laid away. Didn't know then what I was saving for, but I knew after Joe cashed in. He was gonna leave me all his money, and what'd I get. A thousand dollars!"

She sat up, cursing again as pain racked her. Even after what had happened tonight, she seemed to hate Sarah far more than she hated Gene Dillingham. She jabbed a forefinger at me.

"You can buy respectability. That's what I was saving for. Had the money right here in the house, and Gene knew it. After you killed Turner, he was bound to pull out of the valley. Wanted me to go with him, but I wouldn't. I was going to stay here and bust your widow friend. I'd have hired some gunslingers to do the job — not plow pushers like Secore and Troy and Runyan. We aimed to get you, Will, you and Thurston and the King kid. Run off her cattle. Whittle her down till she'd be glad to sell. I was going to buy the Box P, and then I'd live up there in the house where Joe lived and I'd lord it over the valley just like they used to when Joe was alive."

She shut her eyes again. I sat there staring at her, thinking that the last time I had seen her I had sensed she was evil; but I hadn't realized how virulent her hatred for Sarah was, how much she had changed in the year since Joe was killed.

I rose. Whatever sympathy I'd had for her in the past was gone. She'd leave the valley. I'd see to it that she did.

She went on. "Gene hunted till he found the money. That's when I tried to kill him. We figured it out a long time ago. I was gonna buy the Box P and he was gonna run it for me, and people'd look up to us just like they used to look up to Joe and that thing he married. But Gene wouldn't wait. Now he'll kill her and he'll go 'way with my money."

I grabbed Kathy by both shoulders and shook her until she had better'n $4,000 laid away. Didn't know then what I was saving for, but I knew after Joe cashed in. He was gonna leave me all his money, and what'd I get. A thousand dollars!"

"Sure he went to the Box P, 'n' you're too late to stop him. He'll kill her 'n' then he'll kill you. Think he'll forget she made you foreman 'stead of him? Not Gene. No, sir..."

I didn't wait to hear any more. I ran across the snow-covered yard and swung into the saddle once more, the wind still blasting across the valley, fat snowflakes pelting me as I put my tired horse up the road to the Box P. Kathy Morgan's words were going through my mind in an endless burning refrain: "Sure he went to the Box P, and you're too late to stop him." She could have told me that at first, but instead she'd talked, holding me there so that Dillingham would have more time.

Something inside kept telling me to ride, ride... All I knew was that it was cold and that it was an effort to stay in the saddle.

My horse stopped. Instinct made me dismount. I knew I could not stand there motionless, so I began stirring around and waving my arms, and a moment later I stumbled into the corral gate.

The bunkhouse windows were dark, and when I opened the door the room seemed as cold as the driving snow outside.

I went on toward the house, guided by a faint show of light that was hardly anything at all when I first saw it, so hard was it snowing. But it was enough, and I was fully aware of what lay ahead. I must kill Gene Dillingham or he would kill me. The waiting was over, and yet, knowing that, I made a stupid mistake for which there was no excuse...

"Dillingham stood as motionless as if he and the gun were carved out of granite. I did the only thing I could —" Continue Will Beeson's story tomorrow.

Previously Unpublished

Shaw's Love Letters to Be Sold in London

LONDON (INS) — George Bernard Shaw's first love letters, written to Alice Lockett, a young hospital nurse, will be sold this month in London's famed Sotheby Auction rooms.

The previously unpublished letters disclosed their romances apparently had flourished in the dreary waiting room of the Liverpool Street station in London amid the sounds of hissing steam engines. Shaw was 27 at the time he began writing them.

The letters, dated from 1883 to 1885, were written after he became infatuated with the young nurse while she was taking singing lessons from his mother.

Shaw would escort her to the railway station after her lessons.

Shaw's letters showed he was at once bluntly outspoken and capable of soaring to great heights romantically.

They were tender at times, sharp at others, depending on the way his romance was going.

On one occasion Shaw declared:

"I despise happiness." Another day he warned: "When love has gone out of me... I shall hurl the truth about like destroying light."

Frequently his love notes were tender, as when he compared Alice and himself to two souls clinging "to the same spar in a gleam of sunshine."

Tree Growers Combine

MOUNT PLEASANT, Pa. — Christmas tree growers in Michigan have set up a statewide organization, federated Christmas Tree Producers, Inc. William Heckrodt of Midland is president and Uriah F. Bruning of Beulah, secretary treasurer. The group will promote more profitable marketing, act as a common voice for tree growers and encourage research.

About 160 million U. S. acres are under the forest service jurisdiction.

Bob Considine Says:

Clean Bombs Can Do Dirty Work

NEW YORK (INS) — The hazards over the development of a 95 per cent "clean" atomic or hydrogen bomb reminds me of the endless debates at the Washington Naval Conference of many years ago about whether thereafter to kill people with 16-inch or 14-inch guns.

As one who has covered one H-bomb test and maybe a dozen A-bomb tests it occurs to me that it is not going to make much difference to the victim whether he is cinderized by a "clean" bomb or a "dirty" old one. There is a limit to fastidiousness in this field.

Of course, it's an interesting and significant development, the almost "clean" bomb. The scientists responsible for it have assured the President that if nuclear tests can be continued for another four or five years the absolute "clean" bomb will be bred.

The difference between a "clean" and a "dirty" bomb is, of course, the scope of the radioactive afterbirth of the bomb. The utterly "clean" bomb would be simply (if that's the word) an extremely high explosive, capable also of cremating all things within a certain radius.

As such it could be used to erase specified targets without the embarrassment of a radioactive dust storm dripping on friendly or potentially friendly populations downwind from the blast.

POISONED MUSHROOM
The "dirty" bomb, which we, the Russians and the British now have in ever-increasing numbers, gives off a poisoned mushroom whose size and radiated intensity depends on how much matter it is able to suck up into the cloud.

This is regulated by the height at which the bomb is detonated. A bomb touched off at 50,000 feet, for example, would have to depend wholly on its atomized parts for its cloud and therefore would be of little consequence as a spreader or radioactive debris.

But one that goes off close to the ground contaminates as it pulverizes, then lifts the microscopic but lethal dust and the great winds carry it around the earth for years.

Radiated dust from bomb tests as far back as the Bikini experiments of 1946 and Russia's first A-test in 1949 is dropping on you as I write and you read these words.

The H-bomb dropped from a B-32 last year at the Eniwetok Proving Ground was fused for 10,000 feet and missed the little target island by four or five miles.

Yet the cloud it sent up measured 100 miles across the top in time, and a radiation authority from the AEC estimated the cloud contained at least 10,000,000 pounds of radioluminescent particles. The total world production of real radium since it was first extracted from pitchblende by the Curies, more than half a century ago, is under three pounds.

Air Force Gets Land for Solar Experiments

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Interior Department announced that part of the Lincoln national forest in New Mexico has been turned over to the Air Force for experimental development of a solar furnace.

The order for withdrawal of 1,360 acres of public lands was signed by Assistant Secretary Roger C. Ernst, who said the agriculture Department's forest service issued a land use permit to the Air Force.

So now it would appear that we'll have no more of these "dirty" jobs. One worries, however, over such rudderless assertions as that made by David Lawrence in his Washington column last week. Lawrence, a consistently responsible hand, wrote, "It helps to assure the safety of the United States from destruction by a powerful enemy."

This is a bold assumption that Russia, too, will not only develop a "clean" bomb but scrupulously use it in the event of an attack on this country.

In the first place, if we don't keep our uranium dry Russia could destroy this country even by "clean" bombs.

"The ability of the United States or any other nation to fight back in a major war could be demolished by as few as a dozen H-bombs strategically placed in key ports, manufacturing centers and the seat of government. A lot of dirty business could be attended to by clean bombs."

If Russia hits us, she'll use everything in the arsenal. For all we know she's working right now on the world's dirtiest bomb as well as the world's most ravenous bacteria bomb.

It is fitting and proper that we should examine all phases of atomic energy, including the spot-

She Swallows Diamond but Acquitted of Theft

MILAN 28 — Waitress Artilla Milani, 22, swallowed a diamond she suspected of being a fake. A jeweler showed it as a $250 gem, so she bit it and down it went. The diamond was recovered after Miss Milani spent a few days in a hospital, but then she was handed into court on a theft charge. The judge acquitted her, saying she swallowed the diamond "accidentally" — and in perfectly good faith.

Junior Editors Quiz on TREES

QUESTION: How can trees help us date history?

ANSWER: In recent years, scientists have discovered that tree rings provide a valuable means of dating events that happened long ago.

Each year, a tree grows a new ring of wood around its old trunk. The thickness of the ring shows whether there was rain or drought that year. By cutting down some very old living trees in southwestern U.S., the scientists have found tree ring patterns showing them wet and dry weather occurred for hundreds of years past. By linking such tree ring patterns with the patterns of still older but dead trees, they have extended their knowledge that much farther.

Now, by taking a piece of a tree used in the construction of most any ancient building in that region, a scientist can figure out when the tree grew and, therefore, about when the building was built.

FOR YOU TO DO: Find a tree stump, try to count the rings from the center out, and decide how old the tree was.

Send your question for Junior Editors in care of this newspaper and you may win $10. Tomorrow: What great artist painted a famous picture lying down? Violet Moore Higgins. AP News-feature.

Pen Pal Thanks American for Gift

MILWAUKEE (U.S.) — About 10 years ago Harvey Jensen gave a topcoat to a clothing drive conducted by his church for European war victims. Jensen put a note with his name and address in the pocket.

Now, an answer has arrived from Warsaw, Poland. The writer's name was not available, but he told Jensen:

"I did not write till now because our situation is so forbidden correspondence with America. After October 1956 followed in Poland changes. Advantageous changes! And now I can write at last. I should want to receive a letter from you, Mr. Jensen. I will be grateful. Excuse me errors, but I am learning English just now."

England Still Holds Beachhead in This Historic City

Bostonians Deplore Passing of Past

BY PHYLLIS BATTELLE

BOSTON (INS) — Ever since the days when the Indians controlled the real estate and wampum of Boston, this has been a city that has lamented change. In refined tones, with coffee and cigars and dropped "R's," they have deplored the passing of the past.

Other citizens in other cities of the U. S. may be heard to say "things ain't like they used to be in the good old days," but they mention this only in passing. And weep tiny tears, comparatively, when a tax-cramped mansion is replaced by a discount furniture mart.

But in Boston, it's different. For some reason, which mere visitors never fully will comprehend, the sight of a new structure or the blight of an old tree will bring citywide misery here not only to those families who are rooted almost as staunchly and lengthily as the tree was, but to the "newcomers" who have lived here only several generations.

Whether you understand the Bostonian's attitude or not (and everyone, including courteous elevator men who look like old English gentlemen, will assure you cannot — not possibly), as a visitor you must be grateful for it.

Because, although the city has grown and some small snatches of it are as spanking fresh as a 4-year-old in church, most of the city still looks more like an octogenarian in a bowler.

HISTORICAL LANDMARK

As you get lost, as inevitably strangers do in the maze of traffic-clogged squares and circles and spokes, you always find yourself ultimately in the presence of an historical landmark.

It is a city in which a tourist can wallow in history and the cool shade of trees that once sheltered Puritans. Oddly enough, though it was a band of Bostonians who staged the "tea party" which hastened America's revolution for independence from England, there is no place in America today that smacks more of England today.

The politeness is the same, and the gentle reserve. In talking to a Bostonian, as in talking to an Englishman, one cannot be certain whether one is addressing a shy man, or one with superbly confident reticence.

Whatever quality it is in the Englishman and Bostonian, it makes the invader from the West — all lands beyond Providence, R.I., being West — feel uncomfortably as though the ship is showing and the nose is shiny.

There are many stories regarding Boston's sense of decorum, including the true tale of what happened when a kettle of fat in the prim Somerset Club caught fire and threatened to destroy the kitchen, and perhaps even the nearby solid bone chess sets, not to mention the gentlemen who dozed over them.

SERVICE ELEVATOR

The Boston Fire Department rushed its fellows and boxes to the scene. They were advised, politely, to use the service and not the members' entrance.

According to Mr. John P. Marquand, the foremost raconteur about Boston, the recounting of this story hurts the feelings of Somerset Clubmen because it carries an implication of "exclusive-ness," which may be misconstrued as snobbery.

Bostonians are not snobs, they are rather prudent and proper people, as befits descendants of the Puritans.

If you love traditional things — old brownstones and old headstones, under ancient branches — Boston is a wonderful place to visit.

there, however, it might be wise to carry a supply of white gloves, know a Cabot and a Lodge, and remember the advance of Capt. Lawrence who, in the War of 1812, urged, "Don't give up the ship." In Boston, that goes for your old mannerisms, too.

Firm Develops Lighting in Fog

New Theory May Aid Visibility as Much as 100 Per Cent

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—A New York research firm and a Pennsylvania State University professor have reported the development of new highway lighting principle which they believe will improve visibility through fog by 100 per cent.

C. L. Crouch, secretary of the Illuminating Engineering Research Institute of New York City, called the development a "fog penetrating system" made possible through light control methods using polarization of light.

He said it uses a polarizing filter to screen out a certain portion of the light bounced back by fog, thus revealing a more distinct scene.

Tests on the project, undertaken in 1953, were run at the University of Michigan as well as at Penn State.

Prof. Charles R. Marsh, associate professor of electrical engineering, said the fog visibility could be improved by changing the mounting angles of highway lighting, using low-mounted white fog lights and polarizing the light sources.

The new lighting system has been demonstrated for turnpike authorities from 10 states, highway safety experts and lighting engineers.

New Prison Uniforms for Jackson Inmates

JACKSON (AP)—Brown denim is replacing blue for the uniform of Southern Michigan Prison inmates.

Prison officials said the change was being made to make possible quick identification of prisoners, especially trustees working outside the walls. They noted that blue denim is used for most civilian work clothes.

The heavy brown denim is manufactured in the prison industries plant here. The trousers are made at Marquette State Prison.

Pro-Reds Ask Ouster

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—The Federation of Socialist Trade Unions has demanded the ouster of Ceylon's ambassador to the United States, R. S. S. Gunawardena, because he signed the U. N. committee report on the Hungarian revolt. The federation, backers of a Communist faction, says the 5-nation report is a collection of falsehoods and slander.

The wife of a U.S. President has no official title.

Bob Hope Claims Jokester Crown

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Hope, the comedian's Croesus, believes he probably has told more jokes than any other man in history.

He's been skipping them out past his ski-slope nose at the rate of better than 10,000 a year for the last quarter century.

"I figure I've told at least a quarter million jokes," he said, "and if you count repeat jokes, that is jokes told over and over to different audiences while on tour, the number would go into the millions."

"I doubt if anyone else has told more," he said, adding with a grin, "who else has had the chance?"

When you look over the field, the candidates are few. Can any other gag man match his combined experience in vaudeville, radio and television, movies—50—and on tour? He still travels 25,000 to 50,000 miles annually, and in a two-year period during World War II he racked up 450,000 miles entertaining U.S. servicemen.

Fans need never fear that Hope will run out of jokes. The Mississippi River is more likely to go dry.

Although he is known as one of the best ad-libbers in the business, Bob also is as methodical as a clock. He has perhaps the finest individual humor library of anyone in the show world. It runs to about 80 file cabinets.

"I have a complete script of practically every show I was ever on," he said, "plus all the material written for them which, for one reason or another, was crowded out at the time."

Once he had 12 writers and three secretaries at work building up his laugh library.

"It must contain at least between three and four million jokes," he remarked.

Many times he has gone to his library to help out fellow entertainers in desperate need for fresh material.

"I'm glad to help them," said Bob, "particularly if they're doing it at the time."

Lists Hypnosis as the Secret of Sex Appeal

LONDON (INS)—A British doctor has suggested that hypnosis is the secret of all sex appeal.

This, said Dr. J. Van Pelt, president of the British Society of Medical Hypnotists, is indicated by modern research in hypnotherapy.

Writing in the Journal of Medical Hypnotism, Dr. Van Pelt also described a case in which hypnotherapy saved a marriage from disaster after the wife was cured of an obsession for bald-headed men.

Van Pelt said a young man may declare the girl he is marrying is an angel and when others point out she is lazy and good for nothing, the advice falls on deaf ears.

"The man sees the girl as he imagines she is—he is literally hypnotized," the doctor wrote.

Citing the case of the woman who had obsession over bald men, Dr. Van Pelt said it was suggested that her tall, dark husband get a Yul Brynner haircut.

The husband adamantly refused. The wife had a nervous breakdown.

"Investigation revealed," the doctor said, "that she was always deeply attached to her father, who was bald."

"At work she began to feel attached to bald men."

The woman underwent hypnotherapy and was convinced that bald men no longer attracted her. Her marriage has been successful ever since.

Issue Truck Contracts

BATTLE CREEK (AP)—Government contract awards to the industrial truck division of Clark Equipment Co. here totaled $4,555,688 in the past month. However, a spokesman said the awards will not require the callback of 150 employees who have been laid off intermittently since April. Work on some of the contracts, for tractors and fork lift trucks, will not start for four to six months.

General Nathanael Greene, who was Washington's most trusted general in the Revolutionary War, built a house in Anthony, Rhode Island in 1770. It is still preserved as it was in his day.

ing a show for charity I believe in."

The stern anxieties of comedy that have driven many present day funny men to psychoanalysis leave Hope unruffled.

"I'm not a couch man myself," he said. "And I'm not sad—just disgustingly normal."

"Every comedian is an individual, but television—the problem of trying to be funny every week—can drive anyone to the couch."

"It gives a man the feeling he's in a rut. It takes a lot of work sometimes to get rid of that feeling. I think the best answer is to change—to try something different."

Hope feels he escaped the danger of rust by starring in "Beau James," the life story of former Mayor Jimmy Walker.

"It was more of a straight dramatic role. One problem I had was that the mayor was a skinny guy. I had to lose 15 pounds. I did it on a diet of lamb chops, fruit salad and yogurt."

Tension causes many casualties in show business as well as in every other industry, and Bob has his own recipe to avoid it.

"There is very little tension when you're doing something you really know. What will really make you blow up is to try to do something for the first time at the last moment. The answer is to be prepared—and avoid emergencies."

Hope is a multimillion dollar property himself and, like the good businessman he is, he takes care of his physical as well as financial assets.

"My grandfather died a month short of his 100th birthday," said Bob. "He believed in moderation—and I'll be happy to match his record."

"I play golf—a little oftener than President Eisenhower, and a little better—and I take bending exercises twice a day. I also like to get a massage every day if I can. Nothing is more relaxing."

What defeats most people in life and keeps them from success? "Over-eating," said Hope, "and marrying the wrong girl."

THE MOST POWERFUL GASOLINE ANY CAR CAN USE!

ACCELERATING—Unless your gasoline has sufficient octane, it can't burn evenly... can't deliver full power for maximum acceleration. Super Shell has all the octane any car needs for full-power acceleration.

CRUISING—And Super Shell has toluene, a major power ingredient of aviation fuel. This gives Super Shell more energy for extra mileage at cruising speeds.

PASSING—When you accelerate at highway speeds to pass, your engine's running at maximum temperatures. Super Shell has heat-stable aviation fuel components to give your car knock-free power for safe passing.

Super Shell instantly and automatically supplies any engine with the full octane value required for knock-free power... under every driving condition

SUPER SHELL was developed because many of today's powerful engines can't deliver full power on premium grade gasoline.

Super Shell is an entirely new grade of gasoline... packed with a high concentration of power ingredients used in aviation fuels.

This power pack automatically supplies any car with the octane it needs under every driving condition.

This means you get maximum acceleration from a standing start... more miles from every gallon while cruising... extra power for safe passing at highway speed.

And this power will last... thanks to TCP*. TCP additive neutralizes harmful engine deposits and insures the full power of high octane.

So if you're still using a premium grade of gasoline—switch to Super Shell for better performance than you've ever known before. Fill up at your Shell Dealer's new white pump!

2 Strike Upon Coin Process

Rochester Men Claim Secret Means to Embed Copper Alloys

By MAX E. SIMON

Two amateur Rochester coinists have hit upon a new formula which could revolutionize coin collecting.

Burdette R. Lewis, 410 Parkdale, and John L. Slocum, 518 Parkdale, are able to embed coins in lucite plastic, a substance which will preserve them indefinitely.

Only three firms in the nation possess the know-how for encasing objects in the plastic.

None of these, however, have been able to embed copper alloys in the material. Not even the Dupont Corp., from which the two chemists purchase the raw materials for their work, have discovered the key to the riddle.

NO LIMIT

"The potentialities of the discovery are unlimited," says Slocum. "Not only will the plastic preserve the coins in perfect condition, but collectors will be able to examine their coins in much more minute detail than before."

"This is because lucite is clearer than the atmosphere itself."

Among the coins that Slocum and Lewis have put into the plastic are first-proof coins struck in 1934. Never in contact with human hands after being minted, the coins were mailed to the two inventors in sealed Treasury envelopes.

The two use their L. & S. Furniture Sales Store in Avon Township as an outlet for their plastic sales. Eventually, they hope to establish a plant for embedding items in lucite.

LOCKS OF HAIR

Other objects which they are able to enclose in the material are locks of hair and natural vegetation. Pictures, fish, and minerals have also been enclosed in the plastic.

Educationally, Slocum says, lucite can serve many purposes. The two men have preserved the working mechanisms of guns, watches, locks, biological specimens, and various parts of the human body.

That lucite plastic has come into its own as a preserver of documents is borne out by the fact that many of the materials in the National Archives Building are preserved by this process, Slocum said.

Many finely worked miniature scenes have also been put into the substance.

The two men won't reveal the exact nature of the process, but say that the lucite must be carefully cured at a constant temperature for 30 hours. Once the object is encased, it must be carefully polished, buffed and machined.

They said they have been offered $50,000 for a phase of their formula, but turned down the offer.

Lost Girl Uses Spoon to Scare 'Friendly' Bear

RESEDA, Calif. (INS) — A four-year-old girl calmly related today how she clobbered a black bear with a spoon when he got too friendly as she wandered lost in the wilds of Yosemite National Park.

The little girl, Shirley Ann Miller, was found yesterday after being missing for three days in the rugged California wilderness. Undaunted and unshaken by her experience, Shirley had suffered only a heat rash that made her face bright red.

"I saw a big black bear once and I went up to pet him. Then he put his paw on my head. I guess I got scared. So I hit him with my spoon . . . and he ran away."

In telling about the bear a few minutes after she had been found, Shirley Ann insisted that she wasn't lost — it was the bear that was lost.

Neighbors crowded through the Miller home today and shook their heads in bewilderment as the child gave an off-hand account of her three days and nights in the wilds after wandering away from her parents.

"It wasn't so bad. I slept under a tree one day, all day long."

The girl's mother, Mrs. Virginia Miller, said: "I don't know what all happened to her. But I had faith she'd come home. I just knew she would."

"Next time I'm going to tie a cowbell around her neck."

Shirley Ann giggled.

Detroit Council to Meet on Water Supply Issue

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit board of commerce wants residents "to make themselves heard" in support of a single water supply system for the Detroit metropolitan area.

Writing in the Detroit, the board's weekly publication, Gerald E. Warren urged residents to attend a meeting of common council on the subject Tuesday.

"Wayne County road commission lobbyists have used every tactic they know to prevent the scheduled hearing this Tuesday, when the fantastic statements leveled at the Detroit system can be disproven," he wrote. Some county officials have contended it would not be legal for Detroit to buy out the Wayne County supply system and serve the entire area.

Dr. Adams Resigns

LONDON (INS) — Dr. John Bodkin Adams, the Eastbourne physician who was acquitted in April of murder charges, has resigned from the British National Health Service. But he will continue in private practice in Eastbourne.

Rich Girl Dies, Father Arrested

Suspect San Francisco Man of Holding Her Prisoner for 7 Years

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) — San Francisco police today held Robert O. Blakely, 40, in the death of his 12-year-old daughter who police said became a virtual prisoner after inheriting $153,000 seven years ago.

Blakely, a husky former iceman and grocery clerk who said he had not held a steady job for more than a year, was under psychiatric observation at San Francisco Hospital after booking on suspicion of manslaughter.

He told officers he gave his daughter, Nancy, 12, a "little shove" at their home yesterday after questioning her about a man who sat down beside her in a church pew.

Coroner Henry W. Turkel said the girl died from "a blow or blows, or jarring of the head." The 80-pound body bore numerous bruises, some new and some old, the coroner reported.

Court records showed that Nancy inherited a fortune in trust from her late Godfather, William Rosendall, a sea captain, who died seven years ago.

Homicide Inspector Ralph McDonald said Blakely put new double locks on the door and windows to the girl's room last week because he suspected her of "sneaking out nights."

For days at a time over the past several years, McDonald said he was informed, Nancy was kept locked, a prisoner in her room.

She was invariably accompanied by her mother, Irma, to and from junior high school, even during lunch periods.

Defense Bill Debate Under Way in Senate

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Senate opens debate today on the big 34 and one-half billion dollar defense bill with passage before the Fourth of July its aim.

Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-NM), chairman of the Military Appropriations Subcommittee who will be in charge of the measure, appeared to have wide support even from colleagues who usually seek to cut money bills.

Some members of the appropriations committee said they expect the debate to be pretty much cut and dried, with the real fight to come in the conference of the two houses over the two and one-half billion dollars the House cut from President Eisenhower's request.

The Senate committee restored nearly one billion dollars—almost the entire amount of hard cash the administration asked.

Witnesses to Be Called in Embezzlement Case

MT. CLEMENS (INS)—Macomb County Prosecutor Cecil A. Byers said today he will call six witnesses to testify in the examination of a St. Clair Shores couple charged with embezzling $80,000 in state funds.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Thorpe were held in $400,000 bail after being arrested in Texas.

Byers said the couple was charged with taking the money from the secretary of state branch office in St. Clair Shores.

To Road, Education Offices

Mackie, Bartlett Sworn In

LANSING (AP) — John C. Mackie, 36, Flint surveyor, today took the oath of state highway commissioner as Democratic party influence in Michigan government mounted to an all time high.

Sworn in with him were Lynn M. Bartlett, Grosse Pointe Woods, as state superintendent of public instruction, and Chris H. Magnusson, Detroit, as a member of the state board of education.

The ceremonies took place in the chamber of the House of Representatives, which was completely filled with well wishers. All seats on the floor and gallery were occupied, and hundreds of persons stood.

Chief Justice John R. Dethmers, a former Republican state chairman, administered the oaths.

Mackie and Bartlett, elected in the Democratic sweep last spring, occupied the last two Republican-held places on the eight-man state administrative board.

Their inauguration gave the Democratic party, for the first time in history, full state administrative control, and climaxed a 10-year party climb to political power.

Republicans who once dominated Michigan's political fortunes, now maintain only majority in both houses of the state legislature.

Only 30 years ago the Democrats were at one of their lowest political points in Michigan history. Now they fill the chairs of governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general, treasurer and auditor general.

Couple Plead Innocent to Disorderly Charge

A man and woman pleaded innocent to drunk and disorderly charges today before Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum concerning an auto accident at Beaudette Park Place near Orchard Lake avenue Saturday morning.

Daisy Fears, 27, of 550 Harvey St. and Joseph V. Austin, 35, of 417 Highland St., were freed on personal bonds until trial July 11.

Pontiac Police report the woman was driving the auto, without an operator's license, when it struck a tree near the entrance of the park.

Austin, the owner of the auto, who was a passenger, was also given a ticket for allowing an unlicensed person to drive. He was treated and released from Pontiac General Hospital after the accident with no apparent injuries.

Daughter of Pianist Hurt Badly in Fall

SAN REMO, Italy (AP) — Sonia Horowitz, daughter of famed pianist Vladimir Horowitz and granddaughter of the late Arturo Toscanini, today was reported in a "very critical" condition after falling from a motor scooter here on the Italian Riviera.

Hospital attendants said the 22-year-old girl suffered a skull fracture and had not regained consciousness. They said she had been given several blood transfusions to build up her strength for other treatment or perhaps surgery.

Police said she fell while riding the scooter near San Remo last night. She has been vacationing at the villa here of her cousin, Duchess Manuela Castelbarco Acquarone.

Drops Glasses Overboard, but Wife Nabs Them

DALLAS (AP)—For those who insist that seeing is believing, Frank L. Robinson has this fishing story.

Fishing from a boat with his wife on nearby Lake Whitney, Robinson dropped his eyeglasses overboard in 15 feet of water. About an hour later, while he was still worrying over the lost glasses, Mrs. Robinson got a bite. She yanked in her line and there were the glasses—neatly hooked.

Sen. Green Makes Hit With Girls

Calls Them 'Men' When Giving Talk in Washington

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — Sen. Theodore Francis Green (D-RI), introduced as being loved by everyone except taxi-drivers (he prefers walking to riding), made his usual hit with the ladies at a luncheon recently. He began by calling them men.

"It's like a friend of mine explained after addressing a group of women similarly," he said. "When I say 'men,' remember men embrace women."

The dapper, 55-year-old bachelor, in a light gray suit with pale green tie and matching pocket handkerchief, chose for the title of his talk: "Women and Foreign Policy."

"Since I am bachelor chairman on foreign relations," he explained, "it is assumed I could not possibly know about domestic relations."

Green told the women that foreign policy affects every citizen and that, since their contribution may be direct, it is important they keep themselves up-to-date and intelligently informed.

CURRENT EVENTS

"You in charge of the home," he said, "can encourage and develop family understanding of foreign affairs. Every housewife should belong to at least one organization devoted to the study of current events and foreign affairs."

The mother's role is even more challenging, he added.

"It offers the opportunity to influence the world of today as well as the world of tomorrow."

"The mother should encourage the child's good education in history, geography, economics, for no matter what he specializes in later, a good general background in these subjects is important."

America's homemakers are the best fighters for highway safety, Eunice Heywood, Department of Agriculture official, told a traffic seminar here recently.

FAMILY PROTECTORS

"Women are the natural protectors of family welfare," she said, "and family welfare today is threatened by mounting auto casualties."

Miss Heywood urged the women to take action in improving driving conditions, either in training within the home or in community traffic planning.

Tells Engagement to Franklin Man

FRANKLIN — Mrs. Margaret Servatius of Colorado Springs, Colo., announces the engagement of her daughter, Kay, to Michael Charles Murphy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Thorne Murphy of Franklin.

Miss Kramp Announces Bridal Party

Reveals Attendants at Shower Saturday in Kersensky Home

At a miscellaneous bridal shower given Saturday for Kathryn Kramp, the bride-elect announced attendants for her Aug. 17 wedding in the First Congregational Church.

Serving her as matron of honor will be Mrs. James Hulen. Janet Satik and Carol Messer will be the bridesmaids.

A wedding bell motif prevailed at the luncheon hosted by Mrs. James Hulen and Mrs. James Hargreaves given at the Michael Kersensky home on Churchill road.

Guests at the affair were: Mrs. Kramp, Mrs. L. K. Naugle, Janet Satik, Marjorie Skosich, Mrs. Ivan Hulen, Mrs. Lee Boelter, Mrs. Frederick Jacoby, Mrs. Douglas Collins, Mrs. Mack McCourey, Roberta Palmer and Mrs. Malcolm Rattie.

Others included Mrs. Gilbert Otto, Mrs. Douglas Houston, Mrs. Ted Relph, Mrs. Norman Probst, Mrs. Joseph McQuire, Mrs. Harold Fuller and Mrs. William Bennett.

Kathryn will become the bride of Thomas J. Schmidt, son of Mrs. Peter Schmidt of Pittsburgh, on Aug. 17. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Kramp of Auburn avenue.

Miss Bentham Announces Her Bridal Group

Rosemary Bentham, bride-elect of James F. Brown, recently announced her bridal attendants at a shower given by Mrs. Maynard T. Raye of Eileen drive.

Rosemary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold A. Bentham of Nelson street will wed James Aug. 24 in a ceremony at St. Michael Church. James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Brown of Berry drive.

Katherine Ann Bentham will serve as maid of honor for her sister. The bridesmaids will be Jane Bentham and Mary Agnes Brown.

James has asked John Hackett to perform the duties of best man. Michael Slivensky and William Brown will usher.

MRS. BRUCE H. MCCOLL

McColl-Johnston Nuptials Performed in Church Rite

First Presbyterian Church was the scene for the 7:30 p.m. wedding ceremony Saturday of Rosemarie Johnston to Bruce H. McColl.

The bride wore a gown of imported French lace over silk taffeta, fashioned with a tiered skirt of French lace divided by a wide panel of silk taffeta, and a molded bodice accented by a large bow. A headpiece of lace and pearls secured her fingertip veil of pure silk French illusion, and she carried a cascade bouquet of lilies of the valley and cymbidium orchids.

Carol Opland served as maid of honor. A sister of the bride, Cathy Johnston, and Catherine McClelland were bridesmaids, and Ann Busse was the flower girl.

The maid of honor wore a dress of blue taffeta and white nylon sheer with bateau neckline. The bridesmaids were dressed in identical gowns of pink taffeta and white nylon sheer.

Headbands of ivy and cascade bouquets of rubrum lilies and ivy

Rosemarie Johnston became the bride of Bruce H. McColl Saturday evening in First Presbyterian Church. She is the daughter of Mrs. Everett B. Johnston of North Johnson street. His parents are the Harrison McColls of Edison street.

Miss Vandaveer Plans to Marry

Andrea C. Snyder Speaks Vows in Cranbrook Rite

A gown of candlelight satin was worn by Andrea Claire Snyder for her marriage to Lt. Robert Addison Ely, Saturday evening in Christ Church Cranbrook. An illusion yoke and long pointed sleeves were features of the bodice, and the gown's skirt was bouffant.

Securing her double cathedral-length veil of illusion was a Juliet cap of seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was of stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Andrea is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Eugene Snyder of Birmingham. Robert's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Ely of Dallas, Tex.

Attending the bride were her sister, Mrs. Peter John VanBoven Jr. of Ann Arbor as matron of honor, and Mary Ann Spohn of Clarkston as maid of honor. They were gowning alike in Nile green organza.

SERVE AS BRIDESMAIDS
Sara Jane Trythall, Sally Wilkinson, Joanne Pedder, Nancy Fischer, Patricia Libert of Ann Arbor, Shirley Curtiss of Cleveland, and

Sandra Ely of Dallas, Texas, were bridesmaids. Their dresses were of yellow silk organza with square necklines and puffed sleeves. They wore matching hats and carried yellow roses and carnations.

Lt. Wayne T. Cooke served as best man. Seating the guests were Peter J. VanBoven Jr., Lester L. Colbert Jr., Ronald Foulke, William Deener, Robert Law, Richard Glass, and Richard Alsop.

For the reception, held at the Bloomfield Hills Country Club, Mrs. Snyder chose a pink organza dress with pink satin hat and a pink throat orchid corsage.

Mrs. Ely wore a silver blue dress of organza with matching hat and gold-throated orchid corsage.

When the couple left for a honeymoon trip to New York, Bermuda and San Francisco, the bride was wearing a Dior blue silk and cotton suit, and white hat with navy accessories. They will make their home in Seattle, Wash.

It Means You Are No Longer Needed or Loved by Others

Would You Really Like Absolute Freedom?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Freedom is a strange and deceptive word. It woos us with its subtle charm in the midst of the hecticness and strains of daily living. Freedom to do what we wish? Freedom to find our own individual little bit of happiness?

Perhaps you have spent years and years taking care of others, submerging your own ambitions and interests and needs in order to fulfill your obligations.

Surely, you think, the time has come when you have earned some freedom, some time and opportunity for self-expression, for cultivating deep satisfactions which have been put aside because of those who depend on you.

Freedom is a mirage on the desert. If you reach the place it seemed to be you will find it dry, because being free means that you are no longer needed or loved by others. It would be a death, a dusty taste in the mouth. Those who are completely free of any obligations or loyalties or responsibilities are the loneliest people on earth.

So long as you love even one person or one person loves you, so long as your life has any effect on those about you, you cannot be free. Should you find yourself without even one person, you would discover that you are living in a vacuum, isolated and frighteningly alone.

FEEL BETRAYED

It might be well to hold this thought when we feel that our obligations are tremendously heavy, that we are being called on for more than is just, that we have been cheated or betrayed.

Every shining blessing has its price. There are so many very lonely people on this earth who would eagerly change places with us and our problems. Let us thank God every night that we are not free!

If you would like to have my leaflet "How to Overcome Loneliness and Self-Consciousness" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 58 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

There is probably no charm so disarming as complete naturalness. By this I do not mean a dreary, destructive frankness which informs you of your faults, which tells you that your new hat is unbecoming or your husband is unfaithful.

Nor do I mean to suggest lips without benefit of lipstick, shiny noses, uncurled hair, unpenciled eyebrows or membership in a nudists' camp.

IN LOVE WITH LIFE

The naturalness of which I sing comes from a lack of self-

Naturalness, which comes from a lack of self-consciousness, allows a woman to be perceptive, responsive, gay and enthusiastic.

consciousness. This can only happen when a woman is so in love with life and so interested in others that she forgets herself.

***

This frees her to be perceptive, responsive, gay and enthusiastic. It allows her to express with spontaneity, the varied facets of her nature and to throw herself into the moods of others.

Men like mystery but they also like to be comfortable, and there is nothing which so comforts and intrigues a man as a keenly alive woman who is herself.

The able-bodied mature male runs for his life when personally confronted with the brand of synthetic mystery which is concocted of slinky gowns, double or triple falsies, umbrella eye-lashes and rouge-distorted lips. Only the very young or the emotionally immature man is caught in a trap like this.

The mystery which is attractive to men lies in vibrancy due to mental, emotional and physical vitality, in a variety of moods and ideas and interests, in the eternally new, and not quite known, YOU.

WATCH OUT FOR RUTS

We women are apt to get into ruts of viewpoint with years of marriage. We sometimes fall into these because of fatigue, worries, stresses and fears of all sorts.

Unless we watch it we may react to certain statements or situations in the very same manner, year after year, so that our spouse knows what we will say or do long before we open our mouth or make a move.

Four sisters and their mother, together for the first time in 10 years, are (left to right) Mrs. Ulric Roberts of Springfield, Mass., Mrs. Harriet Sandstrom of Michigan avenue, Mrs. Mary Jackson, the mother, also of Michigan avenue, Mrs. Kenneth Mallmann of Escanaba, and Mrs. Roy Mitchell of Crystal Falls.

Through habit or inertia we may lose what was once our natural self. Perhaps your romance will quicken if you will make an effort to understand viewpoints of things. If you can free yourself of prejudices and bitterness; if you do not always show the usual reaction to a given situation; if you discover what you really are and then be yourself.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Keeping Romance Alive," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 63 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Hatter Says Hide Face After Six

PARIS (INS) — For a dramatic and Parisian-American look at cocktail time, hatter Svend proposes that you show your throat but hide your face.

According to Svend it isn't stylish to wear fur hats after 6 o'clock. Instead he proposes bulky and face-hiding chapeaux made of yards of veil, trimmed with a touch of fur and lots of diamonds.

One Svend creation recalls a cheese-bell. It is made of stiff black veil and covers the wearer's face down to the mouth. On top this semi-transparent cloche hat is trimmed with a fur pom-pom and a diamond clip.

For another mystery effect Svend uses a double layer of coarse black veil which he wraps around a woman's face to look like the mask of a fencer or bee-keeper.

The veil ends are fastened on the top of the head to a pert bow and secured by a diamond clip. Both styles are particularly effective in contrast to a low-cut, vampy cocktail dress.

In case you should fear getting claustrophobia with your head and face all covered up, inventive Svend proposes still another style for a pseudo-Oriental look after dark.

Take a yardage of veil, fold it lengthwise and wear it "muffler fashion." It is important that your veil muffler covers mouth, nose and ears like the "purdah," or Moslem veil, women wear in the Orient.

Svend shows this style in black hat-veiling for blondes and white for brunettes. You'll have to remove your veil-muffler to eat, drink and smoke. But you'll certainly be noticed.

EMBROIDERY

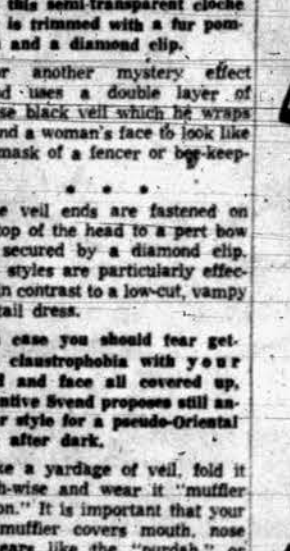

SIZES 2-3-4

Here's a simple-to-sew frock with matching bolero and colorful butterfly embroidery that is sure to win the heart of the little miss. Perfect to wear on those hot afternoons or cool evenings ahead.

Pattern No. 2567 contains tissue—sizes 2, 3, 4 incl.; hot-iron transfer; sewing and embroidery directions; color chart.

Send 25c in coins, your name, address and the pattern number to Ann Cabot, The Pontiac Press, 372 W. Quincy St., Chicago 6, Ill.

A taller, slimmer look arrives in small print. Avoid bold plaids which shorten and broaden the short figure.

Chance to Be Polite

You have a lot of chances when driving a car to practice good manners. Giving a pedestrian a chance to get across the street, giving the car ahead a chance to start up without blasting on your horn, parking so as to take up as little space as possible, etc., are simply good driving manners.

Puzzled by 'Gauge,' 'Denier'?

What gauge and denier of hosiery, higher the gauge, the closer the knit. Most common gauges are 45, 51, 60 and 66.

Denier means the size of the thread in the stocking. The lower the denier number, the finer the yarn. Popular deniers are 30, 20, 15 and 12.

Gauge and denier numbers are usually given in combination such as 51 gauge-15 denier, explain Michigan State University clothing specialists. Yarn thickness and closeness of stitches work in combination to determine sheerness, weight and serviceability of hosiery.

Everyone Possesses Some Talent

That is a question which I am constantly being asked. The following letter, from a housewife in Indiana, is a typical example:

"I do all my own work and take care of my three children," she writes, "but I don't do anything especially well. I sew some and cook, but nothing unusual. I was a fair student, good at sports and dancing, but not a genius—in fact, I just got by."

"The other day my son's teacher told me that when they gave him the children's vocational tests, they found he was the many-aptitude type. Well, his mother is the no-aptitude type! I'd like to do something—but what?"

"Have you any suggestions for the person with no talents?" As Emerson said, "The weed is just the plant for which a use has not yet been found." So, too, the untalented person is just the person whose talent has not yet been found.

I've been acquainted with hundreds of people and their destinies and I've never yet found an untalented one.

I've found plenty who had buried their talents, or who so underestimated themselves that it was hard to find their talent; but nobody I've met has been without some talent.

For this woman, and others like her, I have some suggestions:

First, face the fact that somewhere underneath it all, you do have a talent. Instead of spending your time wondering if you have, take it for granted that you have and spend the time finding it.

Second, realize that a talent is not something you exercise only on the stage, in an office or on a magazine.

You show a talent, or lack of it, every time you do anything—write a thank-you note, use last night's meat in tonight's casserole, tell a story to a sick child or doll up last year's basic black dress.

SERIES OF ACTIVITIES

Think of your life as a series of activities. Some of them you do with talent; some of them you don't.

Third, jot down a list of the things you love doing. Add to it the things your kin and kin are always asking your help with. Add to it the things you do easily and naturally.

Analyze the list and you'll see some common thread through it. It may be interest in the arts and crafts, or working with people, or budgeting and purchasing.

You'll find something if you persevere. Then get to your public library and get some books out on the subject.

Fourth, jot down any wild ideas you get of activities you might like. The wild ideas are often more sensible than the sensible ones.

Sensible ideas are often chosen because of what other people think, not because of your interest!

If you would like to go further on your own talent-hunt, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope care of The Pontiac Press, and I'll send you, "Pointers to Your Basic Interest."

Baby's 'Open Look' Asks Guidance

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

If you are a noticing person, some day soon you'll see an expression come into your baby's face which I'm going to call the "open look."

Maybe you'll just have nursed, burped him, put him in his crib. For a moment or so he'll lie there steeped in content. Then suddenly he'll hiccup. It will be his first hiccup.

In a flash of time so swiftly gone you'll wonder if you imagined it, you'll see the open look—a look of purest blankness—untouched even by surprise.

It will be the expression of your baby's uncorrupted innocence. It will say to you, "What is this strange thing that just happened to me? Is this hiccup good and safe or is it bad and dangerous?"

How am I supposed to feel about it?"

He's begun to ask you to define the world to him.

HOW YOU RESPOND

With the open look, he'll often be asking you to define it from here on. It will appear on his face when he bumps his head for the first time, drops his spoon, hears a raised and angry voice. How you respond to it will have measureless influence on his trust of all future experience.

In a just-published book called "Childhood and Adolescence" by teaching psychologists L. Joseph

Stone and Joseph Church, I find these words:

"The baby's experience of himself and of objects is shaped to large extent by what his parents communicate to him about it. According to their signals, things are exciting, disgusting, mysterious, alarming, pleasant and so forth."

"Sometimes when a baby is bumped on the head, he doesn't even know that his head hurts until he sees, hears and feels his parents' worry."

These are important words for new mothers.

As babies ourselves, our mothers answered our open look with anxiety. So we'll feel it too when our baby falls out of his crib and bumps his head. We'll put the idea of danger into his still uncorrupted consciousness out of our own fear of it.

RESIST IMPULSE

But if we become aware of the appeal of his open look, we can easily resist the impulse to rush to him with panicky cries of "Oh, my goodness, what have you done to yourself?"

Awareness of our measureless power to make or break his trust of experience helps to control our own inherited fear of it with love.

Jean Olivett Gibbs Wed

In an 8 p.m. wedding Saturday in Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Birmingham, the nuptial vows of Jean Olivett Gibbs and Richard Lambert Beer were solemnized. The Rev. Theodore Wuggazer performed the ceremony.

The bride chose a gown featuring a lace bodice with long tapered sleeves and a tulle skirt. A sequined lace headpiece held her fingertip veil, and she carried a white prayer book with an orchid centered in lilies-of-the-valley.

For her matron of honor the bride chose Mrs. Ralph Moore of Oak Park. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jack Coleman, Mrs. Ruth Andrews and Eleanor B. Fernie.

They were gown in identical dresses of pink lace with duobonnet ribbon trim. They carried bouquets of rubrum lilies and grape ivy.

FLOWER GIRL

Cheryl White was the flower girl. She wore pink taffeta with a net overskirt and carried shattered pink carnations.

Richard Galloway of Ann Arbor served as the best man. The ushers were Wallace Beer of Berkley, Jack Gibbs, Bill Gibbs of Royal Oak, Jack Bernard and Gerry Alyea of Clawson, Tom Dell of Cleveland and Lowell L. Sutton of Royal Oak. Michael Gibbs of Royal Oak was the ring-bearer.

A reception was held at the Maplewood Club House for 250 guests. The bride is the daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. William R. Gibbs of Birmingham. Richard's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William John Beer of Berkley.

Mrs. Gibbs wore a rose beige lace dress with matching accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a powder blue lace dress with matching accessories and a sweetheart rose corsage.

Cream Tops Easily Made Chilly Pie

1957 Bride Likes to Entertain—Serves This Dessert Often

Pontiac Press Home Editor

A quick easy dessert for warm summer days is Ice Cream Pie. You can make it early in the day and keep it chilled until serving time.

Mrs. Ted Hooks, today's cook, is a brand new bride. She loves her little apartment and enjoys getting meals. Swimming is one of her favorite sports. She has a full time job in addition to her homemaking.

ICE CREAM PIE

By Mrs. Ted Hooks

2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
1 package lemon or cherry gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 pint vanilla ice cream
whipped cream

Mix cracker crumbs and melted butter or margarine. Press into a nine-inch pie pan and bake ten minutes in a moderate oven to set crust.

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add ice cream to mixture and stir until melted. Pour into crust and chill until set. Serve topped with whipped cream.

May Diner Take Home Extra Food?

Reader Questions Proper Behavior in Restaurant

BY EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please answer the following question in your column and settle an argument: When one orders chicken or steak in a restaurant and cannot eat the full amount, is it good manners to ask for a paper bag and take the balance home?"

"I say it is very bad manners. My friend says it is quite all right and is often done. I would very much like to hear what you have to say about this."

Answer: I agree with you, but it is excusable and not unusual for someone who has a dog to ask the waiter to make a small package of a bone or a piece of meat for the pet at home.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter has been invited to a large tea which is to be given in two weeks. She does not care for hats and very seldom wears one. Would it be improper for her to go to the tea without a hat or does good taste exact that one be worn?"

Answer: Correctly she should wear a hat, but in these modern days, very few will notice if she is bareheaded. I feel sure that no one will criticize her.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am planning on being married Sept. 1 at 7 o'clock in the evening. The bridegroom and ushers would like to wear white jackets."

"I have been told by several people that white dinner jackets are not proper after Labor Day. Since this is only one week after I was wondering if it would be all right for the men to wear them, or is it too late?"

Answer: If the weather is still hot, the white jackets will not be criticized.

Sandra White Feted at Personal Shower

Sandra White was feted at a personal shower given recently by Barbara Talladay of Avery road. Sandra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve J. White Jr. of Ascot road, will marry Gerald A. Bradow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bradow of Clio, on July 27.

Try 'Training' Rugs

The big fad for the soda-shop set this year is chenille-type cotton rugs, designed to resemble real bear or tiger skins. Don't worry if the kids want to "tame" the animals with their dirty little hands. Such rugs can be washed, then transferred to your automatic dryer. About 45 minutes of tumbling in the dryer restores the rug's original "fierce" appearance.

Alpha Chapter Installs Officers at Annual Tea

Alpha Chapter of Beta Theta Phi Sorority held its annual officer's party at Devon Gables. Honored were retiring officers. Mrs. Leslie H. Cross, Mrs. Herbert Johnson, Mrs. Frank Coad, Mrs. Walter Kinsler and Helen Turek. Officers for the coming year were installed. Mrs. Herbert Johnson is president; Mrs. Glen Grim, vice-president; Marie Schimmel, secretary; Mrs. Walter Kinsler, treasurer; and Mrs. Harold Davidson, co-treasurer.

The committee in charge of the Thursday evening affair included Mrs. Emil Malah, Mrs. Russell Bean and Mrs. Hubert Evans.

And So Do Tourists

New Yorkers Wear Black

NEW YORK (INS) — Hot weather means cool clothing in

ARDYNE GREEN

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Green of Raeburn street announce the engagement of their daughter, Ardyne Joann, to Glenn J. Palmer. He is the son of Mrs. Calvin Field of Klingensmith street and Glenn Palmer of Muskegon Heights. A fall wedding is planned.

most parts of the U. S., but in New York you still have to wear "black and pearls." Visitors to the big city usually feel out of step in the white and pastel cottons they bring. New York women—at least those stylish women who promenade Fifth Avenue—stick to the little black dress come heat wave or icicles.

At a fashion show today, for instance, 30 out of 40 New Yorkers were wearing "the uniform": A black silk or silk mix dress, preferably short-sleeved but high necked, pearls around the neck, gold bangles on one wrist, small white hat on the back of the head, white gloves, black kid pumps and black kid bag.

To other New Yorkers, black in the summer is ordinary. But one out-of-town visitor complained that she had to go out and buy a black dress to avoid looking conspicuous.

Actually, it's wise to bring along dark dresses when visiting any big city. The truth of the matter is that city soot makes a mess of light-colored clothes.

The average human adult body contains more than 20 trillion cells.

'Big Strong Man' Asks Some Pointed Questions

Why Is It That Woman Excuses Self, Criticizes Male for Same Behavior?

By RUTH MILLETT

In answer to a recent column asking some "big, strong man" to explain to us women why men behave as they do, a "big, strong man" from Chicago asks a few questions on his own.

He writes: "Will some poor, innocent female kindly explain to us men why it is . . .

"When she leaves the dresser drawers open or clothes on the bed she has 'not finished.' When he does he is sloppy and disorderly."

"When a man yells, he is acting like a baby. When a woman cries, she has been hurt."

"When he forgets, he no longer loves her. When she forgets, it was an oversight."

"When he does not want to go out, he is unsociable. If she wants to stay home, it's because she is exhausted or has a headache."

HAD TO DRAG HIM

"When they do go out against his wishes, she says she had to drag him. When they go out against her wishes, she claims she went so as not to ruin his evening."

"When she plays bridge in the afternoon it is because she simply has to get out of the house occasionally. When he plays poker with the boys in the evening he is neglecting her and the children."

"When she has little to say she is feeling low. When he is silent he has a grouch."

"When she buys something they don't really need it's that it was too good a bargain to pass up. When he buys something they could do without he will let a salesman talk him into anything."

"When she disciplines the children, she is being firm. When he gets after them he is being unreasonable, or even a big bully."

Man Found Dead in West Bloomfield

Stanley C. Johnson, 55, of 6939 Danderson St., West Bloomfield Township, was found dead in his home Saturday night by sheriff's deputies called by a neighbor.

Johnson was the owner of the Frost Top Drive-In, 3118 W. Huron St., Pontiac.

The body was found by Mrs. W. M. Smith, 3770 Woodview St., West Bloomfield Township, when Mrs. Johnson called her to ask that she check on Mr. Johnson. Sheriff's deputies said they believed the pistol wound in his head was self-inflicted. They reported that he had been under a doctor's care for about a month and had threatened to take his life.

County CIO Delegates to Elect New Officers

Delegates to the Oakland County CIO Council will vote tonight for nine executive officers of the council.

Headlining the balloting by 117 delegates, representing 40,718 union members in the county, will be the race for president.

Opposing incumbent Fred V. Haggard, president since 1951, will be William O. Medlock, former president of Fisher body Local 506 UAW and presently a committee-man for the local.

Other officers to be voted for will be vice president, recording secretary, treasurer, guide, sergeant-at-arms and three trustees.

Delegates are seated on the council based on the per capita strength of local membership.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finda Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months.
In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

July, August Top Months for Drownings in State

About half of Michigan's 1957 drowning deaths probably will occur during the next two months, the Michigan Department of Health believes.

If 1957 follows the trend established in other years, July and August combined will account for between 45 and 50 per cent of the year's total drownings, with approximately 27 per cent taking place in July and 20 per cent in August.

CARROLL OSMUN

Osmun Appointed UF Drive Chairman

The appointment of Carroll Osmun, 1815 Woodland, as Commercial Division chairman of the 1957 Pontiac area United Fund Drive was announced today by campaign chairman Dr. Dana P. Whitmer.

Osmun is vice-president of the Community National Bank. He will head the solicitation of funds from downtown business and professional people.

Born and raised in Pontiac, Osmun has a distinguished record of activity in Pontiac area United Fund work and other community projects.

Law Enforcement Asked to Curb Traffic Deaths

LANSING (AP) — Gov. G. Mennen Williams says a "vigorous but reasonable and fair" traffic law enforcement can reduce the number of fatalities on highways.

Noting a reduction in traffic fatalities in Michigan in 1956, the governor credited "increased State Police patrols, better control of driver licensing and suspension of licenses of dangerous drivers, use of National Guard troops to reinforce State Police and sheriff's road patrols, and widespread publicity."

Statistics show that the most probable victims are boys under 20 years of age. Males in general account for about 90 per cent of all drownings in Michigan, and about 45 per cent of the drowning victims are persons under 20 years of age.

Swimming deaths outnumber boating deaths two to one. During 1956, a typical year for distribution of these two causes, 273 drownings were reported in the state with 181 related to swimming and 92 to boating.

Michigan's drowning toll could be reduced if everyone who swims or uses a boat would remember the common sense rules of water safety, the Department says.

Based on lessons learned from past drownings, the Health Department listed these points as the best ones to remember to avoid becoming a drowning victim:

SWIMMING

Know your physical capabilities; never try to swim farther or longer than you're able; don't enter the water when you are tired or hot.

After eating, wait an hour before going in the water, to avoid cramps.

Know your swimming site; watch for holes or underflow. Don't dive until you are certain the water is deep enough for diving and also is free of snags, rocks or other under water obstacles.

Never swim alone. And if at all possible, swim where there is a lifeguard.

Keep a close watch on youngsters and non-swimmers.

Know how to apply one of the methods of giving artificial respiration. And remember that many persons have been revived and their lives saved because artificial respiration was continued after the victim was given up for dead.

BOATING

Be familiar with the performance limits of your boat; guard particularly against overloading and turning too sharply.

Stay off the water in stormy weather.

Never stand up in a small boat and don't attempt to change seats with another occupant.

If you can't swim, wear a life preserver.

If the boat upsets, your chances of surviving are much better if you cling to the overturned boat rather than attempting to swim to shore.

When operating a power boat, stay away from swimmers and from fishermen's boats.

SOME EXTRAS — This Air Force F-3H "Scorpion" appears to have acquired an extra pair of wings, complete with wingtip gas tanks. Actually, though, its only another plane banking away on the other side of the near plane. The photo was made at the Air Force base in Osceola.

Industry Utilizes Research

Car Models Bend on Public Whim

DETROIT (NEA) — The mental strip-tease which the American public has been performing unconsciously for the auto industry has revealed a lot of skin.

But the show is a long way from complete exposure.

PROBE DEEP

Consumer research studies by the auto industries have probed deep into the basic buying attitudes of U. S. car buyers. And the results of these studies are more and more influencing engineering, designing and advertising.

But every time the industry thinks it has its customers' desires figured out, bang, it finds new attitudes intruding to mess up the big mental picture.

Recent studies show a growing interest in smaller and cheaper cars, for example, which could mean a reversal of the trend of interest in bigger, more expensive cars which has existed since World War II.

INTEREST LAGS

The latest studies by General Motors also show a lessening of public interest in more powerful engines.

"But does this mean they don't want more horsepower in the '58s or that they assume a horsepower increase as a matter of normal development?" a worried GM expert asks.

If the public is fed up, or maybe scared by the horsepower race, the industry is wasting big money on its engine development programs. But if the public believes that growing horsepower is a logical expectation, failure to deliver it in a new model could mean a red-ink year.

It means going back and trying to coax another wisp of cloth off the car buyer's thinking. And that brings up the classic story on the early days of auto consumer research.

One company asked a lot of people what they wanted in a car and got a lot of replies about the desire for safety and dependability. It put out a safe, dependable car and had a terrible year.

FLASHY, SPEEDY

A second, smarter firm asked a lot of people what features they thought their neighbors wanted in a car and got such answers as flashy styling and more speed. It built a flashy, speedy car and had a record year.

Ever since then the consumer experts have been trying to properly evaluate the "virtuous answer" fallacy.

Chrysler hires an independent opinion-sampling firm for most of its customer research. Ford uses outside help and does direct-mailing sampling. GM relies mostly on the direct-mail method. Millions of dollars are spent on these programs.

All the firms rely heavily on the "dream car" technique. Each year they'll make several ultra-modern cars and exhibit them with the specific purpose of sampling reaction to three or four new ideas. Interviews record answers to carefully-phrased questions on the cars.

FROM LE SABRE

The wrap-around windshield is one result of this technique. This new windshield concept was first shown on the GM Le Sabre dream car in 1951. Public reaction was so favorable it was put on 1954 models, which is about as fast as a change like this can be made. The whole industry followed.

Most consumer experts agree that the average car buyer assumes that any new car is well-built, fairly dependable and roomy. So they seek the special buying motivations, currently being found in styling, price and performance.

Ford's big safety campaign in early 1956 made buyers mildly safety-conscious, consumer studies of its competitors discovered. But a few months after Ford dropped safety as a major advertising pitch the public promptly stopped worrying about safety in a car.

Today, studies show, the average buyer assumes that all makes are equally safe.

NEIGHBORHOOD MAN

Prestige and community conformity are two other important factors to a buyer. The urge to conform to the community stand-

Highway Commissioner

Mackie Faces Court Test on Qualifications for Job

LANSING (AP) — John C. Mackie's qualifications to hold the job of state highway commissioner was headed for a court test today, the same day his inauguration was scheduled.

The Michigan Society of Professional Engineers said Saturday it would try to have Mackie removed through a state Supreme Court suit. The Society contends Mackie does not meet legal requirements for the job.

Mackie, a Democrat, was elected over Republican George M. Foster in the April 1 general election to succeed Republican Charles M. Ziegler.

Twice before Mackie survived challenges of his qualifications. The first dispute arose before his nomination and was settled — at least temporarily — by a ruling from the state attorney general's office.

The second challenge came before the election when the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers tried without success to have his name stricken from the ballot.

Frederick Von Volgtlander of Ann Arbor, president-elect of the Engineering Society, said the Society's executive committee voted at Lansing Friday to direct its attorney to file suit to day.

He said he understood the Supreme Court held that Mackie's qualifications could not be challenged until he occupied the office.

Michigan law, the Society contends, requires the commissioner to be "a registered professional engineer."

Mackie, a Flint surveyor and civil engineering graduate of Michigan State University, argues that the law specifies the commissioner must be a "competent engineer" and that he meets this requirement.

The job pays $17,500 a year. The salary was raised from $12,500 by the Legislature before the election.

Bill Permits Germans to Wear War Medals

BON (AP) — Germans decorated in the two world wars can wear their medals again.

The Bundestag last week approved a bill permitting the wearing of decorations banned by the Allies since 1945. Nazi swastikas must be removed, however.

The new law provides that all orders and decorations awarded by the Kaiser, the president of the Weimar Republic and the "Reich government" — as distinct from the Nazi party — of the Third Reich may be worn.

War Prisoner Working Here

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Gustav J. Mathes reaped one big benefit from being a prisoner of war of the Americans during World War II. He fell in love with this country and decided to make it his home.

Mathes, of the city Planning Office, was only 17 when he was ordered to join Hitler's fight for world conquest. He reluctantly left his mother and father in Munich in 1943.

He hadn't been a member of the 157th German division long when it was sent to southern France to stop the American invasion. He was a member of a 14-man detachment ordered to hold a bridge at Grenoble at all costs.

It was here that Cpl. Mathes and the troopers "were particularly overrun by the Americans."

Now Gus, as everybody around the Pontiac City Hall knows him, looks back on his three years as a prisoner as the inspiration which convinced him to adopt America as his new home.

"I saw that everybody had freedom to choose the way they wanted to live," said Mathes, who was held prisoner at camps in Virginia and Arkansas.

FELL IN LOVE

"I had the chance to learn your way of life while on prison farm details. I looked forward each day to talking to Americans around the camp. I fell immediately in love with this country."

Gus, now 31 and assistant to City Planner Henry C. Smith, is presently seeking to become a naturalized citizen.

After his capture in 1944, Mathes escaped twice. He was successful on the second try in May of 1947 and made it back to Munich.

When he arrived home, the tragic news of war awaited him. Both parents had been killed.

"I then had to re-enter another POW camp, Camp Dachau near Munich, for four and a-half months before I could get my discharge from the army," Mathes related. Still learning English, he often inserts traces of his native German.

ENTERED ENGINEERING

After his release, Mathes did carpentry work and later entered engineering school at the University of Munich. It was here that he earned a degree in architecture.

He came to the United States in 1955 through the sponsorship of Alfred Hede, of 54 Seneca St., with whom he lives today.

Hede's stepson met a friend, Bert Schultz, and after clearance of red-tape, both Schultz and Mathes were headed here to begin new lives. Schultz is a member of the city engineering department.

Today Gus is working side by side with Americans who were once his enemies. "I personally didn't have any hate for the Americans," he said. "It was just a matter of killing or being killed, and your boys felt the same way."

Ironically, Mathes works near Assistant City Engineer James Carlisle who just might have fallen into his gun sights during battles near Marseilles, or vice versa.

"The first time we met we discovered how close we both came to shooting each other," Mathes said.

Both laughingly agreed now that they favor being on the same side.

'Brook' Floods Hotel With 2 Inches of Water

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A 5,000-gallon water tank on the Claridge Hotel roof overflowed last night. A stream, like a dashed mountain brook, tumbled down 16 flights of a stairway and filled the lobby with water two inches deep.

W. D. Maybury, hotel engineer, said an automatic control on the tank failed. It took over an hour to find someone who knew how to shut off the pump.

McNamara is a graduate student at Columbia University.

He was charged before Magistrate Milton Solomon in felony court with various counts including rape, felonious assault and possession of narcotics. A hearing was set for July 5.

Policy on China Faces Trouble

Pressures of Opposition to U.S. Regard for Reds Rise at Home, Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American policy of boycott of Red China, which has just been reaffirmed by Secretary of State Dulles, appears to be heading into trouble.

Various pressures are building up against it both at home and abroad, and the Eisenhower administration may find it impossible to hold the line at all points in the next two or three years. The policy restatement was made by Dulles in a speech at San Francisco Friday. It was his first major pronouncement in the United States attitude toward Communist China in three years. Officials reported that it was fully approved in advance by President Eisenhower.

Dulles laid down anew in strong terms the decision that this country should not recognize the Peking regime, should not engage in trade with it, should not permit cultural contacts and should not agree to any place for Red China in the United Nations.

Fenton Girl Assists in New York Arrest

NEW YORK (AP) — An 18-year-old Fenton, Mich. girl has been credited by police with helping them capture a graduate student who is accused of luring aspiring airline hostesses to hotels and then raping them.

Police said they seized Vincent J. McNamara, 25, yesterday with the aid of Joy Black, 18, of Fenton.

Officers said McNamara posed as a doctor and induced the girls to let him give them physical examinations. They said eight to 10 girls were involved in the subsequent attacks.

McNamara is a graduate student at Columbia University.

SCIENTIFIC CRASH — The top picture shows how two 1956 model cars look when they collide at 50 miles per hour. The crash was set up by engineers seeking to determine the effect of seat belts in head-on collisions. The lower photo was taken minutes after the crash as investigators peer into the wreckage. A dummy driver can be seen in the white car's driver seat. Engineers said the test proved, as far as they were concerned, that a seat belt to save lives in high speed head-on crashes is yet to be devised.

7 Die as Floods Hit Missouri

IRONTON, Mo. (AP) — Flash floods and violent winds battered this valley area yesterday, leaving seven persons dead and extensive crop and property damage.

Coroner C. A. Howell estimated property damage at nearly a million dollars.

Roads and miles of railroad tracks were blocked by landslides. The Red Cross reported 80 homes damaged or destroyed and 32 other buildings hit.

Fourteen fishermen spent a terror-filled night in trees.

Robert Kitchens, 36, of nearby Graniteville, and his five children drowned in a deep ditch.

The children were Robert Jr., 8; Arthur Newton, 7; Evelyn Elaine, 5; Thomas, 3; and Dennis Ray, 1. Mrs. Juanita Kitchens, 27, the mother, was hospitalized with severe shock.

Albert Batteral, 65, of Old Mines, drowned when a wall of water swept him under as he surveyed damage to his home.

The rain began late Saturday night and continued into the early hours yesterday. It caught the 1,200 residents of this town 100 miles southeast of St. Louis unprepared.

The Kitchens family left their low-lying farm home when the storm hit. Their car stalled on Missouri Highway 21a Arthur Wilson, 44, Arcadia, offered to drive them to his home for the night.

"We just didn't get there," Wilson said sadly later. "We had been going through hubcap water for some time. Suddenly we were in water which covered the car completely."

"I opened the door and tried to help Mrs. Kitchens out. But the current swept me away. I caught on to a tree but a log hit me and knocked me loose. I grabbed some driftwood but was carried some 300 or 400 yards. I saw Mrs. Kitchens' pass me as I was holding on. I just saw her head as she slipped on by me."

Rescue parties in boats picked up Mrs. Kitchens and Wilson and recovered the six bodies.

The fishermen were caught by swiftly rising water at Grubville, 42 miles southwest of St. Louis. They climbed first to the tops of their cars, then were forced to take to the trees as the waters rose.

After nine hours in the trees, an unidentified man and woman heard their calls for help and a boat rescue was made.

In the St. Louis suburb of Valley Park, residents evacuated low-lying areas in advance of predictions that the Meramec River will crest today at the season's high of 30 feet.

Colorful Bubbles Will Please the Younger Set

When youngsters came up with their own party recipe ideas, lend an ear! Their concoctions are apt to make a bigger hit with their age-group than anything a grown-up might suggest.

"Frozen Bubbles," complete with food picks for eating candy-style, is one such request by a ten-year-old. It needs no preparation (a boon to Mother), it makes a tempting display (Dad can't resist a sample) and to youngsters it's just the treat for the Fourth of July!

All that's needed is to pour a pre-chilled carbonated soft drink into the ice cube tray. (Set the control dial to lowest temperature in advance to speed up the freezing.) Chilling the beverage first in unopened bottles helps to keep in the "bubbles" as the freezing takes place. Fill the trays only to within about one-quarter inch of the top as the cubes will expand. When almost frozen, stand a food pick in the center of each cube and finish freezing.

For the Fourth, Frozen Bubbles may be "red, white and blue." Freeze cherry carbonated beverage in one tray, ginger ale or lemon-lime soda in the second, and grape carbonated beverage in the third.

Should you want to glamorize the bubble cubes, simply stir in a little jam and lemon juice (see recipe). To serve, loosen the cubes and leave them right in the tray.

Frozen Bubbles
Frozen Bubbles
Bottled carbonated beverage
Fruit jam or preserve
Lemon juice
Food picks

When bottles are very cold, un-

cap and combine about half a cup with the jam-lemon mixture. Spoon a little of this into each cube compartment, then slowly add beverage, filling tray to within a quarter inch of the top.

Put trays gently into freezing compartment. When cubes are almost frozen stand a food pick in the center of each and complete the freezing. To serve, loosen cubes and leave in tray; or transfer to serving platter if preferred.

Kidney Bean Salad Better With Ham

Hot Ham and Bean Salad
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/4 cup finely diced onion
1/2 pound cooked ham (diced)
1 can (1 pound and 4 ounces) kidney beans
Chopped sweet cucumber pickles
Chili sauce
Melt butter in skillet (9 or 10 inches). Add onions and cook, stirring several times, over moderate heat about 5 minutes. Mix in ham, kidney beans, pickles and chili sauce (to taste). Simmer, stirring occasionally, about 25 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Jellied Chicken Soup Tempts the Males

Jellied Chicken Gumbo Soup is especially designed to please the man who says cold jellied soups are not for him. This recipe is a cool cousin of the minestrone that most men are so fond of. To make it:

Dissolve one envelope of gelatin in a small amount of cold chicken broth. Bring the remaining broth from a 12 1/2 ounce can to a boil, and add the gelatin, stirring until melted. Remove from the heat and add 1 can condensed chicken gumbo.

Chill until slightly thickened. Then fold in a diced tomato and 2 tablespoons chopped parsley. Chill for about three hours until firm. When serving, spoon out into serving dishes. The recipe will yield 4 servings at only 90 calories per serving. It's a source of Vitamin B.

Shoulder Lamb Chops Take to Braising in Herbs

Outdoor activities during the summer seem to attract some of the time which would normally be spent in the kitchen. Light, quick-to-serve meals rate high on the agenda of menu plans during this time.

But for a delightful change, Reba Staggs, well versed in the field of meat selection, care, and cooking, suggests this tempting Lamb Shoulder Chop—dish which is accented with a tasty Herb Gravy.

Lamb shoulder chops are a less-demanded lamb cut and therefore are economical. Being tender, these chops may be broiled but in this dish they are braised in tomato juice.

Lamb Chops—Herb Gravy
4 lamb shoulder chops, cut 1/2 to 1 inch thick
1/2 cup enriched flour
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

A tiny bit of silver polish rubbed on the bottom of your iron will remove stains. Wipe off with a very well wrung-out damp cloth, then let dry before using.

MAGIC MACAROONS — Little magic macaroons, made of sweetened condensed milk and coconut, are shaped like firecrackers and covered with candy-coating chocolate for gay Fourth of July feasting.

Shape Cookies as Firecrackers

Who'd like a glass of lemonade, frosty and cool, on the Fourth of July afternoon or evening? And who would like it better if a crunchy, flavormous coconut macaroon went with it?

The macaroons are the magic kind, made of sweetened condensed milk blended with coconut, nothing else except flavoring extracts. Instead of being conventionally shaped, they are cylindrical, dipped in melted chocolate, finished off with a fuse of orange skin or just a cocktail toothpick thrust in the end. They are good eating and the children will love them as the safest and most delicious little firecrackers they ever saw.

Magic Macaroons
 1/2 cup (1 1/2-ounce can), sweetened condensed milk
 2 (4-ounce) packages (3 cups) shredded coconut
 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
 1 teaspoon almond extract

Mix together sweetened condensed milk, coconut and flavorings. Drop by tablespoons about 1 inch apart, on a well-greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 8 to 10 minutes, or until delicately browned around the edges. Remove from baking sheet immediately. (Makes about 30 macaroons.)

To turn the macaroons into firecrackers place the macaroon mixture on a greased baking sheet in oblong or cylindrical strips, forming them with finger tips or forks. Bake as directed. Remove at once from baking sheet and press gently into cylindrical shape.

Cool and coat with melted and cooled dipping chocolate. The recipe makes about 15 firecrackers, as each takes about twice as much macaroon mixture as a regular macaroon.

There's a Special Way to Make Good Iced Coffee

Summertime is patio time! That's where you can catch every last bit of breeze and treat yourself to something altogether frosty and delicious. Iced coffee, of course, fills the bill and completes this hot-weather scene.

Soda Pop Will Color Cupcakes

Surprise Cherry Cup Cakes, made with a white cake mix and carbonated beverage as the liquid, can be a holiday shortcut. The cakes which are pink inside, may be iced with chocolate or vanilla frosting, or need not be iced at all as they have an interesting macaroon-type top crust.

Cherry Surprise Cup Cakes
 Cherry carbonated beverage
 1 package white cake mix
 2 tablespoons maraschino cherry juice (Dry milk powder, if needed)
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 1/2 teaspoon almond extract (optional)
 Maraschino cherries

Prepare cake mix according to package directions, using carbonated beverage and the cherry juice as the liquid. (If the mix requires milk instead of water, blend the dry milk into the beverage before using (1 tablespoonful for each 1/2 cup of beverage). Blend in extracts.

Put batter in cup cake tins lined with paper baking cups. Place a maraschino cherry in the center of each. Bake as package directs for cup cakes; leave in oven for the maximum baking time, or a little longer until tops are completely browned and no pink shows through.

One of the most attractive and quickest methods of making iced coffee calls for coffee ice cubes. At breakfast time, brew a few extra cups of coffee and freeze them into coffee ice cubes in your refrigerator tray.

Then it is a simple matter to make iced coffee at anytime by pouring regular-strength hot coffee over the coffee cubes. For each serving of regular-strength coffee, you will need three-quarters of a measuring cup of water and one standard measure (or two level measuring tablespoons) of coffee.

When you are in a hurry, excellent iced coffee can be made by using extra-strength coffee and regular ice cubes. Make coffee extra strength by using one-half a measuring cup of water to each standard measure of coffee. Pour the hot coffee over lots of ice cubes in tall glasses. The extra-strong coffee allows for the dilution caused by the melting ice.

Instant coffee may also be used to make delicious iced coffee. Simply mix twice the usual amount of instant coffee with a little water (hot or cold, according to brand) in each glass. Then add ice cubes and more water. Stir thoroughly. Simple sugar syrup makes one of the easiest and most delicious ways to sweeten iced coffee. The syrup goes into immediate solution with the frothy coffee and sweetens it completely.

Poppyseed Noodles Good With Veal

Prepare this menu on the top of the range.

Poppyseed Noodles
 1 package (8 ounces) medium-wide egg noodles
 2 quarts boiling water
 1/2 cup salt
 4 tablespoons butter or margarine
 2 teaspoons poppyseed
 Salt, pepper

Add noodles slowly to boiling water to which 1 tablespoon salt has been added. Boil, uncovered, until just tender; stir often. Drain in a colander. Return to kettle with butter; sprinkle with poppyseed and salt and pepper to taste. Toss and reheat. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Eight ounces of the medium-wide dry egg noodles will measure 6 cups; after cooking you will have about the same measure.

Bimini Parfait Is Done in West Indian Style

Every once in a while, when the evening breeze is balmy and the moon is pale gold, we yearn for a truly exotic dessert to serve right in our own back yard. And what could be more exotic than this tropical beauty, Bimini Parfait? Here's a dessert that suggests luxurious living on Bimini, island-gem of the West Indies.

What makes Bimini Parfait so alluring? Why, the layer upon layer of rich, color, and deliciously blended flavors. There's creamy vanilla ice cream, a very special golden caramel sauce . . . then an incomparably smooth and chocolatey fudge sauce.

These wonderful ingredients are topped off with a sweep of whipped cream and a dusting of instant coffee. Shades of the tropics, all in one tall, frosty glass!

BIMINI PARFAIT

third with vanilla ice cream. Add a layer of coffee caramel sauce, then a layer of fudge sauce. Fill with ice cream. Add more fudge sauce. Top with whipped cream and instant coffee.

Coffee Caramel Sauce
 1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
 1 cup sugar
 1/2 cup light corn syrup
 1/2 cup butter or margarine
 Few grains salt
 1/2 cup cream
 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
 1/2 cup strong coffee

Combine first 5 ingredients in saucepan. Cook, stirring, until sugar dissolves. Cook, without stirring, to 236 degrees F (soft ball stage). Cool slightly. Stir in cream, vanilla and coffee; mix well. Makes about 2 cups.

Fudge Sauce
 1 square unsweetened chocolate
 1 cup sugar
 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 1 small can evaporated milk
 2 teaspoons vanilla

Melt chocolate over hot water.

Stir in sugar gradually. Add butter, stir until melted. Stir in evaporated milk slowly. Cook over hot water, stirring often, until thickened. Add vanilla and cool. Makes about 2 cups.

Math Decides Choice of Boneless Meat

Which is the best buy, a boneless chuck roast or one with the bone in? Find the answer by doing a little mental arithmetic, suggests the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. Chuck roasts are about 20 per cent bone and fat, so you can expect to pay a fifth more for a boneless chuck.

There is more to buying a cut of meat than just the price per pound. Cost per serving is another guide to value. Boneless chuck roast will serve four while a chuck roast with the bone in will serve three.

Large-quantity tea making: use 1 ounce of tea to 1 gallon of fresh boiling water for hot tea.

Sauce Will Brown Grilled Chicken

Every backyard "chef" aims to give chicken breasts cooked on a grill an appetizing golden brown without overcooking or drying out the tender parts.

Ways have been suggested for doing this. You can baste the meaty portions with butter or drippings each time you turn them. Or use a simple basting sauce that retains moistness of the meat and aids in browning. A tangy sauce adds discreet flavor to the chicken as well.

To make it, mix 1/4 cup light vinegar, 1/4 cup lemon juice and 1/4 cup salad oil. Add 1/2 teaspoon soy sauce, dash of Brown Gravy sauce, and sprinkling of black pepper. Taste for salt and shake to blend mixture well.

Lay chicken on hot grill and brush pieces with oil. Sear about 3 minutes. Turn and brush on sauce. Cook about 3 or 4 minutes, then turn and baste again.

Bake Veal in Sour Cream

Leftover veal slices step front and center in this daisy fresh quick dinner special.

Warm evenings call for hurry-up meals . . . especially for the teen set.

It's to the credit and ingenuity of the homemaker who can adequately use leftover meat to create second day dishes which look like first day culinary productions.

Piquant Veal Slices is such a recipe . . . it produces mealtime magic with leftover veal. Reba Staggs, well known home economist, emphasizes that veal, a delicate flavored meat, is often accompanied by or cooked in a rich sauce or gravy.

In this case, sour cream, celery salt and garlic salt add the needed tang, while parsley and paprika add the color note.

Piquant Veal Slices
 1 pound leftover veal roast
 1 cup dairy sour cream
 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 1/4 teaspoon celery salt
 1/4 teaspoon garlic salt

Cut veal in 3/4-inch slices and place in a baking dish. Combine sour cream with seasoning and spread over meat. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees) for 30 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Making up some pastry to top a meat pie? Add celery seed and paprika before rolling it out.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
 A. Spare ribs.

Q. Where do they come from and how are they identified?
 A. They come from the side section of the pork carcass and consist of ribs and breast bone which have been removed from the bacon strip.

Q. How are they prepared?
 A. They may be roasted (baked) in a 350 degree oven for 1 to 1 1/2 hours or braised slowly for 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Spare ribs are usually prepared with a barbecue sauce.

Fill Easily Made Puffs With Pineapple Cream

Baking cream puffs will give you enormous satisfaction. There's something about producing those golden bulging beauties that makes a cook swell with pride.

The filling for these cream puffs is made with packaged vanilla pudding, pineapple and whipped cream. If yours is a sweet tooth, you might want to cover the top of the puffs after they are filled, with a vanilla frosting.

New Method Cream Puffs

1 cup water
1 cup (4-ounce) butter
1 cup sifted flour
4 large eggs

Put water and butter into a 1½-quart saucepan. Heat until butter melts and water comes to a rolling boil. Lower heat, add flour all at once and stir it into melted butter and water mixture.

Over very low heat, stir vigorously until mixture leaves the sides of the pan to form one mass—this takes about 2 minutes. Remove from heat and cool slightly—about 2 minutes.

Beat eggs in, one at a time; beat mixture 2 minutes more or until smooth and velvety. Drop by heaping tablespoonfuls onto lightly greased baking sheet, placing mounds about 2 inches apart to allow for expansion.

Bake in hot (400 degrees) oven 45 to 50 minutes or until golden and dry looking; no beads of moisture should be evident on puffs.

Remove with wide spatula; cut off tops; fill and replace tops. Dust with confectioners' sugar if desired. Makes 12 large cream puffs.

Note: The low heat needed during the making of the puffs may be obtained on a gas range by turning the heat very low; on an electric range, the saucepan may be transferred to another unit previously set for low; or on either a gas or electric range, the saucepan may be held up over the heat as French cooks do.

Pineapple Filling

1 package vanilla pudding
1 No. 2 can (1 pound and 4 ounces)

crushed pineapple
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter
½ pint heavy cream

Turn pudding into saucepan; mix with a small amount of the pineapple syrup until smooth. Add remaining pineapple and syrup, lemon juice and butter. Cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until pudding mixture comes to a boil—about 5 minutes. Cool.

Whip heavy cream until it holds a peak and fold into pudding mixture. Use as a filling for 12 large cream puffs.

You can usually substitute two 8-ounce cans of shrimp or two 7-to-8-ounce packages of frozen cleaned shrimp for a pound of uncooked fresh shrimp.

Freeze Cake as It's Made

Two old favorites — ice cream and graham crackers — present themselves elegantly in a refrigerator cake. Make-ahead desserts do so much to lighten the load of last-minute details for entertaining.

1-Layer Glamour Cake

2 packets graham crackers, finely rolled (about 4 cups crumbs)
½ cup softened butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
2 pints ice cream (1 each of vanilla, chocolate and strawberry flavors)

Combine crumbs, butter or margarine and sugar. Mix thoroughly. Line a 9½ x 5½ x 2-2½ inches loaf pan with foil, letting an inch extend over edges of pan for easy removal of cake. Press 1 cup crumbs in bottom of pan.

Soften vanilla ice cream to spreading consistency. Spread on crumbs. Freeze until ice cream is firm. Press second cup of crumbs on firm vanilla ice cream, and continue layering process, freezing each time after spreading ice cream.

Top with fourth cup of crumbs. Store in freezer. Cake removes easily by lifting with foil. Serves 6 to 8.

If your griddle isn't hot enough, your pancakes are likely to be heavy and tough.

Cheese Soup a New Idea to Try for Taste

Get out the can opener and banish hard work!

Take a can of soup and a sandwich and you've got the makings of a nourishing meal. The delightful combinations are endless and nothing is simpler to prepare or more likely to please.

Cheese soup may be a new one. But, it is recommended as a don't miss . . . especially when accompanied by a tomato and water-cress sandwich. To make it: Combine 1 can of condensed cream of mushroom soup and the following seasonings in a saucepan: ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce; a dash of cayenne; ½ teaspoon dry mustard. Add 1½ cups of milk gradually, and blend well. Then add ½ cup of grated cheddar cheese and heat, making sure to stir occasionally until the cheese is melted. Sprinkle each serving with additional grated cheese.

This recipe will yield 4 servings at 275 calories per serving. It's a source of vitamins A, B, and C and requires only about ten minutes preparation time. Condensed Cream of Pea Soup may be substituted for Mushroom Soup if preferred.

Add a quarter teaspoon of olive oil to the water in which you are boiling spaghetti—to keep pasta strands separate.

Kitchen arithmetic: A 12-ounce can of whole-kernel corn makes two cups.

Have a Happy July 4th Picnic

Pontiac Press Home Editor

From now on life can be just one long picnic—that is, if the weather man will cooperate and provide some picnic weather. But we have a hunch that Michiganders will have their picnics, regardless.

Let's get serious for a minute and discuss a few safety rules for picnic food. Keep it hot or keep it cold! The halfway stage is the dangerous one. Cream puffs, chocolate eclairs, custards, potato salad and a number of sandwich fillings are all foods to watch. It is in these foods that dangerous bacteria can grow in a very short time and can cause serious illness, even death.

Mayonnaise potato salad can be had at a picnic. Take every thing with you in separate containers. Keep the mayonnaise ready to eat, mix all ingredients together. But don't try to save the leftovers for tomorrow. Befor waste a little food than get ill.

Sandwich fillings may be made in the same way. Mix them at the picnic site and use them up. If you're eating two meals out, keep these salads and fillings ice cold between meals. It takes such a short time for germs to grow.

Hot dogs are always safe. But hamburger can spoil so keep it chilled too. You'll have no sour milk to worry about if you take along a package of nonfat dry milk and mix it at the picnic site. Even the chocolate milk can be made this way. All state parks have safe drinking water to use for mixing.

Another word about milk while we're on the subject. Let the children skip milk for one meal rather than drink unpasteurized milk. If no store is nearby where you can buy safe milk, use something else. Never buy milk from just any farm.

Here's an interesting way to fix hamburgers. The recipe calls for the use of corn chips.

Mix together beef, salt, pepper, horseradish, mustard, catsup, onion, garlic, Worcestershire sauce and crushed corn chips.

Form into six flat patties. Melt cooking oil in skillet and fry patties until brown on one side then turn and brown on the other side.

1 pound ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
1/2 teaspoon cream style horseradish
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 cup catsup
1/2 cup onion (minced)
1/2 cup garlic (minced)
1/2 cup Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup finely crushed corn chips (measured after crushing)
2 tablespoons cooking oil
2 hamburger buns
2 cups corn chips for garnishing

Here's a sandwich filling that won't spoil. It seems as if peanut butter will combine with anything!

Pickled Peanut Butter Filling

1/2 cup peanut butter
2 tablespoons honey

1/2 cup chopped dill pickles
2 slices buttered bread

Combine peanut butter, honey and dill pickles; mix well. Spread 4 slices bread with pickle mixture. Top with remaining bread.

This filling had better be made at the picnic site. You can dice the celery at home and take the other ingredients along in the picnic basket.

Tropical Sandwich Filling

1 cup diced ripe banana (use fully ripe bananas, yellow peel flecked with brown)
1/2 cup diced pineapple
1/2 cup sliced almonds
1/2 cup diced celery
2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon mayonnaise
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
Crisp lettuce

Use fully ripe bananas... yellow peel flecked with brown.

Mix all ingredients together lightly. Spread on your favorite bread or toast. Top with crisp lettuce and another slice of bread. Makes enough filling for 6 to 8 sandwiches.

An answer to packing trouble is this Easy Pack Picnic Cake.

1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup vinegar
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup shortening
3 squares chocolate, melted

Set oven at 350 degrees. Line bottoms of 8"x8"x2" pan with waxed paper. Grease waxed paper lightly.

Sift cake flour into a piece of waxed paper. Measure 2 cups. Place in sifter. Add baking soda and salt. Set aside. Mix together vinegar, milk and vanilla. Set aside.

Put eggs and sugar in large mixing bowl. Beat for one minute, about 125 strokes. Sift in flour mixture. Add shortening and one-half of milk mixture. Stir until flour is

French Bread Slices Team With Tangy Butter

Talk about Toasties! Everybody will, once they taste this Parsley-Lemon version. Cut brown 'n serve loaves of French bread diagonally, almost through the bottom crust. Spread cut surfaces with parsley butter.

To make: Combine equal parts of soft butter or margarine and parsley flakes. Season with lemon juice. String each loaf on a long, sharp-pointed skewer, inserting the skewer through the center of each loaf. Heat over hot coals or under a broiler, turning to brown the bread on all sides. Wonderful for all types of outdoor eating.

Doctor Pleads for Plain Food

NEW YORK (INS) — A leading research scientist has cited four things "wrong with the American diet" and suggested four changes.

In the June issue of a magazine, Dr. Jeremiah Stamler, an American Heart Association investigator, said recent findings indicated that "the habitual diet is a decisive factor responsible" for increased heart disease.

Here's what is wrong with our diets, Dr. Stamler said: "Many Americans eat too much; we eat too much fat, particularly of the saturated variety; we eat too many carbohydrates, fats and starches; 'empty calorie' foods that are high in calories and low in nutrients and bulk.

"And our diets are unbalanced, with too many calories in proportion to nutrients.

Dr. Stamler suggested these changes:

Stop adding fats to so many foods by frying meats, dressing salads with mayonnaise and putting butter on vegetables.

Serve fruit for dessert.

"Modify breakfast habits." Eat fruit and whole-grain cereals and breads instead of the traditional bacon and eggs, which has a huge calorie intake of saturated fat. At other meals, eat lean meats; don't fry them or add heavy sauces or gravies.

Cabbage Salad Hides Between Meat Slices

A sandwich within a sandwich, is this Beef-Slaw Sandwich. Between slices of enriched bread is a "meat" sandwich—2 slices of cold roast beef hold a serving of your favorite cabbage slaw.

Butter slices of enriched bread. On half the buttered bread, place a slice of roast beef, cover with cabbage slaw, a second cut of beef and top with a bread slice.

Try Spiced Angel Food

Like spicy flavor in your dessert? Add 1/4 teaspoon of ground cloves and the same of ground cinnamon to the flour mixture when you are baking angel food cake. Frost with whipped cream and chocolate sprinkles.

CHECKING SUPPLIES—Mrs. John H. Little and her two daughters, Pat (almost 11) and Barbara (almost 15), believe in getting ready ahead of time. They have lots of picnics during the summer, but never miss one on the Fourth of July. This year they will be guests of friends in Sylvan Lake City. With their picnic basket in readiness, all they have to do is worry about the weather on Thursday. The Little family lives on Franklin road.

British Open Begins Today

Cary Middlecoff
Heads Ten From U.S. in Field

Al Watrous Decides Not to Compete; Favorite Is Pete Thomson

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Former U.S. Open champion Dr. Cary Middlecoff has a college education and for that reason British Ryder Cup golfer Harry Weetman believes he has a big advantage over many of his less fortunate colleagues teeing off in the British Open today.

"Brains sharpened like Middlecoff's help in a tight corner," Weetman said. "I'm sure players who have had a university education often have a great advantage in golf."

Middlecoff was a dentist before he turned to golf for a living. In the next five days he faces one of his toughest assignments—skewing the teeth of the reputation wrecking Old Course in his first bid to win the British Open crown.

The 6,996-yard, par 36-38-72 Old Course has sent the world's greatest golfers away in despair after their trip around its famous fairways, where golf was played 400 years ago.

Middlecoff heads a 10-man American challenge which includes Frank Stranahan, former British Amateur champion.

Gene Andrews, a 43-year-old insurance salesman from California, was the first American off the tee this morning. He shot a round of 38-34-72, best among the early finishers.

Favorite for the title is Peter Thomson, 27, long driving Australian who has won the championship the last three years.

The field of 300 will be cut to a maximum of 100 after qualifying rounds today and tomorrow.

Then the survivors will start all over again Wednesday going 72 holes to decide the championship.

Wrong Score Disqualifies Pung

Rawls Wins Crown

MAMORNECK, N. Y. (AP)—What penalty is "to severe" for a golfer who turns in an incorrect score in a championship tournament?

The United States Golf Assn. again was called upon to answer that question today after the topsy-turvy finish of the fifth USGA Women's Open championship at the Winged Foot Club.

Following the rules strictly, the tournament committee, guided by USGA president Dick Tufts, handed the title to Betty Rawls after disqualifying Jackie Pung, who had beaten her out, 298 to 299, in the actual score. Jackie, in the confusion of a tense finish, had attested a card with the wrong score on one hole.

Sylvan Glen Golfers
Get First Place Tie

This was the first time the victor in a major championship ever had been disqualified after actually completing a winning round. And the clubhouse probably was greater than that raised last year when several players were given two-stroke penalties for similar offenses under a rules provision which permits committees to modify disqualification.

Sylvan Glen scored a 12½-9½ victory over Pontiac Sunday, in move into a 1st place tie with Idle Brae Burn in the Metropolitan Golf Association's White Division.

Paul Bada led Sylvan Glen with a three-under-par 67. Other Sylvan Glen scores were 72 for Ron Rothbarth, 75 for Mike Andonian and 81 for Ed Wasik. Roy Iceberg was best for Pontiac with 71, followed by Dick Robertson 74, Glenn Harding 76, and Chuck Barker 78.

Bob O'Link won its 1st victory of the season with a 12-10 decision over Morey's No. 2, Stan Savage (80) and Joe Burgdorf (85) dropped 11 points to Ray Kane (75) and Walt Nossel (76).

In other MGA results, Sunnybrook continued to lead the Red Division with a 15-7 win over Morey's No. 1, Hillcrest massacred Idyl Wyld, 21½-1½, and Highlands defeated River Bank, 17½-4½.

Jets Win at Jackson

Pontiac Jets put together a first-inning three-run blast and a fourth-inning rally for two tallies to defeat a Jackson Prison baseball club 8-4 Sunday. Final runs came late in the game, but were not needed.

First Jackson pitcher was chased in the opener. Cox and Booker singled and both were sent home.

Clean Sweep

New Vacation

New York — Ex-king champion Mickey Walker is a sales agent for a five-state area.

Off-Season Work

Lakeland, Fla. — Pitcher Virgil Trucks has an off-season ball business in Lakeland.

Single Point Margin

Dennehy Wins DHS Jumper Rivalry

BY H. GUY MOATS

Most coveted honor for the Detroit Horse Show has been won by a slim Deerfield III. rider and his proficient jumper, Pill Box. Charles Dennehy, Jr., 24 years old, of the Royal Oak farms rode the sturdy chestnut gelding to a 35 point total in the six-day, 40th annual horse show at the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club. It was exactly one point more than the total collected by U.S. Olympic team member, Hugh Wiley. Title was the DHS jumper championship. Wiley was named reserve champion for his horse, Master William.

Dennehy comes of a Chicago

family where riding has been a regular thing. He began handling jumpers around the tender age of 12, has been at it ever since. His show activities have taken him all over the Midwest and East, and he has been a frequent exhibitor and competitor in Madison Square Garden, as well as in all the big horse shows. He was married about a year ago.

Wiley, who hails from Towson, Md., is really a veteran of the show ring. He started his riding 25 years ago, at five years of age. He, like Dennehy, has a national reputation as a jumper rider. He has been a member of the United States Olympic team for two Olympics, was also a member of the U.S. Pan-American team. He will certainly be a candidate for the 1960 Olympics in Rome, Italy, he said Sunday.

Battle for the jumper title was red-hot since early in the show. Both young riders gave many expert and crowd-pleasing rides, with the chestnut speedster and the steady, easy-going gray. The veteran Max Bonham was a close contender until he suffered a deep cut on his chin which bothered him in Sunday's events.

One of the happy surprises of the weekend program was 17-year-old Howard Miller's first open event victory. Howard a Rochester high school junior gave his smooth Flannigan a good ride to take the six-bar test on a clean jumpoff performance.

Mrs. Graham J. Graham's Battle Fashion and Triple Shot added two more wins apiece for Saturday and Sunday to make the Bloomfield stable one of two winners of the week in the hunter division.

Other important results in the weekend program included Wiley's win in the 3rd section of the Motor City Sweepstakes with Nautical. He was 2nd and 3rd in the overall 3-day event with Master William and Nautical.

Aaron, Mathews Keep Braves on Top in NL

Yanks Win 2 to Lead Again

The New York Yankees were back in first place today but a new threat has risen in the American League pennant race in the Boston Red Sox.

Winners of 11 of the last 13 games, Mike Higgins' streaking crew has pushed its way into a virtual third place tie with Cleveland, seven games off the pace. Paced by their three-man wrecking crew of Ted Williams, Jackie Jensen and Frank Malzone, the Red Sox flattened Detroit 10-3 for a sweep of their three-game set over the Tigers who have lost 10 of their last 13.

Kansas City pitcher Ralph Terry came within five outs of a no-hitter and Yankee pitcher Don Larsen hurled his first complete game of the season as New York made it 11 in a row over their Athletic cousins with a 2-1 and 5-1 sweep of a doubleheader.

Roy Sievers' 18th home run, his second of the day, gave Washington a 10-inning 11-9 victory after the Chicago White Sox had rallied for four runs in the ninth to win the opener 7-6. The Sox overcame a 9-3 deficit in the second game before Sievers' second homer knocked them out of a first place tie with the Yankees.

Baltimore won its first series from Cleveland since it returned to the American League in 1954, capturing its third game in the four-game set as Billy Loes pitched a four-hit 12-3 triumph over the Indians.

Henry Aaron became the first major league pitcher to reach 100 hits and batted his 22nd and 23rd home runs as the Milwaukee Braves swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 7-4 and 6-5. Eddie Mathews' two-run homer in the 13th won the second game and kept the Braves in first place, a half game in front of the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Brooks Lawrence turned in a six-hitter for his ninth victory in Cincinnati's 6-1 triumph over Philadelphia then came back to snuff out a Philly rally in the ninth as the Redlegs won the second game 6-2.

Ruben Gomez became the first National League pitcher to win 10 games as the New York Giants defeated St. Louis 5-3 in the first game. The Cardinals won the nightcap 7-1 behind bonus right-hander Lindy McDaniel. Stan Musial hit a three-run homer for the Cards, his 18th of the season. It also was the 37th of his career to break a sixth place tie with Ralph Kiner among all-time home run leaders.

in reverse when 27 Dodgers struck out as they were held to a split decision in their doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs. After Chicago had Brooklyn's 5-1 triumph.

Stan Doesn't Need Assist to Make NL All-Star Team

NEW YORK (AP)—Stan "The Man" Musial of St. Louis didn't need an assist from Commissioner Ford Frick to gain his customary spot on the National League All-Star team, it developed today.

Only three days ago, Frick tossed Cincinnati's George Crowe, Gus Bell and Wally Post out of the starting lineup and replaced them with Musial, Willie Mays and Hank Aaron after he decided that Cincinnati fandom was stuffing the ballot box.

As things turned out, Stan the Man pulled in 363,792 votes for first base compared to 272,655 for Crowe even after the last-minute deluge of Redleg votes. Mays and Aaron needed the commissioner's aid, though. In the battle for center field, Bell drew 471,295 votes to 302,573 for the New York Giant flycatcher. Post collected 45,457 votes to 335,918 in the race for right field with Aaron, Milwaukee's top hitter.

But by executive edict, it will be Mays in center field and Aaron in right field when the National League takes the field in St. Louis on July 9. Frick made no comment in announcing the team yesterday.

Nor did he have any answer to the Redleg proposal that Bell, Crowe and Post be made "honorary" members of the team so they can collect the gift that goes to each member of the All-Stars. He is not expected to take any cognizance of the idea.

A further statistical note: Even if the Cincinnati landslide hadn't developed, the only other State Net Meet at Flint Tennis Tournament will be held at Flint Tennis Club July 13-14 and ball league has had four presidents since it began in 1922.

Detroit Retailing Up in All but Appliances

DETROIT (AP)—Retail business in Detroit during May increased over a year in every category but appliance sales, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reports.

Furniture sales were up 19 per cent, jewelry and women's apparel up five per cent and department store sales up three per cent. Appliance sales were seven per cent below last year. Unemployment increased to seven per cent of the total labor force, two points below a year ago.

No Sun? No Surprise

DETROIT (AP)—It shouldn't surprise Detroiters if they don't always see the sun when it's shining. The city's smoke abatement bureau reported that 692.4 tons of dust, dirt, fly-ash, cinders and other debris were deposited on every square mile last year. The 1935 total was 753 tons and 675 tons in 1934.

Spend Quiet Time at Country Home

Ike, Mamie Celebrating 41st Anniversary Today

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (U. S. — President and Mrs. Eisenhower are observing their 41st wedding anniversary today at their country home on the edge of this quiet town.

"It's a home which nestles in peaceful green fields where in the early hours 94 years ago today the forces of Meade and Lee — North against South — first clashed in the tide-turning Civil War battle of Gettysburg.

Last night the President and the First Lady went to the Gettysburg High School auditorium for a ceremony commemorating the men of the Blue and the Grey who died in that agonizing three-day battle.

There they heard Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, tell a capacity audience of about 1,500 that the hope for secure peace "burns as warmly in our hearts today" as it did in 1953.

Taylor said that in this nuclear age, the possibility of a general atomic war is lessening. But he added local limited aggression by Communist forces poses "an increasingly serious threat to world peace."

GET WARM OVATION

After Taylor's speech, the President and his wife stood at their front row seats and smiled broadly when the master of ceremonies, Gettysburg's Burgess (Mayor) William G. Weaver, told the crowd: "I think it fitting to give the bride and groom of 41 years a big hand at this time."

The audience cut loose with a warm ovation for the Eisenhowers.

For the President and the First Lady today is a day of personal memories of their marriage in Denver in 1916, just a year after Eisenhower's graduation from West Point as a second lieutenant.

There was an exchange of anniversary gifts at the farm but what they gave each other was not made public.

Last night there was a quiet dinner with two house guests who were celebrating their 31st wedding anniversary. The guests, staying on today, were Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Leonard D. Heaton.

Heaton, commandant at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, operated on the President for ileitis a bit more than a year ago. The surgeon and his wife also were guests at the farm in 1956, during the President's convalescence, for joint observance of the Eisenhower - Heaton anniversaries.

Eisenhower came to the farm Friday afternoon and plans to return to the White House this evening or tomorrow morning. Since arrival at Gettysburg he has kept in close touch both in direct telephone calls and through aides with rescue and relief operations in hurricane-battered Louisiana.

During the weekend Eisenhower designated hurricane-hit regions of Louisiana and Texas as major disaster areas eligible for federal relief funds. He also put all available emergency government facilities at the disposal of rescue and relief officials and called on the public to contribute generously to the American Red Cross.

Fifty workmen were needed recently to wash the 67-year accumulation of dirt from the Eiffel Tower in Paris.

House Group OKs Continued Aid to Tito

WASHINGTON (U. S. — A provision to allow continued U. S. aid to Yugoslavia has been approved by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

This was reported by a committee spokesman today as the House group gathered for a closed session to act on President Eisenhower's $3,865,000 foreign aid request.

The committee voted Friday to cut 600 million dollars from the Eisenhower program for the approved by the Senate. It also million dollars deeper than that in 12-month period, a slash of 400 turned down most of the long-term aid authority the President sought.

Not announced at the time was committee approval of various provisions of the bill just as they had passed the Senate. One of these provisions, the committee spokesman said, is that which permits continued assistance to Communist Yugoslavia provided the President "continuously" finds this to be in the interest of U. S. security and keeps congressional committees informed of the aid sent.

Girl, 3, Falls From Car After Opening Door

While riding with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Baker, of 3077 Kettering Ave., three-year-old Brenda Baker accidentally opened the door of her car Saturday and fell to the pavement.

Mrs. Ruth Baker told Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, where the girl was treated, that the accident happened, president since 1951, will in Pontiac Township, just after noon Saturday.

According to the report, Brenda had just rolled a window down and her mother told the child to roll it back up. Evidently she grabbed the door handle by mistake and opened the door, falling out. She was admitted to the hospital with cuts and bruises and released Sunday afternoon after observation.

Girard Case Reviewed

WASHINGTON (INS) — Written arguments go to the Supreme Court today on the internationally supercharged issue of whether Army Specialist 3-C William S. Girard should be tried in a Japanese court or by U. S. court-martial.

Approximately 5,500 products, from toothpicks to ships, are made from wood.

Is Hirohito Too Human?

Emperor Raises Conflict

217th EMPEROR RAISES TOKYO (INS) — Emperor Hirohito is the subject of a nationwide controversy today because many Japanese feel the humanizing of the former "National Deity" has gone too far.

A Japanese college professor made the front pages recently when he chastised Japanese junior high school students for not taking their hats off when the Emperor passed by.

The professor's criticism immediately generated retorts from readers, one of whom said the Emperor "welcomed this treatment and preferred living with the people."

Prof. Sose Komachiya said the students didn't even bow to Emperor Hirohito and some even climbed a fence to get a closer look.

Before the war this "rudeness" not only would have been unheard of, but students or anybody else rarely would have been given the opportunity to see the Emperor with their own eyes.

But in these post-war, democratic days in Japan when some students bow their heads or doff their caps to his Imperial Highness, it also raises a storm.

The critics point with alarm to the fact that the nation is slipping back to the days before Gen. Douglas MacArthur lifted the chrysanthemum curtain surrounding the Emperor.

When the 56-year-old Emperor goes for a walk or makes a visit to a hospital, he leaves a trail of arguments behind. Many conservative persons feel the Emperor's humanization has gone as far as it should go — probably, too far.

They would like to see a return to more austere, dignified life with less contact with the people for the man who after the war became merely a symbol of his country.

At the same time, other Japanese applauded the Emperor's frequent public appearances as proof Japan has become truly democratic.

Veterans Organization Elects New Officers

DETROIT (U. S. — Richard G. O'Leary of Grand Rapids was elected state commander of the Michigan Amvets yesterday as the veterans organization closed out a three-day convention here.

Other officers elected were Frank J. Lada, Allen Park, senior vice commander; Henry S. Rykaczewski, Detroit, finance officer; Ernest Boersma, East Grand Rapids, provost marshal, and J. Connor Austin, Detroit, judge advocate.

Police Harvest Arsenal From New Yorkers

NEW YORK (U. S. — During June New Yorkers could turn in dangerous weapons to police with no questions asked.

Police report they harvested a 347-weapon arsenal.

The yield includes 162 revolvers, 136 automatic pistols, 16 rifles, 2 submachineguns, 2 shotguns, 2 flare signal guns, 16 bayonets, 5 hunting knives, 4 swords and 2 switchblade knives.
