U.S. Denies Shots a Military Advance

FROM OUR NEWS WIRE

WASHINGTON — The Defense Department said today it saw no military significance in the twin orbital flights of the Russian cosmonauts.

An official spokesman said that the back-to-back launching of the two Soviet spacemen into near-identical orbits "did not come as a surprise to the Pentagon."

U.S. Officials Meet to Study Action Against Striking Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials met in an urgent session today to consider applying for a federal court injunction to stop picketing that has halted work at the U.S. space development center at Huntsville, Ala.

The strike, now in its third day, threatens to delay the nation's moon exploration program.

Stuart Rothman, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, discussed with his aides the charges of a Huntsville subcontractor that picketing by members of an AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers' local is illegal.

The union has rejected government pleas that it end the work stoppage.

About 1,300 fellow AFL-CIO building trades workers have refused to cross picket lines—halting work at the center.

It appeared likely that NLRB attorneys would seek a court order to ban the picketing either late today or tomorrow.

A team of labor relations investigators moved into the strike situation and a spokesman said today the investigation carries high priority.

Carlton Bryan, in charge of the NLRB office at Birmingham, Ala., said his crew of four investigators are actively gathering facts.

Picket lines were set up at three Redstone Arsenal gates Tuesday—and remained there to stop 150 members of the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 538, struck in protest to hiring non-union workers by Bureau Electrical Construction Co. of Pensacola, Fla.

MOST HONOR LINES
Most of the 1,500 building trades employees at the Marshall space flight center and the Army Ordnance Missile Command honored the picket lines.

Bryan said a contractors association filed one charge with the NLRB alleging that the strike and picketing is illegal.

He said Baraco filed an identical charge and an additional one alleging that the union is trying to force the company to substitute union employees for nonunion employees.

Rotunda Inn Burns

RAVAGED BY FLAMES — This section of the Rotunda Inn was destroyed early this morning when a fire started in a maintenance closet on the main floor. The second floor and roof, shown here, were changed by the flames that were shooting through the roof when the West Bloomfield Fire Department arrived on the scene at 5:35 a.m.

Six Escape by Rotunda Roof

INN SWEEPED BY EARLY BLAZE
Six persons fled this morning from a fire that broke out in an hour and a half. The fire was extinguished by 9 a.m.

Township Fire Chief Herbert Morgan said the fire apparently started in a first-floor janitor's room, which contained cleaning rags, waitresses' uniforms and a music system.

Three waiters who live at the inn were trapped on the roof when flames and smoke cut off their escape from second-floor rooms.

They got off the roof when a neighbor, Charles Rogers of 2310 Pine Lake Road, noticed their plight and brought a ladder. Rogers called the West Bloomfield Fire Department shortly before 4 a.m.

The three other persons sleeping at the inn escaped without incident.

Township firemen, who had five pieces of firefighting equipment at the scene, said flames were licking through the roof of the two-story frame building at 3230 Pine Lake Road when they arrived.

Cecil Davis, owner of the hotel, restaurant, said the Williamsburg Room and four hotel rooms on the second floor, suffered the most extensive damage.

However, Davis had repair crews at the inn minutes after firemen departed. He said four dining rooms were not damaged by the blaze and the inn will reopen tomorrow.

Firemen had the blaze under control in an hour and a half. The fire was extinguished by 9 a.m.

Russian Defense Chief Claims 'Twins' Proved 'Superiority'

FROM OUR NEWS WIRE

MOSCOW — Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky warned the world today to note the military significance of Russia's history — making twin space shots.

"Let our foes know what technology and what militance are in the possession of Soviet power," Malinovsky said in a message of congratulations to the two cosmonauts.

Soviet confidence in further space successes blared from radio and television sets and in black or red banner headlines in newspapers.

Russia claimed the dual flights last weekend gave it space superiority over the United States.

A Soviet scientist indicated however, that the "space twins" had not achieved a link-up in the cosmos as had been speculated by some Western experts.

The cosmonauts were flown today from their point of landing in Kazakhstan to another base closer to Moscow to make a detailed report on their work and life in outer space.

A correspondent for the Soviet news agency Tass who accompanied them said doctors who examined Maj. Andrian Nikolaev and Lt. Col. Pavel Popovich found their condition "excellent, excellent."

Nikolaev and Popovich landed six minutes apart yesterday in hill and desert country about 1,500 miles southeast of Moscow. Nikolaev had been circling the globe for nearly four days, Popovich for nearly three.

PREPARE WELCOME
Russians were preparing a giant hero's welcome for the two men when they return to Moscow.

In congratulating the cosmonauts, Malinovsky said:

"For ages to come you have made famous our great Soviet motherland and our great Soviet Communist party. Glory to you, let our foes know what technology and what militance are in possession of our Soviet Union."

Stockpile Killing? Baloney! He Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — George M. Humphrey told investigating senators today that charges he and his interests made unfair or improper profits from government nickel contracts are just baloney.

The vigorous former secretary of the Treasury also flatly disputed earlier testimony that M. A. Hanna Co. records important to the Senate stockpile inquiry had been destroyed early this year.

The Cleveland, Ohio, industrialist left that firm to become a member of the Dwight D. Eisenhower Cabinet in 1953-57 and is now back as honorary chairman of the board.

He testified as a volunteer witness before a Senate Armed Services subcommittee studying the stockpile situation, with these main themes:

1. The government as well as the Hanna companies made gains from the nickel purchase contract.

2. The nickel, urgently needed during the Korean War, was supplied at prices below the current market.

3. The government got all its money back, with interest, on its other outlays in the arrangement and also got a domestic supply source for the strategic metal.

Showing traces of anger at some points, and occasionally popping up with answers before questions were completed, Humphrey stressed that the contract was signed in the Harry Truman administration and the negotiations were well under way long before he even thought of joining the Republican Cabinet.

He said he had little personally to do with the $36-million deal, being occupied with a much bigger iron ore operation.

County Conventions Held

Democrats

Addressing over 300 Oakland County Democratic delegates at a convention in Pontiac last night, State Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley berated George Romney, Republican candidate for governor, as "a man with little sincerity, little initiative, and no leadership."

"And no amount of attractive packaging and PR (public relations) buildup of an image can hide an inferior product," Kelley declared.

He predicted Gov. John B. Swainson's re-election in November, referring to him as "a man with great personal and political courage... who believes in, and lives, his motto 'good government is good politics.'"

"This is the choice in November—between obstruction and progress; between more image and great substance; between an unproven huckster and a proven leader," Kelley added.

He accused Romney of being "a man who went to Con-Con and sold his own principles out to the most reactionary element of his Republican party."

Kelley charged the Republican party with obstructionism in its control of the state legislature, by having defeated Gov. Swainson's fiscal reform program, thus placing the interest of political opportunism ahead of the state.

The attorney general also accused the GOP party of turning its back on democratic principles by seeking to deny reappointment of

Republicans

Delegates to the Republican party county convention last night headed off right-wing opposition to his 1962 platform before it got started, only to draw charges of "shameful and disgraceful" tactics from the opposition's leader.

An alternate platform pushed by the opposition failed to come up for consideration when a motion to close debate on the platform came on a 11-1 vote recommendation passed by a narrow margin.

Larry S. Daybrow of Huntington Woods, leader of the small group of "ultraconservatives," afterwards termed the parliamentary move "reprehensible" and contrary to the party's tradition of fair play.

A move by Daybrow to add himself and four others to the nominees for 1962 state convention seats also failed.

His group's last effort, a resolution to amend the state constitution to require a referendum on the floor as the convention adjourned, died.

The platform passed following the keynote speech by Grant Reynolds, legal counsel for GOP National Chairman William Miller.

Reynolds, the first Negro ever to keynote a Republican county convention here, attacked the Kennedy Administrations "lack of sincerity in the area of civil rights."

He called for strong efforts to win the Negro vote for the GOP, which he termed the first party to take action on civil rights with Abraham Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation 100 years ago.

"We've got to convince the Negro voters that Kennedy is only playing touch football with civil rights issues," he said. "He has touched everything, but has tackled nothing."

Reynolds also blistered the Democrats for bungling and ineptness in the cold war against Russia and for "not only failing to move the economy forward, but also for his (Kennedy's) police state methods that have created an atmosphere in which business and industry fear to expand."

Key differences between the adopted platform and Davidson's proposals concerned a state income tax and support of proposed new state constitution.

The platform adopted by delegates following closure of debate Tuesday night was approved by a 57-27 vote.

Holly Youth Killed in Game of 'Chicken'

A 16-year-old Holly High School student was killed last night when he attempted to pass from a moving car to the back of a pickup truck in a deadly game of "chicken."

Dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital was John E. Skeels, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Skeels of 366 Oakland Ave., Holly.

The drivers of the car and the pickup truck involved in the fatal mishap were being questioned today at the Oakland County prosecutor's office to determine if charges would be brought against them.

Michael L. Ogilvie, 16, of 1115 S. Saginaw St., Holly, said he was driving about 20 miles an hour when Skeels got out the door and climbed on the hood of the moving car.

Ogilvie and the driver of the pickup truck, Glenn Ashley, 20, of Holly, were to make statements today at the prosecutor's office.

Fingerprints May Be Clue to Postal Bandits

Organize Huge Manhunt for $1.5-Million Robbers

BOSTON (AP) — Police uncovered three fingerprints on a burned automobile today as a widespread manhunt was set up for the white-gloved bandits who robbed a mail truck of $1.5 million in historic Plymouth Tuesday night.

Sgt. Joseph Leonard, one of a team of Boston detectives working on the case, found the prints in a trunk of the car. The automobile belonged to a Revere man who reported it stolen on June 12.

Police attached significance to the car because it contained a road sign similar to one used by the gangsters in the hold-up on Route 3 in Plymouth. The signs have been turned over to the Post Office Department.

The message read: "I send to you and to the Soviet people the heartfelt congratulations of the people and the government of the United States on the outstanding joint flights of Maj. Nikolayev and Col. Popovich."

"This new accomplishment is an important forward step in the great human adventure of peaceful exploitation of space."

"America's astronauts join with me in sending our salute to Maj. Nikolayev and Col. Popovich."

Adding to Webb's words at the news conference, NASA Deputy Administrator Dr. Hugh L. Dryden said: "The fact that they have done the job ahead of us does not mean that they are ahead of us in going to the moon."

However, both Dryden and other NASA officials said it was possible the Soviet Union might make a manned trip around the moon without landing before the United States could do so.

A Soviet correspondent put into words the question puzzling many American reporters.

Sergei Vishnensky of Pravda wanted to know why official answers at the news conference about America's space progress sounded so much more optimistic than other views attributed to NASA officials and U.S. scientists.

The defense minister's message, published in the Soviet army newspaper Red Star, contrasted with other reports in other Soviet information media which have emphasized the peaceful aspects of the dual flights.

"I was amazed by Andrian Nikolayev's self-possession," said a doctor who examined the astronauts soon after they stepped from their spaceships.

"He looked cheerful, untroubled. In fact, he was as untroubled as if he never had been into space. His physical condition is excellent."

The Tass report said the two heroes were besieged by journalists, photographers and radio correspondents asking hundreds of questions. Tass reported they "were in high spirits."

"I must visit mother," he said. "This year I didn't manage to go."

The report said the astronauts today had exchanged their space suits for air force uniforms and looked "very cheerful, in high spirits and gay."

Direct long-distance dialing phone calls were halted in Oxford, Lake Orion and Metamora when an earth mover working on Interstate Highway 75 ripped up three Michigan Bell Telephone cables this morning.

According to Ray Storm, district manager of Michigan Bell, about 200 feet of cable was ripped out of the ground about a quarter of a mile north of the Oxford Road intersection of I-75.

The toll center for the direct dialing located in Pontiac, was cut off from the three communities. Service was expected to resume about 2 p.m.

Ticket Buyers Get Gift Choice

Or Republicans May Ask for $100 Return; Speaker Cancels

Republicans who purchased tickets to next Monday's canceled fundraising appearance of Minnesota Congressman Walter H. Judd are being given a choice of requesting a refund or leaving the money with the GOP as a political contribution.

Charles L. Lyle, chairman of the Oakland County Republican Committee, said letters have been mailed to ticket holders explaining the cancellation.

The letter also gives them a choice of requesting a refund, leaving the money for general campaign use by the party or earmarking the money for the campaign of a particular county candidate.

Tickets for the fund-raising dinner cost $100 apiece. Lyle estimated that 45 to 50 had been sold.

Tomorrow is X-Day for candidates in last week's primary election — the final day they have to file a statement of campaign expenses.

It may also be T-day for County Clerk Daniel T. Murphy — the day his Troubles start in trying to round up the statements.

Murphy said it's not always easy to collect expense statements from candidates — especially the losers — even though state law requires them.

And it's just as hard, apparently, to get an accurate statement from some candidates, Murphy said, because no right method of enforcing the law has been devised.

"With his vast experience, he will be a great help to us," Booth added.

The doctor's long career includes four years as dean of humanities at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and 22 years as president of The Cooper Union.

In addition to being consultant president, Dr. Burdell administered a $1.5 million grant to United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, as chief of mission with a staff of 18 UNESCO experts recruited internationally and assigned to the university.

Dr. Burdell participated in planning the new university on Ankara, five miles south of Ankara. When he left last June the new university was being built with the equivalent of a $5-million grant from the Turkish government.

Calls for Ban on Walkouts

Ex-Federal Reserve Chief Eccles Urges Immediate Tax Cut

WASHINGTON—Outlawing of strikes and lockouts was recommended yesterday by Mariner S. Eccles, former Federal Reserve Board chairman.

He called also for an immediate cut of five percentage points in personal income taxes.

Eccles, who headed the Federal Reserve during parts of the Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman administrations, did not mention President Kennedy's decision that the present state of the economy does not warrant a quick tax reduction.

But Eccles told the Senate House Economic Committee which is making a study of economic conditions and policies for full employment:

"I do feel the present situation, which could easily lead to a serious recession, calls for temporary action now. . . I can see no reason to wait until next year to reduce taxes."

BLASTS LABOR
Eccles said the economy is in trouble because of heavy disbursements overseas and because what he called "excessive increases of wages and fringe benefits of organized labor."

He said wage increases must be curbed and "the benefits of increased productivity should be reflected in lower prices or superior products."

"The 'real monopoly today,' he said, is organized labor. 'Strikes, as well as lockouts, should be outlawed,' Eccles continued.

"Where there are conflicts, compulsory arbitration should be provided with the right of appeal by either party to labor courts to be established."

He also called for a curb on government spending, sharp reduction of foreign economic and military aid and overseas U. S. military expenditures.

Limits should be placed also on foreign travel by U. S. citizens, foreign investments by U. S. corporations and foreign borrowing in this country, he said.

South African Natives Sober at Prohibition's End

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—South Africa's black population gave a sober reception today to the abolition of liquor prohibition for them. They had little cash to spend for any celebrating.

First signs of the changed order by which blacks can buy liquor on equal terms with whites were clusters of Africans outside liquor store display windows.

Only a few went in and most of them ventured merely to buy a pint of beer.

Negroes who made liquor purchases were handed government printed pamphlets warning them of the evils of excessive drinking.

I'm Frequently Asked—
"What's Simms Doing About All the New Stores That Have Come to Town Lately?"

MY ANSWER IS

"We Battle 'em With Bigger Bargains!"

Practically every one of the new stores is just another unit of chain-store operation with a remote "home office" stockholders expecting big profits, high salaried swivel-chair executives and all the expenses of new buildings, acres of asphalt, air conditioning, etc., etc., etc.

With our low-overhead policy, we should easily under-sell this kind of competition if we can't, we don't deserve your patronage.

My Dad and Uncles founded Simms on the policy of saving money for each and every customer in 1934. It's now my job to continue that policy to your pocketbook to always compare prices at Simms before you buy anywhere.

Labor Knows Fight for Shorter Week Will Be Tough

By NORMAN WALKER
Associated Press Labor Writer
WASHINGTON — Labor union leaders realize better than anyone that their new campaign for a 35-hour work week isn't going to be easy or quick.
"Historically," the AFL-CIO leaders said in Chicago Monday in announcing their new drive, "the great struggles to reduce the working hours of Americans have been long and hard-fought. But the difficulties do not and cannot weaken our determination to succeed."

The unions plainly do not expect nationwide overnight success. They do resolve to put more heat than they have been an employer in behalf of a shorter week at the same pay—with the prospect this will lead to more industrial conflict and strikes.
It remains to be seen just how determined the unions are in carrying out their goal in actual bargaining with employers. Fewer work hours is a demand nearly always made in opening negotiations and nearly always abandoned before settlements are made.
MAY SPARK FIRE
The 35-hour week just may be the issue, however, to rekindle some of the old crusading spirit of the 1890s in labor union ranks. It is certainly true that if a union leader wants to get a rousing cheer from a worker audience he can usually do it by coming out four square for a shorter work week.

Workers apparently have no real longing for more leisure. They do not regard the present normal 40-hour work week as onerous. But they do like the prospect of overtime rates applying after 35 instead of 40 hours of work. Moreover, the AFL-CIO proposes to boost the overtime rate from 1½ to 2 times straight time pay.

IDLE RATE HIGH
It is also true that, with 4 million unemployed, many of the employed are worried about holding onto their jobs. The AFL-CIO argument that government and industry have failed to provide full employment—that the idle rate has exceeded 5 per cent of the work force for nearly 5 straight years—won't fall on deaf ears. Sharing available jobs thus could come to be regarded as inurance against losing jobs at ready hand.

President Kennedy and his labor secretary, Arthur J. Goldberg, have repeatedly expressed their opposition to any general reducing of the work week. They say resulting increased costs would unbalance the economy and the job ahead for America will require full output on a 40-hour week basis.
Goldberg, however, has been publicly warning of a rising tide of labor sentiment for a shorter work week if unemployment remained.

40-HOUR LAW
It is interesting to note that on the very date the AFL-CIO came out with its 35-hour week goal Kennedy was busy at the White House signing into law legislation requiring the 40-hour week for workers on government construction.
The 35-hour week declaration caused raised eyebrows, but the new law signed by Kennedy resulted in no stir. It merely made a legal requirement what was being generally done anyway by union rules.

About one out of every eight workers already has a regular work week of less than 40 hours through union contract. This is usually on the basis of a 35 or 37½-hour week. New York City electricians won a 25-hour regular week earlier this year.

Meades killed 351 persons in Hong Kong in the first three months of 1961, or more than 100 times as many as in the corresponding period of 1960.

Diefenbaker Faces Fight for Political Life This Fall

OTTAWA (AP) — John G. Diefenbaker is getting ready for his most difficult job of political tightrope walking.

The test will come Sept. 27 when the prime minister convenes Parliament for the first time since his Conservative party lost its majority in the House of Commons.

The question is: Will he be able to carry on with a minority government in the face of economic troubles and demands for a new election?

The prime minister, 66, apparently is determined to try it even if he has to make a deal with his ideological enemies, the New Democratic party. Like the Conservatives, this farmer-labor group wants to buy time for party reorganization before facing another election.

On the other hand, the Liberal party leader, Lester B. Pearson, and a leader of the Social Credit party, Paul Cossette, have indicated they may try to topple the government by a no-confidence move as soon as an opportunity arises.

The country's economic difficulties, coupled with proposed long-term remedies, could provide the taste for a quick test.

RARE MAJORITY

tives in 115 of the 265 House seats, can just barely hang on if the 19-seat NDP bloc backs it.

President Set Style

contributed to instability by refusing to convene Parliament in the summer.

"Stability can only be based on confidence, and we cannot get confidence until we have a government that inspires confidence by wise and confident action," Pearson says.

"We will require a general election to get a government that will give us that."

Cossette asserts he will vote for any no-confidence motion raised in Parliament.

clares. "I will not fight for him inside it."

"The country needs a stable government. The quicker we have another election, the quicker we will have such a government."

Cossette claims a new election now would give the Social Credit party 50 seats in French-speaking Quebec Province and 100 more across the country. In the June election, it won 26 in Quebec and 14 elsewhere.

LIBERALS HAVE HOPES
Pearson's interest in an early election is based on the hope that economic difficulties will convince the voters they need a government with an absolute majority—and that they would turn to the Liberals, as the second largest party. The Liberals now occupy 99 seats in the House.

Diefenbaker, at work on strategy, faces the problem of presenting plans for putting the country's economy on a sound basis while trying to keep his government in office. Almost everybody agrees that the required economic measures may call for a lot of belt-tightening.

Last week Diefenbaker reshuffled his Cabinet, apparently with the aim of restoring damage done to the party image by the economic and financial difficulties.

Finance Minister Donald Fleming, sometimes blamed for the country's unbalanced budgets during the past five years and also for the dollar crisis, was shifted to the post of justice minister and attorney general. He was succeeded by George Clyde Nowlan, 63, former minister of national revenue.

Romney Is Confident He Can Help Michigan

GEORGE W. ROMNEY is off and running for the governorship of Michigan.

At a press conference last Saturday noon during his day-long tour of Oakland County, he gave every indication of knowing exactly what is needed in executive Lansing to get our state out of its economic doldrums and how he proposed going about it.

Arriving and departing on the scheduled dot, he likened his proposed campaign timing to the precision component control of an automobile assembly line.

Capsuling the approach to Michigan's present fiscal mess, he said that although tax reform is badly needed and the subject of much debate, spending reform is equally necessary — but rarely mentioned. The candidate spoke confidently of the financial betterment that could be achieved during his term of office, which he stated would be served fully without presidential aspirations for 1964.

Stressed during the half-hour conference was that good leadership, whether in industry or government, accepts full responsibility for results. It does not seek to condone failure of programs by ascribing it to obstructionism or gloss it over with name-calling, voicing catch phrases or applying diverting labels.

Mr. ROMNEY concluded with the forthright assertion that his campaign would be pitched on a high level, eschewing indulgence in derogation and innuendo that so often become a part of political campaigns.

State, Pontiac Police Did Commendable Job

The Press warmly congratulates the Pontiac Police Department and the Michigan State Police on the speedy apprehension of the criminals who a fortnight ago robbed and murdered a respected local storekeeper.

Considering the absence of identifying clues at the scene of the crime, the thoroughness and expedition of the two law-enforcement agencies in breaking the case is all the more noteworthy. The early date set for the pair's court appearance is also commendable, with its indication of speedy and fitting justice being meted out.

There is no more potent deterrent to crime than effective solution of it and the certainty of punishment to follow.

We may all take heart in the knowledge that what might have become a protracted sequence of crime has been abruptly brought to a stop.

All-Time Sportsman Observes 100th Year

Today AMOS ALONZO STAGG observes his 100th birthday.

His place in the sports and athletic world is unmatched—both from the standpoint of longevity and from his uplifting influence in areas in which he moved.

Known best for his 41-year tenure as football mentor at the University of Chicago, he continued coaching after Chicago dropped football from its athletic program until two years ago—a coach for 71 years.

Before taking up this job, he played football at Yale, being picked on WALTER CAMP's first All-America team. He also was outstanding in baseball, a pitcher sought by several National League teams. He's the only man ever named to the Football Hall of Fame as both a player and a coach.

Stagg has been a living monument to physical fitness, playing tennis and running regularly until his mid-90s. But even capping his contribution to the physical development and pre-eminence of multitudes has been his promulgation of Christian ideals in athletics.

His example gave real meaning to the time-honored precept, now a bit tarnished with cynicism in some quarters: "It's not whether you win or lose, but how you play the game."

The Man About Town

A Business Yarn Store Run Half Century by One Man's Family

By HOWARD V. HELDENBRAND

In an age when large merchandising combinations seem to be eliminating the individual operator to quite an extent, this account of a neighboring family business with its touch of human interest is most encouraging and heart warming.

Of 1915, established a drugstore which he operated until his health failed in 1943. A son

George Griggs who had been connected with Battle Creek Sanitarium, then took over. Now, his son

Lee J. Griggs who had graduated from University of Michigan's College of Pharmacy two years ago but had continued under a scholarship for one year and under a fellowship for another, is now taking over for six weeks while his parents attend Seattle's World's Fair.

The MAT's best wishes for the entire family and a happy time for the travelers who no doubt have well earned their time off.

Frank L. Kaiser of 1424 Rossdale, just phoned in a whopper — not the kind of whopper maybe you're thinking about. This one's a tomato — again, not the kind maybe you're thinking about. . . . This is the kind you eat!

This one must be the daddy of all tomatoes, a king-size job weighing 2 1/2 lbs. The justifiably proud grower said it is a Hungarian Beefsteak variety, the seed coming from Hungary a couple of years ago.

Joining the ranks of gentlemen farmers is Earl A. Maxwell of 5605 Lahser Road, with some 240 acres on Huron shore near Lexington, Sez he is going in for Shorthorn beef cattle and has a starting herd of 22. . . . Knowing this gentleman farmer, the MAT predicts it will be a most successful and growing operation.

Writing "Lahser Road" the address above reminds me that it's invariably mispronounced LASH-er instead of LAH-ser. . . . Sort of like confusing MAR-tial with MAR-ital—although cynics might hold that they are practically synonymous.

From the Pontiac Metropolitan Club Bulletin: Policemen in the future pursuing Michigan motorists will be identified by a flashing blue light, instead of the red signals now used on most cars. . . . Most appropriate, since blue is the language that usually issues forth from the motorist when aware of a pursuing policeman.

A nice vacation card from Joe Singleton of 365 S. Marshall St., who says he had to travel 4,000 miles meandering to California to really appreciate the good highways and beautiful rest areas in Michigan.

Interested postcards: "Just as a kindly thought and a remembrance, I'd like to see something done in remodeling Pontiac that includes Mr. Holly—the late Mr. Haas. In all this shuffle, can't we come up with a beautiful fountain somewhere in Pontiac?" . . . To which the MAT lends enthusiastic approval.

Verbal Orchids to—

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Korabacher of 22 Chippewa Road; golden wedding anniversary.

Lighting Up a Century of Progress

Space Feat Doesn't Feed Russians

WASHINGTON — The Soviets claim they sent two astronauts round the world. They developed the stunt primarily for propaganda purposes.

What did the United States do to counteract that? A big opportunity was lost due either to timidity or a lack of realism. For the truth is the reports of the sending of two men into multiple orbits emphasize a tragedy and not a triumph inside the Soviet Union.

To take away from the 200 million people of the Soviet empire, for adventures in space, billions of rubles that should be spent to advance their standard of living — to give them decent housing and adequate food — is to commit a crime against humanity.

The privation throughout Russia is well-known.

Does anyone know just what benefits, scientific or otherwise, are to be gained from such trips around the earth that could not just as well have been deferred until the needs of the people were first satisfied?

How can there be any convincing comparison that the category of expenditures in space is greater in value than the spending of the money necessary to care for 200 million people?

U.S. CAN AFFORD The United States, on the other hand, has funds enough for a vast armament program and for exploration of space without depriving the people of essential services. The sums are growing too large, but in the main this country can afford them. The Soviet Union cannot.

The reactions of the people in the Soviet Union to inadequate standards of living are not much different from those which would be manifested by the people of this country.

If in America there were food shortages, if two or more families were being crowded into one-family apartments, and if automobiles were lacking for most everybody and clothing too expensive to be replaced except once in three or four years, would people be made any happier if they read that billions of dollars were being spent for space stunts?

Unfortunately, the American propaganda effort is too much influenced nowadays by a cult in

The Country Parson

I hadn't noticed my tongue for years, but this essay made me inspect it closely. Sure enough I found the front, the part one can protrude from the mouth, clean enough, but the rear half somewhat coated. This is the appearance of the tongue in nearly all healthy persons.

Whether the coating of the tongue is the tongue at all, I am unable to say. However, I believe Mr. F. W.'s suggestion is not without merit. It can do no harm to brush the tongue with a soft brush or scrape it with a dull wooden scraper and see whether it will stop unpleasant breath odor.

"One of our most pious ladies says she's against the common market — she's against anything common."

Washington which is afraid to speak out forthrightly for fear of "increasing tensions."

There is, however, a distinct difference between war talk or discussions of military potentialities, on the one hand, and a positive and emphatic expression of criticism about internal economic conditions in the Soviet Union.

The radio stations of the West which broadcast across the Iron Curtain are often jammed by the Communist regime, but word-of-mouth comments do penetrate.

But what was the officially expressed reaction to the Russian stunt? The highest officials here went out of their way to praise the Soviet feats. It would have perhaps been wiser to have adopted the attitude of former President Truman, who was quoted the other day as saying it was a great stunt "if true."

It can well be questioned how much is real and how much is simulated. Even television pictures can be prepared in advance and fake broadcasts arranged beforehand.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Reader Urges Brushing of Tongue to Stop Odor

In one of those pieces that make this wretched column unpopular, I suggested, to a lady (eh?), who talked down her nose at me for my habit of not brushing my teeth, that one who brushes his teeth regularly should be consistent and use a probing to keep tonsils and pharynx clean, too.

At the time I thought my sarcasm was not bad. But I soon learned it was very bad. The lady was indignant, complained to the publisher about my bad manners, and I got fired from the paper.

Now this time, folks, for goodness' sake, let's have no impudence. I have just received from a Rochesterian (Rochester, N.Y.) an essay which I think deserves publication.

Here it is, I think I can't reveal the author's name without his permission, and I can't ask for his permission because he gave no address, other than Rochester.

"For thirty years I have been telling relatives and friends, each time subtly, as if I had just tried it, how effective I had found brushing the tongue to banish 'bad breath.'"

"It is usually unnecessary in childhood, but there is no reason for foul odor from healthy teeth and gums, so it behooves adults to look to the tongue as a source of offensive breath, especially if the tongue is coated."

"Brushing the tongue is a little disagreeable and must be let to avoid gagging. I suspect this is the reason certain of my friends hesitate to brush the tongue at least once daily and continue to be offensive in this respect."

(Written by F.W.)

'Where's Recognition for Skating Team?'

Hayes Jones has been given a goodly amount of praise which he well deserves. The city fathers have conferred honors upon him. It is time that the city recognize the Pontiac Skating Club of the Rolladum for the reputation this club has brought over the years. Hats off to Bert Anselmi and the Pontiac team and hearty congratulations in winning an unprecedented eighth consecutive National Team Championship.

The Almanac

By United Press International Today is Thursday, Aug. 16, the 228th day of 1962 with 137 to follow. The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Jupiter, Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1861, the federal government prohibited the states of the Union from trading with the Confederacy.

In 1896, gold was found in Rosanna Creek, Alaska.

In 1948, Babe Ruth died in New York City.

A thought for the day: Samuel Clemens, the American author, said: "Let us be thankful for the fools. But for them the rest of us could not succeed."

Smiles

and fishery products. This bill is supported by railroads, opposed by motor and water carrier.

The other, a so-called Omnibus Transportation Act of 1965, would authorize new, experimental joint rates by rail, motor, water carrier or others. IGO would be authorized to cooperate with the states on highway safety measures and the elimination of discriminatory tax rates against any one mode of transportation. IGO and Civil Aeronautics Board would be authorized to transfer to the secretary of commerce their authority to guarantee loans to rail and air lines.

In the executive arm of government, a few of the administration transportation reforms have been put into effect by order. Inter-agency groups have been set up to deal with specific problems of research, mergers, depreciation and tax policy. The purpose is to assure coordination and equal treatment for all forms of transportation.

Trying to set up one department of transportation to deal with all transport problems is not part of the Kennedy plan. But one idea being considered for tapering off government aid to transportation is to set up a centralized budget control, allocating funds to the competing forms of transport in accord with the national interest.

The Associated Press is entitled to sell its news as well as all AP news dispatches.

The Pontiac Press is delivered by carrier for 40¢ a week, plus postage for all other areas. Subscriptions are $1.00 a year. Single copies are 10¢. The paper is published every day except on Sundays and holidays. It is published at 40 West Huron Street, Pontiac, Michigan. Member of APAC.

Prospects for two other measures being considered by Senate and House Committees are not considered too good.

One would eliminate minimum rate regulation by Interstate Commerce Commission on passenger fares and on freight rates covering bulk agricultural commodities.

Both Senate and House Banking and Currency Committees have favorably reported on urban mass transportation bills.

If finally passed before adjournment, they will set up a new $100 million, three-year aid program for state and local governments. The Federal Government would make grants of two-thirds of net project costs for acquisition of rolling stock and facilities.

A $10 million research program would also be initiated. The $50 million loan program expiring this year would be continued. Objections to all these measures is that they deal with problems that the cities and states should finance themselves.

Presidential Candidates Put Out Books

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI) — When anyone measures himself for the White House, he needs to write a book to show that he is a statesman as well as a politician.
Ten years ago, Dwight D. Eisenhower went to the republican national convention as the author of "Crusade in Europe" and Robert A. Taft as the author of "A Foreign Policy for Americans."
Adlai E. Stevenson, who had not sought the Democratic nomination, had written no book but he remedied that deficiency before campaigning for the 1956 nomination.
In 1960, the bookstores featured a catalog of speeches by Richard M. Nixon and another by John F. Kennedy, who earlier had published "Profiles in Courage." Lyndon B. Johnson had no book under his name and had to settle for the vice presidency.
Books may be a source of embarrassment when new circumstances lead a political figure into a position which deviates from a view point previously set down for eternity in cold type.
Political parties, which maintain research staffs to point up such inconsistencies, live with the biblical quotation:

"My desire is what the almighty would answer me and that mine adversary had written a book."
The publishers' output this year includes "Why Not Victory?" by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and a more recent addition, "The Future of Federalism," by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. Both may be seen contesting for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964.
Rockefeller (Dartmouth, '30) has a book on the lectures he gave at Harvard last winter. He suggests that the federal idea has worked well in the past and has promise for the future because it encourages "diversity within unity" along with "creativity, imagination and innovation."
He believes that the free nations should look to the federal idea in tackling some of the world problems that confront them today.
His book also contains a complaint which has been heard in some of Rockefeller's more political pronouncements this year. He says that politics labels which results in the rigid classification of laws, leaders and politics as 'liberal' or 'conservative'.

"We all know that, in any serious historical sense, these terms have had all meaning," says Rockefeller, who is tagged as a Republican liberal whether he likes it or not.
"The use of such artificial labels in political debate, merely distorts the issue and confuses the citizen."

"Under the now-meaningless terms of 'liberal' and 'conservative,' those cheered by business are 'conservative.' Yet all progress for all sections of the community depends upon interrelated factors of economic growth."
Whatever the historical meaning of these terms, today's political jargon puts a liberal label on anyone who believes in big government, in an enlarged role for government, in letting government deal with problems not easily handled by the private community.

Perhaps Rockefeller should not worry too much about the labels. There are at least some sympathetic conservatives who are convinced that their brand of Republicanism could not win a statewide election in New York.
In 1964, they'll ask: "Who can win?"

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Eastern Air Lines union machinists may join flight engineers and strike the line.
Union leaders claim such a strike would take from three to five days to materialize.

The 1,000-member New York local also voted but results have not been released.

Santa Helper Dies; Toymaker to Needy

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Santa Claus' Ann Arbor branch workshop is closed after producing 42,000 Christmas toys. The helper who ran it, Albert Warnhoff, 72, died of lung cancer yesterday.

The workshop was Warnhoff's basement. He continued to build dolls, toys and miniature furniture there for hospitalized and needy children even after a series of heart attacks in 1955 forced him to retire as a carpenter for a local lumber company.

Warnhoff once estimated that he spent about 40 hours a week in toy-making.

"When I see one of those youngsters smile at the hospital, this is my compensation," he explained.

Warnhoff's first project was a doll crib made for a hospitalized neighbor child. When it helped her, he said, he decided to "keep up the good work."

His "good work" drew praise from Presidents Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy and two Michigan governors. Warnhoff was the first Ann Arbor resident ever to be presented with a key to the city of Ann Arbor.

At one time, he was the subject of a nationwide radio broadcast.

"There will never be another person in the history of Ann Arbor that will do the things that he has done," said Mayor Cecil O. Creel. "I have never known a person that has given as much as he has. Christmas was the most joyous occasion to him that a person could ever have."

BECAME ILL
Santa's helper became ill late last year. Area residents, wishing to thank Warnhoff for his kindness to their children at Christmas, donated $3,000 to a volunteer fund to pay his hospital expenses.

His wife Ethel, a son Harold, a daughter Mrs. Alberta Place and a stepdaughter Mrs. Robert Groomes, all of Ann Arbor, and 13 grandchildren survive. Services will be at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the Muehligh funeral chapel.

"To me there will never be another Albert Warnhoff," said Creel, and there will never be another Santa like him."

Ex-Car Dealer Doing Well as Horse Trader

HAMILTON, Ont. (AP)—Television westerns have brought the horse back in style and a former automobile salesman here said today he is doing a booming business selling nags on the installment plan.

Jack Price is peddling the horses at between $165 and $350 each—$4 down and $4 a week. "Very few people have the cold, hard cash to plunk on a horse's nose (that's to buy)," says Price, "so we give them credit."

Morris, Kelley to Air Districting Spat Again

LANSING (AP)—Sen. Carlton H. Morris, R-Kalamazoo, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, scheduled a final go-around today in his feud with Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley over the state Senate reapportionment dispute.

Morris was forced into lame-duck senator status by his primary defeat at the hands of Garry E. Brown, R-Schoolcraft, former constitutional convention delegate.

Morris, spokesman for Republicans on the GOP-dominated committee, had charged Kelley with union forces for the Senate redistricting. The case was brought by August (Gus) Scholle, state AFL-CIO president.

Kelley was asked to appear before the committee two weeks ago but said he was unable to do so because he was forbidden by his doctor to use his voice, even to whisper.

The attorney general, scheduled for an operation on his vocal cords later this month, agreed to appear today after his physician eased up on the no-talking order.

Morris particularly wanted to know why Kelley has not yet replied to a series of 21 questions put by the Republican senators challenging the legality of the state Supreme Court decision ordering reapportionment of Senate districts on a population basis.

A stay of the state order canceling the Senate primary and calling for an immediate redistricting was granted by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Morris complained that Senate Republicans who protested the order could have used some of the answers in their arguments before Justice Potter Stewart.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Leon S. Cohan replied there was no immediate urgency to the committee's demand because of the stay order.

Cohan said the attorney general's staff was still working on the 21 questions but should come up with answers soon. Since some of the questions challenging the state court decision overlapped each other, there may be one omnibus opinion, Cohan said.

Phone Industry Probe Is Urged

Kefauver Asks Funds to Allow the FCC to Conduct Investigation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., yesterday asked the Senate Appropriations Committee to recommend $3 million to allow the Federal Communications Commission to investigate the telephone industry.

He said a "prompt and thorough investigation" was needed, with particular attention to space satellite communications. He said FCC Chairman Newton Minow had told him he would welcome the chance to conduct such an investigation.

Kefauver opposes the pending space communications bill on grounds it would give a "private monopoly" to the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

He said it has been 25 years since the last investigation of the telephone industry, in which "many shocking facts were brought to the attention of Congress."

He proposed investigation of financing, intercompany contracts, rates, effects of mergers, accounting methods, competition, and whether any firms have tried to "influence or control public opinion, legislative or administrative action or elections."

Gagarin Heads Cosmonaut Unit, Article Reveals

MOSCOW (UPI)—The commander of the Soviet cosmonaut unit is Yuri Gagarin, Russia's first spaceman, it was learned today.

Gagarin's position was disclosed by the signature on an article he wrote on the just-completed marathon flights of Maj. Andrian Nikolayev and Lt. Col. Pavel Popovich. The article in today's edition of Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, was signed "by Yuri Gagarin, commander of the unit of cosmonauts."

It was the first time the commander of the space group has been identified in the Soviet press.

Humphrey... He Disliked Pomp but Liked Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — George M. Humphrey first came to Washington with a strong distaste for personal publicity, falderal and government spending.

He learned to expect publicity. And he moves into the spotlight again today as he testifies at a Senate hearing on stockpiling.

Humphrey's lack of ceremony and his sense of economy remained intact, however, during more than four years as secretary of the Treasury in the Eisenhower administration.

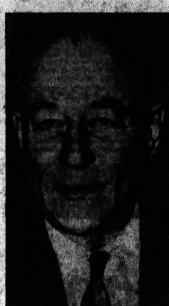

In one of his first official acts, he ordered the removal of a uniformed guard who kept a constant vigil at the door to his private elevator in the Treasury building.

Thus in one blow he struck at pomp and spending.

GUARD RESTORED
Incidentally, the guard was restored to his post on the day the present secretary, Douglas Dillon, took office.

On another occasion, Humphrey displayed his informality by routing directly to President Dwight D. Eisenhower a letter from a taxpayer, without going through the routine step of having a copy made for his own files.

Across the letter, Humphrey scribbled, "Sometimes I think the taxpayers know more about taxation than the politicians."

Very little has been heard of Humphrey, now 72, since he left the Eisenhower Cabinet in 1957.

And, except in the upper reaches of big business, little was heard of him before he joined the government. Eisenhower didn't even know him until two days before he selected him as his first secretary of the Treasury.

"I have never been strong for personal publicity," said Humphrey on the day his selection was announced.

However, the Cleveland businessman moved into the headlines with alacrity when he moved into the Treasury in 1953—and never seemed to mind personal publicity. In fact, he became extremely popular with the Washington press corps.

One reason, no doubt, was his willingness to debate all facets of federal financial operations—even some falling outside his domain. A determined conservative, his clashes with liberals in Congress—and occasionally with "modern Republicans" within the administration—became big news.

On one occasion, he got himself into the position of seeming to disagree with the President. Explaining the new federal budget at a 1957 press conference, he declared that if massive government spending weren't curbed, "You will have a depression that will curl your hair."

Instead of standing four square behind the Eisenhower budget, he commented: "I think there are a lot of places in this budget that can be cut."

Colleagues in the administration were not happy when Congress picked up the cue and went on a cutting binge. But his position as the domestic strong man of the Eisenhower Cabinet never was challenged. A few weeks later, Humphrey and the President, by now his close personal friend, enjoyed a comradely hunt at the Humphrey estate near Thomasville, Ga.

During his Cabinet years, Humphrey was devoted to balanced budgets, tight money policies, curbs on welfare and foreign aid.

4 Venezuelan Officers Escape Caracas Prison

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Four army officers have escaped from a prison in Caracas where they were awaiting sentence for a revolt, authorities said Wednesday.

The officers were said to have tricked their guards and fled in two waiting automobiles last Sunday.

King of Afghanistan Ends Soviet Union Visit

MOSCOW (AP)—Mohammed Zahir Shah, the king of Afghanistan, left for home yesterday after a 10-day visit to the Soviet Union.

Tass said he left from Simferopol on the Black Sea, and was seen off by Premier Khrushchev, who is taking a vacation in the area.

programs and "trickle down" tax cuts.

A native of Cheboygan, Mich., Humphrey grew up in Saginaw and went into law practice there with his father's firm after graduation from the University of Michigan in 1912.

Moving to Cleveland in 1917, he became general counsel of the M. A. Hanna Co. By 1929, he was president of the mining firm—and enormously successful. Under Humphrey's leadership, Hanna moved from a loss position of $2 million a year to a profit, in 1932, of $2.8 million.

When he joined the Eisenhower Cabinet, Humphrey's annual income from salaries and bonuses (but excluding dividends) exceeded $300,000. His Cabinet pay was $22,500. After four years in the lower income bracket, Humphrey hunkered to get back into business, and to spend more time with his wife, three children and nine grandchildren.

He's now honorary board chairman and director of Hanna and is a director and member of the executive committee of National Steel Corp.

Perhaps the man's biggest failure has been his search for winning racehorses. He owns part interest in a Kentucky breeding farm and keeps hoping for a big winner, though friends say he does not bet himself. He buys the best stock but, invariably, they fail to match his hopes.

Ungraded Class to Get Test in Four Schools

DETROIT (AP)—Four Michigan parochial primary schools will try ungraded classes in an effort to help both bright and slow children.

For the first three years in school there will be no first, second or third grades.

The youngsters will be grouped according to their capacities and abilities. Gifted boys and girls will be kept together, the others placed in separate groups.

After three years the results will be evaluated.

The experiment will be carried out at the Roman Catholic Church's Sisters of Mercy primary schools in Lansing, Grand Rapids, Big Rapids and Bay City.

Lead GOP Ticket in Alaska Primary

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Alaska's last territorial governor, Mike Stepovich, held a growing lead today for the Republican nomination to oppose the state's first elected governor, William A. Egan in the November general election.

Egan easily won the Democratic nomination for a second term in Tuesday's primary election.

On the basis of unofficial returns from 228 of Alaska's 539 precincts, Stepovich had 5,553 votes to 4,826 for his nearest opponent, Anchorage attorney Howard W. Pullock. Three other candidates were far behind.

The same precincts gave Egan 10,623 votes and his strongest opponent, former Mayor George Byrnes of Anchorage, 4,650. Two others were left in the dust.

'Builders' Say Use City Men at Cobo

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Building Trades Council, in a surprise move, proposed yesterday that city employees be used in the operation of troubled Cobo Hall.

The trades council, composed of 18 unions with 75,000 members in the Detroit area, made its suggestion at a common council hearing on rule changes aimed at ironing out the labor disputes which have plagued operation of the $55-million convention facility.

The council took the proposal under advisement and referred it to the budget bureau for study.

Kilts Awhirling, Scottish Lassie Takes 2 Honors

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A kilned ash blonde lassie from Scotland is off to a flying start in the Miss International Beauty contest.

Miss Scotland, Elizabeth Burns, 20, of St. Andrews, took two first places yesterday in the opening round of competition. She won in the native costume and speech division a few hours after she was named the most popular entrant.

Two other winners in preliminary judging were Miss Australia, Tania Verstat, 21, of Sydney, in the evening gown competition, and Miss Israel, Nurit Neeman, 19, of Haifa, in the playmate division.

Judging continues tonight with finals to be held Saturday.

Integration Drive Termed Successful

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Campaign against restaurant segregation along highways in the South has shown "astounding success," according to James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE).

Farmer said yesterday elimination of interstate bus segregation would be a "hollow victory" without similar action involving restaurants along federally supported highways. The restaurant campaign has been conducted in a number of states.

Drills That Don't Drill Only 1 of Reds' Foreign Aid Woes

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (TAP) — Nikita Khrushchev gets complaints about his foreign aid, too!

Indians protest that Soviet petroleum drilling rigs are antiquated, heavy, hard to handle. They say the bits on Soviet turbo-drills wear out after only a few feet of drilling. Argentina has the same complaints. Soviet drilling equipment at Egypt's Aswan Dam reportedly accomplishes only a fraction of the work of Western equipment.

A Czech-built cement plant in Afghanistan (near) — such a poor product it couldn't be used for airfield construction. A large number of Hungarian diesel locomotives sent to Egypt wouldn't work because of faulty assembly and damage. Indonesia's East German-built sugar mill has broken down repeatedly.

Soviet aircraft have been more expensive to operate and maintain than Western planes. Cabin pressurization has been faulty. Take-off speeds are too slow and landing speeds too fast. Soviet IL-18s crashed frequently.

These are some of the reports coming in to the U.S. Agency for International Development, now making a careful analysis of the strong and weak points of the expanding Red bloc aid program which is now giving aid to 28 countries. The Reds are boosting their programs in Africa and "pushing harder" in Latin America.

Soviet aid commitments to the Red bloc since 1955 now total $6 billion. Bloc commitments to the rest of the world now total $4.5 billion economic and $2 billion military. Seventy per cent comes from Russia, 20 per cent from Eastern Europe and 10 per cent from Red China.

Only about $1 billion of the economic aid has been delivered. Deliveries are little more than $300 million a year.

3 PCT. FOR SHOWPIECES
From what has been discovered about bloc economic commitments to the underdeveloped countries, it's now reported only about 3 per cent are for "showpieces" — projects — stadiums, hospitals, hotels.

Half of the Reds aid commitments are for industries — steel mills, cement plants, textile mills, sugar refineries, bicycle and tire plants, fruit canneries, pharmaceutical factories, electric bulb plants.

Almost 40 per cent of the commitments are for highways, ports, airfields, bridges, railways, power plants and mineral exploration.

"In general," an AID investigator says, "bloc equipment and construction materials, while in most cases below Western standards of quality tolerances and finish, appear adequate to do the job for which they are intended. But there have been many instances where bloc equipment has caused considerable difficulty and significantly delayed progress on individual projects."

The Soviet Union has rushed some projects through in Afghanistan, India and Yemen.

But in other countries — Ethiopia, Indonesia and Iraq, for example — programs have barely gotten off the ground after years of waiting.

"In many countries," says an AID expert, "long-standing credits have not yet been obligated because of the inability of the bloc and the recipient country negotiators to reach agreement on reports of "too much drinking, gross rudeness, dissatisfaction with local living conditions and racial friction." Says one AID official:

"Recently in one country, two Russians, evidently the worst for vodka, accosted a lady in the street and tried to follow her into her home despite the loud protests of her husband. They were saved from a beating by an indigenous crowd of local citizens."

The reports indicate Soviet aid technicians do not mix well. They live in self-contained enclaves, have their own schools, shy away from social invitations. Although there are reports of bloc technicians fluent in such languages as Hindi, Persian, Punjabi and Urdu, the Red aid men usually have NOT had language training.

In many countries Americans have the advantage. In Burma, Americans are ahead because of the prevalence of English. In Iraq, Russians "have encountered great difficulty with Arabic."

An AID investigator reports that though most Soviet personnel appear businesslike, there have been reports of "too much drinking, gross rudeness, dissatisfaction with local living conditions and racial friction." Says one AID official:

"Recently in one country, two Russians, evidently the worst for vodka, accosted a lady in the street and tried to follow her into her home despite the loud protests of her husband. They were saved from a beating by an indigenous crowd of local citizens."

The reports indicate Soviet aid technicians do not mix well. They live in self-contained enclaves, have their own schools, shy away from social invitations. Although there are reports of bloc technicians fluent in such languages as Hindi, Persian, Punjabi and Urdu, the Red aid men usually have NOT had language training.

An AID investigator reports that though most Soviet personnel appear businesslike, there have been only by the timely arrival of the police.

"There also was a recent report that several Russian technicians were caught smuggling diamonds in coffee bags while supposedly working on mining projects in Guinea."

Relatively small as the Soviet aid shipments have been to date, AID information is that they have already caused short-run strains in some sectors of Russian industry.

SOVIET STEAMROLLERS — They paved the streets of Kabul, but the Afghanistan government has had some complaints about price hikes on aid.

Fun Reigns Supreme at Pontiac Playground Carnival

By KERA HEINTZELMAN
The chomp-chomp and popping of bubble gum could be heard all over Oakland Park yesterday, as some 700 youngsters terminated summer playground activities with Carnival Fun Day.

Playing down the idea that prizes are more important than fun, officials of the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department decided to award bubble gum to winners of all games.

More than 1,200 squares of the chewy, rubbery gum were distributed, and some winners' cheeks looked as if they belonged to a well-fed chipmunk. Fun, was the order of the day.

Each one of the 22 playgrounds in the city had some type of original game booth. Projects varied from the old game of tossing a card in a hat to the newer squirt-gun candle shoot.

The area that attracted most attention (naturally) was throwing a wet sponge at a playground director.

The face-sloshing that Gerald Spangler, Emerson School director, took from strong young arms heaving soaking masses at him was a sight to see. He was "housed" in a cardboard box marked "I Hate Kids."

Axle grease spurted from between youthful fingers in the greased pole event. Both boys and girls tried the hand-over-hand method of getting across a horizontal pole. Last year too many clothes were soiled from a vertically erected greased pole.

GAMES GALORE

There was the mouse-in-a-hole project (tennis balls rolled into open cat's mouths), a washer toss (metal washers tossed into can in ground), ball toss over head (stand with back to 50-gallon drum, toss basketball).

Water-filled pop bottles set in water in a kiddie's pool provided a target for rubber-ring throwers, in the "Ring Toss."

To spark the 80-degree afternoon, special events like the slow bike race, egg toss, balloon break and tug-of-war drew enthusiastic participation.

A systematic card-punching system prevented possible bedlam in taking turns at the booths. The fun day staff chairman Joe Edwards, Mary Lynn Shoup, Fred Smith, Walter Gilliard and Paul Jolly—had as much fun as the kids.

That's how another wonderful summer playground program was brought to a close for Pontiac youngsters who have learned a little more about the give-and-take facts so necessary in everyday living. Even the losers were winners yesterday.

And, best of all, everything was free.

"HEAVE HO" — That was the cry, as summer-program-hardened youths tried to pull each other through a sloppy mudhole.

This Mark Twain playground team won. A look at the faces of spectators (right) tells what happened to the other team.

MAIL THE DIRECTOR—Getting a soaking-wet sponge in the face is Emerson School playground director Gerald Spangler. Fun? Several hundred kids thought so.

"WILL I MAKE IT?"—That's the big question asked by 6-year-old Irene Rodriguez of 34 Hillside Drive, as she tried to roll a tennis ball into an open-mouthed cardboard cat.

"I MADE IT!" — It's not easy to put out a lighted candle with a tiny squirt gun, but 6-year-old Susan Shume of 421 East Blvd. did the trick in one try.

"HANG ON" — That's what the crowd urged 12-year-old Stanley Allison of 149 Oliver St. to do. The pole was well-greased — and so was Stanley before he flopped off halfway across.

BEANBAG THROWER—Joey Cantarella, 8, of 621 First St., got to be an expert tosser of the beanbag before the afternoon was through.

DOWN SHE GOES—The playground equipment at Oakland Park was available so Cheryl Schaf, 10, of 110 Granada St., Darcey Goody, 12, of 684 Desota St., and Joyce Robinson, 10, of 23 Maine, took advantage of the slide.

CAABRASH—With empty orange-juice cans for "pins" and a big softball as a bowling ball, the bowling game set up by the Winner playground youngsters, provided fun all afternoon.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Like one of the few sources yet such to set up your own private space information in the world.

You can do it with a little equipment and the help of a few specialists in such subjects as astronomy, mathematics, electronics and computer programming.

A group of men at Sohio Research Center, putting hundreds of hours of their own time into a labor of love, have built such a tracking station. By picking up a satellite's radio signals, they can determine the orbit, and tell you where the satellite is now and where it will be when you are finishing your desert tonight.

The team showed how good it was this week by setting up time tables for the two Soviet-manufactured satellites as they whizzed around the earth. Time schedules on orbits were not given out by the Soviets, and it seems likely that the men at Sohio were the only group of hobbyists in the world who had such precise information at their fingertips.

The center distinguished itself by furnishing information to newspapers, radio stations and some radio-television networks. It was research at the center.

Another chemist, Dr. P. S. Fay, is an amateur astronomer. Dr. Jones credited the late Dr. Jessor at Case Institute of Technology on astronomy to get the Gordon Grant, who was a pro-nology, with providing key information going in 1957 and 1958.

Expresses Hope for Cooperation

Rusk Foresees Joint Efforts in Space by U.S., Soviet Union

WASHINGTON (U-P)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk expressed hope today that "ways will be open" for more U.S.-Soviet cooperation in the space field.

"I think this may be, perhaps, the next step," he said. Rusk spoke in an interview taped for transmission via the U.S. Telstar satellite to the British people through British Broadcasting Corp. facilities.

The secretary of state paid tribute to the Russian achievement of orbiting two men simultaneously, and said "we were very pleased that the two Soviet astronauts came back safely this morning."

He predicted that the United States "will be highly successful" in its own space program.

WONT CHANGE IT

Asked whether the Russian space success makes it easier or more difficult to talk to the Russians about the whole range of East-West problems, Rusk replied:

"I don't think it makes very much difference. Certainly, we have never found that any performance on our side in this field seems to have made much difference to the Russians.

"When you are talking about questions—like Berlin, or disarmament, or these great issues that affect war and peace, and affect the basic security of nations—I don't think demonstrations of this sort enter into the relationships very much.

"The underlying issues are too fundamental and far-reaching to be determined one way or another by matters of this sort. So I would say it makes very little difference."

Rusk said the value of the space effort should not be measured just in prestige terms.

In a practical sense, he said, the results of space research will be fed back into the economies of the world and will make a large difference there.

Police Get Even, Keep Newspaper in Line With Point

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta policemen in a hurry were wont to dash across the street in front of the police station in disregard of a revived ordinance against jaywalking.

Atlanta Journal writer J. V. Ard pointed out the ordinance infraction—which police had frowned on in front of the Journal-Constitution building.

A street painting crew soon got busy.

The police now have a newly painted, fully legal crosswalk directly in front of the building—in the middle of the block.

Occupants of the newspaper building still have to walk a third of a block—to a street corner—to cross the street legally.

San Luis Dam $12-Billion Project Rivaling Panama

LOS BANOS, Calif. (U-P)—San Luis Dam and reservoir was conceived 20 years ago as a modest irrigation project in the southwestern quarter of California's great central valley.

But today San Luis ranks as a major unit in the most ambitious water development program ever started in the United States.

President Kennedy will lead the ground-breaking ceremonies Saturday.

The program, called the "California water plan," is a $12-billion colossus rivaling the Panama Canal in breadth of purpose and magnitude of construction.

It aims to collect an ocean of rain and snow water in northern California and move it through 750 miles of man-made rivers to the arid and populous regions to the south.

Because northern California's rain and snow occur in the winter-time, engineers needed vast reservoirs to hold the water for summer deliveries.

One of these is Oroville Dam, now being erected in the Sierra Nevada foothills 125 miles northeast of San Francisco. Another is San Luis.

Planning for San Luis started in 1943, a group of farmers made a routine request to the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation. The men wanted irrigation water for their land, which lay in the southwestern quarter of the central valley.

The valley stretches 300 miles down the center of the state and has average annual rainfall varying from 50 inches in the north to less than 10 inches in the south.

Truckers Carry Road Tax Load

Nearly Third of Levies Paid to County Came From Hauling Firms

Truck operators paid almost one-third of the highway users' tax distributed last year, to Oakland County and communities within the county, according to a report issued by the Michigan Trucking Association, Inc.

Truckers, the report shows, contributed $2,338,165 of the $7,862,838 paid to the county and area communities for use of highways.

Oakland County received $4,339,617, of which an estimated $1,339,538 was paid by truckers. Communities within the county received another $3,532,221 and truck contributions were about $1,977,337.

Highway users' taxes are collected from such things as gasoline sales and vehicle registration fees. Pontiac led all county communities by receiving $694,740 in highway taxes. Next was Royal Oak with $556,072.

Last year, the state total of highway users' tax was $212,241,571. Truckers paid 30.5 per cent, or over $64 million.

Total vehicle registrations in Michigan last year numbered 3,869,768—11 per cent of them trucks.

The national total of special taxes paid by highway users last year was $10.6 billion, $3 billion of which was paid by truckers.

the south. For years, these southwestern farmers had drawn what little water they could find from underground wells.

But now the water table was dropping. The farmers wanted a dam on San Luis Creek, about 150 miles southeast of San Francisco, to supply their irrigation water.

The engineers knew that they could build the dam, but would have trouble finding water to put behind it, since the creek's rate of flow, as it meandered down the coast range onto the valley floor, was barely sufficient to irrigate a window box.

WATER IN THE NORTH

The solution lay in tapping the millions of tons of northern California water that flowed into San Francisco bay every winter and spring to be wasted in the ocean.

The engineers designed a 100-mile-wide canal that would reach north about 70 miles to pick up fresh water at the outskirts of San Francisco and carry it to the bay for storage behind San Luis. This canal, the Delta-Men-dota, is already completed.

As federal engineers were planning San Luis during the years after 1943, state engineers were developing the California water plan.

The state engineers also planned to pump water from the edge of San Francisco Bay and move it south along the western side of the valley. Their plan, however, called for pushing the water clear through the valley and over the Tehachapi Mountains to the south.

It would then flow into booming southern California, which contains 90 per cent of the state's population and only 30 per cent of its water.

In 1954, the federal engineers suggested that an enlarged San Luis could serve as a reservoir for the state's water plan as well as for the federal project. The state engineers agreed and in 1956 the first San Luis bill proposing joint state-federal use went before Congress.

'Can't Waste Time on Space Plan Switch'

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—Dr. Werner Von Braun, head of the U.S. program to develop rockets powerful enough to send men to the moon, said today there is no need to change U.S. space plans because of the sensational Soviet dual orbit this week.

On the contrary, Von Braun told newsmen, the nation cannot afford to waste time changing things around.

What the U.S. needs, he said, is not a crash program but continuing public support over a period of years.

"We cannot sit on our hands," he said.

Von Braun gave a detailed report on the Saturn moon-rocket program Wednesday night to 300 scientists, who are attending a lunar exploration conference, and more than 2,500 townspeople and students.

SATURN TEST
The World War II German

Unusual Noise Sought for Defense Warning

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department wants an unusual noise for the Civil Defense warning system and it has awarded Michigan State University a $42,000 contract to find one.

The department said yesterday that people have become accustomed to sounds like sirens, bells or buzzers.

rocket expert said arrangements are under way for the third flight test of the so-called small Saturn C1 booster which will be capable of launching an Apollo spacecraft into orbit around the earth.

Von Braun said static testing of the fourth C1 booster will begin this month. He added that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is studying several missions for the fourth C1 flight, including an engine-out test to simulate an emergency.

The rocket will take off with its full eight engines, and then one will be cut off in flight to see what happens.

The C1 is the first U.S. rocket that will exceed the capability of the rocket that the Soviets have been using. It will be followed by the advanced C5 Saturn that will carry the three-man Apollo craft to the moon and back.

DESCRIBES CAPACITY
Von Braun called the C5 "the next seven-league stride forward in rocket development; a very, very major project." He gave this description of the rocket:

It will stand 500 feet tall—taller than the Statue of Liberty—and its take-off weight will be the equivalent of one 707 jet into orbit 300 miles above the earth, drive a 49-ton load in the vicinity of the moon, send a twin-engine DC3 airplane all the way around the sun, "or boost a Chevrolet out of the solar system. I am not saying how far the C5 can send a Volkswagen."

Von Braun said good progress is being made on the rocket stages and the engine.

He said it has been estimated, returned in benefits of new techniques and new knowledge.

"I have heard that the lunar exploration conference here has split as to whether the moon is hot or cold and its surface is rough or smooth," Von Braun said.

"The only answer is to go there, visit it, and bring the answers back."

Asked as to the U.S. position in the space contest, Von Braun said, "We are ahead in many fields but way behind in well-proven rockets with large payload-carrying capabilities—that is our dilemma."

Senators Speaking Briefly, Unaccustomed as They Are

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Unaccustomed as its members are to speaking briefly, the Senate operating under cloture has an acrid atmosphere that forecasts new troubles for President Kennedy's legislative program.
Under the cloture rule, unused for 55 years until it was invoked by a 68-7 vote Tuesday, each point was heard but Metcalf said the point wasn't debatable.
"Don't give your colleagues (Mansfield) the whole damn door," Long roared.
A full day's experience in the operation Wednesday left the Senate short in temper and accomplishments but long on acers that may not be healed when other measures are taken up under the customarily unlimited debate.
Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, who has the principal responsibility for piloting the President's program through the Senate, jumped on the bill's opponents for abusing the rules by forcing frequent quorum calls.
Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., who said he hoped he could kill this "lousy bill," took out after Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont.
Presiding at the time, Metcalf was about to submit to the Senate itself Mansfield's point of order that opponents were engaging in "dilatatory tactics" in violation of the cloture rule. Long demanded to be heard but Metcalf said the point wasn't debatable.
This and other demonstrations caused some of cloture's best friends—who for years have argued how wonderful it would be to be able to seal up a filibuster inside an iron-clad limitation on debate—to express some public doubts about the way things were going.
Sens. Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating, New York Republicans, pleaded with opponents not to offer fly-speck amendments which administration leaders swatted down with motions to table (S.D.). This motion cuts off debate immediately.
Javits said cloture—which he would like for the Senate to use to pass some civil rights legislation—would be discredited if he would move to table a civil rights amendment.
The incidents were only the outward manifestation of a ranging, nerve-racking battle in which each side took advantage of every parliamentary quirk to make it tough for the enemy.
Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., a deft duelist with rules, cut opponents down with frequent objections and motions.
Kerr will have a major share of the responsibility in guiding through the Senate the administration's tax revision and international trade bill. And Morse already has made some threatening gestures toward the latter.

Nephew of Bob Hope Admitted to Hospital

LOS ANGELES (AP)—William John Hope Jr., 42, nephew of comedian Bob Hope, was admitted to the City of Hope Hospital yesterday.

Hope told a newsmen Tuesday he was suffering from a form of leukemia, but a City of Hope spokesman said the specific diagnosis has not yet been confirmed.

William Hope's father, Jack, died of chronic hepatitis in a Boston hospital Aug. 6. He was the comedian's business manager.

Bill Would Give Bases in State $20 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate is considering a House-passed military construction appropriations bill that would provide $19.13 million for family housing units at three Michigan air force bases.

K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base at Marquette and Kincadeo AFB at Sauls. Sen. Marjorie each would receive $7 million for 400 units. Wurtsmith AFB at Oscoda would receive $13.13 million for 300 units.

Bitter N. Guinea Dispute Ends as U.N. Boss Takes Over

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A bitter 13-year dispute over West New Guinea has ended by an agreement under which the Netherlands will hand over the big island territory it has ruled for 134 years.

The western half of the island will be transferred first to a temporary U. N. administration and then will be handed over to Indonesia by next May 1. Its final disposition will be decided by a U. N. supervised plebiscite in 1969.

In the detailed agreement signed by Dutch and Indonesian representatives Wednesday night, the Netherlands government gave up the last bit of its colonial empire in the Far East.

Indonesia won independence in 1949.

Both Indonesian and Dutch representatives hailed the agreement as a major achievement for acting U. N. Secretary-General U. Thant and his special envoy, former U. S. diplomat Ellsworth Bunker, who negotiated the settlement.

DIFFERENT OPINION

Dutch Premier Jan de Quay took a different tack. In a radio-television address to the Dutch people Wednesday night, he said his government had yielded because the pressure of Indonesian military action "threatened to culminate in a real war" and because "The Netherlands no longer could count upon its allies for support." He obviously referred to the United States.

Thant stepped into the controversy last March after Indonesian President Sukarno's invasion preparations threatened a shooting war. Negotiations proceeded amid a background of sporadic Indonesian paratroop landings, and military clashes continued until within hours of the signing of the agreement.

AWAIT U.N. BASE

This means a U. N. administrator, supported by a civilian staff and U. N. military force, at least an infantry battalion, will arrive in West New Guinea between Sept. 18 and Oct. 1. The U. N. General Assembly, which meets Sept. 18, it appeared certain the first steps would be taken by Oct. 1 as agreed by the two nations.

Thant pointed out that the U. N. role in West New Guinea would be considerably different from the part it is playing in the Congo and other trouble spots. For the first time in its history, he said, the world organization will have a temporary executive authority over a vast territory. He also pointed out that Indonesia and the Netherlands agreed to share the expenses equally.

Under the agreement, the United Nations will keep representatives in West New Guinea until the self-determination plebiscite is held seven years from now. The Dutch accepted this as an assurance that the Indonesian government would not be permitted to take up the plebiscite pledge once it had control of the territory.

From Iowa University Lab Key Space Device Stolen

IOWA CITY (UPI)—Theft of a key instrument from a University of Iowa laboratory may delay a future U.S. space shot, officials reported.

The small device, a signal converter about the size of a pack-

SIGNING GUINEA PACT—Indonesian foreign minister, Subandrio (left), signs copy of treaty ending dispute with the Netherlands over the territory of West New Guinea in a ceremony yesterday in the chambers of the United Nations Security Council in New York. Seated are U.N. Acting Secretary General U Thant (center) and J. Herman Van Roijen (right), Dutch ambassador to the United States. U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, white hair (second from left), helped draft the agreement which transfers control of the area from the Dutch to the United Nations and later to Indonesia.

University officials announced the theft yesterday and appealed for return of the instrument, used to convert data on radiation into a form which can easily be transmitted back to earth.

One university source said it would be "difficult, if not downright impossible" to replace the converter in time for its scheduled use in an instrumented space probe.

The university declined to reveal which space shot the instrument was intended for, but denied it was meant for use in the Warshaw probe, due for launching within the next two weeks.

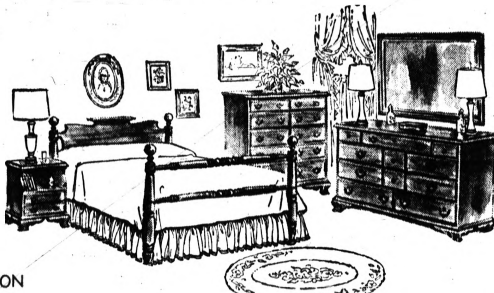

The instrument was being used by a member of the physics department staff in connection with another device at the time of the theft.

It's a Big Boon for Television, Not Papers

Telstar Doesn't Change Much for Readers

NEW YORK (UPI) — For all its dramatic impact, Telstar satellite communication hasn't changed the basic methods of bringing news to newspaper readers.

It merely equips television to do in its special field what newspapers have managed in theirs for 30 and 40 years.

For example, President Kennedy's news conference last month was not the first "live" intercontinental interview involving a top government official.

Immediately after World War I, a United Press correspondent in Budapest, Edward J. Bing, interviewed Red Army Commander Leon Trotsky in Moscow.

The Soviet capital was isolated and western troops had joined loyalist troops in attacking the Bolsheviks.

Trotsky, later deposed and liquidated, told Bing by wireless: "We shall fight on until we are left alone." The UP correspondent later succeeded in contacting Lenin himself.

The first newspaper photograph was transmitted by radio in 1926.

DIFFERING REQUIREMENTS

Telstar makes such a difference in television communication because of the differing physical requirements of press and television communications.

Ordinary radio signals carry news and pictures, using the same basic channels as ships at sea or amateur radio operators on land.

Television's complication is that the complex signal requires a very wide channel.

But as every viewer knows, the radio frequencies which can handle these wide channels have a very short range. They will not bend with the earth.

RELAY BACK

Telstar and its successors relay the escaping signals back to the earth's surface.

Wire services have long used radio to carry news dispatches between continents. Today, radio transmitters in 15 cities around the world are on the air a total of 200 hours a day relaying news dispatches for UPI.

Dispatches are received by bureaus and newspapers on automatic teleprinters, the equivalent of electric typewriters operated by someone thousands of miles away. Prior to 1952, Morse Code was used by cable and radio.

Telstar can be adapted to relay the narrower type channel used for newspaper and newspaper transmissions.

On its sixth orbit, the Bell System satellite actually relayed a photograph of itself to and from earth for UPI and Associated Press. On the seventh orbit, it relayed regular news dispatches.

Live network television on an intercontinental basis took place a year later.

Satellite relay will bring one gain to news media. Many more communications channels will be made available to keep up with the heightening pace of news around the world.

Business for Swainson's Unit Being Organized

DETROIT (UPI) — A group of businessmen in Detroit and Michigan are forming a "Business for Swainson's" committee in support of the candidacy of Democratic Gov. John B. Swainson.

Swainson will attend a breakfast here Aug. 21 at which time the group will formally organize and elect officers.

Turns Over Command

LONDON (AP) — Maj. Gen. John H. Nies yesterday formally handed over command of the U.S. Third Air Force to Maj. Gen. Romulus Puryear at a ceremony at the West Ruislip headquarters.

Gets Ringing Response

Tries Pull to Fix Fine

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa. (AP)—It is very simple to pay a parking fine in this town. Attach a dollar to the parking ticket and put them into the special streetside receptacle.

The town has six fine-receiving boxes.

A startled woman motorist tried to put her fine in another kind of box and pulled the lever — ten fire engines showed up.

Police withheld the embarrassed woman's name. They said they wouldn't prosecute.

Durant Wins 14th District GOP Despite Romney

By The Associated Press
Richard Durant, whose ouster had been sought by George Romney, retained his Wayne County 14th GOP Congressional District leadership Wednesday night as county political organizations met across the state.

Romney, the Republican candidate for governor, called for a clean election fight in a speech at Monroe.

His wife Lenore did likewise in addressing the Allegan County Republican convention as its first woman keynote.

Durant's chosen candidate, Mrs. Lois V. Nair, was named convention chairman in the 14th District.

Earlier, he resigned from the John Birch Society. Romney had previously called for Durant's ouster, as he put it, to preserve the party from the Birch image.

The Democratic and Republican candidates for Michigan's congressman-at-large seat — Neil Staebler and former Rep. Alvin Bentley — clashed over party policies.

Staebler, speaking at Escanaba, charged that Michigan Republicans have disregarded the importance of science to the extent that if their lead were followed "we would be trying to explore space on a tricycle."

Bentley, at Midland, said that if President Kennedy comes to Michigan this fall it will be "to help Michigan's boy governor (Swainson) and his bosses to stamp out free enterprise."

The victory of Durant in Wayne's 14th District came in what some quarters called a showdown between him and Romney.

The Grosse Pointe investment counselor's triumph came after he had announced he had resigned from the John Birch Society.

MRS. NAIR WINS
Durant's choice for convention chairman, Mrs. Nair, veteran party leader, won a subsequent vote from State Rep. Robert Waldron, backed by an anti-Durant group. The vote was 154 to 109.

Delegates disagreed over the import of Durant's victory.

Dean Charles H. King of the Detroit college of law, who headed an anti-Durant Republican action committee, said it was a "repudiation of Romney."

Of his group's defeat in the effort to remove Durant from leadership, King said further, "I believe the delegates resented Romney's telling them what to do."

Both Mrs. Nair and Durant disagreed.

"I do not see this as a repudiation of Romney," Durant said. "The delegates just voted to elect the strongest district leadership."

TO SUPPORT ROMNEY
Durant said previously he would continue his support of Romney for governor despite the latter's move against him.

Mrs. Nair also refused to accept the "repudiation" interpretation. She said she felt Romney had

The news agency Tass said they have been awarded the titles for the "establishment of world flight records in outer space." It is the Soviet Union's highest sports title.

To Demonstrate Life on Earth

Traveler to Another Planet Will Need 'Hello Kit'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—How would you explain life on earth to life on other planets?

Naturally, you'd need a "Hello Kit." Scientists estimate there may be 100,000 or more planets in the universe capable of sustaining life — or maybe 100 million planets, since the human eye has as yet been unable to fathom the universe, and your guess is as good as anyone's.

But since earthlings are venturing more and more into the dark pastures of space, the possibility—however remote—is increased that they may meet voyagers or refugees we do not know.

In such a collision of strange-natures naturally each would like to know what the other is like. Therefore it seems reasonable that earthlings—whether they spring from this side or that side of the Iron Curtain—should carry an emergency packet to explain what civilization on earth amounts to.

PACKET PACKING
Perhaps it might contain these things:
The Bible and the Communist manifesto, a pair of nylon socks, a map of our world, as we draw it, an X-ray of a cancer, an ulcer, a cardiogram of a heart in trouble, a pair of eyeglasses and a set of false teeth.

There should be a one-volume edition of Shakespeare, the collected poems of Emily Dickinson, and three novels—"Madame Bovary," "Of War and Peace," and "Vanity Fair."

Also the latest editions of the Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck catalogues, a tourist phrase book in English, Russian, French, German and Spanish; portraits of Moses, Christ, Mohammed, Confucius, Lenin, Goethe, Winston Churchill, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln.

Too, recordings of melodies from Mozart, Tchaikovsky, and Beethoven, one aria from Italian opera, and a rock 'n' roll tune by Elvis Presley.

Then a drip-dry shirt, World Almanac, Encyclopedia Britannica, and the Oxford dictionary.

COOP AND TICKET
There should be a photograph showing an automobile parked

14½ feet away from a fire hydrant at the base of the Empire State Building—and a traffic cop writing out a ticket; the collected works of Sigmund Freud, any Sunday newspaper, and any day's edition of Pravda and the Congressional Record.

To round it out there should be a frozen dinner and the tape of any episode from any television Western, private eye or human soap opera series, a cigar, a package of cigarettes, and one bottle each of scotch, bourbon, gin, vodka and soda pop.

With those testimonials any earthling who met a foreigner in space could demonstrate the life he exemplifies.

No, come to think of it, he'd need these also: An aspirin tablet, stomach pills, a copy of his home mortgage, an overdue bill from his friendly neighborhood department store—and at least four credit cards.

Wonder what would be in the "Hello Kit" of the other fellow from outer space?

State Dept. Trying to Sell
Plan on Katanga, Congo

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department is quietly trying to sell its master plan aimed at persuading Katanga to accept reintegration in the Congo.

The plan was submitted last week to U Thant, acting secretary general of the United Nations. It is still on U Thant's desk, officials said, but they hope a gradual, phased implementation of the suggested measures will start soon.

Meanwhile, the State Department has been explaining its plan to Washington diplomats of 19 foreign nations directly interested in one way or another in the Congo. J. Wayne Fredericks, deputy assistant secretary for African affairs and head of the State Department's Congo task force, personally briefed the diplomats between last Saturday and Monday.

Some of the diplomats represent nations which contributed troops to the U.N. force in the Congo. Others are trading partners of the African republic and, therefore, would be directly affected by economic measures involved in the U.S. plan.

The 19 nations briefed by Fredericks were Nigeria, Ethiopia, Tunisia, Ghana, Malaysia, Guinea, India, Sweden, Sierra Leone, Australia, Japan, Denmark, Portugal, Italy, Ireland, Senegal, Liberia, West Germany and the Congo itself.

The diplomats, officials reported, were generally in favor of the U.S. proposals. Informants refused, however, to name those who indicated that their countries would not go along with the measures the United States suggested to put an end to the secessionist ambitions of Moïse Tshombe, the Katanga's president.

The U.S. plan, a detailed package of measures ranging from mild persuasion to something which could be described as an economic blockade, was drafted by U.S. specialists after extensive consultations with Britain and Belgium.

Though secrecy still shrouds the details of the plan, it is understood that Belgium approved of it while Britain could not agree with some of the more energetic steps the U.S. suggested should Tshombe resist the milder measures.

Asks Swainson Aid to Halt Mine Strike

LANSING (AP)—A Republican legislator called on Gov. Swainson yesterday to take a personal hand in helping to settle a wage dispute at the White Pine Min. near Ironwood.

Rep. Gilbert Barsley, R-An Arbor, chairman of the joint inter-committee on economic growth, said the governor should persuade negotiators to arrive at a peaceful settlement and avoid a strike he said would be close to catastrophic for the area.

Barsley said miners are demanding a $1.60-per-hour wage boost, plus paid holidays and paid birthdays, and have set an Aug. 31 strike deadline.

"Apparently the governor is not aware that Gogebic County unemployment has been averaging over 15 per cent for several years," Barsley said. "Three mines have been closed there since 1961."

The Federation of Malaya had a record gross national product of $1,960,000,000 last year. Diversified agriculture, higher tin prices, and the world's greatest rubber production—708,120 tons—are credited for the gain.

Birthday Party Cake Roll Filled With Ice Cream

About the biggest occasion of the year for a small child is that small child's birthday! His favorite playmates, presents and a very special treat highlight the day. And the happiest birthday party always features ice cream and cake. Why not serve an ice cream cake roll that can be made ahead and stored in the freezer all set to serve on individual plates come party time?

The cake is made like a jelly roll with your favorite pancake mix. It's spongy and golden — and so easy to make when you use a pancake mix. And this cake bakes for only 8 to 10 minutes. After a filling of chocolate ice cream is rolled up inside, the cake roll is frozen. Then it's sliced into individual rolls which are frosted all round with creamy peanut butter frosting.

And for a party touch, write each guest's name with frosting atop a cake roll. What fun each guest will have spotting his own cake!

It's so easy to take the cakes from the freezer and serve. If candles are birthday tradition at your house, place one on each little cake roll. Then watch each guest delight in finding his cake and enjoying the cool cake, chocolate ice cream and peanut butter combination. A happy birthday party for guests and Mom alike!

BIRTHDAY TREAT CAKE ROLLS

Cake Roll:
1/4 teaspoon salt

Use Ham, Liver in Party Loaf

A savory party spread in the shape of a "loaf"—made of molded deviled ham and liver pate can be served, with distinction — at so many of the special parties this summer. Its superb taste and texture makes it one of the most elegant party molds you ever tried, yet its basic ingredients of spicy deviled ham and mellow liver pate come right from the can.

What's more, it can be made well ahead of time — ready to serve a large number of people — when guests arrive. Be sure to garnish it gaily with slices of hard-boiled egg, olives, parsnips or pickles — for the most "important" tasting party spread at the lowest possible domestic price!

Molded Deviled Ham and Liver Pate

2 4 1/2 ounce cans liver pate
2 4 1/2 ounce cans deviled ham
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon thyme, ground
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 cup beer or ale
2 packages (2 tbsp.) unflavored gelatin

1 cup water
4 bouillon cubes
Blend liver and ham. Add seasonings and beer. Sprinkle gelatin over water in saucepan. Add bouillon cubes. Place over low heat, stirring, until gelatin and cubes are dissolved. Remove from heat. Blend into meat mixture. Pour 1-quart loaf pan. Chill until firm. Unmold and serve with crackers or Ritz rounds. (2 small loaf pans may be substituted for the quart loaf pan.)

*One cup of well-seasoned beef stock may be used in place of bouillon cubes and water.

Frankfurts Safe to Eat Raw, Boil or Grill Outside

All frankfurts on the market today need only heating to be edible. Actually, they can be eaten raw, because every frankfurt is pre-cooked before it is delivered to the grocer.

In cooking skinless frankfurts, the best procedure is to bring a pan of water to a boil, drop in frankfurts, turn off the heat under the water and let them stand in the covered pan for 6 to 8 minutes. This process retains the natural flavor of the frankfurt and thoroughly heats them.

This same process can be followed for the frankfurt encased in the natural or artificial casing.

When grilling, the skinless frankfurt should be cooked slowly over a fire. If charcoal is used, it is preferable that the ash cover the charcoal briquettes or charcoal so gray fire is developed.

The frank should be at least 10 to 15 inches from the coal bed. When cooked too fast, frankfurts will spit and lose their natural juices and become dry.

Smoked Sausage Lower in Fat Count Than Fresh

Small chunks of ripe olives and flakes of smoked salmon, mixed with enough thin dressing or sour cream to hold them together, make an elegant sandwich filling. It's delicious between thin slices of rye bread. Garnish with crisp cucumber slices.

Bake Nectarines and Pork Chops

Dip Beef Cheese Wafers in Creamy Mixes

Until you have enjoyed fresh nectarines with a meat course, you have missed one of the real pleasures of summer eating. For baked pork chops with nectarines—halves of the fruit sprinkled with brown sugar—are popped into a moderate oven atop the browned chops and baked in a spicy wine-and-sour cream sauce. The combination of pork and tart-but-sweet fruit is a gourmet's delight.

There's no need to peel the smooth, fuzz-free skins of fresh nectarines from California for out-of-hand eating or for numerous main dishes, salads and desserts.

Baked Pork Chops with Nectarines

Salt
Pepper
2 fresh nectarines
¾ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon granulated sugar
¾ cup white wine or water
1 cup dairy sour cream
¼ teaspoon dried thyme
Pinch of dried marjoram

Trim pork chops and brown lightly in hot skillet. Season with salt and pepper. Cut nectarines into halves. Remove pits. Place a nectarine half on each chop, outside up. Sprinkle with brown sugar. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over chops and nectarines. Cover and bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven about 1 hour until done. Makes 4 servings.

Pickled Eggs Interesting for Summer Meals

This recipe for pickled eggs comes from home economists with the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association: Cook a dozen eggs for 20 minutes over low heat. In another saucepan combine 2 cups vinegar, 2½ tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 medium onion (sliced) and a teaspoon of pickling spice. Simmer about 5 minutes. Peel the hard cooked eggs and pour the hot pickling solution over them. For extra flavor the GAMA experts add a crushed clove of garlic or beet pickle juice.

Now that warm weather is here in earnest—most parties and dinners have moved outdoors around the barbecue grill. Most hostesses love the leisurely air of this relaxed type entertaining—and of course, dinner seldom arrives on schedule. However, all it takes to keep guests happy while whiffs of sizzling meat whet their appetites is a few interesting tidbits. New and different dips and appetizers always spark conversation and keep people intrigued. An idea, especially good for back yard entertaining, is Beefy Cheese O'Derv with Parmesan and Dilly Dips.

Beefy Cheese O'Derv, accented with bits of Parmesan cheese and dried beef, is a crispy thin water, delicious served alone warm from the oven, or as a dipper for the zesty dips. Although they're hearty with homemade goodness—convenient biscuit mix and evaporated milk save much of the work.

Zesty dips from any party—and fragrant Dill or Parmesan will bring wide-eyed sighs of delight from the first taste. Both dips start with a smooth blend of cream cheese and evaporated milk. Seasonings add flavor zest. Chilling mellows them.

Creamy evaporated milk assures a just-right dipping consistency. Should the dips harden when chilled, add a few more drops of evaporated milk until the mixture's perfect for dipping.

Beefy Cheese O'Derv
2 cups biscuit mix
¼ cup shortening
¼ cup grated parmesan cheese
¾ cup finely cut-up dried beef
¼ cup evaporated milk

Turn on oven and set at 450 (extremely hot). With a fork, cut shortening into biscuit mix in a 2½-quart bowl, until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add Parmesan cheese, dried beef, evaporated milk and water all at once and mix well with a fork. Chill dough 15-20 minutes.

Divide chilled dough in half. Roll carefully to ¼-inch thickness on board lightly dusted with biscuit mix. (Keep rolling pin lightly dusted with biscuit mix too). Cut into 2½x1-inch strips with sharp knife and place strips on ungreased baking sheet. Repeat for remaining dough. Bake 5-7 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 3½ dozen.

Dilly Dip

Two 5-oz. pkgs. cream cheese
¾ cup evaporated milk
1 teaspoon dill weed
1 teaspoon vinegar
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon onion powder
Softened cream cheese in a 1½-quart bowl. With electric mixer at low speed, gradually add evaporated milk and beat until mixture is smooth. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Cover and chill several hours to let flavors blend. If dip becomes too stiff for dipping, add a few drops more of evaporated milk. Makes about 1 cup.

Parmesan Dip

Two 5-oz. pkgs. cream cheese
¾ cup evaporated milk
¼ cup grated parmesan cheese
1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon onion powder
Softened cream cheese in a 1½-quart bowl. With electric mixer at low speed, gradually add evaporated milk and beat until mixture is smooth. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Cover and chill several hours to let flavors blend. If dip becomes too stiff for dipping, add a few drops more of evaporated milk. Makes about 1 cup.

Sour Cream Dressing Yummy on Cukes

Next time you make a "cool as a cucumber salad," combine 1 cup dairy sour cream, 2 tablespoons EACH vinegar, minced parsley and instant minced onion. Season with salt and pepper.

Four over-thinly-sliced cucumbers and chill about 2 hours. Arrange on salad greens with a green pepper ring garnish.

FLORIDA ORANGE ICE—This homemade delicious frozen treat is a wonderful summer dessert. Convenient frozen orange juice concentrate is used undiluted for maximum flavor.

Ham Salad Stuffing Pretty in Pickles

Surprise your family with luscious Ham and Peach Souffle Sandwich for supper. This unusual casserole sandwich features a milk and egg mixture poured over open-faced ham and peach sandwiches before baking. In the oven the bread absorbs the custard mixture to become fluffy and soufflé-like in texture.

For four servings spread 4 slices enriched bread with butter or margarine and place in bottom of a greased 8-inch square baking dish.

Place one slice bellied ham then one fresh, frozen or canned peach half on each bread slice. Brush peaches with melted butter or margarine and sprinkle with 1 table-spoon brown sugar.

Add ½ teaspoon salt and 1 cup milk to 2 beaten eggs and mix well. Pour egg mixture over sandwiches. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 35 minutes or until bread is puffy yet firm.

Foil Saves Dishwashing

A flat sheet of quilted foil laid over the grill itself makes an acceptable frying pan. Turn edges up to catch juices. You can make toast as well as grill hot dogs.

Concentrate Is Made Into Ice

There's nothing more refreshing than orange ice, especially if it's homemade and rich with pure Florida orange flavor. By using undiluted frozen orange juice concentrate you can achieve this sparkling good taste and know you're giving your family a health building dessert.

This orange ice is frozen in a compact refrigerator tray, taking up little precious freezer space. At serving time it can be scooped into your prettiest sherbet glasses and garnished with fresh mint for an extra cool touch.

Florida Orange Ice

¾ cup milk
2 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup sugar, divided
1 can (6 ounces) frozen Florida orange juice concentrate, thawed
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Combine milk, eggs and ¼ cup of sugar in top of double boiler over hot water. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture coats spoon. Cool. Mix in remaining ¼ cup sugar, orange juice concentrate and salt. Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze until ice crystals form around edges. Remove from freezer and fold in whipped cream. Return to freezer until firm, at least 3 hours or overnight. Yield: 1 quart.

Country Style Is Good

Country-style pork sausage is found at the meat market in lengths varying from four to 10 inches or encased in rings, says the American Meat Institute. This lean sausage meat is more costly by ground than ordinary pork sausage meat. Some country-style sausage is smoked; some is marketed with beef added to it.

Your Early Diet Foretells Later Pattern of Eating

Hot dogs, hamburgers, ham and eggs and the peanut butter sandwich are famous worldwide as "native" American dishes. But for the most part, Americans eat foods "native" to the homelands of their ancestors, or follow dietary patterns developed in the geographic regions in which they live.

Although this country has served as a melting pot for many nationalities—for language and dress—the U.S. has failed to completely amalgamate the varied food preferences into one nationwide "U.S. Cuisine."

Fortunately, many Americans are able to sample the dishes of exotic nationalities—and, indeed, often adopt these dishes into their own food patterns. Outstanding examples of this adoption are pizza and chow mein. In the main, however, exotic dishes are added to the menu only for variety.

Essentially, the major portion of our diet is composed of foods introduced to us in our early childhood. In fact, nutritionists say, we are such creatures of habit that our food patterns are permanently set by age six.

These familiar foods may be satisfying to our palates, but too often they may lead many of us into serious nutritional imbalances. Nutritionists realize they can't break such ingrained dietary habits.

The goal is to develop a balanced diet within the limits of special food tastes. Adequate amounts of important nutrients as vitamins should be provided in the form of a daily multi-vitamin supplement or by increased intake of the right kinds and amounts of food. For instance, surveys of the food habits of people living in the mid-west or west reveal a diet built around beef, potatoes, gravies, canned and frozen vegetables, bread, cakes and milk.

Local Fresh Corn Is Annual Treat

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

You know the proper way to cook corn, don't you? Be sure everything is ready for dinner except the corn. Put a pot of water on the stove, then dash out to the corn field, pick your ears and run back as fast as you can to get it in the pot.

Few of us are able to do that. But we can make sure that we don't overcook corn 4-5 to 8 minutes is long enough to set the milk. When you bring fresh corn from the market or the store, refrigerate it in a plastic bag.

In the past several years many people have roasted their corn on outdoor grills. This gives it a delightfully different flavor. Here's the way to do it.

Roasted Fresh Corn-on-the-Cob
Loosen husk on ears of corn only enough to remove silks. Pull husks back in place and tie with a strip of the husk if the husks do not stay in place. Cook over a slow burning charcoal fire 20 to 25 minutes, turning to cook uniformly. If desired, cook corn by this method in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees). Yield: Allow 2 ears per person.

A new recipe for roasting corn outdoors calls for spreading it with tomato sauce first, then wrapping in aluminum foil.

Roasted Corn on the Cob
1/2 cup butter or margarine (1 stick)
1/2 envelope tomato soup mix (4 tablespoons)
1/2 cup water
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
4 medium size fresh ears of corn husks

Melt the butter or margarine in a saucepan and remove from the heat. Stir in the tomato soup, blend in the water stirring to thicken the sauce.

Place each ear of corn on a piece of aluminum foil (10"x12") with 1 or 2 slices of onion. Spread the sauce over the corn. Wrap in the foil and seal all openings.

Bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven for 12-15 minutes or roast over the hot coals of a fire about 10 minutes turning the corn occasionally.

Corn custard made with canned corn is a familiar winter dish. You're in for a real taste treat when you try the recipe

Fresh Corn Casserole
2 cups fresh corn cut off the cob
1 tablespoon flour
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon butter or bacon fat
3 eggs beaten
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
1 cup milk
1/2 cup heavy cream

Combine all ingredients. Turn into a buttered 6-cup casserole. Place in pan of hot water. Bake in a preheated slow oven (325 degrees F.) for 3 1/2 hours or until little inserted in center comes out clean. Makes 6 servings.

Marinate Lamb for Shish Kebab

A French artist's savory recipe for marinated lamb to be skewered and grilled.

Lamb's Shish Kebab
6 pound leg of lamb
2 medium onions (finely grated)
2 to 4 cloves garlic, (crushed)
3 teaspoons crumbled oregano
1/2 teaspoon ground allspice
1/2 teaspoon freshly-ground pepper

Green pepper and small onions. Have meatman bone lamb and trim away fat, then cut it in about 2-inch cubes. Mix together the grated onion (including pulp and juice), garlic, oregano, allspice and pepper. Toss meat in mixture to coat with seasonings. Cover tightly and allow to stand at room temperature for 5 to 6 hours.

Skewer lamb alternating with wide strips of green pepper and quartered onion. Broil, turning as necessary, until browned and just cooked through. Makes 8 generous servings. Salt is added as eaten.

Grill Them Frozen

Frozen vegetables cook well in foil. Take frozen block of vegetable, butter and season generously, and wrap in a roomy package from away fat, then cut it in about 2-inch cubes. Mix together the

French Toast Sandwich Has a Creamy Filling

French cream sandwiches will be a real surprise for a company brunch or for breakfast any day. Combine a 3-ounce package of cream cheese and one 9-ounce can (1 cup) of crushed pineapple. Mix until creamy. Use this filling to make 4 sandwiches. Cut each sandwich in half.

Combine 1 egg, beaten, 1/4 cup of milk and a dash of salt. Dip each side of sandwiches into egg mixture and brown quickly on both sides in butter or margarine in skillet. Serve hot.

Five times more boys than girls are color blind.

It's a Fowl Business

In 1940, it took 13 weeks to produce a 3-pound broiler. Today, it takes only 8 weeks to produce the same size bird. What's more, it can be done on half the feed. This is why broiler production has rapidly grown from a farm sideline to a big business with an output of nearly 2 billion birds a year.

Hostess Must Think of Guests

By The Emily Post Institute
Q: I divorced my husband several years ago and remarried a short time afterwards. Recently I was invited to a wedding anniversary party in honor of friends of mine. When I arrived at the party, I was shocked to find my ex-husband and his wife among the guests. When I saw them my first impulse was to leave but decided against it.
I spent a very uncomfortable evening. Wasn't it very thoughtless on the part of the hostess to invite us both to the same party?
A: A hostess should not invite ex-husbands and their former wives to the same party unless she knows that they have remained friendly and often do go to the same parties.

Q: My husband and I are giving a cocktail party shortly and I would like to know if a choice of two kinds of cocktails is sufficient to serve the guests, or should there be more?
A: One kind of cocktail (martinis are still the most popular and the easiest to prepare in quantity) and one kind of long drink such as Scotch and soda or gin and tonic will be sufficient as far as alcoholic drinks are concerned. There must of course be something nonalcoholic to drink for those who prefer it, such as ginger ale or fruit juice.
Q: I would like to write to the Pope but do not know how to properly address him. Will you please be good enough to give me the correct form of address, salutation and close?
A: You address the envelope to His Holiness, Pope John XXIII, Vatican City, Rome, Italy. You begin your letter, "Your Holiness" or "Most Holy Father" and close, "Your Holiness" most humble servant.

Today's Hotels Using Imagination

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The ever-growing numbers of travelers are changing the image of the average hotel and motel room for the better. The inn-keeping industry no longer can afford to settle for flowered draperies, the dime store work of art over the bed, and the dim bulb in the floor lamp with its shade always askew.

The theme today is first, supreme comfort, then glamour, said William Pahlmann, San Antonio-born fellow of the American Institute of Decorators and boss of a design team of 25 which has done numerous hotel and motel decorating plans.

"But not a home away from home... that's not what the traveling public wants," said Pahlmann. "This would bore them... what they want is something different from what they live with every day."

WANT ATMOSPHERE

The sterile rectangular structure of glass and concrete has taken over. Yet tourists aren't looking for this. They'd like to enjoy some of the atmosphere of the country they're visiting.

Pahlmann said his insistence on retaining some of the flavor of the surroundings was causing him problems with his latest project — decorating the 800 rooms of the new President Hotel in Hong Kong, a privately financed project.

"I insist on some oriental touches and the use of some traditional with the new," he said. "So cables have been flying back and forth for two weeks now, and I think I've got them convinced." He leaves tomorrow to supervise the interior design of the hotel.

CATER TO WOMEN

"Plenty," he said. "Today, the first class hotel either has a full-time interior designer on the staff or has an outside consultant. No longer does the resident housekeeper have the last word in what goes into a room. "More attention is being paid to feminine tastes. Today's international tourists, by and large, are couples middle-aged or older."

Dust ruffles on the bed, so that when the spread is removed the steel frame does not show; works of art chosen to fit the mood and color; a colorful spread on the bed, durable enough to take luggage dumped on it and people sitting on it.

Tea tables 22 inches high, taller than the standard cocktail table but more comfortable for room service dining than the carts wheeled in, in most hotels.

ITEMS IMPORTANT

Cabinet basins in the bath with the mirrors lighted so that a man can shave without slashing his throat and a woman can apply her makeup and have room for a cosmetics kit without having it splashed from the basin; incandescent rather than fluorescent light because, in application of makeup, fluorescent alters the color of the skin; a light somewhere in the shower area so that when the curtain is closed, the person in shower is not bathing in darkness.

Ample light for bedtime reading — "most hotels just don't," said Pahlmann, "and they also have a knack of putting the bed light where you have to get out of bed to turn it off."

Modernization of the luggage storage area so that it will hold today's two-and-four-suiters and the soft, lightweight dress and suit cases which unfold to hang ("hotel luggage racks still look as if everyone traveled with a Gladstone bag," said Pahlmann).

Splashes of bold color rather than the beige or gray basic; wallpaper either in combination with paint or throughout a room; big, not dinky mirrors, preferably framed;

And plenty of stationery in the desk with the Gideon Bible so you don't have to call the management for more paper when you write the folks back home.

"A hotel room should indicate that somebody cares," said Pahlmann.

Derivation of Detergent

Ever wonder where the term "detergent" came from? It is derived from the Latin "detergere" which means to wipe off.

It's certainly true that modern detergents are so effective that dirt literally is wiped off surfaces with a sudsy sponge or cloth.

Inside Linings

(UPI)—An inside story: lining of fur coats in the Andre Fath collection featured lace trappings, gold-brocaded silk, and prints with the coloring of Monet's famous "Water Lilies" canvas.

Startling Color

(UPI) — Look for startling color combinations in fall fashions, especially for evening. Designer Mollie Perine combined purple lining with flame red satin for an evening coat.

Berndts to Visit on Honeymoon

A European honeymoon for the Helmut Berndts (Beverly Keller) who were wed by Rev. F. J. Delaney in Our Lady of the Lakes Church, Waterford, will include a visit with his parents, the Emil K. Berndts in Wiesbaden, Germany.

The William J. Kellers, parents of the bride, were hosts at a luncheon in the Hawaiian Gardens near Holly and an evening reception in their home on Ledgestone Drive, Waterford.

In a gown designed by her mother, the bride appeared in a tiered sheath of white Mougash linen banded in imported Alencon lace, with court train. Her veil of French illusion mesh was fitted to a draped cap of linen and lace.

Red Alencon lace bordered white linen dresses and boleros for matron of honor, Mrs. Gene Shell, Drayton Plains, and bridesmaid Judy Mansen, West Lafayette, Ind. Their picture hats of white nylon braid were appliqued with lace.

The bride and her attendants carried white and red carnations, repeated in the altar flowers.

Mrs. Beth Keller and William Keller were flower girl and ring bearer at their aunt's wedding.

Both of Waterford, William R. Keller was best man at his sister's wedding and her brother Robert ushered with Gene Shell.

The bride attended the University of Colorado School of Music. Her husband is studying for his doctorate in electrical engineering at Purdue University under a Fulbright Fellowship. He holds a degree from Technische Hochschule at Darmstadt, Germany.

Mrs. Keller's gown of white Mougash linen featured a draped surplice back decolletage.

MRS. HELMUT-BERNDT

Beverly Ann Keller, daughter of the William Kellers of Ledgestone Drive, Waterford, and Helmut Berndt, son of the Emil K. Berndts of Wiesbaden, Germany, were wed in Our Lady of the Lakes Church at Waterford.

Don't Play That Game

Better to Forgive and Forget

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I don't know which way to turn. My husband travels a lot on business. I could tell something was wrong when he came back from his last trip.

He finally broke down and confessed that he had broken his marriage vows. He said it didn't mean anything; he loved me, and it would never happen again.

I have a neighbor who is my best friend. I tell her everything and I told her about this. She said I would feel better if I went out and evened the score. Before I do anything I want your advice.

HEART-BROKEN
DEAR HEART-BROKEN: If

the score is odd or even—you both lose. Don't play this kind of game.

Forgive your husband and never mention it again. P.S. Your "best friend's" judgment doesn't warrant the confidences you share with her.

DEAR ABBY: My best girl friend just turned 16 and she received a dress from her boy friend for her birthday. Her mother made her give the dress back.

When I told my mother about it she said the girl's mother was right and if I didn't think so I should write to you and ask you your opinion.

JUST ASKING
DEAR JUST: The mother was right. Gifts of apparel are too personal for a boy to give a girl who has "just turned 16."

DEAR ABBY: This letter is for "FROM MISSOURI" who said her sister-in-law was the world's biggest liar because she said her baby turned over all by itself in its crib at 9 weeks, and she had another child 2½ years old who could do the Twist.

Well, when my baby was carried from the delivery room to the incubator the nurse laid her down on her stomach in the crib, and before she could walk away the baby had reared up on her elbows and flipped over on her back.

Middle Age On Can Be Good

Old-Fashioned to Be Weak

BY JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
The outlook from middle age on is wonderful today! So much more is known about prolonging life and especially about prolonging the youthful portion of life. We have gotten rid of much ignorance and prejudice and are discovering that the human body need not be old at the period in life once considered "old age."

Yet many folks do not take advantage of the newer knowledge concerning nutrition. For instance, surveys show that many people are suffering from calcium deficiency.

Dairy products are the best sources. We need many minerals, most of them in small quantities. These are calcium, Phosphorus, sulphur, chlorine, iodine, zinc, cobalt, iron, copper, manganese and sodium.

If you eat a well-balanced diet, you will get as much of these as is essential. Iron has a direct effect on the red blood corpuscles in our blood and, therefore, affects our health, good looks and our energy. This is so true that when we say someone is "red-blooded," we mean that he has strength and courage.

Once it was considered alluring and feminine to be pale and weak physically. The fainting beauty is a thing of the past. Today's lovely woman depends on health, an eager spirit, and the charm which comes from a good figure and a happy outlook.

About 70 per cent of the iron in the body is in the blood. It is also a part of the nucleus of every cell in the body. A low count in red blood corpuscles leads to chronic fatigue and lack of resistance. This may be due to a diet which does not supply enough iron.

Liver and oysters are especially rich sources of iron. Meat and greens and dried beans and peas also are good sources.

Not a pale, fainting beauty, but a healthy, vibrant and charming woman—that's today's lovely person.

If you would like to have my menus, "Vitamins in Your Budget," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 38 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

The Fair Way

Select Club You Feel Will Do Job the Best

By SANDRA HAYNIE
Written For NEA
What club you employ depends to a large degree on personal preference.

There is an average range for each club, but you may find it to your advantage to use a different one.

For instance, the 213-yard 17th at Aronimink Golf Club, near Newtown, Pa., where the PGA Championship was played this year, calls for a wood, according to the book.

A wide pond runs across the fairway about 180 yards from the tee, however, leaving very little fairway on the other side for rolling up.

Dark Cottons

(UPI)—Add a few traditional dark cottons to your summer wardrobe. These bridges to fall fashion are dark enough to be smart with fall accessories on cool days, and the fabric is sufficiently light to be cool on hot days. Collars can be worn open or buttoned; sleeves push up or drop to way between elbow and wrist.

The best way to reach the green with the one stroke allotted by par, is to use an iron with plenty of backspin. But even the two iron is only supposed to go about 200 yards when the ball is well hit. Most of the professionals used a five or six, hitting into the green and staying there.

The great Arnold Palmer used a wood, landing just short of the green with surprisingly little roll. So, you see, it's a matter of what you can do with the club.

Select the club that feels best to you for the job.

This will give you confidence which is half the battle.

Local Cook Remembers Favorite Rolled Cooky

Pontiac Press Food Editor
Mrs. Leo Sizemore came in to see us recently and to bring a recipe that has been in her family for many years. She remembers going to a favorite aunt's house as a little girl and heading directly for the cookie jar where there was always a good supply of York State Cookies.

Mrs. Sizemore has a married daughter and 4 grandchildren. Her hobbies include bowling, crocheting, knitting and sewing.

YORK STATE COOKIES
By Mrs. Leo Sizemore

4 cups flour —
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon nutmeg

1 cup shortening
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Blend one cup flour with the shortening. Beat eggs, add sugar, then add to first mixture. Dissolve soda in 2 tablespoons boiling water. Stir well and add. Add other dry ingredients, then vanilla.
Roll out very thin on board or pastry cloth. Cut in desired shapes. Bake at 400 degrees about 10 minutes. Makes 3-4 dozen.
Note: If you use confectioners sugar on your board or pastry cloth, your cookies will never be tough from too much flour.

Teens Value Enduring Qualities in Friends

By EUGENE GILBERT
President, Gilbert Youth Council, Inc.

What makes you want them and like them as friends?

This business of friendship is such an intriguing one that we asked over 100 young people what qualities they seek in their friends. It was rewarding to discover that for the most part they are impressed by qualities of enduring worth.

A warm personality, trustworthiness and a sense of humor are the attributes most sought.

And while girls in our survey of 1,007 young people hardly gave a nod to "good looks," we must say that the boys make no bones about it; they, in judging girls, think first about beauty. That is, 40 per cent of them—the greatest number by far—put this in first place, on a list of 10 possible choices.

Here is how 402 of the boys listed the qualities sought in others:

- BOYS
1. Trustworthiness.
 2. Warm personality.
 3. Sense of humor.
 4. Cheerfulness.
 5. Intelligence.
 6. Good manners.
 7. Good grooming.
 8. Good looks.
 9. Popularity.
 10. Sports ability.

- GIRLS
1. Good looks.
 2. Warm personality.
 3. Sense of humor.
 4. Cheerfulness.
 5. Trustworthiness.
 6. Good manners.
 7. Intelligence.
 8. Popularity.
 9. Good grooming.
 10. Sports ability.

In the selections by the fellows, there were few out-and-out qualities that got overwhelming attention or recognition. The votes seemed to be spread out.

Not so for the girls. To them a warm personality meant more than anything else in judging a girl or boy.

Nearly half of them said this was the first quality they looked for in another girl, and 42 per cent said the same thing was sought for in boys they meet.

Here is the way the various qualities ranked in voting by 605 of the girls:

- GIRLS
1. Warm personality.

2. Trustworthiness.
3. Cheerfulness.
4. Sense of humor.
5. Good grooming.
6. Good manners.
7. Intelligence.
8. Popularity.
9. Good looks.
10. Sports ability.

BOYS

1. Warm personality.
2. Trustworthiness.
3. Sense of humor.
4. Good grooming.
5. Good manners.
6. Cheerfulness.
7. Intelligence.
8. Popularity.

Girls Sports ability.

10. Good looks.

Incidentally, it is quite clear that most of you young people think you make friends easily. Our survey shows that 86 per cent say making friends is easy.

"I make friends fairly easily because I've been around children all my life and I've also taken a social life course in school which helped me," said Joan Weeks, 14, of La Grange, Tex.

Of those who felt they had difficulty, many gave the same explanation as Ginny La Stoffa, 14, of Milwaukee, who said: "I'm too quiet."

Half the girls said they had from one to five close friends, while only 25 per cent of the boys could say they had as many.

Also, 57 per cent of the girls said they had one to five friends of the opposite sex while only 45 per cent of the boys said so.

Ten per cent of the teenagers said they had more than 10 close friends. Among the boys, there were 15 per cent who claimed they had more than 20 girl friends, while only 4 per cent of the girls could say they had as many boy friends.

We naturally wanted to know what they meant by "friendship," and so we asked for definitions. A lot said a friend was a person who is nice to you or who is cheerful and agreeable.

"A friend is someone who is cheerful and a good listener," said Ronald Moore, 15, of Houston in a comment that we heard fairly often.

"To me, a friend is more than someone to play with; he is a person who understands you and your motivations and who would be willing to die for you as well as who you would be for him," said Jerry A. Morgan, 15, of Kansas City, Mo.

Said Sam Byrley, 15, of Terre Haute, Ind.: "I think a friend is someone you should be able to depend on and trust. Who you can take your problems to and discuss them with and who will try to help out. I mean the kind of problems you can't talk over with your parents."

Confusion of red and green is the most common kind of color blindness.

Good Mom and Dad Unpopular at Times

RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"We don't decide ourselves. We can never be popular. Something would be wrong if we were. That's how a chief constable in England sums up the lot of a police officer."

By changing "We can never be popular" to "We can't always be popular," parents would have a pretty good philosophy to fall back on.

Like policemen, parents can always be popular, either. When they try too hard to be popular with their children and their children's friends, they quit being good parents.

It doesn't make a parent popular with his child to say, "I don't care how late the other kids stay out, you have to be in by 12."

There wouldn't be as many teenagers roaming around in cars at two and three in the morning looking for excitement if more parents were willing to make themselves temporarily unpopular by insisting that their children be home by a decent hour.

IT IS NECESSARY

It doesn't make parents popular with their children's friends if they act like chaperons when their children have parties.

But it's necessary if the parents want to make sure the party doesn't get out of hand.

It doesn't make parents popular with their children to say "No, we can't afford it" or "That's something you can get along without." But that's exactly what parents should say when it happens to be the truth.

It doesn't make parents popular with their children to insist that they do the very best work they are capable of in school. But it's certainly no real favor to a child to let him loaf when he should be learning.

So next time you find yourself tempted to change a "No" to a "Yes" just to get on the good side of your child, give yourself a little moral courage by saying silently, "I can't always be popular with my children. Something would be wrong if I were."

Broaden your understanding. Read Ruth Millett's booklet, "Tips on Teen-Agers." Mail 25 cents to Ruth Millett Reader Service, c/o The Pontiac Press, P.O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 19, N.Y.

In Detroit Hotel Wed to Venezuelan

The Crystal Ballroom of the Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel in Detroit was transformed into a Grecian setting for the Sunday vovs of Leah Berg to Elle H. Frances of Caracas, Venezuela.

Yellow roses and ferns in tall cupid urns interspersed with Ionic columns formed a background for the 6 o'clock ceremony performed by Rabbi Leizer Levine of Congregation Beth Tefilo Emanuel.

Daughter of the Karl C. Bergs of Middle Belt Road, Orchard Lake, the bride chose a cotton-type gown of white Chantilly lace and chiffon with short train. Her veil of illusion was elbow-length. She carried white orchids and Stephanotis.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Harold Fine of Cleveland, Ohio. Bridesmaids included Mrs. Ronald Koplowsky, Mrs. Robert Yutish, also of Cleveland; Mrs. Les Berg, Detroit; Mrs. Ruben Shell, Oak Park; and Toby Gilbert. Their floor-length dresses or iridescent jade taffeta featured square necklines and detachable sweep trains.

They held cascades of yellow roses with Capucine roses added to the honor attendant's bouquet.

BEST MAN

Herman Frances of Caracas stood as best man for his brother and Daniel Frances was an usher. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Frances of Caracas. Completing the usher list were Mark Berg, Leslie Fine, Ronald Koplowsky and Sol Berg of Anaheim, Calif.

The couple is spending a few days in New York City before leaving for Concord-Resort in the Catskill Mountains.

Show Must Go On

Theater Cast Solves Problems on Tour

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD—For the D'Oyly Carte Company, it was just another crisis met and mastered. It happened Monday, at the start of the Gilbert and Sullivan troupe's first American tour in seven years. Just as the company was beginning its final lighting rehearsal for the evening's opening at Pasadena Civic Auditorium, an underground cable exploded, cutting off electricity in downtown Pasadena.

After a two-hour delay, rehearsal continued with emergency gear. "The Mikado" was presented on time that night, with the same brilliance and precision with which the company has done it since the premiere in 1885.

Such conquest of crisis was routine for the D'Oyly Carte Company, which has survived storms, blizzards and the changes of fashions for nearly 80 years.

A performance by the company is a rare experience. You get the feeling of tradition, as if the show were being presented precisely as Sir William Gilbert and Sir Arthur Sullivan desired it.

"The Mikado" was handsomely mounted and beautifully sung, has been going continuously since 1884—48 weeks a year with four weeks off for a holiday. The only time that routine was broken was during the early part of the last war. The company was out three months that time.

D'Oyly Carte this year faced a crisis possibly more serious than fire bombs. Its monopoly in the British Isles on the works of Gilbert and Sullivan, which had extended to the death of the surviving collaborator, who perished of heart failure in 1911 after trying to save a drowning girl.

"The Sadler's Wells Company put on a version of 'Iolanthe' on Jan. 1," said Worsley. "There was quite a to-do over who would present the first performance after the copyright was over. Our curtain went up three minutes before theirs."

Worsley seemed unfurled at the prospect of the G&S classics being available to anyone who cared to put them on. "If anything, that should rebound in our favor," he commented. "The public should want to see the operas in the traditional manner."

FAMILIES JOINED—Mrs. Mary A. Treacy, a South Bend, Ind., widow with four children, yesterday married Jay A. Young, a Wilkes-Barre, Pa., widower with 12 children. The ceremony was performed on the University of Notre Dame campus. They met at the university where Young was a guest lecturer this summer. He is head of the chemistry department at Kings College at Wilkes-Barre. Attending the wedding were from left John and Cecilia Young, both 19; Michael, 7, Eileen, 9, John, 6, and Kathleen, 8, Treacy.

Michigan Dem Chairman Calls Romney 'Me-Tooer'

JACKSON (U)—Democratic State Chairman John (Doc) Collins says George Romney is a "me-too" candidate who plays loose with issues in the gubernatorial campaign.

Collins, speaking to the Jackson County Democratic Convention last night, accused Romney of following an openly opportunistic approach to leadership. Collins said: "Romney supported a program of fiscal reform for Michigan last November, reiterated that support in January, then became strangely silent on the question when it was a real issue in April. Now, Romney is supporting it again."

"A natural conclusion from this is that either Romney has trouble or facing an issue when it counts, or he backs controversial issues on a seasonal basis, growing faint in the spring."

Collins also scoffed at Romney's statement that if elected governor he would not seek the 1964 Republican presidential nomination. Romney did not rule out the possibility of a draft, however.

Romney said back in 1960 that he had no designs on state office, Collins declared, adding: "In '61, he said it would be 'repulsive' for a man elected a delegate to the constitutional convention to use that post to seek higher office."

"In each instance, Romney demonstrated either a weakness of purpose or a weakness of memory by using his on-con post as a stepping-stone to the GOP candidacy for governor."

"He is now asking us to believe that he would not do the same with the governorship of Michigan."

Collins said Romney has a record of "misinterpreting gentle breezes to be severe drafts."

Is Queen Liz

Dressing Andy in Charles' Duds?

LONDON (UPI)—A London columnist suggested today Queen Elizabeth may be dressing Prince Andrew in hand-me-down clothes. A palace source dismissed the claim.

William Hickey of the Daily Express published pictures of 2-year-old Prince Andrew in a suit and another taken of Prince Charles 10 years ago when he was three. The outfits appeared identical.

"Could it be that the queen had Prince Charles' suit put away for the day when it might be needed again?" Hickey asked.

"It is reasonable enough after all—the sort of thing any careful mother would do. And there is plenty of storage space in Buckingham Palace."

Nab Last Suspect in $50,000 Fraud

DETROIT (U)—Police held today a man who they said was the last of 18 persons suspected in a multi-state money order falsifying operation which may have cost the American Express Co. $50,000.

Officers declined to identify the man immediately. Police were seeking to have him identified as a passer of the bogus money orders.

Detectives William J. Dewey and Ralph Smith said the ring cashed money orders on which the face value was changed. They said some checks, purchased for $1, were cashed for as much as $50.

AMC Earnings Meet Contract

Workers' Yearly Raise on Improvement Factor Figures Okay

DETROIT (AP)—American Motors Corp. earned sufficient profits in the first nine months of its fiscal year to meet demands of a profit-sharing plan without diverting any funds from the annual improvement factor increase, the United Auto Workers Union said today.

Douglas Fraser, director of the UAW's American Motors dept., said this means some 25,000 AMC workers will receive the annual improvement factor increase of six cents an hour or 3 1/2 per cent of pay, whichever is greater, effective Sept. 6.

Fraser said a study of American Motors earnings by local union presidents resulted in the decision to provide the annual improvement factor increase, which is based on improved production per hours of work.

The UAW-American Motors "progress sharing" program, established as part of the contract last year, "provides that AIF increase will be diverted to the profit-sharing fund if earnings are insufficient to meet added fringe benefits, or the company suffers a loss."

The portion of annual improvement factor funds to be determined will be determined in a joint decision by the company and the union.

American Motors' earnings after taxes for the first nine months of the current fiscal year were $30,231,341, an increase of 51 per cent over the same period last year. AMC operates on a fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 and ending Sept. 30.

Royal Couple Turned Away by Kennedy Plans

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—A royal couple from Europe declined to stay at the Beverly Hills presidential suite for this weekend.

"We're very sorry," they were told, "but the President will be occupying the suite himself."

Princess Sophia of Greece and her bridegroom, Juan Carlos, pretender to the Spanish throne, arrived to take the hotel's penthouse instead for their four-day visit here starting tomorrow.

A hotel spokesman said it was the first time a request for the suite had been turned down because the chief executive would be occupying it.

President Kennedy will be in Southern California for 32 hours starting Saturday. He will confer twice with Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Newsman Ordered Out of Soviet Union

MOSCOW (UPI)—For the first time since the lifting of official censorship last year, the Soviet Union today ordered an American newsman out of the country.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry announced it had canceled the Moscow accreditation of Newsweek bureau chief Whitman Bassow on the grounds that he sent "crudely slanderous dispatches."

Tass, the Soviet news agency, disclosed the action against Bassow.

"This decision," it said, "was taken in view of (his) violation of the standards of journalistic conduct for foreign correspondents in the U.S.S.R., as well as . . . Bassow's crudely slanderous dispatches about the Soviet Union, which have evoked the legitimate indignation of Soviet public opinion."

Guido's Facing New Army Fire

Argentine President Hit by an Ousted War Secretary

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—President Jose Maria Guido came under new fire today as the continuing dispute among Argentina's army commanders threatened to topple his five-month-old government.

Gen. Eduardo Sarmiento, forced out as war secretary last week after 12 hours in office, accused Guido of betraying him and the government by mediating with the rebel army faction which last week forced out War Secretary Juan Bautista Loza.

Sarmiento said in a letter to the president he had accepted the war post on condition that he be allowed to repress the rebels by force and uphold the principles of authority and discipline.

He said he quit because Guido, to avoid bloodshed, yielded to the rebels after they marched on the capital.

Buenos Aires appeared normal today with movie houses packed and people relaxing at the end of a religious holiday.

Rebellion SEEN

But widespread resentment was reported among the army's officers following a reshuffle of top field command and staff posts by the new war secretary, Gen. Octavio Cornejo Saravia.

The army general staff and the General Staff College were reported virtually on strike because of the appointment of Gen. Carlos Turiso as chief of staff.

Turiso is a supporter of Maj. Gen. Federico Toranzo Montero, who led the rebellion within the army, so-called "loyalist" officers dominated the general staff and the staff college.

Toranzo's own 4th Corps headquarters staff at Salta, in northwest Argentina, also was reported angry because Toranzo has been reappointed as his chief.

He had gone to adjacent Jujuy Province to start his rebellion, and the Salta garrison sided with the loyalists against him.

Admitted Killer Had Good Status

Parole Officials Say Vasiliou-Case Suspect Reported Regularly

Joseph Page, admitted triggerman in the July 30 slaying of market owner Elinias Vasiliou, had a "good parole record" since being released from Jackson Prison more than two years ago.

Page and 29-year-old R. G. Struman, two of the three men charged with first-degree murder in the Vasiliou killing, both were on parole when the grocer was slain in an abortive robbery attempt.

Struman, according to State Parole officials in Lansing, had a generally "poor record" since being paroled from Jackson Prison last April 16.

He had several parole violations, but officials did not list the nature of the violations.

SENTENCED IN '61

Struman had been sentenced in March 1961 to 1 to 15 years in prison March 21, 1961, for the night time burglary of a Pontiac drug store.

Page, 29, of 349 Orchard Lake Ave., was paroled June 21, 1960, after serving slightly over three years of a 5 to 15 year sentence for a 1956 Pontiac holdup.

Officials said today that Page reported regularly to his parole officer and had maintained a good record. His early prison release was due to good behavior while serving his sentence.

The third man being held, Benni L. Speltz, 23, also of 235 S. Anderson St., apparently has no criminal record, according to police.

Losing Candidate to Be Honored at Detroit Dem Fete

DETROIT (UPI)—Wayne County Democrats have come up with a new gimmick—a "tribute" to a man who lost in the primary election.

The "tribute to Joseph B. Sullivan" will be staged in Cobo Hall Sept. 14.

Sullivan was entered in Democratic primary as a candidate for Wayne County prosecutor. He lost by less than 6,000 votes to incumbent Samuel Olsen.

About 35 men and women who made up the Sullivan campaign committee will meet Saturday to work out details of the beer and pretzel party.

A spokesman said the party would give voters "a chance to express themselves to Joe B."

Oh, for those good old days of the Willys-Overland out there in Toledo, when a foreign car was that was made in Detroit. . . . A new woman's diet combines garlic and limburger. You can't get finished off Kwate after Wallace near her—but from a distance, she looks thinner. Earl Wilson.

Costs Upset Supervisors

Child Care Probe Urged

Spurred by rising costs, the Oakland County Board of Supervisors today urged a full study of child care programs in the county.

"There seems to be a total lack of coordination in all phases of child care here," remarked committee member John Carey after the committee heard requests for more money next year from the juvenile court and children's services and other child protective agencies.

During the course of the committee's hearings on the county's final budget for 1963, members of the United Community Services planning division spoke out on behalf of more money for the foster care of children.

No longer will UCS agencies be able to provide funds for the temporary placement of children in foster homes, Mrs. John Runney, planning division spokesman, told the committee.

"The growth of population makes this an increasing burden which the agencies feel they can't carry any longer," she said.

Hunt said part of the rising costs result from the county's caring for emotionally disturbed youngsters who have been committed to state hospitals but not admitted for lack of facilities.

He said the cost of this alone amounted to $37,466 during the past five years.

In the field of educating children an county wards, Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore said the county should collect tuition for each child from his home school district which is collecting state aid for his education even though he is being educated at county expense.

Judge Moore recommended that the board of supervisors authorize a model plan of facilities for the care of children needing special attention for various reasons.

Ways and means Chairman David Levinson of Birmingham said a study should be conducted in the overall child care field, including services available through the courts, mental health, foster care, child guidance clinics and education.

NEW YORK (AP)—The Telstar satellite was used Wednesday to send an Associated Press picture of former President and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower from London directly into AP's wirephoto network and to newspapers and television stations across the United States and Canada.

First DIRECT PICTURE

The first picture transmission via Telstar was received last month in the New York offices of AP and United Press International.

SHARP AND CLEAR

The radiophoto and the caption beneath it came through clear and sharp.

The satellite was used earlier Wednesday to beam Eisenhower's London news conference to television screens in this country. The picture came in clearly but through no fault of Telstar—no sound came across.

Television network spokesmen here said the sound failure occurred somewhere on the ground between the Savoy Hotel in London and the British transmitting station.

Court Delays Rail Economy

Action Prevents Strike of Workers Opposing Reduction in Force

CHICAGO (AP)—A ruling by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has temporarily halted the nation's railroads from putting into effect a new economy program which would eliminate thousands of jobs.

The court's action Wednesday also delayed the threat of a strike by the 210,000 operating workers represented by the five unions in dispute with the railroads.

The railroads had announced plans to put the new economy program into effect today. The unions had threatened to strike if the carriers went court appeal.

The decision upheld a petition by the unions and kept the dispute from being referred to Washington immediately.

SEEK COURT OK

The unions had asked the appeals court to uphold a lower court's injunction barring the railroads from eliminating the jobs.

The three-judge court's ruling keeps current working conditions in effect until it can rule on the work-changes issue. That ruling may not be made until November. Then that ruling could be appealed by either side to the U.S. Supreme Court.

J. E. Wolfe, spokesman for the railroads, said the carriers will comply with the injunction. But he added that the appointment of a presidential emergency board would be the fastest method of settling the issue.

Samuel C. Phillips, a spokesman for the unions, said: "There will be no strike unless we are forced into it, and we are ready to negotiate with the railroads at any time."

Phillips is assistant president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Her 4-year-old daughter, Caroline, was up soon after the sun and off to another day at the beach. A nursemaid took Caroline and her cousins, Anthony Radziwill, 3, and his 2-year-old sister Anna Christina, to the villa's private beach at Conca del Marini.

Mrs. Kennedy joined the children on the beach shortly after midday.

Venus-Destined Rocket Probed in Shot Scratch

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—Missile experts today probed the innards of a 10-story rocket in an attempt to clear up troubles that have delayed a planned U.S. shot toward the planet Venus.

The launching of the probe, a 447-pound package of scientific instruments named Mariner-2, had been set for next Monday, but was washed off that scheduled yesterday when the rocket's informers turned up.

Informal sources said it was undetermined how long it would take to repair the Atlas-Agena rocket, but that Mariner-2 would not be rescheduled for at least "several days" beyond Monday.

Scientists hope to send the gold- and silver-plated probe to within 10,000 miles of cloud-shrouded Venus—the end of a trip that should take Mariner-2 191 million miles through space in about four months.

Passengers Removed From Sinking Ferry

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—Fifty-five passengers were removed from the ferry Lindzey Warren after the developed a leak and began to sink Wednesday in Oregon Inlet, N.C., the Coast Guard reported today.

The ferry was beached to prevent her from sinking, and later was refloated and towed to the northern shore of the inlet.

The Coast Guard lifeboat station at Oregon Inlet sent three patrol vessels to the ferry's assistance after the party boat Phyllis Mae reported the ferry was sinking.

MULE TRAIN—Robert Golt, 15, of Lansing and his grandfather, Maurice Hordford of Farwell, are driving this team of mules, hitched to a replica of a prairie schooner, from Farwell to Ann Arbor as a stunt. The youth had been told by Ann Arbor relatives that they had a present for him, but he would have to come after it. The pair expects to be in Ann Arbor in 10 days.

Motel for Politicos Needs Pink Rooms

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Anyone who has been more than three blocks from home in the past five years undoubtedly is aware of the fantastic boom in motel construction.
If you build a better motel, the world doesn't have to beat a path to your door. The government will provide a six-lane divided highway.
Motel, I hardly need point out, have been becoming increasingly luxurious, palatial and super de luxe, not to mention expensive to stay in.

have a chat with Frederick Fox, a noted Broadway stage set designer who served as an architectural and decorative consultant for the project.
LACKS SPECIAL TALENT
It soon became apparent that whatever his other talents, Fox doesn't know much about designing motels for politicians. At least his plans didn't fit my concept of what a motel for politicians should be like.

The motel I have in mind would have three types of rooms.
One, located in the right wing, would have birch furniture of the Louis XIV period.
The second, in the left wing, would be done in pink. The third, accessible only from the rear entrance, would be for the exclusive use of back-door sponsors.
In addition to temperature controls, each room would have a bellum outlet for inflating trial balloons. Another knob would adjust the smoke content to the density suitable for selecting candidates.

There would, of course, be swagger sticks available for pointing with pride, and a picture window from which to view with alarm.

Other features would include built-in lobbyists, a night deposit service for campaign contributors, steam shovels for digging up dirt about opponents and electronic mud slingers.
The dining room, rather than having tables and booths, would serve meals from a public trough, and the swimming pool would be equipped with a floating stable for changing horses in midstream.

With Aid of Lightning

Refrigerator Plays Oven

UNIONVILLE, Iowa (U) — When Addie Hull of Unionville returned from a recent trip she opened her refrigerator and found three roast chickens, a large number of baked eggs and a lot of baked vegetables. All the food had been uncooked when she left.

The mysterious cook turned out to be a lightning bolt which struck a tree near the house. The lightning affected the refrigerator so that the cooling unit became a heating unit and cooked all the food in the box.

Later the unit automatically returned to refrigerating and chilled the cooked food.

$150,000 Suit Filed Against 'Bo'

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Pitcher Bo Belinsky of the Los Angeles Angels was accused Wednesday in a $150,000 damage suit of mauling and manhandling Gloria Perry Eves.

Miss Eves, a nightclub cashier, said Belinsky tried to eject her from a car with such force that the car's window was broken and she was cut over the right eye.

Her complaint recalled a post-game party last June that began at the Coconut Grove and wound up at the home of actors' agent Kurt Frings.

Belinsky, 25, and another member of the Angels pitching staff, Dean Chance, 22, made news on the morning of June 13 for allegedly getting home just ahead of the milkman. They were fined by the Angels. This was after Belinsky's no-hit game in May thrust him into prominence.

Miss Eves' suit charges that she was riding in the back seat of Belinsky's automobile that morning when an altercation started and there were pointed suggestions that she get out of the car and hire a taxi.

In the front seat were Belinsky, Chance and Mrs. Bridget Whitaker, a divorcee.

Mrs. Whitaker, 33, the complainant, objected that Belinsky was "not acting as a gentleman and this caused him to lose his temper."

The complaint gave this account of events:

In a fit of rage, Belinsky dragged Miss Eves, 33, from the back seat to the front seat and "without any due regard for her health, welfare and safety . . . physically manhandled a and mauled her that she was permanently injured."

The suit asked additional damages for expenses as yet undetermined.

Hope for Direct Fight Telecast Falls Through

HELSINKI, Finland (AP)—Plans fell through Wednesday for a direct television transmission via Telstar of a part of the world featherweight championship fight Friday between defender Davey Moore of Ohio and Finnish challenger Olli Maki.

The promoters had hoped to show a few minutes of the fight live to Europe and America via the satellite. Some observers here felt it was just as well that the deal didn't go through as the champion from America is an overwhelming favorite to beat the inexperienced, non-raised Finn in Scandinavia's first world title fight.

Officials blamed the blowup of the nearly completed deal on Sweden's state radio and television authorities. Sweden has barred live fight telecasts on moral grounds and has not even made an exception for Ingemar Johansson, a native son who held the world heavyweight crown.

Because of technical reasons, a television hookup from Finland to Europe's Eurovision network has to be made via Sweden's network.

Two Pontiac Teams Win District Titles

Two Pontiac junior teams won district championships and the R. T. Clippers gained the city Class A final playoffs by belting CIO 12-4 on a day of crucial baseball games here yesterday.

Auburn Heights Boys Club took Class E honors by whipping the East Detroit V.F.W. nine 7-5 in the morning and Saginaw Shields 6-0 in the afternoon.

The Pontiac Falcons took the East Detroit Colts for the "9th title 7-5 after eliminating Waterford earlier, 10-4.

Roger Hayward pitched a five-hitter in the Class E final which was decided by a two-run 1st. He had two hits as did Lynn Thorpe and Mike Burklow. Burklow got the morning win in eight innings in relief of Thorpe. Dick Reddaway's 2nd hit and a 3rd safety by Don Kilson along with two errors produced the clinchers.

Taking a 2-1 lead into the 7th, the Falcons scored five times but East Detroit came back with four before Roger Miller got the side out in relief of winner Dugan Pife.

The pitchers each had two hits. They led all the way against Waterford but it got close until a five-run 7th gave victor Tom Nance some insurance. Miller got four hits, Pife and DeLara two each in that one. Larry St.

Dennis had a double and homer and Paul Thomas homered with one on for Waterford.

CIO took a 6-0 lead in the 1st inning but could do little the rest of the way. The Clippers finally pulled ahead in the 3rd and won with four in the 6th. Six different R. T. men had two hits led by Gene Cox with a triple and single. Terry Anderson won in relief.

Lackner Wins as Senior

John Lackner won the Birmingham Country Club seniors' championship yesterday with a four over par 37-38-75. He was one stroke ahead of two-time champion Si James and Harry Hyvonen, each of whom had 38-38-76.

Last year's champion Rolfe Weyand earned an 83.

Lackner just moved into the seniors' field. He turned 50 recently.

Curtis Cuppers Have Problems

Altitude Hinders Women Golfers from Britain in Colorado

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Women golfers from the British Isles, practicing for Curtis Cup golf matches with a United States team, are trying to solve two problems—altitude and optical illusions—in their preliminary drills here.

When they first arrived last week, the British girls played only nine holes of golf at a time and used carts to ride around the Broadmoor course. But they are acclimating themselves to the 6,000 foot altitude and now are playing 27 holes, walking the entire distance.

Friday, when the 2-day international matches open, they must play 36 holes a day.

Three of the American squad members have a distinct advantage, however, because they have played the Broadmoor course frequently. They are Barbara McIntyre and Judy Bell, both of whom now call Colorado Springs their home, and Jean Ashley of Chanute, Kan. All have won the annual women's tournament played over the links.

Three foursomes will play Friday and six singles will be played Saturday. A victory counts 1 point and a tie counts half a point for each team.

Expect Something New From K, but Not in Space

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — Premier Khrushchev if he follows past practice—may give the West a barefaced bluff but won't try right away to top Russia's two-man orbit success with some new sensation.

This tubby Communist, one of the world's greatest press agents, has a brilliant sense of timing in public relations, whether it's pounding a shoe in the United Nations or howling out American labor leaders.

Nevertheless, he seems to think it better to let each Soviet space achievement sink in at home and abroad, since each makes priceless propaganda, before trying a fresh spectacular.

But he has from time to time quickly followed Soviet successes with unsubtle threats to the West.

When Russia sent the world's first satellite around the earth in 1957, it came at a very convenient time for Khrushchev. He had just been through a life-and-death struggle with the old-line Stalinist Bolsheviks.

He got rid of them in a bloodless purge by banishing them to minor posts. This struggle at the top must have upset the Russian people and made them wonder about the wisdom, leadership and direction of Khrushchev.

MADE ITAN FORGET

Then Sputnik went up, making the Russians first in space. It gave them a sense of national pride which they could identify with Khrushchev. For him it was the getting an okay from the board of health.

Then three days later the Soviets announced the test of a "mighty hydrogen warhead of a new design" and at a great height. From this the West could draw a simple conclusion: That the Soviets had tested a nuclear warhead on a missile that could span oceans and continents. Khrushchev didn't have to say anything.

Within less than a month the Russian Communist party announced the ouster of its defense minister, Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, one of Russia's great war heroes.

As if to erase the shock of this Russia's very next day sent up its second satellite, this time with a dog.

Khrushchev then boasted this showed Russia was capable of launching such tremendous intercontinental ballistic missiles that America's overseas bases, supposed to deter Russia, had become out of date.

QUICK-CHANGE

Three days later he called for a summit meeting. Here, as at other times, Khrushchev gave the impression of a man who had been watching American westerns on television.

One day he was the bad guy in the black hat and the next day he put on a light hat and was the good guy. He's been swapping hats at a rapid rate for years.

He really hammed it up in September 1959. Just as he came here to visit President Eisenhower Russia hit the moon with Luna II. He said the moonshot and his visit were just a coincidence.

And maybe they were. There have been no sensations for Khrushchev while. But him was handy to have his credit when he sat down with Eisenhower and later toured the United States. He used him like a status-seeker.

Except for some boasting, he didn't do anything much after Russia, in April, 1961, sent the first man into orbit around the earth.

It might be argued—but not very reasonably—that he deliberately tried to pile sensation upon sensation after the Soviets sent their second man into orbit, this time 17 times around the earth, in August, 1961.

Just a few days after that, and it had to be by Khrushchev's order, the Communists rocked the Western world by throwing war between East and West Berlin.

And within another couple of weeks they announced they would end their voluntary ban on nuclear tests and start testing, which they did.

The decision on the Berlin wall tests last fall something that could hardly have been a sudden decision. The Soviets didn't know whether the West might react violently. It had to be thought out and preparations had to be made for crisis.

Nor were the Soviet nuclear tests last fall something that could have been decided upon a couple of weeks' time. Many of the missiles, perhaps years, went into the preparation for them.

Ex-City Trooper, Wife and Child Killed in Kansas

A state police trooper, Gerald J. Telf, who had been assigned to the Pontiac post for 10 years, was killed yesterday along with his wife and their 9-year-old son in a two-car collision on U.S. 90, four miles east of Stroud, Kan.

Another of the trooper's sons was injured critically in the crash, which also killed a Kansas motorist and child.

Telf had been transferred in June 1961 from Pontiac to Pawnee. The family, living in Lawton, had been touring the West.

His 11-year-old wife, Mary Lee, and their 9-year-old son, Gerald J. Jr., died in the accident. The other son, William, 7, was in critical condition at Newman Hospital in nearby Emporia, Kan.

Killed in the other car were Mrs. Larry Odham, 25, of Elmdale, Kan., and her 10-month-old son, Eddie.

Club Injunction Still in Force

Oakland Hills Trouble Over Which Board Can Act in Strike

A temporary injunction which limits picketing of the strike-bound Oakland Hills Country Club in Bloomfield Township continued in effect today after lawyers failed to settle a jurisdictional dispute in Circuit Court yesterday.

Judge H. Russell Holland said the dispute is over whether the State Labor Mediation Board or the National Labor Relations Board has jurisdiction in the case.

Club management, the judge said, claims state jurisdiction because it says the Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union asked the state board to step into the matter.

On the other hand, the union claims state labor laws do not apply and the case belongs to the NLRB, Judge Holland said.

Both sides agreed yesterday to file briefs outlining their position. Judge Holland urged both parties to contact the NLRB to see if that federal body claims jurisdiction.

Another hearing will be held early next week, the judge said. Under the temporary injunction issued last week, "peaceful" picketing is allowed at Oakland Hills but pickets are restrained from interfering with groundkeepers.

HIGHWAY DRAMA — William D. Rafferty, whose car has just struck Emily Johnson, 13, on Churchland Boulevard near Portsmouth, Va., yesterday, sprints to assist her as Lloyd Lewis, a passerby, kneels beside her. Owens-Illinois Glass Plans Charlotte Plant TOLEDO, Ohio — Owens-Illinois Glass Co. announced construction today of a plant at Charlotte, Mich., which will employ more than 200 persons and have an annual payroll of $2 million.

Ray H. Mulford, Owens-Illinois president, said some key personnel will be transferred from other company plants, but most employees will be hired in Charlotte and Eaton County.

The bottle and jar plant, expected to get into production by Oct. 15, 1963, will be located on a 12-acre site southwest of the intersection of Packard Highway and the Grand Trunk Western Railway.

Mulford said work on clearing the plant site will start at the end of this month.

Highway Plans Seen Unaffected

Mackie Says Release of U.S. Funds Early Won't Change Program

LANSING (UPI)—The early release of $68.6 million in federal highway funds to the state will not affect the scheduling of Michigan's building program, Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said yesterday.

"The release of the frozen funds was announced yesterday in Washington. "This is merely money due Michigan to help finance our second five-year program which began July 1," Mackie said. "It assures that the program will be paid out as planned."

Michigan is one of few states which issues bonds for highway construction in advance of the receipt of federal funds. "Although the federal money is being released about 10 months earlier than expected, our share of the $2 billion grant was programmed months ago," said Mackie.

"The bonding program under which we operate enables us to go full speed ahead with our accelerated highway program long before due federal money is received."

The federal government authorized the early release of the highway funds to stimulate the economy.

Approve College Study for Berrien County

BENTON HARBOR (AP)—Trustees of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph school boards have authorized a study that could lead to Berrien countywide financial support of Benton Harbor Community College. The plan, recommended by the State Department of Public Instruction, earlier won the support of Eau Claire and Niles school boards.

Ike So Weary of Word 'Gap'; Aim Different

LONDON (UPI) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said yesterday there is no space gap between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Eisenhower told a news conference, "I don't admit the gap. I'm tired of that word."

President Kennedy told Americans Monday night the United States was behind Russia in space. "In an obvious reference to the Soviet 'space twins,' Eisenhower was not alone 'for a race or spectacular stunt.'"

Fleetschauer said the Soviets were ahead "in making of great engines . . . but we have space in making satellites to gather all sorts of information."

Insist U.S. Will Win in Race to the Moon

They pictured the Soviet feat as a "baby step" which told nothing about who would win in the hard

U.S. Working to Halt Strike

Electricians Picket at Huntsville Saturn Site, Protesting Scabs

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Multiple moves are being made in an effort to bring a quick end to a strike which threatens to delay this nation's moon exploration program.

The National Labor Relations Board was urged Wednesday to seek a court order to end a work stoppage on construction projects which affect the Saturn booster, currently America's No. 1 hope for shooting a man to the moon.

The strike at the Marshall Space Flight Center by 150 members of the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 588, has caused concern in Washington.

Picket lines were raised at three Redstone Arsenal gates Tuesday as the electricians struck in protest of the hiring of a few nonunion workers by Ebasco Electrical Construction Co. of Pensacola, Fla.

Most of the 1,500 building trades employees at the Marshall Center and the Army Ordnance Missile Command honored the picket lines Wednesday and Tuesday.

Marshall Center spokesmen say the strike could cause serious damage to the moonshot program if it continues.

One project involves construction of a stand for testing the Saturn C-5 booster designed to lift the Apollo space ship on its voyage to the moon.

President Kennedy's Missile Site Label Center urged an immediate end to the picketing, but the request was rejected by the union.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said in Washington he has been assured by government officials that steps are being taken to halt the strike by injunction proceedings under the Taft-Hartley law.

And Marshall Center officials formally asked 18 contractors and subcontractors to resume construction work today.

Gordon Freeman, president of the electrical workers, said the picketing did not violate the non-strike policy for missile and space bases to which his union subscribes.

Freeman said Local 538 "exhausted all available procedures and methods for peaceful settlement of the dispute before action taken."

Police, Fairmount Park guards, firemen and highway patrolmen were ordered into the area at Front and Spring Garden streets. They forced the men to opposite sides of the streets and set up a cordon of cars and men to hold them apart. Buses, cabs, strollers and strollers continued to fly.

About half an hour after the melee began, officers, aided by police dogs, brought the situation under control.

ARREST TWO
Police arrested two men on charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

The disturbance capped a day of tension between Teamsters Local 107 members and members of a dissident group which calls itself the Voice of Local 107.

The Voice seeks to oust local leadership faithful to the Teamsters International president, James R. Hoffa, and to quit the union to join the AFL-CIO.

There has been discussion in Local 107 for several years, marked by frequent outbreaks. The Voice men are attempting to remove Raymond Cohen, Brigantine, N.J., secretary of the local and close associate of Hoffa.

Cohen and several other officers of the local have been indicted on charges of misuse of the local's funds but trials have not yet been held.

Rotunda Inn Burns

RAVAGED BY FLAMES — This section of the Rotunda Inn was destroyed early this morning when a fire started in a maintenance closet on the main floor. The second floor and roof, shown here were gutted by the flames that were shooting through the roof when the West Bloomfield Fire Department arrived on the scene at 5:55 a.m.

Six Escape by Rotunda Roof

Inn Swept by Early Blaze

Six persons fled this morning control in an hour and a half. The fire was extinguished by 9 a.m.

Township Fire Chief Herbert Morgan said the fire apparently started in a first-floor janitor's room, which contained cleaning rags, waitresses' uniforms and a music system.

They got off the roof when a neighbor, Charles Rogers of 2114 Pine Lake Road, noticed their plight and brought a ladder. Rogers called the West Bloomfield Fire Department shortly before 4 a.m.

The three other persons sleeping at the inn escaped without incident.

Township firemen, who had five pieces of firefighting equipment at the scene, said flames were licking through the roof of the two-story frame building at 3230 Pine Lake Road when they arrived.

Geoff Davis, owner of the hotel, said the Williamsburg Room and four hotel rooms on the second floor, suffered the most extensive damage.

However, Davis had repair crews at the inn minutes after firemen departed. He said four dining rooms were not touched by the blaze and the inn will reopen tomorrow.

Firemen had the blaze under control in an hour and a half.

County Conventions Held

"And no amount of attractive packaging and PR (public relations) building of an image can long hide an inferior product," Kelley declared.

He predicted Gov. John B. Swainson's re-election in November, referring to him as "a man with great personal and political courage... who believes in, and lives, his motto 'good government is good politics.'"

"This is the choice in November between a man of vision and progress; between mere image and great substance; between an unproven huckster and a proven leader," Kelley added.

He accused Romney of being "a man who went to Con-Con and sold his own principles out to the most reactionary element of his Republican party."

Kelley charged the Republican party with obstructionism in its control of the state legislature, by having defeated Gov. Swainson's fiscal reform program, thus placing the interests of political opportunism ahead of the state.

The attorney general also accused the GOP party of turning its back on democratic principles by seeking to deny reappointment of the state legislature according to popular vote.

Warns 2 Shots Are Significant in Military Field

Defense Minister Cites 'Superiority' Over U.S. in Greeting to 'Twins'

From Our News Wires

MOSCOW — Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky warned the world today to note the military significance of Russia's history-making twin space shots.

"Let our foes know what technology and what militance are in the possession of Soviet power," Malinovsky said in a message of congratulations to the two cosmonauts.

Soviet confidence in further space successes blared from radio and television sets and in black or red banner headlines in newspapers.

Russia claimed the dual flights last weekend gave it space superiority over the United States.

A Soviet scientist indicated, however, that the "space twins" had not achieved a link-up in the cosmos as had been speculated by some Western experts.

The cosmonauts were flown today from their point of landing in Kazakhstan to another base closer to Moscow to make a detailed report on their work and life in outer space.

A correspondent for the Soviet news agency Tass who accompanied them said doctors who examined Maj. Andrian Nikolayev and Lt. Col. Pavel Popovich found their condition "excellent, excellent."

Nikolayev and Popovich landed six minutes apart yesterday in hill and desert country about 1,500 miles south of Moscow. Nikolayev had been circling the globe for nearly four days, Popovich for nearly three.

PREPARE WELCOME
Russians were preparing a giant hero's welcome for the two men when they return to Moscow.

In congratulating the cosmonauts Malinovsky said:

"For ages to come you have made famous our great Soviet motherland and our great Leninist Communist party. Glory to you. Let our foes know what technology and what militance are in possession of our Soviet Union."

Reynolds also blistered the Democrats for bungling and ineptness in the cold war against Russia and for "not only failing to move the economy forward, but also for his (Kennedy's) police state charges that have created an atmosphere in which business and industry fear to expand."

Key differences between the proposed platform and Davidson's proposals concerned a state income tax and support of proposed new state constitution.

'Stockpile Contract Aided U.S., Firm'

WASHINGTON (AP) — George M. Humphrey, former secretary of the Treasury, told Senate stockpile investigators today that the government as well as his mining company gained from a multimillion-dollar nickel stockpile contract.

Humphrey, 72, wealthy Cleveland, Ohio, industrialist and honorary chairman of the M. A. Hanna Co.

which handled the nickel operations, flatly disputed earlier testimony before a Senate subcommittee about excessive profits or special treatment on the contracts.

His prepared statement left to other Hanna officials, due to testify later, any answer to accusations by government auditors that the nickel contracts involved improper accounting and destruction of important company records.

Of all the stockpile contracts to expand production of nickel needed for the defense stockpile, Humphrey said "the Hanna contracts involved the most efficient."

Larger Compact Aims to Compete With BOP Smaller Cars

By JOHN CROWLEY
City Editor, The Pontiac Press

TAMMINGTON, Pa. — American newsmen got a look at Chrysler Corporation's 1963 entry in the larger compact field today — the Dodge Dart.

Aimed at the Buick Oldsmobile Pontiac (B.O.P.) smaller car markets, the new Dart is the only completely new car introduced by Chrysler for 1963.

With a wheelbase of 111 inches, five inches shorter than the 116-inch wheelbase of the Dart name this year, it enters into direct competition with Pontiac's well-received 1962 Tempest (112-inch wheelbase) and Chevy II, as well as the other B.O.P. small cars, and the Ford's Comet and Meteor cars.

For this, the corporation must first eliminate competition by even its divisions in the 1963 model.

Ticket Buyers Get Gift Choice

Or Republicans May Ask for $100 Return; Speaker Cancels

Republicans who purchased tickets to next Monday's canceled fund-raising appearance of Minnesota Congressman Walter H. Judd are being given a choice of requesting a refund or leaving the money with the GOP as a political contribution.

Charles L. Lyle, chairman of the Oakland County Republican Committee, said letters have been mailed to ticket holders explaining the cancellation.

The letter also gives them a choice of requesting a refund, leaving the money for general campaign use by the party or earmarking the money for the campaign of a particular county candidate.

Tickets for the fund-raising dinner cost $100 apiece. Lyle estimated that 45 to 50 had been sold.

Republicans canceled the dinner when Judd asked to call off his appearance because of important business and political matters in his home state.

Sunny Weather Predominates Across Nation

The nation's weather pattern showed only minor changes today, with indications of generally sunny skies across most sections.

There were late night and early morning showers in some areas and fairly cool weather was reported in some northern regions. The hot weather continued in much of the Southland.

Thunderstorms rumbled across the Oklahoma-Texas Panhandle region, northeastern New Mexico and southeastern Arizona Wednesday night. A tornado struck the area of Mission, Tex., and one youth was killed by lightning. A man was killed by lightning in a thunderstorm that hit San Antonio, Tex. The defense minister's message, published in the Soviet army newspaper Red Star, contrasted with other reports in other Soviet information media which have emphasized the peaceful aspects of the dual flights.

"I was amazed by Andrian Nikolayev's self-possession," said a doctor who examined the astronaut soon after they stepped from their spacecrafts.

"He looked cheerful, smiling."

state opposition to "any additional tax measures, income or otherwise, without an offsetting reduction in present inequitable tax measures."

"We favor a referendum of any fiscal reform program that includes an income tax provision," Davidson's platform opposed "absolutely any further income tax."

The new county platform endorsed the proposed constitution. Davidson's platform made no mention of it.

The platform was worked out by a committee appointed about a month ago.

Davidson claimed his group's platform was approved by three percent of the state delegation to the state party convention.

When a move to close debate was made immediately after a motion to adopt the platform gained the floor, Davidson rose on a point of order to denounce the tactic as "unfair."

He was ruled out of order by convention chairman Charles L. Lyle.

The restriction resolution sought to make it mandatory that 70 percent of the state delegation be elected precinct delegates to establish criteria of length of service and votes received for election to a state convention post.

Miss Darvi was found unconscious in her hotel room early this morning by a hotel employee after anxious friends persuaded the hotel staff to look in on her.

Press Passage of Satellite Bill Senate Leaders Plan Answers to Changes Urged by Opposition

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate leaders prepared point-by-point answers today to explain their blanket rejection of opposition amendments to President Kennedy's space communications bill.

They hoped to pass the measure by tonight.

One answer to be given, it was disclosed, is that the President personally has reviewed the controversial legislation in detail and is "satisfied" with its safeguards against monopoly, foreign policy intrusion or other corporate abuses.

Even as the bill's opponents lined up for their final round of amendments, they predicted a "big vote" against the measure when it goes back to the house.

One senator predicted that as many as 150 House members would go on record against what the opponents call a "giveaway" bill.

Only nine members opposed it when the House originally passed the measure on May 3.

Administration sources conceded the number would be increased, but to hardly more than 75.

county delegates to attend to the Resolutions committee to support all of the Democratic candidates in both the state and county elections this fall, delegates also approved a resolution to promote and support legislation to improve the standards of care for the mentally retarded in Michigan.

Convention delegates also pledged their wholehearted support of Levin as chairman and all other officers of the Oakland County Democratic Committee.

Earlier efforts to replace Levin with Joseph Masterson, campaign manager for Gov. Fullerton, candidate for Congress, were resolved in Levin's favor during a closed-door meeting of the county candidates last Friday night.

"Now we are ready to move ahead together," Levin said at last night's convention.

The Day in Birmingham Cranbrook Institutions Get Resident Consultant

BIRMINGHAM — Dr. Edwin Sharp Burdell, 64, has taken over the duties of resident consultant at Cranbrook. Henry S. Booth, chairman of the board of The Cranbrook Foundation announced today.

Dr. Burdell has recently returned from Ankara, Turkey, where he was consultant president of the Middle East Technical University.

In his new capacity, he will be available for consultation on any phase of operation or education at Cranbrook Institutions, the board chairman said.

"With his vast experience, he will be a great help to us," Booth added.

The doctor's long career includes four years as dean of humanities at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and 22 years as president of The Cooper Union.

Teamster Local Must Halt Strike

Circuit Judge Beer Bids End to Walkout Against 2 Area Firms, Suing

Pontiac Teamsters Local 614 was ordered by a circuit judge yesterday to halt its strike against two Oakland County trucking firms which filed a $100,000 suit against the local.

A temporary injunction signed by Judge William J. Beer directed the union to discontinue its strike pending the outcome of a show cause hearing Monday.

The trucking firms involved are the Farmington Transportation Co. of Oxford and E. S. Mather, Inc., of Farmington.

In a bill of complaint, the firms asked $100,000 damages because of what they claim an "illegal" strike.

Listed as defendants are the union, union agents Roy E. Harmon and Joseph Bean and two unnamed officials.

The trucking firms charged that Local 614 began a strike Aug. 8 without first specifying grievances. The strike has cost them $2,000 a day, the firms said, for a total so far of $75,000.

A collective bargaining agreement between the union and the firms was signed April 1, 1961 and extends through March 31, 1964, the bill of complaint stated.

The trucking firms are under joint ownership and specialize in hauling sand and gravel for road projects.

Officials of the firms say 98 percent of their work is directly related to highway construction in Michigan.

Deadline Tomorrow Election Expense Reports Due

Tomorrow is X-Day for candidates in last week's primary election — the final day they have to file a statement of campaign X-penses.

It may also be T-Day for County Clerk Daniel T. Murphy — the day his T-roubles start in trying to round up the statements.

Murphy said it's not always easy to collect expense statements from candidates — especially the losers — even though state law requires them.

And it's just as hard, apparently, to get an accurate statement from some candidates, Murphy said, because no rigid method of enforcing the law has been devised.

In Pontiac's City Commission election last April, Murphy noted, "irregularities" in the statements of three candidates were cited by several persons who said they knew of expenses that were not listed.

Still, no one complained to the prosecutor's office and asked for an investigation to prove the charges, he said.

In the wake of these complaints of "irregularities," Murphy outlined the campaign expenses laws in the hope that trouble can be avoided from the primary election and in the upcoming November general election.

LAW SPELLED OUT

plaints must be made with his office.

"As clerk, I am bound by the sworn statements and accept them as true," Murphy said. "My office is not an agency for checking the truth of the statements."

Murphy pointed out that the law places certain restrictions on the amount a candidate may spend in a campaign.

The limit is $40 for each 1,000 votes cast for Governor in the last general election in the governmental subdivision (city, county or district) in which the candidate was seeking office.

In any case, however, a candidate cannot be limited to expenses less than 25 percent of the salary for the office he seeks or less than $100.

Expense statements are supplied by the state and are available at the county clerk's office and from local community clerks.

French Actress Takes Overdose of Sleeping Pills

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — French screen star Bella Darvi is in the Princess Grace Hospital today, recovering from what hospital authorities described as an overdose of sleeping pills.

Miss Darvi was found unconscious in her hotel room early this morning by a hotel employee after anxious friends persuaded the hotel staff to look in on her.

She returned to the hotel sometime after midnight after what her friends described as a "distasteful" night at the nearby casino.

They said she was in a highly nervous state, and had quarreled with other persons at the table.

Ex-Premier Indicted for Plot in S. Korea

Chang, ousted by the military coup last year, has been named in the trial of 16 persons charged with plotting against Gen. Chung Hee Park's junta.

President to Be at Saturday Groundbreaking

San Luis Dam $12-Billion Project Rivaling Panama

LOS BANOS, Calif., (UPI)—San Luis Dam and reservoir was conceived 20 years ago as a modest irrigation project in the southwestern corner of California's great central valley.

But today San Luis ranks as a major unit in the most ambitious water development program ever started in the United States.

President Kennedy will lead the ground-breaking ceremonies Saturday.

The program, called the "California water plan," is a $12-billion colossal rivalry; the Panama Canal in breadth of purpose and magnitude of construction.

It aims to collect an ocean of rain and snow water in northern California and move it through 750 miles of man-made rivers to the arid and populous regions to the south.

Because northern California's rain and snow occur in the winter-time, engineers needed vast reservoirs to hold the water for summer deliveries.

One of these is Oroville Dam, now being erected in the Sierra Nevada foothills 125 miles northwest of San Francisco. Another is San Luis.

Planning for San Luis started in 1943, a group of farmers made a routine request to the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation. The men wanted irrigation water for their land, which lay in the southwestern quarter of the central valley.

The valley stretches 300 miles down the center of the state and has average annual rainfall varying from 50 inches in the north to less than 10 inches in the south.

Truckers Carry Road Tax Load

Nearly Third of Levies Paid to County Came From Hauling Firms

Truck operators paid almost one-third of the highway users' tax distributed last year to Oakland County and communities within the county, according to a report issued by the Michigan Trucking Association, Inc.

Truckers, the report shows, contributed $2,386,160 of the $7,862,838 paid to the county and area communities for use of highways.

Oakland County received $4,330,617, of which an estimated $1,330,538 was paid by truckers. Communities within the county received another $3,532,221 and truck contributions were about $1,071,327.

Highway users' taxes are collected from such things as gasoline sales and vehicle registration fees. Pontiac led all county communities by receiving $694,740 in highway taxes. Next was Royal Oak with $536,073.

Last year, the state total of highway users' tax was $212,241,571. Truckers paid 20.5 per cent, or over $64 million.

Total vehicle registrations in Michigan last year numbered 2,685,208—11 per cent of them trucks.

The national total of special taxes paid by highway users last year was $10.6 billion, $3 billion of which was paid by truckers.

the south. For years, these southwestern farmers had drawn what little water they could find from underground wells.

But now the water table was dropping. The farmers wanted a dam on San Luis Creek, about 150 miles southeast of San Francisco, to supply their irrigation water.

The engineers knew that they could build the dam, but they would have trouble finding water to put behind it, since the creek's rate of flow, as it meandered down the coast range onto the valley floor, was barely sufficient to irrigate a window box.

WATER IN THE NORTH

The solution lay in tapping the millions of tons of northern California water that flowed into San Francisco Bay every winter and spring to be wasted in the ocean.

The engineers designed a 100-foot-wide canal that would reach north about 70 miles to pick up fresh water at the outskirts of the bay for storage behind San Luis. This canal, the Delta-Mendota, is already completed.

As federal engineers were planning San Luis during the years after 1943, state engineers were developing the California-water plan.

The state engineers also planned to pump water from the edge of San Francisco Bay and move it south along the western side of the valley. Their plan, however, called for pushing the water clear through the valley and over the Tehachapi Mountains to the south.

It would then flow into booming southern California, which contains 80 per cent of the state's population and only 20 per cent of its water.

In 1954, the federal engineers suggested that an enlarged San Luis could serve as a reservoir for the state's water plan as well as for the federal project. The state engineers agreed and in 1956 the first San Luis bill proposing joint state-federal use went before Congress.

Police Get Even, Keep Newspaper in Line With Paint

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta police in a hurry were wont to dash across the street in front of the police station in disregard of a revived ordinance against jaywalking.

Atlanta Journal writer J. V. Ard pointed out the ordinance infraction—which police had frowned on in front of the Journal-Constitution building.

A street painting crew soon got busy.

The police now have a newly painted, fully legal crosswalk directly in front of the building—in the middle of the block.

Occupants of the newspaper building still have to walk a third of a block—in a street corner—to cross the street legally.

WON'T CHANGE IT

Asked whether the Russian space success makes it easier or more difficult to talk to the Russians about the whole range of East-West problems, Rusk replied:

"I don't think it makes very much difference. Certainly, we have never found that any performance on our side in this field seems to have made much difference to the Russians.

"When you are talking about questions—like Berlin, or disarmament, or these great issues that affect war and peace, and affect the basic security of nations—I don't think demonstrations of this sort enter into the relationships very much.

"The underlying issues are too fundamental and far-reaching to be determined one way or another by matters of this sort. So I would say it makes very little difference."

Rusk said the value of the space effort should not be measured just in prestige terms.

In a practical sense, he said, the results of space research will be fed back into the economies of the world and will make a large difference there.

Expresses Hope for Cooperation

Rusk Foresees Joint Efforts in Space by U.S., Soviet Union

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk expressed hope today that "ways will be open" for more U.S.-Soviet cooperation in the space field.

"I think this may be, perhaps, the next step," he said.

Rusk spoke in an interview taped for transmission via the U.S. Telstar-satellite to the British people through British Broadcasting Corp. facilities.

The secretary of state paid tribute to the Russian achievement of orbiting two men simultaneously, and said "we were very pleased that the two Soviet astronauts came back safely this morning."

He predicted that the United States "will be highly successful" in its own space program.

Senators Speaking Briefly, Unaccustomed as They Are

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Unaccustomed as its members are to speaking briefly, the Senate operating under cloture has an atmosphere that forecasts new troubles for President Kennedy's legislative program.
Under the cloture rule, unused for 35 years until it was invoked by a 63-27 vote Tuesday, each senator is limited to a total of one hour's talk while the administration's communications satellite bill is before the body.
A full day's experience in its operation Wednesday left the Senate short in temper and accomplishments but long on scars that may not be healed when other measures are taken up under the customarily unlimited debate.

Nephew of Bob Hope Admitted to Hospital

LOS ANGELES (AP)—William John Hope Jr., 42, nephew of comedian Bob Hope, was admitted to the City of Hope Hospital yesterday.

Hope told a newsmen Tuesday he was suffering from a form of leukemia, but a City of Hope spokesman said the specific diagnosis has not yet been confirmed.

William Hope's father, Jack, died of chronic hepatitis in a Boston hospital Aug. 6. He was the comedian's business manager.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, who has the principal responsibility for piloting the President's program through the Senate, jumped on the bill's opponents for abusing the rules by forcing frequent quorum calls.
Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., who said he hoped he could kill "this lousy bill," took out after Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont.
Presiding at the time, Metcalf was about to submit to the Senate Marquette and Kincheloe AFB at itself Mansfield's point of order that opponents were engaging in "dilatory tactics" in violation of Wurtsmith AFB at Osceola would receive $5.13 million for 300 units.

Bill Would Give Bases in State $20 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate is considering a House-passed military construction appropriations bill that would provide $13.13 million for family housing units at three Michigan air force bases.

K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base at Marquette and Kincheloe AFB at Sault Ste. Marie each would receive $7 million for 400 units. Wurtsmith AFB at Osceola would receive $5.13 million for 300 units.

This and other demonstrations caused some of cloture's best friends—who for years have argued how wonderful it would be to be able to seal up a filibuster inside an iron-clad limitation on talk—to express some public doubts about the way things were going.
Sens. Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating, New York Republicans, pleaded with opponents not to offer fly-speck amendments which administration leaders swatted down with motions to table (kill). This motion cut off debate immediately.
Javits said cloture—which he would like for the Senate to use D.R.L., one of the measure's sponsors, after Pastore announced he would move to table a civil rights amendment.

The incidents were only the outward manifestation of a raging, nerve-racking battle in which each side took advantage of every parliamentary quirk to make it tough for the enemy.
Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., a deft duelist with rules, cut opponents down with frequent objections and motions.
Kerr will have a major share of the responsibility in guiding through the Senate the administration's tax revision and international trade bill. And Morse already has made some threatening gestures toward the latter.

December vows are planned by Judith Ann Beaton, daughter of Mrs. James Wheeler of Walled Lake and the late Robert F. Beaton, and Robert B. Anthony, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth P. Anthony Mt. Clemens Street.

The engagement of Judie Ann Reid to James D. Willis is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Reid of East Columbia Avenue. Her fiance is the son of Bill D. Willis of Niagara Avenue.

JUDIE ANN REID

By The Emily Post Institute
Q: I divorced my husband several years ago and remarried a short time afterwards. Recently I was invited to a wedding anniversary party in honor of friends of mine.

When I arrived at the party, I was shocked to find my ex-husband and his wife among the guests. When I saw them my first impulse was to leave but I decided against it.

I spent a very uncomfortable evening. Wasn't it very thoughtless on the part of the hostess to invite us both to the same party?

A: A hostess should not invite ex-husbands and their former wives to the same party unless she knows that they have remained friendly and often do go to the same parties.

Q: My husband and I are giving a cocktail party shortly and I would like to know if a choice of two kinds of cocktails is sufficient to serve the guests, or should there be more?

A: One kind of cocktail (martinis) are still the most popular and the easiest to prepare in quantity) and one kind of long drink such as Scotch and soda or gin and tonic will be sufficient as far as alcoholic drinks are concerned. There must of course be something nonalcoholic to drink for those who prefer it, such as ginger ale or fruit juice.

Q: I would like to write to the Pope but do not know how to properly address him. Will you please be good enough to give me the correct form of address, salutation and close?

A: You address the envelope to His Holiness, Pope John XXIII, Vatican City, Rome, Italy. You begin your letter, "Your Holiness" or "Most Holy Father" and close, "Your Holiness" most humble servant.

The H. I. Pattersons, and sons Hunter and John, of Dallas, Tex., are visiting her mother, Mrs. Astolf Levin of Dwight Avenue.

Mrs. Lafayette West of Oliver Street is maternal grandmother of John West, born to Mr. and Mrs. Don Friebe (Deleors West) of Rochester, Aug. 7 in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Paternal grandfather is Elmer Friebe of Bay City.

M. Sgt. and Mrs. Gerald Hughes of Highland, Calif., and their children Rodney, Randolph, Rose Marie and Richard are house guests of her sister and brother-in-law, the Mack Whites of East Tennyson Avenue.

Also visiting the Whites are her brother and sister-in-law M. Sgt. and Mrs. Reid Wice, Ogden, Utah, and their children Robert, Tim and twins Lyn and Lee.

The Karl Berge of Middle Belt Road, Orchard Lake, have as their house guests Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Frances of Caracas, Venezuela, and Sol Berg of Anaheim, Calif.

Their weekend guests included the Arthur Hermans of Chicago, and from Cleveland, the Leonard Abrams, Dr. and Mrs. Ronald Yulish, the Ronald Koplows, the Fred Koplows and the Herman Goldsmiths.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Selden of Cooley Lake Road are filling the cookie jar as they make preparations for the arrival this week of their son and family, the David S. Seldens with children, Denise, John and Arthur, of New York City.

The Arthur Hawkins of Marion, Ohio and the Ray O'Brien of Fort Wayne, Ind., who attended the Saturday marriage of their niece Sandra Lee Lillquist to Robert O. Abney in Marmon Baptist Church, were house guests of the John H. Lillquists of Newport Avenue.

Mrs. Orval Huff and daughter, Vicki, of North Perry Street and Mrs. Ray Gordon, Argyle Street, will spend Sunday in Hymera, Ind., attending the golden wedding anniversary of Mrs. Huff's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Johnston. The Johnstons are former residents of Pontiac.

Mrs. George Green of Scott Lake, Waterford Township, is currently hostess to her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Doepeke of Fullerton, Calif. Later this month, she'll spread the welcome mat for former Watkins Lake residents the George McNeill, Diana and Terry. The McNeills now live in Omaha, Neb.

Mrs. Green entertained her son George Jr. last week at a party for some 75 persons at her Manse Street home. He has returned to Railito, Calif.

Military Brass

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The ever-growing numbers of travelers are changing the image of the average hotel and motel room for the better.

The inn-keeping industry no longer can afford to settle for flowered draperies, the dimly lit room with its shade always askew.

The theme today is first, supreme comfort, then glamour, said William Pahlmann, San Antonio-born fellow of the American Institute of Decorators and boss of a design staff of 25 which has done numerous hotel and motel decorating plans.

"But not a home away from home... that's not what the traveling public wants," said Pahlmann. "This would bore them... what they want is something different from what they live with every day."

WANT ATMOSPHERE

"The sterile rectangular structure of glass and concrete has taken over. Yet tourists aren't looking for this... they'd like to enjoy some of the atmosphere of the country they're visiting."

Pahlmann said his insistence on retaining some of the flavor of the surroundings was causing him problems with his latest project — decorating the 800 rooms of the new President Hotel in Hong Kong, a privately financed project.

"I insist on some oriental touches and the use of some fine antiques with the new," he said. "So cables have been flying back and forth for two weeks now, and I think I've got them convinced." He leaves tomorrow to supervise the interior design of the hotel.

We asked what changes in hotelier interiors had been caused by the growing sophistication and growing numbers of travelers.

CATER TO WOMEN

"Plenty," he said. "Today, the first class hotel either has a full-time interior designer on the staff or has an outside consultant. No longer does the resident housekeeper have the last word in what goes into a room. 'More attention is being paid to feminine tastes. Today's international tourists, by and large, are couples middle-aged or older."

Dust ruffles on the bed, so that when the spread is removed the steel frame does not show; works of art scaled to the room size and chosen to fit the mood and color; a colorful spread on the bed, durable enough to take luggage dumped on it and people sitting on it.

Tea tables 22 inches high, taller than the standard cocktail table but more comfortable for room service dining than the carts wheeled in, in most hotels.

ITEMS IMPORTANT

Gabinet basins in the bath with the mirrors lighted so that a man can shave without slashing his throat and a woman can apply her makeup and have room for a cosmetics kit without having it splashed from the basin; incandescent rather than fluorescent light because in application of makeup, fluorescent alters the color of the skin; a light somewhere in the shower area so that when the curtain is closed, the person in shower is not bathing in darkness;

Ample light for bedtime reading; no hot water, just hot; said Pahlmann, "and they also have a knack of putting the bed light where you have to get out of bed to turn it off."

Modernization of the luggage storage area so that it will hold today's two-and four-suiters and the soft, lightweight dress and suit cases which used to hang ("hotel luggage racks still look as if everyone traveled with a Gladstone bag," said Pahlmann);

Splashes of bold color rather than the beige or gray basic; wallpaper either in combination with paint or throughout a room; big, not dinky mirrors, preferably framed;

And plenty of stationery in the desk with the Glidden Bible so you don't have to call the management for more paper when you write the folks back home.

"A hotel room should indicate that somebody cares," said Pahlmann.

Derivation of Detergent

Ever wonder where the term "detergent" came from? It is derived from the Latin "detergere" which means to wipe off. It's certainly true that modern detergents are so effective that dirt can literally be wiped off surfaces with a sudsy sponge or cloth.

Inside Linings

(UPI)—An inside story: Linings of fur coats in the Andre Fath collection featured lace trapunto, gold-brocaded silk, and pelting with the coloring of Monet's famous "Water Lilies" canvas.

Startling Color

SOME PEOPLE JUST DON'T NEED WANT ADS

You don't see many of them around, because they are the ones who have more money than they know how to spend.

They don't worry about things like a strained family budget, the cost of new school clothes for the kids, replacing a washing machine which suddenly goes to pieces, losing ten bucks in a poker game, a brake job on the family car, or kids who throw baseballs through the neighbor's double picture window.

The rest of us are different. If we are fairly average, there are about five times a year when we could profitably use a Want Ad, either to sell something or buy something. We can even use them to find jobs, find lost articles, rent extra rooms, and locate hard to find items we need.

If you are not in the habit of using five dollar bills to light one dollar cigars, Pontiac Press Want Ads are great for you. If you want to know more about how to use Want Ads and how little they cost, a friendly Pontiac Press Want Ad-Viŝer will help you write your Want Ad.
