U.S. Odds 'Good' for Moon Victory

By MAX E. SIMON
The United States has a "mighty good chance" to beat Russia to the moon.

That estimate of the nation's position in the space race came from Dr. Werner von Braun, director of the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala.

Von Braun believes that the race to the moon has started with both countries on an equal footing.

Much bigger booster rockets than either America or Russia has — "to the best of our knowledge" — will be necessary for a manned lunar landing and return flight, von Braun said in an interview yesterday at Michigan State University, Oakland.

WORKED ON REDSTONE

The rocket expert, who was largely responsible for the Redstone rocket which took Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard on his historic flight into space, was at MSU for an address on "Why We Must Conquer Space."

Von Braun said the Russian booster rockets have repeatedly demonstrated their capability for orbiting five tons, while our Mercury capsule will be used in an attempt to orbit an American later this year weighs only slightly over one ton.

"Much more powerful boosters must be developed before man can go to the moon," von Braun said.

"Brand-new vehicles will be needed — and we undertake this effort on a brand-new footing."

He said present Russian booster rockets will give the Soviets at least one more victory in the space competition.

"They have the booster capability of putting more than one man into space right now," he said.

'CHANCES NOT GOOD'

"Our chances of beating them to a multiple man and orbit of the earth are not good."

There are three ways by which man can travel to the moon — and for each 12-million pounds of thrust will be required, the rocket expert said.

One way would be a direct flight powered by a huge rocket. The Nova rocket capable of 12-million pounds of thrust is now under design-development by the

The most practical method, he said, would be to put a Nova into orbit without a manned capsule, then send the men for a rendezvous with the Nova.

"They would join up for the flight," von Braun explained.

This method would have the advantage of not having to send men in the Nova before the new rocket is proved to be a safe launch vehicle, he said.

Von Braun winced when queried about the effect of labor difficulties at Cape Canaveral on the nation's space efforts.

"The facts have been reported by the McClellan investigating committee," he said. "There is nothing I could add."

"Abuses will be stopped, I'm sure — the solutions of these problems are in the discussion stage. I would prefer not to make any blistering comments in this sensitive area."

Earlier von Braun told MSU students that America was in the space race because there was no alternative.

"Military space supremacy today is as important as air supremacy was 10 years ago," he declared.

He opened a conference at the UAW Local 596 Hall on Baldwin Avenue this morning attended by union representatives from Oakland, Macomb, St. Clair, Lapeer, Sanilac, Tuscola, Huron and Monroe counties.

The all-day conference included a panel discussion in the afternoon featuring Don Stevenson, Michigan AFL-CIO executive director; State Rep. Arthur Law, D-Pontiac; Herbert McCree, AFL-CIO regional director; and Ed Parry, UAW assistant education-citizenship director.

The subject was obstacles facing a constitutional convention.

SCHOLLE SPEAKS
"We must support those who defend the basic philosophy that what happens in Michigan is good for all the people in the state, including those holding union cards," said Morris in the keynote address.

"We are going to oppose those who are our friends before the election, but who will limit their representation to business and industry interests after the election," he added.

He gave as an example the proposed Missouri Plan for selecting judges, which he said would take the appointment of judges away from the people and give it basically to the bar association.

This he compared to Communist methods where candidates are all of one party. Such things could happen at the convention, Morris warned.

He stressed the importance of working people becoming familiar with what the constitutional convention is all about, and what each candidate will stand for.

The election will not have the glamour of a presidential one, he noted, and therefore there is the danger that the people will not take sufficient interest.

"We can't rely on newspapers to tell us what a man stands for, as they will tell only what they want. Morris stated, so the unions will have to do their own spadework."

National Aeronautics and Space Administration, he said.

Another method would be to shoot a rocket of lower thrust into orbit, then send up rocketed rockets before leaving for the moon.

"HERE'S WHAT I MEAN" — President Kennedy puts some oomph behind a point he's trying to get across to Soviet Premier Khrushchev during their historic first meeting at Vienna today. The session was at the U.S. Ambassador's residence. The two leaders started the confab with a firm handshake and immediately got into discussion so intense that lunch was delayed half an hour.

President Kennedy, evidently buoyed up by his Paris talks with French President de Gaulle, flew to Vienna this morning, a day after Khrushchev had arrived by train.

The President told Austrian President Adolf Schuster that he had come to neutral Vienna in order to promote better international understanding.

Aides expected the President to warn Khrushchev against the war dangers revolving around any new crisis over Berlin, and to urge Soviet concessions in the field of disarmament.

Talks between the two leaders began two hours after Kennedy arrived.

Khrushchev called at the U.S. embassy residence at 12:45 p.m. Kennedy met him on the steps. They shook hands, posing for photographers.

CHAT IN MUSIC ROOM

Then, with advisers gathered around, they talked for more than an hour in the music room — a cozy red and gray parlor where all sat in easy chairs.

The talk delayed lunch half an hour.

Informants reported afterward that the two men and their aides had a very cordial time at the luncheon. They toasted each other with champagne and their remarks were described as friendly.

Kennedy spoke for three to four minutes. Khrushchev, for about 10 minutes.

Each of the leaders had nine aides present. Kennedy and Khrushchev sat opposite each other at the table.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko sat on Khrushchev's right and Secretary of State Dean Rusk on Kennedy's right.

Kennedy and Khrushchev dominated the conversation, but Gromyko and Rusk took an active part.

There was an exchange between Khrushchev and Charles E. Bohlen, Soviet affairs expert and Kennedy adviser, who speaks Russian.

After the luncheon Kennedy and Khrushchev talked alone with only their interpreters present. For about nine minutes they walked together in the embassy garden.

WIND, BRIGHT SUN

By that time the rain had given way to a dry, brisk wind and bright sunshine.

Then the talks continued in the music room through the afternoon.

When Khrushchev, who arrived by train Friday, drove up to the residence of U.S. Ambassador H. Freeman Matthews, Kennedy walked part way down the stone entrance steps to meet him.

The two men smiled broadly at each other.

Photographers pressed forward and asked for a picture of the two shaking hands. Kennedy quickly to an interpreter. "Tell him it's all right, we'll shake hands for the photographers," Khrushchev agreed and they did.

Then they went quickly into the building. Kennedy was last to go. Khrushchev will be host at the Soviet Embassy residence Sunday.

U.S. officials said the talks would range over all cold war issues, with special attention to West Berlin, the nuclear test ban talks at Geneva, disarmament and Laos.

News Flash

PARIS — A U.S. B-52 bomber crashed today in a farm field about 10 miles north of Paris near the town of Louvres. The plane was reported to be the same one which last week flew from New York to Paris in record time. The fate of the 7-man crew was unknown.

Kennedy, Nikita Swap Friendly Toasts at Lunch

VIENNA (AP) — The Kennedy-Khrushchev summit meeting began today in a spirit of cordiality defying a rainy Vienna day. Soviet Premier Khrushchev went to the U.S. Embassy residence for the first day's talks. They began with a 75-minute lunch where toasts were exchanged in friendly terms.

The talks were continued past their scheduled conclusion.

It was a far different atmosphere than that which prevailed at the summit meeting at Paris in May 1960, which broke up over Khrushchev's demand that President Eisenhower apologize for U-2 spy flights over the Soviet Union.

President Kennedy, evidently buoyed up by his Paris talks with French President de Gaulle, flew to Vienna this morning, a day after Khrushchev had arrived by train.

U.S. Forces Alerted to Dominican Trouble With Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Navy and Marine units were on the alert along the Eastern Seaboard today amid reports of further disturbances in the Dominican Republic.

State Department press officer Lincoln White said use of U.S. forces in the Caribbean country was not planned now. But he did not rule out the possibility of such action later if American lives were endangered.

The 5,000 Americans on the island were still unharmed.

Among military movements during the night that made it obvious that there was a considerable alert of Navy and Marine forces on the East Coast and in the Caribbean Sea.

The aircraft carrier, Shangri-La, put out to sea at Jacksonville, Fla., under a "general alert" condition. Its decks were jammed with jet fighters.

A Navy spokesman said it was ordered to sea "to be ready in the event of an emergency."

At Camp Lejeune, N. C., a Marine spokesman said units of the 2nd Marine Division were undergoing "a test of our ability to move out rapidly."

The Greensboro Daily News, quoting reliable sources, had reported that Marine units along the coast were being loaded aboard carriers to take position in the Caribbean off the Dominican Republic's coast.

MASTERMIND AT LARGE

In Ciudad Trujillo, the Dominican government claimed to have shot dead one of the assassins of dictator Rafael Trujillo and captured three others. But the accused mastermind of the plot was still at large.

Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr., the dictator's son, was directing the hunt for members of the band of killers.

OUR TALENTS

Talent covers so many aptitudes; one ingenious man made shafts and levers to turn on water to irrigate, another one entertains kids with stories, a third one is an artist with a scroll saw, bottle of glue and a few sticks; a woman is a master in the preparation of food, another one has a talent for excellent as a hostess while flower arrangement is a talent that brings many blue ribbons to a young lady. Everyone has some talent, for something.

Madam Curie's Florence Nightingale's and Betsy Ross's talents will live as long as history. Mark Twain, Will Rogers, Abe Lincoln had talents that we revere.

Aptness, ability, personal charm are talents coupled with initiative bring harmony out of confusion. The person who claims patience, thoughtfulness or sympathy has a talent beyond the dollar sign.

Talent is acquired.

Jack's Status Not too Bad

Nikita Finds Luxury in Vienna

VIENNA (UPI) — NK has a swimming pool and JFK doesn't. Otherwise, the residential status symbol, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev breaks about even with President Kennedy during his weekend in Vienna.

The Khrushchev villa in tiny Pukersdorf, 10 miles west of Central Vienna, is fitted out with capitalist lavishness.

Perched on a small hill in the Vienna Woods, the two-story "gigabread" home is surrounded by shrubs and flower gardens. The building's color is the traditional emperor's yellow of the Hapsburg dynasty.

Shaded paths wind through the grounds past a red clay tennis court and a good sized swimming pool.

In contrast, the Kennedys will stay at the home of American Ambassador H. Freeman Matthews which has only a fish pond.

3 NIGHTS AT VILLA
Nikita and Nina will spend at least three nights at the Pukersdorf estate, which is the rarely used summer residence of Soviet Ambassador to Austria Viktor I. Avlov.

A rectangular building with 25 rooms and several gridded balconies, the villa was used as the Soviet Kommandatura during the Red army's postwar occupation of the province of Lower Austria.

Delivery trucks have roled through the green iron main gate all week. Seven folding metal cots and a dozen reclining garden chairs were among the items carefully checked off by plainclothes security men.

A Vienna linen manufacturer reported an urgent Soviet order for sheets, blanket covers and pillow cases of expensive damask.

A quiet country road, newly and speedily tarred, runs along the green wrought iron fence in front of the Soviet villa.

There were many pets in town today that Khrushchev would get out on the road for an early morning walk Saturday before his first meeting with President Kennedy.

Khrushchev may play a fast game of badminton during his stay in Austria, a Soviet official disclosed.

"Premier Khrushchev sometimes likes to play badminton," the official said in showing newsmen around the suburban villa where the Russians will stay.

German newsmen here claimed that Khrushchev once played a stalling game of badminton with Hans Kroll, West German ambassador in Moscow.

Khrushchev, they say, "clubbed him."

Electra Sheds Ban on Speed

Modified Plane Flying Minus Restrictions in Bid for Confidence

WASHINGTON (AP) — "The Lockheed Electra, victim of a tragic jinx a year ago, once again is operating without speed restrictions and is making a bid to regain public confidence.

The seven U. S. airlines using the turbo-prop airliner report almost all of their Electras have undergone structural modifications to eliminate the freakish flow that caused the plane to shake itself to pieces.

Lockheed Aircraft Corp. says, 144 Electras have been modified at its Burbank, Calif., plant. Only 21 remain to be worked over before all will be operating at normal cruising speed again—400 miles an hour.

63 KILLED
On March 17, 1960, an Electra came apart in midair over Tell City, Ind., killing 63 persons. It was the third major air disaster in slightly more than a year involving the Electra. In all, 162 persons were killed.

Air travelers, in many cases, were reluctant to fly in Electras. Some members of Congress clamored that the airliner should be grounded.

Then, the Federal Aviation Agency slapped light restrictions on Electra operations. Included were a speed limit of 250 miles an hour, orders for strict tests of the plane and more inspections for all Electras.

Photographers

It has come to our attention that itinerant photographers are operating in Pontiac. The following suggestions are offered for your protection.

1. It is very difficult, with changing lighting conditions in each home to do the same quality of work that is possible in a studio.
2. Look for the guarantee. In most cases you will not find one.
3. Do not accept rash promises from the salesman, in most cases you will find that the receipt states that verbal agreements or agreements other than printed on the form will not be honored by the company.
4. REMEMBER, you NEVER get something for nothing.
5. Your local photographers are your neighbors, they live here, you know where to find them. Trade locally and be sure.

PILGRIM HOLINESS CHURCH

A man went to market with a string of seven coins. Seeing a beggar who asked for alms, he gave the poor man six of the coins and kept just one for himself. The beggar, instead of being thankful, followed the good man and stole the seventh coin also. Would you to whom God has given six days, steal the seventh also?

It Seems to Me . . .

'We Must Fight for Freedom' Declares Nashville Publisher

JAMES G. STAHLMAN, publisher of The Nashville Banner, is one of the best grounded men in the Nation on Latin American affairs in general.

A current speech of his really calls a spade a spade in very forthright language. As an aftermath of Trujillo's assassination, the whole Latin American problem becomes increasingly acute and precarious. Hence, I read what Mr. Stahlman says with added interest.

His address concluded, with three possibilities.

The first merely permits CASTRO to continue "as is" until he meets his own downfall which (STAHLMAN declares) "is by, no means, an immediate prospect unless it be by liquidation through a Krentlin order." If this happens, our own position would simply be a bit worse and give Russia "a tighter Communist grip on the hapless country through the ruthless person of CHE GUEVARA, the real brains and driving power behind Cuba's tragic downfall."

He suggests that the second possibility consists of a blockade which he does not believe could be effective or successful.

That leaves the third suggestion.

There will be no peace in this world until somebody has defeated Soviet Russia," says the Nashville publisher. "This sinister world influence must be destroyed regardless of consequences and costs. But the solution to our hemisphere problem cannot await this fearsome holocaust."

Then Mr. Stahlman says bluntly that he is confident "no alternative remains but armed intervention in Cuba and North Laos." He continues: "Risky? Yes. But freedom is never the heritage of cowards. The time is at hand when free men everywhere in the world should dedicate themselves by solemn pledge in the thrilling words which were the prelude to our own precious freedom: 'Give me liberty or give me death.' This well could be the last best hope of earth. This, I am certain, will be the verdict of history."

This is the most outright declaration I've seen on the Cuban situation. And it comes from one of the best read and most analytical citizens in the Nation on Latin American problems. Mr. STAHLMAN speaks from great personal experience and intimate contacts with key personnel. The Communist threat in this whole area is gaining momentum.

Self-Written Editorial . . . Some editorials write themselves. Here's one that was advanced by a Mr. A. LINCOLN and while it wasn't done expressly for The Pontiac Press, we're glad to reproduce it nearly a century later:

"The candid citizen must confess that if the policy of government upon vital questions affecting the whole people is to be irrevocably fixed by the Supreme Court, the people will have ceased to be their own rulers, having to that extent practically resigned their government into the hands of that eminent tribunal."

And what's worse, Mr. Ex-President, some Supreme Courts are perceptibly inferior to other Supreme Courts. You hadn't particularly experienced that.

Tigers Are Favored . . .

I was amazed in New York at the friendliness expressed for the Detroit Tigers. Gotham actually expects to see the Yankees spurt and the Tigers decline.

They don't concede the pennant.

But if the league is to have a new champion, the Tigers are prime favorites. This has been true for half a century. Ty Cobb first made the Tigers great drawing cards and sentimental favorites, along with Crawford, Bush, Schaefer and others. Then came Cochrane, Rowe, Gehring, Greenberg, York and later stars kept the movement alive.

The Tigers are favorites in other American league cities. For 50 years they've averaged to field one of the most colorful aggregations in either league.

Historically, the team leading the league on the Fourth of July is supposed to win the flag.

What's wrong with June 1st?

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Sideline observers in Washington believe ROBERT KENNEDY may really "tear into crooked politicians, goon squad racketeers, faithless corporation administrators and conniving union officials." . . . The Federal Trade Commission has the ax out for TV advertising on Anacin, Bufferin and Bayer aspirin. They charge "misleading claims and false statements."

Trusted scouts advise me that JUDY BENGSTROM deserves mention as one of the area's most attractive young women. Juny, you're listed.

pendable cigarette lighters are the latest. There's a huge supply of fuel and when that's gone, you toss the gadget in the ash can. Some 300,000 are in use.

Bill Thomas tells me he's preparing an Economy Furniture advertisement for our Centennial Edition that covers more than 50 years of continuous family operation. That must be a local record . . . The N.Y. News asks: "Who's Secretary of State today?" Is it Dean Rusk, or is it Reuther, sister Roosevelt and brother Eisenhower?" . . . Teacher: "Who said, 'I'd rather be right than be President?'" Student: "Well, no one lately." . . . Negro societies in Cuba have been ordered summarily to disband and all Negroes on the Government payroll have been dumped. More of Castro's brotherly love?

I saw ANNA MARIE ALBERGHETTI in "Carnival" last week in New York. She's a little walt when the play opens and she's a little walt when it ends; and everyone feels cheated because they didn't "dress her up" in a single scene. . . . Independent polls show KENNEDY's appeal for tractor exchanges isn't finding much sympathy with the masses. . . . Chairman MINNOW's official blast against inferior TV shows has brought him 200,000 letters in support of his ideas; Mebbe fewer "bad men" will be gunned into the sawdust in cheap western bars, come September. . . . Dept. of Cheers and Jeers: the C's—the KENNEDYS in Paris; the J's—Mister FOYTACK. —HAROLD A. FITZGERALD

The faith of a 72-year-old minister endured starvation and torture in a concentration camp, and inspired other prisoners to survive. Imprisoned by the Nazis, Dr. Norbert Capek of Czechoslovakia was taken to Dachau, where his words and example strengthened other prisoners to withstand the ordeal. Some who survived testified that the Unitarian leader could not have been sent to a place where he was more needed. Though he was martyred there, his faith lives on in the story of his heroism, and in the sound of some of the 90 hymns he authored in his lifetime.

Days of All Faiths:

Second Christian Deacon Honored

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

In the sixth chapter of the Acts of the Apostles, verses 1 to 6, there is an account of selection and ordination of seven deacons, the first of that order to exist in the Christian Church. This was in the very earliest days of the Church, when it was one single community in Jerusalem under the direct personal leadership of all the Apostles.

The point was that the community was growing and the Apostles just couldn't handle everything. They asked the people to select seven men who would look after the mechanics of community life (such as the care of needy members) and would leave the Apostles free to concentrate on what they conceived to be their primary job of preaching and teaching.

One of the seven deacons, St. Stephen, became famous as Christianity's first martyr. Stephen's name is first on the list given in Acts, chapter 6, verse 5. But of the rest we hear little or nothing after their ordination.

Philip, the second man on the list, is mentioned once more in the New Testament. This is in Acts, chapter 8, verses 26 to 38.

Philip, whose name is remembered today before Christian altars, was a zealous member of the new Church. He went first to Samaria, where he preached so enthusiastically that he was called Philip the Evangelist, and so successfully that Peter and John made a special trip to Samaria to confer with him. He was called Philip the Evangelist, and so successfully that Peter and John made a special trip to Samaria to confer with him. He was called Philip the Evangelist, and so successfully that Peter and John made a special trip to Samaria to confer with him.

Deacons apparently did not stay long within the confines of their original job specifications: looking after the needy and waiting on tables. They were soon helping the priest in all sorts of ways, baptizing if a priest were not there to do it, and preaching. And they still do all these things in the Roman, Anglican, and Orthodox churches.

PHILIP'S NEGRO CONVERT

After his time in Samaria Philip moved on, and the story in the eighth chapter of Acts finds him tugging along the road from Jerusalem to Gaza. As he heaved a sigh of relief, he was greeted by a distinguished Negro, a government official from Ethiopia, who had been on his way home riding in style. It seems clear that this man had been touched by the Jewish faith. Perhaps he was even a convert to Judaism. At any rate, he was sitting in his chariot puzzling over the book of the prophet Isaiah, which he was reading.

Striking up a conversation, as men do when they meet in a remote and empty place, Philip asked the Ethiopian if he understood what he was reading. The reply was that he could read but did not understand.

Women and men were deficient in iodine are likely to become prematurely gray. Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet No. 33, "The Iodine Factor." I do not advise anyone to take medicinal doses of iodine.

place and the Ethiopian agreed to be baptized then and there. At the end of the ceremony Philip vanished, and so Christianity's second deacon and Christianity's first Negro convert appeared.

Tradition tells that Philip ended his life as a bishop in Syria. He was not martyred.

THE SACRED HEART OF JESUS

Always on the Friday after the octave of Corpus Christi comes the Feast of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, a special devotion not of the Lord's flesh-and-blood or anatomical heart, but to the love for which that heart stood . . . and stands.

And since Jesus Himself is all love, devotion to the symbol of His love is devotion to Him completely.

Even so, it was not until June 11, 1859 that the feast was given worldwide status.

Football Can Leave Youth Handicapped Rest of Life

I am a nurse and I have seen teen-age boys come to the emergency room from the football game. Injuries that will handicap them for life. Please keep up your campaign to keep high school boys out of football. (C. E. R. N.)

I have received several letters from groups of boys and girls in the United States who use unprintable language to express their opinion of me.

High school football is an unsportsmanlike activity. It is a mitigated evil. The reason why some physicians keep their traps closed about it is that they haven't the courage to tell parents the truth.

Both of my boys, a boy 6 and a girl 12, were born all right (natural children) with very little pain to speak of.

In labor less than 2 hours with the second, I think it is a shame that so many women miscarry. The great joy of giving birth because they are unconscious at the time. (Mrs. R. J. N.)

Ans.—Well, some of them, even when not under an anesthetic, in the booklet, "Preparing for Maternity" (35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope), I devote just two pages to natural childbirth.

Most young prospective parents have had no instruction about pregnancy and childbirth, and so they don't know enough to miscarry.

I am 31 years old and already nearly as gray as my mother who is 53. Therefore I am interested in what you say about iodine deficiency. (Mrs. L. M. W.)

Ans.—People, animals, birds and fish in Wisconsin are likely to suffer from iodine deficiency, because soil and water all around the Great Lakes Basin supply less iodine than is needed to maintain good nutrition.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Hire People With Physical Defects

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE J-406: Barry G., aged 37, is a paraplegic case, for he is paralyzed in both legs.

"But that didn't stop Barry," his wife proudly told me, "for he has a fertile brain and is very dext with tools."

"So he fitted up a workshop in our garage. It is complete with a workbench and a chair as he pleases."

"And he has developed a wonderful business. For example, he makes bird houses and wooden toys, plus all sorts of novelty items."

"So he is busy all the time. And his morale is perfect, for he realizes nowadays a man's feet and legs are not very important in most fields of endeavor."

SHAVO, BARNEY

We psychologists salute Barry and all the other folks who refuse to surrender meekly to any physical defect.

Barry's wife is a jewel, too, so Barry was a smart man for picking so wisely.

Actually, most of the work of the modern world does not involve a man's feet. It is not a great obstacle to fall out.

For example, Barry was all the power saws and other shop equipment of a carpenter or cabinet maker.

The national government is supreme; we fought a war to prove that, remember? And anyone who ignores the Negro's right to equality, let alone the Constitution, is not fit to call himself an American.

Integration of the South must be slow, but at this rate it will take a thousand years! The South must accept the Negro and the U.S. government must carry out the reforms. Violence must not be tolerated.

Gives Information on Water Softeners

Detroit water, while not as hard as the present Pontiac supply, should in no way be compared to water treated by a home water softener. Families accustomed to water from a home softener would find Detroit water quite hard and not satisfactory.

The hardness of Lake St. Clair water varies from 100 ppm (parts per million) to a high of 120 ppm. The average city water in the United States is approximately 100 ppm. This illustrates that Pontiac's, though improved, is merely average.

Lake St. Clair water is considerably lower in hardness than the present Pontiac well water, but it is not comparable to soft water. Families with home softeners notice: water is hard just above 8 ppm. Lake St. Clair water is from 12 to 15 times this hard.

The U.S. Department of Interior says: "A water with a hardness of 100 parts is not soft in terms of easy consumption in cleaning, washing and laundering operation." Home water softeners reduce the hardness to zero, producing completely softened water.

There would be far better to point out to those who home-soften their water that the new supply from Detroit will result in savings in softening costs. For those subscribing to portable softener tank service, less frequent deliveries will be required. These savings would mean a real bonus to present and future softener users in Pontiac.

Says State Loses Millions by Not Enforcing Law

LANSING — Michigan is losing millions of dollars a year by failing to enforce its excise law adequately, or failing to lose loopholes, Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams said Friday.

Adams suggested the legislature strengthen the excise code and provide funds to enlarge the staff of the state board of excise.

The state has been deprived of "many millions of dollars" by excising business and industrial firms from the necessity of turning unclaimed wages over to the state, he said.

The State of New York, he added, has collected perhaps $1 million that rightfully belongs to Michigan under a law allowing it to take over unclaimed credits or deposits for proceeds of travelers checks and money orders issued in the names of companies located in New York, no matter where the checks were purchased.

Freeway Speed to Be Increased

Swainson Signs Bill
Lifting Daylight Limit to 70 M.P.H.

LANSING—Motorists will soon be allowed to travel 70 miles per hour on Michigan freeways outside cities during daylight hours. At night, the speed limit will be 60 m.p.h.

Gov. George W. Swainson signed a bill Friday night raising the speed limits from their present ceiling of 60 m.p.h. in the daytime and 45 m.p.h. at night.

In signing the measure, Swainson said that according to a report from the secretary of state, four states—Pennsylvania, Illinois, Missouri and Wyoming—now have 70 m.p.h. limits. Iowa has a 75 m.p.h. limit and Kansas 80 m.p.h.

Under the bill, freeways are defined as divided arterial highways for through traffic with full control of access and with all crossroads separated in grade from pavements for through traffic.

$30-Million Fund OK'd to Improve Forest Facilities

WASHINGTON—The Senate Appropriations Committee has approved a $30-million forest service fund for improvement of forest recreational facilities and conservation work.

The appropriation for work in areas of high unemployment still needs approval of the full Senate and the House.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said the approval was "a major step toward combining needed reclamation and conservation work in national forests with new employment opportunities."

The money would be spread out among national forests all over the country. Michigan has five such forests, but there was no estimate of the state's share.

Hart said he has been informed workers can be on the job in Michigan forests within 10 days after the appropriation bill becomes a law.

Khrushchev to Be Guarded by Police Dogs

VIENNA (UPI)—Specially trained watchdogs were rushed to the Soviet embassy residence here today to guard Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's weekend home against any possible incidents.

The first dog to arrive early this morning was a 16-month-old German shepherd with the jaw-breaking name of "Alt Juno vult Nord-fied." One of the best-trained police dogs in Austria, he will be assisted by two other dogs.
"It will be Alt's first big case in his young police career," an Austrian police official explained.

3-Man Control Issue May Heat Up JFK-K Talks

By DONALD MAY
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A "troika" in Old Russia was a carriage pulled by three horses running abreast.

Now it is part of the cold war and a probable major issue in President Kennedy's talks with Nikita Khrushchev in Vienna.

"Troika" is the word diplomats use to describe the three-man control of international agencies — one Westerner, one neutral and one Communist. All, and particularly the Communist, would be armed with a veto.

This is an issue which cuts across many specific subjects which make international headlines — Laos, nuclear testing, the future of the United Nations.

Khrushchev has demanded that United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld be replaced by such a three-man committee, which could cripple any future U.N. police actions such as that in the Congo.

At the moment two separate international conferences in Geneva are bogged down over "troika." The Russians want a three-headed administration to supervise a nuclear test ban treaty, which the West will not buy. They want the same thing for supervision of a neutral Laos.

Khrushchev has indicated he wants three-headed control and the veto in every international undertaking around the world. How serious he is, whether troika is a tactical maneuver of the time — or a deep-seated commitment — is something for Kennedy to probe in the Vienna meeting.

There is no written agenda for the Kennedy-Khrushchev talks. It is not supposed to be a "summit conference" or a negotiating session. Rather it is an informal discussion in which both men hopefully will emerge with a clearer understanding of whether or not they agree on anything.

But world events have made a kind of agenda for the meeting, involving these questions:

NUCLEAR TESTING
For two and a half years Britain and the United States have suspended nuclear weapons testing on the promise that Russia has to, within six months. He later called off the ultimatum in his 1959 Camp David meeting with former President Eisenhower. But he has since said that the Berlin question should be settled during 1961.

Western leaders are prepared for a new Berlin crisis this year and are watching the Kennedy-Khrushchev talks for signs of how and when it might come.

GENERAL DISARMAMENT
Test-tation talks on general disarmament — including reduction of armies and military budgets as well as a nuclear disarmament — broke down in Geneva in June 1960, when the Soviet Bloc walked out. Now, Russia and the United States are getting ready for a new series of talks this month to arrange multination general disarmament talks for August. Will Khrushchev want "troika" here, too?

BERLIN
In November 1958, Khrushchev issued an ultimatum that the Western powers must leave Berlin within six months. He later called off the ultimatum in his 1959 Camp David meeting with former President Eisenhower. But he has whether agreement is possible to remove countries like the Congo from the cold war.

MISCALCULATION
How far are each of the two major powers willing to go to protect their interests? Can either count on the other holding off use of nuclear force?

SOUTHEAST ASIA
East and West have now agreed in principle on a "neutral" Laos. But they appear to mean widely different things. In South Viet Nam the Communists have stepped up guerrilla activity and the United States has stepped up military aid and advice.

Kennedy is expected to reiterate U.S. determination not to let the Communists roll unchecked through this area.

The Kennedy-Khrushchev talks may indicate the lines on which the East-West battle over Africa will be fought in future years — and ing could be written not in terms of world trouble spots, but as a list of broad issues which lie behind them — "troika," meaning of neutrality, miscalculation, development of backward nations, and the Soviet system of state secrecy and closed society which enters almost every issue of cooperation between Russia and the West.

Hastings Company Is Judged Bankrupt

GRAND RAPIDS — Orchard Industries, Inc., of Hastings was adjudicated bankrupt Friday in a hearing before U.S. bankruptcy referee Edward G. Benson and creditors of the firm.

Charles Bowman was appointed receiver of the firm. The judgement took into account a government tax claim of more than $72,000 plus claims of creditors in rejecting Orchard's earlier petition for an arrangement under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Act.

Orchard Industries had listed assets as $807,397 and liabilities of $1,160,536 in petitioning for the arrangement.

Fireman Pulls Plug on Disaster

Defies Flames to Shut Valve Atop Tank as Town Awaits Tragedy

PERRY — This quiet, Shiawassee County village sat on the edge of disaster for five hours Friday as fire licked at a 21,000-gallon propane gas tank.

A 33-year-old father of four sons snapped the tension when he climbed on top of the tank under a cascade of water from fire hoses and closed a valve feeding the fire.

The hero was a volunteer fireman — John A. Southwell of Perry, a Lansing auto plant worker.

Described by neighbors as a quiet, "ordinary guy," Southwell appeared calm and steady during and after his feat.

BOTTLES FLY
An explosion shortly after 3 p.m. sent propane gas bottles flying from the storage yard of the Dri Gas Corp.

The fire gradually subsided, but the gas tank — half filled with volatile propane — posed an explosive threat of disaster for another five hours.

No one was injured in the blast or fire. J. M. Lambert, district manager for the company, said the cause of the explosion had not been determined.

"We think it might have been a short circuit," he said.

Workmen were sitting in a blockhouse — like office building when they heard the explosion, Lambert said. "It sounded like a jet breaking the sound barrier," he added.

The clock on the wall had stopped at 3:07 p.m.

Lambert estimated damage at about $100,000.

The whole northeast third of the village was quiet after the initial flurry of activity. State police and fire fighters from nearby Marquette, Bancroft and Owosso ordered the area evacuated.

Synagogue Scene of Installation

The Sisterhood of Temple Beth Jacob met Friday afternoon at the synagogue on Elizabeth Lake Road for installation of officers which occurs biennially.

Each of the new officers was presented a scroll listing the Ten Commandments at the luncheon.

Mrs. Alfred Simmons, chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Sherwin Birnkrant and Mrs. Bernard Horowitz.

The opening prayer was offered by Mrs. Nathan Hirschfeld, and Mrs. Herman Dickstein closed the meeting with prayer.

Guest soloist was Mrs. Arthur Monson whose piano accompanist was Mrs. Jack Kulnick.

The woman who has not learned to accept compliments with grace and poise only succeeds in downgrading herself.

If you tell her that she is pretty and becoming, she immediately tells you either that it's very old or that she picked it up on sale. If you say that her hairdo is just right for her, she'll tell you that she is due for a set, a color job or a permanent. And both of you feel rather silly for discussing the matter at all.

Some women are genuinely embarrassed by compliments and seek to turn them away in this fashion. But they only succeed in robbing themselves of an aura of charm. If this is true of you, learn now to say simply: "I'm glad that you like it" or the equivalent. You'll feel more at ease and so will the person who complimented you.

Lots of Liquids Keep Skin Clear

To achieve a beautiful complexion, you need plenty of liquids — both inside and out. This includes drinking at least six glasses of water per day, plus fruit juices and at least one glass of milk.

Externally, your skin needs daily bathing with plenty of soapsuds to wash away soil and oily secretions. This sets the skin "breathe," and removes possible sources of blemishes. While washing, massage the latter on with upward motions. Combining stimulation with soapsuds produces maximum benefits from this daily beauty treatment.

Mrs. Reba Ross Netzer, new president of Temple Beth Jacob's Sisterhood (left), was presented her scroll listing the Ten Commandments at Friday's installation of officers by Mrs. Charles Gersten, retiring president. Looking on are Mrs. Harry Arnkoff, secretary (right), and Mrs. Jerome Peters, treasurer.

Mrs. Reba Ross Netzer, executive director of the Pontiac Young Women's Christian Association, has announced a "Capable Course in Homemaking" for "old" brides, new brides and brides-to-be will be offered by the association between June 13.

Each of the two-hour sessions, beginning at 6 p.m., will be on Tuesdays through July 25.

Mrs. William A. Crisp Jr., YWCA young adult chairman, announced the meetings will be at the supper hour to avoid interference with the girls' dates, wedding rehearsals, trousseau fittings, etc.

Subjects covered will include making a house or apartment homelike on a small budget, apportioning funds in the budget, budgeting time and energy as well as money, household appliances most necessary for the beginner, and shopping and preparation of food for two.

Mrs. Mary Hardy of the Michigan State University Extension Service is cooperating with the "Y" in preparing and presenting the course which will be offered for a nominal fee.

Young women interested in the series should plan to bring a sandwich, dessert and beverage will be served by the YWCA, reported Mrs. William Hefwert, staff member in charge.

Folders about the course, entitled "Space-Age Homemaking for Brides and Brides-to-be," are available at the YWCA building on Franklin Boulevard.

Prior to coming to Cranbrook, the show has visited the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia, Chicago Museum of Science and Industry, Boston Museum of Science and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Among the exhibits are a steam gun, parachute, an excavating machine, improved printing press, and an air-conditioning unit. There is a model of his arthropter and his helicopter.

Walking Burns Calories, Firms Those Muscles

(NEA)—A friend of mine who has enrolled at a gym was discussing the benefits of such exercise the other day. I agreed that it was an excellent idea. But, I added, it would be good for her to include a daily walk, too rather than taking a cab to the office.

She said that she had read somewhere at some time that you would have to walk so many miles a pound at order to lose even a pound. At this, I pointed out to her that had she walked that mile a day and watched her food intake, she need not be paying for gym exercise now (for her course is costly).

Not only does walking burn calories and help to hold down weight, despite what anyone says, it also firms and firms muscles. Next to swimming, it is the best all-around exercise there is.

The foursome will attend the marriage of James G. McGuire to Judy Agnes Lambert in Findlay, Ohio, this weekend.

Let Guests Salt Food If Wanted

By The Daily Post Institute

Q: I would like your opinion on salting food at the table when a guest in someone's house. After spending much time in trying to send a meal to the table properly seasoned, I resent the person who comes to my table, picks up the salt shaker without even tasting the food and salts it as if he were confident I had left the seasoning entirely to him. Isn't this an affront to the hostess?

A: To the extent of salting the food before having tasted it, I agree with you. But after having tasted it, if one finds lacking in seasoning for his own particular taste, addition of salt and pepper is permissible, and a hostess should not take it as an affront to her cooking skill. Some people like their food very highly seasoned.

Q: I have been invited to a university fraternity banquet. My fiancé and I will be one of the five couples who will be seated at the head table. When we walk to the table, do we all remain standing until all the members of the band table are behind their chairs?

When I am introduced, do I stand up, and if so, do I remain standing until the entire band table is introduced? Please help me on this matter. A: You sit down when you reach your chair without waiting for all at the table to take their places. When you are introduced, you stand up, smile and sit down again.

Q: I am going to be married next month and instead of having my attendants carry bouquets, I would like them to carry prayer books. I have been told that this would be proper and that only the bride may carry a prayer book. Will you please give me your opinion?

A: If you prefer prayer books to bouquets, there is no reason why your attendants may not carry them. They should, however, be covered to match, or harmonize, with the bridesmaids' dresses.

I was so frightened I got her out of that store as fast as I could. Later, when I got the chance, I looked in her sack and there it was:

DEAR ABBY: I asked a girl (she is 17) to marry me, and she said yes. I am 22. She is a very good girl and I never made one wrong move toward her. We plan to get married this summer when I get my two weeks' vacation.

We decided to take a drive through the Canadian Rockies. She asked me yesterday if I minded if her mother came along to help drive. I never heard of a mother going along on a honeymoon but, knowing this girl is very close to her mother (she is a widow), I said I thought it would be okay.

Now I realize it is way out of line and I wonder if maybe I shouldn't tell her I changed my mind? How do I get out of this situation, please?

DEAR ABBY: I have known this friend of mine for years. I got the shock of my life when she and I went shopping together. I noticed she shied away from me, and when I looked up I saw her take something off the counter and quickly slip it into a sack she was carrying.

Dance Teacher Sees Fitness Lag

By GAY PAULEY NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. Helen Wicks Reid, the grande dame of dancing teachers, says President Kennedy and others in our nation who are worried about youth fitness.

"Sometimes it takes me a year to teach a child what fun it is to run," said Mrs. Reid, whose pupils range from nursery school age through grade school.

Naturally, Mrs. Reid thinks dancing is one of the exercises which will help keep us all trim.

"It used to be," she said, "that you couldn't hold a child ... children in class were all over the place. You had to squelch them."

"But now, I get 3- and 4-year-olds whom I have to pick up and move around like checkers."

"I don't know what causes this laziness among our children, unless it is the long hours they sit in front of a television set. Sitting becomes a habit."

"Some of the sixth grade girls I teach took lessons from the year then I do," said the lively, brisk-stepping Mrs. Reid.

Dancing has been a way of life for the Port Washington, N. Y., woman ever since her teen years when she depended on friends to teach her steps they were learning in dancing class.

Her father wanted her to be a doctor, not a dancer, she said.

But she managed to convince the family she'd be happier studying the household arts and physical education at Columbia University than preparing for medical school.

"In those days," she said during a visit to New York, "physical education courses at Columbia included dancing. Even ballet."

Worries About Child Laziness

"After college, she studied with Louis Chaffl, at the time one of New York's most respected teachers.

DOEN'T TELL AGE She has been doing her own instruction for 20 years now.

"But I don't tell my age," she said. "My doctor says not to. It's bad for business."

At present, this woman so full of vim you'd think she ate Wheaties daily, holds classes six days a week and a couple of evenings each week at Port Washington, a suburban town where she and her husband Harold, an engineer, also live.

She also contributes articles to Dance magazine, is associate editor of Ballroom Dance magazine, and executive director of the National Council of Dance Teacher Organizations which she helped found.

Mrs. Reid and her staff teach all the familiar dances and bring in many folk steps.

Classes include preballet for the nursery and kindergarten age, beginning ballet for children 7 years and up, the waltz, foxtrot and a "bit of cha-cha" for the 11-12 age group, and more sophisticated dances such as the Viennese waltz.

Your Neighbor's House

It's New on Beverly Island

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Home Editor

Sometimes we almost arrive with the movers. At any rate, when we visited the Crozier Rutledge home on Beverly Island, it was before the house was completely furnished. When we tell you that the house has 2,566 square feet of space in it, you'll agree that furnishing such a home is no small job.

Five of the 6 Rutledge children live at home; James, the eldest, is in service; Mark, Lance and Geoff are the boys at home; Gail and Ann the girls. Their ages range from Geoff's 4 years to Mark's 13.

There's a' estate floor in the front entrance hall. This hall routes traffic efficiently without making people pass through one room to get to another. On the wall at the left a marble shell is mounted. The light fixture is a square brass one with engraved glass.

There's not much furniture in the living room at the left. There's a tan tufted sofa and a wing chair with a tufted back. Tables are Provincial style. Lamps are white.

The den at the right has Philippine mahogany walls. This wood is used for all the trim throughout the house. A red and black braided rug covers part of the polished oak floor.

Gray brick, like that used on the exterior, forms the fireplace and chimney. Furniture is maple with brown checked upholstery. Tables are brass footed.

There's one bedroom downstairs at the back of the house. Belonging to 2 of the boys, it has twin beds and a maple chest. The rug is sandalwood.

The downstairs bath has sandalwood, yellow and white wallpaper. Gold splattered Formica forms the vanity top.

Next to the bedroom is the dining room which has no furniture. There are three big windows that look out on the channel.

Fortunately for Mrs. Rutledge, her kitchen is complete—and attractive. The pebble-like vinyl linoleum floor is gray and gold. Walls are pale yellow. Counter tops are beige and white marbled plastic.

The Philippine mahogany cupboards have copper hardware. Above the sink is brown and yellow wallpaper. White cafe curtains are hung on brass rods.

PLANNING DESK

Next to the wall oven is a kitchen planning desk with a Formica top. Furniture is maple. There are bottles filled with colored water on the marble window sills.

Behind the kitchen is the playroom-laundry room. The floor is beige tile. Below the pale green walls is a mahogany dado. Draperies are cinnamon color. The sturdy maple furniture takes whatever the children give it.

Next to the back door is a lavatory. This room saves wear and tear on the rest of the house and on Mrs. Rutledge's nerves. There's a second boys' bedroom upstairs. This has pale aqua walls. Aqua blankets used as spreads on the maple twin beds are a deeper tone than the walls.

The girls have a pink room. Their double bed has a turquoise headboard. The blanket spread is white with pink carnations on it. Lots of dolls are in evidence.

The master bedroom is at the front of the house. It has an attached dressing room and lavatory. Bedroom walls are light orchid.

DANISH

In the dressing room is an orchid vanity with gold and white top. Daisies are scattered on the wallpaper in the lavatory. There's a glassed in shower. The bedroom furniture is ivory-toned Provincial.

Windows in this room are unusual. They have stainless steel bars set between two sheets of glass. They are more interesting looking than plain windows, yet are easy to wash.

Each window lifts out of the frame for cleaning.

The Rutledge's lot is 75 feet wide and 225 feet deep. James Zuehlke built the house which is gray brick with black shutters.

Here's the Answer

QUESTION: I hope to be able to build a carport, using 4 by 6 posts for the supports and 2 by 6 rafters to support the roof. Will sheets of plywood half-inch thick be sufficient and must I use three-quarter-inch plywood? Also, what should I put over the plywood roof, if anything?

ANSWER: Yes, half-inch plywood will suffice, provided that the rafters are spaced no more than 18 inches apart on center.

Regulation roll roofing material will do nicely over the plywood.

Be sure the roof is pitched sufficiently to drain off rain water. The 4 by 6 posts should be about 4 feet apart, with the rafters resting on 2 by 10's. Presumably, you know that the 4 by 6 posts should be anchored in concrete.

QUESTION: We have a one-family, two-story house with a bathroom on each floor. Ever since we moved in, about two years ago, we have had trouble with getting hot water as soon as the faucet is turned on. It always seems to take a minute or two until the hot water begins to run. We had in a plumber some months ago and he said we needed a circulating system. We didn't do anything about it then, but have decided to have it taken care of. Was the plumber right?

ANSWER: We can't be 100 per cent certain that the plumber was correct in the condition existing in your house, for the simple reason that different solutions are necessary for different problems. But the chances are that he made the proper diagnosis. The installation of a circulating system is a recommended cure for hot water problems of this nature.

This system calls for placing pipe loops between the hot water heater and the individual fixtures. When hot water comes from the faucet the instant it is turned on, there is a considerable savings over the course of a year in water and fuel.

Another remedy for delayed hot water is to insulate the pipes. This is something you can do yourself with insulation purchased at a hardware store, although you might get an estimate on it from the plumber who is hired to put in the circulating system.

Beverly Island Is Dream Come True

One man had a vision and the determination to see a "job" through; the result is a new subdivision in the Pontiac area and for the man, "a dream come true."

That's the way Louis "Tug" Borst describes his Beverly Island subdivision. Practically speaking, it is an extensive engineering feat. Motorists slowing for the stop light at the intersection of M-59 and Elizabeth Lake Road are unaware that southwest of M-59 there is an island where new homes are being built.

Originally called Sand Island, this land was used for duck hunting and trap shooting years ago. Borst purchased the boomerang-shaped piece of land and the surrounding area from Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson. He renamed the main island "Beverly" in honor of his daughter. About 35 acres are being kept unimproved as a wild life refuge.

Before the island could be used for building, engineers made a number of underground geologic surveys. After they found that the land is located on solid bedrock and not floating, they began digging channels. These flow into Otter Lake are 175 to 300 feet wide and from 10 to 12 feet deep.

Muck and sand thrown up from the channels widened the island from 400 to 600 feet and created a second island to the south. Some of the top of the land was sliced off to build the causeway from the mainland. This work has been going on since 1955, supervised by John Walser, an associate of Borst.

Building was begun in 1958 with houses along Cass Lake Road and fronting on one of the channels. This is known as Lincolnshire subdivision. There are now 4 homes built on Beverly Island with a fifth one in the process of construction. Plans call for 44 lots, all of them with water frontage. Borst himself plans to build out on his island before long.

The subdivision has blacktop roads with curbing and city water. Even though it is not far from a heavily traveled highway, the land and water between muffle sound surveys. After they found that the left hand corner is to be left in its wild state to provide refuge for water fowl. Beverly Island itself is about 600 feet wide. You can see the second island above it, the one that will be a second part of the subdivision some day. Louis Borst is the owner-developer.

BRICK WALL—Contrasting with the three walls paneled in Philippine mahogany is this gray brick wall surrounding the fireplace. Mrs. Rutledge keeps green plants in the opening during the warm months. At the left is part of a maple sectional sofa with brown and white checked upholstery. The braided rug has shades of red and black predominating.

HANDSOME CUPBOARDS—Philippine mahogany is used for all kitchen cupboards. The hardware is copper. This view shows the built-in range and the sink at the left. Walls are yellow; the wallpaper is yellow and brown. Linoleum is a pebble pattern in gray with a bit of gold in it.

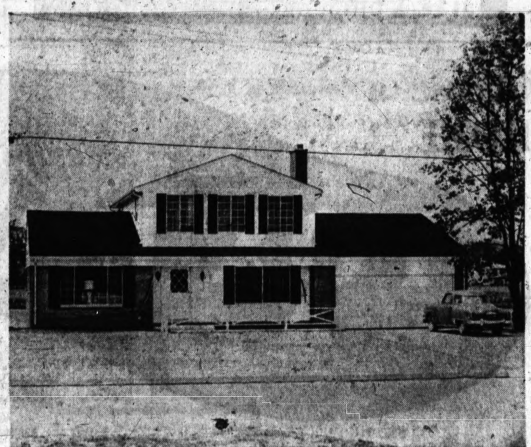

THEIR ROOM—Ann and Geoff posed for their picture in the playroom. You can see the wide channel behind the Rutledge house through the windows. The floor is beige tile; wallpapering is mahogany. The draperies are cinnamon colored.

FOR A NARROW HALL—Here is an idea for decorating a narrow hall where even a small chest would crowd the space. The shelf is a piece of marble mounted on iron brackets. A vase of pink roses and a delicate piece of porcelain complete the picture.

CHANNEL FRONTAGE—The Crozier Rutledge home on Beverly Island was completed in February. James Zuehlke was the builder. This gray brick and white siding home has 9 rooms in it. What looks like small panes of glass in the windows is really a new type of window.

Stainless steel bars are sandwiched between 2 panes of glass and give the appearance of the little panes without the work involved in cleaning them. The Rutledge lot fronts on a channel, is 75 feet wide and 225 feet deep.

BACK IN VOGUE — Now that President Kennedy's rocking chair has made headlines, this style of chair is enjoying new popularity. Here is a rocker that may be used indoors or out. It has wide rockers which do not disturb the grass. The full size pattern is simple to use. A list of needed materials and easy-to-read directions are printed right on the pattern. You may obtain the rocking chair pattern No. 130 by sending 75 cents in coin to Steve Ellington/The Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., Van Nuys, Calif.

Drop in Home Loan Costs Started, May Continue

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Advisers to President Kennedy believe the cost of home loan money has dropped substantially and is still going down.

They consider this a promising omen for the home buyer who pays the interest costs, and for builders, who can expect sales to rise as borrowing costs fall.

But the White House economic experts are disturbed about the results of a government survey made last month. It showed savings and loan association lending rates are higher than the economists thought was the case.

The survey indicated a national average of savings association loan rates on new houses of 6.15 per cent. On used houses, it was 6.3 per cent. Average rates on the West Coast were 7 per cent. "These are a lot higher than we feared," an administration official commented.

The White House and key financial agencies have openly made lowering long-term interest rates a priority goal. The Administration has brought the Federal Reserve behind the drive, partially overcoming some deeply ingrained reluctance on the Reserve board. But the White House feels the Board hasn't gone far enough.

In all, the Administration is encouraged by recent reductions in interest rates. "But we haven't stopped pushing," adds a key official.

It is estimated that home loan borrowing costs fell about one-quarter of a percentage point in 1960 and as much again since the beginning of 1961. The experts feel that mortgage money still has some rates have fallen even more and that mortgage money still has some catching up to do. So, White House economists find grounds to expect a further decline of about one-quarter of a point.

This poses something of a dilemma for the family about to buy a house. Should it wait for money to get cheaper? If it waits, will the house it wants get away? Will money really get cheaper?

There are no easy answers—only because the United States is such a big, diversified country that there is plenty of room for exceptions to a national trend.

For example, the survey found West Coast rates averaging 7 per cent, roughly three-quarters of a point above the national average. That means that in New England and perhaps elsewhere rates were under 6 per cent — in some spots probably down around 5½ per cent.

Moreover, business and money market conditions can produce contrary movements in different parts of the country — sometimes even within a region — at the same time. What all of this may lead to is the importance of taking a close reading of local conditions before making personal buy-and-borrow decisions.

More Space Bought in Older Houses

The biggest single advantage of buying an old house today is space — up to twice as much space for the same money as a new house, says A. M. Watkins, author of a comprehensive new guide for families planning to build or buy a house.

"Compare the cost per square foot of living area of an old house you may buy with the comparable cost for new houses nearby," Watkins says. This will pin down exactly how much more space you may get.

You also move into an established neighborhood, with trees and less likelihood of tax increases when you buy an old house, compared with buying a new house, says Watkins whose guide is called "How to Judge a House."

The chief drawback of an old house is the likelihood of serious structural flaws.

What is a LUXURY?

* The minimum requirement in a home a century ago was a roof that didn't leak and four walls that kept the weather out. Most other items were considered luxuries.

Today's home-buyer would not begin to be satisfied with this standard. A century ago, hot water was a luxury. Central heating was once a luxury. Today, it is a basic building requirement.

There are hundreds of other "luxuries" now found in nearly every home. Electrical systems with outlets for every conceivable appliance, floor-to-ceiling and wall-to-wall windows, air conditioning, and built-in radios, record players and TV sets, are only a start on the long list.

The average family considers many of the above items necessities. Tomorrow, even more innovations will be required parts of a home, so that today, more than ever, it is necessary to plan carefully, far ahead to keep pace with ever-changing standards.

We, the members of your Council for Better Living, would like to help home planners in our community meet the need for careful planning by offering advice and counsel throughout your initial planning stages. "As You Plan — Ask Us." Accept our invitation soon, won't you?

NEW CONCEPT—This simple summer home is put together with hammer, screwdriver, pliers and saw on a foundation platform. It's made of lightweight pre-cut panels of polystyrene with exterior and interior walls of plywood. It's called the CHAL-A.

Plastics Company Offers Pre-Cut Vacation Home

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — For the ever-increasing number of people who have dreamed of a vacation cottage at reasonable cost, the home development designers of Koppers Company, Inc., have come up with the ideal answer. Trade-named the CHAL-A, this vacation retreat is constructed of Dylite foam core panels, the latest product of Koppers Plastics Division, and is available in do-it-yourself designs.

The CHAL-A is one of the new and least expensive vacation cottages available. It can be put together with ordinary tools—hammer, screwdriver, pliers and saw—by two men during a weekend. Only a simple foundation platform is needed.

Composed of lightweight, sturdy, easy-to-handle, pre-cut panel components, the CHAL-A arrives at the vacation site with complete directions. With it comes all the hardware, doors, interior wall panels, floor panels, roof panels, front and rear windows, balcony, interior and exterior trim, molding, slats, splines and nails. The splines are used to join the four-foot sections of roof and floor panels.

Space for Bath May Be Hiding

No place to put that much-needed second bathroom?

Look again, says Sidney F. Cook, an Anacosta home improvement specialist. Cook claims there are many overlooked areas in the home where a second bath or powder room could be installed. He points out that the availability of flexible copper tube for water piping and thin-wall copper tube for drainage systems makes it possible to add the necessary plumbing without doing a major alteration of the existing system.

"With today's plumbing fixtures," the Anacosta specialist adds, "a full bath can be installed economically in an area less than 5 x 7 feet, and a half-bath requires only 3 x 5 feet."

Where can the homeowner find such space?

Cook has prepared a check list of potential second bath areas:

1. In the basement, or attic. Available space that lines up with existing plumbing is preferred.
2. In "back-to-back" closets with the partition removed.
3. An under-the-stairs or walk-in closet.
4. An unused area at the end of a hall.
5. By taking away space from a master bedroom to build a connecting bath.
6. By dividing an old-fashioned dressing room into two modern baths.
7. If all else fails, by adding a bath to the home's exterior. A portion of a porch might serve very well.

Don't reject an area because it has no window, Cook says. Modern artificial lighting plus a ventilating fan can make interior bathrooms comfortable and pleasant.

Do It the Easy Way

Here's the easy way to paint baseboards. Start in a corner of the room and work around the perimeter. If you are right-handed, start in a left-hand corner and work toward your right. Apply the paint to the center of the board and work toward the edges. Protect the wall with a trim guard or shift cardboard. Protect the floor with drop cloths or newspapers.

Central Lighting Fixtures Return to 1961 Homes

Along about 1935, a new trend began to develop in home lighting. Fixtures in living rooms and bedrooms began to disappear. In their place, builders connected the wall electric switches to convenience outlets into which portable lamps could be plugged.

Using this system, builders saved the cost of ceiling and wall fixtures. But entirely aside from the economic angle, the idea caught the public fancy. It became fashionable to have living rooms and bedrooms without installed lighting fixtures. And many thousands of fixtures in old homes were removed in favor of the wall switch-outlet system.

In the mid-fifties, installed lighting came into vogue again, not in any sweeping fashion but gradually. The biggest gain was in 1960.

And now comes the prediction of the American Home Lighting Institute that new and remodeled homes this year will have more installed lighting fixtures in living rooms and bedrooms than have been seen in more than 25 years.

The prediction is based on a survey of private builders of small and large-scale housing developments. Up to now, the biggest growth in the return to installed lighting and built-in lighting, which consists of cornices and valances providing indirect light, has been in the custom-home field. Those who favor installed lighting make this point: when fixtures decreased in popularity, built-in wattages in lamps were increased, but because of shade design and the lack of reflectors, they still didn't provide enough light to make the average room adequately lighted unless the room were cluttered with them.

Also, items such as clocks, radios and electric blankets were plugged into the same outlets as the lamps, which made it necessary to keep the wall switch on continually and operate the lamps with their own on-and-off switches.

Many persons will continue to favor the wall switch outlet set.

Southern Pine Is Hardest Softwood

Southern Pine holds the unique distinction of being rated the "hardest" of softwoods—an asset that comes in handy for wood-paneled walls.

Wood paneling is both permanent and maintenance free when two conditions are met: 1) the lumber is dry 2) it has sufficient natural resistance to mar and abrasion.

Proper drying is mandatory for all grades of Southern Pine paneling and also increases the natural hardness of the species by 57 percent.

The species has a harder wearing surface than many of the so-called "hardwoods."

Panel Walls of Rec Rooms

It's amazing to consider the calm and equilibrium that a well-ordered play area can bring to your residence.

Little used attics or basements provide unexpected but ideal locales. And if there's a handyman in the household, he can do most of the work himself.

For your attic or basement remodeling project in '61, the Southern Pine Association suggests a combination family room-playroom. During daylight hours, the facility will keep little children away from the congestion of routine household traffic. At night, it will provide a comfortable spot where the entire family can congregate for games and TV. All told, it will greatly augment the available living area.

In a well built house, structural alterations will not be necessary. Virtually all that's needed are a hammer, nails and lumber. Wood paneling is a desirable finishing material for several reasons.

Studs, joists, rafters and other structural members found in basements and attics are of wood and serve as an excellent nailing base for the paneling. It's easy to apply wood to wood.

Also, the flexibility you have in arranging the boards can solve the visual problems encountered in such areas. For example, any sense of confinement resulting from the diagonal slant of attic rafters or low basement ceilings can be eliminated by the paneling alignment.

Applied vertically to flat wall structures, the paneling will give the impression of greater room height. Horizontal placement across rafters to top attic level will give a finished look to the room and a cathedral aspect to the arched ceiling.

COMFORTABLY COMPACT

Definitely used of brick or stone in front gives this 1,178 square foot ranch the appearance of a larger home, and the roof line broken by the extended garage adds to the effect. House has 1 1/2 baths, roomy closets, full basement, entrance vestibule, family kitchen.

FLOOR PLANS—Dual-use lavatory is a key feature to good circulation in this compact home. Note the railing between kitchen and sunken family room, providing a balcony effect for breakfast area.

By JULES LOW

A medium size family with a medium size income will find large size advantages in this attractive three-bedroom ranch.

There are only 1,178 square feet of living area (not counting the 248 square foot garage), but House of the Week Design B-49 has features normally reserved for larger and more expensive homes.

"Living problems are the same whether you have a large home or a small one," said architect Herman H. York, who designed B-49. "I've tried to incorporate as many solutions as possible into the economical compactness of this house."

One such feature is the extra lavatory which shares economical back-to-back plumbing with the main bathroom.

The extra bath not only serves as a private adjacent to the 11'4" by 14' master bedroom, but with its second entrance it is convenient to the kitchen and rear terrace — just the thing for outdoor entertaining or children playing in the backyard.

York's design provides excellent circulation for a house of this size. The extra bath contributes to it, serving as a quick passage to the kitchen or rear entrance from the master bedroom.

Other features which aid circulation are the entrance from the garage direct to the 11'4" by 12'8" family room, the other three bedrooms to the family room — off the living room and kitchen and through sliding glass terrace doors — and the entrance vestibule.

Dimensions of B-49 are 47'10" wide by 33'3" deep, well suited for a 60' wide lot.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS

The family room is two steps lower than the rest of the house, setting it apart from the kitchen and living room as a private dining area if desired, but at the same time allowing it to function as a spacious unit with the kitchen.

A railing between the kitchen and family room provides a balcony effect for a dining area, which the 9' by 12' kitchen can accommodate easily. The kitchen also is well planned as a control point for supervising play both indoors and out.

Storage space is no problem in B-49. It has a full basement, plus ample bedroom closets, a coat closet off the entrance vestibule, and a linen closet convenient to the main bathroom.

Architect York has done some tricks with the exterior of the

Tall Doors Serve Several Purposes

Many new homes are including floor-to-ceiling doors, the reason for this innovation are sound.

You get better ventilation and lower heating bills with eight-foot doors, because air is not trapped above the doorways. You also eliminate unsightly cracks that often appear over doorways when houses settle.

Introduced in a research house at Knoxville sponsored by the National Association of Home Builders, the tall doors have caught on in many of the latest developments. Generally, the doors are faced on both sides, with a smooth Masonite hardboard panel, which won't split or crack if someone accidentally kicks or bangs it. This splinter-free material also holds paint very well.

Architecturally, the floor-to-ceiling doors have the effect of making the rooms seem more spacious.

Trim Looking Ranch Is Compact Six-Room House

When you're planning carpet for your home, don't overlook the need for carpeting your stairs and hallway.

The National Safety Council reports that falls cause the majority of accidents in the home. While the stairways can be a focal point in any room beauty, it can also be a danger spot for youngsters as well as adults.

Carpet reduces the incidence of slips and slides. It protects people in a hurry. And carpet's ability to cushion falls and thus prevent serious injuries means savings in medical costs and also savings in medical costs and many hours to working members of the family.

If a fall should occur, the cushioning effect of carpet will soften the impact of the blow. Here are a few tips to remember to insure against falls on the stairway:

1. Always use one hand on the hand-rail.
2. Keep the staircase well lighted—have a light switch at both top and bottom.
3. Don't litter the stairs with loose objects.
4. Carpet all stairways.

Downspouts Repay Cost Many Ways

It's a mistake to think that heavy loads of rainwater dumped along the side of your house will wash off the walls.

Houses without gutters and downspouts usually end up with mud-splattered walls, unless there's concrete or other surfacing material on the ground completely under the eaves.

The mud-splattering takes place because the water, if allowed to run off the eaves directly to the ground, forms puddles in the earth—or, more accurately, the small ditches the length of the eaves. Grass won't grow in the ditches; flowers will be washed away; shrubs won't live, because the water is washed away from their roots.

But dirty sidewalks are only one penalty for not installing gutters and downspouts. Water along a foundation wall or basement wall, if dumped nearby in large quantities, usually seeps through.

For information regarding roof drainage, write the Roof Drainage Manufacturers Institute, 22 West Monroe Street, Chicago 3, Illinois. Free literature is available.

Running's Harling, Homers Beat Twins

Slams by Kaline and Rocky All Detroit Needs

Jim's 2-0 Victory Keeps Lead at Two Games; Mossi Goes Today

DETROIT (U-P) — An old catcher, Bob Scheffing has a great deal of sympathy for pitchers who have to operate on a nearly run-stap.

Jim Bunning had had that problem for two seasons with the Tigers. His teammates got him only two runs and seven hits last night, but this time Bunning was strong enough to get by.

The lean right-hander gave up only four singles and beat the Minnesota Twins 2-0 before the 10:41 p.m. game. He was his fourth victory against the Twins.

"Somebody we're gonna get that fellow five runs and spell him out," the Tiger manager cracked after the game. "They tell me he just couldn't get runs behind him last year, and he's pitched in a lot of tough luck this season. I know."

It was Bunning's 12th start, and the third time he has been able to complete a job. He seldom has been knocked out of the box, most of his removals being dictated by the need for a pinch hitter. This was his fourth victory against as many losses.

GOOD STUFF

Bunning seldom has had better stuff than he had last night. His fast ball was blazing and he had exceptional control of the other pitches in his repertoire. He walked only one man, and that walk got him in his only jam of the night.

It came in the ninth inning when Zoilo Versalles led off with a single. Bunning walked only one man, and that walk got him in his only jam of the night.

Bunning squirmed out by getting the first out. Dobbek on a bunt double play that ended the game. Norm Cash scooped up Dobbek's grounder at first and forced Killebrew at second. Bunning dashed to cover first, and took shortstop Chico Fernandez' throw just in time to nip Dobbek for the final out.

A pair of base-empty home runs carried Bunning to victory. Rocky Kaline hit one in the second, his 13th, and Al Kaline hit his fourth in the sixth inning. Both home runs were hit off Jack Killebrew, a southerner from Wyandotte, and both bounced off the facing of the upper deck in left field.

Indians and Yankees Stay on Win Trail

By The Associated Press
The Cleveland Indians and New York Yankees didn't lose any ground to the Detroit Tigers last night.

The second-place Indians stayed two games out of first by downing Los Angeles 6-4. Home runs carried the third-place Yankees to a 6-2 decision over the Chicago White Sox.

In other American League action, Boston knocked off Baltimore 4-2 and Washington whipped Kansas City 4-2.

Johnny Romano cracked a 4-4 for the Indians with a two-run homer in the eighth inning off reliever Johnny James (9-1).

Woody Held also homered for the Indians, who blew a lead. Frank Tom (7-3) was the winner with two innings of one-hit relief, but he bled the fourth and sixth to go 1-under on the front nine, then ticked off four birds on the back side for a 3-2.

Jones Adds Another Victory

Hayes Gains Hurdles Crown on West Coast

Teenagers Steal Show From 'Name' Athletes in California Event

COMPTON, Calif. (U-P) — Hayes Jones, Pontiac was among several top athletes who triumphed in the Compton Track and Field meet Friday night, but the glory went to two high school kids.

Jones picked up his second outdoor victory in as many tries this spring by hitting the tape first in the 120-yard hurdles. He was clocked in 13.7 seconds.

The youngsters who stole the show were Bruce Kidd, 17-year-old from Toronto, Canada; who bettered the American record for 3 miles in record time to winning the 5,000-meter run, and Tommy Sullivan of Evanston, Ill., who shone in the mile.

Sullivan, 18, ran second to second in the mile and pushed the former Oregon star to an excellent 4:08.15. His own 6:18.5 was the fastest ever turned in by a prep school athlete.

Kidd ran the 5,000, in 13:56.4, and his time at 3 miles was 13:26.4. It bettered the recognized mark of 13:28.0 set in dead-heat fashion here a year ago by Jim Beatty and Lasso Tabari.

Kidd beat a flock of seasoned runners. He ran Max Trues, now of the Air Force, into the ground in a time of 14:03.1. Dennis Moore, an Australian now at Adelaide Christian, was third in 14:22.6 and Tabari was a poor fourth in 14:24.1.

Sprinter Frank Budd of Villanova was the 100-yard dash in 10:83 and the 200 in 2:39.3 was the lone double winner of the meet.

The doubles also was scheduled for today with Pittsburgh teaming with Sirois and Brichant pairing with Van Der Borgh.

Jets and Merchants Baseball Winners

The Joy Boy Jets and Pontiac Merchants won Pontiac baseball contests yesterday. Lakeside Farm struck a Waterford softball tilt.

Bill Murphy singled in one run and scored the other as the Jets tallied twice in the 6th to clinch a 4-2 nod over Talbot Lumber. Larry Demerick fired a three-hitter for the triumph.

Jim Ray of CID valiantly fought two homers to beat in all his team's runs and allowed only four hits but still dropped a 5-4 game to the Merchants. One of the enemy bingles was a three-run error, courtesy of Marvin Carwell. Mike Morris got the win.

Lakeside outlasted Hobby Painting 10-7 for its first season victory. Eleven wild pitches by three Hobby hurlers helped considerably. Jim Fuller had a double and two singles in defeat. Big Jim's won a forfeit over previously unbeaten A. W. Lakeside. Bobby Stinson of A. W. Lakeside, who is a Sunday League, headed at Drayton starting at 7 p.m.

LA Overcomes Antics of Daffy Dodger Days

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles Dodgers went just about have to take the field on roller skates to night to suppress the daffy demonstration they gave in the opener of their critical three-game series.

It was actually one man, Bob Aspromonte of the Dodgers, who gave Friday night's game its truly giddy touch with some base-running that is perhaps most charitably described as eccentric.

To begin with, Aspromonte helped the Dodgers duplicate one of their best remembered and least gratifying achievements when he and a teammate wound up on the same base at the same time. That helped kill a ninth inning Dodger rally that was truly peculiar in its own right.

Then, in the 10th, Aspromonte almost turned a grand-slam home run into a single with another piece of base-running that left his coaches astounded.

But Tommy Davis got credit for the grand-slammer and the Dodgers won it 6-2, moving into a virtual first-place tie with Cincinnati and dropping the Giants a half game behind.

The Dodgers, trailing 2-1 after 8 1/2 innings, tied it in the ninth. This half inning lasted a full half hour. In B, the Giants used five different pitchers and the Dodgers sent up seven men. Yet only one run was scored, and that came on a leadoff homer by Willie Davis.

It was in this inning that Aspromonte was caught wandering off second base. He was apparently trapped in a rundown but somehow managed to get back to second ahead of the last man to handle the ball — an eddy cough was catcher Hobie Landrith.

Only trouble was that Tommy Davis, who had been on first, also went to second on the rundown.

Book Back at Library - 129 Years Overdue

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—
 A book was returned to the public library Friday—129 years overdue.
 John M. Ballard reported he found in the library of Mrs.
 Ballard's great-grandfather, Henry H. Crapo. Crapo was clerk here then. He later moved to Michigan and was governor there. The book was volume one of John Winthrop's "History of New England from 1630 to 1660."
 City Librarian James E. Healey computed the overdue penalty at $750, but cancelled it.
 "It's a dreadfully dull book,"
 he said.

France Nuyen Recalls Horrible Happenings

By EARL WILSON
 France Nuyen banged her small fist on the table in a Broadway restaurant and, crackling with anger, she said:
 "Some people thought I was a monster, some thought I was fat, some thought I was pregnant."
 All the horrible memories of her "Suzie Wong" movie disaster came back and, looking very sad and very small, she added:
 "I didn't know what they were saying.
 But for a year I couldn't get a job."
 "I didn't think I'd ever be asked back.
 And Jack Webb was the only one who didn't believe that I was ugly and awful. The studio went by what the newspapers had printed.
 "Jack didn't. I told him, he didn't need to worry about me. I wasn't fat. I wasn't any of those things. He said, 'I believe you. He had much more common sense than a lot of people!'"

Jack Webb cast her in
 "The Last Time I Saw
 Archie," then the studio,
 20th Century-Fox cast her with William Holden in
 "The China Story," and
 "her comeback" almost complete—but it's rounded out the philosophy of this war child. Her aim is always to improve as a person—and that includes honesty even though that borders on tactlessness.
 "I always say what I think
 I never lie... It is possible
 I might displease a lot of people," she still looked grave for one of 12.
 Not eager to reopen the story of being fired by producer Ray Stark, and of her friendship with Marlon Brando, she nevertheless stepped her tea and answered questions.
 "I wasn't wanted in it the first place... And it was made clear they would welcome my leaving."
 "Somebody had to be blamed for the things that happened."
 Just as earnestly, Miss Nuyen said that by her code of conduct, leading her to be a better person, she has every right to speak out—even an obligation to do so.
 "If I am a better human being today than yesterday, then I think that is an accomplishment."
 "By concentrating on being a better person I can be a better actress—I hope," she laughed.

And it was one of the few laughs from her. Her closest friends here include her former Broadway wardrobe mistress, Kathy De Sabino of New Jersey who she visits often at her home, especially when she's troubled.
 "That woman loves me—she loves me like her own child!"
 France exclaimed, and there was wonder in her eyes.
TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A local man reports today that it's a terrible thing to have to grow old alone. His wife hasn't had a birthday in eight years.
WISH TO SAY THAT: A fellow reports he hasn't spoken to his wife in months—but he figures his turn is due soon.
EARL'S FEARS: The hardest household chore any woman faces is hanging up the telephone.
 Carol Channing returned from a fashion show and snarped,
 "I knew there were a lot of women-haters in the world—but why do they all design women's clothes for a living?"... That's earl, brother.

Tiny Grain of Rice Carries Peace Hope

LONDON (AP)—A grain of rice with a difference has been devoted to the Khrushchev-Kennedy meeting, Moscow Radio says.
 "On it, said the broadcast, an Armenian craftsman has micro-engraved a picture of the Statue of Liberty; a background of the New York skyscrapers; a micro-sculpture of the earth and a symbolic bridge of friendship spanning the Bering straits.
 The inscription in English and Russian: "The peoples of the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A.—for peace."
 Khrushchev reportedly are reaching plague proportions in central and northern Australia. The animals spoil crops and the grazing lands of cattle and sheep.

No Picketing by Unions of Plant in Port Huron

DETROIT (U.S.)—A federal judge today issued an injunction restraining four unions from picketing the Port Huron Sulphite and Paper Co. plant at Port Huron.

Federal Judge Ralph M. Freeman, acting on the request of the National Labor Relations Board, ruled there was "reasonable grounds for belief that the four unions were guilty of unfair labor practices."

MSU's Coeds Ready for Fire, Wind, Panty Raid

EAST LANSING (U.S.)—Michigan State University coeds say they know what to do in the event of a fire, tornado or panty raid.

"We have one hell signal for tornado drills, one for fire, and another for panty raid drills," one coed said. At the alarm, they turn off room lights, draw the shades and file into the hall, closing room doors.

"The panty raid and tornado drills are very much alike," she added: "sometimes they're called one, sometimes the other."

Police action in recent years has snipped most raids such as Friday's, before the crowds of male students got near the girls' dormitories.

Cardial Spirit Prevails as Summit Talks Start

U.S. Odds 'Good' for Moon Victory

By MAX E. SIMON
The United States has a "mighty good chance" to beat Russia, to the moon.

That estimate of the nation's position in the space race came from Dr. Werner Von Braun, director of the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala.

Von Braun believes that the race to the moon has started with both countries on an equal footing.

Much bigger booster rockets than either America or Russia has — "to the best of our knowledge" — will be necessary for a manned lunar landing and return flight, Von Braun said in an interview yesterday at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

for each 12-million pounds of thrust will be required, the rocket expert said.

One way would be a direct flight powered by a huge rocket. The Nova rocket capable of 12-million pounds of thrust is now under design development by the Von Braun believes that the race to the moon has started with both countries on an equal footing.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration, he said.

Another method would be to shoot a rocket of lower thrust into orbit, then send up refuel rockets before leaving for the moon.

The most practical method, he said, would be to put a Nova into orbit without a manned capsule, then send the men for a rendezvous with the Nova.

They would join up for the flight," Von Braun explained. This method would have the advantage of not having to send men in the Nova before the new rocket is proved to be a safe launch vehicle, he said.

Von Braun warned when queried about the effect of labor difficulties at Cape Canaveral on the nation's space efforts.

The facts have been reported by the McClellan investigating committee, he said. "There is nothing I could add.

"Abuses will be stopped, I'm sure — the solutions of these problems are in the discussion stage. I would prefer not to make any blistering comments in this sensitive area."

Earlier Von Braun told MSU students that America was in the space race because there was no alternative.

"Militarily, space supremacy today is as important as air supremacy was 10 years ago," he declared.

Union Charts Con-Con Course

8-County Confab Told Active Role Planned in Delegate Selection

By DICK HANSON

Ken Morris, United Auto Workers codirector for Region 1, stressed today that the union will be in there pitching when delegates are being chosen for the constitutional convention.

He opened a conference at the UAW Local 598 Hall on Baldwin Avenue this morning attended by union representatives from Oakland, Macomb, St. Clair, Lapeer, Sanilac, Tawas, Huron and Monroe counties.

The all-day conference included a panel discussion in the afternoon featuring Don Stevens, Michigan AFL-CIO education director; State Rep. Arthur Law, D-Fowlie; Herbert McCready, AFL-CIO regional director; and Ed Purdy, UAW assistant education director.

The subject was obstacles facing a constitutional convention.

SCHOLLE SPEAKS

"We must support those candidates who have the basic philosophy that what happens in Michigan is good for all the people in the state, including those holding union cards," said Morris in the keynote address.

"We are going to oppose those who are our friends before the election, but who will limit their representation to business and industry interests after the election," he added.

"We need delegates who are not afraid to say that they represent the working people, because what takes place at con-con will definitely affect these working people."

He gave as an example the proposed Missouri Plan for selecting judges, which he said would take the appointment of judges away from the people and give it basically to the bar association.

This he compared to Communist methods where candidates are all of one party. Such things could happen at the convention, Morris warned.

He stressed the importance of working people becoming familiar with what the constitutional convention is all about, and what each candidate will stand for.

The election will not leave the glamour of a presidential one, he noted, and therefore there is the danger that the people will not take sufficient interest.

Swainson Vetoes Bill to Modify Home Bias Rule

LANSING (AP) — A bill aimed at modifying Michigan's controversial anti-discrimination rule for real estate dealings has been vetoed by Gov. Swainson.

The governor, in exercising his veto power for the 12th time, criticized the bill as one which would afford an opportunity "to diminish the civil rights of our citizens."

The measure had passed both the House and Senate by comfortable margins. If sought to overcome objections to the so-called Rule 9 which prohibited state-licensed real estate brokers and salesmen "to use their licenses to discriminate against their fellow citizens."

Swainson said the bill would give governments authority to state-licensed real estate brokers and salesmen "to use their licenses to discriminate against their fellow citizens."

The governor said that Rule 9 does not alter the right of a property owner to refuse to sell to whomever he pleases, but merely forbids the brokers from acting on their own.

U.S. Forces Alerted to Dominican Trouble With Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Navy and Marine units were on the alert along the Eastern Seaboard today amid reports of further disturbances in the Dominican Republic.

State Department press officer Lincoln White said use of U.S. forces in the Caribbean country was not planned now. But he did not rule out the possibility of such action later if American lives were endangered.

The 5,000 Americans on the island were still unharmed.

Among military movements during the night that made it obvious that there was a considerable alert of Navy and Marine forces on the East Coast and in the Caribbean Sea.

— The aircraft carrier Shangri-La put out to sea at Jacksonville, Fla., under a "general alert" condition. Its decks were jammed with jet fighters. A Navy spokesman said it was ordered to sea "to be ready in the event of an emergency."

At Camp Lejeune, N. C., a Marine spokesman said units of the 2nd Marine Division were undergoing "a test of our ability to move out rapidly."

The Greensboro Daily News, quoting reliable sources, had reported that Marine units along the coast were being loaded aboard carriers to take position in the Caribbean off the Dominican Republic's coast.

MASTERSMIND AT LARGE

In Ciudad Trujillo, the Dominican government claimed to have shot dead one of the assassins of dictator Rafael Trujillo and captured three others. But the accused masterminding of the plot was still at large.

Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr., the dictator's son, was directing the manhunt for members of the band of killers.

Construction is to begin a month later, taking about a year, he said.

Two separate building fund drives since November, when it first appeared that the downtown property might be sold, resulted in $400,000, Taylor said.

The new building will cost about $900,000 and the site $95,000.

According to latest plans, the tan brick structure is to perch on a high hill with a white porcelain enamel spires of 85 feet topped by an anodized gold cross.

Fidel Presented Must Reply to Group in U.S. by Wednesday on Tractor Exchange

DETROIT (AP) — Fidel Castro, who has been silent on his two-week-old offer to exchange 1,200 prisoners now in Cuban jails for 500 tractors, has been given until Wednesday to make a reply to an American group willing to provide the tractors.

The slain assassin was identified as 1st Lt. Amado Garcia Guerrero, an aide to President Joaquin Balaguer, the "Guevara" Dominican chief of state.

The accused chief plotter, retired Gen. Juan Tomas Diaz, was still at large.

Among the three accused conspirators seized was a civilian caught in a Roman Catholic parish house. The resident priest, the Rev. Gabriel Maduro, was taken into custody.

The group expressed trust that Castro would accept its offer to furnish the tractors. At the same time it said the free world would interpret a "failure to respond affirmatively" as a retraction by Castro of his own offer.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said on Khrushchev's right and Secretary of State Dean Rusk on Kennedy's right.

Kennedy and Khrushchev dominated the conversation, but Gromyko and Rusk took an active part.

There was one exchange between Khrushchev and Charles E. Bohlen, Soviet affairs expert and Kennedy adviser, who speaks Russian.

After the luncheon Kennedy and Khrushchev talked alone with only their interpreters present. For about nine minutes they walked together in the embassy garden.

By that time the rain had given way to a dry, brisk wind and bright sunshine.

Then the talks continued in the music room through the afternoon.

When Khrushchev, who arrived by train Friday, drove up to the residence of U.S. Ambassador R. Freeman Matthews, Kennedy walked part way down the stone entrance steps to meet him.

The two men smiled broadly at each other.

Photographers pressed forward and asked for a picture of the two shaking hands. Kennedy said to an interpreter: "Tell him it's all right we'll shake hands for the photographers." Khrushchev agreed and they did.

Then they went quickly into the building. Kennedy was host for today's talk. Khrushchev will be host at the Soviet Embassy residence Sunday.

U.S. officials said the talks would range over all cold war issues, with special attention to West Berlin, the nuclear test ban talks at Geneva, disarmament and Laos.

SIMPLE DESIGN

The building's design will be simple and Colonial in spirit, said Taylor.

A huge statue of Jesus, sculptured from white sandstone, will dominate the main window overlooking Highland Road.

Kennedy, Nikita Swap Friendly Toasts at Lunch

VIENNA (AP) — The Kennedy-Khrushchev summit meeting began today in a spirit of cordiality defying a rainy Vienna day. Soviet Premier Khrushchev went to the U.S. Embassy residence for the first day's talks. They began with a 75-minute lunch where toasts were exchanged in friendly terms.

It was a far different atmosphere than that which prevailed at the summit meeting at Paris in May 1960, which broke up over Khrushchev's demand that President Eisenhower apologize for 12 spy flights over the Soviet Union.

President Kennedy, evidently buoyed up by his Paris talks with French President de Gaulle, flew to Vienna this morning, a day after Khrushchev had arrived by train.

The President told Austrian President Adolf Schauer that he had come to neutral Vienna in order to promote better international understanding.

Aids expected the President to warn Khrushchev against the war dangers revolving around any new crisis over Berlin, and to urge Soviet concessions in the field of disarmament.

Talks between the two leaders began two hours after Kennedy arrived.

Khrushchev called at the U.S. Embassy residence at 11:45 a.m. Kennedy met him on the steps. They shook hands, posing for photographers.

CHAT IN MUSIC ROOM

Then, with advisers gathered around, they talked for more than an hour in the music room — a cozy red and gray parlor where all sat in easy chairs.

The talk delayed lunch half an hour.

Informants reported afterward that the two men and their associates had a very cordial time at the luncheon. They toasted each other with champagne and remarks were described as friendly.

Kennedy spoke for three to four minutes; Khrushchev, for about 10 minutes.

Each of the leaders had nine minutes present. Kennedy and Khrushchev sat opposite each other at the table.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said on Khrushchev's right and Secretary of State Dean Rusk on Kennedy's right.

Second of Three Units Planned for Area Under Construction in Pontiac

A 30,000-square-foot Yankee department store on the corner of North Perry and East Main streets which will open this October, according to Joseph Megdell, president of Yankee Stores, Inc.

"This is the second of three units the Yankee Stores will operate in the Pontiac area," stated Megdell. "Negotiations are under way for a third location in the Telegraph Road area."

Megdell emphasized that the present downtown Pontiac store at 51 S. Saginaw St. will continue to operate as usual.

FLAN FULL LINE The new Yankee location will have the full line of men's, women's, and children's clothing, domestics, toys, housewares, automotive, hardware, and sporting goods. Other departments will be added. Parking space for hundreds of cars will be provided.

Megdell added that about 30 persons will be employed at the new store.

Yankee is one of Michigan's fastest growing self-service department store chains. It was founded in Flint in 1948. Today Yankee operates six stores there, as well as two in Saginaw, two in Bay City, one in Lansing and one in Pontiac.

Under construction also is a new unit in Davison, and a 100,000-square-foot store in Flint, and negotiations are now under way for two new stores in Lansing.

A&P Executive Shot to Death by His Son, 14

MILLBURN, N.J. (AP)—Robert Woodruff Beach Sr., 42, assistant sales manager of the nationwide chain of A&P food stores, was shot to death by his son, 14, police said today.

The son, Robert Jr., 14, admitted shooting his father with a .22-caliber pistol, police said. They said the boy had been undergoing psychiatric treatment for about a year.

Young Robert was described as a crack shot. He holds nine bars (marks) from the National Rifle Association and is qualified as a "sharpshooter" by the NRA. He is a member of the Junior National Rifle Association.

M58 Bypass Is Redesignated

The Michigan route, sometimes called the Telegraph Road (U.S. 24) bypass around the western limits of Pontiac, has been redesignated U.S. 10 by the State Highway Department.

And the old U.S. 10 from Square Lake Road north through the downtown area has been redesignated business route (BR) U.S. 18, a spokesman said.

M58 used to begin at Square Lake Road and Woodward Avenue, run west along Square Lake Road, swing north onto Telegraph along the western boundary of the city and then conclude where the Dixie Highway begins.

Max Hoffman of the traffic engineering division of the State Highway Department said the change was "to bring us more in line with what is normally practiced throughout the state" of having a business route and a route for traffic wishing to skirt the city.

He also mentioned that the addition of M58 confused many motorists and "few people knew where it was anyway."

Northbound Woodward Avenue (U.S. 10) traffic approaching Square Lake will see signs and markers telling through traffic to turn left onto the road, thus missing the downtown section, and signs here wishing to enter the city to go straight ahead.

Signs have been put up by the Oakland County Road Commission.

Project to Cost $13.5 Million

Northland Building Starts

By DON FERMOYLE
The first phase of a $13.5-million construction program is under way at Northland Shopping Center in Southfield.

The project will add a multilevel office building, a seven-story medical center and a 200-room hotel to the sprawling Northland development — already the world's largest shopping center.

Ground was broken yesterday for the hotel, a $3-million facility that will be operated by the Stouffer Corp. of Cleveland, which currently owns three restaurants in the metropolitan area.

Work is scheduled to start this summer on Northland Towers, the most expensive of the three buildings to be constructed on an 18-acre site in the southwest corner of the shopping center.

The modern new office structure, which will be of curtain-wall construction, will have twin towers joined by a 2-story lobby. Each tower will include 12 levels and 145,000 square feet of office space. It will cost an estimated $8 million.

SIMILAR BUILDING
The final stage in the proposed Northland Point development will be construction of the steel and concrete medical center for $2.5 million to be started late this year.

The medical facility, like the office building, will be modern in design and is planned to be similar to the architecture of the existing stores at the shopping center.

However, the hotel will be designed on a decorative theme drawn from English inns of the Tudor period with antique-type beams and wood paneling throughout.

The hotel is being built for the Stouffer Corp. as a joint venture between the shopping center management and the H. L. Vokes Co. of Cleveland, an architectural and general contracting firm.

The other buildings will be constructed by the shopping center and the H. L. Vokes Co.

BOLD GROUND BREAKINGS
Leasing for the over-all project is being handled by the M. E. Arden Co. of Detroit and the Halley H. Lipp Co. of Cleveland.

Representing their firms at yesterday's groundbreaking ceremonies were H. L. Vokes Co. president, Arthur Stanley and Sanford Simon of the H. L. Vokes Co. and Homace Carpenter Jr., vice president and general manager of Northland Center.

'Nobody Home' Radio Notable Al Pearce Dies

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Al Pearce, who delighted radio audiences as Elmer Blurt, the salesman who knocked on doors and said, "Nobody home, I hope. I hope, I hope," is dead at 62.

The folksy oldtime star died Friday of complications from an ulcer operation.

Investments and the radio career that began in 1926 in San Francisco brought him millions. He was best known as master of ceremonies of his own variety show, "Al Pearce and His Gang."

Judge Instructs Watson Jury

Roschid Informs Group Number of Verdicts Possible in Case

DETROIT (AP) — Circuit Court Judge Joseph G. Roschid told a jury of nine women and three men that more than half dozen verdicts were possible in their deliberations on murder and conspiracy charges against Gordon Watson.

Except for the jury's final decision, Roschid's charge ended the seven-week-old trial of the 46-year-old Watson in the slaying of Parvin (Bill) Lassiter, Watson's onetime business partner in a suburban Royal Oak auto dealership.

The wealthy Lassiter was slain April 6, 1959. He was bludgeoned and shot. Three others have admitted the actual slaying and are serving life terms in prison sentences.

The state charged that Watson was involved in a "greed and lust" conspiracy with Lassiter's shapely blonde wife, Nelle, 35, of 1950 Beverly Road, Beverly Hills, in a kill-for-pay plot.

Both denied it and contended the state's whole case was built on lies.

Judge Roschid told the jury, which was locked up nightly after testimony began, that it could acquit or convict Watson of both first-degree murder and conspiracy to commit murder. Those were the specific crimes charged.

He said Watson also could be convicted of either crime separately and that the jury could consider possible verdicts of second-degree murder or manslaughter, separately or in combination with conspiracy.

In Michigan a first-degree murder conviction carries an automatic sentence of life imprisonment. Second-degree murder may be punished by any term of years up to life. Maximum for manslaughter is 15 years in prison.

False Modesty Can Make One Uncomfortable

(NEA) — The woman who is pretty and becoming, who immediately tells you either that it's very old or that she picked it up on sale. If you say that her hairdo is just right for her, she'll tell you that she is due for a set, a color job or a permanent. And both of you feel rather silly for discussing the matter at all.

Some women are genuinely embarrassed by compliments and seek to turn them away in this fashion. But they only succeed in robbing themselves of an aura of charm. If it is true of you, learn now to say simply: "I'm glad that you like it" or the equivalent. You'll feel more at ease and so will the person who complimented you.

Lots of Liquids Keep Skin Clear

To achieve a beautiful complexion, you need plenty of liquids — both inside and out. This includes drinking at least six glasses of water per day; plus fruit juices and at least one glass of milk.

Externally, your skin needs daily bathing with plenty of soapsuds to wash away oil and city secretions. This lets the skin "breathe," and removes possible sources of blemishes. While washing, massage the lather on with upward motions. Combining stimulation with soapsuds produces maximum benefits from this daily beauty treatment.

Let Guests Salt Food If Wanted

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: I would like your opinion on salting food at the table when a guest in someone's house. After spending much time in trying to send a message to the table properly seasoned, I resent the person who comes to my table, picks up the salt shaker without even tasting the food and salts it as if he were confident I had left the seasoning entirely to him. Isn't this an affront to the hostess?

A: To the extent of salting the food before having tasted it, I agree with you. But after having tasted it, if one finds it lacking in seasoning for his own particular taste, addition of salt and pepper is permissible, and a hostess should not take it as an affront to her cooking skill. Some people like, their food very highly seasoned.

Q: I have been invited to a university fraternity banquet. My fiancé and I will be one of the five couples who will be seated at the head table. When we walk to the table, do we all remain standing until all the members of the head table are behind their chairs? When I am introduced, do I stand up, and if so, do I remain standing until the entire head table is introduced? Please help me on this matter.

A: You sit down when you reach your chair without waiting for all at the table to take their places. When you are introduced, you stand up, smile and sit down again.

Q: I am going to be married next month and instead of having my attendants carry bouquets, I would like them to carry prayer books. I have been told that this would not be proper and that only the bride may carry a prayer book. Will you please give me your opinion?

A: If you prefer prayer books to bouquets, there is no reason why your attendants may not carry them. They should, however, be covered to match, or harmonize, with the bridesmaids' dresses.

DEAR ABBY: I have known this friend of mine for years. I got the shock of my life when she and I went shopping together. I noticed she shed away from me, and when I looked up I saw her take something off the counter and quickly slip it into a sack she was carrying.

I was so frightened I got her out of that store as fast as I could. Later, when I got the chance, I looked in her sack and there it was.

Am I as guilty as she for not reporting her? What should I have done? Now I am afraid to go anywhere with her or even let her in my house unless I can watch her every minute. Please advise me.

Abby Says: Backtrack, Boy!

Your Bride-to-Be Too Young, Leave Her Home With Mom

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I asked a girl (she is 17) to marry me, and she said yes. I am 22. She is a very good girl and I never made one wrong move toward her. We plan to get married this summer when I get my two weeks' vacation.

We decided to take a drive through the Canadian Rockies. She asked me yesterday if I minded if her mother came along to help drive. I never heard of a mother going along on a honeymoon, but knowing this girl is very close to her mother (she is a widow), I said I thought it would be okay.

Now I realize it is a way out of line and I wonder if maybe I shouldn't tell her I changed my mind? How do I get out of this situation, please?

DEAR SPOKE: Your "bride" appears to be very young indeed. In fact, I think she is too young to leave her mother. You'd be wise to get to know her better before signing a lifelong contract.

Sunday Shower Is Planned for Marsha Stapp

Marsha Ann Stapp will have a Sunday shower at the home of Mrs. William H. Knudson and daughter Patricia on Birchland Drive, Hammond Lake Estates.

4 Get enough sleep.

5 Take a few 10-minute rest periods during the day if this is possible.

6 Give your complexion daily care with cleansing and lubrication.

7 Get outdoors as much as the weather permits. This summer take advantage of the relaxation of the outdoors.

8 Add new interests and activities to your life.

9 If you are tense at the end of the day, take a few relaxing and deep breathing exercises.

10 Most of all, enjoy life! Don't clutter it up with resentments and sensitivity and envy and fatigue and tears and hecticness and re-reminders.

A big load of kindness and understanding and tolerance and a large — very large — dash of humor not only will make you well-loved by those you know, but will make life glow for you.

These are not really many suggestions, but they will be rewarding and I know they sometimes are difficult to adopt.

Harold Stickley showed a film "The Youngest Church" which explains the worldwide merger of the Evangelical and Reformed Church and the Congregational Church.

Elizabeth Gordon led devotions. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Clarence Sherbath and Mrs. H. G. Lusty.

The Young Adult Group will sponsor a father-son dinner on June 13.

Church Unity Is Discussed

The Women's Guild of Bethel United Church of Christ chose the topic "Unity in Churches" for the June first meeting.

Turn Other Cheek

(NEA) — When you apply foundation make-up, turn slightly to one side and then the other in addition to looking straight ahead. With your head turned, smooth the make-up on the sides and in the creases of your nose and along the jaw line until the application is perfectly even.

Spadea's american designer pattern

1342 Jo Copeland

With only three basic pattern pieces and a few hours of sewing you can button yourself into one of the smartest styles on the summer scene. Jo Copeland shaped its long lines to rest lightly on your figure but it can be easily tapered through the waistline if that's the look you prefer.

A welt pocket placed high on the bodice, another set low on the hip add a touch of fine tailoring. The narrow collar sets off a wide cool neckline. Make it now, sans sleeves, in linen, novelty cottons or rayons, shantung or sharskin.

With sleeves, it's a wonderful fall and winter dress in silk or rayon crepe, lightweight wools or tulle. From these corresponding body measurements select the one best for you. Our sizing is comparable to ready-to-wear.

Size 12 requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch fabric for slacks, dress. To order Pattern No. 1342, state size, send $1.00. Add 25 cents for first-class postage and special handling.

More Space Bought in Older Houses

The biggest single advantage of buying an old house today is space — up to twice as much space for the same money as a new house, says A. M. Watkins, author of a comprehensive new guide for families planning to build or buy a house.

"Compare the cost per square foot of living area of an old house you may buy with the comparable cost for new houses nearby," Watkins says. This will pin down exactly how much more space you may get.

You also move into an established neighborhood, with trees and less likelihood of tax increases when you buy an old house, compared with buying a new house, says Watkins whose guide is called "How to Judge a House."

The chief drawback of an old house is the likelihood of serious structural flaws.

What is a LUXURY?

• The minimum requirement in a home a century ago was a roof that didn't leak and four walls that kept the weather out. Most other items were considered luxuries.

Today's home buyer would not begin to be satisfied with this standard. A century ago, hot water was a luxury. Central heating was once a luxury. Today, it is a basic building requirement.

There are hundreds of other "luxuries" now found in nearly every home. Electrical systems with outlets for every conceivable appliance, floor-to-ceiling and wall-to-wall windows, air conditioning, and built-in radios, record players and TV sets, are only a start on the long list.

The average family considers many of the above items necessities. Tomorrow, even more innovations will be required parts of a home, so that today, more than ever, it is necessary to plan carefully, far ahead to keep pace with ever-changing standards.

We, the members of your Council for Better Living, would like to help home planners in our community meet the need for careful planning by offering advice and counsel throughout your initial planning stages. "As You Plan — Ask Us." Accept our invitation soon, won't you?
