Varied Lineup for GMC Truck

A completely restyled line of light-duty trucks, featuring safety improvements and a new series of medium-duty trucks, will highlight GMC Truck & Coach Division's 1967 product offering.

Martin J. Caserio, GMC division general manager and a General Motors Corp. vice president, said today the new additions to the line and improvements in existing models give GMC Truck & Coach its "greatest market coverage in history."

He said the 1967 truck program will consist of 194 different model series. Most are in production and a few will be released later.

Product improvements in the safety area for light trucks include self-adjusting brakes with independent front and rear hydraulic systems, steering columns that yield under emergency impacts, padded dashes and sun visors, and more thickly laminated windshield glass for greater puncture resistance.

Light-duty models also have dual headlamps and seat belts. Seat belts are standard throughout the full line of light, medium and heavy trucks. All models also have the thicker windshield lamination and four-way hazard warning flashers.

Another feature is a new polyethylene fuel tank on a number of medium and heavy duty models. Besides being free of static electricity, the rectangular tanks resist punctures.

New pickups and other light-duty trucks are from two to five inches lower. They are available with custom trim and interiors. Options include such luxury items as bucket seats and carpeting.

THE LIGHT LINE

The light line features an entirely new series of lengthened delivery and passenger vans. GMC Handi-Vans and Handi-Buses, previously offered only in 96-inch wheelbases, are now available in 108-inch wheelbases for bigger cargoes and greater passenger seating.

These vans are powered by both six- and eight-cylinder engines. The standard "G" is 230 cubic inches and develops 140 gross horsepower.

The standard V8 is 283 cubic inches and achieves 175 horsepower. An optional 250 in-line 6 develops 155 horsepower.

For the first time, diesel power is available in larger walk-in type vans. Powering these new "bread truck" type units is a three-cylinder diesel having 94 top horsepower.

LARGE AUDIENCE — A near-capacity crowd gathered for last night's lengthy public hearing on downtown Pontiac redevelopment plans. City employee groups picketed the meeting, held in the

VC Chief Softens Peace Terms

TOKYO (UPI) — The chief of the Communist Viet Cong today issued a new and shortened list of conditions for the return of peace in Viet Nam.

Unlike previous lists it contained no demand for prior withdrawal of U.S. troops or for a settlement based exclusively on the Communists' political program. It did call for eventual U.S. withdrawal.

The new list of conditions was set forth by Nguyen Huu Tho, a lawyer who is president of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong. He made the statements in an interview with leftist Australian newsman Wilfred Burckett on Aug. 28. The interview was broadcast today by Radio Hanoi.

The new conditions may or may not represent new concessions to the United States, but they differed from the five conditions for a peaceful settlement issued by the NFL a year ago.

The three conditions outlined today are not so far from the stated goals of the United States as to preclude the possibility that negotiations

NO WITHDRAWAL

There also was no hint in the text of Tho's remarks that a U.S. withdrawal would be required beforehand, a point on which the front and its mentors in Hanoi had been adamant. In reply to a direct question from Burckett to outline the conditions for peace, Tho replied:

"The conditions for a real peace in South Viet Nam and also the basis for the only correct political solution to the South Viet Nam problem is:

• "The U.S. must end the aggressive war in South Viet Nam, withdraw the troops and weapons of the U.S. and its satellites from South Viet Nam, and dissolve all U.S. military bases there.

• "The United States must respect the national rights of the South Vietnamese people which are independence, democracy, peace and neutrality."

INTERNAL AFFAIRS

"The internal affairs of South Viet Nam must be settled by the South Vietnamese people themselves without foreign interference. The reunification of Viet Nam must be decided by the people in both zones of Viet Nam."

ers, the commission climaxed a five-hour public hearing by approving 6-1 an agreement for a downtown shopping center.

It was a long evening of one-sided debate for the near-capacity crowd of 850 persons in the Pontiac Central High School auditorium.

Voting at 1:20 a.m., the commission ended debate which had raged since 8:35 p.m. by approving the agreement with Oak Park developer A. Alfred Taubman.

District 2 City Commissioner Robert C. Irwin cast the lone dissenting vote last night, reiterating his stand that problems were being ignored and more study was needed.

The 13-page agreement, revised again as late as yesterday, spells out terms for development of a $40-million 98-acre shopping center on a 63-acre parcel of land south of Lawrence.

PACT PROVISIONS

Essentially, the agreement provides for the city to acquire the land, build and operate a 4,000-car parking area, while developer Taubman signs top-level tenants and constructs a regional shopping center.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., who presented a slide presentation on the Taubman proposal, detailed the obligations of the city and the developer under the agreement.

Total cost of the city's investment, slated to be financed through a 40-year revenue bond issue, is currently estimated at $8.9 million.

Advance Gifts Goal for UF Is $108,930

An advance gifts goal of $108,930 was announced this morning by Howard H. Fitzgerald II, chairman of the advance gifts division of the Pontiac Area United Fund (PAUF).

Fitzgerald, publisher of The Pontiac Press, made the announcement at an Advance Gifts kickoff breakfast in the Club Overdraft of Community National Bank.

He asked that the goal be met by Oct. 10, the day before the general United Fund campaign kickoff.

The first advance gifts presented at the breakfast, sponsored by the Community National Bank, came from the bank and The Pontiac Press.

Fitzgerald presented a check for $2,700 from the corporate Press.

Robert R. Eldred, executive vice president of the Community National Bank, presented Fitzgerald with a check for $13,470.60 from the bank and its employees.

The two donations bring the advance gift collection to 10 per cent of its goal.

NEED TO CONTINUE

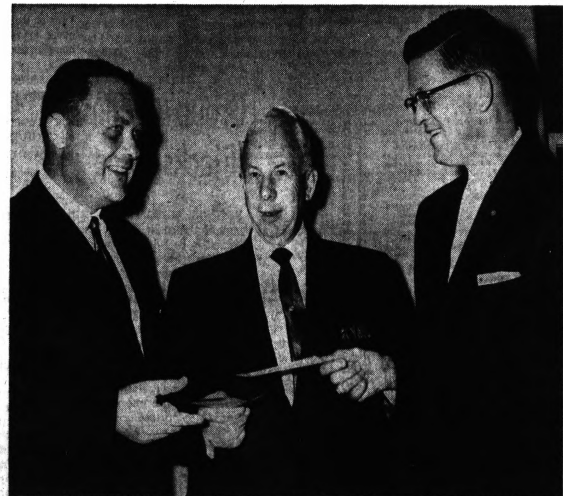

Bruce J. Annett of Annett Realty, president of PAUF, spoke of the need to continue and increase the vital work done by UF agencies.

Annett explained that UF money goes toward the operations, not the capital funds, of the 54 agencies.

The 45 solicitors present were advised to begin contacting advance gift prospects immediately.

Advance gift contributors will be asked to increase their 1965 pledges by 6 per cent.

San Francisco Negroes Riot; Guard Called

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rioting Negroes—incensed because a white policeman killed a youngster fleeing from a stolen car—smashed windows, started fires, looted, overturned vehicles and threw barrages of bricks and bottles last night in two San Francisco districts.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown called out 2,000 National Guardsmen and with Mayor John F. Shelley imposed a curfew when the violence jumped from the Hunters Point area to the Fillmore district.

During four hours of rioting 11 persons were treated at Mission Emergency Hospital but none was described as seriously injured.

The fire department answered 32 calls, many of them false, and eight fire trucks and cars (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Liuzzo Suspect Is Acquitted

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A Negro-dominated jury has found a 43-year-old steelworker and member of the Ku Klux Klan innocent of a murder charge in the slaying of a white civil rights worker.

A Circuit Court jury of eight Negroes and four white men took 85 minutes last night to reach its verdict of acquittal in the trial of Ku Klux Klan member Eugene Thomas for murder in the slaying of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, a white civil rights worker who died in a hail of gunfire from a passing auto on March 25, 1965, a few hours after the Selma-to-Montgomery march ended.

The verdict made Thomas the second member of the hooded order to win state court acquittal in the killing of Mrs. Liuzzo.

Stowaway in Jet Survives the Flight

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A 17-year-old Mexican stowaway was home safe in Queretaro today after a 2,000-mile flight from Colombia in the wheel compartment of a jet airliner.

"I was really scared part of the time," said Francisco Cuevas Garcia, "but I made it, and that's what I wanted to do—get home as quickly as possible."

Francisco said he got homesick after six months in Colombia but didn't have the money to take a plane back to Mexico. It would have taken too long to work his way home on a freighter—the way he went to Colombia.

"It's incredible, but he apparently did ride in the wheel well all the way from Bogota," said Ramon Watkins, the Mexico City manager for the Colombia's Avianca Airline. The four-engine jet flew as high as 34,000 feet through air temperatures as low as 45 degrees below zero, Watkins said.

CRAMPED QUARTERS

The lad was cramped into the wheel well so tightly that after the plane landed in Mexico City early Tuesday he could not get down. He had to call for help to mechanics servicing the plane.

Doctors looked him over, found nothing wrong and turned him over to Mexican immigration authorities. They established his Mexican citizenship.

"He's free now and left for Queretaro as soon as we let him go," an immigration official said Tuesday night. Watkins said the plane's flight time from Bogota to Mexico City was more than four hours.

Withdrawal of Forces Urged in U.N. Talk

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — France today called for a U.S. commitment to withdraw American troops from South Vietnam, and declared that United States alone "is in a position to make the new move that will end everything possible, and first of all, peace."

In a major policy speech before the U.N. General Assembly, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville called for a return to the principles of the 1954 Geneva agreement and noted this meant the evacuation of all foreign troops.

"It is impossible," he asked, "in the process of escalation, for such an overture to come from a side other than that of the great power which is directly involved there, whose intervention has been one of the basic elements of that escalation and which alone is therefore in a position to make the new move that will render everything possible, and first of all, peace?"

He quoted the Sept. 1 statement made by French President Charles de Gaulle in Cambodia in which de Gaulle said the opening of Viet Nam peace negotiations "would depend obviously on the decision and the commitment which America would have wanted to take before hand to repatriate its forces within a suitable and determined period of time."

Couve de Murville said the United States needs neither support, nor advice, even though it says "it desires discussion."

FACTS KNOWN

"We know its power and its determination," he said, "We also know the generosity of its sentiments and its faith in its ideals. I believe I need say no more."

Turning to the question of seating Red China in the United Nations, Couve de Murville expressed disappointment over the prospects that the United Nations will continue to reject the bid of the Peking government.

Peace Terms Softened by Cong Leader

(Continued From Page One) the sole genuine representative of the South Vietnamese people, must have its decisive place and voice in any political solution concerning South Vietnam.

The five conditions for peace outlined by the Viet Cong last year would have meant an outright surrender by the United States and the Saigon government before negotiations.

"The two most important of the five points were a demand for U.S. withdrawal before the start of negotiations and settlement of the Viet Nam problem "in accord with the program of the National Liberation Front."

Group of Latins Hijacks Plane

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — A group of Argentine extremists, reportedly to be led by a woman, hijacked a passenger plane with 44 persons aboard and forced it to land in the British-owned Falkland Islands in the south Atlantic today. The aim apparently was to reassert Argentina's claim over the islands.

A source close to the reported hijackers said 17 men and their woman leader "took the islands." But this was not immediately confirmed.

The hijacking was confirmed by government sources and officials of the state-owned Aerolineas Argentinas Airline. They said a communique would be issued later.

The source said the hijackers want to reassert Argentina's claims over the two disputed, barren little islands about 2,000 miles south of here.

City Commission Adopts Taubman Plan

He said the developer is flexible and "it would appear reasonable that the two (Taubman and the U. of D.) could work and cooperate together."

The university plan, presented two weeks ago, offered a design for remodeling and rebuilding the central business district as well as a major portion of the city.

The mayor said that as the Taubman project develops, the possibility of using a smaller amount of land (less than the proposed 63 acres) and making use of the university's architectural considerations would be explored in detail.

Taylor pointed out that the revised eighth draft of the agreement gave the city the right to back out if the city's total expenditures exceed $9.9 million by 30 percent or more. (The new ceiling for city costs is estimated at $11.5 million.)

WIDE AREA OF DEBATE

Debate last night ranged across a wide area of associated problems, including the center's size, design and location, traffic flow, finances and similarly related concerns.

While most U. of D. plan proponents conceded that Taubman, as a developer, was needed by the city, they felt that whatever was built should follow the "deck" approach advanced in the university study.

Ken Morris, UAW Region 1 director, offered a UAW policy statement on Pontiac redevelopment, urging the commission to create a program "to attack the ravages of festering slums."

Morris, who joined other speakers in citing housing as the city's top need, proposed the creation of a citizens development authority to formulate a program "to give rebirth on a massive scale to all areas of the city."

CRITICIZES COMMISSION

He criticized the commission for moving too quickly on the Taubman plan, which has been under study for eight months.

The labor leader promised the cooperation of the UAW. He said, "I am prepared to say for the UAW that we will make a substantial financial contribution to such a citizens development authority as we have... proposed."

Morris said every worker that lives or works in Pontiac had a stake in what happens to the downtown business district.

He added that the city's housing problems furnished evidence of the crisis which grips the city, "Pontiac is a stagnant city," charged Morris.

REPEATS COST ANALYSIS

Dr. John R. Yivisker, a U. of D. supporter, in a 40-minute presentation repeated his personal cost analysis of the two plans, and described Taubman as a capable and honest developer.

Dropping of Plan Delays Gemini

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex., (AP) — Ditching of a plan to let an astronaut jet around the world with a rocket-powered backpack outside Gemini 12 forced officials today to delay the four-day mission about two weeks, until possibly Nov. 11.

The major revision of Air Force Maj. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr.'s lengthy space stroll came as a result of the fatigue problem that plagued astronaut Richard F. Gordon Jr. outside Gemini 11. (See earlier story, page E-18.)

audience were echoed from the commission table only by Irwin, who was well-placed.

He criticized the commission several times.

One of the few Pontiac businessmen to talk, Donald Frayer, local furniture dealer, said his newly formed Citizens Committee for Positive Progress had 2,000 signatures on petitions urging the commission to investigate the U. of D. plan.

Frayer, who claimed the signatures of Gov. Romney and UAW President Walter Reuther on his petitions, said Pontiac must become great, not just as compared to other cities.

Pickets Ignore Phone Union Order to Work

DETROIT (UPI) — Wildcat strikers threw up picket lines at Bell Telephone Co. installations in 11 Michigan communities today, ignoring orders of their parent union to return to work.

The state's 36 Communications Workers of America locals involved in the bargaining dead-end lockout were told to vote during the next seven days of whether or not to call a statewide strike which could cripple telephone service.

Michigan Bell stood by its refusal to negotiate until the wildcat strikes ended.

A spokesman at CWA headquarters said the union had ordered its 16,900 members to return to work and cross the wildcat picket lines.

PICKETS REMAIN

But Michigan Bell reported its employees encountered picket lines today at Pontiac, Royal Oak, Troy, Southfield, Birmingham, Commerce, Waterford, Township, Oxford, Clawson, Eastland and Port Huron.

The Port Huron pickets walked for about an hour, then reported for work, leaving 10 communities affected by the wildcat strikes, all in the Pontiac and Royal Oak areas except Escanaba.

AMC Introduces Longer Marlin for 1967

"All new" and over 6 inches longer than last year's model, the 1967 Marlin was introduced today by American Motors Corp.

The Marlin goes on sale Oct. 6 at the following Pontiac area dealers:

Rose Rambler, 8145 Commerce, Commerce Township; Russ Johnson Motor Sales, 89 Park Lake, Orion; and Village Rambler, 666 S. Woodward, Birmingham.

Company officials cite the added length—now 118 inches—as permitting "smoother, more graceful" configuration and emphasizing the fastback styling theme.

The Marlin grille has a bright anodized finish on the horizontal center bar which contrasts with the black finish on the surrounding components.

RALLY TYPE LIGHTS

Rally type lights which house the parking and turn-signal lights are mounted at the outer edges of the grille, and are flanked by stacked headlights.

The new Marlin is wider, giving the appearance of roof-hugging stability from the rear. The rear window is larger for improved visibility.

The two-tone area, which sweeps from the windshield to the top edge of the rear bumper, is outlined in stainless steel. This panel can be vinyl covered as an option.

Horizontal taillights with a grille overlay add to the impression of width. Safety reflectors are mounted on the back edges of the rear fenders.

Sportiness and luxury keynote the Marlin interior. A wide range of seating options is available.

The Marlin's spirited appearance is matched by the performance of its new V8 power options for '67.

Transporting of Pupils in City to Be Studied

BIRMINGHAM — The board of education last night agreed to study the matter of transporting pupils who live within the city limits and to take action at the Oct. 18 board meeting.

About 20 parents appeared at the meeting last night to protest the board's policy of transporting only those pupils outside the incorporated limits who live the required distance from school.

The parents claimed that their children were entitled to the same transportation rights as those pupils who live outside the city.

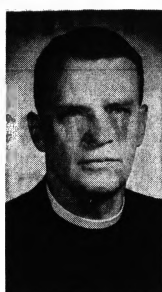

Under state law, school districts are not reimbursed for transporting children who live within the city limits.

Walter J. Piel, administrative assistant, said that to bus children within the city would cost the district $120,000 to purchase 20 new buses and about $60,000 a year to operate them.

Great Lakes Transit System presently runs buses for children within the city limits. They must pay for the service.

County OEO Post Vacated

The resignation today of a member of the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity removed the threat of employment loss to two of his relatives.

Charles M. Tucker Jr., president of the Oakland County chapter of the NAACP, submitted a letter of resignation to the antipoverty commission citing a disagreement with commission policies and procedures as reasons for his action.

The commission accepted it and three other resignations of commissioners submitted since its last meeting.

Tucker, in his letter, did not mention an August nepotism ruling issued nationwide by the Washington office of Economic Opportunity, which administrators the program.

Under this ruling, if Tucker remained a commissioner, his two brothers-in-law, Luther Flanagan, the $13,000 deputy director, and Alvin Davis, a $11,000 Pontiac Action Center director, would be out of jobs.

HIGHEST PAYING

These two jobs, except for that of the county antipoverty director, are the highest paying positions in the local war on poverty. The director receives $13,500 annually.

In his letter of resignation, Tucker expressed concern over the lack of effort in getting employment for persons of minority groups and a lack of employment security for persons employed in the poverty program.

Tucker's resignation letter was dated Aug. 25 but not made public until today. The memo on nepotism from Washington was dated Aug. 26.

Barbers OK Quarter Hike for Haircut

The price of a haircut in the Pontiac area will increase 25 cents beginning Saturday.

A regular haircut will cost $2.50 under the new rates, while $2.75 will be charged for a brush cut, according to Willard Head, president of Pontiac Local 50 of the State Barbers' Union.

Members of the local approved the price hike at a special meeting in Pontiac last night.

"This came to a head because of the increasing number of journeymen barbers who have left the business this year," said Al Blankenburg, secretary of the local.

He said they were dissatisfied over the income for their work compared to the industrial wages now being paid with fringe benefits.

REGISTRATION

The state registration of barbers in Michigan has been dropping steadily the last 30 years because of this condition, according to Blankenburg.

The new prices are now in line with those adopted more than a month ago by barbers in south Oakland County.

The last increase locally was in June 1965, when the price of a haircut was raised from $2 to $2.25.

San Francisco Negroes Riot

At least three automobiles were turned over and set fire.

At the height of the disturbance, 400 San Francisco police, 50 California highway patrolmen and 50 traffic policemen fought back rioters.

As the curfew took effect after midnight, the highway patrol was relieved when Police Chief Thomas Cahill decided the crisis was averted for the time being.

Guardsmen, some of whom had been called out for the Watts Negro rioting a year ago in Los Angeles, assembled in armories at Ft. Funston in San Francisco and at nearby San Jose, San Bruno and Richmond.

Cahill said the five battalions of guardsmen would stay in the armories until needed.

Gov. Romney, Ferency Debate 'State of the State'

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan, Gov. George Romney and his Democratic gubernatorial opponent have traded verbal blows over what four years of a Republican administration have done to the state of the state.

Romney and Democratic state chairman Zolton Ferency met in their first face-to-face debate of the campaign Tuesday night before a standing-room-only crowd of some 1,000 persons at an AFL-CIO convention in Detroit's Cobo Hall.

"The test of public policy under my administration has not been whether it's good for Michigan, but whether it's good for the Michigan Manufacturers' Association, or whether it's good for the AFL-CIO, or whether it's good for some other special interest group," Romney declared.

"The test has been whether it's good for Michigan and all the people."

RITS ROMNEYISM

Ferency said the people of Michigan are "the victims of Romneyism and Republicanism."

Citing 16 vetoes invoked by the governor, Ferency charged that Romney had invoked the veto against labor, schools, veterans, senior citizens, the underprivileged and the underprivileged.

The highly partisan audience booed and applauded Romney more than 30 times, while booing and catcalls greeted several of Romney's remarks. Union officials at the head table motioned several times for hecklers to quiet down.

Moderator for the debate was unemployment compensation by chief Justice Thomas Kavannah of the Michigan Supreme Court.

ANOTHER DEBATE

Romney and Ferency are scheduled to hold another debate next week before Detroit's Economic Club, a predominantly businessmen's organization.

During his four years as governor, Romney contended, Michigan has made unparalleled progress for workers and for all the people, "first with a Republican legislature and then with a Democratic legislature."

With a Republican legislature, he said, "we won Michigan's first minimum wage. We enacted Michigan's first construction safety program. We improved long on vetoes but short on performance, Ferency accused the governor of having approved changes in Michigan's tax structure that benefitted corporations by some $9 million.

HIT BY STORM—Hurricane Inez, one of the most powerful storms of the season with winds up to 120 m.p.h., crashed through Guadeloupe yesterday killing two and chasing residents to high ground. Inez lashed the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico today but its winds are expected to reduce to gale proportions when it blows into the open Caribbean.

Hurricane Turns Killer, Hits Resorts With Winds

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — Hurricane Inez, turning killer on its pass across Guadeloupe, skirted close to the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico today, lashing the popular resorts with fringe winds.

Inez' peak winds of 120 miles per hour were expected to pass in the open Caribbean to the south of the islands, but their two million residents were warned to take precautions against gale force winds.

The hurricane yesterday hit with all its fury the French run-and-perfume Isle of Guadeloupe, causing at least two deaths and sending residents to high ground with memories of killer storm Cleo's destruction two years ago.

According to reports reaching Martinique, dozens were injured as the storm virtually isolated Guadeloupe's capital city of Pointe à Pitre.

Many banana and sugar cane plantations were devastated by the winds of more than 100 m.p.h.

ADDITIONAL DAMAGE

Floods caused additional damage and parts of Pointe à Pitre were evacuated.

Boats moored in the harbor were swept out to sea, including one fishing vessel with two men aboard.

Two wings of the Pointe à Pitre Hospital were destroyed and hundreds of homes were damaged.

The compact but intense hurricane passed within 80 to 85 miles of St. Croix, largest of the Virgin Islands with 32,000 residents, last night, and the Weather Bureau said the eye should pass about the same distance away from Puerto Rico's southern coast around noon today.

Ohio Fireworks Blast Kills 3; Year's Toll 10

MARENGO, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's fourth fatal fireworks factory explosion of the year has taken three lives, increasing the year's toll to 10.

Two brothers and a fellow employee died in Tuesday's blast at the Columbus Fireworks Manufacturing Co. plant near this central Ohio hamlet.

The owner, Joseph Caccavello Jr., escaped because his brother-in-law called him away from the immediate area just before the blast.

Most of a complex of 20 tin and wood huts was destroyed.

Annual precipitation ranges between 160 and 220 inches on the southern Pacific slope of the Guatemalan, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

GM Extends Its Coverage on Warranties

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Monday announced extended warranty coverage on all 1967 GM passenger cars.

The GM warranty now equals that of Ford and Chrysler.

The additional coverage includes front and rear suspensions, steering mechanism and wheels in the five-year, 50,000-mile warranty previously announced for power train components.

Warranties on cars produced by the Big Three cover virtually all parts of the vehicle except tires, which are warranted by the tire manufacturer, for 24 months or 24,000 miles.

NOT INCLUDED

Not included in the warranties are normal maintenance replacement of spark plugs, condensers, ignition points, filters, brake and clutch lining and normal deterioration of hoses, belts, upholstery, soft trim and items added for appearance.

The warranties cover the original and subsequent owners during the warranty time and mileage specified against defects in material and workmanship. The warranties apply to cars produced and sold in the United States and Canada.

Experts Put Glass on Alcoholism

Consider the temptations to take a drink that face an American on every hand as he winds his way through an average business day. En route to the office he may ease his way into the rat race by stopping at the commuter bar where bloody marys and whisky sours are the morning favorites.

This might hold him until time for a bibulous luncheon. If he happens to be traveling, the airlines will serve him cocktails before dinner, wine with his meal, and a cordial afterwards. A constant after-work hazard is the ubiquitous cocktail party. One psychologist told the Wall Street Journal recently that this is the institution most likely to create an alcoholic.

Such social patterns make the United States a very wet place. Average per capita consumption of hard liquor here is about 2.43 gallons for every person over 21. Only Peruvians drink more.

The National Council on Alcoholism estimates that 6.5 million Americans have drinking problems. Business and industry lose $2 billion annually to the "drinking disease" in the form of absenteeism, accidents and inefficiency.

What to do about it will be the subject of a management symposium on the physical-chemical cause of excessive drinking and its control at Beverly Hills, Calif. Some ingenious treatments for extreme alcoholism (Pavlovian conditioning is much in vogue just now) doubtless will be discussed by the eminent physicians present.

But it can confidently be predicted that no one will suggest reducing the opportunities to drink now accepted as norms in our affluent, pressure-cooker society.

Are We Progressing Toward Cashless State?

One of the glaring deficiencies in the Great Society is that there are still a few things — not many of course, but a few — that you have to pay cash for.

It is a pleasure to report that this economic oversight is now being corrected.

In the near future it will be possible to walk up to your friendly vending machine and buy such necessities as candy, sandwiches, coffee, desserts and other delicacies without spending a cent of real money.

You will merely present a permanent credit card which the vending machine registers by means of an electronic device.

An elaborate electronic memory unit and computer will be needed to enable the vending machine to sell stuff on tick.

With this break-through in the currency curtain, it will undoubtedly be only a matter of time until such other irritating cash items as public phone calls, toll fares, parking meters and similar hangovers from medieval living will be eliminated and we can enjoy a glorious age in which we can charge everything and pay later.

The ultimate Utopia will come, of course, when some supergenius figures out a way to charge now and NEVER pay later.

Then society will really be great!

Pope Calls for Settlement of Viet War

Recently Pope PAUL VI called for peace in Viet Nam before it is too late. "Men," he said, "must come together and work out concrete plans and terms in all sincerity. A settlement should be reached now."

To this all Americans will say "amen." But it must be remembered that we have called again and again for peace talks with Red China and North Viet Nam. Until they are ready to sit down at the conference table we have no choice but to continue the war.

Swine and Wine Produce Human Behavior

Over in South Africa researchers have been feeding wine to pigs, with interesting results.

The pigs gained weight. They showed no ill effects except when they did not take enough food with their wine. (Drinking their lunch, the lushes.)

Pigs which took proportionate quantities of food and wine were more relaxed and went to sleep soon afterward.

Pigs which took too much wine became loud, unsteady and quarrelsome.

Reticent Rusk Not Talky Type

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Reticent Rusk, he could be called. Dean Rusk, secretary of state since 1961, has had a couple of good talks, including two talkative presidents, for not saying much, although this may be his natural condition.

Such talking as he does — speeches, testimony before Congress, news conferences occasionally — has the monodrama of an echo. He avoids revelations and simply repeats the already well-known policies of the administration.

He does the same thing, so-called as may be to believe, at those so-called deep-deep background luncheons and dinners with certain Washington newsmen where the ground rules could keep him completely anonymous.

Nothing he says can be attributed to him, directly or indirectly, or to any official of government, even though left unnamed. It might seem that there, although he is pretty hard, he could let his hair down. He doesn't.

It would be no wonder if Rusk made up his mind, when John F. Kennedy named him secretary of state, to be just the opposite of John Foster Dulles who was secretary of state of Dwight D. Eisenhower's presidency.

MARLOW

Dulles talked almost incessantly, was allowed by Eisenhower to make major foreign policy pronouncements, and had such a flamboyant streak that his statements sometimes caused more controversy than they settled.

DELIBERATE ACTION But what he did do deliberately: He used speech, testimony before Congress and news conferences to get out his views on American foreign policy.

He not only was the main spokesman for that policy in Eisenhower's day but much of the time seemed to be making it, with Eisenhower blessing him from the background.

The Eisenhower-Dulles relationship was a happy arrangement. As president, Eisenhower had to make himself heard from time to time but he never appeared to have a compulsion to be heard. Dulles did.

Rusk happened to be secretary under two presidents — Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson — who took over the major pronouncements themselves, foreign and domestic, and relied being seen and heard.

DIFFERENT MEN Almost certainly neither of these two men could or would have tolerated Dulles. By themselves, the example of Dulles and the talkative inclinations of Kennedy and Johnson could have been enough to induce Rusk to be satisfied with the quiet role of foreign policy's master technician, and not its hero.

The Meeting Will PLEASE Come To Order!

David Lawrence Says:

Manila Talks Aim at Asia Unity

WASHINGTON — America's latest move — formal announcement of its intention to participate at Manila in a "summit" meeting with six Asian nations to discuss the Viet Nam war — has to be put in perspective. It doesn't necessarily mean the start of an actual negotiation.

LAWRENCE

The purpose of the maneuver is to show the entire world that the United States has close friends in Asia and that each one of them has thought it worthwhile to send its forces or provide bases to help American troops fight in Viet Nam.

But even as plans for the Manila conference were making the headlines, Chairman Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was urging that the United States stop bombing for a while and see whether it would have any effect.

He seems to think it would make little difference militarily if air strikes were omitted for a few days in order to determine whether the North Vietnamese would reciprocate with some gesture to hasten peace.

Unfortunately, however, the North Vietnamese are not masters of their own destiny, and the only places where any progress can be made toward a Viet Nam peace are Peking or Moscow or both.

SOMETHING MORE

On the surface, the meeting to be held in Manila is just an effort to help bring about peace in Viet Nam, but actually it may be the beginning of something more substantial.

It will be recalled that President Johnson has laid the foundations for a far-reaching program of economic aid to Asia in speeches delivered in April 1965 and July 1966.

The Manila conference will get worldwide attention, not only because of the presence of Mr. Johnson, but because Australian Prime Minister Harold Holt, Premier Ky of South Viet Nam and President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines will be there, too.

While it is expected that the meeting will discuss possible peace terms for Viet Nam, it would not be surprising to find even more attention given to the way by which the whole economy of Asia can be rebuilt.

It is hardly likely that spectacular moves, such as the suspension of bombing while waiting for the enemy to take reciprocal steps, will develop.

Rather the emphasis is expected to be on economic improvement for Asia, and the appeal will be made over the heads of the Communist leaders to the people in the hope that they will recognize that their own governments are misguided by prolonging the war and are not accomplishing anything for the good of Southeast Asia or the rest of the world.

Bob Considine Says:

USO Is Good Indicator of Military Escalation

TOKYO — The surest barometer of any military escalation by the U.S. is a head count around USO.

CONSIDINE

Ten thousand servicemen a month were being looked out for by this great organization's Tokyo headquarters. Now the figure is up to 20,000 a month and the end is not in sight.

Tokyo-USO, located smack dab in the middle of the Ginza, is a servicemen's home away from home, pal away from pals.

He can arrange to go to a show, go out on the town, bring his girl back to the snack bar, buy his state-side girl a pearl, get himself a bargain in tailored suits, send home a message on tape (a gift of the Sony people) and talk to somebody who speaks his language.

Hamburger equipment is on the way, like the cavalry in a John Wayne spectacular.

It doesn't look very much like the public concept of a USO center, this one in Tokyo, and for an interesting reason. The thousands of Viet Nam-based men flown here on Pan Am charters for five days of rest and recreation must appear in civilian clothes, not uniform.

Mustn't offend the Socialists and Communists in the Diet. Mustn't embarrass our friends in the Japanese government.

The men deplane in uniforms ranging from those torn in conflict to those whose trouser seats are shiny from Saigon desk service. Their touchdown point in Japan is Yokota Air Force Base, below Tokyo.

They file into buses which take them to Camp Zama, an hour and a half away, where they are briefed on how they'd better display themselves while in Japan. Or else.

Then USA-Zama opens its arms with food, beverage and helping hand. Its Chase-Manhattan branch changes dollars into yen.

Its people behind the counter arrange for hotel rooms in Tokyo, and now the recipient of a rest and recreation pass is directed to the clothing department. That's a must.

There he must rent or buy a civilian suit. If he rents, he puts a down payment of $10 on the line and is charged a buck a day for its use.

If he buys, well, he never bought a less expensive suit, and he can ship it home when he's finished with it. And hope to wear it someday.

Obscurity!

Washington Star

Hospital administrators recently were told something that most of us have known for years.

Doctors have terrible handwriting. In fact, the "medication error" by pharmacists trying to read prescriptions now is a leading cause of hospital accidents. It's even ahead of "sponges left in patients during surgery."

No doubt some of the scribbling is deliberate. Doctors traditionally cloak their art in arcane terms and Latin polysyllables to keep patients from figuring out what's on that slip of paper.

The trouble is that pharmacists are people, too. And the crabbed, spidery penmanship is giving them fits. Dr. Herman Weidman, research director of a hospital in Gary, Ind., is urging that hospitals launch campaigns to make doctors more legibility-conscious.

One story notes that a doctor's scribble led to a panic in his own home. He left a note to the maid, "Please pick the potatoes and turn them off." She polished the pots and put them back upside down. One shudder to think what he's really saying. It's his writing, not his nerve, telling them. "Please pick

Littering and Disrespect Seem to Grow Together

We must wake up and look around us before we can see one another for litter. Our streets and byways are becoming covered with trash of every nature. Our business places provide receptacles for trash outside their doors yet children and adults drop wrappers and bags carelessly on the sidewalk rather than make the small effort that would be involved in stepping a foot or so this way or that to put this trash in the container.

I have spoken to children about this bad habit and have been answered rudely.

Parents, please teach your children to respect older persons and other people's property so that we may all live in a community free from litter and disrespect. A good example will be the best teacher.

'Fighting Cong Will Not Cure Country's Ills'

I believe the majority of civil strife in this country is caused by ignorance and bigotry. I would be glad to change my opinion, if opposing contentions could be backed by absolute knowledge. The predictions of catastrophe to befall if we end the war are suppositions, the same as the suppositions I have of what will happen if we don't reach a settlement. I believe Viet Nam is a stepping stone to World War III.

One of our biggest contributions to fostering communism in this country is our forcing the working class to support the non-working class, while the latter produces more to add to their number.

Our country has many ills and fighting the Viet Cong will not cure them.

HOSPITAL VOLUNTEER

Question and Answer

A recent news item said 22 of the 35 city schools have white and Negro pupils, so I assume pupils are assigned to schools by color rather than proximity of school to home. Isn't this in conflict with the 1964 Civil Rights law requiring assignment "without regard to race, color, religion or national origin" and that "desegregation shall not mean assignment of students to public schools to overcome racial imbalance?"

E. RETTIG

REPLY

Mr. Lacey of Pontiac Board of Education tells us the only students assigned outside their district are from McConnell to Forest reserves overcrowding. Both schools were integrated before reassignment. Board policy has been to assign students on the basis of (1) nearness to school, (2) safety of pupil access routes, and (3) reasonable capacity of the school. Added to that by a policy adopted Dec. 9, 1964, is specification that integration will be taken into consideration, whenever possible, when new boundary lines are drawn and new school locations are determined. Mr. Lacey says a court would have to decide if this is in violation of the Civil Rights Act.

Exhibitionists

Bloomington Post-Examiner

The demonstration business is getting out of hand. It is dividing the American Negro race and it is dividing America. Any further "good" that might come from demonstrations will be at a high price in peace and order. More could and should be done around the conference table.

We suspect that the demonstrations would vanish rather quickly if the television cameras were shut off for the duration and if the headlines became brief back page notices. Those who participate are, above all, exhibitionists who thrive on the publicity they get, good or bad.

The vast majority of American people are fed up with these goings on. They are sad at the contradictory currents among Negroes who, on the one hand demand integrated housing and schooling and on the other seek to hide from the public into granting their will thru "black power."

The net result of the trend in northern cities is a growing question as to whether the Negroes are indeed ready for equality. We believe most of them are, or are willing to put forth effort to quality. We believe their cause has been taken over by an inexperienced and irresponsible minority.

All Americans suffer as a result. This internal disregard for law and order, this demand for equality rather than the right to earn equality, this resorting to violence in the name of good will is a travesty.

Ride the Wide-Track winning streak!

From the same drawing board that gave you Grand Prix, GTO and Overhead Cam Six now come the newest Pontiacs since the invention of Wide-Track!

You're looking at the most beautiful Pontiacs ever to ride on Wide-Track. (And we've had nothing but winners.) The incomparable GTO returns in 1967 with a 335-hp 400 cubic inch engine under a magnificently refined new skin. Or you can order the 255-hp version or the fabulous new 360-hp Quadra-Power Four Hundred. And for the first time, you can order your GTO with our famous three-speed Turbo Hydra-Matic.

The Le Mans comes back bigger and bolder than ever. Bright new interiors. Bold new colors. And, like all Pontiacs, with a host of standard safety features. Naturally the superb 165-hp Overhead Cam Six is standard. Or you can specify the 215-hp version.

You can order the lively 250-hp regular gas V-8 (or its 285-hp premium gas cousin) on all Le Mans and Tempests. Or step into the neatest grand touring car this side of the Atlantic with our OHC 6 Sprint package. Also new for this year is what Wide-Track Wagon lovers have been waiting for—Executive and Tempest Safaris with walnut wood grain styled sides.

Our big Pontiacs are new from the distinctive sculpturing of the famous split grille to the slickest engineering innovation of the year—disappearing windshield wipers! They're less subject to icing and freezing. And only Pontiac has them. Also new: a Grand Prix convertible!

Our '67 Pontiacs are the most expertly engineered automobiles we've ever designed.

There are new 400 and 428 cubic inch V-8s. New safety features such as the energy absorbing steering column developed by General Motors. New options such as front-wheel disc brakes and a bi-level air conditioner for split-level heating and cooling at the same time.

And, like all Pontiacs, every Grand Prix, Brougham, Bonneville, Executive, Ventura, 2+2 and Catalina comes with the road-hugging security of Wide-Track.

So why wait? Your Pontiac dealer is anxiously waiting to give you a test drive in a new Wide-Track. See him now for the ride of your life.

Ride the Wide-Track winning streak!

Wide-Track Pontiac/67

Leave It to Pontiac to do it right:

A hood-mounted tachometer can be ordered on all Pontiacs. It's just a sample of the kind of performance options we make. See our special GTO/2+2/Sprint catalog.

Front seat back latches are standard on two-doors. So are front seat belt retractors and seat belts, front and rear. All this and beautiful interiors, too.

Energy absorbing instrument panel with smooth contoured knobs and levers is standard. You're looking at the one in a GTO with walnut styled trim.

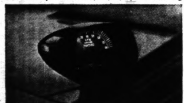

Standard this year on all 2-bbl V-8s with automatic transmissions is a carburetor air preheater. It minimizes icing and improves cold-weather response.

Grand Prix's hideaway headlights slip behind the integral bumper grille when not in use. Parking lights are behind those three whiskery-looking slots.

With Grand Prix's new flow-through ventilation system, you can leave the windows up and still stay cool. Which lets us remove the vent windows, too.

And you can order your full fidelity stereo tape system and flood the already beautiful interior of your Pontiac with music to make it even more enjoyable.

The most talked about feature this year will be disappearing windshield wipers. They're exclusive to big Pontiacs and are less subject to abuse from weather.

Doctors' Assistants Eyed as M.D. Shortage Answer

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — A surgical procedures and confer-unique approach to meeting the problem of the shortage of physicians is under study by the Michigan State Medical Society. The House of Delegates to the society, convening here this week, has approved a proposal calling for a study of training of paramedical technologists. The House-approved resolution calls for a survey of Michigan physicians to see if they would employ such a "physician's assistant" and a survey of possible public reception of such personnel would assist physicians in tasks such as writing diagnostic reports, assisting in simple surgical procedures and confer- ring with patients.

Many of the questions which would arise should such training be offered have been discussed by the educational liaison com- mittee of the MSMS.

Questions such as defining the limits of work of such personnel, the possibility that a nurse with extra training could meet the needs, the compensation for such assistance and how to in- terest school officials in such curricula are under study.

The delegates also approved a study to seek funds to aid re- search into the problem.

A special subcommittee is con- sidering other potential prob- lems, among them: How should such paramedical personnel be licensed by the state? How much training should be re- quired? And what exactly should be the role of a phy- sician's assistant?

Several members of the edu- cation committee favor es- tablishment of a four-year college program leading to a degree of bachelor of medicine. The com- mittee said such training would be broader than that required for present medical technol- ogists.

The possibility that the de- gree of bachelor of medicine could lead to the degree of doc- tor of medicine with additional study also is being considered.

Last June in Chicago, the problem was posed to the House of Delegates of the American Medical Association.

The report to the delegates acknowledged the present short- ages of physicians and discussed the feasibility of such para- medical training programs.

Son of Owner of Dynamited Eatery Charged

DETROIT (UPI) — The son of a suburban Detroit Restau- rant owner was arrested yester- day and charged with dynamit- ing his father's establishment Sept. 14.

Anthony Ingrao, 23, was taken into custody by FBI agents. He was charged with placing an explosive charge with resulting damage which carries up to a 25-year penalty.

The bombing occurred at the Tiffany's Fine Food Restaurant in a suburban Harper Woods, owned by Carl Ingrao. There were no injuries.

The elder Ingrao told investi- gators at the time of the explo- sion that he knew of no reason why anyone would want to dam- age his business.

Yanks Miss Target, Bomb Friendly Village

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Marine bomb- ers missed their target and dropped 500-pound bombs by error Tuesday on a friendly vil- lage occupied by Vietnamese forces and their families.

A U.S. military spokesman said the mistake bombing killed 28 soldiers and civilians and wounded 17. The bombs also wrecked about 100 huts in the village in the northern province of Quang Ngai, 350 miles north of Saigon.

The U.S. command also disclosed that American troops have launched four new search- and-destroy operations and are operating in the Mekong Delta for the first time in the Viet Nam war. Until now the huge delta rice bowl — much of it now under deep flood waters — has been an area of operations solely for South Vietnamese troops.

LIGHT CONTACT

Only light contact with the enemy was reported in the four new operations, which were launched earlier this month but were not announced until today.

In other war developments, a reconnaissance company of South Vietnamese troops un- covered a huge cache of Viet Cong ammunition and explosives 38 miles south of Saigon in the Mekong Delta.

It was one of the largest such finds of the war, and Gen. Wil- liam C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Viet Nam, sent congratulations to the forces which found it.

The cache included 70,000 rounds of small-arms ammu- nition, 800 mortar rounds, 7,000 grenades, 180 rockets, 4,000 antitank mines, 20,000 detonators and large quantities of TNT and other explosives.

A South Vietnamese spokes- man said the same reconnais- sance company located a second cache in the same area today which included more ammu- nition and large amounts of rice, uniforms and clothing.

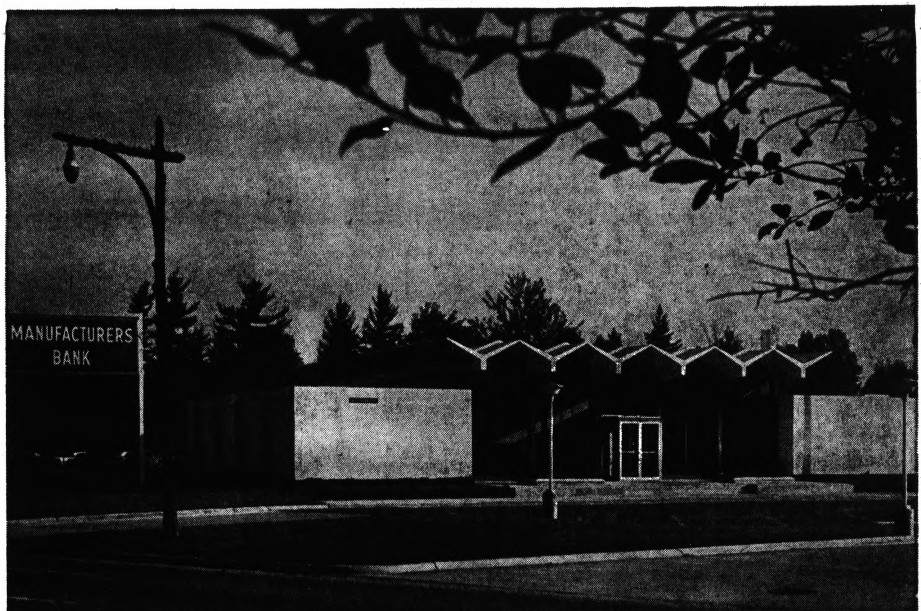

U.S. authorities began an im- mediate investigation of the Marine bombing of the friendly village, and Marine helicopters flew the wounded to a govern- ment hospital in nearby Quang Ngai City.

Many of the casualties were Montagnards, mountain tribes- men from whose ranks U.S. spe- cial forces teams have drawn guerrillas to fight the Commu- nists.

Develop Talent Early

Tomorrow's Auto Seen as Reflection of Today

LANSING (AP) — The automobile of tomorrow will be much like the auto of today, predicts the State Highway Department.

It won't be nuclear powered. It won't hover above the road on a cushion of air. And it probably won't be much larger or smaller than the current size limits.

The department prepared a report on the car of the future for the Michigan State Resource Planning Program. The report concludes:

—Rubber tires help guide a vehicle on its course; an air car hovering above the ground would swerve in wide arcs when turning.

—The lead shield a nuclear-driven car would require would be too heavy; besides, the fear of escaping radia- tion would scare customers away.

SHORTER CAR

—A car shorter than 12 feet would be too small; one longer than 18 feet would be unmanageable.

But tires of the future will "be greatly improved as to strength and tread," and electric cars are a possibility.

L. R. Hafstad of General Motors research told the department current electric fuel cells are too bulky for highway use. But, he said, if a small unit is developed, it might become popular because it wouldn't pollute the air.

Improvements are expected, the report says, in safety devices. Now in the experimental stage are such things as alarms to wake dozing drivers and radio systems to warn motorists of road hazards ahead.

Opposition Plots to Bring Dominican Unrest

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Reports here and abroad of an imminent coup look like part of an opposition plan to create an air of mutual distrust between President Joaquin Balaguer's government and military leaders.

By disrupting relations between the Dominican government and armed forces, the opposition hopes to promote a climate of political unrest such as led to the overthrow of ex-President Juan Bosch three years ago. Another objective is to frighten away foreign and local investment.

Responsible national figures and U.S. and other foreign diplomats give the scheme little chance of success, primarily because of the armed forces support of the government.

The more radical wing of Bosch's Dominican Revolutionary party and extreme leftists are apparently behind the coup propaganda. The central theme is that right-wing extremists, some in the army, are plotting to overthrow Balaguer.

Havana radio recently broadcast these reports.

CAMPAIGN GOAL

The campaign was believed originally aimed at forcing the Balaguer government to request the inter-American peace force to remain in this country. This would have discredited Balaguer in some quarters and fueled anti-U.S. propaganda.

Paradoxically it would have given the far left protection from right-wing extremists. The inter-American force provided the buffer between the leftist and rightist factions after the April, 1965, revolt. The force ended its 17-month occupation last week.

While discounting the possibility of an imminent coup, observers here see some justification in fears of right-wing terrorism. But they point out that most of the terrorism and violence in Santo Domingo so far has occurred in that central part of the city once controlled by rebel and leftist forces. And most if not all of the clandestine weapons so far recovered by national police have been in the homes of former rebels or leftists.

The armed forces minister, Maj. Gen. Enrique Perez y Perez, 42, told foreign newsmen recently: "Nobody in the armed forces can even think of overthrowing this government. We are no longer going to be a political football in this country."

Balaguer, expressing confidence in the armed forces, has mentioned to confidantes his preoccupation with "leftist sabotage" in his government

While discounting an army coup, he did not rule out an attempt on his life.

Resigns Post

LANSING (AP) — Max W. Cochran, law school consultant and hearing officer for the State Board of Education, has resigned to join the central administration office of the Flint public school system as a consultant on federal-state relations.

Benny Goodman Still Around Playing That Good Old Swing

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Benny Goodman likes a good joke on himself.

Recently as he stood in the plush Rainbow Grill pouring out the eloquent clarinet notes that won him fame as "The King of Swing," a customer danced up and said:

"Another comeback? Boy, you must be tired."

Recounting the incident, the 57-year-old musician gave a wry chuckle.

"When do you have it made?" he said. "The answer is — never."

The fact remains, however, that among real aficionados of jazz Benny Goodman has had it made for nearly four decades.

Time has dethroned many music monarchs of the 1920s and 1930s, including even Paul Whiteman, the fat mahatma of jazz.

But Goodman remains the unchallenged master of the clarinet.

Benny, son of an immigrant tailor, borrowed his first clarinet from a Chicago synagogue at age 9. He gave a solo in short pants at the age of 10.

Since then he and his "floorstick" — a slang term he rarely uses himself — have starred on stage and symphony concert halls, in films and night clubs, over radio and television networks, on numerous European and Far East tours.

EARLY RISER

But just as he did as a boy, Benny still rises early each morning for a rigorous, solitary session with his clarinet.

"It isn't like the piano or the violin — you use your wind — so about two hours are enough," he remarked half-defensively. "But I suppose my wife would say that I practice six or seven hours."

The years have mellowed Benny, who will bring a seven-man combo to the Waldorf-Astoria's newly reopened Empire Room on Oct. 31.

His passion for perfection once led him to be known as "the eye" among fellow musicians, who regard his artistry with awe.

TURNING LIGHT ON

"He never bawled you out during rehearsals," recalled one. "But if you played a sour note, he just looked at you — and you felt as if you were nailed and alone under a million-watt floodlight."

Benny is more tolerant now, although relaxing not a whit in his own demands on himself.

"Artists fret too much in advance," he remarked. "Once I was worrying about a classical cadenza, and I asked the symphony conductor, who was very famous, 'Shall I play it this way, or this way?'"

"He simply shrugged and said, 'What's the difference? Nobody but us knows the difference.'"

SAME BUSINESS

"My philosophy today is to stay sane. In the music business that's more of a prayer than a philosophy. But I suppose our business isn't much different than others."

Never a party man, Goodman lives quietly with his family in a Manhattan apartment and a home in Connecticut. He also recently bought an island retreat in the Caribbean. His hobbies are salmon fishing and golf.

Asked if there were any kind of modern music he disliked intensely, Goodman said emphatically: "An end must be brought early to this most unfortunate of conflicts," he said.

PEACE SEEKER — The deputy prime minister of Malaysia, Tun Abdul Razak, has appealed to members of the United Nations General Assembly to assist Asian countries to arrange a Viet Nam peace conference. "An end must be brought early to this most unfortunate of conflicts," he said.

The alumnae and Janet Stuart Association of the convent are sponsoring the event where the horsepower will be supplied by General Motors Corporation, Ford Motor Company, Chrysler Corporation and American Motors Corporation.

Saks Fifth Avenue, Detroit will dress the models who include Mesdames Phillip E. Bisallion, James J. Byrne, Basil M. Briggs, Paul J. Carron, Lucius B. Calloway, Frank V. Cliff Jr., William A. Falls, Henry R. Healey and William M. Heisel.

More are Mesdames: William J. Johnson, Charles W. Jones, Walter F. Kuckelman, C. Robert Leadbetter, Francis G. LeVeque, Richard J. Meuer, Frank J. Perron, Marcellus J. Sweeney and John L. Ward, Jr.

General chairman, Mrs. Ray A. Altalo and her cochairmen, Mrs. John B. Abbink and Mrs. Robert G. Fisher, have announced that preceding the evening performance, dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. in the Open Hunt only. Refreshments will be served after the 8:30 p.m. show.

The two luncheons will begin at noon with the show following at 2 p.m.

Ticket information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Don E. Ahrens of Bloomfield Hills. Because of limited dining facilities, requests for luncheon and dinner reservations will be honored in the order received.

In the winner's circle are these two smart fall afternoon wools. At left, Mrs. Marcellus J. Sweeney of Ironstone Drive, Avon Township, wears a marvelous light grey two-piece. The elongated tunic top reaches over the hips to complete the smooth lines of a modified A-line skirt. Black leather accessories boost the good looks of this ensemble. Mary Grace Altalo, 16, daughter of the Ray A. Altalos of Birmingham is sitting pretty in her straight skimmer double-knit dress in navy. Saddle stitching down the side seams and around the cuffs of the new belted out sleeves makes this a "go to town or stay in the country" outfit. Her perky jockey cap is leopard-trimmed in black leather.

Polish This Jewel Off

By ARIGAH VAN BUREN
Everyone tells me how lucky I am to have this jewel.

Now, here's the rub: Bruce (I'll call him) was a bachelor, living with his mother, when I married him.

I agreed to keep my job until we could afford a nice home. Now, a year later, I ABBY have bought all the groceries and paid the rent. Bruce doesn't have one suit of clothes at our apartment. He shaves and showers at his mother's, keeps everything there except his socks and underwear. He even gets his mail there.

I have never seen a bank statement, a paycheck, or a canceled check. All his personal papers and records are locked up in a strong box at his mother's. When I mention these things to him he just smiles.

If I pursue it further he walks away and ignores me. The newspaper is the one thing he buys, and he reads your column, so please print this, and tell me what to do.

BEWILDERED
DEAR BEWILDERED: Did you MARRY this little boy, or adopt him? Tell your good-natured "jewel" that he is about to be polished off unless he faces the responsibilities of marriage like a man.

And if he doesn't, send his socks and underwear over to his mother's, and add his walking papers to the rest of his "records."

DEAR ABBY: I know a girl who is very nice, but she sure could use some tips concerning the betterment of her looks. She wears no make-up of any kind and she doesn't do a thing with her hair. It is an absolute mess. She probably wonders why she doesn't appeal to any of the guys.

My problem is how to become friendlier with her so I can help her improve her looks without her thinking I want to get closer to her because of her money and new car. I just can't sit by and watch her miss out on all the fun.

WANTS TO HELP
DEAR WANTS: Tell her, in a nice way. If she resents it, your friendship is over. If not, you're in business.

DEAR ABBY: I admire parents who take an interest in their children's school work, but we have a situation in our school which I think needs looking into.

There is a family of children whose parents are well-educated and very smart, so if one of their children has to write a theme or give a speech he was told to write himself, his parents help him with it to the extent of doing the whole thing.

Now I happen to know this is so because my son pals with their son, who won a speech contest by giving an "original" speech which his father wrote for him. I think this is unfair to the other children who go by the rules.

I wish you would mention this in your column. Maybe the gul-ty parents will see it and take the hint.

BURNED UP:
DEAR BURNED UP: Not only is it unfair to the other children, it is unfair to their own child. The real "prize" is in learning — not in winning.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO NAMES, PLEASE" IN PAST: A blood test will tell you who the baby's father ISN'T — not necessarily who the baby's father IS.

Women's Section

Whipping up a lot of fashion in the tack room is accomplished here by Mrs. John L. Ward of Birmingham. Layers of soft tan, deep caramel and rich brown pelts of Bassorisk are sewn together horizontally creating this sporty looking coat. Her accessories of caramel leather carry out a theme of elegant casualness.

Pontiac Press Photos by Edward Heise

German import, Mrs. William A. Falls of Birmingham wears American fashions with the flair of a Paris model. Her daughter, Angela, is a first-grader at the convent. Great brass buttons with designer Adele Simpson's initials on them sets a mustard-hued lightweight wool coat atop the fashion ladder. Its underlining of navy sheer wool is a perfect match for the slim sheath beneath it. The frock's mock turtleneck peeks over the rounded coat collar. Navy accessories complete the look.

Definitely racy is the look of this thoroughbred black and white check ensemble. Shiny black buttons march two by two down the front of the jacket while a slim skirt barely covers the knee top. Joanne Lorenz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Lorenz of Birmingham is a junior at Sacred Heart Convent. Who but a 15-year-old could look so rakish in a bright orange velvet cap covering a shock of glorious red hair?

New Ideas From Ketchup Bottles to Soup

By JANET ODELL
The Pontiac Press
Women's Editor

BOSTON—Good news for ketchup users. They've finally done something about the ketchup bottle. Heinz has a new squat jar with the opening large enough for a spoon.

This was just one of the new products introduced at a luncheon on Tuesday. Another one we food editors tried was the new line of "Happy Soups" for children. There are eight varieties, all of which are less spicy than ordinary soups. Famous Walt Disney characters appear on the labels and as noodle additions in the soups.

Ketchup in individual packets and garlic vinegar were also on the tables.

Aunt Jemima now offers syrup to top off her famous line of pancake mixes. The no-drip bottle has a handle large enough for even football players to get a good grip on it.

This new Quaker Oats product was introduced by means of a "happening" which included a high school band, group of Brownie Girl Scouts having breakfast on stage, A hairdresser combing up a pop-over hairdo and the M. C. pouring syrup into the hand of an unsuspecting participant.

But it was all in fun. After breakfast I saw two of the boy band members wrestling in the corridor, what that did to their purple and white satin uniforms, I hate to think.

The rest of the morning was spent in going from demonstration to demonstration, looking at more food, but refusing most of it.

SOUP AND RUM?

There was a hot broth with a soupcon of rum in it—Some new cocktail mixes—Candied popcorn—Little pizzas—Warm Danish pastries from Sara Lee—Elegant gelatin salads and desserts made in a blender—And a new low calorie cole slaw dressing made by Marzetti.

Normally I am not a fish eater. But one does not stay long in Boston without eating fish and seafood.

Tuesday night's dinner was given by the New England Fishing Industry at Anthony's Pier 4 Restaurant. We had fish for the appetizer course,

The closing luncheon of the Nine Holers of Pine Lake Country Club saw Mrs. Ernest Hewitt of Ranch Lane (left) walk away with the Nine Holers' and also the Elmer Prieskorn trophies. Mrs. Len Thul of Birmingham (center) made the awards with the assistance of Mrs. Harry S. Pearce of Sylvan Lake.

I can only touch briefly on the two talks we heard at the dinner. Both Dr. Frederick Stare of Harvard University and Dr. Paul Dudley White spoke on the role of diet in prevention of heart disease. But they also stressed the importance of regular and continued exercise. It is absolutely essential, they both said, to keep in good physical condition.

Next week I'll give you a more detailed report on their talks, their findings are much too important to be summed up in just a few sentences. But it looks as if we'll have to keep after our husbands if we don't want to be young or middle-aged widows.

The blazer set off a whole splash of color in men's wear. If a man wears a solid color sports jacket, why shouldn't he bring pattern to the other half of his outfit, his slacks? Red China Turmoil: Does It Mean War?

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Is Red China, increasingly isolated from the rest of the world, preparing for a major war?

The turmoil in that vast country and what it might mean to world peace are arousing concern around the world.

The worry is not confined to non-Communist nations. A longer visit by Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev to Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Hungary is widely viewed as indicating anxiety about China's intentions.

The official Yugoslav radio pointed out that Peking no longer recognizes the Geneva agreements of 1954 on Viet Nam, on which it had previously insisted dogmatically. This, it said, added to a "mistrust of Peking (which) is growing at a time when essential world problems are at stake. How this increases the distrust is obvious."

WORRIED

Worry is expressed in some quarters that progressive escalation of the Viet Nam war will reach a point where Red China will intervene directly, perhaps out of desperation to prevent negotiations.

What are the chances of Red China risking a big war?

The current uproar in China, the widespread purge, the struggle for power, the wild rampages of the officially inspired Red Guards and the pre-eminence of a military clique provide plenty of cause for anxiety. Domestic Peking broadcasts add to this concern.

Old Assyrian Temple Found

By Science Service

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — An ancient Assyrian temple in northern Iraq, dating from 1800 B.C., has been uncovered to reveal columns decorated like palm trees, some 40 texts containing commercial transactions of the time, and a cache of wild animal bones hidden away in a pyramid.

Details of the temple help to confirm the theory that the site of Tell al-Rimah was a religious center in the second millennium B.C.

It also indicates that the Assyrians were considerably more sophisticated than historians have believed, said Dr. David Crowder, a member of the excavation team from the University of Pennsylvania's Museum.

Assyrians have been viewed more or less as "country cousins" of the Babylonians, 800 miles to the south, remarked Dr. Crowder. But now with the evidence of rich detail on the escalation of the Vietnamese columns at Tell al-Rimah, it is clear that this conception did seem to fear war, but not yet do justice to the Assyrians.

Dr. Crowder noted that the molded, painted columns are the earliest instance of baroque detail found in the Middle East.

Red Guards are told they must turn their organization into "a stalwart and reliable reserve force of the PLA (People's Liberation Army)". Hundreds of thousands of teenagers go through daily military drills singing warlike revolutionary songs. They "drill in formation and practice bayoneting and grenade throwing."

They are organized into squads and platoons, army style. They take part in army activities. They are subjected to daily lectures on the PLA and its role.

ARTICLES ON PLA

The press carries long articles on the PLA's part in the "great proletarian cultural revolution," taking into account "changes in the domestic and external situations." Attention is called to rising needs of compulsory military service because "a new situation has appeared imposing greater demands."

The party's Military Affairs Commission, for 30 years headed by Mao Tse-tung, now apparently is under the command of his No. 2 man, Lin Biao. It emphasizes demands on the PLA for discipline, combat capability and "safeguarding the motherland."

Mao's writings on strategy and tactics, 20 years old, are resurrected and made compulsory army reading. These support the thesis of Lin Biao, architect of the "human wave" tactics of the Korean War, that vastly superior manpower means victory. The articles stress "strategy and tactics of protracted war," destruction of the foe "piece by piece" by concentration of superior forces at his weakest points.

Despite all the portents, a note of caution remains. Peking propaganda also underscores Mao's injunction that "the Red army is not only for purposes of fighting a war." It is needed on the home front, notably in production.

There has been a spate of Red Guard attacks on party committees and functionaries. In 20 of China's 27 provinces and in many cities party headquarters have been attacked, leaders humiliated. All this signifies widespread disarray amid a struggle for power. There are reports from many areas of resistance to the cultural revolution, even of fighting.

GRIPPED BY NATIONALISM

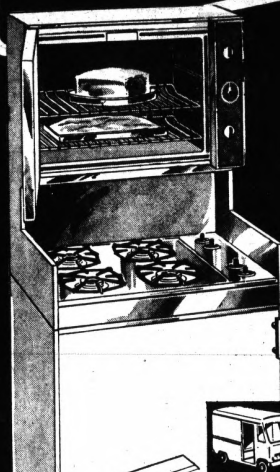

Would Peking's leaders in such circumstances invite major war? It is always possible desperation could impel a shaky leadership to take enormous risks. On the whole, however, China presents a picture of a nation gripped by violent, foreign-hating nationalism but unprepared to face awesome U.S. power.

Peking's warlike noises seem to stem from official conviction that the United States plans war against China. Evidently it sees the escalation of the Vietnamese situation as evidence of this. Peking clear that this conception did seem to fear war, but not yet do justice to the Assyrians.

But from all appearances, it will be a long time before the current upheaval has run its course and China's internal situation simmers down.

ODDS AGAINST HIM—This Dallas businessman went like a very wet gazelle in an effort to miss a huge puddle during a recent thundershower. For the record, he didn't make it. There was an extremely unsightly splash and all that. Give him an "A" for effort and an "A-plus" for his form.

Rusty Knife Is Found Close to Percy Home

KENILWORTH, Ill. (AP)—A rusty knife found near the beach where Valerie Percy, 21, a longer blade, was beaten and knifed to death is being studied by the Chicago police crime laboratory.

The knife, with a three-to-four-inch blade, was found Tuesday on a bluff overlooking a public beach next to Charles H. Percy's private beach.

Valerie was fatally beaten and stabbed to death Sept. 18 in the family's lakefront home. Percy is the Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Police Chief Robert M. Daley expressed doubt, however, that the knife was used by the slayer.

ON CAMPAIGN

Percy's public relations aide, Scott Cohen, said Percy probably would resume his campaign sometime in October. Cohen said, "There is no question but that he will resume his campaign."

Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., who is seeking his fourth term in the November election, plans to resume his campaign tour early in October, an aide said. Douglas, after the slaying of Percy's daughter, said he had called off all of his speaking engagements.

Percy and his family have been in seclusion at an undisclosed site since last Wednesday, the day after Valerie's funeral.

Daley said lie detector tests taken by two young men, campaign aides of Percy, showed that neither had any undisclosed knowledge about the slaying.

REQUESTED TESTS

The young men, one of whom had dined in the Percy home the night before the slaying, asked to take the tests.

Daley said, in response to a question at a news conference, that he has no plans to ask any of the Percy family to take a lie detector test.

Daley also said detectives are seeking a woman who is believed to have seen Valerie and her twin sister, Sharon, talk with a man on a train during Valerie's last trip home from downtown Chicago.

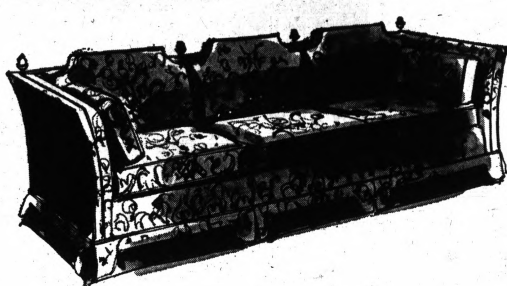

The man, whom Valerie introduced to Sharon only by his first name, left the train at the same station as the twins. He is being sought for questioning.

Pope's Envoy Flies to Viet on Peace Mission

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A wartime Italian submarine chaplain who became Pope Paul's right-hand man in Milan was flying to Viet Nam today on a fact-finding mission to help the Pope's quest for peace.

The papal representative, Archbishop Sergio Pignedoli, 56, is a veteran church diplomat pulled temporarily from his post as apostolic delegate to Canada to handle the sensitive mission.

The Pope could have sent any of several experts on Southeast Asia in the Vatican Secretariat of State. But Canada is a member of the Control Commission for Indochina set up by the 1954 Geneva agreements and the stocky, balding archbishop, who has a reputation for relaxed friendliness and for quietly digging to the bottom of matters, is said to have become thoroughly versed while in Ottawa in the fine points of the Geneva accords.

Airline Strike Postponed

Deadline Is Delayed Until This Afternoon

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Transport Workers Union (TWU) announced it has "postponed" for 12 hours a nationwide strike, originally set for 5:45 a.m. EST today, against American Airlines "in view of the progress being made in negotiations" for a new contract "and in the public interest."

A union spokesman said talks with the company were continuing on a round-the-clock basis, "at least until the (new) 4:45 p.m. EST strike deadline." Company officials expressed hope a strike would be averted.

American Airlines, at the same time, said all flights would continue to depart on schedule during negotiations.

The announcement by Mathew Guman, TWU international president, and James P. Horst, executive vice president of the union and director of its airlines division, said: "The TWU has postponed strike action against American Airlines for 12 hours. Meanwhile all parties will continue their negotiations."

Camera Angles

Marine Photographers Exhibit

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newfeatures
Photography serves an informative role in commemorating the 50th anniversary of the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve.

In a 75-picture exhibition, it shows Marine Corps activities from 1916 and World War I action to present day-Viet Nam coverage. All the photos are by Marine Corps photographers, selected from the files of the Marine Corps Photographic Archives in Washington, D.C.

The exhibition, produced by members of Public Affairs Unit 1-1, USMCR, opened in New York City at the Kodak Exhibit Center in Grand Central Terminal.

A duplicate display was scheduled for showing in the nation's capital after which both exhibitions will be available for a tour of the country.

Members of the Public Affairs Unit, which initiated this project, are specialists in the communications field. Since leaving active Marine Corps service they have become newsmen, photographers, publishers, advertising agency executives, radio- and television officials and art directors.

OFFICIAL FILES

Some volunteered to dig into the millions of negatives in the official files to come up with visual dramatic highlights. Others helped to mount, caption, arrange and hang the final exhibition prints for public display.

The pictures tell the story of the men who are first on the scene of any trouble zone. They range from raw recruits subjected to blurring verbal attacks by a drill sergeant to seasoned veterans under fire by a hidden enemy in far-off jungle terrain.

There are training scenes which the photographer could plan and compose with an eye to artistic merit.

There are also bone-jarring combat action pictures in which the cameraman was equally the target of enemy guns along with Marine buddies he photographed.

DATA LACKING

What I found lacking in the exhibition itself was adequate pictures, chronological unity and specific name credit for the Marine photographers who took the pictures.

Short, terse captions are fine in many cases but there are usually some background stories of the circumstances in which the pictures are made which could add interest to a viewer.

I am in favor of photo credit for all photographers at all times. Certainly a photo exhibition is the last place to see pictures by anonymous photographers.

MEN SERVE

There are presently about 300 Marine Corps men attending to various photographic services.

Besides still and movie photographers, there are technicians working in photo labs. Currently there are between 10 and 20 Marines handling photographic coverage of the Viet Nam war.

Most of them trained in the Army Pictorial School at Ft. Monmouth, N.J., but experience has come only with "on the job training" of taking pictures regularly.

Amateur photographers who join the Marine Corps may express a preference for photographic duty.

Depending on the needs of the Corps, those who qualify are accepted for specialized training.

It's a fine opportunity to serve the country and take pictures at the same time with an outfit that has an established, proud and historical reputation.

LESTER WOLFE

To Head Refuse Study

County Drain Commissioner Is Victor

The Oakland County Drain Commissioner emerged victorious yesterday in an internal power struggle among county officials over refuse disposal.

Members of two committees of the County Board of Supervisors and the Department of Public Works Board in a joint session concurred that a countywide refuse disposal plan should be studied.

They were divided, however, on whether the task should be handled by the drain commissioner or the County Board of Auditors.

The supervisors' miscellaneous committee proposed that the County Board of Auditors conduct the study.

This approach was endorsed by Delos Hamlin, chairman of the board of supervisors, who said that the auditors are employees of the board of supervisors and the logical study agency.

The drain committee, however, unanimously favored the drain commissioner as the study coordinator and picked up enough support from the miscellaneous committee to pass its motion.

A resolution that Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry, an elected county official, be assigned the study project will be offered to the full board of supervisors next week.

Barry anticipated that the study would take eight months to complete.

No cost estimates for the study were discussed yesterday.

GOP Discounts Manila Impact

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans discount the political impact of President Johnson's pre-election trip to the Manila summit conference of leaders of nations battling Communist forces in Viet Nam. They believe the meeting of the little hope of Viet Nam peace initiatives.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen gave this GOP viewpoint in an interview.

Fulbright: Halt Raids on N. Viet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. J. William Fulbright urged the United States yesterday to suspend bombing of North Viet Nam as a good faith gesture toward peace without awaiting assurances that Communists also would de-escalate the war. Neither the White House nor the State Department would comment on Fulbright's proposal, made shortly after President Johnson formally agreed to fly to the Philippines next month for a seven-nation summit conference to coordinate Allied efforts in the war.

The participants, including South Viet Nam, Australia, New Zealand, South Korea, the Philippines and Thailand, will explore peace prospects, for Southeast Asia while trying to make sure that military actions do not interfere with efforts to improve Saigon's social, political and economic stability.

Fulbright expressed hope that a "new initiative" might emerge from the Oct. 18 conference, but indicated he thought a cessation of U.S. bombing raids against North Viet Nam would be a much more meaningful step toward ending the conflict.

Five Republicans Attack LBJ Anti-Inflation Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five Republicans on the House Ways and Means Committee attacked President Johnson's anti-inflation program today, calling instead for stronger remedies to cure what they termed "a spending hangover."

Their criticism of the administration's measure was the first GOP opposition to surface in the tax-writing ways and means committee.

Three other Republicans on the panel gave reluctant support to the move to suspend 16 months to tax credits for businesses.

Reps. Thomas B. Curtis, Mo., James R. Utt, Calif., Jackson E. Betts, Ohio, Herman T. Schoedel, Pa., and Harold R. Collier, Ill., announced their opposition in a dissenting report on the measure, which has won the approval of the committee.

"The basic cause of inflation is clear — excessive government spending," they said. "Without an attack on government spending, further inflation is inevitable. The government has been on a spending spree."

"Today we are suffering from a hangover. What is needed is a period of restraint — not just on the part of labor or on the part of business — but on the part of government."

Johnson's program was expected to go before the House late this week or early next. It would suspend the 7 percent tax credit businesses get for investing in new plant and equipment and the accelerated tax write-off for depreciation of commercial buildings.

In their majority report on the measure, Democrats on the committee said that suspending the two tax incentives should have "a significant anti-inflationary effect."

They also expressed doubt the suspensions would push the economy into a recession.

WINS BACKING
The plan also won the backing of Rep. John W. Byrne, Wis., ranking Republican on the committee, and GOP Reps. Joel T. Broyhill, Va., and James F. Batta, Mont.

They said they shared "many of the doubts and concerns" of their five Republican colleagues, but were supporting the measure "not in the belief that . . . (it) offers any real solution to the basic problem, — but because it is at least a step by the administration toward recognition that inflationary pressures in our economy must be restrained."

During the public hearings on the measure, witnesses representing business and industry generally were opposed to the would not be a significant factor in halting inflation.

Lot to See, Hear at White House Dinner

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lot of side business and interesting gossip goes on at a White House state dinner.

For instance, at Monday night's party given by President Johnson for Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany:

— Lynda Johnson wore a gold and diamond ring on the third finger of her left hand, but said she's not engaged to her escort of late, George Hamilton. The ring, she said, was given to her by a spinster Aunt Effie Patillo on her mother's side.

— Lynda hasn't decided on a job yet either. Learning her father intends to travel to Manila next month, she said she may go along with him and let a job decision wait.

But, she approached Civil Service Commission Chairman John W. Macy Jr., her father's chief talent scout, and told him jokingly "I still don't have a job."

— Instead of listening with about 100 other guests to the half-hour of chamber music that followed the dinner, four top-level officials spent the time conferring.

Sitting around an empty table were Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Undersecretary of State George W. Ball, John J. McCloy, former high commissioner in Germany and now chairman of the Advisory Committee on the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, and Robert R. Bowie, a counselor at the State Department.

Race Plagues Negro Nominee

BOSTON (UPI) — Negro Ed- hands from New Bedford ward W. Brooke, Republican nominee for U.S. Senate, says race plagues him just as Catholicism hampered John F. Kennedy's campaign for the presidency.

"It clouds my purpose for running, even my programs and proposals," says Brooke, who now is Massachusetts attorney general. "It seems to take precedent over the candidates themselves."

Brooke, 46, would be the first Negro U.S. senator since Reconstruction if he can topple Democratic former Gov. Edw. Peabody in the November election.

Their nationally important fight for the seat of retiring Republican Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, highlights the Massachusetts election campaign.

In the state's other top race, Republican Gov. John A. Volpe is talking good times and prosperity as he seeks reelection against former Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack, the nephew of House speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.

SERIOUS TROUBLE

Rep. Hastings Keith, R-Mass., is the only congressman who appears in serious trouble Change, "has further alienated as the final campaign drives them.

Brooke, who has a Caucasian wife, tries hard to ignore the Negro label. Neatly dressed, always with a vest, he leaned back in his office chair recently and reflected on the problem.

"I do, yes, I do get tired of it. I try to campaign like everybody else. I discuss civil rights as an issue, that's all. It's just like John F. Kennedy had trouble with his religion."

Brooke is touchy about recent Negro demonstrations that have erupted into riots.

DEPLORES

"I have never participated in a riot in my life," he snapped. "I reject them. I deplore them. I don't think the voters will connect me with riots or irresponsibility."

Brooke's campaign is splintering along, vexed by troubles from many sides.

He gave a seconding speech at the 1964 Republican national convention for Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton and Massachusetts conservatives still hold him as a Goldwater enemy. Brooke's liberally or-struck his camp — a drastic shortage of money and an unexpectedly low vote as an unopposed candidate in the Sept. 13 primary.

$450,000 BUDGET

"I set a budget of $450,000 for this campaign," he said. "So far I have raised only $100,000 to $120,000. It doesn't look very encouraging at the moment. We are on borrowed money and I am going to have to cut back on some of my original plans."

Brooke received 10,000 fewer votes than Volpe in the primary, even though both were unopposed. He attributes this to a "cut by some conservatives" and says "I learned I have my work cut out for me."

His opponent, Peabody, is a vague, not easily evaluated force in the Democratic party. In 1964 when the former Harvard All-American was running for reelection, the primary voters rejected him in favor of his lieutenant governor, Francis X. Bellotti.

POOR IMAGE

As governor, he suffered from a poor television image and his if no other sales tax is acceptable if no other tax increase can pass the legislature.

A major difference between Peabody and Brooke has developed over the war in Viet Nam.

Brooke said President Johnson's decisions have not been realistic and contends "we must do more to build a climate for negotiations." He says the war is dangerously close to getting completely out of control.

Peabody, 46, quietly backs the President with as noncommittal a stand as possible. Gov. Volpe is running on a slogan claiming "he does what he says." The statement rests principally on his sales tax package which was finally passed by the Democratic-controlled legislature this year after a 14-month deadlock.

LOW UNEMPLOYMENT

The governor's speeches center on low unemployment, high construction trends, better education — and give much of the credit to the sales tax.

McCormack, 45, is struggling to develop real issues with the incumbent governor and contends on his billboards that "more can be done."

The former attorney general, a soft-spoken man of Irish descent with sleek blond hair, says the sales tax is acceptable day that it would take no stand on the lawsuits.

Rep. Keith, who is seeking his fifth term in Congress, is putting on a big drive against Harrington who lost to Keith in 1960.

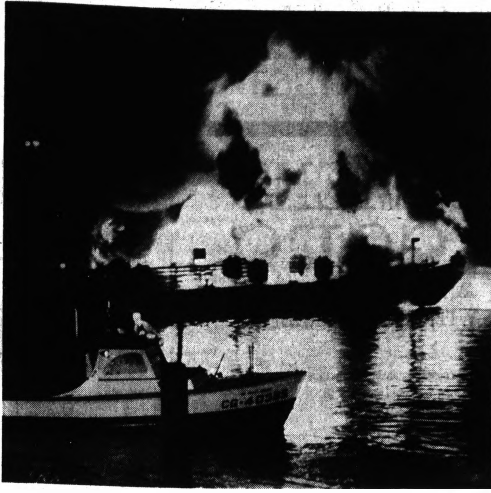

Another interesting congressional battle features executive Councillor Margaret Heckler, the 35-year-old mother of three who ousted 81-year-old former House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr. R-Mass., in the primary.

She faces a stiff challenge from County Commissioner Patrick H. Harrington Jr., who is expected to pick up many of the Democratic votes that traditionally went to Republican Martin.

U. S. Is Neutral in Rail Merger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Justice announced Tuesday its neutral position in court attempts to delay the scheduled merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central Railroad.

A three-judge court in New York has before it motions from other railroads for a preliminary injunction against the merger. The department filed a statement with the court Tuesday that it would take no stand on the lawsuits.

Artist to Paint New Picture

By AILEEN SNODDY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK — John DeKay, painter, is either the most sincere man of our times or he's the smoothest con artist to come out of Ithaca, N.Y., since the Indians sailed Lake Cayuga.

An interview with DeKay kind of fell into place. Someone called and said she had a promising artist, who was going to Viet Nam, "and paint the war." The notion of a man setting up an easel in the middle of a firefight was enough to whet interest.

The interview began in New York's Wickersham Gallery and then moved to the corner Schraffts.

Here in the safe, coffee-or-tea dispensing cradle of New York respectability, John DeKay explained why he was going to take his oils and canvases to the Far East.

"The main reason I'm doing this," he said, "is because I don't want people to think all artists are jerks. I want the soldiers to see that all artists are not beatniks and leading marches against them in the United States."

FORMED OPINION

DeKay, 33, feels he formed his opinion while studying in Europe from 1955 to 1960. He started his art career more or less as a Sunday painter. Football was the name of his game at Cornell University and he taught physical education four years before making the final break to live as an artist in New York City.

In his European travels, though, he came to resent the whining and petty griping of other American students. "The students overseas knock America. But they never think their money comes from their parents working at home."

This, he explained, is one of the reasons he wanted to go to Viet Nam.

"I want to show my thanks. The guys, 18 and 19, are fighting over there so I can stay home and paint what I want."

The paintings he does, DeKay said hopefully, will go to the National Archives in Washington as memorabilia. He has presented canvases to the Kennedy, former President Eisenhower and President Johnson.

GET FEELING
"In Viet Nam I want to find out how these young guys feel about being displaced and how they feel toward those who don't back them up."

"After all," John DeKay added, "the only responsibility I have is paying my rent. I'd like to give a little more."

Here's DeKay's letter from Saigon:

"I'm proud to be over here, but I feel useless just being an artist. Everybody seems to be doing far more important work."

When I landed at Da Nang airport there were about 300 soldiers wandering around. I didn't know where they were going. While the customs people were going through my luggage in a confused manner—they couldn't understand what I was doing with canvas and oils — I heard a voice over the loudspeaker: "Flights 606 and 608 departing for San Francisco, U.S.A."

LOUD CHEER
A loud cheer went up that put a lump in my throat.

When I reached my hotel I flopped on the bed. It was quiet and I thought I could easily be in the south of Italy or Greece or anyplace with an old world atmosphere, especially where it's hot and humid.

But then I heard the jets scream over my head. I looked out the window and saw the helicopters and a convoy of army trucks and barbed wire. Everyone was involved with the war — except me. I was beginning to feel like a tourist.

Although I was weary from the long trip, I forced myself downstairs and to a nearby bar where I ordered a beer. Sitting next to me at the bar were several soldiers who were talking about a comrade who fought gallantly while surrounded by the enemy. When they finally got to him, he was wounded 20 times.

I asked one of the soldiers how his friend was. He replied: "His head was blown off, too."

And now I am going to paint this war.

Psychotherapy Shows Results

Increase in Job Pay of Patients Reported

BY SCIENCE SERVICE

NEW YORK — Psychotherapy shows results in terms that could hardly be more concrete — money.

The Postgraduate Center for Mental Health here reported that 450 outpatients increased their median income by $28 per week after 57 sessions, roughly a year's therapy. By contrast, a similar group of people in the general population showed only a $6-per-week rise, over the same period.

A non-profit clinic offering moderately-priced psychotherapy, the Postgraduate Center usually handles people in the lower-middle-income, $80-per-week category. These include mostly white-collar workers, some students, teachers and artists and a few manual and skilled workers.

Highest salary gains were recorded among patients over 38 years of age, which means, said research director Dr. Bernard F. Riess, that "we were not dealing with a young new-working population changing to better jobs."

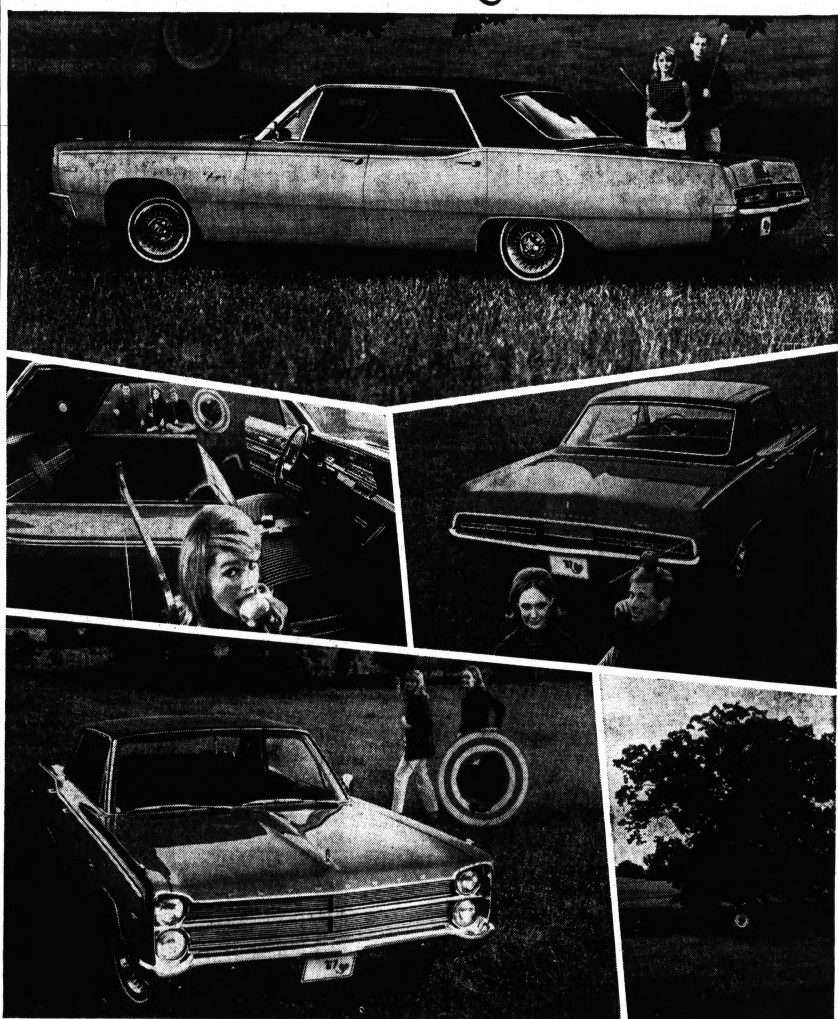

In fact, the benefits of therapy showed up as salary increases on jobs already held, said Dr. Riess.

GREATER ABILITY

He attributed the job improvement to increased self-acceptance and a greater ability to "fight for oneself."

Most of the patients could be characterized as "passive-aggressive" with an emphasis on the passive, said Dr. Riess. Since American society "tends to elevate aggression almost to a social good, passivity becomes a bigger problem" than it would otherwise be, he said.

Surgery Can Help in Nearsightedness

Q—Is it true that one who has to wear thick glasses is so nearsighted that he can't read a street sign?

Will he eventually go blind?

The nerves that control these muscles would be one cause of such a paralysis but a tumor on the back of the neck would not do it.

Q—My niece has blurred vision which an oculist says is due to malfunction of the pituitary. What can be done for this?

A—A tumor of the pituitary may press on the optic nerve and cause partial or complete blindness.

The treatment is surgical or X-ray removal of the pituitary.

I know of no other way in which a pituitary disease can affect the vision.

BRANDSTADT

A—Person who have the progressive type of nearsightedness often have to wear very thick glasses and have very poor vision. They would have great difficulty reading street signs even with their glasses.

When this condition is detected early in its course, its progress can be halted by an operation in which the further elongation of the eyeballs (the underlying cause of nearsightedness) is prevented.

In this operation the outer capsule of the eyeball is reinforced with a tissue transplant.

Q—Sometimes my wife sees double. She has a lump on the back of her neck near her spine. Could this be the cause?

A—Double vision is usually due to paralysis of one of the muscles that move the eyeball. A tumor pressing on one of the nerves that control these muscles would be one cause of such a paralysis but a tumor on the back of the neck would not do it.

Q—My niece has blurred vision which an oculist says is due to malfunction of the pituitary. What can be done for this?

Percy Slaying Has Halted Illinois Election Campaigns

CHICAGO (UPI) — A young girl was murdered and the politics of Illinois went into suspended animation.

Now, more than a week after the body of Valerie Percy was found in her bedroom, the candidates are just beginning to get their campaigns going again—some of them.

There is some speculation that the campaign of Charles H. Percy, Valerie's father, won't resume for days. Percy was just hitting full stride in his drive to unseat Sen. Paul H. Douglas when tragedy struck.

Percy is one of the nation's leading Republicans and Douglas one of the better known Democratic senators, but when news of the slaying spread out from suburban Kenilworth the partisan walls crumbled.

One of the first messages of condolence the Percy family received was from Douglas. The senator said in the same message he would cease campaigning.

As originally drafted the Douglas telegram to Percy said, "I will not resume campaigning until you do." This phrase was deleted from the message Percy got.

School Board Hikes Administrators' Pay

The Huron Valley Board of Education last night granted raises to its administrators based on four factors including background and responsibility rather than on a certain percentage of teacher's salaries.

Under the new plan, which will be tried for one year, each administrator will be paid according to educational background, number of weeks worked, administrative responsibility and administrative experience at their present position.

Board members indicated they felt that by tying administrators' salaries to teachers' salaries has been past practice. It defeated incentive in administrators who might otherwise want to work above and beyond their duties.

The raises average out to about a 10 per cent increase over present salaries.

In other action last night, the board approved released time for junior and senior high school faculties during October, November and December in order to involve them in planning of additions to their schools.

SCHOOL PLANNING
The administration is attempting to involve faculties in planning of all new schools as they must work in the buildings.

The released time means junior and senior high schools will be closed for a half day in October and two half days each in November and December.

It was also decided to build an elementary school on a 20-acre site on which the board has an option.

The property is on N. Milford Road and is known as the Leonard property.

The action will enable architects to proceed with final drawings on the school which will be the first to be constructed with funds approved in a recent bond issue.

Oxford Sets Study Unit on Schools

OXFORD—The Oxford Board of Education voted last night to form a citizens' committee for the study of a school building needs.

Schools Supt. Roger Oberg said additional space is particularly needed in the elementary area.

Eight election inspectors for the Oct. 3 county school reorganization vote were named.

Under the reorganization plan, Oxford would absorb the six-square-mile North Oxford district, now containing a one-room school handling grades kindergarten through sixth. North Oxford high school students are transported to Dryden.

The merger was turned down last May by voters in the North Oxford District who chose at the rate of 23 to 8 against annexation.

WEDNESDAY VOTE
Now the two districts will vote next Wednesday and a majority will carry. Oxford currently has 1,100 residents.

A favorable vote would mean that North Oxford residents would assume Oxford's operating cost of 17.59 mills. They would not be obligated for Oxford's debt levy of 4.8 mills.

It was announced that Oxford Rotary Club will fete the district's teachers at the club's annual dinner at 6:30 p.m. Monday at Oxford High School.

Cost estimates were to be obtained for construction of a garage to house the district's tractor. Shop students volunteered their services providing the district buys the material.

Home Group Sets Meeting
TROY — The Northeast Troy Home Improvement Association will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Troy Union School.

A movie on property valuation will be shown. New members will be welcomed.

Flint Therapist Dinner Speaker
OXFORD — William L. Keaton, chief alcoholism therapist at Flint's Hurley Hospital, will discuss Alcoholism, a Disease, following a cooperative dinner at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Methodist Church.

Keaton is organizer and director of Insight, Inc., a non-profit organization to study, control, treat and prevent alcoholism. He has written a number of articles on the subject.

Dinner Tonight
ORION TOWNSHIP — Howarth Methodist WSCS will serve a roast beef and pork dinner starting at 5 p.m. today at the church, Silverbell Road.

Hiring Is Music to Their Ears
HOLLY — Elementary school children here at last are going to receive music instruction this year.

After several months of searching, the administration was finally successful in its attempt to hire a music teacher, if only on a part-time basis.

Children at each of the three elementary schools will get music instruction one day a week.

The administration is still looking for a junior high school physical education teacher. All attempts to locate one so far have been unsuccessful.

In the meantime, pupils are scheduled into a study hall during the time they should be getting physical education.

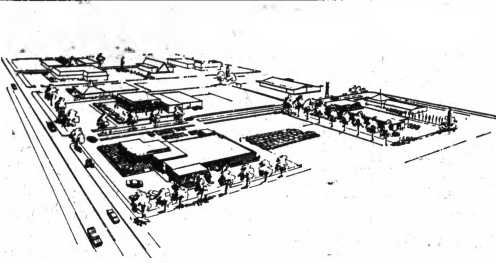

The board is still in the process of negotiating with its non-teaching personnel represented by Local 92 of the Association of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO.

Last week several custodial bus drivers and cooks picketed the negotiation sessions protesting lack of a contract.

Schools Supt. Russell D. Haddon said the two sides have pretty much agreed on the monetary items.

Negotiations began last spring. The old contract expires on Nov. 1.

"We staggered the expiration dates on purpose so we wouldn't be negotiating with two groups at the same time," Haddon said.

Grand Opening Near

Auto Village Off 'n' Running

TROY — Michigan's first automotive village got off to a good start this month with the opening of the Audette Pontiac Agency on Maple Road. The grand opening is scheduled for Thursday.

The village is designed with the idea of one central location where the prospective car buyer may consider many makes. The first automotive village was built in Riverside, Calif.

Following the Audette agency, three other dealers are lined up to build new agencies on adjoining property. A Chevrolet dealership will be built by Mike Saville, Inc. of Birmingham, while Lincoln-Mercury and Volkswagen dealerships are expected to follow.

Ford and Chrysler companies have expressed interest. Ford having purchased property on the grounds.

Land is still available in the village. The village is planned as a convenience to prospective car buyers and as an incentive to do business in Troy. The first completed agency, Audette Pontiac, is pictured in the right foreground.

Charter Writers Are Given Oath
ROCHESTER — The newly elected city charter commission accepted an oath of office administered by Clerk Maxine Ross this week.

Their first meeting is slated for tomorrow night. The commission has two years in which to prepare a charter accepted by the people of the area and by the state.

In other business this week the council tabled action on the joint water and sewer authority under consideration with the village due to the illness of Village Attorney Arthur Cox.

Fire Prevention Week was proclaimed for Oct. 9 to 16 and Indian Guides Week until Friday.

OK Borrowing by 2 County School Units
The Michigan Municipal Finance Commission yesterday approved borrowings for two Oakland County school districts, Farmington Township and the Northwest Wayne County Community College District.

A $7.86 million school bond issue was approved for the Huron Valley School District and $2.5 million was okayed for the Troy School District, both for construction.

Farmington Township received approval of $180,000 in special assessment bonds for sewer construction.

Also approved was $140,000 in tax anticipation notes for the Northwest Wayne County Community College District, Wayne, Washnaw and Oakland counties.

Award Presented to Avon Players for Its Playbill
AVON TOWNSHIP — Community Theaters Association of Michigan has awarded Avon Players a Class A award for design and continuity of its playbill.

The bill, or program, was originally designed by Paul M. Stratton of 101 Oak Lane, and it has been produced the past two years by Mrs. James Jackson and Mrs. David Holderness.

Twelve local couples were present at the three-day convention recently when the award was made.

Carroll Chapman, 1431 Washington, is president of the Community Theaters Association. Tom King of Royal Oak, a member of the local group, served as a former president.

Hearing Next Week on Proposed Charter

LAKE ORION — Copies of the village's proposed new charter are now available to residents for study before the public hearing slated next Wednesday night.

The village council recently recommended Wesley Allen and his committee for their "speedy and efficient work" in preparing the charter.

Following the public hearing, Village President Wallace Crane said, the charter will go to the governor for approval and then be referred to a vote of the people.

The charter commission has agreed to continue work on updating ordinances under the old village laws, some of which were enacted as early as 1838.

Crane used as an example of the old laws one still on the books which says that a wagon proceeding through the village at night must be preceded by a man carrying a lantern.

ZONING REVISIONS
In line with the updating of village government, Dr. Richard McNeil, chairman of a five-man Planning Commission, reported on the revision of zoning laws providing for orderly future development of the village.

In other business this week the village council went along with the Department of Conservation in permitting construction of retaining walls on Long Pointe.

Council members in a visit to the site determined that fill would not block the channel to the lagoon, but that a seawall in reality would keep additional matter from silting into the water.

Tentative approval, subject to Department of Conservation scrutiny, was given Bill Davis, developer of Park Island, to fill in portions of the island so that a relatively straight retaining wall might be built.

Orion Township has agreed to construct a $2,900 fence around Perry Park in Lake Orion in exchange for its use by township residents.

The fencing comes as part of an updating project carried on by the village which will see the land graded and sodded, new bleachers and a new backstop installed.

The park is used throughout the summer by 1,300 Little Leaguers, according to Crane.

School Vote Reviewed

IMLAY CITY — Imlay City's proposed assistant administrator. All outside educational trips, cut out by lack of money, will not be resumed.

Norland said the last building program in Imlay City was three years ago when an elementary school was completed.

3 School Buses OK'd by Board
The Huron Valley Board of Education last night gave authorization to purchase three new school buses at a cost not to exceed $24,000.

The new buses will help alleviate overcrowding on the 36 buses presently owned by the district.

Schools Supt. Alvin P. Norland said the district, now becoming overcrowded, will continue to lack the two additional teachers planned for the two temporary classrooms which were to be built at the high school.

The district will operate without its one additional bus and

Commission Members Hear Debate On The Taubman Plan

Commission Orders New Traffic Devices

New traffic signal devices were ordered last night by the City Commission for local streets affected by the relocation of M59 within the city.

Total cost of the signals was estimated at $14,761 with the city's share totaling $6,647, according to City Engineer Joseph E. Neplings.

Neplings said some traffic signals are to be modernized, while some intersections are to receive their initial installation of signals.

All the streets involved are affected by the new route to be provided for the M59 freeway.

However, part of the signal installations approved last night call for modernized traffic signals at Perry and Madison, and also the installation of pedestrian walk signals at that intersection.

FUTURE WIDENING

In other business last night, the commission received deeds to land to provide for the future widening of Walton and Giddings adjacent to the projected Catholic High School, and the widening of Parkwood.

Oct. 10 was set as the date to receive bids for the demolition of 13 buildings in the R20 urban renewal project. The buildings are scattered throughout the project area.

A letter was received last night from John F. Blamy, general manufacturing manager, Pontiac Motor Division, informing the auto company for smoke abatement at the division's north end foundry.

Blamy said the first phase of installing a smoke abatement equipment would be completed by May 1, 1968.

HEARINGS HELD

Hearings were held last night on special assessment rolls for construction of a sanitary sewer in Princeton, Highwood to Ivy

Princeton, Highwood to Jaycee Park.

Two requested rezoning petitions were referred to the city planning commission.

The first asked for the rezoning of two lots in Seminole Hills Subdivision, while the second petitions sought residential zoning for a 39-acre parcel on the northside of Kennett, west of Alcott School and east of the Belt Line Railroad.

One bid of $19,250 was received for the painting of two water storage tanks.

Part of the costs are to be paid from a court suit to be filed against a previous contractor.

60 Acres Burned

CADILLAC (AP) — A fire destroyed an estimated 60 acres of crops and woodland about four miles northeast of Merit in Missaukee County Tuesday night before Michigan Conservation Department firefighters brought it under control.

Taubman Plan Gets Reaction

Public interest recently generated in downtown redevelopment became vocal last night in the form of prepared statements, impassioned speeches, jeers, hisses and catcalls.

Lengthy rounds of applause also punctuated the City Commission hearing on the Taubman plan as the public expressed its viewpoints in an often unruly manner.

Only slightly more orderly were the 122 police and firemen who picketed the entrances to Pontiac Central High School and paraded around the auditorium before the meeting started.

Their signs posed such questions as "How Can The City Pay Taubman When They Can't Pay Employees?" and "Where Was Taubman Five Years Ago?"

The crowd attending the session came close to filling the seats in the auditorium. More than 800 persons interrupted their normal Tuesday night routines to gather at 8 p.m. for this important step.

Five and a half hours later, about a third of them remained to hear the commission approve the Taubman contract by a 6-1 vote.

No one spoke in favor of approving the contract.

Facing an audience some 32 times larger than normal, commissioners spent the first 35 minutes of the session taking care of 11 items on their regular agenda.

PROPOSAL READ

The crowd fidgeted and murmured. Audience members were perhaps most polite during the 20 minutes City Attorney Philip J. Rowston took to read the proposed contract.

The first and longest round of applause came when Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. called to the lectern C. Don Davidson, spokesman for a redevelopment plan devised by the University of Detroit's School of Architecture.

Davidson, in turn, declined making any comment, stating he had been told he couldn't.

HITS HIGH NOTE

LAUGH AND BOO

As the next 20 speakers delivered their statements — most of them representing the viewpoint of groups — the crowd laughed and booed as it felt appropriate.

At one point, Dr. John Yivisacker silenced applause with a reprimand to "please don't interrupt."

Although supporting him, members of the audience began to groan as Yivisacker's presentation neared the one-hour mark. The crowd became silent, except for sympathetic moans, as a woman sobbed that she and her family — along with 57 others — were living in tents because they could not find adequate housing in Pontiac.

Rudeness reached its climax as George Grba, unsuccessful District 4 commission candidate in the last election, questioned the commission.

"Oh, shut up and get out," someone yelled. "We've heard enough of you. Shut up!"

Commissioner John A. Dugan commented that it was "an old-time packed meeting."

"We've been raked up one side and down the other," Commissioner Leslie H. Hudson said.

"This has been a merry-go-round for hours and hours," Commissioner T. Warren Fowler Sr. observed.

The formal resolution of approval was read and the vote taken. And then there was quiet after the storm.

LEARNS FAST — First grader Anthony Bolden, 9, Iowa, was in danger of confusing finger food with just plain fingers yesterday as he literally devoured a lesson at Bethune Elementary School. His teacher, Mrs. Johnnie M. Wilder, used a school breakfast to put some teeth into the class's study of nutrition.

Soapy Due at LBJ Fete for African

DETROIT (UPI) — Former governor G. Mennen Williams will be a guest of President Johnson today at a reception for Republic of Senegal President Leopold Sedar Senghor.

Williams, who resigned his position as undersecretary of African Affairs to run for the U.S. Senate on the Democratic ticket, will attend a State Luncheon at the White House for the visiting dignitary.

While in Washington Williams plans to visit Glenn W. Ferguson, ambassador-designate to Kenya, in the State Department. The Washington visit interrupts briefly a campaign schedule conducted during a flying trip through St. Clair and Saginaw counties on yesterday and in metropolitan Detroit tomorrow.

City 1st-Graders Get Food for Thought

By PAT McCARTY
The way to a child's mind may well be through his stomach.

At any rate, the youngster who goes to school hungry will not be as receptive to lessons as the one who has been fortified with a good breakfast.

Children in Mrs. Johnnie M. Wilder's first grade class at Bethune Elementary School know this — and they have the memory of a mid-morning feast to serve as a warm reminder.

Yesterday the children filed into the school's gymnasium to share a well-balanced breakfast, a meal that had been two weeks in the planning.

Mrs. Wilder, new to the Pontiac School System this year, came here with the knowledge that at least 50 per cent of the youngsters in her class were from homes with working mothers.

PREPARE OWN BREAKFASTS
In many cases, this means that the children are preparing their own breakfasts.

About two weeks ago the topic of breakfast came up during a period in which the pupils tell of their experiences at home.

Almost every child participated in the discussion," Mrs. Wilder said. It was the best sharing period we've had."

It was obvious to her that the children had struck upon a subject of great interest to them, so she began to tell them about nutrition, about the kinds of foods they should be eating.

MEAL PLANNING

Left to their own devices, some of the children had planned their morning meals around a diet of crackers and juice, bread and milk or hot dogs.

The lesson began with the candid remarks of the pupils and along the way included discussion of such subjects as table manners and place settings.

The youngsters were visited by school nurse Mrs. Rose Roncone and they brought in pictures for a display on breakfast foods.

Culminating the learning experience was yesterday's juice, eggs, bacon, toast and cocoa.

The meal was prepared by four mothers of first graders, Mrs. Elmer Williams, 50 Gillespie; Mrs. Charles Jones, 92 Clove; Mrs. Betty Montgomery, 344 Howard McNeil; and Mrs. Billie J. Mannings, 382 Howard McNeil.

Special guests were Mrs. T. Warren Fowler Sr., wife of the District 1 city commissioner, and Bethune Principal Charles Townsell.

How did the youngsters respond to this addition to their curriculum?

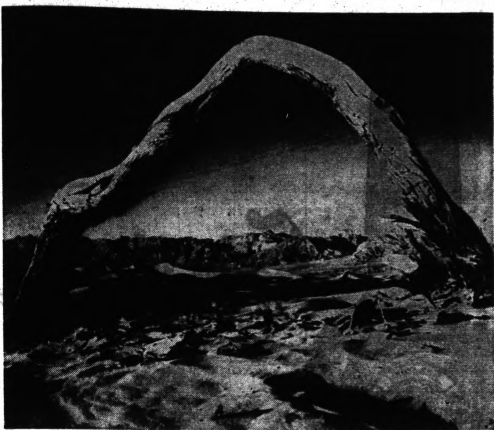

They ate it up.

Theft Charge Is Dismissed

A larceny charge against a 26-year-old man accused of stealing a Pontiac police shotgun was dismissed yesterday at the request of the prosecution.

Eugene F. Douglas of 494 Bloomfield had been jailed Sept. 13 for alleged theft of a 12-gauge shotgun from a patrol car at the scene of the fatal shooting of a Pontiac barmaid.

Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum granted the dismissal after being told by investigators that they had a "poor case" against Douglas.

DEATH VALLEY SCENE—This is Death Valley, Calif., the nation's lowest, hottest, driest spot. For some, help has come too late in this desolate spot. For others, it was close. One man—historians differ on the name—looked back as he was being carried from the inferno and said "Goodbye, valley of death." It stuck.

Ready-Made Raunchiness

Free-Soil Plan Is Dirty Deal

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — My daughter, who is 11, came up to me, stuck out a foot and said, "How do you like my new shoes?"

"I don't know," I said, "where are they?"

"I'm wearing them," she said. "They don't look new to me," I said.

"Oh daddy!" she exclaimed.

"You always say the nicest things."

This was my introduction to "grubies," the pre-soled sneakers.

Presoled sneakers apparently are the hottest item in the juvenile footwear line. At least among children whose parents can afford them.

There may be a few underprivileged children who have to wear new-looking sneakers. In economically depressed areas, kids may have to buy unsold sneakers and dirty them up themselves.

NO STATUS
But the fashionable thing is to buy the kind with a ready-made raunchy look. Do-it-yourself besmirchment carries no status.

I imagine sneakers with factory-applied stains are particularly beneficial to fastidious children, who otherwise have trouble giving a new pair that smart grimy appearance.

Anyway, presoled sneakers may indirectly bring me great riches. For I intend to steal the idea and use it in a new line of college clothing.

What do various protest groups have in common? The answer: They look unkempt.

HAND-ING-GLOVE
Slovenly apparel apparently goes hand-in-glove with the rebellious spirit. Students who join the campus revolts usually dress the part. That is, they look revolting.

Many of these students, I'm told, come from affluent families. They very likely have difficulty acquiring a wardrobe that is properly seedy.

It is with the hope of cashing in on this situation that I am forming a new company called Flyblown Clothing, Inc.

You are all familiar with modern fabrics that are wrinkle-resistant, right? Well, Flyblown will have fabrics that are crease-resistant.

OPPOSITE TYPE
Rather than trousers with a permanent crease, it will offer trousers with permanent wrinkles. Instead of wash-and-wear shirts, it will sell unwash-and-wear shirts.

After a hard day protesting faculty brutality, student demonstrators need only toss their garments into a corner, making certain they do not come in contact with soap and water.

The next morning, thanks to Flyblown's exclusive "miracle" fabric, they will be more rumpled than ever.

Pair Is Honored for Historical Work

LANSING (AP)—The Historical Society of Michigan has honored Floyd Haight of Dearborn and Mrs. Alice Miller of Ithaca for excellence in historical work.

Haight was chairman of the Michigan Civil War Centennial Observance Commission. Mrs. Miller compiled indices for public and private historical agencies in Michigan.

At its 52nd annual meeting, the society also elected former Congressman Alvin Bentley of Owosso as president, Richard Frank of Lansing as vice president and Maurice Cole of Ferndale as secretary-treasurer.

Soviet Leaders Uncertain of Course

By LEON DENNEN
Foreign News Analyst
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—Russia's Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko continues to castigate American colonialism and imperialism but, according to veteran observers, his words no longer carry conviction. They even lack revolutionary zeal.

Pointing an accusing finger at predatory American capitalism is, of course, Gromyko's Marxist-Leninist stock-in-trade. But one must listen to him as he speaks to the United Nations delegates in Russian to realize that the dour-faced man has mellowed considerably.

His new image is hardly conveyed by the trained and monotonous voices of the U. N.'s English interpreters.

Russia's foreign minister is one Red bureaucrat who survived many purges. He served many masters in the Kremlin. If ordered, he can again employ brutal threats and spice his long-winded speeches with Marxist-Leninist cliches.

But for the present, at least, it suits Gromyko to tread a bit more softly. He obviously reflects the concern of his uneasy leaders in Moscow.

NOT SURE
Faced with Red China's relentless assaults, they are not quite sure what Russia's course should be in international affairs.

History has indeed changed profoundly in the last six years. It was only at the 1960 session of the United Nations General Assembly that Nikita Khrushchev took off his shoe and banged his desk with it as a gesture of contempt for the Western capitalists.

Then Russia was still the undisputed leader of a monolithic bloc of Communist states. The Soviet version of communism seemed the wave of the future in many of the emerging nations of Africa and Asia.

Today, the Communists are in serious trouble in Indonesia, Algeria, Ghana, Nigeria, Kenya, Malaysia, India and the Congo.

LEADERS TUMBLING
Algeria's Ben Bella disappeared without a trace. Sukarno, stripped of all power, is little more than a figurehead. He could not even prevent Indonesia from rejoining the United Nations.

Ghana's Kwame Nkrumah is a wandering exile. Even Egypt's President Nasser is struggling hard to stay in power.

In Western Europe, the younger generation of Communists, taking their cue from Red China, consider the pro-Soviet revisionists as "tired revolutionists."

In their view, the official pro-Russian Communist parties have become "square" organizations. Their leaders are flabby and middle-aged bureaucrats who show all signs of sclerotic degeneration of their Marxist-Leninist ideological tissues.

'NEW LEFT'
This view of the "Muscovite parties" is also held by the "new left" in the United States.

Even more significant is the growing spirit of independence among Russia's East European satellites. Nowhere is this more evident than in the halls of the United Nations.

The Romanians, taking advantage of the Russian-Chinese rift, have decided to go into business for themselves.

They are trying to convince anyone who will listen to them that they are no longer Moscow's satellite. Yet Romania was once Russia's most servile satellite.

Some East Europeans make no secret of their belief that the Viet Cong cannot win in Vietnam. They hint broadly that it is now in Russia's interest to stop Red China's expansion in Southeast Asia.

"Moscow would like a negotiated settlement in Viet Nam that would not embarrass Russia in maintaining her image as the leader of anti-colonialism and national liberation movements," one East European diplomat said.

Andrei Gromyko is thus leading at this session of the U. N. from weakness and not from strength.

Even as he condemns American colonialism he must be aware of Mao Tse-tung's recent statement that Russia is today the most greedy imperialist country in the world.

Body of Fisherman Found in Reservoir

FLINT (AP)—The body of a Genesee County Sheriff's Department employee was recovered Tuesday from Holloway Reservoir 20 miles northeast of Flint and the search was underway for a companion.

Officers recovered the body of Sherman A. Vallade, 33, of Tipton Township after his wife reported that he failed to return home from a fishing trip.

Deputies said Vallade, a turnkey at the Genesee County jail, had stopped at department headquarters and picked up Robert McGuire, 33, of Flint, a cook.

Hunt Missiles for AF Museum

Florida Collection Is Largest in World

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Anyone have a spare Vanguard rocket or V2 missile?

They're needed at Cape Kennedy—not for launching, but for display at the new Air Force Space Museum.

An odd assortment of 32 missiles and rockets already has been accumulated on the site of America's first successful satellite launch and the museum's part-time curators are on the prowl for more.

Even though the generation-old V2 and the ill-fated Vanguard are missing, Maj. Robert White says the missile collection is the largest known in the world.

Its "relics" range from an American-made copy of the World War II German V2 "buzz bomb" to a hovering Atlas that is nearly identical to ones now being used to launch many of the nation's satellites and moon probes.

PRIZE EXHIBIT
One of the prizes of the museum is a gleaming white Redstone missile that is mounted on a refurbished firing stand once used by a Jupiter C rocket to orbit America's first satellite, Explorer 1, in 1958.

The museum started out on a shoestring basis and even now, with recently acquired official Air Force recognition, operates on an annual $47,000 budget with its personnel working on a "time available" basis.

Many of its missiles have come from the technical training center at Sheppard Air Force Base, near Wichita Falls, Tex. But one, a winged Navajo, was found in a swamp in near-by Cocoa, Fla. Another, a rare rascal, was retrieved from a military salvage yard in Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Arthur Hicks, one of the museum's founders, has been searching for a Vanguard and a V2 for several years. Both had significant roles in the Cape's development.

The German-built V2 with a Corporal upper stage was the first rocket launched here, on July 24, 1950, and a Vanguard made the first, and unsuccessful, satellite launching attempt in 1957.

BLUEBERRY ASPIC

Blueberry Aspic Relish Offers Different Taste

Relish is a descriptive word. It means to enjoy the taste of, to take pleasure in, to appreciate.

Then again, a relish is a something served to add a zesty flavor to a plain dish. This Blueberry Relish will make the taster enjoy, take stains. Place custard cups in pleasure in and appreciate. Too, skillet. Cover and steam at 200 it will add that zesty flavor to degrees for 50 minutes or until any entree, be it beef or ham or chicken. If the dish is plain or out clean. be relished as a suitable accompaniment.

There's this about a blueberry relish. Nobody expected it. People don't too much think about this most popular of berries as a tasteful adjunct to the main dish of the meal. Or as the salad course. Only reason is they never found such a recipe as this.

BLUEBERRY ASPIC RELISH
1 can (1 lb.) blueberries
Water
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 cup chicken broth
1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/2 cup finely-chopped celery
Salad greens

Drain blueberries, reserving syrup. Use 1/4 cup of the syrup if necessary, add enough water to make 1/4 cup. Stir gelatin into syrup and let stand for 5 minutes. Put over low heat and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Stir in chicken broth.

Soften cream cheese and beat until creamy. Beat in lemon juice and rind. Gradually stir in gelatin mixture. Chill until mixture thickens slightly. Fold in drained blueberries and celery.

Pour mixture into a lightly-oiled 9-inch square pan. Chill until firm. Unmold by dipping pan into hot water for a few seconds.

Cut gelatin into 1 1/2 inch cubes and serve on bed of bite-size pieces of salad greens.

For a salad dressing, mix 1 cup mayonnaise with 2 tablespoons each of honey and lime juice. Yield: 8 servings.

Make Parfait

A delicious and unusual treat for family or company dessert is the cranberry-orange parfait. Layer softened vanilla ice cream or sherbet with tart, tangy cranberry-orange relish in tall parfait glasses; then refreeze until firm.

CORNEED BEEF PANCAKE

Red Flannel Hash

Modernize Classic

If you think preparing meals in a flurry is difficult, think of Abigail Adams, wife of our 2nd President, mother of our 6th. Being the first mistress to reside in the unfinished White House in 1801 was not enviable! But during the lean Revolutionary days when she had been left alone to run the family farm at Braintree, Massachusetts, she had learned how to cope with the unexpected and uncomfortable.

She always managed admirably, however, even without the benefit of modern conveniences or convenience food. One of the favorite dishes she may have served her family was the thrifty Red Flannel Hash, a highly popular dish of the times.

The recipe is still revered today as a delicious American classic; now with this streamlined version from The Lipton Kitchens, you don't have Mrs. Adams' worry about a complicated, time-consuming recipe. Just turn to a handy envelope of onion soup mix to take care of all the enticing seasonings.

Pontiac Preview to Be Highlighted at Wisner

Arrows Face Flint 'Spoilers' in Key MFL Encounter Tonight

A crowd in excess of 4,500 is expected for tonight's Mid-west Football League clash between the Pontiac Arrows and Flint Devils at Wisner Stadium.

Featured will be the preview showing of 1967 Pontiacs, which will start with a parade at 6:30. The kickoff is scheduled for 7:45 p.m. between the two teams who have met three times in regular season play in two seasons.

The record between Pontiac and Flint stands at 1-1-1, despite the fact that the Arrows have not been pushed out of first place since the opening game of 1965.

The Arrows won over Flint 26-20 in Pontiac last year, then lost 14-14 in Flint. This defeat caused a first place tie between Pontiac and Dayton in the next to last week of the season.

The following week however when the Arrows won over Lansing and Flint, again a spoiler, forced a 7-7 tie with MFL title by a half game over Dayton.

Couple weeks ago, the Arrows again went to Flint's Atwood Stadium and were fortunate to return home with a 6-6 tie. Tonight Pontiac will be a 14-point favorite.

Flint outplayed Pontiac and scored late in the game with Lake Wales passing to former all-star and MSU star John Sharp for the tying touchdown. The point was missed on a poor snap from center and Pontiac thus a half game in the MFL lead over Dayton and Ypsilanti.

Quarterback Tommy Myers had his best game last Saturday since joining the Arrows as Detroit Lions camp three weeks ago.

Myers completed for 11 of 19 passes including three for touchdowns. Understudy Ron Bishop, who played last Saturday night for the first time since fracturing his hand early in the exhibition season, also made an auspicious debut.

He hit on three of four passes including a 90 yard strike to Jim Johnson and 25 yarder to Chuck Fobbs for a touchdown.

A victory for Pontiac tonight would give the Arrows a temporary one game lead over Dayton and Ypsilanti, which have Rouge and Lansing scheduled respectively Saturday night.

A loss tonight and wins for Dayton and Ypsilanti would push the Arrows into third place a half game behind the two.

The game is being played in conjunction with the Pontiac Preview showing and Pontiac car dealers of the area who will have special sections in the Stadium as sponsors of the halftime showing of the 1967 models are Pontiac Reo, Buick, Oldsmobile, Pontiac, Hudson, Chrysler, Ford, Pontiac, Buick, Oldsmobile, Pontiac, and Audeite Pontiac.

The Pontiac Northern band and band leaders will lead the parade and halftime presentation.

Broncos Risk Victory String Against Ohio 11

Western Michigan Working on Basics in Practice Drills

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Getting your feet on the ground and taking to the air may sound like some new exercise trick, but it's the order of the week on the Western Michigan University football practice field.

The Broncos, riding a seven-game winning streak and fresh from a 31-14 shellacking at Central Michigan University Saturday, are returning to the fundamentals in preparation for Saturday's clash with rough, conference champion Miami.

"They have a great ball club going," Coach Bill Doollittle said. "The best way to get to them is to get back to the fundamentals."

Doollittle was unhappy with the Broncos' performance against the Chippewas Saturday and intends to go into his first Mid-American Conference clash with a more polished club.

"We looked pretty sloppy on our blocking and tackling, and that's what we're working on this week. We've got to get our feet back on the ground," he said.

STRONG FOE Western fans face one of the strongest defenses in the league in the Redskins. It's the defense that held Big Ten opponent Indiana to only 10 points in Miami's 20-10 opening game victory last season.

Western quarterback Ron Seifert had a good day in the air against Central and Doollittle hopes to keep him at his peak for the Miami clash.

"We've got some good receivers in Gary Crain and Dave Mollard so we hope to make use of a lot of pass patterns. We've also got a few surprises in store for Miami in the passing department," he said.

All conference quarterback Bruce Matthe poses the biggest threat to Doollittle's squad. "He's the type of guy who does everything well," Doollittle said. "He's very deceptive, he likes to run the option after faking to his fullback and he's a darn good ball handler."

"We've got to keep him in the pocket and make him throw."

The Broncos are nearly at full strength. The only doubtfuls are center John Kouris who will be out at least until Thursday with a back injury suffered in a Central game, and second-string fullback Terry Palechski, who bruised a thigh in the opener against Lamar Tech.

Both squads are 2-0 for the season and the Redskins are atop an eight game winning streak.

County Soph Stars in Debut

By the Associated Press Jim Seymour, a sophomore end at Notre Dame, was named the Associated Press Lineman of the Week by the Associated Press for his spectacular variety debut against Purdue.

Seymour, a 19-year-old from Berkeley, Mich., caught three touchdowns passes, one on a dazzling 84-yard play, that helped the Irish down the Boilermakers 26-14 last Saturday. In addition he put his name in the Notre Dame record book by snaring 13 catches from Terry Hanratty for 276 yards.

Coach Ara Parseghian praised the sterling performance of Seymour and quarterback Hanratty. "They did something that had never been accomplished before at Notre Dame and it well might never be accomplished again."

U. OF M. FLANKER Seymour dominated the weekly voting by sports writers and broadcasters who drew attention to the outstanding play of several other ends. They were Jack Clancy of Michigan, Sam Harris of Colorado, Eric Rice of Wisconsin, John Mills of Colorado, Eric Rice of Wisconsin, John Mills of Tennessee, Wes Simpson of Western Kentucky and Robbie Hahn of Furman.

Bill Saley, a Utah State tackle, and guards Wayne Meylan of Nebraska, Paul Smith of New Mexico and David Cooper of Arkansas also received votes in the poll.

Clancy caught eight passes for 93 yards to help Michigan beat California. Harris, a senior from Hawaii, played one of the best games of his career against Baylor. He made five tackles and his rushing of Baylor's passer, Terry Southall, was especially effective.

Mills set a Tennessee school record catching 11 passes for 117 yards as the Vols beat Auburn. Rice made nine tackles against Southern California while Simpson got 10 tackles, three assists and recovered a fumble against East Tennessee State. Hahn caught four passes, climaxed by one for the winning touchdown in a last minute Purdue driver against Davidson.

Staley was cited for 11 tackles against Nebraska while Meylan blocked a punt and made nine tackles to help the Cornhuskers touch down.

Smith put on a sterling defensive show in helping New Mexico win against Kansas State. He made nine tackles, had seven assists and blocked a punt for a safety. Against Tulsa, Cooper made six tackles and set up two touchdowns with a pass interception and a recovered fumble.

Tigers Hold on Second Shaky After 6-2 Setback

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Another loss and the Detroit Tigers may not have Minnesota breathing down their necks for second place in the American League.

The Twins may then be tied with Detroit. The Tigers dropped 10 games out of first place Tuesday night in losing 6-2 to the California Angels.

Minnesota, meanwhile, crept within a half game of Detroit by beating Cleveland 5-1.

Johnny Podres, who has had four victories and four losses, will attempt to keep Detroit in position for the extra share of money due second-place finishers in the league. Podres faces Marcelino Lopez tonight in the wrap-up of the Tigers-Angels series.

END NEAR

After that, a three-game series with Kansas City at home will end Detroit's baseball season.

Jim Fregosi smacked a two-run homer in the fifth inning, putting the Angels ahead 3-1. Jose Cardenal, who crossed the plate with the first California run in the second inning on a single, blasted a three-run homer in the eighth inning off Orlando Pena.

Two national records for the finals were set Tuesday with the highest game and then pairing with Miss Kuczynski for a total 481—the highest doubles score.

The old record of 265 for the highest game was posted in 1964 by Miss Kuczynski, Janet Harman and Donna Zimmerman, both of Norwalk, Calif., the defending champions who finished seventh this year, had held the highest doubles score of 470, rolling it in 1964.

Mickey Lolich, who started the game and was lagged with his 14th loss against 14 victories, Ohio State in drawing a crowd there for the first Detroit run in big-time college football games last Saturday.

The MSU-Penn State encounter drew 6,783 fans to see the Spartans defeat the Nittany Lions. Ohio State had 75,734 fans in attendance at Columbus when it defeated Texas Christian University.

Willie Horne scored on a fielder's choice.

Second Largest Crowd at MSU

NEW YORK (UPI) — Michigan State was second only to Ohio State in drawing a crowd there for the first Detroit run in big-time college football games last Saturday.

The MSU-Penn State encounter drew 6,783 fans to see the Spartans defeat the Nittany Lions. Ohio State had 75,734 fans in attendance at Columbus when it defeated Texas Christian University.

Dodgers Gain With Win as Pirates Idle

LA Could Celebrate NL Pennant Tonight if Bucs, SF Lose

By the Associated Press "Things are a little bit better than they were this morning," Manager Walter Alston said Monday night after his Los Angeles Dodgers increased their National League lead to 2½ games with six left.

"Well, we're a half game better than we were yesterday," Alston said Tuesday night after a 2-0 victory over St. Louis increased the Dodgers' lead to three games with five to go.

"I'd say we're in slightly better shape than we were before the game," one might expect Alston to say tonight if the Dodgers increase their lead to 4½ games with four to go.

Chances are Alston would be more positive than he usually is if the Dodgers clinch the second straight pennant tonight, but the veteran manager carries caution out in front of him until the end.

Which could come tonight.

MAGIC NUMBER

The Dodgers' triumph Tuesday night reduced their magic number to three, meaning any combination of Los Angeles victories and Pittsburgh losses totaling three would give the Dodgers the pennant.

The third-place San Francisco Giants, four games behind the Dodgers and one behind the Pirates, also would have to lose the Braves in Atlanta tonight.

The second-place Pirates, who were rained out Tuesday night, play Philadelphia twice tonight, and the Dodgers play the Cardinals once.

In the only other NL game, San Francisco defeated Atlanta 6-3. Raulo also washed out Houston at Cincinnati and Chicago at New York.

In the American League, California stopped Detroit 6-2, Minnesota downed Cleveland 5-1 and Boston ended its season by nipping Chicago 2-1 after losing 1-0. Kansas City at Baltimore and New York at Washington lost to the rain.

LATEST HERO

Don Drysdale was the Dodgers' latest hero as he shut out St. Louis on four hits for his fourth straight victory and 13th against 16 defeats.

Ron Fairly gave the big right-hander the only run he needed with a second-inning homer, but the Dodgers added one in the sixth on a double by Jim LeFebvre and Lou Johnson's single.

Willie Mays drove in four runs with his 36th homer and a single, keeping the Giants mathematically alive. They're in third place, four games out. Mays' slugging offset Hank Aaron's 43rd homer, a three-run blow in the fourth inning. Lindy McDaniel allowed the Braves just one hit in six innings of relief.

Minnesota moved to within one-half game of the second-place Tigers behind Jim Perry's three-hit pitching. Harmon Killebrew hit his 37th homer for the Twins while Zoilo Versalles drove in two runs with a double.

Ken Berry singled home Tommie Agee with the only run of the game for Chicago's opening-game victory over Boston. Berry's hit was only the fifth off Lee Stange.

But the Red Sox, who ended their season unusually early, came back with the only run as Tony Conigliaro tripled home one run, scored the other when Don Buford fumbled George Scott's grounder.

New York Duo Grabs Keg Title

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Phyllis Notaro of Brant, N.Y., and Jessie Miller of Buffalo, N.Y., rallied Tuesday night in the final round to capture the National Women's Doubles Bowling Championship.

The New Yorkers were 57 pins in the final round after losing their first match game, 412-402, and their lead to Betty Kuczynski of Chicago and Helen Duval of Berkeley, Calif.

The Notaro — Miller team, which had led from the third round to the opening game of the final session, took the remaining two games to finish 240 pins ahead.

The duo won 17 of their 24 games and amassed 11,232 pins, including 1,700 bonus pins.

Miss Notaro and Miss Miller became the first New York team to win in the 13-year history of the event.

City Honors Slugger

Frank Robinson at Home With Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — Frank Robinson, feeling behind it is more permanent than he thought it would be, temporarily named in his honor. "I don't like two-faced people," Robinson said today. "I don't like the American League to act like the champion Orioles hope the my face and then stab me in the back. I'd rather have them come right out and tell me how they feel."

Robinson is candid in his conversation, freely speaking his mind, and expects the same from others. Perhaps that's why he didn't mind — at least understand — the racial slurs directed at him as a minor league player 12 years ago.

That was in 1954, when Robinson became the third Negro player on the Columbia, S.C., team in the Sally League. "Actually, it wasn't too bad — especially in Columbia," Robinson said. "But there was quite a bit of yelling from the stands in the back. I'd rather have them come right out and tell me how they feel."

Robinson said the living conditions for the Negro players was much worse than the taunts from the stands. "We were accepted on the playing field," he said, "but when we left the park, color became involved."

"While the white players lived at air conditioned hotels," he said, "we had to stay in private homes or the YMCA. For most entertainment, we were restricted to Negro places. At the one movie we could attend in Columbia, we had to sit in the balcony.

"When we traveled by bus — and some trips were quite long — we had to stay on the bus while the white players got off to eat."

But Robinson said the Sally League experiences are "all in the past."

"I don't look back on things like that," he said. "I feel I was lucky to come along when I did. It wasn't too bad."

As late as last February, Robinson was confronted by an anti-Negro feeling in Baltimore after he was obtained in a trade with the Cincinnati Reds.

Robinson said his representative, searching for a house while the Orioles were in spring training, "ran into opposition when some people found out who the house was for."

NAME CHANGED
A house finally was located in a changing neighborhood, now predominantly Negro. It was there that Cedarvale Road was changed to Robinson Road on Monday.

Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin draped a ribbon in honor of the occasion and praised Robinson for being a "true gentleman" with a "propensity for winning."

Robinson has conquered American League pitchers leading in six offensive categories including hitting, homers and runs batted in — the same way he has personal insults.

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The University of Michigan Wolverines put in some heavy practice Tuesday, emphasizing their running attack.

Carl Ward made a fine showing during limited scrimmage activity, coaches said.

Besides the running drill, coaches tried to tighten up line play.

Biggest worry now is quarterback Dennis Talbot of North Carolina, who the Wolverines see as the best quarterback they will have faced so far this season.

TOBIN ROTE

Tobin Rote Enthused Over Winless Denver

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Old the Broncos' No. 1 quarterback. "It was the first time I touched a receiver since the 1965 championship game against Buffalo," Rote said, "but it felt real good. It's great to be back in the game."

Rote has been living in Birmingham, Mich., heading the Nordix Co., which manufactures concrete conduit for telephone cable.

"I've been playing golf five or six days a week," Rote said, "and last winter I did a lot of weight lifting."

LITTLE HEAVY
He said his present weight of 254 pounds is only seven pounds over his playing weight at San Diego where he went after a long career in the National and Canadian Football Leagues. He stands 6-foot-3.

He was voted the AFL's Most Toughest Player in 1965. He was pro ball with the Green Bay Packers in 1950 after a collegiate career at Rice University.

Rote was troubled by tendinitis in his right elbow during his last season with San Diego but he says, "It didn't bother me a bit in my workout here. The only thing was my legs. This high altitude kinda got my mind and I noticed it in my legs."

Denver's running plays, Rote said, "are very similar to San Diego's system and I was able to move right in on that part of the job. But the Denver pass terminology is a little different, but I'll soon get the hang of it."

CONFIDENT
Rote said he felt Denver had "some real play receivers." This club can win some games when they get everything put together.

San Diego gave up the rights to Rote in exchange for a Denver draft choice. New Coach Ray Maliva said he didn't know if Rote would be activated for the Broncos' next game Sunday at home against Houston, which humiliated the Broncos 45-7 in their season opener.

Denver's decision to come out of retirement was credited to Doak Walker, a former Detroit Lion player who has joined the Broncos on a special assignment to try to recruit players.

Brothers Sparkle With Midget 11
The Snyder brothers stood out for Walled Lake's Blue Devils as the Suburban Midget Football Conference began its season last weekend.

Dave ran for three touchdowns, including a 57-yard punt return, in a 38-0 varsity romp over the Royal Oak Marauders.

Younger brother Tod had a 58-yard scoring scamper in the freshman's 13-2 conquest of the Marauders.

Red Sox Hire Dick Williams
BOSTON — The Boston Red Sox announced today that Dick Williams, who managed Toronto to two successive championships in the International League, will manage Boston in the American League next year.

Bill Crowley, Red Sox publicity director, said the club would hold a news conference the official announcement and Williams would be on hand for interviews.

He succeeds Billy Herman, French woman player, Francois who was fired Sept. 9.

Aussies Eying Adelaide, Australia (AP) — The South Australian Lawn Tennis Association is trying to lure two Russians for the state titles matches to be held in Adelaide in December.

They want Alex Metrevel and Vladimir Korodkov, as well as the whole U.S. team and top French woman player, Francois who was fired Sept. 9.

That first offer fools no one — you couldn't find a housewife to bite (sorry) on a 29c steak sale.

It's funny, tho, how people flip over the "tires for $9.50" ad pitch. But take it from an old tire man, $9.50 tires are really 29c steak — with one exception, they're not as tough!

So the lesson is — if you want to save money on tires, look for tire bargains, not bargain tires.

And if you want to save time, come here — we have the tire bargains — and don't even sell bargain tires!

Three Teams Unbeaten

Passers Spur Pro 11s

NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay, Dallas and St. Louis can credit the passing of their quarterbacks — Bart Starr, Don Meredith and Charley Johnson — with their unbeaten success in the National Football League.

None of the three teams has a runner among the top eight ground gainers in the league, but these three signal callers lead the NFL in passing, statistics released today show.

Starr has the best overall average with 46 completions in 74 throws for 633 yards, four touchdowns and a 9.17 yard average per pass for the Packers, 3.0.

Meredith of Dallas, 2.0, has thrown 63 passes, 10 touchdowns and a 9.17 yard average per pass for the Cowboys.

Johnson of St. Louis has thrown 63 passes, 10 touchdowns and a 9.17 yard average per pass for the Cardinals.

Johnson's 11.11 yard average per throw while connecting on 22 passes in 46 attempts for 11 yards.

Johnson of the St. Louis Cardinals, 3.0, leads the league with 67 yards and is tied for the top with 49 completions. He has thrown 80 times for four touchdowns and a 8.34 yard average.

Bill Brown of Minnesota has replaced retired Jim Brown as the rushing leader with 278 yards on 54 carries for a 5.1 average.

Brown's replacement, Leroy Kelly, is second with 214 yards on 46 tries for a 4.7 yard average. He has four touchdowns, best among the top ten.

Bobby Mitchell of Washington, returning to his form of several years ago, is tied with former Green Bay halfback Tom Moore of Los Angeles, and Jackie Smith of St. Louis with 15 catches. Smith's receptions have gone for 281 yards, or 18.7 a catch.

Mitchell's total is 262 yards, or 17.5 per catch. But John Mackey of Baltimore, tied with five others for third with 13 catches, has a 19.5 average per catch and three touchdowns for 253 total yards.

Lou Michaels of Baltimore, a perfect kicker, leads the league in scoring with 29 points. He has made all seven of his field goal attempts and is 8-8 on extra points.

Leaders in other categories former Cleveland Browns re-turned to town Tuesday, one to four interceptions; Dave Lee, Baltimore 52.1 yard punting average on nine kicks; Al Hay, to bolster the defensive backfield, stretched to the four-play returns for 108 yards and a 15.4 minimum after the injury to Walter Beach.

Jim Brown is back to visit his family and said, "The Browns have done a tremendous job and I feel they are a stronger team without me." The question of team strength without Brown will remain academic, because the former all-pro fullback reiterated his previous stand.

"I'm finished," he said of his retirement announcement before the season. "I made my decision and it still stands."

Franklin, a six-year defensive back with the Browns, was picked up on waivers from the Atlanta Falcons, where he went when the National Football League franchise started this season.

Avondale 11 in Stinging Mood

Avondale's Yellow Jackets are a little red around the collar this week.

"We feel we should be 2-0, and we wanted to have some momentum going into the game with Madison," football coach Dick Bye explained Tuesday.

"The kids are pretty mad. We're going to prove that we can beat a top-rated team."

Their ire isn't provoked as much by the visiting Eagles as by the way they let the first two games get away from them.

Hot Hockey Prospect Off to Cool Camp

"Buddy" Hershel Williams of Walled Lake can't wait for the cold weather.

In fact, the Walled Lake 19-year-old athlete is leaving at noon Friday from Windsor Airport for the cool climate of New Brunswick.

Williams is joined a berth with the Fredericton Red Wings, a junior A ice hockey team affiliated with the Detroit Red Wings, following a recent three-day tryout at Hamilton, Ont.

He and defenseman Mike Masters, 17, from the Lake St.

Hoop Ace Idled

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Ben McGilmer, a junior from Detroit, one of the University of Iowa's top basketball players, will not be eligible to play during the first semester this season, Coach Ralph Miller said Tuesday.

Three Red Wings Sign New Pacts

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings Tuesday signed veterans Andy Bathgate and Leo Boivin and also young defenseman Bryan Watson.

The Red Wings began preseason training for the National Hockey League 1966-67 campaign a week ago and now have seven men under contract.

Bathgate, 34, will be playing his 13th NHL season and Boivin, also 34, his 14th season. Both spent most of those years with other NHL clubs.

Watson, 23, a defenseman, will be playing his second full year with Detroit. He starred in the Stanley Cup semifinal series against the Chicago Blackhawks last season when he held Bobby Hull to one goal.

Girls to Golf in Flint

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Golf Association announced today that the 1968 Girls' Junior tournament will be played at the Flint, Mich., Golf Club. Dates for the championship will be announced later.

Bruce Evans captured first place for Bloomfield Hills with 10:29 clocking, but Waterford took second, third and fourth to tournament will be played at Knott Oak Bloomfield Hills, 23-34. Dave Gallaway ran second for Waterford.

Orchard Lake St. Mary and Waterford came up with cross-country victories yesterday.

Bob Przeglaski posted a 10:48 time to crack the course record at Oxford as he and his OLSM teammates downed the Wildcats, 27-29. Andy Jugan ran second for OLSM and Bud Geow placed third for Oxford.

Madison, coached by Frank Cowell (longtime mentor at Avondale) and riding a fast start (2-0) has a potent offense going for it and hasn't had much trouble on defense though the Eagles might prefer to tangle with the aroused Avondale squad at a later date.

Madison has two talented linemen in studs Marshall Peismann, a tackle, and Bill Pietronky, a guard. They were first and second team All-County Class B performers last season.

The Madison Heights facility may become a Class A school this fall, a fact that could seriously affect the Eagles' bid for weekly recognition in the state polls. Their main concern at the moment, though, is to cool off the victory-seeking Yellow Jackets.

In other Friday night O-A contests, preseason title favorite Warren Fitzgerald will entertain winless Troy, offense-minded Cousino will visit Lake Orion for the Dragons' home debut, while ambitious Clawson will go to Rochester and try to halt the Falcons' aerial attack.

Meanwhile, the solidly built Walled Lake High School graduate is stocking up on warm clothing for his stay in the North Atlantic country where it sometimes reaches 30-40 degrees below zero.

Williams is a center (cman) with natural instincts around the opposition's goal. He may attend school or find a job while playing at Fredericton, though the parent Red Wings will subsidize him and Masters during the season.

Homer Off Feller Big Hit for Goose Goslin

By TED MEIER
NEW YORK (AP) — Quick New. Who hit the first homer off Bob Feller.

Here's a hint. The batter's last name starts with a G and the year was 1936. Feller's first season in the major leagues.

Give up? The answer is Goose Goslin, who won the 1935 World Series for the Detroit Tigers with his historic hit that drove in the winning run in the sixth and final game against the Chicago Cubs.

Goslin, a fit-looking 65-year-old who played 19 seasons in the majors from 1921 through 1938, told about it Tuesday night at a party to help publicize The Glory of Their Times. Lawrence Ritter's book of reminiscences of 22 baseball oldtimers.

Well, the first time I faced Feller he gave me a fast ball on the very first pitch. I hit it into the second deck in right field." Old Goose gave a smile of satisfaction as he recalled that occasion 30 years ago in Navin Field in Detroit when he played the outfield for the Tigers.

"I remember it well," Goslin said. "Everyone was talking about his fast ball at the time. And, if you remember, there was nothing I liked better than to hit fast balls."

Feller, hailed as one of the game's greatest pitchers when he came up as a 17-year-old rookie, was noted for his blazing fast ball.

"That was one of his greatest thrills," said Jim Goslin, Goose's younger brother. "His greatest was hitting .316 for his 19 years in the majors." Goose nodded in agreement.

Goose, whose name is Leon Allen Goslin, is far better known, however, for his ninth-inning single in the sixth game of the 1935 World Series that beat the Cubs 4-3 and brought Detroit its first World Series championship.

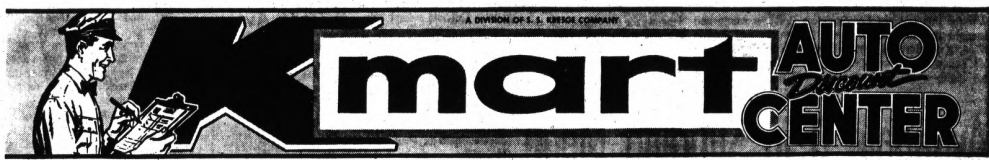

Goose, who lives in Salem, N.J., played with the Washington Senators, the old St. Louis Browns and Detroit in his 2,367 major league career. He played in three World Series with Washington in 1924-1925 and 1933 before the 1935 Series with Detroit.

Area Shooters Win Crowns

Thiefels Breaks 100 in Two Events

Two area skeet shooters each won two titles in the Blue Rock Open at Tudor Hills Gun Club near Oxford last weekend. Bob Thieffels of Bloomfield Hills took the 20 and 12 gauge championships. Birmingham's Florence Schmidt was the women's champion in the same two events.

Thieffels posted the only perfect 100s of the meet in winning his titles. However, the overall honors went to Ted Hannaford of Warren with a 386x400 score.

Florence won the overall Class A 20 gauge crown — in addition to the lady's title — with a 92. She had a 97 with a 12 gauge and was "B" champion in 28 gauge with 92.

Jack Pattyn of Detroit was the 410 titlist with a 94. He lost to Hannaford in a shootout for 28 gauge honors after breaking 98.

Bill Brown Jr. of Birmingham was second in Class A 410 with an 84, third in Class A 28 with a 95 and second in Class AA 20 with a 98. Neil Clark of Birmingham was third in Class C 20 with 89 and Bob Clark of Birmingham was Class C 12 champion with 85.

'Help Wanted' Sign Placed by Department

College graduates are being sought to fill job openings within the Department of Conservation.

Under a series of nationwide examinations to be held by the Civil Service Commission, the department hopes to recruit new personnel as trainee aquatic biologists, biometicians, fisheries biologists, foresters, game biologists, geologists, land appraisers, park interpreters and park managers.

Persons who have earned their college degrees in these fields or expect to by Sept. 1, 1967, may get in the running for any of the nine separate job classes by applying to take open-competitive tests.

They have until 5 p.m., Oct. 17, to submit their applications to the Civil Service Commission in Lansing. College graduates from out of state, as well as Michigan residents are eligible. Starting annual salary for each of the trainee positions is $6,681.60.

Cohos, Perch Draw Anglers' Interest

Coho salmon may be stealing the headlines, but other fish are being caught in good quantity around the state.

The best perch fishing of the year is taking place on Lake St. Clair in the North and Middle Channels using worms and minnows. Good catches of bluegills are being taken on grass hoppers at Kent Lake.

But the big news is the heavier than expected run of coho salmon in the Manistee River. Most of the fish are young males or jacks and will die if not caught.

The Conservation Department reports that catches on the Manistee near where it is joined by Bear Creek are running 5 to 1 coho over steelheads.

However, it is too early for the major fall run of steelheads out of Lake Michigan.

Only about 5 to 10 per cent of the salmon planted in the Bear and Platte last spring are expected to reappear in the streams this fall. The big run will be next fall when the heavy female spawners move upstream.

Lures seem to be the producers on Salmon with the flatfish favored. Some cohos are being caught on wigglers.

A handful of fishermen are taking advantage of the extended season on the flies—only water of the Au Sable between Burton's Landing and Wakeley Bridge. They are having fair results when afternoon hatches take place.

The season closes in this stretch of water Oct. 11.

Recent frosts have started trees turning color rapidly in the Upper Peninsula and two a lesser extent in Northern Lower Michigan. The leaves aren't expected to last long this year, however, because of the prolonged summer dry spell.

State to Receive $1.9 Million Fund

Nearly $1.9 million in Land and Water Conservation Funds have been allotted to Michigan for the current fiscal year to promote expansion of public facilities for outdoor recreation. The latest Land and Water grant earmarked for Michigan is part of some $59 million apportioned nationwide. It will be split 50-50 between state and local outdoor projects.

The federal funds, which will remain available for qualifying projects through June 30, 1968, must be matched dollar for dollar by state and local money.

Trial Scheduled by Pointer Club

Highlight of the German Shorthair Pointer Club of Michigan's 25th anniversary celebration will be a field trial Saturday and Sunday at the Highland recreation area.

Starting time both days will be 7 a.m. Events will include open gun dog, puppy, amateur gun dog, open all-age, open derby and open limited all-age.

Chief of Interpreters

Jon W. Roethlis, regional park interpreter for the northern Lower Peninsula since 1964, has been placed in charge of interpretive services with the Conservation Department's parks division in Lansing.

Firecrackers, Honkers Clash in Wisconsin

Federal Government vs. State in Court; Cannons Boom

HORICON, Wis. (AP) — The Canada geese keep gliding into Horicon marsh to the tune of federal firecrackers which are heading the government and the state of Wisconsin toward a court showdown.

Circuit Court Judge Henry G. Gerben Jr. has scheduled a hearing for Thursday in Juneau for the government to show cause why a restraining order should not be issued against U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service program of chasing geese from the marsh with noise-making devices.

The government says the 150,000 geese which frequently roost in Horicon National Wildlife Refuge during the fall migration are too great a bird population for the marsh to handle. It wants the number held to 50,000.

Wildlife agents are using firecrackers and bottled-gas cannons to frighten geese south to Illinois refuges.

Wisconsin, angry because the government will not expand the state's 1966 goose-kill quota, argues the geese will move to grain fields causing crop damage for which the state must reimburse farmers.

Gergen turned down the state's request for an injunction Friday. In Milwaukee, U.S. Atty. James M. Brennan said he will move to have the show-cause hearing moved to a federal court.

The cannon began booming last week with an estimated 4,000 geese on the refuge waters. The count Saturday was 23,200 and rising.

Archers Also Ready to Start

'Pat' Hunting Opens Saturday

The outlook for the small game season which opens in Northern Michigan Saturday is about the same as last year. Ruffed grouse numbers are up slightly in several areas of the Northern Lower Peninsula, but down in the Western U.P. Woodcock populations are near the same as 1965.

Archers also will be moving into deer areas over the entire state Saturday. Rabbits, squirrels and geese also become legal targets the same days in Zones 1 and 2. The small game season does not open in Southern Lower Michigan (Zone 3) until Oct. 20.

Goose shooting is not legal in Zone 2 until the duck season starts Oct. 10. Field reports indicate that ruffed grouse hunting should be best in Alpena, Montmorency, Presque Isle, Cheboygan, Emmet, Charlevoix, Antrim, Benzie, Grand Traverse, Manistee, Lake, Osceola, Newaga, Mecosta and Isabella counties.

All are in the Lower Peninsula. Sharp-tailed grouse, which come under the gun in only seven counties of the Upper Peninsula, are again scarce this fall. Under a change made this year, Drummond Island and Iron and Menominee counties are again scarce this fall. Under a change made this year, Drummond Island and Iron and Menominee counties are again scarce this fall.

Also starting Saturday in parts of Menominee and Delta counties is a limited pheasant season which will make a brief run through Oct. 10.

This fall's prospects shape up closely with 1965 for archery deer hunters, who harvested over 2,100 whitetails last season.

Great Lakes Topic of Council Session

The Great Lakes will be the theme of the Michigan Natural Resources Council's 11th annual conference Oct. 19 in Lansing's Civic Center.

Backer of LBJ Wins Narrowly

Edges Viet Critic in NY Dem 'Reply'

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Leonard Farberstein, who keyed his campaign for support for President Johnson's Viet Nam policy, has scored a narrow victory over a vigorous administration critic in a special Democratic primary.

The margin in Tuesday's 19th Congressional District rerun primary was only 929 votes out of more than 33,000 cast.

Farberstein, 63, a five-term congressman who has made a specialty in recent years of winning by close elections, polled 17,000 votes in the unofficial tally.

His opponent, City Councilman Theodore S. Weiss, 39, a reforming Democrat, had 16,151 votes.

DOMINANT ISSUE

Viet Nam was the dominant issue of the campaign and Farberstein had declared: "A vote for Farberstein is a vote in support of President Johnson."

Farberstein was backed by the regular Democratic organization in Manhattan — Tammany Hall.

Weiss had said the United States must "stop the shooting, get off the battlefield and get to the conference table as soon as possible." Weiss had urged negotiations with the Viet Cong and admission of Red China to the United Nations.

The contest was the second for Farberstein and Weiss, who had battled in the regular June 28 primary. Weiss had won by 61 votes in the unofficial tally, but a recount put Farberstein ahead by 151 votes.

A court ordered a replay when it found more than 1,100 invalid votes among 35,000 cast.

Georgia Vote Pits 2 Dems in Key Race

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Georgia Democratic gubernatorial campaign ends today with voters choosing between former Gov. Ellis Arnall and businessman Lester Maddox, exponents of widely opposing political views, particularly on racial matters.

The victor after the polls close tonight and the returns are tabulated will meet Rep. Howard (B) Callaway, Georgia's lone Republican congressman, and the first GOP candidate for governor in this era, in the Nov. 8 election.

Maddox, 50, made news two years ago when he sold his cafeteria rather than integrate it, as required by the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Negroes were chased away with ax handles and a waved pistol.

Arnall, 59, served in the governor's office 20 years ago in a reform administration in which he successfully fought to revoke a Ku Klux Klan charter and lowered the voting age from 21 to 18.

AIM ATTACKS

Maddox has attacked Arnall via the national administration. Arnall has hit Maddox's actions at his restaurant.

Of Democratic concern in today's election is the possibility Georgia Republicans, unhampered by party registration, will be at the polls to vote for Maddox with the idea he would be a weaker opponent for Callaway.

Since Callaway was nominated by petitions bearing more than 120,000 names, Republicans are free to vote in the Democratic primary runoff.

Three in Family Slain in Ohio

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A chemical engineer, his wife and their 4-year-old daughter were found stabbed to death in their fashionable suburban home Tuesday night.

Police said they had been dead at least a day. Each body bore several slash wounds, and the house had been burglarized.

The murder victims were Jerry Brice, 28, a chemical engineer for the Monsanto Co.; his wife, Lynn, 24, a former airline stewardess, and their daughter, Debbie.

The discovery was made by a neighbor, Richard Meyer, in the Brice home in the Bridgeport community.

General Motors Turns Out to Be 'Good Guy' in Auto Price Cutback Story

By CHARLES C. CAIN
AP Business News Writer
DETROIT — General Motors found itself cast this week in the role of the good guy, the defender of the American people's pocketbook.

It all came about after GM, giant of the auto industry, figured out how much it would have to raise prices of its 1967 cars to pay-it said—for safety items and other higher costs.

Ford, first of the auto makers to announce new prices, had set its average boost at $107 and drew criticism from the White House, the United Auto Workers Union and government economists.

Chrysler came up 24 hours later with what it figured as a $82 average hike.

LOWER FIGURE

That put it up to GM which sells over half of the American car market. Its figure, announced Sept. 22, was $54.

It was obvious that GM's relatively sudden announcement caught Ford and Chrysler by surprise. It also was apparent that they would have a hard job of trying to sell cars in competition with GM if their price increases were not trimmed.

After days of sitting it out, Chrysler and Ford came up with new figures this week as they trimmed the amount of the proposed increase.

Ford cut its proposed prices by $41, making the increase $66. Chrysler trimmed its list $28, with a new average hike of $64.

That silence continued Tuesday. Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz, in Detroit for a speaking engagement Tuesday, told newsmen who informed him of the Ford-Chrysler rollback, "If what you say is true, I think the President would be the first to applaud this working of a competitive situation."

General Motors executives maintained a discreet silence in the days that Chrysler and Ford wrestled with the problem of how to pull back gracefully on their increases.

day as GM's top brass had no public comment on their competitors' price rollbacks.

Actually, GM probably enjoyed every minute of it.

HAPPY YEAR

From a public relations standpoint, this had not been a happy year for General Motors. It was on page one often during the auto safety hearings as auto critics, particularly Ralph Nader, a Hartford, Conn. attorney, singled out GM products, especially the Chevrolet Corvair, for unwanted attention with questions about safety characteristics.

GM had a couple of bad days when a senate committee asked why the big auto firm had used private detectives to dig into Nader's background. GM president James M. Roche took the witness chair before the committee and apologized for GM's conduct.

'U.S. Persists in Peace Tries' Wage-Price Controls Not in Offing--Wirtz

Students in Oregon Hear Vice President

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) -- Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, fresh from encountering a bitter anti-Viet Nam war demonstration in Portland, told University of Oregon students today that "we persist in our efforts to bring the war to a negotiated settlement."

"Overwhelming military power alone is not an adequate response to the wars of national liberation," Humphrey said in his prepared remarks.

He said the recent election "was a recognition that the social revolution needed in Viet Nam must rest on a solid, popular political base."

But, he added, progress "will be threatened so long as the war in Viet Nam continues." He said this country's position was clearly for suspending bombing of North Viet Nam in exchange for "reduction of cessation of infiltration by Hanoi," and "we are prepared to see the National Liberation Front represented in peace negotiations."

"We seek only to help Asians in their tasks for nation-building," he said.

Humphrey came to Portland Tuesday night from San Diego. Antiwar demonstrators surged around the hotel where he gave a dinner address in support of Rep. Robert Duncan's U.S. senatorial campaign against Republican Gov. Mark Hatfield.

The demonstrators, chanting and waving banners, were avoided by Humphrey as he entered the hotel but his suite overlooked the street entrance where scores laid down on the pavement as police tried to clear the way. The demonstrators were dragged in one side or shoved into police cars.

President Makes Space Treaty Plea

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) -- President Johnson, declaring that "the security of all men may well be at stake," has made a personal plea to shake loose bogged-down United Nations' efforts toward a U.S.-Soviet agreement governing the use of outer space.

A space treaty is "a matter of the highest common interest," the U.S. chief executive said while touring this support with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, Tuesday.

"I earnestly hope the Soviet Union -- whose space achievements have been great -- will feel as we do that the rapid evolution of space technology makes early conclusion of treaty governing the use of space a most urgent matter," Johnson said.

Major areas of disagreement between the United States and the Soviet Union in the United Nations space treaty efforts include reporting outer-space activities, equal access to each other's equipment and installations on the moon, and military hardware in space.

COMPULSORY REPORTING

The United States proposes compulsory reporting of outer-space activities, while the Soviet Union wants voluntary reporting.

Soviet officials have accepted in principle a U.S. proposal that nations grant each other equal access to space vehicles, equipment and installations on the moon and other celestial bodies at all times, but Russia wants to make the timing of such access subject to an agreement among the parties concerned.

Russia also objects to a clause in the U.S. draft treaty which says nations may use both military personnel and equipment in the peaceful exploration of space, claiming the words "military equipment" is not well enough defined.

Both the U.S. and the Soviet Union have agreed on several provisions, such as forbidding any objects carrying nuclear weapons to be put into earth orbit, permitting all nations to freely explore the moon and other celestial bodies, and reserving space for peaceful purposes ruled by the principles of international law.

Walk Outside Gemini Revised

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) -- Plans for Gemini 12's lengthy, rocket-powered spacewalk have undergone a major revision as a result of the fatigue problem that plagued astronaut Richard F. Gordon Jr. outside Gemini 11.

Project officials scrubbed completely a bold Air Force-developed experiment that would have sent Maj. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. jetting around the world with a sophisticated rocket pack on his back.

Gemini 12, a four-day flight to include a rendezvous with an Agena 10 to begin Oct. 31 with Aldrin and Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. at the controls.

Aldrin's main assignment now will be to investigate some of the basic problems space walkers face, such as body positioning, simple work tasks and the need for restraint equipment.

His stroll could last as long as two hours, about the same time originally planned. The switch came after Navy Lt. Cmdr. Gordon had to shorten his 115-minute space walk to 44 minutes Sept. 13 when he got extremely tired and sweated heavily while tying his spacesuit to an Agena rocket.

Gordon warned officials later that until equipment is developed to help a man in weightlessness maintain his body position and still keep both hands free, working outside should be confined to simple tasks.

Officials, admittedly taken by surprise that work outside was so hard, immediately began studying possible changes for Aldrin's stroll.

Of chief concern was that donning and doffing the jet pack would be a demanding chore, as experience on Gemini 9 showed.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan, the Gemini 9 pilot, was to have rocketed about with the pack, known as an astronaut maneuvering unit, but worked so hard strapping the complex gear on, his visor fogged, forcing him to end the space walk before testing it.

Johnson and Erhard toured the space center for 2 1/2 hours Tuesday to wind up their two days of discussions.

The tour included Gemini and Apollo astronaut launching sites and a ride to the top of the 410-foot-tall moon-rocket launch pad, where the men surveyed a full-scale version of a giant Saturn 5 rocket on the launch pad.

Space endeavors "must be open to all nations" everywhere," Johnson said, adding that the United States "would like to see many more multinational 'space' projects."

"I think we're all called upon to cooperate in this field," Erhard agreed while standing inside the huge vehicle assembly building, where Saturn 5 man-to-the-moon rockets are to be assembled.

Purple Street Is Alarming; Source Found

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) -- "The street in front of my house has turned purple," the lady told police. It really had -- "passionate purple," as one resident put it.

Police quickly found the cause -- a 56-gallon barrel of purple dye, the type used to make purple paper to line orange crates, had fallen from a passing truck and broken.

Then it began raining.

New Kroger Vac-Pac Coffee: guaranteed fine as the best and costs you less

A good cup of coffee—like a successful marriage—is a blend. In the case of Kroger's Vac-Pac Coffee, a blend of seven great coffees. Light, mellow Brazilians; rich, full-bodied Colombians, and choice Central American coffees. Some give brightness to the blend, others deep, satisfying flavor. And the combination is constantly adjusted to correct for subtle variances in natural aroma and body. So you get the same good taste time after time after time.

Kroger coffeemasters roast these plump vintage beans just 7 minutes; cool, grind and vacuum-pack them in minutes. From raw beans-in-the-bag to sealed canister, they're untouched by human hands. Kroger coffee has one other distinction: it's always the freshest in the store. It goes directly from our roasters to the store-shelves every week.

So you get more of the natural fragrance, more of the roaster-fresh taste in every cup you brew. Nothing could be more satisfying! That, Kroger guarantees.

Junior Editors Quiz on SOUTHPAWS

QUESTION: Why is a left-handed pitcher called a southpaw?

ANSWER: As baseball fields became used more and more in the last century, it was realized that they should be laid out in such a way that the afternoon sunlight would not shine either into the eyes of the pitcher or the batter. This would put these important players at a disadvantage. An arrangement of the field in relation to the compass directions was worked out as shown at upper right.

The direction north leads away from the diamond along the left field foul line; south is along this line leading toward home plate.

This means that west, where the afternoon sun shines from, is away from the diamond beyond third base.

The sun shines into the right field's eyes but not into those of the pitcher or batter.

As a right-handed pitcher throws, the ball passes on the north and west sides of his body.

But with a left hander, his arm moves across the part of his body facing east and is released as his hand is on his south side. Call his hand a paw, and you can see why left handers are called southpaws.

FOR YOU TO DO: Can you think of some famous southpaw pitchers besides the ones we show?

Irish Population Up 2nd Time in Century

By DONAL O'HIGGINS
United Press International
DUBLIN — Ireland's population is increasing — and even in a world worried by the population explosion that's news. For only the second time since the black famine of the mid-19th Century decimated the nation, population figures have shown an upswing.

An increase of 2.2 per cent — the greatest since the period 1831-41 — was recorded for the 26-county republic on April 17, census day in Ireland.

The increase of 62,411 which brought the population to 2,860,752 reversed a trend that brought near despair to the nation's planners.

Only in 1951 when an increase of 5,486 was registered was the steady erosion of Ireland's population halted.

EMIGRATION DECLINE

The population increase went hand in hand with a sharp decline in Ireland's annual emigration figures, down to 83,855 from the previous figure of 212,063.

But the success story ends there.

Behind the statistics lay most of the evils which have plagued Ireland for centuries — rural depopulation, with more and more Irishmen crowding into the cities.

Despite government schemes, voluntary organizations and church help the decline of the population in Connacht in the West was still one of the bleakest aspects of the report.

It is here that the last outposts of the Gaelic language — the Gaeltachts — are to be found where shrinking pockets of the people still converse in Irish.

Because of this, Connacht, a traditionally depressed area, has held a special place in the eyes of the nation and has been recipient of a host of government — subsidized schemes to keep the population steady.

The census report showed a steady decline, amounting to 4.3 per cent, due to emigration or a drift into the cities.

The exodus from the rural areas has brought with it a growing restlessness among the farming community which has declared open warfare on the Ministry of Agriculture.

With many of the larger farms unable to attract workers to help on the land and with thousands of small farmers working uneconomical holdings a feeling of frustration has been building up for years.

Within the past 12 months it has spilled over into open defiance of the government with farmers holding back payment of local taxes to force the hands of the authorities.

The past weeks have also seen it boiling up again in a demand for the resignation of Agricultural Minister Charles Haughey, son-in-law of Premier Sean P. Lemass.

Sociologists, government experts, parish councils and agriculturalists have all examined the problem of rural depopulation.

SQUATTER'S RIGHTS — Pfc. Francis Braun of St. Mary's Pa., squats like the Vietnamese girl he's interrogating in a small village near the demilitarized zone last week. U.S. Rice Helps Yanks to Get Foot in Indonesian Door Again

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — A full-scale aid program, cut off here last year at the peak of Communist-inspired attacks against the United States government, is being considered again for this nation.

Indonesia has 109 million people, based on a 1961 census and a 2.5 per cent annual increase. This and its strategic position in Southeast Asia make it too big to be ignored.

Indonesian marines, with Soviet-made submarine guns under their arms, are guarding the rice as it is unloaded. But they look the other way as workers sweep up hundreds of pounds.

The dock workers, many wearing long pants which they fill with spilled rice, work daily 16 hours with small breaks. They get about 10 rupiahs — eight cents — a day. In addition, however, they are paid five kilos — 11 pounds — of rice each day.

The rice was sold to Indonesia technically for dollars — but Indonesia has no money to pay.

The rice and a shipment of cotton worth $10.5 million were sent steps by the United States to put its foot back inside the previously closed door of Indonesia.

Negro Leader Examines Whys of Rights Bill Death

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG Jr.
Executive Director
National Urban League

The Civil Rights Bill of 1966 is dead — murdered on the floor of the Senate, which twice refused to end a Southern filibuster, thus killing the bill for this session of Congress.

Of course it was the fair housing portion of the bill which caused Congress' reluctance to pass it.

The House of Representatives limited the usefulness of this provision by restricting it to only about 40 per cent of all housing, and then the Senate failed to support even the stripped-down bill.

I shouldn't say the "Senate" because only a minority of the Senate was against the bill.

The majority — 54 out of 100 — supported the measure. But it takes a two-thirds vote to close off debate and bring a bill to a vote, and so a determined minority was able to frustrate the will of the majority.

Why? Why has the steady march of laws aimed at guaranteeing equality for Negroes and other minorities suddenly ground to a halt? Why has the deep concern for justice and decency which led to the sweeping Civil Rights Bills of 1956 and 1965 evaporated?

These are questions good men must be asking themselves in the wake of the bill's defeat, and the answers aren't easy. They aren't pretty either.

To even attempt to begin to come to terms with what has happened, we must face the fact that prejudice and racism have become so ingrained in American life that massive educational approach is needed to help people shed the myths by which they live.

The irrational fears that many people harbor are too often reflections of their own repressed violence. Chicago taught us that. Young thugs pelted civil rights marchers with stones; jeered at them behind vile signs and Nazi swastikas.

"NEGRO INTRUSIONS"

They said they were "defending their good neighborhoods from Negro intrusions." Hiding behind rationalizations of "Negro crime" or "lowering neighborhood standards," they glorified the insanity of Nazism and acted like criminals themselves.

The mean little town of Cicero also "defended" itself from Negro intrusions. But that all while suburb (all-white since 1951 when it rioted, forcing a Negro family out of its home), was once Al Capone's crime capital and reports indicate that not much has changed.

The town has an extremely low cultural and educational level and its streets are filled with trash. Yet Cicero and the Chicago hoodlums set the pace for the national "backlash" which convinced legislators that the nation isn't ready for housing integration.

Is this the model the nation should follow? Must the nation hide behind fear and myths? Should it not seek to recover the idealism of the past few years and help create a fair and truly diverse society?

HIDE BEHIND MYTHS

Of course, most people against housing integration aren't hoodlums. They take refuge behind myths like "property values go down when Negroes move in."

Yet study after study in cities across the nation show that property values are unaffected by integration. What causes prices to go down is panic selling to blockbusting realtors.

Americans must not retreat into the fantasyland of myths and prejudice. Leaders must lead, not follow the most backward elements in their constituencies.

Negro citizens asked for equality and America's answer in 1966 was to kill fair housing and allow a rise in Negro unemployment to 2 1/2 times the white rate.

Adjustment to Mexican Air Is 'Brief'

By Science Service
SYDNEY, Australia—Athletes competing in the Olympic Games at Mexico City in 1968 will not have to acclimatize themselves with high altitude training beforehand, according to a Mexican scientist.

They will need only two or three days in the Mexican capital to adjust themselves to the rarefied atmosphere 7,500 feet above sea level.

Prof. G. Ruiz-Reyes, professor of hematology at the University of Puebla, Mexico City, told a hematology conference at Sydney University, "In my opinion, there is absolutely no need for athletes to do preliminary high-altitude training or engage in such acclimatization gimmicks as chambers in low pressure training."

"Two or three days in Mexico City is all that is necessary to adjust their systems to height. Like most visitors they will feel a little tired at first but there will be no problems of respiration."

Prof. Ruiz-Reyes said that residents of Mexico City had larger hearts and more red corpuscles than people living at sea level. He denied, however, that this would put Mexico City athletes at an unfair advantage over athletes from lower levels.

STRONG PROTESTS

"Sportsmen of all kinds are continuously visiting Mexico City to compete with our sportsmen," he said. "They never bother with preliminary high altitude training and just as often beat our men."

World renowned sportsmen such as Ron Clarke, Australia's record holder, and former British mile champion Dr. Roger Bannister, have protested strongly against the Games being held in Mexico.

They claim that holding the Games at such a height will place too great an adjustment strain on the constitution of most athletes.

The Caribbean Games, which were held in Mexico City several years ago, attracted athletes from all over South America, including many low-lying areas, Prof. Ruiz-Reyes said.

"Apart from a few days adjustment in the city itself, they did not bother with high altitude training. But we Mexicans are not aggressively athletic, we have only distinguished ourselves in high diving and horse jumping at previous Games."

New Blood Tester Shown

12-Step Process Said Aid to Elderly Care

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — Low-cost mass screening services could help prevent some of the chronic illnesses that send old people to hospitals and nursing homes, witnesses said at a Senate hearing of the subcommittee on health of the elderly.

A patient may today pay $5 or more for laboratory services that cost 50 cents or less to perform, Dr. Ralph E. Thiers of the Duke University Medical Center said.

He demonstrated a 12-channel blood-testing instrument called an Autoanalyzer for Sen. Maurice Neuberger, D-Ore., who was chairman of the hearing, and others present.

It would be to the advantage of physicians and their patients if the laboratories would be allowed to do their jobs, freeing the physicians for diagnosis and treatment, Dr. Thiers, who is a professor of biochemistry and director of the Duke Clinical Chemistry Laboratory, said.

"A physician is wasting his training if he supervises the chemists," he added. "However, certain groups maintain that the conduct of all laboratory examinations is properly a part of the physician's practice, and the American Medical Association has passed a resolution supporting this stand."

The American patient today gets, in the main, mediocre-quality quantitative laboratory services because budgets are inadequate to provide needed analyses that could be furnished by such instruments as the Autoanalyzer, he said.

Dr. Thiers referred to the genius of Dr. Leonard T. T. Skeggs Jr. of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, who developed the Autoanalyzer because he was a biochemist in an overburdened clinical laboratory.

The Technicon Instruments Corporation perfected the instrument.

From one teaspoonful of blood 12 complicated chemical analyses can be recorded on graph paper in directly usable form. Opposition to multiphasic screening stems from the threat to the current charge structure of medicine, the present "disciplinary" lines and administrative arrangements, confusion about what is properly a part of the physician's practice, and the lack of enough expert chemists to do the necessary work, Dr. Thiers explained.

"Multiphasic analysis is not a futuristic dream," he said. "It is here today. In spite of the stumbling blocks discussed, I believe multiphasic screening will progress rapidly, break down the barriers and lead to a new era in medicine."

Britain Set to Build Space Telescope

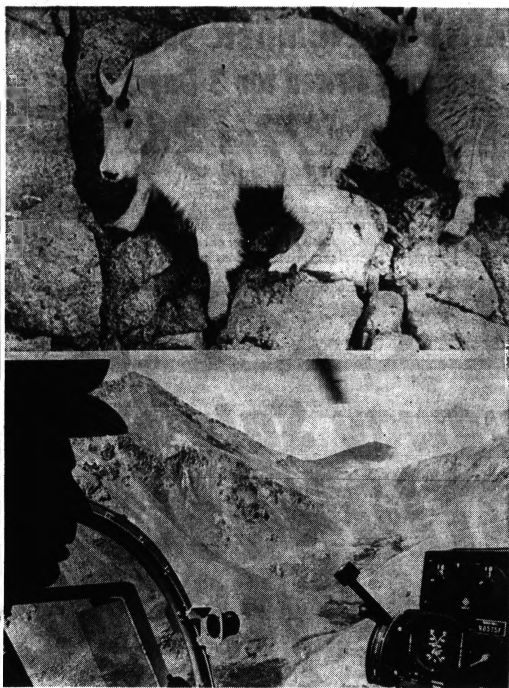

By Science Service
LONDON — Great Britain has won the quest for the heart of Europe's biggest space project, triumphing over German-Dutch and French-Belgian-Swiss alliances. The prize is a $10-million contract to build a telescope for the European Space Research Organization's (ESRO) Large Astronomical Satellite (LAS).

Scheduled to be launched in 1971, LAS will be centered around a 10-foot-long, 32-inch-diameter reflecting telescope designed to make observations of infrared and ultraviolet wavelengths. The telescope's mirror and associated instrumentation are to be built by the Culham Laboratory of the British Atomic Energy Authority.

Ultraviolet and infrared observations are made difficult by the interference of the earth's atmosphere. LAS, like the U.S. Orbiting Astronomical Observatories, will be above almost all of the air blanket.

"There is an unbelievable amount of work to be done when these ranges of cosmic energy are opened up," said Dr. Robert Wilson, head of the British design team. "The ESRO observatory alone could be kept busy for 100 years."

LAS will weigh approximately a ton, yet ESRO scientists are hopeful that it will be accurately aimable to within .1 second of arc, including launch expenses, the project will cost about $42 million.

LIVING IT UP — Two Rocky Mountain goats (top) pick their way over the rocky terrain high on the side of 14,225-foot Mt. Shavano near Salida, Colo. Nine of the goats were transplanted to Colorado from Montana in 1948. The herd has grown to 130. The animals live in the alpine meadows of the Sawatch range, the highest of the Colorado Rockies, some of which can be seen in the bottom photo. Both of the pictures were taken from a helicopter.

Big Name Hopetuls Are in N.Y. Spotlight

ALBANY (UPI) — The names of three famous American families — Rockefeller, Kennedy and Roosevelt — dominate a fierce political power struggle in New York state this fall.

Attention centers on Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's bid for a third consecutive term in the state Capitol. His main challenger is 54-year-old New York City Council President Frank D. O'Connor, a veteran Democrat for whom U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, the party's titular leader in the state, will campaign extensively late next month.

The other major gubernatorial candidates are Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., the Liberal party standard bearer and son of the late president; and Paul Adams, an upstate college professor who is the Conservative party nominee.

Though it is still too early to detect any decisive trends, veteran observers agree that Rockefeller and O'Connor who both claim to be the underdog are involved in a tight race which could hinge on how many votes Roosevelt's candidacy entices away from the Democratic state ticket.

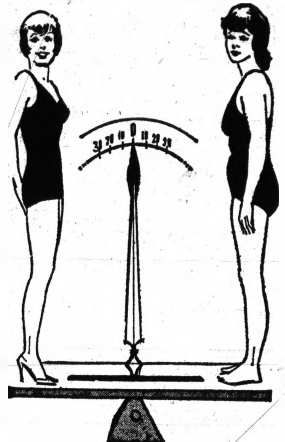

Roosevelt, who turned his back on the Democratic party after failing to gain its gubernatorial nomination, is viewed as a "spoiler" by many of his former colleagues because he is expected to drain more votes from O'Connor than Rockefeller. CONSERVATIVE ELEMENTS Adams should lure some Con-

Rich Coal Vein in Project Site

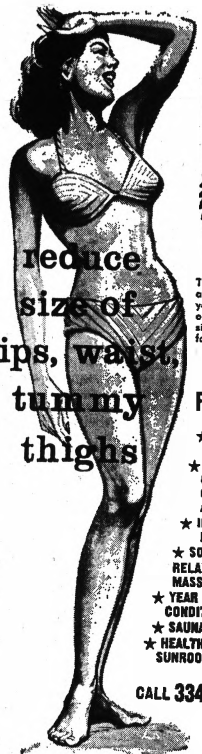

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Drillers have confirmed that a seam of coal underlying the site of a new county highway building is still there.

Test holes showed the seven-foot seam of coal 175 feet deep shown on maps has not been extracted. Belated misgivings about the ground stability of the site of the new $300,000 building has prompted the drilling.

Nasser Balks at Fund Terms

Clash Believed Cause of Cabinet Reform

CAIRO, U.A.R. (UPI) — An internal clash over the price Egypt is prepared to pay for a $70-million advance from the International Monetary Fund (IMF) appears to be the major reason behind President Gamal Abdel Nasser's new sweeping cabinet reform, the second in a year.

The price which the president was unwilling to pay: Basic economic reform at home now, including "hidden devaluation" which IMF experts considered essential to start Egypt on the long road back to financial stability at home and good standing abroad.

Nasser's rejection of the IMF terms, acceptable to some key members of the old cabinet, appeared to put the U.A.R. back where it started a year ago when the Zakaria Mohiaddin administration took over with the job of putting the economic house in order.

The IMF proposed what one source called "a substantial stabilization program" to be sure of getting its money back from the U.A.R., caught in a vicious circle of mounting foreign debt and a universal freeze of new credit until its position improved.

It included a three-part austerity program of higher prices and taxes, subsidies for exports and a ruthless cutback in imports and government spending.

END TO BORROWING

It also meant an end to financing budget deficits — 15 percent this year — by borrowing from local banks.

With negotiations entering a crucial stage, Nasser stepped in and scattered almost his entire lineup of economic policymakers.

He acted after grumbling from the masses over earlier price and tax increases rose in a new pitch when the price of rice was suddenly doubled in August.

Earlier the Better

Correct Speech Aids Learning

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.

When a child does not speak any language well, it is difficult to teach him. The ability to speak precedes learning to read and to write.

Children from non-English speaking homes and bilingual homes are not the only ones who enter school with little practice in English.

Those from homes where adults have been too busy to listen, and where playmates were not available, enter school lagging in their ability to speak English.

In some families, one child talks more than another and communicates for a brother or sister. They have a private language through which they talk to each other.

Parents seldom notice that this is taking place, nor do they realize the seriousness of the situation. The nontalking child is developing a severe handicap to future success in school.

These are only a few of the situations in which a child fails to develop skill in speaking English fluently and correctly before entering school.

Grammar is adopted intuitively as the child learns the accepted organization of phrases and sentences. Formal grammar can be learned more easily when the proper background of informal grammar has been established.

As educators study the problems of eliminating dropouts and lengthening the education of all children, they recognize that the inability to use English adequately at the start of school is a major problem.

In learning to talk, a young child chatters incessantly for hours. He has few problems in his life. Learning to talk has the center of his attention.

By the time he enters school, he has many other things vying for his attention. And in school, there is no opportunity for the hours of audile practice necessary to establish correct word usage on an instant basis.

WORDS MUST FLOW

Not only must a child understand instantly the meaning of the words that he hears, but the words must flow smoothly and automatically as he expresses himself.

To implant word meanings in the memory is not difficult, but long practice is required if their recall as needed is to be instantaneous.

Improvement of English as a first language is difficult but not impossible.

With sufficient time, patience and individual attention, a primary age child can make great strides in the improvement of his verbal English and lay a sound basis for the rest of his education.

TIME ESSENTIAL

To do this, however, educators must give up the lockstep promotion based upon age alone. Children must be given time at the start to catch up and develop the speaking skills necessary for further success in reading and writing.

In the little red schoolhouse, children of all ages were in the same room and shared the same playground at recess. Nowhere but in the modern schoolroom are people segregated so precisely by age.

Promoting a child to an advanced grade at a time where there is reasonable certainty of his success is more important than the age differential.

Milk for Relief Families 'Weak'

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — American families on relief are not getting the proper vitamins in their diet.

The nonfat dry milk that takes the place of fluid whole milk in their diet.

It will take an amendment by Congress to a 1944 law to permit fortification with vitamins A and D of all nonfat dry milk.

The AMA's council on food and nutrition points out in the Journal of the American Medical Association (Sept. 26).

Some nonfat dry milk going overseas in the Food for Peace program already is fortified with vitamins A and D through cooperation between the Agency for International Development and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

It has become commercially feasible to fortify dry milk with vitamins without affecting its taste or stability, the council says.

"An existing nutritional deficiency can be made more grave by supplementing a diet with foods lacking the nutrient in short supply," the council explains.

"Quiescent inadequacies can become full-blown deficiencies if additional protein, minerals and calories are provided in the absence of adequate vitamin intake. This could be anticipated with both vitamins A and D."

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration agrees that vitamins A and D are needed in nonfat dry milk, which means that the 1944 U.S. Public Health Service Milk Code would have to be revised by Congress.

First fixed bathtub installed in the White House was put in during the administration of Millard Fillmore, in 1851.

Once again, the people who make Empress Tuna will give away free groceries to their favorite families.

The people who buy Empress Tuna.

Meet the Malechuks. They're just one of the many winning families in last year's Empress Family Food Free-for-All. They took home $1,271.47 worth of free groceries. This year you can win as much. Or more.

Just send in the entry blank below with an Empress Tuna label. The rules are simple. Each winning family (husband, wife and children) get to run wild in the grocery store or supermarket of their choice for ten minutes. They can take one size of everything in the store (except meats, drugs, liquors, tobacco, and non-grocery items). And we pay the tab for whatever they grab.

There will be several winning families. And one will come from your metropolitan area. Not Mr. and Mrs. So and So from East Nowhere. But some family who lives nearby. Maybe your friends. And if you don't wait too long to mail that entry blank, maybe you.

Empress. The plump tuna. Packed naturally in non-fatting water. Not in fatty oil. Less than half the calories of oil-soaked tuna. Another fine product of Mitsui & Co.

Wonderful Wrigley Very Truly Yours

Fall Is Time to Roll Out Cider Barrel

WASHINGTON — When the frost is on the pumpkin and the cider is in the cellar, all's right with the world.

Autumn has been cider time in the United States since colonial days, the National Geographic Society says. Cider — sweet and hard — was the chief beverage of the colonists, who drank it by the barrel.

These days, cider is more likely to be bottled than barreled and sweet instead of hard, but it remains a popular drink. In apple country, as summer ends, every roadside stand displays jugs of the golden-brown beverage; cider and doughnuts are autumn staples.

All cider is made from apple juice, but all apple juice is not cider. The freshly squeezed liquid treated to prevent spoilage, and sold in sealed bottles and cans, generally is regarded as plain apple juice.

Sweet cider is fresh apple juice with no preservatives added. Hard cider is apple juice that has been allowed to ferment naturally. Applejack is something else again. It is apple brandy, distilled from hard cider. Unlike many other fruit distillates, applejack retains the distinctive aroma of the original fruit.

POWERFUL DRINK

At one time, farmers made applejack by merely freezing hard cider. The unfrozen residue was a crude and powerful drink, whose effect, one medical imbibitor recalled, was like a crack on the head with a hammer. Modern applejack is distilled twice and aged in barrels like fine brandy.

Laird & Co., distillers in Scotchville, N.J., have been making applejack since 1780. The firm claims that its consumer product is the oldest in the United States still made by the original family, George Washington, who made cider at Mount Vernon, asked for the Laird applejack recipe from the firm's founder, Samuel E. Laird.

Washington, however, had his doubts about drinking fresh cider. During the Revolutionary War, he issued a general order that said: "As nothing is more pernicious to the health of Soldiers, nor more certainly productive of the bloody-flux than drinking New Cyder: The General in the most positive manner commands the entire disuse of the same."

Gamma Rays Protect Food

By Science Service
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., — Gamma irradiation may be an effective weapon in protecting food supplies from harmful insects, the American Institute of Chemical Engineers was told here.

Annual loss of stored grain and grain products is estimated to be more than $450 million in the United States alone, where the most efficient insect control programs are in effect.

"If this could be saved, it would feed many of the millions of undernourished people of the world," Hamilton Laudani and Elvin W. Tilton of the U.S. Department of Agriculture said.

Some insects seem to be developing a resistance to ordinary chemical insecticides such as malathion, DDT and lindane. Treatment by gamma irradiation appears to be as effective as any now available, is less time consuming than fumigation and leaves no harmful after effects.

However, only preliminary studies have been completed. Studies will be continued at Savannah, Ga., where a new irradiation using cobalt 60 as a source of gamma rays is being completed.

The studies conducted so far show that comparatively small doses of radiation kill insects in their early stages and that adults, though not killed, are sterilized and become a biological weapons against their own species.

In 1771, the "Flying Machine" stagecoach advertised its intention to make the trip between New York and Philadelphia in one and a half days — with the help of stageboat.

ON THE DOUBLE — Members of the 1st Battalion, 4th U.S. Marines, run along a jungle trail to a forward position near the Viet Nam demilitarized zone. The call for reinforcements came during a brisk engagement between Marines and elements of a North Viet division recently.

A can of roast beef, canned Northwest Passage, Canada, in 1823 and salvaged from the wreck finally opened in December, British ship H.M.S. Fury in the harbor of 1858.

Program Starts in March

Car Checks in Works

By AL SANDNER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING — Starting next March, you'll have a new excuse to offer your hosts if you're late for a party: tell her you were stopped by police for a safety inspection.

A law authorizing motor vehicle safety inspection check lanes was passed by the Legislature and signed by Gov. George Romney July 11. It takes effect 90 days after the Legislature adjourns — or about the middle of next March.

And Col. Frederick Davids, director of State Police says his department plans to enforce the law to the full extent.

"We intend to make this program work," he told a safety conference in Lansing last week. He also intends to set up a separate division within the department to handle these inspections — which he hopes will be a forerunner of compulsory motor vehicle inspection.

INSPECTION STATIONS

Police probably will set up inspection stations in rest areas along freeways, and possibly in roadside parks along lesser routes, said Lt. Bryce Gray, assistant commanding officer of the State Police Safety and Traffic Division.

"The program is so new that we haven't yet worked out the mechanics of it," Gray said. This includes such questions as how many cars to stop or how to handle the minor offender.

The law gives police authority to order the offending motorist to correct the vehicle defect "forthwith," and gives it enforcement power. The actual process may involve courts and certainly will require followup checks on cited vehicles.

"We have written to other states that have similar problems," Gray said, "to get the benefit of their experience."

REVOKED LICENSES

The program, Davids said, also will allow the state to catch some of the motorists driving without licenses or on suspended or revoked licenses. It also will clear many old, unsafe cars off the roads, he added.

Police will impound cars that are patently unsafe—such as, in an extreme example, a car that didn't have any brakes.

"We'd impound a car like that and call in a wrecker to tow it away," Gray said.

It also empowers State Police to turn over such inspections to city, county, village or township police.

But, Davids said, it will not be used for traffic traps, to take local treasures.

PIN-WORMS A FAMILY AFFAIR

Pigletting, nose-picking, a storming rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms, tiny parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 5 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... small, easy-to-take tablets... special sizes for children and adults.

Success to the "WIDE-TRACK PONTIAC '67"

Compatible to success is the

Highland Tweed Sport Coat

by Hart Schaffner & Marx

The Scotch accent is unmistakable.

As Scotch as the skirl of bagpipes, these bold and brawny tweeds rest heather-light on the shoulders. Loomed of fine round wool yarns for a fabric of long-lived wearability that belies its soft touch. A thrifty buy, mon. In traditional tweed patterns and a haze of autumn shadings. HS&M sees to it that the trim, natural look and the comfortable fit you buy, you keep. Come in and see how fine and braw you look in a Highland Tweed sport coat. $65⁰⁰

Taubman Plan Adopted by Pontiac

Varied Lineup for GMC Truck

A completely restyled line of light-duty trucks, featuring safety improvements and a new series of medium-duty trucks, will highlight GMC Truck & Coach Division's 1967 product offering.

Martin J. Caserio, GMC division general manager and a General Motors Corp. vice president, said today the new additions to the line and improvements in existing models give GMC Truck & Coach its "greatest market coverage in history."

He said the 1967 truck program will consist of 194 different model series. Most are in production and a few will be released later.

Product improvements in the safety area for light trucks include self-adjusting brakes with independent front and rear hydraulic systems, steering columns that yield under emergency impacts, padded dashes and sun visors, and more thickly laminated windshield glass for greater puncture resistance.

Light-duty models also have dual headlamps and seat belts. Seat belts are standard throughout the full line of light, medium and heavy trucks. All models also have the thicker windshield lamination and four-way hazard warning flashers.

Another feature is a new polyethylene fuel tank on a number of medium and heavy duty models. Besides being free of static electricity, the rectangular tanks resist punctures.

New pickups and other light-duty trucks are from two to five inches lower. They are available with custom trim and interiors. Options include such luxury items as bucket seats and carpeting.

THE LIGHT LINE

The light line features an entirely new series of lengthened delivery and passenger vans. GMC Handi-Vans and Handi-Buses, previously offered only in 90-inch wheelbases, are now available in 106-inch wheelbases for bigger cargoes and greater passenger seating.

These vans are powered by both six- and eight-cylinder engines. The standard "6" is 230 cubic inches and develops 140 gross horsepower.

The standard V8 is 283 cubic inches and achieves 175 horsepower. An optional 250 inline-6 develops 155 horsepower.

For the first time, diesel power is available in larger walk-in type vans. Powering these new "bread truck" type units is a three-cylinder diesel having 94 top horsepower.

CAPACITY AUDIENCE—A near-capacity crowd gathered for last night's lengthy public hearing on downtown Pontiac redevelopment plans. City employee groups picketed the meeting, held in the Pontiac Central High School auditorium because of the anticipated large crowd.

Stormy Session Ends in Okay by a 6-1 Vote

850 Attend Five-Hour
Debate; Hear U. of D.
Proposal Acclaimed

By L. GARY THORNE

The Taubman plan, the hoped-for catalyst for downtown Pontiac redevelopment, was adopted early today by the City Commission.

Despite total and often rude outbursts of opposition from an audience filled with University of Detroit students and supporters, the commission climaxed a five-hour public hearing by approving 6-1 an agreement for a downtown shopping center.

It was a long evening of one-sided debate for the near-capacity crowd of 850 persons in the Pontiac Central High School auditorium.

Voting at 1:20 a.m., the commission ended debate which had raged since 8:35 p.m. by approving the agreement with Oak Park developer A. Alfred Taubman.

District 2 City Commissioner Robert C. Irwin cast the lone dissenting vote last night, reiterating his stand that problems were being ignored and more study was needed.

The 13-page agreement, revised again as late as yesterday, spells out terms for development of a $40-million 60-store shopping center on a 63-acre parcel of land south of Lawrence.

FACT PROVISIONS
Essentially, the agreement provides for the city to acquire the land, build and operate a 4,000-car parking area, while developer Taubman signs top-level tenants and constructs a regional shopping center.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., who presented a slide presentation on the Taubman proposal, detailed the obligations of the city and the developer under the agreement.

Total cost of the city's investment, slated to be financed through a 40-year revenue bond issue, is currently estimated at $8.9 million.

Taubman, who is to lease back the parking area for $450,000 a year, is "a proven developer" with the contacts and ability to get the attention of major retail operators and put together a sizable package, according to Taylor.

He said the developer is flexible and "it would appear reasonable" (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

VC Chief Softens Peace Terms

TOKYO (UPI) — The chief of the Communist Viet Cong today issued a new and shortened list of conditions for the return of peace in Viet Nam.

Unlike previous lists it contained no demand for prior withdrawal of U.S. troops or for a settlement based exclusively on the Communists' political program. It did call for eventual U.S. withdrawal.

The new list of conditions was set forth by Nguyen Huu Tho, a lawyer who is president of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong. He made the statements in an interview with leftist Australian newsman Wilfred Burchett on Aug. 28. The interview was broadcast today by Radio Hanoi.

The new conditions may or may not represent new concessions to the United States, but they differed from the five conditions for a peaceful settlement issued by the NFL a year ago.

The three conditions outlined today are not so far from the stated goals of the United States as to preclude the possibility that negotiations could begin before the fighting stopped.

NO WITHDRAWAL

There also was no hint in the text of Tho's remarks that a U.S. withdrawal would be required beforehand, a point on which the front and its mentors in Hanoi had been adamant.

In reply to a direct question from Burchett to outline the conditions for peace, Tho replied:

"The conditions for a real peace in South Viet Nam and also the basis for the only correct political solution to the South Viet Nam problem is:

"The U.S. must end the aggressive war in South Viet Nam, withdraw the troops and weapons, of the U.S. and its satellites from South Viet Nam, and dissolve all U.S. military bases there.

"The United States must respect the national rights of the South Vietnamese people which are independence, democracy, peace and neutrality."

INTERNAL AFFAIRS

"The internal affairs of South Viet Nam must be settled by the South Vietnamese people themselves without foreign intervention. Viet Nam must be decided by the people in both zones of Viet Nam."

Advance Gifts Goal for UF Is $108,930

An advance gifts goal of $108,930 was announced this morning by Howard H. Fitzgerald II, chairman of the advance gifts division of the Pontiac Area United Fund (PAUF).

Fitzgerald, publisher of The Pontiac Press, made the announcement at an Advance Gifts kickoff breakfast in the Club Overdraft of Community National Bank.

He asked that the goal be met by Oct. 10, the day of the general United Fund campaign kickoff.

The first advance gifts presented at the breakfast, sponsored by the Community National Bank, came from the bank and The Pontiac Press.

Fitzgerald presented a check for $3,760 from the corporate Press.

Robert R. Eldred, executive vice president of the Community National Bank, presented Fitzgerald with a check for $13,479.60 from the bank and its employees.

The two donations bring the advance gift collection to 10 per cent of its goal.

NEED TO CONTINUE

Bruce J. Annett of Annett Realty, president of PAUF, spoke of the need to continue and increase the vital work done by UF agencies.

Annett explained that UF money goes toward the operations, not the capital funds, of the 54 agencies.

The 85 solicitors present were advised to begin contacting advance gift prospects immediately.

Advance gift contributors will be asked to increase their 1965 pledges by 8 per cent. Team captains of the advance (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

San Francisco Negroes Riot; Guard Called

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rioting Negroes—incensed because a white policeman killed a youngster fleeing from a stolen car — smashed windows, started fires, looted, overturned vehicles and threw barrages of bricks and bottles last night in two San Francisco districts.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown called out 2,000 National Guardsmen and with Mayor John F. Shelley imposed a curfew when the violence jumped from the Hunters Point area to the Fillmore district.

During four hours of rioting 11 persons were treated at Mission Emergency Hospital but none was described as seriously injured.

The fire department answered 32 calls, many of them false, and eight fire trucks and cars (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Liuzzo Suspect Is Acquitted

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A Negro-dominated jury has found a 43-year-old steelworker and member of the Ku Klux Klan innocent of a murder charge in the slaying of a white civil rights worker.

A Circuit Court jury of eight Negroes and four white men took 85 minutes last night to reach its verdict of acquittal in the trial of Ku Klux Klan member Eugene Thomas for murder in the slaying of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, a white civil rights worker who died in a hail of gunfire from a passing auto on March 25, 1965, a few hours after the Selma-to-Montgomery march ended.

The verdict made Thomas the second member of the hooded order to win state court acquittal in the killing of Mrs. Liuzzo.

Stowaway in Jet Survives the Flight

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A 17-year-old Mexican stowaway was home safe in Queretaro today after a 2,000-mile flight from Colombia in the wheel compartment of a jet airliner.

"I was really scared part of the time," said Francisco Cuevas Garcia, "but I made it, and that's what I wanted to do—get home as quickly as possible."

Francisco said he got homesick after six months in Colombia but didn't have the money to take a plane back to Mexico. It would have taken too long to work his way home on a freighter—the way he went to Colombia.

"It's incredible, but he apparently did ride in the wheel well all the way from Bogota," said Ramon Watkins, the Mexico City manager for Colombia's Avianca Airline.

The four-engine jet flew as high as 34,000 feet through air temperatures as low as 45 degrees below zero, Watkins said.

CRAMPED QUARTERS

The lad was cramped into the wheel well so tightly that after the plane landed in Mexico City early Tuesday he could not get down. He had to call for help to mechanics servicing the plane.

Doctors looked him over, found nothing wrong and turned him over to Mexican immigration authorities. They established his Mexican citizenship.

"He's free now and left for Queretaro as soon as we let him go," an immigration official said Tuesday night. Watkins said the plane's flight time from Bogota to Mexico City was more than four hours.

U.N. Will Hear French Aide

Expected to Follow De Gaulle Viet Line

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — France was expected to tell the United Nations today that efforts for peace in Viet Nam are futile until the United States sets a timetable for withdrawal of its military forces.

Informed sources said French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, in his policy statement before the U.N. General Assembly, would follow closely the position taken by President Charles de Gaulle in his Sept. 1 speech in Cambodia.

De Gaulle said then that no negotiations would offer any prospect of success without a definite commitment by the United States to a troop pullout. He said that prospects for a negotiated solution were "not at all ripe today."

It was understood that Couve de Murville would make no peace proposals in his U.N. speech. He said in an interview in Paris recently "that his government does not feel it would be useful" to take an initiative.

Couve de Murville also was known to be opposed to any U.N. intervention in Viet Nam peace efforts because of the absence of North Viet Nam and Red China from the world organization. The Viet Nam issue is not formally before the assembly, but all speakers in the general debate so far have raised the question.

DIFFERING VIEWS

French sources said that while France and the United States have widely different views on the war, Couve de Murville would steer clear of any criticism of the Johnson administration's Viet Nam policies.

On the question of seating Peking in the United Nations, however, France was expected to continue its suit with the United States. Couve de Murville was reported ready to make a new appeal on behalf of the Peking government.

the sole genuine representative of the South Vietnamese people, must have its decisive place and voice in any political solution concerning South Viet Nam.

The five conditions for peace outlined by the Viet Cong last year would have meant an outright surrender by the United States and the Saigon government before negotiations ever started.

The two most important of the five points were a demand for U.S. withdrawal before the start of negotiations and a settlement of the Viet Nam problem "in accord with the program of the National Liberation Front."

Prisoner Freed After 40 Years

Wayne County Circuit Judge Joseph A. Sullivan released Logan from Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson on five years probation.

Logan asked for the probation because he wasn't sure of the new life facing him on the outside.

able that the two (Taubman and the U. of D.) could work and cooperate together."

The university plan, presented two weeks ago, offered a design for remodeling and rebuilding the central business district as well as a major portion of the city.

The mayor said that as the Taubman project develops, the possibility of using a smaller amount of land (less than the proposed 63 acres) and making use of the university's architectural considerations would be explored in detail.

Taylor pointed out that the revised eighth draft of the agreement gave the city the right to back it if the city's total expenditures exceed $8.9 million by 30 per cent or more. (The new ceiling for city costs is estimated at about $11.5 million.)

WIDE AREA OF DEBATE

Debate last night ranged across a wide area of associated problems, including the center's size, design and location, traffic flow, finances and similarly-related concerns.

While most U. of D. plan proponents conceded that Taubman as a developer, was needed by the city, they felt that whatever was built should follow the "deck" approach advanced in the university study.

Ken Morris, UAW Region 1 director, offered a UAW policy statement on Pontiac redevelopment, urging the commission to create a program to attack the ravages of festering slums.

Morris, who joined other speakers in citing housing as the city's top need, proposed the creation of a citizens development authority to formulate plans to "give rebirth on a massive scale to all areas of the city."

CRITICIZES COMMISSION

He criticized the commission for moving too quickly on the Taubman plan, which has been under study for eight months.

The labor leader promised the cooperation of the UAW. He said, "I am prepared to say for the UAW, that we will make a substantial financial contribution to such a citizens development authority as we have... proposed."

Morris said every worker that lives or works in Pontiac has a stake in what happens to the downtown business district.

He added that the city's housing problems furnished evidence of the crisis which grips the city, "Pontiac is a stagnant city," charged Morris.

REPEATS COST ANALYSIS

Dr. John R. Ylvisaker, a U. of D. supporter, in a 40-minute presentation repeated his personal cost analysis of the two plans, and described Taubman as a capable and honest developer needed by the city, saying the city's confidence in him was well-placed.

He criticized the commission several times.

DETROIT (UPI) — Wildcat strikers threw up picket lines at Bell Telephone Co. installations in 11 Michigan communities today, ignoring orders of their parent union to return to work.

The state's 36 Communications Workers of America locals involved in the bargaining dead-end meantime prepared to vote during the next seven days on whether or not to call a statewide strike which could cripple telephone service.

Michigan Bell stood by its refusal to negotiate until the wildcat strikers ended.

A spokesman at UAW headquarters said the union had ordered its 16,000 members to return to work and cross the wildcat picket lines.

The wildcat walkouts, which involved more than 1,400 workers yesterday, ended in Detroit and Flint.

PICKETS REMAIN

But Michigan Bell reported its employees encountered picket lines today at Pontiac, Royal Oak, Troy, Southfield, Birmingham, Commerce, Waterford Township, Oxford, Clawson, Ecorse and Port Huron.

The Port Huron pickets walked for about an hour, then reported for work, leaving 10 communities affected by the wildcat strikes, all in the Pontiac and Royal Oak areas except Ecorse.

These two jobs, except for that of the county antipollution director, are the highest paying positions in the local war on poverty. The director receives $15,500 annually.

Transporting of Pupils in City to Be Studied

BIRMINGHAM — The board of education last night agreed to study the matter of transporting pupils who live within the city limits and to take action at the Oct. 18 board meeting.

About 20 parents appeared at the meeting last night to protest the board's policy of transporting only those pupils outside the incorporated limits who live the required distance from school.

The parents claimed that their children were entitled to the same transportation rights as those pupils who live outside the city.

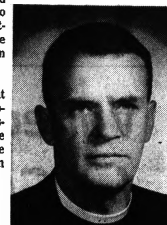

Under state law, school districts are not reimbursed for transporting children who live within the city limits.

Walter J. Piel, administrative assistant, said that to bus children within the city would cost the district $120,000 to purchase 20 new buses and about $68,000 a year to operate them.

Great Lakes Transit System presently runs buses for children within the city limits. They must pay for the service.

AMC Introduces Longer Marlin for 1967

"All new" and over 6 inches longer than last year's model, the 1967 Marlin was introduced by American Motors Corp.

The Marlin goes on sale Oct. 6 at the following Pontiac dealers:

Rose Rambler, 8145 Commerce, Commerce Township; Park Johnson Motor Sales, 88 Park, Lake Orion; and Village Rambler, 666 S. Woodward, Birmingham.

Company officials cite the added length—now 118 inches—as permitting "smoother, more graceful" configuration and emphasizing the fastback styling theme.

The Marlin grille has a bright anodized finish on the horizontal center bar which contrasts with the black finish on the surrounding components.

RALLY TYPE LIGHTS

Rally type lights which house the parking and turn-signal lights are mounted at the outer edges of the grille and are flanked by slatted headlights.

The new Marlin is wider, giving the appearance of road-hugging stability from the rear. The rear window is larger for improved visibility.

The two-tone area, which sweeps from the windshield to the top edge of the rear bumper, is outlined in stainless steel. This panel can be vinyl covered as an option.

Horizontal taillights with a grille overlay add to the impression of width. Safety re-flectors are mounted on the back edges of the rear fenders.

Spaciousness and luxury keynote the Marlin interior. A wide range of seating options is available.

The Marlin's spirited appearance is matched by the performance of its new V8 power options for '67.

Seven high-performance engines—three "Torque Command" sixes and four "Tyr"-horsepower.

Engineers say most of a 6-inch increase in wheelbase length has been incorporated into the hood to accentuate fastback styling. Marlin is scheduled to go on sale Oct. 6.

Six-cylinder engines are standard on all models except the Ambassador DPL convertible, which is available as a V8.

Ambassador Marlin and Rebel models have as standard a 222-cubic-inch six rated at 145 m.p.h. and four "Tyr"-horsepower.

The two luncheons will begin at noon with the show following at 2 p.m.

Ticket information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Don E. Ahrens of Bloomfield Hills. Because of limited dining facilities, requests for luncheon and dinner reservations will be honored in the order received.

Polish This Jewel Off

Everyone tells me how lucky I am to have this jewel.

Now, here's the rub: Bruce (I'll call him) was a bachelor, was living with his mother, when I married him.

I agreed to keep my job until we could afford a nice home. Now, a year later, I have bought all the groceries and paid the rent. Bruce doesn't have one suit of clothes at our apartment. He shaves and showers at his mother's, keeps everything there except his socks and underwear. He even gets his mail there.

I have never seen a bank statement, a paycheck, or a canceled check. All his personal papers and records are locked up in a strong box at his mother's. When I mention these things to him he just smiles.

If I pursue it further he walks away and ignores me. The newspaper is the one thing he buys, and he reads your column, so please print this, and tell me what to do.

BEWILDERED
DEAR BEWILDERED: Did you MARRY this little boy, or adopt him? Tell your good-natured "jewel" that he is about to be polished off unless he faces the responsibilities of marriage like a man.

And if he doesn't, send his socks and underwear over to his mother's, and add his walking papers to the rest of his "records."

DEAR ABBY: I know a girl who is very nice, but she sure could use some tips concerning the betterment of her looks. She wears no make-up of any kind and she doesn't do a thing with her hair. It is an absolute mess. She probably wonders why she doesn't appeal to any of the guys.

My problem is how to become friendlier with her so I can help her improve her looks without her thinking I want to get closer to her because of her money, and new car. I just can't sit by and watch her miss out on all the fun.

WANTS TO HELP
DEAR WANTS: Tell her, in a nice way. If she resents it, your friendship is over. If not, you're in business.

DEAR ABBY: I admire parents who take an interest in their children's school work, but we have a situation in our school which I think needs looking into.

There is a family of children whose parents are well-educated and very smart, so if one of their children has to write a theme or give a speech he was told to write himself, his parents help him with it to the extent of doing the whole thing.

Now I happen to know this is so because my son pals with their son, who won a speech contest by giving an "original" speech which his father wrote for him. I think this is unfair to the other children who go by the rules.

I wish you would mention this in your column. Maybe the parents will see it and take the hint.

BURNED UP

DEAR BURNED UP: Not only is it unfair to the other children, it is unfair to their own child. The real "prize" is in learning - not in winning.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO NAMES, PLEASE" IN PASSAIC: A blood test will tell you who the baby's father ISN'T - not necessarily who the baby's father IS.

Women's Section

Pontiac Press Photos by Edward Noble

German import, Mrs. William A. Falls of Birmingham wears American fashions with the flair of a Paris model. Her daughter, Angela, is a first-grader at the convent. Great brass buttons with designer Adele Simpson's initials on them sets a mustard-hued lightweight wool coat atop the fashion ladder. Its underlining of navy sheer wool is a perfect match for the slim sheath beneath it. The frock's mock turtleneck peeks over the rounded coat collar. Navy accessories complete the look.

Definitely racy is the look of this thoroughbred black and white check ensemble. Shiny black buttons march two by two down the front of the jacket while a slim skirt barely covers the knee top. Joanne Lorenz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Lorenz of Birmingham is a junior at Sacred Heart Convent. Who but a 15-year-old could look so rakish in a bright orange velvet cap covering a shock of glorious red hair?

Commission Members Hear Debate On The Taubman Plan

Commission Orders New Traffic Devices

New traffic signal devices were ordered last night by the Commission for local streets affected by the relocation of M59 within the city.

Total cost of the signals was estimated at $14,761 with the city's share totaling $8,647, according to City Engineer Joseph E. Neippling.

Neippling said some traffic signals are to be modernized, while some intersections are to receive their initial installation of signals.

All the streets involved are affected by the new route to be provided for the M59 freeway.

However, part of the signal installations approved last night call for modernized traffic signals at Perry and Madison, and also the installation of pedestrian walk signals at that intersection.

FUTURE WIDENING
In other business last night, the commission received deeds to land to provide for the future widening of Walton and Giddings adjacent to the projected Catholic High School, and the widening of Parkwood.

Oct. 16 was set as the date

to receive bids for the demolition of 13 buildings in the R20 urban renewal project. The buildings are scattered throughout the project area.

A letter was received last night from John F. Blamy, general manufacturing manager, Pontiac Motor Division, informing the commission of progress of the auto company for smoke abatement at the division's north end foundry.

Blamy said the first phase of installing smoke abatement equipment would be completed by May 1, 1968.

HEARINGS HELD
Hearings were held last night on special assessment rolls for construction of a sanitary sewer in Princeton, Highwood to Ivy Trunk, and a water main in Princeton, Highwood to Jaycee Park.

Two requested rezoning petitions were referred to the city planning commission.

The first asked for the rezoning of two lots in Seminole Hills Subdivision, while the second petitions sought residential-3 rezoning for a 39-acre parcel on the northside of Kennett, west of Alcott School and east of the Belt Line Railroad.

One bid of $19,250 was received for the painting of two water storage tanks.

Part of the costs are to be paid from a court suit to be filed against a previous contractor.

60 Acres Burned

CADILLAC (AP) — A fire destroyed an estimated 60 acres of crops and woodland about four miles northeast of Meritt in Missaukee County Tuesday night before Michigan Conservation Department firefighters brought it under control.

City 1st-Graders Get Food for Thought

By PAT McCARTY

The way to a child's mind may well be through his stomach.

At any rate, the youngster who goes to school hungry will not be as receptive to lessons as the one who has been fortified with a good breakfast.

Children in Mrs. Johanne M. Wilder's first grade class at Bethune Elementary School know this — and they have the memory of a mid-morning feast to serve as a warm reminder.

Yesterday the children filed into the school's gymnasium to share a well-balanced breakfast, a meal that had been two weeks in the planning.

Mrs. Wilder, new to the Pontiac School System this year, came here with the knowledge that at least 50 per cent of the youngsters in her class were from homes with working mothers.

PREPARE OWN BREAKFASTS
In many cases, this means that the children are preparing their own breakfasts.

About two weeks ago the topic of breakfast came up during a period in which the pupils tell of their experiences at home.

Almost every child participated in the discussion," Mrs. Wilder said. It was the best sharing period we've had."

It was obvious to her that the children had struck upon a subject of great interest to them, so she began to tell them about nutrition, about the kinds of foods they should be eating.

MEAL PLANNING
Left to their own devices, some of the children had planned their morning meals around a diet of crackers and juice, bread and milk or hot dogs.

The lesson began with the candid remarks of the pupils and along the way included discussion of such subjects as table manners and place settings.

The youngsters were visited by school nurse Mrs. Rose Roncone and they brought in pictures for a display on breakfast foods.

Culminating the learning experience was yesterday's juice, eggs, bacon, toast and cocoa.

The meal was prepared by four mothers of first graders, Mrs. Elmer Williams, 50 Gillespie; Mrs. Charles Jones, 92 Clover; Mrs. Betty Montgomery, 344 Howard McNeil; and Mrs. Billie J. Mannings, 362 Howard McNeil.

Special guests were Mrs. T. Warren Fowler Sr., wife of the District 1 city commissioner, and Bethune Principal Charles Townsel.

How did the youngsters respond to this addition to their curriculum?

They ate it up.

Theft Charge Is Dismissed

A larceny charge against a 26-year-old man accused of stealing a Pontiac police shotgun was dismissed yesterday at the request of the prosecution.

Eugene F. Douglas, 494 Bloomfield had been jailed Sept. 13 for alleged theft of a 12-gauge shotgun from a patrol car at the scene of the fatal shooting of a Pontiac barmaid.

Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum granted the dismissal after being told by investigators that they had a "poor case" against Douglas.

Taubman Plan Hooted, Hissed

Public interest recently generated in downtown redevelopment became vocal last night in the form of prepared statements, impassioned speeches, jeers, hisses and catcalls.

Lengthy rounds of applause also punctuated the City Commission hearing on the Taubman plan as the public expressed its viewpoints in an often unruly manner.

Only slightly more orderly were the 122 police and firemen who picked the entrances to Pontiac Central High School and paraded around the auditorium before the meeting started.

Their signs posed such questions as "How Can The City Pay Taubman When They Can't Pay Employees?" and "Where Was Taubman Five Years Ago?"

More than 800 persons interrupted their normal Tuesday night routines to gather at 8 p.m. for this important step.

Five and a half hours later, about a third of them remained to hear the commission approve the Taubman contract by a 6-1 vote.

No one spoke in favor of approving the contract.

Facing an audience some 32 times larger than normal, commissioners spent the first 35 minutes of the session taking care of 11 items on their regular agenda.

PROPOSAL READ
The crowd fidgeted and mumbled.

Audience members were perhaps most polite during the 20 minutes City Attorney Philip J. Rowston took to read the proposed contract.

The first and longest round of applause came when Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. called to the podium C. Don Davidson, spokesman for a redevelopment plan devised by the University of Detroit's School of Architecture.

Davidson, in turn, declined making any comment, stating he had been told he couldn't.

Taylor refuted the claim to a chorus of jeers.

"I just didn't expect to do it this way," Davidson said, and sat down.

As the next 20 speakers delivered their statements — most of them representing the view of groups — the crowd laughed and booed as it felt appropriate.

At one point, Dr. John Ylvisacker silenced applause with a reprimand to "please don't interrupt."

Although supporting him, members of the audience began to groan as Ylvisacker's presentation neared the one-hour mark.

The crowd became silent, except for sympathetic moans, as a woman sobbed that she and
