More Victims of Tornado Hunted

Vicksburg Toll Rises to Thirty; Debris Combed

Heatless City Shivers as Cold Wave Hampers Cleanup Work

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) —Rescue gangs worked in freezing weather today in a grisly hunt for additional victims of Saturday's vicious tornado that took at least 30 lives.

The temperature dropped to 31 degrees in the heatless city and frost covered lawns and other open ground in outlying areas. National Guardsmen built fires from the debris that littered the streets.

The two latest victims died in hospitals today, and authorities said at least eight other persons remained on the critical list.

Dawn brought the noise of steam shovels, bulldozers and shovels after a heatless, shivering night for the 28,000 residents.

Seventy to 75 of the 230 injured were crowded into Vicksburgs' four main hospitals. They were warmed by blankets and electric heaters from the city's homes.

Civil defense and military leaders estimated the damage at 25 million dollars.

President Eisenhower last night declared the historic old city a disaster area, authorizing emergency funds to help rebuild 12 blocks of stores, homes and warehouses violently leveled Saturday night.

Today, torn Christmas decorations dangled from lamp posts. One-fifth of the city was without electricity. There was no natural gas—the only heating and cooking fuel for most homes. The broken gas main was repaired late yesterday, but city officials feared to turn it on because someone might have left a gas jet open.

Power shovels ate into the ruins of a dry goods store to reach the body of another 17-year-old, Jack Palermo, last seen bidding two

Will Welcome Their Grandmother From England

Air Ticket for 'Grandma' Brings Joy to Harry Irwin

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

Charity and the "great American heart" were confusing terms in the mind of 38-year-old Harry Irwin, 5886 Dwight, Waterford Township, until this past weekend.

Now he knows that a generous American heart beats for its fellow neighbor when catastrophe threatens the security of a family.

Because the folks in the Waterford Township area wanted to help, a grandmother who lives at Leigh-On-The-Sea in England soon will wing toward the United States on a mission of mercy. She will help care for five grandchildren, four of whom she has never seen.

The Irwin story began Nov. 12.

Irwin loaded his five children, ranging from 2 to 8 years, into the family car along with Mrs. Irwin and started for Pontiac.

He signaled for a turn, but the car behind failed to see the warning and ran into the rear of Irwin's car. The gasoline tank exploded, spraying flames over the entire car and into the interior.

Despite badly burned hands, Irving dragged each child from the burning car. He pulled his unconscious wife from the fire, but by this time her gasoline-soaked clothes were flaming.

The rest of the story is a hospital record.

The children were bruised but not burned. Mrs. Irwin was burned on two-thirds of her body. She was not expected to live, but the prayers of five young children who needed their mother were answered and she began to rally.

Six months of hospitalization with a series of grafting operations are ahead for Mrs. Irwin. One surgical session was completed this week.

Irwin has been allowed to stay at home and care for the family during this month rather than be hospitalized for his burned hands.

But food and fuel have to be bought. Hospital bills (with no hos-

Detroit Worker Escaped NKVD

Reveals How Russia's Secret Police Forced Him Into Spying

DETROIT (AP) — A 32-year-old auto worker today told a congressional committee of his recruitment into and his escape from the ranks of the dread Russian secret police.

Appearing as a witness before the Senate Baltic Committee, Antanas Banionis said he and a group of friends were taken into custody by the secret police (NKVD) in Latvia in 1940.

He said he was subjected to two weeks of intensive interrogation by NKVD agents. During his questioning, NKVD agents inflicted injuries that left several six inch scars on his chest, he said.

Banionis told James T. McTigue, chief counsel for the Senate committee headed by Sen. Charles J. Kersten (R-Wis), that he finally agreed to join the NKVD "and spy on my friends" to escape the brutal treatment.

As the first witness to appear before the two day hearings by Kersten's committee here, Banionis said after joining the NKVD he received instructions on spying.

He said he planned his escape from the NKVD shortly after national elections in Latvia in 1941.

Kersten's committee is seeking to uncover the methods used by Russia in annexing the Baltic states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. It moved its hearings here from New York.

Study Filling Webster's Post

City Commission Must Appoint Judge to Serve Until April Election

Consideration of possible appointees to fill the judgeship vacancy in Pontiac Municipal Court will begin at once, said Mayor Arthur J. Law today.

Law said, however, that Pontiac City Commission probably will not name an interim judge this week.

Judge Charles P. Webster, a Pontiac jurist since 1941, died last Thursday, leaving one of the city's two courts without a judge.

City Attorney William A. Ewart said Pontiac's charter requires the commission to select a man to serve until a successor can be elected at the next general municipal election April 5.

Webster's four-year term was due to expire in July 1954. Salary in the position is $7,500 per year, according to City Clerk Ada R. Evans.

Municipal Court judges must be attorneys admitted to practice before the state Circuit Courts for at least five years, Ewart explained. They also must be residents of Pontiac.

Tenament Fire Kills 5, Four of Them Children

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP)—Five persons, four of them children, died early yesterday in a tenement fire. Trapped and apparently suffocated in a basement apartment were Mrs. Ophelia Sanders, 43; her children, Minnie, 11, James 8, and Audrey, 5, and a neighbor's baby, Sally McGee, 5 months.

Wires Pile Up at White House

Report Uncounted Mail, 17,629 Telegrams Sent in Reply to McCarthy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said shortly before noon today that 17,629 telegrams and an uncounted volume of mail had come in as a result of the appeal by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) that the public ask President Eisenhower to halt U.S. aid to free world nations which trade with Red China.

Assistant White House press secretary Murray Snyder said he understood Western Union has a backlog of telegrams possibly totalling 1,700 or more.

Snyder told reporters the telegrams have come in so fast it has been impossible to break them down into those which favor McCarthy's China trade demand and those who support the President's stand.

Meanwhile, Republican congressional leaders maintained discreet silence in the Eisenhower-McCarthy controversy.

McCarthy called any trade with Red China a "blood trade" and, in a televised plea last Thursday, urged the people who agree to wire or write the President.

Up until noon Saturday Snyder said, 4,346 telegrams had come in, with 3,500 still to be teletyped from Western Union to the White House.

McCarthy disputed these figures, saying that at the same hour he was informed 8,427 telegrams had been delivered and 4,000 to 6,000 more remained to be transmitted. Snyder said the telegrams ran about 2-1 in favor of McCarthy's position.

Snyder also reported receipt of 1,500 letters and said a breakdown of how these were running would be announced today.

On a radio-TV forum yesterday McCarthy said "both sides" should message their views to the President.

"This is not a popularity contest between Eisenhower and McCarthy," the senator said. "If it were a popularity contest, he (Eisenhower) would win it 20-1.

State Accidents Claim 20 Lives Over Weekend

Fifteen Die in Traffic, Including 4 in Crashes on Lodge Expressway

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 20 persons were killed in accidents in Michigan over the weekend.

Four persons—two of them small children—perished in fires and one man lost his life in a hunting accident.

Latest accident victims to be reported were:

A 62-year-old Wyandotte woman, Mrs. Marie Meegan, was killed Sunday when struck by a car while crossing a Wyandotte intersection. Victims of a St. Ignace flash-fire were Wallace Martineau, 37-year-old garage mechanic, and his children, Larry Gene, 2, and Sarah, 14-months.

Mrs. Rosalind McBride, 67, of Wolf Lake, 10 miles east of Muskegon, died of suffocation when her home burned Saturday night.

Two men and a woman died in a head-on collision near Chelsea on U. S. 12 late Saturday. Washtenaw sheriff's men could identify only two immediately. They were Thomas E. Bauer, 24, of near Chelsea, and Viola Buku, 16, of Chelsea. The third victim was a man about 30.

Mrs. Ruth Perkins Brown, 37, was killed Saturday night in Ecorse when a speeding car struck her and hurled her into the path of another car.

Edward L. Gracey, 36, of Detroit, died Sunday as his car crashed through a wooden barricade at the north end of the John C. Lodge expressway in Detroit.

John Mattson, 70, of Iron River, was hit and killed by a hit-run driver in Iron River Saturday as he walked along U. S. 20.

John Kostolni, 31, of St. Johns, died Saturday of accidental gunshot wounds suffered when he slipped and fell in a ditch while hunting on his father's farm north of St. Johns.

Frank Oyler, 43, of Lansing was killed Sunday when he was struck by a car on U. S. 27, north of Lansing.

Clarence L. Fox, 25, of Portland Mich., was injured fatally when he was thrown out of a car which missed a curve north of Mulliken.

Tax Probers Ask More Jail Terms for Offenders

WASHINGTON (AP)— House tax fraud investigators, winding up their final report, recommend more jail sentences and fewer fines to prevent income tax fraud and favoritism.

In the last installment of the report, after two years of hearings, the House Ways and Means subcommittee yesterday aimed most of its recommendations at individual taxpayers. Previous installments have criticized tax officials and cited irregularites.

The subcommittee said taxpayers should be required to keep more accurate records, account more strictly for deducted businesses expenses and face tougher punishment if convicted of evasion.

Only the Navy to Mark Dec. 7 at Pearl Harbor

PEARL HARBOR (UP) — It was business as usual at Pearl Harbor today, except for the Navy, the only organization to observe the 12th anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor that plunged the United States into World War II.

The Navy planned to hold brief, solemn memorial services on the superstructure of the battleship Arizona, which Japanese bombers destroyed 12 years ago today.

Services began at 7:55 a. m. Honolulu time (1:55 p. m. EST), the exact moment Japanese bombers began wreaking havoc on the slumbering U. S. Pacific fleet.

A bugle will sound at 8 a. m. and the American Flag will be raised on the remains of the Arizona.

Capt. P. G. Linaweaver, chaplain of the 14th Naval District, will then offer prayers for those who fell Dec. 7, followed by taps and a three-volley rifle salute fired by eight sailors.

Representatives of veterans and civic organizations have been invited by the Navy to join in the observance and nine survivors of the attack who are now stationed here will place wreaths before the mast of the Arizona.

Demonstrations Quelled in Iran

Anti - British Students Dispersed by Troops; Two Killed

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iranian troops fired into a crowd of anti-British demonstrators at Tehran University today, killing two persons and wounding another.

It was the first public violence in Iran's heavily patrolled capital since Premier Fazollah Zahedi announced Saturday that his government had resumed diplomatic relations with Britain.

Thirty demonstrators were arrested.

Following the announcement, the powerful Moslem leader, Ayatullah Kashani, threatened to order a campaign of "national mourning" —the wearing of black arm bands, displaying of black flags and shouting of anti-British slogans—to protest the action.

Kashani told an interviewer, however, he would not call out mobs for street demonstrations as this might cause bloodshed.

To meet possible violence extra police guarded Tehran's main streets. Armored cars were spotted at strategic places and two truckloads of soldiers were parked near the entrance to the still-empty British Embassy.

Gen. Farhad Dadsetan, Tehran's military governor, said most of the demonstrators at the university were Communists who refused to attend classes today and then tried to "demonstrate against government policies."

At this, he continued, "attempts were made by the soldiers to disperse them. When the students attempted to disarm the soldiers, the troops fired on them."

Other reports said the students, shouting anti-British slogans, were grouped around a staircase where one student was trying to make a speech.

Will Ask Soviet for Joint Effort in Disarmament

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP) — President Eisenhower flies direct to New York tomorrow to deliver a dramatic new Western challenge to Russia.

He asks a joint effort in working out a plan of disarmament and atomic control for a world periled by the hydrogen bomb threat.

With the backing of Britain's Prime Minister Churchill and the French leaders here for the Big Three conference, Eisenhower in a major address to the United Nations General Assembly is expected to suggest a fresh approach to this knotty problem.

The announced subject for the speech is "Perils That Confront the World in This Atomic Age." Major radio and television networks in the United States made plans to carry the address.

It is scheduled for 4 p.m., EST.

The sudden announcement last night that Eisenhower would address the U.N. caused a sensation dominating the closing rounds of his meetings here with Churchill and French Premier Joseph Laniel.

The development overshadowed the shift of the talks today to Far Eastern problems, including France's war in Indochina and negotiations for a Korean peace conference, and continuing British-American efforts to press the French for early approval of the rearmament of West Germany.

The Big Three talks were due to close late this afternoon or tonight with a communique summing up the meetings.

Eisenhower will fly to New York tomorrow. The ailing Laniel, still confined to bed with a lung infection, also will fly home tomorrow if he is able.

Churchill will take off for London late Wednesday.

Eisenhower and Churchill, along with U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Eden and French Foreign Minister Bidault, at their sessions yesterday completed the drafting of a note to Russia reportedly agreeing to a Big Four foreign ministers meeting in Berlin, possibly in early January.

The draft of the note was sent

Cloudiness Predicted for Tonight, Tuesday

Partly cloudy weather is forecast for the Pontiac area tonight and Tuesday, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau.

A low of 34 to 38° tonight is expected to reach a high of 38 to 42 on Tuesday.

Yesterday the mercury rose from a low of 36 to a high of 56 degrees in the city. A trace of rain was also recorded in the area Sunday.

At 8 a.m. today the temperature stood at 33 degrees, dropping to 29 by 9 o'clock. At 2 p.m. in downtown Pontiac the reading was 46 degrees.

Hazel Park Group Seeks to Nullify Mayor Selection

An injunction will be sought in Oakland County Circuit Court today to prevent recently appointed Louis Elias from serving as mayor of Hazel Park, according to attorney Andrew J. Hollis.

Hollis said the suit, to be filed in behalf of the Hazel Park Civic Improvement Assn, will charge that Elias' appointment was illegal because he was named in a secret session of the City Council.

"This is contrary to city charter provisions," Hollis declared, "which provided that all appointments be made in open session."

Association President Charles K. Lawson said his group's main objection to Elias' appointment is that he holds more than 5,000 shares of stock in the Hazel Park Racetrack.

According to Lawson, association members "don't think race track people should take control of our city government."

Elias was named to succeed Mayor John F. Hall who died Nov. 6.

Councilman Jerold A. Young said the Council may have been "technically wrong" in naming Elias at a secret session last Friday night.

"But there is nothing to prevent us from calling a new meeting and appointing him in open session," Young said.

Young, who served as mayor pro-tem before Elias' appointment, said the association was trying to nullify the appointment because of its members' long-standing opposition to the city manager form of government.

Elias admitted owning racetrack stock and 33 1-3 per cent of three drive-in restaurants in Hazel Park and added, "I'm not ashamed of my connections with either enterprise."

Mrs. Richard Welstead of England, Mrs. Irwin's mother, offered to come and care for the children until her daughter could return to her home provided they could pay her fare.

"My wife's father is a lieutenant in the British Army and they do not have too much money," explained Irwin.

A flight ticket costing nearly $300 was contributed to, as follows: Mrs. John Bexell and a group of friends, $50; Lakeland Tribune, the Drayton Plains paper, raised $91; Red Cross, $50; Family Service of Oakland County, $120. The latter two organizations are United Fund agencies.

Born in Pontiac, Irwin completed seven and a half years of service with the U.S. Air Corps in 1948. He served in the European theater, meeting Mrs. Irwin in England during the war.

"She was a member of the Women's Land Army, and an attractive English girl. We were married and our first child was born in England," related Irwin.

From England, the master sergeant was sent to the Pacific theater where he participated in atomic tests. The Irwins lived for some time in New Mexico and Texas when he returned to the States.

"When I was discharged I decided I wanted to be an independent businessman. We bought a tract of land near Harrisville, Mich., and started a mink farm," he said.

"We just didn't have enough capital to work with and lost our shirts in this enterprise," he said.

Next they moved to Pontiac where he went into the construction business.

"With five healthy youngsters to feed, it was hard to get enough money ahead for a down-payment on a home. Finally we found this four-room house with the exterior completed," said Irwin.

Birmingham Man Hurt When Car Hits Tree

A Birmingham man is reported in fair condition today at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital with injuries suffered when his car hit a tree in the parkway at Woodward Ave. and Yorba Linda Dr. in Royal Oak.

Royal Oak police said William Shallberg, 24, of 809 Henrietta, Birmingham, fell asleep at the wheel as he was driving north on Woodward. Shallberg suffered a fractured thigh.

$2,816 Collected by Goodfellows

Donations Still Arriving After Sale of Record Number of Papers

Nearly 8,000 papers were sold for $2,816 in the Goodfellow drive here Saturday, according to John G. Morse, chairman of the campaign sponsored by the Pontiac Metropolitan Club.

Donations are still coming in, Morse said, but last year's total of $5,000 may not be reached. "We sold a record number of papers this year, but the average contribution was lower than in 1952," he explained.

Some 40 policemen, firemen and post office employes sold papers on Pontiac's main street corners. The papers were furnished by the Pontiac Press.

In their examination of European problems, Eisenhower and Churchill reportedly heard a plea yesterday from Bidault for new assurances they will maintain their military strength in Europe and will back France's demands for continued close economic union with the strategic border Saar Basin, which Germany wants "Europeanized."

These were given as part of France's price for ratification of German rearmament as part of the projected European Defense Community.

Informants said both Eisenhower and Churchill pledged that, at this time, they have no intention of reducing the combat effectiveness of the American and British forces on the European continent.

But both reportedly refused to commit any fixed number of troops to continental duty, or to say how long they would keep troops on Europe's mainland.

Crash on M59 Hurts 3 From Rochester

Three members of a Rochester family were injured in an auto accident on M-59 at Devondale street in Avon Township Saturday night.

Chester R. Whitten, 30, of 1562 Auburn Rd., his wife, Thelma, 27, and a daughter, Penny, 6, were treated at Pontiac General Hospital for cuts and bruises suffered in the crash. The other children, Carol Ann, 2, and Clara, 1, were not injured.

George H. Huntington, 52, of 3127 Devondale, Avon township, told Oakland County sheriff's deputies that Whitten, eastbound on M-59, turned in front of his car and the two vehicles came together.

Burglars Get $2,325

PAW PAW (AP)—State police reported two burglaries in Wayland and Moline Saturday. Burglars took $2,000 in merchandise from Bravata's Food Market, Wayland, and $325 in cash and several hundred dollars in checks from Moline's Chateau Wine co.

Widow Drops Plans to Marry Dempsey

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Estelle Auguste, who last night canceled plans to marry former heavyweight boxing champion Jack Dempsey, left today by plane for Florida.

"I wish you would tell Mr. Dempsey I have left," she said as she boarded an Eastern Air Lines plane for West Palm Beach.

"I understand he wanted to sleep until 10 o'clock. Well, it's better this way, it's easier to break an engagement than get a divorce."

The rich and pretty widow appeared in good spirits as she boarded the plane.

She announced the breakup last night with a statement that "oil and water simply won't mix."

"We're just too different," she said, three days after she had announced she would marry the former boxer.

Correct Name of Suspect Was James T. Sullivan

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — James T. Sullivan, 30, of 1685 Kendall, Detroit, was arrested last week as a suspect in the recent $5,500 robbery of the Fox and Hounds Inn here.

A Press article Saturday incorrectly stated that his father, Jabe T. Sullivan, was arrested.

League of Blind to Hold Election on Wednesday

Pontiac League of the Blind will hold its election of 1954 officers Wednesday at 8 p.m. at 875 Going St., according to James McClain, league president.

The election was originally scheduled for last week, McClain said. He urged all members to be present.

Rome Church Bells Begin Marian Year

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A joyful noon-day pealing led by the big master bell of St. Peter's basilica today marked the start of the Marian year to honor the Mother of Jesus.

One by one, the bells of Rome's nearly 500 churches joined in the 15-minute medley.

Roman Catholics throughout the world will observe the Marian year, the 100th anniversary of the dogma that proclaimed Mary's Immaculate Conception. This established as Roman Catholic faith the belief that Mary was born without the stain of original sin to which all other men are heir because of the disobedience of Adam and Eve.

In midnight services everywhere, Catholics tonight will begin a year-long crusade of prayers and pilgrimages, called by Pope Pius.

One of the principal objectives for which Catholics will pray is "universal and sincere peace."

Rescuers Hunting Victims of Tornado customers good night as he closed the store.

An Army colonel who directed the search said the youth's body was found after hours of constant digging, pinned two floors below the street level under tons of brick and mortar.

Meanwhile, grocery stores donated bread to make sandwiches. Garages and gas stations loaned trucks and wreckers. Volunteers from many Mississippi towns headed for the city, located on a bluff overlooking the Mississippi River.

Debris in the streets was cleared away quickly and rescue workers began digging out the dead.

The twister roared out of the west, cut through the heart of the city, and then faded out.

Ten youngsters between the ages of 2 and 10 were among the dead. Five were at the Saenger Theater when the black funnel struck, collapsing the walls and toppling the roof.

Two tots, both 3, were killed when the tornado struck the Happyland Nursery.

Suffers Crash Injuries

BIRMINGHAM — James M. Knox, 26, of 351 Lake Park, received a cut wrist and broken front tooth when he drove his car into the back of a truck hauling Christmas trees south on Woodward this morning, according to police. Truck Driver William Bundy, 27, of 2875 E. Grand Blvd., Detroit, was uninjured.

Wife Has Road Paved Despite Husband

Back in 1948, gubernatorial candidate Herman Talmadge was promising Georgians he would build 10,000 miles of highway if elected. Charging past administrations with road favoritism, Talmadge roared from the campaign stump:

"I promise you this: that the last road in Georgia to be paved will be the one beside my farm home."

He was elected and eventually his administration built the 10,000 miles of paved roads. Mrs. Talmadge asked him for her road, connecting their farm at Lovejoy to a highway. The governor paid no attention.

Then Mrs. Talmadge decided to play politics herself. At a dinner one night she approached three Highway Board members. They were in the middle, between the governor and the First Lady. They alibied and stalled.

Finally, Mrs. Talmadge decided to skip state government and try local sources. She mentioned the matter to her representative, Ed McGarity.

Yesterday, as she drove back to the executive mansion from the farm in a pouring rain, Mrs. Talmadge beamed. She drove over a paved road. The quarter-mile strip had been paved with county forces and county funds. Mrs. Talmadge is a taxpayer in Henry County.

With a smirk she sent this message to the stalling State Highway Board dominated by her husband: "It can be abolished for all I care."

As early as 1306, a royal proclamation was issued making illegal the burning of coal during the periods Parliament was sitting, because of the smoke nuisance.

Rabbits proper have short ears, are short-legged, and cannot maintain much speed for any great distances; hares are long-eared, long-legged, and are swift-footed animals.

Thunderjets Crash; Four Pilots Killed

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga. (UP) — Four Thunderjets in tight formation shot through low-hanging clouds near here early yesterday and slammed into a pine thicket, carrying their pilots to instant death.

Officials at Dobbins Air Force Base in Marietta, Ga., home base of the single-seater planes, theorized that they got lost in rough, rainy weather. They crashed only a few minutes before they were scheduled to land at Dobbins after an instrument flight from Miami.

The pilots, all members of the Atlanta Air National Guard unit, were identified as Capt. Idon M. Hodge Jr., 30, Atlanta; 1st Lt. Samuel P. Dixon, Chamblee; 1st Lt. Elwod C. Kent, 28, East Point; and 2nd Lt. William A. Tennent, 25, Atlanta.

Bodies of the pilots were found several hundred yards from the wreckage.

Officials estimated the jets were traveling at more than 250 m.p.h. on impact. Wreckage was scattered over a three-quarter-mile area.

SANTA and the FLYING PUP

By LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: Henrietta's father gives Willie, the pup, away because there is not enough food in the house to feed him. When her father tells Henrietta why he had to give Willie away, she runs away, but returns later and says she's sorry. The father decides to get Willie back, but Willie can't be found anywhere.

Chapter Four

STARTING AN ADVENTURE

The way Willie figured it, if he was just going to be handed around from one person to another he would as soon start out on his own.

That way he would at least have some say in his own affairs and certainly wouldn't be shut up in a furnace room for maybe the rest of his life. He might even have a great adventure.

He sneezed four times in a row. "Phew! Furnace rooms!" he thought with disgust. Ever since he had escaped from that awful apartment house he had been sneezing coal dust out of his nose.

"Of course, it is too bad about Henrietta," he thought as he resumed his run-away journey. "I'm afraid she will miss me very much when she finds out what her father did with me. As far as that goes I shall miss her, too."

He began to be distracted by the wonderful smells that surrounded him. "On the other hand," he told himself, "I feel that a great adventure awaits me."

He paused to explore the inside of an old tomato soup can. When he had licked it clean he amused himself by pushing it ahead of him down the street.

It made a lovely noise.

Some boys saw the fun and joined in. Willie chased the can and the boys chased Wilie. Pretty soon Willie found himself chased right out of town. He lost the can and he lost the boys. He didn't know where he was.

He wasn't scared exactly. But he was tired and he was hungry.

He found something he thought was a good T bone but when he bit into it he found it was only a piece of tree limb. Then he thought he had gotten hold of a hunk of stew but it was only a pile of moss and no good to eat at all.

"Oh, well," thought Willie. "I shall find something to eat tomorrow."

He curled himself up on some dead leaves and went peacefully to sleep.

Early next morning, while Willie slept, there came into that part of the woods two tiny creatures named Mr. Not Much and Mr. Very Little. They were named like that because of their sense. Mr. Not Much did not have much sense and Mr. Very Little had even less.

They were traveling along at a great speed on a very important errand when suddenly, Mr. Not Much, who was in front, halted and called back to Mr. Very Little.

"Alas! There is a mountian in front of us and I am too tired to climb it."

Mr. Very Little came up and stared at the mountain. "We must be very careful," he said importantly. "This is a volcano mountain. I can hear it rumbling inside. It may erupt any moment."

Just as he spoke the mountain shook itself and turned over.

Mr. Not Much and Mr. Very Little hurled themselves backward and hid under a mushroom.

The mountain stood up on four legs and yawned.

"Why, it's not a mountain at all!" whispered Mr. Very Little. "It's an animal. In fact, I believe it is a dinosaur and our very lives are in danger!"

"I believe it is a dinosaur. Our very lives are in danger.

The dinosaur stretched itself, scratched his ear, and moved absently in the direction of the two creatures who were shivering in terror under the mushroom.

Just as the dinosaur was about to step on the mushroom Mr. Not Much screamed and Mr. Very Little screeched, "Stop! Stop!"

The dinosaur nearly fainted with surprise and fright. He stared down at the two tiny things dancing around his toes. He wasn't sure whether he should run away or whether he should just stand there and holler.

"Oh, Mr. Dinosaur," cried Mr. Not Much. "Have mercy on us!"

"Oh, Mr. Dinosaur," begged Mr. Very Little. "Spare us!"

"Why, I am not a dinosaur," said Willie. "I am a puppy dog."

"A puppy dog," exclaimed the two creatures. They were ashamed and embarrassed.

"My name is Wilie and I am looking for a Great Adventure."

"Why then," said Mr. Not Much eagerly, "you must come with us!"

"Yes, indeed," said Mr. Very Little, "for we are on a very important errand and I am sure it will lead to a Great Adventure."

MASTER-MIND DIAL gives you TWO separate, completely automatic washing cycles!

One for regular fabrics — another for fine fabrics with shorter wash, rinse and damp-dry periods — so important for new "miracle" fabrics. And, if necessary, you can skip, repeat, lengthen or shorten any part of either cycle. Here's complete flexibility for any washday problem!

Silent New York

New Yorkers are learning the hard way that you never fully appreciate something until it is gone.

For seven full days the newshawks on the corners of America's largest city have been silent. A strike has stilled the rumble of the presses in that mighty city's seven major newspapers.

Citizens starved for news are mobbing newsstands for the privilege of buying any paper—whether it comes from Philadelphia or from West Podunk, Ohio. Radio and television are trying to satisfy the appetite of the news-hungry populace.

They only whet it.

The comfortable feeling that comes with easing back in an overstuffed chair and picking up a newspaper is temporarily ended. The normal flood of public information has slowed to a trickle.

The Big Three talks opened in Bermuda. Everybody in the United States occupied a ringside seat at that historic conference through the pens of this country's finest writers. Everybody, that is, except New Yorkers.

When Mr. and Mrs. Smith decide to take in a movie, they must wait until they get there to find out what's playing. No newspapers. Mrs. Jones can't plan her shopping trip beforehand to take advantage of the bargains. No newspapers.

Mr. Johnson must forget about that "help wanted" ad. No newspapers.

The plight of Gotham brings to mind the immortal words penned by Thomas Jefferson more than a century ago:

"I would rather live in a country with newspapers and without a government, than in a country with a government but without newspapers."

New York has a government—but it doesn't have newspapers!

People in New York are discussing the propriety of allowing 400 people to tie up the news dissemination to eight million. They grant an office building or many other industries might be silenced, but the hardship and inconvenience to several million is an entirely different matter.

Old Mail Racket Revived

Postal authorities in Washington are taking steps to curb what they call a recently revived chain letter racket.

Besides pointing out that these schemes violate lottery and fraud statutes, department officials warn the public that the sole object is to swindle the gullible. Of one plan currently the most popular, the department said:

"These endless chain letters solicit the addressee to invest $2 in the hope of getting a return of $6,250. Each person solicited is asked to send the $2 to the No. 1 name in the list of five and then move the other names up and put his name in the fifth position and send copies of the circular to five other people."

If you get any such letter, turn it over to postal officials and don't be afraid to break the chain. Contributing to such a scheme won't win you any money.

Sex Law Changes Needed

Oakland County Prosecutor Ziem has done well to initiate a movement for revision of Michigan's sex psychopath law, as suggested by the case of Donald V. O'Brian.

In committing O'Brian to the indefinite custody of the State Hospital Commission, Circuit Judge Doty complained that the sentence is "inadequate." The Goodrich law leaves the court no discretion, even in the case of O'Brian, confessed attacker of six women and slayer of one.

It is Ziem's belief that the Legislature never intended the statute to apply to persons charged with murder. The aim, he believes, was to "prevent persons with such tendencies from roaming our streets."

As the act now stands the Hospital Commission would release O'Brian, if his condition improves, and he never could be tried for any of these sex crimes.

One revision suggested by Ziem in his letter to the lawmakers would prevent persons charged with murder from being hospitalized under the statute. Another would require the Hospital Commission to notify the prosecutor's office and presiding judge 30 days before release of any persons hospitalized under the act.

There is no doubt about the desirability of amending the act to give discretionary powers to judges. Worth study also is another amendment fixing a minimum length of time before the Hospital Commission could release such a person as cured.

In revising this law, the aim of all concerned should be not only adequate protection of society against sex psychopaths, but continuation of the best possible medical treatment for them.

"It isn't possible to satisfy the farmers," asserts a congressman. Of course it isn't — farmers are people.

The Man About Town

Survey Under Way

Daffynition

First real action has commenced on the proposed Detroit-Bay City toll road, of which Oakland County will have one-third of the mileage. A week's traffic count at two main intersections in the Flint area was completed Saturday. Some busy Oakland County intersections on the Dixie Highway and other roads will come next. The counts which will cover main corners in Wayne, Oakland, Genesee, Saginaw and Bay Counties are to be completed next month. These findings will determine whether the traffic warrants the toll road construction.

When a live mouse jumped into a Saginaw St. show window the other evening and mixed with the mechanical toys, a youngster outside the window with her mother gasped, "Momma, there's a young rat that runs."

A letter to Santa Claus in care of Man About Town comes from of Rochester. He has been trapping muskrats along the Clinton River for over 40 years, and says the opening of the season finds them in good condition, but suffering from housing conditions and anxious for some real winter.

Shortly to be distributed by Pontiac mail carriers, according to

will be some labels designed to facilitate handling of the Christmas mail. They read "All for local delivery," and "All for out-of-town delivery," and are to be wrapped around your Christmas cards.

Attending the recent Michigan State College bust in Detroit, of Birmingham walked out with a radio as one of the door prizes. He was one of the heroes of the GM Livonia fire, saving the lives of several women before being overcome by smoke.

Phil Cartwright

The weather bureau's 30-day advance outlook predicts moderate precipitation for the Pontiac area, but heavy in the western part of the state. In temperature the whole state is in the above normal category.

In regard to the rape - slayer O'Brian case which terrified everyone in Pontiac for weeks, especially in the north section of the city. Are people of Pontiac going to stand for the release of this killer?.

In the Press on Nov. 30 it was stated that nothing can be done but to place him in an institution, with the possibility of a parole. We should all demand that this unfair act be amended for the good of the people in this city.

Did the men receive the reward for capturing him?

Editor's Note—The men who captured O'Brian have not received the reward. Whether they receive it will be decided by the Pontiac City Commission. The reward was offered for "the arrest and conviction" of the attacker.

Stresses Importance of Parents Who Cooperate

Juvenile delinquency is a favorite subject. Many agree that parents wait too long before compelling little Johnny to obey their commands.

You have often heard, "Spare the rod and spoil the child," but while this appears to be backed by the Bible many modern parents seem to disregard this wholesome advice.

Disobedience must have a corrective and sometimes explanations are not sufficient. We would not advise ear-pulling or face-slapping, but a tinge of pain caused by the wise application of a peach sprout would not be amiss on proper occasions.

There should also be cooperation on the part of both parents. If one parent takes the child's side the correction of the other parent would be nullified.

A certain minister said, "If parents worried more about when their children turned in, they would not have to worry so much about how their children turned out."

Sabbath school attendance is also a deterrent to crime and it is much better to go with your children then to send them alone. With so much juvenile vandalism reported, what will be the moral condition of the coming generation?

Reader Wonders Why He Hasn't Won Citizenship

I awake every morning to the cold fact that I was born across the sea. Why, then am I not a citizen of America?

For the past twenty years, neither management, labor, nor the armed services have lifted one finger on my part as a citizen.

I will have answered the why of this statement one day. What a shock so many will receive after I attain my one ambition, earning my citizenship.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Lord, thou wilt ordain peace for us: For thou also hast wrought all our works in us.—Isaiah 26:12.

Peace is the proper result of the Christian temper. It is the great kindness which our religion doth us, that it brings us to a settledness of mind, and a consistency within ourselves.—Bishop Patrick.

Secretary of Labor Has Seat on Aisle but He Can Be Important If He Tries

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — James P. Mitchell has the smallest province in the federal government's vast domain. His Labor Department has 5,000 employes, which is fewer than any other department.

His job as secretary of labor, which might seem to make him grand titan and superchief of labor problems, is really a seat on the aisle. If he can make it more important, it will take some doing.

The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) and the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, not the Labor Department, dig deepest into the difficulties of workers and employers.

The NLRB, as chief interpreter of the Taft-Hartley Act, lays down the rules for both sides. When a national strike threatens, the mediation board is called in to try for a peaceful settlement.

The secretary of labor has no control over wages in peacetime. And when the government does control wages in wartime, as it did in World War II and after the Korean outbreak, it sets up a special board outside Mitchell's department.

Railroad workers' relations with their employers are outside the labor secretary's jurisdiction. Their problems with the railroad industry are handled by the Railroad Retirement Board and the National Mediation and Adjustment Boards.

Even a couple of tiny agencies, which might seem rightfully to belong in the Labor Department, are outside it: these handle vocational training and rehabilitation of handicapped persons. Both are in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Nevertheless, a labor secretary can make his job vital, if the President is guided by him and Congress has confidence in his judgment:

As a member of the Cabinet, the labor secretary can advise the President on the administration's labor policies and its recommendations to Congress on labor legislation.

So far in the Eisenhower administration the biggest job of the labor secretary—both Mitchell and his predecessor Martin Durkin—has been working on Taft-Hartley law changes which might be acceptable to unions and management and to Congress too.

Mitchell may find it an impossible task. Durkin quit when, he said, the White House wouldn't go along with his recommendations for changing the law.

Mitchell told the CIO convention Nov. 18 he would be spokesman for labor in the Eisenhower Cabinet but not a "mouthpiece." He pledged "fair" amendments to the Taft-Hartley law.

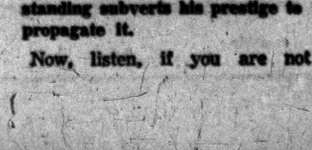

And he said he wants the minimum wage law widened to cover more of the nation's 63 million workers, plus a raise in the wage. Under present law about 22 million workers in interstate industries must be paid at least 75 cents an hour.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Positive Thinking Helps Men Become Successful

Dr. Gebhard makes a very stimulating comment about our weather forecasters. It may sound like a minor item, but one's viewpoint is the most important factor for success. Notice how Jesus stressed that same point when he changed his Apostles from failures to successful fishermen.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case J-361: Dr. Bruno Gebhard, aged about 48, is Director of the famous Health Museum of Cleveland, Ohio.

"Dr. Crane, I like your emphasis on the positive," he commented as Mrs. B. H. Broadbent was driving us out to the John Marshall high school for my address.

"In fact, a few years ago I grew disturbed because the weather forecasters would frequently predict 'Partly cloudy tomorrow.'

"Why don't they say 'Partly sunny tomorrow,' for that's what they mean, isn't it?

"So I sat down and wrote a letter to our Weather Bureau along this line, and received a cordial note in reply, admitting that I had a good point."

Life itself is a positive, dynamic force that builds up. Death and disease and all such negative forces tear down.

So never permit yourself to start dying prematurely by growing blue or moody or fault-finding. Those are advance symptoms of the Grim Reaper.

Everybody has within himself the chance to choose the happy, positive pathway here on earth, or the gloomy, negative trail.

That's why I have so often urged you to adopt the "Compliment Club" plan. It requires you to pay one honest compliment each day to at least three different people.

And you are to keep it up for 30 consecutive days. This experiment in social psychology actually will work miracles for you, as it has done for thousands of other folks.

But you must exert enough energy to mingle with people and search out merits in them. Then you must also pay them some sincere praise.

Happiness requires work. And nobody else can ladle it out to you or serve it to you on a breakfast tray.

No, indeed, for happiness is available only on the cafeteria plan. You must serve yourself.

In cafeterias if you don't get in line and carry your own tray, you don't obtain food.

And so it is with happiness. You must do some work. You must even overcome some stagefright. Perhaps you shiver and have beads of "cold sweat" on your brow.

But be grateful for stagefright and cold sweat. These prove that you are branching out into new contacts and thus are starting to grow into a bigger, better personality.

Failures in life usually have just as much beauty and brains and education, as do the successful people. But they lack this positive viewpoint.

Jesus came down to the sea one morning and found his Apostles dejected from an unsuccessful night of fishing.

But he didn't indict their boat or mended nets or even tell the men they needed to take a "refresher course" in fishing science.

Not at all, for those same failures had everything required for outstanding success, except for their point of view.

A changed mental outlook is all that most of you need to alter your personalities and transform your present defeats or failures into great victory.

So read this column daily to get a fresh charge of positive thinking. Then pay three compliments per day. Miracles can then take place in your lives.

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
International News Service

Destroys our faith in inhuman nature to learn the old reliable Piltdown man is practically a catalogue number.

The scientists figured Pilty was 600,000 years old, take or give a few days. He had the jawbone of a panel member, the tooth of an ungrateful baboon and the skull of an ancient Scotland yardeer.

Now, a new posse of scientists say Van Pilt is an imposter. His skull is only 50,000 years old, conservatively boasting. The rest of is careless housekeeping on the part of a co-op dentist.

The hoax was tipped-off by a gold-filling in a lower molar. The fact Sir Piltwick is only 50,000 seasons along does not upset Greenwich time. He couldn't have lived in this smog anyway.

We had a hoax like that called the Cardiff giant who was made out of cement flavored with ingenuity. It isn't difficult to fool any scientist whose rent is due.

The question of who inherits the tontine will be settled by the eel pond division of the admiralty. It will undoubtedly go to Mistinquette or Sophie Tucker.

I saw the Piltdowner on a safari to the snack bar of the British museum. All I can say of his face is the referee should have stopped the fight five rounds earlier.

A fellow named Dawson discovered Pilt-pilt while dragging a picnic grounds for negotiable cigarette butts. It was buried about as deep as a dent in a Morris chair.

A year later he found a jawbone, a tooth and a win and place ticket on a dinosaur. Which convinced the scientists they should find another skull and elect officers.

No Worries

A husband arrived home one evening and gave his wife an insurance policy. "I've insured my life for ten thousand he said, "so that if anything happens to me you will be provided for."

"How thoughtful of you," beamed his wife. "Now you won't have to see a doctor every time you feel ill, will you?"

Brady Sorry for Heart Phobia Victims, Urges Vitamin B Complex in Daily Diet

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Some readers may not believe it, but I have great compassion for victims of heart failure phobia, and equally great contempt for the medics who strive to keep their patients frightened about it.

For example, I mean the eminent heart specialist who deplored my teachings about digitalis and heart trouble and badly asserted that digitalis is all that keeps some bad hearts going from day to day.

That is a cruel and wicked deception and it is more reprehensible because a physician of standing subverts his prestige to propagate it.

Now, listen, if you are not scared out of your wits. In No. 2 Little Lesson in the Ways of Health, a booklet titled C V D (about heart and artery troubles, for a copy of which send 25 cent sand stamped self-addressed envelope, I show you how to shake off the phobia and get heart weakness, real or imaginary, off your mind.

I don't mean to boast, but a good many readers have assured me the booklet did just that for them.

In C V D I urge you to tone your heart, and incidentally your arteries, eating muscle and nerves with an optimal daily ration of vitamin B complex, and this is what I call a real heart tonic.

It can do no harm whether there's anything seriously wrong with your heart or not, and may do considerable good in any case.

If you take digitalis regularly, on your own, I suggest that you take it in or with a tablespoonful or even only two teaspoonfuls of the liquid B-complex, and at weekly intervals cut the dose of digitalis in half, but continue the full daily ration of B complex the year around or long after you have quit digitalis altogether.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed. Copyright 1953.

Charge Slaying in Chicago Fire

Autopsy Shows Wife, Three Children Were Shot Before Blaze

CHICAGO (AP)—Cook County authorities planned to press for criminal charges today against a 28-year-old grocer whose wife and three children were found dead after a fire in their basement Saturday.

The grocer, Vincent Ciucci, is in a hospital with severe burns suffered, he said, in his attempt to rescue his wife, Anne, 28, and their children, Virginia, 8; Angeline, 4; and Vincent Jr., 9.

Coroner Walter E. McCarron, whose routine autopsy showed that one bullet had been fired into the head of each victim, told newsmen today he will ask a coroner's jury to return a verdict of murder.

Irwin Bloch, state attorney, issued a statement saying, "my own feeling is that circumstantial evidence is so strong that it is better than eyewitnesses or a confession. It leaves no other possible inference than that he (Ciucci) did the killing."

Ciucci has denied knowledge of the shootings, police said, but has acknowledged ownership of a .22 rifle found in the ruins of the apartment.

He repeated his denial to Miss Carol Amora, 20, who police said told them she and Ciucci lived together for nine months last year while the grocer was estranged from his wife. Police said Miss Amora is the mother of a 4-months old girl and says Ciucci is the father.

Ciucci told police he awakened to find the apartment in flames. He told of running to the street to summon aid, then trying to save his wife and children.

Leroy T. Jolly, 55, of 31 Delaware Dr., was admitted to Pontiac General Hospital Sunday night after he suffered injuries in an auto accident on Elizabeth Lake road between Dwight and Mark avenues.

Reported in good condition, Jolly is being treated for fractured ribs, chest injuries, cuts and bruises. Pontiac Police said Jolly's auto collided with one driven by Walter Smith, 22, of 198 Florence Ave.

Burnes will be installed Friday at 8 p.m. in the Masonic Temple, 18½ E. Lawrence St., by his father, Lloyd W. Burnes, past master. Other past masters will assist in installing officers.

Other officers to be installed are Irwin Mills, senior warden; Samuel E. Smith, junior warden; LeRoy Jolly, treasurer; Wayne E. Scott, senior deacon; and Gearld L. secretary; William H. Anderson, Moors, junior deacon.

Also being installed are Leslie Hotchkiss, William Vandercook, Francis Mapley and Eugene Redmond, stewards; Jack Rininger, marshall; Richard Parsons, chaplain; and Thomas Lake, tiler. Henry Anderson, George Thompson and William Downes were re-elected to the temple board.

Experts Explain Bridge for Two

Honeymoon Game Can Be Played by Contract or Auction Method

By OSWALD JACOBY and ALFRED SHEINWOLD

We have received many questions on the game of honeymoon bridge. Some readers want to know how to play the game, and other want advice on skillful bidding and play.

There are several different ways of playing honeymoon bridge, but they are all games for two people and resemble either auction bridge or contract bridge.

In the most widely played form of the game, four hands are dealt out face down, just as in the normal game for four people.

You take one hand and your opponent takes another. The remaining two hands are the two dummies, but you don't look at them.

Looking just at your own hand, you make a bid. Your opponent may pass, bid, or double, just as in the normal game of bridge.

The bidding ends when one player makes a bid that the opponent passes (or, at the very beginning, if both players pass).

It's pretty hard to bid effectively when you have to guess what you're going to find in your dummy. For this reason auction bridge bidding makes more sense than contract bridge bidding.

In auction bridge, just in case you've forgotten that noble and ancient game, you get credit for overtricks exactly as though you had bid for them.

To put it another way, if you win 13 tricks at a contract of one spade you get credit for a grand slam, just exactly as though you had bid seven spades.

When the bidding has ended, the opening lead is made by the declarer's opponent.

The two dummies are then located so that the declarer's dummy plays the second card, followed by the defender's dummy, and finally by the declarer.

After the first trick, the play proceeds in the same order except that the lead is made by the hand that won the preceding trick.

The two dummy hands are not completely exposed. You leave six of the 13 cards face down (without looking at them, of course), and put one card face up on each of these six cards.

That takes care of 12 of the 13 cards in your dummy hand, and you turn the remaining card face up without puting it on any other card.

When you play from your dummy you may play only a card that is face up. If that play uncovers a card, that card is turned face up before the next trick begins.

Hal Boyle Says:

"Try Bess," New Miracle Disease for All to Enjoy

NEW YORK (AP)—Science labors to bring forth a new miracle drug every day, but my aims are more modest.

All I want to do is give mankind a new miracle disease every few years, a disease everybody can enjoy.

The trouble with a miracle drug seems to be that as soon as it whips one disease it sometimes gives you two other diseases that require the discovery of two more new miracle drugs to cure. How long can this go on?

That's the nice thing about my new miracle disease for the current season. No modern miracle drug has any effect on it, but the disease itself, if treated properly, will prevent you from catching more serious, disabling ailments.

In this respect it is like the common cold or virus X, two fine old miracle diseases that have lost their social usefulness because people now suspect you are lying if you claim you have them and stay home from work. Nothing wears out a miracle disease like suspicion.

That is why I suggest you catch my new miracle disease—Boyle's Epidemic Spasmodic Seizure, or Bess for short—as soon as possible. Get its benefits now. It can't last long in a world where every man doubts the other fellow's symptons and suspects his motives.

To give credit where credit is due, I got the idea for Bess from Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, the internationally known physician.

Dr. Alvarez in a recent article described a new ailment which he himself had suffered from called The Devil's Grip. It is characterized by a terrible back pain, headache, chill, shivering, nausea and dizziness.

The title, The Devil's Grip, drew me at once. It was just the kind of attention-attracting name I needed for my new miracle disease of 1953-1954. But after all, it is a real disease, and who wants one of those?

Life today periodically gives everyone a terrific pain in the neck, however, and who doesn't also shiver, feel dizzy and nauseated in these times? This results in boredom, and causes a tired, rundown feeling that can best be cured by a comfortable siege of brooding in bed.

So I thought of naming my new successor to virus X and the common cold False Devil's Grip. But I decided "false" would keep it from widespread popularity.

Then I sounded out such names as Hellburn Wrap, Angel Fever, Purgatory Flutters and Wishbone Cramp. Somehow they didn't quite ring true. Throwing modesty aside, I decided to name my new miracle disease after its discoverer, which would give it a ring of authenticity.

How can you tell when you have Boyle's Epidemic Spasmodic Seizure—or Bess? Well, Bess has exactly the same symptoms as the common cold or virus X except for two things. Your nose doesn't run, and you yawn oftener from an overwhelming sense of ennui.

You go to bed when it hits you and you recover from Bess when you get tred of it. You treat it by eating an old vitamin-packed miracle drug known as beefsteak whenever you are hungry.

Bess is a protective disease. It will protect you from pneumonia, overwork, or boring cocktail parties. It will protect you from being hit by a taxicab. What other miracle disease can make these claims?

Be the first in your crowd to catch Bess. Win the social acclaim and respect that reward anyone who is the first to fall victim of a strange, fascinating, mysterious and comfortable ailment. It won't be long until some jealous termite in our society passes the word around:

"Have you noticed how much Boyle's Epidemic Spasmodic Seizure resembles what we used to call laziness?"

Then we'll have to discover a new miracle disease.

Repatriated Jap States Prison in Russia Held 'Foreign Convicts'

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese prisoner of war recently repatriated from Russia said today he saw "American prisoners" in a prison southeast of Vladimir.

Tadashi Maeda, 58, a former Navy captain and military attache, made the statement in testimony before the Repatriation Committee of Japan's House of Representatives.

Maeda is one of 811 Japanese returned from Russia last Tuesday.

He reported the Vladimir prison, from which he was released, confines only "foreign convicts."

"The largest population in the prison was Germans, followed by Japanese, Finnish, Polish, Turks, French, Britons, Dutch, Estonian and American prisoners of war," he said.

He gave no details.

Maeda said the treatment was on the level of "the lowest subsistence standard."

Meals, however, had improved since February, he added. When he left, he said, the daily ration was 700 grams of rye bread, 40 grams of powdered grain, 110 grams of grain, meat, fish, salt, sugar and vegetable.

Kansas ranks first in the United states in the production of volcanic ash although the state has no known volcanoes.

Youth Kills Self; Reason Unknown

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Bartley Crum Jr., son of the prominent California attorney, shot himself to death yesterday, the coroner reported.

The 18-year-old youth's body was discovered by a schoolmate in a private home where they roomed. He apparently fired a rifle bullet into his forehead.

Young Crum, a student at Reed College here, was described by the coroner as having been "nervous and lonely."

But his father, who was in San Francisco on a speaking tour, said he was unable to explain his son's action. "I saw him only last week and he appeared in good spirits," the attorney said.

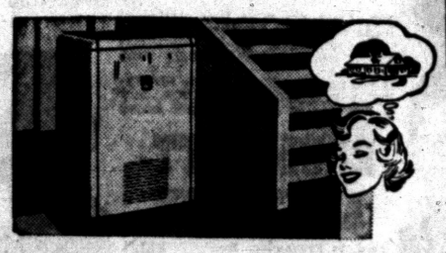

The father of Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks was sponsor of legislation in 1911 that led to establishment of our natural forest reservations. John Weeks sponsored the bill as a U. S. Representative from New Hampshire.

Heard in a Pontiac Church Sunday

Every Sinner's Confession Must Be Genuine, Humble

REV. T. WALTER HARRIS

At the worship service in Providence Missionary Baptist Church, 311 Bagley St., Sunday, the Rev. T. Walter Harris spoke on the subject "The Sinner's Surrender to His Preserver."

His text was "I have sinned; what shall I do unto thee, O thou preserver of men?" Job 7, 20.

The Rev. Mr. Harris came to Pontiac in 1944 to be pastor at Trinity Baptist Church. He founded Providence Baptist in 1948.

Exerpts from his sermon follow.

Job defended himself before men, but he used another tone when bowing before the Lod. There he cried "I have sinned." These are the words uttered by the God fearing child, Job.

But these words may also be used by the penitent sinner, and on this occasion we will direct them to him.

A confession, "I have sinned": In words this is no more than what a hypocrite, nay, a Judas, a Saul, or a Balaam, might say. Do not many call themselves miserable sinners who are indeed despicable mockers? Yet, since Job's heart was right, his confession was accepted.

A personal confession: Whatever others may have done, he addresses the confession not to his fellow man, but to the "Preserver of Men." It was a confession wrought by the spirit.

It was feeling: He was cut to the quick by it. This one fact, "I have sinned," is enough to brand the soul with the mark of Cain, and burn with the flames of Hell.

It was a believing confession: Though mingled with much unbelief, Job still had faith in God's power to pardon. An unbelieving confession may increase sin.

It was an inquiry: "What shall I do unto Thee?" His willingness to do anything, whatever the Lord might demand, proved his earnestness.

In his bewilderment he could not tell what to offer, or where to turn, yet something must be done. In his surrender he makes no conditions, he only begs to know the Lord's terms.

A title, "O Thou preserver of men": An observer of men, therefore aware of my case, my misery, my confession, my desire for pardon, and my utter helplessness.

"Preserver of men," by His infinite long-suffering refraining from punishment; by his daily bounties of supply, keeping the ungrateful alive; by the plan of salvation, delivering men from going down into the pit, snatching the brands from the burning.

No sooner had Job confessed than he is desirous to know a remedy. Reprobates can cry, "I have sinned," but they do not proceed to say "What shall I do?" Job was one of those men whom Scriptures describe as "perfect," yet he cried, "I have sinned." Noah was "perfect" in his generation, but no drunkard will allow us to forget that he had his faults.

Abraham received the command, "Walk before me and be thou perfect," but he was not absolutely sinless. Zacharias and Elizabeth were "blameless," yet there was enough unbelief in Zacharias to make him dumb for nine months.

Even though mankind is far from being what God would have him be, He watches over every living soul. We should confess our sin, and come to Him and be saved forever. "O Thou Preserver of Men" is our thought.

THE LITTLE TREE THAT TALKED By WALT SCOTT

A group of statesmen is said to be "log rolling" when working in a group for certain purposes. The expression originated in the early days, when logs were cut and rolled together by a settler and his neighbors, the task being too great for one man.

Plan to Rescue Lonely Ladies —for a Price

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Chivalry, dead for years, has been pushed about six feet deeper into the ground by four Oklahoma A&M College undergraduates who decided to trade the Air Lancelot idea for a fast dollar.

They are selling good looks and social poise for 70 cents an hour to dateless damsels.

Calling themselves the Citywide Escort Service, they hope their business venture will prove the answer to a desperate coed's prayer. They are available, at the prevailing rates, for coke dates, dances, bridge, coffee or tea drinking, or any other social gathering.

The boys—Gaylord Ortman, Hennessey, Okla., sophomore, Joe Perry, El Reno, Okla., senior, Dave Bergdahl, junior from Skandia, Mich.; and Jerry Herrin, Meno, Okla., freshman, also from Skandia—guarantee the young ladies a date they will be proud of, well-mannered, well-dressed, well-read, well!

They're available at a moment's notice to fill in for a girl whose date has suddenly come down with double pneumonia. They believe these emergencies will constitute the bulk of their business—which hasn't been booming yet but proves promising.

The boys announced their arrival on the Oklahoma A&M social scene with an ad that read: "Girls, don't panic. An escort is as close as your telephone."

Customers get the use of one of four cars—their choice. The first 20 miles are free and a nominal charge of 3 cents a mile is added thereafter. Cigarettes, the customer's brand, are free. Rates start at 70 cents an hour for single dates with lower rates for double, triple or quadruple dates.

Phones at the Citywide Escort Service have been ringing since the ad appeared with more requests from prankish men students than customers. But it's no laugh for the four young partners, who claim:

"We're ~~in it strictly~~ for the dough."

Man Gets Jail and Fine for Leaving Crash Scene

Robert A. March, 40, of 1002 S. Washington Ave., Royal Oak, was sentenced to five days in Oakland County Jail and fined $100 with $15 costs Saturday for leaving the scene of an accident.

He pleaded guilty to striking an auto driven by Herman Wells of 20 Whittemore St., in Pontiac Township last Friday. The sentence was handed down by Orion Township Justice Helmar G. Stanaback.

Flint Teacher Hurt in Collision Sunday

A Flint school teacher was injured Sunday when the car in which she was riding collided with another auto on US 10 at Scott Lake Rd., according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Miss Miriam Carr, 38, of 413 E. Court St., Flint, was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for hip and neck injuries.

Miss Carr was riding with Miss Elizabeth Trueblood, 29, of 413 E. Court St., whose car collided with an auto driven by Leslie Hutchinson, 40, of 4610 Dixie Highway, Drayton Plains.

Hutchinson told deputies he stopped for a stop sign and then pulled out onto the highway but did not see Miss Trueblood's auto until the two vehicles collided.

Aged Woman, Sick Nephew Refuse Help

STALEY, N. C. (AP) — An aged woman believed dying of cancer still resisted efforts today to get her and her mentally retarded nephew out of their one-room shack.

The 75-year-old widow, Mrs. Mary Mines, has locked herself in and refused all offers of medical aid. W. L. Lednum, police chief of this town about 25 miles southeast of Greensboro, says she has threatened to shoot anyone who tries to enter.

The county sent an ambulance and nurse to her home Saturday but Chief Lednum said Mrs. Mines refused to open the door.

With her is her 36-year-old nephew, George Fox, who Lednum says is unable to feed or dress himself. The police chief says Mrs. Mines once told her she keeps Fox tied with a rope.

Mayor John Staley says that Mrs. Mines promised Fox' mother on her deathbed that she would take care of him all her life.

Mrs. Mines receives about $40 a month in old age assistance, and relatives also help her financially. But they are unwilling to sign papers that woul dallow authorities to take her by force for treatment.

Detroit Collegians Are Best Speakers

ALMA (AP) — Two quick-thinking Detroit college students are the state's extemporaneous speaking champions.

Catherine Reagen of the University of Detroit and William Rowe of Wayne University topped the women's and men's divisions of the annual state contest at Alma College Saturday.

Other winners in the women's division: 2-Marlene Mayo, Wayne; 3-Delorna Berghuis, Calvin College; in the men's division: 2-Robert Winter, Hope College; 3-Leo Bordello, Albion College.

Miss Reagen's winning talk was on religious training in schools. Rowe's winning speech was on academic freedom and congressional investigations.

Albion, Alma, Calvin, Central Michigan, Detroit Tech, Ferris, Hope, Michigan State, Michigan Normal, University of Detroit, Wayne and Western Michigan took part in the contest.

Newsman Is Drafted; Experienced in Korea

TOKYO (AP)—Bernard D. Kaplan, 25, New York City, who covered the Korean War from start to finish as a correspondent, is being drafted into the Army.

Kaplan came to the Far East for International News Service but since 1951 has represented the London Daily Mail and the Canadian Broadcasting System.

His wife, Antonia Schilling, is en route home by ship. Kaplan leaves by plane tomorrow to report for induction in New York City.

Syngman Rhee, Dean Confer

U. S. Delegate Meets South Korean, Possibly Over Peace Talks

PANMUNJOM, (AP)—The chief U.S. delegate unexpectedly skipped today's negotiations with the Reds on a Korean peace conference and instead met with South Korean President Syngman Rhee at Seoul, possibly to talk over the dragging talks.

As Ambassador Arthur H. Dean talked with Rhee, aide Kenneth Young sat in for him at Panmunjom in a meeting he termed "a move forward."

Young said all points of the negotiations were discussed by both sides but gave no indication of any concrete progress.

Before Dean met with Rhee, he talked with Ellis O. Briggs, U.S. ambassador to Korea, on what Young termed urgent business. Young declined to reveal the subject of discussion.

Dean represents 16 United Nations and South Korea in the efforts to set up a peace conference. South Korea has been outspoken in its ideas on such a conference, occasionally differing with Dean's line of negotiation.

In other developments:

1. Thitry more South Korean war prisoners refused to return home, making a total of 160 who have snubbed interviews with South Korean officers. Not one South Korean has returned in the five days of explanations.

3. The head of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission said the Communists and the U.N. Command should decide what to do with POWs who refuse to go home if the peace conference does not meet soon.

The UNC insists that by the truce terms they must be released as civilians on Jan. 23 even if the conference is not under way; the Reds insist that they be held until the conference discusses their fate.

The armistice terms give a conference until Jan. 22 to deal with the prisoners, but there is little indication it will get started by then.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Find Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to stop bleeding—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H.® The price is only 98¢ a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember—if not entirely satisfied—your money will be refunded promptly. ®Trade Mark.

Two Flee Train

BATTLE CREEK (AP)—Billy and Ruth Butcher, both 20, of Battle Creek moved fast when they saw a Michigan Central freight train nearing a Galesburg crossing Sunday evening. The young couple ran to safety barely a minute after their car got stuck in the crossing. The car was demolished.

1954 Mercuries Go on Display

Open Showing Dec. 10; New Model and Engine to Be Unveiled

The 1954 line of Mercury automobiles will go on display Dec. 10 with a new valve in head V-8 engine and an entirely new model equipped with transparent roof as outstanding features.

A price reduction of $46 is announced for the Monterey station wagon and a cut of $10 on Mercury's power steering unit. The new Monterey hardtop, which Mercury calls the "Sun Valley" has a plastic roof, the front half of which is green tinted plexiglas. Its suggested list price is $2,365. Taxes, shipping and optional equipment items costs have to be added to this figure.

Mercury's new engine provides 161 horsepower and has a 7.5 to 1 compression ratio. This year's engine developed 125 horsepower and had 7.2 to 1 compression ratio. With the new power plant is a four-barrel carburetor, providing vacuum operation to control fuel and air mixture.

A stronger, lighter and more rigid crankshaft with five main bearings instead of three is used in the new engine.

Restyled rear quarter section panels, new wrap around bumpers and a new front grille are among appearance changes. Standard equipment is a new key type starter switch. It is actuated by turning the ignition key beyond the "on" position.

The 1954 line offers 14 basic colors, including eight brilliant shades, plus 22 two-tone combinations. Upholstery fabrics are broadcloth, vinyl, leather and nylon cord.

Mother and 3 Children Die in Fire; 2 Escape

EDMONTON, Alta. (AP)—A mother and three of her four children died yesterday in an explosion and fire that destroyed their home in southwest Edmonton.

The victims were Mrs. Robert Blair, 33; 5-year-old twins, David and Donna; and Marlene, 14.

BEVERLY WILLS

Young Actress Admits Luck

Beverly Wills Daughter of Joan Davis; Has Had 'Best Teacher'

HOLLYWOOD — One of the luckiest girls in show business is Beverly Wills who has been playing her mother's sister on the "I Married Joan" television show.

Beverly is Joan Davis' daughter in real life, but portrays Joan's sister in the comedy series.

"I'm lucky because I have the best teacher in the world," says the 20-year-old comedienne. "Mom has taught me lots of things, such as timing, facial expressions, how to hit myself on the chin, how to do a comedy fall."

But, Beverly points out, the most important things she's learned from her famous mother are how to make people believe you're a real person, not a caricature, and how to get people to feel sorry for you.

"If I can ever be as funny as mom, then I'll be content. As far as I'm concerned, she's the greatest."

Playing with Joan Davis on "I Married Joan" is not the first time Beverly has worked with her mother. When Beverly was five years old she did a routine with Joan Davis on vaudeville stages all across the country.

Later, she played her mother as a little girl in the film "George White's Scandals." And she also portrayed her mother's conscience during Joan Davis' radio days.

Beverly has had her own career in radio, appearing in Junior Miss for the past six years. She was also featured recently in two motion pictures, "Skirts Ahoy" and "Small Town Girl."

But school work hasn't taken a back seat. Until recently, she was a theater arts major at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Looking back at her television endeavors with Joan Davis, daughter Beverly says, "I was pretty nervous at first. Everytime I fluffed a line I figured I'd get a private lecture later on. But it seems they're satisfied with me. I've been offered a regular contract to remain with the show.

"I guess I do the same things as mother — only cheaper."

By LEON DENNEN

BONN, Germany (NEA)—The future of the Bonn Republic as a sovereign European power looms large in the Big Three talks at Bermuda—now that Moscow has locked the door on German unity negotiations.

The meeting of the U.S., Great Britain and France, now in session thus has greater interest—and misgivings—in West Germany than any other country of Europe.

For the Germans themselves the issue seems clear. They hope the three Western chiefs will agree at Bermuda on one of two things:

1. A sovereign West Germany as a partner in the European Defense Community and with France's consent.

2. A speedy end of the Allied occupation, without necessarily waiting for French ratification of the European Army treaty.

This was spelled out clearly by Heinrich von Brentano, leader of the Christian Democratic majority in the Bonn Bungestag, in an exclusive interview with NEA.

Von Brentano, next to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, is probably the most influential political leader in Bonn.

He is also the most Western-minded. Like Adenauer, von Brentano firmly supports the European Defense Community.

"Creatiton of the European Defense Community is essential to the whole idea of a united Europe," von Brentano told me.

He said: "We have fulfilled our part of the bargain. Bonn has ratified the EDC treaty. Now it is our fervent hope that the other treaty partners will act without further delay."

Van Brentano voiced the belief that President Eisenhower and Britain's Prime Minister, Sir Winston Churchill, will be able to convince France's Premier that the time has come to act boldly.

However, the German man-in-the-street does not share even von Brentano's mild optimism.

West Germans have confidence in President Eisenhower. At no time since the defeat of Hitler has U.S. prestige been so high in the Bonn Republic.

But the ordinary German is not sure about Britain's intentions. He fears that Sir Winston, in his great desire to leave the political area as the world's peace-maker, may even seek to throw a bone to Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov at the expense of the Bonn Republic.

There is even less confidence in the French Premier's power to make binding decisions on behalf of France's multi-party National Assembly.

Meanwhile, the Germans are, understandably, getting somewhat impatient about their status.

Sovereignty was restored to the West German Republic 18 months ago by the Treaty of Bonn. However, this treaty was linked with the Treaty of Paris setting up the European Defense Community. Neither treaty has so far been ratified by France.

Now the Germans ask: "Why should we be penalized for French internal quarrels by being kept indefinitely in the legal position of an occupied country?"

There is another reason for Bonn's impatience. Like Sir Winston, Adenauer is 78 years old. He is also a man in a great hurry. If he cannot be a new Bismarck and unite Germany in his lifetime, he wants at least to leave the rump Bonn Republic safe in the Western democratic community.

Adenauer—and this is also the view of von Brentano—fears a rearmed Germany outside the European community. He is not confident that the young republic could control alone the forces that would be set loose by a straightforward revival of the German army and the arsenals of the Ruhr.

The clock of history has moved on since last summer when the original Bermuda conference was to have been held.

Last July Europeans were hypnotized by the idea that the new Kremlin regime might really be willing to make peace. The Bermuda meeting was to have been but a step leading toward the fulfillment of Churchill's supreme project for a meeting with Malenkov.

Now it is clear that the Russians do not want an agreement on Germany. Their interests are best served by leaving the Western powers to wrangle among themselves while the Kremlin concentrates on consolidating its shaky power at home and in the satellites.

The task of harassing and weakening the West will be left by Moscow to the Cominform's fifth columns and supported by the continued exploitation of the "peace" offensive.

There is no longer any doubt that the Russians will not negotiate seriously until they have improved their bargaining position through a stronger hold on the satellites—especially revolt-ridden East Germany—and full international recognition of Communist China, including her entry to the UN and the Security Council.

With Soviet policy reverting to the old rigid Stalinist pattern, the Western powers have no option but to go on increasing their strength and improving their cohesion.

Building up Western military strength in Europe to include German rearmament will have to be given top consideration by the Bermuda conference.

Phony Snakes Turn Into Leading Sellers

AMHERST, Ohio (UP) — Ralph Prittie recently appeared to be stuck with a large order of those practical jokers' plastic snakes, but after his idea hit him, he turned the slow moving stock into one of his hottest items.

This town is in the midst of a large orchard area and the birds really get fat off the lush cherries.

Prittie, who runs the Ben Franklin Store, said the idea "just came to me" to use the snakes as scarecrows.

He tried out his brainstorm and sure enough, the birds stayed a respectful distance from the menacing-looking snakes.

Since his successful experiment, Prittie has had to order six more gross of the phony reptiles.

Good Layout Aids Beauty and the Farmer

They say much attention should be given to the beauty of a farm, and to its "utility value," which is described as arrangement of buildings, feed and landscaping so that the greatest possible efficiency results.

For instance, a farm driveway should enter on the north or west side of the house and the house itself should face the driveway. The planners say this permits use of the front door, and leaves the front of the house for window space.

The parking area, according to the experts, should be located opposite the farm house. Farm buildings should be arranged around a court, located behind the farm house. This permits the farmer to end his daily chores at the house.

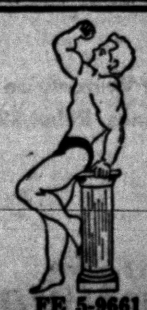

The experts say the source of livestock feed should be located between the large animal consumers, usually hogs and cattle, and near the poultry house. A windbreak should be to the north and west of the farm buildings and no closer to them than 100 to 125 feet.

There are about 800 varieties of earthworms.

Palestine Again Captures Headlines on Page One

Prof. J. C. Huerwitz of Columbia University, authority on Iran, Egypt, Israel, Turkey and the Arab states, charges the United Nations General Assembly with laxity for failing to settle the Arab-Israeli dispute.

By PROF. J. C. HUERWITZ

The unresolved and seemingly insoluble Palestine problem, which lost its front-page press appeal to the Korean War in June 1950, has once again recaptured banner headlines.

The American public had tired of the wearisome reptition of arguments by Arabs and Israelis; so too the international community.

A year ago the U.N. General Assembly proved incapable of adopting any political decision on Palestine, not even the proposal framed and approved in committee by more than a two-thirds majority.

This year, for the first time since 1947, the Assembly omitted altogether from its agenda the political aspects of the Arab-Israel controversy.

Thus did the lazy optimists triumph—those diplomats who argued that Arab-Israel tensions might subside, if only the issues were not aired before the world forum!

From the outset suspended peace produced daily breaches of the armistice. Then without warning, a few weeks ago, the Arab-Isarel pot began to boil over.

The murder by Israelis in mid-October of more than 50 Jordanians in the frontier village of Qibya—the most serious violation of the armistice since the spring of 1951—reflected the spreading exasperation in Israel over the endless stream of border incidents.

The American, British and French governments urgently requested the Security Council to review the latest tensions. The Arab states and Israel adduced persuasive arguments in defense of their respective positions.

Like everything connected with the Arab-Israel imbroglio, however, there is more to the story than meets the eye.

In the spring of 1948, Britian gave up its mandate in Palestine and the United States assumed Western leadership in the U.N.'s handling of the Arab-Israel question.

Within the U. N., the Security Council has controlled the security aspects of the problem such as the establishment of the two truces in 1948, the negotiation of the armistice regime in 1949 and recurrent intervention since then, whenever it appeared that the armistice might be breaking down.

The Assembly, responsible for settling the political differences that lie at the root of the trouble, has entrusted this function since December 1948 to a Conciliation Commission.

The commission, of which the United States is a member, got off to a bad start and later never recovered. It has progressed only from deadlock to deadlock. It could not even persuade Arab delegates to sit at the same table with Israelis.

The United States missed the boat in the fall of 1951. The commission confessed inability to execute its mandate. But the United States failed to propose an alternative for meeting the special demands of the Arab-Israel problem.

When international disputes drag on interminably, peacemakers often fall back on the technique of good offices as the Security Council did so successfully in Indonesia in 1947-48. The purpose of the technique is to establish an acceptable basis for discussion and persuade the parties to negotiate directly.

This is the formula needed now in the Arab-Israel dispute, since the Conciliation Commission was (for all intents and purposes) deactivated in 1952.

Even if the Security Council's censure of Israel should restore U. N. control over the situation, the causes of mistrust and tension will remain. For the Council's action can merely be palliative, not curative.

Thus until the General Assembly meets again next year, all we can do is sit back, fold our arms, cross our fingers and hope for the best.

Century Ahead to Be Electrical

Next 100 Years Can Be Marvelous With Life Tuned and Controlled

NEW YORK (AP)—The man who sent the first SOS from an American ship just 50 years ago today isn't looking backward. He's looking ahead to a bright new day when electronics will run your life.

He is Ludwig Arnson, a young man of 70 who is fit as a fiddle and tuned to the great things he sees coming to American life soon.

But he concedes:

"I don't see why anybody would have wanted to live in any time except these past 50 wonderful years."

Fifty years ago today the American-registered ship Kroonland bound from Antwerp to New York with 150 passengers hit a terrific westerly gale off the Irish coast which smashed her rudder. In vain the crew tried to rig a jury rudder in the pounding seas. The Kroonland wallowed helplessly. Then the skipper ordered his young wireless operator, Ludwig Arnson, to send out the distress signal—known then as a CQD.

The British cruiser Kent picked up Arnson's signal 35 miles away, took her under tow and brought her into Cobh. So Arnson made American maritime history.

"But maybe the next 50 years will be even more interesting than the past 50," says Arnson, smiling. Looking into the near future he foresees electronics doing these things:

* * *

For wrist watch wearers—perfect time and no more winding. Your watch will be kept wound by signals from a central station to which it will be tuned.

For auto drivers—practically no more accidents. When the sign says 50 miles an hour, you won't be able to go 55. A beam to which your motor is tuned will control it. When the sign says "stop," your car will be automatically slowed until it stops. And there won't be a thing you can do about it.

For secretaries—no more dictation from the boss. He'll be able to talk into a machine which will not even type his immortal words. They'll come out in printed pages. So the boss will have to perfect his English.

It May Mean Your Life

Apathy Is Biggest Enemy in Civil Defense Program

This is the first in a series of articles by International News Service Staff Writer Malcolm Johnson on the shocking lack of effective civil defense programs in the nation's "top target" cities.

By MALCOLM JOHNSON

Civil Defense in the United States today is woefully, tragically, unprepared to cope with an enemy atomic attack.

The present Civil Defense set-up appears to be an open, standing invitation to disaster—a terrifying gamble with the lives of millions of men, women and children.

And public enemy number one in this appalling, perilous situation is apathy—apathy on the part of the public itself, the millions of civilians whose lives are at stake.

These are inescapable conclusions, based on an intensive survey by International News Service of 10 major cities considered as primary targets for full scale enemy attack by reason of their Georgaphical, industrial or heavily concentrated population factors.

The cities included in the survey were New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Detroit, Cleveland, Baltimore, St. Louis, Boston and Washington, D. C.

Without exception, each of these cities reported to INS inadequate Civil Defense in varying degrees; insufficient manpower, inability to recruit enough volunteers, or critical shortages in supplies and equipment which would be desperately needed in the event of an atomic attack.

The major shortcoming reported by all 10 cities is lack of sufficient personnel to cope with an emergency. This manpower shortage exists in all categories of Civil Defense: the warden and welfare services, medical, rescue work, and all related services depending on volunteers for efficiency.

If the situation revealed in these 10 key cities is any criterion it may be assumed that the Civil Defense structure is probably no better in other cities.

It perhaps should be emphasized at this point that the civil defense organizations are separate and distinct from military defense preparations to meet an enemy attack.

Civil Defense is a civilian responsibility—with the aid of federal, state and local authorities—to cope with the emergency arising during and after an attack in the interest of the population attacked.

It entails rescue work, medical care for the injured, burial of the dead, transportation, combating radioactivity, fitting fires set ing radioactivity, fighting fires set by the bombs; providing food, clothing, shelter and other necessary services.

It would be difficult, almost impossible, to exaggerate the frightening implications of the situation revealed by the INS survey of civil defense.

But it's all spelled out in detail, in the written words of the Civil Defense directors and the mayors of the respective cities in reply to an exhaustive questionnaire covering every important phase of Civil Defense.

From a careful analysis of the replies the general attitude of the public on Civil Defense and the danger of enemy attack may be summarized as:

(1) It can't happen here, or it won't happen here, because it never has before;

(2) A defeatist, fatalistic attitude—if it does happen, the disaster will be so horrible and of such magnitude that nothing much could be done anyway.

Widow-Widower Ratio Now 3 to 1, Census Reveals

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Census Bureau reports there are 7,500,000 widows in the nation, a ratio of three to one over widowers and an all-time record.

The chief reason is that the death rate among men is higher. Another reason is that widowers are more inclined to remarry and usually choose women five to 10 years younger than themselves. This makes relatively small the likelihood of them surviving their new wives.

The number of widows compares with 7,000,000 in 1950, less than 6,000,000 in 1940, and 2,000,000 in 1890. The number of widowers stands at 2,500,000, relatively unchanged from 1940.

The average widow is 65.8 years old, compared with 68.4 for widowers. More than half the men 75 or older are married, whereas about three-fourths of the women 75 or older are widows.

New Turbine Made

LONDON (INS) — British research engineers have developed a new gas turbine which they claim may revolutionize the shipping world. The turbine, perfected after seven years intensive research at the experimental station of Parsons and Marine Engineering Turbine Reasearch and Development Association (Pamerada) at Newcastle, is expected to make a radical change in marine propulsion.

Milford Founded 123 Years Ago

Pettibone creek enters at the upper left corner, flows just below the business section and joins the Huron River. Much of the landscaping done by the late Henry Ford is shown along its course.

The Village of Milford is located in the township of the same name in the west part of Oakland County within little more than three miles of the Livingston County line, and 10 miles west of Pontiac.

The Huron River was responsible for the first white settlement in Milford. It was in 1830 that Elizur Ruggles came there and located in the forest at that point because the river offered such good water power possibilities.

He built a dam and saw mill and commenced cutting lumber for dwellings, the first of which was built by Ansley Adams in 1832. Luman Fuller followed with a grist mill in 1836.

In that same year Jabesh Mead opened the first store, and the area was platted. The first brick building was erected by George Dunning in 1847.

The early residents soon began to provide educational facilities, as the first school was opened in 1837. The first church was built in 1841.

The Milford post office was established in 1835, with Aaron Phelps as postmaster. The records show that its first year's receipts were $20.

By a special act of the Michigan State legislature, the community was incorporated as a village in 1869.

Alcoholic Turns the Tables After Insurance Refusal

By BILLY ROSE

For years now, I've been buying insurance from a fellow named Joe Ginter with whom I used to exchange aggies and spitballs at P. S. 44 almost half a century ago.

BILLY ROSE

The other day we got to gabbing about the kids in our graduating class, and Joe happened to mention Allen Gillis who had played center on our basketball team.

"Last I heard of Gillis," I said, "and it must have been 20 years ago, he wasn't doing so well."

"You're being charitable about it," said Joe. "Twenty years ago Gillis was a bum, and chances are he'd be dead today if he had bought the insurance policy I tried to sell him."

"Sounds as if you're knocking your own racket," I said.

"Let me explain," said Ginter. "When I met up with Gillis shortly after I started selling insurance, he was drinking more than he could handle and chasing around quite a bit. And this despite the fact that he had a wife and a couple of kids.

"Well, I didn't have to argue about it. Gillis admitted he had been worrying about what might happen to his family if he conked out, and that life insurance sounded like a good idea.

"So I arranged an appointment for him next day with one of the company doctors. But it was no soap—the doc phoned me after the examination and said he didn't think my friend was a good risk—that he had all the symptoms of an alcoholic.

"I lost track of Gillis after that until I met up with him at the City Athletic Club a couple of years ago. He was just coming off the handball court, and looked fit enough to go 10 rounds with Kid Gavilan.

"I waited for him to get dressed, and later over a cup of coffee he told me what had happened.

"It seems that when the company doctor turned him down, Gillis, for the first time in his fool life, got scared. Not so much scared for himself, but about might happen to his wife and kids.

"The only solution, the way he figured it, was to work out a method of insuring himself. Insurance, after all, was nothing more than a fancy way of saving—you paid in such-and-such sums and got protection for such-and-such a period.

"So, if the insurance company didn't want to hold his money because he was a bad risk, why couldn't he get almost the same result by putting a certain amount away regularly in a bank?

"Well, this self-insurance notion worked out even better than Gillis had expected. For one thing, he had never known the feeling of security which comes with having a bank account, and before long the idea of building up this security became an obsession with him.

"For another, once the saving habit took hold, he started paying attention to his work and, as might be expected, his pay checks began to get bigger.

"Encouraged by his success—and wanting more of the same—he began passing up the hootch and paying a littlt attention to his health.

"Well, to give it to you quickly, Gillis today is a rich man, and as far as his physical condition is concerned, he could probably go back to playing center on our old basketball team."

"Nice story," I said. "The moral, I suppose, is that I ought to cancel my life insurance and take up handball."

"I wouldn't advise it," said Joe. "If you took up handball with that watermelon under your belt, chances are no company would handle your insurance."

Support Safety Council Report

Proposals Would Help Solve City's Problem, Police Chief Agrees

(Editor's note: This is another in a series of articles on Pontiac's traffic conditions.)

By JOSEPH K. SFAIR

Pontiac safety and police officials have concurred with a recommendation by the National Safety Council that the city's vehicular traffic condition warrants a traffic court and a traffic engineer.

While some disagreed with certain conclusions in the council's annual report, they conceded that in no other time in Pontiac's history has there been a greater need for the two proposals.

"Probably the most important civic problem in Pontiac today is the traffic problem," explained Police Chief Herbert W. Straley as he pointed out that the city's traffic death rate now is equal to the eight fatalities in 1952.

"If we hope to make improvements expected of us by the National Safety Council, then we must also expect the combined efforts of all citizens, the motorist, pedestrian, police, press, courts and all city officials," he said.

Despite seemingly sharp traffic improvements attributed to Pontiac by the council, Straley said:

"I am still dissatisfied with Pontiac's overall traffic picture, because it can be improved beyond its frightful shortcomings.

"The council's report hit the nail on the head when it stated that the department was undermanned. Its recommendation for a traffic engineer and court is enough to cause one to wonder how a city the size of Pontiac has been handling its traffic problem without these two departments."

Straley, on the other hand, said the council failed to consider other factors in evaluating the 81 cities with populations ranging from 50,000 to 100,000.

"Pontiac must adjust its depleted police department to meet a problem of more than 120,000 people who use some type of transportation each day here.

"Where other communities have only residential type traffic to cope with, Pontiac must serve more than a dozen cities attracted by our heavy industry.

"I don't believe that the report took into consideration the important fact that Pontiac is a heavy industrial center with a major volume of traffic.

"We are forced to do a bigger job than most communities because of this increased traffic volume, to say the least of our man shortage.

"The situation seems even more unhealthy for Pontiac when you consider that the police department has been undermanned for sometime according to national surveys and other reports.

"When we recently transferred 10 men from the patrol division to strengthen the traffic bureau, the patrol division was overstrained. Consequently, both departments are still below the required number of men."

Straley said Pontiac's traffic situation is so complex that a full-time engineer is required to iron out many of the city's traffic problems.

Although conditions are apparently better than former years, an engineer will have to correct many traffic situations, previously setup on a "hit-and-miss" basis, Straley added.

"These important features which Pontiac lacks for its traffic safety," Straley stated, "can be compared to the ox cart on Main Street during the 21st Century."

Since Straley was appointed chief in Nov. 15, 1951, Pontiac received a substantial boost in it traffic rating.

Pontiac was ranked 24th last year after cutting its traffic death toll to eight. In 1951 it ranked 69th, with 16 deaths.

4 From Area Inducted Into Air Force

One Pontiac man, three others from Oakland County and a Walled Lake woman were inducted into the Air Force from the Army and Air Force recruiting station here during November.

Sgt. P. R. Moore, in charge of the local station, said five Pontiac men, and three from out-county were enlisted in the Army.

The Women's Air Force volunteer was Phyliss M. Keith of 305 Pontiac Trail, Walled Lake.

Albert P. Johnson, 3300 Elizabeth Lake Rd.
Lewis W. Gaeth, Rochester
Robert N. Bergner, Milford
Harold L. Combs, Milford

Jefferson W. Cline, 389 Prospect St.
William Evans, 70 E. Yale Ave.
Daniel O. Chisholm, 313 Russell St.
Thomas G. Strayer, 104 Wenonah Dr.
Robert K. Collier, 70 Square Lake Rd.
Douglas M. Hancock, Birmingham
Lefiis Spencer, Rochester
William E. Ray, Oxford

Costs Pontiac $1,950

Uncollected Property Tax City's Loss, County's Gain

Some uncollected taxes levied by Pontiac in the 1930s will cost the city about $1,950, according to City Attorney William A. Ewart.

Property taxes collected by Pontiac are divided between the city, county and schools, said Ewart.

When the city places a tax on property, he explained, and notifies outside units it has done so, they can expect their share after the tax is collected.

When a mistake is made and the tax can't be collected, it's not the fault of the outside units, so they are allowed to charge the city for the unpaid amount.

According to the attorney, Pontiac taxed about 30 acres of land on North Perry street across from Perry Mount Park Cemetery. The property was owned by the cemetery.

"To the city assessor then," Ewart said, "the lands appeared unused for cemetery purposes and subject to taxation."

The acreage was taxed from 1931 through 1935, and again in 1937 and 1938. The levies weren't paid, said Ewart, and the land was put up for delinquent tax sale.

The action was fought on grounds the property was a cemetery and therefore tax exempt. It was established that one burial had been made on the property, Ewart explained, and an Oakland County Circuit Court decision held the land to be a cemetery.

The city appealed, but a 1940 Michigan Supreme Court ruling supported the lower court.

"We had assumed the county had charged the taxes back to the city after the 1940 decision," said Ewart.

Oakland County Deputy Treasurer Lloyd Sibley said, "There were no definite instructions in the 1940 court order saying what to do about the taxes on the cemetery property, except they were 'forever canceled'.

"Apparently the office at that time decided to hold the taxes on the county records."

Last week the cemetery group obtained an order from Oakland County Circuit Court Judge George B. Hartrick, directing the county treasurer to charge the taxes back to the city.

Looney Larceny

Thieves Pocket Worms, Flying Saucers in 1953 Looting

By MEADER G. PATTINGTON

Things are tough all over, but would you go out and swipe a snake or a headache tablet or a quart of worms? Those are some of the choice bits of loot filched by thieves during 1953, a banner year for looney larceny.

The snake, a six-foot indigo job, was stolen from the Staten Island, N. Y., zoo. The headache tablet, along with $25 worth of other headache tablets, was in a salesman's sample case that vanished in Pasadena, Calif. And a Syracuse, N. Y., bait dealer was the poor fish robbed of 1,000 quarts of worms.

Very enterprising were the Baltimore, Md., thieves who carried off a prefabricated house. Then they came back and stole the flooring and supports. Other crooks with big ideas were the gang that took a 28-by-46-foot house near Leesburg, Va.

In this era of space flight, 1953 saw the first report of the theft of a flying saucer. It happened in New York, and not just one flying saucer, but a whole shipment. They were, of course, toys.

Perhaps the most original bit of law-evading of 1953 happened in Alzey, Germany, where a man got sent away to the pokey for 10 weeks. His crime was buffing the fuzz off gooseberries and selling them for grapes.

Other criminal loot oddities concerned the Sweetwater, Tex., crook who, over a period of a month, swiped one shoe each from 15 pairs in a shoe store; the London, England, robber who hijacked a truck loaded with burglar alarms; and the Lafayette, Ind., thieves who stole $18 worth of boys' sports shirts, each one bearing the motto, "I'm a Little Stinker."

In St. Louis, a hold-up artist encountered a victim who had no cash. The angry bandit put the bite on his target anyhow, and made off with his false teeth.

Even churches weren't safe. In Juarez, Mexico, two pickpockets were kneeling in prayer, and simultaneously relieving the man in front of them of his wallet. Fortunately for justice, a policeman was in the row behind them and that was that, and, in South Bend, Ind., a minister retired to his study after his sermon to find that $48 had been stolen. His topic had been, "Who was the criminal?"

Crime doesn't pay, and it certainly didn't for a few unlucky crooks in '53. There were the two who decided to hold up a Philadelphia grocery store. The grocer seized a flea spray gun and pumped insecticide at them until they had to flee.

Another gunman tried a Worcester, Mass., variety store. When the cash register was opened, it only contained one dollar, so the robber growled, "It wouldn't pay," and walked out. Then there was the crook who set his sights on a restaurant. He first ate a $1.95 meal, gave a $2 bill to the cashier and, as he was about to pull his gun, became frightened and left. He forgot his change and lost five cents on the deal.

Perhaps the most unusual—and effective — weapon employed by criminals during 1953 was that used by four Johannesburg, South Africa, thieves. They relieved a gas station attendant of $26, holding him at bay with a live lobster. Later, they were pinched.

According to a survey made by the Birmingham, Ala., public librarby, one of the most frequent items stolen is calorie charts. That's why so may crooks don't even have a fat chance of success.

Good Rule for Potato Pancakes

Mrs. Julian Levine Says Food Typical With Chanukah

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Since this week marks the end of Chanukah, the Jewish Festival of Lights, we should like to print a recipe for a typical food eaten at this time. Mrs. Julian Levine says that Potato Pancakes are always associated with Chanukah.

We met Mrs. Levine some years ago when we were leaders together of a Brownie troop. We know her as an efficient person in any undertaking.

She has always been active in the work of her temple and is a past president of the Sisterhood. At present her new home is absorbing much of her time; she enjoys entertaining.

POTATO PANCAKES
By Mrs. Julian Levine

Peel 6 large potatoes and soak in cold water several hours. Grate and drain off excess juice. Measure pulp. For each 2 cups of potato pulp, add 2 well beaten eggs, 1 tablespoon flour, ½ teaspoon salt and a pinch of pepper. If desired, 1 tablespoon onion juice may be added. Beat well.

Heat 4 tablespoons shortening in skillet. Drop in batter by tablespoonfuls. Brown well on each side. Serve with applesauce.

White Accessories Should Be Spotless

When you choose white fashion accessories or touches, you're obligated to keep them white, for nothing looks sadder or less appealing than a white collar that isn't quite!

Choose outfits that can stand a soap-and-water washing as often as needed.

Puff Out Cheeks

When applying your night cream, putt out the cheeks to smooth the lines that tend to form around the mouth.

Here's a gift that a man can call his own! To prove it, you can have his name hand-lettered on it in gold for posterity.

Worn by Climbers

To protect themselves from the extreme variations of climate of Mt. Everest, the mountain's conquerors wore woolen undercloth-ing under lightweight cotton and nylon suits. Because of two important qualities of wool—resilence and high moisture absorption capacity—wool is vital to the maintenance of body warmth during cold weather.

Youngsters Confuse Sex and Needed Assurance

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

When Mary was 4, her mother died. She went to live with her grandmother who had been left anxious and depressed by her daughter's death.

She needed the money Mary's father gave her for looking after the child. To prove to him that she was earning it, she was both over-protective and over-strict with Mary.

Then Mary's father remarried. His wife was an anxious person, too. In her late 30s, she'd given up hope of attracting a husband and when she got one, wanted to keep him.

To stimulate his appreciation of her, she developed the habit of exaggerating Mary's deficiencies to contrast them with her own neatness, thrift and competence.

As Mary grew into a pretty, belligerent teenager, her stepmother expressed her insecurity in direct attack. "That's right, show yourself off to the boys," she'd say bitterly. 'Your father should whip you for wearing that blouse to school."

At 15, Mary was arrested as a sexually delinquent girl.

It is my hope that any reader of her story will see how little Mary's sex impulse had to do with her sex activity. What motivated the activity were not her sex impulses, but her desperate need to be known as a valuable person.

So starved for contact with human tenderness was Mary that she confused an older man's flattery with it, and gave a juvenile court a typical case record of precocious sex activity.

Her life was seriously hurt because she could not distinguish between sex needs and emotional needs.

It is very easy for Jane and Bert to confuse their sex needs with emotional ones.

For example, Bert finds it easier to believe he feels mad devotion to the girl who sympathizes with his anger at his father than to swallow his pride and discuss the anger with his father.

It is easier for Jane to believe herself uncontrollably enamored than to realize she needs the prestige of her popular boy friend.

It is easier for Alice to indulge in too ardent petting than to know she's jealous of her older sister's appeal for men.

Water Will Do It

Plain lukewarm water is an inexpensive, efficient remover of most spots on the family rug.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Weekly Jaunts Together Helped Mold Character

"Would you spank a child?" inquires Anna C., a young mother from Detroit, who probably has me mixed up with some neighboring column that advises on such matters.

All the same, I'm glad the question came up, for I have a kind of answer in a nice story I'd like to tell about a father and daughter.

MISS McBRIDE

The daughter, April Oursler Armstrong, is a writer just as was her father, the late Fulton Oursler, and after his death she completed the book he had left about two-thirds done.

"April, you must finish 'The Greatest Faith Ever Known,'" he said to her as he lay dying.

"It seemed to me afterwards," April told me recently "that my father had been training me all my life for that moment. Otherwise I could never, never have looked into his eyes and promised solemnly but without tears to go on."

Her father's desk and his typewriter are among April's first memories and almost from the moment she could talk, she and her father on their dates together would discuss writing. These father-daughter dates were very special. Nothing was allowed to interfere with the time set aside for the weekly excursion.

At first when April was small they took rides in the elevated, and her father bought her ice cream sodas and yellow balloons to match her hair ribbons. When she was older they lunched at 21 and went to matinees afterward. April was always allowed to choose.

"I remember when I was 6, I chose a trip on the Staten Island ferry and Father thrilled me by saying we were at sea, as you are for a tiny bit of that crossing from Manhatten to Staten Island," she reminisced. "He knew stories about everything and could make even the smelly fish market seem exciting.

Another part of Fulton Oursler's training took place at the family dinner table, where he used to pose ethical questions for his daughter to solve. Once he asked her what she would do if at her boarding school she saw a student leave another's room and later heard that something was missing from that room.

April made the wrong answer that time. She said that she'd feel it her duty to tell the head mistress.

"But," her father gently objected, "suppose it turned out later that the other student had gone into the room on a legitimate errand? You'd have cast a very unjust suspicion, wouldn't you?"

"That may be the most valuable lesson I ever learned," says April, "and I can never forget it.

"Perhaps his best teaching came from his own behavior. I used to argue with him sometimes because he never made a fuss when people did mean things to him. I said he even seemed to love the people.

"He explained that to hate would do worse things to him than any enemy ever could. So he refused to waste the time and energy. Now I know he was right.

"He taught me to respect my work. He loved to tell that story about three men working on a building. They were all asked 'What are you doing?' The first answered, 'I'm carrying bricks.' The second said, 'I'm earning bread for my children.' The third replied, 'I'm building a cathedral.' Father always wanted me to build cathedrals."

Answering your question, Anna C., no, I wouldn't spank a child. I think there are better ways and I believe Fulton Oursler found some of them. Don't you agree?

Society Has Yule Party on Saturday

Musical Program and Luncheon Held at Temple

Mrs. Albert Kohn, president of Delta Kappa Gamma Society, welcomed members and guests at the annual Christmas party held Saturday at Roosevelt Masonic Temple.

Proceeds from the luncheon will be used for the scholarship fund which the international organization maintains for some needy woman who is interested in the educational field.

Participants in the program were members of the Girls' Senior Ensemble of Pontiac High School accompanied by Marilyn Hardy.

Paul Replogle, a student at Lincoln Junior High School, sang "I Believe," accompanied by Mrs. Donald B. Hogue. Mrs. Hogue also played Christmas carols throughout the luncheon.

Committee members assisting with the luncheon were Mrs. Helen Sanford, Mable Double, Mrs. P. J. Kinsella, Aldine French, Mrs. Stanley Olczak, Mrs. George Panks, Mrs. Harley Gibson, Mrs. Iva O'Dell, Mrs. Harry Avey and Mrs. Eamer Bigsby.

Others were Mrs. Thomas Dodson, Mrs. Fay Ealy, Mrs. David Hicks, Mrs. Clare Hubbell, Frieda Huggett and Nina Kropidloski.

Ushering in the Yuletide season in YWCAs across the world is the traditional "Hanging of the Greens" which will be held at the Pontiac YWCA this evening at 7:30. Preparing for the event are (left) Ruth Ann Johnson of Oliver street and Sue Stinson of West Howard street who are dressed in the native costume of the Dutch.

Dutch Theme to Highlight This Evening's Ceremony

Mrs. John Curry, Formerly of Holland, Helps Make Observance Authentic

The traditional "Hanging of the Greens" will be held at Pontiac YWCA on Monday at 7:30 p. m. It ushers in the Yuletide season in YWCAs across the United States and in 66 countries around the world.

When trees are trimmed and wreaths hung, a ceremonial will be presented. Y-Teens from eight countries have written to America telling how they observe Christmas. There is an amazing similarity in the observance of this Christian festival whether "in lands of the fir tree and pine" or in "lands of the palm tree and vine."

Christmas in America, Ceylon, Korea, Lebanon, Germany, Egypt, Costa Rica and Holland will be portrayed by members of the Tri-Teens Club.

The Dutch theme will predominate and Mrs. John Curry, foremerly of Holland is helping to make the Dutch emphasis authentic. Mrs. Curry recalls her own childhood.

"Christmas Day in Holland is given over to church and visiting with friends. It was on Dec. 5, St. Nicholas Eve, that we tied kolkje, Dutch cookies, to the tree with ribbons, and we filled our wooden shoes with hay and carrots and set them by the fireplace for Santa' horse," she says.

Christopher St. Nicholas, the Dutch Sinterklaas, is a highly honored saint. Clad in his bishop's robes on Dec. 5, he rides the heavens on his snow white horse, Sleipner. The horse stops to eat the hay from the shoes and St. Nicholas replaces it with candies and cookies for the good children and switches for the bad.

Often a white sheet is spread on the floor around which the children sing. Later St. Nicholas leaves gifts on the sheet. Preceding Christmas singing, processionals go through the street carrying a large star.

At the YWCA Christmas carols will be sung by members of the Pontiac High School A Cappella Choir and by the Waterford High School Glee Club. Later everyone will join in the carols played by Mrs. John Thors Jr. and led by Jeannette Kidneigh.

Ruth Ann Johnson and Sue Stinson dressed as Dutch girls will lead the singers to the refreshment table where Dutch chocolate and cookies will be served.

Programs Outlined for Webster PTA

Members of Webster PTA met at the school Wednesday to discuss several items of business.

Ralph Dawe presented a brief outline of the program for January, February and March meetings, which will include speakers with a discussion following in each homeroom.

Reports were given by Thurley Allen, Mrs. Thomas Hollis, Mrs. William Tiberg, Mrs. Harry Arnkoff, Mrs. John DeCou and Orrin Huntoon Jr.

A resolution favoring the fluoridation of city water was approved by the group, and it was decided that the proceeds from the Fall Fun Frolic will be used to purchase library books and to establish a sinking fund for a new movie projector, as well as for playground improvements.

The purchase of an opaque projector was referred to the faculty and audio-visual committee.

MRS. ROBERT W. ATEN

Honeymooning in Florida are Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Aten, who were married Saturday in Christ Church Cranbrook. The bride, the former Beverly S. Whiting, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Whiting of Birmingham, and the bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. John E. Aten of Canton, Ohio.

Beverly Whiting Becomes Bride in Cranbrook Rite

BIRMINGHAM — Beverly Sinclair Whiting, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Whiting of Lake Park drive, and Roger Wilson Aten were married at a candlelight ceremony Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in Christ Church Cranbrook. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. John E. Aten of Canton, Ohio.

The off-white silk bridal gown was accented by a spencerian scroll around the keyhole neckline and at the bottom of the apron effect on the taffeta skirt.

A silk gauze pleated underskirt swept the floor and was caught up in a bustle at the waistline. A cap of illusion held a waist-length veil and the bouquet was a cluster of white camellias.

Mrs. Frederick M. Warner was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Joanne Frederick, Suzanne Anderson of Bloomfield Hills, Mrs. Samuel Highberger of Oak Park and Mrs. John L. Bones of Cincinnati.

They were dressed alike in floor-length frocks of apricot silk taffeta. Matching silk gauze accented the necklines and short tulip-shaped sleeves. Their tiny hats were of apricot taffeta and they carried nosegays of white violets.

J. Eugene Aten Jr. was his brother's best man and ushers included Henry and Peter Whiting, brothers of the bride; Samuel Highberger, Leonard Albrecht and Robert Hanover of Alexandria, Va.

Mrs. Whiting wore a floor-length gown of gray satin, a small hat of pink paillettes and pink cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Aten's gown was of gray-blue lace and chiffon and she wore a matching hat and white spray orchids.

They will live in Graefield terraces.

Wool Sheds Water

In much the same way that water is shed from birds' feathers it flows off a wool suit or coat. The hairy characteristics of wool fabrics cause water to remain in droplets, and the slowness with which wool absorbs water enables a wool fabric to throw off most of the water.

Renovation of Old Metal Containers Great Business

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP) — If you've got an old pail or bucket, Ben Padwa can use it.

In fact, his business is the renovation of used metal containers, whether they held tar, chocolate syrup, ink, soap, paint, or what have you.

The 36-year-old former motion picture film booker, found shortly after World War II ended that dozens of firms using pails of all sorts toss them out when the containers are empty, largely because it's too expensive to clean them without special equipment.

Also, he learned that dozens of companies and individuals—machine shops, foundries, greenhouses and riveteers, to name a few—needed pails of all sorts which are expensive if bought new.

So, Padwa got the equipment needed to clean and straighten pails and started out about three years ago.

Now he has six employes, occupies 18,000 square feet of space and expects to renovate 150,000 pails of all sorts this year.

Mother Has Difficulties With Curfew

Teenager's Chums Permitted to Keep Later Hours

By EMILY POST

A very difficult problem is described in this letter: "I am the mother of a 17-year-old daughter. She is still in high school and is permitted to go out on dates once a week. This is usually on a Saturday night when she is allowed to stay out until 12 o'clock.

"Most of the girls in her group stay out until 1 and 2 in the morning, and apparently their parents do not object. Last Saturday my daughter came home at 1 o'clock and when she was reprimanded for this she burst into tears and said that she was tired of being treated like a child and always having to be the first one home.

"She said if her friends were permitted to stay out later she didn't see why she had to be different. This caused quite a fuss and later I got to thinking, 'What does one do in a situation of this kind when all the others are permitted to do something of which we do not really approve?'

"Is it better to conform than set her apart from the others in her group? I do wish you would discuss this in your column as I am sure many other parents are confronted with this same problem."

Answer: I agree that it is very difficult to make rules for your daughter that are not observed by her friends, and I don't know what you can do about it unless you live in a small town or other friendly community in which the mothers of your daughter's friends are your friends, too, and you can agree on rules to be exacted by all.

In deciding this one, your daughters might be permitted to stay out later than 12 at a special dance, but as a regular Saturday night event, this hour is much too late for a girl still in high school.

Dear Mrs. Post: When a man and girl go to a cafeteria for something to eat, shouldn't the man precede her so that when they reach the end of the line where the cashier is seated, he can pay for her food? If she goes first it makes a rather awkward situation.

Answer: She should go ahead of him and when they get to where the cashier is, he merely leans forward and says to the cashier, "This lady is with me, please add her food to my check."

Protect Linoleum

To prevet tears in linoleum, apply strips of adhesive or cloth masking tape along the underside at the corners.

Fruit, candy and nuts encircle a shaped spray of berry-studded holly in this arrangement in a porcelain-like melamine bowl from the Florence dinnerware line. To be used later for vegetables or salad, this bowl easily takes on a custom "Christmas basket" look.

Too Much Talking Casts Shadow Over Romance

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

With every dose of soap opera I'm awed all over again with the amount of talking people do. Those characters are continually describing to each other what went on.

They spend one 15-minute air period after another explaining what they were thinking, probing each other's minds with questions, dragging out conversation ad nauseam. Talk, talk, talk. Words are said, and acres more are spilled correcting the damage they did, clearing up misunderstandings.

Everybody seems to talk about his most intimate affairs both on the radio and off it too. A girl and a boy can't have a misunderstanding without all their friends getting into the act.

By that time, any chance little words that caused the upset in the beginning find themselves twisted and mangled and pulled out of shape. The damage seems irreparable.

As it does to Carol, who writes: "Dear Miss Woodward: During the summer I dated Bart all the time, hardly ever dating anyone else. Just before I went away with the family we had a slight disagreement, but I promised to write him and I did.

"When I returned I found that at a party he had said he was crazy about another girl. Later on I learned that his friends had told him I was telling everyone I had given him the gate and that was why he no longer dated me."

"I think that was why he so suddenly found himself another girl. I don't recall having passed such a remark, but I did tell all my friends that I didn't consider him as having dropped me. I told him so, too.

"Now when we're together he acts so cold and superior that I make a mess of everything. I do like him and I don't think what happened to us was fair. Please help me straighten this out."

The very talking about your disagreement with Bart gave everybody who listened to you a chance to make a mountain out of it. Your comments were passed around among your friends and his, gaining emphasis with each retelling.

And just look at the juicy tidbit you gave them to mull over. You didn't consider yourself as being dropped by Bart. They picked up the opposite of that statement as being the true state of mind. You dropped Bart was what they passed around.

So Bart considered himself dropped. Busily found another girl. Leaves you quite alone. Is cool and aloof in a masculinely superior way.

And why shouldn't he be? Why shouldn't he stay that way until you get the thing straight from the very beginning? That's going to take more talk, unfortunately, but if you think you can make yourself clear this time without talking in reverse, make an effort to catch his ear.

His alone, now. You don't need the meddling interpretations of your pals to confuse the issue any further.

Home-Knitted Bed Socks Pay for Gifts

By ANNE HEYWOOD

The other day I received a very cantankerous, but at the same time heartwarming letter from a reader.

It was from a woman who announced, right in the first senthnce, that she is "71 years old and proud of it!"

"And let me tell you, young lady," her letter continued, "I get a little tired of the new-fangled notions you're always discussing on how women can make money at home.

"Sometimes the old-fashioned notions weren't so stupid as you may think. Take my case, for example."

She went on to say that she is a spinster, with a very small income, a little house on the edge of town, and a flock of nieces and nephews.

"They have to have Christmas presents every year," she went on, "and I don't have the money for it. Now, I'm a very good knitter and crocheter, if I say so myself, and for the first few years I used to make things for them.

"But as they got older, and married, and had young ones of their own, I could see that my homemade presents weren't exactly right for them.

"They wanted 'boughten' things, thought they were more glamorous. So I figured I had to make the money somehow, to buy them.

"I couldn't think of a thing, till one year I went to our big store to try to find some decent bed socks. My feet get cold and our winters here are very severe.

"Talk about new-fangled—they had the darnedest looking bed socks—nothing like the nice, warm, comfortable, roomy ones we used to have. Not a thing in that store that an old person could wear!

"So I up and decided to make some. I took them down to Mr. Giles—he owns the store—and explained to him how I felt, and how a whole lot of the oldsters felt.

"Well, of course, he stocked my bed socks, and sold 'em like hot cakes.

"Now, every year, I take down a batch of them, and Mr. Giles' store sells them, and with the money I make, I buy these new-fangled glamorous presents my kids always keep wanting!"

If, in your own daily life, you notice a need or a lack—whether it's a product or a service—it may be the clue for a very lucrative project of your own.

Grandpa Really Felt Weight of Clothing

Men were rugged in grandfather's day, to judge by the weight of their clothes. Typical overcoat fabrics weighed 28-30 ounces a yard, almost two pounds, while suit fabrics weighed 20-22 ounces.

Today's overcoat cloth weighs 20-22 ounces, which was suit-weight at the turn of the century. Present-day suit fabrics weigh 10-12 ounces, while tropical worsteds for summer are a sheer 6-8 ounces a yard. Clothing men say central heating and better transportation account for the trend.

Will Power Wins

David "Will" Power, vegetarian, set a new cross-country walking record when he arrived in New York City this year after a 73½ day cross-country walk from Santa Monica, California. The previous record, set in 1910, was 77 days. Power's foot care included 10 pairs of wool athletic socks which he interchanged on the extended amble. No holes developed, he reported.

Lions 'Out-Defense' Bears to Clinch Title Tie

Wings Give Up NHL Lead With Two Shutouts

Hawks Blank Detroit Sunday, 5-0, to Follow Saturday Loss, 3-0

DETROIT (AP) — It seldom happens but . . .

These events hardly can be classed in the category of common occurrences. So you can imagine the surprise of the 10,277 fans in Olympia stadium last night when the lowly Black Hawks turned on the Red Wings and blanked them 5-0.

Only last week, Detroit pummeled Chicago 9-0 and 9-4 in a weekend series. It was without doubt, one of the worst back-to-back beatings in many a year. But coach Sid Abel — former Detroiter — brought his Chicago team to town last night with the promise: "We'll be a lot stronger."

Chicagoans scored once in each of the last two periods to not only gain revenge, but run their winning streak to two straight games. They've won only five games all season.

It was Detroit's second shut-out in as many nights.

Red Wings journeyed to Toronto Saturday night and were defeated 3-0. That knocked them out of first place in the National Hockey League, in favor of the Montreal Candiens.

Montreal swept two week-end games to gain a three-point lead over Detroit.

Browns Rout Giants

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Only the New York Giants, one of the weaker National Football League elevens, stood between the Detroit Lions and another Western Division title today.

The Lions, winners of the 1952 crown, clinched at least a tie for the division lead yesterday by defeating the Chicago Bears 13-7. By winning, they maintained their one-game margin over the San Francisco 49ers, who walloped the Green Bay Packers 48-14.

If yesterday's performance by the Giants means anything, Detroit is a cinch to win next weekend. The New Yorkers were the victims in Cleveland's 11th straight victory as the Eastern Division champions compiled their highest total in four years 62-14. The championship game is scheduled for Dec. 27 on the field of the Western Division leaders.

In other games, the Pittsburgh Steelers downed the winless Chicago Cardinals 21-17 and the Washington Redskins blanked the Philadelphia Eagles 10-0. Los Angeles swamped Baltimore 45-2 Saturday. However, yesterday's Detroit victory mathematically eliminated the Rams from the Western Division race.

The 49ers had an easy time of it against the Packers. They scored two touchdowns in the first and third periods, and singles in the second and final quarters.

George Ratterman, substituting at quarterback for Otto Graham, completed 15 of 27 passes for 235 yards and three touchdowns as the Browns scored eight times on the Giants and added two field goals and eight conversions by Lou (The Toe) Groza.

Talbert to Play Against Belgium

Trabert, Seixas and Richardson Round Out Davis Quartet

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Captain Bill Talbert today named a four-man United States team, including himself, to face Belgium in the Davis Cup interzone tennis final here Dec. 17-19.

American team will consist of U. S. champion Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, Wimbledon champion Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., and Talbert, a New Yorker. Bob Perry of Los Angeles will be sidelined.

Winner of the series will meet Australia in the challenge round Dec. 28-30.

Captain Pierre Geelhand of the Belgian forces also included himself on a three-amn teeam, which will consist also of Philippe Washer and Jacques Brichant. Washer and Brichant are expected to play both singles and team up in doubles.

Collins Becomes Referee

BOSTON (AP) — Boxer Tommy Collins — who was floored 10 times last April in his lightweight title fight with champion Jimmy Carter — is returning to the ring, but only as a referee.

Collins retired from boxing to become a prison recreational officer. He has received approval of the state boxing commission to referee a preliminary bout on next Saturday night's Callahan A. C. card at Boston Garden.

This Week's Bouts May Produce Two Challengers

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Challengers for both lightweight champion Jimmy Carter and middleweight King Bobo Olson may come out of this week's television bout.

Wallace (Bud) Smith, the No. 1 lightweight contender from Cincinnati, and Orlando Zulueta of Cuba, the No. 2 135-pounder, collide for the fourth time Friday night at Madison Square Garden. They're all even so far, each with a win, loss and a draw. Both have been clamoring for a crack at Carter.

The 10 p.m., EST, bout will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC).

Rocky Castellani, No. 2 middleweight contender from Cleveland, and Gil Turner, No. 4 from Philamain 10-rounder at the Cleveland delphia, face each other in the Arena Wednesday night.

The Castellani-Turner fray will be telecast (CBS) starting at 10 p.m. EST.

Paddy de Marco, the No. 9 lightweight from Brooklyn, faces Carlos Chavez of Los Angeles, in the main 10 at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena tonight.

Unbeaten Eleven Bows in Indiana Bowl Contest

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—A third unbeaten record in football lies buried in the Refrigerator Bowl where the College of Idaho lost Sunday to Sam Houston State, 14-12. Idahoans are the 3rd unbeaten team to be slapped down in the six years the small college postseason game has been played.

Sam Houston State's victory margin Sunday was a 3rd quarter safety scored when end Max Whitley tackled College of Idaho's halfback Walk Jakubowski in the C.I. end zone. Fullback McNeill Moore of the Texans clinched the victory a couple of plays later by breaking away from three tacklers and sprinting 36 yards for a touchdown.

Ferris Honors Pair

Two Oakland County boys were awarded letters for service to the Ferris Institute football team this fall. George Adams of Bloomfield Hills and James Hunt of Pontiac (manager) were the recipients. Bruce Campbell of Howell won a major football letter.

Fabulous Bevo Displays Skill Against 'Dales

Rio Grande College and its fabulous Clarence (Bevo) Francis will make its only Michigan appearance of the season Saturday night against Hillsdale College in Stock Field House, Hillsdale.

The Ohio quintet won 39 straight games last season and won its opener this season before falling to Adelphia in Madison Square Garden last Thursday and dropping a one-point loss to Villanova in overtime Friday.

Francis scored 1,954 points last year, 73 per cent of his team's total of 2,660. In one game he hit 116 points and had 179 in two consecutive games.

His sensational records were not accepted by the NCAA, however, and Bevo's ability was subject to much controversy because of the junior college teams that provided much of Rio's opposition.

Church, Selvala at CMC

Ed Church of Rochester and Delmar Selvala of Pontiac are members of the indoor track team at Central Michigan College. Church, an all-state football player while in high school, is listed for hurdle and quarter-mile events, while Selvala is a pole-vaulter.

Spartans at Top Physical Condition for Rose Bowl

By ROBERT E. VOGES

EAST LANSING (AP) — "For the first time this season, we're going to be in good shape for a football game."

It was line coach Duffy Daugherty talking, Biggie Munn's No. 1 football assistant at Michigan State College.

Munn has been busy with a speaking tour — he explained he'd agreed to all the dates before the Rose Bowl bid came to Michigan State — and Daugherty has been handling much of the planning for the practices starting this week.

"It's going to be mainly fundamentals," Daugherty said. "We'll try to polish our timing and assignments and to get the kids back in shape again."

"If we could go outside," he said, "we could get a lot more done. But of course we have no idea what the weather is going to be.

"One main thing," Daugherty said, "is that we have time to get the squad back in shape again. We're going to be in our best shape of the season — at least from the physical standpoint.

"We could field a pretty good football team from the players we've had injured this season," Daugherty said. "And all the injuries seem to come on crucial games.

"Take Duckett (end Ellis Duckett of Flint). I think he made just about one Monday practice this season. All year it was his leg or something else—and he's our best end. He should be in shape for this one."

Daugherty said it was safe to say 1953 has been the worst season for injuries since Munn has been at Michigan State. He cited a long list of injured players.

Toski Pleases Following With Havana Victory

By BEN MEYER

HAVANA (AP)—Bob Toski of Northampton, Mass., had everybody on his side in the Havana Country Club's invitational tournament as soon as it became known he was to marry pretty red-haired Lynn Steward at Coconut Grove, Fla., Dec. 14.

The Cubans promptly called Toski "la Bomba Atomic," because he weighs only 130 pounds but plays a powerful game of golf.

Toski didn't let his fans down. He won the 72-hole tournament, beating 30 other professionals with a four-round total of 272. That was one stroke beter than the scores turned in by Al Besselink of Grossingers, N. Y., Freddie Haas of New Orleans and Walter Burkemo of Franklin, Mich.

The victory was worth $1,500 to Toski. Besselink, Burkemo and Haas received $873 each.

Ram '5' Meets St. Mary (RO) in SCL Opener

St. Frederick Quintet at Royal Oak Tonight; Mikes Play Tuesday

St. Frederick's Rams, beaten 51-45 by St. Rose in their opener last week, swing into Suburban Catholic League play tonight at Royal Oak.

Playing host to the Freds will be Royal Oak St. Mary, runnerup to Orchard Lake St. Mary for the SCL crown last season.

Coach Tom Bean's attack will be built around Joe Hearns, 6-foot 3-inch center, and guard John Wagner, the only two holdovers from the 1952-53 squad.

Moving up from the reserve team to round out the lineup will be forwards Peter Parker and Al Alsheskie and guard Larry Blovits.

Ram Coach Charles Talbot will probably stick with his usual starting lineup, with Don Picmann and Lionel Bradley at forwards, Tom Monroe at center and Dick Doyan and Roger Nosek at guards. Game is set for 8 p.m. in the St. Mary gymnasium.

St. Michael opens its season Tuesday night, traveling to Orchard Lake to meet the defending champion Eaglets.

Ganzel, Kopicko Honored

Jerry Ganzel of Milford was among 29 varsity award winners in football, announced this week by Western Michigan College. Numerals went to 36 members of the Bronco freshman team including Ron Kopicko of Waterford and Ken Soronen of Berkley.

Doak Walker's 2 Field Goals Are Victory Margin

58,056 See Defenders Star for Detroit Pros in 13-7 Triumph

By JACK SAYLOR

DETROIT — The Detroit Lions terrific defense did it again.

Chicago's "Monsters of the Midway" were tamed, 13-6, in a game marked by ferocious line play at Briggs Stadium Sunday as 58,056 watched the Lions clinch at least a share of the Western Division title.

The Lions' forward wall was next to impregnable Sunday and the secondary, kept busy by 42 Bear passes, came up with five interceptions, including three at critical moments.

Chicago gained only 54 yards rushing. Singling out any individual in such a team performance is difficult, however, the play of Joe Schmidt was nortworthy. Schmidt directed the defense in the absence of Lavern Torgeson and did a bang-up job.

Linebackers Jim Martin and Bob Smith also merit praise along with Thurman McGraw, John Prchlik and Les Bingaman up front and deep men Yale Lary and Jack Christiansen.

A pair of field goals by Doak Walker provided the victory margin. First was a 41-yarder at 9:48 of the 1st quarter after Bobby Layne's pass to Leon Hart and Hart's subsequent lateral to Walker covered 55 yards to set it up.

Fred Morrison gave a great demonstration of punting for the Bears. He kicked nine times for a 48-yard average, but ironically set up Detroit's only touchdown with a short 32-yarder to the Bear 38.

Jim Martin's pass interception halted Chicago in Lion territory late in the quarter and Bob Smith carried Martin's lateral to the Bears' 19. Walker booted a 36-yard field goal just before the half.

Chicago marched to the Lion 4 in the 3rd quarter after recovering Hunchy Hoernschmeyer's fumble, but Jim David came up with an interception on George Blanda's 3rd down pass.

At the start of the last period, Blanda hit Leon Campbell for 47 yards to Detroit's 14, but again an interception, this time by Christiansen, stopped the Halasmen.

Bears finally scored with two minutes left when a Layne pass was picked off at the Lion 22. Tommy O'Connell lofted to Eddie Macon for the TD.

'Snead's Tourney' Closes Golfing Campaign for 1953

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Sam Snead's tournament — the $10,000 Miami open — will bring the 1953 professional golf campaign to a close this week and the veteran slammer from West Virginia will be here to try for his 6th championship.

They started calling it Snead's Tournament" after Sammy won it the 4th and 5th times in 1950 and 1951, and there's a soft spot in Snead's heart for this meeting, because it marked a turning point in his career back in 1937.

That year, Snead had finished 2nd in so many tournaments he was getting a runner-up complex. Then he won the Miami Open and went on to take eight in a row to climb to the top of the money-winning list.

His victory in the Miami Open that year was scored with a record 267 which stood for 12 years, until Bob Hamilton and Fred Haas shot 264s to tie for the chmpionship in 1949. Haas won in an 18-hole playoff.

A movie contract kept Snead from entering the tournament last year. Jack Burke Jr. won in a playoff after the 72-hole grind ended with Burke, Doug Ford and Dick Mayer in a three-way tie for 1st.

World Match Crown to Stroh's Outfit

DETROIT (AP) — Stroh's five-man team came from behind last night to beat Pfeiffer's by 167 pins and retain its world match game bowling championship, 24,351 to 24,184.

Pfeiffer's had led all the way, but Stroh's broke the lead in the 22nd game of the 24-game match. Stroh's clipped a Pfeiffer lead of 23 pins and came out leading themselves by 16 pins.

In the next game they opened the margin to 47 pins and added 120 pins in the final game to make their 167 total margin.

Remarkable Showing

ND Grid Coach Praises Unbeaten 1953 Eleven

By FRANK LEAHY

My coaching career certainly has been blessed with more good fortune than any man could ever possibly earn, and the completion of this 1953 season without defeat has to me been the most wonderful experience of my coaching life.

To me, the record of this team in view of the schedule, and their very apparent lack of depth is remarkable. Before the season started even the world's greatest optimist could not have foreseen so much success as we were playing top teams from every section of the nation.

Because every team I have coached has meant so much to me and I get so close to the individuals I hate to ever rate one above the other, but this team to me is the greatest because of the terrific schedule they faced and because they were able to move the ball every Saturday against the toughest kind of opposition college football had to offer.

Saturday's game was the last for six members of the Irish starting lineup and to these gentlemen the coaching staff is indebted for a job very well done.

Captain Don Penza, Art Hunter, Minnie Mavraides, Jim Schruder, John Lattner and Neil Worden all played excellent ball all fall. They started every single game and finished a great number of them.

And to my wonderful staff of assistants must go the real tribute for what was accomplished this fall. Whether I was there or not Joe McCardle, John Druze, Bill Earley, Bob McBride, John Lujack and Walter Ziemba carried out their work to perfection. They are the best in the business.

Ever since my recent illness I have been receiving considerable advice from many and varied sources on the fact that I should get lots of rest, or I should take this vitamin or that medicine.

But, I can tell you very frankly that there is no medicine in the world which can make a man feel any better than the results of last Saturday made me feel.

Kentucky Shows Power in Rout of Temple Five

Hagan Hits 51 Points; Hoosiers Unimpressive, but Beat Cincy

By ED CORRIGAN

1. Kentucky was back in action after being suspended a year by the Southeastern Conference.

2. Branch McCracken, coach of NCAA champion Indiana, has expressed dissatisfaction with his team.

3. The raves over Bevo Francis and his Rio Grande College team, which on occasion reached a fever pitch, have subsided.

Adolph Rupp's Kentucky team spent most of last year practicing for the current campaign with the avowed intention of winning the national title and showing no mercy in the process.

The Wildcats looked like they might make good their threat in their opener Saturday when they massacred Temple 86-59 behind the 51-point scoring binge of Cliff Hagen, their 1951 All America. This represented a Kentucky record for one-game point production.

McCracken's pessimism over Indiana well may be justified. The Hoosiers had their troubles licking Cincinnati 78-65 after holding a slight one-point margin at the half.

The Hoosiers won't have a chance to relax tonight. They play Kansas State, one of the three teams to defeat them last season. State opened its campaign with a 70-41 victory over Denver.

As for Francis and Rio Grande, they have played four games and won two after running up a 40-game winning streak. Bevo has hit for 176 points in the four games for an average of 44 points per game.

* * *

Leahy Hails '53 Team 'Greatest'

Worden's 3 Touchdowns Pace 40-14 Win Over SMU Saturday

By ED SAINSBURY

CHICAGO (UP) — Notre Dame coach Frank Leahy today rated the 1953 Irish football team his "greatest."

"I have to rate this a great team because of its schedule," Leahy said of his unbeaten, but once tied powerhouse.

"We didn't have a soft spot anywhere," he said, "and the lads played to their greatest capabilities when they had to."

Saturday Notre Dame trampled Southern Methodist, 40-14, for its 9th win in a 10-game season. Only blight on the Irish record was a come-from-behind 14-14 tie with Iowa.

Fullback Neil Worden scored three times against the Mustangs, making his three year total 29 touchdowns, more than any other Irish players has ever registered.

All-America Johnny Lattner tallied twice and threw a 55 yard pass to Dan Shannon to set up one of the Worden scores.

Bowling Clinic

By BILLY SIXTY

CASE—Keep Break Short For Better Control — An all-American team member eight straight years, Joe Norris of the famous, original Detroit Stroh's passes on the valuable tip that made him great:

"Stick to as short and sharp a hook break as possible. It means control. Makes all alleys, fast or slow, look and play alike. Until I took the advice to reduce my wide and fancy hook, I was going nowhere. Got lots of strikes, but few spares. Couldn't figure angles properly. Had trouble with right side 6, 9 and 10 pins."

How did Norris cut down the hook? Speed! Speed that came naturally, easily, with longer push-away, a smoother swing, and a reaching follow-through. As sketch shows, he was able to start his first (strike) ball farther to the right, about midway across several boards to hold the 1-3 pocket, he picked only one board. That brought it down to making the No. 3 pin the target on a slow alley, and 1-3 opening the objective on a slick alley. As Norris says: "No longer were shots wasted trying to find the range." Don't bend the ball widely. Make the hook short and sure.

Bowl Games Discussed; Maryland, Oklahoma Pit Offensive Strength; UCLA Defense to Get Test

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK—During a recent conclave of coaches in New York we tried to find a few bowl angles. We started with the Rose Bowl, opening with Ray Eliot of Illinois. Ray is one of our finest coaches and Illinois was every bit as good as Michigan State.

"We have no complaints," Eliot said, "about the selection of Michigan State. My Illinois players think they could clean up Michigan State. Probably Michigan State players know they could clean up Illinois.

"But in my opinion the Big Ten certainly picked a high-class team. It is a team with offensive speed, a team that will be hard to stop. I understand that UCLA has a very strong defensive outfit. Red Sanders' team will have its trouble stopping Biggie Munn's attack."

"If I had my pick of the games," one coach remarked, "I'd take Maryland and Oklahoma. Why? Because they both have fast, powerful offensive squads. Both have speedy backfields that can score.

"I'd say they have as much team speed as any you will find. I'd like to see the line play of J. D. Roberts of Oklahoma and Stanley Jones of Maryland. Both are exceptionally good. As I see it, this game is a toss-up. But I believe it carries the chance for action."

"I know," another able coach said, "that Syracuse from the East, went to the Orange Bowl last winter and took quite a wrecking. I don't think West Virginia will come upon any such calamity in its Sugar Bowl contest.

"This West Virginia team was good enough to maul Pittsburgh, and beat Penn State, both very good teams. It is a veteran team with a strong line and good backs."

But Bobby Dodd's Georgia Tech team is good, but not as strong as it was last year. That Georgia Tech collection was a powerful delegation. I believe this will be an evenly matched game, which is what crowds like to see."

We get this report from the Southwest and the Cotton Bowl. "We know that Alabama has a spotty record," one of coach Jess Neeley's assistants says. "But they are a rugged November bunch. Rice has has a sound, strong outfit—good enough to beat Florida, Texas, Arkansas, Texas A. and M., TCU and Baylor.

Blenman and Roll Victors at Rolladium

Increase in Player Pensions Opposed

NEW YORK (AP)—Tom Yawkey, president of the Boston Red Sox and a member of baseball's Executive Council, said today he would vote against the major league players' demand for an increase in pension benefits and hinted he als. was against boosting the minimum wage from $5,000 to $7,200.

The portly Red Sox owner, who favored the resolution calling for possible termination of the pension plan, said he was all in favor of the players operating the fund themselves if they wanted to.

"It would be very nice to turn it over to them if they want to run the thing," he said. "I would be glad to turn my end over to them provided they satisfy me for what I have contributed."

Yawkey said the players' request to raise the pension benefits from a $50-$100 scale to an $80-$150 and lowering the qualifying age from 50 to 45, was not workable.

"It's like the age-old law of supply and demand," he said. "You can't take out twice as much as you pay in. If there were enough of an increase in revenue from the television receipts of the World Series and All-Star Game, I don't believe anyone would object to increasing the benefits. But I certainly won't vote for it because you just can't give away what you haven't got."

The wealthy Red Sox president believes, however, the differnces between the players and owners can be straightened out to the satisfaction of both sides.

Yawkey verified that the owners are not going to decide whether to retain or drop the pension plan at the current meetings. They simply will consider the resolution to appoint an exploration committee to study the possibility of dissolving the fund. The owners can drop the plan with 90 days notice.

Reynolds and I had failed to notify the players about this resolution is a complete falsehood," Kiner said.

"Never at any time did the owners make such a resolution. At our Atlanta meeting Mr. J. Norman Lewis, our attorney, assured the 16 player representatives that there was no chance of the pension plan being dropped."

Threatened With Collapse

Minor League Dilemma Poses Serious Problem for Major Loops at Meeting

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—By this time it must be generally known that baseball is in trouble, because the sports pages have been full of it lately. We doubt though that the full extent of the dilemma facing the national game is fully appreciated even yet.

It goes far deeper than the problems connected with radio and television, though these undoubtedly have played their part in making the sport as sick as it is. The simle fact is that the entire minor league structure is threatened with collapse.

* * *

No set of big league magnates ever met before with as many pressing problems on their minds as those who will be gathering here this week. Their wrangle with the players about the pension fund is comparatively small potatoes, though it is, of course, potentially explosive.

Decisions need to be made right now toward relieving the distress of the minor leagues. Even a year from now might be too late, unless the majors have resigned themselves to eventually drawing their talent from the colleges and semipros.

Only five seasons ago, in 1949, there were 57 minor leagues in the country producing players who might eventually help stock the two big leagues. This past season the number had shrunk to 38, and there will be fewer this year. In 1948 all baseball, minor and major, did 68 million dollars worth of business. Last year the figure was 49 million.

By grabbing the television money they have incubated millions of big league fans who no longer are interested in watching anything but the best.

What the men meeting here will do toward helping the little fellows, if anything, we wouldn't try to guess. On their past record, they will consult their own immediate interests and take a chance on playing the college boys a decade from now.

Expect Owners to Turn Down Three Demands

Minimum Pay, Release Clause, New Benefits Proposals Doomed

NEW YORK (AP)—Three of the big league players' major demands—boosts in pension benefits, elimination of the 30-day release clause and an increase in minimum wages from $5,000 to $7,200—were expected to be rejected by the club owners at their three-day meeting starting today.

High on the agenda is the recommendation by baseball's five-man Executive Council last Sept. 29 that a committee be named to consider terminating the pension plan. The multimillion-dollar plan, cause of one of the biggest player-owner disputes in years, popped back in the news last night when Ralph Kiner of the Chicago Cubs, National League player representative, said the owners had never presented any resolution to end the plan.

Kiner and Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees, American League player representative, met with player spokesmen of all 16 clubs last Tuesday. But the council's recommendation on the pension plan wasn't made public until Wednesday.

"The statement the owners made that they had a resolution to end the pension plan and that Allie

Spartan Five Sets Mark in Drubbing Creighton, 88-51

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State should develop as one of the front runners in the Western Conference basketball race this season if its first game Saturday night is an example of what can be expected.

Last season, Michigan State tied for third place with Minnesota in Big Ten standings. All the best players of a year ago have returned and strength has been added by a good collection of sophomore substitutes.

Michigan State walloped Creighton university 88-51 Saturday night, setting a new MSC single game scoring record.

The old high was set in an 82-49 victory over Northwestern last season.

Forward Al Ferrari was high for Michigan State with 26 points, although he was rested during most of the second and fourth periods.

McCoy, a lean elusive Negro from Farrell, Pa., scored 14 points. Peterson, six - foot - seven - incher from Elkhart, Ind., scored 10 points while substituting for Bob Armstrong, regular center.

Lansingites Dominate AAU Wrestling Meet

LANSING (AP) — Michigan AAU state wrestling meet, with finals here Saturday night, turned into practically an all-Lansing event.

Lansing Eastern wrestlers won eight of the 10 championships in the high school division. Lansing Sexton and Kalamazoo Central took the other two titles.

In the shortest bout of the evening, Jerry Cornelius, wrestling for the first year for Kalamazoo Central, pinned Leroy Gmazel of Sexton in 16 seconds.

In the best match of the open competition, Ken Maidlow, former Sexton wrestler, won a unanimous decision in a 191-pound bout with Orris Bender, former MSC Big Ten champions.

Methods Differ on Tax Policy

Reed, Humphrey Hope to Avoid Struggle Over Revision Approach

WASHINGTON (AP)—A difference of opinion over procedure has developed in efforts to restore harmony between the Eisenhower administration and Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-NY) on tax policy.

Both Reed, chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey are known to be hoping to avoid another fight such as they waged in the past session of Congress.

But in preliminary discussions to date, they have differed over how to approach the billion-dollar tax questions that must be settled when Congress reconvenes next month.

The Treasury prefers to wrap up in one package a broad, partly technical tax revision program and some major decisions on tax rates, such as excises and corporation income taxes.

Reed and some of his colleagues strongy prefer to take up the general tax revision bill separately, early in the session, with the hope it will be passed before possible fights develop over major tax rates.

Authorities reporting this situation said there has been no decision yet, and they hope it will still be ironed out. As part of the effort toward harmony, Reed has been invited to the White House several times recently and Humphrey visited Reed at the Capitol last week.

The question may come up at President Eisenhower's conferences with legislative leaders next week.

Behind the difference of opinion on procedure lie potential differences on policy or strategy.

The tax revision program will include many relatively small benefits for millions of taxpayers—new or bigger allowances for medical expenses, child-care expenses of working mothers, dependents making more than $600 a year, business depreciation and other points.

Sponsors think it will be popular, as most tax-reducing measures are. It also includes a rewriting and streamlining of almost the entire revenue code, strongly championed by Reed.

French Beat Off Attack on Key Post

HANOI, Indochina (AP) — The French army command said today its forces beat off a Vietminh attempt to destroy Gia Loc, a key French stronghold near the highway linking Hanoi with the seaport of Haiphong. The French claimed they inflicted "extremely heavy losses" on the Communist-led rebels.

The French acknowledged, however, that French and Vietnamese troops manning the post and the armored column sent to their aid suffered "serious losses" in the five-hour battle yesterday. No figures were given.

Crack Vietminh Regiment 42, reinforced by regional battalions, blasted the fort with heavy mortar and machine gun fire just before dawn. An infantry assault followed.

A French relief column fought its way through an ambush on the road with the aid of French fighters and bombers. The Vietminh fled when the column finally drove through to the fort.

Air Rifles Dangerous Gifts, Police Warn

Police have cautioned parents that air rifles are dangerous gifts for small boys.

Miss Bernice E. Berger, policewoman, stresses that such gifts may result in the loss of an eye or other serious injury.

She said that under a city ordinance an air rifle can be confiscated by police if found in possession of a child within the city.

Rudolph Friml Plans Healthy 69th Birthday

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Rudolph Friml, last of the great operetta composers, plans a unique celebration for his 69th birthday today:

(1) He'll bicycle some 15 miles from his Hollywood hilltop home to a beach club at Santa Monica ("People think I'm crazy, but I like to beat the red lights," he says);

(2) He'll take an endurance swim in the club's pool. Last year he swam continuously for 2½ hours—"I wanted to see how Florence Chadwick could do it."

I went to Friml's Chinese style home, expecting to see quite an old party. After all, hadn't he been a student of Anton Dvorak in Czechoslovakia and the composer of such classics as "Rose Marie," "The Vagabond King," "The Firefly"? And wasn't he the remaining member of operettas' Big Three, the others being Victor Herbert and Sigmund Romberg?

Mrs. Friml, a Chinese beauty, ushered me in and the composer was listening to a piano piece on one of his three recording machines. He sat down to the piano and accompanied himself in a "Czechoslovakian Rhapsody," which he said he compsed as he went along. It was a feast of melody.

He played another spiritual song and a lighter one designed for Jeannette MacDonald — "something she can sing in Las Vegas." He explained that he had recently written some added songs for MGM's third version of "Rose Marie."

He also reported he had just returned from Berlin on an abortive mission to write a show. He is soon leaving for Hong Kong.

"The most important things in my life are in this order: 1—health; 2—music, 3—travel," he remarked.

"I am never sick. Why? Because I take good care of myself. I stand on my head for 10 minutes every morning. That gets the blood to the brain and starts you thinking. That's why I have remained creative all these years.

"I do lots of yoga exercises. I also exercise my fingers; they are my fortune, you know. I do all my composing on the piano and have someone else put it down on paper. Not like the old days. I wrote millions of notes for 26 shows, arranging and orchestrating everything myself. That was before we had recording machines."

Friml said he had health equipment all over the house and invited me to see for myself.

"I am always exercising," he said. "Even in the shower or bathtub. How many other men take the trouble? Not many. See —I even exercise on the stairway. I always go up like this." And he glided quickly up the stairs, two at a time.

He showed me a large box in which banks of electric lights induced the sweat to pour. Also a reducing machine. In the bedrooms he pointed out ultra violet lamps that kept the air pure at all times—"not even smog can get in."

He demonstrated his head standing technique, then reclined on his back and rolled to a standing position without using his hands. "Try it," he urged. I did, and arose with a slight charley horse.

"Look," he said, raising his trousers, "these are the legs of a ballerina."

We also talked about the musical theater and he said he found the shows of recent years lacking.

"They are full of smart songs," he commented sadly, "but that is all. There is no melody and no good voices to sing them. It is too bad. I hope the operetta will return so the new generation can learn what real singing is."

Hoodlums Kill Manufacturer

Los Angeles Executive Beaten Aiding Marine Assailed by Youths

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A gang of youthful hoodlums beat a wealthy manufacturer to death in the heart of downtown Los Angeles last night when he atempted to aid a Marine who was being attacked by the gang.

The victim was William D. Cluff, of Hollywood, owner of the Western Chemical & Manufacturing Co., producers of asbestos products.

Police said the youths ganged up on the Marine, Pfc. John W. Moore, 18, of Camp Pendleton, Calif., at the intersection of Seventh and Broadway. Moore said he was nudged in the back and when he turned one of the hoodlums snarled, "Have you got a beef, or something?"

Then Moore was slugged and the battle moved into the street. Witnesses said Cluff, who was window-shopping while waiting to keep an appointment with his wife, called out: "Leave that Marine alone."

With this four others leaped from a nearby car and about nine youths swarmed over Cluff, beating him and knocking him to the curb. Officers said his head hit the pavement. He died en route to an emergency hospital.

NEW YORK (INS)—It is estimated that by 1960 the United States will rely on oil and natural gas for about two-thirds of its energy.

Police Go to Miami for Killings Suspect

MIAMI (AP) — Michigan troopers are due here today to return a 17-year-old boy to Newberry to face a charge of double murder.

And while he waited he read comic books and Miami papers telling of his being picked up Saturday as he played a pinball machine in a bus station.

He is Allan Smith, who was 17 Sunday and is a parolee from the Michigan Boys Vocational School. His mother lives at Brooklyn, Mich.

Smith is wanted in the deaths of Mrs. Celeste Holton, 52, and Robert Milton, 67. East shot twice through the head with a 30-30 caliber rifle, their bodies were found in a motel operated by Mrs. Holton and her husband, Alvin, last Friday. Milton was a caretaker there.

Grains Scoring Advances Today

CHICAGO (AP)—All grains except corn scored moderate advances in fairly active dealings on the board of trade today.

Trends at the start were mixed. After opening sales had been put through, the market moved ahead. Wheat was helped by an agriculture department forecast of advancing prices. Oats received support on news of limited government stocks of that grain.

Market Trend Slightly Lower

NEW YROK (AP) — The stock market was slightly lower today with major groups moving irregularly

Major factions either was encompassed the movement of leading issues.

The pace of trading stepped up from the Friday total of 1,390,000 shares. There was, however, no concentrating of activity in either the ranks of buyers or sellers.

Here is the way major sections moved:

Higher — Aircrafts, oils.

Mixed — Steels, motors.

Steady — Utilities, air lines, radio-televisions.

Kern County Land, which gained 2¾ Friday in stepped-up activity, was active and a fraction higher today. Among other gainers were American Woolen, U. S. Steel, Goodrich, and United Aircraft.

2-Car Dixie Crash Injures 3 Persons

A Flint man was arrested Saturday on a charge of being drunk and disorderly following a two-car collision at U.S. 10 and Davisburg Rd. in which three persons were injured, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Arthur J. Floyd, 37, of 428 Crapo, Flint, who was arrested by Deputies Jack Fritch and Harry Jones on drunk and disorderly charges, lost two teeth in the accident. He also was treated for face cuts and knee bruises at the hospital.

Floyd was a passenger in a car driven by Mrs. Lillian A. Tews, 47, of 8106 River Rd., Utica, who was treated for forehead bruises.

She told deputies she did not see Miller's car, which was stopped for a left turn, until it was too late to avoid an accident.

New Cafeteria Opens at Holly

Will Serve 220 School Children at One Time; Meals at Cost

HOLLY — Serving 220 at one time, the new cafeteria in connection with the Holly Area Schools commenced business this noon.

For a few days, only grade pupils will be served, who will be accommodated in two "shifts."

Later, high school students will also be accommodated. Offering its service to over 1,500 children, the cafeteria is said to be one of the largest of its kind in the state.

The Board of Education is serving the meal at cost, and it is proposed to offer a good menu at 30 cents for grade, and 35 cents for high school students. All kitchen and dining equipment is new and modern.

Facilities of the cafeteria are optional with the pupils, and they may continue to bring their lunches from home, or get them otherwise if they wish.

News in Brief

Glen Harris, 40, of Miami, Fla., was fined $75 for drunk driving Saturday following his arrest earlier that day by Bloomfield Hills Police. He pleaded guilty before Bloomfield Hills Judge A. J. Richardson.

Donald R. Smith of 68 Norton Ave., reported that a bowling ball and bag, a blanket and a flashlight were taken from his car Sunday while it was parked in an Auburn Heights parking lot, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies. The articles were valued at $41.

Elect Guild Officers at Christ Lutheran

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — Mrs. H. A. Daniels was elected president of Christ Lutheran Church Ladies Guild when the group met last week to hold an officer election and Christmas party.

Also elected at the meeting, held at the church parsonage, were Mrs. Howard Peterson and Mrs. Ervin Crothers, vice presidents; Mrs. Julian Brill, secretary; Mrs. Vernon Waltz, treasurer; and Mrs. Arthur Jepson, corresponding secretary.

The group also voted to present $25 to the Lutheran Home for the Aged at Grand Rapids and $300 for debt reduction of the local church.

County Deaths

Boyd H. Hipp

DRAYTON PLAINS—Service for Boyd H. Hipp, 72, of Drayton Plains will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow from the Watson Funeral Home, East Jordon, with burial in Sunset Hills Cemetery, East Jordon.

Mr. Hipp died Sunday in Pontiac General Hospital. Arrangements were made locally by the Pursley Funeral Home.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Helen Brunett of Grand Rapids and Mrs. Dorcas Miller of Royal Oak, and a son, Horace of Drayton Plains.

Area Woman in Hospital After 2-Car Collision

Mrs. Anna S. Gubanche, 23, of 3317 Mann Rd., Waterford Township, was admitted to Pontiac General Hospital with possible head injuries suffered in a two-car collision on M24 near Silverbell road in Orion Township Saturday, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Mrs. Gubanche was injured when a car driven by her husband, Martin, 25, collided with an auto driven by Emlich McCloud, 23, of 408 N. Saginaw St. She is reported in good condition.

Local Man Held in Jail, Failed to Pay $90 Fine

A Pontiac man is in Oakland County Jail today for failure to pay $90 in fines and costs on three traffic charges Saturday.

Gerald Bauer, 26, of 60 Crawford St., pleaded guilty Saturday to reckless driving, driving without a driver's license, and driving without an auto registration. He appeared before Sylvan Lake Judge Joseph J. Leavy. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail after failing to pay fines.

An average adult not engaged in manual work in a temperate climate needs about 2,500 calories of food a day.

Bob Considine Says:

Ike Is Happier in Bermuda Than in Korea Last Year

CASTLE HARBOUR HOTEL, Bermuda (INS)—Just a year ago at this time I was with President Eisenhower is a somewhat different setting. It's pleasant and warm here in Bermuda, a pink and green jewel in an azure setting.

The food is good, there is a promise of a round of golf if the world can be talked straight in a few days. And at night, after his replenishing nap, there is old man Churchill and his brandy and cigar and stories.

Last year at this time I was with Ike in Korea. Everything was laid on for him very nicely, as he went through with his promise (written into a speech as an afterthought) that, if elected, he would go to Korea and see what could be done about the least popular war in which U. S. forces had ever engaged. But red carpeting has a way of running threadbare near the front in Korea during December.

Ike brought some sports shirts along on the Bermuda trip. A year ago he was decked out with long underwear, shoes and overshoes, double trousers, sweaters, jacket, fur-lined parka, furlined hat and gloves.

Eisenhower's face was pretty much a mask each day as we toured what amounted to about 300 miles of the safe front. He had little time to talk with troops and younger officers.

His principal brush with the men who were doing the fighting was the day he had chow with three handpicked and pretty unhappy GIs, on a frozen slope about two miles back of some mild front activity.

The talk was mainly about the food and how the same outfit had fared years before under "George." (Patton.) The GIs munched their pork chop and sauerkraut, said "Yes sir" now and then, and stared with understandable dislike at the hovering reporters and photographers.

Ike looked up at the forlorn front, like a scene from "Lost Horizon." Then he said:

"Well, at least I did some good by making this trip." He stressed the "some."

It was a sobering experience for Eisenhower. As he listened to opinions as diversified as those of Generals Van Fleet and Bradley, and later listened to what Gen. MacArthur and John Foster Dulles felt about the Korean war, and how to end it, he knew (if he did not already know) the tremendous and lonely job that lay before him.

There was loneliness in Bermuda, too. But in one respect the President is a much happier man today than he was a year ago. He was then terribly worried that his son, Major John Eisenhower, would be captured, and he was quite frank with him about this.

He said to his son, "I could somehow bear it, if you were killed in the service of our country. But if they capture you, and hold you over my head, I just don't see how I can go through with this job I'm taking on."

B47 Makes Ocean Hop Under Record Time

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A B47 Stratojet bomber flew nonstop from England to MacDill Air Force Base here yesterday in 8 hours 53 minutes, clipping 14 minutes off the old record for the 4,480 miles.

Boy Lost 10 Hours in Mountains Saved

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Dickie Lutzoff, 8, lost for 10 freezing hours in the San Gabriel Mountains, was rescued yesterday from a Mt. Wilson cliff by three members of the Altadena Mountaineers Rescue Club. They found him perched on an old slide overlooking a 1,000-foot precipice.

Dickie said he hadn't moved from 4 p.m. Saturday when he became lost until he was found.

The lad had gone into the mountains with three other youngsters but had decided to return alone by a short cut, sheriff's officers said.

'Considerate' Robber Leaves Helpful Note

"Hey, mister, your back door's open."

It was.

YOUNG KIDS LOVE A CAR WITH a top that goes down, and older kids like it even more if they will admit it. This car is a symphony in chartreuse green with a black top, 8 tube custom factory radio, white side wall tires, gas saving overdrive, air conditioning heater, cowl mirror. You could look forever and not find a 1950 Ford convertible like this. You would expect to pay twice the low price that Birmingham's largest Ford dealer, HAROLD TURNER, INC., 464 Woodward Ave., Birmingham, MI 4-7500.

SPECIAL!

ILA CHIEF—Capt. William V. Bradley of Staten Island, N.Y., is the new president of the International Longshoremen's Association. He succeeds Joseph P. Ryan, who resigned after 26 years as head of the union. Bradley, president of the ILA's tugboat division since 1937, was chosen as a "reform" candidate to help the organization compete with the newly organized AFL pier group.

Man Claims to Be Only War Grandson

KEARSARGE, N. H. (UP) — Lester C. Barnes, 87, believes he is the only living grandson of a Revolutionary War veteran.

His grandfather, Amos Barnes, fought in the Battle of Bunker Hill before he was 21 and went on to other battles at Quebec and Trenton. He was a Valley Forge with Washington.

The veteran was 64 at the birth of his youngest son, Albert, and Albert Barnes was 48 when Lester Barnes was born in 1866.

The Sons of The American Revolution has tentatively substantiated Barnes' claim.

"As far as we know, Mr. Barnes is right," said the executive secretary, Hazel Brook, of Boston. "There could be another grandson of a Revolutionary War veteran somewhere, but we have never heard of one. Until we do, Mr. Barnes has the distinction all to himself."

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Jim Bob Mobley of nearby Holt's Summit is only eight and that ruled him out of the junior cooking competition at the county fair.

So the son of Missouri's director of Resources and Development Division had to buck the competition provided by the farm women who've been cooking for quite a spell.
