

Munich Crash Kills 50; N.Y. Survivor Dies

U.S. Ship Falls Onto Shoppers

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — A U.S. Air Force transport plane carrying American students home for Christmas plowed into the heart of ancient Munich today.

Police said 50 to 60 persons, perhaps more, died a fiery death.

In addition, at least 30 Christmas shoppers on the busy streets of this Bavarian capital were reported critically injured.

It was the second airplane disaster to affect a great city in two days. Two planes collided over New York Friday and fell on different parts of the city, with a death toll of 136.

The crew of seven of the twin-engine Convair and 13 student passengers from the University of Maryland's outpost in Munich were believed to have perished in the crash.

The plane sheared off the steeple of a church and crashed into a parked streetcar.

Police expressed belief about 25 persons in the streetcar died, as well as 10 to 15 Christmas shoppers caught on the street by the crashing plane and the flames which engulfed it.

"There are so many arms, legs and bodies lying about it is impossible to say how many were killed," one police official said.

The American students aboard the plane were 16 to 21 years old, most of them children of U.S. military personnel stationed in England.

HAPPY, JOKING

They had boarded the plane at Munich - Riem Airport a happy, laughing lot. They were to fly to Northolt Airport, England, there to scatter to their families for Christmas.

The tragedy took off from Munich-Riem at 2:05 p.m. in foggy weather.

"Just minutes later, witnesses said the plane hit the steeple of St. Paul's Roman Catholic church in the heart of the city."

It sheared off the steeple, flew on another couple of streets and then, with a roar, dove into a Bavarian street and exploded.

A huge area went up in flames as the plane crashed into the street.

Tempest Sales Jump 24.3 Pct. in December

Pontiac's new Tempest series showed a 24.3 per cent increase in retail sales during the first 10 days of December as compared to the previous 10-day period, it was announced today by S. E. Knudsen, General Motors vice president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Division.

From Dec. 1-10, Pontiac dealers delivered 3,380 of the new family-size Tempest sedans and station wagons, giving the division 6.5 per cent of the total compact car market for that period, Knudsen said.

Tempest sales for the last 10 days of November amounted to 2,728.

Lung Damage Just Too Much for Stephen

His Parents at Hospital in Brooklyn as Valiant Boy Loses Battle

From Our News Wires

NEW YORK — Stephen Baltz, 11-year-old lone survivor of the double plane crash over New York Friday, died today of his injuries.

Stephen died at 1 p.m. Methodist Hospital said the main cause of his death was extensive flame damage in his lungs.

Burns and contusions contributed but the hospital said they could not combat the damage to the lungs.

Stephen's death brought the collision toll to 137 persons. All passengers and crews of the United Air Lines plane and the TWA Super Constellation which collided were killed.

Nine persons on the ground where the United plane crashed in Brooklyn also were killed.

Hope had been expressed earlier today that Stephen could survive. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Baltz of Wilmette, Ill. They were at the hospital when he died.

Federal authorities had just launched their most intense investigation into any air disaster when 11-year-old Stephen died.

He was the only living link and apparently the only witness who could have testified what happened in the skies over New York 27 hours before his death.

The boy was thrown clear of the massive tail section of the plane when it plummeted down into a Brooklyn street Friday at 10:37 a.m.

Doctors worked through the night to save the life of the one person in 128 aboard the planes who was snatched from death.

Cuba, E. Germany Sign

BERLIN (AP)—Cuba and Communist East Germany signed a five-year, trade agreement today.

It provides for export of East German industrial products, including complete equipment for 12 factories, in exchange for such Cuban products as sugar, tobacco, rum, coffee, nickel, chrome and fish meal.

Going to Be Cold Tonight, Sunday

Mostly cloudy with temperatures continuing cold is the outlook for the Pontiac area tonight and Sunday. Tonight's low will dip to near 12 degrees.

Occasional snow flurries and a high of 26 may be expected tomorrow, the weatherman says. Winds northwesterly at 15 to 25 miles per hour will diminish tonight.

Eighteen was the lowest recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. At 1 p.m. the temperature reading was 25.

The other plane in Friday's disaster was a propeller-driven TWA Constellation and therefore was not required to carry a recorder.

The Federal Aviation Agency said the recorder aboard the DC8 had been found and had been ordered sent to Washington so the data could be interpreted by the Bureau of Standards and the manufacturer.

Both planes were on instruments, under control from the ground and under radar surveillance. There is less danger of collision under these conditions than flying on a clear day.

Experts Completely Mystified

Box May Hold Key to Air Crash

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A little the jetliner was flying in a snow-black box on its way today to the storm, possibly giving a key to the cause of the crash.

Bureau of Standards here may hold the answer to the mystery of how and why two giant airliners collided over New York City.

The crash-proof box, taken from the United Air Lines DC8 jet that came down in Brooklyn, contains instruments to record the direction, altitude and speed during every minute of the doomed flight. The government requires all jetliners to carry such recorders.

The DC8 was making its approach under guidance of Ildeswold approach control. The TWA plane was under LaGuardia approach control. The distance separating them should have been about five miles.

Radar approach scopes at LaGuardia and Ildeswold have a thin vertical line etched right on the scope.

The line marks the boundary of each airport's approach corridor, and radar operators are supposed to advise any plane that strays toward that line.

The investigators still were analyzing the tapes of recorded conversations between various control towers and pilots of the two doomed planes.

Disaster Toll Now 137; Was 1 Plane Off Course?

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

NEW YORK — A top federal aviation official said today indications are that one of the two planes involved in the world's worst air disaster may have been off course.

The death early this afternoon of 11-year-old Stephen Baltz, the tragedy's only survivor, brought the number of dead to 137, including all 128 passengers and crew members and nine on the ground.

Philip Goldstein, chief of the Safety Investigating Division of the Civil Aeronautics Board, made the statement as an imposing team of experts began exchanging findings in an effort to fix the cause of the crash.

Goldstein said one of the planes was being tracked on radar and, on the basis of information at hand, the other was not.

Goldstein said that if both the Trans World Airlines Constellation and the United Air Lines DC8 jetliner had been under "positive control" of their respective control towers for their landing approaches, it meant one of the planes was off course.

He was asked specifically if both were under "positive control." Goldstein replied: "I don't know that."

He declined to elaborate, or designate either of the two big airliners. Officials of United and TWA also declined comment about whether their planes were on the proper bearings.

"This investigation is in the hands of federal authorities," a TWA spokesman said.

It appeared jet-age traffic control for all America's cities might be guided by the outcome.

The inquiry brought into action the largest group of Civil Aeronautics Board experts ever assembled.

They met in the Federal Building at Idlewild Airport to share

To Make Moon Ore Close to U. of M.

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — An electronics company will locate a plant here to produce a new material developed by University of Michigan radiation laboratory technicians while they were seeking to duplicate material which might be found on the moon.

Harlan Hatcher told the university's board of regents Friday that Conduccion Corp. will locate here to engage in research, development and production of the new material, which has "unique electrical characteristics."

The new material is a semiconductor and is a ferrite material, Hatcher said.

He said the material was developed accidentally during lunar research by personnel of the university's radiation laboratory.

TV's Betty Furness Available for Jobs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—In a shift of corporate advertising policy, the faces of two of television's best known saleswomen are missing from the nation's screens: Betty Furness and "Betty Crocker."

Actress Betty Furness recently wound up 12 years of selling refrigerators, ranges and other equipment for Westinghouse. She is almost a TV landmark, and during recent political conventions was almost as familiar a figure as the chairman of the gatherings.

"Betty Crocker" is a fictitious name created by General Mills many years ago for a voice which sold its various food products. For the past 10 years, "Betty Crocker" on television and on radio has been Adelaide Hawley, a well known broadcaster and commentator.

Both women, for the first time in years, are free to accept other broadcasting work — commercials or otherwise. And both are expecting to run into some problems in picking up the threads of the careers they left to become company "spokeswomen."

"It's too soon to go firmly on the record about this," said Miss Furness, "but there's no question that I'm meeting some resistance. Obviously I don't leave Westinghouse to do the same thing for somebody else — at the same time I wouldn't turn my back on all commercials. But I did feel that if I were going to be able to do anything else, I would have to make a clean break."

Miss Furness says that there has been some interest in her doing other commercials but nothing definite.

"The reason for the resistance is that people who might hire me feel that every time the audience looks at my face it would be a plug for Westinghouse," she continued. "But I'm not worried because I know that somebody will come along who doesn't feel that way and who knows that I have proved that I can sell or who knows I can act."

"It won't be easy, and it won't be fast. But I've got a couple of years in which I can make this shift comfortably."

Very few companies have an exclusive spokesman or spokeswoman: these days, experience has proved that while it may be advantageous to the company, it ties down and types the person involved. Their agents won't let them sign on an exclusive basis, no matter how fabulous the financial rewards.

Says Earth Men Would Be Able to Live on Moon

NEW YORK (AP)—Earth men can survive on the moon or elsewhere in space, says space expert Werner Von Braun.

Speaking Thursday at the annual meeting of the Life Insurance Association of America, Von Braun said scientists already have learned "to create an artificial environment permitting relatively comfortable living in any climate, under water as well as in the stratosphere and in space."

Von Braun is director of the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

YESTERDAYS

It's nice to reminisce about Ice Harvest but I'm satisfied with ice cubes in my refrigerator. The Village Smithy is gone, so is the Buggy Factory, Whip Maker and the Medicine Show, an electric weld is faster and better. State Druggists Declare War on Obscene Reading

LANSING (AP)—Druggists throughout Michigan are going to push their war against distribution of obscene publications, representative of the Michigan State

Pharmaceutical Association said Friday. Placards declaring druggists' opposition to sale of obscene materials will be distributed shortly to 2,200 drug stores for display at magazine racks, said Robert C. Johnson, field secretary for the organization. They will read:

"We want to sell only acceptable reading material. If a customers seems objectionable to you, please call it to the attention of the management."

Johnson testified before a House committee headed by Rep. Harry A. DeMaso, R-Battle Creek, which is investigating distribution of obscene literature and pornographic materials in Michigan.

1960 Car Sales Top '59 by 11.7 Per Cent

DETROIT (AP)—Ward's Automotive Reports estimates 1960 sales of domestic passenger cars at 6,132,400, an increase of 11.7 per cent over last year's 5,488,000. The statistical agency also said that sales during the fourth quarter of the year will total 1,650,000, a 22 per cent gain over the same period in 1959 when both production and sales were curtailed by the steel strike.

Production this week was estimated at 132,089 cars compared with 133,328 last week and 152,449 in the similar week of last year. Truck production will run 23,099

Becky, 18, Predicted Air Death

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—At 18 a girl doesn't worry about death much. She doesn't think of it as something really about to happen. Life itself is pretty full.

But at 18 a girl and her best friend can and do spend many hours talking of the future, soberly and with hope. And death, as part of the future, crops up sometimes. For instance, about how it might happen—some day.

At 18 Becky Woodward talked about death.

"It was just three days ago," Patricia Speer recalled Friday night. "Becky and I were driving around, just discussing things. I think we had just been out looking at the hills up where she used to live before her family moved to New York."

Patricia, 22, and Becky were close friends. Both came from Salt Lake, and Becky had enrolled as a freshman at University of Utah last fall after her family moved to Dobbs Ferry, N. Y. They often took long drives together, "just discussing things."

"I jokingly said something about my father once telling me the way I drove I was going to get into an accident," Patricia continued. "She said, 'Well, I ride in quite a few planes, and I think that if I ever get killed it will be in a plane.'"

Becky planned to fly home for the Christmas holidays. So did Frank Dileo, 21, a physical education junior at Utah from Floral Park, L. I.

Among the dead in the plane collision over New York Friday were Frank Dileo and Rebecca Woodward—the girl who thought she might die in a plane.

Head Barber Clips Away and Gums Up the Works

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Okay, you barbers, no more gum to the kids after Jan. 1.

The order was mailed today by the State Board of Barber Examiners.

"It's a sanitary measure," said Victor Sunblade, board director. "It's professional jealousy—that's all it is," retorted Ivan Jones, a Denver barber.

Jones said he spends as much as $150 a year on gum to give to young customers. It helps to make them sit still.

It Seems to Me . . .

John Kennedy's Actions Show Spending to Be More Cautious

A few short weeks have skipped by since election and I've been heartened by some of the nebulous clouds that are forming over the District of Columbia.

During the whirlwind campaign, JOHN F. KENNEDY and his supporters made disquieting noises about "pie in the sky." Millions of people grew uneasy and apprehensive for this was more or less a duplication of his Democratic predecessors.

As time passes since election, there is less and less talk of a spending orgy on the part of the Federal Government. In the heat of campaign oratory, the spell binders under the aegis of the donkey were promising too many cults too many things. Since the November vote, President-Elect Kennedy seems to have walked away from the disturbing features of spend and spend which is always followed by tax and tax.

CARL HAYDEN, Democratic Senator from Arizona, and Chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, has delivered a few forthright remarks on national spending and economy that bear out this current trend. "I doubt," said he, "whether the next Congress will raise any greater budget than President Eisenhower did. And I mean the approximately $80 billion which the final EISENHOWER expenditure will run."

Two years ago the Democrats won a marked victory over the Republicans in the House and Senate races. Jubilant free spenders flocked to Washington with the expectation that this was a signal to take the rubber band off the federal wallet and toss Uncle Sam's shekels to the four winds. Some of the more enthusiastic Congressmen even drew bills and introduced them.

The president vetoed a couple of inflationary measures and the folks back home applauded. Congress listened. Suddenly it sensed the taxpayers weren't as wild about a spending spree as the members believed.

Also, no one can forget that KENNEDY's "margin of victory" has almost disappeared. It is even doubtful whether he received half of the total votes cast. JOHN F. IS President. He's "in." But he's "in" by the proverbial cat's whisker and he knows it. Hence, there is no broad sweeping approval and endorsement of his platform's principles.

All these factors will produce a more cautious and businesslike approach to federal spending. "Economy" has ceased to be a dirty word.

Reuther Dedicated . . .

I heard WALTER REUTHER speak at the dedication of the new Fisher local union headquarters last Sunday. He stressed the mutual problems that the whole nation faces in common, and he developed the theme that these must be solved in the light of today's conditions and today's circumstances. REUTHER talked well and clearly in spite of a strenuous personal schedule. Few men have given their lives more completely to the causes they espouse.

Disgraceful Incident . . .

Actually, the New Orleans school situation is an exceedingly disgraceful incident in the history of this republic. Only a handful of malcontents are involved, but the connotation is nationwide—and even goes beyond.

The Russian newspapers are playing this as though it involved millions in cities all over our country.

Some of those misguided New Orleans monkeys are making absolute spectacles of themselves by their actions, and their words are even more revolting. The impression they create on young minds is a fearful blot on the escutcheon of that great southern city.

When a small handful presumes to rise above the law and hold itself superior to the statutes and the courts, it's a sorry day for the United States. A democracy has still to prove itself. A great nation suffers inordinately at the hands of a few rabid numskulls.

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Overheard: "Kids don't make as much money now after a snowstorm shoveling the walks as they do helping owners find those little cars." . . . It costs the U.S. an extra million dollars a year to print enough one dollar bills to replace the maligned two dollar bill because it's supposed to be bad luck. . . . I've been asked to pass this along: freshly opened, canned vegetables should stand for 15 minutes before heating. They'll regain lost oxygen and provide more health and taste. . . . Licenses glimpsed in Pontiac this week: Oregon, Idaho and New Hampshire.

Chicago has a "Santa Claus Service" this year. He arrives properly garbed, distributes your presents and employs just the correct number of "Ho, ho, ho's." The cost? Ten dollars. . . . Bob Hope says when Kennedy moves into the White House he'll be the first President that ever began to live in a smaller residence. . . . Sign in the Weiss Memorial Hospital's maternity ward: "Heir-Pot." . . . A broadcaster interviewing Yogi Berra: "Yog, the other day you got more applause than Prime Minister Nehru or Herbert Hoover. How come?" Yogi considered. "I guess it's because I'm a better hitter."

Six U.S. Presidents have been generals: WASHINGTON, JACKSON, HARRISON, TAYLOR, GRANT and EISENHOWER. . . . An Ohio weekly ran this letter: "I lost a valuable ring and ran an ad in your paper. The very day it ad appeared I found the ring in another suit. Thank God for the Weekly Argonaut." . . . "Man is the only thing that blushes—or needs to."—MARK TWAIN. . . . TOMMY MANVILLE and wife number eleven just celebrated a wedding anniversary: seven months. . . . Dept. of Cheers and Jeers: the C's—Large number of givers who have supported MSUO's scholarship plan. (We've cheered the committee before); the J's—no jeers because it's Christmas season. —HAROLD A. FITZGERALD

Charles Dickens, author of A Christmas Carol, revealed his faith in this letter to his son: "Try to do to others, as you would have them do to you, and do not be discouraged if they fail sometimes. It is much better for you that they should fail in obeying the greatest rule laid down by our Savior, than that you should . . . I now most solemnly impress upon you the truth and beauty of the Christian religion . . . and the impossibility of your going far wrong if you humbly but heartily respect it . . . The more we are in earnest as to feeling it, the less we are disposed to hold forth about it. Never abandon the wholesome practice of saying your own private prayers, night and morning. I never abandoned it myself, and I know the comfort of it."

Days of All Faiths: Apostle Thomas Commemorated

By Dr. HOWARD W. HARPER The most important day this week is Dec. 21, St. Thomas' Day, commemorating the Apostle Thomas, who is best remembered for what some would call his disbelief. Indeed, he has given the expression "a doubting Thomas" to our language. St. John tells in his 20th chapter, verse 25, how this one of the Twelve refused to believe the other Apostles' report that Jesus had risen from the dead.

It is popular in church circles to disdain those who will not believe what they can see and touch, but it does not seem fair to treat St. Thomas so. His personality comes through quite clearly in the New Testament. He was a man of loyalty and courage, and a tireless missionary after the Church had been established. He was just a man who insisted on knowing what he was expected to believe and do, and it is hard to see anything wrong with that.

We know what some of the Apostles did for a living before they became Apostles. Some were fishermen; one was a tax collector. Of Thomas' trade we know only that tradition says he was a builder. This detail fits into a larger tradition which tells that Thomas went to South India and founded the Christian Church there, incidentally baptizing the Three Wise Men on the way.

In connection with the South India story there is a nice legend which fits in with the idea that Thomas was a builder. It is named the "King of the Indies." . . . A broadcaster interviewing Yogi Berra: "Yog, the other day you got more applause than Prime Minister Nehru or Herbert Hoover. How come?" Yogi considered. "I guess it's because I'm a better hitter."

Six U.S. Presidents have been generals: WASHINGTON, JACKSON, HARRISON, TAYLOR, GRANT and EISENHOWER. . . . An Ohio weekly ran this letter: "I lost a valuable ring and ran an ad in your paper. The very day it ad appeared I found the ring in another suit. Thank God for the Weekly Argonaut." . . . "Man is the only thing that blushes—or needs to."—MARK TWAIN. . . . TOMMY MANVILLE and wife number eleven just celebrated a wedding anniversary: seven months. . . . Dept. of Cheers and Jeers: the C's—Large number of givers who have supported MSUO's scholarship plan. (We've cheered the committee before); the J's—no jeers because it's Christmas season. —HAROLD A. FITZGERALD

Each time I drive down Ferry Street between Auburn and Huron I lose my temper. At Water Street the light is red, at Pike Street the light is red, and at Lawrence Street the light is red. Being a state highway, M24, it is quite a busy street, and these lights add to the confusion. Can't something be done by either the city or the highway department?

'Keep Own Self Holy, Faithful'

We cannot dissociate ourselves from other Christians because we do not see eye to eye with them. Let us bow our heads and admit to God that we have sinned. If we do this it will cure us of railing against the people of God who have less light than we have.

Automatic Post Office Suffers From Gremlins

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (UPI) — "The best laid schemes of mice and men gang aft a-gley," wrote poet Robert Burns. And so it goes for the world's first fully automated post office here.

Ever since the gadget-loaded $20 million plant was opened at the West River Industrial Park Oct. 20, numerous vexing problems have cropped up.

First, postal officials discovered that the high-speed, electronic facer-cancellers were completely baffled by Christmas seals on the face of letter mail.

The complicated machinery, apparently bewildered by the presence of men rather than stamps on the face of letters, actually mail into the reject slot, necessitating hand-cancelling.

Next came a report that the mail-sorting equipment chewed up between 30 and 40 letters a day. The damage was caused, according to engineers, when letter mail being processed by electronic sorters was not removed quickly enough from sorting bins.

The result was that mail backed up and was shoved into conveyor mechanisms. Chains and wheels in the conveyors chewed up letters before they were dropped out or were spotted.

Then followed an announcement that caused several veteran postmen to give the horsehair to modern design: Old-fashioned manual equipment had been trucked into the mechanized post office to assist the machines in handling the Christmas rush mail.

However, officials were quick to explain that the use of manual equipment to help in the holiday crush had been contemplated from the start.

Finally, a Providence newspaper set out to prove that the new post office is not only automated but unprejudiced. It was discovered in test mailings that letters carrying foreign stamps passed through canceling machines, by the eyes of postal clerks, and were delivered. The U.S. Post Office Department ordered an investigation into reported "illegal mailings."

THE ALMANAC

By United Press International Today is Saturday Dec. 17, the 352nd day of the year with 14 more in 1960. The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning star is Mars.

Other, evening stars are Mars, Saturn and Venus. On this day in history: In 1807, American poet and journalist John Greenleaf Whittier was born.

In 1903, Orville and Wilbur Wright made the first successful airplane flights in history near Kitty Hawk, N.C.

In 1925, Gen. Billy Mitchell was found guilty by a court-martial in Washington of charges of conduct prejudicial to the good of the armed services.

In 1936, ventriloquist Edgar Bergen and his dummy—Charlie McCarthy—made their first appearance on a national radio program.

Thought for today: American poet John Greenleaf Whittier said: "Tradition wears a snowy beard, romance is always young."

Case Records of a Psychologist: Religion Diverts Selfish Attitude

Religion is far superior to all of our tranquilizer drugs and sedatives, for it diverts our excess energy outward and harnesses our ability in unselfish activities. It is the self-centered introvert who is usually the "warty wart."

So go to church and become really active there. You will then have enough on needless medical visits to enable your church contributions! Each week 10,000,000 patients enter medical offices with no diagnosable physical ailment whatever! If they'd link up with church, they'd be far better off.

Dr. William Brady's Mailbag:

Why Warts Come and Go Continues to Be a Mystery

My husband had a monster wart on his forefinger for six or seven years. I put castor oil on it two or three times a day. In 2 1/2 or 3 months it had disappeared. This was amazing, as the wart was as big as a bean that had soaked all night for the pot. I wish I could get rid of a bunion really. (Mrs. L. P. R.)

DR. BRADY Ans. — Warts come and go without rhyme or reason. What amazes me is that you continued the treatment for more than a week or two. Many readers report that warts disappear when castor oil is applied two or three times a day for several weeks. All I know is that it is harmless to try.

There is no similarity between warts and bunions, corns or calluses. For prevention and treatment of corns, calluses and bunions consult volumette VI "Care of the Feet." For a copy send me 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Bunions are essentially partial dislocation of the great toe joint with enlargement of the head of the metatarsal bone, and usually, an inflamed or infected bursa over the joint. So anything less than surgical treatment is futile.

Please explain the simple and double sugars — I am a practical nursing student. . . . (G. C.)

Ans. — Get Adelle Davis' Vitality Through Planned Nutrition (MacMillan Co.) at bookstore or library.

I was told that a draft is dangerous, that it can cause a shock and even cause one to become paralyzed. Is there any truth in these statements? (Miss N. S.)

Ans. — No. Could a perfectly healthy 6 pound baby be born 35 days before its time? The mother was perfectly healthy, no falls or other accidents. . . . (R. W.)

Ans. — Yes. Signed letters not more than one post or 10 words long containing to:

Imagine I'd help that so-and-so across from me? Why, I'd rather starve first!

So they all sat, glowering at each other, while their hunger pangs grew worse.

This story brings out the excellent fact that evil promotes selfish thinking. Wickedness is a synonym for selfishness.

GOD'S STRATEGY The word "good" comes from "God," but we add a second "o" to avoid confusion.

"Goodness" thus means "Godness" or "God-like." For goodness involves generosity. It means we have turned our attention outward upon others.

The Golden Rule thus conflicts with the Rule of Gold.

Silas Marner was a self-centered miser, concerned only with getting home at night to count his gold pieces, stored in their secret hiding place.

Then a thief stole his gold but at the same time a homeless little girl named Eppie came to his door.

Silas might have committed suicide at the shock of his lost wealth. If he attempted to do that, he would have been turned outward by Eppie's crying and her need for milk.

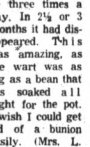

So Silas Marner slowly began to extricate himself from his gloom. He became aware of his neighbors and had to learn to share with them as he sought advice from kindly housewives about child care.

His slavery to the Rule of Gold was broken, as he began to practice the Golden Rule.

So Silas lost his grip on Silas Marner while God regained control.

The Swedish court in Stockholm made the announcement Thursday, but mentioned no wedding date. Birgitta and her sisters are the daughters of German-born Princess Sibylla and the late Prince Gustaf Adolf.

Hodges Doesn't Mind Making His Sacrifice for U.S.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Gov. Luther H. Hodges has glanced at personal considerations regarding his appointment as U.S. secretary of commerce and has made these observations:

1. It will mean a financial sacrifice.

2. Apartments are expensive in the nation's capital.

The governor told his news conference Thursday the prospect of a financial sacrifice does not disturb him. He said he would not stand capital stock of Standard have sought the job. Post of U.S. Treasurer to Go to Elizabeth Smith of treasurer of the United States will go to Elizabeth Smith, California Democratic national committeewoman.

MRS. ELIZABETH SMITH
PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy is expected to announce his first woman appointee to a top government job in his new administration this weekend.

Mrs. Smith, 49, a former newspaper feature editor, has been active in politics since 1948 and was appointed two weeks ago by California Gov. Edmund G. Brown as assistant chief of the California Division of Labor Law Enforcement.

She has been a national committeewoman since 1956 and was chairman of the Democratic Soreakers Bureau for California in the last election campaign.

Kennedy, who is nearing completion of his 10-member Cabinet — all men — was asked Friday night if he was going to have a woman among his government appointments.

"We're going to have some," he said with a smile. But, he didn't say who.

Mrs. Smith would succeed a Republican woman treasurer, Ivy Baker Priest, who has served in the Eisenhower administration.

The treasurer of the U. S. has charge of the minting of U. S. money, and her name appears on the paper currency.

Brown-haired, attractive Mrs. Smith, inventor of a gadget for outdoor cookery, was born in Montreal, Canada, although her parents are American.

Powell on Honey-moon With His White Bride
SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell, New York Negro congressman and Democratic congressman, was honey-mooning here today with his white secretary, Ivette Diago.

Powell, 52, and Miss Diago, 29, were married Thursday night in a civil ceremony by Judge Edwin Cortes. It was the second marriage for both.

Powell was divorced recently from Hazel Scott. His bride is a former clerk at the Condado Beach Hotel in San Juan.

Flag Down Rendezvous With Death

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — The enthusiasm of his Basque friends almost saved the life of Ricardo Garamendi, who was killed Friday in the collision of two airliners over New York City.

Manuel Madarieta, 25, a fellow shepherd, spent Thursday with his friend Ricardo. That evening, Boise's Basque community gathered for a farewell party.

Ricardo, 27, was going home to Spain to visit his family. He spoke of returning to Boise.

The party moved to the airport just as the plane was about to take off. Manuel and Earl Alarria waved the plane down as it moved along the runway.

The United Airliner stopped, the door opened, and Ricardo boarded.

The plane made the connection with the fatal flight in Chicago. After the crash Manuel said, "I couldn't believe it. I still can't believe it. We were born in the same town, Lequeto. That's in the Basque country."

Bites Off More Than He Can Chew (Gum)
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Clayton F. Holland testified Friday that his estranged wife wouldn't let him take his false teeth, some shirts and four shoes for the right foot from their home.

Holland appeared in court without his teeth.

Mrs. Holland, suing for divorce on grounds of general indignities, testified she kept the items because he refused to give her anti-freeze for the family car.

Whitney Resigns Post to Publish Newspaper
WASHINGTON (UPI) — U. S. Ambassador to Great Britain John Hay Whitney returns today to London to wind up his diplomatic assignment.

Whitney, who paid a farewell call on President Eisenhower Friday, has submitted his resignation, effective Jan. 20.

He plans to return to the United States about Jan. 15 and become president and publisher of the New York Herald Tribune.

It requires 500 tons of equipment to build dial telephone switching facilities serving 10,000 telephones out of one central office, according to current operating procedures.

Newark, LaGuardia and Idlewild

Three Strips Form Tragic Triangle

NEW YORK (UPI)—The three major airports that form a triangle in the New York City area, handling the world's largest air-traffic, have seen many air-traffic tragedies in the air age.

But these airports—Newark, N.J., LaGuardia and Idlewild—never have witnessed a disaster the scope of Friday's collision between a United Airlines DC8 jet and a Trans World Airlines Super-Constellation.

Probably the previous worst tragedy was the series of three passenger plane crashes at Elizabeth, N.J., in the winter of 1951.

Kalamazoo Must Repair 14 School Buildings

KALAMAZOO (UPI)—Deputy State Fire Marshal Walter Burns has ordered the Kalamazoo Board of Education to repair and modernize 14 of its school buildings.

Burns told the board the project will require a major capital outlay and if voters fail to approve the necessary financing of the project, some of the buildings would have to be closed until the work is done.

in which 119 persons were killed.

The protests and confusion resulting from those crashes forced the Newark Airport to close down for a while and undergo extensive improvements.

The first was on Dec. 16, 1951, when a Miami Airlines plane plunged into the Elizabeth river, killing 56 persons.

The second came on Jan. 22, 1952, when an American Airlines Convair slammed into an apartment house, killing 30 persons on the plane and in the building.

The last happened Feb. 11, 1952, in the crash of a National Airlines DC8. Thirty-three persons were killed.

The three airports are roughly 15 miles apart. Because they handle 15 million passengers a year, 340 million tons of cargo and about 500,000 flights, the rules for handling traffic are very strict.

La Guardia is on the north shore of the western end of Long Island that is officially a part of New York City. Idlewild is almost due south on the bottom coast of the island.

Newark forms the third point of the triangle, west of the other two across the Hudson River.

Often, as in Friday's snow storm, poor weather accompanies the tragedies as the planes take off or try to land.

The most recent major disaster happened Feb. 2, 1959, when an American Electra crashed in the East River, killing 68 persons, while the plane was trying to land in a fog and drifts at La Guardia.

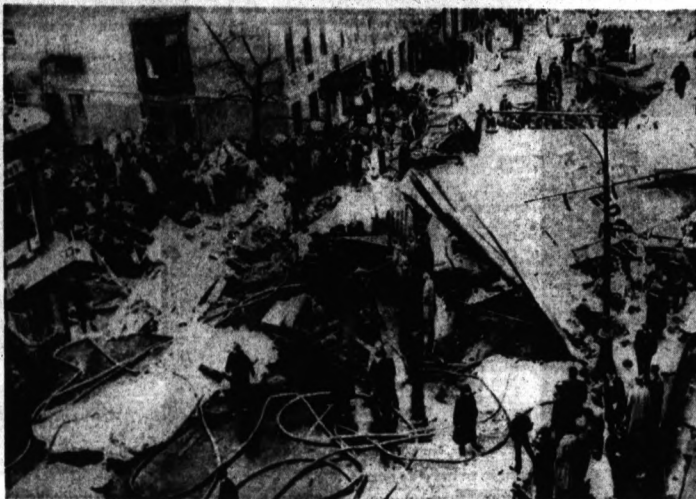

A Northwest Airliner DC-4A carried 20 persons to their death in a snowstorm Feb. 1, 1957, when it crashed on Riker's Island in the East River after taking off from La Guardia.

Idlewild often is closed because of fog conditions which prevail in its low lying position.

An Italian DC-48 hit a landing light and crashed in Jamaica Bay in a fourth attempt to make a radar landing at Idlewild Dec. 18, killing five persons.

Other major disasters near the area have included the tragedy that took place on a rainy Saturday in 1945 when an Army bomber smashed into the Empire State Building, killing 3 and injuring 25. The next year another Army plane hit the 38th floor of the Manhattan Bank Building district, killing five persons.

WRECKAGE IN BROOKLYN—Wreckage of the UAL airliner is strewn over the intersection of two streets after crash of the plane Friday in Brooklyn. The plane, bound for Idlewild Airport, plunged into a populated area. Flaming wreckage of the aircraft set fire to an entire city block of apartments and shops.

AP Photos

Uses Bible to Oppose Apartheid

DALLAS, Texas — A refugee Anglican bishop who is today's symbol of church opposition to apartheid policy in South Africa stood before the American House of Bishops as its principal guest here, to give the Biblical reasons for his beliefs and actions.

The Rt. Rev. Richard Ambrose Reeves, Bishop of Johannesburg, summarily deported September 12 by the South African government, did not discuss the political situation but simply presented "massive Biblical evidence against racial discrimination."

He warned that white people's "very continuance on the face of this earth may easily depend on the manner in which they adjust to their new minority role in the world."

He emphasized that South Africa is a microcosm of the world, that its problems face the entire world.

In a press conference, Bishop Reeves suggested five possibilities ahead for South Africa, one good and four bad:

1. The way of consultation. "We shall have to come to it in the end, so why not do it now—get black, white and Indian leaders around a table to decide things together?"
2. Violent explosion, if the present South African government continues in power and increases its pressure.
3. Buying time — perhaps up to five years, if any political realignment should bring in a more moderate government.

4. Intervention by the 200 million blacks elsewhere in Africa, with danger to the 3 million whites in South Africa, the consequent reaction of the western white world, and the resulting attitudes of India, China, Russia, all Asia.
5. United Nations policing of South Africa, at possible request of the government there.

Bishop Reeves deplored the fact that the apartheid ideology, "the master heresy of the modern world," drives the black man into ever more aggressive nationalism, which goes beyond proper nationalism to become irrational and cruel.

The picture covers the prophecy of Isaiah, the journey to Bethlehem, the manger scene and the adoration of the shepherds.

Gene Wright, general chairman, said the public is invited. There will be no charge but an offering will be taken.

Walton Blvd., (from left) Dennis Parwath of 631 East Third Ave., Linde Dorries of 641 East Fourth Ave. and Tom Kelly of 621 East Third Ave. Children and young people from all departments of the Sunday School have a part. The pageant at 7 p. m. will be presented in five scenes, "The Shepherds Accepted Him," "The Wise Men Expected Him," "The King Rejected Him," "The Innkeeper Neglected Him" and "And You."

Lutheran Church Spent $21 Million in '60 Expansion

PONTIAC CITY, N. J. (UPI) — The Lutheran Church in America bought 78 lots, built 119 churches and 13 parsonages at a record cost of $21 million during 1960, it was announced.

The Rev. Dr. Donald L. Houser of New York, executive secretary of the church's Board of American Missions, said 1961 construction will be less because of lack of funds.

The Rev. Dr. Harold T. Rasmussen, Minneapolis, was re-elected board president.

Vice President Erwin H. List, Chicago; Secretary Rev. Frederick R. Ludwig, Milwaukee; and Treasurer Fred C. Eggenstedt, Richmond Hill, N. Y., also were re-elected to their posts at the annual reorganization meeting here.

WARSHIP DEATH ROW — Some 70 old U. S. warships await the scrapyard's torch at Patuxent Scrap Corp. berths near Baltimore. Scrap steel from the dismantled vessels will be dumped into open-hearth furnaces at the nearby Sparrows Point plant of Bethlehem Steel Co. The plant is the nation's largest, with a capacity of 8.2 million tons a year. Patuxent is a Bethlehem subsidiary.

Adventists Release Report

Pontiac Church Gives Clothing, Medical Aid, Food to Disaster Areas

Lansing headquarters for Michigan Adventists, this week released a report on disaster-relief activities for the past fiscal year which included work by Pontiac members.

Howard D. Burbank, health and welfare director for Adventists in Michigan, stated that Adventist churches had dispersed 369,733 articles of clothing and other materials, contributing 233,774 hours of labor.

Medical aid, food and cash brought the total value of relief work by the church in Michigan to $1,000,000.

Pontiac Adventist church last year gave aid valued at $32,296.00 to 2,355 persons. Director of the local work is Mrs. Henry R. Wallace, 6058 Pine Knob Road, Clarkston.

The Pontiac health and welfare society is associated with the district Adventists Health and Welfare Federation with Mrs. Nila R. Breakie of Ypsilanti, president, directing the district work.

100 GROUPS

There are 100 Adventist welfare groups operating in the state, with 40 regular health and welfare societies. 58,438 persons have received aid, the church director said.

Last year the denomination gave aid to 1,562,438 people in North America, its members giving 3,256,599 volunteer hours to this work in addition to materials and cash.

Besides two large East and West Coast depots for overseas areas, the church maintains 354 health and welfare centers in metropolitan areas, similar to the one operated by the local church at 168 Mt. Clemens Street.

Mobile units and vans are connected with some of these centers, which speed assistance to stricken areas when disaster strikes, as in the case of the recent spring floods in many sections of the country.

The local center sent 19 barrels and 17 boxes of clothing and new blankets to Chile.

The State Health and Welfare director points out the growing interest on the part of the church in disaster preparedness, as evidenced by surveys of church disaster preparedness and stockpiling of supplies at many Adventist churches.

Tells of 'Christ'

NEW YORK (AP) — Across the United States, scores of individuals every year claim to be Christ. Others report conversations with God. Still others tell of flights to Venus and meetings with St. Matthew, Mark, Luke or John.

These are among the unorthodox religious affairs described by Richard Mathison, former religion editor of the Los Angeles Times, in a new book, "Fathoms, Cults and Sects of America," published by Bobbs-Merrill Co.

PAINTS MURAL. — Painting a scene of the River Jordan on the wall behind the baptistry at the new Waterford Community Church Airport and Olympic Blvd., is Mrs. Paul M. Banta of 3251 Pontiac Lake Road. Mrs. Banta spends several days a week at the church. The congregation will worship for the first time in the new building Sunday.

Christ Church Cranbrook Gifts to Benefit Social Work Agencies

The Festival of Gifts pageant at Christ Church Cranbrook, celebrated under the direction of John Saunders.

The three kings and their gift-bearing slaves follow the shepherd down the center aisle to a side altar which is transformed into the stable with Mary, Joseph and the babe.

The pageant is a reenactment of the Christmas story. Acolytes of St. Andrew's Guild provide gifts for the past few years.

Mrs. Max Fruhauf who has been in charge of the distribution of gifts for the past few years will again supervise the work. About the first of December each year she contacts social agencies who provide Christmas gifts to chilren who might not otherwise receive any.

Some needed articles include dominoes, cribbage, toys, checkers, zipped cosmetic cases, beauty aids, costume jewelry, socks, nylon hose, gloves, mittens, ties, cuddly toys, dolls, slates, sports equipment, sewing kits and good used teenage clothing.

Mrs. Fruhauf and assistant Mrs. Huch Ralston plan to provide each child whose name is sent them with the gift of their choice.

They purchase the correct size in clothing with money received the previous year.

On Monday Mrs. Fruhauf and her committee will sort and distribute the hundreds of gifts received at the two worship hours.

The church has grown from a membership of 33 to 187 to more than 200 active members.

The Sunday School attendance 50 years ago was 35; today it averages close to 500. In 1940 the church budget was $3,200; today it is almost $73,000.

Beginning tomorrow services will be Sunday School at 9:45 a.m.; worship at 11 a.m.; youth groups at 6 p.m.; evening worship at 7 p.m. and the "Hour of Power" service follows at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. Robert Winne said the public is invited to all services.

The installation service is scheduled for Jan. 1.

The Rev. William D. Boder Jr., pastor of Westminster United Presbyterian Church in suburban Lincoln Village, is urging congregation members who are leaders in several church organizations to turn some duties over to less busy persons.

"Community and church activities and projects are fine, and accomplish important things," the clergymen says, "but we mustn't let them break the family circle."

"We only have our families for so long, and we won't have the chance to share our lives with them again."

Deaf Churchgoers Get Complete Weekly Service

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Every Sunday afternoon a small congregation of deaf people from the Richmond area gathers in St. Paul's Episcopal Church here to worship in silence.

The service, including hymns and prayer book responses, is conducted in sign language by the Rev. J. Jacquelin Ambler, assistant to the rector at St. Paul's.

The Rev. Mr. Ambler learned sign language while attending Virginia Theological Seminary in Alexandria.

If anyone who is not deaf attends, Mr. Ambler speaks along with the signs. Otherwise the service is silent.

"SING IN UNISON" In singing, the members of the congregation make their signs in wide, graceful and rhythmic motion—all in unison.

There are no bowed heads during the service because all members have to watch the minister.

He faces the congregation during communion for the same reason. On such occasions as Easter and Christmas the deaf congregation meets with the regular congregation of St. Paul's and an interpreter is furnished for them.

The first deaf congregation here was organized more than 50 years ago. It formerly met at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church but was transferred to St. Paul's eight years ago because of the more central location.

To Market, to Market . . . ?

Run, Lady, Run and You'll Live to Fight Another Day

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am so ashamed of myself I could just die, but maybe if I put this down on paper it will help. I am a respectable woman of 32. I have a good husband and three lovely children and I have a thing to complain about. My problem is I find myself terribly attracted to the man who checks out my groceries.

ABBY

I get all dolled up to go marketing and I know I go more than I should just to see him (I even buy things I don't need). All he has to do is look at me and my heart beats like a trip hammer. I haven't felt like this since I was in high school!

He calls me "Mrs. Sunshine" and I call him "Mr. Super" (for super market), but I think he took me wrong. It's only a harmless flirtation, but how does a grown woman get over something like this? I even dream about him.

TRUE CONFESSION

DEAR TRUE: All serious entanglements start with a "harmless flirtation." Nip this little attraction in the bud and take your business across the street. And remember, you aren't "in the market" for anything but groceries.

DEAR ABBY: At the bottom of your column you ask people to write to you in care of this paper. How do you get your mail? Do the people down at the paper open the mail and read it first and send it to you?

If I thought the people at my newspaper read what I had to say about my family life, I sure wouldn't write. I hope you won't think my question is too stupid to answer.

GOT PROBLEMS DEAR GOT: The only questions that are stupid are the ones that are never asked. All letters addressed to me in care of my newspaper are sent to ME—unopened.

DEAR ABBY: Don't you think when a gentleman marries for the second time he should be honest with the lady concerning his health? I recently married a man who is 76. He had surgery a year before we were married. I realize he can't help this, but he never gave me a hint of his condition. I am not a old woman (I am 70) and would enjoy something besides a lovely home and companionship.

He said he wouldn't blame me if I got a boy friend as long as he never found out. I am not that kind of person and would never do such a thing. Had I known of his condition I wouldn't have married him. Is there a solution?

MISLED DEAR MISLED: Most women of 70 marrying a man of 76 would be content to settle for a "lovely home and companionship," but if you are not, and were indeed "misled," there is a solution. Talk to your clergyman or an attorney about an annulment.

For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, Box 3363 Beverly Hill, Calif.

Who pays for what? For Abby's pamphlet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send $5 to ABBY, Box 3363, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Chap Seems to Want You to Call Him

GOOD TASTE TODAY

EMILY POST

Question: My husband and I entertained a business associate of his and his wife at dinner in a restaurant. When the evening was over, he invited us to his house without making it definite when we should come.

Since then he has asked my husband several times when we were coming to his house, again without setting a definite time. I feel that since we are not personal friends we should wait until we are invited for a particular time.

My husband thinks it is all right to call and say we are coming over. Who is right?

Answer: Since he has asked several times, it will be quite all right to telephone and ask if it will be convenient for you to come—over on that particular evening.

Question: My mother passed away in April. I would like to know if it would be in bad taste to have a tree and decorations about the house at Christmas time.

Answer: You may quite properly have a tree this Christmas and indeed, if you have children who look forward to one, you should not disappoint them.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hummel of Osage Circle (left) and the Bert Anselmys of Deer Run appear in a happy holiday mood as they compare committee reports for Epsilon Sigma Alpha's Christmas ball this evening. Mrs. Hummel heads the ticket committee and Mrs. Anselmy is in charge of patrons.

Can You Tell the Food With All the Vitamins?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
All of us hear and read a great deal about vitamins, but it is difficult to remember just which food sources provide them. Today I will give you a quick review on this subject.

Most of the vitamins are widely scattered through the food world but often in small quantities. It would be too laborious to list all of the foods which supply any one vitamin. Therefore, I will just give you a few really good sources for each one.

Vitamin A — Deficiency in this vitamin may cause night blindness and certain skin troubles. Adequate amounts of Vitamin A are believed to help reduce the probability of respiratory diseases. The yellow, green and leafy vegetables, liver and fish liver oils are splendid sources.

Vitamin B — (Thiamin) — Pork, yeast and whole grain products are especially good sources. Vitamin B2 (riboflavin) — Milk and greens and liver and eggs are fine sources.

Nicotinic acid — Whole grain cereals, meat and yeast.

Folic acid and Vitamin B12 — Green vegetables and liver.

Vitamin C or Ascorbic acid — Citrus fruits are the best sources. Tomatoes, eggplant, cabbage, cauliflower, strawberries and cabbage are also high in vitamin content.

Vitamin D — If we were out in the sunlight more, we would not require Vitamin D orally. This is not true of dark-skinned or heavily sunbathed people, however. Cod liver oil, egg, irradiated milk and canned salmon are excellent sources.

Vitamin E — A deficiency in this vitamin is rare except in certain diseases. If you eat an adequate amount of leafy, green vegetables, you probably have nothing to worry about on this score. Lettuce and spinach are splendid sources.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Vitamin Defense" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 37. Address: Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

A delicious spread — and vitamin-packed, too. Most of the vitamins are widely scattered through the food world but often in small quantities.

background for LIVING

THREE YEARS AGO — This is the Clem Snarrs house as it was when the Snarrs moved here from Detroit five years ago. When they enlarged this 28x32 home, they built over and around the original structure. The former living room is now a bedroom; the garage is a recreation room.

BUILT-IN STORAGE — Snarr built these plywood cabinets in one corner of the utility room. The lower one has a white Formica top; the chairs use it for buffet dinners. Walls in here are pale green with lighter green sheer curtains.

A door from this room leads to the back yard where Sherry has a screened playhouse.

SHERRY WATCHES — Sherry celebrated her third birthday yesterday. She's shown here on her TV seat. In the background you can see the fireplace with its fountain and planter. This area

Your Neighbor's House

Expanding Old Home—Not Moving—Gave Clem Snarrs a New House

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Today's house was a sleeper. Several years ago one of the Clem Snarrs' neighbors on Lower Straits Lake told us what an interesting job had been done on their house. At that time we talked with Mrs. Snarr, but illness in her family prevented our getting together.

Last month we made an appointment to take a few pictures, thinking we were doing just another summer home expansion job. Instead we came out with today's story. About five years ago the Snarrs and their two children, moved to North Shores from Detroit. Dawn, now 20, and Roy who's 16 were in school. Two years later, in December of '57, Sherry was born.

The Snarrs loved their neighborhood, loved living at the lake. But their house was too small. One night — just casually — they drew rough plans on a piece of paper taping it to the wall they really wanted.

The happy ending of the story is that when they took these plans to an architect, he changed only the pitch of the roof over the new front door. Clem Snarr started the work of building over and around the old house in late summer. On Thanksgiving the family had dinner in the new living room. Snarr did all his own work except the roofing.

Before rebuilding, the house was 28 by 32; now it is 42 by 76. The pie shaped lot is 185 feet on the front, 91 feet on the rear and 105 feet deep.

Just inside the front door is a coat closet at the right. At the left there are two steps up into the large living room. Except for the area in front of the fireplace, the floor is carpeted in black and white check. Draperies are off-white textured material.

Walls are a deep pink. The drop ceiling is white. The gray Roman brick of the fireplace extends all the way across the end wall and a short distance on the side walls.

FOUNTAIN

At one side of the fireplace is a planter; on the other side there's a fountain. Spot lights in the ceiling point up these features. The floor has black and white tiles on it.

Under the front picture window there is a built-in sectional sofa upholstered in pink with a sage green. On the wall opposite the window is a long gray wood side table. There's a matching lounge chair. Lamps are tall and white.

In front of the fireplace is a pink and white plastic table in the shape of the figure 8. Around it on the floor are TV cushions.

Two steps up toward the back of the house and you're in the recreation room. Here the walls are paneled in African Karina wood. The floor is corkstone tile while the ceiling has striated squares of Wellex on it. Draperies have a flamingo branch design on them.

plete with a barbecue, regular fireplace and sink.

This room (it's unheated and usable only in summer) has a corrugated fiberglass roof. All interior woodwork is painted pink. Around the outside, underneath the screen, are brick planter boxes.

The bricks in these planters and in the fireplace are made concrete split bricks.

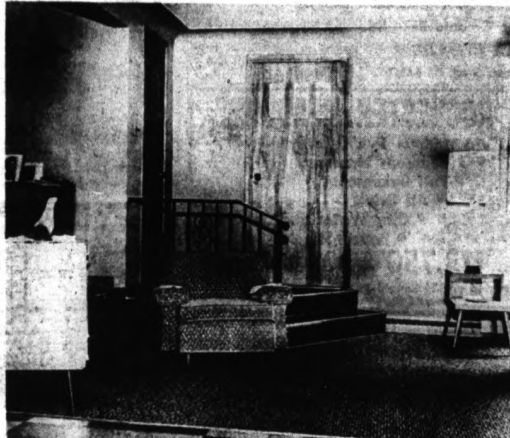

But back to the kitchen.

Floor and counter tops are gray. The walls are white and the three tiers of ruffled curtains blue. The ceiling is heavenly blue. The same heavenly blue is used for the cupboard frames; cupboard doors are natural birch. The breakfast set is yellow and white.

The Snarrs' bedroom has off-white walls and white curtains.

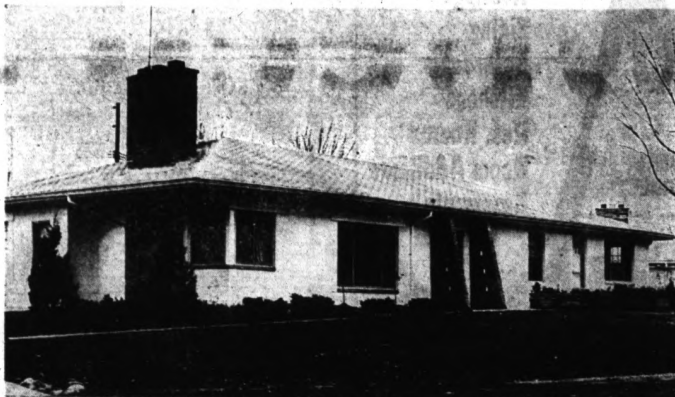

This used to be the living room. Furniture is bleached mahogany. The bedspread is white with gold quilting. Three scarlet throw pillows make a dramatic spot of color in the room.

The exterior of the Snarrs home is white cement block with gray brick trim. The garage doors and window trim are pink.

DIFFERENT ENTRANCE — The entrance way is raised two steps above the living room. There is a wrought iron railing; along one side the lounge chair matches the pink and silver.

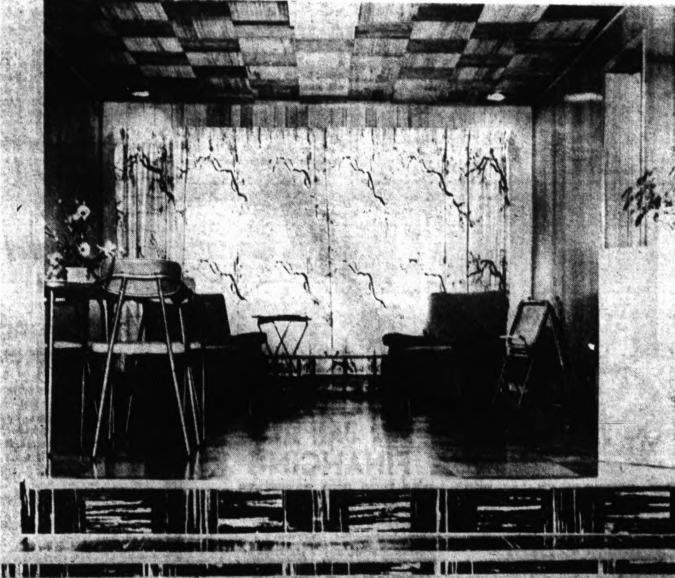

sectional sofa. At the left is a hallway leading to one of the bedrooms and back to the utility room. Walls in this room are deep pink. The carpeting is deep pink.

EXPANDED HOUSE — This is the Clem Snarr home on Adele Terrace at Lower Straits Lake. The exterior is white brick. Chimney and walls at each side of the entrance are gray brick. Trim is pink. Snarr did all the work of enlarging the house except the roof.

RECREATION ROOM — Two steps up from the living room is the recreation room. This used to be the garage. Walls are paneled in African Karina. The floor is corkstone tile. Draperies are beige with brown, pink and white in the design. The chairs have coral colored slipcovers.

The consumption of frozen vegetables has increased by about 1.50 per cent within the past few years.

RAISED RANCH — Here's another example of the new style which may eventually take a place along the split-level and standard ranch in residential architecture. This one has six rooms upstairs and the possibility of either three or more of a rental apartment downstairs.

This is Old Stuff

The first ceramic tile was used to surface walls around 70 centuries ago, but just when it was discovered is not known exactly. Some anthropologists say that early man may have discovered how to fire his footprints in river mud before being dried in the sun. This suggested to him that certain clays could be shaped and baked to make all sorts of useful items.

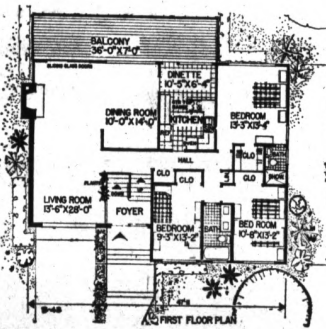

GROUND FLOOR PLAN

LOWER LEVEL, FAMILY OPTION — Large play room features lower level in house built for one-family use.

ALTERNATE GROUND FLOOR — FAMILY UNIT

LOWER LEVEL, APARTMENT OPTION — Two bedroom apartment fits in with no crowding. Note the separate side entrance for tenants.

UPPER LEVEL PLAN — The long 28-foot living room and spacious rear balcony insure an abundance of entertainment space.

B-43 Statistics

Six rooms upstairs and another three downstairs make this raised ranch ideal for a big and boisterous family. If desired, the lower level can be arranged as a rental apartment, adding to the family income without converting any essential living convenience.

Overall dimensions are 47' 11" by 34'. Living area on the upper level is 1,488 sq. ft. The lower level adds 945 sq. ft., not including the single car garage.

Tile is Stable

One of the most important qualifications for a building material is the ability to withstand expansion and contraction caused by changes in temperature. This is called dimensional stability. An example of an extremely stable material is ceramic tile, "fixed" at temperatures as high as 2,000° F during the manufacturing process.

Raised Ranch Style Gives More Usable Rooms

By DAVID L. BOWEN
The raised ranch made its first appearance in House of the Week almost a year ago. Since that time there have been a half-dozen examples of the style in this series of home plans and increasing national attention to the new form.

Its popularity is reaching the point where some enthusiasts believe "raised ranch" may eventually make a threefold of the Big Two post-war residential architecture — split-level and a ranch.

In case you get in late, the raised ranch is essentially a ranch house raised high enough to make livable space out of what used to be basement. Its primary advantage is a guest room, a laundry area and a third complete bath. A hobby room which has been furnished as a darkroom for the amateur photographer, as a workshop for do-it-yourself projects, or as an office for the professional, or business man.

The alternate ground floor is designed for the family desiring additional income from a rental unit such as the two-bedroom apartment shown. This apartment has its private entrance at the side of the house and can be built to be completely independent of the upstairs living unit.

Exterior materials were chosen with maintenance as well as appearance in mind. The upper level has a covering of vertical siding which can be stained to approximate the wood grain or painted to suit.

The lower level is of brick veneer which provides contrast of color and texture. The roof is of white asphalt shingle to reflect sunlight and give the house a clean and light appearance.

Sump Pump Saves Your Equipment

For the protection of your oil burner, washing machine and recreation room, you would be smart to install a sump pump or cellar drain.

The pump is put into a well or sump to which surplus water in the basement drains. The pump is equipped with a float valve which starts the motor automatically when the water in the sump reaches the danger point. The pump continues to operate until all water has been drained from the sump.

Householders who have basement water problems are advised to consult an experienced plumbing contractor about the best type of pump.

New Liquid Takes on Job Sandpaper Once Did

You no longer have to spend time and energy sandpapering new wood to clean and prepare it for paint, stain or a clear finish. The Bull Dog Corp., 131 Day Street, Jersey City 6, N.J., has introduced a new product, BULL DOG BOLD TYPE Sanding Liquid, that does all the work for you.

Applied with a cloth, BOLD TYPE removes dirt, grease, sand and wood marks, pencil and crayon marks, etc. Easier and quicker to use than sandpaper, it does not raise the grain nor alter the texture of the wood surface and is ideal for use on plywoods and laminates.

The natural insulating values of wood are extraordinary. One inch of wood equals six inches of brick or 12 inches of sandstone or concrete as an insulator.

A hinged refreshment bar that can be pushed flush against the wall when not in use can be built by following details in an available free plan. Another feature of the plan is a two-way plumbing wall, which enables the home handyman to utilize common water supply lines in building a low-cost powder room on the opposite side of a divider wall.

The walls, bar, lavatory and sink counters shown in the free plan are covered with plastic-surfaced Marflex, which can be cleaned with a damp cloth.

A copy of the free plan showing how to build the bar-powder room can be obtained by writing a postal to the Service Bureau, Marsh Wall Products, Inc., Dover, O., requesting Plan 101.

Saw Texture

If you are looking for new texture ideas in wood for home walls, why not try simple rough-sawn Douglas fir boards nailed snugly. They can be any width from six to twelve inches, and random widths also work well. They will finish to a silvery grey.

INSULATING BLOCK — Workmen are shown filling holes, drilled in the Harry Carlisle home, 750 Geneva Street, Waterford Township, with a new type of insulation. The dust seen in the center of the picture is coming out of a hole already filled. This new vermiculite insulation is the first of its kind that can be used in existing block or brick cavity walls. Work was done by Bonded Insulation Company of Pontiac.

Sump Pump Offers Flood Protection

The installation of a sump pump or cellar drain as a protection against flooded basements is recommended. This type of a pump is made especially for the purpose of keeping basements dry.

The pump is located in a well or sump to which surplus water in the basement drains. The pump is equipped with a float valve which starts the motor automatically when the water in the sump reaches the danger point. The pump continues to operate until all the water has been drained from the sump.

Sump pumps are made in various sizes to meet varying load requirements. Homeowners who have basement water problems are advised to consult with an experienced plumbing contractor who will be glad to recommend the type of pump which will best serve the purpose. The Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

Protection against flooded basements is more essential today than ever before because of the possibility of damage to modern wood with oil burners and automatic laundry machines. The general use of the basement for recreation and hobbies also points to the need for flood protection.

Also available as a means of providing further protection against the reverse flow of sewage during heavy storms is an automatically operated backwater valve. This valve is installed in the pipe leading to the sewer. When the sewer starts to back up, the valve automatically closes.

Insulate Block With New Fill

For the first time it is possible to insulate existing masonry walls such as concrete block or brick cavity walls. A patented type of vermiculite that is water-repellent filters down through the blocks much in the same way sand flows through an hour glass.

Tests have shown that up to 50 per cent less heat is transmitted through walls insulated with this new fill. Both heating and cooling costs are reduced.

The vermiculite which is specially treated and processed to resist moisture penetration is made by the Zonolite Company of Chicago.

Custom Made Divider

A perfect room divider is a built-in seating unit framed to take standard - sized bottom and back cushions, with the upper part of the back developing into an open bookcase. This unit can look like an expensive piece of furniture when finished in natural, beige-toned wood; coast hickory.

Acoustical Aluminum Ceiling Now Available

A residential version of a commercial acoustical-aluminum ceiling has been introduced for the do-it-yourselfer. It's a suspended ceiling system, assembled from interlocking "tee" members on a two-foot-by-two-foot, or two-foot-by-four-foot module. Talls on the ends of the intersecting tees are locked into place with a special tool to assure rapid assembly and high tool strength.

A prefabricated strap suspends the aluminum grid from any existing ceiling. Panels are then dropped into the modules to complete the project. Provisions for light fixtures are also designed into the system.

Wood Rates Best as Good Insulator

Why is wood a good insulator against heat, cold and sound? Why is it recommended for home construction for studding, sheathing and siding?

A section of wood, seen through a microscope, reveals not only countless separate cells that form its structure, but a myriad of tiny air spaces, as well, which provide the barrier against heat and cold and even sound.

One inch of wood like Douglas fir, west coast hemlock or western red cedar is worth in insulating value six inches of brick and a foot of concrete. That is why wood is so popular as a building material for the nation's housing industry.

No More Drips

The dripping faucet, the historic bane of many homes, has been made obsolete by the development of new types of valve units which can be slipped in or out of faucets and valves easily and quickly. The new faucet opens and closes with an easy up and down movement which prevents the seat washer from jamming against the seat.

EXPANSIBLE—Concrete panels are stored on racks after pouring, foregoing, and then lifted into place with a crane. Partially completed wall at right provides a before and after view.

The size of the panels, 5 1/2-inches thick and up to 20 feet wide and 12 feet high, is indicated by the men. Elkay expects to occupy this new stainless steel sink plant on or about December 1.

Concrete Panels Used to Enlarge Factory

An "expandable" factory designed to provide a growing company with a ready means of enlargement is presently under construction in the Chicago suburb of Broadview, Ill., by the Elkay Manufacturing Company.

Elkay, the nation's largest and oldest manufacturer of stainless steel sinks, presently operates two other plants in the Chicago area, one in Cicero, Ill., and one in Summit, Ill. The Summit plant, also "expandable," measured 45,000 square feet at its building in 1953 and was enlarged to 75,000 square feet by 1958.

The "expandable" construction consists of structural steel framework covered by concrete panels poured at the site, tilted into place and clip-bolted onto steel columns. To enlarge the plant, additional framework is run out to the desired perimeter. The bare sides created by this telescopic-like expansion are covered with new panels and the area is roofed.

After a floor has been poured, the original end-panels are unclipped, moved to the new position, and clip-bolted into place. In this way the factory can be expanded as desired at a minimum of cost and with a minimum of shut-down time.

When completed, this new Elkay plant will be the largest ever built for the sole purpose of producing stainless steel sinks. The initial structure will cost over $1 million and will provide 100,000 square feet of office and factory space. The "expandable" construction and a 10-acre site create an enlargement potential up to another 150,000 square feet of factory space. Occupancy is expected on or about December 1.

Design and construction of this new Elkay plant, located at 2700 Seventeenth Avenue in the suburb, is by the Abell-Howe Company of Forest Park, Ill., and Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Project manager for Abell-Howe is William W. Garton.

COSTS LESS

The cost of erecting the "expandable" concrete-panel walls is approximately three-fourths the cost of conventional masonry construction, according to Mr. Garton. The cost of moving and reinstalling these walls, he says, is only one-fourth the cost of tearing down and rebuilding a similar masonry wall.

The panels are 5 1/2 inches thick and up to 20 feet wide and 12 feet high. These are poured in forms at the site on a concrete floor which is coated with a solution to keep the panel from adhering to it. The panels contain reinforcing mesh to prevent shrinkage or cracking. They are of 3000-pound stress concrete.

A crane lifts the panels into place where they are fastened by bolting steel plate clips to the panels and behind flanges on the steel I-beams. A slight gap between the panels is filled with a neoprene rubber seal. This both seals the wall and absorbs the natural expansion and contraction movement of the panels.

One Fixture Needed in Each Living Area

Each room in your home should have at least one light fixture controlled by a wall switch, the American Home Lighting Institute said.

The fixture can be a ceiling type wall bracket, valance, cornice, or it can be built-in cove lighting. Where a room has more than one entrance, there should be a switch at each entrance.

Wright Shaped Nation's Homes

Ask any architect who has had the greatest influence on American dwelling styles and the shape of the country's buildings in this century and, invariably, the answer is Frank Lloyd Wright.

"This late, famed architect had a vast impact on the society in which he lived. His words were respected. When you read the following quotation from one of his lectures, you understand the depth of understanding of the man and why he had such great force during his life."

"Wood is a friend of mine," said Wright in commenting on his ideas on how a home should be designed. "The best friend of man on earth is the tree. When we use the tree respectfully and economically, we have one of the great resources of the earth. It is a beautiful material, friendly to man, the supreme material for his dwelling purposes."

"If a man is going to live," Wright concluded, "he should live with wood."

Do Beams First

Often ceiling beams are left exposed and are stained and varnished while the adjacent ceiling is painted. Here's the easy way to do such jobs. The beams should be finished first, then the ceiling. It's easier to cut-in the edges on the horizontal ceiling than on the vertical beams.

Heat in Patio Floor

Want to use your outdoor patio in the spring and autumn? Atlanta heating specialists report that rust-proof copper tubes can be embedded in the concrete flooring of the patio and hot water circulated through them to literally "heat the outdoors." This heating system, an adaptation of radiant panel heating, keeps a sheltered patio comfortable even when the temperature goes down as low as 55 degrees.

St. Fred, Shamrocks and Orchard Lake Turn in Impressive 100 Wins

Orchard Lake Dumps St. Rita From List of Unbeaten

By CHUCK ABRAH
It was a big night for the local parochial basketballers Friday as all three members of the Suburban Catholic posted impressive victories to tighten the league race considerably.

St. Frederick blasted St. James 71-37 at Madison Junior High while St. Michael was downing St. Clement 56-43 next door at Pontiac Northern.

Orchard Lake St. Mary finally came to life after two defeats to dump St. Rita out of 1st place in a 60-47 romp.

Royal Oak St. Mary remained alone in the top position at 3-0 by handing defending champion St. Benedict its third straight setback, 46-33.

The Rams and Shamrocks now share the runnerup slot with St. Rita at 2-1. The Eagles are in a three-way deadlock for the next position with St. James and St. Clement.

St. Fred seems to be really coming on now and may be ready to live up to pre-season notices as SCL favorite.

Coach Gene Wright's charges looked good most of the way last night showing good scoring punch paced by Mike Reed's 24, steady rebounding featuring Ted Becker and Jim Kennedy and very good bench strength.

Ruby Yapko, Bill Thomson and Stan Lufkin all turned in good performances in reserve roles in the 2nd quarter and later. They combined for eight points in the big 25-point 2nd period, Yapko also was a board stunner.

The game at Madison was a basket-for-basket deal for the first 9 1/2 minutes. Then Dobski hit a jump shot and Reed added three free throws to produce a margin of eight. The Rams were in command the rest of the night. The half ended 42-29 with nine-point apiece a big factor.

Read swished 16 of his total in the opening half when the victors hit better than 36 per cent of their free shots. St. Fred was just under 50 per cent for the game. Pete Vazquez, an excellent hustler, added 13 and Dobski 10 to the attack. Neil Kormanung up 26 and Dave Smith 12 for St. James.

A big 20-17 last quarter advantage pulled out the St. Michael victory. The game was just under 50 minutes to play. Nine points by Mike Keesling highlighted the big finish.

St. Clement had been in charge most of the initial half leading 15-11 and 25-21.

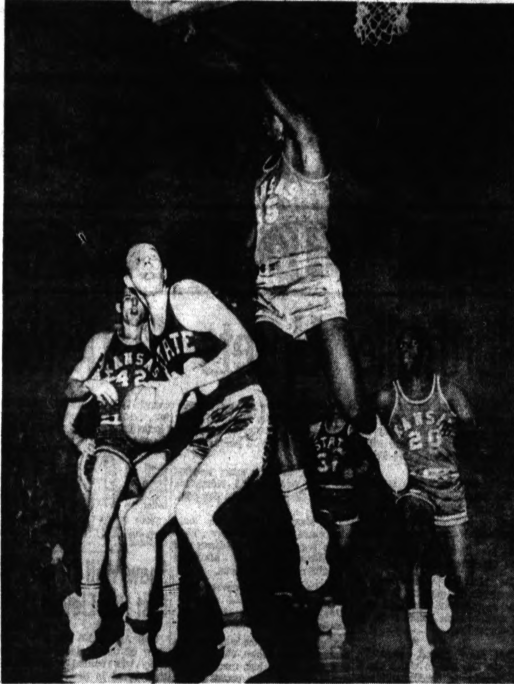

Foul shots told the story in the final analysis as the home team while making three less field goals hit on 26 of 34 charity tosses featuring Keesling's 7 straight and Art Robak with 10-for-12.

At Tunny added the victors with 17 and Robak added 14. Bob Fortin tallied 13 in defeat.

Orchard Lake got off to a big 14-4 start and kept leading through a minor letdown in the 2nd quarter.

The Eagles led 28-20 at halftime and then 48-35 going into the last quarter as four points was the closest St. Rita ever came.

Glen Hass, who spearheaded the big beginning with 9, totaled 27. Larry Sisson chipped in with 10-18 in the 3rd canto. Leo Roy canned 17 and Sam Nardichio 16 for St. Rita.

The Kansas Jayhawks, sparked by Wayne Hightower's 25 points, coasted to a 93-69 victory over Michigan State's Spartans in the opening game of a basketball doubleheader Friday night.

Kansas State met North Carolina in the second game.

The teams move over to Lawrence, Kan., Saturday night where they change opponents.

Hightower was given strong support by Bill Bridges and Nolen Ellison who scored 13 and 12 points, respectively.

Plint-sized Dave Fina, a 5-9 guard, was Michigan State's main offensive threat with 18 points.

Kansas, which held a 38-40 halftime edge, owned 24-point bulges in the first half. The Jayhawks were in front 40-16 and 42-18 before the Spartans cut the margin.

It was Michigan State's first loss after two victories and Kansas' third success in four games.

The University of Detroit, hoping to get back on the winning trail after its stalling upset to Purdue last Monday, met Nebraska in the U. of D. fieldhouse tonight.

The Cornhuskers, who are coached by former Toledo coach Jerry Bush, have a strong unit which defeated Utah State, 65-40, in its last outing.

The Titans, rated third nationally before the loss to Purdue, have been ailing since the great win over Indiana a week ago. Guard Larry Hughes has been hampered with a pulled hamstring in his leg, and the other guard, Frank Chickowski injured his hip a week ago.

Little Tom Villeneuve, who hit for 17 points at Purdue and was the hero of the Indiana game, may start tonight.

Dave DeBuschere will not be at full strength as result of a groin injury which kept him out of a large part of the Purdue game.

Monday night the Titans play Gonzago, with big Frank Burgess, an All-American candidate, in Detroit.

Michigan State's record is 1-1. Kansas is 2-0. Nebraska is 1-1. The Titans are 1-1.

Nebraska again won its specialty the basketball game in a time of 1:08.6 and finished first in the 1:08.6 and 1:08.6.

Nebraska's victory was in the butler in a time of 1:08.6. He also took second in the basketball.

Bad Oiler took second in the 50 yard freestyle and the 100 freestyle.

It was Pontiac's third victory against one setback and gave the Chiefs a 1-1 dual mark in the Saginaw Valley.

Donaldson set a new team record in the 200 yard freestyle with a time of 2:00.8. He also won the 400 in 4:18.1.

Nevel again won his specialty the basketball game in a time of 1:08.6 and finished first in the 1:08.6 and 1:08.6.

Rochester Feasts, 56-44 Famine for Romeo, 77-49

Is it feast or famine for Rochester, or could it be the Falcons have come alive?

After scoring only 34 and 29 points in their last two games, Rochester went to L'Anse Creuse last night and came home with a 56-44 victory.

It was the 2nd win in five games and the second triumph in the Tri-County league.

Romeo went to Roseville for a league game and got pummeled into the cellar by a 77-49 setback.

The Bulldogs fell behind 40-21 at halftime and never closed the gap seriously. Roseville poured through 28 points in the third quarter with big Duane Soine, 6-3 center, paving the way.

Some who are averaging 28.5 points per game, hit 10 fielders and eight charity tosses for 28 points.

Reserve Chris Eath helped out with 10 rebounds and 10 points while Tom May added 14 points.

For Romeo, Larry Lero and Vaughn Monroe each had 11 points.

Dan Bird found the range for Rochester as he connected on nine floor shots and six free throws. He was the lone player in double figures for the Falcons. Bruce Corbit had 13 for L'Anse.

Local Wrestlers Start Strong in County Meet

The 2nd round of the opening Oakland County Invitational Wrestling tournament got under way today. Matmen from Central and Northern in Pontiac and Walled Lake were among the top performers last night.

Art Fowlkes, veteran 112-pounder, paced the Chiefs by beating Fitzgerald and Hazel Park. He was matched against Viking Mark Cosgrove today. Cosgrove defeated Stan Secosky of Southfield after getting a bye. Bill Cunningham of PCH whipped Gamme of Waterford following a bye. Central's Steve Wyman took Terry Farmer of Northern in 133. Barry Whittaker had a bye and decision.

Paul Horwath scored a pin in 54 seconds for Central in 145. Heavyweight Tom Elchhorn downed Fred Lauer of Lake Orion. Others moved along on byes.

Several PNH boys made good showings. Jerry Ward took a 6-2 win in 154. Winfield Miracle trounced Southfield's Wendell Harvey 7-1 in 165. Gene Graves, 127 cut down Oak Park and Walled Lake foes. Don Teets was also a double victim in that class setting a possible all-tide final although Teets must get by strong Tom Bakwell of the Vikings to day.

Dennis Hubble of Northern has a win and bye in 120 and met Hazel Park vet Jerry Cunningham today. Mal Oswalt has the same record and battled Central's Cunningham.

In the nightcap, the New York Knickerbockers blew a 15-point lead and then recovered to beat the Detroit Pistons 108-104 in a battle of division cellar-dwellers.

In the only other game scheduled, Oscar Robertson and Jack Twyman combined for 75 points while leading Cincinnati to the 115-110 victory over Los Angeles.

The Warriors took a one-point lead on baskets by Walt Chamberlain and Tom Gola with 2:30 left. But St. Louis rallied on a fast goal by Lovellette, a free throw by Cliff Hagan and two more green cliff shots by St. Louis to wrap it up.

Chamberlain was the game's high scorer with 34 points. The setback dropped Philadelphia into second place, 10 percentage points behind Boston.

Willie Naulls had 30 points for New York, including 15 in the final quarter. His three-pointer with 3:45 left broke a 95-84 deadlock and gave the Knicks the lead for good. Bailey Howell had 30 for the Pistons.

Robertson had 39 points and Twyman 25 for the Royals, who took over second place in the Western Division from the Lakers. Elgin Baylor, as usual, carried the load for Los Angeles with 34 points and 24 rebounds.

Lions Can Afford to Stumble Against Bears Sunday

Title Chance Is Determined by Green Bay Packers Loss Would Put Detroit in Good Position to Tie

Packers Loss Would Put Detroit in Good Position to Tie

Detroit (AP) — The surging Detroit Lions, bidding for a National Football League playoff berth after losing their first three games of the season, and the Chicago Bears tangle here Sunday in a key Western Division battle.

Under Coach George Wilson, the rebounding Lions have won three straight since suffering a 26-17 loss in a riotous game with the Bears at Chicago last month. Detroit takes a 6-5 record into its last game of the season.

A Detroit victory over the Bears coupled with a Green Bay loss at Los Angeles today, would put the Lions into the title picture. There'd be a tie among the Lions, Packers and winner of Sunday's Baltimore-San Francisco struggle with a playoff needed to settle the Western Division jam.

The only game Wilson has won from a playoff since Detroit became champion in 1957 was the 21-13 decision that insured the Lions a tie for the division lead that year. Detroit then downed San Francisco in a last-minute victory over the world championship by beating Cleveland.

In the game at Chicago last month, the rough, tough Bears played one of their best defensive games of the year. Their line put a tremendous rush on Detroit quarterback Jim Naniowski, who was dumped for 107 yards in losses.

But Naniowski will be sitting on the bench this time and Earl Morrill will direct the Lions' attack. He earned the starting assignment by sparking the Lions to a last-minute victory over Baltimore two weeks ago. Last week, he connected on 12 of 14 passes for 145 yards and a touchdown as the Lions dropped Detroit 23-14.

The Bears were knocked out of contention last week, losing 62-0 to Cleveland.

By The Associated Press

Green Bay was a 10-point favorite to defeat the Rams at Los Angeles today and claim the Western Conference championship in the National Football League.

But all the Packers needed was a tie. Only a loss could keep Green Bay (7-4) from a Dec. 26 meeting with the Eastern champion Eagles at Philadelphia. And even that might change the date because the Packers could do no worse than end up in a two-way or three-way playoff in the West.

Five Sunday games remain on the NFL's final weekend schedule and here's what they mean:

Baltimore (6-5) at San Francisco (6-5)—If the Packers lose, a share of first place for the winner. Otherwise, at least a share of second.

Chicago (5-5) at Detroit (4-6) If the Packers lose, a share of first place if the Lions win. Otherwise, a share of second place.

Pittsburgh (5-5) at St. Louis (5-5)—Fourth place in the East for the winner.

Philadelphia (9-2) at Washington (1-4-2)—Nothing.

The Lions, if tied with either San Francisco or Baltimore, get the Miami bid because they hold a 34-14 point advantage in a seasonal split with the Bears and a 2-0 game win edge over the Colts.

A two-way first-place tie in the West forces the title game back to Jan. 1, a three-way finish makes it Jan. 8.

Sunday's favorites are the Colts by 5 points, the Lions by 4, the Browns by 1, the Cardinals by 1 and the Eagles by 7.

The possibility of clear skies boded new hopes for the Bears and their shotgun spread offense that surprised the Colts 30-22 in Baltimore.

Also Coach Red Hickey's 42ers were reported in good physical shape. Several Colts are ailing.

End Raymond Berry, the league's top receiver, and Sammy John, by sample both were doubtful.

San Francisco must win second place outright to qualify for the Run-Scor Bowl Jan. 7 in Miami against the No. 2 team of the Eastern Conference.

If the 42ers should deadlock for second, the Lions still go bowl-bound since they beat the Colts twice.

Hickey sticks with his club that started last week's muddy game against Green Bay.

Johnny Unitas, who didn't throw a touchdown pass against Los Angeles for the first time in 47 games, tries to get back on the team against the 42ers.

Rounding out the backfield with Unitas and Moore are left half Al Hawkins and fullback Billy Price. The Colts left alling fullback Alan Ameche at home.

John Doerr of 174 Ottawa Drive is captain of the Wooster College swimming team which is called the best in five years at the school. John's brother is a member of the PCI swimming team this season.

Oakland is battling to stay from Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Oakland's Raiders finish their inaugural season in the American Football League Saturday battling to stay out of the cellar.

They face the Denver Broncos in Candlestick Park at 1:30 p.m. Denver beat the Raiders 31-14 in the first league game between the clubs.

Oakland rests in third place in the AFL Western Division with a 5-8 record. Denver is last at 4-9.

Emmanuel Christian Loses New Gym Debut

Whitmore Lake spoiled Emmanuel Christian's debut in its new gym last night, 46-27.

Lack of rebounding and poor free throw shooting hurt Emmanuel. George Crawford, Jim Dennis and Tom Sutton each scored seven points for the home team which lost its second game in as many starts.

Whitmore Lake gained a 28-12 halftime lead and coasted to the win.

Pirates Get Shantz; Yankees Buy McDevitt

From Our Wire Service

The Pittsburgh Pirates got bullpen strength by obtaining south-paw pitcher Bobby Shantz from the New Washington club of the American League.

In another trade, the New York Yankees purchased left-handed Danny McDevitt from the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The sale price was not disclosed but it was believed to be a little more than the $20,000 waiver price.

As part of the transaction, the Yankees will send a minor league player to the Dodgers at a future date.

McDevitt, 28, was used sparingly by the Dodgers last year and failed to win a game, losing four. He appeared in only 24 games, most of them in relief, and worked 53 innings.

His best year was 1959 when he won 13 and lost eight for the pennant-winning Dodgers.

McDevitt's addition raises the Yankees roster to 33, only seven of whom are pitchers. They lost three hurlers to the new Washington and Los Angeles teams in Wednesday's player draft.

McDevitt is expected to take over the bullpen duties filled by Shantz the past few seasons.

The new Washington Senators objected Shantz of the Yankees, from the American League player pool.

He goes to the Pittsburgh Pirates for three minor leaguers—pitcher Bennie Daniels, first baseman R. C. Stevens and infielder Harry Bright.

Criticizes Naming of Orville Freeman

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Chairman Harold D. Cooley of the North Carolina Democratic Party called the appointment of Orville L. Freeman as secretary of agriculture "purely political."

He said Freeman "knows very little about the problems of agriculture."

The North Carolina Democrat, in a telephone interview with the Charlotte News, said he tried to convince President-Elect John F. Kennedy that Rep. W. R. Poague, D-Tex., was the best man for the job.

Cooley added, however, that if a man, Minnesota's defeated Democratic governor, would be a "good administrator and a hard worker."

"I still think Bob Poague is the best man," Cooley said.

New Broom Necessary Part of Rita's Wardrobe

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK—"Rita Gam practices witchcraft," this London paper said.

"MY Rita Gam?" I wondered. You mean to tell me that the black-haired, big-eyed TV beauty who was Grace Kelly's maid-of-honor, who used to be Mrs. Sidney Lumet, and then married young publisher Tom Guinzberg, who portrayed Salome's mother in "The King of Kings," is an old-but, of course, I mean a young witch? That Rita Gam?

"Naturally, that Rita Gam," a cool voice said. "How many Rita Gams you think there are? You making a federal case out of this?"

"Oh, hello, Rita," I stammered, for it was the witch speaking. I felt a sudden chill, as you are supposed to upon meeting a witch. We were sitting near the door in a restaurant and customers were streaming in and out, causing a draft.

"What do witches drink?" I inquired.

"This one likes vodka," the witch responded. "That's how I work my witchcraft. You see, I'm not a bad witch. I'm a good witch."

"But how did you become a witch?" I persisted.

"I went to one of those witch camps in New England who divine for water and she said 'You're my daughter. Go home and work on it.' It's like willing things to happen."

"Anyway, I stare at the candle—it's gotta be a bar-berry candle—and I do incantations and I try to will something to happen. Like now I'm trying to will myself to do a comedy instead of a serious picture. By will power I grew long fingernails. Have you ever peeled grapes with long finger nails?"

I confessed I hadn't.

"It's very sexy," the old witch muttered into her vodka. "Listen here," she said, "you're not taking this witchcraft very seriously. It's sort of like analysis, you know. Acting is sort of like witchcraft, too."

"One more thing," Rita said. "What are you doing next Halloween night?"

THE WEEKEND WINDUP

"DON'T PRINT THAT!" Tony Curtis' $25,000 Rolls Royce is a prop in his new film, Secret Service guards being run ragged trailing Sen. Kennedy, figure he'll "slimmer down" in about a month. Raymond Massey's stepdaughter Dorothy makes her screen debut in "Breakfast at Tiffany's."

Frank Lovejoy explains why he became an actor: "When I was a kid I heard that show business was the only place where you could drink, meet pretty girls and sleep late. What other business offers as much?"

EARLY'S PEARLS: A local fellow sighs that his wife's been driving for years, and still thinks the "E" on the gas gauge means "Enough."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Do you remember when you could fix a chair with a length of wire? Today a chair is a length of wire.

Dick Van Dyke tells of the hippopotamus who went to a psychiatrist about his problems. Seems he didn't mind being with the hippo—he just couldn't stand being married to one. That's all, brother.

Kennedy 'Kin' on Wrong Side of Political Rails?

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Lady May Lawford, related by marriage to President-Elect John F. Kennedy, today was among the nation's unemployed and suspects politics might have been her downfall.

British-born Lady Lawford, mother of actor Peter Lawford who is married to Kennedy's sister, Pat — said she did not know whether she quit or was fired Friday from her $50 a week, plus commission, job in a jewelry store.

The 72-year-old widow had been employed since Monday by the firm of "Mr. Tibor." Before starting work Lady Lawford said she would have visited by Vice President Richard M. Nixon had she been an American citizen.

Court Dismisses Homicide Count

Ferdale Youth Pleads Guilty to Lesser Charge in Traffic Death

A charge of negligent homicide against a Ferndale youth in the traffic death of a companion Oct. 27 was dismissed yesterday in Royal Oak Municipal Court.

Thomas A. Sales, 18, of 317 Saratoga Road, entered a plea of guilty to the lesser charge of careless driving before Judge Kevin Leenhouts.

Sales failed to yield the right of way to an oncoming car at Balavia Road and Harrison Street, Royal Oak police said.

His vehicle was struck broadside by a car driven by St. Stefan, 17, of 518 S. Edison St., Royal Oak, Friday.

A passenger in Sales' car, David Watson, 16, was killed. Sales was fined $100 and placed on probation for two years. He will not be allowed any pleasure driving for the next 45 days and was ordered to attend a driver's school.

Fidel Denounces Cuban Cardinal

Heightens Church Feud After Inking Agreement With Russia

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro today denounced Catholic prelate, Manuel Cardinal Luengo, as a "Judas" and plunged deeper into the Soviet economic orbit.

In an angry 3½-hour speech, the bearded prime minister carried his bitter feud with the church to a new height by charging that the cardinal, 81, had tolerated the signing Friday of a $168-million commercial agreement with the Soviet Union. Details of the pact were not made known.

The Catholic Church has openly come out against Communist inroads into Cuba. But Castro did not mention in his speech at a labor rally the signing Friday of a $168-million commercial agreement with the Soviet Union. Details of the pact were not made known.

Officials in Havana hinted that the agreement is intended to help solve Cuba's sugar problem, critical now that U. S. markets are completely closed and a harvest estimated at six million tons is approaching.

Overseas GIs Told 'Buy American'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon today ordered overseas military stations to buy American goods as a condition of service unless the price is more than 25 per cent above the cost of similar goods from foreign firms.

Santa Claus Gets 10,000 Letters at Indiana Office

WASHINGTON (AP)—Santa Claus has received more than 10,000 letters from children so far this Christmas season, and a good many of them have been answered.

In this case, the recipient is the Santa Claus Post Office in Indiana. The Post Office Department reported Thursday the 10,000 letter count from Postmaster Elbert S. Reine of the Santa Claus, Post Office. Every child who writes in, providing he includes his return address, gets a letter back from Santa Claus.

The American Legion at Santa Claus handles this job.

Shake Up State Defense Setup

Director Sheehan to Be Replaced in Attempt to Quell Strife

LANSING (AP)—Moving to settle "internal strife," a state highway administrator will take over Monday as acting state director of civil defense.

Robert S. D'Amelio will replace Ralph M. Sheehan, who resigned Friday in the climax of a dispute with other top officials in the civil defense office.

The resignation is effective Jan. 1, coinciding with the end of Gov. Williams' term in office, but Sheehan quit work Thursday to use up his accumulated leave.

D'Amelio, director of the Highway Department's Administrative Services Division, was shifted temporarily to the civil defense office Oct. 3 in a move by the governor to repair administrative operations crippled by internal dissent.

The dispute came to a head when Sheehan returned to work after recovering from a heart attack he suffered last April, D'Amelio said. During his absence, he said, William C. Powell, head of the field services division, became acting director, and James Gannon was promoted to chief of the Technical Services Division to fill a vacancy. Sheehan opposed both changes and complained to the governor, D'Amelio said.

Mommy, Mommy, Mommy

LONDON, Ohio (AP)—George Bricker, 1, a student at a school for the blind in Boston, Mass., won't come home for Christmas after all.

"We'll try to bring him home for a week a little later, but not for Christmas, not now," said his father, Maurice Bricker of near-by Lilly Chapel.

"You see," added his uncle, Paul Calloway, "he's blind and deaf. At the school they won't know better how to see that he has a good Christmas. The man there said they will give him the best."

"He'd only wander around the house searching for his mother, and without her it wouldn't be much of a Christmas, anyway," George's mother, Louella Bricker, 36, had three other children. She was going to Boston Friday to bring George home for the holiday, just as she had last Christmas and last Easter.

"George can't read about it in the newspapers or see and hear about it on television or radio. Someone will have to tell the boy, who has been blind and deaf since birth, that his mother was among those killed Friday when two airplanes collided over New York City."

He's No Elliott, Wants to Change His Name

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Elliott H. Robo said he was fed up with his surname—tired of being kidded about it.

Babo, 19, asked Alameda Superior Court Friday for permission to change his name to James Richard Elliott.

"Let anyone try and be funny with that," he challenged.

New Cinderella, Capucine, Began Career as Model

The Cinderella story, Hollywood version, continues to flourish.

Former French photographer's model, Capucine today is Hollywood's newest Cinderella girl.

She was chosen by producer William Goetz, to play the feminine starring role opposite Dirk Bogarde in "Song Without End," the story of Franz Liszt, now showing in the area.

Capucine — only that name, please! — literally began her professional career as Cinderella fashion in Paris when she was spotted, while on a sightseeing tour, by a commercial photographer who was attracted by her classic features.

She accepted his offer of a modeling job and rapidly became one of the most famous fashion models in Paris, and in the world.

Nigerians Battle to Save Austrians

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Nigerian U. N. troops fought a six-hour battle with Congolese soldiers to rescue the 50-member staff of an Austrian field hospital, the United Nations reported today.

One Nigerian was killed and a British officer with the U. N. soldiers was wounded. The United Nations reported "at least 10" Congolese casualties in the battle that took place Friday at a Bakavu military prison.

The Austrians had been held more than 24 hours. The U. N. forces said they tried to negotiate release of the prisoners but "there was no other way but to resort to force."

3rd Trial to Decide Finch Jeopardy Plea

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The third murder trial of Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his former paramour, Carole Tregoff, is the proper time to consider their double jeopardy pleas.

Superior Court Judge David Coleman so ruled Friday in setting Jan. 3 as the tentative date for the third trial. The case was transferred to his court from that of Superior Court Judge Leroy Dawson, who heard the second trial.

Finch, 42 and Miss Tregoff, 23, are accused of murdering the doctor's wife, Barbara Jean, 36, in July 1959. Mrs. Finch was shot to death.

Juries deadlocked in both of the trials, last March and last November.

Spellman Flies North

NEW YORK (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman left Idlewild airport Friday night for Elmendorf Air Force Base, Anchorage, Alaska, to begin his annual Christmas trip to armed forces stationed overseas.

Cardinal Spellman will celebrate Christmas midnight Mass at Thule Air Force Base in Greenland and will celebrate Mass on Christmas Day at the Army ice tunnel near Thule.

Reprieved From Gallows

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP)—Robert Dickson, 35, light-house keeper sentenced to hang for the murder of fellow keeper Hugh Clark, 61, during their lonely vigil, was reprieved Friday to life imprisonment. He was due to be hanged next Wednesday.

The 1956-57 world agricultural production was estimated to be about 17 per cent greater than the average during the 1948-52 period.

Coal produced in the U.S. in an average year would fill New York's famed Empire State building from top to bottom about 60 times.

Air Tragedy Brings Its Aftermath of Tears

WHERE DISASTER STRUCK—This was the scene in Brooklyn Friday as firemen played streams of water on one of the buildings set afire by the crash of a United Airlines jetliner following a collision with a TWA airliner over the New York area. It is almost miraculous that the plane fell into an intersection of the densely populated area instead of on a building. The wreckage fills the street. However, one of the 25-foot wing structures knifed through a four-story apartment building, making it difficult to understand why more than nine people were not killed. The plane is one-half the length of a football field.

YOUNGSTER AFTER CRASH AND BEFORE — Sheltered by an umbrella, Stephen Baltz, 11, of Wilmette, Ill., (top) lies critically injured on the snow not far from the wreckage of the airliner which crashed Friday at an intersection in Brooklyn. The boy is the sole survivor of the air collision over New York City which took at least 138 lives. Stephen is shown (right in bottom picture) in this portrait with his family at Wilmette. Shown are sister Randy, 9; brother William, 4; parents Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Baltz. Stephen's mother and Randy were in New York visiting Stephen's grandparents. His father and William were at home. Stephen had been delayed because of a sore throat but was flying to join them and his mother was waiting at Idlewild to meet him when the disaster came.

CLOSE-UP VIEW OF CRASH SCENE — Tail section of the UAL airliner which crashed in Brooklyn Friday can be seen near firemen's aerial ladder. Emergency equipment and vehicles parked on snow-clogged street clutter the scene. Running from front to rear is Seventh Avenue. The tail section of plane rests at the intersection of Seventh and Sterling Place. Spectators look down on rescue operations in the heavily populated area.

Jet Plummets From Sky

Flaming Death Falls With the Snow

NEW YORK (UPI)—Early this week children were playing in the snow on Sterling Place and Seventh Avenue in Brooklyn.

The worst blizzard in 17 years had closed the schools and the children were making the most of it before snowplows and commercial traffic would turn its snowy witnesses into a grimy, gray slush.

The "holiday" lasted two days. Friday the streets were nearly deserted at 10:37 a.m.

Most of the neighborhood children were in school. Some of them had probably looked out of classroom windows and noted joyfully that it was snowing again.

At precisely that moment there was a tremendous roaring explosion and the winter wonderland of a few days ago was transformed into a scene of flaming death and destruction.

A giant DC-8 jet airliner, crippled after colliding in flight with a Super Constellation over Staten Island, plummeted into the once-fashionable brownstone residential section.

Buildings were reduced to rubble. The Pillar of Fire Methodist Church was gutted by fire. Apartment buildings burst into flames and people ran screaming into the streets.

Friday night the area was reminiscent of bomb-shattered London during the blitz, except for the garish glare of floodlights.

Police and firemen, many having worked continuously since the first alarm was sounded, still search the rubble of the $5 million airliner for more victims.

By dawn today the toll had mounted to 138 dead — and the search continued.

The apartments that Friday morning saw children off to school and husbands off to work were empty, their windows open. Shades, venetian blinds and curtains flapped during the cold late night.

All the former residents had been removed. Some moved in with relatives, some with friends. Most however, were billeted in the gymnasium of a nearby church.

Among the grim reminders salvaged from the wreckage were several mail bags. Some were burned and torn open from the impact of the crash.

ANXIOUS AND WORRIED — Anxiety and concern over the plane collision near Brooklyn clearly show in the face of Elwood R. Quesada, Federal Aviation Agency chief, at a luncheon celebrating the 57th anniversary of powered flight in Dayton, Ohio, Friday, after he heard the news of the dual disaster. It will be his job to determine the cause of the tragedy.

VICTIM'S PARENTS SOB — Their heads bowed, Arno Pandolfini and wife Catherine of White Plains, N.Y., are comforted by a friend (left) at New York's Idlewild Airport Friday after their son Joseph, 19, was killed in the crash of an airliner in Brooklyn. The parents were at the airport awaiting the arrival of Joseph, a student at Colorado State University.

GRIM SCENE IN BROOKLYN — Spectators register varied degrees of shock as they watch the body of one of the victims of the UAL airliner crash in Brooklyn being carried away Friday. The plane, bound for Idlewild Airport, fell into a heavily populated area, killing all but one of the 84 persons on board. The rubble of the plane and the shattered buildings remain but it will be weeks before the ghastly evidence of death will be completely removed.

Santa and the Boy Fish

by Lucrece Hudgins Beale

STORY: Santa Claus, wearing the green suit and red hat, has been given his last assignment by the spirit of the sea. With the aid of the boy fish, he must deliver the last of the year's presents to the children of the sea.

CHAPTER 13

The sunken ship, tilted on its side, lay on the ocean floor, half covered by a hundred years of drifting sand. Three broken masts rose from the deck like blue phantoms in a silent blue world.

Michael scraped at the barnacles and sea snails encrusted on the bow. Slowly the letters ARDOON appeared.

With a quick thrust of his flippers he shot up to the surface and swam back to the cliff. He had gone a long way under water and it was some time before he was close enough to shout, "It's the ship! I've found her!"

He waved his arms and thrashed the waves to attract attention. But there was no sign of Costenbriker high on the cliff. Michael grasped the rope that dangled in the water and tied it around his waist.

"Pull me up!" he shouted. But there was no answer from above. He yanked impatiently at the rope. Suddenly it tightened and slowly pulled him out of the water and up the side of the cliff. When he reached the top he grasped the edge and pulled himself over.

"It's the ARDOON!" he cried.

Surgeons Find 258 Objects in Man's Stomach

CHICAGO UP — Surgeons who made a medical checkup on a mental patient because he was suffering from swollen ankles recovered 258 objects from his stomach.

Their report, published today in the Journal of the American Medical Association, listed these among them recovered:

Twenty-six keys, 39 nail files, 3 sets of rosary beads, 16 religious medals, a bracelet, a necklace, 3 metal chains, a beer can opener, a knife blade, 4 nail clippers, 3 pairs of tweezers and 88 assorted coins.

An "amorphous mass of eroded metal" weighing more than three pounds also was removed by surgery.

The man was a patient in a Brooklyn, N.Y., hospital. The operation was reported by Drs. Alexander Kane, Benjamin Ginn and Bernardino A. Mora Jr.

Despite the large amount of iron material ordinating in the man's stomach, he was suffering from moderate anemia, a condition sometimes due to iron deficiency.

Question Sanity of Ex-Detroit Police Officer

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals, 6th Circuit Friday ordered Marrison Pollard, a former policeman in Detroit, sent to a federal medical center at Springfield, Mo., so that his sanity might be determined.

Pollard attempted to hold up a branch of the Detroit Bank and Trust Co., on May 21, 1958, and a branch of the Bank of the Commonwealth, Detroit, but was scared away each time, according to court records.

That was the day before his second marriage. His first wife and daughter were killed by a drunken neighbor in April 1956, while Pollard was on duty, the records show.

He was arrested following the attempted bank robberies, and pleaded guilty. The defense had pleaded that Pollard was insane but District Court Judge Theodore Levin found him sane and sentenced him to prison.

The U.S. Court of Appeals, 6th Circuit, reversed the conviction, holding that Pollard had not been proved to be sane. The high court sent the case back for further proceedings.

Judge Levin then dismissed the case. The appellate court countered by stopping Judge Levin's action.

Friday's mandate ordered Pollard's sanity tested. If he is found to be sane, he will be released, it was said. If found insane, he will be hospitalized.

The Court of Appeals, in its original action last June 27, stated that Pollard, following the slaying of his first wife and daughter, "gradually became a victim of chronic depression."

His Line Is Prophetic — The Bed Collapses

CENTRAL CITY, Colo. UP — In the summer performance of "A Thruway Carnival" at the Central City Play Festival, Eddie Mayeoff recited a piece about a bed falling on his father.

The night after the opening performance Mayeoff climbed into bed in his rented house, and the bed collapsed about him. No injuries resulted.

pushing back his face mask and untangling the rope from his waist. "Her name's still on the bow-plain as can be and she's big- big as this!"

"Help! Help!" He can't swim!" shouted Michael. "He'll drown!" He threw himself on top of the chest. Laughing, the Monster tossed Michael aside and hurled the chest over the cliff and into the sea.

(Next: The Copy Fish)

The Monster hurled the chest into the sea.

Michael took a step backwards. "Who are you?" "I am the Monster of the Deep," replied the creature. He rubbed his red whiskered chin and gazed thoughtfully at Michael.

"You don't look like a monster," said Michael, taking other step backwards. "You-you look like a man."

"I have many shapes," The Monster held up his 3-fingered hand. "And I have as many lives as I have fingers on this hand. I used to have five. I lost one in the wreck of the ARDOON a hundred years ago. I was a barnacle riding on her side and when she went down I was crushed beneath her."

"TOSSED ASHORE

"I lost another when, disguised as a shark, I was tossed ashore one stormy night and a frightened fisherman chopped off my head. Now I have three lives left."

"That is very interesting," said Michael politely. "But could you tell me where Costenbriker is? I tell him here on the cliff just where you are sitting now."

"And he's here still," said the Monster and he patted the sea chest on which he sat.

"In-in that box? But why?" "I have put him there," said the Monster, "because he is after my black pearl. After I have gotten rid of him I will get rid of you because even if you did not get the pearl you will tell others of it and treasure seekers will be coming here forever after."

"But it's not your pearl!" protested Michael. "It belongs to Costenbriker. He was on the ship when she sank!"

"Everything in the ocean belongs to me," said the Monster. When the ARDOON sank she became mine and everything on her is mine."

Despite Holiday Lull
Business activity continued at a solid level in Pontiac last week, despite lulls due to the long Thanksgiving weekend.

Commercial activity was down about $2 million from October, the banks reported. Industrial payrolls were reported off a half million dollars.

The Thanksgiving lull threw bus patronage off by about 1,500 passengers.

The contrast with conditions a year ago reflects the steel strike of late 1959.

Pro-West Force Gains in Laos
Take Airport, Capital but Expects Long Civil War in Jungles

VIENTIANE (AP) — The Pro-Western government of Prince Boun Oum and Gen. Phoumi Nouvann announced the capture of Vientiane Airport today after driving pro-Communist forces out of this Laotian capital.

But the triumph of the anti-Communists, after a flaming 76-hour battle in the streets that left the center of the city in ruins, may be only the prelude to a long civil war in the jungles.

Phoumi said the die-hard pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrilla fighters and leftist paratroopers of Capt. Kong Le retired in good order, apparently taking a good portion of their Soviet-supplied arms and ammunition with them.

Vientiane was under martial law, and Gen. Phoumi said it would be enforced until a clean-up is completed.

Pathet Lao followers who infiltrated the capital during the government of neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma were reported to have gone underground and will have to be flushed out.

Almost the first act of the new premier was to appeal to the United States for assistance, particularly for the people of Vientiane who he said had suffered greatly because of the actions of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas.

In Washington, the State Department said the request was being given swift and sympathetic attention.

Selassie Awaits Triumphant Return to His Capital
ASMARAE, Ethiopia (AP) — Emperor Haile Selassie prepared for a triumphant return to his capital of Addis Ababa today as the last lingering sparks of an ill-starred rebellion there appeared about to be stamped out.

He exonerated his eldest son, Crown Prince Asfa Wossen, 44, from blame for the revolutionary regime proclaimed in the capital last Wednesday by rebels in the palace guard.

"The rebels tried to make the prince their decoy," the defiant King of Kings said.

Surviving are a daughter, Margaret Ratliff of Wall Lake; a brother, Earl Clegg of St. Clair; a sister, Mrs. Florence Gonyea of California; three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Jack Weighs All Angles in Naming Brother Bob

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some Democratic politicians feared today that Robert F. Kennedy's expected fight for Negro rights as attorney general might hurt his brother's chances of winning the South in a 1964 re-election bid.

"Mark my words, the name Kennedy is going to become anathema in the South," one political figure declared.

Some leading Democrats said privately they felt President-elect John F. Kennedy might have made a mistake in naming his 35-year-old brother to the cabinet job Friday. It was the first time a president has appointed a brother to the Cabinet.

Very few Democrats were speaking for publication. One who did was Sen. John A. Carroll, Colo. He said, "I'm not opposing the appointment. I merely question the wisdom of it."

Some Democrats were concerned that if the Republicans sensed any public displeasure over the appointment, they might seek to exploit it.

WEIGHED ALL ANGLES
But other Democrats felt there would be no complaints or any controversy would soon blow over. They said the president-elect must have weighed the possible repercussions of the appointment and decided he was on safe ground.

The Democrats who feared the effects of the appointment felt it might damage the president-elect's prestige as a shrewd politician and therefore possibly hurt his chances for re-election.

They explained that the lawmakers often bow to a president's wishes when they respect his political and public prestige.

The appointment of Bobby to attorney general might tend to undermine this prestige, these Democrats said.

They said some voters might consider Bobby's selection to be nepotism and reject the president-elect's repeated assertion that he applied the same test to his brother that he did to every other Cabinet choice.

As attorney general, Bobby almost certainly will be in the middle of many government efforts to integrate schools in the South, guarantee Negro voting rights and assure other civil rights. Kennedy's appointees a vigorous going over when they come up for Senate confirmation.

Some Democratic politicians felt that Bobby's part in future Justice Department civil rights cases might hurt the South against him and the incoming president. As one Democrat put it, such cases would closely link the Kennedy name with efforts to push civil rights in the South.

These Democrats noted that the South's strong support enabled Kennedy to win the close presidential election. They questioned whether the South would back him in 1964 after his brother had pressed the government's civil rights fight.

In announcing the appointment, the president-elect called special attention to his brother's character and said he knew Bobby "will meet the responsibility placed upon him as attorney general by present laws and that he will be placed upon him by Congress and by the president in every area, including civil rights."

Manfield, slated to become the Senate's majority leader, said he will urge committees to begin their investigation of the appointment as soon as Congress meets.

Manfield said he recognizes that the younger Kennedy "will be on the spot" not only in confirmation hearings but after he takes office. But he expressed confidence the new president's brother will follow as attorney general but also about the political philosophy of the new administration.

WELCOME

Q. I would like to breed my female Toy Shepherd to an English Pug. Would this be harmful to my dog? Bonnie Kanard of Sterling, Kan.

A. You have good reason to question the safety of such a marriage. A Toy Shepherd's head is long and pointed compared to the square, blunt head of a Pug. The construction of your little dog's pelvis enables her to deliver her own or similar breeds in a natural, safe manner.

I can foresee trouble if she produces a litter of large-headed Pugs. I believe there is enough unplanned, ill-assorted breeding among dogs without human encouragement.

If possible, select a mate of the same breed for your dog, or at least one that bears some physical resemblance. There will be less chance of danger to the mother and it will be far easier to find homes for the puppies.

40 Killed in Munich Air Crash

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—A U.S. Air Force transport plane carrying American students home for Christmas plunged into the heart of Munich today. Police said 50 to 60 persons perished.

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—A U.S. Air Force Convair transport plane plunged into the heart of Munich today killing at least 40 persons, by police count.

The two-engine plane plunged into the busy downtown section of this Bavarian capital—which was crowded with Christmas shoppers—four minutes after take off from Munich-Riem Airport with 20 passengers and crew aboard.

Flying at low altitude and already burning, it knocked off a church steeple and then crashed into a packed streetcar.

Air Force headquarters in London said American students from the U.S. University of Maryland at Munich were believed among those killed.

PARENTS IN ENGLAND

A spokesman said the students would have been dependents of U.S. military personnel stationed in England. The plane carried seven crew members and 13 passengers.

It was the world's second plane crash upon a city in two days. Friday, two planes collided and fell on New York City with a loss of 138 lives.

Police said at least five persons died through Munich's busy downtown section were killed by flying debris.

There were no indications of any survivors from the plane in early reports from the scene.

Dense fog covered windy Munich at the time.

The Air Force in Washington said the plane, attached to the 3rd Air Force, was en route from Wiesbaden to its base at Nordholz, East England.

It crashed four minutes after leaving from the airport.

MITS CHURCH STEEPLE

Witnesses said the plane hit St. Paul's church steeple before crashing. The parish priest of St. Paul's, Father Karl Froehlich, 54, said:

"It was terrible. The burning plane flew very low. It was visibly losing height. It shayed off the steeple and then plunged into a streetcar jammed with passengers."

Other witnesses said they saw the plane disintegrate upon impact.

Conducting Sale Today in City, Orion, Highland

Pontiac Volunteers Hope to Raise Some $2,000 in Drive

Today is the day residents of Pontiac and two other area communities help to insure that their less fortunate neighbors have a merry Christmas.

They are doing so by purchasing Goodfellow editions of The Pontiac Press in the city, Lake Orion, and Highland Township.

The money raised from these sales will be used to provide food and clothing for those in need on Christmas Day.

"No family without a Christmas" is the motto of all Goodfellow newsmen—and their customers.

James R. Lafar, vice president of the Metropolitan Club, Spirit 6, and chairman of Goodfellow sales in Pontiac, said the Pontiac Goodfellow newsmen hope to raise $2,000.

Part of the money will be used to purchase Christmas food baskets, and part will be given to the Salvation Army.

"We'll be on the streets until the last of our 3,000 papers is sold," Lafar said.

VOLUNTEERS IN THE JOB

In Pontiac, the Goodfellows will be stationed at all major intersections in the city—and at Tel-Huron and Miracle Mile Shopping Centers.

Some 50 policemen, firemen, postal employees and Navy reservists are participating.

The Lake Orion Lions Club hopes to have raised $500 at the conclusion of its three-day sale.

A portion of the money will be used to sponsor a Christmas-party program for children Dec. 24, and the rest to purchase 50 food baskets for area needy.

Goodfellow editions are being sold by volunteer firemen in Highland Township. About 20 members of the department will be stationed at all major corners in the township.

George Volker, chairman of the township drive, said a majority of the 800 editions will be sold at the intersections of Duck Lake Road and M59 and Millard Road and M59.

FATAL CRASH IN BROOKLYN—Wreckage of the huge jet assembly dominates this site after an airliner crashed at an intersection in Brooklyn, N.Y., Friday. In the foreground, stretchers

Going to Be Cold Tonight, Sunday

Mostly cloudy with temperatures continuing cold is the outlook for the Pontiac area tonight and Sunday. Tonight's low will dip to near 12 degrees.

Occasional snow flurries and a high of 28 may be expected tomorrow, the weatherman says. Winds northwesterly at 15 to 25 miles per hour will diminish tonight.

Eighteen was the lowest recorded in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. At 1 p.m. the temperature reading was 25.

Experts Completely Mystified

Will Box Hold Key to Air Crash

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A little black box on its way today to the Bureau of Standards here may hold the answer to the mystery of how and why two giant airliners collided over New York City.

The crash-proof box, taken from the United Air Lines DC8 jet that came down in Brooklyn, contains instruments to record the direction, altitude and speed during every minute of the doomed flight.

The government requires all jetliners to carry such recorders.

The other plane in Friday's disaster was a propeller-driven TWA Constellation and therefore was not required to carry a recorder.

The Federal Aviation Agency said the recorder aboard the DC8 had been found and had been ordered sent to Washington so the data could be interpreted by the Bureau of Standards and the manufacturer.

An analysis of the recording may tell how high and in what pattern the jetliner was flying in a snow storm, possibly giving a key to the cause of the crash.

Pending study of the recording, federal air safety experts, airline officials and pilots were completely mystified about the cause of the accident.

Theoretically, such a collision not only is unlikely, but virtually impossible. It involved two planes making approaches to two different airports—on approach patterns supposedly separated by several miles.

Both planes were on instruments, under control from the ground and under radar surveillance. There is less danger of collision under these conditions than flying on a clear day.

Airliners flying into any of New York's three airports—Newark, LaGuardia and New York International (Idlewild)—are under the jurisdiction of the Midwest Air Traffic Control Center.

This jurisdiction ends, however, at a point approximately 35 miles from New York.

There the planes are "handed off" to the approach controller of whichever airport they are headed for, and follow approach patterns designed to keep them safely apart.

The DC8 was making its approach under guidance of Idlewild approach control. The TWA plane was under LaGuardia approach control. The distance separating them should have been about five miles.

Radar approach scopes at LaGuardia and Idlewild have a thin vertical line etched right on the scope.

The line marks the boundary of each airport's approach corridor, and radar operators are supposed to advise any plane that strays toward that line.

N.Y. Crash Toll Up to 136 as Intense Probe Starts

FROM OUR NEWS WIRE

NEW YORK—An imposing team of aviation investigators today began meshing their findings in an intense effort to find the cause of the world's worst plane disaster.

It appeared jet-age traffic control for all America's cities might be guided by the outcome.

The inquiry brought into action the largest group of Civil Aeronautics Board experts ever assembled.

They met in the Federal Building at Idlewild Airport to share notes, after a night of labor combing through wreckage, radio communication records and other material hunting a clue to Friday's double airliner tragedy.

Two incoming planes, one a jet, collided killing at least 136 persons, 127 of them aboard the planes.

As the crash detectives gathered, G. Joseph Minetti, of the CAB, said the probes are working in separate groups on every aspect of the accident—"operations, structure, human factors, power plant and weather study groups."

The investigators still were analyzing the tapes of recorded conversations between various control towers and pilots of the two doomed planes—a United Air Lines DC8 jet and a Trans World Airlines four-engine Constellation.

The jet fell in Brooklyn, where emergency workers were digging through heaps of debris, both from the shattered plane and gouged buildings. The TWA craft broke apart in the air, its fragments scattered on Eastern States Island.

Normal procedure is for inbound planes to be assigned by control towers to different altitudes, and differently timed approaches, to keep them safely separated.

MAZE OF AIR TRAFFIC

The sky above the city is a maze of air traffic, flying in and out of three metropolitan airports. And among the big questions being studied by the investigators were these:

What altitudes had been assigned to the ill-fated planes? Were these altitudes changed as they approached? What time separations had been given them? Were their altitudes and compasses working?

A dense, snow-cowering overcast draped the city at the time, and planes presumably were operating on instruments. The jet was headed for Idlewild Airport, the TWA plane for La Guardia Airport, 10 miles away.

Specialists of the Federal Aviation Agency joined the CAB men in the all-out probe.

The jet plane crashed into a book of incense-burners in the heart of Brooklyn, setting death and destruction in the neighborhood.

Merchants Say Yule Sales Up

Gain of 2 to 26 Pct. Over Last Year Seen; Good Selections Left

Christmas sales in Pontiac area stores are surpassing those of last year, which was considered a good sales season, merchants agreed almost unanimously today. Estimates of the gain run from 2 to 26 per cent at various stores contacted so far.

"There is no doubt about it, we are doing better this year in Pontiac," said President of the Downtown Merchants Association, Clifford Growgrol, who manages Walte's Department Store. "I think it is going to be a highly successful holiday season."

He noted that there is still a "good selection of merchandise stocked in downtown stores," with six shopping days remaining until Christmas.

He credited this to local merchants and their suppliers keeping on their toes in maintaining a steady flow of stock coming into the stores.

Today is expected to see the heaviest flow of shoppers in the pre-Christmas rush. Next Saturday, the day before Christmas, will be devoted to last-minute purchases.

Nonessentials, or luxury items, are selling well, according to (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

ROBERT MCEACHERN

One Crash Victim From Michigan

NEW YORK (AP)—One person from Michigan died in Friday's tragic airliner collision here. The lone survivor, a young boy, also has relatives in Michigan.

Killed was Robert McEachern, a student at Ohio State University from Cass City in the Thumb area. McEachern, son of Mrs. Fred McEachern of Cass City, was aboard the TWA airliner.

The only survivor was 11-year-old Stephen Balts of Wilmette, Ill., a Chicago suburb. He is the grandson of Mrs. W. D. Balts of Grand Haven, Mich.

An uncle, Russell Balts, operates a Grand Haven summer resort hotel.

Stephen's grandmother said: "He's alive, that's what counts. And he's going to be all right."

The uncle is in Florida for the winter.

Also among those who perished was Robert F. McCauliff, 36, of Paxton, Mass. He was a sales engineer for the Reynolds Wire Division of National Standard Co., Niles, Mich. He was the father of six.

Your Neighbor's House

Expanding Old Home—Not Moving— Gave Clem Snarrs a New House

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Today's house was a sleeper. Several years ago one of the Clem Snarrs' neighbors on Lower Straits Lake told us what an interesting job had been done on their house. At that time we talked with Mrs. Snarr, but illness in her family prevented our getting together.

Last month we made an appointment to take a few pictures, thinking we were doing just another summer home expansion job. Instead we came out with today's story.

About 5 years ago the Snarrs and their two children, moved to North Shores from Detroit. Davey, now 20, and Roy who's 16, were in school. Two years later, in December of '57, Sherry was born.

The Snarrs loved their neighborhood, loved living at the lake. But their house was too small, one night — just casually — they drew rough plans on a piece of paper taweling at the house they really wanted.

The happy ending of the story is that when they took these plans to an architect, he changed only the pitch of the roof over the new front door. Clem Snarr started the work of building over and around the old house in late summer. On Thanksgiving the family had dinner in the new living room. Snarr did all his own work except the roofing.

Before rebuilding the house was 26 by 32, now it is 42 by 36. The job shopped out is 186 feet on the front, 91 feet on the rear and 105 feet deep.

Just inside the front door is a coat closet, at the right. At the left there are two steps down into the large living room. Except for the area in front of the fireplace, the floor is carpeted in black and white. The fireplace is a deep pink. The drop ceiling is white. The gray Roman brick of the fireplace extends all the way across the end wall and a short distance on the side walls.

At one side of the fireplace is a planter, on the other side there's a fountain. Spot lights in the ceiling point to these features. The floor has black and white tiles on it.

Under the front picture window there is a curved sectional sofa upholstered in pink with a white floral. On the wall opposite the window is a long gray wood sofa. There's a matching lounge chair. Lamps are tall and white.

In front of the fireplace is a pink and white picnic table in the shape of the letter S. Around it on the floor are TV cushions. Two steps up toward the back of the house and you're in the recreation room. Here the walls are paneled in African Korina wood. The floor is corkstone tile while the ceiling has striated squares of Welton on it. Draperies have a flowering branch design on them.

This room (it's unbeated and usable only in summer) has a corrugated fiberglass roof. All interior woodwork is painted pink. Around the outside, underneath the screens, are brick panter boxes.

The bricks in these planters and in the fireplace are handmade concrete split bricks.

But back to the kitchen.

Floor and counter tops are gray. The walls are white and the three tiers of ruffled curtains blue. The ceiling is heavenly blue. The same heavenly blue is used for the cupboard frames; cupboard doors are natural birch. The breakfast set is yellow and white.

The Snarrs' bedroom has off-white walls and white curtains. This used to be the living room. Furniture is bleached mahogany. The bedspread is white with gold quilting. Three scarlet throw pillows make a dramatic spot of color in the room.

THREE YEARS AGO — This is the Clem Snarr house as it was when the Snarrs moved here from Detroit five years ago. When they enlarged this 28x32 home, they built over and around the original structure. The former living room is now a bedroom; the garage is a recreation room.

BUILT-IN STORAGE — Snarr built these plywood cabinets in one corner of the utility room. The lower one has a white Formica top; the Snarrs use it for buffet dinners. Walls in here are pale green with lighter green sheer curtains. A door from this room leads to the back yard where Sherry has a screened playhouse.

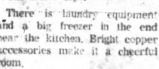

SHERRY WATCHES — Sherry celebrated his third birthday yesterday. She's shown here on her TV seat. In the background you can see the fireplace with its fountain and planter. This area has black and white tile on the floor. The brick is gray. While the table behind Sherry is pink and white, the others are light wood. Two poles at the left make a visual divider in this room.

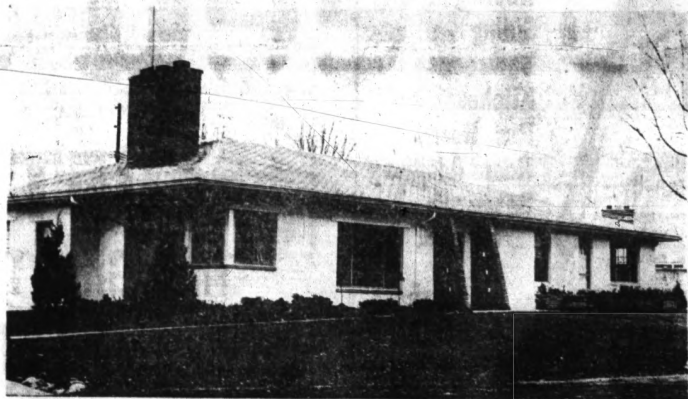

UTILITY ROOM — A big L-shaped utility room separates the living area of the house from the kitchen. At the end nearest the recreation room is a door opens into a long hall that leads to the children's bedrooms and a bath.

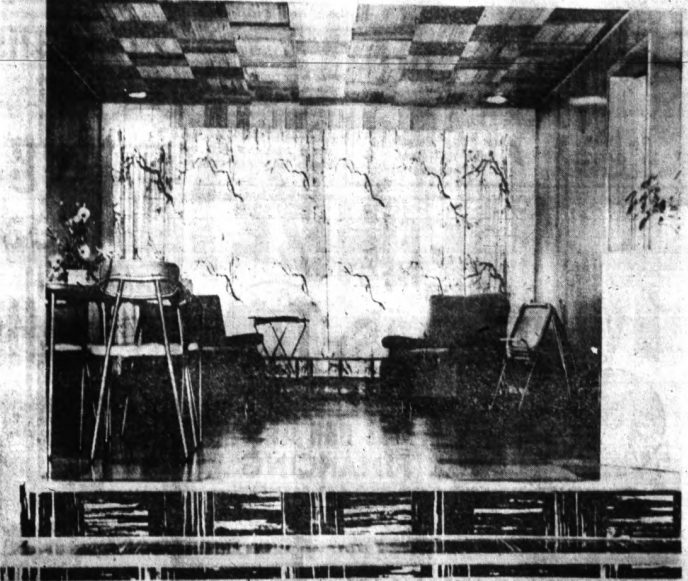

KITCHEN — Part of this room was the old sun porch; the rest was built over. Walls are pale green. At the window there are sheer curtains in an even pink shade of green. The floor is beige.

DIFFERENT ENTRANCE — The entrance way is raised two steps above the living room. There is a wrought iron railing along one side. The lounge chair matches the pink and silver.

EXPANDED HOUSE — This is the Clem Snarr home on Adele Terrace at Lower Straits Lake. The exterior is white block. Chimneys and walls at each side of the entrance are gray brick. Trim is pink. Snarr did all the work of enlarging the house except the roof.

RECREATION ROOM — Two steps up from the living room is the recreation room. This used to be the garage. Walls are paneled in African Korina. The floor is corkstone tile. Draperies are beige with brown, pink and white in the design. The chairs have coral colored slipcovers.

The consumption of frozen vegetables has increased by about 1,200 per cent in the past few years.

RAISED RANCH — Here's another example of the new style which may eventually take a place alongside the split-level and standard ranch in residential architecture. This one has six rooms upstairs and the possibility of either three more or a rental apartment downstairs.

This Is Old Stuff

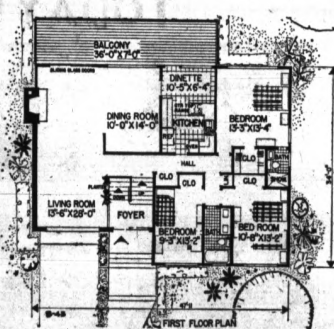

The first ceramic tile was used to surface walls around 70 centuries ago, but just when it was discovered is not known exactly. Some anthropologists say that early man may have discovered how firm his footprints in river mud became after being dried in the sun. This suggested to him that certain clays could be shaped and baked to make all sorts of useful items.

GROUND FLOOR PLAN
LOWER LEVEL, FAMILY OPTION — Large play room features lower level in house built for one-family use.

ALTERNATE GROUND FLOOR — FAMILY UNIT.
LOWER LEVEL, APARTMENT OPTION — Two bedroom apartment fits in with no crowding. Note the separate side entrance for tenants.

UPPER LEVEL PLAN — The long 28-foot living room and spacious rear balcony insure an abundance of entertainment space.

B-43 Statistics

Six rooms upstairs and another three downstairs make this raised ranch ideal for a big and boisterous family. If desired, the lower level can be arranged as a rental apartment, adding to the family income without removing any essential living conveniences. Overall dimensions are 47' 11" by 34'. Living area on the upper level is 1,480 sq. ft. The lower level adds 945 sq. ft., not including the single car garage.

Tile Is Stable

One of the most important qualifications for a building material is the ability to withstand expansion and contraction caused by changes in temperature. This is called dimensional stability. An example of an extremely stable material is ceramic tile, "fixed" at temperatures as high as 2,000° F during the manufacturing process.

Raised Ranch Style Gives More Usable Rooms

By DAVID L. BOWEN

The raised ranch made its first appearance in House of the Week almost a year ago. Since that time there have been half-dozen examples of the style in this series of home plans and increasing national attention to the new form.

Its popularity is reaching the point where some enthusiasts believe "raised ranch" may eventually make a threesome of the Big Two of post-war residential architecture — split-level and ranch.

In case you get in late, the raised ranch is essentially a ranch home raised high enough to make livable space out of what used to be basement. Its primary advantage is that it provides a guest room, a laundry area and a third complete bath.

A hobby room which has been designed for adult use can be furnished as a dark-room for the amateur photographer, as a workshop for the do-it-yourself projects, or as an office for the professional or business man.

The alternate ground floor is designed for the family desiring additional income from a rental unit such as the two-bedroom apartment shown. This apartment has its private entrance at the side of the house and can be built to be completely independent of the upstairs living unit.

Exterior materials were chosen with maintenance as well as appearance in mind. The upper level has a covering of vertical siding which can be stained to accentuate the wood grain or painted to suit.

The lower level is of brick veneer which provides contrast of color and texture. The roof is of white asphalt shingle to reflect sunlight and give the house a clean and light appearance.

Sump Pump Saves Your Equipment

For the protection of your oil burner, washing machine and recreation room, you would be smart to install a sump pump or cellar drainer.

The pump is put into a well or sump to which surplus water in the basement drains. The pump is equipped with a float valve which starts the motor automatically when the water in the sump reaches the danger point. The pump continues to operate until all water has been drained from the sump.

Householders who have basement water problems are advised to consult an experienced plumbing contractor about the best type of pump.

New Liquid Takes on Job Sandpaper Once Did

You no longer have to spend time and energy sandpapering new wood to clean and prepare it for paint, stain or a clear finish. The Bull Dog Corp., 33 Day Street, Jersey City 6, N.J., has introduced a new product, BULL DOG HOLD TITE Sanding Liquid, that does all the work for you.

Applied with a cloth, HOLD TITE removes dirt, grease, sand and heel marks, pencil and crayon marks, etc. Easier and quicker to use than sandpaper, it does not raise the grain nor alter the texture of the wood surface and is ideal for use on plywoods and laminates.

The natural insulating value of wood is extraordinary. One inch of wood equals six inches of brick or 12 inches of sandstone or concrete as an insulator.

A hinged refreshment bar that can be pushed flush against the wall when not in use can be built by following details in an available free plan. Another feature of the plan is a two-way plumbing wall, which enables the home handyman to utilize common water supply lines in building a lowest powder room on the opposite side of a divider wall.

The walls, bar, lavatory and sink counters shown in the free plan are covered with plastic-surfaced Melite, which can be cleaned with a damp cloth.

A copy of the free plan showing how to build the bar-powder room can be obtained by writing a postal to the Service Bureau, Marsh Wall Products, Inc., Dover, O., requesting Plan 101.

ready filled. This new vermiculite insulation is the first of its kind that can be used in existing block or brick cavity walls. Work was done by Bonded Insulation Company of Pontiac.

Sump Pump Offers Flood Protection

The installation of a sump pump or cellar drainer as a protection against flooded basements is recommended. This type of a pump is made especially for the purpose of keeping basements dry.

The pump is located in a well or sump to which surplus water in the basement drains. The pump is equipped with a float valve which starts the motor automatically when the water in the sump reaches the danger point. The pump continues to operate until all the water has been drained from the sump.

Sump pumps are made in various sizes to meet varying load requirements. Homeowners who have basement water problems are advised to consult with an experienced plumbing contractor who will be glad to recommend the type of pump which will best serve the purpose, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

Protection against flooded basements is more essential today than ever before because of the possibility of damage to motors used with oil burners and automatic laundry machines. The general use of the basement for recreation and hobbies also points to the need for flood protection.

Also available as a means of providing further protection against the reverse flow of sewage during heavy storms is an automatically operated backwater valve. This valve is installed in the pipe leading to the sewer. When the sewer starts to close, the valve automatically closes.

Insulate Block With New Fill

For the first time it is possible to insulate existing masonry walls such as concrete block or brick cavity walls. A patented type of vermiculite that is water-repellent filters down through the blocks much in the same way sand flows through an hour glass.

Tests have shown that up to 50 per cent less heat is transmitted through walls insulated with this new fill. Both heating and cooling costs are reduced.

The vermiculite which is specially treated and processed to resist moisture penetration is made by the Zonolite Company of Chicago.

Custom Made Divider

A perfect room divider is a built-in seating unit, framed to take standard-sized bottom and back cushions, with the upper part of the back developing into an open bookcase. This unit can look like an expensive piece of furniture when finished in natural, beige-toned west coast hemlock.

Acoustical Aluminum Ceiling Now Available

A residential version of a commercial acoustical-aluminum ceiling has been introduced for the do-it-yourselfer. It's a suspended ceiling system, assembled from interlocking "tee" members on a two-foot-by-two-foot, or two-foot-by-four-foot module. Tabs on the ends of the intersecting tees are locked into place with a special tool to assure rapid assembly and high tool strength.

A prefabricated strap suspends the aluminum grid from any existing ceiling. Panels are then dropped into the modules to complete the project. Provisions for light fixtures are also designed into the system.

Bathroom Trellis Holds Towels Handsomely

NEW YORK (UPI)—A new four-foot high towel trellis with two hinged sections is both a handy and handsome bathroom accessory. It can serve as a screen or divider or will fit neatly in a corner.

The trellis, available with a chrome or brass finish, has five cross bars per section, providing ample room for a family-sized quantity of towels and washcloths.

Seat in Square Tub

A new "square" bathtub has an integral corner seat as well as a seat on the wide front rim. The bathtub is 14 inches high and measures 48 x 42. The corner seat is convenient when taking a foot bath and is also adaptable to a sitting shower, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out. The wide rim seat makes cleaning of the entire bathtub easy from a sitting position.

Wood Rates Best as Good Insulator

Why is wood, a good insulator against heat, cold and sound? Why is it recommended for home construction for studding, sheathing and siding?

A section of wood, seen through a microscope, reveals not only countless separate cells that form its structure, but a myriad of tiny air spaces, as well, which provide the barrier against heat and cold and even sound.

One inch of wood like Douglas fir, west coast hemlock or western red cedar is worth in insulating value six inches of brick and a foot of concrete. That is why wood is so popular as a building material for the nation's housing industry.

No More Drips

The dripping faucet, the historic bugaboo of many homes, has been made obsolete by the development of new types of valve units which can be slipped in or out of faucets and valves easily and quickly. The new faucet opens and closes with an easy up and down movement which presses the seat washer firmly against the seat.

EXPANSIBLE - Concrete panels are stored on racks after pouring, foreground, and then lifted into place with a crane. Partially completed wall at right provides a before and after view.

The size of the panels, 5 1/2-inches thick and up to 20 feet wide and 12 feet high, is indicated by the men. Elka expects to occupy this new stainless steel sink plant on or about December 1.

Concrete Panels Used to Enlarge Factory

An "expandable" factory designed to provide a growing company with a ready means of enlargement is presently under construction in the Chicago suburb of Broadview, Ill., by the Elka Manufacturing Company.

Elka, the nation's largest and oldest manufacturer of stainless steel sinks, presently operates two other plants in the Chicago area, one in Cicero, Ill., and one in Summit, Ill. The Summit plant, also "expandable," measured 45,000 square feet at its building in 1952 and was enlarged to 75,000 square feet by 1958.

The "expandable" construction

consists of structural steel framework covered by concrete panels poured at the site, tilted into place and clip-bolted onto steel columns. To enlarge the plant, additional framework is run out to the desired perimeter. The bare sides created by this telescopic-like expansion are covered with new panels and the area is roofed.

After a floor has been poured, the original end-panels are unclipped, moved to the new position, and clip-bolted into place. In this way the factory can be expanded as desired at a minimum of cost and with a minimum of shut-down time.

When completed, this new Elka plant will be the largest ever built for the sole purpose of producing stainless steel sinks. The initial structure will cost over $1 million and will provide 100,000 square feet of office and factory space. The "expandable" construction and a 30-acre site create an enlargement potential up to another 150,000 square feet of factory space. Occupancy is expected on or about December 1.

Design and construction of this new Elka plant, located at 2700 Seventeenth Avenue in the suburb is by the Abell-Hove Company of Forest Park, Ill., and Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Project manager for Abell-Hove is William W. Garton. COSTS LESS

The cost of erecting the "expandable" concrete-panel walls is approximately three-fourths the cost of conventional masonry construction, according to Mr. Garton. The cost of moving and reinstalling these walls, he says, is only one-fourth the cost of tearing down and rebuilding a similar masonry wall.

The panels are 5 1/2 inches thick and up to 20 feet wide and 12 feet high. These are poured in forms at the site on a concrete floor which is coated with a solution to keep the panel from adhering to it. The panels contain reinforcing mesh to prevent shrinkage or cracking. They are of 3000-pound stress concrete.

A crane lifts the panels into place where they are fastened by bolting steel plate clips to the panels and behind flanges on the steel I-beams. A slight gap between the panels is filled with a neoprene rubber seal. This both seals the wall and absorbs the natural expansion and contraction movement of the panels.

One Fixture Needed in Each Living Area

Each room in your home should have at least one light fixture controlled by a wall switch, the American Home Lighting Institute said.

The fixture can be a ceiling type wall bracket, the pancel, or it can be built-in cove lighting. Where a room has more than one entrance, there should be a switch at each entrance.

SPACE STRETCHER - Tiny bathroom gets needed storage space when cubbies are built under and around wash basin. One "cupboard" is actually a clothes hamper, designed like a flower bin. Built-in are in tawny beige Douglas fir, finished clear with protective plastic lacquer.

Ask any architect who has had the greatest influence on American dwelling styles and the shape of the country's buildings in this century and, invariably, the answer is Frank Lloyd Wright.

This late, famed architect had a vast impact on the society in which he lived. His words were respected. When you read the following quotation from one of his lectures, you understand the depth of understanding of the man and why he had such great force during his life.

"Wood is a friend of mine," said Wright in commenting on his ideas on how a home should be designed. "The best friend of man on earth is the tree. When we use the tree respectfully and economically, we have one of the great resources of the earth. It is a beautiful material, friendly to man, the supreme material for his dwelling purposes."

"If a man is going to live," Wright concluded, "he should live with wood."

Do you have to wait for hot water when you turn on the hot water faucet?

Long waits for hot water can be avoided by the use of circulating system. This consists of a loop of pipe between the water heater and the individual fixtures. With a circulating system the hot water is constantly in circulation between the water heater and the fixtures. Thus hot water is immediately available at the turn of a faucet.

A circulating system is especially desirable in a house with two or more bathrooms or a ranch type house that covers a large area.

A circulating system not only offers the advantage of instant hot water, but it also effects a saving in fuel to heat the water. Without a circulating system it is necessary to let the water run from the hot water faucet until hot water is available. This wastes water and fuel.

The Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau points out that if a circulating system were applied to all domestic hot water installations, the saving in water and in fuel, on a city-wide basis, would be substantial.

The Bureau also calls attention to the importance of thorough insulation of the hot water piping. This is desirable irrespective of whether the system is circulating or not.

Householders who wish further information on modern methods of supplying domestic hot water are invited to get in touch with an experienced plumbing contractor.

Do Beams First

Often ceiling beams are left exposed and are stained and varnished while the adjacent ceiling is painted. Here's the easy way to do such jobs. The beams should be finished first, then the ceiling. It's easier to cut-in the edges on the horizontal ceiling than on the vertical beams.

Heat in Patio Floor

Want to use your outdoor patio in the spring and autumn? An-conda heating specialists report that rust-proof copper tubes can be embedded in the concrete flooring of the patio and hot water circulated through them to literally "heat the outdoors." This heating system, an adaptation of radiant panel heating, keeps a sheltered patio comfortable even when the temperature goes down as low as 35 degrees.

Arms Proposals Smother U. N.

Little Hope of Headway
With 3 Days to Act on 14 Different Plans

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — With recess time only three days off, the United Nations acts today to dispose of the 14 disarmament proposals cluttering its agenda. But there was little prospect of breaking the East-West arms deadlock.

The Political Committee was expected to shelve at least half of the arms resolutions in view of the mounting cry against voting on any controversial plan that would merely aggravate East or West.

The committee will vote only on resolutions dealing with such subjects as suspending nuclear tests and preventing the spread of nuclear weapons.

This will mean sidetracking the rival U. S. and Soviet arms plans. A Polish resolution on nuclear bases, and an Indian blueprint for setting up principles of agreement on disarmament.

The only plan of this type to be considered is Canada's proposal to reactivate the 1946 disarmament Commission. This plan would also set up one committee to act as watchdog over future East-West arms talks and another to provide expert advice to the negotiators. The United States is expected to support the Canadian plan.

New Broom Necessary Part of Rita's Wardrobe

NEW YORK — Rita Gam, practices witchcraft, this London paper said.

"MY Rita Gam?" I wondered. You mean to tell me that the black-haired, big-eyed TV beauty who was Grace Kelly's matron-of-honor, who used to be Mrs. Sidney Lumet and then married young publisher Tom Guinzberg, who portrayed Salome's mother in "The King of Kings," is an old-but, of course, I mean a young witch? That Rita Gam?

"Naturally, that Rita Gam," a cool voice said. "How many Rita Gams you think there are? You making a federal case out of this?"

"Oh, hello, Rita," I stammered, for it was the witch speaking. I felt a sudden chill, as you are supposed to upon meeting a witch. We were sitting near the door in a restaurant and customers were streaming in and out, causing a draught.

"What do witches drink?" I inquired.

"This one likes vodka!" the witch raucously replied. "That's how I work my witchcraft. You see, I'm not a bad witch. I'm a good witch."

"But how did you become a witch?" I persisted.

"I went to one of those witches in New England who divine for water and she said 'You're my daughter. Go home and work on it.' It's like willing things to happen.

"Anyway, I stare at the candle—it's gotta be a bayberry candle—and I do incantations and I try to will something to happen. Like now I'm trying to will myself to do a comedy instead of a serious picture. By will power I grew long fingernails. Have you ever peeled grapes with long finger nails?"

I confessed I hadn't.

"It's very sexy," the old witch muttered into her vodka. "Listen here," she said, "you're not taking this witchcraft very seriously. It's sort of like analysis, you know. Acting is sort of like witchcraft, too."

"One more thing," Rita said. "What are you doing next Halloween night?"

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . .

"DON'T PRINT THAT!" Tony Curtis' $26,000 Rolls Royce is a prop in his new film. Secret Service guards, being run ragged trailing Sen. Kennedy, figure he'll "slimmer down" in about a month . . . Raymond Massey's stepdaughter Dorothy makes her screen debut in "Breakfast at Tiffany's" . . .

Frank Lovejoy explains why he became an actor: "When I was a kid I heard that show business was the only place where you could drink, meet pretty girls and sleep late. What other business offers as much?"

EARL'S PEARLS: A local fellow sighs that his wife's been driving for years, and still thinks the "B" on the gas gauge means "Enough."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Do you remember when you could fix a chair with a length of wire? Today a chair is a length of wire.

Dick Van Dyke tells of the hippopotamus who went to a psychiatrist about his problems. Seems he didn't mind being a hippo—he just couldn't stand being married to one . . . That's earl, brother.

Would-Be Killer of Jack Jailed

Enraged at 'Frame-Up' Traffic Charge Used to Arrest Him

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — A fat, cheerful, white-haired little man who planned to make a "human bomb" of himself to assassinate President-Elect John Kennedy was brought to jail here Friday night.

Richard Paul Pavlick, 73, of Belmont, N. H., who looks more like a humanitarian than an assassin, told newspapermen he plans to plead guilty to a federal charge of threatening the life of a president-elect. But he was enraged at the phony traffic charge used by Palm Beach police to arrest him.

"It was a frame-up," said Pavlick who bragged that he had been driving for 31 years and never had a ticket.

Pavlick, who said he once had himself assigned to a mental institution because of "depression," said he felt that Kennedy's wealth bought him the election and "I wanted to teach the United States that the presidency is not for sale."

If Vice President Richard Nixon had been elected, Pavlick said, he would have gone after Teamster Union President James R. Hoffa with his dynamite.

Pavlick said he "looked over" the Kennedy home at Hyannis Port, Mass., followed Kennedy to Washington, and then took a motel room about four miles north of the town.

Wants Missiles to Be Readied

Atlantic Defense Chiefs
Weigh Herter's Request
About Polaris Weapon

PARIS (AP)—Defense chiefs of the 15-nation Atlantic alliance to weigh American proposals to arm the West with seagoing Polaris missiles to counter growing Soviet threats.

The future military posture of the alliance was considered in the light of Friday's proposal by U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter that a massive force of Polaris missiles be readied off Europe's shores.

Herter proposed the alliance finance 100 Polaris missiles to be bolstered by five U. S. nuclear submarines carrying 16 Polaris missiles each. He suggested this added force might allow the withdrawal of some American troops from Europe without weakening NATO.

Although the United States would control the nuclear warheads, the missile force is intended to be under NATO control.

The discussion of the Polaris was renewed by the defense chiefs at the second day of NATO's annual top-level review.

The day began with a disquieting intelligence estimate of Soviet strength read by French Gen. Andre Beaufre, chairman of the top-level French - English-American standing group that makes NATO military policy.

Although the report was delivered behind locked doors and is classified, informed sources said

Requests Campaign on Smut in Michigan

LANSING (AP)—The legislature will be asked next year to press a campaign against distribution of obscene literature and pornographic materials in Michigan.

Rep. Harry A. DeMasso (R-Battle Creek) said he would ask the house to revive his committee, which conducted a 4½ hour hearing Friday on the problem of obscene materials and how to cope with it.

Roger L. Scherer, Battle Creek distributor, called for utilization of existing legislation aimed at curbing objectionable publications before trying to write new legislation.

He said he personally would test a law which permits a prosecuting attorney to ask for a court order to prohibit sale of materials he considers obscene until the issue is settled in the courts.

Truman, Hoover to Ride in Inaugural Parade

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Herbert Hoover have accepted President-Elect John F. Kennedy's invitation to ride in his inaugural parade Jan. 20.

Edward H. Foley, chairman of the inaugural committee, said yesterday the ex-presidents would attend the inaugural and ride in a car behind Kennedy. Truman will be accompanied by his wife. President Eisenhower was expected to leave for his Gettysburg, Pa., farm, immediately after Kennedy is sworn in.
