U.S. Orders Boost in Guided Missile Production

Chief Executive, Family Enjoy Holiday Feast

Reports of excellent recovery progress cheered both the President and his family, and they arranged a holiday get-together at the White House. Traditional turkey was on the dinner menu.

"It is quite obvious he is like a caged lion," Vice President Nixon told a White House news conference last night after he had talked with the convalescing President. Nixon added Eisenhower is "champing at the bit" to get back to work full time."

And then, responding to a question, the vice president added: "I have no reason whatever to believe that the President is considering or will consider resigning.

"After having seen him, after having talked also to his doctor, I am convinced . . . that his recovery is sure, and that it may very well be even sooner than would normally be the case . . .

"And I would say that so far as the President himself is concerned, there was no hint at all of resigning, and there has also been no discussion whatever, here at the meetings which I have attended, of the President finding it necessary to resign because of this temporary disability which he has suffered."

The doctors said Tuesday Eisenhower must get several weeks of rest and be restricted to substantially decreased activity. They sized up chances for his complete recovery as excellent.

The President already is up and around a good deal at the White House. He handled a light round of work from his living quarters yesterday. He is doing an oil painting from a photograph of young Princess Anne, daughter of Queen Elizabeth II of England.

Eisenhower also visited for 10 minutes or so in his living quarters with King Mohammed V of Morocco. It was shortly after he welcomed the King at the airport Monday that he developed a chill and went to bed.

The illness later was diagnosed as a cerebral occlusion or brain artery blockage. That is known in nonmedical language as a slight stroke.

At his news conference, Nixon said he concluded at his visit with Eisenhower that "mental clarity was just as sharp as ever —I can say that categorically."

As for the speech difficulty which the doctors have reported is a result of his seizure, Nixon had this to say, when asked whether

Los Angeles to N. Y. and Back Takes Only 6 Hours, 42 Minutes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A crew-cut Air Force captain flying a swept-wing Voodoo jet has set a new speed record by flashing across the country and back in less than seven hours.

Capt. Robert Sweet, 30, Barronett, Wis., was among four Air Force fliers who made a mass assault yesterday on three records held by the Navy. All bettered the Navy marks.

Sweet zoomed his twin - jet RF101 Voodoo across the finish line at nearby March Air Force Base, pulled up into a lazy slow roll and then came in for a perfect landing on the sunlit runway.

His time: 6 hours, 42 minutes and 6.7 seconds.

This bettered the Navy record of 9 hours and 31 minutes, set last March by an A3D fighter - bomber.

Records set in the Tactical Air Command speed dash:

Los Angeles to New York—3 hours, 5 minutes and 39.2 seconds, by 1st Lt. Gustav Klatt, 28, San Marcos, Tex. Old record: 3 hours 22 minutes.

New York to Los Angeles — 3 hours, 34 minutes and 8 seconds, by Capt. Sweet. Old record: 5 hours, 14 minutes.

Round trip — Capt. Sweet.

Sweet, who averaged 716 m.p.h., hit a top speed of 1,000 m.p.h. just before he landed when headwinds suddenly stopped.

Speed Program to Overtake Russia's Lead

Expect Thor, Jupiter Will Be Available in Another Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, striving to catch up with Russia in medium range missiles, has ordered two rival types into production. The goal is to have them ready for use in another year.

The Senate Preparedness subcommittee, to which Secretary of Defense McElroy made the announcement at a hearing yesterday, welcomed it as "good news" and termed McElroy a man "with both the power and the willingness to act."

McElroy ended an Army - Air Force deadlock with his announcement of production orders for both the Army Jupiter and the Air Force Thor.

Both are intermediate range ballistic missiles with a range up to 1,500 miles.

Vice President Nixon told a news conference President Eisenhower had tentatively decided on that action, and a group of eight officials made it final.

"It is now clear," McElroy said, "that while neither of the missiles can be regarded as having completed its development phase, they are both at a point at which we believe we can . . . program additional production for operational purposes."

Whatever new money will be needed to speed their production will be asked of Congress when it meets in January, McElroy said, adding: "By making use of the production capacity now available for both . . . an operational capability can be achieved by the end of 1958 in the United Kingdom.

They will be spotted in other countries when necessary arrangements are made.

At Redstone Arsenal near Huntsville, Ala., where the Jupiter was developed, Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris said the arsenal's production facilities will be used to meet early requirements.

Army spokesmen in Washington indicated production would gradually be shifted to the Warren, Mich., plant of the Chrysler Corp., which now produces the shorter range Redstone missile.

An Air Force spokesman said limited production of the Thor has been under way for some time at the Douglas Aircraft Co. But he added that it would be "pre-

Man, 102, Quits His Job of Hiking About Country

SUNOL, Calif. (AP) —Tom Wauhab, a rancher, quit his job of hiking and riding through 11 miles of rugged country to check precipitation because it's getting to be "a little too much."

Wauhab, still an active cowhand on the Alameda County ranch of his son, Tom Jr., informed the San Francisco Water Dept. yesterday he'd had enough.

Wauhab will be 102 tomorrow. He has performed the part time job for 85 years for $24 annually.

Her Culinary Art, Clever Pen Won Holiday for U. S.

Thank Sarah Hale for Thanksgiving

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Feature Writer

Housewives slaving over a hot oven will never believe it, but the idea for making Thanksgiving a national holiday came from a suffragette editor who campaigned all her life to set women free.

Had she envisioned the kitchen bondage that Thanksgiving brought about for her fellow females, militant feminist Sarah Josepha Hale, might have dropped the whole thing in favor of one of her many other causes.

During her 40 years as editor of Godey's Lady's Magazine, a sort of Early American Vogue, she strode the journalistic ramparts in behalf of women's colleges, old sailors' homes, free public playgrounds, day nurseries and missionary funds for "heathen lands."

But no cause gripped Editor Hale like the cause of Thanksgiving.

"We have too few holidays," she wrote in 1827. "Thanksgiving like the Fourth of July should be a national festival observed by all our people . . . as an exponent of our republican institutions."

That was the opening gun. For the next 35 years, Sarah pestered presidents and governors and congressmen with all her editorial skill.

KEPT CAUSE ALIVE

While firing off spirited, impassioned letters to Presidents Fillmore, Pierce, Buchanan and Lincoln, she kept the cause alive on the home front with tempting Thanksgiving menus, like "ham soaked in cider for three weeks stuffed with sweet potatoes and baked in maple syrup," but always insisted that roast turkey and pumpkin pie were "an indispensable part of a good and true Yankee thanksgiving."

The Pilgrims, of course, got the ball rolling at Plymouth in 1621, the autumn after the Mayflower landed, when as colonist Edward Winslow reported: "Our harvest being gotten in, our governor sent four men on fowling so that we might in a more special manner rejoyce together."

Of the 101 passengers who arrived on the Mayflower, only 55 lived long enough to sit down to the first Thanksgiving dinner. The survivors had suffered cold, hunger and disease, had been terrified by Indians and frightened near out of their wits by wolves.

Although there were only five adult women on hand to do the cooking, the first Thanksgiving feast actually lasted three days and included dishes that ranged from turkey, deer, lobster and clams to watercress salad, baked Indian pudding and two varieties of wine and Holland beer.

NO PUMPKIN PIE

Pumpkin pie didn't make the original menu because the Pilgrims had not yet learned what to do with this outsized vegetable.

The Dutch on Manhattan Island held a "Thanks Day" in 1644, but had trouble setting an annual date because British settlers in the Hamptons on Long Island insisted that it be held on the first Thursday after the cattle were driven home from the common pasture at Montauk.

Thursday seems to have been a favorite day, but most of the early Thanksgivings were held at various seasons of the year, usually to celebrate specific events like the arrival of a ship or new baby, a victory over the Indians, who by now had dropped off the guest list, and the accession of William and Mary to the throne.

Seventh Grader From Hungary Very Grateful

DALLAS (AP) — Mrs. Frank Reeves gave her seventh graders at St. Edwards Academy a simple assignment yesterday: She wanted one paragraph on why we should be especially grateful on Thanksgiving Day.

One said, "I thank God for my good parents and the free and happy new life in the United States, the freedom of religion, the nice schools and teachers in this wonderful country. I learn here many new things. I thank also to God for the food and clothing. This is my first Thanksgiving Day."

It was written by Imre Kocsis, 12, a Hungarian refugee laboring with a language he started to learn only last February.

Final Touches for Saturday's Parade

Pontiac Press Photo

THIS GOES ON TOP — These members of the Orchard Lake Presbyterian Church, 5171 Commerce Rd., have been busy putting the finishing touches on their float which will be in Saturday's "Christmas On Wheels" parade. Designed by Mr. and Mrs. William J. David of 2345 Lochaven Rd., West Bloomfield Township, the float will be a 7 by 16-foot replica of their church. It will be titled "Faith of Our Fathers" and will carry 15 members of the church choir, dressed as an 1890 congregation and singing Christmas carols to the music of a pump organ. Here (l-r) Stedman Chase of 4610 Fiddle Rd., Roswell Reeves of 5815 Commerce Rd., and Charles Urquhart of 6460 Commerce Rd. hoist the belfry atop the float. There will be 25 other floats of area churches and schools entered in the parade, which starts at 2 p.m.

South Lyon Train Victim Still in 'Critical Condition'

Seventeen-year-old South Lyon High School student John Homer Fortner, remained in critical condition in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor today, following the train-auto collision which killed his mother and eight-year-old sister.

Hospital authorities said his condition had improved somewhat. He has sustained a skull fracture, broken leg and three broken ribs.

Mrs. Rachel Fortner, 38, and her daughter Betty Ann, were killed when a Chesapeake and Ohio freight train struck their car at an unmarked crossing near their home.

The accident occurred at the point where 11 Mile Rd. curves into Dixboro Rd. in Green Oak Township, Livingston County, just on the outskirts of South Lyon.

Mrs. Fortner's husband, John, was at work at the Michigan Seamless Tube Co., in South Lyon.

Neighbors said they had complained in the past about the crossing and requested that a signal or other appropriate marking be installed several times.

The bodies of both victims were taken this morning, to Piggott, Ark., for burial in Mrs. Fortner's home town.

Mrs. Fortner was driving the children from their 25985 Dixboro Rd. home to a school bus when the accident occurred yesterday at 7:55 a.m.

Moroccan King Touring Nation

Joint Statement With Dulles Concludes Visit in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — King Mohammed V of Morocco, ending a three-day official visit here, arranged to fly out of Washington today to start a tour of the United States.

After the King's final meeting with Secretary of State Dulles, a joint statement was issued covering a series of subjects which were discussed, and reaffirming the close ties between the two nations.

The statement said both governments have a firm attachment to United Nations principles and will continue to cooperate in advancing the peaceful objectives of the U. N.

Mohammed also had a brief visit with ailing President Eisenhower yesterday afternoon at the White House.

The two men chatted and exchanged gifts. The White House also said they reviewed the talks between the Moroccan group and U.S. officials headed by Dulles and Vice President Nixon.

The King and his party plan to leave Williamsburg tomorrow for Dallas. Other stops include Los Angeles, San Francisco, Offutt Air Force Base in Nebraska, Niagara Falls and New York City.

Six Businesses Have Break-Ins

Pontiac Police today are investigating breakins in six business establishments which occurred since late Tuesday night.

Pete Metropoulos, manager of Delmo Grocery, 186 Fisher Ave., reported to police someone broke through a basement window of the building, entered the store through a trap door and walked off with $100 and miscellaneous items valued at $15.

A brown table model radio and clothing, value undetermined, were taken from the Oak Cleaners, 570 N. Perry St., after thieves entered the building through a window.

Tom's Bar, 928 Mount Clemens St., was entered after thieves pried open a door. An undetermined amount of money was taken from the shuffleboard and bumper pool machines after they were forced open. Cigars and cigarette lighters, totaling $14 and $8 in Canadian coins were also reported missing, according to Charles Austin, owner.

Four dollars and an electric shaver were reported missing from the Ellingsen's Market, 332 N. Perry St. Thieves entered the building after breaking a window in the front door.

Two other breakins were reported although nothing was missing, according to police. These occurred at Davenport's Restaurant, 216 Branch St., and Haskill Studio, 1 Mount Clemens St. Entrance to both buildings was gained after breaking windows.

Family Holiday Set for Recovering Ike

the impairment still was noticeable: "I would describe the speech defect as being something similar to what many people experience when you are very tired."

The doctors say the President's difficulty will clear up entirely. Nixon said Eisenhower's "only problem was a hesitancy in finding a very few words . . . a groping for words," rather than difficulty in pronunciation.

Nixon said Eisenhower asked him to see that Cabinet meetings and National Security Council sessions are held on schedule during his absence from his White House office.

Nixon will preside at those meetings, just as he did when the President suffered a heart attack in 1955 and was stricken with an intestinal illness last year.

The Cabinet will meet Monday and the Security Council Thursday.

Nixon also said that if Eisenhower had his way he would attend next month's Paris meeting of the NATO Council, just as he had planned before his illness. But the doctors have vetoed that tentatively, Nixon said, keeping alive some slight possibility Eisenhower still will make the trip.

Since onset of the illness, the president said, no major decision on any matter has been postponed because of inability to bring it before Eisenhower. Nixon acknowledged it had not so far been necessary to put any really highly important matter before the President for decision.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

Is hail usually seen in winter?

In spite of the fact that hail is frozen droplets and that winter is the coldest of the four seasons, more hail is seen in the warmer months than in the winter months.

The why of this seemingly illogical occurrence is simple. In summer we get our boiling thunderheads, with their strong updrafts. The long drizzling spells of winter, lasting several days, usually are caused by stratus clouds.

It is the updraft, which sends water droplets soaring upward, to be frozen at higher altitudes, that makes hail. This vertical cloud movement is more common in summer.

Mercury Climbs for Thanksgiving in Eastern U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rising temperatures in chilly areas highlighted the Thanksgiving Day weather picture in the Eastern portion of the nation, but drizzle, snow, rain and cold marred the holiday in various other spots.

From an area extending from the southern tip of Lake Michigan to the central Gulf States eastward to the Atlantic Seaboard, temperatures climbed from bone-chilling lows to relative mildness. The Northeast showed the biggest climb with readings more than 20 degrees above those registered 24 hours earlier. The rises from Lake Michigan to the Gulf ranged from 10 to 15 detrees. Syracuse, N.Y., went from 15 to 48 in a 24-hour period.

At the other extreme, the mercury sank 42 degrees at Fraser, Colo., a Rocky Mountain cold spot, where a low of -12 was recorded.

had organized into a shaky wartime government under the Articles of Confederation, the custom of an autumn Thanksgiving, always on a Thursday, was well established.

Washington proclaimed a Thanksgiving at Valley Forge in 1777. In the same year the Continental Congress asked Bostonian Samuel Adams to draft a "recommendation to the several states to set apart a day of thanksgiving for signal successes lately obtained over the enemies of these United States."

SARAH NOT SATISFIED

The celebration was left to the whim of the individual states and the local option arrangement seemed to satisfy everyone except Sarah Josepha Hale.

New Hampshire born Sarah saw Thanksgiving as a method of binding together the widely differing states for at least one day a year in a spirit of prayer and friendship.

At one point she proposed to settle the slavery question by taking up a Thanksgiving collection in all churches throughout the country to send the Negroes to Liberia, where they could set up their own republic.

The idea fizzled but her Thanksgiving holiday project gathered steam. By 1852 she could report that "last year 29 states and all territories united in the festival. This year we trust that Virginia and Vermont will come into the arrangement."

When war came in 1861, Sarah pleaded with both sides to observe a Thanksgiving and "lay aside our enmities and strife on that one day."

Finally, when the ravages of war left people with seemingly little to be thankful for, Sarah's long campaign came to a successful conclusion. In 1863 a letter arrived from Secretary of State William H. Seward announcing that her suggestion had been "commended to the President."

Four days later, Abraham Lincoln ordered all servile work to cease on the last Thursday in November so that the nation give thanks to Almighty God for blessings received. Thanksgiving for the first time became a national holiday.

It is somewha. ironic that Editor Hale, who made the turkey a national festive bird, is best remembered as the author of "Mary Had a Little Lamb," an animal that never made the Thanksgiving market list in Godey's Lady's Magazine.

Snarling Black Bear Cub Excites Lansing Citizens

LANSING (AP)—"Inky," 30 pounds of snarling black bear cub on the loose, caused a lot of commotion before he was finally toppled from a tree top refuge and recaptured yesterday.

The small bruin escaped from the Potter Park Zoo by slipping through bars of the bear pit some time Tuesday night. The entire south side of Lansing was in an uproar, with many mothers refusing to send their children to school until he was recaptured.

TAKEN ILLEGALLY

The bear cub, taken illegally from Ontonagon County by some hunters from Coldwater, was seized by the State Conservation Department and was being housed temporarily at the zoo.

Numerous bear spottings were reported during the day and a 40-man posse of state and Lansing police, sheriff's officers and zoo attendants combed the area.

State Police Trooper Robert Stadt finally saw "Inky" galloping through a wooded and swampy area off Kalamazoo street, between the Red Cedar River and the married housing project at Michigan State University. Stadt gave chase.

RAN LIKE DICKENS

"I don't know what I would have done if I caught him," he admitted. "But anyway the little fellow ran like the dickens and scooted up a tree."

Stadt yelled until the rest of the posse came dashing through the underbrush. The bear was treed at 12:45 p.m.

They had the bear up the tree but no one knew how to get him down again. For about an hour, the amateur bear hunters stood around, looking at "Inky," perched 45 feet above them in a big sugar maple.

"Inky" looked back, occasionally snarling.

CROWD GROWS

The crowd grew, swelled by students from the nearby MSU campus. One undergraduate came trumping through the brush, accompanied by his coed girl friend.

Ray Watson, with the Lansing Forestry Department, put on his climbing spikes and shinnied up the tree to a limb opposite the one occupied by the bear. The crowd gave a small cheer for Watson.

HI—BEAR

"Hi bear," said Watson cheerfully.

"Hi bear," scribbled down reporters, who had arrived at the scene along with cameramen.

"Inky" just growled at the friendly greeting.

Ralph Whitford, another forestry department tree man, climbed up to keep Watson and the bear company. Whitford tried prodding. "Inky" didn't care for him either.

Whitford swung a rope around the tree branch and Downey started swaying the branch by pulling on the rope from the ground.

For about 15 minutes they played rock-a-bye bear, the branch swinging wildly and "Inky" holding on for dear life.

The combination prodding and swaying finally did it. "Inky" lost his grip and tumbled to the ground, landing with a thud on a pile of leaves.

Four zoo attendants jumped on him with a canvas, bundling the unhurt but snarling mad bear cub up before he could start running.

Pontiac Milk Prices to Rise Half Cent

The price of milk from Pontiac's major dairies will be increased a half cent beginning next week, officials of the dairies announced.

The Detroit Creamery Co., Nye Dairy and Borden's Dairy Products said the increase will become effective Sunday. Maple Leaf Dairy Co. said the hike will begin Monday.

The increase will bring the price to 25 cents a quart of home delivered milk.

Officials cited increased labor and material costs as the reason for the boost.

Nixon Displays Confidence in Emergency Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nixon has moved with confidence and self-awareness into whatever vacuum President Eisenhower's illness has caused—all the while disclaiming any change in status.

"My role at the present time I think is best described by my title," he told an extraordinary White House news conference. "I am the vice president."

But he conceded he is acting for the President sometimes — in consulting with Cabinet officers and in ceremonial functions.

Nixon's confidence in himself was made abundantly clear last night when he submitted to reporters' questions in the office of presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty.

"No questions are embarrassing," he broke in at one point as a reporter apologized for a ticklish question about whether Eisenhower might reason—which would mean Nixon would become President.

During his 45-minute news conference — his first ever in the White House — the vice president time and again insisted he had no additional duties.

But reporters got the impression he was acting at least like a "pusher" in a Louisiana sugar cane field—not necessarily cutting any cane himself but seeing to it that the cutters did.

NATO Meeting Going Ahead

PARIS (AP)—Paul-Henri Spaak, secretary general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, today announced that the summit meeting of NATO's chiefs of government would go ahead as planned despite the illness of President Eisenhower.

MODERN SANTA — Joe Simon, Corpus Christi, Tex., furniture dealer, hands out presents at one of the annual parties he stages for newsboys.

Ex-Newsboy Makes Sure

Each Christmas Merry

By JIM GREENWOOD
Corpus Christi Caller-Times

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—For 31 years, the biggest and best Christmas parties in South Texas have been the ones that Joe Simon gives for newsboys.

Since 1925, Joe has played Santa to more than 6,000 kids.

His Christmas party this year will be the best one of all, he says. He's been working on it for months.

Joe is a furniture dealer and his Christmas story has deep roots. It dates back to the winter of 1906 in St. Joseph, Mo., where Joe was a hustling, 6-year-old newsboy.

RUGGED START

"You had to be husky to stand the gaff," Simon recalls. "Fighting other newsies to keep your corner wasn't kindergarten stuff. And mine was a pretty good corner."

Ocassionally, Joe could make as much as 40 cents before trudging home through the dark. But some days he would lower his head doggedly against the snow and set out for home with only 10 or 15 pennies clutched in his fist.

In December, 1906, Joe heard about a Christmas dinner a local restaurateur was giving for newsboys. He showed up, and as he sat in the warm, delightfully fragrant cafe, stuffing himself with a traditional Christmas feast, Joe made a vow.

"If I ever have the chance, I'm going to give such a party for kids," thought he. That pledge stuck with him—through the next six years as he held his downtown corner, through high scool and two years of college, through two years in the navy (where he won a welterweight belt in boxing competition) and right on up to 1925 when he came to Corpus Christi to open a furniture store.

MADE GOOD PROMISE

The chance to make good on his old vow came on Christmas Day, 1925, when Joe gave his first Christmas party for newsboys. Eighteen showed up.

In 31 years since then, he's played host to some 6,000 boys. Each time, Joe's hired the city's best banquet hall, served up the best turkey dinner possible and feted his guests with gifts and entertainers and a movie.

He's going to make his 32nd annual newsboys' dinner one to remember.

Stockpile Good Supply of Cookies

For three dozen spiced press cookies sift 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon, ¾ teaspoon ground ginger and ½ teaspoon nutmeg together and set aside. Stir ½ cup butter or margarine until soft and fluffy and gradually blend in ½ cup sugar and beat in 1 egg.

Gradually stir in dry ingredients and mix well. Press dough through a cookie press onto an ungreased cookie sheet.

Decorate with colored sugar, glazed cherries, citron or nuts. Bake in preheated hot oven, 400 degrees, 8 to 10 minutes or until done. Cool on wire racks and store in a tightly closed jar or tin box.

Asks That Thanksgiving Become Thanks-living

Editor's Note: (Continuing our policy to publish guest editorials from time to time, we feel that it is appropriate to have comments from a local religious leaded today.)

By Rabbi NATHAN HERSHFIELD
Temple Beth Jacob

Foremost among the sacrifices offered by the ancient Hebrews in the Temple on Mt. Moriah, in Palestine, was the thanks-offering. Giving thanks was an honored virtue in all the sacred scriptures of antiquity.

The Rabbis in the Talmud, that vast compilation of Jewish law and lore, maintained that eventually all sacrifices would be abolished, but the offering of thanks would endure forever.

The expression of gratitude is properly one of the noblest virtues of man. Ingratitude is the mark of callous affrontery. Justly then, we pause on this day of Thanksgiving to offer gratitude to God for the favors we enjoy, the land we live in, the way of life that is ours.

However, giving thanks is not enough. Can we honestly say we are grateful to God for these blessings today, and then return to our daily pursuits tomorrow?

Thanksgiving entails much more than offering a few prayers publicly, and then going home for a fine turkey dinner. The Rabbis in the Talmud emphasize a more real form of thanks, a more inclusive one. They conceived of giving thanks as a sacrificial offering. To give thanks was to sacrifice.

That is precisely what our Pilgrim fathers did in their day. They earned the right to give thanks, for they tilled the soil together, and then ate of the fruit of their hands. They worked together as one.

Thanksgiving finds its true culmination, its true purpose, when directed towards the welfare of others. The full and free unfoldment of personality is impossible without projecting our lives into the lives of others, and without linking our destiny with the rest of mankind.

We are thankful today for past generations which have paid the price of human progress. To those who through much suffering have brought us greater freedom, broader visions, and better living conditions, we feel an undying gratitude.

As we collectively give thanks in our various houses of worship, and in our homes, we may well ask ourselves, "Have we lived thankfully? Have we earned this precious gift of life?"

No man can experience the majesty of a good life who isolates his destiny. It is in the arena of life, in the very thick of the affray, battling for the sanctities of human life, that one is privileged to taste the intoxication of Thanks-living.

The noble example of the Pilgrim fathers should inspire us to concrete action the rest of the year. We must be motivated by their glorious vision and strive to build the better society where all will enjoy the bounties of this fecund earth, without regard to race or creed.

May ours be the kind of Thanksgiving that will be transformed into Thanks-living. Thus will our deeds and our very lives bring pleasure to God and earn His approval.

Bowl Game Reward for Hillsdale College

Hillsdale College has received an honor they rightly deserve in being selected for the Holiday Bowl. This game is for the national small college championship and will be played Dec. 21 at St. Petersburg, Florida.

Hillsdale's opponent has not yet been selected. All Michigan can be proud to have the Dales represent our state in this bowl game.

Housewives Now Celebrate Thanksgiving in Kitchen

Thanksgiving: What often also has a morning after.

Perhaps many other housewives in Pontiac and its area, after preparing and serving a big Thanksgiving dinner, will join with

Mrs. Robert Romaine

of Waterford, in her sentiments. She writes

"So a woman is to blame,"

when she sends me a quite historical clipping to the effect that a militant woman journalist, started the "slave-in-the-kitchen" system of celebrating the day.

Sarah Josepha Hale,

Before Sarah's time it was observed as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, with little attention to gastronic overstuffing and knockout. But 130 years ago she became editor of Godey's Lady Book, then a national woman's magazine of great prestige.

For 40 years in that capacity she plugged for bigger menus on that day, regardless of their vitamin content. The public had never heard of vitamins. She became a symbol of palate pleasing festivities, and her activities brought about the discovery of bicarbonate of soda.

So, my dear women readers, when your muscles ache, your head swims, your nerves are in rags, and you're surprised that you did survive the day, just join Mrs. Romaine and blame it all on a member of your own sex.

An old newspaper friend sends in a solution to our postage problem, of Imlay City. Thanks, Carey, but you're already numbered among the also rans in the contest. The problem still is wide open, but all entries must be received in The Press office by Friday noon, in order to qualify, and that's tomorrow noon. Or don't you want the $25?

Carey E. Terry

It pleases me to announce that copies of the poem,

"The White Magnolia Tree,"

Helen Deutsch,

Helen Hayes,

can be obtained free of charge by writing

Already tried out with good results on some of the main roads in the Pontiac area, I have it direct from State Highway Commissioner that white lines may be painted on the outside edge of all of our principal highways. They have been found to greatly decrease the accident rate, especially at night.

Our ever alert and careful watcher for such items in local history, formerly of Pontiac, now living in Detroit, sends me a clipping from The Pontiac Press of 50 years ago, in which a big fuss is being made because our street cars were not properly heated.

Harrison Perry,

Believes Reds Can Lick U. S. All Along Line

Khrushchev Sure of Soviet Power

By BOB CONSIDINE

MOSCOW (INS)—Nikita Khrushchev, the man whose mind and vitality the West must deal with until there is another massive upheaval in the Kremlin, is a rotund little fellow with springs in his legs. He seemingly is supremely confident that his side can lick us in any contest ranging from the ICBM to raising hybrid (hawg) corn.

If he is not really that confident then he must be a superb actor. This is the impression I gained during the three hours and 35 minutes Bill Hearst, Frank Conniff and I spent with him at his Communist party headquarters.

This former miner who in 45 years in the party always was on the "right" side in periodic purges, is certainly the most colorful man since Stalin.

In one long speech he demolished deification of Stalin and since has banished such deeply entrenched fellow Communists as Molotov, Malenkov, Kaganovich and his close friend Zhukov.

HE'S TOP MAN

The man who sought to destroy forever the "cult of the individual" has become the top individual in a one-party society. No one questions that.

Khrushchev spoke half of peace and half of war during our stay with him. In assembling our notes later, we tabulated the many topics and statements and they were almost mathematically divided between the joys of peaceful coexistence ("We will outstrip you in production") and the horrors of hydrogen headed intercontinental missile warfare ("We could eliminate your cities and bases from the face of the earth.").

This is the essence of the man's abrupt nature. Mind you, he did not present his point in an "either-or" manner.

He seems to think the earth is a big enough house for both our velocipedes, daffy as he believes is our democracy and acknowledgment of God. He believes too, or so he said, that if the arms race is continued the war psychosis will become such that the tiniest incident would plunge both great powers into ghastly conflict.

STALKED TO DOOR

Once during our talk with him Khrushchev bounded to his feet after a table-thumping 15-minute reply in Russian to Hearst's question, and I thought he was calling the whole thing off. He stalked to the rear door of his office like an Olympic heel-and-toe competitor.

We had a sinking feeling. Many questions had yet to be asked. But as it turned out he had simply gone to the table to fetch us some drinking water.

Khrushchev's desk was cluttered with work but right in the middle of the muddle was a large-scale model of a TU-104 jet transport and of the newest Russian helicopter. There also was a golden head of Lenin and an ivory figure of Ghandi.

He was as pleased as a boy as he showed us through a microscope a human hair engraved with: "The Armenian people send warm greetings to the Communist Party of the Soviet Union."

He showed us the intricately engraved hair to illustrate another proverb.

Once, he said, the people of Britain gave the Czar an almost microscopic mechanical flea. The Czar immediately turned it over to workers of fine metals at Tula and said, "Do something better." They returned in time and the Czar was displeased.

"You have returned this to me as it is. Why?" the Czar cried. But the workers said, "Look closer." The Czar did and to his delight discovered they had put almost sub-microscopic shoes on the flea.

Khrushchev contentedly patted his belly and said:

"You see, we do things better."

Looking Back

Dr. William Brady Says:

Watch Out, Ye Editors, Your Levity Is Showing!

For the 99th time, I beg to tell you this is a Health column. If you find anything here that should not be printed in a Health column, please tell me (not to exceed 300 words) what it is and why it shouldn't be printed.

DR. BRADY

In acknowledgment of any part of your view or criticism I can and do print here, I'll send with my compliments the Pocket Cyclopedia of Health (23 volumettes, boxed, $7.50) plus 10 cents a word.

The man or woman who is vexed by levity in a HEALTH column must be kept in constant pain by the nonsense in the news.

For example, a press dispatch says "a nasty cold helped end San Marino's two - week - long bloodless revolution and it's Red regimen." The dispatch explains that the "nasty cold was caught by the head of the Communist Party," whose wife "just could not let him go out in the night while it was cold and raining to inspect the Red Volunteers."

Another leader of the Red faction broke his dental plate and, vain about his appearance, refused to go out in public. Other members of the Red party inferred that he had lost hope and so they gave up too.

This was page one stuff!

And whatever became of ordinary flu? Nobody who is anybody has it any more. It isn't newsworthy if it isn't Asian. And so the pandemonium is raging in the papers.

One physician, participating in a panel discussion of the frightful paper outbreak of "Asian flu," was not convinced of the safety of the vaccine whipped up by the manufacturers—with the cooperation of federal, state and municipal health authorities—to sell (to wholesalers and institutions) at around 66 cents a dose.

If 50 or 75 million persons should respond to the urge and be vaccinated, it would make a bonanza for the manufacturers. But this physician said he uses the vaccine only for those who get hysterical about "Asian flu" —for the hysteria.

So far, as nearly as I can learn, the "Asian flu" seems to be more nonsense than news. If and when the papers drop it as a source of news, we'll probably realize it's the same old influenza we have had for many years, a disease of such proven character (many different germs or viruses are factors) that a specific vaccine is not likely to confer immunity.

The Country Parson

"A thankful man is glad if he finds a dollar bill—a greedy man is mad because it wasn't a 10."

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Selfishness Brings Near-Suicide

Dora was so unhappy she tried to commit suicide. But unhappiness simply means you aren't using the a-b-c rules for winning friends. They are so simple Dora had missed them. But when she tried them out, her personality changed within 30 days. And before the end of the school term, notice what had happened!

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

"Dr. Crane, I wish you could talk to Dora," her faculty adviser informed me.

"She swallowed an entire bottle of sleeping pills last week while her parents were at a party, and would have died except that her brother unexpectedly drove in from college that same night and found her unconscious on the floor.

DR. CRANE

"So he got her to the hospital and the intern pumped her stomach. But she vows she will take her life as soon as she can, for she says she has nothing to live for.

"She says nobody loves her so what's the use of living?"

LAWS OF LOVE

Dora is far too selfish, for she thinks the world centers in herself. She thus wants others to shower affection on HER.

But that isn't the way the world is constructed. Instead, you must first shower compliments and favors and affection on OTHERS!

Too many teen-agers expect the world to take the first move in striking up friendships and romance.

Developing a happy personality is much like building a successful sales clientele.

And the salesman soon learns that he must speak first and smile and take the initiative in doing favors for his prospects.

In fact, a salesman realizes that prospects seldom come to him. So he resolutely goes far more than half way to meet them.

Insurance salesmen thus pore over the birth statistics and other personal items in the newspaper to get information about possible customers whom they can contact.

COMPLIMENT CLUB

By dint of some frank talking, I showed Dora that she was failing to do her part in the game of winning friends.

For she admitted she belonged to no girls clubs or church organizations. She simply sat glued to the TV or radio and thus tried to soak up romance as a long range parlor spectator.

So I persuaded her to take a part time job on week-ends at the sales counter of a local department store.

This would force her to turn on a smile and greet prospects. Then I got her to promise that she would join the "Compliment Club" which requires each member to pay three sincere compliments each day. She didn't even know two of the five standard rules for paying compliments.

At the start, Dora found the "Compliment Club" very difficult, for she was shy and self-conscious. But I suggested she plan her compliments the night before.

"Pick out three of your high school classmates," I urged. "Then decide upon one of the chief merits or virtues in each person and mentally rehearse the compliment you will pay him next day.

"This preliminary practice will make the job easier when you really bump into those companions on the morrow.

"For, at the outset, paying those compliments is a first cousin to making a talk in public speaking class. You must work up your idea in advance and even rehearse how you plan to say them."

PEOPLE LIKE PRAISE

At the end of the 30-day "Compliment Club" experiment, Dora was a changed personality.

Her eyes sparkled and she had much more poise and initiative. For she now had learned how to win friends. People like praise, and she was offering them sincere compliments.

So they began to look forward with pleasure to her joining their groups or sitting beside them in class.

And before the end of the semester, Dora was so popular, she was elected an officer of the senior class, and was dating one of the most attractive boys in the school.

Voice of the People

'Masses Lacking Mentality to Accept Higher Education'

I believe Mr. Walker's article advocates a higher education for the masses, except those that haven't the faculty to question.

Centuries ago people could read and write, and now after 6,000 years, the problem of acquiring a higher education is still apparent. Certainly that is proof enough that the masses don't have the mental faculty to accept education, nor can it be legislated. F. A. Best

'Let's Get Started, Not Like Before'

I wonder how many remember the old alderman form of government we had in Pontiac.

So many jobs were so long being started or completed they would run short of money. They'd try to find some other bond issue to carry them over. When it pyramided upside down, it fell and they fell with it. I pray that isn't the way of our present form of government.

But let's get started on this urban renewal and see if we can get the south end of Cass avenue extended through as planned way back in 1928.

H. A. Bowman

'Look Out for Men and Blind People'

George H. Elliott, safety consultant, says that three out of four persons killed as pedestrians last year were males. "Women," he said, "walk to the corner and wait for the proper light." Hereafter, watch out for blind people and males.

Can You Answer This Question?

Can anyone tell me why fruit cakes pop up at the Christmas season, just like crocuses in Spring. I have yet to be served a fruit cake in July.

Mamie

'Mothers-in-law Cause Most of It'

Mothers-in-law should sit up and take notice. A recent survey showed that nine out of ten cases of "in-law" troubles were caused by mothers-in-law. My guess is that they don't have enough interests of their own to keep them busy.

D. T.

'President Forgot a Strong Loyalty'

A newspaper survey taken two days before the November 5th Gubernatorial election showed that "four out of every five Virginians feel no 'moral' obligation to comply with the Supreme Court decree on school integration. An even greater number wants the State of Virginia to resist integration by every legal means."

Ike might not have acted so hastily if he had remembered this strong old Dominion loyalty that back in history prompted Robert E. Lee to refuse the command of the Northern troops at the request of Abraham Lincoln and instead to go back to head the Southern command, saying that he was first of all a Virginian.

Praises Services of Firemen, Police

Just a word to say how much I appreciated the quick response by police and firemen recently. I'm truly grateful.

Mrs. C. Frue

Praises Decision of Miss Germany

Hurray for Miss Germany of 1957, who just announced she won't try to be an actress because "the line of bad actresses is long enough." Too bad more of the little cuties don't make the same decision.

Victim

Readers Question 30-Day Sentence

I admit I know nothing about the case, but it seems to me that 30 days in jail for killing someone like the man got the other day certainly is not much of a punishment. I'd hate to think my life would be worth no more than that.

Mrs. L. G.

I don't like to see people put in jail, but 30 days is the sentence you get for drunk driving sometimes. I'd think killing someone, even when it's manslaughter, wouldn't be on the same level as that.

I'm Getting Confused

'Column Reflects People's Feelings'

It's my job to know what goes on in the hearts and minds of the people and I find this column a good cross section of what people are thinking. Some of my sermons are based on ideas I get here.

Local Minister

'Group May Regret UF Withdrawal'

If the American Cancer Society drops out of the Community Chest, as it threatens to do, it is saying in effect, "I want more than my rightful share of money allocated for good works in your community." Such a move will greatly alienate people from a worthy cause.

L. P.

'It's No Wonder Army Was Soft'

No wonder the Army in World War II said we had raised a bunch of softies here in America. Look at the lines of automobiles around our schools transporting children to and from school, in good weather and bad. How can we build strong, husky children with good hearts, lungs and muscles if they are coddled this way?

ON THE BEACH

Comdr. Towers peered through the USS SCORPION'S periscope. The man in the boat was deserter Swain. Through a speaker, Towers asked, "What are things like on shore?"

Based on the Best-Selling Novel by Nevil Shute

Speaking of his fate, death from radiation, Swain said, "I'd rather have it this way, in my own home town, than have it in September in Australia." Towers wished him luck. The atomic-powered sub departed. 11-28

Inadequate Meal Means Poor Grades

DENVER (INS) — A Denver school doctor reports about a third of the city's school children don't eat an adequate breakfast and their grades show it.

Dr. Leland J. Corliss, director of school health services, said studies indicate diet deficiencies definitely affect all body functions, including thinking.

Dr. Corliss cited several studies of students and military service trainees to back up his argument for better breakfasts.

A naval aviation test group found that diet deficiencies caused fatigue and human errors, even resulting in physical nervousness and fainting.

The city began circulating a pamphlet entitled "Good Health Practices," to all children in the school system to encourage better food preparation and regular eating.

Latins Send Materials

RIO DE JANEIRO — Latin America supplies 30 strategic materials stockpiled by the United States.

$145,000,000 Spent to Freight Newsprint

QUEBEC — The total estimated freight bill of the Canadian newsprint industry last year was about $145,000,000.

Movement of materials and supplies to the mills accounted for 28 per cent of the total. The balance was spent on delivering the finished product, about 70 per cent of which moved by rail.

Most Bites Nonfatal

ATLANTA — It is believed that 75 per cent of the snakebites in the United States would not prove fatal even if given no special treatment.

Sen. Kennedy Greets 1st Child, a Daughter

NEW YORK (AP)—A baby girl was born to Sen. and Mrs. John Kennedy at New York Hospital today. It is their first child.

A hospital spokesman said both mother and 7-pound 2-ounce daughter are doing well. Sen. Kennedy was on hand to greet his new daughter.

Mrs. Kennedy, 27, the former Jacqueline Bouvier, daughter of a Manhattan financier, married the 40-year-old Democratic senator from Massachusetts in a glittering social event at Newport in 1953.

American Families Abroad:

Many Live Minutes From Red Attack

(For Americans at home, the threat of war seems far distant. But there are thousands of American families who live literally only minutes away from a Communist attack. The following article, first of four about Americans living overseas, tells the story of one of those families.)

By ROSE McKEE

BITBURG, Germany (INS) — "I don't think I ever again will have the sense of security I used to have in the United States."

These are the words of an American fighter pilot's wife who lives only 10 minutes from a possible Soviet atomic bomb. She added:

HOW SAFE?

"Even if they evacuated us to the United States, how safe is the United States these days?

Mrs. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and her husband, a 27-year-old captain in the Air Force, hospitably answered questions of a reporter who spent a day in their home to see what it is like living in the shadow of the Iron Curtain. It is only 150 air miles away—10 minutes in an attacking plane.

The Aldrins, a New Jersey couple, live in a military housing unit near the Bitburg Air Base. It is the home of a U.S. fighter wing. The town is about five miles away.

The captain is a flight commander in a squadron of F100 Super Sabres that has been leapfrogging from base to base in Europe this last year. The purpose was to test the jet unit's ability to move intact and with combat readiness.

NEVER WORRIED

Mrs. Aldrin is a pretty, 26-year-old blonde with a Master's degree in English and drama from Columbia University. She said that before coming overseas about a year ago, she never gave the matter of safety a thought.

She explained:

"I had the typical American attitude, I guess, that nothing could happen to me. But only a week after I got here, there was the Hungarian revolt and Buzz (her husband) was gone."

His unit was in France when she arrived. He dashed back long enough to get her into a couple of rooms he had found in town—there was no vacancy then in the military housing area.

SPEAKS NO GERMAN

Mrs. Aldrin continued: "I was living over a cafe alone with Mike (their son, now two years old). I couldn't speak a word of German. No one in the cafe spoke English. I didn't know anyone and I barely knew how to get to the base if I had to.

"I didn't realize how serious things were until Buzz called me one night. He was back at the base and I asked when he would be home for dinner. He said: 'I don't know if I can come home. I may be leaving in an hour or so.'

"When I asked where he was going, he said he couldn't tell me, that if he wasn't home in an hour, he would be gone. Then he hung up. I was terrified. I thought war was expected. I packed a suitcase at once."

Since then, the suitcase—a big yellow one—has been repacked several times but it is always ready and handy. Now it contains warm clothes for Janice, born in August, as well as for Mike and Mrs. Aldrin. It holds canned goods, a can opener, powdered milk—all the things American military families are alerted to have packed in case of the worst.

There are 1,200 American families in the four-story, gray concrete apartments built in the midst of a German farming community. They have frequent reminders of how near they are living to a possible nuclear attack.

Recently there have been a series of housing alerts, some at 1 and 3 a.m. Mrs. Aldrin explained that this means getting the children up and running to the basement in robes hastily donned over sleeping garments.

Double Header Called

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — James C. Dowd had the distinction of being summoned to court both as a defendant and a juror, but his services were declined because the case was disposed of without a jury and his own case was postponed.

Newsprint Plant Big

Adventurers Plan Odd 7,000 Mile Ride on Horses

By GENE HANDSAKER

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—Three men will set out Sunday on a 7,000-mile horseback ride from the lowest point on the North American continent to the highest point in South America.

If they survive head hunters, man-eating pigs, boa constrictors saddle sores and dysentery, it will take them from 282 feet below sea level to 23,035 above.

The low starting point is Bad Water, Death Valley, Calif., 160 miles northeast of here. They expect it will take 18 months to reach their destination: Mt. Aconcagua, Argentina.

Why should a carpenter, a boat dealer and an ex-cop set out on such a wearying and dangerous journey:

The expedition's organizer and leader, 6-foot-4 Loren says he knows of only one other horseback ride even remotely like it. A Swiss schoolteacher rode from Buenos Aires to Washington for President Hoover's inauguration, Loren says "but he took a boat part way." Loren and his companions say they'll plod every foot—even over a footpath across the Panama Canal.

Goal in mind, Loren interviewed about 80 potential co-adventurers. Each of the two he picked would have to put up $3,200 as his share of expenses.

Ed Baillie, 34, owner of a camera store in nearby Colton, heard of Loren's plans. "Have you ever lived outdoors?" Loren asked.

"Nine years in the Army, four years overseas," Ed replied. "I've hunted in Alaska, Greenland and Canada. I'm an expert with a gun—was a Colton police officer for five years."

Ed says now: "In three weeks my wife realized I wasn't joking about this trip. I even talked about it in my sleep. She said, 'O.K.'"

Ed sold his camera store to provide for her and their five children during his absence. Charlotte Baillie, who'll resume her job as a grocerystore checker, says: "I'm only sorry I can't go along."

As the expedition's photographer Ed will send back 16mm. movies which the horsemen hope will make either a TV series or a feature-length picture.

Kyle Pratt, 40, was lukewarm when Loren first approached him, then decided he's like to revisit South America. Out of the Air Force 10 years ago, he took a panel-truck trip there with two buddies. With two other buddies he flew home in a war surplus plane. For snapping pictures, forbidden then in Peron-ruled Argentina, they were detained six weeks as spy suspects.

On that trip he sent his mother 60-page letters. Now he'll be interpreter, guide and journalist. The travelers hope his daily logs, aired home, will sell to magazines.

Kyle, a widower, has taken in a partner to run his boat business in nearby Loma Linda.

The six horses are trail-steeled pack steeds from California High Sierra country. The travelers say they'll probably sell them in Argentina. An airline has offered to fly the men home.

Hazards ahead include head-hunting tribes in lower Panama and Colombia. The horsemen will have trinkets for them—also pistols that fire 20-second flares and might scare off jungle night aggressors. "It may sound silly, but such things have saved people's lives," Loren says.

There will be herds of peccaries, piglike mammals that attack men . . . 30-foot Anaconda constrictors that hang from trees and can crush a man's head or back with a hammer blow of their heads.

"We wouldn't think much of this trip if we didn't have a little hazard," Ed says. Each man carries a pistol and a rifle.

Equipment includes two pressure cookers to kill dysentery-causing amoebae . . . snake, penicillin and water-purifying pills . . . a direction-finding radio receiver.

Sights ahead include Mayan ruins and, Kyle says "a canyon they claim you could put the Grand Canyon inside," in South Sonora, Mexico.

Hot Jazz Played in Blazing Studio

Less than 12 hours after the blaze and with a mattress still smoldering in his front yard, Wendell was in the salvaged room spinning records and bringing his listeners reports on the latest news—including a first hand report on the fire at the Wendell home.

The first vessel to complete a passage through the Panama canal was the crane boat named Alex LaValley on January 7 in 1914.

Driver Volunteers to Give Up License

CLEVELAND (INS) — A 28-year-old suburban Cleveland paratrooper veteran voluntarily gave up his driving rights for life when he was brought into municipal court on a hit-skip charge.

The veteran, Robert R. Riedthaler of Parma, O., told judge George P. Allen that he suffered occasional fainting spells while driving and thought he should be denied the right to drive before he seriously injured someone.

Judge Allen complied with Riedthaler's request and commended him for his honesty, but fined him 15 dollars on the charge.

Christmas Dolls

There are sophisticated debutante dolls, dolls in taffeta ballerina gowns, in crinoline petticoats, high-heel dancing slippers, long nylon hose and opera length gloves for Christmas stockings this year.

WEAR RINGS

Some wear diamond engagement rings, others have necklaces, earrings and even rhinestone clutch bags. There are family groups with the tiny baby doll wearing a fluffy flannel Baby Bunting suit and held tenderly by the mother doll who is accompanied by two older doll children. This reflects the U. S. trend to larger families, according to the Toy Manufacturers of the U.S.A.

Almost all the dolls have individual flexible fingers, toes and realistic skin, hair, faces and bodies.

MAY BE SMALL

Doll clothes and accessories may be small in actual measurements, but in volume they rival the output of their adult counterpart, New York's garment center.

These outfits range in price from one dollar to several hundred dollars for high styled mink coats, hats and muffs.

There are such detailed outfits as a beach costume with a "Mae West" type life preserver and sand pail; new revealing sunsuits and the latest styles and fabrics. And, of course, there are sun glasses for the beach.

Christmas Cards Convert to Decorations

Youngsters can hardly wait for the mailman at Christmas time. And for good reason. They'll have cards to play with.

As gay, colorful greetings, Christmas cards this year convert to trees, or little girls or animals. These stand up to decorate a doll house or inhabit any young child's imagined world. Some are cut to hang from the Christmas tree. A youngster keeps busy adding his cards to the tree after the postman rings.

All that glitters is not gold but a child's signature may be. A greetings box assortment includes a sheet of specially treated gold foil. A youngster writes his name on the foil, leaving a signature in gold on the card to his little pals or grandma.

Of course, there will be colorful coin-holder Christmas cards for adults to send to youngsters.

In buying cards for little friends, remember they like bright, strong colors. And they associate themselves more with animals than with people. Santa Claus is the most popular subject. Snowmen, fireside scenes of stockings, candy canes and animals, animals, animals thrill the tiny ones.

Installation Delayed

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—City employes at Richmond's Mosque auditorium felt like the man who built a boat in his basement and found it too big to get out. The new $50,000 gas-fed boiler for the heating system wouldn't go around a turn and had to be dismantled before installation.

Big Alaskan Cities Not Very Cold

NOME, Alaska — Three fourths of Alaska lies in the north temperate zone. Only one fourth is beyond the Arctic Circle. Because of the Japanese current, which flows along the western coast, most of Alaska's principal cities have the same sort of winters as Maine, Vermont, and much of Massachusetts.

Sitka's and Ketchikan's winter temperature averages approximate those of New York City. Anchorage's average January temperature is 20 degrees above zero, which puts it on a par with Concord, N. H.

Air Molecules Split

BOSTON — Cosmic rays are billions of invisible atomic meteors from outer space that plunge into our atmosphere with such terrific force and speed that they shatter air molecules and shower us the the fragments. This "cosmic fallout" accounts for nearly half the radiation that is constantly striking us.

There are three time zones in Alaska: Pacific Standard, Alaska Standard and Bering Sea Time. There is an hour's difference between each.

Pruners Sold Fresh

SAN FRANCISCO — A prune is a variety of plum that can be dried without fermenting when the pit is left in. Prunes grown in California are mostly dried; prunes grown in Washington and Oregon are sold fresh, usually as "Italian prunes."

Car-Installment Debt Hits All-Time High

NEW YORK—During the first six months of 1957 the nation's auto-installment debt climbed to a new high of 15.1 billion dollars, a rise of 5 per cent.

In the first half of 1956, auto debt showed a 6 per cent increase. In 1955's first six months, however, the car-debt total climbed 21 per cent.

Explosive Way to Prove a Point

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—When police rolled up, there stood William Stanton with a machine gun in his hands. Amid sounds of firing three state roads commissioners cowered behind some big oil drums. A closer inspection showed the gun was wooden. Police found Stanton's wife hiding behind a fence, shooting off firecrackers.

The Stantons made their point. A ramp, planned to enter their property at a place they disapproved, was moved to another location.

A modern family of four needs about 3,212 gallons of petroleum a year directly and indirectly in manufacture of personal goods.

Whirlwind 'Fore Cast'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A "dust devil"—a small, localized whirl of wind caused by excessive and uneven heating of air near the ground—carried a 90-pound boat over a backyard fence here and dropped it 80 feet away. Had he been on the scene, the boat owner might have taken a scientific interest in the scene. He's Bob Burwell, an observer at the Columbus Weather Bureau.

An Eastern visitor to the midwest was grudging in his praise of the area. "This is a pretty nice day," he said finally, "—for a town this size" . . . Eskimos rub noses when they meet. In this country, it's fenders.—Earl Wilson

Waterford Dental Program Shaping Up

More than 9,500 opical fluoride treatment consent-requests will be sent home with Waterford Township school children Monday, in an effort to determine how many to schedule for treatments next summer.

A descriptive phamplet from the State Health department will also be enclosed with the letter, to give parents an idea of the application, results and the direct benefits of the program, according to chairman of the fluoridation group, Mrs. John Hoke.

She said, "This program is not cure-all, but merely a way to help prevent new trouble in children's teeth." She added that the program, which serviced more than 500 children in three township schools last summer, proved highly successful.

After years of study and research, scientists have concluded that the most effective time to administer fluoridation applications is at the ages of 3, 4, 7, 10 and 13.

TO START IN JUNE

The summer fluoridation program is scheduled to begin sometime in mid-June.

Two and possibly three portable equipment units, loaned by the state, will be in operation. Three dental hygienists, under the supervision of Dr. William Baer, will administer the treatments and all PTA health chairmen will be assisting in full force, Mrs. Hoke said.

The newly organized fluoridation group has $700 towards its own unit, which will cost approximately $1,000.

Each child who registers pays $4 for all four of the treatments. After hygienists' salaries and other expenses have been deducted, the balance is then deposited in the treasury, Mrs. Hoke explained.

Car Dealer Changes —Edsels to Ramblers

NEW YORK (UP) — A Manhattan automobile dealer, who switched from Oldsmobiles to Edsels three months ago because he said Oldsmobiles were selling poorly, now is giving up on Edsels for the same reason. He was Manhattan's only Edsel dealer. There are seven in other boroughs of the city.

The action of dealer Charles Kreisler follows reports—denied by the Edsel officials in Detroit—that many Edsel dealers have given up their franchises because of slow sales.

Kreisler, who has a Park Avenue showroom, said the decision to give up his Edsel franchise was because he could not "maintain volume large enough to make it profitable for an organization of our size."

He had hoped to sell 2,000 to 2,500 Edsels a year, he said.

Kreisler has been handling a number of foreign makes as a sideline and recently signed a franchise with American Motors Cory. to sell its Ramblers.

British Wed Young

LONDON (INS) — Teenage weddings are all the vogue in Britain today. Back in 1938 only 16.4 per cent of women and 3.4 per cent of men were under 21 when they married. In 1955 the figures had increased to 30.3 and 7.8 per cent respectively.

Red Sputniks Forcing Revision of Ideas

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP) — A study of the behavior of the Soviet satellites has led scientists to revise their ideas of the density of the upper atmosphere.

Data yielded by U.S. rocket shoots indicated the density of the atmosphere at 140 miles altitude was roughly one ten-billionth of that at sea level.

But new calculations, based primarily on Sputnik I, launched by the Soviets Oct. 4, indicate the atmosphere at this altitude is five times denser—or about one two-billionth that at sea level.

The density is important because it is a measure of the air drag on a satellite. Drag eventually forces a satellite lower, until its final death plunge back to earth.

The new information was released last night by the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory. It is the product of a joint study of satellites by the Smithsonian and the Naval Research Laboratory at Washington.

One result of the joint study, the Smithsonian said, is that the U.S. satellite may have to be launched higher than originally planned.

'Stockade Annie' Brings Cheer to Errant GIs

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky. (UP) — "Stockade Annie" is a familiar figure around this Army post.

But you won't find this 80-year-old woman around the service clubs. She visits the stockade and the hospital.

Each Sunday, Mrs. Anna Mabry, a visitor at the post for 15 years, shows up with presents for the sick and a word of cheer for a GI who may have gone wrong.

The bus company long ago gave her a pass from her Hopkinsville home to the post, where she is allowed to wander unaccompanied.

Make It a Merry Christmas

To Purchase Man's Gifts, Study His Leisure Time

SMART WOMEN — They choose sports or leisure footwear for their men. This wife has both: glove leather chukka boot lined in shearling and a soft moccasin lounge slipper.

Make it a merry Christmas for the man in your life by devoting a little time and study to his favorite leisure-time pursuits, and the equipment he needs to make them more fun.

If he's a sportsman your gift-shopping job is easy, for onhunting, fishing or golfing enthusiast ever has too much gear. The newest improved rifle, the latest type fishing no hunting, fishing or golfing enthusiast ever has too much him in seventh heaven.

If he's a traveling man, or the sedentary, pipe-and-slippers type, you can't go wrong with gifts of handsome leather. Men vibrate to good leather like women do to furs. A matched set of luggage, soft lounging slippers or good boots will put him in a glowing mood. Add a collector's pipe or a box of fine cigars and you can count on keeping him happily home on winter evenings.

If you must give him clothes, make it a gift certificate, so he can choose his own. Most men really do prefer it that way, whether you think so or not.

Finds Low Schooling Connected With Crime

BOWLING GREEN, O. (INS) — A graduate student at Bowling Green State University has found an apparent relationship in schooling and Ohio's electric chair.

Earl R. Nissen made a study of executions and found that almost half of those taken into the chair's deadly embrace from 1931 through 1955 had only elementary education. A bare one percent had any education beyond high school.

Save Poinsettia by Proper Care

Plant Can Bloom Again Next Christmas if Given Rest, Correct Handling

There is no need to let your Christmas poinsettia die. Instead, with proper care, it will bloom next Christmas, and you can also start others from it.

After the poinsettia is through blooming this winter and its leaves are yellow, put it where the air is dry and the temperature 50 to 60 degrees. Give it no water until May.

Bring it out then, cut it back to a height of six or eight inches, remove it from its pot, and pick away as much of the old soil as you easily can.

Re-pot in a container just large enough to hold the roots comfortably. Use a general purpose soil. Place in a sunny place where the temperature is 60 to 70 degrees. Water sparingly at first and more freely as growth starts. Let no more than three strong shoots develop. When the container is moderately filled with roots, transfer to a larger pot.

After the weather is really warm, you may sink the pot to its rim in a sunny place outdoors. Do not remove the plant from the pot, but fertilize regularly during the summer. In early August pinch the shoots or cut them back. Now let develop only a few strong ones and remove all weak growth. Bring indoors before nights turn cold and place in full sun.

When the shoots are cut off it is easy to start new plants from them. Just pot them and cover with a glass and keep soil real wet.

Probably the most important thing in getting a poinsettia to blossom is to give it a long night, almost 12 hours of complete darkness. This must be uninterrupted by even the briefest illumination. If a light is turned on for only one minute each night it will prevent blooming. Either grow your poinsettias in a room not lighted at night or else construct a light proof cover of black cloth or dark paper for them. The critical period is from Oct. 10 on.

Poinsettias are sensitive to temperatures below 60 degrees and to drafts, dryness of soil, excessive wetness. Any of these conditions may cause the leaves to turn yellow and drop off.

Skilled Workers Gain

NEW YORK — One out of every three employed Americans today is a skilled craftsmen or semi-skilled operative compared with one out of four in 1910. In the same period the ratio of white-collar workers increased from one out of five to two out of five.

REMEMBER ME — This fabric is family's way of Christmas giving to young couple. Mother and Dad provide gift certificate to buy material for room. Sophisticated combination is blue and beige print and Glosheen.

For Young Married Couple

Fabric May Fill Yearning

A Christmas gift for a young married couple from their parents creates a problem. A gift for the home or apartment is a safe solution. But this, too, can be a stumper.

Perhaps a fabric gift to finish decorating a recreation room or den would be in line. This room usually is the last to get attention because of budget problems.

A gift certificate or check for amount of fabric needed allows the couple to choose what they want.

A stylist dreamed up one "fabric gift" room. To give the room a casual air, cafe curtains are used.

These feature combined use of a novelty print, "Remember Me," in soft tones of blue and beige with coordinated beige Glosheen. Two-toned ball fringe is used on valance and side of cafe curtains to give the effect of full-length draperies The print then is repeated on the sofa or couch and solid blue Glosheen covers an ottoman.

Dogs Recognize Master by Walk; Vision Is Poor

NEW YORK — According to the Better Vision Institute, dogs don't have very efficient vision. They use their eyes mainly to avoid obstacles and never to observe details. They get their chief pleasures through their other senses.

The vision of different dogs may vary, even in the same breed. Some can see a moving object 800 yards away, but can only recognize it at a distance of 150 yards. And a large dog can see farther than a very small one.

Quick recognition depends on motion, the institute says, and a dog recognizes its master first by his gait and last of all by his face.

Traditional Black Rod Quits After 20 Years

WELLINGTON, New Zealand — After 20 years' service as Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod—an office dating back almost to the Magna Carta—Major D. I. C. Bryan has retired here.

In evening clothes and carrying an ebony and gold rod as badge of office, Black Rod knocks on the doors of the house of Parliament, opens, enters, and informs the members that "His Excellency the Governor General" desires their immediate attendance.

This traditional ceremony is the prelude to the Speech from the throne. That is practically the only duty devolving upon Black Rod.

Chapter 40

Judge DeWitt frowned at Mason.

"I'm going to recall Robert King," Hamilton Burger said.

King came forward and took the witness stand.

"You have already been sworn," the district attorney said. "I am going to ask you what the hotel records show in regard to Room 728."

"It was rented to a Ruth Culver."

"And what happened to Ruth Culver?"

"She checked out of the hotel at about six-forty-five on the evening of October sixteenth."

"When did she rent the room?"

"Around ten o'clock in the morning of October sixteenth."

"Who checked her out?"

"I presented her with the bill, which she paid in cash."

"And then what?"

"It was early enough to have the room made up so we could rerent it again if we needed to that night."

"Cross-examine," Hamilton said.

Mason said, "You didn't see Ruth Culver when she checked in, did you?"

"No, sir."

"You weren't on duty at that time?"

"No, sir."

"So for all you know, the woman who checked out of Suite 728 may not have been the same woman who registered in there?"

"I know she was the woman who checked out of 728."

"How do you know that?"

"Because she paid the bill and the bellboy went up and brought the baggage down."

'I DIDN'T SEE HER'

"Quite right. You know some woman checked out of Room 728 but you don't know it was the same woman who checked in, do you?"

"Well, I didn't see her when she checked in. I wasn't on duty."

"For all you know of your own knowledge," Mason said, "the woman who rented 728 could well have been Rose Calvert, whose body was found in Suite 729."

"Oh, Your Honor," Hamilton Burger said, "I object to this question. It is argumentative. It is completely incompetent, irrelevant, and immaterial, and it shows the straws at which counsel is clutching."

"The question is argumentative," Judge DeWitt said.

"If the court please," Mason said, "it is a logical question. The initials of Ruth Culver and Rose Calvert are the same. The baggage which was taken down from 728 had the initials 'R. C.' and . . ."

"Your Honor, Your Honor!" Hamilton Burger shouted. "I object to this statement. I assign the making of it as misconduct. I point out to the court that the whole specious, fabricated nature of this defense is now coming into court in its true light.

HE HAD THE CHANCE

"The defendant in this case admittedly had the Smith & Wesson revolver in his possession from around six-thirty-five on the evening of the sixteenth until it was surrendered to the officers on the morning of the seventeenth.

"The defendant had consulted Perry Mason as his attorney, and presumably had turned the gun over to him. At least he had the opportunity to do so.

"Mr. Mason, finding out that there had been a checkout on the seventh floor of the hotel during the evening, had ample opportunity to get to that room to fire a shot in the mattress, then instruct a detective to go to that room and be there so that Mr. Mason could make a grandstand of discovering the bullet hole in the mattress the next morning.

"Now just a minute! Just a minute!" Judge DeWitt interrupted, banging his gavel down on the desk. "We'll have no accusations of this nature at this time, Mr. District Attorney. You have objected to the question on the ground that it is argumentative. In the light of Mr. Mason's statement, it is now the opinion of the court that the question is not argumentative.

"Counsel is simply asking the witness what is a self-evident fact, that since the witness doesn't know who checked in to Room 728, it could have been anybody. It could have been the young woman who was subsequently found murdered. It could have been anyone.

"Now the court suggests that, if you want to show who this person was who checked into Room 728, if it becomes important for any reason, you can produce that person and have her testify, or in the event you can't produce her and any attempt is made to show that the person who checked into 728 was the person whose body was found in 729, you can produce the register and have a handwriting expert testify as to the differences in handwriting."

Mason grinned and said, "And when he does that, Your Honor, the handwriting expert will have to testify that the Ruth Culver who signed the register and checked into 728 was the Rose Calvert whose body was found in 729."

"Your Honor! Your Honor!" Hamilton Burger shouted. "This is improper. That is an improper statement. That is misconduct on the part of defense counsel."

"Well," Judge DeWitt said, "let's not have so much excitement about this. After all, the matter is perfectly obvious. Have you checked the registration, Mr. District Attorney?"

Hamilton Burger's face purpled. "No, your Honor, we haven't because there is no need for so doing. We don't need to check the handwriting of every person who registered in the Redfern Hotel on the morning of the sixteenth in order to negative some perfectly fallacious theory which the defense is trying to advance."

'WELL, GO AHEAD'

"Well, if you're not going to anticipate the defense, and call witnesses to refute it in advance," Judge DeWitt said, "I fail to see the reason for calling the witness Inskip."

"We want to show the tactics of defense counsel."

"Well, go ahead and show them," Judge DeWitt said, "but refrain from personalities, and if I were you, Mr. Prosecutor, I would put on my own case, and then in the event defense makes any claims you have an opportunity to call witnesses in rebuttal. It always is a dangerous practice to try and anticipate a defense and negative it in advance, and it is not in accordance with the best practice.

"Proceed with the cross-examination of this witness, Mr. Mason."

"No further cross-examination," Mason said.

"Call your next witness," Judge DeWitt said to Hamilton Burger.

"I will call Norton Barclay Calvert, the husband of the dead woman," Hamilton Burger said. "Come forward, Mr. Calvert, and be sworn."

There was a moment's delay while the bailiff's voice could be heard outside of the courtroom calling Norton Calvert.

A few moments later the door opened and Norton Calvert entered the courtroom and came forward to the witness stand.

New Mexico Is Spot for Finding Meteors

CHICO HILLS, N. M. (INS) — If you're interested in the study of meteorites you might join a group of people in Chico Hills in northeastern New Mexico.

Chico Hills is full of meteorites, and most of them are located in a 100-square mile area. The University of New Mexico's Institute of Meteoritics, for example, has systematically combed the rugged hills for the past six years, and has alerted inhabitants in the area "to keep their eyes peeled" for stony or iron fragments that might have come from the heaven.

On Mar. 6, 1951 a meteorite did fall from the heavens, a giant nickle-iron one. UM meteoriticist Dr. Lincoln La Paz returned to the campus recently from the Chico Hills area with more than 50 bonafide meteorites, most discovered by residents of the area.

Old Navy Man Flies Long Way to Re-enlist

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A Norwich, Conn., Navy man of 18 years' service flew across country from San Diego, Calif., to Springfield in order to re-enlist.

TV for Ireland Being Considered

DUBLIN — Television is moving closer to the Irish Republic, with the powers that be in Dublin studying two offers to establish TV there for the first time.

One is from an American firm, the other from an Irish firm. No indication of the Government's reaction to these offers has been given, but television apparently is considered a must for Ireland.

The Minister for Posts and Telegraphs recently said the possibility of commercial television under government control is being considered. Commercial TV may be available before long from the Independent TV Authority transmitter in Northern Ireland.

The average lifetime mileage of a U. S. passenger automobile has increased from 25,000 in 1925 to about 125,000 now.

Plywood Wall Christmas Gift Shows 'Accent'

What is more, you can put up the plankweld wall yourself with a minimum of effort. Cost is around $57 for an 8x12-foot wall.

Time was when paneled walls were within the reach of luxury homes only. This is not so today. Homeowners, in all income brackets, seeking a change of atmosphere can brighten living rooms, dens or dining rooms by adding just one plywood wall. The panels can be installed over an old wall without removing paint or paper, since the panel edges are grooved to fit into each other to form a continuous wall.

Ultrasonic Surgery Proves Its Worth

CHICAGO—Ultrasonic brain surgery has reportedly emerged from the development stage. The process is based on the fact that high-intensity sound waves, passed through the brain, destroy nerve tissue only at the focal point.

Respirator Induces Infants to Breathe

GLASGOW, Scotland—In regular use in a Glasgow hospital is an apparatus for coaxing newborn infants to breathe. The electronic respirator is controlled by the infant.

When the baby makes an effort to breathe, a small pressure change in his face mask operates a sensitive trigger valve, which activates an electronic controller.

3 From State Killed in Indiana

Other Driver and 4th Member of Hazel Park Family Injured

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UP) — Three members of a Michigan family were killed yesterday in a head-on auto crash that left the other driver in critical condition.

Dead in the collision three miles north of here were Mrs. Ollie Ethel Polikowski, 33, Hazel Park, Mich., driver of one car; her husband, Franklin A. Polikowski, 36, and their 11-year-old son, Richard.

A girl 3 or 4 years old, whose name was not learned immediately, was reported in fair condition at Park View Hospital.

Archie E. Jackson, 69, Angola, alone in the other car, suffered critical head and internal injuries.

State Police said witnesses reported Mrs. Polikowski attempted to pass a mobile crane and a semi-trailer truck at the same time. When it became evident she could not get back into her lane before meeting the Jackson car, both autos swerved but crashed together.

National Safety Council Head Warns:

Yule Season Real Time of Hazard

By NED H. DEARBORN
President, National Safety Council

I have been asked to put together a few rules on how to survive Christmas.

The very suggestion is shocking, isn't it? How to survive Christmas! You'd think Christmas was a time of war, instead of a period devoted to "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men."

Nevertheless, the cold facts are that the Christmas holiday season is one of the most dangerous periods of the year — both on the highway and in the home.

Why?

ALL RUSH

Well, for one reason because of the rush of the season. People are going full tilt. They are shopping, planning and attending Yuletide parties. They are planning their Christmas holiday trips to Aunt Minnie's, doing a thousand and one things—including that last-minute job of sending out hundreds of Christmas cars which should have gone out weeks before.

Then there is the weather—snow, sleet, rain, fog, darkness, slippery roads. A perfect set-up for traffic accidents.

And, let's face it, there is Yuletide conviviality. Too many people drink too much—and then try to drive. Drinking is one of the biggest causes of Christmas holiday traffic accidents.

Well, then, how can we come safely through all these pitfalls without becoming a recluse or a killjoy?

Here are 10 simple rules to help you survive Christmas and make it merry instead of tragic:

1. Start early on your holiday trip, and take it easy.
2. Don't drive if you drink.
3. Be courteous and thoughtful to others. Try smiling at another driver. Watch his amazement—and his response!
4. Don't insist on making the trip if the weather or the roads tell you that you really shouldn't go.
5. Slow down by at least 10 miles from what you would normally regard as a safe speed. This is a concession to the weather, to the convivial season and to heavy traffic.

IN THE HOUSE

1. Keep your Christmas tree well watered—and keep the tree away from sources of heat.
2. Turn out the tree lights when you leave the house — or even when you leave the room for an extended period.
3. Don't overload the electric outlets. You don't have to be an expert to know that a blown fuse means an overload.

4. Inspect your home for icy steps and walks, and other hazards. Even if you can remember to dodge such booby traps, your guests may not.
5. Be careful not to place Christmas decorations and evergreen branches near your fireplace or around candles. Be extra careful of any fire hazards during the Christmas season.

Remember: Any accident to any member of the household can spoil Christmas for the entire family. It's really worth a little trouble to stay safe.

Smoking Gifts Fine, But—

Go Slowly on His Tobacco

Contemplating a "put this in your pipe and smoke it" gift for some man? Well, there are no set rules for selecting a proper blend as a gift.

For outdoor men, though, the Pipe and Tobacco Council recommends a slow-burning, piognant smoke.

Before buying tobacco for your mate, boy friend or father, check the aroma of his pipe smoke. If it is sweetsmelling, then ask for an "aromatic" tobacco.

Select a tobacco that is not crisp or flaky. Buying from a reliable tobacconist, supermarket or drug chain insures freshness as well as quality.

Accessories for the inveterate pipe smoker may range from pipe cleaners, lighters, stands and pouches to smoking jackets, slippers or even a chair and reading lamp for his comfortable enjoyment.

Wedding rings are placed on the third finger of the left hand because of an old Egyptian belief that a nerve ran from that finger to the heart.

Storage Space for New Toys

Plywood Sheets Make Chest for Holiday Gifts to Solve Problem

Corraling a deluge of Christmas toys is a problem in homes with little storage space. Be ready with a toy chest. One of ¾-inch plywood involves screwing six sheets together.

The six sheets measure: top and bottom, 46½x18 inches; front and back, 46½ x 17¾ inches; sides 16½x17 inches. Other materials are 48 1½-inch No. 10 flathead steel screws, 12 1½-inch No. 6 flathead steel screws and two ¾-inch wide butt hinges.

To assemble, place front piece face down and mark screw holes. The first hole starts 1¼ inches from the top edge with others spaced at ¾-inch intervals from it. Follow the same procedure for the back and sides and bottom. Label each sheet.

Drill holes with a ⅛-inch bit in a ¼-inch drill. Join front and back to sides, with the shorter pieces simply placed against the longer pieces to form corners. Secure four sides with steel screws with ordinary screw driver or the speedy way with screw driver attachment for a Cummins ¼-inch drill.

Reports Industry Moving to Georgia to 'Avoid Reds'

(Last of a series on taxes and industry.)

ATLANTA (AP) — The Georgia State Department of Commerce says more than 700 new industries have set up in Georgia since the start of 1955.

Scott Candler, head of the department, points to U. S. Department of Commerce reports showing Georgia fourth among the states in securing new heavy industries since the end of World War II, exceeded only by California, Ohio and Texas.

In 1956, Candler said, the state was third behind Texas and Florida.

Reasons for the continued growth as listed by Candler include a mild climate, natural resources, adaptable manpower, regular advertising and what he terms the "political attitude" of the state.

Candler said the political attitude is insured by Georgia's unique county unit system of electing top state officials, including the governor. The system gives small, conservative rural counties the balance of power.

NO REDS THERE

"There can be no communistic influences in Georgia," he said. "At least three national manufacturers told me this was the controlling influence in their plants coming to Georgia.

..."Our labor is the best in America. The men and women are not controlled by rules of outside organizations. We have the lowest tax structure in the Southeast. But we have no give-away program in the way of tax exemption."

Any suggestion that Georgia or other parts of the South are pirating northern industry by offering special inducements for new plants is stoutly denied.. But more than 60 Georgia towns—like others in most Southern states—have formed industria l development corporations to construct new plants with an idea of luring new industry.

WAGES IN PICTURE

In the shift of industry to Georgia wage differentials enter the picture, but not as prominently as in years past.

Labor leaders say many of the basic industries now have wage scales equal to those in the North. But southern union leaders are continuing a drive to bring pay of smaller plants up to maximums prevailing elsewhere.

Candler, a lifelong Democrat, says Georgia's agriculture has declined "due to policies of Secretary of Agriculture Benson and we have lots of former farmers who are turning to industry. They have been quick to adapt to new skills."

Writing in a recent issue of The Manufacturers Record, a southern industrial magazine, Edward D. Powers, vice president of American Cyanamid Co., discussed factors in the location of new plants.

American Cyanamid has 17 manufacturing and mining facilities in the South. Powers said location of a new plant is resolved in favor of the site which realistically satisfies the "arithmetic of economics" and in many cases the governmental climate will tip the scales.

"In the South," he wrote, "we find that community atmosphere and the other aspects of governmentl climate are not only acceptable, but highly satisfactory."

Recent racial disturbances in some southern states have caused concern in some quarters of the Georgia business community.

Most state officials see little prospect of similar outbreaks in eGorgia. They point to amicable relations over the years and to Georgia laws which they hope will discourage attempts at race mixing in schools.

But some business and civil leaders continue to worry about the effect similar outbreaks might have on the state's present rosy industrial picture.

(Last of the series.)

UAW Acquittal Poses Question

May Mean Congress Will Have to Strengthen Corrupt Practices Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Rogers said that the Justice Department is studying how a recent Detroit case affects federal laws barring unions from financial participation in political campaigns.

Rogers declined to say at this time whether he feels the acquittal of the United Auto Workers (UAW) by a federal court jury in Detroit means the Corrupt Practices Act must be strengthened.

The UAW was acquitted of government charges that 1954 broadcasts it sponsored constituted direct campaigning for Democratic candidates and violated the act.

Sen. Potter (R-Mich) had asked Rogers whether the act could be enforced without additional legislation in view of the decision. He suggested the acquittal would open the way for widespread political activity by corporations, who also are regulated by the Corrupt Practices Act.

Rogers pointed out that the jury's decision in Detroit "constituted a determination of the facts only and presented no determination of the legal issues."

The UAW, while contending that its 1954 activity was political education intended for union members, argued that the Corrupt Practices Act is unconstitutional. The acquittal prevented a testing of the constitutional issue.

Potter, admittedly an underdog in his expected 1958 battle for re-election, has attributed recent Michigan Democratic successes in large part to the UAW's political activity.

NOISE DETECTOR — "Piggy-back" method is used by Fisher Body and General Motors sound engineers to record noises emanating from the inside of a moving car. Here the test car, a new Pontiac equipped with microphones, is driven on a rough-textured road, and is connected to the following car by a cable. Recording instruments in the second car measure and locate the noises.

Fisher Body Uses Elaborate Techniques to Produce Quiet Car

Electronic 'Stethoscope' Traces Noise

Fisher Body Division of General Motors has "crashed the sound barrier" to bring automobile passengers a quieter and more comfortable ride.

In developing new bodies for the General Motors line of cars, Fisher Body engineers employ the use of elaborate electronic instruments to detect and minimize body noises. Undue noise creates a comfort and fatigue problem which is directly related to safe driving.

Much progress in quietness and smoothness of operation has been made as a result of scientific sleuthing done by engineers with electronic stethoscopes.

Fisher Body and GM Proving Ground sound experts at Milford use high fidelity stereophonic tape recorders to track down annoying vibration or noise to its source. Noise is sometimes reflected from its source to another area of the car, and thereby the offender is often difficult to detect.

But the electronic hearing capacity of highly sensitive microphones in conjunction with magnetic stereophonic tape recorders betray the exact location and intensity of the noise "gremlin."

Elimination of noise is considered from the very first moment a new body program goes into effect. Engineers know that good body structure is the first step in keeping comfort and safety levels at a maximum.

With this in mind, experimental body models are built by hand and these are subjected to long series of tests to determine the strength and quality of the complete body structure.

MANY TYPES OF TESTS

They are subjected to torsion tests, bending tests, shake tests, breakdown tests—and numerous static tests are made of the complete structure and of individual parts and assemblies.

As a result of these tests, Bodies by Fisher have heavy gauge box-type girders and roof rails anchored to a solid steel foundation, making one integrally joined assembly.

Further insurance against noise is the utilization of sound-deadening materials. Twenty-three different kinds of insulating and sealing materials keep body noise down, dirt and dust out, and the comfort level up.

After hundreds of tests are performed and the experimental bodies are perfected, Fisher Body's famous craftsmanship goes into high gear on producing car bodies.

TO PROVING GROUNDS

Completed automobiles are then transported to the proving grounds for "sound barrier" tests conducted by Fisher Body and GM Proving Ground engineers. Here, highly trained personnel put delicate detecting and recording instruments to work on automobile bodies—much like a doctor probes the human heart with the stethoscope and electrocardiograph.

In evaluating insulating and sound-deadening materials to be used in Fisher Bodies, the binaural technique is used. This gives the same effect to the car as stereo vision does the eye. Two microphones are set up in positions corresponding to the human ears. Through these microphones noises are recorded simultaneously on a high fidelity tape recorder utilizing two separate channels.

In a typical test, engine noise is picked up by two microphones inside a closed car and relayed to the recording instrument outside. The effectiveness of insulating and deadening materials in the cowl area is evaluated in this manner.

In another test the car is placed in an atmosphere of sound created by tones of various pitch emanating from loud speakers in a special enclosure. The difference in sound level is recorded from inside and outside the closed car.

Noises from a car actually in motion on a rough roadbed are recorded by a unique method. The car being tested is equipped with microphones which are connected by a cable to a station wagon which carries the recording instruments. The station wagon follows the test car on an adjacent smooth roadbed.

Von Braun Calls for All-Out Effort

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The German rocket scientist who directs Army missile development says, "Every single American must come to realize an all-out national effort is needed to catch up with the Soviet Union."

"We are behind the Russians because we started too late," he said. "They threw everything into the program right after the war. We started only in 1951. And today they have achieved a greater working speed than we have. In order to catch up with them we must beat their working speed. That is the key to the entire program."

Von Braun said that mixing Air Force, Army and Navy missile programs now might not be a good idea because all branches "have wonderful teams at work now."

Once Afraid of Turning Over as Bones Broke

Girl Defeats Handicap to Lead Happy Life

By SYLVIA de STEIGER

GROWTH HALTED

Today, although 25 years old, she is still a little girl . . . three feet, six inchs tall. Her illness halted her growth at about the age of six but today this handicap has been conquered.

Our "little girl" now handles the job of a responsible woman in a Pontiac office.

This story is about Mary Ann Swain. Her illness, osteogenesis impecfecta, was first diagnosed when she was about five years old. Before that, she lived the normal, happy and carefree life playing with her three sisters and two brothers just like any other child could do.

BROKE HER LEG

While playing one day, she ran, fell and broke her leg. From then on, a long painful series of broken legs which did not heal properly followed.

This unique illness is a congenital fault in the bone structure which results in severe multiple fractures at the slightest twist of a bone the wrong way. The cause is unknown. Mary's illness was confined to below her waist.

During her childhood, Mary Ann lived with her parents on Silverbell road, Orion Township. From the age of 5 to 9, she was confined to bed. Most of the time her legs wore casts. If she didn't break her legs herself through some movement in bed, or while attempting to walk, doctors would to try to straighten them.

Once, during a period of six months, she had 15 broken fractures in her legs.

ENTERED SCHOOL

When she was nine years old, she entered Carpenter Elementary School.

Country schools are not as convenient as city schools. In the winters Mary's mother pulled the crippled child to school through the snow fields on a sled. During the other three seasons, the wheelchair - ridden child was transported on a wagon for eight years . . . but, attendance wasn't continuous.

Often she was tutored by her teachers while confined in bed at home.

While she attended Lake Orion High School through the 10th grade friends lifted Mary Ann on and off of the school bus daily. Here she was stationed at a desk in the rear of a room and teachers brought the work to her.

RECEIVED THERAPY

High school attendance was not regular either. Visits to a crippled children's clinic in Grand Rapids totaled approximately one year, including summer months. Here, through the aid of the State Crippled Children's Commission, Mary Ann received therapy. She now began to use crutches instead of a wheelchair.

In 1949, at the age of 18, Mary Ann had completed 10 school grades in nine years of schooling.

From 1950 to 1956, time was spent on physical restoration and vocational rehabilitation through the work and aid of the Michigan Employment Security Commission and the State Employment Services and Vocational Rehabilitation Agency.

FACED DECISION

In 1955, Mary Ann was confronted with a decision. For five years doctors had been restoring her physically in preparation for surgery and two artificial legs.

Mary Ann's final decision was not to have artificial legs. "My own legs were given to me for some reason and no matter what size they are, I think I should make the best of them," Mary Ann reasoned.

Tests and interviews by the state vocational agency revealed Mary Ann's handicap would not be harmful to her employer nor hinder her if she trained to be a bookkeeper.

Then, her leg broke again after a fall, and this time Mary Ann was bedridden six months. During this time and the six months that followed, she completed college bookkeeping and accounting basic and advanced courses underwritten by the state agency.

Last fall, the agency found Mary Ann a job at the Dean Brothers Candy and Cigar Store wholesalers, 474 S. Saginaw St. For three months the agency paid the employer to train Mary Ann on-the-job.

Since then, little Mary Ann has been working at the office in billing, bookkeeping, accounting, scheduling the truck drivers' runs and taking orders over the phone.

Complete self-sufficiency is evident by the fact that Mary Ann has her own three room bachelorette apartment. She does her own cooking, housekeeping and when she has a moment to spare, makes all her clothes.

In another month Mary Ann claims all of her furniture payments will be extinct. She soon hopes to buy a specially equipped car.

Mary Ann doesn't consider herself handicapped. When asked if there is anything other people can do that she can't but would like to do, Mary Ann's answer is "no."

Contentedly she added: "After all, I was quite lucky. I never had any of those childhood diseases such as measles, mumps or chickenpox."

CRIPPLED BUSINESSWOMAN — Mary Ann Swain, 25, once feared she would break a bone everytime she turned over in bed. Today, through the work of the vocational state rehabilitation agency and her unwillingness to give up, she is a happy and contented working girl and self-sufficient.

Arkansas Midwives Continue Practicing

The State Health Department says at last count there were 443 midwives in practice in the remote Ozarks mountain and sharecropper sections of the state. Last year they delivered a total of 4,676 babies.

State health officer Dr. J. T. Herron said:

* * *

"We recognize that midwives are necessary, because some persons just can't afford to pay a doctor's fees. But more doctors and state regulations are driving midwives out of practice."

THANKSGIVING

QUESTION: When was the first official Thanksgiving?

ANSWER: The first American Thanksgiving Day was celebrated on Dec. 13, 1621, by the Plymouth colonists. It was their second winter in the New World; the dreadful first winter had killed nearly half their number. So, after a summer of new hope and ample harvest, Governor William Bradford decreed that a day be set aside for feasting and prayer.

Colonial hunters supplied venison and wild turkeys for the feast, and friendly Indians came with more contributions for the three-day festival. Observance of a Thanksgiving Day spread to other New England colonies, but there was no official national Thanksgiving Day in the United States until 1865.

UP Man Enters State Post Race

George C. Hill Receives Consideration for Job Now Held by Kavanagh

LANSING (AP) — The name of an Upper Peninsula prosecutor today entered speculation over a possible successor to Atty. Gen. Thomas M. Kavanagh as the state's chief legal officer.

Taking his place alongside three other candidates reportedly under active consideration for the forthcoming appointment by Gov. Williams was George C. Hill, 37, Marquette County prosecuting attorney.

Also in the field were Paul L. Adams of Sault Ste. Marie, a University of Michigan regent; Aud. Gen. Frank S. Szymanski and Joseph A. Sullivan, deputy attorney general.

Kavanagh must resign before the end of December to step up to a seat on the State Supreme Court. He was elected last April to succeed retiring Justice Edward M. Sharpe.

The governor has been taking his time in choosing Kavanagh's successor, still indicates he will not be rushed.

Hill, serving his second term in the prosecutor's office, is an Illinois native. He won the post in 1954 by defeating Edmund Thomas of Ishpeming, the Republican incumbent, who earlier beat John D. Voelker, now a supreme court justice. Voelker had served seven terms.

Friends describe Hill as vigorous, conscientious, a good speaker and generally the kind who might lend strength to the Democratic state ticket in 1958, a consideration that will carry weight.

Adams, better know because of his statewide campaigning, is a former Sault Ste. Marie mayor who is widely respected in Democratic circles.

He was considered for the state supreme court post finally awarded Voelker.

As in the case of Hill, Adams has a geographical advantage in the sometimes wistful desire of the Democratic top command to get an Upper Peninsula man on the State Administrative Board.

Szymanski has expressed interest in succeeding Kavanagh for several months, but also has a longing to be a judge.

Kavanagh has said that if he is asked he will recommend Sullivan for the post he is vacating.

Ministers Pledge to Resist Groups Inciting Prejudice

"We pledge ourselves to resist any organization which incites race prejudice and undermines respect for law," declared 18 ministers of 14 churches in Washington's all-white suburb of Bethesda, Md.

In a statement read from pulpits of the town's Protestant churches, the signers decried recent cross-burnings in the state.

"Recent events have demonstrated," they declared, "that . . . even in the most unlikely places, violence, hatred and discord may break out."

Noting the spreading network of segregationist groups springing up in Maryland, the ministers headed by the Rev. Lloyd G. Brown, president of the Bethesda Council of Churches, worked together for two months.

Under the title "Our Ministry of Reconciliation," it was printed and distributed widely. Since the Supreme Court decision three years ago, the statement noted, integration in Maryland public schools has made gradual progress but housing, particularly in suburban areas, remains largely segregated.

"Neutrality and indifference by the churches on social issues can be costly," the ministers declared.

State to Issue Letters on Election Procedure

LANSING (AP)—Robert M. Montgomery, state elections director, yesterday inaugurated an information letter to tighten liaison with township clerks and other elections officials on elections matters.

Called "The Polling Place," the publication will be issued as occasion appears to warrant, perhaps monthly. It will include discussions of election laws, procedures and techniques, Supreme Court decisions and attorney general's opinions.

Secretary of State James M. Hare said Ohio and a few other states have been issuing a similar bulletin, and found it useful.

To Avoid Cast-Offs?

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Mrs. Jane Born, director of nurses at West Jersey Hospital here, is a lady who thinks a little glamor may be good for broken bones. Now patients may order their plaster casts in pink, yellow or blue, instead of the old-fashioned white.

More than 85 per cent of all churches in the U. S. have Sunday Schools. Their estimated enrollment is about 28 million.

Adults Prefer Durable, Fetching Toys for Yule

Old St. Nick will be a weary man Dec. 26. He will deliver more than 245 million toys to America's homes alone.

And these, say his helpers—the American toy-makers—will be intriguing playthings designed with a purpose for the 60 million youngsters under 17.

Surveys by the Toy Manufacturers Assn. reveal that durability and good value sell toys to parents, aunts and uncles. Coupled with these factors, however, is the desire for toys to hold a child's interest and offer hours of play value.

For this reason major items will be improved. Bicycles, sleds, trains and dolls—will be more versatile and realistic. New types of runners on sleds permit children to ride on thin, unpacked snow, for example.

Not to be overlooked in news from the North Pole is the anticipated $250 million doll market this year. And leading buyers predict a record breaking year for western garb and accessories.

Toys Reflect Atomic Age

World of Future Here in 'Nuclear' Powered Trains, Radar Devices

It whizzes around the tracks with blinking lights that simulate the burning of fissionable materials. The flat cars are mounted with a guided missile and an atomic cannon, while the engine and caboose bear the startling legends "Danger, Radioactive."

Nervous mothers will be glad to learn that there isn't an ounce of uranium anywhere in the five-car set according to the Kusan-Auburn designers. Cannon fires such "eatomic" substances as jelly beans, peanuts and licorice bits.

Other Christmas toys let the youngsters stretch their imaginations from here to Mars without any difficulty. There are robots, supersonic cars and flying platforms.

"Big Max," an electronic robot, is controlled automatically from his operating panel and will bend to pick up metal ingots with his electromagnetic arms from the bin behind and deposit them on the moving conveyor belt in front.

RADAR-CONTROLLED

And don't be surprised if a gold futuristic-looking car suddenly crawls through the living room, neatly dodging tables and chairs and continues out the front door.

It's a new radar controlled car, that responds to a special gold whistle up to 40 feet away. The revolving radar screen fastened on top responds to the sound wave and is directed accordingly.

Even such a tried and true toy as the minstrel show dancing man has been revitalized with large shots of electronic flavor.

Jaycees Disclose Plans for Yule Lighting Contest

Plans for the 1957 Christmas Lighting and Decorating contest sponsored annually by the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce were announced today by Robert Norberg, contest chairman.

Entries may be sent beginning Dec. 4 to Norberg at the downtown Community National Bank, in care of the Jaycee Christmas Lighting contest. They must be postmarked no later than Dec. 18.

The home owner who is judged to have decoarted his home most attractively will be entered in General Electric's $5,000 nationwide contest.

Entries should list the name, address and a brief description of the display, Norberg said.

Once again there will be picked an east and west side winner, with both receiving plaques. Plans are being made to present additional prizes.

Norberg encouraged every family in the city to participate in the contest.

"Our community will receive a great many benefits from an all-out effort to decorate our homes. This contest will provide pleasure for everyone participating and will help beautify the city at this season of the year," he said.

Curious Britons Visit Exhibition on Kalamazoo

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Curious Britons, at a rate of nearly 2,500 a day, have been pouring through an exhibition this week on what it's like to live in a small American city.

The exhibition is based on Kalamazoo, a Michigan city of 80,000.

Kalamazoo and Manchester are unlike, except in language. Kalamazoo's Mayor Glenn Allen said he "felt sure that the odd, Indian name of our town had something to do with its selection as the subject of the United States government exhibition."

The exhibit opened Monday and 1,800 viewed the pictures, movies, charts, graphs and consumer goods which are representative of life in prosperous America. The attendance yesterday jumped to 2,700.

"We had several large groups of school children as well as older people," said Fred Hardtray, director of the exhibit.

"Attendance was off to a very good start today and it looks like we will improve on yesterday."

The exhibit is scheduled to remain in Manchester until Dec. 7. After Christmas it opens in London and later goes to Cardiff, Wales, Hull, Birmingham and Sheffield, Edinburgh, and Coventry, where it will end its nine months run.

L. Clayton Willis of Greenwich, Conn., engaged by the U.S. Information Service to answer questions throughout the tour, said the main points English visitors have asked were about "housing, job opportunities, schools and the cost of living."

"Not a single antagonistic question has been asked so far," Willis said. "Everybody has just been curious and highly interested."

Commission in Ohio OKs Insurance Merger

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An application by Western and Southern Life Insurance Co. of Ohio to merge with Guaranty Union Life Insurance Co. of Beverly Hills, Calif., has been approved by a state merger commission.

The merger, in effect, gives Western and Southern a branch doing business in California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Nevada and arizona, officials said.

Finds Gold on Farm Too Close to Home

CAPETOWN — Bob Du Preez, on whose farm near Potchefstroom, South Africa, gold has been found, wishes the spot were further from his house.

The farm has been in the Du Preez family for three generations but if a mine is started there, he will reluctantly move his family. The drill is close to the old family house.

"Accustomed to the quiet farm life, we won't be able to stay on there if a mine is to be worked," he said, "but of course, gold is where you find it. If it were only beyond the ridge it wouldn't bother us."

Drilling now underway will tell the tale.

Seek Thieves Who Got in Rhee's Guarded Villa

SEOUL (AP)—South Korean police headquarters flashed nationwide orders today to catch the thieves who broke into the closely guarded villa of President Syngman Rhee over the weekend and are still at large, it was learned.

A carpet and 34 other items reportedly worth $1,200 were stolen.

Stamp Case Is Idea

Inside-the-bag accessories solve many shopping problems. Who would think to look for an inch-square leather case for stamps? Well, they exist. A small leather pillbox is another decorative, but practical, accessory.

Largest A-Smasher Planned for Illinois

CHICAGO (AP)—The world's largest atom smasher, a 100-million-dollar facility, may be built at Argonne National Laboratory in suburban Lemont.

Argonne, an Atomic Energy Commission facility operated by the University of Chicago, announced it had been picked as the site for the "trillion-volt super atom smasher."

Construction of the atom smasher—known scientifically as a proton synchrotron—will depend upon congressional approval and the feasibility of the design developed by scientists of the Midwest University Research Assn.

H. R. Crane, president of the association of scientists from 12 Midwest universities, said the atom smasher would be the largest in the world.

Other physicists said it would "completely outstrip" a 50-billion-volt machine planned by the Russians.

Chicago Opens Heart to Young Couple

Tragedy Turns to Honeymoon

Married Sept. 15, Don and Nancy had been meeting in Chicago for weekend honeymoons. They'd decided to remain in their respective universities until June.

Last weekend Don drove Nancy to the Chicago & Northwestern Station and put her on a train for Madison. When he returned to his car he found a thief had taken his suitcase, a best suit, $50 in savings, a pair of new shoes, an electric shaver, wedding pictures and a pair of sox Nancy had knitted for him.

Chicago police didn't give Don much hope he'd ever get any of the loot back. He decided a newspaper appeal to the thief might get back his wedding pictures and prized socks, at least.

OFFERS POUR IN

The paper gave sympathetic treatment to Don's story and it elicited public sympathy and all sorts of offers to give the groom and bride a real honeymoon.

The newspaper offered to pick up the tab. A night club sent $50, a theater offered seats to 'My Fair Lady," hotels offered suites and an aviation firm offered to fly the couple to Chicago for the honeymoon.

Nancy developed flu after returning to Madison last weekend, so the couple planned to make it to Chicago some weekend next month. But she's feeling better now so they decided to make it over the Thanksgiving holiday.

Graubart Aviation Co., of Chicago, sent a plane today to fly Don from Kalamazoo to Flint, where he'll spend tomorrow with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Riegle Sr. Then Friday, Graubart will fly Don to Madison to pick up Nancy en route to Chicago for a new weekend honeymoon.

Don's father is a former vice-mayor of Flint and an undertaker. Don is at Western Michigan on a physical education scholarship and will be a center field candidate for the Bronco baseball team in the spring.

Avoid Snubs -- Send Your Cards 1st Class

By JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Don't take a chance a friend or relative will start snubbing you after Christmas.

That's the advice of the U. S. Post Office Department on how you can help guarantee delivery of your mail during the holiday rush and maintain good public relations at the same time.

Christmas cards bearing a two cent stamp can not be forwarded or returned unless extra postage is guaranteed. So if you mail a card without a three center to someone who has moved, he may never receive it.

This might cause you to get a chilly reception when you meet him again, a POD official explains.

POD has a few other tips for you to follow if you want to make sure your Christmas mail goes through.

Print addresses on envelopes if people usually have trouble reading your handwriting.

Be sure to include the zone number. POD officials explain this is especially important during the Christmas season when a lot of extra help is hired. Many of these part-time workers are not familiar with all the districts of a city. The zone number would help prevent your card from arriving at the wrong address where there are several streets with similar names.

Mail overseas packages early if you want them to arrive before Christmas. Parcels to the Far East should be in the mail by Oct. 15. Those going to the Near East and Africa should be on their way not later than Nov. 1. And gifts to friends and relatives in Europe and South and Central America should be mailed by Nov. 10. These dates also apply to sending packages to servicemen overseas.

If you follow these simple rules, chances are that you're in for better mail service this Christmas than ever before. A post office expansion program plus some streamlined operational techniques promise to speed up delivery in many parts of the country.

So far this year 412 new post offices have been constructed under POD's lease - purchase program. And a POD official declares that "dozens" more will be completed by the end of December.

Many postmen will deliver bundles of mail this Christmas on a three wheel motor scooter called a Mailster. The number of little red, white and blue scooters in operation will total about 1,700. This is an increase of several hundred over the number of Mailsters in use last year.

The Mailsters save a lot of wear and tear on the postman's feet in neighborhoods where the houses are not located close together. Also they are a big help in enabling him to out-run disgruntled dogs. A canopy fixed to the little vehicle protects him from the rain, sleet and snow.

Many of the new post offices, which are equipped with self-service stamp machines, are keeping their lobbies open 24 hours a day. Thus people who can't make it to the post office before the windows close can still buy needed postage. Such buildings also enable customers to have round-the-clock access to their lock boxes.

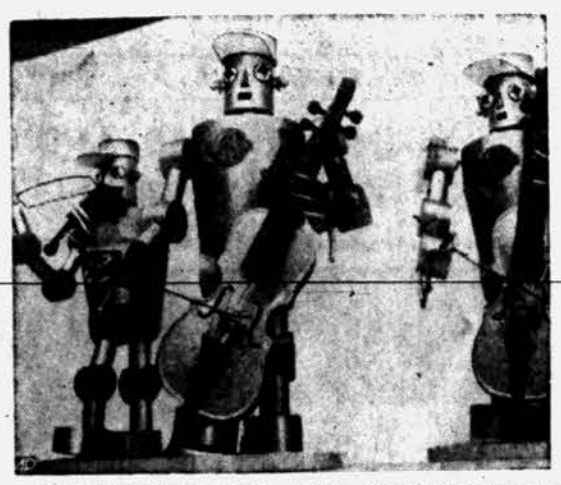
All signs point to even speedier mail delivery in the future. Already an electronic mail sorter is in operation in Silver Springs, Md. stalled in Washington. Baltimore has an automatic parcel post routing machine.

POD officials hope similar devices can be installed in other parts of the country as soon as possible.



ROBOT STRING SECTION — Group "plays" its instruments during performance of one of mechanical band's three-march repertory.

MUST WAIT — Even fleets of specialized Post Office vehicles like these and swelled ranks of postal employes at Christmas must wait for you to get to the mailbox.

Throngs Watch Automatic Men

Robots Yule Attractions in Many Japanese Stores

As each concert opens the conductor marches in front of his 19-inch high musicians, bows to the audience, turns and starts swinging his baton.

METALLIC MUSICIANS

The gold-painted metallic violinists, cellists, trumpeters and drummers, begin "playing" their instruments, moving their arms and heads to the electronic impulses of a complex mechanical brain installed behind the stage. The 17 robots have a three-march repertory.

Toymaker Jiro Aisawa says his band is all booked up for stage appearances throughout the country.

Once a restaurateur, Aisawa decided 31 years ago that there ought to be more interesting occupations.

He turned to the creation of life-like toys.

"In my 31 years as toymaker, I have made 500 robots. I don't call them things but people," he added.

Aisawa is now busy working on a man-sized fortune-telling robot who will look through a magnifying glass at his juvenile clients' hand lines and make such pronouncements as:

"You should be more obedient to your mother," or, "You ought to study harder."

Aisawa said he also is dreaming about a man-sized violinist who could perform a difficult solo such as a Beethoven violin concerto.

* * *

The robot-virtuoso, though preserving the feature and voice of a superman, will be dressed in tail-coat like a concert artist and go on a country-wide, and if possible on a world-wide concert tour.

Asiawa will be his impresario.

College Rolls Increase

WASHINGTON—According to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the nation's enrollment in graduate schools, colleges, and junior colleges hit a record 3,450,000 this school year, a rise of 206,000 over the year before.

Warren G. Harding is the only man who went direct from the Senate to the Presidency.

4 Doctors Ribbed About Fishing Trip

"I hate fishing," said Dr. E. Lovell Becker, head of the MCV renal electrolyte (kidney) laboratory. "I can't understand anybody who has nothing better to do than to sit all day and fish."

* * *

Object of the trip, which has been four years in the making and was prefaced by a stack of correspondence four inches thick, is to discover as much as possible about as many types of fish as the group can obtain. They hope to discover something of the evolutionary development of kidneys—how they overcome changes in environment.

Ancient Colony Found

TEPIC, Mexico (INS) — A noted archaeologist reports the discovery of a previously unknown colony of the ancient Toltec civilization near Tepic on the west coast of Mexico. Dr. Clement Meighan, of the University of California at Los Angeles estimates the colony reached its cultural peak about 1200 A.D.

Gein Undergoes 2nd Lie Test

Admitted Killer, Grave Robber Then Returned to State Hospital

MADISON, Wis. (UP) — Edward Gein was returned to Central State Hospital for the Criminal Insane yesterday after undergoing another lie detector test at the state crime laboratory about his admitted killings and grave robberies.

After the session, his second here within a week, Atty. Gen. Stewart Honeck said Gein, a 51-year-old bachelor recluse of rural Plainfield, complained of a headache and general physical discomfort.

Honeck said a general understanding had been reached that Gein will be questioned further upon completion of his 30-day observation period at the state hospital.

The attorney general said he expected no developments in the case at least for the next week or two.

Gein was ordered to the hospital after pleading innocent by reason of insanity to first-degree murder in the death of Mrs. Bernice Worden, 58, a hardware store operator at Plainfield, Nov. 16. On his first trip to the crime laboratory he also admitted killing Mrs. Mary Hogan, 54, who vanished in December 1954, from her small tavern in Portage County only a few miles from Gein's farm home.

City Man Charged in Fatal Shooting

With a coroner's inquest canceled yesterday, James Witherspoon, 56, of 130 Wessen St. was charged with first-degree murder and arraigned before Pontiac Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

The inquest, scheduled to probe the fatal shooting of Joseph Wright, 37, Nov. 18 in a pool room at 92½ Bagley St., was canceled by Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem after a conference with Pontiac Police officers.

Witherspoon had admitted shooting Wright, of 130 Wessen St., with a .38-caliber revolver, but claimed he acted in self-defense after Wright had threatened him first with a shotgun.

Witherspoon was scheduled by Judge Finnegan for examination Dec. 4 and returned to Oakland County Jail without benefit of bond.

Police Hold Newlyweds on Burglary Charges

ROYAL OAK (UP) — A newlywed couple and their bridesmaid were held on burglary charges Wednesday. And their best man was accused of helping them cash $3,000 worth of stolen payroll checks.

Royal Oak police held Christopher (Fuzzy) Williams, 23, and his wife, Bertha, 21, and Jean Strauss, 17, of Royal Oak. Flint police held the best man, Robert E. Thompson, 25, of Warren. The Williams couple had lived in a Royal Oak motel since their marriage Nov. 12 at Angola, Ind.

Pett Writing for Hal Boyle:

Thanksgiving Thoughts Run Chiefly to Eats

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (UP) — Some suggestions, reminders, helpful hints and irreverent thoughts on this Thanksgiving Day:

Eight, 12 or 36 pounds, the bird still has only two drumsticks, two wings, one breast, one wishbone.

Cold or warm, fair or cloudy, there will be 23,498,546 women who this day will say, "I wish my husband woud take the trouble to learn to carve like that."

Etiquette books agreed that a guest need not reassure a querulous hostess-cook more than nine times when she asks, "Does it really taste all right?"

Tonight, in 12,876,987 American homes, mother will firmly resolve that the next year she will serve dinner before the game to be sure everyone is there on time.

Tonight, in 12,876,987 other American homes, mother will firmy resolve that next year she will serve dinner after the game to be sure half the family doesn't rush off without their pie.

Neither etiquette nor wisdom really require you to comment when the woman gorging herself says, "Tomorrow, I start my diet."

In 3,478,233 American homes the dining room rug will be spotted by an uncle showing how the mountaineers used to pour cider from a jug on their shoulder without spilling a drop.

There will not be a single dinner served in a single American home today without at least one female warbling, "You must give me that recipe."

In 19,465,432 American homes there will be a comprehensive discussion of the current pound price of turkeys, which will lead to a discussion of the old days, which will lead to a discussion of today's economy, which will lead to a discussion of politics, which will lead to a strained silence, which will lead a nervous hostess to say, "It must be 20 minutes of."

Within a half hour after the guests arrive in any one of 19,786,543 American homes, someone will say brighty: "Say, why don't you kids watch television?"

By departure time, the national affection for children will have diminished perceptibly.

Sixty-six and two-thirds per cent of the people who say, "I don't care," when the carver asks if they prefer light meat or dark, will be lying.

Eighty-three per cent of today's hostesses will remain taut until their sister-in-law, taking a devilishly long time about it, finally announces, "Well, you had the family for Thanksgiving. Now, you must all come to our place for Christmas."

Japan reduced its birthrate 43 per cent in eight years — between 1947 and 1955.

To Fulfill Vow to St. Mary

Mom Hiking 387 Miles

Mrs. Manuela R. Carreon of Texas City, Tex., started walking from the Galveston County Courthouse to the Mission de Juan Catholic Church in San Juan, in the lower Rio Grande Valley at the tip of Texas. Galveston is on the Gulf Coast in southeast Texas.

Despite a heart condition, she said she expected to finish the trip in three or four weeks. "I will rest whenever night finds me," she told newsmen.

A jury acquitted her son Alfonso Carreon Jr., 27, of the knife slaying of Adolph Saldua, 29. Saldua died after a fight in a Texas City tavern Dec. 1, 1956. Young Carreon pleaded self-defense.

Mrs. Carreon, whose husband sells garden produce, said she promised the Virgin of San Juan that she would make the walk if her son was freed.

Dressed in black and wearing foam rubber shoes, she started out after the jury announced its verdict. Around her neck hung a small crucifix. In a small paper bag she held a rosary. She had no knapsack, no food and no water.

She did have a small bottle of pills for her heart condition. She said her doctor, Dr. Ed Kealy of Texas City, had given her permission to fulfill the vow.

Father Shot, Killed at Drinking Party

DEARBORN (INS) — Wayne County sheriff's officers report a Dearborn Township father was shot and killed by his brother early today to climax a family drinking party.

An investigation is underway to determine whether the fatal shooting of Howard J. Lawrence, 32, was accidental or th end of a quarrel.

Lawrence was dead when taken to Wayne County General Hospital with a shotgun wound in the chest.

The brother, Clarence J. Lawrence, 34, of Taylor Township, was held for questioning.

The dead man's wife and small baby were upstairs in the home when the shooting occurred. Clarence's wife was outside in a car at the time.

Togliatti Poses Threat to Western Defense

FROM LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

WASHINGTON — As secretary-general of the largest Communist Party in the free world, Palmiro Togliatti must be regarded in the West as one of the most dangerous men ouside the Soviet empire.

He has made the Party, second numerically in Italy, a highly organized one, with cells in every significant social and economic organization throughout the country. Through the Party, Togliatti controls the Italian General Confederation of Labor, and he has at his disposal efficient and fanatic strongarms ready to go into action whenever necessary.

The Communists actually participated in the Italian government up to May 1947, with Togliatti himself holding successively the posts of minister without portfolio, vice premier and minister of justice.

Togliatti burst upon the Italian scene from his safe refuge in the Soviet Union in March 1944, in the wake of the advancing American armies. He was attired picturesquely in a blue Soviet-cut suit over a prizefighter's striped sweater and made himself seen everywhere.

The Communist propaganda sources went all out to picture him as a fighter always on hand in the Party's difficult moments, and praised him as a powerful thinker who could identify effortessly the correct party line and firmly root out "deviations."

FRIEND OF STALIN

Was he not a close friend of Stalin for years, with access to the innermost secrets of the Communist International? Everyone knew him to be the Soviet appointed head of the Italian branch of the Communist world organization.

Wily, skillful, ruthless, he tried every approach at his command to carry out his aims, and did not hesitate to discard cynically one line and use another whenever he thought it best.

He used the familiar device of the "Popular Front" to lay the groundwork which he hoped would make Italy a "people's democracy."

He participated in a coalition with the Socialists and the Christian Democrats, and shared in ruling Italy for several years. Then, failing to attain power this way, he tried to win through new party alignments.

WON CONTROL OVER LABOR

Togliatti managed to gain control of the labor movement, both by infiltrating the national labor association, and by participating in the numerous strikes developing from the desperate economic plight of the workers right after the war.

But, as time went on, it became clear that Togliatti was unable to contrive any policy to deal with the critical problems of national reconstruction (he went even so far as to vote against land reform in 1951).

Many Italian workers realized that Togliatti's Party was devoting more attention to matters such as opposing German rearmament and promoting the Stockholm Peace Appeal, than to what the workers were really interested in — improvement of their own living and working conditions.

From a handful of Communists in 1944, the party membership rose to 1,700,000 in 1945 and 2,300,000 in 1949. Since then membership has fallen.

He was against the Marshall Plan and NATO, the European Coal and Steel Community, the new European Economic Community, and Euratom. The Soviet Union also has opposed them all, for each of these programs has the effect of strengthening the free world both economically and militarily.

DEFENDED BRUTALITY IN HUNGARY

Most Italians recoiled in horror and disgust before the brutality of the Soviet intervention in Hungary. Yet Togliatti defended even the Soviet actions there.

Born on Palm Sunday, 1893 (whence his first name, Palmiro), he entered political life when he was a law student at Turin, but in 1921 he became a member of the Italian Communist Party upon its formation.

When Mussolini's Fascists staged their famous march on Rome the same year, Togliatti was arrested. One account says that he escaped the firing squad only an instant before the rifles went off.

He is supposed to have been one of the few western Communists who enjoyed Stalin's personal trust. The Soviet dictator showed his confidence in the Italian leader by assigning him in 1937 to the Spanish Communist Party during the Civil War there.

When the Spanish Republic fell in 1939, he fled to France, where he was imprisoned for a half a year.

Faced today with the growing disillusionment of the Italian people with the Communists, Togliatti has a fight on his hands — a fight to retain his own power, a fight to keep the party united, and to prevent further decline in the Party's membership.

None can doubt that should he succeed in his aims, the fall of a free Italy would deliver a severe blow to the defense system of Western Europe.

The Life a Miracle-Drug Saved

Added Cause for Gratitude

As your mouth waters Thursday at the sight of the turkey with trimmings, it may be appropriate to remember that there's probably an unseen item on your Thanksgiving menu.

It's the modern miracle drug which is responsible for the fact that some loved one is present at all. A child, perhaps, or grandfather, who a generation ago might already have succumbed to such prevalent and deadly afflictions as pneumonia or mastoiditis.

As The Health News Institute recently pointed out, at thanks to healing agents which even a decade ago were still unknown.

One fitting thought, surely, for Thanksgiving.

Bob Considine Says:

Poles Long for Real Liberty, Not Just Whiff

WARSAW (INS)—One would think the concessions the Poles have extracted from the Kremlin including the right to borrow money from the United States would tend to make them happy. They are miserable.

The whiff of liberty has produced only a vast longing for a lungful. They had the first course of what they feel could be, and should be, a full dinner — but the waiter hasn't come back.

In a sense the Kremlin has played the ultimate cruel trick on Poland. It has given it an inch when every living cell calls for a yard. It must be recorded as one of the more excruciating teases in history.

There is the feeling here that Gomulka has gotten as much as can be diligently extracted out of Khrushchev and the Poles demand for more will be diligently treated. Another satellite might shrug and say: What we've got is better than nothing.

But the Poles are tortured by their hunger for more and their knowledge that to haul off and try to get more by force can result only in another terrible bath in blood.

The Poles now have religion taught to their children in school for one hour each day. Eighty per cent of more than 10,000 collective farms have been returned to private ownership.

Newspapers can occasionally tell the truth.

Gomulka finds himself in trouble on three fronts. There is first the loathing of the average Pole for Communism. Secondly he is NOT in especially good standing with the Kremlin. His efforts two weeks ago in Moscow to get Mao Tse-Tung to put in a plug for him apparently boomeranged. Finally his Polish Communist Party is losing most of its intellectuals who feel he has done a bad job as the Big Brother of Poland.

POLES RESENT SPUTNIK

The Poles felt as bad about Russia's brilliant Sputnik achievement as did some of the American scientists. An American diplomat's wife speaking to a Polish official the other day sighed, "I wish we had gotten Sputnik first." His answer was packed with fervor and significance. "We too," he said.

This part of the world was discouraged and remains discouraged because America did not come to the aid of the Poznan factory workers or the Hungarian freedom fighters when they rose against the Communists who controlled them.

They think of us in a sense as the heavyweight champion of the world who refused to intervene while watching a bully kick a little kid around.

You cannot find anyone who will swear that either the Voice of America or Radio Free Europe ever directly urged open rebellion. Instead they say that the tone of the broadcasts, especially those of RFE, was both an enticement to rise and a promise of either American or United Nations intervention.

Unquestionably hundreds, probably thousands, died with the belief the Yanks were coming. The radio sounded to them as if they were. There also was wide surprise and displeasure over America's choosiness in accepting Hungarian refugees.

WIRETAP USEFUL

There was a correspondent visiting briefly in Sofia. And noticing the particularly clumsy job of microphone planting in his hotel room, he accosted the Communist agent assigned to tail him and asked, "Why do you go to all that bother? Are you trying to find some excuse for putting me in jail for something I might say about you in my room?"

"My goodness no," said the agent. "We put microphones in visitors rooms because we hear so many useful criticisms of the government."

Turncoat Spending Holiday at Home

CRACKERS NECK, Va. (AP) — Edward S. Dickenson, the turncoat former Army corporal recently released from imprisonment, was back with his parents today to spend Thanksgiving in their three-room mountain home.

Some 20 friends, relatives and neighbors were on hand to greet him last night as he arrived from Knoxville, Tenn., with his stepbrother Chares Dickenson, a Knoxville sign painter.

Dickenson was described by his family as "very nervous" and they expressed hope that he would "settle down and find himself."

Last night he and his father Van Buren Dickenson sang and played the five-string banjo together.

Dickenson was imprisoned 3½ years after his conviction for collaborating with the Communists while a prisoner of war in Korea.

As he arrived home last night, he said his immediate goal is to present his side of the story to the American people.

Force Husband to Pay Expenses in Custody Fight

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Mrs. Florence Doering burst into tears today when told she would be able to go to Oroville, Calif., to fight for the custody of her two daughters Carole, 13, and Lorraine, 4.

A California court yesterday ordered her husband John K. Doering to pay $12,000 traveling expenses to enable her to attend the hearing of his suit for divorce and custody of the children.

The father has taken the children back to California.

"Thank God I have been given a chance at least to see my children again," Mrs. Doering said. "I did not even have time to say goodby before they left for America."

Iraq has a novel bridge which can be lowered as much as 20 feet under the level of the water so that ships are able to sail over the span.

It's the Day for Thanks, Feasting in Pontiac Homes

Pontiac Press Photos

"Hey, Mother, hurry up with that bird!" call Brian, Gary and Jordan Rosenthal to their mother, Mrs. James Rosenthal of West Iroquois road. Anticipating Thanksgiving dinner is a high point of the day — waiting for guests to come, smelling all the tantalizing odors coming from Mother's kitchen and, best of all, a vacation from school.

Thanksgiving Means Happy Reunions

Families, Friends Get Together

By MARGARET BROWN

Chances are that later this afternoon that savory golden brown fowl which graced your dining table will stand alone and quite emaciated amid scattered napkins and remains of mashed potatoes, dressing and mince pie, the culinary crew having retreated to the living room.

So, as you recline in the easy chair, chatting with kith and kin while overtaxed digestive systems go to work, here is a report on how other folks of the Pontiac area are spending the holiday.

Also in Pennsylvania today are Mr. and Mrs. Ericson Lewis of Chippewa road who are with their son, Robert, and friends in Philadelphia where they will attend the Army-Navy gridiron clash with a group of Mr. Lewis' Annapolis classmates.

And far, far from home at Miami, Fla., are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hargraves and son, Ronald, of Keego Harbor who are combining the Thanksgiving holiday with their annual vacaton.

The Orrin Huntoons of Osceola drive, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Myhrs of Rochester, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McGrath of Drayton Plains and their families motored to Alma today for dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Milton Harrison, parents of Mrs. Huntoon, Mrs. Myhrs and Mrs. McGrath. A brother, John Vance, and his family of Alma will join the group for dinner.

Fort Lauderdale, Florida, is claiming several Pontiac residents today. Having left by plane Tuesday evening, Erma Jean Livingstone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Livingstone of Berkshire road, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Terry and daughter, Lynn, are spending the holidays in the sunny South. Erma Jean is a student at Kingswood School Cranbrook.

Up in Sault Ste. Marie today Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eagle of Savoy drive and their sons, Richard, Dennis and Steven, are visiting Mr. Eagle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everitt Eagle.

On James K boulevard Mrs. Leland L. Marion has returned to Pontiac following several weeks in St. Petersburg, Fla., just in time to enjoy the Thanksgiving festivities with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bouse, and grandsons, Larry and Arthur.

The North Perry street home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Black is the scene of a dinner being attended by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Morse, and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Goodwin.

The Isaac Thurman family of Shirley avenue is spending the day with Mrs. Rex Hefner of Edith street, Mrs. Hefner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thurman.

All the leaves have been added to the dining table at the Michigan avenue home of Mrs. Joel Sandstrom today, with 20 guests present to partake of the Thanksgiving bird.

Guests include Mr. and Mrs. John Englund, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Englund, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Malmquist, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gustavson and Delores Gustavson.

Also present are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas James and daughters, Marlene, Chryl and Carol, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wojtacha, Diane and Barbara Hatky of Oak Park, Earl Derr of Royal Oak and Mrs. Mary Jackson, Mrs. Sandstrom's mother.

"And for these things we are grateful, Lord." Yes, perhaps children best remember the true meaning of Thanksgiving. We often forget that the day was meant for giving thanks — for as we push our chairs back from the huge turkey dinner, we'd rather reach for the bicarb than the Bible.

Actress Joan Crawford Tells How She Has Kept Loveliness

By JOAN CRAWFORD
Written Exclusively for NEA Service

EDITOR'S NOTE: There's a real beauty lesson for every woman in the story of Joan Crawford, a star since the 1920's. Today, she has a figure that a young girl might envy and a face that's unlined. In this story, written exclusively for NEA Service, she tells how she has kept her beauty. The star is currently appearing in "The Golden Virgin" for Columbia Pictures.

It's my firm belief that a motion picture star owes it to her public to look lovely consistently, not just when she is making a picture.

This is somewhat difficult to do, for the life of an actress is both hectic and busy. There is little time for a carefully planned beauty routine. Minutes must be snatched from here and there during the day to do the things that most people do at a set time each morning and evening.

There are, undoubtedly, many women who face similar difficulties — women whose schedules make it impossible for them to adhere to a rigid beauty routine.

I have found that discipline is the only answer to this problem. The time that can't be found at a certain hour in each busy day must be made throughout that day.

Exercise, for instance, is vitally important. And neither hard work nor running about to keep appointments will give anyone the type of exercise needed to preserve an attractive figure.

Perhaps it will help other busy women to know how I've managed to get the proper exercise during the day. I have taught myself never to pick up anything without bending from the waist.

When I need something from a high shelf, I reach from the waist so that I can feel the pull. It's amazing how many times during each day the opportunity for stretching the muscles is presented. It's just a matter of remembering to take advantage of each chance.

It is, of course, important for me in my business to watch my weight. I find that the time to watch my diet closely is when I've gained the first pound. It's easy to get rid of that one, but a good deal tougher to lose the first extra five.

Complexion care is another thing that can't be neglected, no matter how crowded the schedule may be. I find that using my favorite face cream for about 20 minutes a day — minutes that aren't wasted, for I make necessary phone calls at the same time—works wonders for me.

Fighting dry skin is a challenge to any actress, for it takes a lot of down-to-earth scrubbing to remove the grease paint and oil base we must use while working. I've found a lot of butter on my food helps keep my complexion smooth and moist.

Every smart woman knows that good taste demands a minimum of makeup for street wear. I use only powder, lipstick and mascara. Fortunately my eyebrows are dark and need no pencil for emphasis. At one time they were sparse enough to be practically nonexistent. And here's a hint for anyone with the same problem:

Buy a jar of yellow petroleum jelly. Remove half the jelly and fill the space with castor oil. Mix the jelly and oil together, and, with a stiff brush, brush the brows in the opposite direction from which they grow. I found it wonderfully successful.

Say, that's a mighty big turkey for such a little fellow to be carving! But 2½-year-old Gary Vidor of Ascot road doesn't seem to be too unhappy about his Thanksgiving Day chores.

Mom, Dad Are Active in Schools

Parents of Today Take Big Interest in PTA Work

By DOROTHY NEUBAUER
(For Jane Eads)

The key word here is "active." Parents will spend some time watching their children take part in a school program and some time listening to a speaker at a PTA meeting. (Recent figures show that over 10 million parents are PTA members.) But there's more to it than that.

INTERESTED AUDIENCE

The speaker who comes to the PTA meeting had better be prepared for the questions and comments of an interested audience.

He's at the meeting because mothers and fathers and teachers asked for someone who could help them with a current concern—be it homework, methods of reporting to parents or problems and possibilities of TV.

But not all parent - educator activities will be obviously tied to the instructional aspects of the school program.

In a community where there is a large population turnover, the parent-teacher group may be working at the important job of making new parents feel at home in the community and in the school.

MAY TACKLE JOB

In cases in which both parents are employed and incomes can hardly be stretched to allow for babysitters, the PTA may tackle the job of how to provide care for the children so parents can spend an occasional hour at school.

Often, problems like these have to be solved before parents have either the time or the inclination to develop close relationships with the school.

The trend is definitely toward increased parent interest and responsible educators welcome that interest.

But educators know — and so do parents — that it takes more than enthusiasm and goodwill to make school-community cooperation effective. It takes constant effort to find out what kinds of parent participation are most appropriate and most valuable.

SITUATIONS VARY

It takes judgment to see that what is right and effective in one community may not be right for a different kind of community.

The wide variety of effective practices and policies is a heartening indication of the ingenuity that parents and school personnel are using to develop the kind of home-school cooperation most likely to benefit the children in their community.

Hospital Auxiliary Schedules Bazaar

Mrs. Forest Rorabaugh has been named chairman of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Auxiliary "Petite Bazaar" to be held Dec. 6 in the hospital lobby. Helping her will be Mrs. Clifford Dick, Mrs. Carlton Wright, Mrs. Charles Wagner and Mrs. Harold Brady.

The tiny, even slightly plump figure can carry the shirred net gown but the trailing, bouncy silhouette overwhelms short women.

Holiday elegance is well expressed in the look of refinement indicated by sheer net and thin laces. Both fabrics possess delicacy and match the dainty, petite woman.

Gem Hues Add Glow to Fashion

Colored Jewelry Lends Drama to Winter Costumes

Rich, glowing emerald green and ruby red, as well as the softer colors of purple amethyst and topaz yellow, carry through the whole fashion picture from clothing to accessories, including the smartest new jewelry.

ENSEMBLE LOOK

The fiery living color of this new jewelry, whether it be precious or semi - precious gems or skillfully simulated stones, adds accent to a costume. Color-keyed to match a costume, jewelry can help achieve the popular one - color "ensemble look" that is so new and elegant.

As a contrasting accent to simple dark clothes, colored jewelry completely changes the costume effect, giving a whole new "color range of change" to add variety to a wardrobe.

Matching colored jewelry to accessories such as shoes, gloves, bag or hat gives an attractive "planned" look to any outfit, but avoid the overdone look by matching jewelry colors to only one accessory. Here are a few suggestions:

A colored pin and earrings can be matched to shoes for a truly dramatic look. Colored pins worn in pairs, one on a hat, one on a lapel and matching to a handbag give a chic "custom" look. Gloves and jewelry matched on an otherwise black outfit sound a smart style note.

Important Part of Home Nursing Care

Bath Will Refresh and Stimulate Patient

By AILEEN SNODDY
NEA Staff Correspondent

There is something about a bath that helps wash away cares of the day. For a person who is ill a bath means even more.

It refreshes him and also helps stimulate circulation. Many persons at home with short illnesses such as influenza often are too weak to bathe themselves. Thus giving a bed bath properly becomes a part of home nursing care.

It is essential that a patient doesn't become chilled while being bathed. Avoid this by uncovering only a part of the body at a time; wash, rinse and dry thoroughly, and re-cover.

Always begin a bed bath from the head and work down to the feet. When bathing arms and legs, bathe the far arm and leg of the patient first. A towel under the arm or leg and against the patient's side keeps the bed dry.

But before you begin, conserve time and effort by gathering all items needed. These include a basin or pan of water about two-thirds full of hot water, bar of soap in a dish, blanket, clean nightgown or pajamas, towel and washcloth, rubbing alcohol or lotion and talcum powder.

FREE OF DRAFTS

See that the room is warm and free of drafts with windows and doors closed. Get the patient ready by removing the top bedding except one blanket to keep him warm.

Remove his pajamas and have the patient move to the side of the bed nearest you. This will make less bending and reaching while giving the bath.

No one likes to be slapped with the cold end of a washcloth, so make a mitten of it or at least gather all loose ends in the hand.

The water shouldn't become too soapy and difficult to rinse. One way to prevent this is to keep the soap in a soap dish when not in use.

If the water cools or becomes too soapy, change it but leave the patient warmly covered while doing this.

START WITH FACE

Begin with the patient's face, neck and ears and avoid getting soap in his eyes. A towel across his chest will catch any drippings.

The arms are next, with the far arm first. Next fold the blanket down to the patient's waist and wash the chest. Keep a towel over his chest until you dry it to prevent chill.

With the towel still across the chest, wash, rinse and dry abdomen. The legs and feet are next. Remember to uncover only one leg at a time, and wash the far leg first.

The water may have cooled by the time you go from top to toe. Replace it before bathing the back.

During this operation the patient may be on his side with his back toward you or on his abdomen. A towel alongside the back will protect the bed.

After washing the back a patient may like a back rub. It is relaxing for an ill person and the skin also needs special care at this time as it is more tender and irritated easily.

Warm rubbing alcohol or body lotion by placing the bottle in a basin of warm water for a few minutes before using. It will be more soothing.

With the patient on his side or abdomen, fold blanket back to his hips and arrange pajamas or gown so only the back and buttocks are uncovered. Use a towel to keep the bed dry as during bathing.

Pour a little of the solution in your palm and rub hands together. Now rub back, shoulders and buttocks with palms.

Pay especial attention to the small of the back, neck and shoulders. Remoisten hands as often as necessary.

A good back rub should last at least three minutes. Then dry and powder the patient's back. This may be the time you will want to change sheets and put clean pajamas on the patient.

Next: Changing the bed.

At least 37 of the states require public primary and secondary schools to teach courses in U. S. history.

Here's Polite Way to Brush Callers

A businessman often faces the problem of getting rid of a caller who is taking up too much time. One way is to bring the conversation to a close, stand up and say, "I'm glad you stopped by" and shake hands. That may seem a bit abrupt and obvious—but if done with a smile and a hearty handshake it can do the trick without offending.

Shampoo Variation

For a luxurious twist to your regular shampoo beat the yolk of an egg and mix in a cup of cool water. After regular shampoo, pour the mixture over the hair and rub in thoroughly. Rinse with clear water. For final rinse use a good quality witch hazel.

Don't Ever Gossip

"I haven't told another soul," says the woman who is repeating something she promised not to tell. But when you leave her you have the uncomfortable thought, "I must never tell her anything I don't want passed along."

Church Unit Meets

Mrs. Robert Graff and Mrs. Alan Wagoner were received as new members of Marbach Group of First Presbyterian Church when that group met in the East Iroquois road home of Mrs. Richard Irwin. Mrs. William Stoutenberg was cohostess.

Elizabeth Puts Charm in Spotlight

Young Girls Now Aim for Ladylike Femininity

You can't help but feel that a little bit of a queen has rubbed off on you, especially when she's as young, pretty, and widey photographed as Elizabeth II. Her visit to America has put droves of young girls back on the charm beam.

Queens have just as many food temptations as others, and certainly wade through a good many banquets that are loaded with calories.

Any girl who wants to achieve queenly stature knows that she's got to get there the hard way.

There are exercises, masseuses and massage machines, all within the grasp of the girl who must have a little assistance with dieting.

YOU MUST WORK

A little will power goes a long way to getting one started on the road to a pretty figure. There's no sense in just wishing on a star. You've got to work for figure loveliness.

If you'd have queenly hair, it should be neat, set in becoming fashion, not frizzed or windblown in studied unruliness that some girls associate with casual charm. The trend is to lustrous locks that look scrupulously clean and shining.

One of the popular vanity table items these days is hair dressing. One new hair control spray is especially timely because it does not contain the lacquer that leaves a gummy residue, making the hair look stiff, but instead gives a natural sleekness to the hair.

The spray was developed by a busy woman with varied careers as business woman; flyer, author. She sought a hair spray that could be sprayed on gently and last all day.

The same spray may be used on little girls' ponytails and Junior's cowlicks.

LADYLIKE PINK

The complexion is coming in for its share of attention this season, too, and the ladylike regal pink and white glow is the aim of schoolgirls and society matrons.

Makeup doesn't stand out on the skin like a coat of paint on a barn. The idea is to put on color to make the skin look fragile, delicately colored as a Renoir painting.

British Fashion Makers Woo Continental Market

LONDON (INS) — Britain's fashion trade is out to woo the continental woman. It will even attempt to flatter the continental man.

Chairman Henry Scott stresses that there is "obviously a very big potential market for us on the continent. I am quite confident they have not the variety or design in their clothes that we have here."

The Association has over one hundred firms in its newly-formed European fashion markets and buyers section, and is organizing a special fashion export selling month in London in November.

It plans to invite continental buyers to view the spring collections of members in their own showrooms and under the same conditions as they are shown to home buyers.

But Some Teeners Say, 'Don't Spare the Rod'

Most Students Find School Discipline OK

By EUGENE GILBERT
President of the Gilbert Youth Research Co.

Those on the receiving end—the students—mostly think they are. But a sizable minority holds that there's too much laxness, and there is even a small group with a well-defined don't spare the rod philosophy.

Querying school-age youngsters throughout the nation, we found 7 out of 10 satisfied with the state of discipline in their schools. Nineteen per cent, however, considered it far from adequate.

"Schools these days are too lenient," said one member of this group, Anne Landon of Denver, Colo. "There just doesn't seem to be a way to keep young people in check anymore."

CAN'T HIT BACK

Physical punishment to enforce discipline is frowned on by 82 per cent of the youngsters, who agree with this Missouri student: "First of all, that's hitting someone who can't hit back. Besides, hitting a fellow never taught him anything."

But 13 per cent feel differently. They think that a timely pedagogical whack at an obstreperous student might be a healthy lesson.

"There are people who can't get anything but a slap through their thick skulls," reasoned a 16-year-old Minneapolis lad. And Gaye Robinson of New York City put it this way:

"Teachers are people too. Sometimes they get so mad they have to hit out at somebody. Don't they have a right to display their anger along with the rest of the world?"

BAD ATMOSPHERE

Eighteen-year-old Jody Barnes of Berkeley, Calif., observed: "I don't know which is worse—weak or stern punishment in school, but neither makes for a particularly good atmosphere."

Who's to blame when school discipline goes awry? Teachers and school administrators, the majority of their charges contend.

If the educators handled the students intelligently, 36 per cent of the teeners surveyed said, there would be no disciplinary problems.

UNREALISTIC RULES

Twenty-seven per cent insist unrealistic regulations cause behavior difficulties in schools.

"Some of these rules were written in the horse and buggy era," said Nancy Brown of Detroit. "Like smoking on school property. No wonder schools are having trouble getting their rules obeyed."

But 3 out of 10 teeners consider disciplinary problems the fault of the student body. "The teachers treat us all right," said Edith Markel of Providence, R. I. "Sometime the students aren't fair to them, though."

"It's a shame the way some students act in school," reported Joan Schneider of Philadelphia, Pa. "Home is the place where they should learn manners."

Fully 89 per cent of the young people agree that male teachers have the best-behaved classes. "Somehow with a man teaching the class you know there won't be any fooling around," a Chicago lad explained.

A good way to buttress school discipline, many youngsters suggested, would be student constitutions—a set of regulations decided on by student councils or the whole student body in collaboration with the faculty.

From their own experience, the teeners report, teachers in the 30-40 age group have the best grip on their classes.

This age category was favored by 42 per cent of the students, who feel that younger teachers feel too insecure for firm control and older ones have greater difficulty in understanding youngsters.

But the youngest group of teachers (20-30) held a slight edge in popularity over the oldest group (over 40).

Twenty eight per cent preferred the youngest as against 27 per cent for the oldest group.

Rod Over Tub Protects Floor

An extra shower curtain rod behind the one which holds the curtain will save a lot of work for the housewife and a lot of family arguments.

The rod over the center of the bathtub is a convenient place to hang hand-laundry, raincoats and other wet garments to keep water off the floor.

The shower curtain hides the laundry quickly if company drops in and the man of the house doesn't have to wade through lingerie to shave.

Retiring to Another Nation Involves Number of Risks

By BEULAH STOWE

Mr. B. of Akron, Ohio, has a pension of $175 a month. He and his wife are getting by, living carefully. But in West Germany, where they have relatives, they would be able to live well on much less than $175.

* * *

The B's visited their brothers and sisters in Germany last year. They both liked the country and the people. Mrs. B. wants to live there permanently, as their relatives urge them to do. They could rent a "nice" apartment, Mr. B. says, and live comfortably on about $100 a month. Should they do it?

Mr. B. is 75. He has been in the United States for 52 years and his wife has been here for 35 years.

"We are set in the American way of life," says Mr. B., "and we like it very much. I think changing to a new life at my age might prove quite a problem. But living gets more expensive here and the pension does not increase."

The B's and other retired people who consider moving to foreign shores where living costs are kinder to a fixed income should consider these four points:

1. Your chances of coming back, at age 75, are slight. This move, if you make it, will take you to the place where you will end your days.

2. You may like the life you have right here better than you realize. It's familiar and it's safe and it is filled with many ties whether or not you have members of your family nearby.

MORE PATRIOTIC

3. You may be more patriotic than you think. You might spend the rest of your life trying to explain to the people in your chosen country just how good things were back in the United States. (Many older people have had this experience, but have been too proud or too committed, to turn back.)

* * *

4. You must provide for your husband or your wife. Could he or she live happily in the new home, should you die first?

Mr. B., who already has his doubts, would be wiser to stay at home.

Q—"I will retire this January. My wife and I will get $162 a month from social security. We own our home, and think it would bring $15,000. We also have $8,500 in savings. Can we afford to retire somewhere in the South where there's sunshine?"—G. R.

A—You have earned your sunshine. If you sell the house and put this money plus your savings into a conservative investment paying 4 per cent interest, your money will add $940 annually, or about $78 a month, to your income.

This will give you $237 a month. Many couples are living happily, though not luxuriously, in Florida and Arizona on less than this.

Don't Omit Teetotaler From Party

Let AA Member Decline or Accept as He Prefers

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: We've learned indirectly that our new neighbor is a member of AA (Alcoholics Anonymous), the nationwide organization whose members help each other to remain complete abstainers. I'm sure you've heard of it.

"We had intended to invite this man and his wife to a big cocktail party we're giving soon, but since hearing this we think it might be kinder to forget them for this time. What is your opinion?"

Answer: First of all, I am sure everyone has heard of AA and its wonderful contributions to society in general and the lives of many in particular. Certainly I would not want to print anything that might be at variance with AA's feeling about this.

However, the way I understand it, one of the primary functions of AA is to help its following not only to abstain at all times, but at the same time to lead normal lives. For this reason I think it kinder to invite your neighbors and let them decline or accept as they see fit.

Since it has become routine to include nonalcoholic beverages at all cocktail parties, people who do drink anything strong are inclined nowadays to go to them occasionally, if only to see some of their friends.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Would stockings be considered in the same light as wearing apparel: In other words, would it be improper for a man to give a girl a box of nylon hose for a present?"

Answer: While not definitely wrong, it would be questionable.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My husband always refuses to carry my coat on the street or anywhere in public. He backs up his unwillingness by quoting you. Have you said anything like this?"

Answer: I'm sure that I have said he would carry a really heavy coat but that I couldn't imagine why any woman would want to ask him to carry a small wrap such as a short coat or sweater.

Oh, Pearl—

Crawl Out of Your Oyster, Then Get Yourself Lawyer

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to be married. Should I tell my husband? I know this sounds funny, but my husband and I haven't lived together as man and wife for over a year.

ABBY

He said if I wanted a divorce I would have to get it as he is satisfied with me and wouldn't divorce me. My boy friend knows all about my husband and says he will pay for the divorce after I get engaged to him.

I accepted his ring but I wonder if I should tell my husband? I heard you can divorce a man without telling him. Is that true? PEARL

OH, PEARL—Come out of your oyster! If you divorce a man you certainly have to notify him. Get yourself a lawyer and let him explain it to you.

DEAR ABBY: I hate to talk about other people's children because mine are no angels, but I am worried. The little girl across the alley is 9, and she has a bad reputation for hitting the other kids, destroying things and playing with matches.

Nobody will play with her. Her mother came crying to me about how lonely the child was, so I let my little boy (age 8) play with her. When they were playing together, she threw a stone at a passing car and the window was open and the driver was hit and his glasses were broken.

She said my boy did it, but we KNOW she did it. In order to keep out of court, we paid for the glasses. What can we do about this she-devil? My husband is all for moving out of this neighborhood. WORRIED MOM

DEAR WORRIED: You could move out of the neighborhood but the basic problem would remain. The little girl needs professional help. If her parents refuse to face this obvious fact, you are doing her no favors by "smoothing things over."

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law invites my husband and me to dinner every Sunday and she is an excellent cook. I would like to return the invitation, but I do not have the room or the food.

All I can fix is meat loaf or hamburger patties. I thank her for the meal, but this doesn't seem enough. Should I invite her for meat loaf or what? EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: MAKE ROOM and invite her for meat loaf! She will understand and if you ask her to teach you a little about cooking, she would probably be flattered and more than willing. After all, HER son has to eat YOUR cooking.

DEAR ABBY: About three years ago I used to like a guy who had a very bad name around town. It was so bad I could never let my folks know I was seeing him. He carried a knife and was always in trouble with the law. He never killed anybody—just driving while drunk and hitting an officer.

I heard from his cousin that he is coming back in town and wants to see me. If he turns up should I tell my folks I am old enough to do as I please now (I am 19) and go out with him?

DEAR BERTIE: If he turns up — you turn him down. You're never too old to listen to your parents.

CONFIDENTIAL TO B. A.: This is not your ball of wax . . . bow out now or get stung.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of The Pontiac Press. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

JOYCE ELAINE FINZEL

Mrs. James Campbell of Filer avenue and Leo Finzel of Clarkston announce the engagement of their daughter, Joyce Elaine, to David Parker of Norwalk, Calif. Sewers Ask for Better Ready-Wear

LINCOLN, Neb. (INS) — The American housewife and the college girl who do their own sewing are increasingly becoming a challenge to the ready-to-wear clothing industry.

A report from the University of Nebraska Extension Service points out that women making their clothing at home not only offer direct competition to the garment trade but they also are becoming more discriminating.

The woman who has learned to make her own clothing demands that her sharpened standards of workmanship, style and fit be incorporated in the clothing she buys.

The direct challenge to the over-the-counter trade is a substantial one, extension worker Esther Meacham says.

The average woman who sews makes 21 garments a year. Of these, 14 are for herself or her daughter, six are for younger children, and one for the man of the house.

While home seamstresses once made utility clothing out of necessity, 72 per cent of them now take up the needle because they "like to sew."

Aging Hubby Builds Ego by Admiring Pretty Girls

By RUTH MILLETT

It's no hardship for a woman:

To have another woman ask her for advice. It's so much easier to solve another woman's problems, from decorating a room to managing a husband, than it is to solve one's own.

To go along when another woman wants to buy a new outfit. It's the cheapest way of having the fun of a shopping expedition without having to face the bills that follow.

To buy a gift for another woman. All she has to do is find something she would like to have herself. Whether right or wrong, she at least has the comforting assurance that since she likes it, another woman is bound to. What is really tough is shopping for a gift for a man.

To have a lone man as an unexpected dinner guest. She knows a man won't notice that the curtains aren't freshly laundered or think her meal is too simple if it is well cooked and filling.

But a hostess who is not prepared for company isn't nearly so at ease when she welcomes an unexpected woman guest.

To be turned loose in a strange city for a few hours or even a day, unless it's Sunday or a holiday when all the stores are closed.

To be told a choice bit of gossip and asked not to tell a soul. Either she is the kind of woman who can keep a secret, or she's the kind who can't and won't.

But if she is the latter it won't bother her conscience to break her word. She will just figure that she is living up to her part of the bargain when she says, "I promised not to tell a soul, but I knew if I told you it wouldn't go any further."

To return an article she has bought. Women wouldn't buy so much if they didn't always mentally cross their fingers when they say "I'll take it," knowing if they get home and change their minds they can always return what they have bought."

Golden Age Units Hold Meetings

November meetings of the two Golden Age groups of the YWCA featured demonstrations of wood fiber flower making, uses of the flowers in table arrangements and corsages, and as gifts.

Mrs. Lewis Carpenter presented the demonstrations, which were followed by dessert luncheons. Presented with fiber corsages were Mrs. Alice Porter and Mrs. Bernice Tabor. Flowers were received by Mrs. Adde Allen and Mrs. Laura Hamilton.

New members welcomed by the groups include Mrs. Bessie Royce, Mrs. Susan Todd, Mrs. Clara Howey and Mrs. Genevieve Jerome.

Birthdays celebrated included those of Mrs. Anna Creager, Mrs. Susan Douglas, Mrs. Mary Foster, Mrs. Selma Jacob and Mrs. Lena McCulley. Also honored were Mrs. Gertrude Beach, Mrs. Jean Egge, Mrs. Laura Hamilton and Mrs. Jennie Taylor.

Don't Block Road

A most annoying habit some people have is to group together in a narrow passageway, such as a store aisle or doorway, while they chat. Meanwhile they are blocking the way for others.

Always Obey Signs

It is always bad manners to ignore signs. Whether the sign says "No trespassing," "Keep off the grass," "Private drive" or "No smoking," it is only courtesy and common sense to comply with the posted request.

Make It Clear

If you are planning a Dutch treat evening be sure to make that clear when you invite each couple. It is all right to invite others to "go Dutch" if you just don't leave the impression that you are giving the party.

Child Acts 'Bad' if Necessary to Attract the Attention of Adults

By DR. DOROTHY WHIPPLE

Daddy was left in charge of his 3-year-old son one Sunday morning. Burt was playing with some trucks on the living room floor. Dad was reading the newspaper nearby.

Burt pushed the cars about, making appropriate sound effects as the trucks climbed a hill or dumped a load. After a time he stopped, looked at the newspaper covering Dad from view. Burt began making louder and louder noises. Dad never budged.

A BIG RACKET

Dad never turned a hair, he was absorbed in the news of the world. Burt yelled at the very top of his voice. After a time he stopped.

"Daddy, Daddy," he called.

"Yes, son," said Dad remotely.

"Daddy, you don't mind noise, do you? Mommy doesn't like it."

"So that's what you were up to, you little schemer, you."

GLEEFUL FATHER

Dad got down on the floor and played with Burt and the trucks until Mother came home. He told her the story with great glee.

"Yes," she said, "I probably couldn't have stood the racket and likely as not I would have told him to stop with a good bit of irritation."

Sometimes a polite "Come play with me" works. But more often than not the busy adult ignores a peaceable request and it's only when the child intrudes his demand on the adult's occupation that he gets results.

Children have a genius for finding the soft spot in an adult's armor.

LEGITIMATE NEED

A little child gets bored with solitary play after a time and he wants and needs Mother or Daddy to do something with him. This is a legitimate need of childhood, but one we all too often try to push off.

The child likes best pleasant, gay play with his family. However, if he fails in getting this, he prefers any kind of notice to being ignored.

If he cannot find a way to get someone to play pleasantly with him, he may resort to behavior likely to bring unpleasant reprimands.

To the child's mind a scolding or even a mild punishment is better than nothing. He doesn't like punishment, but at least then the adult is noticing him.

HE GRABS FOR IT

Have you ever seen a little child reach for something he knows he shouldn't touch, look over his shoulder to see if he is being watched?

If he is being watched he grabs for it, knowing something will happen. If no one is there he passes it up — it's not the object he wants, it's the adult attention.

It's too bad to force our children to be "bad" to get the attention they'd love to have for being good.

Heels on women's shoes are measured in eighths. 8-8 is a one-inch heel, 16-8 a two-inch, and 24-8 very high and for the sure-footed.

Piano More Ornate

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

The console piano is getting fancier.

The latest model, introduced at the recent Chicago music trade show, is teakwood; decorated with 16-carat gold leaf. A plastic simulated bone china is inset in the music rack and the panel behind the music rack and inlaid with pheasant feathers and scattered bits of sea fern.

Like stylish furniture, the teakwood piano console features a dull, oiled finish instead of being varnished and highly polished.

You Ought to Make List Before You Choose Rugs

EAST LANSING (INS)—When it comes to furnishing a home, you may consider furniture or appliances as the big money-grabbers.

But, usually, say home economists at Michigan State University, floor coverings are the largest single expenditure in your home furnishings budget.

That's why they recommend a list for choosing a rug for a certain area in the house. The list:

Since rugs are the second (next to walls) largest color area in the room, is the color you are considering so dominant it will make the room seem smaller?

RIGHT COLOR TONE?

Are you choosing the right color value in terms of lightness or darkness? Medium values do not show soil easily, but are more satisfying to live with in most cases.

A very light color will show soil more quickly, and also trends to advance from the floor. At the other extreme, dark colors will readily show footprints and lint.

As important as color is the design of the rug. Plain-colored carpeting is the easiest to blend with other furnishings in a room.

But textured carpeting usually shows soil less rapidly than plain carpeting. So do patterns or design. But watch the pattern — a large pattern makes a room seem smaller.

Italy Has Stylish Toe in Forefront

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) — Italy has her foot firmly in the foreground of the shoe picture, as the Italian pointed toe and high slim heel continue to dominate footwear fashin.

That is the report of Clovis Saunders, president of a San Francisco shoe firm and a national shoe industry official.

The long, slender tapered look is the first choice for all, says Saunders. For comfort, the point is slightly longer. And higher cut models are competing with the classic pump in styling.

Saunders feels the closed toe, open heel will be good this fall. Soft grays and browns will share color honors with black.

Other things to look for, Saunders says, are clips, bows and vamp interest plus textured surfaces for shoe materials.

Sun-or-Rain Coats Have Versatility

The weather forecast may say rain or snow when the sun shines, but cotton raincoats are ready for either, reports the National Cotton Council. Their newsy silhouettes, unusual textures and glamorous colors assure smartness in any weather throughout the day and evening.

The around - the - clock theme which has sparked today's fashions has started a new trend in rain fashions. It's your guess as to "weather" it's a raincoat, a sport coat, a duster or an evening wrap.

Of the many fabrics used, corduroy has been brightened, styled and fancified the most. One raincoat made in yellow wide-wale corduroy is lean and tailored with double-breasted pockets and brass button accents.

Corduroy is printed, too; it is striped for the ivy leaguer; it is colored with plaid; it is accented with a scarf that ties at the back or given a novel metallic touch.

Velveteen also is fashioned into coats with a luxurious look for stormy days or starry nights. Leopard printed velveteen lends jungle glamour to a full coat, topped with its own beret.

A cotton poplin coat looks like a cardigan sweater with its cotton knit sleeves that cuff, push-up or mold the arm.

Potato wart, a potato disease, was brought into Pennsylvania by immigrant coal miners who sought to introduce plant varieties from the "old country" to America.

All you need to do, is paint in the colors on this beautiful panel, place it in the window, and presto —you'll have a much admired Christmas window; or it will be just as lovely if framed and used as a wall picture.

Pattern No. 5419 contains picture to paint, measuring approximately 16" x 21"; color chart and full finishing directions.

Send 25c in coins, your name, address and the pattern number to Anne Cabot, The Pontiac Press, 372 W. Quincy St., Chicago 6, Ill.

Have you a copy of our 1957 Needlework Album? It contains 56 colorful pages showing many pretty designs; plus directions for making three crochet items and a quilt. Only 25c a copy!

Bright Hues Are Starred in Fashions

Fashion's interest in color is highlighted by a "wave of blue," a "surge of red," camel and gold, turquoise, mauve-rose, gray and pewter, white and black, pitch black, taupe and brown, and honeydew.

San Francisco's annual fashion show also revealed that suits will be relaxed and easy with a sophisticated air.

Short jackets have back blousing and often only suggest the waistline. Wider collars are away from the neckline. Gentle hipline tucks or panel backs ease slim skirts.

Coats, in stained glass colors, offer contrasting silhouettes, slim and wrapped or widely flaring, with luxury fur trim.

Sleek-fitting sportswear in corduroy, leather or flannel; chiffon wools and tweeds for "desk to date" dresses, and glittering embossed and embroidered fabrics for cocktail and formal wear complete the picture.

Remember, Life Is Greatest of All Gifts

It's Time to Count Your Blessings

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It takes nerve to throw yourself wholeheartedly into life. It is not safe. It is dangerous business.

I am thinking today of thankfulness, or of being thankful. Many folks have many problems but most of us are likely to concentrate on our problems and our disappointments to such an extent that we lose sight of what is left: Our blessings.

When we think of the soul-testing experiences some folks have, it isn't hard for most of us to find many things to be thankful for, regardless of the bumps life gives us. To feel blue ever, with the blessings most of us have, is downright sinful.

The more capable you are of loving, the more deeply you can be hurt. The more you believe in people the more vulnerable you are to betrayal. But what other way is there to live which is worth the trouble?

Times may be rough. Perhaps you have financial worries or seem to be heckled by life with one semi-serious problem after another. Maybe the person you loved most has disappointed you terribly.

Today remember that your worries, your unhappiness and your headaches all prove that you are alive, and life is the greatest of all gifts.

Let us not accept it lightly but with a deep sense of gratitude just for being alive.

Tomorrow: Swim, Do Knee Bends to Firm Flabby Thighs

Appropriately for today, this girl is counting her blessings.

Sick Youngster Should Be Kept Quietly Amused

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (INS) — What can mother do after the doctor leaves with the final admonition: "Now just keep Johnny in bed for a few days and see that he remains quiet."

Several things, according to family life and child development specialists at Purdue University. Their suggestions include:

Select a number of toys and play materials which provide quiet play abed. For girls these might be dolls to dress and undress, while boys might prefer miniature autos, airplanes and trucks.

All will be interested, for a short time at least, in picture books, stuffed animals, scissors and old magazines, easy puzzles and the makings of any special hobby that can be enjoyed abed.

For children well enough to sit up, a back support may be made with a straight chair tipped upside down with the legs braced against the head of the bed.

A bed tray, cardboard box, or board placed across chairs on either side of the bed offers a good play surface.

For children so ill they may not sit up, a goldfish bowl placed where they may watch the movements of the fish or a balloon tied to the bed are suggested entertainment items.

Sissy Sheaths Designed for Wearers of Uniforms

ATLANTA (INS) — Sissy sheaths are now in order for women who wear uniforms.

One uniform manufacturer is now creating uniform fashions that vie with the latest drip dry cottons.

The lines of the garments are sheath-like, occasionally featuring pockets set in at the hipline. The blouse, however, takes each uniform completely out of the line of the commonplace.

And still another features a stand-up mandarin collar, a tiny-tucked yoke and fly-away cuffs.

Decorate your teenager's room with a luxurious corduroy bedspread and matching drapes. Such an ensemble is both pretty and practical, for corduroy dries fast, fluffy and wrinkle-free in your automatic clothes dryer.

Carry Out Theme

American bathrooms grow prettier each year. And a key to this is to carry the home decorating theme into the bathroom. For example, Early American decor may call for red bricks or tile on bathroom walls or an unpainted knotty pine paneling. Continue theme with hurricane lamps and other period items.

Belgium exports two-thirds of its steels and textiles.

Remove Stain Early

Storing those summer washables for next year's use is part of Fall housecleaning, so be careful of the stains and soil.

If allowed to "set," most stains and soil will be almost impossible to remove next year. And to prevent mildew, store that summer clothing in a dry place.

Drums of Ghana Pound No More for Festival

The drums should have been pounding for the Homowo, a great festival of the Ga people marked by annual family reunions and offering of gifts to ancestors. But the Ghana Government banned public processions and drumming for the festival "in the interests of peace and order."

The next Government move in the line of peace and quiet will, it was reported, be the banning of the Sifimo Kpee (We stand firm), a Ga tribal organization which organized peaceful demonstrations for the opening of Parliament.

Venus Veils Face

WASHINGTON — The planet Venus, Earth's closest neighbor, perpetually veils its face beneath a sea of clouds. At intervals of about a year and a half, Venus draws close to Earth and becomes the evening star, bright enough to cast a shadow.

Old Irish Castle May Be Changed to Vacation Camp

BELFAST — Quintin Castle, one of the largest in Northern Ireland's County Down and first built in 1184, is to come on the market, Belfast learns. Some 60 acres of land will be offered for sale with it.

Preliminary negotiations are under way to offer the property for conversion into a vacation camp. Its five mile-long beach and the view the estate commands both would lend themselves to this use.

Quintin Castle has a colorful history. Since its original owner, de Courcy, it has been reconstructed several times, the most recent in 1850, when it was almost in ruins.

It was renovated at great expense. A massive stone wall encloses the grounds. The castle's turrets can be seen far at sea. Library and living room have solid granite floors.

Crater-shaped buffalo wallows still scar the plains and prairies of the American West, the National Geographic Magazine says. Formed when 60 million bison roamed the continent, the wallows provided the animals with dust baths in dry weather and mud baths when it rained. Some wallows grew to miles in length.

Cranberry Pie —Few Calories

Keep Slim at Holiday by Using a Sweetener Other Than Sugar

Christmas and calories just naturally go together.

One way to keep slim is to concentrate on desserts and breads high in taste and low in calories. These may be made with noncaloric sweeteners in place of sugar.

This cranberry chiffon pie has only 99 calories a serving, made with a noncaloric sweetener, instead of the usual 236 calories.

Cook 2 cups raw cranberries in ½ cup water until skins pop; force through sieve. Combine 2 tablespoons Sucaryl solution or 48 Sucaryl tablets and 3 egg yolks in top of double boiler. Cook until mixture thickens.

Soften 1 envelope gelatin in 2 tablespoon lemon juice. Add to cranberry mixture, stir until dissolved. Remove from heat and cool to room temperature. Beat 3 egg whites until peaks form; gently fold into mixture. Spoon into 8-inch plate slightly oiled and sprinkled with fine bread crumbs. Chill until set.

Spoon topping, 8t 1 cup cottage cheese, 1 teaspoon Sucaryl solution and 1 tablespoon lemon juice beat fairly smooth, around edge of pie.

Movie Attendance Up

HOLLYWOOD — Attendance at movie theaters in the United States totaled some 46,500,000 in 1956, an increase from the low of 45,800,000 the year before, but still far below the 90,000,000 attendance registered in 1947 and 1948.

Blackboard Works Problems Short Way

ANN ARBOR — A mechanical blackboard that erases itself automatically to find the best of two billion billion possible answers to a problem has been developed at the University of Michigan.

The board provides short cuts in 20 minutes to answers that would take a big electronic computer years to work out the long way.

PRECUT CARDBOARD — This dollhouse has young man in home builder mood. Brightly colored house and furniture fold into correct shapes. Can be home for little girl's dolls or fort for cavalry unit.

Toys Instructive

The toy industry already is producing battery powered lathes, sanders, drills and other shop tools for the younger set. These tools will help Junior learn the fundamentals of woodworking and other crafts.

To insure safety, cutting edges are designed in rubber or some other nondestructive material.

The ever-popular hand tools for the juvenile Mr. Fix-its are also musts in the miniature home workshop.

A special automobile which shows all of the working parts will delight the mechanics of tomorrow. It enables Junior to learn first-hand what makes an automobile run.

For the youthful home gardener, there is an elaborate array of yard tools. The miniatures range from trowels to power mowers — everything needed to assist in home garden projects.

Rainy days can be occupied with a growing variety of kits which keep young designers busy for hours, according to the Toy Manufacturers of the U. S. A., official spokesmen for the toy industry. There are scale model boats, airplanes, automobiles and trains, all popular among the youngsters as well as the oldsters.

Urban India Suffers Huge Unemployment

NEW DELHI (INS) — Despite gains made under its First Five Year Plan, India is still dogged by chronic unemployment in urban areas.

Registration at government employment exchanges last year increased from 585,800 to 704,600. Most of these people were unskilled workers.

With a surplus of manpower, there is a shortage of badly needed technicians. There aren't enough draftsmen, nurses, midwives, engineers, trained teachers, electricians and welders.

But there are too many clerks, sweepers, "chowkidars" (night watchmen), laborers, "ayahs" (nursemaids) and youngsters fresh out of school.

The situation is especially bitter for the college graduates. In socialist India, a young man's best prospects are to enter government service. However, only a comparatively few can be absorbed by the bureaucracy.

Traffic Experts in Holiday Tips

Keep Christmas Cheer From Being Shattered by Highway Deaths

Christmas, America's biggest holiday season, also is its bloodiest.

The nation's leading traffic experts, to keep highway tragedies at a minimum during holiday season this year, ask motorists to beware of these highway dangers.

1. Drinking. Holiday parties and heavier-than-usual drinking puts dangerous, drunken drivers on the streets and highways. Stay sober and beware of other drivers who may have been drinking.

2. Darkness. The National Safety Council says more than three times as many highway deaths occur after dark. The year's longest hours of darkness occur during the Christmas season.

3. Dangerous road conditions. Ice and snow make driving more difficult during December. Bad road conditions cause an unusually large number of accidents and deaths.

4. Dearth of distractions. Most modern superhighways are straight, smooth and monotonous, making a drived a potential "highway hypnosis" victim. Take occasional coffee breaks and rest stops.

5. Poor roads. Many existing roads are not marked, signed or wide enough to take the flow of increased holiday travel. The wise motorist will check with his motor club before deciding his route.

Recipe File Box Gains Glamour

Makes Convenient Way to Keep Address List Up to the Minute

A bejeweled address box to sparkle on the desk adds a festive note amid the holiday rush and excitement. In pure white, rich gold and shimmering iridescent rhinestones the box is a novel but inexpensive and practical Christmas gift.

They're neater and more efficient than an address book. Write addresses on cards and file each in alphabetical order.

When friends move you merely take out the old card and replace it with the new address, avoiding the messy erasures necessary in an address book.

Little material is needed:

Enamel paint and gold paint.

First cover the box with white enamel, sanding between each coat. Apply as many coats as needed for a smooth, glossy finish.

Enlarge this pattern to the necessary size by increasing the space between lines. Trace the reindeer on the top of your box, going over the lines in India ink, and then paint the head gold. Let it dry, and then glue on the rhinestones.

Scandinavia Leads in Many Programs for Older People

Aid to Senior Citizens Includes Finance, Housing, Social Life as Well as Health

(This is the last of five articles in which top experts in health, medicine and old age report on what has been achieved and what to look for in the battle against disease and in overcoming problems of our senior citizens.)

By DR. ROBERT J. HAVIGHURST
Pres., The Gerontological Society
(Written for International News)

Gerontology, the study of aging, is one of the youngest branches of modern science. Already, however, it has two major divisions—medical and social gerontology.

Medical gerontology is concerned with the physical well-being of older people; social gerontology with their personal and social well-being. They are both aimed at helping older people become more happy and content with life, or to use a slogan of gerontology, at "adding life to the later years."

Social gerontology has three sectors, in each of which some exciting new advances are now being made.

In the first sector, the objective is to help older people get enough money to live on. The principal method of accomplishing this was discovered at about the beginning of the 20th Century and has been elaborated since that time. It consists of building up pension funds, either government of privately administered, from which people draw benefits upon retirement. By this means the old "poor house" or "county poor farm" has been abolished.

The latest development in this sector is an attempt to meet the problem caused by economic inflation which reduces the purchasing power of the elderly who rely upon a fixed income. Sweden is taking the lead in this area and is now attempting to work out a plan which adjusts the purchasing power of the old age pension to the variations of price-level.

PROVIDE COMFORTABLE HOMES

In the second sector of social gerontology the objective is to help older people get comfortable homes to live in. They generally must put up with the poorest and oldest housing in present-day crowded cities. Recognizing this need, some 20 years ago certain European countries began to build public housing units especially designed for older people.

Then, in the most recent time, it has become clear that older people generally prefer to live near their families and old friends, though they also prefer to live independently in their own quarters. Consequently, the more recent housing projects, especially in Scandinavia, provide quarters for some older people in blocks of housing for families of all ages.

In addition to public-financed housing there is also a good deal of activity just now in privately financed housing for older but healthy people, especially in the United States. For people who can afford to pay for good housing, there are a growing number of housing projects, especially in Florida and California.

And in practically every medium-sized and larger city in the United States, architects and builders are constructing the kinds of homes they think retired people will like --usually apartment houses with labor-saving devices and located within convenient reach of churches, libraries, clubs and familiar places.

Another type of dwelling which is attractive to older people is the combined cottage-dormitory project where a person can buy a place to live for the rest of his life, with meals and nursing care if needed, for a flat payment of some $8,000. Many church groups are building this type of institution, which is self-supporting and meets a need of their older members.

PLAN SOCIAL LIFE

In the third sector of social gerontology the objective is to help older people enjoy social life and mild activity. It has been found that meeting the economic needs and the housing needs of older people is not enough. They also have a need for "ego support"—for feeling that they count in the lives of other people, for friendship, and for interesting things to do.

To help older people meet their need for ego support there have been two kinds of action. On the one hand, older people themselves have formed organizations of senior citizens. Such organizations are active in Switzerland, Sweden, Holland, Germany, England and the U.S.A. Some are organized on a purely local community basis, while in several countries there are national organizations.

On the other hand, there are many clubs and associations for older people, organized and supported by private or public welfare organizations. Thus, in England, many cities have "old peoples welfare committees," organized by the local department of public welfare. Churches, trade unions and women's organizations are likely to be sponsors of such clubs.

The organizations initiated and governed by older people themselves are more likely to have a number of middle-class members, while those run by middle class adults for older people are likely to draw a predominantly working-class group.

The activities of these senior citizens organizations vary from a simple monthly social meeting in a church hall or the community room of a neighborhood social center, to a complex program including vacation bus tours, classes in landscape painting, discussion groups on foreign and domestic social problems, handicraft shops, money-earning projects and theater and concert parties.

Although these developments in social gerontology lack the drama of the life-saving accomplishment of medical gerontology, they represent social inventions of real importance in the effort of our society to find ways of adding satisfaction and happiness to the later years of life.

Corneas Kept 2 Years

NEW YORK — Human eye corneas have been preserved successfully for as long as two years through dehydration in glycerine and storage at room temperature in vacumm-sealed tubes. The corneas are used for grafting into the eyes of persons whose own corneas were injured.

Rowdy Ricksha Pullers Get Official Discipline

DURBAN, S. Africa — In order to keep Durban a favorite vacation and tourist resort, the South African city has moved to protect visitors from overcharging on drinks and foodstuffs.

A drive also has been started against ricksha pullers who become abusive when people object to excessive fares for rides. The Chief Constable, John Graham, has even suggested that the ricksha stand at the bottom of West Street, near the ocean front, be abolished because of complaints and trouble in administering the pullers.

A committee has been named to stop malpractices by some beach vendors.

President Promoted

CARACAS — Venezuela's President, Marcos Perez Jimenez, has just been promoted again. In June, 1955, he was advanced from colonel to brigadier general; now he has been elevated to major general.

He'll File Suit for His Arrest

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Actor Errol Flynn says he will file a $250,000 damage suit against "all responsible parties" involved in his arrest last month on a drunk charge.

The charge has been dismissed by the police department for insufficient evidence.

Flynn and actress Maura Fitzgibbon were arrested at the Hollywood Publicists Ball by an off-duty policeman serving as a special officer to keep peace at the party.

Residents of the U. S. consume more coffee each year than all of the rest of the world combined, much of the imports coming from Brazil sources.

Senior Achievement Aids Self-Respect

By RAY HENRY

To him this unique Chicago business which hires no one under 60 has meant the difference between happiness and a life of fear and desperation.

He heard about Senior Achievement more than a year ago. It was almost too good to believe.

Here was a business which not only could, but wanted to, use the brains and hands of older people—people like Hirsch—to do packaging and assembling, among other things, for other Chicago businesses.

Hirsch found that it had been organized for that purpose in 1953 by Dr. David Sonquist, executive director and 67, with the help of a number of interested Chicagoans and some cash contributions.

He also found that it had been deliberately set up to give a little money and a sense of accomplishment and security to older people; that it was non-profit and tax exempt.

He applied for and was given a job.

PACK CHRISTMAS CANDY

"When I came here," Hirsch told me in Chicago recently, "we were packing thousands of boxes of Christmas candy for a department store. I got the job of time-keeper. I'm now in charge of all the supplies for people who want to do some of our work at home or in their churches."

Being in charge is nothing new for him. Before World War II, he owned a large business in Stuttgart, Germany, which imported and exported sausage skins.

He knew things here weren't going to be easy either. He was already 62, too old and too broke to start a new business.

He was right.

First, it was a year in a brush factory. Then, six years with a Chicago mail order house—until he hit the company's age barrier of 70. Then 4½ years as a grocery store clerk—until the store put in self-service.

It was in 1953 while working at the grocery store that his wife died. He felt the loss deeply, but didn't know how much until he also lost his job at nearly 75.

LONELY, DESPERATE

Sure, he had worked enough to draw Social Security and didn't need much more money. But, somehow desperation and fear seemd to close in as he sat alone in his home.

"I was alone all day and very lonesome. I tried to get a job and told: 'you're too old and you'd work for nothing. I didn't know what to do with myself. I was just get in the way.'"

It was like that for more than two years.

Then he discovered Senior Achievement and is now one of the 750 older people who work part or full time, depending on their health and inclination.

"Here everybody appreciates me. I'm not a number," he told me, "but a person—an employe."

The pay for Hirsch and the others isn't high. This way they won't make more than the $1,200 which might cause them to lose some of their Social Security.

In any case, many of the people feel like Hirsch:

"It's not the money I make, it's the honor to work."

(Questions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security," in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administration. There is no charge for this service.)

Withdraw Charge Against Teacher

DETROIT (INS) — An assult and battery complaint against a substitute Detroit teacher accused of paddling three sixth grade boys with a broomstick was withdrawn yesterday.

The complaint was withdrawn after the teacher, Gene Kucharski, 27, apologized to an office full of school officials and parents.

Herbert D. Sullivan, director of school attendance, said Kucharski would be eligible again for teaching assignments.

Timely Yule Tips for Personalized Gifts for Friends

A gay Panda greeting card is a clever remembrance gift to a neighbor. The card actually is reproduced on fine linen so you are mailing a gay handkerchief in its own envelope.

Proud of your golfing friends? Make them even happier with a special golfer's tie. It has a small foulard golf pattern in fairway green, sandtrap beige, divot brown, golf ball white or sky blue.

Hunters, match shooters or handloaders can throw away chewed cartridge boxes. Stuff some Amm-O-Safe cartridge boxes of polyethylene plastic in their hunting sox. Bright red case has individual shell compartments, slip-on cover.

Christmas is a good time to say thanks for neighborly gestures. Slip a purse-size cylinder of Escapade spray perfume under a friend's tree.

At odds-and-ends for a last-minute gift? A special tie press helps a man keep his ties neat. One with two rollers presses ties overnight while the wearer sleeps.

Only 1 Wonder Survives

WASHINGTON — Of the famed Seven Wonders of the ancient world, only one survives—the Pyramids of Egypt. The others were the Pharos (lighthouse) of Alexandria; the Hanging Gardens of Babylon; the Temple of Artemis; the Statue of the Olympian Zeus; the Tomb of King Mausolus, and the Colossus of Rhodes.

Belgrade to Belgrade Can Be Very Long Trip

BELGRADE, Mont. (INS) — It's a long way from Belgrade to Belgrade but Dr. Katherine Roy is making the trip.

As head of Household and Applied Arts at Montana State College at Bozeman, Dean Roy accepted an assignment as consultant for the International Cooperation Administration to survey the home economics education program in Yugoslavia.

Atlanta School Given Fund to Fight Drawl

ATLANTA — A committee is being set up at Atlanta's Emory University to administer a $5,000 gift bequeathed to the school to combat the Dixie accent.

The money will be awarded over the next 10 years as scholarship prizes for the best essays written by Georgia college freshmen on the topic, "We Georgians are often our own worst enemies when we intentionally use colloquialism in preference to standard English.

The first state to regulate security sales was Rhode Island, which passed the statute in 1910.

Oxford Lions to Sell Papers for Two Days

OXFORD — The Oxford Lions Club has raised its Goodfellow Newspaper sales goal to $1700 this year, drive chairman Homer Height said today. Lions Goodfellows netted $1300 in 1956.

All the money is used to purchase clothing for needy area children for Christmas, and it was found that the need is even greater this year.

For the first time in the nine years the Lions Club has conducted the drive, Goodfellows will sell papers for two days instead of one. Friday and Saturday, Dec. 13 and 14, are the days.

It is expected that most of the club's 62 members will participate in the sale. The hours are from about 3 to 9 p.m. Friday and from 5 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday.

The club sponsors numerous other charity and youth activities, but the Goodfellow drive is its one big project of the year.

Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder

Physician in White House Has Worry—Ike's Health

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Back in 1940, Dr. Howard McCrum Snyder, then assistant inspector general of the U.S. Army, was sent to investigate a health situation involving troops whose chief of staff was an up-and-coming officer named Dwight D. Eisenhower.

LOOKED HIM OVER

"He looked at me coldly . . . and I looked him over," Maj. Gen. Snyder recalled recenty of his first meeting with the man whose health has since become Snyder's primary — in fact, practically his only — medical concern.

They met again three years later in North Africa and, in 1945, the doctor, ignoring the fact he was of retirement age, joined Gen. Eisenhower's allied headquarters staff in France.

Since then, they've been inseparable and, once again, it is the tall, ramrod-straight, white-haired, bespectacled, 76-year-old Howard Snyder whose words on the condition of the President of the United States are awaited anxiously throughout the world.

Eisenhower's personal physician was born in Cheyenne, Wyo., the son of a Western Union official who had served as a signal corpsman on Gen. U. S. Grant's Civil War staff.

Young Snyder went east for his medical schooling and was graduated from Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in 1905.

But, because he preferred "the wide open spaces," Snyder joined the Army—over the protests of a teacher who warned he was "throwing away a brilliant medical career."

CONTINUED STUDIES

Throughout his Army service, Snyder continued his studies wherever and whenever he could, as if storing up all the medical knowledge he would need when his patient would be the most important man in the world.

In 1953, he joined Eisenhower's personal staff at the White House, and it was his personal okay that convinced the President he could run for re-election in 1956 despite the heart attack he had suffered only a year before.

Commies Shell Islands

TAIPEI (AP)—The offshore islands of Quemoy and Little Quemoy were at the receiving end of 98 Communist shells late yesterday and early today, the Defense Ministry reported. It said no damage or casualties were suffered, but did not mention whether the defenders hit back.

The first practical typewriter was placed on the market in 1874.

Radford Says Reds Stress Subversion

MANILA (AP)—Adm. Arthur W. Radford, former chairman of the U.S. Joint khiefs of Staff, said today the Communists are stepping up subversion in Asia rather than running the risk of war.

Speaking before a SEATO seminar on Red tactics, Radford said Russia would not dare to attack any SEATO member unless she was ready "to kick off a world war with the United States, in other words, World War III"

* * *

In that case, he said, the United States probably would be hit first.

But he stressed that because SEATO and other U.S. collective security agreements are thwarting Red aggression, the Communists now are stressing subversion.

Thieves Toss Pepper

READING, Pa. (AP)—Two men made off with pay envelopes containing $4,340 after throwing a bag of pepper into the eyes of bookkeeper Kathryn M. Dietrich, 68, at the N. H. Garman and Bros. excavating firm.

Three U. S. Presidents have been assassinated and four have died natural deaths while in office.

Reindeer Population Again Swinging Upward

Rudolph the reindeer and all his kin have found a warm spot in American hearts at Christmastime.

But what about Rudolph during the other 11 months of the year? Where does he live? Would he make a good pet? How many reindeer are there? Where did they originate?

Until late in the 19th Century, reindeer were found only in the arctic regions of Europe and Asia.

Then, between 1891 and 1904, the U. S. government brought 1,296 tame reindeer to Alaska to improve the economic condition of the Eskimos. By 1930 the gentle-eyed creatures had multiplied so rapidly that more than 600,000 were roving the Alaskan tundra.

ONCE HIGH PRICED

To understand what happened it is necessary to go back to the bitter controversy which erupted in the 1930s when Alaska's Eskimos accused white men of slaughtering their reindoor for meat. Dry and gamey, like moose or elk meat, it once sold as high as $2.25 a pound in New York.

Finally, in 1937, Congress restricted reindeer ownership to Alaskan Eskimos. Some 100,000 reindeer in the hands of non-natives were bought up and turned over to the Eskimos.

It soon became clear, however, that many Eskimos lacked sufficient interest to care for reindeer herds. Left to their own devices, thousands of footloose reindeer strayed and joined migratory herds of caribou. Thousands of others fell prey to wolves. The Eskimos themselves killed great numbers to provide meat for sled dogs.

In spite of all this, the deer are increasing in numbers again.

Native owners sell them for $50 to $100 apiece for meat in Alaskan cities, where it brings slightly less than the price of beefsteak. Also, the Eskimos do a small business selling reindeer for use in drawing Santa Claus sleighs in Christmas parades. Several state-wide promoters have made a profitable business of this.

NOT IDEAL PETS

Evan L. Flory, Indian Affairs Bureau expert, says reindeer are gentle though stubborn and train smartly for their role in Christmas parades, but the youngster clamoring for one as a pet should be induced to settle for a rabbit. They can't stand heat, for one thing.

Reindeer cows give rich milk —so rich that it is best diluted with three parts of water. Chilled, it makes a kind of ice cream.

The bulls, weighing up to 400 pounds, grunt, bellow and cough, and their ankle tendons click like castanets. They use hoofs rather than antlers in fighting. The antlers are mostly sex-appeal decoration.

In harness, reindeer can pull faster and harder than horses. One deer pulled two men in a sleigh for 16 hours at an average speed of 18 m.p.h. And centuries ago, according to legend, a reindeer cow carried a messenger 400 miles in two days to warn the king of Norway of a plot against his life.

REINDEER — These animals though stubborn, are gentle and intelligent. This one gets a friendly lecture at Christmas Park, Albion, N. Y.

Store Shrimp Mold in Freezer Ahead of Time

Informal entertaining is the order of the day during the holiday season. This poses a problem for the weary housewife. She wants to serve something special and still escape occasionally from the kitchen.

An attractive white, green and red shrimp mold can be made ahead of time and kept in the refrigerator.

To serve eight persons, SeaPak suggests this recipe:

Prepare 2 8-ounce packages of quick-cook shrimp according to directions. Reserve 8 shrimp for garnish and mince remainder. Fold 1 cup whipped cream with ½ teaspoon salt into 1 cup mayonnaise. Combine mayonnaise, 1 beaten egg white and 1 envelope plain gelatin, dissolved. Then fold in shrimp, 1½ cups diced green celery, 1 cup diced pineapple, 2 teaspoons horseradish and 3 tablespoons lemon juice.

Turn into oiled 1½-quart star mold and chill until firm. Unmold on leafy greens and garnish top with whole shrimp on each of five points of star, three in center and five pimento strips laid from center to each point.

Wood Displays Set Off Parade of Yule Cards

In most homes, colorful greeting cards from friends and relatives march around a mantel, over a door or down the draperies as focal points of Christmas decorating.

To construct such a display measure the area available, probably over the fireplace. Ask the lumber dealer for a simple joint, V or bull nose, Western Pine Assn. suggests.

With paneling cut to correct length, fit pieces together and either nail or screw vertical cleats to the back for rigidity. A matching moulding may be used to finish edges.

Use a stain to allow the grain and knots of the wood to show. A top coat of clear lacquer, varnish or wax is the final touch.

* * *

Danger Lurks in Yule Eating

Trick Is to Have Fun, Hold That (Waist) Line by Wise Selection

The weightiest problem of the holiday season is how to enjoy all the good things to eat and drink and still hold the line. Restraint and proper selection will do the trick.

The main course is a guide for what to consume during a meal. There's less to be "gained" from lean ham or roast beef than from pork, from the white meat than the dark of a turkey or chicken. Almost anything is better calorificially than roast duck or goose.

Cranberry or applesauce, green leafy vegetables and even a small potato are calorie-cheap.

Eliminate the cream and butter sauces from bland vegetables and substitute lemon juice or vinegar dressing. Pearl onions, pickles and relishes are traditional, delicious and low in calories.

Before the main course, you may freely partake of lobster, shrimp and crab meat even with cocktail sauce. When soup is a starter, avoid the creamed variety and rely on beef or chicken broth, tomato soup and clam chowder.

Danger often lurks in the tidbits and mixes that accompany drinks. Be stalwart about pre-meal snacks.

No Two Exactly Alike

Little Help for Hangovers

CLEVELAND (NEA) — Millions of Americans who ring in the New Year won't be able to stand the most gentle tinkle of the tiniest bell on Jan. 1. They will have had it.

The hangover, according to unfortunately close observers, is the penalty for living in the old illusion that you can get something for nothing.

And according to the medical advisor of one of the nation's largest pharmaceutical firms — who begged that neither his name nor his company's be mentioned —there is very little that can be done about shoring up a hangover.

In the first place, an exact medical definition is not available, the doctor said. "A hangover is a combination of many things—among them fatigue, dehydration of the water in the blood, nervous upset and general unbalancing of the system."

No two hangovers are exactly alike, either in the same person or among many. Durations and severity vary widely.

"It's like an unwelcome guest in the house," one fellow with his elbows on the mahogany said. "With the guest, you merely wait for time to pass. The hangover is no different."

Over the centuries, experts have agreed on one thing: chance of permanent damage is slight. But the fear of injury, ulcers and violation of conscience adds several whacks to a pounding head.

It can be safely assumed that the hangover is brought on by alcohol in the blood—both coming and going. Thirst follows dehydration. Headache follows brain activity which controls dilation and constriction of blood vessels and cells

That upset stomach follows a radical change in diet and acute irritation of the intestinal lining. The fatigue follows a tremendous expenditure of energy. The shaking, some doctors feel, follows mental stresses

What can you do about it?

In the third place, don't let the party spoil your regular eating habits. In the second place, there are carmethose solutions available to coat stomach linings and retard alcohol absorption.

In the first place, wish everybody a Happy after New Year's Eve supper, stay away from the party, have a glass of warm milk and get into bed.

No Longer Displaced

MARTIN (AP)—Dr. Janis Pone, a displaced Latvian physician, expects to take up practice Dec. 1 as the first resident physician in this Allegan County village in two years. Dr. Pone, displaced from his native Latvia iin World War II, practiced in American Samoa from 1951 to 1956 and since then has been resident physician at Bronson Hospital in Kalamazoo.

About 40 million persons, or almost one-quarter of the population of the U.S., either live in or near the 12 largest cities, according to tabulations from the 1950 census.

Garden Lights Effective

For an unusual Christmas outdoor lighting effect, put garden lights to work! Ingenuity, plus regular outdoor and garden lights, can easily create a festive outdoor decoration.

The small stick-in-the-ground mushroom units can be lined up a drive or walk with the "stems" wrapped in candy-striped paper and a bright Christmas dazzle attached to the top for an effective display.

They also make delightful miniature Christmas trees to enhance a shrubbery setting or walk. Chicken wire rolled in a cone shape makes the form of the tree. Moe Light explains, and aluminum bells, stars and angels, either made at home or purchased, add a bright decorative note. Take the caps off the lights and place atop the trees for a final trimming.

The trees can be varied by the use of different colored outdoor bulbs in each tree or line each tree with colored cellophane.

To make the outdoor Christmas ornaments for the mushroom trees, use aluminum pie plates, cheese snack cups or heavy-duty aluminum foil. Cut Christmas illustrations from magazines or trace around Christmas cookie cutters to make patterns. Trace on aluminum, cut out and hang on trees with pipe cleaners.

Make Christmas trees from a circle of foil rolled into a cone shape. For icicles, use one-half-inch strips of foil (leftovers from the round edges of the pie plates will also do). Wind the strips around a lead pencil to make a curl. Remove, and insert a fine wire for hanging. Leftover pieces of foil can be used to make butterflies and other bits of imaginative creations.

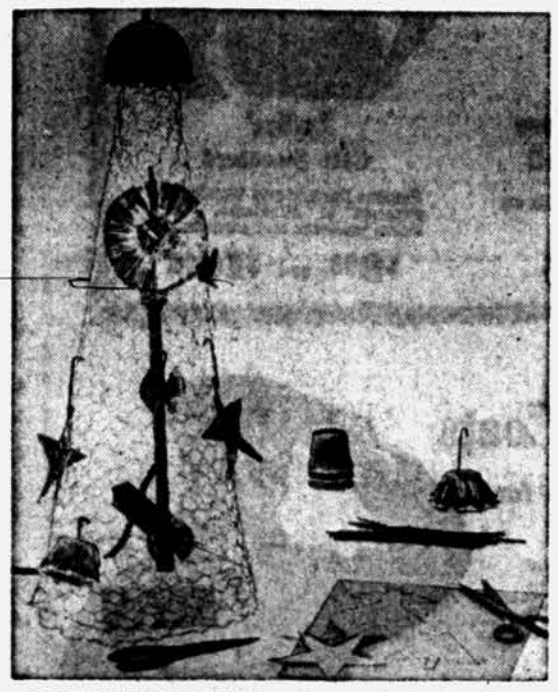
Fashion some greenery and a holiday ribbon around the lights. The Old-World style lanterns are ideal for snowflake and Christmas scene stencils on the glass. You can also place a bit of colored tinsel inside a clear glass globe.

Be sure to use fireproof materials in your Christmas decorating.



NEIGHBORHOOD GENIUS — You can fix outdoor Christmas lights from chicken wire and aluminum snack containers or pie plates. Arrange fire-proofed ornaments on 36-inchx36-inch wire cone slipped over garden mushroom lights.

Evansville Plymouth Plants Closed Down

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — The Plymouth body and assembly plants here shut down yesterday because of a lack of engines for new car assembly.

About 6,000 workers were made idle. The Plymouth engine plant in Detroit, which supplies the engines, has been closed by a strike.

Officials said the plants will reopen when engines become available.

Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers scheduled another conference today in Detroit in an attempt to settle a labor dispute at the Mound Road engine plant in Detroit.

Some 2,000 workers walked off their jobs nine days ago and the union charged a speedup. The company has made no comment on the cause of the strike.

The plant makes engines for Plymouth cars. Chrysler said 16,000 Plymouth Division workers would be laid off Monday if the strike isn't settled by then.

Rule on Baby's Death

GREENVILLE (AP) — An autopsy Tuesday night ruled the death of 4-month-old Joseph Matthew West was due to broncial pneumonia. The baby died Monday night while sleeping with its parents, Mr. and Mrs. William West, in their partly finished, unheated home about 10 miles north of Greenville.

Battery-less Car Stolen

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Alfred McDaniel is looking for a high-powered thief. He reported to police he left his car parked and took a failed battery to a nearby service station to be recharged. When he returned, he said, the vehicle was gone—without the battery.

Bridge Was Factor

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Harry H. Young, Chicago manager of the Sinclair Refining Co. Great Lakes Division, said Tuesday night that the opening of the Straits of Mackinac Bridge was a major factor in Sinclair's recent purchase of the West Michigan Marathon Oil Co. Young addressed some 200 Sinclair and former Marathon dealers. He said his firm realized the bridge would bring an increase in gasoline and oil demand in Michigan.

Detroit is the French name for Strait — a narrow passageway of water.

Egypt's Minister of Communications, Dr. Mustafa Khalid, is working on the design of a special stamp to mark the "heroic fight of the Port Said people against the Anglo-French aggressor."

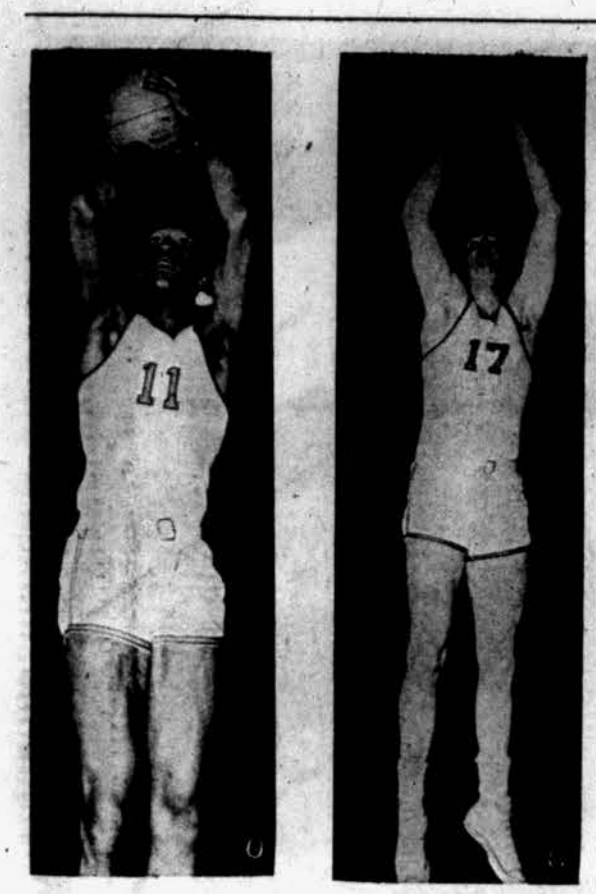
SVC Teams Again Pick Pontiac as Team to Beat



Pontiac Press Photos

BIG CHIEFS — Two regulars Pontiac High will be counting heavily on this year will be Hudson Ray, left, (6-6) senior center and Jim Skinner (6-3) senior forward.

Chiefs Have 3 Regulars Among Six Lettermen

Hudson Ray Has Only One Semester to Play for PHS

By BRUNO KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Everybody likes to beat the champion. For this reason Pontiac High coach Art Van Ryzin fears the position to which his rival coaches have elevated the Chiefs in the Saginaw Valley Conference.

"We should have a good ball club, but so will a couple other conference schools and everyone will be pointing to beat us," said Van Ryzin.

The Chiefs have been pegged to capture the SVC title, however, thoughts of high honors in state championship play will be hacked at mid-term when 6-6 center Hudson Ray is lost via graduation.

Ray could be Pontiac's second all-state choice in three years, but will have to be at his best throughout the first semester.

The last all-stater was Willie DeWalt, who in only one year of basketball took the honors two seasons back.

With regulars Dick Whitmer and Jim Skinner returning, the Chiefs will be counting heavily on lettermen Charley Barge and John Bandy at guards to replace graduates Dave Diehm and Larry Peat.

Saginaw figures to be the strongest threat in the SVC with big Gary Potts, 6-5, and Junior Thompson, 6-4, supplying the height. Good outside shots are Bob Halliday, Dick Jones and Tyler O'Keefe, all lettermen.

Ex-Walled Lake coach Bill Ullenbruch could have the SVC shocker at Bay City Central with Bob Bishop, Jerry Gross, Jay English and Butch Kokaly back. The Wolves were the spoilers with their 5-5 loop mark last season.

Flint Northern is the silent partner of the league. The Vikings have only three lettermen back, but if a few newcomers like Gannon, 6-4, and Bob Hamilton, 6-3, come through, look out. Maurice Woodsen, Phil Gaines and Reg Gillard are the lettermen and help is due the second semester with Clifford Carr and John Gilliam.

Avondale Seen Top Threat

Rate Orion in Oakland-B

Fresh from winning the Oakland B championship in football and compiling a perfect season, Lake Orion is now busily preparing to make a strong bid for basketball honors with loop play only two weeks away.

The Dragons are rated a strong threat to take all the honors along with Fitzgerald. Both are well set with veteran material.

Defending co-champs of a year ago, Avondale and Troy, are by no means being counted out at this early date, but they were hard-hit by graduation.

Clawson and Madison are rebuilding but either or both schools could make things interesting late in the season.

Lake Orion will have a brand new gymnasium to play its home games in this year and would like nothing better than to break it in right with a big season.

The likes of Nick Niera, Jim Drake and Jim Recknagel could help make the dream come true for the Dragons. Coach Hal Carlin has four other promising lettermen and a good-looking transfer named Ken Hensler for an overall combination of size, speed and experience.

Fitzgerald has four starters and some reserves back as a strong nucleus. Wayne Figley heads the Troy combine.

Jerry Hill heads four lettermen returning from the team that won 11 of 16 last year for Avondale. The others are big forwards Ray Goforth and Dennis Evans and guard Chuck Nurek. All four are seniors.

Coach Dick Bye will build his attack around Hill, who scored 148 points last year, and Gary Acker, up from the reserve team. Help is also expected from transfer guard Mike Walker.

Both Lake Orion and Avondale open the season at home against Oxford. The game at Orion's new 1,200-seat gym will be Dec. 6, and the Yellowjackets debut four nights later.

REGULAR — Avondale will make a strong bid for the Oakland B cage title this year and one reason is veteran center Jerry Hill, 6-3 senior.

St. Fred Threat in SCL

Although they have had little chance to do much with basketball since just finishing football, the Shamrocks of St. Michael and St. Frederick's Rams are rated by league opponents as first division threats in the Suburban Catholic League this season.

Orchard Lake St. Mary is another team considered a contender to give defending champion St. Benedict a run for top honors.

St. Michael has put its opening basketball game off until Dec. 17 due to the late grid finish and will not even start workouts until Monday.

Coach Bob Mineweaser, fresh from a 6-2 football season and that big comeback win over St. Fred, has returning starters Bob Jr. and Chuck Steinhelper among his returning lettermen.

The situation is just the opposite at St. Frederick where Gene Wright had his basketballers out Monday even though football just ended Sunday.

It is a "must" for Wright with the opener coming up Dec. 6 against rugged Orchard Lake in an early local battle.

Orchard Lake St. Mary could very well be the team to make things hot for Larry Gacki and company at St. Benedict.

The Eaglets were 17-2 all season and 9-1 in the SCL last year. Five lettermen remain from that team including Art Goldzinski and Stan Moniuszko.

Ferndale St. James also has five lettermen and should improve on its 6th place finish. Bill Tunnicliff heads the group.

Royal Oak St. Mary, St. Clement of Center Line and Detroit St. Rita are lacking experience but there could be some surprises before the season is too far along.

Imlay City Favorite in South Central

Defending champion Imlay City is favored to repeat with Millington and Ortonville considered the top contenders when another South Central League basketball race gets under way soon.

Consensus around the league has Oxford and North Branch battling for the lower positions in the standings.

Millington and Ortonville shared 4th a year ago and are primed for better things.

Junior forward Chuck Graves, Dan Carter, Ken Reinker and Charlie Adkins are the lettermen back at Ortonville.

Lack of height and experience are hindering Oxford where Jeff Brady, Galen Somers, Clayton Woodward and Max Dunn are top hopefuls for starting jobs. Rebuilding is the major problem at North Branch.

Reserves Must Aid Rochester

Fowler Out at Romeo; Lapeer Builds Around Four Lettermen

Rochester and Royal Oak Dondero rank among the top area teams playing outside of the local leagues with Romeo also figured to be strong for the current hoop season.

Dondero has some capable veterans returning and should make things interesting in the Border Cities League.

Romeo is a questior mark with the big problem concerning the availability of Don Fowler, top point-getter and most valuable player in 1956-'57. He is scholastically ineligible for the first semester. Three other lettermen are back.

Cranbrook opened play Wednesday at Walled Lake with John Studebaker and Mike Mayer its only lettermen. Five transfers may help after the holidays.

Lapeer is rebuilding around four lettermen. Utica has only two veterans back after a 13-4 slate. Royal Oak Shrine will sorely miss talented Tom Ropers. Madison Lamphere and Farmington Our Lady will be having teams for the 1st time. South Lyon, Oak Park and Country Day have some rebuilding work to do.

Southfield Has Plenty of Height

Berkley Inter-Lakes Choice

By CHUCK ABAIR

"Watch out for Berkley and Southfield" is the word around the Inter-Lakes League as the teams near the end of pre-season workouts in preparation for another rugged loop grind.

One entry, Walled Lake, jumped the gun Tuesday night meeting Cranbrook in the debut for new coach John Shadford.

Berkley shared the championship with Walled Lake during the 1956-'57 play and is expected to have enough veterans back to be a strong threat to finish 1st again.

Southfield was a dismal 5th a year ago but should move up rapidly with seven lettermen back, led by Bob Shull and Tom Ridley. Balanced height could boost the Bluejays to the title.

Larry Vandervelde and Dennis McClellan are returning starters and Bill Hosley and Bob Smith won letters as reserves. Transfer Pat Yesh from Detroit may take over Hughes' old job.

Shadford will have no easy task replacing the likes of Larry Hughes and John Walker at Walled Lake but the Vikings should come along.

Gerry Wallace, new head man at Waterford, will also have a job on his hands. John Devine is his only player who started a year ago.

John Herrington, John Keating, Chuck Kirken, Bob Mitchell and Chuck Liskey all won letters last season and will be battling for the other starting assignments.

Such familiar names as Chuck Gillis, Ron Seets and Clayton Roth have left the Skippers through graduation.

Farmington will have to come up with some surprises to better its 3rd place finish of last year with only three lettermen to form the nucleus.

Van Dyke is also rebuilding and could serve as a "spoiler" late in the schedule.

Maples See Improvement

EML 1-2 Battle Expected

The hottest battle for the 1-2 spots in the Eastern Michigan League should take place this season with East Detroit and Ferndale battling for the honor.

East Detroit is the defending champion and returning are high point men Gary Ballman with 312 points and Ron Emerick (6-6) with 260 points last year.

Don Petroff (6-2) and Ron Schult (6-2) are the Shamrock forwards.

Ferndale has seven returning lettermen headed by all-county ace Earl McNeal, 6-foot sharpshooter and tricky floorman of the squad.

Big man on the team is 6-7 Gordon Rodwin along with regular Roy Palmer, a 6-2 junior.

Birmingham and Port Huron could make it tough for the favorites in the battle for third and fourth places.

The Maples have Bob Stephenson, Dave Ritchie and Chuck Gibson returning to fill the front line posts, while Ed Estes and Tom Fontaine lead the guard candidates.

Coach John Petrakis is looking for improvement of the 4th place finish of last year, while coach Reed Laughlin at Port Huron sees a slight drop from his 2nd place of last year.

The Hurons have 6-5 center Bruce Myles and three other returning lettermen with a host of juniors hoping to crack the lineup.

HILLTE — Bloomfield Hills makes its cage debut in the Wayne-Oakand League and the Barons may prove troublesome. Veteran Doug Danziger is one of three lettermen.

Close Scramble Is Expected for Southern Thumb

One of the closest basketball races in this area this season could turn up in the Southern Thumb League if you can go by pre-season outlooks. Loop action starts Dec. 3.

New Haven won the crown last year by taking 11 of 12 games and ranks as the favorite again with five lettermen returning.

Holly, Clarkston Hopeful

Northville Solid in W-O

It will take a lot of doing to prevent Northville from matching its sweep of Wayne-Oakland football honors with a basketball crown but there are seven area schools anxious for a shot at the chance.

Holly, which deadlocked for 2nd last winter, is considered the chief threat to the mighty Mustangs. Clarkston, co-champ with Northville in 1956-'57; Brighton, Milford and West Bloomfield are the others.

New loop entry Bloomfield Hills could become a W-O "darkhorse" with help from three transfers, while Clarenceville will be a young team lacking size.

Northville has an abundance of height and experience which will be hard to match. "We may not be the greatest team in the league but we'll certainly be the biggest," says Coach Stan Johnston.

Holly has eight lettermen and some improved former junior varsity members. George McDaniel (6-5) and hustling Amos Bradsher are the big guns for the Broncos. They combined for 471 points last year.

Clarkston lost George Lang but still has LeRoy Parks and several others including big boys Dick Lippert and Bill Noles from the team than won 15 and lost four.

Lack of a steady scorer has been the chief problem at Milford. Finding somebody to fill the bill would make the Redskins a threat since Jack Minzey has 10 lettermen to work with. Pat Kelley could be the answer.

West Bloomfield appears well set for a starting team and may be a definite threat if Art Paddy can come up with some bench strength.

Last year's scoring ace Bob Elston is among three returning veterans at Bloomfield. Transfers from Birmingham, Trenton and Country Day could make the Barons a surprise.

Brighton matched Holly for the runnerup slot last season and is expected to finish in the top group again with eight six-footers on the squad.

State Tops Statistics

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan State failed to win the Big Ten football title but became the statistical champion.

Final team figures today showed that the Spartans topped the conference on offense and defense in winding up second in the title race with a 5-1 record.

MSU was first in average points scored per game with 30.7, yards gained with a 372.2 average; number of plays with a 73 average and yards per play with 5.1.

The Spartans also fumbled more than any other team, averaging five per game and losing the ball an average of 2.7 times.

MSU limited opponents to an average of 182 yards and 10 points. Iowa was second on yardage yield with 220.

Champion Ohio State was second in average points scored with 29.7; second in yards gained with 358.7; first in rushing with 307 to MSU's 259.4 yards per play. Ohio State held foes to the lowest number of points, 8.6.

The Buckeyes stand out for having a minimum of offensive errors. They had only one pass intercepted all season and lost the ball on fumbles only eight times. They were able to put the ball in play more than 10 times per game more than opponents.

Individual leaders:

Rushing — Jim Pace, Michigan, 584 yards in 100 rushes for 5.8 average; passing — Jim Van Pelt, Michigan, 30 completions in 64 attempts for 465 yards, 7 touchdowns, 2 interceptions. Iowa's Randy Duncan had 50-90 for 695 yards and 6 touchdowns but his 11 interceptions kept him in second place under the Big Ten ranking system.

Total offense — Duncan, 52 rushing and 695 passing for 747 and a 6.5 average per play; scoring — Pace, 54 points; pass receiving — Jim Gibbons, Iowa, 26 for 376 yards and 3 touchdowns; punting — Ken Mikes, Purdue, 26 for a 38.8 average.

Service Teams Meet for 58th Time Saturday

Middies Are Favored in Gridiron Renewal at Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The beat of drums and blaring trumpets, and flashing gold braid and a cheering crowd, a tradition which grows more stirring with the years—all combine in the 58th Army-Navy football game Saturday at Municipal Stadium.

Navy is favored by a slight margin in this 35th encounter on the big field in South Philadelphia, but it's a game which brings out that extra spark from an underdog, so predictions are risky at best.

Both teams have won seven games and lost one, and Navy also has one tie on its slate for the season. The only opponent both have faced is Notre Dame. The Irish edged Army 23-21, and bowed to the Midshipmen 20-6.

A sellout crowd of about 100,000 is expected for the clash, which continues a gridiron rivalry begun in 1890. Scalpers had the only tickets still available, and reportedly were asking $20 and up for seats behind the goal posts in the vast bowl.

Coach Eddie Erdelatz of Navy and Earl Blaik of Army wound up their heavy practice sessions for the game at which both service squads aim all season. Both teams are in top physical shape.

In last year's game, the two teams fought to a 7-7 tie. Navy won the 1955 meeting. Since the series began, Army has won 29 games, Navy 23. There have been five ties.

Lions Need This One

Rated Edge on Packers

The Green Bay team that whipped the Lions 24-20 last year in the Turkey Day classic is without quarterback Tobin Rote, who was traded to the Lions, and will be missing several front-line players who are sidelined by injuries.

The Lions are 7 to 10-point favorites over the Green Bay team, defeated by the Lions in the Wisconsin city the second game of the campaign.

If the Lions lose today, they will be all but eliminated from the Western Conference title chase. Currently the Lions and the San Francisco 49ers trail the division-leading Baltimore Colts by a single game. The Lions and the 49ers have identical 5-4 records.

After the Green Bay game the Lions are idle until Sunday, Dec. 8 when they meet the Eastern Conference leaders, the Cleveland Browns, in Briggs Stadium. They close out the regular season Dec. 15 in Chicago against the Bears, who walloped the Detroiters 27-7 last Sunday.

A delegation from the Detroit club will leave for New York Saturday morning. The Lions' football network will carry the telecast and broadcast of the New York Giants-San Francisco game out of New York Sunday afternoon. The Lion party will go from there to Philadelphia for Monday's NFL player draft and special league meeting.

Kansas Pitt 11 Hillsdale Foe

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Pittsburgh, Kan., State College, undefeated in 10 starts this year, was named today to meet Hillsdale College of Michigan for the football championship of the National Assn., of Intercollegiate Athletics in a bowl game at St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 21.

Selection of Hillsdale, which has the longest current undefeated string in collegiate football—34 games, as the Eastern team was announced previously.

The game will be telecast nationally by CBS.

Ski Areas Set for Winter Season

By H. GUY MOATS

With winter just around the corner (Sunday is Dec. 1) Pontiac ski areas are just about ready to swing into action when the weather hits the steady freezing level.

Most of the centers in the section have improved their layouts, like that at Mt. Holly, on Dixie highway north of Pontiac. Height has been added to the north run, and the beginners' slope has been widened. Work on these improvements at the popular winter area has been progressing all summer. Bulldozers and big earth-movers have provided skiers with more interesting slopes on which to perform.

Walter Hafey will again handle the "pro" job he held last winter, and genial Mort Graddis is the top man. It is expected (if the weather cooperates) that the area's activities will be going by Dec. 15.

Newest of the area's ski centers is the 120-acre Summit Ski Club in Fenton's Tyronne Hills, that is said to include the state's highest summit south of the Bay City line. The new club, which will be ready for start of the season early in December, has nine runs, four tows, a skating area and other features provided through a big community effort. There's a spacious guest house, snack bar and equipment shop.

A snow-making machine has been installed, and the entire area will be floodlighted. Qualified instructors, using the Canadian technique, have been engaged. National Ski Patrol personnel is also provided.

Navy 11 Is Team of Fun Trying for Cotton Bowl

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Good football teams frequently wind up with identifying labels. In 1954, Navy's was team of desire. This time it's the team of fun.

And it it beats Army Saturday in Philadelphia, it also will go to a bowl game. The 1954 crew beat Mississippi in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans. The Cotton bowl is awaiting the fun lovers.

Coach Eddie Erdelatz is responsible for the spirit just as he kept hammering three years ago on the theme if you want to win badly enough you will.

"A very important part of football is to enjoy it and not to take it as a job," is the idea he sold this squad.

Quips by the players fly fast and furious on and off the field. Even during a game in a crucial situation one will slip out and might be addressed to the opponent.

As a result, strain which leads to mistakes is relieved and it is the attitude which Erdelatz has fostered for the all - important Army game. "I'm tense before every game," he admits, "but I like the players relaxed."

It's a tough job to keep the Navy football squad on an even keel during this week when the Academy grounds resound constantly and are plastered with signs with one thought only—"beat Army." But Erdelatz evidently has succeeded with player after player telling interviewers they've never had so much fun and are looking forward to Army with enjoyment instead of an inner fear of goofing before 100,000 spectators.

Last Word for Hoople

Egad! Here we are at the end of another wonderful season of forecasting football results — and your humble correspondent winding it all up in a blaze of glory with a perfect card — har-rumph!

One of the great upsets of the season I have saved for the last—Oklahoma State to nose out Oklahoma, 14-13. Amazing, isn't it? Not to mention Texas defeating one of the nation's most heralded teams, Texas A. and M. My word.

Well, Turkey Day always brings memories of my Thanksgiving dinner experiences, some of them grueling, may I assure you. There was, for instance, that day when I shared an eagle with two starving prospectors in Dead Man's Gulch.

Then again, once in Afghanistan, owl goulash was the piece de resistance. Have you ever eaten baked ostrich in the Australian bush? Ho!

Well, with final admonition to be sure and watch Colgate give Brown the bird, may I leave you for the time being. Watch for my early return, however, with the complete list of Bowl games and scores.

Aliha and cheerio!

Gator Officials Scouting Today

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Gator Bowl selection committee had a representative at the Texas A&M vs. Texas game today and will have others at the Mississippi vs. Mississippi State and Tennessee vs. Vanderbilt football games Saturday.

Those six teams are prime targets of Gator Bowl selectors together with Arkansas, Rice, West Virginia and Boston College.

Three of the four Southwest Conference teams mentioned still have a chance to make the Cotton Bowl — Rice, Texas A&M and Texas.

One of the Southeastern Conference teams on the Gator Bowl list probably will be in the Sugar Bowl. Another may be in the Cotton Bowl if Navy doesn't beat Army and go against the Southwest champ.

Richmond Keeps Lopat

RICHMOND, Va., (AP)—Ed Lopat, who has piloted Richmond to its two best finishes in history in the International League, has agreed to manage the Virginiane for the third year in a row.

Lopat managed the Virginians to a fifth-place finish in 1955 and got the Vees up to third place last year after the loss of several players in mid-season caused Richmond to tumble from the league lead.

Detroit Tiger coach Tommy Henrich played in four World Series and three All-Star games during his playing days with the Yankees.

STRIKES AND SPARES
By Joe Wilman

How's your bowling form? Do you have a major flaw in your natural approach or delivery? If so, try to remedy it. But, if it's become such a natural part of your game that you can't get rid of it, you can still become a good bowler despite it.

There are a lot of fine men and women bowlers today who have reached stardom despite some definite flaws in their games. Patty Streibeck and Carmen Salvino, for instance, have backswings that are much higher than they should be as we illustrate. Yet, each has been a champion bowler for some years.

Lou Campi is a right-handed bowler who finishes on his right foot, yet he also has been a 200-average bowler for years. Other stars have approaches using as little as two steps and as many as seven or eight.

Yet each of these stars has overcome the defect to become a champion.

If you have an apparent flaw, go to a competent instructor and let him eliminate it for you. If it is so ingrained in your style that you can't get rid of it, decide to improve your game in spite of it. It's been done before.

Bengals Sign Milford Player for Farm Club

DETROIT (AP) — Outfielder Michael Carl of Milford has signed a contract with the Detroit Tigers to play with Idaho Falls in the Class C Pioneer League.

The Tigers also announced the signing of pitcher Pete Pekich of Johnstown, Pa., to a minor league contract. Pekich, also 20, has been a star pitcher in the Johnstown City League for the past two seasons. He will play with Class D Montgomery, Ala.

Pistons Lose to Hawks

Detroit's Pistons dropped deeper into 3rd place in the NBA bowing to St. Louis by a 121-110 count at Olympia last night in the 2nd game of a doubleheader.

Second place Cincinnati picked up a full game on Detroit by winning the opener over Minneapolis, 107-106.

It was the 5th defeat in six home games for the new Motor City entry as St. Louis boosted its front . running record to 10 victories against five setbacks.

The Hawks led all the way after a close opening quarter ended 30-28 in their favor. The visitors had leads of 14 and 18 points before rallies cut the margin down.

Detroit outscored St. Louis 30 to 22 in the 3rd period and had the difference down to eight early in the last quarter but could never get any closer than that.

The Pistons have a 6-8 season record. They return to action tomorrow night at Cincinnati and return home Saturday to meet the same club. The Detroiters play at New York Sunday to complete a busy weekend.

Last night's opener had a thrilling finish with the Lakers putting on a game rally before bowing.

Trailing 90 to 77 as the 4th quarter got under way, Minneapolis scored 13 straight points to tie the issue and stayed even until three successive goals gave Cincinnati a five - point edge, 105-100.

But the Lakers kept battling. They sliced the difference to one in the final seconds and just missed a chance to pull out the win when a shot by Vern Mikkelsen missed.

Clyde Lovelette paced Cincinnati with 22 points, while Dick Schnittker topped the losers with 24, making 18 of 19 free throws. The Lakers converted 50 of 58 foul attempts, including 22 in a row and 29 of their last 30.

Cooper and Fraser Dumped in South Aussie Tourney

ADELAIDE (AP) — Mal Anderson and Mervyn Rose threw the Australian Davis Cup tennis picture into a further tizzy today by upsetting topranked Ashley Cooper and second seeded Neale Fraser in the semifinals of the South Australian championships.

Anderson beat Cooper 10-8, 10-8, 6-3 after which the veteran Rose took the courts and walloped Fraser 8-10, 8-6, 6-4, 6-3.

The defeat probably cost Fraser a singles place on the Aussie Davis Cup team, although Cooper is likely to be named despite today's reversal.

Anderson's straight set victory, which was almost an exact duplication of his triumph in the U. S. Nationals at Forest Hills last September, probably clinched the Davis Cup singles spot for the 22-year old Queenslander.

Cooper's discouragement was shown when he mumbled to himself, tossed his racket in the air occasionally in disgust and glowered at soft drinks salesmen and spectators who moved while he was in the process of serving.

Anderson showed a much stronger service than Cooper, who is supposed to have the best delivery in amateur tennis. Anderson won one game with four straight aces.

The American Davis Cup team was impressed with Anderson's victory. "Anderson is much more flexible than Cooper," said Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla. "He plays a wider assortment of shots whereas Cooper, while steady and a great player, is pretty stereotyped."

Sessions Begin With Annual Player Draft

Yank Farmhands Among Top Choices; Satchel Paige Also on List

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (INS)—The Legislative forces in baseball's year of revision swing into action this week in what promises to be the most momentous Major-Minor League winter meetings of all time.

Geographical, historical and arithmetical alterations are on tap and a realignment of the entire structure of baseball heads a bulky agenda that includes another battle over the controversial bonus rule.

The conclaves run from Dec. 2-7 and the executives arrived early to lay the groundwork for the important discussions and to get set for the usual parleys on player trades that go hand-in-glove with these annual meetings.

The Pacific Coast League, American Association and Texas League are the three biggest groups directly affected and the chain reaction of having major league ball on the West Coast goes all the way down the ladder.

The first business on Monday concerns itself with the Major League player draft. There appears to be no standout prize on the list of several hundred eligibles.

A bargain may be found on the Yankee farm list at Denver, where 27 players are eligible. The list includes bonus players Cletis Boyer, an infielder, and Frank Leja, a first baseman, catcher Harry Chiti and outfielder Jim Pisoni.

Sprinkled throughout the draft list are names of ex - major leaguers and youngsters who failed to make the grade after receiving bonuses.

The Major-Minor League Executive Council wants to scrap the bonus rule and proposes that any player of four years' experience be subject to unrestricted draft.

Bruins Step Up to 3rd in NHL

Slump Ends as Boston Defeats Rangers, 5-2, at New York

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Bruins are on the upbeat again and Coach Milt Schmidt hopes "they've had their slump for the season."

"Every club is going to have its hard times," said Schmidt last night after the Bruins had whipped the New York Rangers 5-2 on a four-goal third period splurge that moved them into sole possession of third place in the National Hockey League.

According to Schmidt, the Bruins played one of their best games of the season before a Thanksgiving eve crowd of 13,615 in Madison Square Garden.

New York held a 2-1 lead after two periods but Boston rallied for goals by Johnny Bucyk, Jerry Toppazzini and Vic Stasiuk in the first eight minutes of the third session. Boston has lost only one of its last seven games.

Win Marks Pool Opening

Maples Dunk Polar Bears

By H. GUY MOATS

Birmingham High School's tankers started out Wednesday night in proper fashion to make coach Jay Myers' belief the club will be "the best in many years" look pretty good.

Maples took every first place in a 69-25 smashing win over Highland Park in the premiere dual meet in the school's fine new pool.

A big audience watched the Maples compile their fine victory that included a school record-equalling performance by ace freestyler Pete Sintz in the 50-yard event.

The team's top performer and state champion 200-yard freestyler, Tom Bechtel, watched proceedings from the bench. Tom has been ill and it was thought he might be lost for the season. Now it appears he may get back into action within several weeks, with good luck.

Maples go again, at home, next Tuesday against Grosse Pointe. "This will be a hot one," Myers reports. "Pointers are a strong outfit."

Maples had to win one event twice last night. Dave Rider, first in for the 100-breaststroke, was disqualified for taking too many underwater strokes. Teammate Bill Driver got the place anyway.

Summary:

50-yard freestyle—Won by Sintz; 2nd, Pete Palmer (B). Time 23.8 (equals school record)

200-yard freestyle—Won by F. J. McGinnis; 2nd, Dennis Moore (HP). Time 2:14.7

100-yard breaststroke—Won by Bill Driver (B); 2nd, Joe Kolbe (HP). Time 1:20.8

100-yard butterfly—Won by Dave Rider (B); 2nd, Jim Peters (B). Time 1:07.4

200-yard medley relay—Won by Birmingham (Jon DeHaan, Driver, Hyde and Collins). Time 2:03.6

200-yard freestyle relay—Won by Birmingham (Buick, Palmer, McGinnis and Lee Harber). Time 1:41.6

AAU Convention Gets Under Way

Spanish Javelin Toss, Amateur Standards Up for Discussion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 70th annual Amateur Athletic Union convention opens today to pass upon new records, award championship meets and settle a number of minor controversies.

AAU President Carl H. Hansen of Oakland, Calif., called together the executive and foreign relations committees for a closed, stage-setting meeting to get the four-day convention under way.

Among proposals up for debate are those to outlaw "Spanish style" Javelin throws; to limit AAU championships to U. S. citizens except in track and field, swimming and women's basketball; and to broaden rues defining an amateur.

Southfield Loses Opener, 61-49

Southfield ran into a strong Livonia Bentley team in its basketball opener and came out on the short end of a 61-49 score last night.

The Bluejays trailed by four points early in the 4th period before faltering. Bob Shull tallied 11 points and Bob Filar 10 to pace the losers. Ron Gable topped Bentley with 16.

Dons Look Mighty Again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The University of San Francisco, with a reputation for great basketball teams, shapes up another this season.

Winners of the NCAA championship in 1955 and 1956 and a surprising third place club in the same national collegiate championships last year, the Dons have four of the five starting regulars from that latter team.

'I feel we'll be able to hold our own with any ball club," said Coach Phil Woolpert. 'On a given night this basketball team can beat any of them."

Co-captains Mike Farmer at 6-feet-7 and Gene Brown at 6-2½ form the nucleus of the team. Both are veterans of the 1956 national championship club. Farmer hails from Richmond, Calif., and Brown from San Francisco.

Harvey Kuenn of the Detroit Tigers has played in the All-Star game all five seasons he's been in the American League.

Snow Hampers Hunters

UP Deer Kill Down, Good Elsewhere

LANSING (AP) — Heavy snows are holding down the deer kill in the Upper Peninsula, but hunters elsewhere generally are reporting success "fully as good as last year," surveys by state conservation men reveal.

Despite early predictions of a reduced kill, they reported, hunters should bring home about 60,000 bucks as they did in 1956 in the regular Nov. 15-30 season. Special "any-deer" seasons are expected to harvest another 20,000 bucks, does and fawns.

In the first 10 days of the regular season, hunters who tried their luck in the Upper Peninsula had brought back 7,614 bucks and antlerless deer south across the Straits of Mackinac. On the same date last year, the figure totaled 7,548, all of them bucks since any-deer seasons did not run concurrently with the regular season anywhere in the U. P.

About 30 per cent fewer hunters also crossed the Straits last year from the Lower Peninsula.

Snow prevented many hunters from treking into the best deer cover, and forced them to stick fairly close to the main thoroughfares. Many back roads were blocked, especially in the western end of the peninsula.

South of the Straits and on Great Lakes islands, deer have had a tougher time of it. Many hunters, stymied by bad weather in the U. P., headed back across the straits.

So far, 370 deer have been taken off Drummond Island, compared with 411 for the entire 1956 season. On Bob-Lo Island, the take to date added up to 140, two less than last year's season total.

Beaver Island hunters report better-than-usual success, with 240 of them taking 96 deer, including 60 bucks as compared with 45 bucks last year.

Improved shooting also is reported at Gladwin Refuge, the Baldwin district and at various other points in the northern Lower Peninsula. Antlerless deer taken from two-any-deer areas in the Baldwin area total 1,570, less than 300 under the predicted total for the season.

Hopman Invokes 'Gag Rule' for Aussie Netters

ADELAIDE (AP) — Captain Harry Hopman invoked the "gag rule" today for all members of the Australian Davis Cup tennis team. The players are not permitted to talk to the press and all statements and interviews must be cleared with Hopman.

"The purpose is quite simple." Hopman explained. "At this stage, when selection of the Australian squad is touch and go, we felt it advisable not to have the situation aggravated by statements from the players."

Asked about the rule, Bill Talbert, United States Davis Cup captain, said "no comment."

Asked if he planned such a rule, Talbert replied "No, I do ot."

Tigers Talk Trade With Bosox, Hose

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox will hold trade talks with the Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers this weekend as baseball officials gather at Colorado Springs, Colo., for the annual major-minor meetings.

A Boston group, headed by general manager Joe Cronin, will entrain with top White Sox brass Saturday at Chicago. The Pale Hose, represented by vice presidents Chuck Comiskey and John Rigney and field manager Al Lopez, may seek an outfielder and third baseman from the Red Sox.

Sunday, the White Sox group will huddle with John McHale, player personnel director, and John Tighe, field manager of the Dertoit Tigers. The Sox still covet shortstop Harvey Kuenn of the Tigers. Detroit recently completed a big player swap with the Kansas City A's.

Arkansas Coach Still Uncertain of Future Plans

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) —Jack Mitchell, Arkansas University footbal coach and No. 1 candidate to succeed Chuck Mather at Kansas, says he expects to know his future coaching plans by today or tomorrow at the latest.

While it is strongly rumored that Mitchell already has been selected to head future Kansas football fortunes there still has been no formal announcement.

Mitchel left Lawrence to return to his Fayetteville, Ark., home late yesterday after being interviewed by the screening committee.

French Assembly Debates on Algeria

Premier's Support Splits

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

A divided French National Assembly now again is debating the so-called "fundamental law" which would give regional autonomy to the North African territory.

This is the second time this law has cokme before the assembly, which rejected it last Sept. 30, thus causing the fall of Premier Mauric Bourges-Maunoury's government.

The new bill under Premier Felix Gaillard gives stronger guarantees for the political representation of the European minority in Algeria and defines methods of election for an assembly.

Yet Gaillard's own Radical Socialist Party has split on the issue, a majority of the delegates led by former Premier Pierre Mendes-France disavowing his government policy.

Gaillard's party opponents have urged the government to accept the offer by Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba and Moroccan King Mohamed V to use their good offices to bring about a settlement.

DISPUTE COSTS

Mendes - France says that the war has been costing France between $1,670,000,000 and $1,900,000,000 yearly, a figure sharply disputed by Gaillard, who put it at $858 million yearly.

The French Government thus far has rejected the idea of negotiating with the Algerian Nationalist rebels through Bourguiba, the moderate Moslem leader, and King Mohamed who now is in Washington for talks with American leaders.

Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said those two Moslem leaders are not neutraal.

Mendes - France argues that if the Tunisian - Moroccan offer is rejected there is risk that the Algerian affair would be "internationalized."

This is an elastic term, since Algeria already has become an international problem. The French say it is a domestic problem, but the arms shipments to Tunisia by the British and the U.S. have caused a rift with France, a major NATO ally. Egypt is feeding clandestine arms to lAlgeria, the Algerian problem has come up for U. N. debate and Moscow agents are active in North Africa.

The Algerian dilemma is complicated by the fact that France insists the war be ended before any negotiations. The rebels insist that the principle of independence be granted by the French before they call off their guerrillas.

Denver Thieves Find Thanksgiving Dinner

DENVER (AP)—The trimmings on at least one Thanksgiving Day table may have been rather lean today, but nobody could complain about the main dish.

A poultry farm here yesterday reported the theft of seven dressed turkeys, a duck, a roasting hen and three fryers, all ready for delivery for Thanksgiving Day dinners.

State museum at University, Alabama, features a geological section with 20,000 specimens and samples of the ore and minerals in the state.

Cardiac Society Prepares Pin

Lapel Emblem Avoids Delay in Diagnosis for Heart Attack Victim

DETROIT — To prevent a heart attack from being mistaken for the collapse of a diabetic or epileptic, or for the effects of alcohol or car fumes, The Cardiac Society of the United States and Canada has designed and produced a colorful lapel pin — a cardiac emblem — which is available to sufferers from heart disease throughout the world.

It is believed by The Cardiac Society that such an emblem, worn by heart disease patients who travel or work, will obtain extra consideration from public, police and employeees of bus lines, street cars and railways.

It will also at once assist the doctor who is called.

Many instances have been reported to the Society of unfortunate mistakes, some of them fatal, when heart disease sufferers have been found unconscious.

They may have been treated as drunks or vagrants, when only acting "wobbly," and while trying to rest when in pain or desperately striving for breath. It is often difficult to diagnose what is wrong, and time is important.

The new emblem which victims of heart disease can now wear, is a small dignified lapel pin, coloured black and red on an oxidized silver base. It is smaller than a dime, but will be at once recognized, for it is heart-shaped, and bears a picture of tiny stethoscope.

The blind have the white cane to assist them in many countries; diabetics in some areas have an emblem; but this is the first time a constructive attempt has been made to give universal protection to heart disease sufferers, many of whom can travel and work.

Such interest was attracted on the first suggestion of the cardiac emblem that The Cardiac Society believes it will soon become familiar in all countries.

Setting Plans for Rochester Goodfellow Sale

ROCHESTER—Plans are being made this week for the 39th annual Ben Jones Goodfellow newspaper sale. The sale was pioneered by the late Ben Jones, who for many years conducted it with a few helpers from the police and fire departments, to raise funds for a Christmas party for needy area children.

Thousands of dollars have been realized in past years by the drive, which this year will be conducted Dec. 6, 7 and 9. It will provide money for the annual party for about 350 children.

Rochester, Brooklands and Avondale Goodfellows will conduct the sale as usual. They have a big Christmas party planned for Dec. 21 in the Harrison-Central Junior High School at 1:30 p.m.

Fire Chief George Ross and John Albertson will be co-chairmen of the sale. Chief Harold Graves is the Brooklands chairman with Chief Harold Miller of Avondale Fire Department assisting. Police Chief Sam Howlett again will conduct a clearing house for needy families' Christmas baskets.

Harold Dawe, entertainment chairman, plans a fine musical program for the Christmas party. There will be gifts for all, distributed by Santa Claus.

Hollywood Headlines

New Breed of Film Stars Are Balky, Independent

By BOB THOMAS

A case study is Paul Newman, handsome, brooding-lipped young actor who typifies the new breed. There have been others like him—Marlon Brando, James Dean, Tony Franciosa, John Cassavetes, Ben Gazzara, etc.

All were trained in New York, many at the Actor's Studio. Each has been as independent as a hog on ice. And though they have made the news on occasion, they shun the publicity mills of Hollywood.

"Panic, I guess," he said. "You keep passing up opportunities until finally you worry that it might be the last time you're offered one. I didn't want to sign, because I figured I wasn't ready for it yet. 'The Silver Chalice' proved that I was right."

Despite his nosedive in that religious mishmash, he went back to Broadway for some seasoning in "The Desperate Hours," then returned to score a smash on a loanout to MGM in "Somebody Up There Likes Me." Warners discovered it had a star on its hands.

Warners also found Newman to be a problem. The guy just wouldn't do what he was told. He has turned down three big productions which most newcomers would be delighted with. How does he get away with it?

"I just tell J. L. Warner I can't believe in the roles," he said. 'So far, I've gotten away without a suspension. On the other hand, there are roles on the outside that I haven't been able to do. He has a great way of winning arguments. He just orders me out of his office."

Newman has methods of winning his own way. He agreed to do "The Helen Morgan Story," which he wasn't too hot for, in order to do an outside picture, "The Long, Hot Summer."

The actor declared that such studio battles are mistakenly attributed to temperament. He said it's merely a matter of a man sticking up for his rights.

Farmer's Combine Eats Up Clothes

MATADOR, Tex. (AP)—A stiff north wind whipped a loose tip of farmer E. D. Lawrence's overalls into a combine drive shaft yesterday.

Lawrence, 68, struggled to jerk free. But the combine pulled off both his boots, snatched away his overalls, wound away most of his long underwear and scraped the skin off both legs.

Happily he found another grainfield worker nearby who was wearing two pairs of overalls. Lawrence borrowed one pair, went home for lunch, and returned to running his combine in the afternoon.

Automatic post offices employing mechanical "brains" will soon provide any address requested in a community in less than a second. That is how postmen will find remote lanes in zones where mail is not regularly delivered.

Custom Comes From French Forebears

Christmas Fireworks Halted by Law

Yankees visiting in the deep South have been surprised at what they viewed as an extremely unorthodox method of celebrating Christmas by shooting off fireworks.

The practice was brought in by early French settlers in Louisiana. Use of fireworks on Christmas is common in France, Spain and Italy.

The French settlers' noisy greeting of Christmas Eve spread to most of the Southern states but did not find favor in Yankee territory.

Mounting Fourth of July fireworks casualties brought restrictive ordinances or legislation in many states over the country.

DOUBLE DANGER

But the double jeopardy of Christmas and Fourth of July explosives in careless hands prompted legislatures and city governing bodies in the South to bear down even harder on use of ear-splitting miniature bombs, rockets that can knock out an eye or tear off a finger.

State laws in Georgia, North Carolina, Florida and Alabama ban fireworks except in supervised public displays, with a few exceptions. Georgia law permits their sale for use outside the state and in farming areas to break up bird infestations.

Florida law also permits farmers to explode fireworks to chase birds from their crops. Fish hatchery operators in that state may also use firecrackers to scare off predators.

North Carolina relaxed its ban in 1955 by legalizing use of caps for toy pistols in 77 of 100 counties. The Alabama law permits use of sparklers but some cities have local ordinances banning them as well as fireworks.

PERMITS WHOLESALE SALE

A Kentucky state law makes it illegal to buy, sell, import, shoot or possess fireworks, except at wholesale. The exception opens the way for a few roadside "wholesale" operations but State Fire Marshal Ray Humkey said the 1950 law accomplished its purpose with a phenomenal decrease in accidents.

South Carolina law bans all fireworks except small firecrackers, sparklers and toy pistol caps. Several South Carolina cities enacted ordinances against use of fireworks but these and the state law permit public displays.

In Louisiana, where the Christmas fireworks started, there is no general prohibition but most major cities have ordinances against them and their use is declining. Little or no fireworks are used in New Orleans or Baton Rouge on either July 4 or Christmas.

Most Tennessee cities and many counties have local ordinances banning fireworks. A bill to completely outlaw all kinds was introduced in the 1957 legislature but was watered down to ban Roman candles, sky rockets and similar, except small "soft-shell" variety. the state law doesn't interfere with local laws, many of which are more strict.

LOCAL ORDINANCES

Most larger cities in Mississippi enacted ordinances against fireworks under a local option plan approved by the legislature in 1956. But there has been little decrease in their use since dealers set up shop outside city limits and do a good business.

In Arkansas, Little Rock, Fort Smith, Jonesboro, Pine Bluff and Hot Springs ban fireworks by ordinance. Fort Smith permits supervised displays and police there report a marked decrease in their use.

Texas law limits retail sales of fireworks to periods between June 24 and July 4 and between Dec. 15 and Jan. 1. The measure, passed at the last regular session of the legislature was opposed by the Texas Safety Assn., which wanted the manufacture and sale outlawed completely.

Family Riled Up as Thieves 'Bag' Their Four Deer

The four bucks, one eight pointer and three spikehorns, were cut down from a cottonwood tree outside their home sometime before daylight Tuesday. Kashenider and his son, Frank, had hung them there after dressing them out.

A bloody trail showed the thieves dragged the carcasses 200 feet and carried them off in a car or truck.

The deer were shot north of Harrison by Kashenider and his son, the younger Kashenider's wife, Lucille, and Marine Sgt. Duane Balfanz of East Dewitt.

"We don't mind the loss of the venison so much as we do the horns," said Mrs. Kashenider. "We're a deer hunting family and we have a collection of them — 22 sets attached to the wall above our fireplace. They've been collected over the past 12 years and we were looking forward to adding to them this year."

Mrs. Kashenider said it was the first deer for Balfanz, a nephew, who left yesterday for duty at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Group Gives Advice on Vacation Driving

DENVER (INS) — The Rocky Mountain Automobile Association of America offers some advice for motorists:

If your car runs hot, the trouble may be caused by a defective thermostat. Have the thermostat checked the next time you have your car serviced and especially before you take a lengthy trip.

—Taking a vacation soon? When you have your car checked be sure to include inspection of your lights. It's important to have good illumination when driving around town, but out on the highway it's a matter of life and death.

—Your "margin of safety" when driving is the distance you can see clearly ahead of your car. To maintain that safe margin, don't follow another car too closely, never pass on hills or curves, and don't drive faster at night than your safety margin will permit.

Unfortunately, by the time a man gets to be a big gun, he's frequently in no condition to get loaded . . . Most couples have a plan for the future, says Caroline Clark. It's known as the installment plan.—Earl Wilson.

FBI Probing Shortages at Pontiac Credit Union

Charles Brown, special agent in charge of the FBI's Detroit office, said that results of the investigation will be turned over to the U.S. Attorney's office, in Detroit.

Brown would not comment on how long the investigation will take nor its scope or details.

It was believed, though, that if criminal evidence is produced, it will soon be in the hands of U.S. Attorney Fred Kaess, who may seek a warrant or warrants upon which a federal grand jury can act toward an indictment.

The results of the examination were sent to the Chicago Regional Office of the U. S. Bureau of Federal Credit Unions, which requested that the FBI step in.

Chicago officials have kept mum about details of the examination and the shortages it revealed.

"We will make no disclosures," said Frank Fransen, assistant regional representative of the bureau. "That will be up to the U.S. Attorney in Detroit."

Chief Pontiac officials said that they, too, were unable to detail the shortages, except for one suspicious $19,500 loan made last February.

The shortages, said Gordon W. Rice, credit union president, apparently have occured since September, 1956, and are fully covered by insurance.

The credit union's 10,000 members are employes of Pontiac Motor Division.

FOOD FAIR SUPER MARKETS

SOUTHERN CASSEROLE — Typical southern foods — like ham and corn — are used in a casserole with a tangy cheese sauce. Topping the dish are shredded wheat biscuits that get crispier while they're in the oven.

Crisp Shredded Wheat Tops Layered Casserole

Ever since the casserole came into glory, there's been no end to its variation — much to the delight of the busy homemaker. In addition to its time-saving factor, a meal-in-one dish generally is more economical, since it can make the most of left-overs.

Today's new casserole version has a distinct southern flavor, contributed by ham and corn which is layered in a baking dish alternately with crushed shredded wheat biscuits and a pimiento cheese sauce. Just before baking, a topping of shredded wheat crumbs blended with melted butter is arranged in diagonal stripes.

This dish makes perfect fall luncheon or dinner fare, further southern-accented with hot corn sticks and an avocado salad.

Southern Casserole

2 shredded wheat biscuits
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons grated onion
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups milk
1 cup grated processed American cheese
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1½ cups whole kernel corn, drained
2 cups cubed, cooked ham
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted

Crush shredded wheat biscuits slightly. Reserve one-third cup for topping. Melt butter; add onions and cook over moderate heat until transparent, turning occasionally. Stir in flour and seasonings. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly. Cook until thickened, stirring occasionally. Add grated cheese and pimiento; stir until cheese is melted.

Arrange alternate layers of corn, shredded wheat and ham in greased 10 x 6-inch baking pan. Pour cheese sauce over the layers. Combine reserved shredded wheat crumbs with melted butter. Sprinkle over sauce forming diagonal stripes. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 20 minutes.

For Holiday Punch Bowl

Freeze pineapple tidbits with maraschino cherries and water in tiny ring molds. These can be made ahead of time. When the punch is in the bowl, add the small ice rings. The little rings will last a long time and continue to look attractive as the ice melts. For a holiday motif, use a red cherry and pineapple chunk on green pick as a garnish for each punch cup.

Instant Coffee Topping

Festive flavor in an instant is the quick Christmas secret of instant coffee. Added dry right from the jar, blend the coffee with sugar and sift it onto cookies for a delicious, exotic topping—or blend it with honey and broil it on split English muffins for quick holiday tidbits to go with coffee—or make festive glazes, frostings and fillings, using this favorite flavor which is added in an instant.

Handy kitchen tool: a small inexpensive saw for cutting in half packayes of frozen vegetables and fruit.

REFRIGERATOR DESSERTS—They're easy to make way ahead of time. They are luscious and rich. Both the Chocolate Mousse Pie and Lemondown Fancy have cereal used in crust or topping. Serve these to your church group or bridge club.

For Heavens Sake! Noodles in Pancakes!

For many families, breakfast is a slapdash affair nowadays. If this is the case in your home, how about turning over a new leaf and enjoying this most important of all meals together? Why not begin with these Silver Dollar Pancakes tomorrow? The surprise ingredient in them is tender egg noodles. Not only do the noodles add extra nutritive goodness, but they make the pancakes taste twice as wonderful.

* * *

There are many other ways you can have noodles for breakfast, too. Try them cooked as a cereal with cream and brown sugar, or in omelets, waffles and fritters.

Silver Dollar Pancakes

1½ teaspoons salt
1½ quarts boiling water
4 ounces medium egg noodles (about 2 cups)
2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
6 teaspoons baking powder
¼ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1½ cups milk
6 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Add 1½ teaspoons salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add noodles so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

* * *

Sift flour, baking powder, sugar and 1½ teaspoons salt together. Combine eggs, milk, butter or margarine, and noodles; mix well. Add to sifted ingredients; mix lightly. Drop by level tablespoons on a hot greased griddle. Cook until browned on both sides. Serves

Add Green Grapes to Waldorf Salad

California Waldorf Salad

2 cups diced unpeeled red apple
Orange juice
1 cup seedless green grapes
1 cup diced celery
½ cup broken walnut meats
Mayonnaise or boiled dressing
Salt
Crisp salad greens

Mix the diced apple with just enough orange juice to coat pieces, then with grapes, celery and walnuts. Fold in enough mayonnaise to moisten and give good flavor, along with a dash of salt. Serve on crisp salad greens. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Layer Coffee in Pudding

In the bustle of Christmas cookie - making, you may find you've forgotten the dessert for the everyday family meal. Remedy that in moments by this simple but superb dessert trick: In serving dishes, alternate three layers of hot vanilla pudding made from packaged pudding mix with two layers of dry instant coffee, allowing ¼ teaspoon of dry coffee between each layer of pudding. Voila: Coffee Vanilla Pudding Imperial.

If you want to make a soap jelly, dissolve one part soap in five parts of boiling water. Allow the mixture to cool and thicken for several hours.

Diced Apple Floats in Cider Cocktail

This is the season for fruit cocktails, to add piquancy and attractiveness to harvest and holiday meals. This very old recipe has passed through so many hands that we can no longer trace its origin:

Apple Cider Cocktail

½ cup orange sections
½ cup diced Delicious apple
½ cup diced canned peaches
½ cup seedless white raisins, or Tokays, halved
1 cup cider

Cereals Add Crunch to Refrigerator Desserts

Refrigerator desserts? You love 'em! Cool and lusciously rich, they are easier to make than many desserts. Best of all, they can be made ahead of time.

These two new recipes you will want to keep in your card file. Both use cereal as a crust or a crunchy topping. If you have shied away from cereal desserts, reconsider—although similar to graham cracker crusts, the cereal is flavorful and delicious as well as extra good in nutritional value.

CHOCOLATE MOUSSE PIE

1½ cups crushed sugar jets (3 cups uncrushed)
2 tablespoons sugar

Mix all ingredients. Press evenly into 8 or 9" pie pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 8-10 min. Chill. Fill with chocolate mousse.

Filling

1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
3 tablespoons water
1 cup chocolate syrup
2 cups whipping cream
½ cup sifted confectioners' sugar
¼ teaspoon salt

Soften gelatin in water and dissolve over hot water. Stir into chocolate syrup. Combine cream, confectioners' sugar, salt in chilled bowl and whip until stiff. Fold into chocolate mixture. Pour into pie crust. Chill 3 to 4 hours.

LEMONDOWN FANCY

½ cup brown sugar (packed)
1½ cups wheat flakes
½ cup chopped nuts
3 egg whites
¼ cup sugar
3 egg yolks
1 cup whipping cream
Grated rind of 1 lemon
Juice of 1 lemon (4 tablespoons)

Melt butter in saucepan. Blend in brown sugar. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly to "crack" stage, 250 degrees (temperature at which a small amount cracks against side of cup when dropped in cold water). Take from heat. Add cereal, nuts. Stir until well coated. Spread mixture thin on baking sheet. Cool.

Beat egg whites until stiff. Gradually add sugar. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored; fold into meringue. Mix whipping cream, lemon rind and juice and beat until stiff. Fold into egg mixture.

Butter 8" square pan or 7x10" refrigerator tray. Crumble nut crunch mixture into small pieces. Sprinkle half into pan. Pour in filling and sprinkle rest of nut crunch mixture on top.

Curried Butter Spread on Fowl, Delicious!

Good Broiled Chicken

1 broiler-fryer (about 2½ pounds ready-to-cook weight)
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon curry powder

Have chicken cut into 10 pieces; use giblets another time. Clean, wash and dry. Cream butter with salt, mustard, paprika and curry powder.

* * *

Arrange chicken pieces, skin side down, on broiling pan without rack. Spread chicken with half of butter mixture. Broil rapidly with pan 6 to 8 inches from source of heat; when chicken is browned, turn and spread remaining butter mixture over pieces. Continue broiling, adjusting heat or rack if necessary, until tender and crispy-brown.

* * *

Baste occasionally with drippings in pan. Cooking time will be about 45 minutes. Serve chicken with pan drippings over cooked rice. Makes 4 servings.

Communist Chiefs Score Writers

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)— Communist leaders in Borsod County, Northeastern Hungary, say they have been forced to conclude that many writers in the region are "quite unreliable, from an idealogical standpoint."

It seems Janos Holdi wrote a short story in which a steel worker called for the denationalization of industry and a return to private enterprise. Poet Ferenc Hudy compared the lot of the Hungarian people to "the fate of the Earth" on which people are forever trampling. And Laszlo Sandor produced a "literay abomination" in which the Soviet Union appears as a monster moving on caterpillar treads.

Illness Boosts Adams' Power

Aide Again Is Deciding What Matters Will Go Before Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's latest illness gives added responsibility to his chief assistant, white-haired Sherman Adams, who has been trying to beat down rumors that he is a power behind the scenes.

The 58-year-old former New Hampshire governor is the key man once again in deciding what problems are important enough to put before the recuperating President.

Already tabbed as one of the most influential men in the country, Adams can expect the current White House situation to add to that reputation — despite his protests.

Only 10 days ago, Adams denied publicly in a Chicago speech that he or any other White House staff member "usurp the prerogatives" of Eisenhower, who once jokingly called him "the boss."

Adams said the President's staff is suspect sometimes because it works behind the scenes "to help see that things are done that the President wants done."

Adams, who gets $22,500 a year in his job, is known as a hard worker, with a rugged temperament and a brusqueness that sometimes makes him enemies.

A onetime lumberjack and former congressman, he sees himself as a buffer for Eisenhower against the tremendous pressures of the presidential office.

He has come to be the man to see if you want something from the President.

Adams first met Eisenhower in 1952, a time when he was concluding his second term as governor of New Hampshire. Adams was among the first of a number of Republicans who sought to persuade the then five-star general to seek the presidency. When Eisenhower decided to run, he picked Adams as his campaign chief of staff. After the election, Adams stayed with Eisenhower to head his White House staff.

Since then, the 5-foot-8, distinguished-looking Adams has remained on duty, keeping up a fast pace.

Man Can't Find Money Wife Hid Before Death

DALLAS (AP)—Floyd Coker, 82, a pensioner who formerly lived in San Antonio, told police he and his wife sold their home there for $3,000.

Coker took his half to a bank for safekeeping, he said. His wife, 76, hid her share in the couple's East Dallas apartment, he said. His wife tried unsuccessfully to reveal the hiding place shortly before she died April 7 of pneumonia, he said. He asked police for help and detectives searched the apartment, but reported yesterday they could find no money.

Praise Is Voiced for TV Version of Berlin Hit

Charles Mercer of The Associated Press rated the production "grand living room entertainment of Irving Berlin's musical "was every bit as satisfying as the broadway production." Mercer said Mary Martin "gave a top performance" and John Raitt "was eminently worthy of her efforts."

Jack Gould said in the New York Times that the production "lacked for nothing in sumptuous mounting, but the electric spirit of infectious and gay theatre was disappointingly missing." He also wrote in part: "In the romantic movements . . . Miss Martin was a delicate vision . . . but it is to be feared that Miss Martin did not project the quality of brassy insouciance that Annie must have. . . Mr. Raitt's voice was one of the evening's treats."

A-Smashing Expert Dies at Ann Arbor

ANN ARBOR (AP) — University of Michigan Professor James M. Cork, 63, a pioneer in the field of atom smashing, died last night in University Hospital after a long illness.

Cork supervised construction of the university's cyclotron in the late 1930s. For a while, the cyclotron was the largest atom smasher in the world.

Cork was a member of the university's Department of Physics since 1920.

One of his projects was producing green diamonds by irradiating inferior amber diamonds with atomic particles. He and Nobel Prizewinner E. O. Lawrence also produced gold by spreading platinum with similar particles.

Funeral service will take place here tomorrow. He is survived by his wife and two children.

Motor Scooter Driver in Satisfactory Shape

Gary A. Tyrer, 14, of 2715 Northlake Dr., Drayton Plains, was reported in satisfactory condition this morning at Pontiac General Hospital following an accident while he was driving a motor scooter yesterday.

Pontiac police report the driver of the auto which collided with the scooter was Boyd Riley, 29, of 3185 Seabright St., Drayton Plains. The accident happened at Oakland avenue and Johnson street about 6:30 p.m. yesterday.

Non-Hunter Bags Deer—but Cost to Car Is Dear

Richard Bigger, 31, of Flint hadn't planned to go hunting this season, but he bagged a deer anyway—at the cost of about $300 damage to the front end of his car.

Driving north past White Lake road on U.S. 10 about 3 a.m. today, Bigger saw a buck come sprinting in his direction from the side of the road, but was not able to stop quick enough to avoid hitting the animal broadside.

Bigger, of 2504 Wisconsin Ave., and three passengers were not injured in the crash. The deer died.

Vet Official Opposes Liquidation of Fund

LANSING (AP) — A Michigan veterans leader said today that any attempt to liquidate the 50-million-dollar veterans trust fund would be opposed by the state's organized veterans groups.

Howard W. Barhitte of Muskegon, commander of the State Veterans of Foreign Wars, urged leaders of other veterans groups to join in the fight against any attempt to "raid" the fund.

He said Rep. Willard I. Bowerman Jr. (R-Lansing) had suggested liquidating the fund to provide additional educational facilities.

"Liquidating the trust fund would provide only temporary relief," Barhitte said. "A permanent solution can be found only through additional revenues, not in a raid on the trust fund principal."

France Objects to Intervention

Warns United Nations That Algerian Revolt Is Private Business

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—France has warned the United Nations she considers the Algerian revolt her own business and feels any U. N. intervention could only result in more bloodshed.

Foreign Minister Christian Pineau issued his hands-off demand in the Political Committee last night even as the Algerian National Movement called on Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to bring both sides together in an effort to settle the three-year-old rebellion.

Pineau declared the rebels had lost the war on the military, psychological and political fronts. Any U. N. action at this stage, he said, would only block France's efforts to achieve a "peaceful, democratic and just" solution in her North African territory.

He turned down an offer by Tunisia and Morocco to get the French and Algerian nationalists to settle their difference around a conference table. The offer, Pineau declared, was pointless because it contained political preconditions. He said it had dropped the nationlist demand for Algerian independence, but substituted a demand for sovereignty which the French consider the same thing.

In Paris, the National Assembly cut off debate on bills for part home rule for Algeria at Premier Felix Gaillard's demand for a confidence vote.

The vote was scheduled for tomorrow and Gaillard is to make the government's reply on the Tunisia-Morocco mediation offer before the vote is taken.

Won't Give Santa Landing Clearance

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The City Commission has refused to grant landing clearance to Santa Claus. Or, as Police Chief W. Cleon Skousen says, Santa can land in a helicopter if he wants to, but his pilot will be tossed in jail.

City officials pointed out that a body of city, state and federal law forbids landings and takeoffs at any but authorized airports in metropolitan areas. It's also illegal to fly less than 2,000 feet over the city.

Army Explanation Kills Space Rumors

MORRIS, Ill. (AP)—It took an Army ordnance unit from Fort Sheridan to quiet rumors of space visitors and secret weapons in the Morris area yesterday.

Civil Defense Director Robert M. Woodward in Chicago was called. A demolition team hustled in from Fort Sheridan.

The material usually disintegrates before hitting ground, the Army said, but some airman neglected to take this batch out of its metal containers.

Breaks Car Window, Finds It's Not Her Own

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Carolyn Beckstead couldn't get the key to work when she tried to unlock her new car. She asked a passerby for help.

The key wouldn't work for him, either, so she asked if he'd mind breaking a window for her. The pedestrian complied and Carolyn, 20, climbed in and sat down.

Then she discovered it wasn't her car.

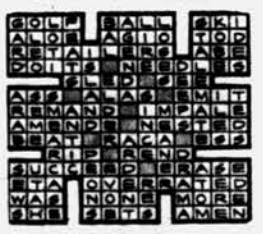
P.S.: She located the owner of the car, but reported he wouldn't accept payment for the broken window.

Answer to Previous Puzzle



TV BRINGS FAME — After years of failing to impress Hollywood moviemakers, Guy Williams finally has soared to stardom in the rival medium, television. Guy plays the dashing title character in "Zorro," a new Walt Disney series telecast by ABC Thursdays at 8 p.m.

Thanksgiving Season Sets Earl to Thinking

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—'Tis the season again for eating too much, talking too much and remembering—too much. And a 15-year milestone is too much for an invitation . . .

WILSON

It was the fall of 1942 when I first took over as "Saloon Editor" (which could be called the start of this column) and one Sunday night at Leon & Eddie's a chap got up and sang a song called "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition."

Now, of course, the place is a parking lot, but then it was a last stop for the Broadway Commandos taking the last train back to Fort Dix.

Another thing everybody was doing at that time was predicting that the night clubs would soon die as victims of the war . . . just as everybody's saying now that they'll die as victims of television.

And that was the era too when Joe Frisco said, "My d-d-draft board advised m-m-me not to start r-r-r-reading any continued stories."

Then the comedian changed the big song title around to "Praise the Lord and pass me my commission," and somebody wanted to know if it was true that Broadway Rose had joined the WAC.

Business was getting so lush that clubs were opening — and closing, too—before the paint was dry. Uptsairs at 52d St. and 7th Av., they baptized the Royal Casino which starred Comedian Jerry Lester, and Singers Peggy Fears and Jane Kean. Miss Fears sang another new song that looked rather promising, entitled "White Christmas." (Bing Crosby had just introduced it in "Holiday Inn.")

Guess who was there: Al Jolson and Eunice Healy.

Well, that's about it. Business was to die off because of the war, the gas shortage, the fuel shortage, the manpower shortage—and we had the greatest night club boom in many a moon (cops, sorry!).

I imagine night clubs will still be around after Sputnik 3d, 10th and 15th have run down. I will probably be there, too, trying to freshen up some old jokes.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: The reason so many people are heavy is that they take their diets too lightly. That's earl, brother.

Hollywood has 'em to spare. No, Irma, they don't hang doors. They hang AROUND doors in film scenes. Like when the Western hero walks into a saloon. Or when a New York deb rushes into a hotel lobby.

Some "door hangers" are veteran extras. Others are promising youngsters, under contract to studios, who are being "exposed" to movie sets.

So?

So about five years ago two handsome young fellows were fellow "door hangers" at Universal-International Studios. They hung around all kinds of doors together in all kinds of films after being signed by the studio as potential stars.

"One day the studio relieved the monotony of it all," one of the young fellows was telling me the other day. "We got to hang around a bar for a change. Even had some dialog. We figured maybe we were going places."

JUST FALSE HOPES

But they were false hopes. The studio finally dropped their options and they became ex-door hangers. One of the young fellows finally hit the TV jackpot. His name is Hugh O'Brian, who plays Wyatt Earp.

Today the fellow who was telling me about his movie door-hanging career is in big league TV, too. His name is Guy Williams, but he didn't slip through the door to fame until he became a television actor.

Now he's "Zorro," the romantic, swashbuckling star of Walt Disney's new telefilm series—

"The fox so cunning and free,
"Who makes the sign of the 'Z.'"

But the off-stage sign Guy is making isn't a "Z." It's a sign of good luck that landed him the Zorro role after a lost year under contract to U-I and a string of good but small roles in telefilms like "Highway Patrol," "The Lone Ranger" and "Men of Annapolis."

EXPERT SWORDSMAN

The luck was that he was an actor who could fence and now he's the town's most expert swordsman, after long hours of training with famed Fred Cavens, the same master who taught the late Doug Fairbanks and Tyrone Power, the two previous Zorros of movie fame.

Maybe it was because of Guy's film test, made in New York and then shipped to Hollywood. Even if it did win him a contract for a year, the test is one for the department of This Is Hollywood, Mrs. Jones.

The studio talent coach, Sophie Rosenstein, saw Guy acting on Studio One and asked him to learn a scene from the play "Sound of Hunting."

The test was scheduled for a small New York studio and when Guy arrived Sophie was directing another screen test, with a girl, in a kitchen set.

UNCHANGED SETTING

Finally it was Guy's turn before the cameras and Sophie said:

"I guess we'll just film it here in this kitchen set."

He still shudders: "There I was standing in a kitchen reading a scene played on the stage in a foxhole. I still don't know if it was any good.

"I saw it, but I couldn't keep my mind off the background—a stove and a refrigerator. Instead of a tough sergeant, I'm afraid I came across like a male Betty Furness."

Guy (real name Guy Catalano) is New York born of Italian parents and, yes, gals, he's married to a former Powers model, Janice Cooper.

They met when he was modeling in New York to finance his drama studies and now they have a 5-year-old son, Steve.

Centennial Farm Group to Form

Association Will Elect First Officers Jan. 30 in Meeting at MSU

LANSING — Oakland County farmers will play a prominent role in the establishment of the Michigan Centennial Farm Association.

The county has 45 farms which have been in the same family a century or more and which are registered and site-marked by the Michigan Historical Commission. It stands eighth in the state in this respect.

Officers of the state centennial farm organization will be elected and a constitution adopted at the annual Farmers Week meeting Jan. 30 at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Purpose of the new group is "to recognize the contribution of centennial farm families to Michigan progress, and to encourage the development of rural life in Michigan as well as to aid the Michigan Historical Commission in the development of the history of local communities."

It was recommended at a steering committee meeting here that the Michigan Centennial Farm Association cooperate with educational institutions, farmers organizations "and other agencies" in developing their avowed program.

Cooperating in the new group's formation are the MSU cooperative extension service and rural sociology and anthropology departments, and the Michigan Historical Commission.

Historians Scan Wilson Record

Note President Carried on No Functions During 18-Month Period

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower's new illness once more sent history students to the books today to look up what happened when President Woodrow Wilson suffered a stroke in 1919.

The found that the Sept. 26 attack that year brought these results:

— For a period of nearly 18 months, the President of the United States performed virtually none of his constitution functions.

—The government was operated by a White House clique that included Wilson's Secretary, Joseph P. Tumulty, Mrs. Wilson, the President's Physician, Dr. Cary T. Grayson, Treasury Secretary David J. Houston, and the legendary Col. Edward M. House.

— Congress, in special session, passed 28 bills that became law without the President's signature within the requisite ten days.

— For weeks, even cabinet members were completely in the dark as to either the nature or extent of Wilson's illness.

— And probably most signifi- League of Nations was defeated cantly, U.S. participation in the in the Senate because only Wilson had the power to lead the fight. The League itself, without this country as a member, failed as an international organization when the world began exploding more than two decades ago.

It was on a cross-country drive to drum up support for the League that Wilson collapsed.

He had just begun to overcome isolationist sentiment, having received enthusiastic receptions on the Pacific Coast after a cold beginning in the East.

But the strain sapped his strength. The first attack came in Pueblo, Colo. Later that day, in Wichita, Kan., the rest of his trip was abandoned and Wilson returned to Washington.

On Oct. 4, he suffered a stroke and paralysis, remaining unconscious for nearly a week and then was only semi-conscious for almost a month.

For three months, he saw no one but Mrs. Wilson, his doctors and nurses.

All state papers were given first to Mrs. Wilson, who asked Dr. Grayson whether he thought the President was strong enough to pass judgment on them. If he said no, Mrs. Wilson gave them to either Houston or one or two others in whom she had confidence.

When Secretary of State Robert Lansing suggested that vice President Thomas R. Marshall act as president, Tumulty indignantly replied: "You may rest assured that while Woodrow Wilson is lying in the White House on the broad of his back, I will not be a party to ousting him."

Lansing took it upon himself to call cabinet meetings, and his initiative cost him his job.

Three months after the attack, the President learned of the meetings, and, calling on his own background as a professor of constitutional history, said Lansing had committed "a serious breach of constitutional law." Then he fired the secretary.

Admits Bludgeon Slaying

DETROIT (AP) — Police in suburban Inkster said Murphy Thompson, 26, an ex-convict, has admitted the bludgeon slaying of George F. Frazier, 25, of River Rouge. Frazier's body was found Sunday in a weed patch. Thompson surrendered to police Monday and is held for investigation.
