Faculty Win Research, Equipment Awards

Eight OU faculty members have won awards ranging from $500 to $1,000 to support individual research projects.

The awards were announced by the University Research Committee. Faculty members are asked to make a report on the progress of their work to the research committee before June 30, 1984. The winners are listed below.

Peter J. Binkert, linguistics, $500 to support research on "Syntactic Features in Nontransformational Grammar."

Jean L. Easterly, human and educational services, $500 for research on "The Master Teacher."

Augustin K. Fosu, economics and management, $1,000 for a proposal entitled "Union Impacts on Fringe Benefits."

Paul O. Kingstrom and Gerald Post, economics and management, $1,000 for research entitled "An Interactive Video Approach to Performance Appraisal Training."

Richard J. Rozek, health sciences, $750 to support a proposal entitled "Proteolytic Activity in the Lung After Exposure to Lower Concentrations of Ozone."

Michael D. Sevilla, chemistry, $885 for research entitled "Reactive Intermediates in the Oxidation of Biological Molecules and Model Compounds."

Howard H. Splete, human and educational services, $600 for "Evaluation of User's Perceptions of the Oakland University Adult Career Counseling Center."

Nine Oakland University faculty members have won $13,065 in Bio-medical Research Support Grants (BRSRG).

The awards were made on a competitive basis from 15 proposals selected for consideration by the BRSRG committee. Funds go for the purchase or repair of research equipment.

Denis Callewaert, chemistry, received $4,000 on behalf of the biochemistry faculty in the department to be used in partial payment for a Beckman ultracentrifuge.

Michael Chopp, physics, received $3,000 for pressure sensor and transducer units needed in his analysis of intraocular pressure waveforms.

James Dow, anthropology, was awarded $790 toward a portable printer for use in anthropological field settings.

Michael V. Riley, Institute of Biological Sciences, received $5,145 for a luminometer that is very sensitive in measuring the emission of light for research on the cornea.

Arun K. Roy, biological sciences, received $7,000 for fast liquid chromatography equipment for better separation of proteins and other macromolecules.

Michael Sevilla, chemistry, earned $3,900 toward the purchase of a new low temperature sample cooling system involving liquid helium.

David W. Shantz, psychology, received $2,000 for purchase of a video cassette recording system with accessories to aid faculty in conducting observational research.

Hitoshi Shichi, Institute of Biological Sciences, was awarded $2,560 for repair of three spectrophotometers.

Nalin Unakar, biological sciences, received $2,670 for use by the department faculty for the purchase of a specimen manipulation apparatus used in electron microscopy research.

Otto Named

Effective May 15, Mary L. Otto, associate professor of education in the counseling area, will serve as interim director of research and academic development, to succeed Lewis N. Pino. During the past year, Otto has been an intern in academic administration with the American Council on Education. Keith R. Kleckner, senior vice president for university affairs and provost, has been her mentor. She has been a faculty member at Oakland since 1974.

Pino will take a three month sabbatical and return to the Department of Chemistry.

Arts For Youth Camp

Oakland University and the Oakland Intermediate School District are sponsoring the 1983 Summer Arts for Youth Camp July 11-22 at the university.

The program offers students ages 5-15 expert introductory level instruction in a broad range of activities including music, theatre, mime, dance or movement, and art.

For the convenience of parents, the sessions will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and include morning and afternoon snack breaks and lunch.

A highlight of the camp will be attendance of the students and their parents at a July 17 performance of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. On July 22, the closing day of the camp, there will be mini performances, displays, and exhibitions open to the parents and general public.

Director of the Summer Arts for Youth Camp is Carl F. Barnes, Jr., art and art history, who can be reached at 377-3016.

Faculty Contributions Noted

Keith Stanovich, psychology, recently had a paper titled "The Generalizability of Context Effects on Word Recognition: A Reconsideration of the Roles of Parafoveal Priming and Sentence Context" published in the journal Memory and Cognition. The paper was coauthored by Richard West of James Madison University.

Pamela Marin, executive assistant to the president, has been invited to serve on the Allocations Committee of the United Way of Pontiac-North Oakland. This committee is responsible for the year-round fiscal monitoring of local member agencies, participation on study committees, reviewing the annual budget requests received, and for the allocation of dollars to agencies each fall.

Ken Morris, chairperson of the Board of Trustees and Carroll M. Hutton, assistant dean for labor education, are among the fifty statewide appointees of Governor James Blanchard to Michigan's Job Training Coordinating Council. The council will assist the governor in planning, monitoring and coordinating programs and services in the state under the new Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) which replaces the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

Roderic E. Righter, SHES, conducted three separate sessions for the Utica Community School District's K-12 in-service training day held recently. The sessions dealt with education and the law/liability. Righter is the associate chair for conference administration for the 1985 meeting of the Association of Teachers Educators meeting to be held in Las Vegas.

John W. Atlas, human resources development, presented a four-day (March 28-31) workshop on Human Relations Training in Denver, Colorado for the Immigration and Naturalization Service of the United States Department of Justice.

Roger H. Marz and Sharon Tunstall, political science, have co-authored a paper entitled "Prometheus Bound: A Study of Cable," which was presented at the Midwest Political Science Association meeting held April 20-23 in Chicago.

Vincent Khapoya, political science, was one of the invited keynote speakers at a symposium, "The World as Seen From Moscow: Soviet Foreign Policy in the 1980s," held at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, on February 28. The title of his presentation was "Soviet Policies in Africa." He also addressed the Graduate and Professional Black Students Association on "American Blacks and Africans: Challenges of the 1980s," and was interviewed on WDET radio, March 18, on the international response to the African refugee crisis. In addition, he spoke at a one-day conference held in Detroit on "Hunger in the Horn of Africa: Land, Food, and Politics," sponsored by the International Black People's Foundation of Detroit, and had his article, "Bantustans in South Africa: The Role of Multinational Corporations," published recently in the Journal of Eastern African Research and Development (University of Nairobi, Kenya), Vol. 10, No. 1 (1980), pp. 28-49. (This journal is two years behind in its publication schedule.)

Johnetta Brazzell, placement and cooperative programs, spoke April 22 at the Southfield Civic Center on "Creative Survival vs. Don't Bother Me I Can't Cope." The program was sponsored by the Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency. In addition, Brazzell conducted a workshop for high school and college students at Mott Community College April 16 on "The Dynamics of Raising the Black Family," and spoke April 9 at a conference presented by the National Association of Negro Business and Professional Women's Clubs at the Northland Center in Southfield. Her topic was "How Do You Make a Career Choice?"

Paul Franklin, coordinator of campus programs, had his article "Making the Switch to Video" published in the March issue of Student Activities Programming, the national publication of the National Association of Campus Activities (NACA). In addition, Franklin was appointed conference registration coordinator of the Great Lakes Region of the NACA and Assistant College Bowl Coordinator for Region VII of the Association of College Unions (ACU-I)

Three members of the Department of Rhetoric, Communications and Journalism presented papers at the spring meeting of the Michigan College English Association in Dearborn—Wilma Garcia on "Pre-writing Techniques: Get to Know Your Process"; Margaret Pigott on "Medieval Images of Women in Contemporary Literature"; and Ronald Sudol on "Word Processing and the Motivation to Revise."

A number of rhetoric faculty participated in the recent national Conference on College Composition and Communication held March 16-19 at the Detroit Westin Hotel. The theme of the conference, which featured guest speakers Yolanda King and S.I. Hayakawa, was "The Writer's World(s): Achieving Insight and Impact."

Paul Bator served on the local host committee as chair for publicity. Other rhetoric faculty on the publicity committee were Carlson Jackson, Jessie Herreshoff, Narda McClendon, Sally Pierce, and Kate Royce.

Paul Bator presented: "CCC Bibliography: A Progress Report," and served as associate chair for a panel session entitled "Growing Together: The Collaborative Approach To Writing Skills Development."

Barbara Hamilton, rhetoric, chaired the panel "Analyzing and Adapting to Audience in Academic and Non-Academic Discourse," and served as respondent for the panel, "The Image of the Written Word: Using Media to Enhance the Writing Process and Product."

Donald Morse, rhetoric chair, made two presentations: "Imitating Newspaper Genres—Ads, Letters, and Advice," and "Problems and Possibilities for Part-Time Writing Faculty."

Ronald Sudol, rhetoric, served on the local host committee as chair for exhibits. Others on the exhibits committee were Margot Gardner, Barbara Hamilton, Mary K. Montlieth, Margaret Pigott, Karen Robinson, Marilyn Shapiro, Jim Clatworthy (SHES), and Elizabeth Pinkstaff (Nursing).

Ronald Sudol also served as co-chair for the session on "The ABCs of Academic Publishing," and presented a paper: "Rhetoric and Composition Textbook Reviews."

Tennis Anyone?

The East Campus tennis courts located by Knole Cottage are available for use by Oakland University employees at no charge.

Those wishing to use the tennis courts must make a reservation by calling the receptionist or guard at Meadow Brook Hall (7-3140). The reservation is necessary because the university tennis team also uses these courts for practice, as well as conferees at the hall.

Special Night With Panthers

The Campus Information and Programs office has arranged an OU night at the Silverdome for the Michigan Panthers-New Jersey Generals game at 8 p.m. May 16.

Tickets are only $5 with seats on or near the 20 yard line. In addition to the game, the ticket is admission to the Panther Bar-B-Que at 3:30 p.m. in the Phoenix Center in Pontiac.

The game will feature Herschel Walker, the USFL premier running back, in his first game in Michigan.

Tickets are available at the Campus Ticket Office. For additional information call 377-2020.

FACULTY NOTES

Margaret Pigott, rhetoric and women's studies, spoke to Utica High School students on Wednesday, April 13. Her topic, "Medieval Images of Women: Chaucer to Styron," attracted 200 students. In January, at Meadow Brook Hall, Pigott lectured to the Meadow Brook Guild on "Matilda Wilson's Inspirations: The Stately Homes of Britain."

Thomas W. Casstevens, political science, had an article entitled "The President's Role in India's States" published in Asian Affairs, June, 1982, pp. 1-8.

George F. Feeman, vice provost and dean of the Graduate School, has been elected to membership on the Board of Governors of the Mathematical Association of America as a sectional governor from the Michigan section for a three year term. The board supervises, administers and controls all scholarly and scientific activities of the association. Feeman has served previously as the chairperson of the Michigan section.

Nancy Pappenfuss, accounting office, asks offices to "please return your account ledger envelopes to the accounting office as soon as possible."

Plant Sale

The Meadow Brook Estate Greenhouse Volunteers will hold a Mother's Day Plant Sale from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on May 5 in the Oakland Center. Flowering plants will be on sale from $2 and up, sponsors said.

House For Sale

Call Joan Pfaff at 651-3500 or 651-6473.

Garadi Earns Fellowship

Rekha Garadi, research associate in the Institute of Biological Sciences, has received a $20,000 fellowship from Allergan Pharmaceutical Company, Irvine, California, in support of her research entitled, "Studies on Membrane Glycoproteins and Na-K ATPase During Cataract Development." This is one of four such fellowships awarded nationally by Allergan.

Garadi received her Ph.D. in biochemistry from Texas Christian University, and has been working in the institute under the NIH National Research Service Award for the last two years as a trainee in visual sciences. This fellowship would allow her to carry out further studies in her area of research.

A common feature of many cataracts is a change in cation [sodium (Na) and potassium (K)] balance and hydration resulting in clouding of the lens. In genetic cataracts of certain mice, the cation imbalance is due to a defective membrane permeability. This defect may be related to a specific glycoprotein which Garadi has recently identified in the cataractous mouse lens. With the aid of this fellowship, she will further examine the two membrane components during cataract development in various experimental models.

Venkat N. Reddy, director of the institute, stated that this kind of interim support is extremely valuable for young scientists to obtain preliminary data which can form the basis for grant applications for major research support.
