Hoffa Using New York as Test in Police Drive

Welcome, Little Man

What Lies Ahead?

Will the new year be bright with the promise of progress and filled with the hope of peace?

Or will it be a year of trouble and turmoil for mankind?

The little fellow with the 1959 on his suitcase doesn't quite know what to expect as he sets out on his long journey down the months, but his grip is crammed full of courage and faith in the future.

The rockets, missiles, jets and satellites whirling about the earth don't seem to faze him a bit, as he gets a final word of advice from old Father Time before taking his place on the calendar.

This is artist Dick Hodgin's imaginative concept of our world on the threshold of another momentous year.

Eastman Shifts City Police Units for New Year

He's Ahead in His Plans; Moves Traffic Bureau Under Patrol Group

Ahead of his timetable by three months, Public Safety Director George D. Eastman today revamped the Pontiac Police Department organization.

The changes will be effective tomorrow.

Eastman had planned a major overhaul of the department in March, but acted today, he said, "because we're moving ahead of schedule."

The Traffic Bureau has been abolished and 13 officers from the defunct bureau switched to the Patrol Bureau.

He said the Patrol Bureau will bear the brunt of police activities in the future. Its activities will include patrol, traffic enforcement, criminal investigation, license inspection, and it will supervise the police reservists.

Under the new setup, the police force will consist of five major bureaus. Besides Patrol, these are the Staff, Detective, Services and Crime Prevention bureaus.

The Staff Bureau previously called the Planning Research and Training Unit, will take on the additional duties of public relations, budgetary matters, and inspection.

The Detective Bureau will follow up criminal investigations after they have been initiated by patrolmen.

The Services Bureau, previously called the Administration Bureau, will handle records, communications, drivers licensing, fleet maintenance, property control, building maintenance, animal welfare, weights and measures, and identification activities.

Eastman said the juvenile unit has been renamed the Crime Prevention Bureau and has been removed from under the wing of the Detective Bureau. It will be directly responsible to him he said.

The Vice Squad will now be called the Special Investigation Unit, Eastman announced.

Under a chain of command included in the reorganiation plan, Capt. Oliver H. Lemeaux Patrol Bureau commander, is second to Eastman.

Next in responsibility are Inspector Clark Wheaton, Detective Bureau commander; Capt. Joseph Koren, services Bureau commander, and Lt. George Scott, senior Patrol Bureau lieutenant.

Of Police Chief Herbert W. Straley, Eastman said that the chief remains on "special assignment" without command or supervisory responsibility.

"He can, however, take over in emergencies," Eastman said.

Deputies, Troopers Out in Force

Guard Area Highways

The noon weather forecast for the Pontiac area spelled trouble for State Police and Oakland County sheriff's deputies who began today their last concentrated holiday effort of the year to hold traffic accidents to a minimun.

The morning prediction of only light snow and cold temperatures tonight and tomorrow was changed to a forecast of from two to four inches of new snow.

A warning was issued immediately by the Weather Bureau and State Police that hazardous driving conditions exist in the southern portions of lower Michigan.

Skies will be cloudy with snow spreading over the area tonight and continuing through tomorrow, creating extremely dangerous driving conditions throughout the Pontiac and Detroit areas.

The low tonight is expected to be about 20 with a high of 30 tomorrow.

Authorities are urging motorists to drive with extreme caution as the snowfall is expected to come at a time when most motorists are at parties, leaving roads slippery for the long drive home.

The National Safety Council estimates 390 Americans may die in traffic accidents over the four-day New Year holiday and another 11,000 persons may suffer disabling accident injuries.

The official 102-hour period extends from 6 p.m. today until midnight Sunday. The council figured an increase of 40 deaths over the 350 traffic fatalities that would occur during a non-holiday period of equal length.

Local authorities will be making an all-out effort to hold the county's death toll at its present figure, 93, which is the lowest recorded in the county since only 88 were killed in 1949.

Troopers at the Pontiac and Redford Posts began working on special extended shifts at noon today and will do so until 6 a.m. Thursday.

Sgt. Lorenz Ahlgrim, commander at the Pontiac Post, warned motorists today that "troopers will be out on county highways in full force tonight and early tomorrow morning."

"We will be on the lookout for any drivers who appear to be driving in an erratic manner. All those arrested for drunk driving will go to jail."

Sheriff's deputies likewise will be out in full force and any drivers found to be under the influence of alcohol will be firmly dealt with.

Authorities, realizing that the great majority of New Year's Eve drivers will be either going to or returning from parties, urge them to follow several simple rules.

One of these suggests that wives do the driving if their husbands are drinking. In any case, officials urge those who do any drinking tonight to let a friend or relative drive them home.

If both husband and wife have been drinking, authorities say it is a good idea to take a taxi home. They point out that a taxi fare of several dollars is very small CREATES FROZEN STATUE — Attracting the admiring glances of passersby is the 20-foot-high frozen fountain in the front yard of the Edward Morey home, 8470 Wise Rd., Union Lake. How was it made? Simply by placing tree branches and twigs over a pipe with running water. Nature did the rest.

Union Planning on Organizing 14 More Cities

Chief Promises to Fight Picketing but Drivers Sure to Honor Lines

From Our News Wires

NEW YORK — James R. Hoffa's Teamsters Union was revealed today to be using the New York City Police Force as a stepping stone to organizing 14 other American police departments.

The Union's first step is a drive in New York involving picketing of headquarters, precinct stations and supply depots.

Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy, a cop risen from 30 years in the ranks, angrily pledged to fight with every legal weapon any interference with operation of the 23,600-man force.

Henry Feinstein, Teamster representative in New York, said the picketing, set to start Jan. 12, was in no way a strike move and that no attempt would be made to interfere with police supplies by asking truckers or other Union members not to cross picket lines.

Yesterday, however, Feinstein, in disclosing Teamster plans to picket police installations in New York, said he was certain that Teamster truck drivers would observe the picket lines and thereby cut off deliveries of fuel, gasoline and other materials.

Feinstein declined to comment when asked whether his reversal might be attributed to a report that Hoffa had informed local Teamster representatives he would not tolerate interference with deliveries to police installations.

"We do not believe policemen should go out on strike," he said. "We do not believe police should have the right to strike. This will simply be a demonstration to bring home to the public the policemen's plight."

Feinstein disclosed organization drives were under way in 15 cities, including Denver and the Florida area "from Palm Beach down to Key West." He said New York could be a "model" for unionized police forces.

Kennedy scoffed at Feinstein's assurance police would never be called on to strike.

"Does anyone seriously believe an outfit like this, after starting with picketing, would hesitate to strike to get what they want?" he said.

"If the police are unionized I would advise people not to waste their money paying a commissioner his salary because Hoffa, not the commissioner, would be in fact head of the police department."

Kennedy recalled the 1919 strike of Boston police when the city was terrorized for five days as hoodlums roamed the streets and citizens hid in their homes. Eight persons were killed before National Guard troops called in by then

Cuban Army Drives Rebels From City

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Army forces today smashed a rebel attempt to capture Santa Clara in central Cuba and are driving the insurgents eastward, the government said.

Rebel broadcasts conceded that the fighting now had moved north and east of that city controlling highways from Havana to eastern Cuba.

Fighters, bombers, artillery, tanks, armored cars and infantry were reported attacking rebels everywhere in Las Villas province, of which Santa Clara is the capital.

A rebel broadcast said forces in the town of Cruces just west of Santa Clara "are no longer able to resist in the face of attacks by tanks."

"There are numerous dead and wounded," the broadcast added.

Government sources put rebel casualties in the furious street-by-street fighting in Santa Clara at 3,000 killed or wounded.

Government sources asserted aerial attacks alone had inflicted 2,000 casualties on the rebels. Government losses were not indicated but one informant said the army was killing three rebels for every soldier lost.

Prime Minister Gonzalo Guell told newsmen after a conference with President Fulgencio Batista that the rebels had been smashed at Santa Clara.

'ALL GOING WELL'

He said "all is going well and our troops are pushing toward Camaguey province," which lies between Las Villas and Oriente, the rebel stronghold at the eastern end of the island.

The rebels appeared to be in a bad way. One rebel commander was heard radioing urgently for reinforcements. The government is known to outnumber the rebels in Las Villas.

Warplanes gunned rebels holding out in Trinidad, in southern Las Villas, and in other sectors of eastern and northeastern Las Villas.

Rebel broadcasts, which had been saying the overthrow of Batista was imminent, stopped talking about the fighting in Las Villas.

The rebels claimed new successes in Oriente. They said they captured the city of Guantanamo, 27 miles north of the U.S. naval base of the same name.

2 Teachers Held in Cuba Arrive

Reach Miami En Route to Kentucky School, Go Into Seclusion

MIAMI (UPI) — Two vacationing Louisville, Ky., schoolteachers who were yanked from an airliner and held overnight by Cuban police arrived here last night en route home to Kentucky, Delta Airline officials disclosed today.

The men were James W. Reid, 38, a native of Scranton, Pa., and Larry F. Brantley, 22, teachers in the Waggener High School in Louisville. Both went into seclusion on their arrival here and could not be reached immediately.

The men were placed under arrest Sunday by Cuban police as their plane stopped over in Havana on a flight from Montego Bay, Jamaica, to New Orleans. Fellow passengers said they were seized and roughed up by Cuban police as they chatted at the airport about the Cuban revolution.

Cuban police said they were arrested because of their "drunken, abusive, loud talk" which indicated they might be agents of rebel leader Fidel Castro, but fellow passengers denied the men were drunk or abusive.

Banks, City Hall Slated to Close All Day Thursday

Pontiac began its New Year's observance at noon today.

City offices closed until Friday morning, and so did banks and savings and loan companies. Even the drive-in windows at banks closed, although they are usually open Wednesday afternoons.

County offices were scheduled to maintain regular hours today.

Some stores may remain open tonight, although most plan to halt business at the end of the day, said Norman L. Pattison, president of the Downtown Merchants Assn.

Just about everything will be closed up in Pontiac on New Year's Day, opening again at regular hours Friday. Most stores plan to remain open Friday night, but not Saturday night, Pattison said.

Robber Takes Dare, Shoots Man Dead

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—"If you want my wallet you'll have to shoot me," said a film studio executive to a gunman Tuesday night during a robbery in a Hollywood bar.

A shotgun blast was the reply. Kenneth Savoy, 35, an executive of Samuel Goldwyn Studios fell dead.

Savoy had wandered into the bar while a holdup by two men was in process. The gunmen had cleaned out the cash register and the wallets of eight customers. They asked Savoy for his.

The gunmen fled.

Pontiac Vice Law Proposal Puts Purchasers on Spot

To add weight to the new vice suppression policy, Pontiac last night began tightening its vice laws.

City commissioners favorably received proposals that would hit as hard at the purchaser of vice as at the seller.

Sherwin M. Birnkrant, assistant city attorney, made the proposals in the form of an ordinance amendment, which was given its first reading last night. The amendment may be made law next week.

Birnkrant said some of the ideas had been proposed by the city's municipal judges, who try all of Pontiac's disorderly conduct cases.

"The strengthened ordinance would spell out the law even more clearly than the present ordinance," Birnkrant said.

Birnkrant, who prosecutes most Municipal Court cases for the city, said that changes in the vice laws were contemplated several months ago, before Pontiac began its vice crackdown.

SPURRED BY DRIVE

"However, the present campaign caused us to speed up our preparation of the changes we think are necessary," he said.

The new law would "pull no punches," Birnkrant explained. Like the old law, it is aimed at illicit trade in liquor, gambling, gaming, prostitution, drugs and narcotics.

But by its wording, the new law throws the spotlight on the customers of the vice trade, making them fully liable for prosecution.

It defines a disorderly person as anyone "who shall accost, solicit or invite another by act, word, sign, signal or any other means for the purpose of procuring, purchasing or selling (vice)."

HITS MIDDLEMAN

The new law also hits at the middleman in vice transactions. It takes into its scope anyone "aiding, abetting, or participating in any of the illegal activities, directly or indirectly, in any manner as agent, procurer, panderer or otherwise."

The key phrase in the definition is "directly or indirectly," said Birnkrant.

Teamster Defends Union Bribe Money

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A boss has testified at his trial on income tax fraud charges that it's permissible to use union money for bribing public officials.

Glenn W. Smith, president of Local 515, is charged with evading income taxes on $18,500 in 1951. Smith insisted Tuesday he paid out the money as a union bribe intended for a judge.

Smith told the court that bribery "as such" is against the constitution and by-laws of the International Teamsters Union.

However, he explained: "Under a condition such as political pressure, as we had in our union, the spending of money to protect our members under such circumstances, in my opinion, would not be against the international constitution and by-laws."

Blanket of Snow Covering West

Storm Dumping 4 to 10 Inches

Moving Slowly East and North, Road Travel Reported Hazardous

From Our News Wires

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A large part of the Midwest and Southwest will greet the new year under a cover of snow, 4 to 10 inches deep.

After covering New Mexico earlier this week, a moisture-laden storm moved east and north Tuesday. It cut deep into Texas, then dropped 4 to 8 inches of snow on parts of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri.

Its slow movement was expected to continue today across southeast Kansas into northeast Missouri. Along the south and eastern edges of the snow—roughly from St. Louis southwest to north central Arkansas and northeast Texas—there was sleet and freezing rain.

Thirteen deaths, most from traffic accidents, have been attributed to the storm.

Roads were hazardous throughout the storm area.

The storm, which earlier buried Albuquerque, N. M., under record 14-inch snows and stranded 600 travelers in Liberal, Kan., drove eastward during the night toward the Ohio Valley and southern Great Lakes.

Weathermen warned of heavy snow during the day from eastern Oklahoma through portions of Missouri, Kansas and Iowa, with lighter amounts in the southern Great Lakes and northern sections of the Ohio Valley.

Drifts eight feet high blocked roads in the west and southwest Tuesday, and hundreds of motorists took refuge in hotels, motels and private dwellings.

Some Rose-Bowl bound travellers were stranded at Liberal by a paralyzing 10-inch snowfall. Snowplows opened most roads out of Liberal by nightfall, but Bowl ticket holders feared the delay would prevent them from reaching California in time for the New Year's Day game.

Monumental traffic jams occurred in Wichita, Kan., and Dallas, Tex. At Wichita, fire combined with snow-slicked streets to snarl traffic in the downtown section Tuesday night. Traffic was halted for three hours while firemen battled flames in a two-story building.

The Dallas tieup was described as one of the worst in the city's history. Cars queued in jams three miles long, unable to move for hours because of slippery streets. Some drivers abandoned cars in the middle of streets, adding to the congestion.

Traffic also bogged down on highways in Oklahoma. At one point south of Davis, Okla., cars were backed up for five miles Tuesday while plows cracked through drifts to free them.

Asks $90 Million for Detroit Schools

DETROIT (AP) — A 90-million-dollar construction program which he said would meet Detroit's school needs for the next five years was handed the Board of Education by Superintendent Samuel M. Brownell last night.

Included in the proposal was replacement of 10 of 37 schools singled out as firetraps by a citizens advisory committee and 22 new schools to care for what Brownell said was anticipated enrollment increases.

The superintendent said the program could be financed by a bond issue which he has proposed be put on the April election ballot.

New Year's Is Holy Day

By MARY ANGLEMIER
Church Editor, Pontiac Press

Celebrating the first day of the New Year is an ancient custom. The Christian Church has observed New Year's Day as a holy day since 487 A.D. when it was declared the Feast of the Circumcision.

The early fathers forbade any festivities, because of their pagan associations, but these prohibitions were eventually ignored.

In the Orient, homes are decorated, and gifts exchanged, all in a spirit of gaiety.

In Europe, the day is an occasion for parties, the giving of gifts and calling on friends.

Religious rites and watch night parties "see the old year out and the new year in" in America. Open house is held by many, an occasion for friends to call.

Oakland to Get $250,000 Grant for Sewer System

Oakland County was virtually assured today of getting a $250,000 federal grant to help finance the North Evergreen sanitary sewer for 10 communities south of Pontiac.

"There is no question but what we have met the major deadline necessary to be eligible for the federal funds," said Harold K. Schone, director of the Department of Public Works, which is planning the $6,175,000 project.

Schone said that certain plans were in the hands of the State Water Resources Commission today, meeting the deadline set by the U.S. Public Health Service, which controls the grant.

The principal hurdle was the approval which Detroit Common Council gave last night to contracts providing for Detroit treatment of the Evergreen system's sewage flow at the standard suburban rates. The Evergreen system would tap into Detroit's at Eight Mile road.

Federal aid means that the Board of Public Works will be able to trim $250,000 off its bond sale said.

It also means that participating communities will be charged relatively less by the county to pay off the bonds.

Schone said that to be fully eligible for the grant, the county must sell its bonds by March 1 and have the project under construction by May 1, both of which deadlines should be easily met, he said.

Schone's announcement came on the heels of awarding of $4,435,600 in bids by the Board of Public Works. Schone said that the bids were awarded subject to the sale of the general obligation bonds by the county.

Winning bidders were: Northeast Construction Co. of Detroit, for two sections, $359,759.50 and $532,484; S. Weissman Excavating Co. of Southfield, $184,233; J. Wyke Inc. of Warren, $165,578.62; Frank J. Knight, of Center Line, $1,139,341.10; Rocco Ferrera & Co. of Livonia, $414,230; Michigan Sewer Construction Co. of Southfield, $1,002,038.30; and Friedrich & Co., pumping station, $436,795, and miscellaneous, $201,141.

Schone said bids on four other sections of the sewer were rejected and will be readvertised.

Those bids approved, received by the board Dec. 23, ran about eight per cent more than engineering estimates of construction costs, Schone said. There were 29 bidders altogether.

The long-awaited sewer is planned to bolster inadequate sewer facilities in the cities of Bloomfield Hills, Southfield, Lathrup Village, Birmingham, Troy, a small part of Pontiac Township, Bloomfield Township, and the villages of Westwood, Bingham Farms and Franklin. The latter two are awaiting elections to approve entrance into the DPW project.

The bids awarded are valid for 90 days, Schone said. He added he expected the department to advertise for the sale of the bonds around the middle of January.

DETROIT (UPI)—Frank Griffin, 35, had a little trouble making his escape after robbing a supermarket of $300 last night, police said.

Griffin ran from the store, jumped into a taxi cab and terrorized the driver into fleeing. The bandit jumped into a second cab and its driver also fled.

He tried to drive the cab himself but another car blocked his path. He left the cab and got into another passing car. He was let out moments later and began running.

Police cornered him hiding behind an old Army tank used to advertise a nearby surplus store. He was carrying two pistols and confessed the holdup, authorities said.

Blue Law Curb Gets 1st Reading

City Studies Proposal to Tighten Restrictions on Sunday Sales

Details of Pontiac's proposed Blue Law controls were under study by the City Commission today.

Accepted for first reading last night was an ordinance amendment prohibiting the Sunday sale of all but essential items, such as food, medicines and gasoline. It wouldn't affect sales of beer and wine.

The amendment was presented by City Attorney William A. Ewart who prepared it after meeting with a special committee comprised of Mayor Phillip E. Rowston, Commissioner Floyd P. Miles and representatives of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

The amendment adds 28 items to the present ordinance, which outlaws only Sunday sale of furniture and household appliances.

Several commissioners have indicated they will oppose the amendment when it comes up for final passage next Tuesday. The move toward Blue Law controls was prompted two weeks ago after a major Pontiac department store elected to stay open Sundays during the Christmas shopping period.

The amended ordinance would brand most Sunday sales a misdemeanor, punishable by up to $100 fine and 90 days in jail.

Under it, the following items could not be sold legally in Pontiac on Sundays:

Household furnishings, appliances and equipment, including men's, women's and children's wearing apparel; all electrical household appliances; jewelry, stationery and office supplies; sporting equipment; hardware; housewares; books, and farm implements.

Other items would be paint; electrical wiring; equipment for the care and maintenance of shrubbery and lawns; plumbing and heating equipment; automobile accessories and tires; wall paper; millinery; building materials; cameras and projectors.

It specified that automobile accessories and tires could be sold in emergencies, as well as plumbing and heating equipment.

'58 Christmas Liquor Sales Lower Than '57

LANSING (AP)—Michigan celebrated a drier Christmas this year than last, figures from the State Liquor Commission indicated today.

Case sales of liquor for the week ending just before Christmas totaled 144,599 cases this year compared to 156,396 a year ago.

The largest slump was in whisky sales, down from 109,909 cases to 99,485. Gin, rum, brandy and vodka sales also declined.

The only increases were noted in prepared cocktails, up from 1,316 cases last year to 1,415 this year and in wines, increased from 15,841 cases to 16,645.

Deputies, Troopers Guard Area Roads in comparison with the usual fine of $100 for drunk driving.

"No fine or jail sentence can take the place of a human life," said Sheriff Frank W. Irons this morning.

"We know there is nothing more dangerous on the road than a drunk driver and tonight's celebrations will potentially raise the number of these people on area highways," he added.

"Therefore, deputies will jail any drivers under the influence of alcohol in an effort to prevent them from killing themselves and others."

A light snow last night made many area highways deceiving this morning. A very thin coating of snow covering roads and highways looked reasonably safe but was actually quite slippery and fooled many early morning motorists, said police.

Police reported no serious accidents, however, and main roads were clear by noon.

The record traffic toll for a New Year holiday is 409, set in a four-day period at the end of 1956 and beginning of 1957.

During the recent Christmas four-day holiday period 594 highway deaths were counted by the Associated Press, 26 less than the safety council's pre-Christmas estimate of 620.

The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 13 degrees. The reading at 2 p.m. was 28.

Daylight Bandit Holds 2 Captive, Takes Loot

DETROIT (UPI) — Police today sought a bold daylight bandit who invaded a home in northwest Detroit, held a woman and her 10-year-old daughter captive for half an hour, and escaped with furs and jewelry valued at $6,500.

Victims of the holdup were Mrs. Manny H. Silverman, and her daughter Donna.

The Day in Birmingham

18 in Bloomfield Township to Vie in Feb. 16 Primary

BIRMINGHAM — One of the largest slates in many years will be presented to Bloomfield Township voters at the primary election Feb. 16. A total of 18 petitions has been filed.

Arno L. Hulet, incumbent, will be opposed by Arthur J. Picotte for the office of supervisor.

Harold V. Beggs, who unsuccessfully opposed Hulet for supervisor two years ago, seeks the township post of clerk. Incumbent Robert H. Dudley also is a candidate for the same position.

Homer Case, treasurer, will be opposed by Mrs. Margaret Begovitch for his position.

Picotte, Beggs and Mrs. Begovitch spearheaded the group which recently opposed the Bloomfield Hills School Board request for tax increases and a bond issue for construction.

Nine candidates have filed for four vacancies as trustees. They are Robert A. Reid, incumbent; Henry M. Hogan Jr., Dorman D. Dickerson, Samuel J. Reeve, Marcus J. Scott, James W. Jalkins, George B. Walker, Julian B. Wilson and Marshall H. Wolfe.

The two incumbents, Albert C. Carr and Clarence G. Behn, and James E. Grissom are vying for the two justice of the peace posts.

Midnight marks the opening moment of Birmingham's biggest "race" for the first baby of the year.

For the second time under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce, merchants will shower the baby and the proud parents with gifts. A total of 27 business houses are participating.

Among the Birmingham churches planning special New Year's services for tonight are Redeemer Lutheran Church, where a communion service will be held at 8 p.m.

Harold G. Haines will speak on his recent trip over the Alaska Highway for members of the Senior Men's Club Friday at the Community House. He will show colored slides taken on the trip.

Club members are planning a second anniversary party, to be held at their regular meeting Jan. 9.

Police are still trying to track down the quarter-life-size, rubber donkey stolen last week from the Nativity scene at Shain Park.

The creche, a traditional part of Christmas in Birmingham, was made up this year of completely new figures.

Charles Gale, park superintendent, said that unless the missing donkey is recovered, his department will have to return to the old practice of fencing in the display.

Hoffa's Union Eyes More Police Drives

Gov. Calvin Coolidge restored order.

The New York force, whose annual wages total about $130 million, are now represented largely by the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association with a membership of about 18,000.

The group can present grievances informally but they cannot participate in collective bargaining. Joining a union is grounds for dismissal.

PBA President John J. Cassese said the rank and file police "want no part of any union and certainly not Hoffa's." He predicted the picketing demonstration would be a complete failure and said Feinstein's statement that 3,000 policemen had joined the Teamsters secretly was ridiculous.

"There might be between 30 and 50 but we aren't even sure of that," he said.

The New York Times said today that Hoffa has killed plans for a move by the union to cut off deliveries of vital supplies to police installations in this city.

The Times said Hoffa notified his local aides Tuesday that he would tolerate no interference with regular police operations as an outgrowth of union picketing of police headquarters.

After conversing with the aides by telephone from Washington, the Times said, Hoffa said there would be no stoppage of trucks or any other services as a result of the picketing. The paper added that Hoffa declared the picket lines would be "for advertising purposes only."

Husband Shoots Man in Dispute Over His Wife

A 28-year-old Cleveland man was wounded last night when an angry Pontiac husband, Henry Banguil, 27, of 18 Grant St., shot him in an argument over Banguil's wife, Queenie, 23.

Hit in the right arm by shotgun pellets, Charles Coney was reported in fair condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital this morning.

Coney told police officers that he went to the Banguills' basement apartment to collect $200 he said Mrs. Banguil owed him.

Banguil said that the Cleveland man had been chasing his wife. He fired the shotgun twice at Coney, but missed the first time.

Banguil is being held at the Oakland County Jail for investigation of attempted murder.

New Air Group Absorbs CAA

Federal Aviation Board Also Takes Over Part of CAB Function

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Administration vanished today from the aviation scene it long has dominated. It merged quietly into the swiftly expanding new Federal Aviation Agency.

FAA also absorbed an important segment of the CAA's companion agency, the Civil Aeronautics Board, by taking over the rule-making functions of the CAB's Bureau of Safety.

The transition marked the assembly for the first time of all the major elements of the overall agency ordered by Congress last fall to take over the reins of civil and military flying.

There was no formal changeover ceremony. FAA came into being Nov. 1 by absorbing the Airways Modernization Board, its 200 employes and its 30 million dollars of appropriations. The modernization board now operates as the FAA's Bureau of Research and Development.

GOP Regulars Back Dirksen

Rally Behind Illinois Senator When Floor Leadership Challenged

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican regulars rallied behind Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois in the face of an insurgent challenge to his Senate GOP floor leadership bid.

Senators Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska and Francis Case of South Dakota said in separate interviews they will support Dirksen in his forthcoming contest with Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky.

Moreover, Dirksen announced he had been authorized by Sen. J. Glenn Beall of Maryland to say that Beall would vote for him. The Maryland Republican had been counted by Republican liberals as one of them but he did not show up Tuesday at a meeting at which eight rebels agreed upon a slate.

From other sources it was reported that Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, who also had been wooed by the liberal group, has committed himself to back Dirksen.

The insurgents, who contend they form the core of Eisenhower backers in the Senate, chose Sen. Thomas Kuchel of California as their candidate for whip, or assistant leader.

They left open until a meeting next Tuesday the question of whether they will challenge other veterans in the present leadership, including Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the party's policy committee.

Helicopter Flies Ahead of Train to Warn Cars

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — A helicopter preceded all Seaboard Airline Railroad trains entering Pinellas County today, sounding a warning to motorists to be cautious when approaching unguarded railroad crossings.

The helicopter, with a county patrolman aboard, flew directly in front of the trains and blared a siren and flashed a red light at each crossing. The craft picked up the trains as they entered the county and escorted them to the St. Petersburg city limits.

Prefers They Go Home

WEST PATERSON, N.J. (AP) —The local police headquarters will not be among those in the state offering free coffee to motorists on New Year's Eve. "I don't want to encourage any drunks to drive all the way to the police station for a cup of coffe," police chief Antonio Barra said. "They're liable to kill themselves on the way."

Hal Boyle Says:

Want to Survive New Year's? Fly to Europe

NEW YORK (AP)—Advice to celebrators:

This is the night of opportunity —the opportunity of living to see New Year's Day dawn.

Many won't make it. But you can. All it takes is a little care and forethought for the next 12 hours or so.

Then careworn old 1958 will be behind you, and you'll be alive and eager—well, alive anyway—to face the challenge of the brave new world of 1959.

Many people honestly want to survive New Year's Eve, but don't know how. Here are a few tips for the careless liver:

Sell your car this afternoon. If you sell it, you can't drive it to a party tonight.

If you can't sell your car, lend it to a neighbor and let him drive it to whatever party he's attending. If someone has to get into an accident, better him than you.

Take an airplane trip to Europe. Statistics prove there are fewer safer places on New Year's Eve than aboard a commercial plane flying over an ocean.

Has your doctor been bothering you for years to have your tonsils or an ulcer cut out? Why not have the operation done tonight? The nurses would rather welcome you as a routine patient than an accident case.

If you are a serious drinker, be proud. Remember, New Year's Eve is for the amateurs. Stick to ginger ale this night. Then you can have the fun of watching the beginners make fools of themselves.

Are you a confirmed cop fighter? Better fight your cops early in the evening, while they are still in a fairly good humor. They get more annoyed as the night wears on.

If you are the last to leave the party and are walking home, don't cross in the middle of the block. In fact, don't cross any street anywhere. Just walk around the block until the sun comes up.

Personal safety suggests you avoid discussing the following topics at a New Year's Eve party: National politics, baseball, football, sex, and such questions as who's the prettiest girl in the room. Topics you can feel free to give your views on include the weather, income taxes, and why hasn't the government done more for the whooping crane?

If you bleed easily, carry your own first aid kit and bandages. If you don't need them yourself, you may be able to save a stranger.

Some people feel the urge to adventure with weird new drinks at New Year's Eve parties. If this temptation overwhelms you, try vodka and epsom salts. It is non-habit-forming, and you will wake up tomorrow with a clear head.

Are you a confirmed martini drinker? The best solution for you is to mix a bowl of martinis, stick a straw in it, lie down on the living room rug and start sipping. If you tumble off the rug it can't hurt you much: your only peril is that your head may fall into the bowl and you'll drown. But, then, one cannot drink martinis and expect absolute security.

The best thing of all to do is to stay home, toss the cat out at 10 p.m., bolt and lock the doors and windows, take a sleeping pill and go to bed. You are not only safe from all forms of revelry and personal tomfoolery — you can't even be hit by lightning.

Happy New Year's Eve. See you tomorrow.

A THOUGHT for the NEW YEAR!

The one definition of morality that has commended itself above all others to the heart of man is that which is universally known as the GOLDEN RULE—it is the rule which may be found in passages from all religions.

NEW TESTAMENT:

"Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them, for this is the law and the prophets."—St. Matthew.

THE TALMUD:

"What is unpleasant to thyself, that do not to thy neighbor: that is the whole law—all else is but exposition."—Hillel.

THE LI KI:

"Is there one word which may serve as a rule of practice for all one's life? Is not reciprocity such a word. What you do not want done to yourself, do not do to others."—Confucius.

Our Best Wishes to All of You—

Reporter Finds Space Flight Painful, Terrifying, but Also Exhilarating

By DOUG WALKER
Dayton Journal Herald

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — I have just made a trip through space — within the safe limits of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

The trip was painful, it was terrifying, it was boring. But it was exhilarating.

I blasted off in a simulated flight into outer space under the eyes of researchers at Wright Air Development Center. I felt the vibrations, weightlessness, blackness and isolation. I then re-entered earth's atmosphere and felt the searing heat of space travel. I lost almost three pounds in two hours as my rocket ship nosed back to earth.

Although clad in a pressure suit and safe on the ground in a pressure chamber, I found the "climb" to 100,000 feet frightening. The pressure suit was like a skin-tight room filled with pseudo-scientific tricks.

Water boiled when the altitude changed. I banged hands together and could hear only a thud. I dropped pieces of paper and they fell to the floor like lead sheets.

I pulled off a pressurized glove. My hand turned red and purple from under-the-skin hemorrhage. It puffed out from lack of pressure. Trying to turn it slightly brought excruciating pain.

Fantastic vibration, oppressive "G" forces and unbelievable noise jarred me as I blasted off. I was jarred up and down at a force of one "G" each way — nine times a second. I was whirled through space at a force of 3½ "G's."

("G" is for gravity. Everyone has one "G" force equal to his weight pulling him to earth.)

At 2½ "G's" a 200-pound man would weigh 500 pounds. Most people have felt "G's" at the bottom of a dip on a roller-coaster.

During acceleration into space, the "G" force will be so great that only the fingers can be moved. Once in space, man will be weightless — no "G's" at all — and will float free.

For this portion of the space trip they placed me on a 48-foot-long human centrifuge, known affectionately as "The Wheel." It is capable of whirling a man at 20 "G's" — a force that could be fatal.

At 3½ "G's" my mouth seemed to tear away from my gums. I couldn't lift my head. My arms grew heavy and I could begin to feel the pressure on my chest.

But, says Capt. Neville Clarke, the man in charge of the wheel, it will take a force of 16 "G's" to put a man in orbit around the earth.

Weightlessness — or zero gravity — is another item spacemen must deal with. It happened to me in the cabin of an airplane 10,000 feet above the air base. It's done by a complicated aerial maneuver.

To become weightless, the plane started a dive at 12,000 feet. At about 250 knots airspeed it pulled up to a 35-degree climb, then arced down.

I pushed off with my feet against the wall on the padded cabin and went sailing forward through space. I would have sailed on into the front window of the airplane, but Capt. Edward L. Brown grabbed me as I went by and pushed me back the other way.

The plane completed its arc. I settled to the floor and was pushed down again as the plane pulled up at a force of 1½ to 2 "G's."

It's like swimming under water, but in air there is a great deal more freedom. The average person can do any type of acrobatic stunt at zero gravity.

Without gravity any way might be up.

You can float and it's fun, but you might choke on a glass of water. The water might float up your nose.

A cup of coffee will float off in little gobs of liquid.

After weightlessness came the eerie silence of space.

I was sealed in an anechoic (no echo) chamber—a room about 7 feet wide and 14 feet long designed to find reactions to isolation.

I lay on the cot listening and staring into the total blackness. I thought I could see my hand, although knowing all the while there was no light.

Never before had I known such silence. Ultimately, I went to sleep.

What kind of man will be able to endure the silence and loneliness of space?

In an altitude chamber, I became a member of the Century Club. It is composed of persons, mainly military, who have experienced 100,000 feet.

From the top altitude I dropped to 40,000 feet in four seconds. It was a wonderful sensation. I became very warm for a few seconds and my pressure suit seemed to collapse. It had been holding me in a rigid position for some time.

And now I am in the earth's atmosphere and the broiling heat of re-entry.

The room felt very hot and very dry. The temperature was 130 degrees. It hung there during the two hours I spent in the room.

I was clad in a suit of long underwear that was a maze of wires. I had 17 wires attached to my body, including one on my big toe.

Over the underwear I wore a lightweight flying suit.

Every 15 minutes Capt. Joseph Gold, M.C., took my blood pressure by means of remote instruments.

Entering the room at 1:48 p.m., I began to perspire 10 minutes later. Although my face was sopping wet at 2:05 p.m., my hands were still dry and felt cool.

At 3 p.m. the observers outside the room said my face had become very red. I was beginning to become fatigued.

At 3:09 p.m. I noted that time was beginning to drag.

After two hours, although a little fatigued, I felt relatively good. I had lost 2 pounds and 11 ounces.

NEWSMAN AFLOAT — Floating free in the air in a weightless state at a simulated altitude of 100,000 feet proves a stimulating if frightening experience for reporter Doug Walker of the Dayton, Ohio Journal Herald. The newsman was testing experiments under way at Wright-Patterson Air Force base's Air Development Center. AP Wirephoto

'58 Good Year for Tourists

Over 9 Million People Spend $650 Millions in Michigan

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's tourist industry chalked up a banner year in 1958.

So said the State Tourist Council Monday in reporting 9,750,000 tourists spent about 650 million dollars this year, ranking tourism with manufacturing and agriculture as one of the state's three big industries. Last year, tourist business amounted to 625 million dollars.

"Despite scattered reports of a temporary drop in tourist patronage in some localities and resorts, 1958 was an excellent year for travel business," said Robert J. Furlong, council executive secretary.

Furlong cited the new Mackinac Bridge, good weather in July and August and in the fall, an early ski season and good promotional programs on state, regional and community levels as reasons for the tourist boom.

Such bell wethers as a 50 percent increase in Mackinac Straits bridge traffic over 1957 ferry crossings and local business increases ranging from 1 to 31 per cent helped support the estimates, he said.

"Now that the Mackinac Bridge is in operation, Michigan's free promotional ride is over," he said. "We will have to fight for our share of the 12 to 15 billion dollars Americans will spend on vacation travel in 1959."

The Green Empress

(Copyright 1958) . . . by Elizabeth Cadell

THE STORY: Angus Graham, invalided out of the Navy, is amused at being hired as a "liason officer" for the simple job of courier on a superlative luxury bus tour in Europe. He's filling in, for his friend "Wax Sealing." The passenger list sounds impressive—Lord Lorrimer, father of a Navy friend, with his lovely daughter, Angela Clunes, and his secretary, Lionel Yule, obviously in love with Angela; Mr. Zoller, philanthropist, and his wife; Admiral Peterson and his psychic sister, Mrs. Denby-Warre; the irrepressible young Sir Maurice Tarrant; Stanton Holt, an American, who asks to meet Miss Seton, with the warm, humorous, intelligent eyes. The crossing to France is uneventful. Miss Seton confides to Angus she is half-sister to Rosamund Blake who has just completed a film in Italy and is sailing to South America. She plans to surprise Rosamund by meeting her boat in Lisbon. In the middle of the night Miss Seton receives a mysterious telephone call, with bad news. Prowlers tried to get at the Green Empress. Angus and Angela are in love but Angus feels he should have something to offer her. Lord Lorrimer suggests he could write to several people in England who might have something to offer Angus, and tells them they must grasp happiness when it's offered. A second attempt is made to enter the garage and the driver whacks the intruder's wrist with a torch. When the coach is again on its way the Admiral notices a bruise on Tarrant's wrist which he says was caused by a blow of a torch.

CHAPTER XIV

Scenery or not, they were in a part of the country which Angus had longed to see again. This was the route which his father and mother had taken on their honeymoon. Here he had come with his father, after his mother's death.

At Bergerac, which they had passed not long ago, he had spent more than one happy holiday by himself. But the passengers, today, had not been interested in Bergerac.

Mr. Holt remarked that the English had once owned it, and the Admiral volunteered the information that hats were made there.

Now, they were in the Landes, which the passengers thought monotonous, but which to Angus already showed signs of the Basque country to which they were bound.

Basque farmhouses, timbered and whitewashed, with wide, sloping roofs, appeared more and more frequently.

They would soon go through Dax, and then they would head towards Bayonne, where as a small boy he had joined small Basque boys and played pelota, in defiance of prohibitions, against the walls of the medieval Cathedral.

All these things, all these memories should have been filling his mind — and it was occupied, instead, in trying to read what lay behind Maurice Tarrant's untroubled countenance.

WHAT'S THAT BRUISE?

"Before we talk about scenery," he began, "perhaps you'd care to explain how you got that bruise on your wrist."

"But I told you, my dear fellow." Maurice raised his eyebrows in surprise. "I hit it against something—a torch, I imagine."

"Can you explain why you were trying to get into the garage early this morning?"

Maurice appeared to consider.

"Couldn't we put it down to a boyish prank?" he asked finally.

"I don't think so." Angus, with an effort, spoke quietly. "You tried the bolts of the door and—"

"No — cross my heart," said Maurice, with obvious sincerity. "I didn't touch the bolts of the door at any time."

"But you did try to climb in through the window last night?"

"Purely for exercise. I couldn't sleep, and I thought that a spot of climbing would, so to speak, make me drop off. If I'd known the driver slept so close to his baby, I—"

"— would have thought twice about trying to get at it."

"I wouldn't even have thought once," said Maurice earnestly. "A great, heavy chap like that — consider, my dear fellow! Is it likely I'd risk letting him have a bash at me?"

"Will you please tell me what you were after?"

"You don't believe I was merely taking exercise?"

Angus thrust his hands deep into his pockets.

"Look, Tarrant," he said. "I'm responsible for the safety of the passengers and —"

"Safety? You don't for a moment imagine, do you, that I would have done anything to harm any of them?"

"Then what were you after?"

"Nothing but adventure. Why should I want to do anything to put the coach out of action? I'm a passenger too, you know, and I'm as keen to get to Lisbon as any of the others. And I'd like to get there in one piece."

"If you ever hang around the coach again out of travel hours," Angus warned him, "you'll get there in several pieces."

HAD HIS REASONS

He turned and walked away, there was no point in prolonging the discussion. Tarrant had his reasons and was obviously not going to disclose them.

All that could be done was maintain a stricter watch when the Empress was put away for the night.

Miss Seton and Lionel Yule strolled back to the coach with him.

"Do we stop at Biarritz?" she asked him.

"No. We go through it and along the coast for a bit, and then we turn inland and stop for the night at a place just this side of Sarè."

"And tomorrow, Spain?"

"Yes. How's your Spanish?"

"Negligible."

"What route do we take after San Sebastian?" asked Lionel.

"We make first for Pamplona, by way of Estrella, Logrono and Najera," Angus told him.

"That's not the main road, is it?"

"It's the route the Pilgrims used to take in the Middle Ages," said Angus, and repressed a strong impulse to tell him that what was good enough for Charlemagne should be good enough for him.

As the coach moved on once more, he sat thinking about the garage episode, but he found it impossible to guess what business Tarrant could have had with the Green Empress, and found himself wondering at last whether it could not be put down to another example of his undeveloped ideas of fun.

When the coach left the coast road near St. Jean de Luz and turned inland, the good weather left them and a drizzling rain began to fall.

They were to stop for tea at a Basque farmhouse a mile or two off the main road, and as they drew near to it, the downpour became so heavy that Angus took the coats from the cupboard and handed them round to their owners.

STRONG WINE SMELL

When the coach stopped, they draped the coats round them and ran quickly across the few yards between the coach and the house.

Inside, the room was rather dark, smoke-filled, and smelled strongly of wine.

The arrival of the party caused a smiling stir, and the stout farmer and his wife and several small children came to greet them.

Soon the passengers were seated at small tables. Mr. and Mrs. Zoller sat with Mrs. Denby-Warre, while the Admiral and Lord Lorrimer took a table beside a window. Angus stood talking to the farmer.

Angus could see Angela seated on a bench at a long table; beside her on one side was Maurice Tarrant, talking volubly; on the other side was Lionel Yule, talking not at all.

Close by, he could hear Mr. Holt's deep, drawling voice addressing Miss Seton.

"Back home," he was saying, "I've got a reputation for being quite a thought-reader. Want to know how I've been reading yours?"

His voice was as easy and as relaxed as his posture; he was sitting forward on his low wooden chair, his feet outstretched, his arms resting on the table.

"I didn't know I'd been thinking at all," she said.

"I've been watching you, and I think you've been thinking," said Mr. Holt. He took off his glasses, polished them, put them on again and gave her a direct, thoughtful gaze. "You got bad news on the trip, didn't you?"

"Did I?"

'DON'T HAVE TO TELL'

"Well, I'm not asking you. You don't have to tell me if you don't want to.

"All I'm doing is proving to you what I said in the first place, that I can get a lot of information just by watching somebody and figuring out what's going on inside their heads.

"First you were happy, and then you weren't. Am I right?"

"Yes. But does it matter?"

"Of course it matters. Why would a person bother watching another person unless that first person wanted to do what he could to help the other person—if the other person would let him?"

Miss Seton stared at him for a few moments, and then laughed.

"So, I'm funny," agreed Mr. Holt placidly, "but I'm talking good sense."

"You're being very kind," said Miss Seton, sobering, "but do you honestly think that two complete strangers can—"

"Oh, but wait a minute!" Mr. Holt held up a hand for silence. "Wait a minute, now. Take this slowly. We're no strangers.

"We've been living together for three and a half days and if you parcel out the time we've spent together, you could spread it out over a whole lot of years of ordinary getting-to-know-you."

Lab Technician Hurt in Radiation Mishap

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP)—Cecil W. Kelley, a veteran atomic laboratory technician, was injured critically in a radiation accident late Tuesday.

He was exposed to a large dose of radiation during a plutonium metal recovery operation, a spokesman for the University of California scientific laboratory said.

Kelley is a metal fabrications operator in a chemical-metallurgical division. The laboratory spokesman said the work in which Kelley was engaged had been studied carefully and was believed to have been adequately controlled.

Pontiac City Affairs

Deputy Clerk Appointed Here

Acting on the recommendation of the city clerk, city commissioners last night appointed Mrs. Olga Barkeley to the position of deputy city clerk.

Mrs. Barkeley, who lives at 554 Lennox St., has been a clerk-typist in the city clerk's office 10 years. Her appointment is effective Jan. 1, with a beginning salary of $5,044.

City Clerk Ada R. Evans said the new deputy will be empowered to substitute for her in an official capacity on routine matters.

"This should be a convenience for the public and the offices," said Mrs. Evans.

Commissioners had only two other minor items of business before them last night.

They referred to the Planning Commission a proposal to rezone the south side of West Huron street, between Green and Palmer streets, from Residential to Personal Service classification.

Dr. Anthony F. Cefai had asked for rezoning of the southwest corner of Huron and Palmer, where he plans to open medical offices.

Commissioners agreed with Commissioner William W. Donaldson, who said, "We might as well rezone the whole block, since most of it is taken up with personal service activities that are there in a non-conforming usage."

Another step in the Saginaw street pragressive lights system was taken. Commissioners agreed the city would participate 25 per cent in the $2,600 cost ofmodernizing the traffic light at Saginaw and Rarke street.

The city is doing the modernization, under supervision of the State Highway Department, from Lafayette street on the north to South Boulevard on the south.

The state, which controls Saginaw street because of its trunkline designation (U.S. 10), is paying most of the cost.

Farmington Sewer Plan in Supreme Court Today

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

A second attempt was to be made today to have the Michigan Supreme Court hand down another opinion on the Farmington sanitary sewer case in an effort to put more legal teeth into financing the $4,900,000 sewage disposal system.

This case is considered by county officials as the key to future projects of Oakland's fledgling Department of Public Works, the only one of its kind among Michigan counties.

Claude H. Stevens of Detroit, county bonding attorney, said yesterday he would file a second petition with the high court hoping a supplemental opinion would iron out disputes over the method of payment for the sewer.

The high court in October split 4 to 4 on an appeal from an Oakland County Circuit Court ruling which said, in effect, DPW plans for financing were constitutional and therefore the project could proceed.

Although this vote upheld the lower court decision, by reason of affirmation by equal division, DPW planners became skeptical of how it still might upset the Farmington and similar department jobs, probably to be paid for in like manner.

So they asked the Supreme Court to reconsider the appeal and reply to some unanswered questions in the case they considered vital to the project. The request was turned down early this month without explanation.

Testing of the project began in March of this year when Irwin I. Cohn, a Detroit real estate attorney and a West Bloomfield Township resident, sought an injunction as a taxpayer to block the proposal.

It is designed to benefit residents of Farmington and West Bloomfield townships, and the cities of Southfield and Keego Harbor.

Cohn's contention is that contracts between the county and two townships, setting forth the way they are to fulfill their obligations to the county in paying their shares, are void because the areas would have to levy taxes in excess of a 15-mill constitutional taxing limitation on townships.

He further stated an alternate method of reimbursing the county, that from charges levied against residents connecting to the system, were not in proportion to cost of making such connections.

Lastly, Cohn argues the county cannot legally pledge its full faith and credit behind issuance of general obligation bonds in anticipation of collections from participating communities.

Stevens puts up two lines of defense. He states townships are municipalities, like cities, and therefore could set their taxing regulations within individual charters, thus escaping the 15-mill ceiling.

Secondly, sufficient income could be raised from the proposed connecting charges to meet obligations.

Justices Eugene F. Black, Talbot Smith, John D. Voelker and Thomas M. Kavanagh disagreed with Stevens' first line, saying townships are not municipal corporations and therefore are bound by the taxing limitation.

The four other justices, Leland W. Carr, John R. Dethmers, Harry F. Kelly and George Edwards, neither agreed or disagreed with this particular question, but still upheld the Oakland opinion of the late Judge George B. Hartrick.

Stevens feels the four dissenting justices, after ruling against his first line of defense, should have moved on to say whether the existing contracts are valid under the alternate suggested pay plan. Apparently feeling this not material to the case, they skipped this question, he said.

"We are in hopes that our new petition will show the justices the need for such an answer on this point," Stevens remarked.

Call for Tough Laws to Curb 'Influence'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House influence investigators today called for a tough law that would send to jail anyone attempting to put improper pressure on a federal regulatory agency.

The House influence investigating subcommittee also recommended a much broader continuation of its investigations that already have resulted in the resignation under fire of former presidential assistant Sherman Adams and Commissioner Richard A. Mack of the Federal Communications Commission.

In 1930, Sinclair Lewis became the first American to win the Nobel prize for literature.

Farming Is in Its Third Major Revolution Today

Oakland County's population is growing so rapidly that the county no longer is predominantly a farming area. However, there are still enough farms within the county so that all of its residents are aware that big changes are taking place in agriculture.

The farming industry is now undergoing its third major revolution.

The first revolution substituted animal power for human power. It came in the mid-nineteenth century.

The second revolution came in the 1920's. It substituted mechanical power for animal power.

The third revolution is taking place today. It is supplementing mechanical power with capital and technology.

Today there is an estimated $55,000 invested for each agricultural worker as compared to the average $15,000 invested for each industrial worker. The whole nature and setup of farming is changing.

During the past five years the average farm has increased in size from 214 acres to 242 acres, according to the U. S. Census of Agriculture. Just as industrial corporations have grown in size, our farms are growing larger.

The cost of mechanization and of applying new technology are forcing this change. As in the case of many lines of business and industry, the small farm operator is encountering a steadily increasing pressure which is forcing cooperative programs, mergers and expansions.

The successful farmer today must know a lot more than did his father and his grandfather. He not only must know farming. He must know mechanical equipment, its operation and repair. He must know a lot about chemistry.

He must know a great deal about pricing, marketing and finance. And last but not least, he must understand and keep up with a frequently changing government farm program which can be a potent factor in his success or failure.

IGY Ends Today

In summing up accomplishments of the International Geophysical Year (IGY) Dr. HUGH ODISHAW, executive director of the U.S. National Committee on IGY, declared the venture to be "the single most significant peaceful activity of mankind since the Renaissance and the Copernican revolution."

For the past 18 months — the "year" having been extended — 60,000 scientists, technicians and volunteer observers from 66 nations had manned scientific posts from pole to pole. Among preliminary findings are:

1. Antarctica is not a solid mass but a complex of islands and mountain chains.

2. The total known ice and snow area of the world should be revised upward 40 per cent.

3. Three major counter currents have been found and measured in oceans.

4. A vast mineral rich region has been found in the bottom of the Pacific ocean.

5. Precipitation in the Arctic has averaged twice that of the Antarctic the past 50 years.

6. Earth satellite launching has been an historic and pioneering event.

Deputy director of the Advanced Research Project Agency, Rear Adm. John E. Clark, declares that while the U. S. had "lived in a glass house" during the year and a half study, Soviet Russia had played "coy and superior." He is of the opinion that the Soviet Union has benefited greatly from exchange of information but with "little return to others in kind."

Scientists on both sides of the Iron Curtain are urging continued international co-operation. Special committees have been established for going on with joint research on the ocean, space, the sun and Antartica.

Unfortunately in Russia science and politics are so interwoven that not much of value in scientific observation will seep through for free world use.

IT IS quite true that clothes make the man—and in not a few cases it's the clothes a woman wears.

Rounding Out 1958's Last Day Are Following Items

Christmas tree: What now becomes a greater fire menace.

In absolute agreement is this column with a letter from

"Let's Make It and Keep It,"

who asserts that the best New Year's resolution for everybody is to drive as we wish everybody else would drive.

"Don't drive when you're drunk," is the final 1958 plea of Sheriff as New Year's eve approaches. He urges us to keep it sane—and sober.

Frank W. Irons,

Every patient at Pontiac State Hospital again receives a Christmas gift this year, largely through the work of the Psychiatric Aid Association under its President, a bazaar, bake sale and other means raising the required funds. The Yuletide decorations in the halls were beautiful.

Mrs. Ethel Pettibone,

Several Pontiac hard drink parlors will serve free coffee (as much as you can drink) and refuse "that one for the road" on New Year's eve.

A belated Christmas gift drifts in from now in Los Angeles, in the shape of a capsule of smog. When opened it gives out a sweet odor—which, from experience, I know isn't smog.

"After they read in your column that somebody stole our Christmas tree," writes of Drayton Plains, "Two trees were left at our door, and four other people offered to give us one."

A Christmas card comes along from

Beverly Hannawalt,

mailed in Los Angeles, which says, "You don't know what the smog is like until you've been embraced by it. And then you appreciate your Oakland County home."

"Your merchants carry most everything," phones

Percy Holdsworth

of Walled Lake, who broke his 75-year-old coffee grinder and found repairs in a Pontiac store.

"Check into the sale of heaters for fish houses," suggests of Oxbow Lake. We have done so and find it over twice that of the average winter.

That spruce tree with over a thousand lights, in the yard of

A Dash of This—A Jigger of That

David Lawrence Says:

Administration of Justice Unfair

WASHINGTON—If you are a labor leader and violate a court order, you may have to pay a fine but the Department of Justice asks the court not to send you to prison.

If you are a businessman and violate a court order, or if you are the businessman's secretary merely carrying out his instructions, the Department of Justice says nothing one way or the other, and the court sentences you both to jail.

LAWRENCE

This is certainly not "equal protection of the laws," and yet it's what has just happened in a criminal contempt case in Boston where, without benefit of a jury trial, an arbitrary and unusual punishment has been inflicted upon Bernard Goldfine and his secretary, Miss Mildred Paperman. They complied with the court order but were just a few days late.

John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, was convicted of criminal contempt in 1946, and Judge Goldsborough of the U.S. District Court fined him $10,000 but, at the request of the Department of Justice, no prison sentence was imposed.

The offense was the violation of a court order demanding that there be no interference with the operations of the coal mines which the government had seized.

It was alleged that the labor leader had encouraged the workers to refrain from going to their jobs. The Supreme Court of the United States in 1947 upheld the conviction.

Persons familiar with tax cases say they cannot recall a single instance of a jail sentence being imposed in a criminal contempt case charging failure to get income tax data into the hands of the Internal Revenue Office on the date demanded in a court order.

The whole subject of criminal contempt presents a shocking record of special privilege and favoritism. Congress, by law, has given labor unions certain immunities in criminal contempt cases. For one thing, jury trials are now required whenever there is disobedience of an injunction in a labor dispute.

Congress struggled with the subject in 1957 and came up with a law providing for a new trial by a jury in criminal contempt cases in the "civil rights" field whenever the punishment imposed by a judge, after a trial without a jury, is in excess of a $300 fine or in excess of a 45-day prison sentence. But this, too, is an example of unequal application of the laws.

For, if these privileges are available to some citizens, they should naturally apply to other citizens in all cases of criminal contempt. Mr. Goldfine's sentence is for a term in excess of 45 days.

The Constitution is explicit on the matter of jury trials. It says in two different articles:

"The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury . . .

"In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury . . ."

Why is the Constitution being violated? Largely because most American lawyers and judges have accepted the English common law practice on criminal contempt as an unwritten part of the American Constitution.

The Country Parson

"If my New Year's resolutions are no more challenging this year than last — I haven't made the progress I should."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Give Nature Real Chance to Regulate Your System

The actual cause of the malaise, headache and general wretchedness and upset of the badly educated individual who harbors notions about intestinal "poisoning" or "autointoxication" is anxiety or worry.

DR. BRADY

In the past century particularly, the Yankee public (North American, that is) has been thoroughly misinformed about bowel function by the nostrum vendors, the outright quacks and the "regular" doctors. So nearly everybody today believes that it is necessary to "watch" and resort to laxative, purgative, enema or colon irrigation whenever such "aid" seems necessary.

Among 44 persons queried about this — persons not under medical treatment — 42 said they use some such "aid" regularly or from time to time. Two said they never use physic or enema — never need to.

Interviewing these representatives of the general population I was impressed by the warped reasons the physic-takers gave for interfering with the automatic control and by the self-satisfaction many of them evidently derived from telling me the facts of life. I was equally impressed by the happy-go-lucky way the two abstainers answered the query and then turned to other subjects.

The victims of the "autointoxication" obsession kept interrupting my presentation of the physiology of the alimentary tract with "Yahbut. . ." and "Yahbut. .." until it became obvious they were not listening to me. These poor souls have been so imbued with the morbid ideas propagated by the many outstanding charlatans that they actually think a doctor who tries to teach them elementary physiology is a nut.

And nobody thanks the doctor who tries to teach people physiology — indeed powerful interests silence him whenever or wherever people seem to accept his teachings as sound.

IT'S THE BUNK!

There is no factual basis for the notion that any kind of "poisoning" or "autointoxication" occurs if defecation is delayed for several days. Thousands have learned by experience that what I say about this is so.

Individuals whose habit time is, say, twice a week, have as good health as those whose habit time is daily.

Now, if you can't keep your mind off your bowels and if you are not sure you know more than I do about physiology, I suggest that you drop 35 cents into my little tin cup and provide me with a stamped, self-addressed envelope for Volumette XXV of the Pocket Cyclopedia of Health — titled The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene. If you find it isn't worth the price, say so and return it and I'll refund your money.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac Michigan.

Voice of the People

Proposes Radical Change in Structure of Our Taxes

Our founding fathers found property or real estate the most tangible thing to tax, but then you owned your property. Today with 30 year mortgages and land contracts, you pay taxes on something you don't own and may never own. That form of taxing is obsolete.

We should have a straight income tax as a base, and all self-supporting departments should be just that. That includes highway departments, parks, the dog catcher.

Schools should receive some aid, with the balance by tuition. Why should the public pay for such extravagant schools and educating all children, any more than clothing and feeding them? That, too, is a parent's responsibility. Tax property only when it becomes a luxury.

'Time Isn't Ripe for Conservatives'

Isn't it possible that the Democratic party is now in the same position that the Anti-Saloon League was in during its hey-day, and it wasn't until the people were so thoroughly aroused and disgusted that they made the change?

It could be that the time is not yet here for the Conservatives. That time may be when the value of the dollar has disappeared.

Nothing Settled in '58, a Second-Rate Year

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The little guy, any little guy going home this New Year's Eve, looked back on 1958 and could hardly see it. It wasn't much of a year, a kind of ho-hum year, a real second-rater, as years ago.

Nothing was settled. It was a kind of in-between year, full of things left over to be settled later. It was like a boy carrying a bunch of packages from 1957 to 1959.

He had mixed feelings about it, and about himself too: both glad and uneasy.

When the recession hit, it was like being missed by lightning. Millions of guys ost their jobs but he kept his. He knew a recession is like lightning. It would hit again some time. Next time it might not miss him.

There was something to be uneasy about. Not too uneasy, but a little unsure, like all the times on the way to work when he wondered if he had put out that last cigarette before he left the house.

There was one thing didn't make him happy: it was the feeling that in the whole year he should have done more with his life. Maybe he could have done better if he were smarter, or thought harder. Baloney.

He had this same feeling of time being wasted at the end of every year. No reason to. This was the way he was; he had no illusions: he had realized long ago he'd never set the world afire. So why feel disappointed?

He knew he felt smaller in 1958 than in any year of his life, and the world looked bigger. He felt less and less a part of things, more and more left out. It was easy to tell when that started with him.

It was in the fall of 1957 when the Russians sent their first Sputniks up. It was like being thrown bodily into a new world and he was unprepared for it. He had spent his whole life earthbound, looking down, not up.

The Sputniks were like a can-opener: they lifted the lid on a whole new world over his head and men were talking of sailing out into it, to the moon and even to the planets beyond.

All of a sudden scientists were the princes of the new order, the guides to the future, the magicians of time and space. He wished his kids would fit into the new world coming, better than he knew he'd ever be able to.

He told himself: "You sound a little phony, moaning about all you don't know about space and rockets and things like that. How much do you know about what's going on around you down here?

It was a good question. He knew he wouldn't get high marks on that one either. There were too many things happening in too many ways and in too many places for him to know more than just little pieces.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Resolve to Get Rid of Bad Habits

Bad habits are like termites in a good house. They will soon break down the rugged framework of health that you started with. So analyze yourself today and make a set of good resolutions. Get your friends to join you, for it is easier to break bad habits when you have pals who are doing the same.

& By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE A-415: Noel J., aged 42, has high blood pressure.

"Dr. Crane, my family doctor ordered me to quit tobacco," he began, "and I realize I should do so.

DR. CRANE

"But I have tried to eliminate my cigarettes and have failed. My wife wants me to make a new resolution, but I wonder if it isn't worse to do so and fail, than not to make such new resolves at all.

"What do you psychologists believe in such cases?"

ANALYZE YOURSELF

"The idea is father to the deed," runs an old adage, which means you will not improve without definite planning and good resolutions.

Furthermore, success in life usually doesn't come on the first attempt. Most people "try, try, try again" before they attain victory, whether in business or in remodeling their own personalities.

Even in salesmanship that same rule holds true, for the star salesman don't stop with one call.

On Page 237 of my college textbook "Psychology Applied," I present a table showing the reports from 1,000 retail merchants who kept a record of how many times a salesman called on them.

Seven out of every eight salesmen quit after three calls on a new prospect!

Yet these merchants found from their records that the great majority of them did not buy till the 4th or 5th call!

So only ONE salesman out of every 8 stuck around long enough to sign up the prospect to a bona fide order.

If you can quit tobacco or cut out liquor or slenderize your waistline by dieting, and accomplish these beneficial effects on your very first try, then you are the exception. More power to you!

Most of us human beings must try, try again before we finally hit success.

"It's easy to quit tobacco," Mark Twain is reported to have said, "for I've quit hundreds of times!"

Which means, obviously, he didn't stay quit very long, but was guilty of backsliding.

RENOVATED PERSONALITIES

Last week I mentioned that bad habits are 5th columnists. They are traitors to your ultimate health and success in life.

So work up your ire against them. Realize they may deprive you of an extra 5 or 10 years of life just as truly as if they fired a gun into your back.

Or they will make you lose clients and customers, as well as sweethearts and wives.

John Barleycorn (liquor) has thus cost many a man his happy home and devoted wife.

And cigarettes, according to our latest cancer researchers, lop off an average of 7 to 8 years lifespan from the usual smoker.

Obesity likewise kills people ahead of time and meanwhile makes them look like waddling walruses or Sloppy Sues even while they are still alive, thus reducing their allure and chances for romance.

So resolve NOW that you will streamline your personality. Declare war on the 5th columnists (Bad habits) that are pot shotting your chances.

And get your family or friends to join you, for it is easier to break bad habits when you team-up with a group of pals.

Bob Considine Says:

Assumption College Starts New School

WORCESTER, Mass. — Plucky little Assumption College, flattened by a tornado three years ago, is rising anew here.

The big wind demolished in one minute the torturous work of half a century. But men of good will from all walks and creeds are replacing the broken bits and fractured dreams with a spanking new college whose curriculum includes a remarkable undergraduate School of Foreign Affairs, the only one of its kind in all New England.

Assumption, run by the French-founded Assumptionist Order which has played a unique role in our relations with Russia, sees acute need for preparing young men properly to represent the U.S. overseas.

If the challenge of Nikita Khrushchev's dominance-through-trade is to be met, this country has need of an army of Americans trained in the languages, economy, customs, prides and prejudices of foreign lands, their market places and chancelleries.

The sun may have set on certain areas of what once was the British Empire, but it never again will set on the American diplomat, businessman, developer or serviceman overseas. The U. S. has assumed in perpetuity what once was called "the white man's burden."

It is a burden that can't be dropped under any circumstances, for to do so would be to forfeit the world almost instantly to communism.

It is a young man's game, from the oil fields of Saudi Arabia to a know-how mission to Zanzibar.

"Within 25 years, oe college graduate in four will find at least part of his career aboroad," declared President Eisenhower's committee on education.

More than 2,300 U. S. corporations now have overseas offices. Assumption admittedly can't train the whole army of linguistic experts needed to man them. But a fine regiment will help.

A 37-year-old priest, who looks like a good football end, is head of the foreign service school at Assumption. You've seen his name, probably. It is Georges L. Bissonette, born in Central Falls, R. I., the priest who was tossed out of Russia in 1955 because the state department would not extend the visitors visa of Exarch Boris of the Russian Orthodox Church in the U. S.

American Assumptionists have been in and out of Russia since F.D.R. and Maxim Litvinov arranged U. S. recognition of the Soviet Union 25 years ago.

Why Assumptionists? Well, seems that the Catholic Bishop of Moscow at the time, a Frenchman named Pie Neveu, was of that Order, so it wa. felt an American of the same cloth would have the least trouble there.

Roosevelt was keen to send a Protestant minister and a rabbi, too, to take care of what he felt would be a thriving American colony inside Russia. Both declined.

The first to go was Father Leopold Braun, who stayed 11 years. There have been three successors, a fourth, big scholarly fellow named Louis Dion, from Worcester, is packing.

"At first we had the use of a church in Moscow," Bissonette told us. "Then in 1950 the Moscow Soviet, the city government, told us it could no longer do business with an individual—such as accept rent and taxes. We'd have to organize the Catholics into a kind of cooperative responsible for upkeep, and other details.

"The upshot of it was that they directed tha. henceforth our church, St. Louis des Francais, would be staffed by the Archbishop Springovicz of Riga. Quite a man, the old archbishop.

"The Nazis cut certain muscles and tendons out of his legs to keep him from moving around too much. The Russians have been tough on him, too. But he stays in there, pitching with pastoral letters urging the old ones to give home instructions in religion to school kids who now must swear, in effect, to be atheists in order to qualify for higher education.

"We operate out of a little apartment at No. 12-24 Sadovaia-Samotechnaia. We get four or five people for daily mass. Teach catechism to the children of the Catholic diplomats, play volleyball with the Marines at the embassy, and each morning wait for the hot water to reach our ninth floor rear. Bill Hearst, Kingsbury Smith and Frank Conniff came by one day when I was there. Dion will find it pretty quiet. It's a long haul, but if there's anybody who can do it, Louis can."

Reds Forced to Drink Champagne

Vodka Out for New Year's

By HAROLD K. MILKS

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscovites jamming the night spots on New Year's Eve probably will have to depend on champagne or other wines, not traditional and more potent vodka, to make them merry.

The Soviet capital's downtown hotel dining rooms, restaurants and cafes are booked solid for the gayest night of the Russian year.

Many are expected to restrict vodka drinkers to 100 grams—about one shot—for the evening, in accordance with Premier Nikita Khrushchev's new edict in the stepped-up campaign to discourage drunkenness.

But the proprietors assured inquirers that wines, champagne and lighter intoxicants would be available in quantities limited only by the drinker's pocketbook.

Khrushchev in a speech Oct. 17 said a new law was being written under which a customer could get only one shot of strong drink in a restaurant.

"Those who want five glasses will have to go to five restaurants," said the Premier. "They'll sober up while making the rounds."

Most officials believed the new directive would not become fully effective until New Year's Day. But many restaurants began restricting their customers last Saturgan, and temperature ranging to 30 below zero discouraged would-be drunks from making the rounds.

On New Year's Eve they probably can't get into restaurants where they don't have reservations.

For the celebration most restaurants are offering a special dinner with wine, champagne, music, dancing and 100 grams of vodka per customer. The cost is 150 rubles, $37.50 at the official rate. Anything else will be extra.

Baby Is Dad's Job Too

The idea that raising children is a mother's job, and not father's, no longer is popularly held.

Many a man has actually thought this to be a good idea, and some still do, shunning the role of being both a warm father and a "real man."

The spirit and character of children can be reflected by how close and friendly a father is to them. Thus, it's dad's duty to start out on the right foot and learn how to care for his offsprings from the smallest on up.

Parents or parents-to-be today have the opportunity to learn together how to care for babies. Both the Pontiac City Health Department and the Oakland County Health Department offer free courses at least three times a year covering the subject.

Dad may think it's mother's job to take over, at least "the first two years when they are so tiny, fragile and helpless," but if this happens, he will soon find out that the children think mother is the boss as well as the expert. By then, it will be harder for him to take over his fatherly role.

It is assumed that mother's main job is her house and children . . . Dad spends much of his time and energy at the office or shop. But, it's also a good idea for dad to be in the know about what's going on or how to do this and that when it comes to babies.

He should be in the know about diaper changing and formula preparing just in case mother is either too exhausted, or not feeling up to par to handle all of the chores.

He'll be proud and happy to take over once and awhile and share in the fun and responsibility of bringing up "our" child.

Traffic Claims 599 Over Yule Weekend

By United Press International

Authorities braced for the long New Year's holiday today, hoping to hold the traffic toll below the nearly 600 fatalities chalked up during the long Christmas weekend.

A final count showed traffic killed 599 persons during the 102-hour Christmas holiday. The toll fell below the 620 deaths estimated by the National Safety Council and was well under the Christmas holiday death record of 712 set in 1956.

California had the highest traffic toll with 60, followed by 46 in Texas, 38 in Illinois, 34 in New York, 27 in Ohio, 25 each in Florida, North Carolina and Pennsylvania, 23 in Michigan, 19 in Indiana, 18 in Missouri and Virginia, 16 in Massachusetts, 15 in Georgia, and 14 in New Mexico and Wisconsin.

Actress Wins Contract in Huge Beauty Contest

NEW YORK (UPI) — Robbin Bain, 22, an actress and model, has been declared the winner of an election that rates second only to a presidential election in the number of ballots cast.

The Bronxville, N.Y. beauty was named Miss Rheingold of 1959 by a plurality. Some 24 million votes were cast for the six finalists. The title includes a $50,000 modeling contract.

Gains Expected Against Cancer

State Health Board Also Sees Progress in War on Polio in '59

LANSING (AP)—New gains against virus diseases and cancer should be the outstanding health developments of the coming year.

This was the prediction made in a poll of State Health Department specialists.

Interest in virus diseases is expected to center on polio research, including trials of a vaccine which can be taken by mouth and experiments in mixing polio vaccine with other immunizing agents.

Dr. Albert E. Heustis, state health commissioner, said the Michigan department will make contributions in both fields.

It will continue laboratory work which promises more accurate diagnosis of virus diseases. Two cancer research projects also will be continued.

One is a search for a method of screening possible anticancer medicines. The other is submission of potential anticancer substances to the U.S. Public Health Service for testing.

Listed as outstanding Michigan public health achievements for 1958 were the setting up of a program to safeguard peacetime uses of radiation, improved care for nursing home patients and reduction in hospitalization time for TB patients.

Cited as newly emerging health programs were air pollution, the rise in chronic diseases such as diabetes and heart conditions, and problems associated with the increasing number of marriages and illegitimate births in the teen group.

Putting On Sweater Is Special Technique

A baby's head is more egg-shaped than ball-shaped so it's a little difficult to put on sweaters and shirts with small openings.

Make sure to gather the sweater into a loop and slip it over the back of the head first. Then stretch it forward and bring it down past the forehead and nose, and put the arms in the sleeves.

To take it off, first pull the baby's arms out of the sleeves. Then gather the sweater into a loop around the neck and raise the front part of the loop up past the nose and forehead. Slip it off toward the back of the head next.

Restaurateur's Offer Can Boomerang Badly

NEW YORK (UPI) — A restaurant in New York advertises all the sirloin steak you can eat — plus the trimmings — for $2.35.

Owner Joseph Brody said the only time he ever questioned the wisdom of his policy was when six customers from Pennsylvania took care of 42 steaks among them.

The meat cost Brody $46.20. The diners paid $14.10.

5 File for 3 Trustee Posts in Holly, 2 for Lake Orion Village President

HOLLY — Five candidates have filed petitions to run for three truste posts in the Feb. 16 village primaries and two others are to vie for the position of assessor at the same time, it was announced by George J. Patterson, village clerk, today.

Altogether 11 persons, including five incumbents, have filed on the Union ticket. There is no other ticket in the field.

Uncontested for their present positions are Village President Paul O. Cohee; George J. Patterson, clerk, and Harry J. Summers, treasurer. These three officials have filed for their own respective positions.

The race for the assesor post will be between Byron B. Beatty and J. Lee Montgomery.

Seeking election to the three trustee posts are the two incumbents, M. Bryce Dabler and Samuel M. Wright and Fred Disbrow, Clare Hubble and Martin White.

Palmer G. Bundy is running on the Republican ticket for precinct delegate.

ROMEO — Candidates for office in both Bruce Township and the village of Romeo learned today that they will be spared the chore of going through a primary election because only one candidate from each party filed for each position, Conrad Turrell, township clerk, said today.

The village has an all-Republican slate of incumbents with but one exception. Appointee Elgin F. Anger filed for election to the post of assessor recently vacated by Glenn Levin, who resigned becaue he was moving to Florida.

Woman Rams Sport Car Into Side of House

ROYAL OAK — A woman motorist who rammed into the side of a house with her sports car, ripping the plastic top completely off, is in "fair" condition at William Beaumont hospital today.

Mrs. Edna Sutley, 50, of 209 Berkshire Rd., is believed by Royal Oak Police to have lost control of her car at the end of a deadend street when she crashed into a home at 302 Josephine St. at about 6:15 last night. The victim is unable to give any details of the accident at this time.

The hospital reports that Mrs. Sutley suffered severe lacerations of the left arm and right leg and possible fractured ribs.

Vote Delayed on Addison Gas

State Rules That Special Election Can't Be Held Until Feb. 16

ADDISON TOWNSHIP—Through a ruling from the state attorney-general's office Addison Township officials have been forced to postpone their proposed Jan. 6 vote on a 30-year franchise for the Southeastern Michigan Gas Co. to a possible date of Feb. 16, Robert McCallum, township clerk, announced today.

The attorney general's office told the township board that a special election cannot be held within 60 days before or after a regular election date.

Under that ruling Jan. 6 would have been too close to the township primary election on Feb. 16.

Now township officials are waiting for word from the gas company to see if that vote can be scheduled at the same time as the primary, McCallum said.

$100,000 Suit Filed Against Romeo Press

ROMEO — A $100,000 law suit for breach of contract has been filed in Wayne County Circuit Court against the owners and publishers of The Romeo Observer Press by Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Sadler of Almont.

In addition to the suit, the Sadlers have announced plans to publish a new weekly newspaper in Romeo, which will be called "The Romeo Independent."

The Sadlers are suing joint owners-publishers Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Howard Jr. of Romeo, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Eva of Detroit and The Observer Press for "refusal to go through with a purchase agreement which was substantiated by publication in The Observer Press." Also included in the verbal agreement, Sadler said, was an employment contract which gave him full editorial and policy authority for eight years, he said.

Youngsters Playing 'Wyatt Earp'

Boy, 12, Shot in Eye

AVON TOWNSHIP — Seven youthful "Wyatt Earps" decided to test their gun-drawing skill yesterday afternoon, and one of them was shot in the left eye by a b-b from an air pistol.

The injured boy was Gordon Grant, 12, of 5991 Winkler Mill Rd., northeast of Rochester. He was shot by Stuart M. Baird, 17, of 889 Rivard Blvd., Grosse Pointe, Romeo State Police reported today.

Baird and four other boys were on Winkler's Mill Pond cutting holes in the ice when three other boys, all about 12-years-old, approached them, police said. One of the younger boys was carrying an air pistol, the other two had air rifles and the Baird youth had an air pistol also.

Someone said "Let's see who can draw the fastest." They drew and Gordon was shot in the left eye.

State troopers were called by Gordon's mother, and the injured boy was taken to St. Joseph Hospital in Pontiac where his condition was described as "satisfactory." Surgery on the eye is not believed necessary by the doctors. The boy is being kept under observation.

Details of the incident were to be given to the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office for possible action, police said.

'59 Crystal Ball Sees Healthy U.S., but Stormy World

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — Now is the time for all good seers to come to the aid of their less-psychic fellowmen.

A new year is about to begin, and as a consequence Jeane Dixon has dusted off her world-famous crystal ball, peered into its mysterious depths and emerged with her annual predictions.

Washington's favorite seeress, whose prophesies of election results, world upheavals, governmental schisms and space-age sputniks have frequently come to pass with uncanny accuracy, sees "a world on edge" throughout all of 1959.

The fuse for World War III was actually lighted last October, according to the amateur prophetess, when Mao Tse-tung heightened his saber-rattling power thrusts against Quemoy and Matsu. Mrs. Dixon insists that Red China will reopen hostilities in the early spring, and will eventually "get the islands at all costs."

She also foresees uprisings in Burma and Malaya, and heavy fighting in the Ghana area of Africa, with Britain losing several more possessions during 1959.

Not all of Jeane's predictions are as gloomy as those, but her crystal ball shows little for peace-lovers to cheer about during the next half-decade.

Business, she confides, will be "excellent" throughout '59. The Stock Market will continue its upward climb, except for brief setbacks in April and September.

Americans will begin the year with high optimism, but according to Jeane will be merely blinding themselves to the gathering storm clouds of world disorder and violence.

Here, in brief, are some of her other predictions for the brave new year ahead:

Congress will pass legislation upping taxes, and will "swing in a big way" toward increased foreign aid spending.

Some of the wisest decisions to emanate from the White House in many years will emerge during the next 12 months. The President will exert "excellent leadership," but in late September and October the nation must be unusually alert to avoid complacency.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, reluctantly and against his will, will retire from the Cabinet well before the year's end. His enormous duties will be divided between two or more successors, so that the next secretary of state will be less powerful than the peripetetic, fast-traveling Dulles who has counted heavily on "personal" diplomacy.

Vice President Nixon will assume added responsibilities in 1959, and will be a "power for good" in our government.

West Germany will hold her own, continue to progress, and eventually revert to a monarchy form of government. West Berlin will emerge from its present crisis with better prospects than anticipated.

Russia will liquidate or expel to remote provinces some of the important men now in power in the Kremlin. Despite purge after purge, the Soviets will achieve brilliant new space developments and inventions. Russia, according to Jeane, is already far ahead of us in the space race, and will startle the world with its stratospheric advance in 1959.

Although the Kremlin bosses do not want war, they will continue to arm to the teeth, and in the latter part of the year they will make a ruthless but short-lived grab for additional power.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev's personal power will decline during the coming year, and the clique which is partial to now-fallen V. M. Molotov will eventually seize control. The social pattern established by Molotov will actually serve as the guide for the future of Russia, and his name will be revered by the Soviets.

Across the Asian border in Red China, Mao Tse-tung will assume increasing powers of a dictatorial nature, despite his recent stepdown from chairmanship (presidency).

Although sporadic fighting will break out in Africa and the Far East during 1959, the greatest battle of World War III will be fought in the Holy Land, at the same time that other lesser battles rage in Korea and Asia. Jeane's crystal ball indicates that this climax will be delayed until the decade of the '60s.

Early in April, and again in October Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser will move to consolidate Arab countries and his own personal power.

The Communists will make trouble in India in 1959. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, despite increased monetary help from the west, will face a financial crisis, and in an important decision he must reach during the early part of the year, will side with the Western World.

Mrs. Dixon has these further predictions to make concerning the American political front:

Senator John F. Kennedy would make an excellent vice president or secretary of state, but the timing is not ripe for him to seek the presidency.

Senator Hubert Humphrey will make an all-out bid for the Democratic presidential nomination, and will have the strong backing of labor. Labor will continue to increase its political power during 1959.

New York's Governor-Elect Nelson Rockefeller is a born statesman, who couples with this talent the business ability of his grandfather, John D. Rockefeller. He has dogged persistency and determination, but it is not advisable for him to seek the presidency in 1960. Jeane's crystal ball indicates that he would make an excellent vice presidential nominee two years hence, but should reserve his White House bid until 1964 or 1968.

California's Governor-Elect Pat Brown is a man to watch, and his "vibrations" are reaching toward the White House. He will develop new ideas for the improvement of conditions among the working people.

Mrs. Dixon's predictions end on this note:

America will develop unheard of new weapons for defense, and will speed their production. The Navy will make vast strides in underwater sea power.

The excellent reforms which Premier Charles de Gaulle has introduced into France will come to little before the end of 1959, because he will fail to work harmoniously with Germany, Britain and the United States.

At least, this is what Jeane says . . . . .

Plenty of Items Needed for Baby—Boy or Girl

Although they don't know if they will have a daughter or a son, prospective parents needn't hold off shopping for their baby-to-be.

There are plenty of items which all babies need, male or female. In order to save time, energy and be able to devote more time to their new addition, parents should plan their list and buy before the birth.

Along with having fun together shopping for the new resident at their home, they also will enjoy finding a place for everything in the nursery.

First on the list should be a place for the baby to sleep whether it be a silk lined bassinet, a crib, clothes basket or bureau drawer. Make sure it is something which has sides to keep him from rolling out and is soft but firm at the bottom for a mattress.

Baby needs to be clean so make sure there's a place to bathe him. A kitchen sink, enamelware tub, dishpan, washstand or the ultimate, a folding fabric bathtub, will serve the purpose.

Plenty of safety pins (the larger size), a rectal thermometer, a pound of sterile absorbent cotton, vitamin drops with A C and D, mild soap and a non-rust covered diaper pail which holds at least three gallons are also items which you can have ready before baby arrives.

To start out, six long nightgowns and six longsleeve shirts in the one-year size; two to six dozen diapers; two shoulder opening sweaters and several knitted wool caps are suggested.

Other suggestions which are musts for the new baby are waterproof sheeting, 3 to 6 pads, sheets and several blankets.

Claim U.S. Housewife Is Shrewd Buyer

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK—The January sales are almost upon us (already they are advertising 20 per cent off on thermostatically controlled dog houses with picture windows), and once again Mrs. America reverts to the instincts of Eve.

A woman, faced with a bargain, is wily and shrewd and at times treacherous.

The merchant holds forth the apple of advertising, and she reaches out—ready to eat and run.

Ah, but wait.

She wants to believe that advertising. She wants to think that her floors can be shinier cheaper, and her wardrobe can be greater for less. But she is canny, this woman. She distrusts those sweeping claims.

"Why?" says Charlotte Montgomery, an expert in the matter. "Because a woman knows from experience. An advertisement that shouts 'Now throw away your iron' is wasted on a smart woman, who knows that no drip-dry fabric is that perfect. Or a cleaning product that claims 'Just a gentle wipe with a cloth' —she knows it isn't that easy."

Miss Montgomery is a writer (for Good Housekeeping"), speaker and consultant on the matter of advertising. She has studied the U.S. housewife and her response to sales pitches, and firmly believes that the little lady's gullibility is highly overrated.

"Women dislike phony pre-pricing, for instance," she says. "Take a big ad for an electric cooker, pre-priced in big letters at $39.95—and now reduced to $7.95. Some women may believe this, sometimes. But not for long. And such things undermine their faith in all advertising.

"The same thing goes for any advertising that's unbelievable. Recently a woman in the midwest sent me a clipping of a retail store ad for 'wallets, at $2.98 — values up to $20.' Now maybe there were one or two old beat-up dogs in that lot which had once been tagged at $20, but the CLAIM was unbelievable and enough to sour this customer enough so she wrote in about it."

Women also dislike loud talk: The noisy TV commercial, the glaring print. Such over-advertising makes them suspicious.

"The soft voice reaches the American woman; the we-are-among-friends approach. Of course, they like glamor and fun and a bit of buttering-up—but not at the expense of common sense."

Miss Montgomery also decries the kind of ad that says something costs "only 25 cents a day," without mentioning how many days. Or years.

The salesman, who often hasn't an iota of the common sense possessed by the housewife, forgets that his customer isn't an empty-craniumed model or the doll of a daddy dealing in sugar . . .

She (the average bargain shopper), is a caretaker of kids and dogs, who probably worked before her marriage, and admires honesty above all values.

With a dollar, she may be itchy to spend—but she is not naive.

She proved that this year—in one of the most exciting coups for common sense.

The top fashion magazines, couturiers and copyists tried to "con" Madame U.S. into wearing the shapeless chemise. For months, they spread the glowing news that the sack was back for smart women everywhere.

Well, smart women everywhere said the devil it is. They closed their eyes and their pocketbooks to it, proving they had come of age. Proving, also, that he who underestimates a practical female will be left holding the bag.

Ryan Free on Bond in Bathtub Death

DETROIT (AP) — John F. Ryan is free on bond after two days of police questioning in the bathtub death of his wife.

The 30-year-old Taylor Township father of four was freed yesterday on $1,000 bond.

Ryan's wife, Marie, 29, was found dead in a bathtub at their home Sunday. Two empty bottles of aspirin were found by police and her death has been tentatively attributed to aspirin poisoning.

Man May Stand on Moon in Less Than 50 Years

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Man probably will be observing the universe from the vantage point of the moon in less than 50 years, the American Astronomical Society has been told.

Dr. Lawrence Aller of the University of Michigan, representing the astronomy committee of the National Academy of Sciences' Space Science Board, said yesterday a lunar observatory would free astronomers from the handicap of studying space through the earth's atmosphere.

Even on nights of what astronomers call good seeing, the air prevents scientists from gathering a great deal of valuable information about the universe. It filters out important radiations including the most significant ultraviolet rays.

Fail to Save Tiniest Baby

12-Ounce Infant Dies in Chicago 54 Hours After Birth

CHICAGO (AP)—A tiny infant born 3½ months prematurely died Tuesday, 54 hours after birth, despite efforts to sustain the thread of life of the 12-ounce baby.

Doctors at Swedish Covenant Hospital said it was a miracle that Gloria Diane Hanses, who measured 10¾ inches, had lived more than a few minutes. They listed cause of her death as immaturity.

The infant, whose head was the size of a tennis ball, died in an incubator. After the first 36 hours in the incubator, where the temperature remained at 88 degrees, she had been fed minute quantities of dextrose through a tube to her stomach.

"She was just too small," said Nils Axelson, hospital supervisor.

Had Gloria survived, she would have shared the title of the tiniest infant ever to live. American Medical Assn. records list only one child of such small proportions as having survived. She is Jacqueline Benson, now 22, of suburban Palatine.

The premature birth occurred last Sunday after Gloria's mother Mrs. Mabel Hanses, 23, fell down the stairs of her home.

Ford Foundation Gives U. of M. $140,000 Grant

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The University of Michigan will receive $140,000 from the Ford Foundation for experiments in closed-circuit television and other new methods of teaching and training teachers of English.

The Foundation announced grants totaling $600,000 to American institutions in a program aimed at expanding the teaching of English abroad. Michigan's share was the largest of any university.

Don K. Price, Foundation president, said the program would be aimed primarily at Asia and Africa.

Son's Murder Trial Resumes in Petoskey

PETOSKEY (AP) — The murder trial of Paul Achenbach in his mother's death resumed today after an overnight adjournment for a review of laws of evidence.

Achenbach, 46, is charged with first degree murder in the death of 78-year-old Mrs. Clara Achenbach.

A question over the laws of evidence arose yesterday as the state was presenting its case in the Emmett County Circuit Court of Judge Edward H. Fenlon.

One of Oldest Residents of UP Dies at 93 Years

ST. IGNACE (AP) — Jane Goudreau, 93, one of the Upper Peninsula's oldest citizens, died here yesterday.

She was the widow of Louis Goudreau, a Great Lakes sailor. She had lived here most of her life.

Early Start at Crime

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — Local police aren't very anxious for a 13-year-old here to grow up. The youngster swiped a motor scooter after a professional change of plates and fled. When arrested he was packing a loaded .22 caliber six-shooter.

Men Just Trying to Help

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Now and then through the year, my husband has several of his men friends to the house to play cards. As our apartment is small I usually go out for the evening and leave them to themselves. When I returned home the other evening I was horrified to find that my husband had served beer to his friends right in the can instead of using glasses.

"When I brought him to task for this, he said that it was perfectly proper to serve beer this way and furthermore it stayed fresher and colder than in a glass. I can't see that there is any difference between drinking out of a can and eating out of a can which certainly isn't proper. Will you please give me your opinion on this?"

Answer: Correctly your husband should have served the beer in glasses, but as the men were there alone and preferred it in cans, perhaps saying so with the thought of saving you the trouble of washing the glasses, you should not criticize your husband too severely.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When an engagement has been broken, should the girl return all the presents that were given her by her fiance's family and friends, to him to dispose of as he pleases, or does she return each individual present to its donor?"

Answer: She returns each individual present to its donor. Her ex-fiance has nothing to do with them.

Dear Abby . . .

What! Get Baby by Pulling Teeth? —Doctor Must Have Been Kidding!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: If I told you how much my husband and I wanted a baby you wouldn't believe it. We've both been going to doctors for years and they say there is absolutely nothing wrong with either one of us. "We've tried every suggestion we've heard of from friends and doctors, but so far no luck.

"My doctor says there is only one thing left for me to try and that is having all my teeth pulled. I never had any trouble with my teeth and I am only 27, but if that's causing my trouble I am willing to do it. Have you ever heard that this would help? Let me know right away as I'm waiting to hear."
WANTING A FAMILY

DEAR WANTING: I don't know what kind of doctor you are presently consulting, but I urge you NOT to have all your teeth pulled until you have seen another doctor. Ask your American Medical Association to recommend a specialist for your difficulty.

"DEAR ABBY: I like a boy from school and he is 15 and I am 14. He asked if he could see me sometime and I said sure if he would come to my house. He said he wouldn't come to my house but he would meet me any place else I said. My mother doesn't like me to meet boys she has never seen. What should I do?"
FOURTEEN

DEAR FOURTEEN: Tell him if he won't come to your house like a gentleman, you can't see him. If he doesn't come, consider yourself lucky.

"DEAR ABBY: I am 45 and have been going with this man for four months. He is 50. Is it right for a woman to tell a man friend what she wants for gifts or should they be of his own choosing? He suggested I name several things I would like and he would surprise me with one." PROPER LADY

DEAR PROPER:- Suggest a "few things" to be helpful—but be sure they are in the price range that suits his purse.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Keep Best of Old

Greet New Year as Opportunity

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

"And Ye who have met with adversity's blast, And been bow'd to earth by its fury; To whom the twelve months that have recently pass'd Were as harsh as a prejudiced jury — Still, fill to the future! and join in our chime, The regrets of remembrance to cozen. And having obtained a new lease on time, Shout in hopes of a kindlier dozen." — Hood.

It seems impossible that another year is almost gone. These 12 month chunks of life have a way of whizzing by before we have accomplished half what we intended to.

This is the time when we pause to think, to weigh the happiness and the grief, the good luck and the bad, the health and the illness, and the laughter and the tears which 1958 brought us.

However the old year may add up, it will soon be a thing of the past, and soon after you read this another year will be on our doorstep. The old year with its trouble and happiness is going.

When you gather together with friends this evening to greet the New Year, welcome it with optimism and hope. Greet it as a new opportunity for happiness and accomplishment.

Keep from 1958 only those experiences which have added richness and joy to your life. Forget the rest and concentrate now on 1959. Anything can happen during the next 12 months. Let's make it something good!

All set to ring in the New Year with a "glorious noise" of horns and bells, are the children of Mr. and Mrs. James O. Brafford. They are, left to right, Charles, James, Jean and Robert.

Only Wallets Will Be Flat

Sky's Limit on New Year's Eve!

NEW YORK (AP)—New Year's Eve at most of the nation's leading hotels and night spots will cost you about the same as last year—which, as you may recall, was plenty.

Celebrators who want dinner and entertainment will pay up to $37.50 a person — and extra for the drinks.

A survey of major cities turned up no sign that the night spots are upping prices noticeably this year, though the trend for flat prices on New Year's Eve has long been upward.

TOPS IN PRICE

Top tabs will be paid at the Empire Room of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York and Los Angeles' Cocoanut Grove.

At both places dinner, dancing, funny hats, horns and entertainment will cost about $37.50, including tax.

At the Waldorf's Empire Room that price will include listening to singer Eartha Kitt, Emil Coleman's orchestra and Gypsy violinist Bela Bebai.

Most well heeled celebrators who want to do the evening up right in major cities will be paying about $25 a person, plus up to $1.25 a drink extra.

That is the price in top spots in Miami Beach and Chicago, the plusher clubs on Los Angeles' Sunset Strip, and New York's ultra-swank Twenty-one and El Morocco.

Two big, brassy spots in New York, with elaborate floor shows and filet mignon dinners, are billing all-night customers according to where they sit. At both the Copacabana and the Latin Quarter, it will be $15, $20 or $25 per person, depending upon location.

$15 AT STORK CLUB

The Stork Club's faithful clientele will dine and dance for $15 a person, with no floor show and high-priced drinks extra.

In New Orleans the big spenders will be at the Blue Room of the Hotel Roosevelt, where dinner, champagne, dancing, favors, Jan Garber's band and Helen Traubel will cost $25 per person.

Running close is the Monteleon Room, where Olsen and Johnson's "Hellzapoppin" revue will draw crowds willing to pay $22.50 a person plus drinks.

There will be a few bargains.

At a Washington night club it will cost only $10 plus tax per person for dinner, one cocktail, souvenirs and noise makers, the Ink Spots, a chorus line, singers and dancers — and breakfast.

The Waldorf will open its grand ballroom for a public New Year's Eve party for the first time in history. In addition to supper, hats, noisemakers and the music of Les and Larry Elgart, all the ladies will get gifts of French perfume—also for only $10 a head.

The musically inclined can hear the Don Shirley Trio and pianist Lucille Howard at New York's Hickory House while enjoying a full steak dinner, all for only $8.50 a person.

Probably the best buy will be the Miami Beach Kennel Club, which opens Wednesday night offering a full-course dinner, music and favors for only $5 a person.

Most hotel and club owners decline to estimate the "plus drinks" part of the tab.

But a leading Detroit hotel man estimates that each couple spending New Year's Eve there will spend $50 for dinner, dancing, floor show, favors "and a reasonable amount of drinking."

Sauerbraten a Change From Holiday Meats

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Aren't you about ready for some meat dish that isn't ham, turkey or chicken? Sauerbraten is about as different a recipe as we can think of.

Mrs. James Lobdell of Wolverine Lake Heights got this recipe from her father who likes to cook. She teaches art and uses it as her hobby. Cats and Bridge are both interests of hers. Mr. Lobdell says, "She always has at least six projects going at once."

SAUERBRATEN
By Mrs. James Lobdell

4 pounds beef rump roast
Vinegar
Dry wine
Bay leaves
Cloves

Make a mixture of two-thirds vinegar and one-third wine. Add bay leaves and cloves. Let meat stand in this about 4 days. Keep in refrigerator or in a cool place.

Brown meat in hot fat after removing from marinade. Season with salt and pepper. Add enough marinade to keep it from sticking to pan.

Brown 4 onions sliced and 5 stalks celery in the frying pan. Add to meat. Cook about 3 hours at 350 degrees in a covered pan or roaster.

For gravy cook 5 tablespoons fat with 4 heaping tablespoons flour, stirring frequently, until it is dark brown. Add water for desired consistency. Add to liquid left in roaster. If desired, add 1 cup sour cream and heat but do not boil.

24 Attend VFW Yule Dinner Party

VFW 1008 Auxiliary and Post held a Christmas party Monday evening at the post rooms. A cooperative dinner was served to the 24 guests and members present.

Community singing was led by Mrs. Archie Tryon and Mrs. James Dando.

Household Hint

To keep omelets from collapsing, try adding a pinch of powdered sugar and one of cornstarch to the egg yolks before beating.

Renna Ann Goschke Wed to James Wesley Pratt

Christ Lutheran Church was the scene of the Saturday evening wedding of Renna Ann Goschke and James Wesley Pratt.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Leslie H. Goschke of Cooley Lake road and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pratt of Birmingham.

The bride wore a white floor-length silk organza gown with Italian lace inserts accenting the bodice front, and a chapel-length train. Her French illusion fingertip veil was held by a tiara and she carried a chapel bouquet of white roses, feathered carnations and stephanotis.

Mrs. Charles Tice of Detroit was matron of honor and Mrs. Carolyn Murphy, the bride's sister, was bridesmaid. Their dresses were taffeta sheaths with nylon tulle overskirts. The matron of honor's was of Kelly green and the bridesmaid's was of pale green.

Best man was Henry Zdonek, and Leslie Goschke II, the bride's brother, was usher.

A reception was held in the church parlors. Before the couple left for a honeymoon through Michigan, the bride changed to a blue wool suit with beige accessories.

The bride is attending Henry Ford Hospital School of Nursing. The bridegroom is a graduate of Michigan State University, now stationed with the U.S. Army at Fort Knox, Ky.

Mrs. Goschke wore a blue satin dress for her daughter's wedding and Mrs. Pratt was dressed in a blue chiffon dress. Both had pink rose and feathered carnation corsages.

Must Take Chances to Enter Social Life

By RUTH MILLETT

"I could get Janet a date," a pretty little teenager said of a not-so-pretty friend, "but Janet wouldn't go with any boy who would go with her.

"What she doesn't realize is that the cute boys she would like to date aren't any more interested in dating her than she is in dating the boys she turns up her nose at."

That is about as good an explanation as any I've ever heard of why some people are always lonely.

The homely girl isn't interested in having a date with a boy who seems no more of a prize than she does. The shy boy isn't interested in dating a shy girl. The newcomer who feels like an outsider doesn't want to be friends with other newcomers. He wants to be a part of an established group.

These lonely people don't realize that another unattractive, or shy, or sideline sitting person might be just as nice as they are.

They aren't willing to take a chance, to make do with what they regard as second rate — even though they know they haven't yet impressed others with their own worth.

And so they settle for loneliness, for staying at home, for being on the outside looking in, when they could join the fun by taking a chance on someone everyone else has overlooked."

But how do you teach young people that? Or teach that to lonely people of any age?

How do you get them to see that they are foolish to turn up their noses at those they could be friends with?

Erskine Caldwell Novel Bought by Jack Warner

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD — The New Year is starting very well for Jack L. Warner, health-wise, and he's working every day from home. He's just bought Erskine Caldwell's new novel, "Claudelle English," from the galley proof.

It soon will be brought out by Little Brown and Company, and since Erskine Caldwell wrote "God's Little Acre" and "Tobacco Road" you can guess this will be another best seller. Horton Foote arrives here Jan. 7 to write the script.

Now about a star. Well, I can tell you that it looks very much as if it will be Natalie Wood. No one came right out and said so, but I happen to know that now that Clint Walker and Warners have kissed and made up, it won't be long before Natalie is again drawing the pay which she hasn't for so many months.

Checked with Martin Manulis to see if it is true that his first TV show for 20th Century-Fox will star Esther Williams. He seemed to be amazed that I knew about it, and said it is perfectly true, that he is making a pilot film with Esther and his plan is for her to be starred one week and to introduce the guest stars the following week.

Said Martin, "The stories that Esther will do will be based on her fabulous career and things that have happened to her. The others will have nothing to do with Esther beyond the fact that she will be hostess of the show.

"I think we have a pretty good idea and we are going to have an important star every other week with Esther as the only regular."

When Mabel Norman starred in "Molly O" in the early 20's, it was one of the big money makers of the period. Mabel was, if you'll pardon the word, adorable, and at her height. Few, if any, comedienes could ever touch her in talent and timing.

Now I'm told that Leo McCarey has a date to meet with Mack Sennett after the new year to discuss the rights to "Molly O," with McCarey turning it into a musical.

Mack has confirmed that he has a date with McCarey and says he has a collaborator working arrangement with him to bring the story up to date. It's now called "Molly O'Farrell." Mack renewed his copyright on the story in 1948, so it's really all his property.

Romantic Documentary Deals With Early Days in America

'Summer Thunder' By Willie Snow Ethridge

Savannah is a beautiful city!

But if the average visitor knows the story of the hardship endured by the settlers in the year 1733, he will look about him with much greater interest.

In her latest book, Willie Snow Ethridge tells in her very original way the tale of one young couple, Heather and Bart in particular; their turbulent romance, their separations, their passionate reunions, and their final emotional triumph.

This period of life in America was dominated by an Englishman, Gen. Oglethorpe, who governed the early settlers by a more-than-firm hand; liked by some and despaired of by others.

The reader will enjoy Mrs. Ethridge's absorbing treatment of the land conflict between the Spanish to the south in the Florida area, and the English in the north.

This documentary book deals with one of the least known episodes in our American history and is skillfully written.

The author lives in Louisville, Ky., and is the wife of Mark Ethridge, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Wolverines Take Motor City Title

U. of M. Quintet Defeats Titans 93-68 in Finale

Michigan Gives U. of D. Some 'Red-Hot' Pointers in Shooting

University of Michigan's basketball team gave U. of D. some of its own "red-hot" medicine last night to win the 7th annual Motor City championship,

The Wolverines, led by season-long bench warmer Lovell Farris and ex-Highland Park ace George Lee, hit on 53 per cent of their shots to whip the Titans, 93-68, before nearly 8,200 fans.

The night before, in the opening round, it was U. of D. which had the sizzling shooting eye in beating Army, while Michigan was beating Princeton with only fair accuracy.

Last night, however, the Titans were missing their outside shots and four Wolverines were hitting high in double figures.

Princeton and Army also did an about-face last night. The Ivy Leaguers had an inept 27 per cent against Michigan Monday, but looked like a different ball club in whipping the Cadets, 84-73, last night.

Farris, who went into the starting lineup at center in place of Gordon Rogers for the first time Monday, was actually the big factor in Michigan's championship.

The 6-3 junior from Cleveland pulled down 16 rebounds and chipped in with 19 points and had a two-game total of 31 points and 28 rebounds.

"This was quite a job for a guy who had played only a few minutes before getting into this tournament," said Michigan coach Bill Perige.

Michigan had near-flawless form in rebounding and shooting in the first half. The Wolverines took a 11-point lead midway in the first half and breezed to a 54-37 count at intermission.

The Titans lost their chance to cut the Michigan lead with the score showing 40-32 at the 5:40 mark. Two easy layups were missed and three consecutive times U. of D. gave up the ball on floor violations.

Farris hit on a push shot at 3:24 and from there Michigan continued to pad its margin.

Sophomore John Tidwell was the top pointmaker with 22, while Lee collected 20 and M. C. Burton tied Farris with 19.

Jim Brangan was Princeton's top scorer in surprising Army with 32 points.

The "outstanding player" award went to Lee, who paced the big first half attack for the Wolverines. He scored 10 field goals in 18 attempts.

Along with Lee on the all-tournament team were Burton, Farris, Ray Alboe of Detroit and Darryl Kouns of Army.

Brangan, Tidwell, John Belohlavek of Detroit, Jim Klosek of Army and Carl Belz of Princeton made up the second team.

The tourney drew a total of 15,305 fans, which was 3,223 better than the previous crowd mark in 1954.

N. Carolina, Cincy Fives Bite the Dust

Spartans in Dixie Title Test

By The Associated Press

Mighty Cincinnati and North Carolina have bitten the dust.

It happened last night when top-ranking Kentucky and powerful Kansas State barely escaped with one-point victories. If those two had fallen, it would have been a night of disaster for the four leading teams in college basketball.

Cincinnati, No. 2 behind Kentucky, was racked up 69-60, by fifth-ranked, once - beaten North Carolina State in the semifinals of the Dixie Classic at Raleigh, N.C.

Then unbeaten Michigan State, the No. 7 team, upset fourth-ranked, undefeated North Carolina, 75-58, in the other semifinal.

Michigan State and N.C. State will battle for the title tonight.

A wildly cheering home crowd of 12,400 saw N.C. State jump into a quick lead and hold it to upset Cincy and All-America Oscar Robertson, who scored 29 points. Big John Richter of Philadelphia scored 26 points for the victors and was tremendous at the boards.

Unbeaten Kentucky had to weather a scoring spree by surprisingly tough Illinois in the last four minutes to scrape past the Illini, 76-75. A Louisville crowd of 18,274—largest ever to see a basketball game in the south—saw Sid Cohen score 23 points to pace the Wildcats to their tenth victory.

Big Bob Boozer racked up 32 points including the vital ones in leading third - ranking Kansas State to a come-from-behind, 67-66 victory over fired-up Colorado. The win gave the Wildcats the Big Eight Tournament championship at Kansas City.

Mississippi State's unbeaten, eighth - ranked quintet, trounced Memphis State's defending champions, 73-55, in the finals of the Sugar Bowl championship at New Orleans. Bailey Howell was the big man for the Maroons with 28 points.

Other tournament champions crowned last night included Ohio University; Miami of Ohio; Providence; Michigan, Penn State, Louisiana State, and Furman.

Ohio whipped Utah State 80-72 in the All-American City tourney at Owensboro, Ky.; Miami (O.) edged Miami of Fla., 89-87 in overtime in the "Battle of the Miamis" in the Hurricane tourney at Miami Beach; Providence won its own invitational meet by downing Boston College 67-60; Michigan racked up Detroit, 93-68, for the Motor City title at Detroit; Penn State beat Richmond 61-54 in the Richmond Invitational; LSU battered Mississippi 69 - 55 in the Gator Bowl final at Jacksonville; and Furman topped Southwestern Louisiana, 80-74 in the windup of the Watauga Invitational at Johnson City, Tenn.

In addition to the Dixie Classic several other tournaments will be decided tonight.

Unbeaten St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., and Fordham will clash for the Carrousel Classic title at Charlotte, N.C. St. Francis rallied to whip Davidson, 61-43, and Fordham beat George Washington in overtime, 70-67.

Virginia Tech and Louisiana Tech will have it out in Shreveport, La., for Gulf South Classic tournament honors. The Virginians staved off a Centenary surge to win, 67-64. Louisiana Tech also had to fight off a last half rally in subduing Northwestern (La.) State, 79-74.

REUNION — Army's Pete Dawkins, the pride of Royal Oak, yesterday was reunited with the doctor who pulled him through a siege of polio prior to his prep days at Cranbrook School. Dr. Ethel T. Calhoun, medical superintendent of the Kenny Rehabilitation Center in Ferndale, visits with her illustrious ex-patient in the physical therapy ward of the center at Woodward and Troy. Dawkins, All-America halfback at West Point this year in addition to receiving a Rhodes scholarship and winning the Heisman and Maxwell awards, called on his doctor during a visit home for the holidays.

But He'll Try a Bit of Rugby First

It's Infantry for Pete Dawkins

By BILL CORNWELL

It's the infantry for Pete Dawkins, Army's All-America halfback and the pride of Royal Oak.

Dawkins, home for the holidays, announced his decision to stick with the ground forces during yesterday's visit to the Kenny Rehabilitation Center at Woodward and Troy in Ferndale.

The occasion was really sort of a reunion between Pete and Dr. Ethel T. Calhoun, the polio therapist who brought the 20-year-old Cadet through a four-year siege of the paralytic disease before his prep days at Cranbrook.

Dawkins and Dr. Calhoun enjoyed no privacy, however, as writers and photographers badgered Pete with questions about future plans and kept shooting pictures of the reunited pair.

It was either the Air Force or the infantry for Pete and he decided to cast his lot with the foot soldiers.

"I enjoy working with people," Dawkins said, "and you have a much better opportunity to work with men in the infantry than is possible in the Air Force."

The winner of the Heisman and Maxwell awards as college football's player of the year in 1958 has other plans at the moment, though. He also has been granted a Rhodes scholarship and will pursue his education abroad.

Pete will be commissioned a Second Lieutenant upon his graduation from West Point next June, then he will receive a three-year reprieve from the Army while he studies at famous Oxford University. His career with the infantry will wait until he has bid Oxford goodby.

Rugby now offers a challenge to Dawkins, who hopes to take a whirl at the rough English sport in his spare time.

"I understand rugby is one of those tough hard-nosed sports where you play in short pants and knock each other around," Dawkins quipped. "It sounds like a real interesting affair."

So far Dawkins has mastered everything else he has undertaken. He'll no doubt succeed at rugby, too. He leaves for England in September and school at Oxford begins in October.

Dawkins replied "no comment" when asked which award he liked best, the Heisman trophy or the Rhodes scholarship. "They're both wonderful awards, but they're not the same type of thing at all," he remarked.

Dawkins plays defense on Army's strong hockey team and he is due back at West Point on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock for a practice session.

Pete's decision to choose the infantry is not surprising. The amazingly poised young man has had both feet planted firmly on the ground from the beginning.

'Rose Fever' Is High

100,000 Fans to See Iowa Against Cal

Game Interest Keen for Annual New Year Grid Battle

PASADENA, Calif. (UP) — Rose Bowl fever settled over this part of the country today and all signs point to a crowd of 100,000 or more for the Iowa-California game tomorrow.

Interest is always high for this postseason affair, the granddaddy of all the bowl battles. But enthusiasm seems greater this time than in the past few years.

This is possibly because California is not only jammed with Californians but Iowans as well. That includes the permanently transplanted folks from Iowa and an estimated 10,000 who journeyed here from the land of the cold and corn to bask in the sun and root for their beloved Hawkeye football team.

The game itself shapes up as a runaway for the Big Ten champions. Iowa was beaten only by Ohio State and tied by unbeaten Air Force, and possesses an exciting, high-scoring attack. But, as in all bowl games there is always the chance for an upset.

The Golden Bears pulled something of an upset in capturing the Pacific Coast Conference championship. Last year the Bears could win only one game under their new coach, Pete Elliott, a one-time Michigan star.

Things looked bleak when the Bears opened this fall with losses to college of the Pacific and Michigan State.

Suddenly the squad jelled under Elliott's guidance and the Bears boomed on to win all but one of their remaining eight games.

The Hawks were picked no better than fourth in the Big Ten last autumn. But coach Forest Evashevski's whiz-bang wing-T offense, operated by All-America quarterback Randy Duncan, went on to confound the pre-season guessers.

Trotters Take Giants in Prelim

Pistons Lose, 93-90

NEW YORK (UPI) — Richie Guerin and Kenny Sears led the New York Knickerbockers to a 93-90 victory over the Detroit Pistons last night after the Harlem Globetrotters went through their usual routine against a makeshift team composed of New York Giant football players.

Guerin and Sears, who scored 24 points each, time and again netted key field goals to keep New York in front through most of the game.

After jumping off to a 13-4 lead, the Knicks took a 46-40 edge into the third quarter before straight baskets by George Yardley, Gene Shue, and Phil Jordan put Detroit ahead for the first time, 50-49.

The game see-sawed for the rest of the quarter until Ron Sobie helped Guerin and Sears open daylight, allowing New York to go into the final period with a 73-66 margin.

Detroit did manage to close in a couple of times in the waning moments but each time it did Guerin was around to open the gap.

Wilt Chamberlain poured the points and Meadowlark Lemon supplied the comedy in the preliminary, while the Globetrotters clowned their way to a 68-45 exhibition victory.

Jim Katcavage and Bob Mischak, who took turns at trying to contain Chamberlain, were no match for the seven-foot former Kansas U. center. Chamberlain paced the Trotters to a 41-23 halftime lead and netted 23 points in all.

Among the other Giants who appeared in the exhibition were Kyle Rote, Ken MacAfee, Alex Webster, Andy Robustelli and Ed Hughes.

Southfield Repeats as Champ

Holly Captures Cage Title

Leroy Decker's Holly basketball team and Southfield's racehorse squad wrapped up holiday basketball championships Tuesday night.

With 6-foot-6 George McDaniel leading the way on 26 points, Holly won the Fenton Invitational tournament with a 67-45 rout of host Fenton.

Southfield, sparked by the 18-point firing of Tom Ridley, captured the Northwest Suburban tourney title for the 2nd straight year with a 56-49 victory over Redford Union on the Southfield court.

The Jays won the crown last year at Farmington by upsetting Livonia Bentley in the final game. This year, with themselves as hosts, they stunned Bentley in the semifinals before toppling Redford last night.

Union was even with Southfield at 32-32 entering the 4th quarter, then the Jays pulled away. Two other Southfield players hit double figures, Cliff Solberg bagging 13 points and Bob Filar 10.

Holly took adequate revenge for regular season defeats at the hands of Brighton and Fenton high cage squads on its way to the Fenton tourney title last night.

In the tourney windup the Broncos grabbed an early lead on McDaniel's opening bucket and never allowed Fenton to come closer than nine points.

Fenton licked Holly by a 4-point edge earlier this season. Broncos turned back Brighton (66-54) in the semifinal after defeating Flint Bendle in the opener (89-70).

So Says Florida Mentor

Grid Coaches May Vote for Return of Platoons

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Coach Bob Woodruff of Florida predicted today that the American Football Coaches Assn. would vote overwhelmingly next week to return to unlimited substitutions.

"But whether the rules committee will accept the idea is another question," said Woodruff, who is here for the Sugar Bowl game.

The rules committee, which meets after the coaches convene in Cincinnati Jan. 6-8, has been known to come up with some surprises, such as last year's radical change in the point after touchdown rule.

"The rules committee only asks what is best for college football, and doesn't try to copy the pros," said Woodruff.

The "sudden death" rule under which the Baltimore Colts defeated the New York Giants for the professional championship has come in for much discussion here among coaches.

"However, it wasn't proposed in the questionnaire sent out by Lou Little preparatory to the rules committee meeting, but of course the coaches can bring it up from the floor at their meeting," Woodruff declared.

Woodruff said he would not be opposed to a "sudden death" rule to break ties providing it would solve the problem.

In Woodruff's opinion, professional football has done a terrific selling job, and built up a wide national following through its television program.

"I think the colleges have got a good game, too, but we have got to get out and sell it, or go to unlimited substitutions," he declared.

College football as now played with limited substitutions has become a conservative, low-scoring game in the main. Pro football is full of high-scoring razzle dazzle with unlimited substitutions and specialists for every kind of assignment.

Huron Bowlers in Chicago Action This Weekend

Members of Joe Bonfiglio's Huron Bowl team hit the tournament trail again this weekend. Chicago is the scene of three nationally known five man events all taking place in a two day span. They are the Laredo Lanes Holiday Classic, the Ray Schalk Classic, and the Dom DeVito Classic.

The Huron five is entered in the first two, along with many of the nation's finest teams, seen recently in Detroit at the national Bowling Proprietors of America tourney.

Each member of the team will also participate in the Jerry Skovie Singles Classic on Saturday afternoon. This is a tournament of many years standing, and bowlers from all over the nation compete for the prize money offered.

Happy Holiday in Huron Loop

Three 700 Series Top Big Overall Showing in Classic

Holiday festivities apparently were no deterrent to bowlers in the Huron Bowl Classic. Three 700 series and a pair of 3,200 team totals topped the action, while two others reached the magic 700 figure.

Bill Bull's 258, 228, 257 — 743 was the league's highest total for the night, but he was closely followed by teammate Joe Foster with 228, 257, 235 — 720. Calbi now trails Humphries Real Estate by only a game and a half.

Monroe Moore fired a 247, 268, 204 — 719 series to lead West Side Mobil's 3,208 effort, which was good for a three point win over Hazelton Lettering. Les Rothbarth put together 239, 224, 234 — 697 for the Mobilmen.

Humphries Real Estate took three from Braumeister as they topped 3,000 for the fourteenth time in seventeen weeks of bowling.

Davis Cup Returns to America

U.S. Regains Coveted Award Behind Olmedo

Aussies Yield Famous Net Trophy for First Time Since 1954

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Alex Olmedo, a modern, racket-swinging miracle from far-off Peru, recaptured the Davis Cup for the United States today and in the process shattered Ashley Cooper's world amateur tennis throne.

In a fantastic exhibition of poise and court craftsmanship, the 22-year-old National Collegiate champion from Southern California, smashed the Australian, Wimbledon and U.S. champion, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, 8-6, to send the coveted Cup back to America for the first time since 1954.

The final count of the challenge round was 3-2. Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, was beaten by Mal Anderson in the final singles, 7-5, 13-11, 11-9. This was an anti-climax, for Olmedo, practically an unknown here, had clinched it when he whipped Cooper.

It was Alex who sent the U.S. hopes soaring when he gave them the first point with a victory over Anderson, then teamed with Ham Richardson to send the Americans ahead again in the doubles with a victory over Anderson and Neale Fraser after the Aussies had tied it when Cooper licked MacKay.

Finally, it was this young son of Peru—the first foreigner ever to represent the U.S. in Davis Cup competition — who squashed the world's greatest and brought the Cup back to Peru's friendly neighbor.

Actually, Alex hasn't been in Peru in five years and that long residence in the U.S. qualified him for the American team.

After winning the final game at love, Olmedo rushed into the arms of 70-year-old Perry Jones, the U.S. captain, who has been his benefactor and tutor since he arrived in the U.S. It was the wily Jones who insisted that Olmedo be made a member of the team over the objections of some members of the Cup committee who thought it might look bad for a foreigner to play for the U.S.

It was a staggering blow for the Aussies and their slick captain, Harry Hopman, who had been overwhelmingly favored to retain the trophy they won seven of the past eight years. This was the greatest upset in the history of Davis Cup competition.

And there is no doubt about it—the show was all Olmedo's. This youngster was a virtual unknown on the U.S. circuit until he made a favorable impression last summer.

Perhaps the most amazing part of the match was that the seasoned Cooper—who along with Anderson is ready to sign a professional contract with Jack Kramer—who became unnerved. Until he joined the U.S. team, Olmedo never ever had seen a Davis Cup match.

300,000 on Grid Fronts Tomorrow

By United Press International

More than 300,000 fans on five different football fronts will take themselves out to the old "bowl" game tomorrow despite a pointed warning from odds-makers that most of the contests should wind up in one-sided fashion.

Top-ranked Louisiana State, which was the only major unbeaten team in the country with a 10-0 slate, is a top-heavy 15-point favorite over Clemson in the Sugar Bowl tussle at New Orleans, where a crowd of 80,000 is anticipated.

Louisiana's tricky winged "T" attack is headed by Billy Cannon, the UPI's "player of the year," John Robinson and quarterback Warren Rabb. Clemson, which uses an unbalanced "T" formation and compiled an 8-2 record this season, relies heaviest on Harvey White for its ground gaining. The game will be carried on NBC-TV and radio, beginning at 1:45 p.m. (EST).

The men who make the odds claim the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla., should be one-sided too, with Oklahoma (9-1) a 13-point choice over Syracuse (8-1).

Oklahoma coach Bud Wilkinson named virtually the same starting team as he did all season. The only exception was sophomore Bob Cornell, who will start at quarterback in place of David Baker, dropped for failure to meet academic standards. CBS will carry the game on TV and radio at 1:45 p.m. (EST).

Texas Christian and the U. S. Air Force Academy were expected to participate in the closest game of the day at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas, Tex. Texas Christian (8-2) is "only" an eight-point favorite over the Air Force (9-0-1) although a recent snow could make the field soggy and throw the quoted odds out a kilter.

A crowd of 75,000 can look for a duel between speedy Jack Spikes of TCU and hard-charging Steve Galios of the Air Force. Those who can't make it to Dallas tomorrow can catch the game on CBS-TV or radio at approximately 3:30 p.m. (EST).

Prairie View A&M meets Langston (Okla.) in the Prairie View Bowl at Houston, Tex. Prairie View A&M (7-2) is the choice over Langston (4-3) in a game that probably will attract 6,000 fans.

'Swan Song' of Inmates

JACKSON (AP)—The Spectator, a newspaper published by inmates of Southern Michigan Prison, carried in its current edition this tribute to the prison football team from "Red, the poet":

"There is chill in the air,
The leaves are all gone.
A fair to middlin' season
Is just our swan song.

But, alas, there is some cheer
And not without good reason
The players that leave now
Will be back for next season."

MSU Ice Team Takes Honors

BOSTON (AP) — Mchigan State today placed five players on the all star team of the sixth Boston arena Christmas Invitational Hockey Tournament.

Boston University center Bob Marquis earned a berth to prevent the powerful Spartans from sweeping all six positions in the voting of college hockey writers.

The Michigan State players named were goalie Joe Selinger, defensemen Ed Pollesol and Bob Norman and Wings Fred DeVuono and Joe Poland. All were standouts as MSU swept to the tournament championship.

THE SECOND TEAM:

Goal—Jim Logue, Boston College; defense—Tom Martin, Boston College, and Bob Armstrong, Michigan State; center—Larry Creighton, Boston University; Wings—Art Chisholm, Northeastern, and a tie between Ron Walsh, Boston College, and Billy McCormack, Boston University.

Managers Vote to Name Valdes 'Heavy' Champ

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Bobby Gleason, who recently proclaimed his Cuban tiger Nino Valdes as "professional heavyweight champion of the world," today had some support.

The New York Boxing Managers Assn., of which Gleason is a member, voted last night to recognize the big Cuban as world champion. George Sheppard, president of the NYBMA, said some 70 members voted unanimously to strip Floyd Patterson of the heavyweight crown and to hand it to "Bobby and Nino."

Gleason attended the meeting. The backing was good for Gleason's morale, if nothing else.

Detroit—Charley Maxwell of the Tigers ran through a string of 193 games without an error at his outfielder post.

Will Coach Young Catchers

Campy Rejoining Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Roy Campanella will rejoin the Los Angeles Dodgers in spring training as a coach.

The Dodger front office announced Tuesday that Campanella, partially paralyzed in an auto accident, will tutor youngsters trying to make the baseball club as catchers at Vero Beach, Fla.

After spring training, Campy will have official status with the club as assistant supervisor of scouting in the East, Vice President Buzzie Bavasi announced.

Although confined to a wheelchair, the great ex-catcher has been active with his radio program. He is now strong enough to take on more active duties that will assist in his recuperative program.

Campanella's 10-year major league career eneded last Jan. 28 when his car skidded and overturned while he was driving to his Long Island home from New York City.

"Campy's going to be a big help to us at Vero Beach," Bavasi said. "His vast knowledge of catching technique and his knowledge of batters' weaknesses in the National League will certainly come in handy."

Then, too, Campanella's return will give a great spiritual boost to the Dodgers, Bavasi said.

Faces Big Cut in Game Funds

State Fights to Save $300,000

LANSING (UPI) — The Michigan Conservation Department is battling to prevent a possible loss of $300,000 a year for game research, purchase of hunting lands and for habitat improvement.

This may sound like only words to the average hunter but if the decrease comes about with the state's already troubled money situation, it could mean harm for hunting. The trouble all started because the attorney general of Idaho asked a question in September of 1956.

The answer to his question was from George W. Abbott, solicitor for the U.S. Department of the Interior. He said that Pittman-Robertson funds should be allocated to states on the basis of license holders or individuals.

Michigan argues the allocations should be made and have been made, on the number of licenses sold for deer, small game and for bow and arrow hunting. Because some people purchase two or sometimes even all three types of licenses, counting individuals only would mean a cut of about a third in the number on which allocation is partly based.

Both Gaylord Walker, assistant deputy director of conservation and Nicholas V. Olds, assistant attorney general in charge of conservation, estimate the difference in counting methods could cost Michigan $250,000 to $300,000 a year.

Walker said Michigan has received as much as a million dollars since funds were first available about 17 years ago and this year got about $800,000 from the Pittman-Robertson fund.

Allocation is made to various states with the federal government contributing three dollars to each one put up by the states.

Olds said the issue boils down to the basic conservation practices of a state and the license structure. To count holders instead of licenses would be "unjust and inequitable" to Michigan, he said, and "reverse a long-established policy" by the department of the interior.

"We say it is the responsibility of each state to determine for itself what licensing structure best serves its conservation and economic requirements," Olds said.

He said Michigan was certified from the beginning of the program on the basis of licenses sold, not individual holders.

Olds contends Michigan laws back the department's position.

CLEANUP JOB — Most people would shy away from scrubbing an alligator's back, even if it is only seven months old. But 2-year-old Loraine Sidey of Kingsbury, England, wields a toothbrush to wash Ally's back. Ally lives a luxurious life in a heated aquarium of his own. This sort of thing is not recommended, however, as even young 'gators have many, and sharp, teeth.

Millar, Daoust Side With Mining Company

Elmer Bucks 'Invasion' of Porcupines

LANSING (UPI) — Two top state conservation officials have formally come out in favor of copper mining in Porcupine Mountains State park.

A third sided with conservation director Gerald E. Eddy in advising the State Conservation Commission to reject an application by Bear Creek Mining Co. to explore for copper in the 58,000-acre Upper Peninsula park.

The commission is slated to announce a decision at its Jan. 9 meeting here, climaxing one of the hottest conservation issues in state history.

In memorandums to the commission, Charles E. Millar, chief of the geological survey division, sided with the mining firm provided the lease contains certain restrictions.

They recommended a ban against road building in the park during initial phases of exploration and disposal of waste rock "in such a manner as not to destroy surface and esthetic values insofar as practicable."

They also called for:

1. A ban against construction of a mining settlement, smelter, power plant or refinery in the park.
2. Disposal of tailings outside the park.
3. Restrictions on erection of railroads, power and telephone lines, pipe lines and similar facilities.

"Some groups have expressed concern at the possibility of establishing a precedent that might have a long range damaging effect on future similar situations," Daoust said. "It should also be appreciaetd that denial of the right to explore for minerals could have an injurious effect on future exploration in areas where less ultimate opposition might arise and where no resource values could be endangered."

"Definitely and unalterably" opposing the lease was Arthur C. Elmer, chief of the department's parks division.

"History, scenery and the natural resources in timber and water are the resources and natural features which qualify lands as state parks and it is our responsibility to protect them," he said.

Eddy earlier this month declared his opposition to the mining proposal, backing conservation groups who protested that the exploration lease would despoil the state's last big wilderness area and pave the way for exploitation of public lands.

Upper Peninsula business and civic leaders spearhead the backers of the plan, citing it as a partial solution to economic troubles in the Western U.P.

'Metro' Parks Report Big Gain in Attendance

Top winter sports conditions since late November have sent attendance totals zooming in Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority parks.

When final figures for the year are in, Metropolitan Beach on Lake St. Clair expects to near the million and one-half mark, a quarter million over last year; Kensington Metropark near New Hudson anticipates 1,670,000 and 415,000 vehicles — an all-time high for vehicular traffic; and Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville expects at least 1,010,000, nearly trebling attendance of any previous year.

Since Dec. 6, nearly 15,000 skaters have used Lower Huron's three lighted rinks, skating to music.

Fish shanties are mushrooming on Kent Lake at Kensington Park and on the Black River and Lake St. Clair at Metropolitan Beach.

Kensington had 50 shanties and upward of a thousand fishermen on December 28. In spite of the recent thaw, the skating area and toboggan and ski slopes continue in use.

Biggest fishing day of the winter for Metropolitan Beach will be on Jan. 24, when the 7th annual perch derby takes place, from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m.

11-Pounder Rewards Ice-Angler's Vigil

An hour's vigil beside his tip-up rig on Cemetery Lake, near his home in Clarkston had its reward for fisherman Paul Etter, in a recent weekend at his favorite winter sport.

Paul took just one fish. But that one turned out to be the biggest Etter has ever hauled through the ice. It was a fine northern pike that tipped the scales at 11 pounds, and stretched 35 inches from snout to tail tip.

Etter also spent an afternoon, recently at Crooked Lake, landed some 8-9 inch bluegills but with other fishermen, was asked to leave. "Signs barring fishing on the lake were put up at that time by the Glen Acres Hunt Club which claims to own the lake," Etter reported.

The 'gills were hitting wigglers and metal lures in about 14 feet of water, Etter said.

Skier Honeymoons at Bride's Bedside

TRAVERSE CITY (UPI) — Joe B. Erickson, former Olympic skier, is spending his honeymoon at the bedside of his bride who broke a leg while skiing.

Erickson, 33, Beloit, Wis., and Ruth A. Gerring, 24, Glencoe, Ill., were wed Dec. 20 and decided to spend their honeymoon in this ski resort area.

The bride suffered a broken leg in a weekend skiing accident.

Erickson was a member of the 1948 Czechoslovakia Olympic ski team and suffered a broken leg himself two years ago while in training as a member of the U.S. Olympic ski team.

His bride is a native of Switzerland and has been a skier since she was eight years old.

Ski Attendance Hits High Mark

CADILLAC (UPI)—Skiers came to Caberfae Ski Area in record numbers this month, shattering all previous December attendance marks, Caberfae officials said today.

So far, more than 10,200 ski tow tickets have been issued this month compared to the previous high of 8,239 in December 1956. Caberfae is now in its 21st year of operation.

Vacationing and Touring U. S. 3rd Major Industry

Vacationing and tourism comprise the nation's third major industry, based on business generated. Fishing and hunting alone were enjoyed by 25 million Americans in 1955, who spent nearly $3 billion for their recreation.

Unspoiled natural scenery, quiet forests, cool lakes, and rippling streams all have their separate attractions. Millions of Americans enjoy the out-of-doors, and such uses are not consumptive. No resources are destroyed; yet these participation sports generate business which adds billions annually to the national economy.

Productive forests, clean water, attractive scenery—all are impossible without proper management. Only by receiving adequate appropriations can the Federal agencies properly discharge their legal responsibilities. Natural resources management is a recognized science, and the money that it takes to conduct essential programs constitutes an important investment in both the present and the future.

Moose Valued Most

CHAPLEAU, Ont. (UPI)—A hunter from the United States, after being warned by a game warden that the roof of his car might be damaged by placing a bull moose on top, replied:

"That's all right. There are lots of new cars in the states, but moose are hard to come by."

Little Stories About Outdoors

While the avid angler never quite gives up his regular sport even during the bitterest of winters, the cold weather period affords more opportunity to make needed checkups. Ice fishing, with its simplified and usually not too extensive equipment, doesn't require the attention warm weather gear needs. So there is time for other work along piscatorial lines, like going over that outboard motor that may have been chucked into a corner of the garage; getting out the fishing gear tossed into a dark closet.

Now is the time to give some attention to equipment, and save a few dollars, time and frustration come another fishing season, and it isn't too far off, at that.

Generous use of soap and hot water for cleaning, oil for lubricating reels and wiping metal parts of rods and other equipment which might rust are proper materials to have at hand. Windings on rods (glass, as well as bamboo) should be checked for signs of wear. Worn or frayed silk call for an evening's job. Clean lures, repaint battered ones, replace rusty hooks, and sharpen dulled points.

There are a lot of good jobs for those cold evenings, and one more of them is care of fishing clothes, waders, boots, jackets, all of which should be cleaned, repaired and stored carefully.

1958 Sees Emphasis on New Age

U.S. 'Space Conscious'

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — A quick glance back through 1958 shows vividly how, in a year's time, the nation and the government became terribly conscious of outer space and the need to conquer it.

There had been years of work on rocket and outer space projects. But then suddenly in the fall of 1957 the Russians shot their Sputniks aloft. It was both a shock and a baptism in humiliation for the United States.

Instantly there was this broad public reaction: "How did it happen and what can we do?" Out of this dismay there has sprung in a year's time a whole new batch of agencies, councils and committees concerned with the space age.

As a starter President Eisenhower on Nov. 7, 1957, created a new job—special assistant to the President for science and technology — and picked for it Dr. James R. Killian Jr., president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

His tasks were many, among them helping to eliminate interservice rivalry in the missile and related fields, and mobilizing scientific talent for the nation's scientific defense program.

He is technical adviser to the President and to Eisenhower's National Security Council—a kind of second Cabinet concerned with defense — and is chairman of the President's Science Advisory Committee, a group of scientists.

Only last wek, after a 10-month study, this committee recommended to Eisenhower creation of a federal council for science and technology to promote closer cooperation among federal agencies in planning their development and research programs. The group suggested also Killian be named head of the council. Eisenhower approved.

But in between the appointment of Killian in the fall of 1957 and the recommendation of the advisory committee last week these were some of the other things that happened:

In July the House and Senate both voted to create new standing committees on space and science. The House committee has 25 members, the Senate 15.

This action was taken just a few days after both houses approved creation of a brand new government agency: NASA — the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Its purpose: to supervise civilian space-age efforts.

The Defense Department will continue to control space activities connected with national defense. The President will settle any dispute between NASA and the Defense Department.

Eisenhower appointed T. Keith Glennan as head of NASA. Actually, the agency is under Eisenhower's direct control, with the advice of an eight-member council. On this council, besides Eisenhower and Glennan, are the secretaries of state and defense, the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, a federal official who could be a military or nonmilitary man, and three outside members appointed by the President.

In addition, the Defense Department set up the new Office of Director of Research and Engineering, under Dr. Herbert York, a physicist, and an Advanced Research Projects Agency under Roy Johnson. ARPA's job is with space flight for the military.

The State Department, finally realizing that its handling of foreign affairs in this age can't be divorced from scientific development, got itself a science adviser, Dr. Wallace R. Brode, and recently assigned seven scientists as attaches in American embassies overseas.

World Bank Wants Cash

U.S. May Have to Hike Quota by Four Billions Under Latest Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The World Bank and the International Monetary Fund want multibillion-dollar increases in their financial resources.

Quotas of the United States would be boosted almost four billion dollars under the plan recommended to the 68 member nations Monday by governors of the two lending institutions.

The United States governor of the World Bank, Secretary of the Treasury Anderson, proposed the increases last October.

The plan would increase the bank's authorized capital from 10 billion dollars to 21 billion. The new money would be pledged by member countries, not put up in cash.

A 50 per cent increase in the monetary fund's $9,193,000,000 pool of gold and currencies would be made through increases in the contribution of each nation. These quotas would be paid in gold and cash.

Under the proposal, the United States quota in the fund would be increased to $4,125,000,000 from $2,750,000,000. The American subscription to the bank would climb from $2,540,000,000 to $3,080,000,000. Congress would have to approve the increased United States quotas.

Prices Steady in Grain Trade

CHICAGO (AP) — There were a few scattered soft spots in the grain futures market during the early transactions today on the Board of Trade but prices generally were steady to firm.

The market was fairly active in a two-sided trade. Althuogh there was some selling described as profit-taking on yesterday's firmness, dealers said there appeared to be a tendency to defend the higher prices over the New Year holiday.

Very light cash receipts of all grains were credited with some of the demand but dealers said it appeared to stem mainly from a belief that the immediate outlook is somewhat more bullish.

However, the market had turned weak near the end of the first hour, wheat was ⅛ to ½ cent a bushel lower, March $1.95¼; corn ⅜ lower to ⅛ higher, March old type contract $1.13; oats ⅜ to ⅝ lower, March 65⅛; rye ¾ lower to ¼ higher, March $1.31¾; soybeans ⅛ to ⅝ lower, January $2.13⅝.

Pistol-Whipper Judged Insane

Berkley Man Ordered to Ionia After Testimony by Two Psychiatrists

Two Pontiac psychiatrists today testified that 25-year-old Walter H. Budry of Berkley is criminally insane and should be committed to an institution.

After testimony from Drs. L. Jerome Fink and Ivan A. LaCore, Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer judged Budry insane and ordered him committed to Ionia State Hospital.

Budry, a bottler with a Royal Oak creamery and free lance photographer, was charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm in the Dec. 9 pistol-beating and robbing of Mrs. Marguerite Baker, 37, a clerk in a Berkley dry cleaning shop. A test of his sanity was ordered shortly afterwards.

Dr. Fink testified that his examination of Budry showed him to be "psychotic, with no contact with reality." Dr. LaCore's examination proved him to be suffering "from a very serious mental illness," he said.

Upside Edge in Early Mart

NEW YORK (AP) — The Stock Market had a narrow upside edge in heavy early trading today.

Gains and losses of key stocks were mostly fractional, going to around a point. Many were unchanged.

As the year's final trading day started the ticker tape was late for a 14-minute period under a rush of blocks. Last-minute switching for tax purposes tended to rob the Market of definite trend. Cash sales, for immediate delivery, were frequent.

The Market was at its latest all-time peak in the 1958 Bull Market. The news included reports of rebounds in earnings by many companies, including Pennsylvania Railroad, the nation's biggest railroad prospects for steel and other industries were reported good.

Rails were slightly higher as Pennsylvania, Santa Fe and Baltimore & Ohio posted fractional gains. Electronics issues were mainly on the upside. Other sections appeared mixed.

Small gains were made by Chrysler, U.S. Rubber, International Harvester, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Philco, Radio Corp., American Telephone, Eastman Kodak, Westinghouse Electric, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Eastern Air Lines and Johns-Manville.

Bankers, Executives Predict Good Year

Most Financial Experts Show Optimism

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — With the season for predictions at its peak let's take a look today at what some of the experts think 1959 has in store for us. Later on, perhaps, it might be fun to see how close they come to the mark in their economic penny-pitching.

One of the leaders in the expert business, the magazine Business Week, looks for a good year. About to add push to the recovery already under way, it says, will be inventory accumulation by industries which were trimming stocks in 1958. Another force will be increased home building over the next few months.

But if 1959 is to be better than just good, the magazine says, people will have to buy more autos. And on that point it declines to guess. It says consumers should have five billion dollars more at hand in 1959 for buying durables — autos, household appliances and the like. If they spend it, the business year is made.

They'll be able to borrow if they like, S. Clark Beise, president of the Bank of America, the nation's largest, says. The Californian says credit resources will be adquate for business and industry, for many more new homes, and for purchases of autos and appliances.

The National Industrial Conference Board has had 15 economists in a huddle. They agree that 1959 is unlikely to see much of a drop in unemployment and expect four million to be out of work next June.

They look for price stability in most lines, and for little increase in business spending on new plant and equipment. But they think the gross national product — total dollar volume of the nation's output of goods and services — will rise from its present annual rate of 450 billion dollars to between 470 and 480 billion by the end of 1959.

Stanley C. Hope, president of the National Assn. of Manufacturers, calls himself a restrained optimist about the 1959 business outlook. He predicts steady, if unsensational, growth in total personal income, in business investment in plant and equipment, and in industrial output.

Ralph A. Bing, vice president and economist of the Commonwealth Investment Co., San Francisco, thinks the recovery has up enough steam to keep rolling well into 1959. But he looks for a gradual slowdown in the recovery rate by the middle of the year.

Dr. Gabriel Hauge, chairman of the finance committee of Manufacturers Trust Co., New York, and former special assistant for economic affairs to President Eisenhower, looks on 1959 with some concern. He says federal spending is "an impulse center for inflation with so large a fraction of so large a federal budget focused on particular segments of our economic base." And he also thinks we "sorely need more light on the wage-cost-price-profit sequence."

Another worry, in a special field, is expressed by William F. Crawford, vice president of Rockwell Manufacturing Co. He sees tougher competition in 1959 between American and foreign metal goods producers because American wages are rising faster than are European, while foreign productivity is rising faster than American.

But Donald M. White, executive secretary of the Aluminum Assn., says there is general optimism in that industry over chances of increased output and sales in 1959.

And T. E. Veltfort, managing director of Copper & Brass Research Assn., says "copper's future is as bright as the metal itself."

As for steel, Max D. Howell, executive vice president of the American Iron & Steel Institute, is out on the limb with fairly precise figures. He says 1959's output will be 100 to 110 million tons, compared with this year's 85 million, and with 1955's record 117 million tons.

Chrysler Given Defense Contract for Jupiter, Tank

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chrysler Corp. was awarded contracts totaling more than $7,800,000 yesterday for work on the Army's Jupiter missile and the M-48 medium tank.

The Defense Department said a $5,975,024 contract for engineering services on the Jupiter missile system would be carried out at Chrysler's Sterling Township, Mich., plant.

Work on a $1,844,644 contract for unspecified modifications to existing M-48 tanks will be done at Center Line, Mich., the department said.

Tempers Fray in Air Strikes

Senator Suggests Law to Ban Transportation Walkouts

By The Associated Press

Old strikes continued to plague two of the nation's major airlines on the eve of the new year.

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz) suggested the strike of pilots at American could lead to federal legislation outlawing strikes in transportation industries.

Government officials showed signs Tuesday of increasing annoyance with the prolonged disputes at Eastern Air Lines and American Airlines.

The National Mediation Board sent a strongly worded recommendation to Eastern and its striking flight enginers to take immediate steps to settle the strike, which began Nov. 24. The board urged arbitration, if necessary.

The threat of a walkout against a third major line — National Air Lines — diminished somewhat when the Airlines Ticket Agents Assn. formally accepted an offer from the national board to mediate the association's dispute with the company.

End Paper Strike in Grand Rapids

Herald, Guild Agree on Two-Year Contract With Security Clause Change

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Management of the Grand Rapids Herald and members of its American Newspaper Guild editorial workers today agreed on a new two-year contract.

The pact is being forwarded to ANG headquarters in Washington for approval before it is ratified.

Robert Carr, president of ANG Local 66 at the Herald, said a brief meeting with management today brought a reworded union security clause which had held up membership approval of the contract last night.

Members voted 22-2 in favor of the contract, contingent on the security clarification. Four members were absent from the vote. The Guild Local had been on strike since Dec. 9 to support contract demands.

GM Veep Given Transportation Post

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — Cyrus R. Osborn, vice president of General Motors Corp., was named Monday night as chairman of the Advisory Committee of the Transportation Center at Northwestern University.

Dr. J. Roscoe Miller, university president, said Osborn would succeed Fred G. Gurley, chairman of the Santa Fe Railroad, who is retiring Jan. 1.

Osborn has been associated with GM's Allison division, manufacturer of jet airplane engines, and formerly headed General Motors' Electromotive Division.

Post Office to Close at Lumber Company

The contract post office station, located in the Lowrie-Hick Lumber Company, 1 W. Walton Blvd., since August, will close today at 4:30 p.m. but should reopen by Jan. 12, Robert C. Miller, acting postmaster, announced today.

Miller explained that the lumber company's lease with the Albert B. Lowrie Co., Inc. in Detroit, had expired.

He said he received word this morning that the Detroit company owners of the property, would sign a contract for the station at the same lease fee as that charged Lowrie-Hicks leasing the property until June 30.

U.S. Autos Approach Length, Width Limit

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT — The average American-made automobile rapidly is nearing its limit in length, width and low silhouette.

Lower and longer has been the annual characterization of new models over most of the postwar years. For 1959 many makes are wider — some as much as three inches. Some have wider treads.

Many makes are as low as 4½ feet. It is not uncommon to see a prospective buyer and a salesman lean elbows on the car top. In many cars the lowered silhouette was achieved by the step-down design that sharply lowers car floor and seat.

The design probably inspired the development of swivel seats to facilitate entry and exit. The swivel seats, swinging out at a 40-degree angle, encourage driver and passenger to sit before getting into the car.

A Chrysler developed project, swivel seats were introduced for 1959 models. One of numerous Chrysler "Firsts," it probably will be adopted by other car makers in succeeding new model designs.

But the longer, lower and wider automobiles are coming in for continuing criticism in numerous sources. Included are complaints that the longer vehicles are difficult to put into parking spaces and in conventional owner garages; that they cannot be conveniently handled on service station lifts and on regulation automatic wash racks.

It is true, however, that the increased length and width have added comfort and safety to the vehicles. With the lowered gravity center that goes with the lower and wider design, the cars are less easily overturned and their cornering capacity greatly is improved, the industry's engineers say.

These experts say road clearance has not been sacrificed to reduce overall height of the car. But the trend in that direction has started another intensive effort to lower the transmission hump that passes through the center of the car floor.

One maker lowered the hump by moving the car engine forward several inches and increasing the length of the front compartment.

The car designers are unwilling to admit they have reached the limit of anything in their construction and styling ideas. But driver and passenger still can knock off their hats entering or leaving the modern car.

Designers and stylists long have visualized the modern automobile with doors opening into the roof to remedy this irritation. But so far that type of styling has appeared only in experimental models or in some drawing board designs of cars still in the remote future.

One sure thing about future design is that the big transmission hump eventually will disappear. It may require some important changes in the car transmission, but the auto makers do not like the criticism that the hump makes four-passenger cars out of what generally are called six-passenger vehicles.

Hospitals Threaten to Drop Blue Cross

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan Blue Cross was under fire today from two sources.

Wayne County, questioning a recent 18½ per cent rate increase, set about to investigate Blue Cross rates as compared to those of other such insurance systems.

Four major hospitals in Grand Rapids, protesting a new "Ceiling Payment" plan, threatened to withdraw from the hospitalization program.

Blue Cross has 3,600,000 individual subscribers and 230 hospital participants.

Wayne County's Board of Auditors, acting at the request of a municipal employes union, ordered a rates-comparison investigation in the light of Blue Cross' rates increase.

The State, County and Municipal Employes Assn., representing the County's thousands of employes, protested to the board that the increase works a hardship.

A four-man board committee is to investigate. Its members include Louis G. Basso, county budget director, and Albert Champney, director of the County Bureau of Taxation. Two others are yet to be named.

The Grand Rapids hospital group challenged the ceiling payment plan on grounds it would tend to put control of hospital expenditures under Blue Cross itself, cutting into the hospital's own authority.

The protesting hospitals are Butterworth, Blodgett Memorial, St. Mary's and Ferguson-Droste-Ferguson.

The ceiling payment plan puts a ceiling on hospital costs. The ceiling is arrived at by averaging costs among hospitals of comparable size in each of six districts in the state. Blue Cross inaugurated the plan Oct. 1.

Arkell Cook, administrator of Butterworth Hospital, said the plan has the effect of discouraging a hospital from giving additional service to a patient.

"Our first responsibility is to the patient, not to Blue Cross," Cook said.

To Add Missionary Chapel as Mackinac Restoration

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP) — A replica of a missionary chapel used by a French priest among the Chippewa Indians in 1670 soon will be added to the historical lures of this resort island.

The 25-by-15 foot structure, resembling an Eskimo igloo in shape, will be put up by the Mackinac Island State Park Commission as part of a $125,000, two year historic sites improvement program.

First stage work was done last spring and early summer.

Dr. Eugene Petersen, director of the improvement program, said it is known that Fr. Claude Dablon, S. J., who wintered on the island in 1670, established the mission. Its exact site is not known.

Petersen said it apparently was a typical Chippewa type dwelling of the period with the addition of a portable altar and other religious devices. It is assumed that Fr. Dablon used part of the building for living quarters.

Fr. Dablon left the island after a brief stay, returning to Quebec in 1671. Eventually, he was put in charge of Jesuit missionaries operating in the region.

References to the Mackinac Island missionary chapel were recorded in Fr. Doblon's "realtions," or written commentaries.

Petersen said the outer shell of the building, to be completed by June 5, will be of cedar bark in a shingled effect. A 20-foot cross will be placed outside the chapel.

Inside there will be a diorama depicting Fr. Dablon, in the costume of a pioneer priest, baptizing two Indians while two French voyageurs look on. Historical pictures will be hung.

A sheltered viewing area for the public will be provided.

Petersen said the chapel will be placed opposite Fort Mackinac.

Big 3 Ask Reds to Berlin Parley

Want 4-Power Talks on German Problem, Future of City

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western Big Three called on the Soviet Union today to discuss the entire German problem, including Berlin's future, at a new four-power conference. They rejected firmly any such talks under menace or ultimatum.

In similar notes, the United States, Britain and France:

1. Flatly rejected Premier Nikita Khrushchev's proposal to turn West Berlin into a so-called free city.

2. Denounced as a violation of international agreements Khrushchev's announced plan to turn over Soviet controls in East Berlin to the East Germans.

3. Served notice the three Allies intend to keep their forces in West Brlin to protect the freedom and security of the more than two million West Berliners.

In offering to talk over the German deadlock, the United States said in a 2,000-word note that it is "ready at any time to enter into discussions with the Soviet government."

The note emphasized that the proposed talks would not be on the Berlin problem alone, but should embrace "the wider framework of negotiations for a solution of the German problem as well as that of European security."

45 Crewmen Taken Off 'African Queen'

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP)—Both sections of a Liberian tanker, which broke in two off the Atlantic coast, wallowed today on the shoal where she apparently went aground.

Forty-five crewmen of the 590-foot African Queen were whisked to safety by helicopter over surging seas Tuesday 10 miles east-southeast of this resort city.

Some of the oil the 13,800-ton ship was bringing from Venezuela to Paulsboro, N.J., was highly explosive but the only casualty was a crewman who suffered a bump on the head.

Hidden Rests for Backs, Too

Pageant Lasts 2 Hours So Girls' Warmth and Comfort Considered

NEW YORK — Local pride notwithstanding, the beautiful girls who grace floats in the 70th annual Tournament of Roses Parade will have a secret weapon to combat any chill winds that might descend on Pasadena, Calif., on New Year's Day.

Each will have her own heating pad for the two-hour long pageant which will be televised over ABC-TV.

Included in the telecast will be a half-hour film showing parade preparations and offering a preview look at the teams to compete in the Rose Bowl football game.

But, warmth is not the only problem with which the girls may have to cope. It's very tiring staying in one place for such a long time. So, girls who stand throughout the parade will have the support of hidden back rests. Those who sit, get foot rests.

There's more to be cared for in the parade than the young ladies, though. The theme for 1959 is "Adventures in Flowers." Protecting the five million blooms—mostly roses — requires time and effort.

Several hundred high school and college students, joined by about 100 professionals, work with wood, plastics, chicken wire and glue to carry out the float designers' imaginative ideas.

Hardiest flowers are put on the floats a day or two in advance. The more delicate ones aren't exposed until the last moment, with work continuing through the night before and early New Year's morning.

Dean of float designers is Mrs. Isabella Coleman, who has been building and designing for the parade for 50 years. The 1959 parade will have eight of her entries — worth $100,000 — one more than in 1958.

An estimated one million persons are expected to throng the line of march. Participants number 1,200.

In use for the telecast, for the first time since the 1956 political conventions, will be a 100-inch camera lens to provide closeups of the 62 floats, 21 bands, many Hollywood celebrities and 200 outstanding horses, mostly Palominos, Pintos and Arabians.

Miriani Hits Coast Idea to Ban Cars

DETROIT (UPI)—Mayor Louis C. Miriani of Detroit said Los Angeles is "silly" to blame the auto industry for its smog problem.

A proposal by Los Angeles Councilman Everett G. Burkhalter to ban the sale of new cars to combat smog drew a sharp blast from Miriani and a spokesman for the auto industry.

"Los Angeles is going to become a foreign country all by itself if it keeps this up," Miriani said.

"It will be isolated completely and its residents may have to move to other areas to become Americans again.

"How silly can they get? Banning new car sales would simply mean that there would be more older cars on Los Angeles streets. They would create more of an exhaust problem than the new cars."

The Detroit mayor suggested they ban the "old, old cars."

Escapee Returns Togs

LONDON (AP) — James Sims, 27, on the run from Pentonville Prison since Dec. 22, sent back his uniform with this note to the jail governor: "I don't think I'll be needing these in the new year."

Two Mayors Won't Run

DETROIT (AP) — Two suburban mayors, Paul V. Winkler of Highland Park and Joseph P. Grossel of Harper Woods, have announced they will not seek re-election in 1958.

HAPPY NEW YEAR! — With the hands straight up, Milton Berle and pretty Gail Quinn get ready to wish one and all a most Happy New Year. Tommy Sands and Judy Canova will join "Uncle Miltie" on The Kraft Music Hall Show New Year's Eve at 9 p. m. on NBC-TV.

Tina Just Isn't Talking of Date for New Year's

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Beautiful, shapely Tina Louise slipped into Manhattan without letting the wolf pack know — but they found out. It's hard to realize that she's now getting to be an important Hollywood actress — having made three pictures since "God's Little Acre." She's playing the love department very cozy, having married once. I asked her what guy was taking her around town New Year's and she smoothly replied, "I imagine I can have my choice of several." Then I inquired, "Are you expecting to get married?" Tina answered, "I hope to! Do you think I'll get lucky?" (Tina's thinner, but not in the wrong places.)

"Hoosier, Herb Shriner's made a bundle in the stock market — probably more than he did in show business. Still, he's going to perform at Miami soon, and is also doing a closed circuit TV show from L.A. shortly.

All of which involves travel. "People say I'm nuts to be away from our lovely home in Larchmont," Herb relates. "Even my wife says, 'Aren't you getting tired of the road?' Fact is, I'm just beginning to like it!"

Some More "Funny Signs": A teenager pasted this on the ceiling of his bedroom: "What the hell are you looking up here for?" . . . Spotted by Paul Morris: At a bake shop: "Pies like mother used to buy" . . . Repair shop: "We fix everything but basketball games" . . . In an airline pilots' room: "Beware of high-flying buildings" . . . At a gas station in Queens, N.Y.: "HAVE GUN, WILL GREASE" (via Henry Schapper.)

Vincent Lopez tells of a customer watching another man put on a raincoat. "Excuse me, sir," said the first man, "are you Mr. Stein of Forest Hills?" The other gruffly replied, "No I'm not." The first retorted, "Well, I am, and that's his coat you're putting on!"

"A bachelor's a man who'll gladly consent to get married if he can find a girl who loves him as much as he does" . . . A motorist writes in to say, "If there's anything I can't stand, it's pedestrians. Why don't they get a car like everybody else and defend themselves?" . . . A landlady's a woman who, when you ask her for some improvement, will only be too glad to show you how you can get along without it.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "Streets are so congested that there are only two kinds of parking left—illegal and no"—Charles A. Knouse.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Larry Daniels reports that a friend has one of those small foreign cars. He got 30 tickets for illegal parking—and the car was deported.

"Have a good word for everyone," says Tony Pettito, "and you'll soon be known as the biggest con artist in town" . . . That's earl, brother.

New Year's Baby Sitter Charges $10

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—That infant 1958 jumping so joyously amid streamers and champagne bubbles a year ago now requires a baby sitter. And at such prices.

All year you can get that gray-haired lady from around the corner to mind the kids for 50 cents an hour while you take the wife to a movie. The fee may be 60 or 75 cents per if she makes a business of it.

But on New Year's Eve, Grandma wants to kick up her heels too. She does one of two things: she gets scarce or she gets expensive.

For instance, there is Mrs. Carrie U. Small, a 70-year-old great-grandmother who operates a baby-sitting service. Her New Year's Eve fee is a flat $10.

"I'm a high-priced woman," she chuckled when asked about the fee. "Our service handles a very high-class clientele. We can afford to be selective. We've had a $10 New Year's Eve fee for the last four years and we don't have nearly as much trouble as in the previous years when we used to charge only $5."

Actors Can't Be Doctors on TV Commercials

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A television industry ban against using actors to portray doctors, nurses or dentists on commercials goes into effect tomorrow.

The National Association of Broadcasters adopted an amendment to its code last June providing that "only accredited members of these professions" appear in such commercials. The six-month delay in putting the ban into effect was "so that filmed commercials already in use could be revised or replaced."

Smoother Ride for Rails in '59

Increased Traffic and Rate Hike May Lift Up Earnings Over '58

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's railroads bumped along in 1958, but a smoother ride is in prospect for 1959.

The recession bit hard into the earnings of the Class I roads, dropping them to about $550 million from $734 million in 1957, the poorest showing since 1949. And the bite would have been bigger had it not been for a February rate hike and a 58-million retroactive mail pay.

However, anticipated increases in traffic, coupled with continued tight cost control, should lift 1959 earnings above the deflated 1958 figures.

The railroads received some favorable legislation in 1958, but, according to Daniel P. Loomis, president of the Association of American Railroads, it was only "interim action" and the roads will press for further remedial action in the new Congress.

The provisions of the Transportation Act of 1958 include Federal government guarantees of up to $500 million of private loans to railroads, and authorization for the Interstate Commerce Commission to permit discontinuance of unprofitable trains and ferries where interstate service is provided.

Little was done, however, to restore the rail industry to equal competitive footing with its rivals, and depreciation allowances were not liberalized. The heart of the passenger problem was ignored, and the 10 per cent war-time levy on passenger travel was not eliminated.

The year 1959 may find fewer railroads on the scene. A merger fever has gripped the eastern roads which have finally realized there are too many lines competing for too little business.

'I've Had It,' Cries Lone World Gob

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — "Never again," says handsome 34-year-old Peter Tangvald after a harrowing one-man sailing voyage halfway around the world. "It is too much for one man."

He should know. He sailed his 45-foot wooden yawl Windflower from West Mersey, England, to Long Beach, on the Southern California coast.

The 13,000-mile voyage took more than 14 months and nearly cost the Los Angeles design engineer his life.

He battled mountainous seas for four days in a hurricane, sailed 31 days without spotting another sign of human life, spent 48 unbroken hours at the tiller during a heavy fog without sleep, food or water, and broke two fingers which he bandaged himself.

Some 85 per cent of the forested land in Rhode Island is in private ownership of less than 500 acres.

Stars to Handle TV Commentary

Audrey Meadows, Mel Allen, Ronald Reagan to Describe Parade

NEW YORK—A trio of stars will be handling the commentary when the 1959 "Tournament of Roses Parade" from Pasadena, Calif., and a special preview film on the parade and Rose Bowl football game are presented over the ABC-TV network New Year's Day from 11:30 a.m. to 1:45 p.m.

The three, Ronald Reagan, Audrey Meadows and Mel Allen, will be stationed at the reviewing stand where the main battery of cameras will be located.

Ronald Reagan, who has made 40 movies and has been a regular on television for 5 years, started his career as a sports announcer. After graduation from Eureka College, Eureka, Ill., in 1932, where he earned letters in football, track and swimming, Reagan landed a job in Davenport, Iowa, as a sports broadcaster.

Audrey Meadows gained her greatest fame in the role of Jackie Gleason's wife on "The Honeymooners" series. While comedy has been her forte in the theater—she played in "Top Banana" on Broadway and had the female lead in the road company of "High Button Shoes"—and television, Audrey started out as a serious singer.

Mel Allen started out to be a lawyer, but in his junior year of law school at the University of Alabama, where he received a BA in 1932, he started broadcasting football games and the practice of law was soon forgotten.

Known as the 'Voice of the Yankees,' Mel started doing the Yankee games exclusively in 1946 when he returned from service, and he's been at it ever since. One of the nation's most popular and busiest sports broadcasters, he also handles football, basketball and numerous sports specials.
