W. Bloomfield Trustee Killed, Sister Shot

By ED BLUNDEN

Four persons forced their way into a West Bloomfield Township home last night, killed the owner and left his elderly sister "for dead," according to police.

Killed was Edward E. DeConick, 63, of 5047 W. Maple, a township trustee and a prominent businessman-farmer of the area. He was owner of DeConick's produce and apple farm.

In fair condition at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital this morning is his sister, Kathleen DeConick, 73.

She had been shot in the right eye with a shotgun and severely beaten, according to police.

★ ★ ★

ABLE TO TALK

Miss DeConick was able to talk and described the robbery to officers.

She told them that, about 11 p.m., a woman knocked on the door and said her car was disabled on the road. The woman asked to use a telephone.

When the door was opened, three men and the woman burst into the home Miss DeConick said. The men tied up the pair and proceeded to ransack the house.

★ ★ ★

Taken was a large floor safe which had been kept in a closet and a cash box. Police said the safe contained a "large amount" of money, mostly proceeds from DeConick's enterprises.

BEATEN AT FIRST

The pair was at first beaten with the shotgun, police said. When the intruders were ready to leave, they shot both of the bound prisoners, DeConick several times, according to police.

The woman underwent surgery this morning. She is being kept under guard.

State police were aiding West Bloomfield Township police this morning with a crime lab crew covering the premises in search of clues.

★ ★ ★

The home, surrounded by barns and sheds in a sparsely populated area near Telegraph, was in shambles this morning.

Two large blood spots, where the victims had been shot, were on the floor, one in the living room and one in a sitting room toward the rear of the house.

Lying scattered on the floor were discarded coins, business records of all kinds, coin wrappers, and family pictures.

Police were checking all items in the house for fingerprints or other clues.

★ ★ ★

The intruders, who all wore gloves, made no attempt to open the heavy safe on the premises but carried it and the cash box with them, according to police.

Police set up roadblocks around the area as soon as the alarm was given. However, as of this morning, no arrests had been made.

Viet Trip Report by McNamara to Help Set Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's upcoming trip to Vietnam could play a key role in determining the amount of taxes to be paid by Americans this year and next.

Government sources said today McNamara's postrip report will weigh heavily with the administration in setting the size of the surcharge to be formally requested by President Johnson.

Johnson proposed a 6 per cent surcharge on corporate and individual income taxes to take effect July 1.

No legislation has been sent to Congress yet, but a tax message with only the numbers missing reportedly is ready to go. McNamara probably will leave for Vietnam late this week.

★ ★ ★

Although government officials hesitate to describe their tax position as "beyond the point of no return," they don't see any possibility now of backtracking on an increase this year — barring unforeseen economic upheavals.

AMOUNT NOT SET

But the size of the request still is open. Chairman Gardner Ackley of the President's Council of Economic Advisers said last week it won't be less than 6 per cent.

One alternative, and there reportedly are many still being considered, would call for different surcharges — 8 per cent on individual taxes and 12 per cent on corporate taxes with an effective date of the next Jan. 1.

Another alternative under study is for a 6 per cent surtax on both individuals and corporations to take effect Oct. 1 or Jan. 1, but retroactive to July 1, the date the tax originally was scheduled to take effect.

★ ★ ★

A third idea under discussion calls for sending a surcharge bill to Congress accompanied by a separate tax reform bill.

TAX REFORM ASKED

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., a member of the Senate-House Economic Committee, has urged the administration to push for tax reform before seeking a tax increase.

State Road Toll Is at Least 23

By the Associated Press

A tire blowout and a car speeding the wrong way on a freeway ramp caused two of the worst crashes as Michigan traffic accidents claimed a mounting toll of lives over the Fourth of July holiday.

At least 23 persons were killed on the highways over the long weekend. Four other persons drowned in Michigan waters.

Two brothers and a third youth from Leonard were killed yesterday when a tire apparently blew out, sending their auto careening out of control into a tree near Dryden in Lapeer County.

The victims were Gary Cowell, 18, his brother Michael, 17, and the driver, Steven Woollard, 20.

★ ★ ★

WRONG WAY

Sheriff Richard Germond of Lenawee County said four Albion teen-agers, aged 15 to 17, were in the car heading the wrong way on the ramp.

He said the two girls and two boys, who escaped serious injury, told of drinking beer on the way home from a trip to Ohio where they had bought fireworks for the Fourth of July.

Sheriff's men said at least a dozen beer containers, some empty and some unopened were strewn inside and around the teen-agers' auto after the accident.

Two Niles women were killed today when their auto was struck head-on by a car which police said was attempting to pass a third vehicle on M40 near Niles. Killed were Annabelle True, 57, and a passenger, Rose Margaret Espick, 25.

Ineligible, Claims U.S. Lawyer

'Romney Can't Be President'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Is Mexico-born George W. Romney eligible for the White House?

No, says a government lawyer who dug into his law books and came up with the conclusion that the Michigan governor's birth in Chihuahua disqualifies him for the presidency.

This dissenting opinion, which filled five closely printed pages of the Congressional Record last month, came from Pinckney G. McElwee of the Veterans Administration's legal department.

The product of McElwee's research was inserted in the record by Rep. John Dowdy, D-Tex., "to shed whatever light it merits" on the question of Romney's eligibility.

There is a question because the Constitution requires that a president be a "natural-born citizen" of the United States, a term the Constitution does not define.

INTERPRETATION

Romney is the son of American citizens but was born in 1907 in Mexico, where his parents had fled because of hostility toward Mormonism, their religion. The family later returned to the United States.

McElwee wrote that the language of the constitution must be interpreted with reference to the English common law, with which the authors of the Constitution were familiar.

"At the time of the adoption of the Constitution, under the common law, the terms native-born citizen and natural-born citizen were synonymous," he said, "but the customary usage was to refer to such type of citizenship as 'natural-born' instead of 'native-born.'"

He argued that American citizens either are native-born or naturalized.

"Mr. Romney was born an alien and was naturalized automatically by act of Congress," McElwee said. "The U.S. naturalization law as it existed at the birth of Mr. Romney, . . declared him to be a citizen. He is, therefore not a 'natural-born citizen', but is a naturalized citizen."

Some students of the Constitution are convinced that American citizens born abroad are eligible for the presidency and that the framers of the Constitution would have said "native-born" if that is what they meant.

McElwee suggested that the question should be settled before the national political conventions next year. A similar suggestion came recently from Chairman Emanuel Cellar, D-N.Y., of the House Judiciary Committee.

2 Area Servants Sought in $35,000 Jewel Theft

Two employes of a Bloomfields Hills home are being sought today in connection with over $35,000 in missing jewels and $450 in cash.

Bloomfield Hills police said the theft was reported early yesterday morning at the home of Jordan H. Stover III of 3805 Lahser.

Two servants being sought are Smead and Geraldine Bowle of Detroit. They had been hired a week before.

Stover said he checked the jewels about 2 a.m. after watching a late television show. They were gone and so was the couple.

★ ★ ★

"We thought they were doing quite well," Stover said of the missing employes.

Stover is an inventor and president of Stover Labs.

The missing items of jewelry include a $12,000 bracelet, $12,000 ring; pins worth $4,000 and $3,000 and several other items.

Ground Fighting Heavy Near DMZ

SAIGON (AP) — Two U.S. Marine battalions moving out from Con Thien ran into heavy Communist resistance today a few miles from their sandbagged outpost just below the demilitarized zone.

The renewed fighting and continuation of mortar and artillery assaults promised more bloodshed on the northern front, where the Marines have suffered at least 384 casualties—68 killed, 27 missing and 289 wounded—in three days and have claimed 168 enemy killed.

* * *

"The lull is over," Lt. Gen. Robert Cushman, the new Marine commander in South Vietnam, said of ground action.

A force of perhaps 3,000 Communists badly mauled Marine units Sunday in heavy fighting near Con Thien. Communist artillery and mortars hammered Con Thien and other outposts Monday, but Marine gunners caught a large North Vietnamese force at the edge of the demilitarized zone and killed 75 of them, the Leathernecks reported.

SIX ATTACKS

The Marines reported receiving at least six mortar or artillery attacks Monday night and today on Con Thien, a regimental headquarters at An Hoa, a nearby bivouac and smaller posts within a few miles of Con Thien. Ten Marines were killed and 89 wounded.

Today two Marine battalions moved out of Con Thien to sweep the dirt road leading north into the border zone. One company ran into North Vietnamese infantrymen a mile from Con Thien and almost simultaneously Red artillery began slamming at the second Marine battalion.

* * *

Heavy fighting was reported continuing three hours later, but no further details were available.

It appeared that the Communists were exerting pressure to discomfit the United States during the Independence Day celebrations.

OBSERVANCES

Despite the fighting, observances were held by many American units, including a salvo fired by the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment in honor of America's 50 states. The U.S. Command in Saigon messaged the troops:

"Freedom for the United States of America was won by citizens willing to sacrifice their wealth, their homes and their very lives. It is an inescapable truth that freedom demands a willingness of individuals to make any sacrifice to preserve it. Our American soldiers in Vietnam know this full well."

* * *

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker gave a 4th of July reception for 700 guests in Saigon.

While fighting along the demilitarized zone overshadowed action elsewhere, there were scattered skirmishes up and down the country.

BLAZING SUCCESS

U.S. helicopter pilots reported a blazing success before dawn Monday when they shot up a total of 148 junks apparently making a major effort to supply guerrillas in Quang Tin Province, below Da Nang.

The junks were caught along a saltwater lagoon of the coastal Trung Crang River. Despite ground fire, the helicopters dropped flares and swept in for 27 rocket and machine-gun passes, setting off brilliant secondary explosions and leaving the area a chaotic jumble of sinking and shattered junks. About half of the convoy was made up of 40-foot junks, the pilots reported.

LBJ Message for 4th Stresses GIs' Valor

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson called on Americans this Fourth of July to remember "the price that those who love freedom must ever be ready to pay."

In a holiday statement issued from his LBJ Ranch, Johnson alluded to the Vietnam war as he said: "As fireworks flash in our skies, let us remember the cannons flaming across the seas. As we fly the flag before our homes, let us remember the sons of America who carry it in battle.

* * *

"As here men parade and proud bugles sound, let us remember the place where the parade is a careful march across a mined field, and the sounds are of fearful battle."

Johnson said, "The freedom we celebrate is ours only because of the valor of brave Americans who were — and are — willing to die for it."

ASKED PRAYERS

The President asked for prayers of thanks for national freedom and said: "Freedom is a gift to be cherished, yes, but it is also a gift to be shared; and in sharing it, we strengthen it everywhere, at home and abroad. The efforts we have made in this century to help others win or regain their freedom have been indispensable to preserving our own."

The President and Mrs. Johnson, who flew here Thursday, may remain at their ranch home through next weekend.

* * *

The couple went to a guest house on their property Monday to show off their 2-week-old first grandchild, Patrick Lyndon Nugent, to news photographers.

Lyn didn't open his eyes until the lensmen had departed — even though Johnson tickled his cheeks and rocked him on his knee.

ON HAND

Also on hand for the session with the photographers were Lyn's parents, Luci Johnson Nugent and Patrick J. Nugent.

The baby, said the President, "looks exactly like Pat."

Although the Johnsons generally have been spending a quiet, relaxed holiday in Texas, there was a possibility they would attend funeral services today at Texarkana, Tex., for the wife of Rep. Wright Patman of Texas. She died Sunday in Washington.

In one of his few official actions Monday, Johnson sent Congress a report from the Interior Department calling for a major program to restore beauty and utility to land "looted and ravished" by strip and surface mining operations.

The result of a two-year study, the report suggested the program might require 10 to 20 years of work and cost perhaps $757 million.

REVIEW ASKED

In a letter transmitting the report to Congress, Johnson said he was asking all federal agencies to review immediately policies dealing with surface mined minerals and fuels.

He said: "The aim is to develop policies to assure, insofar as now possible, that effective controls are instituted over surface-damaging mineral exploration and extraction, and that reasonable land restoration provisions are included."

Italians to Vote on Freeing Nazi

1944 Killer of 300 Asking for Clemency

MARZABOTTO, Italy (AP) — Families of his victims and surviving wartime residents of Marzabotto will decide in a referendum July 16 whether to forgive Nazi Maj. Walter Reder for the wartime massacre of 300 townspeople.

A Bologna court sentenced Reder to life imprisonment in 1951 for ordering the killing of the 300, most of them women and children, in September 1944, to deter partisans fighting German occupation troops.

* * *

The court said Reder had antipersonnel mines buried under the piles of bodies, causing more deaths among relatives seeking their dead.

Reder, in a prison at Gaeta since 1952, recently wrote the Municipal Council and appealed for a letter of forgiveness to attach to a petition for clemency he plans to send to the Italian Justice Ministry. He expressed remorse for the massacre and said he wanted to be with his ailing mother in Germany.

MOST URGE REJECTION

The Marzabotto council, which is dominated by Communists, has received 160 letters and 30 telegrams since getting Reder's appeal. All but three urged rejection of the plea.

The council met Monday night to decide. Five hundred persons, many of them survivors of Reder's occupation, jammed the council hall. More than 1,000 stood in the square outside and heard the discussion from loudspeakers.

* * *

The local heads of all major parties said they felt the German should not and could not be forgiven. The council voted to leave it to survivors of the occupation and families of the victims.

They will vote July 16. Those who live elsewhere and cannot get to Marzabotto, south of Bologna, can mail in their ballots by July 20.

IN APPEAL

Reder, in his appeal, said what he had done could not be erased from the hearts of those who suffered or ease "the remorse of the one who committed it."

"But above all stand the virtues that are the prerogative of strong and gentle souls—mercy and forgiveness," he continued. He said his mother had lost three of her four children and, "overcome by sorrow, is stretching her hands toward Marzabotto asking forgiveness for the only son she has left."

* * *

The Communist mayor, Giovanni Bottonelli, said he thought Reder's crime was so great that his lifetime sentence "should continue as a warning."

Crash Kills Three Youths From County

DRYDEN TOWNSHIP — Three Oakland County youths were killed instantly yesterday morning when their car slammed into a tree on Rochester at Casey Road in this Lapeer County township.

County sheriff's deputies identified the victims as Gary Cowell, 18, his brother Michael, 17, both of 3221 W. Leonard and Steven Woollard, 20, of 3045 Gilmour, all of Addison Township.

Woollard was listed as the driver.

Deputies said the vehicle was traveling at a high rate of speed when a front tire blew out, sending the car out of control and into the tree.

The accident occurred at 11:35 a.m., according to deputies.

He was arrested after the fatal shooting Sunday of John Henry, who police said operated a blind pig.

Foe of State Tax to Ask for Ruling on Referendum

LANSING (AP) — A Republican opponent of the recently passed state income tax says he will ask Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley Wednesday for a ruling on whether Michigan residents may vote on the issue.

Sen. George W. Kuhn, R-West Bloomfield, said he might file a taxpayer's suit to test whether Michigan citizens have been denied their right of petition and referendum in the income tax law.

The Legislature amended the final bill to include a $3-million-dollar appropriation. The Michigan Constitution forbids public votes on appropriation bills.

"To me it's almost unthinkable that a tax bill of this magnitude has been passed without a vote of the people," Kuhn said Monday.

He pointed out that the issue of Daylight Saving Time was up for a vote of the people.

* * *

"A tax matter of the size passed by the Michigan Legislature is more vital than time to eight million in this state, and they deserve a right to vote on it," Kuhn said.

Romney Plans 'Work, Rest' on N.H. Trip

LANSING (AP) — His prestige enhanced by a major victory at home, Michigan Gov. George Romney Tuesday turned to the job of fanning his courtship with the Republican presidential nomination into a full-fledged romance.

With a long-sought state income tax a reality, Romney planned to leave for New Hampshire and a four-day stay at the Lake Winnipesaukee summer home of J. Willard Marriott, a long-time friend and political backer.

* * *

Billed as a trip combining "work and rest," the visit is expected to include meetings with presidential backers and New Hampshire GOP leaders to map strategy for the state's 1968 primary — the nation's first.

Leonard Hall, head of the Romney - for - President movement, was in Lansing last week for a brief meeting with Romney and described the trip as "strictly a New Hampshire affair."

SUMMER HOME

Upon returning to Michigan, Romney will head for his summer home on Mackinac Island where he will spend most of the month conferring with his staff, Romney backers and national political figures.

The conferences will iron out Romney policies on major foreign and domestic issues which are expected to be released in the form of magazine articles and key position statements, it was learned.

Partial Relief for First Tax Bill

LANSING (AP) — The per-person exemption from the new state income tax, which takes effect Oct. 1, is $1,200. But don't try subtracting that much from your income the first time you pay your tax.

Because the bill you have to pay by next April 15 will be for only one quarter of a year, you'll be entitled to only one quarter of the usual exemption, or $300 for yourself and for each dependent.

If you earn $10,000 a year, you'll probably earn about $2,500 in October, November and December, and that's the amount on which you'd pay the new 2.6 per cent income tax.

If you claim five dependents, subtract $1,500 (five times $300) and pay 2.6 per cent of the remaining $1,000.

* * *

There will be no relief this year from property and city income taxes. That portion of the package is effective beginning next Jan. 1.

FULL EXEMPTION

When paying taxes on a full year's income, you'll be able to subtract $1,200 times the number of dependents before arriving at your taxable income.

U.S. Road Toll to Hit Forecast

Safety Council Warns of Increasing Danger

By the Associated Press

The National Safety Council predicted early today that the Independence Day holiday traffic toll would climb to the lower end of its prediction of 720 to 750 deaths but warned of increasing danger as the period came to a close.

* * *

The council said that today would be the crucial period in the four-day holiday since traffic would be heavy with vacationers making a last-minute rush home. The fact that today is also the actual holiday made the closing hours of the period especially dangerous, the council said.

* * *

The toll crept over the 500 mark early this morning and stood at 506 with the final rush yet to begin.

Al Henderson, a council spokesman, said Monday night's slowdown in the death rate indicated total fatalities would be lower than earlier anticipated.

AUTOMATIC RECORD

"Unless something drastic occurs, the total will stay in the lower end of the estimate or may even miss it," he said.

Henderson said a record for the holiday would be set almost automatically. Last year's record of 576 came during a three-day weekend. This year's period is 102 hours—more than four days.

* * *

An Associated Press survey of a similar nonholiday period, June 16-20, recorded 530 highway deaths. There were 608 traffic fatalities during this year's Memorial Day holiday, also a 102-hour period.

Before the death rate leveled off late Monday, major accidents in Virginia, and Arizona had added to an upsurge in the traffic count.

6-DEATH CRASH

Six persons died Monday near Emporia, Va., when their car skidded out of control on Interstate 95, apparently after a tire blowout.

A head-on auto-truck crash on U.S. 66 east of Flagstaff, Ariz., killed five persons.

* * *

A Fourth of July record this year would continue a trend of fatality records each holiday. The record death count for any four-day holiday was set last Thanksgiving when 748 persons lost their lives.

Boating accidents killed 35, and 113 persons have drowned since the Independence Day holiday began at 6 p.m. Friday.

Valves May Be Opened to Save Dam

LAWRENCEBURG, Tenn. (AP) — Opening three valves could relieve the pressure on an earth-filled dam that is threatening to collapse but, officials say they want the cast-iron valves checked first.

Fred W. Stanberry, director of the Tennessee Game and Fish Commission which operates Laurel Hill Lake in southwestern Tennessee, said engineers wanted divers to determine whether the big sluice valves could stand the water pressure before they are opened.

* * *

Two Tennessee Valley Authority divers plan to inspect the valves today at the bottom of the 325-acre lake.

"If we can get these valves operating properly and have a few more days without rain, we may have the problem whipped," Stanberry said.

SEEPING WATER

The 7-year-old dam has been seeping water for several days. When the seepage was discovered, Stanberry ordered the lake closed to all activities and alerted about 200 residents below the dam to prepare to move.

When fully open, the three 24-inch sluice valves would release more than 100,000 gallons a minute, lowering the lake 24 inches a day.

* * *

Only one valve has been used since the seepage was discovered. That valve was closed halfway when air bubbles set up vibrations in the 424-foot-long sluice tunnel, threatening to further damage the interior of the dam.

That valve has been lowering the lake eight inches per day.

* * *

Las Haun, a Game and Fish Commissioner engineer, predicted the problem of vibration could be corrected by fully opening the three valves simultaneously, allowing the water to force out the bubbles.

The trucking industry buys about $351 million worth of automotive products a year, including vehicles, fuel, tires and parts.

Appropriations Bills Next for Legislature

LANSING (AP) —Now that the Legislature has passed a tax package designed to raise about $180 million this fiscal year, the next order of business will be to spend that money and more.

* * *

Lawmakers, wearied after a week of marathon tax sessions and the year's first Saturday session, took a long Fourth of July holiday.

* * *

The House reconvenes Thursday afternoon and the Senate Friday morning.

Little is left on the calendars but appropriations bills, the measures that will make it legal to spend about a billion dollars from the state's general fund in the 12-month period that began Saturday.

COMPROMISE NEEDED

Compromise will be necessary before the bills can go to Gov. George Romney for his signature. So far, the House and Senate are about $104 million apart in their spending levels.

The Senate has made deep cuts in Romney's proposed $1.153 billion budget. The deepest cuts were in higher education, mental health, social services (welfare), grants and transfers and capital outlay (construction).

* * *

The House Appropriations Commttee has restored $104 million of the Senate cuts, and a two-house conference committee is expected to try to work out the differences this week.

Also expected are fights over the appropriations for school aid and the Civil Rights Department.

The school aid bill has not yet come out of committee in either house. If it dies in committee, state aid to public schools will continue at the current level with $280.50 remaining as the basic per-pupil grant.

Rep. Arnell Engstrom, R - Traverse City, House Appropriations Committee chairman, estimates that would amount to $303 million in the new fiscal year.

But Rep. George F. Montgomery, D-Detroit, has an amendment pending to another school bill that would raise school aid by about $40 million.

Another debate is likely over the amount given to the Civil Rights Department, which received $943,700 last year.

* * *

Romney's budget called for a $2.03 milion appropriation to the department, but the House committee trimmed that back to $1.39 million.

House Democrats failed in a bid to restore $445,000 to the department's complaint-investigating compliance section. That battle could continue in the Senate.

Soviet Spy System Is an Arthritic Giant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet espionage system is a muscle-bound giant. It is big but clumsy. It suffers from a disease that plagues all bureaucratic institutions when fast action is called for — POLITICAL ARTHRITIS.

But by sheer weight of numbers and money it has scored successes in its day and night duel with the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). One estimate, probably too high but from a good source, is that the Soviets spend $2 billion a year trying to steal secrets inside the United States.

There are two principal arms of the Soviet spy system. The KGB (Committee of State Security) and the GRU, the military intelligence unit.

The KGB is the more formidable of the two and a man who knows what he is talking about —Allen W. Dulles, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency and author of "The Craft of Intelligence" — describes it this way:

"Its functions, both internal and external, far exceed those of the intelligence services of free societies. The KGB is the eyes and ears of the Soviet state abroad as well as at home.

* * *

"It is a multipurpose, clandestine arm of power that can in the last analysis carry out almost any act the Soviet leadership assigns it.

SUBVERSIVE POWER

"It is more than a secret police organization, more than an intelligence and counter-intelligence organization. It is an instrument for subversion, manipulation and violence, for secret intervention in the affairs of other nations . . . If the Soviets send astronauts to the moon, I expect that a KGB officer will accompany them."

KGB agents are thoroughly trained. Capt. Nikolai Khokhlov, who defected to the United States several years ago, told an interesting story.

He learned all the standard techniques of espionage while in training: How to break codes; how to shadow somebody without being detected; where to hide money; how to disguise himself.

He thought he had finished the course, but it developed that he had to learn judo and take a special course on how to drive an automobile fast with maximum safety.

SPECIAL PISTOL

Finally, the KGB armed him with a special weapon—a pistol about four inches long with three barrels in vertical alignment. The pistol had an accuracy of 25 feet and the sound of the shot was no louder than the snapping of your fingers.

The KGB recruits its agents any place it chooses. If you are invited to join, you accept or else.

With such training, with such absolute control over human lives, with so much money available why doesn't the KGB have more success?

* * *

Every Soviet defector agrees on the answer. Moscow insists on controlling even the smallest action of its agents in the United States. The Soviet spy has no choices, no flexibility. Golden opportunities frequently are lost while he consults Moscow and waits for an answer.

ENDLESS DETAIL

Alexander Foote, a former Soviet agent, gives this example of instructions he received from Moscow on such a simple matter as making rendezvous with an agent named "Sonia" in Geneva:

"I was to be wearing a white scarf and to be holding in my right hand a leather belt. As the clock struck noon I would be approached by a woman carrying a string shopping bag containing a green parcel and holding an orange in her hand.

"One would have thought that this would have been sufficient to enable anyone to contact anyone, even an unknown, in the middle of a Swiss street.

"But no. The woman would ask me in English where I had bought the belt. I was to reply that I had bought it in an ironmonger's shop in Paris. Then I was to ask her where I could buy an orange like hers, and she was to say that I could have hers for an English penny."

Fourth of July Freedom Means Government by All

(Editor's Note: In keeping with our policy of publishing guest editorials from time to time, our Independence Day editorial has been written by Congressman Jack H. McDonald.)

By CONGRESSMAN McDONALD

The great American historian, GEORGE BANCROFT, in speaking to a Springfield, Massachusetts, audience on July 4, 1836, said:

"The day we celebrate is the birthday of democracy; which is but another name for the power of the people. The Fourth of July was the day on which the people assumed power, and proclaimed their power to the admiring world. Democracy is the institution of government by the many, for the common good; its object is the welfare of the people; its strength is in the affections of the people. It is the most powerful element in modern civilization; it is the greatest discovery ever made."

McDONALD

★ ★ ★

One hundred and ninety-one years ago our nation consisted of thirteen small colonies in the wilds of a new and uncharted world. The proposition before them was a mighty gamble. To sever their political allegiance to Great Britain meant war against what was then one of the most powerful nations in the world.

★ ★ ★

But, our forefathers believed in freedom. It was a belief founded in the independent spirit that brought them to a new land, and forged in the frontier that faced them. Men learned quickly to do for themselves. And they were not to be denied the opportunity to govern themselves when a distant and insensitive government summarily dismissed their pleas for more equitable tax laws.

Their frustration left them no alternative. They signed their Declaration of Independence. And in these immortal words a new Nation was born:

"We, therefore, the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the World for the rectitude of our intentions, do in the Name and by the Authority of the good people of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United States are and of Right ought to be Free and Independent States."

★ ★ ★

Today we stand as the mightiest nation in the world. Yet, our situation is similar to that of the men who fought for our freedom. For the men who signed the Declaration of Independence, that act of courage whose anniversary we observe today, were risking their lives to banish an oppressive and dictatorial government and in its stead establish government by the people and for the people. It is the same courage we need today in order to meet our own crises and dangers.

★ ★ ★

Our commitment to freedom throughout the world can be no less strong than our commitment to maintaining our ideals of democracy at home. Tyranny must be defeated once and for all. And to that end our energies must continue to be directed.

In a letter written shortly before his death, JEFFERSON described the writing and signing of the Declaration of Independence as "the bold and doubtful election we were to make for our country between submission and the sword:"

The same choice between submission and the sword that has faced other generations of Americans through the years of our national history faces Americans today.

★ ★ ★

For whether the eventual test is a rice paddy in Southeast Asia or every back yard around the globe, the liberty and freedom which were won for us in the Revolution and that have been preserved for us in later conflicts must at all costs be saved, protected, preserved, and cherished.

New LBJ Image Boosts His Stock

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON—President Johnson's stock is going up.

There's not much doubt he will run again in 1968. His popularity in the public opinion polls soared after his summit meeting with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and the way he tried to cool the Middle East crisis, although he didn't say much.

MARLOW

Since he is a master politician, nothing could help him more than a 1968 summit meeting with three or four heads of state, including the Soviet Union, or the beginning of negotiations to end the war.

One big difference between Democrats and Republicans right now is that the Republicans don't have any idea who their presidential candidate will be. The Democrats don't seem to have any uncertainty about it.

Last week Republican governors met, discussed, and went home believing it was too early for them to endorse any candidate. Democratic governors met and gave Johnson a hearty cheer.

★ ★ ★

The Democratic governors, meeting at St. Louis, didn't specifically say they wanted him to run again — some Southerners resisted getting in line this early. But one governor, Missouri's Warren E. Hearnes, said, "I'm not so naive as to feel Mr. Johnson will not be the nominee."

NEW START

Hearnes wasn't so mild on the subject of Johnson last December when he said unless Johnson changed some policies and reevaluated the political situation the Democrats might well "start all over with a new candidate" in 1968.

But then last year wasn't Johnson's good year with the Democratic governors who met at White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., after the 1966 elections in which Democrats took a clubbing, suffering a net loss of 47 House seats, three Senate seats and eight governorships.

The Democratic governors frankly and, it seemed, bitterly condemned the Johnson administration for the party's election losses, which they blamed on an antiadministration vote.

★ ★ ★

Nevertheless, even then most of the governors were saying Johnson would run again next year and win.

PUBLIC IMAGE

But the full story of something else which happened between the fall of 1966 and now has never been revealed. Johnson in that time apparently went to work on the job of changing his public image.

Since then his public statements have been low-keyed and so have his mannerisms, which had irritated a lot of people. He kept to this formula even after his meeting with Kosygin. He was enthusiastic about it but didn't overdo it.

This was his first big bid for public approval since 1964, and the results must have been assuring to him. The Harris public opinion poll over the weekend said his popularity had shot up 11 points over last May.

★ ★ ★

At that time the poll showed only 47 per cent of those quizzed approved the way he handled his job while 53 per cent didn't. Now the rating is 58 approving, 42 not. The Harris people said this is a bigger increase in public approval than ever recorded for President John F. Kennedy.

Capital Letter:

Arab Unity Depends on Israel

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — If Israel did not exist, the Arabs would have to invent it in order to maintain some semblance of Arab unity.

Ruth Montgomery

Just as President Franklin D. Roosevelt admittedly retained an unpopular Cabinet member to divert criticism from himself, the Arabs should be grateful for the Semitic cousin in their midst, toward whom Egyptian President Nasser and other Mideast leaders can direct the dissatisfaction which their people would otherwise focus on them.

A whipping boy is invaluable as a means of promoting unity. Without King George III and his unpopular Stamp Act, our thirteen original colonies might never have found wedded bliss.

Were it not that Israel is an island surrounded by hostile Arab peoples, the internal dissensions which inevitably arise when people from many lands try to adjust their customs to a joint housekeeping arrangement might have destroyed it.

★ ★ ★

Aside from traditional longing to return to their ancestral home, the one quality which all Jews have shared was their religion: For Arabs and Jews both trace their lineage to common Canaanite ancestors.

DIVERGENT VIEWS

But would even the religious tie be strong enough to hold a fledgling nation together, were it not for hostile neighbors who are bent on its destruction?

During a Holy Land trip shortly before the recent hostilities, this correspondent was surprised to observe the widely divergent religious views and observances of the Israelies.

In the Israeli sector of Jerusalem Orthodox Jews were predominant, and except for tourists the streets were deserted on Saturdays until sundown.

Even public transportation was virtually nonexistent. But to the north, in Tel Aviv and Galilee, Jews were enjoying weekend outings in the same carefree manner as non-Orthodox American Jews do in Atlantic City or Chicago.

Two Cabinet members whom I interviewed frankly stated that they do not believe in God. But they fervantly believe in the Jewish homeland, which their forebearers regarded as God's "promised land" to them.

Were it not for their common hatred of Israel, how long could the weaker Arab states have survived as separate entitites? Egypt officially changed its name to the United Arab Republic in 1958, when Syria joined it, and Yemen became a federated member.

But Syria seceded from the union only four years later, and Egypt has for the past five years been waging war in Yemen against loyalist troops and the armies of Saudi Arabia.

Nasser prates loudly about Arab brotherhood, but against his blood brothers in Yemen he has been using poison gas, tanks and bombs.

U.S. AID TO LEBANON

Lebanon is an Arab state, but at its request in 1958 President Eisenhower rushed troops there to forestall an alleged attempt by Nasser and the Soviets to take it over.

★ ★ ★

Both Syria and Jordan are Arab states, but they have been fighting bitter border skirmishes for years. King Hussein of Jordan despises the Nasser regime, as does King Faisal of Saudi Arabia.

Yes, the Arabs should be grateful to Israel. It is seemingly their only tie that binds.

Bob Considine Says:

Viet War's Prime Target Is the Mind, Says 'Brute'

HONOLULU — The "Brute" is back in Vietnam for about the 50th time since the Marines first hit the beach. Hell, therefore, will soon be popping.

CONSIDINE

The "Brute" of course, is Lt. Gen. Victor Harold Krulak, commanding general, Fleet Marine Force, Pacific.

He's the biggest little man in the Marines. "Brute" stands just under 5-feet-5, a full inch shorter than the corps now demands in men.

He weighs hardly anything, soaking wet.

★ ★ ★

"Brute" isn't much to look at, they say, but like the begotten of that mating between the tiger and the parrot, "When it talks, you listen."

PRIME TARGET

Gen. Krulak knows the prime target in Vietnam. It is not a very well-known or easily reached target.

"We're aiming at the human mind," the articulate minisized warrior told us just before shoving off for Da Nang. "And we're winning, not as we won at Iwo Jima, but steadily.

"It was different at Iwo. You shot a man through the head and thus he was conquered.

"Now we're aiming at a person's mind. If you kill him you don't get anywhere. He's dead and therefore you've lost what you wanted, his mind.

LIFE AND DEATH

"A target in this war can be an ugly, wrinkled little old woman working in a rice paddie. She packs the power of life and death.

"If she makes up her mind that we're not the French all over again and tells us that there's a VC unit up the road waiting to ambush us, or there's a cache of VC arms buried under that haystack over there, she saves our lives.

"Or she may tell the VC that the Americans have gone up that trail, and we get hit between the horns. So, our target is her mind.

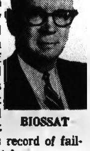
Summit Talks Work No Magic

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Foreign affairs specialists were not surprised when the Johnson-Kosygin meetings — like other "summits" before this — failed to produce agreements of real substance.



BIOSSAT

The interest has to be in why so many people still place faith in the device of summitry and why the heads of two great powers would resort to it again when its record of failure is nearly total.

★ ★ ★

Inevitably, an air of poignancy hangs over confrontations like that in Glassboro, N.J. It is deeply touching to see so many invest so much hope in the imagined magic of two world leaders sitting down together for a few hours to review the great disputes of the day.

What these people want, of course, is universal peace at a stroke — a waving of the leaders' powerful arms that will quickly waft away all of the world's menacing problems and somehow end the hard competition between the giants.

The hope defies reality. Through the late 1940s and the 1950s, the cry for summit meetings was unending. European politicians could not survive as leaders without strong commitment to the idea. As fast as one summit failed, the call went out for another.

In the 1960s, these cries diminished. But the focus put upon the Johnson-Kosygin meetings suggests that faith in the quick magic of personal confrontation is easily reborn.

There is something compellingly attractive about the notion of great leaders adjourning their deep differences with friendly smiles, earnest looks into each other's eyes, man-to-man talk warmed by good food.

The President and the Soviet premier could have held no such dreams. Why, then, meet at all?

Curiosity about each other would be part of it. Each man could see value, sensibly, in taking the first-hand measure of his principal adversary on earth.

Between them there was no screen of distance or manufactured false words. For better or worse, each knows the other now as a human being — not as a cardboard target for propaganda fire.

What checkrein that knowledge will put upon future perilous U.S.-Soviet competitions, it is impossible to say. But knowing ought to be better than not knowing.

Yet it was more than this which drew Johnson and Kosygin together. They met because they felt it was expected of them.

'Better Patrol of Lakes May Prevent Accidents'

We live on Lower Straits Lake and are truly sorry about the recent drowning of an 18-year-old boy. Why aren't Homestead Park and Lower Straits Lake patrolled? On weekends and holidays our lake is not safe and I keep my children off the lake for their own safety.

★ ★ ★

Boats cut in front of others and skiers come too close to swimmers, docks and rafts. To add to everything, we have a person who rents hydroplanes to people who don't know how to handle them. Some people drink while driving and drop empty bottles in the lake creating the danger of serious cuts. We see people standing up in their boats or sitting on the bow while the boat is going at a high rate of speed.

Recently, as I helped my elderly grandfather out of the car and into his apartment, a Negro man and woman stopped their car and waited while my grandfather walked around the car. I'm sure with this thoughtful gesture the man didn't look to see that we were white, but just that a man needed a little courtesy. If there were more like this man in the world I'm sure the aqhe in God's heart would lessen.

'Commend Teen Drill Teams and Sponsors'

Recently I had the opportunity to watch the State competive program between several drum and bugle corps and drill teams sponsored by our VFW and AMVETS posts. The talent displayed by these teens was beyond description. This program emphasizes what our teenagers are capable of doing.

★ ★ ★

The VFW and Amvets are doing a tremendous job for our youth in sponsoring these competitive programs by teaching the youngsters discipline, fair play and a goal to work towards.

Question and Answer

My friend says some states give driver's licenses at 14. I say you have to be 16 any place. Who is right?

A TEEN-AGER

REPLY

Neither one. Several states issue learning permits at 14, not licenses. However, Louisiana and Mississippi both give licenses to 15-year-olds.

Generalization May Need to Be Taught to Children

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
University of Southern California

At the time a child enters the first grade he should be able to recognize that dogs and cats and horses are all animals; that chairs and tables and beds are all pieces of furniture.

First, he must learn to recognize a dog and a cat, and a cow and later get to know them all as animals.

While children learn to associate names with objects more or less automatically, generalization is an adult idea and may need to be taught.

Conversation between parents and children provides an opportunity for training in the correct use of collective nouns.

Parents should also go out of their way to give children exercise in the negative approach to ideas.

Parents can make sure their children have the proper words for groups of things in their usable vocabulary by asking a few pertinent questions.

Mother asks "Is the chair an animal?" And encourages the child to answer in complete sentences — "No, the chair is not an animal." Or, "The chair is a piece of furniture."

Other generalized ideas are necessary in understanding the teacher. A large group of objects could be considered as soft while another large group would be hard. Right and left are general concepts. Thin and fat can be general concepts.

* * *

A flock of birds, a herd of cows, a gang of boys, a set of dishes, relatives and playmates --the list of generalizations goes on and on, and they are adult concepts.

The more familiar a child is with them as he enters school, the easier it will be for him to understand teachers.

For example: The child must know the difference between words and pictures to understand what is happening as his mother or teacher reads stories from a book.

Otherwise he may get to depend too heavily on the pictures and eventually have trouble reading.

* * *

Here is an opportunity for the child to get practice in paying attention and in being taught. Also, for him to make mistakes without being laughed at.

KEEP CHILD STRETCHING

He probably will not use generalized words except when his mother asks questions for which the answers require the use of such words.

Mother should keep the child stretching to understand and participate in adult conversation, rather than bring her conversation with the child down to the child's present level of understanding.

New words should be introduced at times when the child can get a mental picture of the meaning. A flock of birds in a picture or, better still, seen in reality make the discussion of the word "flock" timely.

* * *

Caution: Beware of the child parroting meanings just to satisfy you for the moment.

If he cannot remember the next day, he may be getting into a careless habit of appearing to understand when he really does not.

Try out your teaching skill with a very few words and follow up with tests of the child's retention.

How well he understands words is more important than how many he understands.

(Tomorrow: Learning to control attention.)

Drug Protects Cell Unit

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — A team of scientists has found that a controversial chemical can protect a living cell's powerhouse from being destroyed by freezing and thawing.

So far all they've protected is an isolated powerhouse — the mitochondria that consumes oxygen and fuels the cell. But they think the way they did it may provide a clue to later freezing of whole cells, then perhaps organs like kidneys for thawing and use as human spare parts.

Some cells — blood and sperm for example — have long been known to be reusable after freezing and thawing.

But cells buried in tissue, like a kidney, muscle or heart, or even a plant, have defied freezing and thawing because their mitochondria and other material inside the cell are damaged in the process.

In an experiment with tomato cells, Dr. David B. Dickinson and his colleagues at the University of Illinois at Urbana, have found that the mitochondria of tissue cells can be protected if they are first treated with DMSO — dimethyl sulfoxide.

The eternal truth a new Come. He back lifted up the enough of Power, and is now shedding upon the World the unclouded splendor of His revelation (In Gloucrings)

Junior Editors Quiz on SEA SHELL

QUESTION: Why do we hear the sea in a sea shell?

* * *

ANSWER: Looking at an empty sea shell we often forget that a soft-bodied animal of the mollusk group once lived inside of it.

After hatching from an egg, the mollusk begins life as a tiny free swimming veliger (1) which soon sinks down to the bottom and begins to develop a hard shell (2).

When adult (3) the mollusk can pull itself inside the shell and close the opening with a horny plate (4). After its life span is over the animal dies, but the empty shell remains.

Emily hears a faint sound like breaking waves as she holds an empty conch shell over her ear. This is because, beside the louder sounds we hear, there are always many fainter sounds. The shell magnifies many little noises so that altogether they make a sound that reminds one of breaking waves.

The big shell is called Glory-of-the-Seas. A single shell of this kind has been sold for $1,200.

1942 Yacht Patrol Is Honored by Navy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Navy finally has sung the praises of a group of unsung heroes of World War II, a handful of yachtsmen who might have become America's first line of defense against the Japanese fleet.

Thirteen Bay Area yachts sailed forth in May, 1942, sure that they would face the guns of the enemy. Only one of them was to be fired upon.

The yachts formed a warning line off the West Coast. They were to flash a radio alert to the mainland if Japanese ships were spotted.

In the early days after Pearl Harbor naval authorities indeed felt that the possibility of the message being sent was real. Before the yachts took up their positions 300 miles off the California coast, the Navy relied on a thin warning screen of patrol boats and seagoing tugs.

Luckily, the Japanese headed for Midway where they were beaten by the American fleet on June 4, 1942.

HONORED BY NAVY

Seventeen of the weekend sailors were honored for the first time recently when the Navy hosted a luncheon for them at Treasure Island Naval Base in San Francisco Bay.

The tales of the yachtsmen told had elements of comedy but also the determination of the boatsmen of England who brought back a battered army from Dunkirk.

The well-kept, seagoing yachts, most of them 50 or 60 foot sloops, were taken to Treasure Island and prepared for what was to be a two-week stay on the high seas.

Sailors tossed a dull gray paint over their gleaming white hulls in an effort to make them less conspicuous.

"But they forgot about the white sails," said Stan Natcher, now general manager of public relations for an oil firm.

The most vivid recollection of the yachtsmen was of the Navy sailors who rounded out the crews.

"Oh, they were seasick," said Lionel Barneson; 76.

Natcher recalled one of his bluejackets who was sick for the whole two weeks.

"And he," Natcher said, "was our cook."

The introduction of direct overseas telephone dialing on a regular basis between points in the U. S. and Europe is expected to begin in 1970.

Ghetto School 'Pushouts' Are Helping Themselves

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG, JR.

There was a time when most Americans quit school early to help support their families, but now most Americans complete high school and many go on to college. Those who leave school before they finish are called dropouts. I don't like the word. It Gives a wrong picture of what actually happens to these kids.

YOUNG

I'd rather call them "pushouts," because they leave school not because or any great defect in themselves, but because the educational system just doesn't make the effort needed to motivate them and teach them.

Negro youngsters attending ghetto schools learn at a very early age that society stacks the cards against them and they are smart enough to observe that the Negro high school graduate has the same unemployment rate as the "dropout."

This is a serious problem, because only by continuing their education can they hope to get a decent job and escape the poverty they have known all their lives. But most educational systems are by their bureeaucratic natures, unresponsive to the needs of the disadvantaged.

They can handle the average student pretty well, bu tthey just can't cope with the special attention needed by disadvantaged youngsters raised in a poverty-stricken racial ghetto.

The New York Urban League has a successful program which should serve as a model for every ghetto in the country. The League has set up store-front schools, called street academies, which enroll teen-agers who have been "pushed-out" of the regular school system.

League staffers give the student remedial work, discuss their problems with them, and motivate them to go to college. For those kids who are homeless, the League has rented apartments in the neighborhood, and they serve as "dormitories" and places were students can study.

This personalized attention has paid off. Over 30 of these kids, labeled "unteachable" or "disciplinary problems" by the school system, have gone to college. Over 60 others were placed in prep schools and will eventually attend college.

The League has plans to operate its own prep school in central Harlem, an area of 300,000 people which doesn't even have its own high school. That way graduates of the street academies won't have to depend on scholarships to out-of-town prep schools.

Squid Kills Whale Calf in Deadly Duel

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) —The large swells of the normally choppy sea around the Cape of Storms were suddenly disturbed at Danger Point on a quiet afternoon.

About 200 yards offshore from the scenic Cape Town beach a grim life-and-death duel was being fought between a giant squid and a seven-foot Southern Right calf whale.

The baby whale's mother circled helpless near the death struggle as the squid slowly drowned the calf, its six-foot-long tentacles clamped tightly around the head.

For 90 minutes lighthouse keepers at Danger Point watched the little whale battle gamely, visibly weakening under the pressure of the squid.

Later a third whale joined the cow, but could do nothing to end the battle. Meantime the calf continued to drown, slowly, as it surfaced less and less frequently for air.

WOMEN'S SECTION

Pontiac Press Photos by Ed Vanderwerp

Before Mirta left for home last weekend, the four posed for this picture in front of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth VandenBerg's home. Representing America (Kristin), Sweden (Johan and Ulla) and Argentina, (Mirta). Both Johan and Ulla are anxious to see more of the United States and will travel through the West.

Students Tour While Visiting

Carrying on an international guest exchange are the Kenneth VandenBergs of Orchard Lake.

Visiting the family are two Swedish university students, cousins of the family with whom their daughter Kristin Ann, 18, spent last summer in the Youth for Understanding, foreign exchange program.

★ ★ ★

Another foreign envoy, Mirta Delgado, 18, of Salta, Argentina, lived with the VandenBergs throughout the school year. Her visit, organized through American Field Service, ended Saturday.

Ulla Dahlbeck and her cousin Johan, both 22, and from Stockholm, find Americans "very friendly."

Asking directions after their arrival by plane in New York City, they said the natives were "happy to help."

TOUR WEST

They plan to spend two weeks with the VandenBergs, travel to Las Vegas and other points west, then return to the area for another two weeks' visit.

Ulla says what she looks forward to most about visiting the nation's noted gambling spot is sending post cards home to friends.

During her stay Mirta felt both Florida's heat, and the bitter cold of a northern Michigan skiing trip. She has also come to understand the country's problems, but not necessarily to approve.

★ ★ ★

Seeing New York City, which is a bigger city than any near his homeland, was remarkable to Johan, who will study economics.

His cousin found "everything different."

Electric toothbrushes and two-car families were new commodities to her. She plans to continue studying foreign languages.

Kristin, who is a recent graduate of Kingswood School, remarked that in Sweden she was pleasantly surprised by the sauna baths, unfamiliar foods and rapid, exciting pace of her "family."

Dr. and Mrs. VandenBerg expect to be rather lonely in the coming months with Mirta's departure and Kristin attending Cornell University in the fall.

Personals

Just back from a trip to Virginia and Washington, D.C., the John Ostranders of Loch Leven Drive with children, Janet, John and Jim, will spend "the Fourth" at Pontiac Yacht Club.

★ ★ ★

This is an annual potluck festivity for the family. Jack Ostrander is an avid sailor and will again be in the race. Mrs. Ostrander's brother, Dr. Leo Wasserberger, will be in the race also.

Her other brother, and his family, the Neil Wasserbergers, will most likely show for the day too.

★ ★ ★

While in the Capital, the Ostranders were shown points of interest by her sister, and brother-in-law, the Philip Agees who reside in Falls Church, Va.

Packing for Saturday's departure, Mirta was assisted by Kris, who verging on tears, managed a smile. Attached to her suitcase is the AFS sticker which identifies her as one of the European and South American students who come to the United States each year to live with a family.

Try Using Hand Signal First

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have three healthy, normal, wonderful daughters, ages six, four and three. The eldest is an exceptionally attractive child with a head full of red curls, enormous b i n g cherry eyes, and long d a r k lashes.

ABBY

I know she's pretty . . . and so does she — and her sisters, who are very ordinary.

My problem, D e a r Abby, is the well-meaning idiot who stops me in the supermarket when I am with all three and says, "My what a gorgeous child! She should be in the movies!

★ ★ ★

Or, "Oh, boy, what a heartbreaker that redhead will be when she grows up!" She is six and she's already asking me when she is going to start breaking hearts!

Please put something in your column about people who single out a child in the presence of brothers and sisters. It makes it hard on the mother. If you have any suggestions as to how I can handle this, I'd be grateful.

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: There is no help for the idiot. You can only hope to shut him up by signaling with your face, your hand, or your foot — if necessary.

But I'll print this in the hope that the thoughtless stranger who is overwhelmed by the beauty of a child will think twice before he speaks, leaving the mother to deal with the problems that are sure to follow.

DEAR ABBY: I am a single working girl, age 19.

The other day a saleslady told me that I should start my silver and china before I get married. I told her I wanted to wait until I was engaged so my fiance could help me pick out the pattern. Her answer was that most men don't have very good taste, and if a girl doesn't get these things started before she is married, she may never get them at all.

Do you think it would be foolish to start my silver and china even though I am not even engaged?

WORKING GIRL

DEAR GIRL: A man's taste is no worse, or better, than a woman's but most young men are about as comfortable in a china shop as the proverbial bull, and when asked for an opinion, reply, "Whatever she wants is fine with me."

★ ★ ★

For the girl who is silver-and china-minded, however, starting young and buying a piece at a time is good insurance for having it later.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My husband reads your column faithfully, so maybe if you put this in the paper with your answer, it might settle the argument.

My husband is a very intelligent man, but he always uses a toothpick at the table. He says it's O.K. in your own home.

I say it's positively nauseating.

Could we have your opinion?

NAUSEATED

DEAR NAUSEATED: Any practice that is "nauseating" to those around him is, in my opinion, highly inconsiderate, and therefore bad manners.

A Papoose Sling

Carrying a baby like a papoose is a new vogue. A manufacturer of infant's seats came up with a heavy-duty twill sling to meet the trend. For seating comfort, it has a foam-cushioned board seat and a wide belt for mother's shoulder.

This carrying technique leaves her hands free for packages or purse.

Floyd Bunt Is Member of Theater Organ Followers

By JUNE ELERT

"Cuddle up a little closer, lovy mine."

The insinuating lilt of the popular song of several decades ago slipped into the sonorous strains of the "Christians' March" with several unobtrusive finger-flicks of the multi-colored stops on the old theater organ.

Floyd Bunt, head of the science department at Cranbrook School, was giving a mini-concert for me in the basement of his home on Faculty Row.

He is a member of ATOE, which, for the uninitiated, signifies "American Theater Organ Enthusiasts."

Enthusiast Bunt obtained his three-manual Page instrument from the old State Theater in Sandusky, Ohio in 1960 and trucked it to Cranbrook. The console alone weighs a ton.

Add to this 750 pipes, plus xylophone, drum, and numerous other accoutrements (a total of about 3½ tons), and the task of removing, transporting and reassembling, seems staggering.

The organ was built in 1928 by the Page Company of Lima, Ohio, builders of church organs and about 50 or 60 theater organs.

It was designed to provide musical accompaniment and sound effects for silent pictures. A three h.p. electric motor supplies the air.

Bunt demonstrated its multiplicity of strange sounds, ranging from bird whistle and castanets to wood block and an eerie gong which might have served with appropriately sinister effect for Charlie Chan in his heyday.

Bunt was registration chairman this weekend for the national convention of ATOE in Detroit.

With other local chapter members, he has been kept busy restoring and reconditioning the giant Wurlitzer in the Fox Theater and a smaller Moller in the Fox lobby in preparation for the concerts scheduled to be played during the convention.

Other concerts took place in the Redford Theater and the Arcadia Skating Rink, and the Fort Street Presbyterian Church.

About 1,000 members were expected to attend the convention, at the close of which these enthusiastic organ-fanciers will return to their regular routines of business, housekeeping, law, medicine, teaching, etc. in all parts of the country.

Bunt keeps his hand in during the year playing for organ parties on the ornate gold and silver-finished instrument, which he has bathed in a red spotlight, a further reminder of theatrical days.

* * *

Bunt's daughter, Susie, also plays, while sons, Floyd, Terry and Teddy, confine themselves to helping with the maintenance of the instrument.

Mrs. Bunt also enjoys the hobby, though she does more listening than playing.

Floyd Bunt, head of the Science Department of Cranbrook School, is shown at the console of his permanently-installed theater organ in the basement of his home on the school's grounds. A large room to one side is crammed with 750 pipes and other paraphernalia.

Why Grow Old?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. I hope you can help me. You have probably heard this question millions of times. I have the most horrible legs I have ever seen. I want to do something about them, and fast. They have no shape at all. They just come straight down.

I have heard that gaining weight will help, but I cannot afford to gain weight. If there is any hope for me, please tell me because my legs are horrible.

A. There is hope if you will exercise faithfully. You will have to build up the muscles in the your legs to increase contour. Try this exercise. Stand with one hand on the wall or on the back of a chair.

Lift your right heel off the floor as high as you can and at the same time swing your left leg forward with a stiff knee. Return heel to floor and leg to position. Do this 10 times.

Now lift your left heel from the floor and swing your right leg forward. Return to position. Repeat nine times. Later on work up to 25 times each day. Ballet lessons would be helpful, too.

* * *

Q. Are those of us who followed your BIP (Beauty Improvement Plan) supposed to write you about our results? I am so pleased with mine that I would like to tell you about it, but maybe lots of such letters would be a bother.

A. A bother! No! Never! I get a real thrill hearing about your success stories. My readers are not obligated to write, but I always feel that it is very gracious of them when they do.

I have already received many letters from successful reducers but I would like to hear from more of you.

* * *

Why not let me join the fun? Tell me about your loss in pounds and measurements and also how this has affected your outlook, happiness and activities, if you wish.

* * *

Q. Recently I lost a lot of weight and my face is thinner. It also seems that the skin below my eyes is wrinkled. Can you tell me what creams I should use, if any, and what makeup to use on them?

A. There are excellent eye creams on the market. Pat one of these around your eyes. Pat gently. Heavy makeup when applied over lines makes them more noticeable.

Blend the makeup toward them lightly. Do this only with your base. Do not powder over lines.

* * *

Q. Recently I had my third child. Two months afterward I noticed a growth of hair on my chin and above upper lip. Can I remove this somehow and what caused it?

A. You can have it removed permanently by electrolysis or you can remove it temporarily with a depilatory. However, be sure to use a depilatory which was designed especially for use on the face and follow directions carefully.

You can remove the hairs on the chin with tweezers. The growth of hair is no doubt due to a change in your hormone set-up.

Fearful Mothers Forget Indian Conflict

MADRAS, India (AP) — Deep-seated differences between Hindus and Moslems have led to many bloody clashes on the subcontinent. But a mother's desperation to bring relief to a sick child often pushes aside these religious hatreds.

Here in south India it is common to see Hindu women carrying afflicted children crowd around a mosque waiting for Moslems to come out from their 6 p.m. evening prayers.

As the worshipers file past, the women ask them to "blow a couple of words" on the child. A Moslem then will mumble a verse or two from the holy Koran and then blow his breath on the child — a symbolic spraying of the little one with the words of the Holy Book.

Generally the children have chronic ailments and have been treated at the government's free hospitals or municipal dispensaries. Nonetheless, the mothers seek out a religious assist for the child.

There also are cases of Hindus who pay respect to Moslem saints. On Thursdays, eve of the Moslem sabbath, a few Hindus will join Moslem devotees at Moslem shrines, asking the saint for a boon, or thanking him for one received.

Mariner Quits

MONTAUK, N.Y. (AP) — Schoolteacher Clifton Tatro says he has given up his planned voyage across the Atlantic in a 32-foot sloop, at least temporarily. Boating troubles blocked two attempts. He suffered a third setback Sunday off Montauk and the Coast Guard towed his boat, the Waterloo, back into port.

Program Aids Disturbed

LEXINGTON, Mass. (AP) — A health association has set up a family care program to provide foster homes for emotionally disturbed patients.

The program is aimed at bridging the gap between life in a hospital and the daily challenges of normal life.

Legends about the opal have existed for centuries. During the middle ages, the Bishop of Normandy thought opals powerful enough to make the wearer invisible.

Baby-Powder King Likes Deserted Sea

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—The South Atlantic may be among the loneliest, most deserted and at times unfriendly places in the world, but to millionaire baby-powder king Robert Wood Johnson it is perfect.

Relaxing in the plush surroundings of his own luxury yacht, the Golden Crest, he happily drinks in the fresh air of peace and quiet and lets the rest of the wprld float by.

"The seas is the only place left where there is no traffic, no neon signs, no congestion, radio or TV . . . and, forgive me, no news," he says.

* * *

"World news is just not good for my state of health any more. The most deserted sea I know is the South Atlantic but if you can tell me of another place where there is just nothing, that is fine for me."

* * *

Johnson, 73-year-old president of the American company which makes the famous powder carrying his name, is a man who likes comfort.

His 187-ft. converted minesweeper has five staterooms resplendent with edge-to-edge (wall-to-wall) carpets, splendid wooden paneling and air conditioning.

Hard-Earned Bet

BOSTON (AP) — Abraham Kasparian, 13, bicycled 90 miles to win a $1 bet from a classmate.

He pedaled from his home in Springfield to Boston during the holiday weekend. With him he took $7 and 10 cheese sandwiches.

'Dust Could Heat Earth'

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — A vast artificial ring of dust around the earth has been proposed by a Russian engineer as a way of harnessing the sun's heat to warm up the entire planet.

The dust ring, composed of small opaque white particles orbited by a series of spaceships, would extend from about 600 miles above the earth to a maximum height of more than 6,000 miles.

The smaller the particles, according to V. Cherenkov in a Soviet publication called "Planet of Eternal Spring," the greater would be the useful surface of the ring.

INSTALLMENT No. 20

CHAPTER 20

MY THOUGHTS moved in two directions at once.

The immediate problem of escape I dealt with mechanically. The traffic on the boulevard made a good camouflage.

Slouched low in the seat to conceal the bloodstained jacket, the typical Parisian cabby's expression of boredom on my face, I drove with just enough abandon to pass, I hoped, for the real thing.

What had happened after I flung open the door to that room and seen Louis and Paul standing there? All I knew for a fact was that Leon Becque had been close behind me, and Louis had suddenly leaped toward me, hands outthrust, as if to shove me out of danger.

Then there had been the explosion of a gunshot, a blow on the head, and oblivion. When I had come to, Louis was dead and Paul was gone.

But no matter how murderously efficient Becque was, he could not have manipulated all this by himself. There must have been an accomplice behind the door with his gun ready. That was what Louis had been trying to save me from by flinging himself at me. That was why, probably in panic, the gunman had shot him down. The accomplice had stilled any outcry from Paul and carried him away to some hiding place in the house. Becque had planted the gun in my inert hand, thrown open the window and shouted for the police, and the trap was sprung.

But those banknotes scattered over the bed and floor?

I clapped a hand to my pocket and knew, with a sinking heart, where that money had come from. It was the ten thousand francs getaway money Anne had given me; my wallet itself, with all my papers in it, would certainly be found in Louis' pocket. It was all the evidence needed to substantiate Becque's story that Louis had robbed me and I had killed him for it. No question about the murder weapon remained in my mind now. It was the late Colonel Henri de Villemont's pistol, and it rounded out an airtight case against me.

At least it was airtight if Paul couldn't testify for me. It was useless to count on Anne as a witness, with her child in enemy hands.

So now at all costs I had to get to Claude de Gonde before the police did. I wasn't sure how much of my story he might believe—the dimensions of Hubert Morillon's conspiracy were so staggering that I found it hard to believe in it myself—but de Gonde would do anything for Paul's safety. With his help I might elude arrest until I cornered Morillon or Becque and got the truth about Paul's whereabouts. Ten minutes alone in a locked room with either of them was all I wanted.

Yet, if the police got to de Gonde before I did, I was now walking right into their hands.

I drove into the city as cautiously as if I were trying to win a safety award, and parked a block from the house at the tail end of the hack stand near the Russian Church. Jacket muffling me to the throat, hands in pockets, I strolled to the gate of the house and let myself into the courtyard.

Standing there, I had the feeling that something was subtly wrong. Then I saw what it was. During the afternoon, the garage doors were always kept open and Pascal was usually servicing one or another of the cars, but now those doors were tightly shut. A few of the shutters at the house windows were always open in daytime, too, and now every one was closed. It was as if the house had been hermetically sealed against the world, and suddenly I remembered with misgiving that its phone service had been abruptly discontinued.

I put my key into the lock of the big door, half expecting to find that the lock had been changed, but the door opened readily. I closed it behind me, crossed the rotunda, and made my way upstairs to Anne's apartment. The door to it was wide open; the rooms were empty. Most bewildering was the sight of her dresser and dressing table cleared of all the personal belongings that ordinarily covered them.

I went down the hushed corridor to the de Gonde apartment. There, too, the door was open, the rooms empty, the dressers and dressing table cleared of everything. I stood blinking at Madame Gabrielle's dressing table as if this was all somehow a trick of my vision, as if by straining my eyes everything would come back to normal.

It was the same in the Vosiers apartment and in the rooms occupied by Bernard — an open door, empty rooms. The electricity was on and that was something, but not very much.

There was one hope left, the kitchen below, the ugly, reassuring face of Georges or, for that matter, the face of any one of the help. I ran downstairs full tilt, raced through the dank, narrow passageway behind the stairway of the rotunda and was brought up short by the door to the kitchen which, for the first time in my remembrance, was locked. I rattled the knob, threw my weight against the door in a fury of wrathful frustration, but there was no budging it.

And then a voice behind me said cuttingly, "Enough of such exercise, you idiot. Even if you break down that door you'll find no one behind it."

It was Edmond Vosiers.

Fat and sleepy-eyed, he stood in the passageway outside the door of the gun room. When I walked toward him he looked me up and down with open distaste.

"What a spectacle," he said. "What have you been doing to yourself?"

"Never mind that. Where is everyone?"

"En route to the Chateau Lennac for a few days' vacation. Madame de Villemont is with them, if that's what you're getting at."

"No," I said, "what I'm getting at is that she didn't go willingly."

Vosiers raised an eyebrow. "What are you suggesting? That the woman's being carried off by force? Has she addled your wits so completely that you believe such nonsense?"

"Monsieur, is it also nonsense that Paul himself was, taken from me by force a little while ago?"

"Indeed?"

"Do you think I'm joking?" I said angrily. "I tell you the boy is gone."

"Of course he is." Vosiers glanced at his wristwatch. "Not fifteen minutes ago I had a phone call from his grandmother, who was with him at Le Bourget airport. At this very moment both of them are boarding the plane that will have them in Venice in time for their dinner."

Davis makes a startling discovery at the de Villemont mansion.

Liberal Abortion Forces Gain—and Lose

CHICAGO (AP) — Forces fighting for liberalization of the nation's abortion laws scored their greatest gains this year—and suffered some resounding defeats.

The Colorado, North Carolina and California legislatures passed laws broadening the circumstances under which doctors can legally perform abortions.

* * *

The Indiana Legislature passed an abortion liberalization law, but Gov. Roger Branigan vetoed it. "It offends the moral principles of a large proportion of our citizens," he said.

In a related development, the American Medical Association changed a policy that has stood since 1871 and adopted a liberal stand on abortion. The action came at its annual convention in Atlantic City, N.J., in June.

LAWS UNCHANGED

But moves to change laws on abortion were killed or put over by legislatures in Connecticut, Nevada, Michigan, Iowa, Maryland, New Mexico, New York and Tennessee.

Colorado became the first state to adopt in full recommendations made in 1959 by the American Law Institute in a model penal code on abortion. North Carolina followed suit a few weeks later.

* * *

An overwhelming majority of the states permit abortions only when a woman's life is endangered by pregnancy.

The institute, made up of lawyers working with doctors, recommended that therapeutic or legal abortions also should be permitted if:

- Continuance of pregnancy would gavely impair the physical or mental health of the mother.
- There was significant risk that the child would be born with a physical or mental defect.
- Pregnancy resulted from rape or incest.

The American Medical Association went along with all these conditions in its new policy, but the California law omits the provision dealing with possible deformed births. That section was removed to meet objections by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The AMA's 1871 policy statement deemed it unethical for a physician to induce abortion "without the concurrent opinion of at least one other physician and then always with a view to the safety of the child, if that be possible."

ANTIQUATED POLICY

The AMA committee recommending the changes called this antiquated and inadequate.

The Roman Catholic Church is the leading opponent of liberalizing abortion laws. The church regards abortion as murder.

In Nevada, however, the legislature rejected a liberalization bill after two Mormon senators joined Roman Catholic spokesmen in opposing the measure.

Sen. James Gibson said the liberalization proposals would open a Pandora's box. He said his wife was advised to end her last two pregnancies but that the Gibsons left the matter "in higher hands" and that both babies were born without harm to themselves or their mother.

Sen. Vernon Bunker, also a Mormon, read a letter from a Los Angeles physician saying the proposals would reject the fundamental belief in the sanctity of human life.

But Unitarian and Congregational clergymen endorsed a liberalization bill which died in a legislative committee in Iowa; the American Lutheran Church and the American Baptist Convention supported a liberalization bill in the Ohio Legislature.

* * *

An abortion liberalization bill was killed in committee in New York after considerable controversy and opposition from Roman Catholics.

Assemblyman Albert H. Blumenthal of Manhattan said he would give his liberalization proposal a new twist at the next legislative session.

COULD REFUSE

He said his new proposal would permit physicians and institutions to refuse to perform such surgery if it conflicted with their religious beliefs. Blumenthal said this provision was designed to resolve objections of Roman Catholics.

* * *

Proponents of liberalized abortion, including the Planned Parenthood World Population organization, predict new attempts will be made in states where liberalization proposals have been defeated and in other states where changes have not been proposed.

The AMA estimated that 10,000 abortions are performed in U.S. hospitals each year and that few of these were necessary to save the mother's life.

"American medicine is therefore confronted with a situation whereby conscientious practitioners performing therapeutic abortions for reasons other than those posing a direct threat to the life of the mother are acting contrary to existing laws," the AMA said.

Proponents of more liberal abortion laws point to sharp differences in state laws. In New Jersey, a doctor convicted of causing a patient's death by an illegal abortion can be sentenced to 15 years in prison and fined $5,000.

Legal Uncertainties Slow Sea Mining

By Science Service

KINGSTON, R.I. — Mineral deposits in the ocean floor could be mined today if the mining companies could be assured of their legal status there, according to the director of the U.S. Bureau of Mines.

* * *

"There are so many uncertainties in the ocean," notes Dr. Walter R. Hibbard Jr., that the mining industry has been very hesitant to follow the petroleum industry out into the sea, even near shore.

Dr. Hibbard discussed the legal aspects of sea-floor mining recently at the Second annual Summer Conference on the Future of the Sea's Resources at the University of Rhode Island.

"I think the Bureau of Mines' role is to set up a demonstration operation," Hibbard feels. "This is what we hope to do in the Bering Sea off Nome, Alaska."

* * *

The Bureau's 200-foot ship Virginia City is now on its way to the Bering Sea to begin test drilling for deposits of gold and platinum.

SEA SEDIMENTS

The precious metals have long been mined from beach sand of the area near Nome. Bureau geologists expect the deposits to continue into the sediments at the bottom of the shallow sea.

* * *

While most of the sea floor there, up to the three mile territorial limit, has already been leased by mining firms, there has been very little physical exploration of the area, according to Hibbard.

* * *

The most difficult task, he explains, is locating ore deposits reliably. The Virginia City will be the first vessel to try this on a wide-scale in the Bering Sea.

Free-Loaders' Guidebook Good for Cheap Thrills

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Last year a young woman named Sallie Ann Robbins established herself as the free-loader's Baedeker by compiling a guidebook for cheapskates.

Called "See America Free," the book listed places that tourists could visit without paying admission, and some of them sounded pretty thrilling.

Among the attractions that caught my eye were free visits to a paper bag plant, a sheep auction and a peach orchard. But I have a stronger lust for adventure than most tourists.

The first edition was privately printed and sold very well despite some obvious shortcomings, which I pointed out in my review of the book.

For one thing, Sallie Ann neglected to mention a free visit to Carson's Grocery in Merkel, Tex., where at certain times the public can watch a produce truck being unloaded.

LASTING IMPRESSION

I wrote that review more than a year ago but it apparently made a lasting impression on the minds and hearts of my readers. Anyway, on one reader.

Just a few days ago I received a postcard from a reader who identified herself as Mrs. E. M. Barker. While traveling in Texas, Mrs. Barker turned off at Merkel and parked for awhile in front of Carson's.

Unfortunately, she missed seeing the produce truck.

Sallie Ann's book also apparently made a good impression, for it has been reissued this year by Bantam Books, a paperback publisher.

* * *

In looking over the new edition, I noted that Sallie Ann omitted what probably is now the most popular form of free recreation in the United States. I refer to waving at television cameras.

STUDIO AUDIENCES

Studio audiences at many TV shows are largely made up of tourists, some of whom write weeks in advance for tickets and journey hundreds of miles to be there at the appointed hour.

The performers, with typical show biz egotism, like to think they are the magnets. Actually, of course, studio audiences couldn't care less about the programs. Give them a camera to wave at and nothing else matters.

The trouble is, not all TV programs have their cameras "pan" their audiences. And this is where Sallie Ann could render a valuable service.

In the next edition of her book she should include a list of all the shows that offer tourists an opportunity for camera waving.

Such an index would prevent disappointments of the type Mrs. Barker experienced.

Night Train Late, Lions to Blame

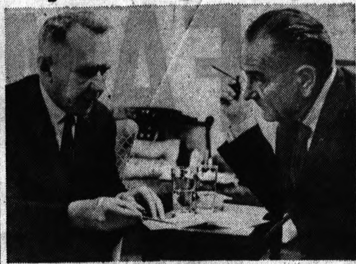
DAR-ES-SALAAM, Tanzania (UPI) — Apologizing for the recent late arrival of the night train to Morogoro, deep in Tanzania game country, East African Railways claimed lions were to blame.

The driver picked out the pride in his spotlight as they straddled the line.

So hard did he jam on this brakes that a carriage was derailed.

One lion was run over and killed. The rest prowled around angrily, preventing repair work and delaying the train for six hours.

Big Two Talks: History of High Hopes



A history of meetings between leaders of the two world powers, United States and Russia, shows that immediate results do not usually appear, though such talks raise hopes high. Stalin and Truman were all smiles at Potsdam, top left in 1945, as were Kennedy and Khrushchev in Vienna in 1961, but oceans apart, old tensions resumed. Much was made of Eisenhower and Khrushchev's "spirit of Camp David" in 1959, but later came the U-2 incident, Berlin, etc. Now political observers are suggesting guarded optimism over 10 hours of talks between Kosygin and Johnson, above.

Heated meeting occurred in Nixon-Khrushchev "kitchen debate" at an American exhibition in Moscow in '59.

Thatched Roofs Found to Cause Lung Disease

By Science Service

GENEVA — Ever dream of living in a thatched-roof hut? Don't.

Prof. C. R. Blackburn and Dr. William Green of the University of Melbourne recently conducted a study in Papua, New Guina, where there is a high incidence of chronic lung disease among the natives.

They discovered that the hut dwellers become allergic to tiny bits of vegetable protein and dust that drop gently from the picturesque shelters.

The doctors tested blood for antibodies against extracts of thatch. They found high concentrations, showing hypersensitivity to the residents' own roofs.

New 'Nation' Being Ignored

Caribbean Isle Gets No Replies to Appeal

ANGUILLA (AP) — The farmers and lobstermen who live on this sunny coral island in the Caribbean have proclaimed independence, but so far there's no sign that anyone in the outside world is listening.

Spokesmen for the islanders say appeals for association with the United States, Britain and Canada have met with silence.

* * *

Requests for diplomatic recognition got the same reaction from Mexico, the Dominican Republic, Haiti, Trinidad-Tobago, Jamaica, and Barbados.

Little wonder if in the clamor of International affairs the proclamation of the Republic of Anguilla last week seemed a whisper. The 35-square-mile island 150 miles southeast of Puerto Rico has only 5,000 residents, mostly Negroes.

FEW CONVENIENCES

Anguilla has no electricity, no telephones, only a few paved roads and at present no mail service and no flag. Its leaders have not been able to scrape up the $20,000 a month needed to operate schools and maintain other essential services, and teachers have had to work without pay.

A British colony for 300 years, Anguilla achieved self-rule this year as part of the associated British state of St. Kitts-Nevis-Anguilla. Anguillans soon decided that the central government based on St. Kitts, a former British colonial island 55 miles away, was ignoring their needs.

* * *

They broke away last month, expelled the St. Kitts police and formed a 15-man governing committee.

For a few weeks, the British Union Jack replaced the tri-colored flag of the three-island state. But Peter Adams, 56, a teacher and Anguilla's provisional president, said Britain refused to listen to the islanders' plea for help. The British flag came down.

* * *

Robert Bradshaw, prime minister of the St. Kitts government, has said he would bring Anguilla back into the associated state, by force, if necessary.

Optometrists Urge School

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The American Optometric Association at its annual meeting has unanimously approved a resolution calling for a school of optometry in Michigan.

William Dansby, executive director of the Michigan Optometric Association, said at the meeting Saturday that no site has been chosen as yet.

But he said the school would probably be built at a state-supported university.

'Unexpectables' Deliver as Tigers Edge Cleveland

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

A sweet situation turns to sour grapes!

During the short history of the Midwest Football League there has been a team known as the Macomb Arrows, the Mt. Clemens Arrows, then the Pontiac Arrows and now the Michigan Arrows back in Mt. Clemens.

This was sort of a lend-lease team, more adequately compared to a gypsy tribe looking for a permanent home.

But the head of this tribe, Lyle Wells, who fashions himself as the George Halas of the MFL, hasn't been able to find a friendly settlement for his team.

After two years in Pontiac, during which time he had less to do, but was able to make more money than in all the years combined in the league, he and the Pontiac Football Company had a falling out and the contract was not renewed.

MR. EVERYTHING

During his past years in Mt. Clemens, he was not only the coach of the Arrows, but he was president, general manager, public relations director, yard line marker, water boy, trainer, ticket seller and the board of directors of the team.

* * *

When he made a few cents at the gate, it may have been enough to cover the cost of the ankle tape of the players, who had to pitch in to pay their transportation costs on road trips.

In Pontiac, the Wells' Arrows were on the gravy train.

He hauled in almost $16,000 in two seasons and his only working responsibility was to coach the team.

He was also financially responsible from this money for disbursing the due money to the players under the contracts he gave them.

Wells made Mt. Clemens once again as his home base a few months ago.

In an announcement recently he gave his reason for leaving Pontiac as "financial mistreatment" by the Pontiac Football Company.

* * *

To present the facts point-blank, no one ever heard of Wells or his Macomb Arrows, or the Midwest Football League until the Pontiac Arrows came into being.

It was a simple matter of proving what good organization and support in Pontiac could do as compared to his failures of five previous years roaming from football field to football field.

. . . And it's a matter of fact that if there was mistreatment by anyone, it was by Wells to his players.

CONCESSIONS IN PONTIAC

The players never knew what it was to be compensated for playing football prior to coming to Pontiac, and while based in this city they received many concessions from the Pontiac Football Company.

But as for their contracts, it was Wells' responsibility to give them financial remuneration from the money he received under the Pontiac contract.

A select few of his players received compensation in amounts averaging about $10 per game.

When the Football Company issued a financial statement to show the players that the commitment financially to Wells was met, which in turn should have been disbursed among the players, he angrily protested at a league meeting that such action was in bad taste.

It may have been in bad taste for Wells.

But the Pontiac Firebirds have fortunately broken their ties with him, and this will eventually be in their favor when available players have to decide whether to play in Pontiac to get aboveboard treatment or join the vine of sour grapes with Wells' nomadic organization.

Cubs, Cards Swing in Redhot NL Race

By The Associated Press

The struggle for first place in the National League has turned into a swinging affair — the Chicago Cubs swinging their bats and the St. Louis Cardinals their fists.

The Cubs and Cardinals shared first a second straight day after Chicago outslugged Atlanta 12-6 and St. Louis stood off Cincinnati 7-3 Monday night.

But the amazing Cubs won the easy way, with nine runs on four homers and three more on a triple.

St. Louis did it the hard way.

* * *

The Cardinals were breezing behind a seven-run first inning and Bob Gibson's nine strike out, no-hit pitching until the fifth inning when the real slugging began.

The Cards' Lou Brock was hit by a pitch in the fourth and when Gibson threw his first pitch in the fifth over Tony Perez' head, words were exchanged and suddenly both benches emptied, punches were thrown and it took special police to restore order.

In quieter National League surroundings, the New York Mets beat San Francisco 5-3 and Pittsburgh topped Los Angeles 5-2 in the only other games scheduled.

The swinging in St. Louis turned into more than the usual shoving match typical of baseball fights. Gibson emerged with a jammed thumb, Cincinnati Manager Dave Bristol a gashed right thigh and one policeman a reported dislocated jaw and spiked hand.

FOURTH STRAIGHT

"We're not exactly in a good frame of mind," said Bristol, whose team lost its fourth straight and eighth in nine games. "When both benches go out there, something's going to happen."

Orlando Cepeda of the Cards and Pete Rose of the Reds were two of those who paired off.

Cepeda said he was trying to separate Gilbson and Perez, and told Perez in Spanish to "take it easy." But Bob Lee of the Reds does not understand Spanish and "I grabbed Cepeda," he said. "Then Cepeda hit Rose and four guys had me down."

Lee, who charged from the bullpen onto the gathering at the mound, was the only player ejected.

When baseball continued, Deron Johnson got the first hit off Gibson and the Reds knocked him out in the eighth with three runs on Art Shamsky's homer and an error by Dal Maxvill that led to the other runs.

* * *

The Cubs scored six times in the first on homers by Billy Williams, Ron Santo and Randy Hundley, and when Felipe Alow and Rico Carty homered for the Braves in the inning, it tied a major league record for circuits in one frame.

FAMILY SQUABBLE — The Braves-Cubs game in Atlanta tonight will be strictly a family affair with Phil Niekro (left) of the Braves and his brother Joe (right) of the Chicago Cubs slated to face each other as starting pitchers. Between them is Phil Sr. who was in town to keep an eye on his boys.

Lumpe's Homer, McLain's Arm Halt Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Just call Detroit Tigers second baseman Jerry Lumpe and pitcher Denny McLain "The Unexpectables."

Cleveland didn't expect Lumpe to uncork a two-run, game-winning homer Monday night. He hadn't smashed a homer all season, and his batting average was a low-down .121.

* * *

And the Indians didn't expect McLain, who hadn't beaten them all year, to hold them to three hits over nine innings as Detroit nipped Cleveland 2-1.

McLain credits his newly found prowess over the Indians to Johnny Sain, Detroit pitching coach.

"You have to set batters up," he said, "and Sain has been showing me how to do it.

"I think I'm getting the idea," McLain said. "I know that you can't just pump, pump, pump. I think I'm a smarter pitcher, thanks to Sain."

* * *

McLain, squaring his pitching record at nine victories and nine losses, brought the Tigers their third victory in four games.

THREE-WAY TIE

The victory left Detroit, Boston and Minnesota in a hot, three-way tie for second place in the American League, each club 3½ games behind league-leading Chicago.

* * *

Lumpe whacked a 2-and-2 pitch from Luis Tiant into the lower right field seats in the third inning. He was starting only his second game this season—a move by Tigers Manager Mayo Smith to pit left-handed batters against Tiant.

The blast drove in McLain, who had reached base after bunting into a force-out that nabbed Mickey Stanley at second base. Stanley had walked and Lenny Green had struck out before McLain bunted.

Lee Maye smashed a solo homer for Cleveland in the third.

Only other hits given up by McLain were a single to Rocky Colavito in the second inning and a double by Chico Salmon in the fifth.

Tiant matched McLain in hits allowed —three—but he pitched one less inning, with Bob Allen relieving him for the ninth. It was Tiant's third loss in 10 decisions. He struck out nine Tigers.

* * *

Except for a breathtaking catch by Jim Northrup in the seventh, the Tigers might have lost the contest. The rightfielder sprinted to the wall and narrowly snared a drive by Fred Whitfield with Chico Salmon on base on a walk.

Tonight, Earl Wilson (8-7) faces All-Star Cleveland pitcher Steve Hargan.

Five-Game Win Streak

Twins Surging Toward First

By the Associated Press

The Minnesota Twins are closing the arms gap on Chicago's American League leaders while the White Sox' hitters fall farther behind their own pitchers.

Right-hander Dave Boswell got a last-out assist from reliever Ron Kline Monday night in pitching the Twins past the New York Yankees 3-0 for their fifth straight victory.

* * *

It was Minnesota's eighth triumph in a 10-game stretch—during which the pitching staff has accounted for three shutouts and a dazzling 1.40 earned run average.

The White Sox, meanwhile, managed just four hits in a 1-0, 14-inning loss to Baltimore. They have dropped four of their last five starts, have been blanked in their last two and now lead Minnesota, Boston and Detroit by 3½ games.

The Red Sox pounded California 9-3 for their fourth straight victory while the Tigers edged Cleveland 2-1. Washington and Kansas City were idle.

Boswell struck out 10 Yankees on the way to his sixth victory in 11 decisions. Tony Oliva's run-scoring triple off Fritz Peterson, 0-8, in the first inning gave him all the help he needed until the ninth, when Kline came on after a walk and single and got the final out.

"It's more important to win than for me to go all the way for a shutout," said Boswell, who started the Twins' winning streak with a 3-2, four-hit victory over Boston last Wednesday.

"You've got to be a team guy, and that's what we've got on this staff."

TWICE EACH

In the past 20 games, Boswell, Dean Chance, Jim Kaat and Jim Merritt each has won twice while yielding a combined total of 14 runs.

The White Sox, who have scored only eight runs in their last five games, wasted the efforts of 26 players—including six pitchers—in bowing to the Orioles in overtime.

Trims Wall in Playoff

Casper Collects Canadian Crown

MONTREAL (AP)—Billy Casper, the mildest of mild-mannered men, allowed that it was very nice to win a national championship, admitted he played well, but not his best—and even hinted he was a little pleased.

So it was left to bitterly disappointed Art Wall, beaten by four strokes by Casper's brilliant 65—six under par and a course record—to provide the comment after their 18-hole playoff for the Canadian Open Golf Championship Monday.

"Superb," Wall said.

"I played as well as I could and as hard as I could. But I never was really in it. Almost, maybe, but never really in it."

The figures support him. In fashioning the best round of the tournament, Casper missed only two greens, had eight one-putt greens, picked off six birdies and didn't have a single bogey.

* * *

"The 10th was the turning point," the two-time U.S. Open Champion said. "I had a two stroke lead at that time. If I had missed that, Art would have been only one stroke back.

The victory, Casper's first of the year was worth $30,000 and the Seagram Gold Cup.

MONDAY NIGHT FIGHT — The Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds took time out from their National League game last night for this engagement on the St. Louis infield that lasted for 10 minutes and ended with the ejection of Reds' pitcher Bob Lee (center without hat). The unscheduled bout started at the pitcher's mound after Cards' hurler Bob Gibson exchanged words with Tony Perez in the fifth inning. St. Louis won the game, 7-3.

European Players Dominating Play in Net Tourney

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — For the first time since World War II, three European tennis players are in the semifinals of the All-England Championships.

Coming on top of last year's Wimbledon triumph by Manuel Santana of Spain, it's evident that European tennis is on the way up.

* * *

Wilhelm Bungert of West Germany, Roger Taylor of Britain and Nicola Pilic of Yugoslavia all won their quarterfinals matches Monday and stormed into the round of four.

Bungert and Taylor have to play each other in Wednesday's semifinals. Pilic faces Australia's John Newcombe, the only-seeded player still surviving and now the favorite for Santana's title.

Bungert, who has reached the Wimbledon semifinals twice before, was a stylish 6-4, 4-6, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3 victor over Thomas Koch, the Brazilian left-hander.

* * *

Taylor, the hope of the crowds that have packed the stands for the past week, got home 6-4, 8-6, 6-4 against Ray Ruffels of Australia.

Pilic downed Australia's John Cooper 14-12, 8-10, 6-4, 6-2. Newcombe defeated fellow-Australian Ken Fletcher 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

Fishermen's Dream Finally Comes True

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Word got out quickly Monday that six-pound bass were jumping out of a pond near Charlotte.

Soon 65 persons were on the banks and in the six-acre pond. Cars parked along the highway attracted other passing motorists. Four men caught 10 bass and 10 bream (bluegills) in two hours. The catch for others was about the same.

The pond was being drained and the water was only a foot deep.

Italian Minister Asks Ban on Road Racing

ROME (AP) — Italian Transportation Minister Oscar Scalfaro asked the government Monday night to ban without exception all auto and motorcycle racing competitions that use the normal roads in Italy. He asked that such races be restricted to autodromes.

The news caused a sensation in Italian auto racing circles.

Scalfaro made his proposal for "a final ban of motor racing competition from normal roads" in a letter to Premier Aldo Moro and to the ministers of interior, tourism, and public works.

Baltimore Bays Move Into Soccer Deadlock With Pittsburgh Club

By the Associated Press

With the help of a great game by their own goalie and a surprising game by the Chicago Spurs, the Baltimore Bays have moved into a tie for first place in the Eastern Division of the National Professional Soccer League.

* * *

Terry Adlington, the English goaltender for the Bays, made one great save after another in protecting Baltimore's 1-0 victory over Oakland, first in the Western Division.

The lone Baltimore goal came from Bernando Azvedo after nine minutes of play before 7,108 customers.

Meanwhile in Chicago, the lowly Spurs, fourth in the Western Division, tied Pittsburgh, which is first in the East, 2-2. The Phantoms and the Bays each now have 97 points.

No games were scheduled in the United Soccer Association.

Veto Power Stirs Players

Rift Near in PGA-Tourist Row

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The long-simmering dispute over veto powers between the Professional Golfers Association executive committee and the touring pros has burst into the open again.

Doug Ford, a member of the players' committee and here for the $100,000 "500" Festival Open this weekend, said Monday the problem must be solved by 5 p.m. Wednesday.

"If we don't settle it," he said, "we'll set up another organization competitive to the PGA."

★ ★ ★

The pros have said they will strike the PGA championship at Denver, Colo., July 20-23 if the matter is not solved.

Ford said an unidentified sponsor of the PGA title tourney has told the PGA that "if they don't have the tournament players he will stage a Columbine Open with the touring pros."

Columbine is the course at which the PGA tournament is scheduled.

"The dispute isn't as big as it's been blown up," Ford said. "I think it could be very easily resolved."

Ford's remarks followed a charge by Max Elbin, PGA president, at Palm Beach Garden, Fla., that the demands of the rebellious touring pros approached extortion.

"This is anarchy, pure and simple, and the PGA obviously cannot accept such a concept ...." Elbin said.

VETO POWER

The dispute over the PGA's veto power supposedly was settled in a Cleveland meeting two weeks ago.

"I've never seen the players so upset about one thing," Ford said. "We thought they had agreed to give up the veto."

Ford said the players' committee wants the PGA to surrender the veto only in regard to tournament operations.

★ ★ ★

"We don't want them to relinquish it over the PGA as a whole," he said. "We are not against this power. We feel that they are not educated enough in tournament affairs to use it in relation to the tournament picture."

Ford said the pros felt the Cleveland agreement provided machinery replacing the veto power of the executive committee.

"Now we find they want to keep the veto power if they don't like the advisory committee's decision," he said.

The advisory committee is composed of businessmen around the nation. Ford said the players proposed the committee be used for arbitration of disputes.

The deadline set by the players is on the eve of Thursday's start of the "500" Open at Speedway Golf Course.

Billy Casper, fresh from his playoff victory over Art Wall Jr. in the Canadian Open Monday, will defend his title in the 144-player field.

Dave Gumlia of St. Paul, Minn., and Al Kelly of Orlando, Fla., shot one-under-par 71s in leading 48 qualifiers Monday.

Excavators Nip Teamsters '9'

It's still too early to declare defending city men's recreation baseball champion Teamsters 614 dethroned, but indications are it will need a valiant comeback this summer.

The unionmen tumbled to their lowest perch in many seasons Monday night at Jaycee Park with their 8-5 loss to Pass Excavating.

The second game of the Class A twinbill also was an upset as C.I.O. - 594 trimmed the R. T. Clippers, 6-4, shoving the losers into third place.

The Teamsters' defeat dropped them into sixth place at 6-5, a half game ahead of Pass (5-5-1). Since only the loop's top four teams will be in the city title playoffs, the unionmen's crown is sitting unsteady.

Pass jumped into a 7-2 lead in the opening two innings as Keith Deaton and Larry Crouch each singled in a pair of runs. Pat Dailey's run-scoring safety knocked Les Stone from the mound.

GIFT RUNS

Five errors enables the winners to tally four unearned runs. Bob Rabaja had two singles and three RBI for the losers. Tom McGormick and Dave Rensaw shared the hill for Pass.

C.I.O. (7-5) slipped past the Teamsters into fifth place as Rich Goldsworthy ended his three - game losing skid by scattering six hits and whiffing 11 Clippers (8-3-1).

Again, the first two innings were decisive. C.I.O.'s first seven batters reached base safely for four runs. It erupted for two unearned runs in the second after two men were retired.

Today at Jaycee, Booth Homes meets Oakland University at 1 p.m., Talbott Lumber plays Lake Orion's Cardinals at 4 p.m., and league leading M.G. Collision tangles with winless U.A.W.-653 at 7:30 p.m.

'I'm Still Ump,' Roars Reardon

NEW YORK (NEA) — Beans Reardon sat attentively in Gussie Busch's office while the owner of the St. Louis Cardinals described how he wanted him to tour the country making speeches about baseball.

"Now listen, Beans," Busch said. "Go home and talk it over with your wife. Maybe she won't want you running around the country like that at your age."

"What do you mean, my age?" snorted Reardon, who is 69. "I don't have to go home and tell her anything I'm still the umpire."

Still the umpire. Even now, when Beans is sitting in a chair in an office, his raspy, Massachussetts-accented voice carries from room to room.

Just like the old days when the stadia didn't have public address systems and the umpires had to announce the batteries before the games.

WITH BUSCH

Beans is working for August Busch now. "I drank enough of his beer," he says laughing.

* * *

Beans Reardon was a National League umpire from 1926 to 1949. He gave the ballplayers the same treatment they gave him. "I'd rather call a player a name than chase him," Beans said. "They understood."

With one exception. "A college kid," Beans said. "One day I called him something when he beefed about a strike.

"So he goes to Ford Frick's office and says, 'Mr. Frick, a ballplayer gets fined $50 for swearing at an umpire, right?"

* * *

"Frick says, 'That's right. Did Reardon curse at you?' The player answers yes and Frick says, 'Well, don't be mad. Consider it a compliment. That's like having anyone else say hello to you'.

BIG CALLS

Beans was involved in a number of baseball's more memorable calls. "Like the time Babe Herman, Chick Fewster and Dazzy Vance all wound up on third base.

* * *

"All I did was go around saying, 'you're out, you're out!' You never saw three more dumfounded guys in all your life."

And the time Hack Wilson threw his bat in the Polo Grounds after a called third strike and Beans said, "If it hits the ground, you're out."

Of all the managers, Beans remembers Frankie Frisch and Leo Durocher the best. "they'd both storm, scream and carry on," Beans said, "but Frankie would forget after a game. Leo wouldn't."

* * *

One of the memorable incidents in Beans' career involved Frisch:

WATCH COACH

"I never tried to figure out a sign in my life. But on this particular day we get a letter from the league office telling us to make sure the third base coach stays in the coaching box.

* * *

"Well, we're in Pittsburgh and I'm at third where Frisch is coaching. Now this was during the time when the team left their gloves on the field between innings.

"St. Louis is batting now and I see Frisch out of the coaching box, almost on top of third base. So I remember the league rule and I start yelling at him to get back in the coaching box.

He says, 'I can't Beans, I just can't.'

* * *

'What do you mean, you can't?' I said. Then he calls time and walks over to me and says, 'My bunt sign is when I stand even with the third baseman's glove.'

MOVE BACK

"'Well, Frankie,' I said, 'wouldn't it be logical for you to pick up the glove and move it backu' He looked at me like I just explained him Einstein's theory of relativity."

* * *

John (Beans) Reardon was born in Boston and then moved to Los Angeles. He always was too small to play baseball so the bigger kids allowed him to umpire.

"When I was just starting," Beans said, "the Cubs came into Los Angeles for an exhibition game with the pacific Coast League team I wound up umpiring.

"Grover Cleveland Alexander was pitching for Chicago and I'm really scared because here's this great pitcher on the mound and this 135-pound squirt behind the catcher.

"Well, the first batter comes up and I call the first two pitches balls.

* * *

"Big Pete comes walking off the mound and I figure here's trouble. But he says, 'Young man, what was wrong with those pitches?'

"All I could say was, 'nothing, I just missed them.'

"Alexander looks at me and says, 'That's O.K., son. I'll get the next one over.'"

Those two pitches — says Beans Reardon — were the only two he ever missed.

BILL HARRINGTON

Local Mentor Changing Jobs

Bill Harrington Takes Birmingham Post

Bill Harrington, sports coach of Eastern Junior High School and a quarterback on Pontiac's two Midwest Football League championship teams, has resigned to join the Birmingham School System.

Harrington, who coached Eastern JHS tho four city basketball titles and one in football, next fall will teach elementary physical education and be an assistant football coach at Groves High School.

He will join the grid staff of Jim Kinnison.

After lettering as an end at Chicago's Amundsen's High School in 1949, Harrington was a quarterback at the University of Illinois campus in Chicago for two years.

He played two years of U.S. Army football in Alaska, then attended the University of Illinois at Champaign for two seasons. He received a Masters Degree from New Mexico Highlands in 1958 prior to joining the Pontiac Central football staff for four years.

Better Promotion Needed

Tennis Hopes to Close Progress Gap

NEW YORK (NEA) — It has always been puzzling why tennis lags so far behind the other major sports in this country as far as image and popular acceptance. Especially when compared to golf, which has become a billion-dollar business.

The game requires a more versatile, better-conditioned athlete. No pot-bellied gaffer of 47 is going to get on the same court with Rod Laver or Arthur Ashe, or even the lowest ranked amateur, and win even one game.

Tennis is a lot better suited to the television age. The action is compactly confined to a small area, with multiple camera-angle possibilities, whereas a golf course is impossible for thorough coverage (though beautifully spaced for commercials). How many times can you squeeze drama out of a man lining up a putt?

For the blue-collar worker, tennis should be ideal. It doesn't take much money for equipment. It doesn't require as much acreage.

* * *

Yet, there's still a residual feeling that any guy who walks through the park in white shorts and sneakers, with a couple of rackets under his arm, is really an escapee from Newport or some other snob sanctum sanctorum.

Largely, this feeling has been perpetuated by the people who run tennis in this country — the United States Lawn Tennis Association and its member lodges. Where golf long ago recognized that a man doesn't smudge his palms by accepting money for play, tennis—nationally and internationally — has been an inrascible bastion against professionalism.

LAGGARDLY

So, you have to be amazed when you see what has happened recently. Suddenly aware of its laggardly position, the USLTA has succumbed to commercialism and progress, with two noteworthy developments.

First, it let itself be licensed. That means simply a national agency is now allowed to merchandise tennis as a commodity, probably taking its cue from the broad merchandising program of the Natio[illegible] Football League.

* * *

The way it works now, no kid can grow up healthy, wealthy and able to red-dog Johnny Unitas unless he starts the day with NFL-endorsed, crispy, crunchy breakfast flakes. In the future, this kid is expected to get the power for his overhead smashes by using USLTA products.

Second, with the money guaranteed from this licensing, the USLTA was able to go out and hire a full-time executive director for the first time—Bob Malaga. He cuts across the normal grain. He's the son of a Cleveland cop and is an aggressive, hard-nosed promoter who's dedicated to the proposition that tennis is for all the people.

He was a state high school champion in Ohio, captained the Michigan State tennis team and then settled down to become a lawyer because they don't pay big bonus money to racket swingers. In 1964, however, he lured the Davis Cup Interzone finals from its usual home in Forest Hills to Cleveland.

* * *

"By taking it from New York to the hinterlands," says Malaga, "we took a drastic step, but made it financially the most successful event in Davis Cup history."

With that base of achievement, Malaga is ready to tackle the over-all problems of tennis.

"What we need," he says, "is better communication with the people in this country. The average person doesn't know tennis, or the scoring system.

* * *

"We need more big stadiums. Unlike baseball or golf, we can't put a crowd anyplace but Forest Hills. (In 1968, the new Madison Square Garden is sponsoring an international tournament.)

Recovering From Injury

Mr. Chicago Cub to Return

CHICAGO (AP) — Ernie Banks, Mr. Chicago Cub, is expected to return to his first base post by the end of this week, the club's front office said Monday.

The 36-year-old Banks, nursing a spike wound on his heel, is with the sizzling Cubs in Atlanta. He was accidentally spiked Saturday by the Cincinnati Reds' Pete Rose. It took seven stitches to close the wound, although it was not deep.

* * *

Banks, hitting .310 with 15 homers and 44 runs batted in before leaving the lineup, spent Sunday's game with the Reds in a radio booth. He rendered some color comments and led cheers for the team as it tied the St. Louis Cardinals for first place in the National League with its sixth straight victory and 13th in its last 14 games.

Before leaving town, Rose told reporters that "Banks was very kind to say I was blameless in our Saturday collision that caused his spike wound."

"He didn't have to say anything, but great guys do these things whether they have to or not," Rose added. "I've never deliberately tried to hurt anybody. Anyway, I have too much regard for Ernie to start with him. I'm also sorry the fans reacted the way they did toward me. If they had known all the facts, I'm sure they wouldn't have booed me as they did, but that is all part of the game."

TROUBLESOME

Rose said that the Cubs will be troublesome in the pennant chase all the way.

"I don't buy that talk that being up there is a fluke for them," he said. "I especially like their second base-shortstop combination of Glenn Beckert and Don Kessinger. The Cubs' infield is better defensively right now than the one the Dodgers used to win the pennant last season. Beckert and Kessinger position themselves very well, and they eat up a lot of balls labeled hits.

"I don't know about the depth of the Cubs' pitching, but that infield can right a lot of wrongs on the mound."

* * *

The Cubs will have to try to keep winning without Kessinger as well as Banks for awhile. Kessinger missed Sunday's game as he began a two-week stay with his army reserve unit in Ft. Riley, Kan.

The Cubs also are without their sensational centerfielder, Adolfo Phillips. He is bothered with a muscle spasm in his back and has played only one game in the last nine days. His return is uncertain although he suits up each day and tries to work out. Phillips sports a .319 at the plate with 13 homers and 48 RBI's.

In the meantime, Paul Popovich is at shortstop, Lee Thomas at first base and Ted Savage in center. And the Cubs keep winning.

They also kept up the momentum although losing Ken Holtzman, one of baseball's brightest young pitching stars. He went into the Army for a six-month hitch May 22.

"When we lost Kenny," said Cub Captain Ron Santo, "The other guys took over — Bill Hands, Joe Niekro and Rich Nye."

Racing Pigeons Stray

LONDON (AP) — The royal sport of pigeon racing hit disaster Monday with the loss of nearly 1,500 crack homing birds with a total value runing into thousands.

The missing pigeons, three of them owned by Queen Elizabeth II, were released for Lerwick in the Shetland Islands last Tuesday in the King George V Cup Race — the star event of British pigeon racing for prize money of $5,000.

* * *

Only 241 o fthe 1,732 entrants have reached their home lofts. Hopes for the others getting back are dwindling fast.

Last year the race lost 1,300 birds. One of the race organizers said: "We've had some bad years but we can't remember two as bad as this."

One theory is that the birds ran into sea fog soon after their release. Another theory is that they may have hit easterly winds, which sometimes upset their mysterious homing instinct.

Pigeon racing is second only to fishing as a participant sport in Britain.

Aussie Pulls Upset in Taking Net Title

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Rod Laver, ignoring the rankings which figured him to finish as runner-up to fellow Australian Ken Rosewall, upset the No. 1 seeded Rosewall Monday night to win the Oklahoma City World professional Tennis Tournament.

In a match interrupted for more than an hour after the first set by a sudden downpour, Laver defeated the powerful Rosewall 6-2, 3-6, 6-4.

Before therain, Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., defeated Andres Gimeno of Spain 10-8, 7-9, 8-6 for third place.

Rosewall and Ralston then teamed to defeat Laver and Fred Stolle, another Australian, 10-8 in a pro set for the doubles championship.

Ex-Orioles Hurler on Disabled List

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jim Palmer, a 15-game winner with the world champion Baltimore Orioles last season, was placed on the disabled list Monday by the Rochester Red Wings of the International League.

A spokesman for the Orioles said the 21-year-old right-hander would be sent to Baltimore for another examination of his ailing right shoulder.

New Kicking Rule Backed by Colleges

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) —Commissioners of 11 major collegiate athletic conferences voted Monday to endorse the new NCAA football rules, including the controversial punt regulation.

The Collegiate Commissioners Association commended the NCAA Football Rules Committee for its continued progress and pledged "our complete cooperation and support in following the NCAA code during the upcoming football season."

* * *

Under the new punt rule, tacklers cannot go downfield until the ball passes the scrimmage line. Some coaches, fearing the regulation may lead to injuries, have said they will not abide by it.

* * *

The association, with Big Ten Commissioner William Reed of Chicago presiding at a five-day session here, also recommended that graduate students be permitted to participate in intercollegiate sports if their eligibility has not expired.

* * *

The commissioners also urged the NCAA Television Committee to continue efforts to "prevent the necessary TV commercials from disrupting normal progress of play during television of college football games."

Minor Leaguer Joins Yankees

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — The New York Yankees announced Monday night the purchase of right-handed pitcher Cecil Perkins from Syracuse of the International League.

Perkins, 26, fills the vacancy left when the club sold reliefer Hal Reniff to the New York Mets.

Football Squads Work on Passing for All-Star Duel

ATLANTA (AP) — Both squads for the Coaches All-America Game went through prolonged passing drills Monday with quarterbacks Steve Spurrier of Florida and Bob Griese of Purdue firing for the East and Jon Brittenum of Arkansas and Bo Burris of Houston throwing for the West.

At the close of the session, East aide Vince Dooley of Georgia seemed pleased.

* * *

"Our quarterbacks and receivers are beginning to know each other and they're looking better. There's been a slight improvement now all three days we've worked," said the Georgia coach.

Opening lead—♣ Q

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

If you wonder what an expert thinks when he has to plan an optimistic contract in a match point duplicate, we will let you tune in on one today.

He starts his thinking before playing from the dummy at trick one.

"Why did I bid quite so much? I should have known that my partner didn't have anything extra and that he would be showing up with only two trumps.

Well, anyway, I am flying at 30,000 feet and running short of gas. Let's see how no-trump would go. Well, if the diamonds break 3-3 or if declarer can bang the ace-king and drop either the queen or 10, he will have four diamond tricks.

Then if the heart jack drops there are five heart tricks for anyone in six no-trump. Will anyone be there? Probably not. I can try about the same line of play at six hearts except that I have to draw trumps first.

"What other play is there? Suppose I take the spade finesse successfully? I can ruff out my last two spades with dummy's King-eight of trumps unless the eight gets overruffed. Might even make seven that way if the jack of hearts drops doubleton. No, I won't try for seven but this looks like the best play. Here goes!"

Let's follow his play now. At trick two he enters dummy with the king of diamonds and tries the spade finesse. When it works he cashes his second high club and dummy's ace of diamonds. He breathes a sigh of relief and cashes his ace of spades.

At this point he is sure of his contract, irrespective of how the rest of the cards break. He leads a spade toward dummy and trumps with the king. The eight would have held the trick but South is playing absolutely safe for six.

Back comes a club and, when East follows, South ruffs with the ace. Now he leads his last spade and dummy's eight of trumps gets overruffed but South doesn't care. In fact, when someone points out that he could have made seven if he had tried for it, South only nods happily because six bid and made has to be close to a top, if not actually a top.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	?

You, South, hold:
♠ 2 ♥ A Q 10 6 ♦ K J 9 5 ♣ A Q J 4
What do you do now?

A—Double. This is for takeout and shows preparation for both unbid suits.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You double and your partner bids three hearts. What do you do now?

Russia Rejects Pill as Unsafe

By Science Service

GENEVA — Russia won't use the oral contraceptive pill, according to Dr. B. V. Petrobskij, U.S.S.R. Minister of Health, interviewed here.

"I receive and study all the professional literature available on this question," he said, "and I find there is not a single country where oral contraceptives are considered absolutely safe."

Consequently, the U.S.S.R. will not risk putting the pill into general use; neither will state enterprise manufacture it, he said.

But Russia has done plenty to satisfy the universally rising public demand for help with birth control or family planning.

Women receive free advice through a nationwide network of clinics. Mechanical methods are recommended and dispensed free in pharmacies.

LEGAL ABORTIONS

Women also obtain abortions legally. Dr. Petrovskij says the main consideration is whether a woman is healthy enough to withstand the operation.

Birth control advice and abortions are available to both married and unmarried women. "Our responsibility is to help. Ethics are for the patients," says the Russian doctor.

HOLDS PICTURE OF DEAD HUSBAND—Mrs. Nancy Volante holds a picture of her husband, Anthony J. Volante, 28, a supermarket manager, missing since Feb. 15, whose weighted body was found by a fisherman in the Detroit River Sunday. Mrs. Volante identified a wedding band taken from the body, and employes at a supermarket which Volante managed in Lincoln Park said keys found on a belt were his.

Cause of Death Sought in Missing Man Mystery

DETROIT (AP) — A weighted body found in the Detroit River was identified Monday as that of Anthony J. Volante, 28, missing supermarket manager believed kidnaped last February.

An autopsy was ordered to determine what caused his death.

A 10-foot chain attached to a concrete block was wound about the legs of the body, found Sunday by a fisherman southwest of Grosse Ile, police said.

Volante's widow, Nancy, identified a wedding band taken from the body, and employes at a Wrigley's supermarket which he managed in Lincoln Park said keys found on a belt were Volante's.

DISAPPEARED

Volante, a father of three aged 2 to 7, disappeared after driving to his suburban Westland home last Feb. 15.

He pulled into the driveway of his home and parked his car in the garage about an hour after his store closed. Police theorize he was waylaid at his home, kidnaped and forced to return to the store.

* * *

Owners of the supermarket expressed doubt he willingly opened the safe, from which $2,658 was taken. They said that before he left for home he had put "a substantial sum" in a section of the safe that only could be opened with the help of a Brink's armored car crew.

The $2,658 left in the outer part of the safe was for store operations the next day.

REWARDS POSTED

Volante's employers posted a $5,000 reward for solution of the kidnaping. His family, hanging to the hope he might still be alive, had offered $5,000 for information leading to his whereabouts.

Westland police say they have a strong suspicion, backed by considerable evidence, as to who killed Volante and that two suspects have been in custody since nine days after his disappearance.

* * *

The suspects, both former convicts now are serving terms of 20 to 30 years imposed in their convictions in a subsequent armed robbery.

A bag of groceries was found by his wife in the station wagon Volante had parked in the garage shortly before her return home the night of Feb. 15.

A neighbor told of seeing Volante drive into his garage and of seeing a second car pull into the driveway behind him and then leave a few seconds later.

Theft Suspects Believed Dead

Bloomfield Hills police have been informed that one of two suspects in a city home burglary has been killed and his partner believed dead.

The men were suspected of being a pair who broke into a home on Woodbury and took $12,000 in money, jewels and clothes on April 25 this year.

Police from Ardmore, Pa., reported the suspect, Frederick J. Malchow, 40, of Chicago, was found drowned in a stream. His partner, Harold J. Evans, 22, also of Chicago, is also thought to have drowned in the same stream.

Ardmore police reported to Bloomfield Hills police they had arrested the pair on a charge of raping a girl in their city. The men were shackled but managed to escape, Ardmore police reported.

The body of Malchow, still shackled, was found in a nearby stream. Police were reportedly still looking for the other body.

A third man is sought in the suspected killing of the two men.

Youth Injured in Collision

A Royal Oak youth whose van-type vehicle was hit by a gravel truck in Bloomfield Township yesterday is in good condition today in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Robert C. Kores, 18, was attempting to make a crossing at Telegraph off of Wilshire about 12:30 p.m., yesterday when his vehicle apparently stalled in the southbound lane, police said.

The gravel truck, driven by Richard D. Osburn, 22, of Livonia, hit the van and spun it around several times, according to police. The truck driver was not hurt.

Philadelphia Focus of U.S. Celebrations

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania State House was what they called it on July 4, 1776, when the British colonists' Declaration of Independence was read for the first time.

Today it is called Independence Hall and internationally known contralto Marian Anderson is to read the manifesto of liberty.

* * *

But Philadelphia can be called only the sentimental focal point of the nation's observance of its 191st birthday. In each of the 50 states, citizens are observing the holiday in their own ways—from family outings to statewide bell ringings.

The ceremonies at Independence Hall include an annual pageant of flags of the 50 states, each carried by a local Boy or Girl Scout.

IN NEBRASKA

In recognition of the 100th anniversary of Nebraska's admission to the Union, the state's flag will be carried by Mary Sutton, a senior Girl Scout from Wahoo, Neb.

In Delaware, Gov. Charles L. Terry has proclaimed that all bells in the state should ring in celebration at 2 p.m.

* * *

In Richmond, Va., bells were scheduled to peal for four minutes at noon at historic St. John's church. Other city bells are being rung, too, recalling the sounding of the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia.

Probably the most popular way to observe the occasion is as a holiday away from work. Families crowded highways, headed for picnics or for beaches and lakes, with an accompanying rise in traffic fatalities.

IN WASHINGTON

Axes swung at forests in the state of Washington. Two logging festivals, the 33rd annual Loggerodeo at Sedro Woolley and the Washington Loggers' Festival at Cle Elum, have been going strong since Saturday.

In Detroit, Americans have invited Canadians to celebrate with them. The International Freedom Festival commemorates July 4th and Canada's Dominion Day, which actually was last Saturday.

* * *

Jefferson County, Alabama, is honoring 615 of the nation's war dead with flags—many of which draped their caskets—on 12 "Avenues of Flags."

Oklahoma is featuring brick throwing and rolling pin tossing contests, Indian powwows and parades, but Morristown, N.J., is not to be outdone by the Wild West.

A special guest at that town's celebration is a buffalo, rented from a local farm, symbolizing the part the animal played in American history.

TOO TIGHT — A truck driver using Orchard Lake just west of West Wide Track yesterday apparently thought his truck didn't reach that 10-foot, 6-inch height limit on the railroad overpass. The truck didn't make it. The driver, after collecting his thoughts, let out air in all tires, lowering the truck about two inches and enabling him to back out with just a minor scrape.

Guardsmen, Police Seal Off Lake Geneva

LAKE GENEVA, Wis. (AP) — National Guardsmen and police sealed off Lake Geneva to roving carloads of restless youths today after 300 arrests in a weekend of Fourth of July holiday disorders.

Authorities seized 200 youths on a highway outside nearby Delavan Monday after window-smashing bands had invaded the lakeshore villages of Fontana and Williams Bay.

* * *

A cattle barn at the County Fairgrounds at Elkhorn was used as a makeshift jail for the overflow of prisoners. Guardsmen with bayonets stood watch while the youths tried to sleep on the dirt floor.

Mayor Emil Johnejack closed all bars at Lake Geneva at midafternoon Monday and declared an emergency curfew at 5 p.m. to force an unruly crowd of 3,000 out of the resort community 75 miles north of Chicago after two nights of violence.

TRAIL OF DESTRUCTION

Sheriff's Capt. Werner Voegeli said the youths then drove to Fontana and Williams Bay on the west shore of Lake Geneva and smashed windows as they went.

* * *

"It was just hit-and-run tactics," he said.

* * *

The caravan of cars was trapped at dusk east of Delavan between National Guardsmen approaching from Lake Geneva and police pursuing from the rear.

Voegeli said the youths were taken in National Guard trucks to the fairgrounds, enclosed by a fence topped with barbed wire. The girls were put in a wooden administration building, the boys in a cattle barn.

'JAIL FILLED'

"The jail is filled," said the Walworth County district attorney, Robert Read of Delavan.

Voegeli placed roadblocks manned by both police and guardsmen, on all highways leading into Lake Geneva and said the barricades would be maintained throughout the Fourth of July holiday.

* * *

Police reported 109 arrests in Lake Geneva during the first two nights of violence at Lake Geneva. Voegeli said 93 youths, 18 of them girls, were charged with disorderly conduct in Monday's outburst.

Read estimated another 100 youths were taken into custody but were released to their parents, summoned by authorities.

"We're trying to get rid of them any way we can," Voegeli said.

This was the fifth year of holiday uprisings at Lake Geneva, a Fourth of July mecca for youths of high school and college age.

* * *

"This is the first time we have had this wholesale destruction," Read said.

Park benches were hurled through windows, a statue ripped down, the police station stoned briefly, and the Chamber of Commerce building wrecked in the two nights.

About 100 policemen and sheriff's deputies, backed by 600 National Guardsmen armed with tear gas enforced peace Monday.

Read said most of the youths arrested came from Chicago and its suburbs.

Mayor Johnejack conferred by telephone with Gov. Warren P. Knowles Monday and made arrangements to meet with him at the state capital Thursday.

The mayor said he couldn't explain the outbursts.

"It's the slightest provocation," he said. "You never know what triggers it."

2 Teens Held in School Thefts

Two juveniles apparently carrying stolen property were detained about 3:25 a.m. while walking down Crescent Lake Road in Waterford Township.

The 14- and 16-year-old youths admitted breaking into Waterford Kettering High School early this morning, according to Waterford Township police.

The police suspect the youths are responsible for break-ins which occurred at Pierce Junior High School and Waterford Township High School, also early this morning.

Police would not estimate the amount of damage. The youths apparently damaged the school buildings at the points where they broke in.

The juveniles were carry microphones, keys, pencils, an electric drill, and other items when stopped, according to police.

When a new child is born, many European farmers plant a "birth tree" and the welfare of the child is believed to be connected with the tree's growth. In some districts of Switzerland, a pear tree is planted for a girl, an apple tree for a boy.

WISE OR WARY BIRDS—This trio of either wise or wary sea gulls parade along the shore line—perhaps looking for a meal or heeding an "unsafe for swimming" sign at the Michigan Riverside Park at Sault Ste. The wise birds may know the waters are unsafe without being able to read the sign.

Compromise Sought on Mideast at U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Sponsors of the two rival U.N. resolutions on the aftermath of the Arab-Israeli war worked today for a compromise to wind up the General Assembly's emergency session with some concrete action.

Representatives of the 23 Latin-American and Caribbean countries sponsoring one resolution and of the 18 nonaligned nations sponsoring the other met until late Monday night, but there was no immediate indication of progress toward agreement.

* * *

The two sponsoring groups planned separate meetings today to hear reports of the negotiations. The assembly scheduled morning and afternoon sessions, but the vote on the resolutions could be delayed until later in the week if the backstage talks promised to produce an agreement.

The Latin-American resolution, supported by the United States and Britain, calls on Israel to withdraw its troops from Arab territory occupied in the June war, and calls on the Arabs to end their 19-year state of war against Israel.

OMITS PEACE CALL

The nonaligned resolution, which the Soviet Union and France are backing, also demands the Israeli withdrawal but omits the call for the Arabs to make peace with Israel.

The compromise talks were undertaken Monday night because neither of the two resolutions was sure of getting the two-thirds vote necessary for adoption. Many diplomats feared the assembly would have to conclude with nothing to show for its meeting starting June 17.

In the Middle East, no new firing was reported along the Suez Canal, but an Israeli military spokesman reported that Syrian soldiers crossed the Israeli-Syrian cease-fire line Sunday night and fired at Israeli troops near Kaliya, at the southern end of the line. The spokesman said there was a 20-minute machine gun exchange but there were no Israeli casualties.

On the diplomatic front, King Hussein of Jordan arrived in Paris to meet with President Charles de Gaulle today and President Nikolai V. Podgorny conferred in Baghdad with Iraqi officials.

'GREATEST FRIENDS'

Podgorny on his arrival Monday told Iraqi President Abdel Rahman Aref that the Soviet people are the Arabs greatest friends and added: "We shall liquidate all the effects of the recent aggression."

Jordanian officials reported that Israeli guards Monday turned back about 100 Jordanians who tried to return to their homes in Israeli-occupied territory west of the Jordan River. The Israelis took their names and addresses and told them to come back in five days to see if their applications to return had been approved.

* * *

The Israeli government announced Sunday that refugees could return to the west bank between July 10 and Aug. 10 if they could prove former residence there and that they are not security risks. The Jordanian government called the announcement as "empty propaganda gesture."

Arab refugees continued to pour across the river into eastern Jordan, and the head of the U.N. Arab refugee agency appealed to Jordanians in the occupied territory to remain there.

Laurence Michelmore, commissioner general of the U.N. Reflief and Works Agency, also called on Jordan to encourage refugees to return to their homes and appealed to Israel to help returnees to rebuild their homes.

In Geneva, the International Red Cross Committee said Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan had promised its delegates free access to all territories under Israeli control.

June Tops '67 in Auto Output

DETROIT (AP) — U.S. auto production for June was the highest for any month this year and marks a closing production surge before plant shutdowns in preparation for changeover to 1968 models.

Ward's Automotive Reports put June production at 762,000 cars and 152,200 trucks, a total of 914,000, compared to the year's previous monthly high of 906,481 in May.

The May total, however, had a higher truck production level — 156,544 — and a lower car production total — 749,937.

Production of 1967 Rivieras and Toronados ended last week, production of 1967 Lincolns and Thunderbirds ends this week.

Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp. will begin the shutdown of 1967 model production next week, Ward's said, with General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. following in the remaining weeks of July.

Chrysler closes six plants July 7—two in Detroit, and one each at Belvidere, St. Louis, Los Angeles and Newark.

American Motors was scheduled to end 1967 model production at the end of this week.

Auto production for this week was expected to dip to 206,595 vehicles, compared to 216,573 in the same period last year.

More than half a million persons around the world, including 30,000 in the United States, were inoculated in 1966 against rabies.

Jayne's Rites Bring Crowds

Spectators Gather at Funeral Home, Grave

PEN ARGYL, Pa. (AP) — Jayne Mansfield's burial Monday, like her life as a glamorous sex symbol, attracted a large audience of spectators. In this case the audience was unwanted.

Crowds of nearly 1,000 gathered in front of the Pullis Funeral Home and at the Fairview Cemetery two miles away, where Miss Mansfield, 34, was buried with Methodist rites in this small town where she grew up.

* * *

"We just wanted a little privacy," said Mickey Hargitay, her second husband. "Why couldn't the people have left us to weep in peace?"

Hargitay, and Miss Mansfield's mother, Mrs. Harry Peers of Dallas, Tex., were among the group who attended the brief services in the chapel of the funeral home and at the gravesite.

RUN ACROSS GRAVES

Spectators broke through police lines and ran across grass-covered graves to take pictures of the bronze casket with its blanket of pink roses.

Miss Mansfield's oldest daughter, Jayne Marie 16, was the only one of her five children present.

* * *

The actress was killed last Thursday in a car-truck collision at New Orleans. A lawyer, Samuel Brody, 40, and chauffeur Ronald Harrison, 20, also were killed.

Her three children by Hargitay—Marie, 3, Zoltan 6, and Miklos Jr., 8—were injured but not critically.

Freeway Okayed

ROSEVILLE (AP) — The Roseville City Council agreed Monday to permit the State Highway Department to lay a section of I-75 along the Eleven Mile Road route, ending a long squabble that had delayed construction of the route for several years. Last week, the Macomb County Road Commission agreed to pay half the $2.1 million local cost of the freeway if it is built along the proposed route.

Explosion in Bar

DETROIT (AP) —Arson investigators probed through wreckage at the Playhouse Bar on Detroit's near Northwest side Monday after an explosion ripped the roof from the building, causing extensive fire damage. No one was in the building at the time, firemen said. Owner Louis J. Dettore of suburban Lathrup Village said the last employe on duty left at 10:30 p.m. Sunday.

A colony of Norway rats, bred in scientific laboratories since the mid-19th Century, has changed anatomically from the wild species. Protected for generations, the rats have developed smaller brains and adrenal glands, and they mature earlier. The changes apparently make the rats tamer, more tractable, unaggressive and fecund, thus better suited for their manmade environment.

Tornadoes, Storms Lash Southern Plains, West

By the Associated Press

Winds of up to 100 miles an hour, tornadoes, hail and severe thundershowers tore through the southern Plains Monday night.

Nearly $500,000 damage was caused by winds of between 90 and 100 miles an hour in the area around Liberal in southwestern Kansas.

* * *

The winds accompanied a severe thunderstorm which spawned a tornado 18 miles north of Liberal and pummeled Garden City, Kan., with hail. Hail also pelted Scott City, Kan.

The violent weather also pushed into the Texas Panhandle. Pampa, Tex., about 50 miles northeast of Amarillo, was buffeted by 75-mile-an-hour winds and torrential rains.

SEVERAL TORNADOES

Perrytown, Tex., near the Oklahoma border was hit by several tornadoes Monday evening and considerable damage was reported.

Tornadoes or funnel clouds also were sighted in Oklahoma, New Mexico and Colorado.

* * *

Thunderstorms lingered early today along the Gulf Coast and in the Rockies with some showers also reported in the west-central Plains and the Ohio Valley.

Electrical storms in western Idaho and eastern Oregon Monday night started nearly a score of small forest fires.

REST OF NATION

The remainder of the nation enjoyed clear weather on the Fourth of July morning but temperatures were in the 40s in the north-central Canadian border states and unseasonably cool air spread south and eastward through the Midwest.

The desert Southwest sweltered in a hot spell which sent the mercury as high as 120 degrees Monday.

Temperatures early this morning ranged from 42 at International Falls, Minn., to 99 at Needles, Calif.

Forecasts Right, but Not Legal

BELGRADE (AP) — Parliament has passed a law that only the federal meteorological institute is allowed to issue weather forecasts. The law was aimed at a couple of amateur forecasters whose long-range weather predictions, published in some Yugoslav newspapers, have attracted considerable attention. The amateurs often have been right.

Quartz can be found virtually everywhere on earth. It is the hardest mineral formed by two of the world's most abundant elements — silicon and oxygen.

SUMMER HATS?—These strange objects resemble fancy millinery creations, but their purpose is far more deadly — antisubmarine warfare. They are electric circuit boards for a device which simulates the maneuvers of enemy underseas craft so that appropriate action may be taken. Here the circuits are checked out in final assembly at Clevite Corp. in Cleveland, Ohio.

How Much Is the Doggie in the Hearse?

MERRICK, N.Y. (AP) — Marvin Taub, who raises prize-winning St. Bernards, found out early in the game that an ordinary automobile isn't suitable for taking his pets to dog shows.

King Kong, who weighs 212 pounds, stands 35 inches high, and the females are almost as big.

So Taub purchased a long, black hearse and converted it for his own purposes.

"We get stared at plenty," he reports. "Why, I've even been stopped by policemen, not because of traffic violations but simply because they were curious."

Probe of Garrison Urged

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The director of the New Orleans Metropolitan Crime Commission said yesterday 22 criminal allegations have been made against Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison and his staff in Garrison's investigation of the Kennedy assassination.

Aaron Kohn, the director, speaking before the New Orleans Press Club, said it was essential that Louisiana Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion look into the allegations that have come from both the local and the national press.

Gordon Novel, another critic of the investigation, was released yesterday from a fugitive warrant in Columbus, Ohio. The warrant was issued by Garrison, who said he wanted to talk to Novel in connection with the Kennedy investigation and about a 1961 raid on an explosives bunker in Houma, La.

Novel, a former New Orleans nightclub owner, left New Orleans before Garrison could subpoena him for the Orleans (Parish) Grand Jury.

GOP Governors Fear Presidential Fight Effect

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican governors are apprehensive that an early and bitter struggle over the GOP presidential nomination could heavily damage the party at state and local levels.

A factor in the total situation is the possibility some states will have to redraw congressional districts before the 1968 election.

* * *

Congressional reapportionment is a delicate political operation involving vested political interests, the concerns of business and labor and, in many cases, ethnic factors.

Accomplishing it while maintaining harmony in the state party is difficult at best. It is enormously complicated if there is simultaneous fighting within the party over a presidential nomination.

KEY STATES

Just which states will have to reapportion depends on what the courts and Congress may do.

Such key states as New York, Pennsylvania and California are among those expected to have to reapportion. The list could stretch out to 25 or 30 if Congress finally approves a reapportionment bill similar to that passed by the Senate. The matter is in conference between the Senate and House.

* * *

Eight GOP governors who ousted Democrats in 1966 are eager to strengthen their party's position in their states. Most states will elect legislatures in 1968.

These local and state factors are among concerns behind the unanimous call at the June Republican Governors Conference for uninstructed delegations to the national convention except where instruction is dictated by state law or favorite-son wishes.

There also is a desire to avoid the fractionating that surrounded the 1964 nomination of Barry Goldwater.

"The practice of state delegations being instructed and irrevocably bound to a particular national candidate tends to disrupt unity and be divisive within Republican ranks," the resolution said.

Even before this public pronouncement, it is known that some GOP governors passed word informally that they wanted their states insulted against presidential politics for the time being.

These were governors who had delicate relationships with their legislatures with respect to particular bills and felt that injection of national politics would be divisive.

But the declaration also came in light of the lack of any major ground swell for any of the potential 1968 nominees.

While there has been a surge of interest in recent weeks in Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has been abroad and Gov. George Romney has been busy getting his tax program through the Michigan Legislature.

The stand by the GOP governors reflects the apparent dominant party mood of the moment — an inclination to proceed cautiously.

Gets Postal Post

CADILLAC (AP) — Robert E. Loughrin, former city commissioner, will be installed Friday as acting postmaster succeeding B. C. Shankland, who is retiring. Laughrin served a short time as commissioner in 1950 but was forced to resign because of his federal employment in the post office.

Action Program

DETROIT (AP) — The Community Action Neighbors Northwest, a group of Northwest Detroit people, is sponsoring a $30,000 open housing education program, including the production of a television film of case studies in integrated housing and a summer program to prepare 42 high school students for college.

Should Learn His Spelling

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — State Rep. Maurice Van Nostrand is convinced at least one of his young constituents needs to learn to spell more than he needs to get the vote.

The representative was among those who opposed a proposed constitutional amendment, killed by the Iowa House recently, which would have lowered the minimum voting age from 21 to 18.

He received a letter from a Norway, Iowa, teen-ager objecting to his position.

The 16-year-old writer referred to Van Nostrand's "denociation" and the "Democrats."

He observed "your not really a citizen until you can vote," and added he knows more about U.S. "foreign and internall policy than my grandmother does and she is alowed to vote."

1912 Repeats Itself in '68

PARTRIDGE, Kan. (AP) — Mrs. Don Robinson made a startling discovery the other day. She found a 1912 calendar in her attic.

But that's not all. Mrs. Robinson discovered that the old calendar is identical in days of each month to the 1968 calendar.

* * *

"Every day is exactly the same, even down to leap year, Feb. 29," she said.

She can hardly wait for 1968 to make use of the calendar.

40 Scholarships

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Urban League has awarded $8,000 in scholarships to help 40 students, mostly Negroes from large families, pay college expenses, executive director Francis A. Kornegay said Monday.

HEAT SHEET — Lightweight steel foil is the newest thing in heating units. Consisting of paper-thin steel foil laminated to epoxy film and etched to form the electrical circuit displayed here, the 2-by-4-foot units are attached to the backs of steel panels designed to fit into standards frames of a suspended ceiling. The sheets already are being used as the sole heat sources for several schools in New Hampshire.

Men Who Fly Kites Do Wondrous Things

WASHINGTON—Flying a kite can do wondrous things to the man at the end of the string.

In India, one very old master kite maker and flyer has, according to a friend, "a great power in his eyes. From looking into the sky for so long, he can see the stars in the day."

A 9th century Buddhist monk, tired and happy after a day of kite flying on Mount Fuji, penned a short poem: "My kite rises to the celestial regions. My soul enters the abode of bliss."

A Florida water skier, pulled aloft by a giant kite, claims that in trying to get safely back to the water—the tricky part—he heard mysterious voices telling him not to fly again. He hasn't.

* * *

The lure of the kite has reached the nation's capital, the National Geographic Society says. The Smithsonian Institution held its first kite festival on the four Saturdays of March.

OVER THE MALL

The event was climaxed with a grand flying of kites over the mall between the U. S. Capitol and the Washington Monument.

Paul Garber, assistant director of the Smithsonian's National Air and Space Museum and a long-time kite enthusiast, said that men first built kites in the Orient some 2,500 years ago. The ancients were probably inspired by birds, leaves, and winged seeds.

Oriental kites often are built in the shape of birds, fish, dragons, insects, even people. Some kites are fitted with bamboo whistles that wail plaintively over the countryside.

* * *

CARRIED TORCH

The commander secretly sent up a torch-bearing kite to suggest to his men that the errant star was returning to its place. Next day, the troops soundly defeated superior forces.

No one knows exactly when Asian kites first reached Europe. Sea captains in the tea trade may have brought kites back from China as presents for their children.

In the western world, kites have often been used by scientists. In 1749, two Scotsmen fastened thermometers to kites to record temperatures of clouds. And everyone knows that with a kite and key, Benjamin Franklin tested his theory that lightning was a form of electricity.

* * *

When Marconi flashed the first successful radio message across the Atlantic, a kite held up the antenna at the Newfoundland receiving station. For many years, the United States Weather Bureau sent meteorological instruments aloft in box kites.

PROPULSION

An English pioneer in kite propulsion, George Pocock, in 1825 designed a carriage, called a charvolant, towed by two large kites that could do 30 miles an hour. The contraption had one major flaw: The lines often snagged in trees.

A decade before the Wright Brothers flew, Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, began experimenting with kites in his efforts to develop a heavier-than-air flying machine.

Dr. Bell assembled kites of tetrahedrons, skeleton building units with four equal triangular sides.

* * *

Ironically, Selfridge crashed to his death in a powered plane the year after his successful kite flight.

Exam Demanded

DETROIT (AP) — Carlis H. Turner, 32, of Detroit, demanded examination Monday at his arraignment on a charge of second degree murder. He was charged in the stabbing death of Charles W. Rush, 32, of suburban Warren, who died over the weekend of wounds suffered when he was gashed by a beer bottle in an argument over a pool game at the Six Bar on the East Side. Recorder's Judge Frank G. Schemanske set bond at $5,000 and scheduled the hearing for Monday.

Hot Dog Is Being Copied Throughout the World

WASHINGTON (AP) — Africans prefer antelope meat, while Japanese vendors hawk whale meat versions. The Finns think reindeer make the perfect ingredient.

All of which proves, says the National Geographic Society, that the hot dog—once best known as an American delicacy—has gone international.

* * *

Copycats around the globe have created their own versions of one of America's favorite snacks, the society reported Monday in a pre-July 4th tribute to the U.S.-style frankfurter made of lean beef, pork and veal.

Thousands of hot dogs will be eaten today by American holiday celebrants, helping swell American consumption to an expected 10 billion this year alone.

A SWITCH

Actually, says the society, the growing international trend is a switch on the frankfurter's early history as a foreign import from Germany.

"The frankfurter and the hamburger derive respectively from Frankfurt link sausage and Hamburg ground beef," it related, adding that German immigrants who flocked to the United States in the 1840s created a demand for what they then termed "dachshund sausages."

* * *

Yankee ingenuity created the special long rolls and new seasonings that provided a distinctly American touch, the society says.

"Inspiration for the American-style hot dog," it adds, "usually is credited to an English-born concessionaire who worked at the New York Polo Grounds at the turn of the century.

"One chilly day, he acquired a supply of link sausages, put them in rolls, and offered his sandwiches to baseball fans as 'red hots.'

"Although the date is uncertain, logic suggests that the old 'dachshund' nickname turned into 'hot dog' about this time."

There have been innovations over the years, including the cheese-stuffed hot dog, skewered "frank-kabobs," spaghetti-stuffed "frank-aronies" and even chili-stuffed "chihuahuas."

But, says the society, "the hot dog's classic shape remains sacred."

"A big meat-manufacturing firm," it says, "learned to leave well enough alone when grumblings of protest met its capricious plan to make bagel-shaped wienies."

Youth Arrested in Wild Chase

Shelby Township police arrested Wesley Gould, 18, of 2121 Auburn for reckless driving and malicious destruction after a wild chase through the township early this morning.

According to police the chase began about 3 a.m. when Gould began speeding south on Schimmel after seeing a police car.

The police chased him onto Dawes where Gould's car slid into a ditch and dropped 12 of the 15 large plywood sheets fastened to the roof.

Gould regained control, drove across a field, through a fence and into his own back yard where his car stopped against a tree.

* * *

The boy pushed the rest of the plywood off the car top into another yard, police said, and ran into the house.

Police suspect the plywood sheets are stolen property.

W. Bloomfield Trustee Killed, Sister Shot

By ED BLUNDEN

Four persons forced their way into a West Bloomfield Township home last night, killed the owner and left his elderly sister "for dead," according to police.

Killed was Edward E. DeConick, 63, of 5847 W. Maple, a township trustee and a prominent businessman-farmer of the area. He was owner of DeConick's produce and apple farm.

In fair condition at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital this morning is his sister, Kathleen DeConick, 73.

She had been shot in the right eye with a shotgun and severely beaten, according to police.

★ ★ ★

ABLE TO TALK

Miss DeConick was able to talk and described the robbery to officers.

She told them that, about 11 p.m., a woman knocked on the door and said her car was disabled on the road. The woman asked to use a telephone.

When the door was opened, three men and the woman burst into the home Miss DeConick said. The men tied up the pair and proceeded to ransack the house.

★ ★ ★

Taken was a large floor safe which had been kept in a closet and a cash box. Police said the safe contained a "large amount" of money, mostly proceeds from DeConick's enterprises.

BEATEN AT FIRST

The pair was at first beaten with the shotgun, police said. When the intruders were ready to leave, they shot both of the bound prisoners, DeConick several times, according to police.

The woman underwent surgery this morning. She is being kept under guard.

State police were aiding West Bloomfield Township police this morning with a crime lab crew covering the premises in search of clues.

★ ★ ★

The home, surrounded by barns and sheds in a sparsely populated area near Telegraph, was in shambles this morning.

Two large blood spots, where the victims had been shot, were on the floor, one in the living room and one in a sitting room toward the rear of the house.

Lying scattered on the floor were discarded coins, business records of all kinds, coin wrappers, and family pictures.

Police were checking all items in the house for fingerprints or other clues.

★ ★ ★

The intruders, who all wore gloves, made no attempt to open the heavy safe on the premises but carried it and the cash box with them, according to police.

Police set up roadblocks around the area as soon as the alarm was given. However, as of this morning, no arrests had been made.

Viet Trip Report by McNamara to Help Set Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) —Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's upcoming trip to Vietnam could play a key role in determining the amount of taxes to be paid by Americans this year and next.

Government sources said today McNamara's posttrip report will weigh heavily with the administration in setting the size of the surcharge to be formally requested by President Johnson.

Johnson proposed a 6 per cent surcharge on corporate and individual income taxes to take effect July 1.

No legislation has been sent to Congress yet, but a tax message with only the numbers missing reportedly is ready to go. McNamara probably will leave for Vietnam late this week.

★ ★ ★

Although government officials hesitate to describe their tax position as "beyond the point of no return," they don't see any possibility now of backtracking on an increase this year — barring unforseen economic upheavals.

AMOUNT NOT SET

But the size of the request still is open. Chairman Gardner Ackley of the President's Council of Economic Advisers said last week it won't be less than 6 per cent.

One alternative, and there reportedly are many still being considered, would call for different surcharges — 8 per cent on individual taxes and 12 per cent on corporate taxes with an effective date of the next Jan. 1.

Another alternative under study is for a 6 per cent surtax on both individuals and corporations to take effect Oct. 1 or Jan. 1, but retroactive to July 1, the date the tax originally was scheduled to take effect.

★ ★ ★

A third idea under discussion calls for sending a surcharge bill to Congress accompanied by a separate tax reform bill.

TAX REFORM ASKED

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., a member of the Senate-House Economic Committee, has urged the administration to push for tax reform before seeking a tax increase.

State Road Toll Is at Least 23

By the Associated Press

A tire blowout and a car speeding the wrong way on a freeway ramp caused two of the worst crashes as Michigan traffic accidents claimed a mounting toll of lives over the Fourth of July holiday.

At least 23 persons were killed on the highways over the long weekend. Four other persons drowned in Michigan waters.

Two brothers and a third youth from Leonard were killed yesterday when a tire apparently blew out, sending their auto careening out of control into a tree near Dryden in Lapeer County.

The victims were Gary Cowell, 18, his brother Micheal, 17, and the driver, Steven Wollard, 20.

★ ★ ★

WRONG WAY

Sheriff Richard Germond of Lenawee County said four Albion teen-agers, aged 15 to 17, were in the car heading the wrong way on the ramp.

He said the two girls and two boys, who escaped serious injury, told of drinking beer on the way home from a trip to Ohio where they had bought fireworks for the Fourth of July.

Sheriff's men said at least a dozen beer containers, some empty and some unopened were strewn inside and around the teen-agers' auto after the accident.

Two Niles women were killed today when their auto was struck head-on by a car which police said was attempting to pass a third vehicle on M40 near Niles. Killed were Annabelle True, 57, and a passenger, Rose Margaret Espick, 25.

Plane Lands on Time ---but at Wrong Airfield

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Trans World Airlines Flight 30 was on schedule but about 10 miles off target when it landed in Columbus today after a flight from Chicago.

The Boeing 707 jetliner landed at 12:10 a.m. at Ohio State University's Don Scott Field, a small airport in northwest Columbus, after receiving landing clearance from the control tower at Port Columbus Airport, on the city's east side.

Ineligible, Claims U.S. Lawyer

'Romney Can't Be President'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Is Mexico-born George W. Romney eligible for the White House?

No, says a government lawyer who dug into his law books and came up with the conclusion that the Michigan governor's birth in Chihuahua disqualifies him for the presidency.

This dissenting opinion, which filled five closely printed pages of the Congressional Record last month, came from Pinckney G. McElwee of the Veterans Administration's legal department.

The product of McElwee's research was inserted in the record by Rep. John Dowdy, D-Tex., "to shed whatever light it merits" on the question of Romney's eligibility.

There is a question because the Constitution requires that a president be a "natural-born citizen" of the United States, a term the Constitution does not define.

INTERPRETATION

Romney is the son of American citizens but was born in 1907 in Mexico, where his parents had fled because of hostility toward Mormonism, their religion. The family later returned to the United States.

McElwee wrote that the language of the constitution must be interpreted with reference to the English common law, with which the authors of the Constitution were familiar.

"At the time of the adoption of the Constitution, under the common law, the terms native-born citizen and natural-born citizen were synonymous," he said. "But the customary usage was to refer to such type of citizenship as 'natural-born' instead of 'native-born.'"

He argued that American citizens either are native-born or naturalized.

"Mr. Romney was born an alien and was naturalized automatically by act of Congress," McElwee said. "The U.S. naturalization law as it existed at the birth of Mr. Romney. . . declared him to be a citizen. He is, therefore not a 'natural-born citizen', but is a naturalized citizen."

Some students of the Constitution are convince that American citizens born abroad are eligible for the presidency and that the framers of the Constitution would have said "native-born" if that is what they meant.

McElwee suggested that the question should be settled before the national political conventions next year. A similar suggestion came recently from Chairman Emanuel Cellar, D-N.Y., of the House Judiciary Committee.

2 Area Servants Sought in $35,000 Jewel Theft

Two employes of a Bloomfields Hills home are being sought today in connection with over $35,000 in missing jewels and $450 in cash.

Bloomfield Hills police said the theft was reported early yesterday morning at the home of Jordan H. Stover III of 3805 Lahser.

Two servants being sought are Smead and Geraldine Bowie of Detroit. They had been hired a week before.

Stover said he checked the jewels about 2 a.m. after watching a late television show. They were gone and so was the couple.

★ ★ ★

"We thought they were doing quite well," Stover said of the missing employes.

Stover is an inventor and president of Stover Labs.

★ ★ ★

The missing items of jewelry include a $12,000 bracelet, $12,000 ring; pins worth $4,000 and $3,000 and several other items.

Ground Fighting Heavy Near DMZ

SAIGON (AP) — Two U.S. Marine battalions moving out from Con Thien ran into heavy Communist resistance today a few miles from their sandbagged outpost just below the demilitarized zone.

The renewed fighting and continuation of mortar and artillery assaults promised more bloodshed on the northern front, where the Marines have suffered at least 384 casualties—68 killed, 27 missing and 289 wounded—in three days and have claimed 168 enemy killed.

★ ★ ★

"The lull is over," Lt. Gen. Robert Cushman, the new Marine commander in South Vietnam, said of ground action.

A force of perhaps 3,000 Communists badly mauled Marine units Sunday in heavy fighting near Con Thien. Communist artillery and mortars hammered Con Thien and other outposts Monday, but Marine gunners caught a large North Vietnamese force at the edge of the demilitarized zone and killed 75 of them, the Leathernecks reported.

SIX ATTACKS

The Marines reported receiving at least six mortar or artillery attacks Monday night and today on Con Thien, a regimental headquarters at An Hoa, a nearby bivouac and smaller posts within a few miles of Con Thien. Ten Marines were killed and 89 wounded.

Today two Marine battalions moved out of Con Thien to sweep the dirt road leading north into the border zone. One company ran into North Vietnamese infantrymen a mile from Con Thien and almost simultaneously Red artillery began slamming at the second Marine battalion.

★ ★ ★

Heavy fighting was reported continuing three hours later, but no further details were available.

It appeared that the Communists were exerting pressure to discomfit the United States during the Independence Day celebrations.

OBSERVANCES

Despite the fighting, observances were held by many American units, including a salvo fired by the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment in honor of America's 50 states. The U.S. Command in Saigon messaged the troops:

"Freedom for the United States of America was won by citizens willing to sacrifice their wealth, their homes and their very lives. It is an inescapable truth that freedom demands a willingness of individuals to make any sacrifice to preserve it. Our American soldiers in Vietnam know this full well."

★ ★ ★

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker gave a 4th of July reception for 700 guests in Saigon.

While fighting along the demilitarized zone overshadowed action elsewhere, there were scattered skirmishes up and down the country.

BLAZING SUCCESS

U.S. helicopter pilots reported a blazing success before dawn Monday when they shot up a total of 148 junks apparently making a major effort to supply guerrillas in Quang Tin Province, below Da Nang.

The junks were caught along a saltwater lagoon of the coastal Trung Crang River. Despite ground fire, the helicopters dropped flares and swept in for 27 rocket and machine-gun passes, setting off brilliant secondary explosions and leaving the area a chaotic jumble of sinking and shattered junks. About half of the convoy was made up of 40-foot junks, the pilots reported.

LBJ Message for 4th Stresses GIs' Valor

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson called on Americans this Fourth of July to remember "the price that those who love freedom must ever be ready to pay."

In a holiday statement issued from his LBJ Ranch, Johnson alluded to the Vietnam war as he said: "As fireworks flash in our skies, let us remember the cannons flaming across the seas. As we fly the flag before our homes, let us remember the sons of America who carry it in battle.

★ ★ ★

"As here men parade and proud bugles sound, let us remember the place where the parade is a careful march across a mined field, and the sounds are of fearful battle."

Johnson said, "The freedom we celebrate is ours only because of the valor of brave Americans who were — and are — willing to die for it."

ASKED PRAYERS

The President asked for prayers of thanks for national freedom and said: "Freedom is a gift to be cherished, yes, but it is also a gift to be shared; and in sharing it, we strengthen it everywhere, at home and abroad. The efforts we have made in this century to help others win or regain their freedom have been indispensable to preserving our own."

The President and Mrs. Johnson, who flew here Thursday, may remain at their ranch home through next weekend.

★ ★ ★

The couple went to a guest house on their property Monday to show off their 2-week-old first grandchild, Patrick Lyndon Nugent, to news photographers.

Lyn didn't open his eyes until the lensmen had departed — even though Johnson tickled his cheeks and rocked him on his knee.

ON HAND

Also on hand for the session with the photographers were Lyn's parents, Luci Johnson Nugent and Patrick J. Nugent.

The baby, said the President, "looks exactly like Pat."

Although the Johnsons generally have been spending a quiet, relaxed holiday in Texas, there was a possibility they would attend funeral services today at Texarkana, Tex., for the wife of Rep. Wright Patman of Texas. She died Sunday in Washington.

In one of his few official actions Monday, Johnson sent Congress a report from the Interior Department calling for a major program to restore beauty and utility to land "looted and ravished" by strip and surface mining operations.

The result of a two-year study, the report suggested the program might require 10 to 20 years of work and cost perhaps $757 million.

REVIEW ASKED

In a letter transmitting the report to Congress, Johnson said he was asking all federal agencies to review immediately policies dealing with surface mined minerals and fuels.

He said: "The aim is to develop policies to assure, insofar as now possible, that effective controls are instituted over surface-damaging mineral exploration and extraction, and that reasonable land restoration provisions are included."

Italians to Vote on Freeing Nazi

1944 Killer of 300 Asking for Clemency

MARZABOTTO, Italy (AP) — Families of his victims and surviving wartime residents of Marzabotto will decide in a referendum July 16 whether to forgive Nazi Maj. Walter Reder for the wartime massacre of 300 townspeople.

A Bologna court sentenced Reder to life imprisonment in 1951 for ordering the killing of the 300, most of them women and children, in September 1944, to deter partisans fighting German occupation troops.

★ ★ ★

The court said Reder had antipersonnel mines buried under the piles of bodies, causing more deaths among relatives seeking their dead.

Reder, in a prison at Gaeta since 1952, recently wrote the Municipal Council and appealed for a letter of forgiveness to attach to a petition for clemency he plans to send to the Italian Justice Ministry. He expressed remorse for the massacre and said he wanted to be with his ailing mother in Germany.

MOST URGE REJECTION

The Marzabotto council, which is dominated by Communists, has received 160 letters and 30 telegrams since getting Reder's appeal. All but three urged rejection of the plea.

The council met Monday night to decide. Five hundred persons, many of them survivors of Reder's occupation, jammed the council hall. More than 1,000 stood in the square outside and heard the discussion from loudspeakers.

★ ★ ★

The local heads of all major parties said they felt the German should not and could not be forgiven. The council voted to leave it to survivors of the occupation and families of the victims.

They will vote July 16. Those who live elsewhere and cannot get to Marzabotto, south of Bologna, can mail in their ballots by July 20.

IN APPEAL

Reder, in his appeal, said what he had done could not be erased from the hearts of those who suffered or ease "the remorse of the one who committed it."

"But above all stand the virtues that are the prerogative of strong and gentle souls—mercy and forgiveness," he continued. He said his mother had lost three of her four children and, "overcome by sorrow, is stretching her hands toward Marzabotto asking forgiveness for the only son she has left."

★ ★ ★

The Communist mayor, Giovanni Bottonelli, said he thought Reder's crime was so great that his lifetime sentence "should continue as a warning."

Foe of State Tax to Ask for Ruling on Referendum

LANSING (AP) — A Republican opponent of the recently passed state income tax says he will ask Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley Wednesday for a ruling on whether Michigan residents may vote on the issue.

Sen. George W. Kuhn, R-West Bloomfield, said he might file a taxpayer's suit to test whether Michigan citizens have been denied their right of petition and referendum in the income tax law.

The Legislature amended the final bill to include a $3-million-dollar appropriation. The Michigan Constitution forbids public votes on appropriation bills.

"To me it's almost unthinkable that a tax bill of this magnitude has been passed without a vote of the people," Kuhn said Monday.

He pointed out that the issue of Daylight Saving Time was up for a vote of the people.

★ ★ ★

"A tax matter of the size passed by the Michigan Legislature is more vital than time to eight million in this state, and they deserve a right to vote on it," Kuhn said.

Romney Plans 'Work, Rest' on N.H. Trip

LANSING (AP) — His prestige enhanced by a major victory at home, Michigan Gov. George Romney Tuesday turned to the job of fanning his courtship with the Republican presidential nomination into a full-fledged romance.

With a long-sought state income tax a reality, Romney planned to leave for New Hampshire and a four-day stay at the Lake Winnipesaukee summer home of J. Willard Marriott, a long-time friend and political backer.

★ ★ ★

Billed as a trip combining "work and rest," the visit is expected to include meetings with presidential backers and New Hampshire GOP leaders to map strategy for the state's 1968 primary — the nation's first.

Leonard Hall, head of the Romney - for - President movement, was in Lansing last week for a brief meeting with Romney and described the trip as "strictly a New Hampshire affair."

SUMMER HOME

Upon returning to Michigan, Romney will head for his summer home on Mackinac Island where he will spend most of the month conferring with his staff, Romney backers and national political figures.

The conferences will iron out Romney policies on major foreign and domestic issues which are expected to be released in the form of magazine articles and key position statements, it was learned.

Partial Relief for First Tax Bill

LANSING (AP) — The per-person exemption from the new state income tax, which takes effect Oct. 1, is $1,200. But don't try subtracting that much from your income the first time you pay your tax.

Because the bill you have to pay by next April 15 will be for only one quarter of a year, you'll be entitled to only one quarter of the usual exemption, or $300 for yourself and for each dependent.

If you earn $10,000 a year, you'll probably earn about $2,500 in October, November and December, and that's the amount on which you'd pay the new 2.6 per cent income tax.

If you claim five dependents, subtract $1,500 (five times $300) and pay 2.6 per cent of the remaining $1,000.

★ ★ ★

There will be no relief this year from property and city income taxes. That portion of the package is effective beginning next Jan. 1.

FULL EXEMPTION

When paying taxes on a full year's income, you'll be able to subtract $1,200 times the number of dependents before arriving at your taxable income.

Crash Kills Three Youths From County

DRYDEN TOWNSHIP — Three Oakland County youths were killed instantly yesterday morning when their car slammed into a tree on Rochester at Casey Road in this Lapeer County township.

County sheriff's deputies identified the victims as Gary Cowell, 18, his brother Michael, 17, both of 3221 W. Leonard and Steven Woollard, 20, of 3045 Gilmour, all of Addison Township.

Wollard was listed as the driver.

Deputies said the vehicle was traveling at a high rate of speed when a front tire blew out, sending the car out of control and into the tree.

★ ★ ★

The accident occurred at 11:35 a.m., according to deputies.

Murder Charged

ROMULUS (AP) — A 23-year-old Romulus man stood mute at his arraignment Monday on a first-degree murder charge in the slaying of the alleged operator of an illegal liquor establishment in Romulus Township. Charles M. Young waived examination when he appeared before Felix Rogalle, Romulus justice of the peace. He was arrested after the fatal shooting Sunday of John Henry, who police said operated a blind pig.

I-75 Contract Let

LANSING (AP)—A $5,443,931 contract to build a half mile of I-75 expressway in Detroit has been awarded to Charles J. Rogers Co. and Jutton-Kelly Co. of Detroit, reports the State Highway Department.

Appropriations Bills Next for Legislature

LANSING (AP) —Now that the Legislature has passed a tax package designed to raise about $180 million this fiscal year, the next order of business will be to spend that money and more.

★ ★ ★

Lawmakers, wearied after a week of marathon tax sessions and the year's first Saturday session, took a long Fourth of July holiday.

★ ★ ★

The House reconvenes Thursday afternoon and the Senate Friday morning.

Little is left on the calendars but appropriations bills, the measures that will make it legal to spend about a billion dollars from the state's general fund in the 12-month period that began Saturday.

COMPROMISE NEEDED

Compromise will be necessary before the bills can go to Gov. George Romney for his signature. So far, the House and Senate are about $104 million apart in their spending levels.

The Senate has made deep cuts in Romney's proposed $1.153 billion budget. The deepest cuts were in higher education, mental health, social services (welfare), grants and transfers and capital outlay (construction).

★ ★ ★

The House Appropriations Committee has restored $104 million of the Senate cuts, and a two-house conference committee is expected to try to work out the differences this week.

Also expected are fights over the appropriations for school aid and the Civil Rights Department.

The school aid bill has not yet come out of committee in either house. If it dies in committee, state aid to public schools will continue at the current level with $280.50 remaining as the basic per-pupil grant.

Rep. Arnell Engstrom, R - Traverse City, House Appropriations Committee chairman, estimates that would amount to $303 million in the new fiscal year.

But Rep. George F. Montgomery, D-Detroit, has an amendment pending to another school bill that would raise school aid by about $40 million.

Another debate is likely over the amount given to the Civil Rights Department, which received $943,700 last year.

★ ★ ★

Romney's budget called for a $2.03 million appropriation to the department, but the House committee trimmed that back to $1.39 million.

House Democrats failed in a bid to restore $445,000 to the department's complaint-investigating compliance section. That battle could continue in the Senate.

U.S. Road Toll to Hit Forecast

Safety Council Warns of Increasing Danger

By the Associated Press

The National Safety Council predicted early today that the Independence Day holiday traffic toll would climb to the lower end of its prediction of 720 to 750 deaths but warned of increasing danger as the period came to a close.

★ ★ ★

The council said that today would be the crucial period in the four-day holiday since traffic would be heavy with vacationers making a last-minute rush home. The fact that today is also the actual holiday made the closing hours of the period especially dangerous, the council said.

★ ★ ★

The toll crept over the 500 mark early this morning and stood at 506 with the final rush yet to begin.

Al Henderson, a council spokesman, said Monday night's slowdown in the death rate indicated total fatalities would be lower than earlier anticipated.

AUTOMATIC RECORD

"Unless something drastic occurs, the total will stay in the lower end of the estimate or may even miss it," he said.

Henderson said a record for the holiday would be set almost automatically. Last year's record of 576 came during a three-day weekend. This year's period is 102 hours—more than four days.

★ ★ ★

An Associated Press survey of a similar nonholiday period, June 16-20, recorded 530 highway deaths. There were 608 traffic fatalities during this year's Memorial Day holiday, also a 102-hour period.

Before the death rate leveled off late Monday, major accidents in Virginia and Arizona had added to an upsurge in the traffic count.

6-DEATH CRASH

Six persons died Monday near Emporia, Va., when their car skidded out of control on Interstate 95, apparently after a tire blowout.

A head-on auto-truck crash on U.S. 66 east of Flagstaff, Ariz., killed five persons.

★ ★ ★

A Fourth of July record this year would continue a trend of fatality records each holiday. The record death count for any four-day holiday was set last Thanksgiving when 748 persons lost their lives.

Boating accidents killed 35, and 113 persons have drowned since the Independence Day holiday began at 6 p.m. Friday.

Valves May Be Opened to Save Dam

LAWRENCEBURG, Tenn. (AP) — Opening three valves could relieve the pressure on an earth-filled dam that is threatening to collapse but, officials say they want the cast-iron valves checked first.

Fred W. Stanberry, director of the Tennessee Game and Fish Commission which operates Laurel Hill Lake in southwestern Tennessee, said engineers wanted divers to determine whether the big sluice valves could stand the water pressure before they are opened.

★ ★ ★

Two Tennessee Valley Authority divers plan to inspect the valves today at the bottom of the 325-acre lake.

"If we can get these valves operating properly and have a few more days without rain, we may have the problem whipped," Stanberry said.

SEEPING WATER

The 7-year-old dam has been seeping water for several days. When the seepage was discovered, Stanberry ordered the lake closed to all activities and alerted about 200 residents below the dam to prepare to move.

When fully open, the three 24-inch sluice valves would release more than 100,000 gallons a minute, lowering the lake 24 inches a day.

★ ★ ★

Only one valve has been used since the seepage was discovered. That valve was closed halfway when air bubbles set up vibrations in the 424-foot-long sluice tunnel, threatening to further damage the interior of the dam.

That valve has been lowering the lake eight inches per day.

★ ★ ★

Les Haun, a Game and Fish Commissioner engineer, predicted the problem of vibration could be corrected by fully opening the three valves simultaneously, allowing the water to force out the bubbles.

The trucking industry buys about $351 million worth of automotive products a year, including vehicles, fuel, tires and parts.

PONTIAC, MICHIGAN, TUESDAY, JULY 4, 1967

'Unexpectables' Deliver as Tigers Edge Cleveland

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

A sweet situation turns to sour grapes!

During the short history of the Midwest Football League there has been a team known as the Macomb Arrows, the Mt. Clemens Arrows, then the Pontiac Arrows and now the Michigan Arrows back in Mt. Clemens.

This was sort of a lend-lease team, more adequately compared to a gypsy tribe looking for a permanent home.

But the head of this tribe, Lyle Wells, who fashions himself as the George Halas of the MFL, hasn't been able to find a friendly settlement for his team.

After two years in Pontiac, during which time he had less to do, but was able to make more money than in all the years combined in the league, he and the Pontiac Football Company had a falling out and the contract was not renewed.

MR. EVERYTHING

During his past years in Mt. Clemens, he was not only the coach of the Arrows, but he was president, general manager, public relations director, yard line marker, water boy, trainer, ticket seller and the board of directors of the team.

* * *

When he made a few cents at the gate, it may have been enough to cover the cost of the ankle tape of the players, who had to pitch in to pay their transportation costs on road trips.

In Pontiac, the Wells' Arrows were on the gravy train.

He hauled in almost $16,000 in two seasons and his only working responsibility was to coach the team.

He was also financially responsible from this money for disbursing the due money to the players under the contracts he gave them.

Wells made Mt. Clemens once again as his home base a few months ago.

In an announcement recently he gave his reason for leaving Pontiac as "financial mistreatment" by the Pontiac Football Company.

* * *

To present the facts point-blank, no one ever heard of Wells or his Macomb Arrows, or the Midwest Football League until the Pontiac Arrows came into being.

It was a simple matter of proving what good organization and support in Pontiac could do as compared to his failures of five previous years roaming from football field to football field.

. . . And it's a matter of fact that if there was mistreatment by anyone, it was by Wells to his players.

CONCESSIONS IN PONTIAC

The players never knew what it was to be compensated for playing football prior to coming to Pontiac, and while based in this city they received many concessions from the Pontiac Football Company.

But as for their contracts, it was Wells' responsibility to give them financial remuneration from the money he received under the Pontiac contract.

A select few of his players received compensation in amounts averaging about $10 per game.

When the Football Company issued a financial statement to show the players that the commitment financially to Wells was met, which in turn should have been disbursed among the players, he angrily protested at a league meeting that such action was in bad taste.

It may have been in bad taste for Wells.

But the Pontiac Firebirds have fortunately broken their ties with him, and this will eventually be in their favor when available players have to decide whether to play in Pontiac to get aboveboard treatment or join the vine of sour grapes with Wells' nomadic organization.

Italian Minister Asks Ban on Road Racing

ROME (AP) — Italian Transportation Minister Oscar Scalfaro asked the government Monday night to ban without exception all auto and motorcycle racing competitions that use the normal roads in Italy. He asked that such races be restricted to autodromes.

The news caused a sensation in Italian auto racing circles.

Scalfaro made his proposal for "a final ban of motor racing competition from normal roads" in a letter to Premier Aldo Moro and to the ministers of interior, tourism, and public works.

Cubs, Cards Swing in Redhot NL Race

By The Associated Press

The struggle for first place in the National League has turned into a swinging affair — the Chicago Cubs swinging their bats and the St. Louis Cardinals their fists.

The Cubs and Cardinals shared first a second straight day after Chicago outslugged Atlanta 12-6 and St. Louis stood off Cincinnati 7-3 Monday night.

But the amazing Cubs won the easy way, with nine runs on four homers and three more on a triple.

St. Louis did it the hard way.

* * *

The Cardinals were breezing behind a seven-run first inning and Bob Gibson's nine strike out, no-hit pitching until the fifth inning when the real slugging began.

The Cards' Lou Brock was hit by a pitch in the fourth and when Gibson threw his first pitch in the fifth over Tony Perez' head, words were exchanged and suddenly both benches emptied, punches were thrown and it took special police to restore order.

In quieter National League surroundings, the New York Mets beat San Francisco 5-3 and Pittsburgh topped Los Angeles 5-2 in the only other games scheduled.

The swinging in St. Louis turned into more than the usual shoving match typical of baseball fights. Gibson emerged with a jammed thumb, Cincinnati Manager Dave Bristol a gashed right thigh and one policeman a reported dislocated jaw and spiked hand.

FOURTH STRAIGHT

"We're not exactly in a good frame of mind," said Bristol, whose team lost its fourth straight and eighth in nine games. "When both benches go out there, something's going to happen."

Orlando Cepeda of the Cards and Pete Rose of the Reds were two of those who paired off.

Cepeda said he was trying to separate Gilbson and Perez, and told Perez in Spanish to "take it easy." But Bob Lee of the Reds does not understand Spanish and "I grabbed Cepeda," he said. "Then Cepeda hit Rose and four guys had me down."

Lee, who charged from the bullpen onto the gathering at the mound, was the only player ejected.

When baseball continued, Deron Johnson got the first hit off Gibson and the Reds knocked him out in the eighth with three runs on Art Shamsky's homer and an error by Dal Maxvill that led to the other runs.

* * *

The Cubs scored six times in the first on homers by Billy Williams, Ron Santo and Randy Hundley, and when Felipe Alow and Rico Carty homered for the Braves in the inning, it tied a major league record for circuits in one frame.

European Players Dominating Play in Net Tourney

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — For the first time since World War II, three European tennis players are in the semifinals of the All-England Championships.

Coming on top of last year's Wimbledon triumph by Manuel Santana of Spain, it's evident that European tennis is on the way up.

* * *

Wilhelm Bungert of West Germany, Roger Taylor of Britain and Nicola Pilic of Yugoslavia all won their quarterfinals matches Monday and stormed into the round of four.

Bungert and Taylor have to play each other in Wednesday's semifinals. Pilic faces Australia's John Newcombe, the only-seeded player still surviving and now the favorite for Santana's title.

Bungert, who has reached the Wimbledon semifinals twice before, was a stylish 6-4, 4-6, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3 victor over Thomas Koch, the Brazilian left-hander.

* * *

Taylor, the hope of the crowds that have packed the stands for the past week, got home 6-4, 8-6, 6-4 against Ray Ruffels of Australia.

Pilic downed Australia's John Cooper 14-12, 8-10, 6-4, 6-2. Newcombe defeated fellow-Australian Ken Fletcher 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

Fishermen's Dream Finally Comes True

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Word got out quickly Monday that six-pound bass were jumping out of a pond near Charlotte.

Soon 65 persons were on the banks and in the six-acre pond. Cars parked along the highway attracted other passing motorists. Four men caught 10 bass and 10 bream (bluegills) in two hours. The catch for others was about the same.

The pond was being drained and the water was only a foot deep.

Five-Game Win Streak

Twins Surging Toward First

By the Associated Press

The Minnesota Twins are closing the arms gap on Chicago's American League leaders while the White Sox' hitters fall farther behind their own pitchers.

Right-hander Dave Boswell got a last-out assist from reliever Ron Kline Monday night in pitching the Twins past the New York Yankees 3-0 for their fifth straight victory.

* * *

It was Minnesota's eighth triumph in a 10-game stretch—during which the pitching staff has accounted for three shutouts and a dazzling 1.40 earned run average.

The White Sox, meanwhile, managed just four hits in a 1-0, 14-inning loss to Baltimore. They have dropped four of their last five starts, have been blanked in their last two and now lead Minnesota, Boston and Detroit by 3½ games.

The Red Sox pounded California 9-3 for their fourth straight victory while the Tigers edged Cleveland 2-1. Washington and Kansas City were idle.

Boswell struck out 10 Yankees on the way to his sixth victory in 11 decisions. Tony Oliva's run-scoring triple off Fritz Peterson, 0-8, in the first inning gave him all the help he needed until the ninth, when Kline came on after a walk and single and got the final out.

"It's more important to win than for me to go all the way for a shutout," said Boswell, who started the Twins' winning streak with a 3-2, four-hit victory over Boston last Wednesday.

"You've got to be a team guy, and that's what we've got on this staff."

TWICE EACH

In the past 20 games, Boswell, Dean Chance, Jim Kaat and Jim Merritt each has won twice while yielding a combined total of 14 runs.

The White Sox, who have scored only eight runs in their last five games, wasted the efforts of 26 players—including six pitchers—in bowing to the Orioles in overtime.

Trims Wall in Playoff

Casper Collects Canadian Crown

MONTREAL (AP)—Billy Casper, the mildest of mild-mannered men, allowed that it was very nice to win a national championship, admitted he played well, but not his best—and even hinted he was a little pleased.

So it was left to bitterly disappointed Art Wall, beaten by four strokes by Casper's brilliant 65—six under par and a course record—to provide the comment after their 18-hole playoff for the Canadian Open Golf Championship Monday.

"Superb," Wall said.

"I played as well as I could and as hard as I could. But I never was really in it. Almost, maybe, but never really in it."

The figures support him. In fashioning the best round of the tournament, Casper missed only two greens, had eight one-putt greens, picked off six birdies and didn't have a single bogey.

* * *

"The 10th was the turning point," the two-time U.S. Open Champion said. "I had a two stroke lead at that time. If I had missed that, Art would have been only one stroke back.

The victory, Casper's first of the year was worth $30,000 and the Seagram Gold Cup.

MONDAY NIGHT FIGHT — The Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds took time out from their National League game last night for this engagement on the St. Louis infield that lasted for 10 minutes and ended with the ejection of Reds' pitcher Bob Lee (center without hat). The unscheduled bout started at the pitcher's mound after Cards' hurler Bob Gibson exchanged words with Tony Perez in the fifth inning. St. Louis won the game, 7-3.

Lumpe's Homer, McLain's Arm Halt Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Just call Detroit Tigers second baseman Jerry Lumpe and pitcher Denny McLain "The Unexpectables."

Cleveland didn't expect Lumpe to uncork a two-run, game-winning homer Monday night. He hadn't smashed a homer all season, and his batting average was a low-down .121.

And the Indians didn't expect McLain, who hadn't beaten them all year, to hold them to three hits over nine innings as Detroit nipped Cleveland 2-1.

McLain credits his newly found prowess over the Indians to Johnny Sain, Detroit pitching coach.

"You have to set batters up," he said, "and Sain has been showing me how to do it.

"I think I'm getting the idea," McLain said. "I know that you can't just pump, pump, pump. I think I'm a smarter pitcher, thanks to Sain."

THREE-WAY TIE

The victory left Detroit, Boston and Minnesota in a hot, three-way tie for second place in the American League, each club 3½ games behind league-leading Chicago.

Lumpe whacked a 2-and-2 pitch from Luis Tiant into the lower right field seats in the third inning. He was starting only his second game this season—a move by Tigers Manager Mayo Smith to pit left-handed batters against Tiant.

The blast drove in McLain, who had reached base after bunting into a force-out that nabbed Mickey Stanley at second base. Stanley had walked and Lenny Green had struck out before McLain bunted.

Lee Maye smashed a solo homer for Cleveland in the third.

Only other hits given up by McLain were a single to Rocky Colavito in the second inning and a double by Chico Salmon in the fifth.

Tiant matched McLain in hits allowed—three—but he pitched one less inning, with Bob Allen relieving him for the ninth. It was Tiant's third loss in 10 decisions. He struck out nine Tigers.

Except for a breathtaking catch by Jim Northrup in the seventh, the Tigers might have lost the contest. The right-fielder sprinted to the wall and narrowly snared a drive by Fred Whitfield with Chico Salmon on base on a walk.

Tonight, Earl Wilson (8-7) faces All-Star Cleveland pitcher Steve Hargan.

Baltimore Bays Move Into Soccer Deadlock With Pittsburgh Club

By the Associated Press

With the help of a great game by their own goalie and a surprising game by the Chicago Spurs, the Baltimore Bays have moved into a tie for first place in the Eastern Division of the National Professional Soccer League.

Terry Adlington, the English goaltender for the Bays, made one great save after another in protecting Baltimore's 1-0 victory over Oakland, first in the Western Division.

The lone Baltimore goal came from Bernando Azvedo after nine minutes of play before 7,108 customers.

Meanwhile in Chicago, the lowly Spurs, fourth in the Western Division, tied Pittsburgh, which is first in the East, 2-2. The Phantoms and the Bays each now have 97 points.
