

Floods and Snow Plague Regions

HIGH WATERS—The overflow from the flooding Clinch River in East Tennessee laps dangerously close to a power transformer which serves Hancock County. The flood has marooned several farm families in the region.

SNOWSCAPE—A pictorial scene of glistening beauty in Altadena, Calif., was captured by the camera before rising daytime temperatures melted the snow. Many Southern California foothill communities have been turned into fairylands of white as the result of recent storms.

Floods Hit Mid-South; Los Angeles Roads Icy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Floodwaters from rivers swollen by drenching rains have forced thousands of persons from their homes in sections of Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

Damages ran into the millions of dollars. At least three persons drowned in the bankful streams.

Scores of communities were reported isolated. Some regions were declared disaster areas by the Red Cross.

Meanwhile, winter continued to deal roughly with Southern California today with no immediate relief in sight from icy winds, rain and snow.

MORE RAIN, SNOW

Forecasts indicated more rain tonight and tomorrow with snow expected to fall as low as the 2,000-foot level.

A seven-inch snow closed roads yesterday and stranded more than 200 trucks and bus passengers in the Lancaster-Palmdale area north of Los Angeles.

Snow fell even in the lower elevations of the Los Angeles metropolitan district. A number of residents were reported stranded for a time in their homes in the Woodland Hills section and the snow was heavy enough to crack branches off trees along Mulholland drive.

Highway and rail travel in the flooded areas was halted or curtailed.

National Guard troops and Army men were sent into the stricken Kentucky areas.

SCHOOLS CLOSE

Because of icy roads, schools were closed in some areas. Traffic on many main highways was held to a snail-like pace.

One of the worst flood areas was in southeastern Kentucky, a coal mining region, where the big Kentucky and Cumberland rivers overflowed.

Hard hit was Hazard, on the Kentucky River, where damages were expected to be more than five million dollars.

Other Kentucky River towns where more than a thousand persons moved to higher ground included Harlan, Barboursville, Pikeville, Neon and Whitesburg.

In upper East Tennessee, the Little Clinch and Powell rivers flooded towns and in West Virginia the Tug and Cuyandotte rivers were running bankful.

Ike Rolls Out Red Carpet as Saud Sees Washington

FROM OUR WIRE SERVICES

WASHINGTON—King Saud of Saudi Arabia leaves the official chill of New York today for the diplomatic warmth of Washington and top-level talks.

Saud is bearing 15 trunks of gifts and is staying three days with President Eisenhower and top U.S. officials.

Eisenhower breaks precedent by going to the national airport to greet Saud, richest of all world monarchs, instead of following the usual custom of sending Vice President Richard M. Nixon to meet an important visitor.

The federal government is rolling out its thickest red carpet for the Arabian ruler in hopes of making up for the cold shoulder shown by New York City.

Saud was snubbed on his arrival yesterday by local New York officials who charged that he was anti-Jewish, anti-Catholic and pro-slavery.

The royal party of 75 will arrive in four planes. Saud is to come from New York in President Eisenhower's personal plane, Columbine II, and is due to land at noon (EST).

An honor guard of crack troops from all services will be at the airport.

Heads of all government departments and offices in Washington were advised to let their employees out for long lunch periods so they could line the route from the airport to the official guest house across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House.

STATE DINNER TONIGHT

Beginning with an afternoon meeting at the White House today, Saud and Eisenhower will hold a series of conversations covering the whole range of Middle Eastern problems. A state dinner at the White House tonight starts a series of social events to honor the King.

Eisenhower is reported to be counting heavily on these talks—and equally on the symbolism of Saud's visit here and his impressions of the United States—to win the confidence of the Arab world generally. He hopes particularly to gain wider Arab acceptance for his Middle East economic and military programs.

Tito Cannot Visit U.S., Says Yugoslav Paper

BELGRADE (INS)—The Yugoslav government newspaper said today that Marshal Tito cannot carry out a proposed visit to the U.S. because of an anti-Yugoslav campaign in congress.

There was no official word from the Belgrade regime that the proposed trip had been canceled, and the newspaper Borba implied that Tito might still go to Washington if the Eisenhower administration speaks out against what it called the "insulting, hostile" campaign. Borba said Tito could be expected to inform Washington—if he had not already done so—that under present conditions he would not go to the U.S.

Same Old Story: The Woman Pays and Pays 'n' Pays

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (P)—Alderman Tom Joseph suggests that the tax on female dogs be raised to $50 from $5 in an effort to keep dogs from running at large in Owen Sound.

The city council only last week decided to hire an assistant dog catcher but he hasn't yet taken up his duties and the problem persists with the loose females getting the blame.

City Clerk Comptroller Alan Stewart says he doesn't feel that it was necessary to raise the tax on females. He said that dogs are just like people; it is only necessary to "weed out the bad females."

Predict Initial Passage of Mideast Resolution by Large Majority

WASHINGTON (INS)—President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine will be approved by the House today by a large majority.

However, there will be a substantial "no" vote.

This is the prediction made privately by party leaders as the House prepared to take a formal roll call tally on the important issue.

The leaders said they thought 30 to 40 Democrats and an equal number of Republicans would vote "no," although others predicted the negative tally would not exceed 50.

Meanwhile, two Senate committees prepared for a sweeping investigation of U. S. policy in the Middle East for the past 11 years.

IKE ENDORSES

This inquiry, endorsed by President Eisenhower, was originally proposed by Democrats on the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services groups holding joint hearings on the Mideast doctrine.

The motion by Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), calling for a fully documented "chronological" review of Middle East policy, was approved by the joint group yesterday, 30 to 0.

The board investigation, expected to take several months, may equal in importance the dramatic 1951 hearing on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's ouster as Far East commander by ex-President Harry S. Truman.

The immediate issue, however, is the Eisenhower Middle East resolution, asking authorization to use American Armed Forces to forestall outside Communist aggression against Mideast nations.

Crackdown to Continue, Says Van Atta

Driver Hits Alleged 'Speed Trap'

Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem said today he has been asked by the attorney general to step into a quarrel between an angry Flint driver and the Waterford Township Police Department.

The driver, Jack S. Masin, a department store owner, claims police run a "speed trap" on Dixie highway.

He alleged yesterday there are police irregularities and produced a sheet of similar complaints from other drivers to back up his claim.

Masin, who has been ticketed twice, met in Ziem's office with Police Chief Frank Van Atta and Justice of the Peace Willis D. Lefurgy.

Van Atta flatly denied any irregularities. He said the crack-

Coed's Parents Rush to Reunion at Washington

Barbara Agler, Found Rooming in Capital, Says 'Things Piled Up'

WASHINGTON (INS)—Parents of Barbara Lois Agler, the missing University of Michigan coed who was found in Washington last night, anxiously awaited reunion with their runaway daughter today.

Herman Agler, 42, the father, arrived in the capital today from Detroit and his wife, Lois, was driving from their home in Susquehanna, Pa.

District of Columbia police found the missing 20-year-old coed on an anonymous tip last night. She had been living at a rooming house.

Agler was accompanied to Washington by Barbara's campus boy friend, Ray Shirven, 19, of Tokyo. The youth said he wanted

Barbara Not in Area

For a brief 45 minutes last night, local authorities were plunged into the mysterious disappearance of Barbara Agler, University of Michigan coed. Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor received a tip the girl was somewhere in Waterford Township. He notified Police Chief Frank Van Atta and then went to work on the telephone seeking leads to her exact whereabouts.

The effort was in vain. Within an hour the news came over the radio the girl had been found, not here but in Washington, D.C.

Meanwhile, the girl was inconsistent in her runaway story. She said: "I didn't like it at Michigan. I guess things just sort of piled up on me."

"Mid-term examinations were coming up and sometime before Christmas I had an argument with the dean of women. We talked about government and she seemed to think my ideas were all against America. I thought they were what everybody believes."

City May Put Issue on Ballot

Urges Vote on $500 Drunk Driving Fine

It's going to cost convicted drunk and reckless drivers in Pontiac $500 if a proposal of City Attorney William A. Ewart receives favorable approval at the April 1 election.

Ewart recommended to the City Commission last night that it take action to put before Pontiac voters in April a City Charter amendment which will permit the $500 maximum fine. The maximum fine has been $100.

In order that the issue may be placed on the April ballot, commissioners called a 6 p.m. special meeting today to act on the proposed amendment to be drawn up by Ewart.

"For many violations, such as drunk driving, the cost of prosecution, including officers' overtime, witness fees, jury trial fees in the Municipal Court and a retrial in Circuit Court, the $100 fine does not begin to cover the city's actual expenses for these violations," Ewart said.

"According to the prosecutor's office," he continued, "Pontiac has more appeal drunk driving cases than the entire amount of drunk driving cases which that office handles for the entire county."

He also expressed hope that the proposed fine increase would aid in cutting down the number of drunk and reckless driving cases in Pontiac.

The city attorney outlined to the commission that Michigan law permits the $500 maximum fine, or 90 days in jail, or both, to be written into city charters.

7 Million Dollar Plan Discussed at Miami Parley

Union Would Use Fund to Inform Dixie About Value of Membership

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (P)—The AFL-CIO is reportedly considering spending seven million dollars over a three-year period to convince Southern workers they should join labor unions.

Television, radio, newspapers and billboards would be used to plug the values of union membership in an area AFL-CIO unions have found hard to organize.

At the AFL-CIO Executive Council's current winter session here, it was decided to leave more detailed plans to a public relations committee headed by a council member, President William C. Birnbright of the barbers' union.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, has spoken favorably of the plan. He maintains labor organizations will continue to have troubles organizing in Dixie until workers learn, he said, that unions can help improve pay and work standards and that they have no other motive.

The council's session was recessed today while members attended a closed meeting of the Committee on Political Education (COPE), the AFL-CIO political organization. A reshuffle of COPE's activities in the 1956 political campaign was in prospect.

Jack Kroll, codirector of COPE with James L. McDevitt, prepared to submit his resignation at the meeting. Nearly 72, Kroll said he would continue as vice president in the Cincinnati, Ohio, area for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union.

Kroll, an associate of the late Sidney Hillman, said in an interview he was sure labor unions will play an increasingly active role in politics.

"I foresee a realignment of the nation's political fortune," Kroll said. "Some of it is happening already. Unless the Democrats let young liberal guys come up, the Republicans definitely are going to carry the South. The Democrats will have to pay that price."

Kroll became head of the former CIO-PAC on the death of Hillman in 1945 and has served as codirector of AFL-CIO political efforts since the labor merger in 1955.

Reports also circulated that building trades unions are considering pulling out of the Industrial Union Department.

One high official said he would not be at all surprised by a withdrawal following the building tradesmen's rejection of a plan for settlement of jurisdictional disputes. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Clouds, Cold Form City Weather Scene

The U. S. Weather Bureau says it will remain partly cloudy and cold in the Pontiac area, with an expected low tonight of 12-16 degrees.

Tomorrow will be mostly cloudy and cold with probable snow flurries and a high temperature of around 20. Friday will be a little warmer with Saturday colder. The weather will warm up slowly Sunday and Monday.

The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. was 14 degrees, the thermometer registered 22 at 1 p.m.

Pilot Terrifies Iowans

DES MOINES (AP)—A student pilot with a yet to "show everyone I could fly" took a plane at gunpoint and turned the daytime into a nightmare for Des Moines residents yesterday.

For nearly four hours Roy Soderquist, 22, swooped and zoomed at building-top height over the downtown business district while office workers abandoned their desks to watch in tense fascination.

Finally, with his gasoline supply almost gone, he crash landed the small, single-engine training plane on a road at the outskirts of suburban West Des Moines. He was promptly taken into custody by police.

Soderquist was unhurt but police said he went into convulsions from shock after the landing.

At the hospital where he was taken for observation, Soderquist told reporters:

"I always knew I could do it. I've wanted to do something like this for years."

"I did it to show everyone I could fly—not so much how good I could fly but that I could fly."

James Dolezal, Soderquist's flight instructor, said the city's four-hour ordeal started as a routine flying lesson for the youth, who never had soloed but had been given about 15 hours of pilot training.

Dolezal said Soderquist pointed a gun at him, then handed him a note ordering him from the plane.

"I certainly hope I do not have to put a bullet in your leg to prove I mean business," the note said.

The fantastic flight was greeted by spectators in the downtown area with a curious mixture of carnival excitement, personal fear and dread that it would end in a major catastrophe.

Business office routine throughout the city was disrupted as workers ran from window to window to follow the plane as it circled and dipped, disappeared behind buildings and then zoomed into view again.

Offices in the top eight floors of the Equitable Life Insurance Co. building were evacuated.

Police reported they were swamped with calls from "hysterical" persons, some of whom pleaded that the plane be shot down. Soderquist's mother, Mrs. Rudolph Soderquist, 51, of Clio, was rushed the 90 miles to Des Moines in an ambulance with a Highway Patrol escort to broadcast an appeal to her son to land the plane. He gave no evidence he heard her.

She said Roy had tried to get into the Air Force but was rejected because of a federal mail fraud conviction in 1952. She told newsmen she had been advised last summer that her son should see a psychiatrist because he was just living too much by himself. Police Detective R. M. O'Brien said charges of robbery with aggravation and failure to have a certificate authorizing the operation of an aircraft would be filed against Soderquist pending a mental examination.

DOWN TO EARTH—This is the plane, in which Roy Soderquist, 22, "buzzed" over Des Moines for four hours yesterday, after taking the ship by force from his instructor for his first solo flight. The plane crash-landed in a field when the fuel supply was exhausted.

Did Sisters Die Day They Left?

Coroner Finds Traces of Food Similar to That Girls Ate at Home

CHICAGO (INS)—The teen-agers Grimes sisters may have died shortly after they left home—not after a week of debauchery described by their confessed killer.

Traces of food similar to what their mother served them on Dec. 28 were found in the body of Barbara Grimes, 13, according to Coroner Walter McCarron. The bodies of Barbara and her 13-year-old sister, Patricia, were not found until Jan. 22.

The coroner made the disclosure today after the girls' mother, Mrs. Loretta Grimes, 45, listed the foods eaten by the sisters at their last meal at home in testimony at the inquest.

Under Coroner McCarron's questioning, Mrs. Grimes told the inquest jury that the girls ate tuna fish, mayonnaise, and sweets before they left to go to a movie, never to return.

FOOD SIMILAR Outside the hearing room, McCarron said that Dr. Walter Camp, toxicologist, found evidence of the same meal described by Mrs. Grimes in the older girl's stomach.

Edward L. (Bennie) Bedwell, a 21-year-old sliver-dishwasher has signed a 14-page confession declaring the girls toured saloons and hotels with him in Chicago's West Madison Street slum district from Jan. 7 to Jan. 13. In his confession, Bedwell said he "dumped the bodies," stripped of clothing, after the girls were beaten unconscious Jan. 13, in a ditch along suburban Willow Springs.

Mrs. Grimes has disputed Bedwell's sordid account of her daughters' activities before their murder, and at today's inquest, she demanded from the witness stand:

"Why does he lie about my girls?" The mother insisted "I don't think he ever saw them." Then she burst into tears.

Texans Prefer Cans, Even If From Florida

MCALLEN, Tex. (AP)—It's easier to buy fresh orange and grapefruit juice in New York than in the citrus-rich Rio Grande Valley.

Roy Robe, chairman of the McAllen Chamber of Commerce City Committee, said tourists who ask for fruit juice usually are served canned or frozen juice in most eating places.

"What's worse," he said, "it's usually from Florida." The committee said cafe owners say they don't sell fresh juice because it's easier to punch a hole in a can than to squeeze juice from the fruit growing in their own back yard.

AFL-CIO Ponders Campaign in South

However, Al Whitehouse, director of the IUD, denied any knowledge of developments along this line. The IUD was set up at the time of the AFL-CIO merger to accommodate unions formerly affiliated with the CIO. It is headed by Walter Reuther, United Auto Workers president and former president of the CIO.

At present, 10 building trades unions are affiliated and pay per capita tax to the IUD.

Withdrawal of the building tradesmen would have the effect of dividing the merged organization into two separate camps, with former CIO unions on one side and those from the AFL on the other.

The IUD currently has a membership of about 7,400,000 of which 1,200,000 are from building trades unions.

U.N. Undecided in Gaza Issue

Haggle Over Method of Breaking Deadlock Between Israel, Egypt

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Weary U. N. delegates haggled today over tentative plans to break the Israeli-Egyptian deadlock over the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba. They hoped to reach common ground before the General Assembly resumes debate last night.

Several proposals circulated among delegates as both the Western Powers and the Asian-African bloc put out feelers to gauge sentiment in the 80-nation Assembly. Heaviest support appeared to be swinging toward a Western "middle of the road" plan to give Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld greater authority to deploy the U. N. Emergency Force and to give the force freer rein.

India was also reported seeking support for a resolution which would call on U. N. members to clamp a ruinous trade and economic boycott on Israel unless she pulls out of Egypt at once.

You cannot deduct services that you may render, as the gifts must be in money or property. Also, you cannot deduct gifts to political organizations or candidates, or to propaganda organizations.

CAPT. JOSEPH KOREN

Chief Promotes Pontiac Officer

Capt. Koren's Advance Follows His Recognition Among State Police

Tuesday was the first day Joseph Koren wore the two bars of a captain on his Pontiac Police uniform.

Koren's advancement to captain of the traffic and safety bureau was announced yesterday by Herbert W. Straley, chief of police.

The 42-year-old officer, acting captain of the bureau since August, 1955, joined the force in 1949. He was promoted to sergeant in 1951 and lieutenant in 1954.

In August, 1955, Koren was named winner of a $675 scholarship for a nine month course at the Northwestern University Traffic Institute. This was offered by the Kemper Foundation for Traffic Safety.

He was the only Michigan police officer among 24 selected from 16 states in competition among 106 application to win this award. Koren lives at 583 E. Mansfield Ave., with his wife Eleanor and their 15-year-old daughter, Mary.

suddenly change from 45 to 35 miles an hour and that officers pounce on drivers before they have time to slow down.

Ziem said that a highway department study would determine if the zones are correct and motorists properly warned.

Main first had written Att. Gen. Kavanagh, who referred him to Ziem. Kavanagh said in a letter to Ziem, "We have received a lot of complaints with reference to this particular police department. On the surface it would appear the rights of the people are being violated."

Concerning this statement, Ziem thought the attorney general was "going a little overboard."

Van Atta said his strict enforcement policy has cut the traffic toll. He made this statement:

"According to all safety councils and committees, they stress the three 'E's' in safety, which are education, engineering and enforcement. Enforcement is up to police departments and is the most hated because somebody has to be punished."

"This department was organized in 1954, and from 1954 through 1956 total accidents were cut 50 per cent, personal injury accidents were reduced 54 per cent and property damage accidents were reduced 21 per cent."

"The accident figures prove that enforcement pays off."

"I would a lot rather hear someone moan about getting a traffic ticket than hear the moans of some mangled body along the highway or sob from a person over the traffic death of a relative or dear friend."

Legislators Ask Williams

That was the refrain among Republicans and Democrats alike after Gov. Williams' record high, 411 million dollar general fund spending proposals were presented to the legislature yesterday.

Some Republican leaders had comments like "unrealistic" and "inconclusive."

Democrats who were able to digest the bulky, 50-page budget message applauded their chief for holding proposed expenditures down as much as he did, considering agency requests totaled well above 500 million dollars.

The recommended spending would top legislative appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30 by $80,000,000, and necessitate the raising of 75 million dollars of new revenue through taxation. Williams himself gave no answer to "Where's the money coming from?" But said he proposed to do so in a separate message a little later on. Speculation centered on a corporation profits tax, a Williams favorite.

The Day in Birmingham

Plan Tribute Ceremony for Donald C. Egbert

BIRMINGHAM—Honoring the 27 years service of Donald C. Egbert the city of Birmingham will hold a brief dedication ceremony at noon Saturday in Shain Park, when a bronze plaque will be mounted at the base of the 25 foot Norway spruce planted earlier this week.

Egbert came to the city as part-time building inspector, city assessor and member of the engineering department. He became city manager in 1936 serving until last year. His post was interrupted by three years service during World War II, when he served in the military government branch of the U. S. Navy.

As a Naval Lt. Commander, Egbert currently is on deferred retirement to the city. Since his retirement from the city employment he has become engineer, manager of the south Oakland County Water Authority and south Oakland County Garbage and Rubbish Authority.

Mayor James Allen will preside at the brief ceremony and make the dedication speech.

The tree was chosen as a tribute to Egbert's city association because of his deep interest in parks and forestry. Owner of a tree farm near Caveville, Egbert was one of the primary forces behind the progressive park system in Birmingham.

Throughout his term as city manager he was constantly aware of the value of parks and did much toward the beautification of the overall city plan.

Because of the many outlying areas covered by mothers in the March of Dimes, a slight change in the program will see collections made during the daylight hours tomorrow as well as the regular "porch light" campaign. It was decided to make the change for the convenience of campaign workers and because in many instances women are traveling alone through sparsely settled areas and over roads which in view of recent snows are "slippery and otherwise bad driving."

With the approaching annual roll call of the Community House more interest is centered on that establishment than at ordinary times. Activities at the House, however, are the same—busy and full capacity.

An example is the typical week starting tomorrow, which will see a total of 55 groups using House facilities. These include house sponsored activities such as hobbies and crafts classes, senior mens club and the senior work shop.

Supper Club of Congregational Church of Birmingham will meet at 6:45 p.m. in the church Friday. A square dance with Joe French will feature the evening entertainment. Chairmen of the affair are Millard and Pearl Newcomb.

Dwight B. Ireland, Superintendent of Schools has announced that the Birmingham Board of Education will offer Saturday driver training, beginning on Feb. 9, to eligible youth who reside in the school district, and are not enrolled in the Birmingham Public School.

Young people between the ages of 15½ and 17 may enroll at the Birmingham High School office Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Certification of birthdate will be required at the time of registration.

The classes will be given for a two-hour period, 9 to 11 a.m., for fifteen weeks. There are no tuition fees.

have laws, but I think everybody should be freer."

She smiled shyly and peered at the floor most of the time she spoke. The physics major talked freely to reporters, but snubbed policemen. She added:

"I felt freer in the last week than I ever did before. I went for long walks and I went to a couple of dances with girls who lived at the rooming house where I stayed."

Barbara said she went to dances at Quantico, Va., a U. S. Marine Corps base, and that she got in cars belonging to friends of her companions.

She said she "guessed" she came from Ann Arbor by bus, but didn't remember getting on the bus or exactly what day she left college. Once, before, on an Easter vacation, Barbara said, she had been in Washington "and liked the town."

Barbara, a dyed blonde, said she had $50 when she left Ann Arbor, but admitted: "I'm broke now. I was going to go back to school pretty soon. I didn't know my parents would know that I had been gone."

News of Barbara's discovery was telephoned to Agler at Ann Arbor Police Headquarters. Agler nearly collapsed as the mounting tension of the police search for his daughter suddenly snapped. He danced about the station, tears streaming down his cheeks. He threw his arms around police officers and reporters.

Defense Wins Delay in Barron Killing

PORT HURON (AP)—The examination of Roger Fetting, 35, on a first degree murder charge in the fatal shooting of disc jockey Lonnie Barron, was postponed yesterday until Feb. 7, by municipal Justice Harry Nelson.

Defense attorneys requested more time to prepare his defense. Fetting was scheduled for examination tomorrow.

Barron, a hillbilly songster, was found shot to death in his home at nearby Muttonville Jan. 9. His body was sprawled among boxes of fan mail, mostly from woman admirers.

Police said Fetting admitted the shooting to a Port Huron radio newsmen, then repudiated it. He was quoted as saying his wife and sisters were members of Barron's fan club.

Labor, Industry May Be Probed

Ask Senate Committee Investigation Power Into 'Racketeering'

WASHINGTON (U-P) — The Senate Rules Committee considers today a proposal for a yearlong investigation of alleged racketeering in labor unions and industry.

Chairman Hennings (D-Mo.), said he hoped for a quick vote to recommend that the Senate approve the investigation.

Senate leaders are asking a $350,000 fund for the probe, which would be conducted by an eight-man special committee.

The resolution to authorize the investigation was introduced yesterday by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), who is expected to head the special bipartisan committee. It carries no restrictions on which senators might be chosen.

The resolution would arm the committee with virtually unlimited authority to investigate "the extent to which criminal or other improper practices or activities are, or have been, engaged in" by persons or groups "in the field of labor-management relations."

Which Wife Legal? Astor Wants Answer

NEW YORK (U-P) — Millionaire John Jacob Astor wishes the Manhattan State Supreme Court would hurry up and tell him which of his two wives is his legal spouse.

Through his attorney Barent Ten Eyck, the pudgy society sportsman told Justice Samuel Gold yesterday that he wants to know pretty soon because income tax filing time is rolling around.

Astor said he was paying a total of $3,250 monthly alimony to his two wives, the former Gertrude Gretsche of Brooklyn (Wife No. 2) and the former Dolores (Dolly) Fullman of Miami Beach, Fla. (Wife No. 3).

Astor has asked the court to decide which of the two is his legal wife. Ten Eyck appeared in court yesterday to argue against dismissal of Astor's petition.

The dismissal was sought in a motion filed by Louis Nizer, attorney for Miss Fullman. Nizer let it be known that his client is well satisfied with the way matters now stand, including the $250 monthly alimony. Astor married Miss Fullman in 1954, a week after he received a Mexican decree ending his 10-year marriage to Miss Gretsche.

Plenty! Estimates, Hearings, Assessments...

What's Behind Getting New Street?

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

There's a lot of "red tape" behind that new sidewalk in front of your home, or that new street paving job or storm sewer laid to prevent your street from flooding.

The "red tape" consists of regulations outlined in the 1920 City Charter which must be complied with before any public improvement project in Pontiac becomes reality.

Persons attending City Commission meetings this time of year will get an earful of hearings, assessment rolls, estimates, and confirmations. These are all part of the city's $3,263,000 capital improvement program which must, under the charter, come before the commission.

To get a sidewalk, sewer, curb, gutter, or paving, the project can be initiated either by signed petitions of 51 per cent of property resolution of public necessity filed by the commission.

If approved, the commission instructs City Engineer Lewis M. Wrenn to prepare an estimate of how much the project will cost. "We make these estimates on prevailing prices," Wrenn said. "They are merely estimates and not exact."

Then the commission calls for a public hearing on intention to construct the project. At this hearing, and this hearing only, the public has the right to appear to voice objections or approval on whether all these intention hearings are advertised in The Press at least five days prior to the hearing.

A majority can cancel the proceedings, Wrenn said. But the commission has the authority to override these protests, he added. "They wouldn't ordinarily do it, but they have, and continue to have the power to," he said.

Asked about the conflict possible between the majority requesting and the majority protesting, Wrenn explained: "People have the right to change their minds."

If no objections are voiced at the hearing, the City Commission instructs the city assessor to prepare a special assessment roll which shows what properties are to be taxed for the work. The city bears a burden of the work also, as specified in the engineer's estimate.

This roll is then presented to the commissioners, who instruct the city clerk to advertise for a second public hearing, this time on the means of assessing property owners.

SOMETIMES COMPLAINTS

"This hearing is not on whether the job is going to be done or not," Wrenn said, "but only for any complaints persons may have on their assessment."

With approval of the assessment rolls, the work can begin. This is done either by private contractors or by city labor.

After the work begins, or is completed, the last step put before the commission is the confirmation of the roll. At this time, the commissioner in whose district the work is being performed, sets the number of payments residents will have to pay their assessments.

The charter sets a limit of 10 payments, but commissioners have agreed upon a limit of five at about $50 to $100 per payment. "A payment does not necessarily mean one year," Wrenn said.

Citizens have within 20 days after the city treasurer sends out notices to pay part of the assessment without interest. The remainder must be paid within 20 days on or before June of the following can be paid on one lump sum," Wrenn said.

STRANGE CREATURES - 3

The Mermaid

Mermaids are perhaps the most widely known mythical creatures of the sea. According to legend, the mermaid is a lovely girl to the waist, with the lower body and tail of a fish.

As legend tells us, the mermaids would sit on the sands or rocks and comb their golden hair with jeweled golden combs. Sailors, attracted by their beauty and singing, would thus be lured to the danger on the reefs.

Stories of mermaids are often found in art and poetry. Hans Christian Andersen, for example, wrote a story called "The Little Mermaid." Down through the ages many seamen have thought they saw them.

Here is a mermaid for your collection of strange creatures. Color her hair, shell, mirror and comb a golden yellow. Her tail is green. The sea is blue and the sand yellow. Paste the picture on cardboard and cut out the parts carefully. Then fasten the right arm behind the right shoulder with a brass fastener or bent pin. Now she can comb her golden tresses. By folding back the easel ends on the dotted lines the picture will stand.

CONSTIPATED?

New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloot or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrift" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-A-R-T-C-H stimulate it to action; to a normal urge to purge.

And, of all laxatives, only COLONAD, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONAD's great moisturizing capacity, plus COLONAD's stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONAD is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy. Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAD neither gags, bloats nor grips; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions. It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAD exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONAD, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Wixom Poised for Village Incorporation Vote Feb. 5

'Lincoln Plum' Eyed by 2 Areas

Tiny Town Seeking to Save Very Existence by Vote

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

The town of Wixom threatens to be swallowed up in incorporation proceedings from two different townships, and the 1,401 residents are fighting for their very existence.

Petitions for incorporation proceedings for Wixom to become a village have been filed, and the people are getting set for a special election to be held Tuesday to provide the necessary legal action to save their settlement.

With Novi Township's supervisor, Frazier Stamen talking about city incorporation, on one side of the railroad tracks, which divides the town in half, and Commerce Township's supervisor, James L. Garner, referring to "growing pains" and city incorporation in his area, Wixom is caught between the two.

"One township has shown willingness to do everything they could to us, and the other has shown no indication that they want to do anything for us," postmaster, Herbert R. Abrams said.

For years, the town of Wixom has laid quietly in the unpretentious rural area 15 miles south-west of Pontiac.

There is no doctor or drug store in town. On Main street, there's a general store, a gas station, post office, tool shop, real estate office and a tavern.

No one paid much attention to the fact that half of the town lay in Novi township and the other part in Commerce Township—that is until the Ford Motor Co. began building the multi-million dollar Lincoln assembly plant a half-mile south of Wixom.

From the time ground was broken for the huge factory, two years ago, people knew that something big would happen to Wixom, but they never dreamed that they would be literally "pulled apart at the seams."

When the Lincoln plant gets under production, some time this year, they will employ close to 6,000 workers, with an annual payroll of $25,000,000 and Wixom will be faced with a terrific traffic problem.

The state highway department officials estimate that 65 per cent of the plant's employees will be traveling through Wixom to get to work.

Within the last few months, the fathers of the town have banded together and formed the Wixom Civic Assn. and proceedings to incorporate were started. Wesley McAttee heads the group.

The proposed 10½-square mile area includes the Lincoln plant, which is the ripe tax plum that Wixomites feel they are entitled to, and Novi officials are fighting for.

The incorporation of Wixom into a village in no way affects Novi Township's right to tax the Ford-Lincoln plant, according to Abrams. It does affect the company in that they get doubly taxed—village, plus the township, he added.

Tomorrow night, Wixom residents have been asked to attend a public meeting at the school at 8 p.m. This will be the final meeting before the special election and incorporation will be explained in full by municipal officials of the villages of Wolverine Lake, Milford and City of Walled Lake.

The following men are candidates for the Charter Commission: Delbert C. Geyer, Kenneth S. Rocker, William Richards, Everett Pearsall, Chester Ochylski, Ray Lahti, Jesse Birchard, Gunnar Metala and Herbert Abrams.

Wixom may look like a sleepy little town to passers-by, but the undercurrent of retaining its century-old existence belies the peaceful exterior.

Up Salary for Supervisor, Clerk and Treasurer

Commerce OKs Resolution for Township Pay Boosts

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP—Recognizing the increased responsibility attached to important township positions, the Commerce Township Board last night approved a resolution calling for proposed pay boosts to be in effect for the 1937-38 term. The action was taken at a special meeting in the township hall.

Board members approved a $1,300 pay hike for township supervisor from $4,800 to $6,000 per annum. They also upped the salary for township clerk from $1,500 to $2,500 yearly and boosted the pay for township treasurer from $2,400 to $3,000 per annum.

The board also voted to continue the present pay rate for board trustees and for the Board of Review.

Trustees are now paid at the rate of $10 per meeting while the Board of Review receives $20 each day.

All of the salary increases are for elected officers and are proposed for the next two-year term which begins April 1.

While the township board has approved the salary adjustments, the action is subject to the approval of the electors on Township Meeting Day, March 30. On that day, registered voters may appear at the meeting and may voice their opinions to officially approve, reject or revise the resolution.

Underlying reason for the pay hikes is the heavier work load that comes with a fast-growing population. The fact that the cost of living has inched upward was a factor of secondary importance.

These winners will attend the March 21 meeting of the schools club. At that time identities of grade winners and the grand prize winner will be revealed. Mrs. Toles said. Grade winners will receive plaques and the grand prize winner a trophy.

Jim Farley Works Quietly in Business, but to Many He Remains 'Mr. Politics'

3-17—JIM FARLEY WORKS
(James A. Farley, the "Genial Jim" of the first two Roosevelt administrations, is now devoting his energies to business. But perhaps no one in recent American history has had the extensive experience and contacts in the rough and tumble of national politics that have marked Farley's life. Here, in the first of three articles by a veteran reporter, Farley looks at politics—past, present and future.)

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
INS Staff Writer

James A. Farley, looking back on 35 turbulent years in politics, says that the four personalities who most impressed him were Franklin D. Roosevelt, John Garner, Cordell Hull and Al Smith. This came out when I dropped in to see Farley at his New York office at the Coca-Cola export corporation, where he is chairman of the board.

At the age of 68, Farley is out of politics and concentrating on business. However, he's a respected older citizen with rare political wisdom. And to many he will always be known as "Mr. Politics." In his day he was a power in national politics.

"Genial Jim," the man who never double-crossed a newspaperman, has had tough luck in recent months—due to two eye operations. While attending the Democratic National Convention in Chicago last Aug. 16, he was hit in the right eye by a card during a demonstration.

MISSILE THROWN
The cardboard missile was thrown by someone during the outburst that greeted the selection of Adlai E. Stevenson as the party's presidential nominee.

"I took out my handkerchief and wiped away the blood," said Farley. "I didn't think the injury was serious. But when I got back to New York the eye bothered me and I went into the hospital."

Immediate surgery was necessary to correct to detached retina. There was danger that his sight might be impaired. After several weeks he was released from the hospital but had to return for another operation.

BACK AT DESK
But now Jim's back at his desk, part-time, wearing horn-rimmed glasses and pacing himself. The eye is clearing up well, although there still is a bit of a film over it. It may take almost a year to restore normal vision.

"I'm coming to the office quite often, increasing my work time as I go along," said Farley. "I'm eliminating public functions and dinners as much as possible. I used to go to 100 banquets a year. I've served my time at them."

"I walk to work from my apartment in the Waldorf-Astoria. Now and then I go to the Biltmore Hotel Turkish baths for two reasons: First to relax, and second, to keep an eye on my weight."

LOOKS FIT
The 6-foot-2½ Farley normally weighs 218 pounds. He looks fit. He is his same old bland, bald-headed, friendly self—frank, forthright, honest and as genial as in the days when he held such jobs as Democratic National Chairman and postmaster general.

Inevitably, we talked politics. In his 35 years in the game, he won many triumphs, made thousands of friends, and collected a rich store of memories. Every-

Pneumonia Ends Life of Film Star Costello

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Helene Costello, who once earned $3,000 a week starring in films with the late John Barrymore, died Saturday at age 53—a victim of pneumonia in a state hospital.

Officials said she was committed to Patton State Hospital in San Bernardino last week for narcotics addiction. She was committed under the name "Adrienne Costello."

body knows he ran the campaigns that made FDR President, broke with Roosevelt on the third term issue and ultimately left politics for business.

"What men most impressed you during your political career?" I asked him at one point.

Farley paused. After some thought he replied:

"Roosevelt, Garner, Hull and Al Smith."

His answer made it obvious that, even to this day, Farley holds FDR in regard.

WAS INFLUENCED
"My association with these men influenced me greatly," Farley said. "While I didn't always agree with them, or they with me, I recognized that all of them had qualities of leadership."

"It is, of course, impossible for me to name the many others of real stature who were truly great Americans. I must have met hundreds of thousands of political leaders of all types."

Impulsively, Farley reached for a telephone on his desk which was piled with papers and baskets, and upon which rested pictures of his deceased wife, and of his children and grandchildren. He put in a long distance call for former vice president John Nance Garner at Uvalde, Texas.

"Hello there, Jack," he was soon saying. "And how are you?" When Farley hung up he said Garner was feeling fine for a man of 88 and that "Jack" insisted he was going to send some pecans to Farley for his grandchildren.

ANOTHER NAME
"You know," said Farley, "I ought to add another name to those four I gave you—Jimmy Walker, the former mayor of New York City. Maybe Jimmy had his faults but he was an unforgettable personality. My affection for him knew no bounds."

"Jimmy Walker's wise counsel helped me a great deal in my early days in New York politics. I cherished his friendship."

Farley didn't say it, but when Walker quit under fire as mayor of New York and went abroad, Farley went out of his way to visit him in Paris, at a time when virtually all of Walker's friends had deserted him. And when Jimmy came back to New York in dire trouble, the one prominent politician who went down the bay to meet him was Jim Farley.

(Next: Farley's views of the current political scene.)

Party Chairman Moves Up Fast

Good Political Speaker, Able Executive, Alcorn Reveals Leadership

HARTFORD, Conn. (NEA)—Attorney H. Meade Alcorn of Suffield, Conn., the newly-elected Republican National Chairman, is a youngish-looking man of 49 who literally and figuratively has been on the run since his teens.

As a student at Dartmouth, Alcorn was a member of the track team and his specialty was the high and low hurdles. In one meet he started not only his competition but himself when he broke the world's record for the 60-yard low hurdles, setting a mark of 6.9 seconds. (The record has since been bettered by one second.)

Alcorn is a fast mover, grally and aloof. He talks very fast when he makes a speech, and Connecticut political reporters have had difficulty in keeping up with him when they took notes.

He is one of the best political speakers in Connecticut, and is regarded as one of the two or three top trial lawyers in the state. His mind works fast, his actions are fast, and when he walks it is almost as if he is out to break another distance record.

Though some regard him as slightly stuffy and distant, those who know Alcorn well say he is quite warm-hearted and friendly. He is an excellent story teller, specializing in stories about New England farmers.

A basic New Englander himself, Alcorn can put on a nasal twang, when he quotes his legendary farmers in stories, that makes his listeners roar with laughter.

QUICK RISE IN PARTY
Young Alcorn has come up fast in the past four years. He was elected national committeeman in 1953 to fill a vacancy, and became friendly with retiring National Chairman Leonard Hall and Sherman Adams, Assistant to the President. He was picked to manage the GOP National Convention in San Francisco last year, a task that convinced the national leaders he had the ability for national party office.

Alcorn, whose first wife died about seven years ago, married a divorcee, Marcia Powell, a little more than a year ago. She was a secretary in the office of the GOP State Central Committee and is as excited about politics as he is.

Mrs. Alcorn is tall, dark and handsome and undoubtedly will do considerable national traveling with her husband. She really understands and likes the political game. She is about 30. Alcorn has a 16-year-old daughter by his first wife.

He heads a big law firm in Hartford, about 18 miles from his colonial-style home in Suffield, where his family has lived for many generations. He is considered a wealthy man and devotes almost fulltime to politics.

Hollywood Headlines

Diana Barrymore's Life Will Be Basis for Movie

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—The frank, uncensored story of Diana Barrymore's life, "Too Much Too Soon," has been bought by Jack Warner. He literally snatched it from the gallery proofs.

Gerold Frank, who collaborated with Diana in writing this book, also collaborated with Mike Connolly and Lillian Roth on "I'll Cry Tomorrow." I presume Diana's story is a similar drama.

Carroll Baker, the young actress who is going far fast, will play Diana, with Irving Rapper directing as his first new Warner Brothers assignment.

The young actor everyone's talking about in "The Rainmaker"—and I mean Earl Holliman—gets himself another bright chance to shine when he reports to MGM for "Don't Go Near the Water." Earl joins Glenn Ford and Anna Kashfi in this hilarious comedy of Navy life in the South Pacific which has been at the top of the bestseller list for six months.

Speaking of Glenn Ford, he trains into New York this morning to be guest of honor at the March of Dimes dinner at the Waldorf Astoria. He's also due to make an appearance on Ed Sullivan's TV show and others while he's in the big town.

PORTRAYAL OF CHRIST
Darryl Zanuck writes: "I note in your article about Jim Bishop's 'The Day Christ Died,' you mentioned that you think Christ will be played by an off-stage character, because of British censorship regulations."

"Jim Bishop's entire story takes place during the last 24 hours of the life of Christ, from the Last Supper to the crucifixion, and is factual."

"I have already discussed the portrayal of Christ with Sir Arthur Watkiss, the chief British censor. He has assured me that if my script faithfully follows the book, this restriction will be waived, in this particular instance. I could not possibly make the film without portraying the figure of Christ."

Ida Lupino, who had to have three operations on her eye, said "I looked a sight for a few days, but thank goodness I am all right."

Ask Both Peninsulas Show on State Maps

LANSING (AP)—"If you seek a beautiful peninsula, look about you," says Michigan's motto.

But two Michigan legislators have filed a bill to make sure that if you look at a map of Michigan, you see two beautiful peninsulas—not just one.

Objecting to maps showing only the Lower Peninsula, Sens. Leo Roy of Hancock and Perry W. Green of Grand Rapids would make it a misdemeanor to prepare or publish a map leaving out the Upper Peninsula.

Roy hails from the Upper Peninsula which juts out like a finger toward Canada between Lakes Superior and Michigan. Green is from the mitten-shaped Lower Peninsula.
