Hoffa Returns Home; Refuses Any Comment

'Court Case, Not Matter for Publicity'; Wiretap Affair Goes to Probers

DETROIT (AP) — James R. Hoffa returned to Detroit yesterday and refused to comment on anything except to say "to the best of my knowledge" no Detroit Teamster officials have been called before the Senate committee investigating labor racketeering.

Asked about a charge of bribing a Senate committee lawyer in Washington to supply him with secret information, Hoffa said:

"This is a court case and not a publicity matter. It will be tried in court."

He said "no comment" when questioned about his relationship with New York electronics expert Bernard Spindel.

Testimony by Spindel that he checked Hoffa's phones here in 1953 for "wiretaps" and in turn tapped the phones of Teamster lieutenants for Hoffa has been forwarded to the Senate committee probing Teamster affairs.

Hoffa was arrested in Washington Wednesday by FBI agents on a charge of offering John Cye Cheasty, Senate committee staff lawyer, $18,000 for committee files.

In Washington, Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) says he will call attention of the Senate racket investigating committee to reports that some Teamsters Union people made secret recordings of a grand jury investigation in Detroit.

McClellan said yesterday any such incident would be "a rank invasion of the privacy of the grand jury room."

He said it will be up to the committee to decide whether to go into it.

McClellan said he has received a letter from Michigan Atty. Gen. Thomas M. Kavanagh asking the committee to make an inquiry. Kavanagh said his own jurisdiction was too limited.

Hoffa's secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Dobrescu, arrived in Washington from Detroit yesterday to testify before the federal grand jury considering bribery charges against her boss.

She also was arrested as a ma-

Shamrocks of the Emerald Isle

"There's a dear little plant that grows in our isle,
"'Twas St. Patrick himself sure that set it;

The encyclopedia isn't as sure of itself as the poetry books. In fact, there is some dispute as to which plant was the original shamrock.

The shamrock is said to have been first assumed as the badge of Ireland because St. Patrick made use of it to illustrate the oneness of the Trinity. According to the encyclopedia, the trifolium minus, a hop clover, is the generally accepted modern shamrock, but the wood sorrel, the bird's foot trefoil, or medick, and the small-leaved clover have claims to being associated with the national emblem.

But scholarly debates aside, St. Patrick's Day is the day for the wearin' of the green and the day for visions of a sweet, green land across the sea that represents love, warmth and home.

Searchers Find Bodies of Pair in Plane Debris

2 Saginaw Men Die in Crash of Small Craft North of Oscoda

SAGINAW (AP)—Bodies of two prominent Saginaw men were found today in the wreckage of their small plane which crashed in woods six miles north of Oscoda.

They were Dr. James W. Mac Meekin, chief of staff at Saginaw General Hospital, and Edward C. Totten, Saginaw oil and gas dealer.

The plane was spotted first by an Air Force plane in a swampy woodland near Greenbush, on the shore of Lake Huron. A ground party that pushed through the snow-covered woods to reach the spot reported the four-place Tri-pacer plane did not burn.

Dr. MacMeekin and Totten were homeward bound from a two-day ice fishing trip at Bay de Noc near Escanaba in the Upper Peninsula.

Friends said Dr. MacMeekin, a pilot of 15 years experience, often had made the Upper Peninsula trip and his habit was to fly the shore line for safety.

Dr. MacMeekin bought the red and white painted plane about six months ago. It is equipped with the latest radio equipment and all communication facilities available for an amateur ship.

Dr. MacMeekin landed the plane at 2 p.m. Friday at the Alpena Airport to refuel. He telephoned his wife that he was heading for home at 2:15 p.m. He left no flight plan.

At the time of the takeoff, strong southwest winds and heavy snow squalls swept Lake Huron. Ice conditions in the lake and bay were patchy.

Robert C. Welch, manager of the Alpena airport and a veteran flier, said he missed meeting Dr. MacMeekin by half an hour. Welch, who returned from a flight to Indianapolis, said he had never encountered worse flying conditions from snow and wind. He expressed deep concern when he learned that Dr. MacMeekin's plane was missing.

"The weather conditions were as severe as I have ever seen," Welch said.

State police and coast guardsmen all along the shoreline from Alpena to Saginaw were alerted and kept a watch during the night.

Both Dr. MacMeekin and Totten are experienced outdoorsmen. They have been hunting and fishing for many years.

Baby Sitter, 18, Faces Murder Count in Cell

While a Pontiac father and mother try to comfort each other over the brutal drowning of their 2½-year-old daughter Patty Tiernan, the 18-year-old confessed baby sitter killer is confined to a cell in the Women's Division at Detroit Police Headquarters.

Detroit police report they will seek a warrant Monday charging Madelon Roberta Sue Allred, of 33 Gingell Ct., with first degree murder.

The child was found drowned in the bathroom of a Detroit hotel room Thursday night after the girl had told an incredible story to police in which she claimed that she had killed the child by strangling her "until her face turned blue."

Inspector Thomas Cochill of the Detroit Police said he feels the baby sitter who had been employed three weeks, will be found mentally incompetent and unable to stand trial for the slaying of Patty.

Cochill said that despite the teenager's background, police would probably ask for a first-degree murder warrant against her, adding: "We will submit our findings to the prosecutor as in any other case."

(Related Article, Page 24)

Wayne County assistant prosecutor, Arthur Koscinski, added that the Prosecutor's office could not make the decision on whether the girl will stand trial. A court-ordered psychiatric examination will determine that.

Mrs. Lucille Allred, Madelon's mother, said today she had retained Pontiac attorney Clarence L. Smith, to represent her daughter.

Madelon told the story to Jackson State Troopers after being arrested Thursday afternoon for loitering outside Jackson Prison, where a brother Frank, is a prisoner. He was sentenced in May, 1954, to serve five to 15 years for a breaking and entering in Pontiac.

Egypt Agitates Scene by Tightening Control of Gaza Strip

By International News Service

The Middle East teetered on the brink of war today following a series of new Arab moves designed to keep Israeli shipping out of the Gulf of Aqaba.

An already tense situation developed into a full-blown crisis after Saudi Arabia invoked Moslem tradition to declare the gulf closed to Israeli shipping.

It was also engendered by Egypt's tightening of its administration of the Gaza Strip in the face of threatened Israeli retaliation "without warning."

Dag Hammarskjold summoned a noon emergency meeting of his seven-nation advisory committee today to consider the future role of the U.N. Emergency Force in maintaining peace between Israel and Egypt over the Gaza Strip and Gulf of Aqaba.

Hammarskjold, in almost continual consultations on the mounting new crisis, with U.S., Israeli, Egyptian and other diplomats, also planned a weekend or early Monday meeting with Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir.

Reports from Jerusalem indicated that tension had reached a new high-level there. The reports were backed by official announcements and the urgent trip to the U.S. of Mrs. Meir.

DUE TO ARRIVE

Mrs. Meir, due to arrive in the U.S. Sunday, stopped off briefly at Paris today and conferred with French officials.

Apparently she won their support for a stiffer U.S. and U.N. stand against Egyptian control of the Gaza Strip.

Her trip was announced after an official Egyptian source said the U.N. Emergency Force (UNEF) would be moved to the 1949 truce line within 48 hours. This would complete transfer of the strip's administration to the Egyptians.

Secret Marriage Reported

Hughes Weds Actress, 30

NEW YORK (AP) — Millionaire Howard Hughes and actress Jean Peters were married secretly several days ago, newspapers reported today.

★ ★ ★

Hughes, 51, oil man, industrialist, aviator and movie maker, first met Miss Peters, 30, about 10 years ago. They appeared together frequently but in 1954 Miss Peters married Texas oilman Stuart W. Cramer 3rd.

The couple separated after a few months and Miss Peters filed for divorce in 1955.

Hughes was first married in 1925 to Ella Rice of Houston, Tex. The marriage ended in divorce four years later.

Neither Hughes nor Miss Peters was available for comment.

He is one of three foreign newspapermen now in the U. S. under the State Dept. program to observe the American way of life and to explain their countries to American colleagues.

Hawker has been a journalist since his graduation from secondary school in 1943.

His career was interrupted in 1944 when he served two years in the Royal Australian Navy toward the end of World War II.

A graduate of the University of Tasmania, he won the British Commonwealth Lord Kemsley Award in 1950, which gave him 18 months in Great Britain working on papers owned by Lord Kemsley.

Earlier, in 1947, he won the Monty Grover Award as the best Australian "cadet journalist."

Hawker flew to the United States, landing in San Francisco March 1. After several days there, he flew on to Washington, D. C., where he attended a President's press conference and a State Dept. press conference. He also visited Congress and the Supreme Court before coming to Pontiac.

River a Nuisance? Just Move It

FLOOD CONTROL — Most of the demolition work has already been completed in this section of Battle Creek's Jewell Street Redevelopment Area to make way for the Kalamazoo river diversion channel, indicated by the white lines. Through the channel, which is part of the city's $7,500,000 flood control project, the Kalamazoo river will bypass the business section to the south and rejoin the present river channel at the top of the picture. The Battle Creek plant of the Ralston-Purina Co. is shown to the right of the channel.

Battle Creek Rebuilding Downtown Area

BATTLE CREEK — Through a $25,000,000 face lifting program Battle Creek is beginning to untie a noose of railroad tracks and rivers that for years has strangled its business district.

After 10 years of planning, the Battle Creek program is coming off the drawing boards and is moving into the field.

Slums are being cleared. Bridges are being built. Construction contracts are being let.

The program is the integration, through careful planning, of four major projects. Financed by federal, state and locally raised monies, the program will:

1. Remove the threat of damaging floods with a seven mile flood control project along the Kalamazoo River.

2. Clear an 80-acre slum area for use as a light industrial, commercial and service industry site.

3. Create a new traffic plan with new street layouts, expressways, railroad overpasses, highway bridges and interchanges. (Battle Creek has 35 major grade crossings. Plans call for only five and those on overpasses).

3. Take the city's downtown area out of a steel straitjacket of railroad tracks by consolidating the main lines of the New York Central and the Grand Trunk Western railroads into one route through the city, using the Grand Trunk right-of-way.

Battle Creek's share of the $25,000,000 estimated cost, is $6,000,000. Of this, the city has already arranged the financing for $4,000,000 without any increase in property taxes.

ARMY ENGINEERS ASSIST

For the $7,500,000 flood control project the city pays 44 per cent of the total cost. The city buys the land, builds the bridges and makes the utility changes — the federal government through the Army Corps of Engineers does the work. The land will be returned to the city.

A $1,900,000 revenue bond issue was sold last year for the general street improvement expressway and bridge construction program weight tax monies returned from the state was pledged to back it.

The state will pay most of the cost of the relocation of M-78 through the city. For slum clearance, the city contributes one-third of the cost in either work done or cash outlay.

The Jackson street bridge has already been constructed and is due to be opened this spring to give the city an additional east-west route to help clear the downtown traffic bottleneck.

MOVE RIVER CHANNEL

Workmen have started the construction of the first of four bridges which will cross the Kalamazoo river diversion channel. The channel is part of the flood control project and will divert the Kalamazoo river around the business district. These four bridges will be built before the channel is constructed. Contracts for the other three bridges are due to be let in the next few months.

All of the sewer and water changes necessary for the program are included in a $2,000,000 revenue bond issue now before the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission for approval prior to sale. The bond issue is being sold to

Call Road Men in Land Probe

State Is Investigating Proposed Purchase at Estimated $90,000

LANSING (AP) — State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler and Mayor Paul Goebel of Grand Rapids were under subpoena today to testify in a state investigation of a contemplated $90,000 land purchase deal in Grand Rapids.

Joseph A. Sullivan, chief deputy attorney general, described phases of the proposed transaction as "absolutely incredible" after he put two state highway officials through an intensive grilling last night.

Ziegler, Goebel, Deputy Highway Commissioner George M. Foster and seven other persons connected with the case have been subpoenaed to testify at a second hearing Monday in the auditor general's office.

The property at issue is a 2½-acre plot in Grand Rapids, owned by the Darling Freight Co. The State Highway Department has sought since 1954 to buy the land in connection with expressway development in the Grand Rapids area.

Gov. Williams ordered an investigation Thursday, saying he had been informed by a Grand Rapids realtor that the property had been appraised in 1954 at $11,800. The land now carries a $90,000 price tag.

Ordered to appear at a hearing in the auditor general's office last night were Everett A. Wells, assistant director of the highway department's right-of-way division, and Frank T. Kennedy, assistant right-of-way buyer for the department.

Under questioning by Sullivan, Kennedy admitted he had known that an appraiser hired by the state to set a valuation on the Darling Company property had been retained earlier by the company itself to appraise the same land. Sullivan identified the appraiser as Harry J. Fuller of Grand Rapids.

Fuller, Sullivan said, appraised the property at about $145,000 for the company and, later, at nearly $100,000 for the state.

In December 1954, he said, William T. Broersma of Grand Rapids, has placed its value at $11,800 and last January had appraised it again at $16,000. A third appraiser, Ward S. Van Dusen of Detroit, estimated its worth at $31,200 last May.

"The retention of Fuller by the highway department with the knowledge that he had been employed by Darling and the knowledge of the appraisal that Fuller had given Darling is absolutely incredible and certainly not in the public interest," Sullivan told newsmen afterward.

Victor Meier, assistant attorney general who specializes in land condemnation proceedings, said he had "never heard of such a thing in all my years of experience." He assisted Sullivan in the interrogation.

Wells and Kennedy both said they were present when a tentative agreement had been reached at a meeting in Grand Rapids last February on a $90,000 purchase price for the property.

"It was a meeting of minds, not a settlement," said Kennedy. He said an attorney for Darling had been instructed at the time to draw up an abstract of the deal and send it to the highway department for approval.

Sullivan said the three appraisers all had been summoned to Monday's hearing, along with Daniel Darling, vice president of the Darling firm; Louis Grettenberg, Darling's attorney; L. E. Grillhart, director of the highway department's right-of-way division; and Carlos A. Weber, chief engineer for the department.

Mayor Goebel also was subpoenaed, he said, because he reportedly represented the city of Grand Rapids in the proposed deal.

MEMO FROM CAESAR

Caesar Scoffs at Pilate's Fears

(Tenth in a Lenten Series)

A chuckle escaped the lips of Tiberius Caesar as he finished reading Pilate's report. He called across the garden to his slave and asked that writing material be brought.

After a glance up at the remaining golden sunlight lingering in shafts across the rose-washed sky, Tiberius Caesar wrote:

My Dear Governor:

At my right hand the fountain plays with a gentle music as its waters splash and swirl. The slave has gone away for torches against the time when there is no longer enough daylight to see this page. In short, it is very peaceful here in Rome. Tonight we do not hear the usual echoes of disturbance from the provinces.

I say that pointedly. I say that even though I have just finished reading your report on how the man Jesus is recruiting followers.

To be honest, Pilate, I think it is you rather than Junius or the people of Galilee who are bewitched. There have been teachers and philosophers in the world before now. I suspect there will even be others after we have made our final journey across the Styx.

It is totally unlike you to be disturbed over the loss of a minor tax official. Indeed, I have held you in especially high regard because you could run your province without continually calling upon Rome for help and advice.

Certainly there are other men besides this Matthew who would like a job collecting Roman taxes in Judaea.

Have you been attending too many banquets lately? Or masquerading too much in the marketplaces. What does your lovely and excellent wife say to all of this, Pilate?

If I seem to be chiding you too frivolously, remember: we are men of the world. We have the Roman law to uphold. We are not upset by the first wayfarer who shows he is something out of the ordinary from most of the barbarians we govern.

It is good to know that not all the unusual men passed with the eras of Pericles and Augustus as our historians moan so much.

Let me hear more of the man. But write for our edification and amusement, not from your fear.

(Signed) CAESAR

Broomfield Pushes Project in Congress

Flood Survey Bill Advances

A two-pronged attack on potential flood hazards in Oakland, Macomb and Wayne Counties was launched recently in Washington by Oakland County Congressman William S. Broomfield, of Royal Oak.

★ ★ ★

He introduced a bill calling for a survey by the U. S. Army Engineers of all streams flowing into Lake St. Clair and the Detroit River in the three counties.

The bill has been referred to the Committee on Public Works, of which he is a member.

In simultaneous action, Broomfield and Rep. Robert J. McIntosh, of Port Huron, along with Oakland County Drain Commission officials, urged a $60,000 flood control study of a 5.5-mile stretch of the Clinton River, west of Mt. Clemens as "number one priority."

"Because of the number of projects which will be built in Oakland and Macomb counties during the next two years, flood dangers will increase," said Broomfield.

He said he and McIntosh will carry their request for the Clinton study to the House Appropriations Committee "as soon as possible" so work can start quickly.

★ ★ ★

"We want assurances the federal part of the Oakland and Macomb drainage systems won't cause headaches in the future," Broomfield added, noting the Clinton as a federal waterway and the Red Run drain in the southern part of the county was built with federal funds.

The federal government completed work on the Clinton spillway to lessen flood danger to Mt. Clemens in 1951, and Broomfield wants the same protection.

Donald Ringer, Oakland County's chief engineer, supported Broomfield, saying the population of the county will swell from 545,300 to 1,117,300 residents by 1980.

"New residents mean new homes with paved streets, paved parking lots in industrial and business areas and new drains. All these will increase the flow of storm water into the Clinton, increasing the flood danger," he said.

ton today from Australia to cope with the new trouble between Israel and Egypt.

The sudden Arab one-two punch left the United Nations legally helpless and appeared to throw the whole question of war or peace into the lap of the United States.

The question appeared to be whether the U.S. would be able to calm down the Israelis.

Mrs. Meir, according to Jerusalem dispatches, would talk with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and demand a showdown. President Eisenhower was en route to Bermuda for a conference next week with British Prime Minister Harold A. Macmillan.

ISRAELIS WARN

Israeli officials charged that Egypt's return to Gaza was the result of "collusion" between U.N. and Egyptian officials. The Israelis warned that it damaged peace hopes.

Israel had earlier been optimistic over Washington's reported "assurances" to Tel Aviv over both the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba.

SQUEEZE PLAY

Many diplomats were crediting Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser with a slick but highly dangerous squeeze play. He has reasserted his full legal rights over the Gaza, according to the 1949 armistice, while arranging to have the Saudi Arabians declare Aqaba closed.

★ ★ ★

Nasser thus evaded a head-on clash with the U.S. and other western nations which are demanding that the Gulf of Aqaba be made an international waterway.

He also escaped the necessity of disputing the right of the 250 U.N. Finnish troops to remain in Sharm El Sheikh, which controls the narrow straits of Tiran at the mouth of the gulf.

EGYPTIANS MOVE

Reports from Gaza City said the Egyptians are moving quickly to consolidate their administrative hold.

It was believed that King Saud of Saudi Arabia and Nasser agreed during last month's Big-Four Arab conference that Saudi Arabia would step into the Aqaba issue.

With the Finnish troops on the Egyptian side of the gulf, some observers believe Saudi Arabia would have considerable difficulty preventing the Israelis from transiting the gulf if the Israelis decided to shoot their way through as they have threatened.

★ ★ ★

But Saudi Arabia, which has only token armed forces of its own, could always call on the Egyptian navy under the joint defense pact signed in Cairo a year ago.

★ ★ ★

Some Saudian Arabian troops, which altogether number about 10,000, already are stationed in Jordan. They have been there since the October Israeli attack on Egypt.

'Slight' Progress in Oil Strikes

State Labor Mediator Reports Union to Vote Today on Latest Offer

Slight progress in the strikes which have cut off gasoline and fuel oil deliveries in the Pontiac area for Standard Oil and Socony Mobil customers is reported today by Hyman Parker, state labor mediator.

Members of Local 102, Central States Petroleum Workers Union, on strike at Standard Oil Co., will vote today on a company wage increase offer. Proposed terms were not disclosed.

Still at odds with Standard are members of the office workers union who have refused an offer of a 4 per cent wage increase.

Local 389, Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers, has turned down an interim offer by Socony Mobil Oil Co. to return to work while negotiations continue on a new contract. Local 389 is on strike at Standard, too.

Socony Mobil offered the workers a 4 per cent increase with a minimum of nine cents an hour if they returned to work while contract negotiations were continued, Parker said.

The offer was made at a meeting in which the union lowered its wage demands from 33.6 cents an hour to 25 cents, retroactive to Jan. 1. The union demanded 35 cents an hour more when it went on strike two weeks ago.

Local 389 is negotiating with Shell Oil Co., as well, but is not on strike there.

U.S. Atty. Oliver Gasch has said the grand jury may complete its inquiry today, but that any indictments probably would not be returned before Monday.

The rackets probers indicated today they have fixed a 24-hour deadline for Dave Beck, Teamsters Union president, to comply with a demand for his 1949-55 personal financial records.

With the hearings in recess until Tuesday, committee sources said they intend to subpoena Beck's records unless the Teamsters chief quickly gives them to the committee voluntarily. A similar request for Beck's records went out nearly a month ago.

There have been allegations that union funds were used to pay some of Beck's personal expenses.

Late in yesterday's hearing the committee produced several checks amounting to more than $14,000 and said the Teamsters money went to Nathan W. Shefferman, Chicago labor relations consultant to employers. The committee said he once served in that capacity for Sears, Roebuck & Co.

The checks were signed in 1951 and 1952 by Beck and by Frank Brewster, chairman of the 11-state Western Conference of Teamsters.

Brewster testified that he didn't know why the money was paid. However, he said Beck used to pay Shefferman to make speeches to Teamsters Union groups as "a labor-management authority."

No further explanation of the alleged payments to Shefferman was offered at the hearing. But Robert Kennedy, committee counsel, said later hearings will deal with what happened to the union money.

Community 'Roll Call' Ending; Goal in Sight

BIRMINGHAM—With four-fifths of its $50,000 Roll Call goal reported, the Birmingham Community House is closing its home solicitations campaign.

House director, Mrs. Ewald Schaeffer, said checks are still coming in, bringing the Thursday total to $41,600. Mrs. Schaeffer and Mrs. Alvin Knorr, in charge of tabulators, urged prospective donors to mail their contributions as soon as possible.

Board President Norman Weston added, saying: Business contributions this year have been disappointing. "We feel," he said, "that some of our donors may be enjoying vacations at southern resorts and that we will hear from them later. Drive officials urge all to reply promptly so our goal may be reached and the books closed."

"It it is to continue its excellent work in Birmingham the House must have your support," Weston added.

Mrs. Knorr pointed out that the several women working on tabulation are all volunteer help.

"They are busy housewives and mothers and we cannot ask them to continue this task too long. Make checks payable to the Community House Roll Call, and please mail them soon," she concluded.

Double services for Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Garland of 435 Waddington Rd. will be held at 1 o'clock Tuesday from the Bell Chapel of the Wiliam R. Hamiton Co. They have been residents of Birmingham for the past six months, coming here from Palm Springs, Calif.

Mrs. Ida Garland died March 9, three days before her 73rd birthday, after a long illness. Mr. Garland, critically ill in William Beaumont Hospital, was not informed of her death.

Mr. Garland, 73, died yesterday. He was a retired mechanical engineer and had been with Cadillac Motors for 25 years as a technical manager. He was a member of the American Society for Mechanical Engineers and FAE. He has no survivors.

The Rev. Harold E. Towne of St. James Episcopal Church will officiate at the services. Entombment will be at White Chapel Memorial Cemetery.

finance other water and sewer improvement work as well.

The first demolition project to clear 80 houses, commercial structures, a factory and miscellaneous buildings is nearing completion to clear the way for the diversion channel.

Bids on a second demolition project have been received and award of the contract is pending for flood control downstream.

There are 388 properties involved in the slum clearance district. The district, known as the "Jewell Street Redevelopment Area" is the heart of the city's program. The area plays a part in each of the four projects within the program.

Final plans for the slum clearance project were approved by the City Commission this week and have been submitted for final approval by the Housing & Home Finance Administration.

USE FEDERAL FUNDS

Last year, $500,000 was appropriated to begin construction. Bids on the first part of the project have been taken and the award of the contract is pending. President Eisenhower has included $2,000,000 in this year's budget to continue the project.

Battle Creek has received assistance from other sources. The W. K. Kellogg Foundation gave the city $400,000 for property acquisition. The Consumers Power Co. gave the city its mill pond and mill race outright. The area is valued by city officials at $750,000 in terms of the program.

The program will provide the additional benefits of reclaiming land for municipal parking lots and new park and recreation areas.

Direction of the program is assigned to the Battle Creek Railroad Consolidation Board, a city agency. The board is made up of the city's industrial and business leaders. William V. Bailey, an attorney and former mayor, is the board's paid executive director.

MODEL GUIDES WORK

How Battle Creek will look in another decade when the Program is finished, is dramatically shown in a $17,000 scale model of six square miles of the city. The model, which is unique in its detail and scope, is accurate both horizontally and vertically to within one-half o fone per cent. A key in the city's planning, t he model has already saved the city an estimated $500,000.

Battle Creek is now working to transfer its dream of the future from the plywood model to actual concrete, steel and brick.

"With the community spirit we have behind it, we're going to do it too," Bailey said. "We know that in this improvement program we have our future by the tail."

Havana Is Nearer Than Even Miami

Key West: Remote, But Teeming With Life

By JOE HAAS

KEY WEST, Fla. — This southernmost city in our nation is a unique city in many ways.

It is the most isolated city in our 48 states. Its nearest neighbor of any size is Miami, 160 miles north. Havana, Cuba, is much nearer.

HAAS

At the tip of a great chain of coral islands, Key West was the southern terminus of the railroad which jumped across them from Florida's east coast.

That railroad was unique in the world's transportation, until it was destroyed in a hurricane 20 odd years ago. That storm was the worst in Florida history.

Over substantially the same route, the overseas highway has been built, which locally is claimed to be the "eighth wonder of the world."

And after you've driven its bridges, ranging from a few rods to seven miles in length, you'll agree that it is an engineering marvel. The actual length of this two-lane highway is more than 100 miles, mostly over water.

It also carries the pipeline which brings fresh water from Florida City to all of the Keys, for there are no fresh-water wells on them.

Claimed to be the greatest salt water fishing area in the world, the Keys have most everything, ranging from a pound or two, up to several hundred pounds.

There are amberjack, tarpon, bonefish, mackerel, snook, sailfish, grouper, barracuda, bonito, snapper, dolphin, wahoo and other species. Give me the red snapper when it comes to the menu.

But it is the manner of catching the fish that is most interesting. You can even drop your line from the bridges in many places.

However, the big fellows lurk further out, and there's lots of equipment and guides available, so you can do your utmost. The guides are numbered by the hundreds, some of whom have something tangible to offer you, but there are others who just pass out information as the best places to get them, operating something on the order of a race track tout.

They also have an additional service for you, in case you have not caught anything and want to really make an impression on the folks back home.

There are photographers who will take your picture standing beside a whopper from the seas (whopper has a double meaning). They don't even have a large fish. You simple stand next to the fish painted on the studio wall.

Key West makes its living off three things — the naval base, tourists and fish. Its downtown section is reminiscent of Old Mexico or Cuba. Most of the buildings in its business section are wrecks.

But it cashes in on its climate, which is superb. Natives claim there's nothing like it in the entire world, in the winter. In the summer its setting between the gulf and ocean makes the heat quite bearable.

During the week we've been here it always has been the warmest spot in the nation, always in the mid-70s, with the sea breezes making it absolutely ideal.

To attract tourists, the city has completed several miles of palm-edged boulevards. Roosevelt boulevard circles much of the newer Key West. It quite appropriately merges into Truman boulevard when it gets downtown, and is crossed by Eisenhower boulevard, also quite appropriately.

We cannot imagine a more ideal setting, climatic or otherwise, than the 87-unit new Key Wester Lodge, where we are keeping house for two weeks. Our "efficiency" fronts on the ocean, with only the four-lane paved highway between, and at our rear is the International Airport. Everything we buy is much lower priced than in Michigan.

Downtown Key West caters to the boys at the big naval base. They are in evidence on every hand. This is especially true just after one of the frequent big rains, when they carry the town girls across the flooded streets. While watching from our car, we saw several girls make the round trip at least five times.

The hundreds of eating places along the Keys are a gourmet's delight (hope Dr. Don Smith doesn't see this). This is not only in the fish line, but otherwise. Outside of the fish dishes, our greatest frailty is lime pie.

There are so many keys that they ran out of names for them. There's a Michigan Key, and we hunted for one named Pontiac. A Detroit friend who hailed us on one of the bridges pointed out what he claimed was Pontiac Key, with a population of three — two pelicans and a cormonant on a two-by-four rock.

Hunting a tan to take back home appears to be the avowed purpose of most of the patrons of the Key bathing beaches, which are not very plentiful because the foundation of the Keys is usually rough coral rock.

Most of these people never get their bathing suits wet, nor do they accumulate a tan in the God-given way. They buy it at most any drug store — or fish bait emporium — at 60 cents for a bottle that will make you look like an overdone lobster.

No wonder Key West has such an ideal climate. Take out your world globe and you'll find that it is 500 miles further south than North Africa, and gets all of the benefit from the warm Gulf Stream as it crowds through the Straits of Florida.

It calls Miami "up north" and the past week has been close to 20 degrees warmer than that much publicized resort city.

It offers no language problems; while 25 per cent of its residents are Spanish, they understand English much better than do French Canadians at our other extreme.

Further isolated from any other daily newspaper in the nation is the Key West Citizen. It is a newsy sheet, forever plugging the local climate. Its publishers are doing everything to show a good time to a representative of the daily that swept the decks in winning all three national excellence awards last June — The Pontiac Press.

Walkouts Begin in British Labor

Shipbuilders Hit First; Ask 10 Per Cent Hike; Already Over Average

LONDON (AP) — Britain's shipbuilders began quitting work today in the first of a series of industrial walkouts that could idle nearly three million men in a week.

The first of 200,000 shipbuilders walked off their jobs early this morning. One week from today they are scheduled to be joined by 2½ million engineering workers.

All of them, represented by the Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions, are demanding a 10 per cent pay increase. Their average pay now is 12 pounds, 18 shillings and 10 pence ($36.24) weekly, some two pounds ($5.60) above the national average.

Representatives of the shipbuilding and engineering industries refused at first to discuss the union request for a pay boost but now have agreed to a government request to accept arbitration. But the unions still insist on direct negotiations wih he employers on he basis of some cash offer.

Prices Go Sky-High in Czechoslovakia

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Shoppers in Czechoslovakia are not profiting from "generous" price reductions ordered by the government last year, the Communist newspaper Praca of Bratislava says.

The edition of Praca received in Vienna today says that nearly all last year's reduced goods have vanished from Czechoslovak state stores and been replaced by new high - priced products.

Men's shoes, which were reduced to 130 crowns—$18 at the official rate—for a certain style are unobtainable throughout the country. The only men's shoes available are priced at 250 crowns —$34.72, Praca complains.

The same applies to women's dresses.

Record Shops Hail Wearin' o' the Green

Each year at this time record stores across the country don the wearing of the green — confident that their cash registers will do the same—to commemorate St. Patrick's Day with a display of Irish folk tunes, dance airs and a popular breed of Irish ballads written by composers who have never been there.

In the latter class fall such sentimental ballads as "Dear Little Shamrock," "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," "I'll Take You Home Again Kathleen," and "Little Town in the Ould County Down," all non-authentic Irish songs but nevertheless immensely popular in Ireland.

Foremost among the modern singers of Irish songs is Glasgow-born Father Sydney MacEwan, a Catholic priest stationed in the Hebrides who was a protege of the great John McCormack and gave up a promising concert career for the simple life of a country curate.

Despite his parish chores, Father McEwan still manages to give an occasional concert and his rendering of Irish songs has sold more than a million records under the Columbia label. Sir Compton MacKenzie, the eminent British critic, calls him "the finest living interpreter of Celtic music."

IRISH FESTVAL

The Irish Festival Singers, in a two-volume Angel recording, give a thrilling and beautiful rendition of traditional Irish songs like "Father O'Flynn," "The Bold Fennian Men," and are at their best in four songs by Thomas Moore: "The Harp That Once Thro Tara's Halls," "She Is Far From the Land," "O Breathe Not His Name" and "The Last Rose of Summer."

The group, which won bravos in a recent Carnegie Hall recital, is directed by its expert piano accompanist, Miss Kitty O'Callaghan of Derry.

Also from Derry come the Little Gaelic Singers, 22 merry voiced charmers who live at Nazareth House, an orphanage for girls, when they are not touring or cutting records for Decca. Their engaging repertoire includes songs in both English and Gaelic and an unforgettable version of Mother Machree that shouldn't leave a dry eye anywhere it is played.

MODERN, TOO

Lest anyone think that all Irish music is venerable and wrapped in Celtic twilight, Decca offers a two-volume "New Music From Old Erin," with the 90-piece Radio Eireann Symphony performing the works of such modern Irish composers as Brian Boydell, Seoirse Bodley, Thomas C. Kelly and Arthur Duff.

London, an English firm, steps into the St. Patrick's Day record parade with Patrick O'Haegan's "Dear Little Shamrock" and Mary O'Hara's "Songs of Erin." MGM Records join the line of march with Mary Mayo's "Songs by a Turf Fire," which includes a spirited and beautiful warbling of Danny Boy by the North Carolina-born thrush.

And, speaking of Danny Boy, Bing Crosby still gets a lot of crooning mileage out of this old standby and several others in his "Shillelaghs and Shamrocks" album (Decca).

Riverside, which began as a jazz outfit and has since done excellent work in the folk field, virtually covers the whole range of Irish melody with Margaret Barry's "Songs of an Irish Tinker Lady" and Patrick Galvin, in a series of records, singing authentic Irish love, humor, street and drinking songs.

All in all, it's a great day for the Irish—and the record companies.

Senate Bill Would Limit Campaign Expenditures

Senator Gore, Tennessee Democrat, has introduced a bill in the U.S. Senate to stiffen election laws, limit campaign contributions and require better reporting on campaign spending.

The Senator was chairman of a subcommittee which analyzed 1956 campaign spending. More than $33 million had been reported but the committee found that spending far surpassed that figure.

★ ★ ★

Among other features, the Gore bill extends coverage to party primaries, caucuses and conventions; limits spending in national conventions; limits individual contributions to $1,000 to all candidates in a single year and requires more detailed reporting on campaign finances. The bill also would attempt to hold the candidate legally responsible for all campaign spending in his behalf.

★ ★ ★

Senator Gore told the Senate that his measure is a "tough bill to meet a tough and difficult situation" which is so serious that it "constitutes a threat to Government truly representative of the public will."

Passage of this bill would be a step forward in curbing excessive spending.

Lake Ships to Be Built and Without Subsidies

When the ship subsidy bill was before Congress last year, retired Coast Guard Admiral Lyndon Spencer, president of the Lake Carriers' Association, predicted a bleak future for American shipping on the Great Lakes.

In testifying for this bill to subsidize bulk vessels up to 45 per cent of their construction costs, Mr. Spencer said that shipbuilding on the Great Lakes "is literally at a standstill. No new bulk cargo vessels are on order . . . Only last year 15 vessels were retired from Great Lakes service. If this trend continues, it would well jeopardize the future security of the nation."

★ ★ ★

However, the bill did not pass and just a few months after this gloomy prophecy Mr. Spencer announces that a huge bulk carrier is to be built in Detroit for the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Milwaukee. Four others almost as large are to follow; two old ships are being converted and others modernized. Canada also has two large bulk carriers under construction.

Adm. Richard E. Byrd

His restless and courageous spirit led him over the frozen vastness at the top and bottom of our globe, and he was credited with charting some 2 million square miles of the earth's surface never before seen by man.

★ ★ ★

He was the first man to fly over both the North and South Poles. He headed two Arctic and five Antarctic expeditions. His explorations may give this nation claim to a large portion of Antarctica.

★ ★ ★

Forced into retirement early in life by a leg injury, he came back to serve the nation in two World Wars, and to continue his explorations.

★ ★ ★

His final assignment was as overall head of the United States Navy's far flung Operation Deep Freeze in Antarctica in this Geophysical year, devoted to probing into mysteries of our universe.

★ ★ ★

His body will rest with the nation's heroes in Arlington National Cemetery. His spirit will be ever with those who labor on some distant frontier to penetrate the unknown.

United for Progress

A new Central American free trade zone and system of regional industries have been approved by officials of Guatemala, Costa Rica, El Salvador and Honduras.

This would mean a regional market of nine million persons, the largest being Guatemala with 3.2 million population. The region is mostly agricultural but it is hoped that new industries can be brought in. A Central American paper and cellulose plant to be built in Honduras already is being planned.

Western Europe is moving toward economic union; the Scandinavians are co-operating more and more and now Central American republics have embraced the idea of seeking prosperity and security in unity.

This indeed is a heartening trend.

Unity Strained

GOP Splits on the Issue of State Aid to Schools

By ROGER LANE

LANSING—The Republican legislative unity of January is straining at the seams in mid-March over the issue of state aid to local school districts.

★ ★ ★

Whether the fabric finally will pull apart remains to be seen.

In the background behind the present pulling and hauling over whether to step in with more cash for schools is the larger, overshadowing problem of the state budget—and a major increase in state taxes.

And there are political ramifications tied in with the April 1 election campaign, reflecting pressures that will subside about the time that those swirling around the bigger question intensify.

Only a week or so ago the extremes among majority Republicans in the Legislature were represented:

On the one hand, by a fairly numerous House group determined to keep from getting on the hook they believed would ensnare them if they dragged their feet on providing emergency funds for local schools.

POSSIBLY STRONGER

On the other, by a smaller but possibly stronger group in the Senate that insistently was holding to the position "no new taxes" and felt that money for schools would hopelessly undermine their stand.

★ ★ ★

The first group, sensitive to the Republican stake in the impending election, favored early and bold action partly on the theory that this would strengthen the campaign appeal of their candidate for state superintendent of public instruction.

At the moment, progress has been made toward reconciling the opposing views.

★ ★ ★

Through a series of conferences, the first group has cooled off on the idea of pushing ahead regardless, and the second on the proposition of "no new taxes" whether school keeps or not.

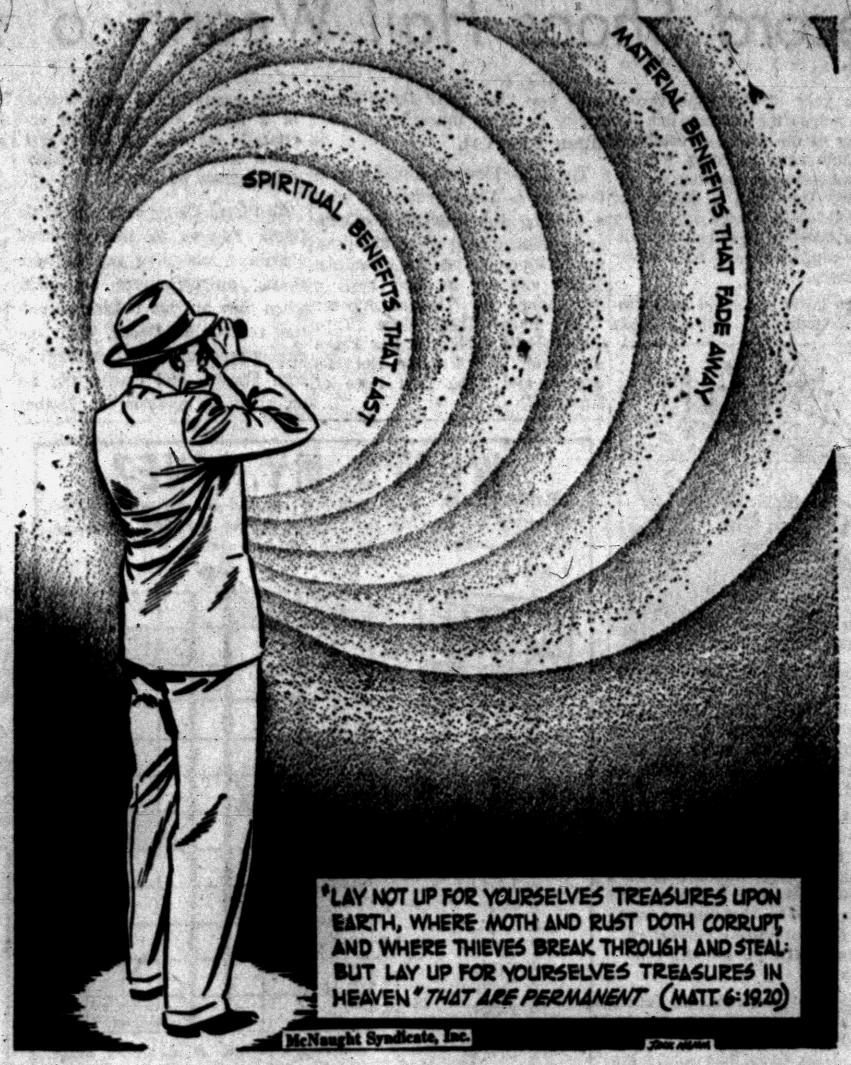

MINOR TAX HIKE

As a result of a developing compromise, still nebulous and not binding, both groups have found a possible solution.

★ ★ ★

It consists of the proposition that agreement might be reached on some sort of appropriation, provided it is packaged with a comparatively minor tax increase to pay the way.

If the Republicans fail to stake out a new tax line soon, and anchor it firmly, they risk finding themselves in the position of opening the cash drawer to local schools districts and almost simultaneously slamming it on the fingers of others who think they have equally good arguments for more money — not an easy thing in political life.

The True Proximity—More Often Than Not

Days of All Faiths

St. Patrick Wasn't an Irishman

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

SUNDAY is the day of the great patron of Ireland, St. Patrick himself, who was born on March 17 in or about the year 389 and died on March 17, 461. He was not an Irishman, but the country of his birth — England, Scotland, or France, whichever it was — has nothing like the claim on him that Ireland has.

Patricius Magonus Sucatus was the son of a deacon and the grandson of a priest, but as a young lad he had not much interest in religion. It was not until the age of 14 when he was carried away by raiders who sold him as a slave in Ireland that, as he put it, he "found God."

For six years he served his master as a shepherd, and out there in the fields and hills of northern Ireland he began to pray and meditate and to develop the spiritual resources that later were to make him God's instrument in the salvation of a whole country.

★ ★ ★

Finally he ran away from his slavery, caught a ship and returned home. But it was not long until God called him, in a dream, to go back to Ireland. His preparation was long — 20 years of it — but this time he was going on the Lord's business and he must go properly equipped. He was 43 years old when he began his great mission.

CHARACTER OBSCURED

The rich accumulation of legend about St. Patrick has obscured his real character, presenting him mostly as a wonder worker, a sort of religious wizard, rather than the affectionate, sensitive and statesmanlike priest he actually was. Fortunately, there are still enough of his own writings extant to give us a true picture of the man. From them we see that he went to work with wisdom and imagination.

★ ★ ★

He addressed himself first to the leaders, the tribal chieftains, as the quickest and most efficient way to reach the whole population. He rode up and down Ireland in his chariot for 30 years and in that time, according to his own testimony, converted the entire island. He established 365 churches, and beside each one he erected a school.

ANGLICAN CLAIMS

Most of Patrick's work was done in the north of Ireland, the part that is now mainly Protestant, and though much of the world is accustomed to think of him as a Roman Catholic saint, the Church of Ireland, which is Anglican, claims him for itself.

Patrick's headquarters was at Armagh, which is now the seat of the Anglican Primate, the Archbishop of Armagh. St. Patrick's Cathedral in Dublin is the Anglican cathedral.

Patrick is almost always shown in Christian art holding a shamrock. The reason for this is the legend that, in explaining the doctrine of the Trinity to the heathen (Druid) priests, he customarily used the little three-leafed plant as an illustration of how three may yet be one.

There are three patron saints of Ireland. The position is held jointly by St. Patrick, St. Brigid and St. Columba.

SHUSHAN PURIM

Sunday, Adar 15, in the Jewish calendar, is known as Shushan Purim because of the statement in the book of Esther which says the Jews in Shushan, capital city of Persia, did not celebrate Purim until the day after those outside the city had done so.

Not much is made of this any more. If it were a school day, the children would get the day off. And of course there are still some of the Purim delicacies left over to be eaten. These are called "Purim crumbs."

Everyone hates to let a joyous time end abruptly. Shushan Purim affords a chance to hold on to the glad holiday just a few hours longer.

A southern town has a court for dogs. The average case must be a snap.

Dr. William Brady's Mailbag:

Storekeeper Finds It Pays to Grind

"Enterprising feed store man grinds wheat and corn, supplies either meal in 4-pound packages for people to use as breakfast cereal or to bake into homemade bread, biscuit, pancakes, etc. Seems to be quite a demand for the fresh-ground meal. (—M.D.)"

Answer — May the demand keep him grinding 24 hours a day. For those who prefer to grind their own with hand grinders, more efficient than the old coffee mill, and small power grinders are available. The pamphlet Wheat To Eat, for which send stamped, self-addressed envelope, tells where to get 'em.

BRADY

Recently I (Brady) intimated that I can diagnose Parkinson's disease (shaking palsy, paralysis agitans) by a glance at the patient's handwriting. Nearly 100 persons asked for the pamphlet on Parkinson's Disease (for a copy send stamped, self-addressed envelope), and only about a third of them had the characteristic handwriting.

Most of them wrote smoothly without apparent tremor. They taught me a lesson. In the pamphlet are two or three specimens of characteristics handwriting, but it seems many persons with Parkinson's disease have perfectly good handwriting.

"Thank you . . . find our children are much happier now for more freedom of movement with all that cumbersome outer wear. I'm afraid I was guilty of overdressing them. (Mrs. J. K.)"

Answer — They'll not only be happier but healthier.

"Have Ben Told I need an operation on gall-bladder, but I'm nixing it until I can try your non-surgical drainage . . .(A. G. F.)"

Answer — Send 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope for booklet So You Have Indigestion? It contains instructions for non-surgical drainage of gall bladder.

"Sometimes only one leg felt restless. Again it was both legs. Just couldn't find a comfortable position and get to sleep. I thought I'd go nuts. Then one day you discussed it, and I sent for your CVD book. I've used nitroglycerin ever since. It gives immediate relief, and I sleep like a lamb . . . (Mrs. L. J. M.)"

Answer — Thank you. Too many physicians are afraid of nitroglycerine. It's routine use would give many victims of heart or artery troubles a lot of relief. I'm sorry I can't give a prescription for it. For the CVD booklet (about heart and artery troubles and "restless legs"), send 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"This card is to let you know that we have tried applying castor oil to warts and it does nothing. (Mrs. B. J. S.)"

Answer — Thank you, ma'am. Try painting wart or warts and skin for half inch around with tincture of iodin once a week for three or four times.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Experience Brings Understanding

Molly's question is very interesting. It shows that "A little knowledge is a dangerous thing." Notice the sincerity, but errors, of the Five Blind Men of Hindustan. And warn your teenagers about being so positive when they have seen only a small segment of the elephant of life. Witch burners and fanatics also have very limited social and scientific experience.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case U-330: Molly T., aged 43, is a high school teacher.

"Dr. Crane, I recall a few days ago that you said some critics of newspaper features are sincere but misguided," she began.

★ ★ ★

"You said they didn't have enough experience to make a valid criticism. I am in agreement with that, but wish you'd explain it more fully so some of my high school debate students would get the point readily.

"For we are now studying the fallacies in logic."

CRANE

5 BLIND MEN

Most of you readers may recall the story of the five Blind Men of Hindustan who attended a circus and met their first elephant.

When they got home that night, they began discussing the nature of elephants. The man who had seized the tusk, argued vehemently and sincerely that elephants were like a spear.

Another said an elephant was like a tree. The third insisted elephants were like a rope. The forth claimed elephants were a type of snake, while the last blind man said they were all wrong, for elephants were like a big fan.

Each blind man was sincere and honest. And each reported on his personal experience. But each had only a limited segment of the total elephant.

That's the way it is with our human quarrels. Many people argue sincerely and to bolster their point, will actually insist they have seen or felt or experienced life as they claim.

But they may figuratively have handled only the "tusk" or the "tail", so are woefully limited in total perspective.

WHO IS CORRECT?

In my new book "How To 'Cash-In' on Your Worries," I lauded Christian Scientists for their positive outlook.

Immediately, I received a bitter criticism from a Pennsylvanian who is a devout man and other wise a fine citizen, but said all Christian Scientists were going to Hell permanently and then cited some of his opinions.

Again, readers attack me for mentioning some of the Catholic priests who use the booklets offered via this column to counsel their newlyweds.

"All Catholics are anti-Christ,"

Sometimes an adult will write and consign me to eternal flames in Hades because I fail to indict square dancing as a device of Satan to lead immortal souls astray.

Others even try to high-pressure their editor by intimating that they speak for thousands, as by saying:

"Mr. Editor, thousands of other mothers agree with me that Dr. Crane is an evil influence and a sex-maniac, etc., etc."

★ ★ ★

For the writer may never have interviewed even 10 other mothers, so that "thousands of other mothers" is just a psychological whip being employed to try to coerce the editor.

Actually, you readers realize that such critics, even though sincere, are just like the five Blind Men of Hindustan.

And if you have followed this column for even six months, you probably realize that I am a happily married man, father of five children; a lifelong moralist and Bible Class teacher for over 35 years.

As a physician (M. D.) and teaching psychologist (Ph. D.), I have the scientific evidence of two major professional groups, plus the factual data coming from 1,000 letters per day outlining your varied problems.

I don't claim to be omniscient, but I have experienced more than the "tusk" on the elephant of life.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Voice of the People

Supports Dog Insurance But With Liability Clause

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

I wholeheartedly agree with the idea of insurance for dogs, but it should also include a liability clause to protect neighbors' evergreens and flower beds.

Many dogs would not have trouble if they were kept in their own yards, instead of messing up lawns, turning over garbage cans, etc. Do not misunderstand my love for dogs, as I, too, have a dog. But she is trained to stay in her own yard, and does so without benefit of a fence.

Some dog owners have the false impression that when the $1.00 fee is paid, it allows one to turn their dog free to the outside world. Some day there will be laws to protect properties from unresponsible owners of dogs.

Asks Legislation Ruling Slaughter

Of all the meat packers, only two anesthetize the animals before slaughtering them. Almost seven million animals are killed every working day in slaughter houses, most of them dying a cruel death. I urge support of humane legislation to prevent this. If you are interested in promoting rapid, effective and humane slaughter of these animals, write me and I will tell you how you can help.

'All States Must Have Education'

No one can deny that Michigan can afford to pay its own way in education, but it is because we are blessed with great natural advantages plus concentrated industry This wealth was not created in Michigan alone, as its products are sold in all states and our tourist business, for example, depends on all the other states.

States were united originally to give strength and unity of purpose, so it is right that a strong state give its weaker brother help. Following the thinking of the recent Press editorial would mean a strong state and a lot of weaker ones, with more bickering than there is now.

I agree that Federal money should be spent wisely and perhaps the President should show us where the budget could be pared, but I favor any program that lifts the educational level of all people in all states. How can one advocate a national defense policy to protect all states and deny the very thing that makes life worthwhile?

Art Robertson
78 Washington St.

'What About All That Interest?'

In all the discussions of the budget and possible reductions, why is it we read so little about the annual interest charge we are paying on the nation's borrowed money?

Right now the taxpayers are digging up seven billion dollars a year for interest on our national debt. That can't be changed by any magic or any hocus pocus. There's only one way and that's to pay up. Why don't we concentrate on paying the national debt and thus saving us the interest charges, instead of working on other things?

The smallest baby born this day will pay interest on this debt as long as he lives. We have no moral right to add to that burden. Roosevelt and Truman really fixed everything up for the next hundred years with their fantastic spending and utter disregard for balanced budgets. What a shameful way to try and be a hero and win votes. The current administration deserves great praise for having the courage to balance the budget and stop this disgraceful way of living.

Where did you find my old, worn out feather duster—in the attic? In reference to the stories about Beck, "millionaire" returns from Europe, "millionaire" to testify, "millionaire" to spend a million dollars, etc. Billions talk now.

'Have No Cause for Kick Here'

Anybody around here that is sad over business is nothing but a cry baby. I lived in the dust bowl where we had no crops for six straight years. They're still suffering from more of the same.

Around here, if business isn't the highest it has ever been in history, I hear a lot of groaning. One year of complete failure shouldn't bring as many laments as I hear now when things are actually pretty good. Furthermore, the people in that devastated area are prepared to face another year or two of the same. After that, there will have to be government relief or the whole area will move out.

Army Takes Pioneer Ranch; Owner Claims Home Rights

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP) — A pioneer New Mexico stockman's home ranch was government property today — part of the Army's new McGregor missile firing range.

But whether hearty 82-year-old John Prather will move off peacefully by the March 30 deadline still is a question.

Yesterday he repeated he will "die at home."

★ ★ ★

His home "spread," started 50 years ago, lay along the east border of the range in south-central New Mexico. Inside the range is about 3,400 acres he owned outright and 20,000 acres he leased from the state and federal governments for years.

"A man has got a right to die at the home he spent his life building," Prather said recently. "I've decided to finish out my first 100 years here. You can't put a man out of his home."

The U. S. attorney in Albuquerque filed a "declaration of taking" yesterday. It gave the federal government possession of a 314,365-acre tract to become part of the McGregor range. At the same time, the federal attorney's office deposited $341,425 as "just compensation" for the confiscated land.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Joseph McNeany delivered the declaration and compensation check to the U. S. court clerk's office in behalf of the Army, which wants the land to expand its guided missile training program.

Last summer the federal government filed condemnation proceedings against ranchers on the vast tract. It has been negotiating with various owners ever since.

A government spokesman said only a third of Prather's ranch is included in the acquisition, but in that third is his home. He said Prather had been offered about $150,000 for that part.

U. S. Atty. Paul Larrazolo said if the ranchers are still there by March 30 and the Army asks the U. S. attorney's office to remove them, "then further steps will be taken." He declined to say what the steps might be.

Larrazolo said the cattlemen can ask for a hearing and jury trial to decide the value of the land if they believe their property is worth more than the government offers.

North Kiwanis Gives $500 to Aid Children

The Pontiac North Kiwanis Club has donated $500 to the Fund for Crippling Diseases, James Harrington, club president, announced today.

★ ★ ★

Director of education and public relations for the fund, Sidney Miller, received the check. The money will go towards the construction of a new wing to be added to the Woodward Avenue General Hospital biulding in Highland Park. The hospital is a center for work with retarded children.

★ ★ ★

The crippling diseases fund has been supporting research for cerebral palsy, mental retardation and other mental disorders for more than 20 years, Miller said. It has enabled the development of a new approach to the correction of these diseases through enzyme therapy and has achieved "excellent" results in small children, he added.

7th Fleet Stages Giant Maneuver

Coordinate Land, Sea, Air Forces in Landing Exercise on Philippines

MANILA (INS)—Gigantic American land, sea and air maneuvers in the Philippines involving 60,000 Marines and sailors, 90 ships and 400 aircraft, are slated to get under way Sunday, March 17.

★ ★ ★

The major amphibious exercise, largest combined operation to be conducted by America's Far East forces since the end of World War II, has been dubbed "Operation Beacon Hill." It will last three weeks.

Vice Admiral W. M. Beakley, Commander of the U. S. Seventh Fleet, is the overall commander of the Navy-Marine exercises which are being held under the provisions of the U. S.-Philippine mutual defense pact.

A U. S. Navy spokesman at Sangley Point Naval base, said "Operation Beacon Hill" will provide the American forces "realistic training in the execution of amphibious assault, movement ashore, and ground maneuvers following the landing."

"This is typical of annual U. S. fleet exercises and is a culmination of normal training cycles for units of the U. S. Seventh Fleet and Fleet Marine Force, Pacific," the spokesman said.

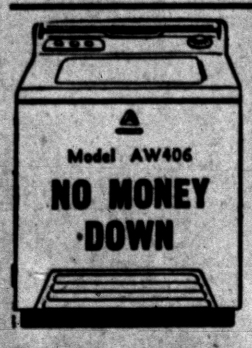

★ ★ ★

Sportswear From Dallas Features Lots of Ruffles

Calypso Beat Takes Over Spring Fashions

DALLAS, Tex. (INS)—That calypso beat is taking over fashions as well as jukeboxes this spring.

★ ★ ★

"Calypso" looks pretty much like "rhumba," "matador" and other south-of-the-border fashion trends, but it's more informal.

For instance, a "calypso" outfit has to include a ruffled shirt, like last year's popular matador shirts. Instead of a buttoned-up collar, however, "calypso" is worn lazily open. Sleeves are three-quarter length instead of wrist-length, and the ruffles are droopier.

★ ★ ★

"Calypso" ruffles can go on any which way, not just up and down. You can stitch them on a scoop neckline or let them slide down the shoulder seam. The only requirement is that you have lots of them, preferably all over.

STRAIGHT SKIRT

With the ruffled shirt, the "calypso" sportswear look calls for a straight skirt, a vividly contrasting cummerbund at the waist, and a striped vestee or sleeveless bolero.

★ ★ ★

You could put a red cummerbund over a white shirt and black skirt. The bolero over this combination, judging from Dallas fashions, should be black and white.

Most popular idea was the black and white stripe accented in red, and the most popular stripe was an erratic vertical very much like an intoxicated mattress ticking.

Although red, white and black are the top "calypso" colors being shown, any jungle shade would do. You could use lime or lemon with black and white, or bright green or purple.

★ ★ ★

Women who want to make last year's "matador" into this year's "calypso" will come close to the ideal by leaving collars open, pushing up sleeves and wrapping their waists in the brightest, wildest belt they can find.

The shirtwaist with a feminine turn of mind — lacy but practical, too — is done by Marcy Lee. The Calypso beat is shown in the tiny ruffles on the bodice of this dress from Dallas. This leno stripe dress is a drip-dry cotton.

The silk suit is treated to impeccable tailoring and fashion detailing in this Miller-Cupaioli style. There's a Dutch boy look to the skirt, a new curled bone button and high patch pockets on the shorter jacket — plus a self bow for accent.

She Objects to Friend Trying Hats

Woman Asks How to Protect Bonnets Without Offending

By EMILY POST

A reader writes: "I would like your advice on the following matter: Whenever I buy a new hat, a friend of mine will always ask if she may try it on to see if the color or the shade looks well on her.

"I have always been very fussy about my hats and do not like anyone else trying them on. Isn't it improper to ask to try on another person's hat, and how can I refuse without offending her?"

Answer: No one but a really intimate friend should ask to try on your hat. But if an acquaintance should ask you, "May I try this on?" you could not possibly refuse without offending.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Who is actually required to attend a wake? Is it necessary for a person to go to to the wake of one he does not know but who is a relative of a neighbor?

"My next door neighbor recently lost her brother. He lived in this town but was a stranger to me. Neither I nor anyone in my family went to the wake and I understand she is very much hurt because none did. I would appreciate hearing from you on this matter."

Answer: If you neighbor is a close friend and you knew of her brother's passing, it would have been no more than right for you to go. The fact that you did not know him personally should not have kept you from going. It is your sympathy for her that takes you.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My fiance's nephew is to be ringbearer at our forthcoming wedding and I would like to know if I am to furnish the white satin pillow he will carry the ring on, or is it furnished by his parents along with his clothes?"

Answer: This is always considered a wedding detail and therefore should be furnished by your parents.

Give Complexion Special Care Now

Spring Weather Dries Your Skin

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Your complexion may have suffered some from the winter winds. However, right now when temperatures are tempermental, changing from low to high and vice versa with no notice, we must take special care of our outer coating.

★ ★ ★

If you feel that you are somewhat dried out from the blustery weather and overheated houses, try using cleansing cream instead of soap and water for a while. Also treat your skin to more than your usual application of lubricating cream. You will find the hormone creams and oils helpful too.

Even if you never have used a makeup base, try one for this changeable season. You can get a base which is oily to keep the skin pliable.

Remember, too, that your vitamin intake may have been lower during the past few months because there is less variety in fresh fruits and vegetables. While we can get these frozen or canned, we are more likely to consume more when the season is lush. Vitamin deficiency is one reason for excessively dry skin.

This is also the time to do a bit of reconditioning on your elbows and heels. Unless you have taken very good care of them they probably have some rough skin. Each night use soap and water and a rough cloth on them. This will help get rid of the dead cells.

Lemon juice is a good bleach if your elbows are darkened. Apply this and leave it on until it dries. Then wash it off.

For a month now why not massage a good cream or lotion into the elbows and heels each night after your bath? This will soften the skin tremendously. You might also cream your heels and elbows and then, while you sleep, wear the mitts made especially for that purpose.

★ ★ ★

Before we know it summer will be here and with it our heels and elbows will make their debut after long cold months.

If you feel that you are somewhat dried out from the blustery weather and overheated houses, try using cleansing cream instead of soap and water.

Church Women Can Curb Teen Troublemakers

Church women throughout the nation have the power to curtail juvenile delinquency, more than one hundred leaders of the United Church Women of Texas were told last week.

Speaking at the tweny-third assembly of the organization in Dallas, Mrs. Theodore O. Wedel told the group that there are many things a single church woman leader can do to curb teen-age troublemakers.

"Churches can provide recreation centers, but that is only one step," Mrs. Wedel said. "The next is to work on the family life of the community," she continued. "We should look at ourselves and our homes first."

Mrs. Wedel, who is national president of UCW, has traveled in many countries in behalf of church women's work, helping Protestant women abroad form similar organizations.

One of the major concerns of UCW, a department of the National Council of Church, is to find solutions to the delinquency problem, Mrs. Wedel declared.

Confident Living

Haste, Tension Avoidable; Relaxation Brings Peace

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

A friend of mine is a pilot for one of the great airlines. He flies a big DC-6 and, when I fly with him, I enjoy the privilege of spending some time with him up in the cockpit.

DR. PEALE

On one of these trips he was discussing the use of engine power. He stated, "If I use my full engine power for long periods, these engines will lose efficiency. That is to say, stress isn't good for them." And he went on to describe how he uses every bit of his 2,500 horsepower per engine to lift his mighty plane into the air at take-off. Then, as he begins to climb, he cuts back to 1,800 and, when he reaches cruising level, he drops it still further to 1,200.

"If I ran those engines at 2,500 for more than two minutes, it would cause strain in them which, in time, might injure them permanently. I have great power at my command in this plane, but I must know how to use it, how to conserve it."

Then he added what I thought was some good philosophy. "Each of us, as people, come to times in our lives when we need all the horsepower we can pour on. But, if we use it constantly and don't know how to ease off, even God can't keep us in physical health. We just can't permit ourselves to go through life tearing ourselves to pieces by strain and stress."

★ ★ ★

The importance of this statement cannot be minimized. I have often quoted Dr. Hans Selye of Montreal as saying that stress is the cause of most of our diseases. A prominent leader of the American Medical Association has said of Dr. Selye's thinking: "If future events prove this concept correct, it will be one of the most significant medical advances of this century."

STRESS CAUSES ILLS

Mental and physical stress place excessive burdens upon the protective and renewing functions of the body and lay you open to disease. Depending on your basic weaknesses, you may develop aches in the joints, thyroid or heart trouble, asthma, mental disease or other ills. Nothing in this world operates efficiently under stress, whether it be man or machine.

★ ★ ★

How do you overcome and finally conquer stress? The Royal Bank of Canada, in its internationally-famous monthly newsletter, which rarely deals with banking, discusses this problem: "We need not accept hurry and tension as unavoidable, allowing ourselves to be pressed down by the sheer weight of things to be done. Dr. William Osler . . . wrote: 'The ordinary high-pressure business or professional man suffering from angina pectoris may find relief, or even cure, in the simple process of slowing the engines'."

NEED GOD'S TOUCH

After you have slowed your engines, there is a second step you must take. It is to feel God's healing touch through spiritual contact with Him. As you touch Him, you really find peace. But how is it possible to reach or touch God? Of course, we make contact with God not with hands of flesh, but with the reach of the mind. It is accomplished by projecting thoughts of faith, love and sincere dedication.

★ ★ ★

Those who have made such spiritual contact out of stress-filled lives become conscious of an inward letting-go, like a drawn rubber band relaxing. A strange quietness comes over them. Tension may not immediately vanish, for long established mental habits seldom give way immediately, but you become aware that something has happened to modify the old stress pattern. By a continual process of spiritual thinking and living, you gradually master stress and strain.

Adrian College President, Central Church Speaker

Dr. John Harper Dawson, president of Adrian College, will be the speaker in Central Methodist Church at the School of Christian Living, Wednesday. The dinner begins at 6:30 p.m. His subject will be "Education."

Before graduation, he transferred to Adrian where he decided to prepare for the ministry.

In 1946, he was awarded the Master of Education degree and in 1954 was granted the Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Pittsburgh.

ABILITY RECOGNIZED

While serving the Grafton Methodist Church in the Pittsburgh area, his outstanding work as a minister, educator, community leader and youth leader was recognized by the Adrian College Board of Trustees.

Selected from a field of candidates, he was inaugurated into office as the 14th president of Adrian College on Oct. 14, 1955.

Singing during the evening program will be Nina Miller.

Dr. Milton H. Bank announces that identical church services will be held at 8:30 and 10:45 a.m. each Sunday until Easter.

Rev. Paul Hart States Subjects

Lenten Family Dinners, Program, Announced for First Methodist

Beginning Sunday, a sermon series based on the 53rd chapter of Isaiah will be preached by the Rev. Paul T. Hart at the First Methodist Church.

His subjects will include: "No Regal Splendor," on March 17; "The Iniquity of Us All," March 24; "For Our Trangressions," March 31; and "As a Lamb to the Slaughter," on April 7.

"Isaiah is justly accounted the evangelist of the Old Testament and chapter 53 is the heart of the gospel," stated the Rev. Mr. Hart.

"This prophecy was written more than 760 years before Christ made His appearance on earth but it depicts with the minutest accuracy the suffering of Christ. It predicts His triumph and His glory."

FAMILY NIGHTS PLANNED

Lenten Family Night services are being held each Wednesday evening starting with a dinner at 6:30. The Rev. Arthur B. Howard, pastor of the Methodist Church, Fenton will speak on "What Can I Do?" next Wednesday.

The sound film, "Forward with Christ" will be shown on March 27 and on April 3, the Rev Charles Cookingham of St. Paul's Methodist Church, Highland Park will speak on "An Amazing Combination."

Picture Showing Life of Lazarus to Be Shown at Salvation Army

Lieut. Colonel and Mrs. Rufus R. Raymer, recently retired as Divisional Commanders of the Salvation Army, will speak at the Pontiac Citadel in a series of special meetings from March 19-24. Services are scheduled at 7:30 each evening.

★ ★ ★

Tomorrow night at 7:30, the film, "I Am the Resurrection" will be shown. It depicts the life and resurrection of Lazarus. The Salvation Army band will play and special music will be featured.

Lieut Colonel and Mrs. Raymer, natives of Canada, were commissioned as officers in 1906 and 1914. All their active service has been given on the Canadian Field. Their last Corps appointment was at Earlscourt Citadel, Toronto.

Other appointments were in Edmonton, Alberta; Winnipeg, Manitoba and Northern Ontario Division with headquarters in Orillia.

Since their retirement, they have been active in evangelistic campaigns in Canada and the United States.

Church Institute to Teach Clergy Ecumenical Ideal

Plans for building the first ecumenical institute in the United States were approved last week by delegates from 10 theological schools and other church groups in the Chicago area.

★ ★ ★

To be known as the Evanston Institute for Ecumenical Studies, it is the "natural development of the ecumenical emphasis of the World Council's Assembly in Evanston in 1954," a spokesman for the new organization declared.

Pledges of cooperation in the program have been given the new institute by the National Council of Churches, the American Association of Theological Schools, the Evanston Council of Churches and prominent churchmen and church groups throughout the nation.

The aims of the institute, which will open in temporary quarters in the summer of 1958, are to train clergy and lay people in ecumenical ideals and to promote interdenominational work and worship, Dr. Baab declared. He is acting president of Garrett Bibical Institute.

'We Shall Start Again' Is Hungarian Greeting

NEW YORK (INS) — In Hungary today, according to reports reaching the United States, the popular greeting is "Muk" (pronounced mook) instead of the usual "Good Morning" or "Good Night."

The cryptic greeting is composed of the initials of three Hungarian words "Marciusban ujra Kezdjuek," which mean "We shall start again in March."

Hollywood Headlines

Jimmy Likes Simple Life in Spite of Fame, Fortune

(Second of 2 articles on James Stewart)

By BOB THOMAS

★ ★ ★

It is a roomy, comfortable house, but not a mansion by Hollywood standards. It sits side by side with other 30-year-old houses on the tree-shaded street while lesser stars live in homes surrounded by acres of grounds.

After Jimmy and his wife, the former Gloria McLean, bought the house, they stood out in front and gazed at the ivy-covered exterior. "Oh, dear," she gasped, "it looks like a dormitory!"

"Well, isn't it?" Jimmy deadpanned.

For a 42-year-old bachelor, Stewart certainly acquired a family in a hurry. His wife has two boys by a previous marriage, 12 and 11, and the Stewarts have twin girls, Judy and Kelly, nearing 6.

★ ★ ★

After retakes for his new Western, Jimmy Stewart sat in his den in the late afternoon, nursed a scotch and soda and answered a variety of questions. The answers came slowly and earnestly.

Q—What do you do for kicks when you're not working?

A—I like to fly. And I like music. I've got a cabinet full of pop stuff. Also some Elvis Presley and that sort of thing that the kids drive me nuts with. When I had a press conference in Chile a few weeks ago, I happened to remark that I didn't like rock 'n' roll. Well, you'd think I had insulted the whole Chilean republic. I had to backtrack on my statement.

★ ★ ★

Q—If you didn't act, what do you think you'd do?

A—Probably fly. I'd be an airlines pilot.

Q—When did you get the flying bug?

A—I guess I've always had it. I first learned to fly in 1935 at Mines Field, now Los Angeles International Airport.

Q—What are your favorite pictures?

A—Certainly "The Glenn Miller Story." "Harvey" is a sentimental favorite, maybe because I played it on the stage first. I'm sure even 10 years from now I would pick "The Spirit of St. Louis," because the Lindbergh story is very close to me. I suppose I'm identified with "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" as much as any picture.

★ ★ ★

Q—Did you ever take acting lessons?

A—No.

Q—How did you happen to become an actor?

A—I did a little stuff in college (Triangle Club, Princeton). Then I was lucky to hook up with an outfit that included Hank Fonda and Josh Logan (Provincetown Players). When you go on the stage and people say you're dog-gone good, you know that's what you want.

Q—What do you think of your future?

A—Eventually I'd like to direct. I'd like to use the tools I've developed in my years in the movie business. If I haven't learned enough in all this time, I'd better quit and go back to my father's hardware store.

Well, in case you've been wondering, she did. The doctor confirmed it yesterday.

'Godiva' Reactor Bursts in Test

LOS ALAMOS, N. M. (AP) — The AEC said today the core of a test atomic power reactor exploded during testing on Feb. 12. No one was injured, but the power unit was destroyed.

★ ★ ★

The reactor core—in essence a stripped down model of a power reactor—was, because of its "naked" nature, whimsically dubbed "the godiva."

The AEC announcement said no damage was done to the building "and radiation contamination has been removed by standard cleaning methods."

Whose Dressing Room Did You Say It Was?

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Audrey Meadows went to CBS Studio 50 on a recent Saturday to get made up as usual, and a girl attendant said, "Oh, you have Elvis Presley's dressing room."

"I beg your pardon," smiled Audrey, "but he had my dressing room."

★ ★ ★

Audrey'd been on TV two years before joining Gleason — and after eight years, she's not unhappy at the prospect that Jackie may taper off to just a few shows next season.

AUDREY AND JACKIE

"It's not just that I'm married," says Audrey, who's now a member of the Washington and Arlington, Va. horsey set, "but I think eight years is a long time to be steadily on one medium."

But "Aud," as some friends call her, isn't sure that Gleason and "Artie," as she calls Carney, won't be on regularly every week next year.

"Jackie's as happy as a clam with these musicals we're doing and I'll take odds he'll go ahead," she told me.

Since becoming Mrs. Randy Rouse, wife of a wealthy realtor, Audrey's devoted Fridays and Saturdays to the program—but by 9:03 p.m. Saturday she's out of the studio and enroute to Newark to board a plane for Washington.

In six years she's become a member of a television family that's extremely close, despite stories to the contrary.

"Jackie knows he would always have first claim on my services, and on Artie's too," she assured me. "I'd rather work with him than anybody else.

It actually was about 1951 when this beautiful girl, then on the Bob and Ray show and on several panel programs, began becoming famous.

Now her face is known almost as well as Eisenhower's and she's celebrated in show business for doing a wondrously effective job without temperament, flareups or ostentation. When Mike and Paula Stone asked her about doing a B'way show next year, she replied, "But I live in Washington."

"You mean you're that happy!" Mike said.

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . .

Winnie Rockefeller and Bobo are having words again—he thinks their son spends too much time traveling, not enough in school . . . The "My Fair Lady" album, which sold a million, finally corrected the mistake on the cover—a song was listed as "I Want to Dance All Night".

TV Emmy Ceremony in Color Tonight

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The television industry will hand out its top honors tonight in a 90-minute colorcast which aims to "turn a ceremony into a show."

That's the purpose of Bill Kayden, who is producing the TV Academy Awards show over NBC. He's got his work cut out for him. Critics have long blasted the awards show as being an endless parade of dull speeches.

★ ★ ★

"For one thing, we're having three singers present awards — Peggy Lee, Nat King Cole and Julie London," the producer explained. "Each will sing a song before making the presentation.

"Also, we will have Phil Silvers, Ernie Kovacs and Jimmy Durante among the presenters and they will do some standup comedy. Plus which the whole show is being written in a light vein, with the accent on entertainment."

Kayden, who has handled the Rose Parade, Oscar awards, Roy Rogers Rodeo and other special shows for the network, said that "99 per cent of the nominees will be present." Only those who are out of the country or working at telecast time will be missing, he remarked.

★ ★ ★

These are the ninth annual awards, the third national telecast, and the first in color. The unwieldy banquet of previous years has been abandoned for presentation in an NBC studio in Burbank. Desi Arnaz will handle festivities here; Phil Silvers will be in charge of the Eastern portion originating in NBC's Colonial Theater in New York.

Chiefs Eliminated, 54-49; Walled Lake Rolls Over St. Clair, 67-46

Flint Northern Wipes Out PHS Tourney Dreams

By BRUNO KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

FLINT—The Flint IMA is becoming a den of nightmares each year for Saginaw Valley champions in regional tourney play.

Last night it was a case of "we do unto you what you did unto us," as Flint Northern wiped out Pontiac's tournament dreams, 54-49.

A year ago, the same situation prevailed but in reverse order. Northern had won the SVC title including a pair of wins over Pontiac, but at the IMA regional, the Chiefs eliminated the Vikings.

This season Pontiac, now 15-2, waltzed off with the league crown in unbeaten style with two victories over Northern, now 9-9. Last night coach Jack Marlette's crew took command in the second period and never gave up the lead, thereby winning the right to meet city rival Flint Central, which defeated Owosso in the 1st game, 65-52, for the regional title.

It will be the 4th meeting of the year for the two Flint schools, with Northern having won twice.

★ ★ ★

The Chiefs started fast by taking a 10-1 lead, but six of the next eight points by Cliff Carr moved Northern within three, 12-9 early in the second stanza.

With 5:35 in the half, Maurice Woodson's push shot made it 13-12 and Pontiac never again had the lead. The half ended 27-20.

After intermission the Vikings wasted no time in padding their lead, making it 30-20 after the first minute.

Late in the third period it was 39-26, when the Chiefs started to move. Hud Ray hit three straight baskets to make it 39-32 to start the 4th period, but then guard Phil Gaines broke away for three layups to move the margin back to 11 points, 46-35, and assure the victory.

Gaines who did not play the first half, outran Chief defenders as he scored 10 points in the second half. Another big gun for Northern was hook shooter Chuck Tillman, whose 11 points came at crucial times, mostly in the 4th period.

"We were outhustled all the way," said coach Art Van Ryzin, "and our rebounding was poor."

The Chiefs lost the ball on floor violations 22 times, and poor shooting from the charity line prevented Pontiac from staying within striking distance.

"It was our best game of the season," said coach Marlette, "and our boys pointed for it."

From the floor, Northern made 20 of 47 shots for a 42 per cent shooting mark, while Pontiac had 19 of 51 for 37 per cent.

MONROE (AP) — Gerry Planutis, former Michigan State fullback, was named football coach at Monroe High School yesterday.

He succeeds Cleo Winchell who resigned alst month.

Planutis, 27, was a member of the Spartan Rose Bowl team of 1956. He also was a member of the MSU football team in 1953, 1954 and 1955.

North Carolina, Kansas, Kentucky and California ruled heavy favorites to sweep past Syracuse, Oklahoma City, Michigan State a San Francisco tonight and move into the semifinals of the National Collegiate (NCAA) basketball tournament.

The four winners advance to the semifinals and finals at Kansas City next Friday and Saturday.

For mighty North Carolina, the No. 1 team in the Associated Press poll, tonight's game against Syracuse in Philadelphia is doubly important. Not only would a victory send Frank McGuire's talented crew into the round of four, but a triumph would enable them to break the one - season winning streak record.

They tied it last night by defeating Canisius, 87-75, for their 29th straight of the season.

Here is tonight's complete program:

At Corvallis—San Francisco vs California for regional championship. Idaho State vs Brigham Young in consolation.

While North Carolina had no trouble once all-America Lennie Rosenbluth found the range just before the half, both Kansas and Kentucky, ranked No. 2 and 3, respectively, had their troubles.

Kansas had to go into overtime before stopping Southern Methodist, 73-65, while Kentucky couldn't pull away until the final minutes to turn back Pitt, 98-92.

Syracuse earned the dubious pleasure of going against North Carolina with a 75-71 decision over Lafayette. Oklahoma City goes against Kansas by way of a 75-66 triumph over St. Louis, while Michigan State gained the right to meet Kentucky by whipping Notre Dame, 85-83.

San Francisco, the defending champion which had been all but counted out of the running, sailed past Idaho State, 66-51, and California polished off Brigham Young 86-59 in the West Coast competition.

Viking Quintet Rolls to Easy Semifinal Win

Sizzling 3rd Quarter Leads to Elimination of St. Clair

By BILL CORNWELL

St. Clair's hopes of ousting Walled Lake from the regional basketball tournament for the 2nd straight year were crushed by a magnificent Viking team Friday night at Pontiac High.

With four of their five starters scoring in double figures, the Vikings routed St. Clair, 67-46, to move into tonight's Class B regional final against Clarkston.

A year ago the Saints came here and eliminated Walled Lake, then went on to win the regional title. Their coach at that time was Bill Ullenbruch who now guides the destinies of Walled Lake.

The Vikings reaped a full measure of revenge last night. St. Clair, coached by Chuck Cotton stayed in contention for one half before folding in the wake of Walled Lake's blistering 3rd quarter onslaught.

Cotton, who was a high school classmate of Ullenbruch and his assistant at St. Clair for three years, must have had nothing but praise and admiration for the way Walled Lake handled the Saints.

Walled Lake led all the way, but in the 1st half its margin was never safe. The Saints were always within one to three points of catching up and Walled Lake left the floor at halftime with a slim 29-26 advantage.

The Vikings broke the game wide open in the 3rd period. They limited the Saints to five foul shots while scoring 19 points themselves as Larry Hughes, John Walker and Tom Willwerth completely controlled both boards.

When the 4th quarter began it was all over but the shouting. Reserves from both benches poured on to the court in the waning minutes.

Hughes topped all point-makers with 19. Walker's 14, a dozen by Larry Dion and 11 by Dennis McClelland rounded out Walled Lake's balanced attack. Dave Blanchard was St. Clair's best with 13 points.

Classy Detroit All Saints advanced to the 'C' regional final with a 38-33 victory over stubborn Grosse Pointe St. Paul last night in the PHS gym.

Mike Butka and Bill Davis paced All Saints with 12 and 11 points respectively while Gary Anderson tallied 10 for St. Paul. All Saints meets Detroit St. Cecilia tonight at 7 o'clock for the regional title.

Clarkston-Walled Lake Tilt Takes Spotlight

By BILL CORNWELL

Walled Lake and Clarkston, two soundly-coached squads, will square off at 8:15 p.m. for the 'B' regional championship and a chance to reach next Wednesday's state quarter-finals.

From an Oakland County standpoint, you couldn't ask for a better pairing. Basketball fans in this area are blessed with a made-to-order all-county match and a blazing battle is expected.

Both schools have a number of things in common to add plenty of zest to the occasion.

Each team is a co-champion. Walled Lake gained a share of the Inter-Lakes Conference title with Berkley while Clarkston and Northville divided the Wayne-Oakland League crown.

Both are jealously protecting impressive records and winning streaks. The Vikings, with a sparkling 19-1 mark, have now won nine straight games. Clarkston, boasting a 15-3 record, has won its last 10 starts.

★ ★ ★

Some of Oakland's finest personnel dot their rosters. Walled Lake's Larry Hughes and John Walker are among the best around while the Wolves' George Lang and Leroy Parks take a back seat to none.

Walled Lake must silence the deadly outside shooting of Lang and Parks, two of of the county's leading scorers. Clarkston must stop Hughes, Oakland's No. 1 point maker, and hold its own on the boards.

Top Rate for Eli Soph

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Yale's P. Timothy Jecko, a 19-year-old sophomore from Bethesda, Md., was hailed by veteran Eli Coach Bob Kiphuth today as the top all-round swimmer in the United States.

"He's great, just great and will be even better," Kiphuth said as he watched his young star shatter two records in the 17th Eastern Intercollegiate Swimming Championships at the Harvard pool.

Jecko was the outstanding performer as Yale captured four championships, three seconds and four fourths to dominate last night's action in the competition which drew some 185 entries from 30 Eastern colleges.

He won the 200-yard butterfly by 12 yards in 2:11.8 to set one meet mark and then followed with another record performance by stroking to a 2:08.7 triumph in the individual medley.

Boys' Club 5 in Semifinals

The Pontiac Boys' Club intermediate basketball team moved into the semifinals of the BCMA tournament at Bloomer Boys' Club Detroit, Friday as they defeated Sarver Boys' club 39-36.

Game was a nip and tuck affair. Sarver led 16-12; 26-23. Then Pontiac made its move and surged into the lead at the end of the third period 32-30. Last period was hectic as both teams matched basket for basket.

In the last minute of play Glenn Ray sank a field goal to give Pontiac a two point lead. With three seconds left Lenny Sharp sank a free throw to assure the victory for Pontiac.

Delbert Green led Pontiac scoring with 12.

Maple Swimmers Top Contenders for State Title

EAST LANSING (AP) — Birmingham and Saginaw Arthur Hill picked up a few early points to challenge favored Ann Arbor in the state high school Class A swimming championship which moved into its final competition here tonight.

Tom Bechtel of Birmingham won the only Friday night final in the 400-yard free style with his good time of 4:26.7, close to the state record.

Two swimmers from Saginaw Arthur Hill, Chauncey Johnson and Ernest Dewell, placed second and third in the event.

The swimmers have 10 events in the final in the Michigan State pool here tonight.

Has 2-Round 132 at Gulfport; Dick Mets, Revolta Close Up

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP)—Pat Abbott, of Memphis, Tenn., twice frustrated in bidding for the National Amateur title, was out front today in his quest for an unprecendented third Gulf Coast Invitational golf title.

A professional for 11 years and now host pro at the Memphis Country Club, the dapper Abbott bested the Great Southern Country Club's par 71 course by four strokes yesterday and took the lead by one stroke with a two-round total of 132.

Abbott's lead was somewhat precarious since veteran pros Dick Metz of Pike Road, Ala., and Johnny Revolta of Gulf Hills, Miss., showed little intention of surrendering their designs on the title.

Metz, a cattle ranch operator since his departure from the PGA tournament trail seven years ago, and Revolta, a tested warrior of tournament battles, were tied for the runner-up spot at 133.

Eight NIT Teams Start

NEW YORK (INS) — Eight unseeded teams open the 20th annual National Invitation Basketball Tournament in a pair of doubleheaders today and by the time midnight is tolled, one may qualify for the role of "Cinderella."

In the afternoon doubleheader at Madison Square Garden, Utah (19-7) meets Memphis State (21-5) while Seton Hall (17-9) plays Xavier of Ohio (19-7). In the evening twin bill, Dayton (18-8) opposes St. Peter's (18-3) and Cincinnati (15-8) battles St. Bonaventure (15-5).

Top-seeded Seattle (22-2) and second-seeded Bradley (19-7) will not see action until the quarter finals Monday and Tuesday. Temple (18-8) and Manhattan (15-8), both of which drew first round byes, also open up in the quarters.

The first day game today will be a nationally televised (CBS) affair matching two of the fastest moving teams in the country. Both Utah and Memphis State rely on a race horse style of play.

The Utes, the original NIT Cinderella team in 1947, use a "tinymite" combination of 6-5 Milt Kane 6-1 Jerry McCleary, 5-11 Dick Shores, 5-10 Curt Jensen and 5-9 Gary Hale when they run. When more height is needed, 6-8 Pearl Pollard moves into the pivot.

Memphis State, a high-scoring outfit that averages 86 points a game, is led by 6-2 Win Wilfong who is an exceptional rebounder.

Tigers Farm Out Two Hurlers to Charleston Club

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — The Detroit Tigers today optioned pitchers Bob Miller and Joe Presko to their Charleston farm club in the Triple-A American Assn.

Miller is the former bonus lefthander ($65,000). He has been shelled hard in the early spring games. Presko was with the Charleston club last season.

At the same time, the Tigers sent bonus pitcher lefty Jim Brady over to the Tigertown camp, where he probably will have more opportunity to work. Brady, who will be sent to the minors until after his bonsu designation is removed, has had a lot of trouble with wildness.

Miss Wright Leader in Augusta Tourney

AUGUSTA, GA. (AP) — Young Mickey Wright, whose goal "is to become the world's greatest woman golfer," got a chance to show what she could do under pressure in today's third round of the 18th Titleholders Championship.

The 22-year-old blonde from San Diego, Calif., moved into first place yesterday at the halfway mark of the 72-hole medal play event with a steady 73-75—148.

Against East Detroit

Berkley Gains 'A' Final

It's Berkley vs. East Detroit for the Class A Regional championship at Birmingham tonight with the winner moving on into the rugged quarter-finals early next week. Big contest gets underway at 8.

The Bears, one of Oakland County's few teams remaining in the running for state crowns, gained the final round in surprisingly easy fashion Friday by romping to a 52-33 triumph over Detroit Catholic Central.

Tonight's tilt should be an excellent windup for a session which has been marred by one-sided games. Both finalists have strong scoring power and adequate height. East Detroit has the advantage of a day's rest between games.

Berkley's Inter League co-champions raced to a quick 13-3 1st period lead and was never threatened the rest of the way in posting its 13th victory in the last 14 starts.

The score was 27-15 at halftime and 39-27 after three quarters as the Motor City contingent never could get any kind of offensive clicking. The losers had one of their "coldest" nights of the year with scoring ace Tom Kramer held to two field goals.

★ ★ ★

Sharpshooting guard Ray Tallman and big Jim Zalenski matched 12-point efforts to spark the winning cause. Dick Fenech led eight Catholic Central scorers with 7 digits.

Playoff Tickets Ready

Tickets for the first two home playoff games of the Detroit Red Wings will go on sale at the Olympia box office at noon on Monday. There is a limit of four tickets per purchaser.

No mail or telephone reservations will be honored.

Parkers Also Fall, 72-65

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The last major roadblocks to Muskegon Heights' second straight Class A high school basketball crown were broken Friday night. Highland Park, taking its first defeat this season, and Pontiac were dumped by the wayside while the champs walked, but did not run, to their 23rd straight victory.

Highland Park was upset, 72-65, by Detroit Austin, spoiling its 16-game winning streak. Pontiac's Chiefs who boasted their only loss was to the Parkers against 15 victories, failed before Flint Northern, 54-49.

The defeat of Highland Park and Pontiac brought to three the number of fallen title contenders in two nights of regional play. Kalamazoo fell Thursday night to Benton Harbor in another upset.

It left East Detroit with a 16-1 record and Benton Harbor, the traditional Heights rivals who are carrying a grudge born of two Heights defeats, the most likely to trouble the unbeaten Tigers. Traverse City, now 15-2, is another strong possibility.

Spartans Dump Notre Dame by 85-83 Margin

Kentucky Is Next Foe After Wildcats Trip Pitt, 98-92

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky and Michigan State, two clubs with an accent on youth and a taste for hard work, meet tonight in the finals of the NCAA midwest regional basketball tournament.

Last night, Kentucky, No. 3 nationally, opened the meet with a 98-92 win over unranked Pittsburgh and Michigan State outlasted Notre Dame, 85-83.

Kentucky's depth was a prime factor in its victory—subs John Brewer and Ray Mills providing vital strength as fired-up Pitt never quit.

Brewer scored eight of Kentucky's last 13 points as the hard-running wildcats had to fight for their lives the last 13 minutes.

After trailing most of the way, Pitt gained a 69-69 tie with 11:30 left and trailed by only 94-92 with 50 seconds to go. Brewer hit four straight fouls to end the scoring.

Pitt's 5-9 sophomore flash, Don Hennon stole the show, flipping in long one-handers to account for 24 markers. But John Riser actually topped the Pitt parade with 30 markers.

Green grabbed 27 rebounds and scored 20 points and Quiggle got 18 markers as State's two all-Big Ten players lived up to their billing.

State, No. 11 nationally with only two seniors starting, used board strength and an aggressive defense in a second-half spurt which led to the victory avenging a 10-point season loss to Notre Dame, ranked 17th in the nation.

Notre Dame, paced by smooth John Smyth, who finished with 25 points, took an early 15-7 lead but saw it melt away as State inched into a 37-36 halftime margin.

Infield a Problem; White Sox Win, 17-12

More Tiger Shifts Planned

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Another infield shift that would put shortstop Harvey Kuenn over on third base looms as a definite possibility in the Detroit Tiger camp today.

"If I had the courage," said manager Jack Tighe, "I'd move Kuenn over to third right now. And unless one of these other players begins to look like our third baseman in the next day or two, I just may find that courage."

Kuenn, regarded as baseball's finest all-around shortstop, is willing to take a crack at the third base post vacated by Ray Boone, who is being tried at first base.

"I'd play anywhere they want me to," said the 26-year-old shortstop. "Everybody wants to improve the team, and if Jack thinks it'll help it I go to third base, I'll give it a try."

No one doubts that Kuenn would be a fine third baseman. But Tighe says he is hesitant to move Kuenn "Because he's so great where he is."

Should the Kuenn experiment be tried—it was in the talking stage long before this — then Tighe would give a solid shot at shortstop to Ron Samford the slick-fielding but only fair-hitting minor league veteran who played last season at Charleston.

Tighe has tried Jim Finigan, Reno Bertoia and George Risley at third base in the six Grape Fruit league games, and none has been impressive enough at the plate to gain much of an edge.

Tighe came right out and admitted that he's quite concerned about the problem now being referred to as the "third base — first base experiment."

In addition to Boone, the Tigers have used Eddie Robinson, Jack Phillips and Earl Torgeson at first base. If the Tigers play Boone at first—and chances are he'll be stationed there for at least part-time duty—Tighe will have to part with two of his first basemen.

The manager also took time out last night to name his five top outfielders: Al Kaline, Charlie Maxwell, Jim Small, Bill Tuttle, and Mel Clark.

He named them in that order, too.

Small, the 29-year-old bonus rookie, had the club's biggest individual batting show of the spring season yesterday, driving across a half dozen runs with a three-run homer and a bases-loaded triple. Small's hitting was not nearly enough, though, as the Chicago White Sox blasted four Tiger pitchers for 16 hits and a 17-12 victory at Henley Field.

Minnie Minoso drove in four runs with a pair of home runs and Walt Dropo batted across five with a homer and two singles to highlight the White Sox assault.

Stars Stud Chicago Meet

CHICAGO (AP) — Nine Olympic champions and a host of other track and field stars invade Chicago Stadium tonight in the 21st running of the Chicago Daily News relays.

Tom Courtney, Charlie Jenkins, Bob Richards and Ron Delany lead the Olympians in what could turn out to be one of the greatest meets ever held in Chicago.

Courtney and Jenkins are the double gold medal Olympians while Richards will be shooting for the world's pole vault record of 15 feet 8½ inches set by Cornelius Warmerdam here in 1943.

Delany's appearance kindles hopes for a four-minute mile since Laszlo Tabori, the Hungarian refugee, also will participate in the Bankers Mile.

Both Delany and Tabori have been clocked in 3:59 outdoors. Delany doesn't run against the clock and although he has been the season's outstanding miler he's never been pressed. However, Tabori's appearance might force the Irishman to go all out this St. Patrick's eve.

JONES IN HIGH HURDLES

Pontiac in particular, and the state in general will be watching the Chicago meet to see what the former brilliant Pontiac High track ace, Hayes Jones does. Jones, now an Eastern Michigan University star, will run in the high hurdles. As a freshman at Ypsilanti Hayes has lost very few events in his four-pronged dual meet performances, in the hurdles (lows, too), the broad and high jumps.

UM Pucksters Bid for 7th U. S. Title

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) —Michigan will bid for its seventh National College Ice Hockey crown in a decade tonight (10:15 p.m. EST) against Colorado College, to which it ran second in the Western Intercollegiate League.

Giving no hint they suffered from the loss of three ineligible players, the Michigan Wolverines triumphed over Harvard 6-1 last night. The Colorado College Tigers tripped Clarkson 5-3 the night before in the 10th annual NCAA tournament.

Three goals by forward Tom Rendall contributed to the victory by Michigan, the defending national champion for a third straight year.

Sauer Does Well as Birthday Nears

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Big Hank Sauer, the National League's most valuable player of 1952 who turns 38 tomorrow on St. Patrick's Day, may still be able to do the clean-up batting job the New York Giants want him to do.

Outfielder Sauer, after going hitless in seven trips during three exhibition games, blasted across seven runs on two homers and a double yesterday as the Giants whipped the Cleveland Indians, 12-7.

Bowlerama Deadline March 31

By CHUCK ABAIR

Entries are beginning to come in steadily now for the big Pontiac Press Bowlerama slated to be held locally April 6, 7 and 13.

The singles handicap event is open to both women and men keglers who are sanctioned with the ABC or WIBC and residents of Oakland County. They will bowl in separate divisions.

Bowling proprietors around the Pontiac area and in nearby communities are reporting strong interest among their patrons in this new type of tournament being sponsored by the Press.

Blanks may be obtained at any bowling establishment in Oakland County or they may be clipped out of the Press and mailed in or left at the Press for manager Les Rothbarth in care of the Sports Department.

Have you sent in your entry for the tournament yet? You better do so right now. That deadline date of midnight March 31 is approaching rapidly with such fine prizes as $400 and $200 plus trophies for the men and women champions, respectively, certainly too good to pass up.

For the convenience of bowlers, tourney officials have agreed to allow keglers to turn in their blanks and entry fees to the house at which they bowl. The proprietors, who are playing an important role in organizing this major event, will forward them to the tourney manager.

There are only about two weeks remaining to sign up for a chance to vie with topnotch stars from every part of the county for the area championships.

Although there will be many of leading bowlers in Pontiac and other cities competing, the tournament is not restricted to top stars. Everyone is eligible regardless of average as long as he or she is sanctioned and a county resident.

Six prizes are guaranteed in each division with other awards divided to make one for every 10 entries.

There will also be trophies for the top qualifiers at each of three qualifying alleys following the 1st weekend and many other awards.

Burke Tops at St. Pete

Old Pros Take Command

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The "old pros' brushed past the upstart youngsters and were in command going into today's third round of the $12,500 St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament.

Jackie Burke Jr., a Texan by birth, was the pacesetter with a midway mark of 135. Cary Middlecoff, a Texan by contract, and Pete Cooper, a native Floridian, were putting on the pressure at 136.

Gene Littler of Singing Hills, Calif., and Billy Casper Jr., of Bonita, Calif., a couple of lads in their mid-20s who jumped out front with 66s in the first round, were back in the field. Littler was in a five-way tie for fourth with 137 and Casper was in a four-way tie for ninth with 138.

Golf Instruction Slated in April

Registrations for golf instruction are now being accepted by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department. Classes will begin in early April and will include four 2-hour sessions covering basic fundamentals of the game through demonstration and practice.

Emphasis will be on stance, grip and swing in relation to a variety of golf clubs and situations. Rules and etiquette will also receive attention. Persons of high school age and over interested in attending should register by calling the recreation department, FE 3-7131.

Let's Stop Bowing to These Unidentified Tyrants

Who Are 'They' Who Run Your Life?

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — The most overrated, ambiguous and trouble-making pronoun in any language is the unidentified "they."

The unidentified "they" is the one used by dull people aiming to become inquisitive boors: "They tell me you and Bob went pfffft. What happened?"

It is the hazy pronoun a child learns to employ in order to defer possible punishment: "They told me it was all right to . . ."; and the lazy pronoun an adult uses to describe an abhorrence without cursing: "They should give it back to the Indians."

The unidentified "they" is seldom intoned in a pleasant voice (with the except of "they tell me falling in love is wonderful.")

★ ★ ★

Instead it is a crutch which people use to vent anger ("they can't do this to me!"), to hide uncertainty ("they tell me you should always wear white gloves to the White House!"), to express wallowing self-pity ("they don't care—nobody cares"), to chide others ("they just don't do those things in good society"), and to flail a stupid world ("when are they going to realize we're headed for another depression?")

SINISTER USAGE

The most common and sinister use of all for the unidentified "they" is embodied in a phrase used by everyone at one time or another — and usually time after time—during his life. It's the one that goes "what'll they think?", referring to a large mass of nameless people whose brains meet on conventional, common grounds.

It's the opinion here that persons who think in "what'll they think?" terms too often, after they have passed the age of reason, quite possibly will never think at all for themselves.

They will join the unidentified "theys" who think only what the Joneses think and, in their actions, take the path they assume to be right because down to road apiece can be heard the bellowing of the herd.

A man or woman must take stern measures to keep from being one of those about whom another human sheep will say "what'll they think?"

One of the first remedies is to stop being indefinite about this hypocritical pronoun and pinpoint who the "theys" are; it may quickly be discovered, when the "theys" are identified in your mind, that these embodied pronouns would think nothing at all if you expressed a new idea or introduced a new plan of action.

Probably they couldn't care less. Or if they do care, probably they will respect originality and begin to worry what'll you think about them.

Next, you might stop tossing the word "they" around verbally and using it as a nebulous excuse to swear at society without offending anyone.

Instead, the next time you are tempted to say "why can't they ever run these trains on schedule," think whom you mean. Is it the board of directors of the railroad? Then say so. And write in. Thus you will not be simply nagging at empty air, you will be nagging at people who deserve it.

You will feel more fulfilled, and possibly the "theys" may even be improved.

In other words, try to give faces to the unidentified "theys" instead of worrying emptily about what they think, tell you, can't do and should do.

You may find that the realistic ones can be handled—but that most of the "theys" are culprits concocted by your imagination which, for the sake of your personal placidity, can be wiped away.

Dallas Sues to Stop Hoxsey's Practice

DALLAS (AP)—The State Board of Medical Examiners yesterday filed an injunction suit against Harry M. Hoxsey and two of his cancer clinic staff, seeking to stop Hoxsey from practicing medicine in Texas.

It also seeks to prevent his advertising treatment for any disease.

Jedburgh, Scotland, hopes to interest a U. S. firm in an empty factory which could employ up to 800 workers. It formerly was used by a rayon company.

Steel Comes Home in Many Forms

About one-third of all steel produced in this country winds up in or around the home in one form or another. Easy fabrication and a naturally sturdy composition has made steel probably the most important single material in use today.

Its strength, versatility and variety of types enable designers to use steel in one form or another for such things as structural members, hard, high-carbon tools and guns, typewriters, wrist watches, silverware, pots and pans, galvanized steel garbage cans, pails, sprinkling cans, laundry tubs, rubbish burners, automobiles, nuts and bolts, appliances, electrical fixtures, plumbing, belt buckles, clothes hangers and heating ducts, to name just a few of the many products in the home made of steel.

Strength and adaptability are not the only assets of products made of steel. They are easily kept clean and are completely fireproof, an ability to "take it" is an automatic feature of steel products.

Your Neighbor's House:

Six Rogers' Fit Nicely into Tri-Level

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

"The other day we had a lot of company, but there wasn't any conflict between the age groups at all. They all had plenty of room. It was wonderful." That is the way Mrs. Carl A. Rogers (Florence) feels about her new home out near Forest Lake.

The house, a tri-level one, is so well organized that Kenny, the teenager, could have his gang in the lower level recreation room; Craig and Brian could watch television with the grade school set in the family room; and the adults could talk in peace in the living room. E. P. Eroh, the architect, has zoned the house well. The lower level contains the afore-mentioned recreation room, a full bathroom with stall shower, Kenny's bedroom, and lots of storage cupboards.

The middle level has the living and dining room, the kitchen and the family room. In addition there is a small lavatory and at one side, the carport. The upper level has three bedrooms and another full bathroom.

The studio high ceiling of the immense living room is white with exposed beams. Two walls are plastered and painted aqua. The fireplace is made of yellow Roman brick which extends to the ceiling.

On the side away from the front door there is a balcony paneled in pecky cypress. This is directly above the stairs leading to the recreation room. A full bank of windows gives a view of the back yard, while more windows of the same size show the curving street in front.

The wall across from the fireplace is completely paneled in more pecky cypress. Its random shading is attractive with the aqua rugs and deeper aqua carpeting. Spots located on the ceiling beam direct light toward the fireplace.

Near the front windows are two upholstered chairs. The one with the matching footstool is brown tweed with a faint golden thread, while the smaller one is rust.

All tables are Paul McCobb. Glass tops protect the light walnut wood. For added color Mrs. Rogers has filled unusual shaped bottles with colored water and placed them on the tables. Draperies in the living room and dining room are linen weave cotton in an off-white shade. The heating is baseboard type.

Mrs. Rogers' corridor kitchen is all pink. In fact, the whole house, from the exterior walls throughout, is decorated in aqua and pink. The kitchen has the usual built-in wall oven and counter-top range.

In addition it has a built-in freezer, refrigerator and mixer units. This last is housed under the counter. A mixer, juicer, liquidizer and knife sharpener can be attached on top. One motor serves all.

The birch cabinets have a fruitwood finish. Curtains are pink. Counter tops are pink Formica. Between the kitchen and the family room is a pass-through counter with glass storage above. With glass doors on both sides, extra light comes into the kitchen from the family room windows.

At the far end of the family room the laundry equipment is grouped. But the rest of the room is given over to a small pink tweed sofa and chair, a TV set and a wrought iron breakfast table and chairs. The pink tile floor is merely an extension of the kitchen floor. The table has a round pink plastic top, while the chairs have pink plastic seats.

Draperies are white with a modernistic design of gold, pink, gray and black. A small lavatory opens from this room, near the door leading to the back yard. The carport entrance is also here.

There is another grade level entrance from the recreation room. Down here the asphalt tile floor is beige. There's a bright orange studio couch and a set of table and chairs painted flat black. The bar which is not yet complete is made of cedar.

FROM THE BALCONY — The hall of the upper level goes behind the fireplace and ends in an open balcony. This picture was shot from that point. Looking down, we see the pecky cypress wall of the living room, the graciously curved sectional sofa and, at the left, a portion of the dining room. The door on the right opens into the kitchen. A small section of the slate passageway is visible behind the sofa. Walls and carpeting are aqua color.

NEAR FOREST LAKE — Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Rogers, their three sons and one daughter live in this tri-level home on Hickory Court. Constructed of Texture One Eleven siding, cement block and Roman brick, the house is set on a curving lot. From the front the different levels of the slanting roof are pleasing to the eye. The overhang is painted aqua as is the lower level. The siding is rose. At the rear of the carport there is a wall of storage closets.

SECOND LIVING ROOM — This basement recreation room is just right for small gatherings. Teenagers can roll up the scatter rug and dance to rock 'n' roll. The room has large windows that let in plenty of sunlight. A bright orange studio couch is a cheerful piece of furniture. The unfinished bar at the right is made of cedar.

CORRIDOR KITCHEN — Shot from the dining room, this picture shows Mrs. Rogers' corridor kitchen, the pass-through counter and storage units in the middle, and the family room beyond. The three youngest children are snacking and watching television. Floors in the two rooms are pink tile with a gray stripe outlining the divider. The birch cupboards have a fruitwood finish. Walls are pink.

DOMINATING FIREPLACE — This modern fireplace of yellow Roman brick dominates one side of the Rogers' living room. The raised hearth is made of slate. Two-year-old Pamela and her mother pose for The Press photographer near the pecky cypress bookcase that shuts off the entrance way. This room is studio height with a beamed ceiling.

Aqua and Pink Used in Rogers' Home

Kenny's bedroom has maple furniture and fishing print curtains. He has plenty of room in which to study or play or entertain his friends.

On the top level the floors are pegged oak. The aqua carpeting covers the stairs and the upper hall. The large family bath repeats the aqua shade in tile around the tub. The vanity around the two sinks is covered with yellow Formica.

Once again Mrs. Rogers has used odd shaped bottles of colored water to further a color scheme. In her room they are blue and yellow. Proudly displayed on the headboard shelf of the bed is a new lamp. This was a birthday gift last week from the boys.

The Rogers have lived in their Hickory Court home since November. Mr. Rogers who is a mechanical contractor sub-contracted his own house. He did the plumbing and heating work. The house was built in four months.

The Rogers' lot is an irregular one, set as it is on the curve of the road. The exterior of the house is a combination of brick, Texture One Eleven siding and cement block. The siding is painted rose, the brick aqua.

Builders Favor Wood

Because it is easy to use with ordinary tools, lumber ranked high among the purchases of do-it-yourself fans. Each person doing his own building, says the Small Business Administration, bought $60 worth of lumber in the past year. Retail lumber yards cater to this type of customer.

Hints for Homeowners:

AP NEWSFEATURES

DO . . . know that the most common pipe leak — which occurs at a joint — often can be eliminated merely by tightening the joint at that point, using only moderate force.

DO . . . when the joint is already tight and the leak persists, turn off the water to the line, unscrew the fitting, coat the threads with a pipe-joint compound and retighten.

DO . . . if a piece of rubber hose is available, halt small leaks by slitting the hose, coating th inside with waterproof cement, wrapping the hose around the pipe and clamping with pipe clamps.

DON'T . . . make the common mistake of using a single wrench to tighten a fitting; use two wrench turning.

DON'T . . . overlook the fact that a hole in a pipe, especially when caused by corrosion, usually is an indication of future trouble at some other nearby spot.

DON'T . . . neglect to keep all shut-off valves correctly tagged, so that every member of the family (not just you) will be able to find the correct valve in an emergency.

DON'T . . . forget that while it is good to know how to halt a minor pipe leak, it is a wise policy to call in a plumber for jobs requiring special know-how and equipment.

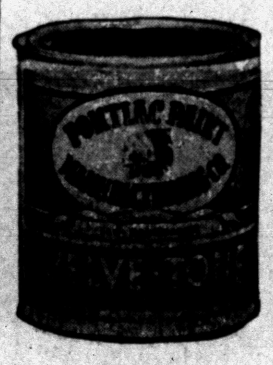

USE TWO wrenches, one to hold and one to turn.

Accent Walls Achieved by Using Woods

You hear a great deal nowadays about accent walls and shadow lines. The easiest way to develop shadow lines on your home exterior is to use either boards and battens or wide drop siding. With either of these patterns, which can be purchased in Douglas fir or western red cedar, you can have most interesting accent walls around your home. You also have a choice of rough or smooth finish in these woods, giving you even more variety.

Scar Removers Popular

A recent survey shows that more than 40 per cent of all rooms in American homes use light-finished furniture. Product manufacturers have kept right up with this trend since both light and dark scar-blemish removers are now available to the homemaker. These products rub out or minimize ugly heat marks, white rings, burns or other blemishes. A high percentage of the women interviewed in the survey used a prepared substance to remove such ugly marks from wood furniture — light or dark.

NEWS VIEWS

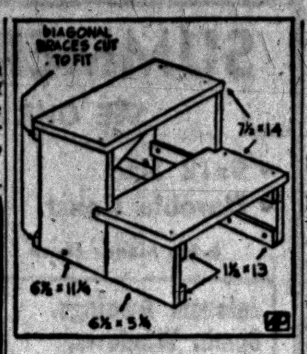

By Realtor Partridge

Ever since that $71.8 billion budget was announced for the coming year, Capitol Hill has been popping like a Chinese New Year. With everybody sharpening pencils to show where a bit of budgetary surgery could take place, pencil makers ought to be happier than a cat in a canary hatchery.

Treasury Secretary Humphrey remarked that, if high taxes continued, the situation would bring on a hair-curling depression. (That doesn't mean our bald-headed citizens would miss the toboggan ride.) Of course, he came back later to say that business looked real good for the year ahead . . . but that doesn't change the fact that a lot of folks would like to see the budget trimmed. It's easier to save when you still have something to save.

A Chicago gentleman told a judge he wanted to live with his 5-ft. 3-in., 145-pound wife . . . but only if she would gain back the 75 pounds she had dieted away . . . Well, anything can happen. And in more than 25 years of real estate experience, we've seen a lot happen . . . seen a lot of folks settled into the right home or business . . . and we expect to see (and help) a lot more folks do the same. Build Child's Stool From Two Boards

A child's step stool, easily made from a 1 by 8-inch board and a 1 by 2-inch strip, enables the youngster to wash his own hands long before he could otherwise reach the sink.

The overall dimensions of the stool shown are 12 inches high, 14 inches wide, and 14 inches deep. Cut parts to the required sizes. Cut a notch 1 inch deep into the front edge of each long side piece for the bottom step.

Join the short and long piece on each side with a pair of 1 by 2-inch strips and eight 1¼-inch No. 10 flat-head wood screws. Stand the sides upright and secure the steps to the sides with 6-penny finishing nails.

The steps can be made flush with the sides or allowed to extend ½ inch beyond the sides as indicated in the sketch. The top step overhangs enough beyond the back edges of the sides to cover the diagonal braces. Cut the braces to fit, notch them where they overlap for a tight fit, and attach them with 6-penny finishing nails.

Sticky Drawer Solution

Prevent Leak in Roof

'Home Builder' Explained

WASHINGTON—What is a home builder?

Don Decker, an Omaha, Neb., home builder—a man not without humor — says he's probably all things to all people. It just depends on who you are.

Decker, a regional vice president of the National Association of Home Builders, offered this look at himself and other builders at a recent conference on builders' Buying Habits at the National Housing Center:

"My wife thinks that a home builder is a grouch, one that is never home, and when he is occasionally home, he is constantly on the phone talking to either a supplier, a salesman, a superintendent, or someone, but certainly not to her.

★ ★ ★

"Purchasers look upon the home builder as an uncouth character who paints a lively picture of a new home, finally finishes the cracker box, hands him the key and says, 'You maintain it. Just try to maintain it.'

"FHA thinks he is one of the most money-hungry group of people in the world . . .

"Labor unions think that he enjoys the role he is placed in, that of depriving the working man of the God-given rights to such pay, and maybe a four-week paid vacation. The office staff thinks he is a slave driver.

'WORLD'S WORST RISK'

"The mortgage bankers think he is a gambler without resources; no capital . . . one that has no idea of how money should be handled, and never pays his bills, and is the world's worst risk.

"As far as I have been able to find out, there are only a few that think the builder still is in business, and the only two that count are the National Association of Home Builders and Al Cole (Housing & Home Finance Administrator), and neither one of them has any money.

He is a businessman, one who has ability to employ labor, purchase material, let subcontracts, purchase and develop raw land. Then, by the continued use of this ability, along with the knack of making friends, blend the above group and mold it together into a group working and fighting side by side; so that they can take sticks and stones and turn them into a house, so that a family may have a home.

"A home builder should be a civic leader, and spend a good part of his time in public affairs. He is one of the biggest employers in the world. He is a general contractor. He is a supplier. He is every man that ever worked on a house . . .

"My definition of a home builder is a person, a poor, ever-worked person, a shell of a man trying to support a couple of cars, a dog, a few saddle horses, and attempting — in his usually unsuccessful way—to make more money than his wife can spend."

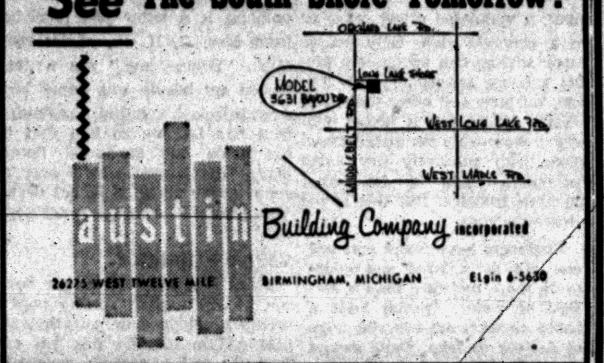

Paint Adds to Safety

Colorful automobiles have sparked off a desire for color that is livening up drab offices and factories. Office machines are being manufactured in matching color ensembles. Telephones can be had in a variety of colors. Factories have found that colors can lessen fatigue and increase efficiency. Paint is adding to safe working conditions by providing scientific color schemes to point up danger areas.

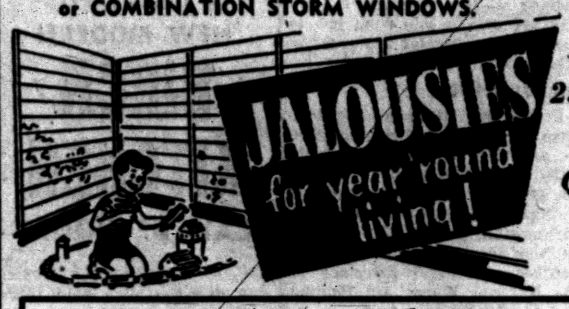

Two Hands Are Better

When you're using one of the cleansing-polishing liquids on walls and woodwork, you'll save time by using both hands. Clean with a cloth in your right hand and use a dry cloth in your left hand to wipe the clean area.

Earth Acts as Conductor of Wood-Warping Water

Excessive dampness can attack and undermine the livability of whether it is built over a basement, a ventilated crawl space or on a concrete slab. Only proper vapor sealing can adequately protect a house against dry rot, mildew, warpage and other problems.

You'd think that a house built over a thoroughly ventilated crawl space with relatively dry earth underneath could be free from moisture troubles. But this is not always the case.

Engineers have found that soil can act as a wick and evaporate more moisture than a surface of water. If you built a house on stilts out over the edge of a river or lake, you'd expect some dampness. So with granules of soil multiplying evaporation surfaces by the millions, you stand to get even more dampness. You must seal that soil surface.

Highlighting the urgency of this problem is a letter just received from Mrs. C. H. P., of Monroe, Mich. "Believe me," she writes, "when we bought our home last April it looked beautiful. But dampness has become so bad that it has made our hardwood floors wavy. The house is built over a crawl space about 36 inches deep. The ground is damp, but not soggy."

VAPOR BARRIER

There is a case of a vapor barrer. Heavy asphalt roofing paper widely overlapped or polyethylene plastic film can do this job effectively and apparently permanently.

Smooth the ground as well as possible, stretch the vapor barrier carefully over the surface allowing wide overlaps and scatter a little dry sand on top of it to hold it down. Even houses with so-called heated crawl spaces should be sealed against ground moisture.

Fog and frost on cold window panes have inspired a lot of advice on controlling indoor moisture. Cooking, laundering and bathing without adequate ventilation are said to add from two to four gallons of water to the air in a house within one day.

ADD MOISTURE

People add still more moisture from their lungs and skin surfaces — as much as 11 to 12 pints daily for a family of four. But one espert says this all amounts to a drop in a bucket compared with the moisture that comes into houses from the outside. He is G. A. Voorhees, technical secretary of the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Assn.

In a formal report for architects and engineers, entitled "Moisture Problems in Crawl Space Houses," Voorhees gives comprehensive reasons for the wick action of the soil. He points out that 10 pounds of soil can contain from one pint to one quart of water, depending on the clay, silt or other "fines" in the soil.

A small house with 850 square feet of crawl space is examined. If this house is built over bare earth of a high moisture content, 16¼ gallons of water may be evaporated under the house in 24 hours.

OVER WATER

If the same house is built over water the evaporation at the same temperature would amount to only 14.8 gallons.

If the earth surface is covered with 55-pound roll roofing, less than one pint of evaporation will occur.

"Too often," says Voorhees, "we hear the statement 'Oh, I don't need any vapor barrier on the floor of this crawl space because the ground water level here is at least 12 to 15 feet below the surface.'

★ ★ ★

"The findings of government engineers show that the moisture content of soil at the surface of the earth in a crawl space remains substantially the same regardless of whether the ground water level is as little as 8 feet or as much as 20 feet below the level of the crawl space floor."

Drainage for Basement

At least 95 per cent of all the building plots in the country are suitable for the construction of homes with basements, says the Better Basement Institute. It says that basements can be built under any home where there is proper drainage and no large rock formation. Building a basement for the average home will add to the total cost by no more than 7 per cent, it says, but for this amount the basement will double the amount of floor space in the house.

Burma surveys indicate far more copper than the country thought it had, Rangoon learns.

Large Percentage of U.S. Homes Needs Repairs

A survey of the 50 million-plus U.S. dwellings reveals the appalling story that 35 million need some attention and repair. Only 14 per cent of all U. S. homes are considered in good repair. Eight million homes, according to the committee ACTION, are near slum status or acutally are slums.

The encouraging fact is that many older homes are solid as the stout frames can make them, but most are in need of a simple facelifting to make them modern. There is an ample supply of top quality siding lumber, such as Douglas fir, west coast hemlock and western red cedar now available for this remodeling job, and at the lowest prices in several years.

Oftentimes the interior of older homes can be up-dated by working over the walls, covering dilapidated plaster and wallpaper with classy, wood-paneled walls. Older floors will respond beautifully to sanding and refinishing.

It is estimated by ACTION that our citizens have $220 billion invested in their homes. It is an investment, the West Coast Lumbermen's Association suggests, which is worth protecting, for homes seldom shrink in value if they are kept in good repair.

TWO SEPARATE AREAS — The architect's accent in this layout is on the separation of sleeping and living quarters. Note the position of the kitchen in relation to the play area and the family room. Note the mud room that will take care of those who garden or work in the garage.

Mom Will Like Features of Spacious Efficient Home

Here's a house that more than a mother can love; the whole family will dote on its efficiency and smart appearance.

Even with all the modern appliances you want, the over-all design of the house must meet certain basic requirements it there is to be a reduction of the workload. Architect Rudolph A. Matern put the accent on efficiency in drawing up the plans for Design HW-43.

Let's start with the kitchen in looking over this unusual house, which has a moderate living area of 1,729 square feet and thus fits neatly into the medium-priced range.

Compactness is the keynote of this kitchen. There is a refrigerator near the service door for easy loading, a no-stop over and a complete laundry in the adjoining mud room, which has both a closet and a large cabinet for storing canned goods and seldom-used cooking equipment. A large glassed area at the front of the kitchen permits Mom to keep an eye on the children in the play porch.

★ ★ ★

And because of the proximity of the kitchen to the family room, Mom is still in control of the situation when the kids are indoors. Also there is an entrance directly from the play porch to the family room, eliminating unnecessary traffic through the kitchen, and still another from the play porch to the garage.

This efficiency theme is prominent throughout Design HW-43. The center chimney allows side-by-side fireplaces, one in the family room, one in the living room. There are two-and-a-half baths accessible from all parts of the house.

The immense bathroom in the master bedroom contains a full-size dressing area with three closets as well as an enclosed shower. Those three closets, by the way, are in addition to three other closets in the master bedroom itself . . . five closets in the two family bedrooms, a large clothes closet in the foyer, a linen closet, a closet in the mud room and three closets in the spacious garage. Nobody in this house will ever complain about lack of closet space!

This feeling of space is further emphasized by the bay window looking out on the rear yard and the direct entrance from the living room to a covered back porch. The 20-foot length of the living room gets added sweep from the manner in which it interlocks with the dining room and porch.

Even the garage is an integral part of the efficiency setup. Besides the three closets mentioned previously, there is a large workbench and a storage room which can be reached from either the garage or the service porch. Anyone working in the garage or the garden can enter the mud room, shed soiled garments in the handy closet and wash up at the laundry tub—all before setting foot in the kitchen. This is also true of anyone coming up from the basement, since the stairs lead right into the mud room.

There is a tremendous saving of steps in a house like this, and dirt-tracking and cleaning are held to a minimum. Yet it has charm as well as practicality. There is a balanced combination of brick and wood, with the play porch and its garden pool giving a decorative, graceful touch to the exterior lines.

Statistics To Consider

The many luxury features in Design HW-43 are usually found only in houses occupying more than 2,000 square feet. This house measures 64 feet, 8 inches one way and 29 feet, 3 inches from front to rear, for a total of 1,729 square feet. Even with the garage, its frontage is less than 81 feet, making it ideal for a plot with a frontage of 100 feet.

Color Emphasizes Door

Heater Solves Problem

The horizintal - type combination heating and air conditioning unit has solved a problem often associated with a house built on a concrete slab or over a crawl space.

Such a unit would fit neatly into Design HW-43 when the house is built without a basement. The unit could occupy the area now marked for the basement stairs without inferfering in any way with the kitchen, the laundry appliances or the mud room.

Three Colors Enough to Use in One Room

When decorating a room, stick to three colors in floor covering, walls, furniture and draperies. Use one bright color for interesting accents. Choose the colors for walls, furniture and draperies, cause these are the biggest areas of color. Light-painted walls always contrast well with dark floor coverings. Don't hesitate to repeat the same colors over and over in the same room. Color repetition will unify the room and its furnishings.

Prolong Life of Wood

It is estimated that unpainted and exposed wood will wear away at the rate of ¼ inch in 100 years when exposed to heat and cold, rain and sun, freezing and thawing. When protected with paint, exterior house siding will last indefinitely.

Homes Get Bigger

U.S. single-family homes are getting larger, having increased from 970 square feet in 1945 to more than 1,250 square feet in 1956, according to the U.S. Census Bureau. Growing families want three and four bedrooms. Many modern homes are designed with exposed beams and ceilings as U.S. families insist on more wood in their daily living.

Iran is boosting cotton exports.

PATCHING IS AN ART — The fine art of patching is a "Must" for the home handyman. Hoard scraps of wood, metal, plastic, wallpaper and other materials against the day when you'll be making repairs.

Patch in Time Saves Nine for Scrap-Happy Mender

Since patching isn't a chore confined to the sewing room, every handyman ought to have in his own workshop material to handle the many repair jobs that are constantly required in the home.

There'll be no need to buy some of these materials. In fact, they may even be difficult to purchase.

For example, you ought to save scraps of newly installed linoleum, floor and wall tile, and wallpaper. This practice will solve the problem of matching patterns when repairs are required.

Where patterns don't matter, use pieces of material similar to the substance being patched. (You'll be surprised at how important a scrap box can prove to be as your home begins to age.)

And the putty-like compounds of plastic, aluminum, wood and even steel now in the market are handy for filling holes and cracks in various materials.

Most ticklish of all patching jobs is the business of mending a patterned surface so that the patch is barely noticeable. Do all your cutting along straight lines to make this task easier.

Before you repair a torn or worn spot in the linoleum, for example, make a cardboard pattern of the area to be mended. Cut the pattern in the form of a square, rectangle or triangle.

Include enough area in the pattern to take care of the torn spot plus an overlap of an inch or two on the surrounding area of the linoleum.

Place your cardboard pattern over the damaged area of the linoleum along these lines. Cut around the pattern, using a sharp knife and straightedge. Thoroughly clean the bare spot on the floor and make it perfectly smooth. Be careful not to damage the surrounding lineoleum.

Trace your pattern on a new piece of linoleum and cut. Set the patch in place after spreading linoleum cement over the uncovered portion of floor.

Put a heavy weight on the patch and wipe away excess cement that may ooze up. After several weeks the patch will be solid enough to go over with fine steel wool. This removes the shiny, new look and helps to match it to the rest of the floor.

When patching wallpaper, first cut away the damaged portion w a sharp knife. Cut—again with straight lines—a fresh piece of wallpaper slightly larger than the area to be repaired. Move it around and see in which position it best matches the old pattern.

Apply paste to the back of the patch and place it over the old paper so that it slightly overlaps at the edges at the point of damage. A damp sponge can be used to smooth the patch.

Newly available to the home handyman is a plastic-impregnated material that is said to adhere to almost anything. In use for several years by industry, it somewhat resembles blotting paper in texture before being activated by a solvent which is included in the kit.

To use it, cut a piece the size and shape of the area to be repaied. Then dip it in the solvent. This makes it soft and pliable. Smooth the patch over the repaired surface with your fingers.

In about two hours it will be dry and hard.

The material goes on easily, even over irregular surfaces. You can wrap it around a rusted-out spot in downspouting or gutter, mend tears in awnings and tarpaulins, even use it to repair the flashing between chimney and roof.

Antique Look of Wood Made by Tiny Fungus

If you are looking for something completely different in your basement family room, here's a tip. Ask your retail lumber dealer to show you some white pocket Douglas fir lumber.

A century or more ago, a tiny fungus, called Fomes Pini formed tiny white pockets in the wood of the growing tree. It died when the tree was cut, but left its mark, a natural antiquing of the wood. Most lumber yards stock this white speck fir in panel grades. This interesting wood will give you a den as distinctive as any in the city.

Domestic airlines in the United States carry three times as many men as women.

Straight Steps Best for Basements

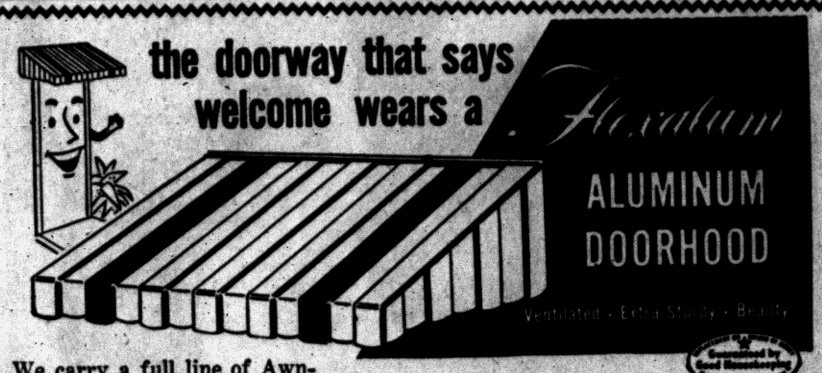

When planning an outside entrance from your basement, you will save money and add to your convenience if you can walk up the steps to grade directly from your basement door, instead of having the stairs running along the side of the house, suggests the Better Basement Institute.

"If you can walk straight up to your yard from the basement, without making any turns, you will find it a great deal easier to carry plywood sheets, canoes, lawn furniture, etc. and other bulky items into the basement for seasonal storage," the Institute says. Generally less concrete or concrete blocks are required to build a stairway formed this way.

For example, steel hatchways made to cover the outside steps from the basement can be installed in 10 minutes on a new house when the stairs lead directly up from the basement floor. The hatchway can also be installed over a staircase parallel to the foundation wall, but this may require special procedures and longer installation times."

Lower Boom on Float That Stood 120 Feet

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The city of Milwaukee has lowered the boom on a "float" exhibited by students at a local engineering school.

The "float" is a huge construction crane, with a 120 foot high boom, set up between the two lanes of busy Kilbourn Avenue near downtown Milwaukee.

At first, nobody at City Hall knew what the crane was doing there or who authorized it. Then a public works oficial discovered a common council resolution passed last October, in which the school was authorized to erect a float at the site during National Engineering Week.

New homeowners are 'power' conscious and the old pusher-type mower is being replaced by power lawn mowers.

Decorate Room for Tranquil Life

Many a man has come home from a hard day at the office to find that his wife has painted the living room or study (where he'd planned to relax) a vivid orange or other stampeding color, hardly conducive to his nerves.

Homemakers should take a leaf from medical researchers and other experts who planned a "peace of mind" room for tranquil living, coordinating all ingredients of the room — color, fabric, furniture, lighting and artwork—into a peace theme designed to soothe harried emotions. The room stressed warm, soft pastels such as dusty rose or pale yellow to provide cheerfulness, light and an airy feeling. Warm colors, the experts suggest, should border on cool colors such as soft blue-green or gray. Two cool colors or two violently warm colors are likely to irritate you.

Red stimulates and speeds the reactions and may make you nervous, they say. Blue seems to quiet the nerves but leads to a depressed feeling after a time. Designers who studied the fabric problem in relation to tranquility reported that novelty or nubby fabrics and highly contrasting textures may be distracting and unnerving.

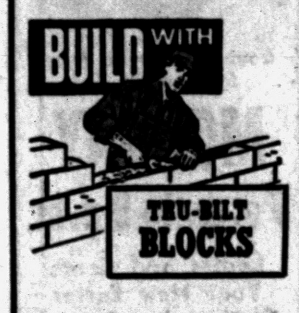

Soft light should be used, they say. Too-bright light is likely to dull appreciation of objects and persons.

The body should be rested before the mind can be put at ease, the designers point out, so it is important to choose comfortable furniture for your restful room. A soft, high-back chair with an ottoman, one that fits the man in size and pleases him in style is essential to comfort.

Color Choice Surveyed

The New York Journal of Commerce recently conducted a study of colors which produce the most sales in home products. The results revealed that among the hues most popular with the American public today are vermilion, soft yellow, yachting blue and emerald green. Upper-income consumers prefer coral, turquoise blue, avocado green, navy blue, copper and brown. Pearl gray, chartreuse, forest green, burgundy, rose and black are also in the perferred spectrum.

Board Whips Into Action

Pick Wyeth-Harman Inc. as Architects for New Oxford Schools

OXFORD—After citizens of the Oxford Area Community Schools district voted in a proposed $1,500,000 bond issue in special voting here yesterday, board members last night in whirlwind followup, named Wyeth-Harman Inc., of Port Huron, as architects for the building program.

A second proposal on the ballot, to sell surplus one-room schools of the area, now abondoned, passed also, 726 yes, 88 no.

The abondoned schools to be sold include those at East and West Travis, Oakwood, National, Arnold, and the old Lakeville School.

During past weeks the School Board has interviewed between 15 and 20 architectural firms, and immediately following yesterday's election, selected the Wyeth firm. They will design the proposed new million dollar high school, as well as additions for the present Lakeville, Leonard and Thomas Schools.

★ ★ ★

The Oxford school district, comprised of Oxford, Leonard, Rock Valley, Thomas, East and West Travis, Arnold, Kingsbury, Whigville and Oakwood, banded together last year in a Sept. 1 election.

The school district includes all or part of five townships located in north Oakland and south Lapeer counties.

Stage Manager, Too

Brandon Teacher Turns Writer, Actor, Coach

By MARTHA LEWIS
Ortonville Correspondent

ORTONVILLE—When a Board of Education hires a teacher they look for someone with scholastic ability, but when the Brandon Township Board of Education hired Lee M. Moore to teach algebra, English and speech, they really got a bonus!

He not only acted as basketball coach for junior high this season, but he also directs the plays put on by junior and senior classes.

In his "spare time" Lee Moore is working on a novel in fiction. He likes to write short stories and especially is interested in the reading of plays. For relaxation he writes poetry, both serious and light verse.

He is very versatile, and among previous varied occupations, he also had obtained wide experience with the Press while living in Ohio.

He graduated from Ohio State in 1950, majoring in English. College was interrupted by two years service in the Navy. This was from 1944 to '46, where he served as a radio operator in the Pacific war theater.

★ ★ ★

It was at Hopewell, Ohio, that Moore started teaching, instructing the 6th grade for two years. In 1955 he came to Ortonville to teach.

At this time he enrolled in the Will-O-Way apprentice theater at Bloomfield Hills. Here he studied for six months as a student in stage managing. He has acted in such professional productions as the "Milky Way." Last summer he appeared in "Bernardine" with Will-O-Way play house.

Although he intends to continue teaching, Moore has plans that include summer theater during the coming vacation.

Later this month, when the play "Bernardine" is shown here in Brandon gym on March 29 and 30, it will be under the direction of an experienced stage manager, with the junior class of the high school here participating.

Chance to Substantiate Southfield Charges

Elsarelli Invited Before Town Board

SOUTHFIELD — Justice of the Peace Edward A. Elsarelli is going to have an opportunity to substantiate charges made by him recently, against the Township Board, of "illegally appropriating $46,000 for salaries and car expenses."

He has been invited to appear before the Township Board March 26.

Elsarelli made the accusations in a letter to Township Clerk Fannie Adams, also requesting that "immediate steps be taken to stop the illegal expenditures and to recover any illegal expenditures already made."

Pay raises Elsarelli questioned are a hike from $7,150 to $9,000 for supervisor and from $4,950 to $6,500 for treasurer and clerk.

Township supervisor Eugene Swem was not included in Elsarelli's charges because he was appointed supervisor after 1955, when the salary increases already were approved.

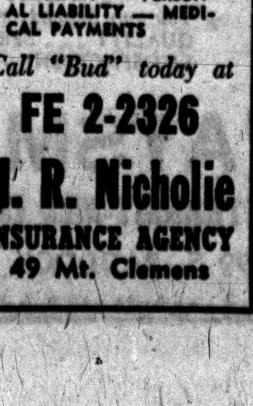

Swem claims that there is nothing illegal about the Township's action in this matter.

LITTLE THINGS SHINE BRIGHTEST
Big things take care of themselves but the "Little Things" seem so trivial that they often are brushed aside. Deeds of kindness, cheery words, acts of thoughtfulness add lustre to living.

A wife may secretly want a mink coat but she wouldn't trade her husband's kiss, affection and thoughtfulness for all the mink coats on earth. A lonely person with a vault full of gold would willingly trade stacks of it for a cheery word. The happiest boy I know has a dad who takes time to be his pal. Friendship can be summed up in these four words, "Little Acts of Kindness."

Negro, 100, Has Birthday Wish: 'Bouquets' Now

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—"I never make no plans; the Lord might have somethin' to say about that."

That has been Jim Beason's life philosophy. He was 100 years old today.

Mrs. Rittie Beason, who married Jim almost 65 years ago, nodded agreement when he said "we raised 12, 10 of them our own. Then two other kids we took in to raise."

"Jim's raised 13. He took me to raise, too. I was just 15 when we were married," she added.

The aged Negro admits "I liked it better on the farm, near Lewisburg, down in Logan County. But it's all right here." The couple came to Louisville 16 years ago to be near their eight living children, the oldest 61.

"You know, people usually save up what good things they have to say about you for your funeral. Then they throw a lot of flowers around and put you in the ground.

Sold for $17 Million

SALT LAKE CITY (INS) — A Southern Utah uranium mine was sold for $17,000,000 Thursday, believed to be the highest price ever paid for such a holding.

The Cord mine in San Juan County was sold by a partnership headed by E. L. Cord, Nevada Statae Senator and former auto manufacturer, to Jen, Inc., headed by C. E. Tuttle of Baltimore, Md.

The uranium transaction previously believed to be the largest was the sale of the Happy Jack Mine in Southern Utah to the Texas-Zinc Minerals Co., for a reported $10,000,000.

Britain Cuts 25,000 From Fleet Reserve

LONDON (AP) — Britain announced today it is slashing the number of men in the royal fleet reserve from 30,000 to about 5,000 as part of the armed forces economy drive.

Those discharged, up to the age of 45, still will be subject to recall in an emergency.

The fleet reserve is a force for men who have finished their normal naval enlistment and volunteered for another five years of nonactive service. They are paid an average of one shilling—14 cents—a day and are subject to call for periodical training, and for duty during an emergency.

★ ★ ★

Already in Gas Chamber 2 Minutes

Stay of Execution Arrives Too Late to Save Slayer

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UP) — Two minutes too late Gov. Goodwin Knight tried to grant Burton W. Abbott a stay of execution yesterday. Instead the kidnap-slayer of 14-year-old Stephanie Bryant died in the San Quentin Prison gas chamber.

The timing raised the question whether a convicted criminal could be saved from the gas chamber after the first lethal pellet of potassium cyanide is dropped. The answer is no. You might as well try to stop the bullets from a rifle in a firing squad after the trigger is pulled.

★ ★ ★

Time raced against Abbott yesterday while his attorney, George T. Davis, sought any avenue of postponement of the death of the slender, 29-year-old former accounting student.

Denied a writ of habeas corpus by the U. S. Court of Appeals, to the State Supreme Court. An official denial was recorded at 10:42 a.m.

Davis then tried for another one-hour stay from the governor so he might renew action in the federal courts. Knight was aboard the carrier Hancock off the San Francisco peninsula coast on a cruise for civilian notables.

Davis reached the governor via ship - to - shore radiotelephone. Knight told him he would try to get through to Warden Harley O. Teets. By this time it was 11:14 a.m. Abbott already was in the gas chamber.

The condemned man was strapped into the death chair at 11:15 a.m. The lethal pellets were dropped into a container of sulfuric acid at 11:18. Two minutes later Warden Teets answered a call from the governor's clemency secretary, Joseph Babich.

Teets told him: "Too late."

He explained later that once a pellet is dropped it takes more than an hour to clear the chamber of gas. And physicians say the hydrocyanic gas attacks the brain instantly.

Abbott proclaimed his innocence to the end.

Late last night, a lie detector expert said his findings after interviewing Abbott convinced him the man was guilty. The expert, Hal Reidel, retired Berkeley police inspector, said the trial court ruled the evidence inadmissable.

Auburn Heights Missile Men Hit Far Targets

It was two out of two for the men of Delta Battery of the 18th Anti-aircraft Missile (Nike) Battalion in New Mexico this week.

Down on the hot sands of White Sands Proving Grounds, near El Paso, Tex., the men let go with two deadly Nike missiles and bagged two radio-controlled target planes miles away.

Watching the demonstration was Pontiac Mayor William W. Donaldson, Irving Steinman, of the Lion Store here, and Dudley H. Moore of Auburn Heights.

"I had no idea that any weapon could hit a target so far away," Donaldson said. "In a matter of seconds, a plane 20 miles away was destroyed. How could any enemy get through that kind of defense?"

6. Shoes for a Boy

Man has found the shoe to be a real necessity. It's fun to go barefoot, but the soldier who must march many miles needs shoes all the way.

The art of shoe making began in the Middle Ages, when thousands of men from all over Europe gathered for the Crusades. Foot soldiers and mounted knights alike needed strong shoes and the bootmaker became an important man.

Thomas Beard introduced shoe making to America at Plymouth in 1629. At first all shoes were made by hand. In time, machinery was invented to replace hand work and the shoe factory came into being. American shoes now are famous all over the world for their workmanship and style.

No. 1 is a Roman Sandal, light and rather delicate, for Roman roads were smooth and easy to walk on.

No. 2 is an English shoe of the 15th Century crudely made of leather for the rough roads of the time. Robin Hood wore shoes of this type.

Air Attack Commander to Speak at Pontiac High

Former Japanese air commander, Mitsuo Fuchida, and the Rev. Elmer B. Sachs, head of Sky Pilots of America, will be speakers Sunday afternoon at the Pontiac High School Auditorium.

The program, open to the public, will start at 2:30 p.m.

Mr. Fuchida has been brought to this country by Sky Pilots, a youth organization of men and boys in all nations. Currently, he is speaking throughout the northern and eastern parts of the United States.

On Dec. 7, 1941, Mr. Fuchida led the 370 airplanes in the air attack on Pearl Harbor. A few years after the war, he returned to his farm near Tokyo, bitter and disillusioned.

MEETS PRISONERS

He was called to Tokyo during the war criminal trials and met some Japanese prisoners of war who had been in the United States.

The stories of how they were treated led Fuchida to buy a Japanese Bible, to preach the gospel and eventually work through the Sky Pilots to bring the message to his people.

The Rev. Mr. Sachs is a former police detective from Evanston, Ill., who retired and moved to California. He has since been devoting his time to working among boys and men. He believes Sky Pilots International began in a Boys' Club in a little church in Southern California.

Giant Meteor Blazes in Southern Skies

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — A giant meteor, visible over southwestern and southeastern parts of the nation, blazed through the skies last night.

There were reports fragments had reached the earth in Texas, Louisiana and Alabama. None of the reports was confirmed.

Airline pilots, radio operators, astronomers and others from western Texas to Florida and as far north as Missouri reported seeing the fiery object shortly after 11 p.m. EST.

Some said it flashed briefly through the starry, moonlit sky, giving off a daytime brilliance, and then disappeared. In some places, it left flaming trails visible for about 20 seconds.

Baldwin Principal Recalls Madelon's School Trouble

By SYLVIA deSTEIGER

Memories of Madelon Allred, the 18-year-old baby sitter who confessed she took a 2½-year-old girl from her Pontiac home Thursday and murdered her in a Detroit hotel bathroom, returned to Baldwin School, 40 E. Howard St.

Mrs. Irene Albright, principal of Baldwin and a former teacher of Madelon's, didn't find it hard to remember the girl.

"Madelon was unpredictable, impossible, but likable—I guess we felt sorry for her but I never thought she would ever do a thing like this. I never noticed anything vicious in her.

"We weren't surprised to hear she was in a juvenile home—but a mental institution—I just can't understand that.

"I had her in the fifth grade before I became principal. She never opened a book and yet, she could spell any of the children down when we had spelling bees. She loved them.

"She was a cold child and never shower any love or affection for anyone."

"We looked up her records this morning and she received D and E's through grade school although this wasn't because she wasn't able. She always passed 'on condition.'

"Yet, she never sassed us or talked back. She was just stubborn. In order to get her to do the work, she would have to stay after school. I would always make her read something and if I had the rest of the children do 30 problems, I was lucky to get three out of Madelon.

"I guess she liked to tease and irritate us although I don't remember her ever harming any of the children or even fighting.

"I'm disappointed in Mrs. Allred. She knew Madelon's trouble. She never should have let her go to work without adult supervision.

"I remember she used to come to school to talk to us about Madelon. She seemed concerned about her.

★ ★ ★

Madelon's teenage years were formed by a procession of public institutions. In 1948, she entered the Girls' Training School at Adrian and later was sent to the Oakland County Juvenile Home for Girls.

When she was returned to her room, she dismantled her bed and smashed two glass doors with a chair. Unable to cope with her, the home sent her to the county jail.

There she continued her frenzied behavior. She twice struck the physician attempting to administer a sedative. The doctor reported she was "highly agitated and bellicose" and was having "delusions and auditory hallucinations."

She admitted to the doctor that while at the Adrian Training School she had run away twice and attempted suicide, once by hanging and again by choking herself.

Hospital clinical workers recalled she was quiet and adjusted well to the routine. She was active in the ward and participated in group life.

Then in June, 1955, the girl walked away from the hospital. She turned up in California where she was committed to a state mental hospital and finally was returned to Pontiac State Hospital in November 1955.

Her second stay at Pontiac State Hospital was marked by the birth of a boy on April 11, 1956, which was put up for adoption.

Then on July 18, 1956, her sister filed a petition in probate court requesting that Madelon be certified sane.

Two doctors told the court she appeared "perfectly normal" and the petition was granted July 23.

Pontiac Man Seeks $650,000 Crash Damages

John W. Moore is asking $650,000 damages from a Chicago meat rendering firm in U.S. District Court, it was reported today, in a suit that grew out of a collision between Moore's car and one of the firm's trucks last July 7.

Moore, 27, of 544 DeSoto Pl. asks damages for injuries to himself and his son, Christian, 4, and the death of his wife, Nancy Jane, 23.

Mrs. Moore was killed instantly and her husband hospitalized after the accident on US-16, two miles west of Fowlerville. The boy suffered a broken left arm and head lacerations. The truck driver, John Goller, 53, of Rockford, was not injured.

State police troopers said the tractor-trailer driven by Goller was leaving a roadside restaurant and had pulled partially onto the highway when the tractor was struck from the rear by the Moore vehicle.

Moore claims that Goller entered the road without stopping and without lights.

Navy Blimp Sets Record; Proves Value as Sentinel

KEY WEST, Fla. (UP)—A Navy blimp, flying longer and farther without stop than any in history, has demonstrated the capability of these roaming sentinels to warn of enemy bombers and submarines while they are still far from American targets.

Navy officials declared the flight was never intended as a stunt or merely to set a record, but was designed to prove the ability of airships to keep on station for days at a time on patrol.

New emphasis is put on the airship as an airborne platform for radar, to cruise far offshore and flash word of approaching hostile planes.

Byrd Ax on School Aid

WASHINGTON (INS) — Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va) has singled out the two billion dollar federal school construction program as a prime target for cutting President Eisenhower's budget.

News in Brief

Mrs. Vera Fisher, 29, of 41 Park Pl., riding in a car driven by her husband, Joseph, 32, received minor injuries in a collision with a car driven by William Naegele, 27, of 381 N. Saginaw, yesterday on Franklin Rd. at Wyoming Ave.

Thieves broke into the Clarkston Drive-In, 7151 M-15, for the second time in three weeks, the Sheriff's Office reported today, and escaped with $25 in goods and an undetermined amount of money taken from pinball and cigarette machines.

But Eisenhower, seeking to shake a cold and an ear inflammation, was keeping his fingers crossed after yesterday, his first full day at sea aboard the Navy guided missile cruiser Canberra.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MRS. Gertrude M. Clayton, who left us March 16, 1956.
God knows how much we miss her,
Loving thoughts shall ever wander,
To the spot where she is laid.
Sadly missed by Husband, Children and Grandchildren.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MIchael David Overbaugh, who died four years ago, March 17th.
God took our little Michael
On a bright St. Patrick's Day.
To let him play in heaven,
Where no harm to him can stray.
Sadly missed by Mommy and Daddy.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF THELma P. McKillop, who passed away 4 years ago, March 16th.
Just when your life was brightest,
Just when your years were best,
You're called from the work of sorrow,
To a home of eternal rest.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF HOWare Newbanks Jr., who passed away March 16, 1953.
God called you home to heaven,
When you were so very young;
But we know that we can see you,

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MIchael David Overbaugh, who passed away March 17, 1953.
It was St. Patricks Day in the morning,
That Jesus in His loving arms;
Took little Mike away.
The vision of his little smile,
Shall never, never die.
While he plays in God's beautiful garden,
Sadly missed by Mom and Daddy.

Judy Garland Sues Network for Libel

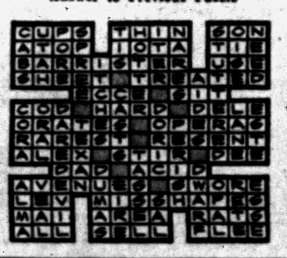

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Judy Garland has filed a $1,393,333 breach of contract and libel suit against the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Miss Garland's action, filed yesterday in Federal Court, said that on Jan. 9 CBS authorized and induced publication of "false and defamatory matter" concerning her in newspapers and other publications.

CBS said it had no comment on the suit.

Plane Crash-Lands

ALLEGAN (AP)—Civil Air Patrol pilot Herschel Martin and his passenger, Earl Loomis, escaped injury Thursday when their plane capsized in a landing at Allegan after they had taken part in a Southwestern Michigan search for a missing aircraft. Martin blamed a sudden gust of wind for the mishap. Damage to his craft was reported minor.
