Prison Treatment Vicious, Says Sgt. Martin Strahan

M.Sgt. Martin A. Strahan, 33, of Pontiac, the first American soldier captured in the Korean War, returned to the United States for the first time in seven years recently, after spending 37 months and 24 days in Red prison camps.

Captured July 5, 1950, the first day American troops entered the Korean conflict, Sgt. Strahan told of death marches and inhumane treatment heaped on unlucky captives.

Word of his release was received by his mother, Mrs. William Larson, of 566 Lenox St., on Aug. 29. After a recuperation leave he will return to Ft. Sheridan, Ill., for active duty on Oct. 25.

Sgt. Strahan said he will ask for reassignment to Korea to rejoin his old outfit, Baker Company of the 24th Division.

His last visit to the United States was in December 1945, when he returned from the European battlefields of World War II. In October 1946, he was sent to Japan for occupation duty and stayed there until shipped to Korea in July 1950.

"I was the first American captured—it was during the battle at Osan — and before the battle was over 18 more men from my company were captured too."

"We were bound together and forced to march to Seoul where we shipped by rail to Pyongyang. During the first march we were taken through small villages and exhibited to natives who spat at us and kicked us as we shuffled through the streets.

"At Pyongyang we were thrown in with a group of civilians from many European countries, plus other GIs and four French nuns.

"On Oct. 31, 1950 we were turned over to the Korean 'Gestapo' headed by the infamous North Korean sadist, 'The Tiger.'

"We began another march at this time and on the first day

Stassen Likely as Labor Head

Foreign Aid Director Almost Sure to Take Durkin's Former Job

WASHINGTON (UP)—The decision was all but final at the White House today to make Harold E. Stassen secretary of labor.

There was no firm word on when the appointment would be announced. There could be some delay.

He would succeed President Martin P. Durkin of the AFL Plumbers Union. Durkin left the Cabinet complaining that President Eisenhower broke a promise in a dispute over amendment of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Stassen's present job, as director of the Foreign Operations Administration which channels United States aid abroad, is nearing an end. FOA is tabbed to go out of business June 30, 1954.

Enough top members of Congress have announced their determination to stop the flow of economic aid funds to enable the agency to begin now to plan confidently for its own funeral.

Stassen was useful to the Republican Party and the presidential ticket in the 1952 campaign as liaison with labor, notably the AFL. Eisenhower found him useful as a member of the administration when it took office.

The President calls Stassen a "team player," and barring some obstacle not now in sight, Stassen will be in the Cabinet some months before FOA folds.

Truman Will Speak in St. Louis Tonight

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman speaks here tonight and has announced he will have something to day about the domestic policies of the Eisenhower administration.

The occasion is a dinner in Truman's honor at which he will receive the $1,000 annual award from the Sidney Hillman Foundation for meritorious public service.

A delayed broadcast of the speech will be carried by the ABC radio network starting at 10:30 p. m. (CST).

12 Federal Reserve Banks Supplied Bills for Ransom

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP) — Money had to be obtained from 12 Federal Reserve Banks to amass the $600,000 in $10 and $20 bills demanded as ransom in the Bobby Greenlease kidnaping.

It took 80 persons working overtime to count the money and assemble it for delivery in an Army duffle bag to the kidnapers.

Arthur B. Eisenhower, vice president of the Commerce Trust Company here, told a press conference Wednesday night how the anxious father of the kidnaped boy arranged to meet the ransom demand.

Eisenhower, brother of the President, disclosed that the FBI entered the case "almost immediately" and federal agents stood by in his bank while the money was counted. He refused to say whether serial numbers of the bills were recorded in an effort to trap the kidnapers.

Robert Greenlease, the boy's father, went to see Eisenhower at the bank the morning of Sept. 29 with Robert Ledterman, his business partner. That was just 24 hours after the kidnaping.

Eisenhower said Ledterman, who did most of the talking, asked if the bank had $600,000 in cash.

"I said 'Yes'," Eisenhower told reporters. "We have much more than that."

"We mean in 10s and 20s," Eisenhower quoted Ledterman.

"I replied 'no', since that had to come from 12 federal reserve banks, not necessarily in equal amount," Eisenhower said. The money was obtained that afternoon, and at 9:30 a. m. the next day, Wednesday, Sept. 30, it was ready.

Eisenhower said 80 persons

U. S. to Defend Indian Guards

Protection Is Promised if South Korea Tries to Free POWs

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—U. S. and other U. N. troops will defend Indian guards and other members of the Neutral Repatriation Commission in Korea if South Korea unleashes troops against the neutrals, a U. S. spokesman emphasized today.

The Korean armistice agreement signed by both the U. N. Allies and the Communists guarantees that, an American delegation source stressed.

He pointed to the agreement's provision that the commanders of both sides "shall afford full protection and all possible assistance and cooperation to the Military Armistice Commission, its joint observer teams, the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission, and its neutral nations inspection teams."

Assurances that the United States would live up to the agreement signed by Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr. for the U. N. Command last July 27 were understood to have been repeated to Indian and other delegates here since the Indians in the field have protested South Korean threats to attack their guards and to free prisoners awaiting repatriation questioning.

A delegation spokesman denied, however, that Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief American delegate, had discussed such specific assurances with Assembly President Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, sister of India's Prime Minister Nehru. A spokesman for Mrs. Pandit made a similar denial.

Lodge had "no comment" to questions about Nehru's cabled protests to President Eisenhower.

British and U. S. Trying to Stop Tito-Rome Feud

Yugoslavia Is Expected to Protest Transfer of Occupied Zone

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Britain jointly announced today they will turn over their occupation zone in the Trieste area to the Italian government for administration "at the earliest practicable date."

This decision was disclosed as a step to halt the "recent deterioration in the relations between Italy and Yugoslavia." Both countries claim the entire free territory of Trieste.

American and British troops have occupied Zone A, including the city and port of Trieste, for nearly eight years. At present some 4,000 American and 3,000 British troops garrison the area. Yugoslavia occupies the remainder of the area, known as Zone B.

The British and American troops will be withdrawn, the announcement of the decision said.

"It is the firm belief of the two governments that this step will contribute to stabilization of a situation which has disturbed the Italo-Yugoslav relations during recent years," the State Department said.

"They trust that it will provide the basis for friendly and fruitful cooperative between Italy and Yugoslavia, which is as important to the security of Western Europe as it is to the two countries concerned."

A State Department spokesman said the American-British decision has been communicated to both the Italian and Yugislavia governments. He declined to report what reaction came from Marshal Tito's government which can be expected to oppose the transfer to Italy.

Sunny and Warm Weather Forecast for Pontiac Area

The U. S. Weather Bureau predicts sunny and warmer weather for the Pontiac area tonight and Friday. The low of 40 to 44 tonight is expected to give way to a high of from 65 to 70 degrees tomorrow.

Police Arrest Pontiac Man in Tennessee Bank Holdup

ENVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A bank holdup man identified as Milburn Weatherington, 42, of Pontiac, Mich., was held by police today after a daring bank cashier disarmed him with his bare hands.

James H. Frazier, 48-year-old cashier of the Bank of Enville, which had been held up three times in 14 years, leaped on the gunman's back Wednesday when he demanded all the bank's money.

The two men struggled to the front door, then rolled down the steps of the bank into the street. There Frazier overpowered and disarmed the man just as town marshal Luther Emerson arrived.

Frazier jumped upon the holdup man when he walked into the bank and ordered Frazier's wife, an assistant cashier, to put all the money into a paper sack.

Deputy Sheriff R. T. Condor said another man, W. H. Middleton, about 55, of Reagan, Tenn., was taken into custody as he sat in an automobile across the street from the bank.

Both were taken to nearby Henderson to await the arrival of FBI agents. Weatherington first identified himself as being from Lexington, Tenn.

(Weatherington's daughter-in-law who lives in Pontiac said he stayed at a rooming house on North Saginaw street, but left Pontiac about a month ago. A check of the rooming house failed to turn up anyone who registered there by that name.)

Prods Commies to Hasten Talks

U. S. Note Asks China and Korea to Say When Parley Will Be Held

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States sharply prodded Red China and North Korea today to say whether and when they will be prepared to enter a political conference on Korea.

A message dispatched through the Swedish government told the Reds that an early reply from both "is imperative" if the conference recommended in the Korean armistice agreement is to take place in the time set in the armistice agreement.

The United States note was released here by the State Department and it informed the Reds bluntly and officially that efforts to have the U. N. General Assembly reconsider its decision against including neutral nations in the conference had been rejected, so that arrangements previously approved for a conference of the two belligerent sides stand firm.

"Our side," the United States said, "is prepared to negotiate in all reasonableness and good faith."

Rumor Places John Marsh in This Locality

From AP & UP Dispatches

DETROIT — All of Michigan was alerted today for the possibility that ex-convict John Thomas Marsh, wanted in the Bobby Greenlease kidnap-slaying, might be in the state.

State Police and other law enforcement agencies acted on two tips.

One was from Indiana State Police that a man resembling Marsh was seen aboard a Greyhound bus en route into Michigan from South Bend, Ind.

At the same time a man of similar appearance was reported seen in Detroit at 5 a. m. in an automobile with Missouri license plates.

Police stopped and searched one Greyhound bus at Coldwater and another at Paw Paw. The wanted man was aboard neither, however.

The Detroit report came to police from Robert Barbour, 28, of Lincoln Park.

Barbour said he saw a man resembling a television picture of Marsh in a green 1953 Chrysler sedan with the Missouri license plate number S-56-660.

Barbour said he saw the car at Eight Mile Rd and Woodward Ave. and that he trailed it along Eight Mile to Southfield Rd. He then made his report to the Schaefer Precinct Police Station.

The man, about 35 years old, wore a visored brown hunting cap and brown jacket or heavy shirt, Barbour said. He weighed about 175 to 180 pounds, Barbour said.

Marsh, who has served time for molesting children, was accused by the man who engineered the kidnaping — after two years of planning the crime — as the triggerman who put a bullet through the six-year-old child's head.

But a high-ranking police official in St. Louis said it was "an even bet" that Marsh's accuser, Carl Austin Hall, 37, spendthrift son of a Kansas attorney, did the shooting himself.

Hall and his plump girl friend, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, 41, were being held in a St. Louis jail in lieu of $100,000 bail after being arraigned on a federal charge of extorting $600,000 — by far the largest kidnap ransom in history — from the child's 71-year-old millionaire father, Robert Greenlease.

They faced first degree murder charges in St. Joseph, Mo., where Bobby's brutally beaten body was found Wednesday in a lime-lined grave behind a honeysuckle hedge at Mrs. Heady's home.

They were to be moved to Kansas City, scene of the extortion, as soon as papers could be made out. The St. Joseph arraignment was set tentatively for Monday.

A convicted murderer in Missouri faces a maximum penalty of death in the gas chamber. The charges against the two in St. Joseph included kidnaping. Missouri has a law which carries the death penalty for kidnaping for ransom.

Gov. Phil M. Donnelly said he would investigate the circumstances of Hall's parole from the Missouri Penitentiary April 24 after serving only 15 months of a five-year term for armed robbery.

The governor said he would look for "irregularities." He added, however, that at this time he did not have any reason to believe Hall was released prematurely.

Also being held as a material witness, at the request of the FBI, in a private cell here, was Sandra O Day, 22, a 168-pound blonde. The FBI imposed secrecy; only federal officials could see her.

Lindbergh, Greenlease Cases Show Striking Parallels

NEW YORK (AP) — Did the kidnaper of little Bobby Greenlease pattern his crime after the famed Lindbergh kidnaping case?

Or is it coincidence that the story of this latest tragedy reads much like the 21-year-odd but often retold story of the kidnaping and death of baby Charles A. Lindbergh Jr?

Yesterday's discovery—that 6-year-old Bobby's body had been in its shallow grave all the while the hopeful family negotiated with the kidnapers and paid a huge ransom—struck the nation with a terrible sense of familiarity.

It was familiar to all who remembered the day in March 1932, when the nation learned that the baby son of the famous aviator, sought for two months and ransomed in vain, had been dead all along.

But, besides that essential similarity, the two cases had other things in common.

After the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby from his Hopewell, N. J., home, on March 1, 1932, the distraught parents forestalled any official hunt for the kidnapers, hoping to get the baby back safe by a secret ransom rendezvous.

The kidnapers had left a note on the window sill of the baby's room, demanding $50,000 ransom. When Lindbergh enlisted John F. Condon, a college teacher, to act as his intermediary, the kidnaper sent a series of letters to Condon and talked to him by telephone.

(Bobby Greenlease's confessed kidnaper, Carl Austin Hall, said he contacted the family four or five times, twice by letter.)

To prove that he had the Lindbergh child, and was not posing as the kidnaper to extort money from Lindbergh, the kidnaper mailed in a brown paper parcel containing a child's sleeping suit. The Lindberghs believed it was the suit worn by their baby when he was kidnaped, and decided to go through with the ransom deal.

(Hall sent a school pin of Bobby's in his second letter to prove he was the kidnaper.)

Condon's first meeting with the supposed kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby was in a New York cemetery. There the arrangements for the handing over of the money were made.

(Hall said he first made personal contact with the family's representative on a lonely dirt road outside Kansas City.)

(Hall specified 10s and 20s.)

Probe Alleged Post Office Irregularities

Official Accused of Inefficiency

Birmingham Postmaster Denies Charges; Fails to Receive Official Notice

From AP Dispatches and Birmingham Bureau

The Post Office Department in Washington said today it is investigating to determine whether there have been irregularities in the operation of the suburban Birmingham Post Office.

Congressman George A. Dondero (R-Mich) said earlier today Postmaster Bernard E. Fowler had been removed because of "postmaster irregularities."

Fowler's removal was denied in Washington by Norman R. Grant, director of the department's division of postmasters.

He declined information on the status of the investigation, saying it is against the department's policy to comment while such an investigation is pending.

Dondero said he was informed of the action in a letter from N. R. Abrams, assistant postmaster general, in Washington.

Fowler said today that he had received no official word of his removal and denied knowledge of any irregularities.

Abrams did not list the alleged irregularities charged to Fowler, postmaster of Birmingham since 1948.

A spokesman for Dondero later told the Pontiac Press that the 'irregularities' were instances of inefficiency in administering the office, and involved no shortages of postal funds. The spokesman quoted postal authorities as saying 11 of the incidents were uncorrected after they were called to Fowler's attention by postal inspectors.

The letter stated an investigation had disclosed "17 irregularities, 11 of which have been checked at previous inspections and had not been corrected."

Abrams said Fowler's supervision of the Birmingham post office had been "inadequate."

Dondero was instructed not to make public his recommendation for an acting postmaster until an investigation could be made of the applicant's qualifications.

Fowler, who said he was named to the office in 1948 by former President Harry S. Truman after placing at the top in a competitive examination, said he had heard nothing official about being removed.

"If it's true," he said, "it's a dirty rotten trick."

Fowler said, "I know nothing of any irregularities."

A U. S. postal inspector in Detroit, who withheld his name, said he has received no official notification of Fowler's removal.

Fowler said that three of his supervisors were placed on probation by the Post Office Department June 12 "for minor irregularities." He said one of them resigned immediately after the probation ruling.

"These men and myself are being held responsible for minor errors committed by green employes," said Fowler. "The reason for the 11 irregularities is because new employes make the same mistakes other new employes made at earlier inspections.

He said low pay causes a large turnover and new employes are on some of the jobs all the time.

BERNARD E. FOWLER

Hunt Third Person in Kidnaping Case

Tuesday night found $293,992 in his hotel suite. He said she took the rest while he slept.

Later he said he gave her $1,000 and told her to leave for California and "mail a letter to a man in St. Joseph." A third version was that he gave her $2,000 or $3,000 but that it might have been more because he was too drunk to know.

The O'Day woman left St. Louis hurriedly Tuesday morning. She was arrested here, and the FBI drew a veil of secrecy about her.

As the St. Louis police turned Hall and Mrs. Heady over to federal authorities there, they pointed to discrepancies in Hall's story.

A high police official there said it could be assumed Hall had been in fear the boy would be found in his hands and added, "We think it's an even bet that he and the woman carried out the kidnaping and murder themselves."

The same official said it was the "consensus of the department" that Hall and Mrs. Heady had the remainder of the money hidden somewhere.

The huge kidnap sum had been hastily gathered together from Federal Reserve banks by Arthur B. Eisenhower, Kansas City banker and brother of President Eisenhower, within two days after Bobby was spirited from an exclusive day school Sept. 28.

At the behest of the frantic father, Eisenhower, vice president of the Commerce Trust Co., one of the city's largest banks, procured 40,000 pieces of money — $200,000 in 10-dollar bills and $400,000 in 20s.

As the kidnaper had requested, they were placed in two canvas bags, the 10s in one and the 20s in another. As directed, the whole sum then was put into an Army duffle bag, making a currency package weighing 85 pounds.

Two business associates of Greenlease, who had maintained contact with Hall by telephone and letter while the police stayed out of the case in hopes of getting Bobby back safely, staged a cloak-and-dagger delivery of the ransom.

They dumped the money off at a bridge on a country road about a mile off U.S. highway 40 near Kansas City. The bag dropped 40 feet into a perfect hiding place in a heavily wooded section.

The nearest farm house is an eighth of a mile from the bridge. Hall picked up the ransom in the dark hours of Monday morning.

Today, the distraught parents faced the tragic task of identifying the clothes of their son. The garments were to be brought here from St. Joseph—the small shoes, shorts, socks, shirt and trousers.

Funeral services for Bobby will be held at St. Agnes Catholic Church here Friday morning.

Wednesday, as the news broke of the tragic end of the most horrible kidnaping and murder since that of the infant Charles A. Lindberg Jr. 21 years ago, Bobby's little schoolmates were in the chapel praying for him.

The day—the feast of the Most Holy Rosary in the Catholic Church—had been designated as a day of special prayer for Bobby in the French Institute of Notre Dame de Sion.

It was when the examination of the body was made that it was disclosed that Bobby, slain the same day—a week ago Monday—that Mrs. Heady had lured him from the school by a ruse, had been beaten.

His abductors struck him in the mouth before they shot him through the back of the head and buried him in the shallow grave, over which they planted flowers.

A coroner said two of the child's lower teeth were knocked out, a third loosened, and both lips cut.

Hall's story was that all of this was none of his doing—that he planned the kidnaping, duped Mrs. Heady into posing as the boy's aunt by telling her the child actually was his, and turned him over to Marsh for the trip to St. Joseph. When he arrived there, Hall said, he found the child dead.

He said he buried the boy and brought the murder weapon, a snubnosed revolver which was found in his hotel room, to St. Louis with him on the motor trip to pick up the ransom.

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM — Two doctors have been appointed by the Birmingham Board of Education to examine the injuries of a Royal Oak dentist who is bringing suit for $200,000 following a collapse of bleachers at a Birmingham high school football game Nov. 25, 1948.

The Michigan Supreme Court declined to rule on an appeal of the Oakland County Circuit Court's refusal to dismiss the suit, but no court date has been set yet for the actual hearing.

Of interest to school boards throughout the state is the traditional immunity of schools from such liability.

Dr. George Raynale of Grace Hospital, Detroit, and Dr. Robert Bannow, of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital will study the injury of Royal Oak dentist Maurice Richards.

Dr. Richards claims the bleacher collapse permanently injured his left knee and leg.

Supt. of Schools Dr. Dwight B. Ireland has stated that if the courts deny the traditional school immunity, the schools would have to either buy insurance, or curtail their activities to prevent such liabilities.

The Birmingham School Board is also conducting an audit which will show, they say, the school district does not make a profit on the football games, but takes a loss.

They have also secured the testimony of five other schools regarding the setup of bleachers, and types of sod beneath them.

Have You Tried to Play 'Taotl?'

PARIS (NEA) — "Taotl" is the strange name of the very latest card game which has taken Paris by storm.

The bright young things over on the Left Bank who invariably follow the latest craze now say canasta is "old hat" and far less exciting.

"Taotl" originated in Mexico. It is played with 72 slightly hideous cards. Without going into the complexities of the game, which can be played by two, three or four, the illustrations are drawn from Aztec tombs, with numerous gods and kings.

The gods represented are the masters, and a very minor god can defeat an important king.

Popular Jimenez O'Farrell, Mexican envoy to Paris, who plays a "wicked" game, is now known as the "Taotl Ambassador" to his friends.

Bridge addicts are reported not a bit worried but gin rummy fans have long since given up the fight, for "Taotling" has spread to the smart Mediterranean and Atlantic coast resorts.

California ranks first in national forests with more than 25 million acres. Idaho, Alaska, Montana and Oregon follow in that order.

About 96 per cent of the population of Great Britain was born in the United Kingdom.

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1953

Benefactor of Mankind

It is a tragedy of our complex society that some of the men who make the greatest contributions to human welfare remain almost unknown until they die.

In that group unquestionably is Dr. Edwin J. Cohn, Harvard's eminent director of physical chemistry. Had he been as outstanding in politics, entertainment or sports as he was in pure science, his death at 60 would have been front page news.

Back in World War I Dr. Cohn was the leader in developing the use of blood plasma for the treatment of shock. His work in this field alone is credited with saving tens of thousands of lives.

Among his latest research work is that which led to the use of gamma globulin to combat the crippling effects of paralytic polio. In addition his basic research gave the medical profession liver extract, thrombin and several other important blood fractions.

Before his death he had completed work on a portable blood fractionator. This machine collects blood directly from a donor and processes it automatically into component parts in separate containers.

At Harvard Dr. Cohn received the highest honors the university could confer and his greatness was recognized by the Army Medical Corps. One of his World War I colleagues predicted that his discoveries eventually would save more lives than war has destroyed.

In the fullest sense of the term Dr. Cohn's death is a heavy loss to the entire human family.

Why Leaves Turn Red

Don't blame us for exploding that age old belief that sole credit for the beautiful coloring of autumn leaves belongs to Jack Frost.

The guilty party is one Prof. Samuel L. Meyer, who has made a scientific study of the subject in the Great Smoky Mountains of Tennessee and North Carolina.

His finding is that the absence of chlorophyll is the secret of the annual riot of color in the woodlands. Jack Frost has nothing to do with it. In fact, frost ruins the whole effect if it comes early and heavy enough. The result is premature brownness and early falling of the leaves.

"When the leaves begin to take on eye catching hues it is a sign," the professor says, "that the green chlorophyll pigments have started to disintegrate faster than they are formed. This permits the other pigments, red, orange, yellow and purple to show."

The reverse is the case during the summer months. Then all colors except green are subordinated by the predominance of the chlorophyll pigments. Prolonged dry weather causes the chlorophyll to disintegrate earlier and may influence the peak of the color season by as much as 10 days.

Bagasse Inquiry Needed

The current shortage and high price of newsprint has raised the question of whether sugar cane waste, known as bagasse, could be used as a substitute for wood pulp.

Cuba, where sugar cane fields produce a large quantity of this waste material, is anxious to determine its commercial possibilities.

Some months ago the Cuban government asked our Department of Commerce for loan of the services of Jesse J. Friedman, a bagasse expert. For months, according to Washington talk, Havana got no answer. When an answer finally was sent, the department said Dr. Friedman could not be spared even though he was wanted for only three weeks and at no cost to us.

In answer to a second request, the department suggested the alternate names. Since then nothing has happened except rumors that newsprint manufacturers, fearing competition, persuaded the department not to lend Dr. Friedman.

A request from Senator Kefauver for a report on the whole matter has revealed that it was Craig R. Scheaffer, former Assistant Secretary of Commerce, who turned down the Cuban request. Also revealed is that the House Judiciary Subcommittee believes that "bagasse, as a source of newsprint meets all the requirements for commercial development."

★ ★ ★

The Department of Commerce should lose no time in correcting what seems to have been a mistake by Mr. Scheaffer. Anything that promises to increase the supply of newsprint, cut the price and conserve forest resources is worth exhaustive investigation.

The announcement by that Holly is to adopt voting machines brings up the fact that it was one of the first places in Michigan to make an effort to get away from the paper ballot system. When such machines first came out over 50 years ago, Holly bought two. They were very crude affairs, and lacked most of the error-proof features of the present day machines. After using them for a few years around the turn of the century, Holly went back to the printed ballot.

The 450 still remaining in the Man About Town football contest divide their predictions on Friday evening's game: Flint Central, 303; Pontiac High, 136; tie game, 11.

B. J. Edwards Says Humane Education Aims Primarily at Helping Children

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature).

"Humane education is the awakening and fostering, particularly in the mind of the child, of those principles of justice, fair play, and kindness toward every form of life, capable of suffering without which there can be no character worthy of citizenship in a free state."

Many think humane education is simply in the interests of animals. We, of course, agree that through humane education we intend to stop all forms of cruelty both to human beings and lower animals, however, we seek the child's welfore primarily.

The true aim of education is to help children learn that unnecessary suffering and cruelty are degrading to one's character. Humane education should be part of the total elementary school program, correlated with most subjects of the curriculum.

Michigan has a compulsory humane education law.

Humane education organizations and animal welfare societies disagree over the importance of humane education. Humane education organizations contend that the shelter and humane officer are secondary in importance; that if gross cruelties are ever halted it will be due to the humane educators.

There is only one humane education organization in Michigan. We need volunteer workers. If you can spare a little time, call Mrs. Ann Francis, FEderal 4-6223.

Reader Urges an End to Dogmatic Disputes

Religion is, or should be, a highly personal matter, and should not become a subject of controversy in the columns of a secular newspaper.

Ignorance, intolerance, and bad taste are shown by the contributors to this column who call public attention to dogmatic disputes and doctrinal differences.

The editor is guilty of bad taste, at least, in publishing letters which fan the fires of religious bigotry and/ or offend the intelligence of non-believers.

Editor's Note—The Press agrees with the above. Therefore no more letters based on religious dogma will be published.

Administration's Planning on H-Defense Tough to Make but Appallingly Important

By CHARLES F. BARRETT

WASHINGTON (AP) — For weeks the big question in official Washington has been what to do about defense against Russian atomic bombs, both conventional and hydrogen.

The answer holds the key to taxes, the budget, the national economy, possibly even life itself.

* * *

* * *

Secretary of Defense Wilson, who next to President Eisenhower is most directly responsible, and presumably the best informed, told a news conference about it Tuesday.

He said the administration plans no new all-out, multibillion-dollar air defense system from the frozen arctic to home soil, as some have proposed.

* * *

Instead, he outlined a buildup in continental air defenses costing something like an additional 500 million dollars next year.

* * *

Why? Are we leaving our homes and factories inadequately guarded against a frightfully real and present danger?

No, Wilson says.

He said he doesn't think Russia will have the bombs and planes to launch sustained atomic warfare for about three more years. The United States now is three years ahead of Russia, he said.

In short, he said he doesn't think Russia will start a war when all the evidence shows she would lose.

But if war should come, would any amount of effort and expenditure really guarantee an invulnerable defense?

* * *

Their theory is that the hydrogen bomb potentially is so destructive, so terrible, there is no defense—except peace.

* * *

The defense system mapped out by some scientists calls for tiers of radar warning networks, guided missiles and interceptor fighter planes, to subject any enemy bombers to constant attacks for hundreds of miles before they even reach the United States.

Estimates of the cost range from 30 to more than 90 billion dollars, over a period of years.

Some scientists believe a maximum system could knock out 85 to 95 per cent of invading planes.

* * *

Here are some of the factors military officials have weighed against this approach:

1. Many of the proposed devices and weapons are not perfected yet, or have not been tested. Some military officials voice doubts about claims of an 85 to 95 per cent knockout of a raiding force.

2. But even if only 5 to 15 per cent of invaders get through, the devastation could be appalling. If they hit key spots, they might be enough to cripple any sustained U. S. war effort.

3. And even if the United States were relatively impregnable, what about the rest of the free world? Certainly Western Europe, Asia, Africa and South America cannot build such systems. The United States does not want to be left alone, surrounded by an aerial Maginot Line.

4. The system would be designed for defense against existing or foreseeable jet bombers. But by the time the system was completed, these bombers might be obsolete, and a greater threat then might be from huge guided missiles, submarines or other weapons.

* * *

5. The tremendous economic effort required for such a relatively stationary defense system would drain away funds from U. S. retaliatory striking power and development of new offensive weapons. And it would threaten vast deficits, rapid inflation and economic controls.

On the other side, supporters of an all-out continental defense say no effort, no expense is too great to provide all the protection available. As vast as the program seems, they argue, the danger is so great and so frightful the nation can do nothing less.

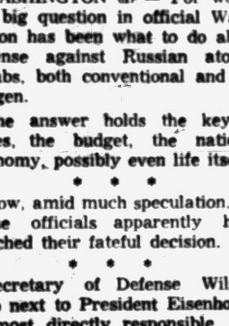

* * *

Thus the administration decision still could be upset by Congress.

* * *

Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) chairman of the Senate - House Atomic Energy Committee, has said if the people knew what he knows, they would forget about balancing the budget and lower taxes and would be willing to pay 10 billion dollars more a year to improve air defense.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Says 'Help' Works Magic When at Loss for Words

Are you a Silas Marner with words? Do you hoard your vocabulary? Don't do so: Good words should be used, for that's what starts friendships. Then you can sell your religion and other ideals, too. But you must sell your own personality first.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case J-310: Yesterday I was explaining the technique by which young people can start conversations and win friends.

You may recall that I had urged Sarah to smile first when her companion happened to meet her gaze.

Then, if he failed to break the ice and say anything, she could tactfuly let a magazine slip off her lap upon the floor.

If he is worth cultivating at all, he'll try to retrieve it.

With another smile, she should say, "Thank you. You are very gallant."

To fade out with a question is a neat way to bring your companion back into the dialogue.

It's a pleasure to meet such a considerate boy as you are," Sarah can say sincerely. Then, with a questioning inflection she can conclude:

"You must have a fine mother, to be so thoughtful?"

Many people unintentionally are verbal Silas Marners. They hoard words instead of using them to produce friendships.

That's often due to timidity, plus lack of a surefire formula or technique.

So please remember that winning friends usually involves gay, effortless conversation.

But at the beginning, your dialogue may require conscious effort. Only after you get the conversational machinery up to high speed will it roll of its own momentum.

Moreover, if an awkward pause intrudes later on and begins to make the machinery 'drag' so that it threatens to stall the motor then think of the magic word "H-E-L-P."

Each letter thereof stands for a broad field of conversation. For example, the "H" stands for "Hobbies." Deftly probe around till you find whether he is a baseball enthusiast or a hockey fan.

"If this "H" category runs low, then you can shift to the "E," which indicates "entertainment." This may range from movies to opera, the legitimate stage, or TV, radio, athletics, etc.

Then you can move onward to the "L" letter in your key word, which represents "Literature." This includes comic books and detective stories, as well as poetry, Shakespeare and the Bible.

As a last resort, you still have the "P" which covers "Politics" in the broad sense. That means you can ask your companion for his opinion as to the likelihood of a third world war, as well as whether he believes in Universal Military Training, etc.

Obviously, too, you don't need to follow this "H-E-L-P" formula in that precise order. You can start with "P" if that comes naturally. Or launch your dialogue with any of the middle letters.

But it is very reassuring when your mind goes blank and you feel like crying out "H-E-L-P" to use that very word itself as the memory scheme for furnishing dozens of new conversational topics.

And in between times, always size-up your companion again for some evident virtue. Then pay him a personal compliment thereon to break pauses.

As you thus make conversation easy and thereby inflate his ego with judicious bits of praise, you will win his friendship.

Then you can try to win his acceptance of your views of religion. But unless you first have his admiration and friendship, he will not pay much attention to actual pearls of religious wisdom that may fall from your lips.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3 cent stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover printing and typing costs when you send for one of his psychological charts.)

Baering Down

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER
(International News Service)

Ike votes for rain.

In addition to guessing it, the government weather bureau is going to manufacture it.

They're going to make the Gulf Stream a better offer.

Mr. Eisenhower signed a bill making weather compulsory.

It creates an advisory committee on climate control. You can soon expect to see clouds being picketed.

The rainmakers of America have been successful in keeping frogs contented and turtles happy. New York city paid a rainmaker ten thousand dollars a day to tease the horizon.

In ten days the reservoirs were loaded to the plimsoll mark. Then he forgot how to turn it off. It cost the city $678,000,000,000,000 to build new reservoirs.

Before the rain stopped ducks were walking on stilts and there were fins on artichokes.

Brady Tells Story of Woman Who Diets but Takes Iodin Ration to Supplement

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

I weighed 228 pounds when I was 12 years old (says Mrs. John Doe, and I can't imagine a lady lying about such a thing) and at the age of 35 I weighed (quiet, please, this isn't funny) 300 pounds and started reducing.

After losing about 150 pounds I had the durndest "growing pains", or maybe I should say shrinking pains and cramps.

My physician prescribed the Iodin Ration. That was seven years ago. It has been a daily habit with me ever since, and I wouldn't miss it for anything.

I'm 43 years old now and I look, feel and act like a smart 30. Got a job recently where they have a 35-year-age limit, with no questions asked. Good for me, huh? And orchids for your Iodin Ration, Doctor. (Signed, Mrs.—)

* * *

This is as maddening to me as it is to you plump ones. In the handling of the mail we look first at the signature. If that is lacking or unsatisfactory in any way the letter goes unread into the chucker.

Mrs. Doe's letter bore her signature, all right, but, irksome to discover, not her address, and of course the postmark on the envelope was lost when the envelope was tossed into the chucker.

So we'll never know what reducing regime Mrs. Doe followed or how long it took to reduce 150 pounds, unless perchance she sees this piece and, like the good sport I'm sure she is, writes again to supply these facts.

For how can I send her with my compliments A Lot of Little Lessons in the Ways of Health (23 volumes) if I do not know her address?

Anyway the lady's Iodin Ration testimonial is in line with I dare not say how many others lest some of you victims of iodin deficiency reject the whole thing as sheer quackery.

Please ponder the significance of Mrs. Doe's 15-word message, which might just as well be conveyed in eight words, thus:

I'M 43 AND LOOK, FEEL AND ACT 30

Allowing for the usual dash of flattery — you know, "you don't look a day over the way you looked 20 years ago"—Mrs. Doe has kept her report within the bounds of probability.

Obviously she sought no reward or compensation, since she did not give her address.

Mrs. Doe does not say her hair has regained some of the pristine life and color it had lost, but a good many men and women have assured me that the Iodin Ration has restored life and color to their graying hair.

I haven't observed this, but I'm willing to concede that everything looks rosier to victims of iodin deficiency who take positive steps to correct the deficiency.

And so I repeat the offer to send any reader who asks for it in writing and provides stamped, self-addressed envelope, the pamphlet The Iodin Ration.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Less Drinking Reported

DES MOINES, Ia. (AP)—For some reason Iowans are drinking less liquor this year than they did in 1952. Sales at the state monopoly stores — the only places where liquor can be bought legally — show that consumption fell off 66,000 gallons in the first six months of 1953. State officials said part of the decrease may be due to a recent crackdown on taverns that were selling whisky by the drink illegally.

Experts Advice: Fix Your Fenders

CHICAGO (INS) — The family car is so often taken for granted as everyday transportation that many couples lose sight of the fact that it's the average American family's second largest investment and should be protected by constant care.

According to a committee formed by automotive industries, called the "DOOF" committee, at least 9,600,000 postwar car owners need reminding to get the "dents out of fenders."

Far too many families, say these experts, neglect the appearance of their cars, causing gradual deterioration of looks and value. So the nation's housewives are being alerted to the damage that can be caused by fender dents and scratches.

Rusting weakens metals and the longer the wait for repair work, the higher the bill.

Marines Invite Couple Misses to Join Colors

ATLANTA (AP) — The United States Marine Corps has invited Gene Van Buskirk and Arden Smith to enlist, hinting that being a Marine is better than being drafted.

But both girls, recently graduated from Atlanta's Henry Grady High School declined with thanks after receiving promotional material from the Marine Recruiters.

Arden reported she was "sort of shocked" when she saw the envelopes marked "official business" but quickly "figured it was just another case of my name being mistaken for that of a man." She said she once received an offer for a free trial of an electric razor.

Gene said she has received many letters addressed "Mr. Gene Van Buskirk," principally from colleges.

Australian Emu Hated, Admired

Giant Bird Measures Second in Size Only to the Ostrich

WASHINGTON — Hated and hunted by farmers, admired by ornithologists and crossword puzzle fans, Australia's giant bird, the emu, is a national pride and pest.

The emu is the world's second largest bird, ranking just below the ostrich. Flightless, it is unique among the island continent's 700 bird species, and it has been dignified with a place on the commonwealth's coat of arms.

Once the emu was in danger of extinction but it has staged a comeback in recent years. Today the birds are counted in the thousands in parts of Queensland, New South Wales, the Northern Territory and Western Australia.

In some sectors laws forbid their killing, but in other provinces — notably Western Australia — a 50 cent bounty is paid for each emu's beak delivered to authorities.

After vainly attempting to shoot, poison and trap the wary birds, western farmers now are trying to fence them away from wheat farms.

The birds annually invade just as crops are ripening. They eat the wheat and then trample the stalks with their great webbed feet. Losses are in the millions of dollars.

A 5-foot high, heavy wire fence is being erected at a cost of $130,000 to keep out the emus. It stretches over 135 miles and the barrier is designed to concentrate the birds in a sand plain north of the wheatlands.

The fence project is a last resort for desperate farmers. Even machine-gun attacks have failed to stop the marauders. The speedy emu, which can run as fast as 35 miles an hour, is a poor target, and bullets which meet the mark seldom penetrate the densely feathered hide.

Standing 5 to 6 feet tall, about a foot shorter than the African ostrich, and weighing some 100 pounds, the emu is a dull, dowdy-looking bird, despite a double coat of brown feathers.

The male is slightly smaller than the female. The birds inhabit open country, feeding on fruits, roots and herbage — and the golden tips of wheat stalks in season.

The emu is readily tamed and is tractable in confinement. Emu eggs seldom hatch in captivity, however. Chicks that do hatch rarely live.

Young emus are the male's responsibility. He incubates the eggs, sitting from 54 to 64 days. He takes charge of the chicks when they hatch and cares for them until they are well grown.

Eggs are green and rough-surfaced, and 6 to 16 are laid in the nest which the female scoops.

Australian natives eat the emu, but the bird is more valuable to them for the large quantities of oil found in the fat beneath the skin. Unlike ostrich feathers, emu plumage has no commercial value.

Police Told to Gasoline - - or Else

MASONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — This western Pennsylvania town is going to have bigger gasoline bills, all because some councilmen thought the police department was using too much gas already.

Councilmen objected when they learned the two patrol cars used 66 gallons of gas in 17 days. But John Nagy, the burgess, thought differently when he figured the rate of consumption was only about two gallons a day.

Nagy ordered police officers to use five or six gallons a day so the town can be patrolled adequately. He declared:

Hot Wires Wreak Havoc in Small Kentucky Town

ELKHORN CITY (AP) — Fiery gremlins skipping across power lines gave the Little Beaver Creek community a shock it will long remember. Unexplained electrical disturbances caused this havoc:

Herby Sloane's furnace caught fire from the electrical circuit and Sloane needed hospital care for burns suffered when he tried to turn off the stoker.

Luther Salyers' television set broke out in flames. He put them out, helped Sloane with his difficulties and then learned his own furnace had caught fire.

Fluorescent fires shot up around the utility pole ground wires.

Later, everything was all right, but residents were reluctant to touch anything electric for several hours.

The 112-mile stretch between Indianapolis, Indiana, and Dayton, Ohio, was the first in the United States to have painted rooftop and highway markers for air travel.

Polite Policemen Wait Until Convict Eats Meal

ROCK HILL, S. C. (UP) — Rock Hill has some of the most considerate cops in the business.

The mother of a convict who had escaped the York county chain gang called police and told them her son was at home ready to surrender.

"But please wait about 30 minutes before you come," she said. "I want to fix him some breakfast."

The cops complied. Thirty minutes later, with a full stomach, the young convict headed back to the chain gang.

It seems harmless enough when used in the family car but gasoline, completely vaporized and mixed with the right amount of air, has the explosive force of 14½ times its weight in dynamite.

Birds Put Vet Back on Road to Independence

Bill Stalcup, 29, confined to a wheelchair nine years, raises budgerigars, a breed of small parakeets.

He started last fall. The state vocational rehabilitation office designed an aviary in which Stalcup could maneuver his wheelchair. The agency gave him seven pairs of birds to get started.

Stalcup already has sold about 100 birds. He hopes to sell 1,000 birds a year. At about $10 a bird, he figures on a tidy income.

Postal Auction Offers Oddities

Bidders Compete for Dolls, Stale Cigarettes, Old Clothes

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP) —One of the oddest auctions was completed here when everything from dolls to slightly stale cigarettes went on the block—and were sold.

It was the annual postal auction and on the opening day more than 700 persons crowded into the post office and patiently awaited the opening.

Walter J. Lucett, superintendent of the dead parcel post and claims section, opened the auction.

"This is one job I don't mind," Lucett said, "because the first items to be auctioned—and the only ones I auction—are dolls. I like to watch those kids start bidding."

It was only a matter of seconds after the bidding started and small hands were waved wildly in the air when a large "mama" doll went for $4. And then in rapid-fire order others followed.

As each of the young bidders received her purchase she completely ignored the rest of the bidding and the adults took over.

Some of the people out there, said one postal employe, have been coming to these auctions for years—"if you look closely you'll see a lot of them have binoculars to tell whether or not they want to bid on an item."

Toys seemed to be the most popular item at the auction, but officials admitted they were mystified at some of the bids. A bicycle wheel brought $6; a bundle of old clothes, $3.50; a lot of hair nets went for $5, and six cartons of presumably stale cigarettes for $5.

Jesse James Gangster Wooed Woman Now 90

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP) — Miss Julia Harris, 90, is fond of telling about her encounter with the Jesse James gang in her youth and the dates she had with Bob Ford, who later killed James.

She and her sister once came upon the gang unexpectedly near the family home at Richmond, Mo., while the robbers were counting their loot, Miss Harris says.

"Jesse told us to go away," she says, "and we did."

Ford, Miss Harris adds, was a "respectable fellow" when she kept company with him.

FROM JACK'S BEANSTALK — They may not look like beans, but that's what they are. Carl Cowl of Minneapolis, Minn., grows the huge vegetables in his own garden. He got the seeds from an army officer stationed in New Guinea, and of the four seeds planted, three grew into beanstalks. The largest specimen he holds weighs about 5½ pounds and is 39 inches long. They are said to taste like a cross between bean and eggplant.

Algebraic Trick Demonstrates Two Equals One

Let's "prove" that 2 equals 1. An elementary knowledge of algebra is needed for this one.

First, you'll agree that:

Factor the left side of the equation as the difference of two squares: (A minus A) times (A plus A). Factor the right side by dividing by A: A times (A minus A).

Now divide each side of the equation by (A minus A).

This gives:

(A plus A) equals A, or

2A equals 1A.

Divide by A, giving :

2 equals 1. ! ! ! !

EXPLANATION: The fallacy here is the step where we divided each side of the equation by (A minus A). This is the equivalent of dividing by zero, which in mathematics is a meaningless operation.

Letters From Headlines Used in Gambling Game

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—A new wrinkle in gambling was revealed in Superior Court yesterday.

Police Capt. Joseph Darcy told the court he arrested a Fitchburg tavern owner for possession of alphabet discus used in a new game which he described as follows:

Pontiac Fires Near 1952 Record

Pontiac Press Photos

KEEPS CHIN UP — For each 10 of his 70 years, Harry Short chins himself once. Chuck McIlrath, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. James McIlrath of 11 N. Shirley Ave. counts the number of times Short chins himself in Pontiac Boys' Club gym while William V. Coulacos (right), club's executive director looks on.

SUPPLE AT 70 — Harry J. Short, maintenance engineer at Pontiac Boys' Club, takes time off to show youngsters what "good living and eight hours of sleep a night" can do. Ivan Arnold, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Arnold, 88 N. Tasmania St., picks up a few pointers which will help him master hand stand. Right above, Short, who is only 5 feet 4 inches tall and tips the scales at 124 pounds, shins up 20 foot rope.

Opens Library on Handicapped

Free Service Offered by Society for Crippled Children

Oakland County Society for Crippled Children today announced opening of a free library where local people may get information on the understanding and care of handicapped children.

The library, located in society headquarters at 152 W. Lawrence St., will be open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. each Friday. Books will be loaned for two-week periods, and magazines and pamphlets for one week.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kirkby, society executive secretary, said books, magazines and pamphlets now available cover 53 topics including adoption, amputees, bracing and employment of the cerebral palsied, recreation for the handicapped, toys for crippled children, and care of deaf, partially blind and epileptic youngsters.

"We hope this new service will interest and help parents, friends and relatives of the county's handicapped children," Mrs. Kirkby said. "Many of our books are entertaining, as well as educational.

"We will welcome any suggestions for adding to our stock of books, and will keep adding pamphlets as they become available."

45 Autos on Block in Police Auction

Forty-five automobiles and over 100 items will be offered for sale by Pontiac Police Department in a public auction Saturday at 2 p. m. in the Lake Street DPW yard, south of Orchard Lake avenue.

Capt. Edward H. Shigley said all items and autos are either unclaimed or confiscated property.

Sgt. Claude Hodges, property custodian, said the auction will include auto accessories and parts, tools, footware, household articles, bathroom sets, ladies' purses and miscellaneous articles.

Breweries Boost Detroit Beer Prices

DETROIT (UP) — Five Detroit breweries boosted wholesale beer prices Monday from $2.35 to $2.50 a case and from $11.73 to $12.50 a keg.

They are Pfeiffer Brewing Co., Goebel Brewing Co., Stroh Brewing Co., Altes Brewing Co., and E. & B. Brewing Co.

Industry spokesman said the increases were caused by rising labor and material costs. They said it was the first wholesale price boost in this area since early 1951.

Addition to Open

LUDINGTON (UP) — The $100,000 addition to the Paulina Stearns Hospital, built through donations of hospital service organizations and Ludington industrialists, will be open for inspection Oct. 14. The new section provides 11 more beds and has laboratories, office space, new detention room, emergency first aid rooms and X-ray rooms.

The Chief Is 63:

Circus Tent, Big Arena, Two Pageants to Help Ike Celebrate Birthday Oct. 13

By PATTI SIMMONS

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Eisenhower's birthday party on Oct. 13 is going to make anything Billy Rose ever cooked up look like a small town block party.

In showmanship, extravagent setting and entertainment, the shindig being tossed by the Pennsylvania Republican Finance Committee in Hershey, Pa., will out raz-ma-taz even the Inauguaral Ball.

Props include a circus tent pitched in a sports arena, one full-sized stadium, Fred Waring's orchestra, a birthday cake seven feet in diameter, and enough food for possibly 6,500 people.

The public, which will jam the stadium, is being invited to bring their supper with them. But the Republican bigshots from Washington and across the country will be forking out $100 a plate to nibble roast beef under the "big top" between 5 and 7:30 p. m.

It's not a plitical rally, declares Finance Committee chairman Philip T. Sharples. "We are going to help the President celebrate his 63rd birthday in typical Pennsylvania fashion, just as we would in our own home."

To date, Sharples' homelike plans call for President and Mrs. Eisenhower to enter the sports arena in a horsedrawn buggy with the Chief Executive holding the reins.

Then they will circle the stadium on a 15-foot-wide, white painted parade route. As Ike and Mamie alight and come up on the stage the multi-layered birthday cake with 63 candles will rise through a trapdoor.

At this point 700 Pennsylvania girls, each carrying a cake baked by a Pennsylvania housewife, will go through the audience dishing out ice cream and a piece of cake, complete with individual candles.

This way each of the thousands of well wishers can light up their own candle and join in on a rollicking chorus of Happy Birthday.

Ike and Mamie will sample ice cream and cake in their stadium box with Maj. and Mrs. John J. Eisenhower, the President's four brothers and Mamie's mother, Mrs. John Doud. Together they'll watch the colossal show with a chorus of 500 and a cast of 450.

Pennsylvania-born movie star James Stewart is to narrate "Song of America," a pagenat depicting dramatic episodes of American history from Columbus to Lincoln.

Golf champion Ben Hogan and pro Harry Obitz plan to keep things moving by driving hundreds of plastic and cotton golf balls into the audience. Each ball will contain a lucky number, redeemable for Pennsylvania-made prizes, including everything frm a cigarette lighter to a TV set.

Orchestra leader Waring, who's in charge of the thrill-packed show, says the governors and members of Congress have been invited to play "pin the tail on the donkey."

A second pageant will depict the American scene from Lincoln to the present day. This part of the program calls for a stirring rendition of "Battle Hymn of the Republic," "America the Beautiful" and "God Bless America."

Cabinet members have been invited as have top White House brass. Senators James Duff and Edward Martin of Pennsylvania will lead the congressional contingent. Governors who have accepted to date include Thomas Dewey of New York, John Fine of Pennsylvania, Dan Thornton of Colorado, Theodore McKeldin of Maryland and Alfred Driscoll of New Jersey.

Highlight of the evening, of course, will be Ike's extemporaneous remarks to the crowd. For the $100-gate-givers there will be a souvenir plate with the President's signature in gold.

Special trains will be running to Hershey on the party day, which incidentally, is not the President's birthday at all. It's really the next day.

A good guess is that Mamie will be throwing a little party of her own on the 14th. This one is sure to be a cozy affair for family only, with the grandchildren probably on hand to blow out the candles.

BEN HOGAN — Flying golf balls filled with lucky numbers.

JAMES STEWART — A narration from Columbus to Lincoln.

Cities Fight Delinquency Through Youth Activities

(This is the last in a series of articles on teenage crime in the United States compiled from International News Service reports from the nation's major cities.)

By FREEMAN FULBRIGHT

You ask people who deal with youngsters — policemen, social workers, recreation directors — how to stop the rising rate of juvenile crime and you get a deskful of different answers.

They range from stern warnings that child psychology is the "bunk, let's go back to using the rod" to greater use of psychology.

In between are sound proposals for getting the kids off the big city streets into clubs and supervised recreation, better housing to remove breeding grounds for juvenile delinquents, a return to fundamental teachings of honesty and fair play.

Nearly every large city in the country is doing something to combat the rise in juvenile delinquency, to prevent crimes by the young.

The cities that started such projects several years ago are reaping the benefits.

Five years ago, the New York City Youth Board was created. At the start it was given $2,350,000 by the city and state to work with.

Workers from the youth board go into neighborhoods where gangs of youths have been battling each other and the citizens in general. They try to win the confidence of gang leaders and channel the gang activities into more peaceful pursuits, like sandlot baseball, promoting dances, and the like.

In one case, a board worker did so well that he persuaded two rival gangs on the brink of a bloody street brawl to work off their steam in a boxing match between two picked representatives.

Now, says Deputy Police Commissioner James D. Nolan, head of the Juvenile Aid Bureau, juvenile delinquency is going down, and he happily predicted further decreases.

Nolan is president of the Police Athletic League (PAL) which provides clubrooms and supervised sports for kids.

Los Angeles is another good example. That city, probably the fastest growing in the nation, moved in on juvenile crime during World War II.

Los Angeles launched a deputy auxiliary police youth movement which teaches youngsters between 11 and 18 years old principles of good citizenship and gives them some police training.

The police Juvenile Department maintains six summer camps for children and also a "night patrol" which tours bowling alleys, drive-ins, pool halls to keep an eye on kids.

In Cleveland, six junior police clubs have been set up under the direction of Police Capt. Arthur Roth, head of the Juvenile Bureau.

Club members are equipped with badges, sweaters and caps. They meet once a week to discuss ways they can improve their neighborhood.

Portland, Ore., soon will have a $100,000 building to house the PAL club sponsored by the police department. The necessary cash, labor and materials were donated by interested groups.

Damage May Surpass Last Year's $255,000, Fire Chief Fears

The number of Pontiac fires so far in 1953 is alarmingly approaching the 1,500 figure of 1952, Fire Chief John F. Schroeder said today.

According to unofficial tabulation, about 1,200 fires have occurred this year. Resulting fire damage, however, has not been estimated yet.

Damage due to fires last year was recorded at $255,000 by the Pontiac Fire Department.

National statistics, Schroeder said, indicate that the nation will suffer an even greater loss this year than in 1952 when fire losses were at an all-time high.

Last year 12,535 persons lost their lives in fires and a national property loss of $896 millions was recorded.

"More people are killed by fire in their own homes than in all other types of occupancies combined," Schroeder said.

The Pontiac Chamber of Commerce fire prevention committee and the Association of Insurance Agents are cooperating with the fire department during Fire Prevention Week in a campaign to avert further losses due to fires.

Icebox Survivor Tells of 'Sleep' in Death-Trap

GRAND HAVEN (UP) — Four-year-old Lila Mae Carpenter, who twice narrowly escaped death when trapped in an old icebox, haltingly told today how she "went to sleep" when she crawled into the box with a playmate Monday.

Her playmate, Pamela Pfishner, also 4, suffocated before Lila Mae's mother, Mrs. Robert Carpenter, found the children huddled together in the big wooden refrigerator. The box was used by Lila Mae's father as a storage place in his live bait business.

"Who opened the icebox?" a reporter asked the girl.

"I did," she answered as she sat on her mother's lap.

"Pammy."

"Then you climbed in?" Lila Mae was asked.

"Yes . . . playing house."

Lila Mae then was asked if she cried and tried to push her way out after the door slammed.

"Yes," she said. "I cried and Pammy cried. Then Pammy went to sleep. I went to sleep, and Mommy woke me up."

"Where's Pammy now?" the reporter asked.

"Still asleep," the child said. "She won't wake up."

Mrs. Carpenter said the family visited the funeral home Wednesday to pay their respects to the dead neighbor girl.

GM Man on Committee

DETROIT (UP) — Stephen Dubrul, General Motors executive, has been named by Secretary of Commerce Weeks to a committee to review census bureau activities. Dr. Ralph J. Watkins, director of research for Dun and Bradstreet Inc. of New York, will head the nine-man group.

H. J. Short of Pontiac Boys' Club

Walking on Hands No Feat for Man 70-Years Young

By JOSEPH K. SFAIR

Harry J. Short, of 125 Calvert St., began walking on his hands and standing on his head when he was 60 years old.

Now — at the age of 70 — he is still demonstrating this physical skill at Boys Club where he has been maintenance engineer since the club started two years ago.

Short, who celebrated his birthday Aug. 20, explains that it all happened this way:

"Ten years ago, I showed my wife, Jessie, a picture of a man standing on his head. I told her I didn't think it was so hard for him to do because he was only 50.

"If I could stand on my head and walk on my hands, too, at 60, that would be something, I thought."

About two months later, Mrs. Short walked into the living room.

"How am I doing, Jessie?" greeted Harry from a topsy-turvy position.

"I just couldn't stop laughing when I saw that," Mrs. Short said.

Short, who looks younger than his 70 years, uses his various tricks to show youngsters at Boys Club what "good living and eight hours sleep will do for you."

He also rarely hesitates telling of younger days in Brighton, Eng., where he once won a medal for doing stunts on a horizontal bar.

Short, who also has played cricket, football and baseball, still like swimming and ice-boating.

"I've got to be doing something all the time," he says, "but mostly I like to fix clocks, that's been my hobby for a long time."

Short retired as maintenance engineer for Pontiac public schools in 1949.

Drop Medicine on Pacific Isle for Dying Man

HONOLULU (UP)—Out across the Pacific from remote Fanning Island 1,400 miles south of Honolulu, a radio transmitter crackled:

"Parcel received. Wonderful drop. Many thanks to all."

The Military Air Transport Service said it received an emergency call from Sydney, Australia, last night saying the drug cortisone was needed on Fanning within 36 hours to save the life of a man stricken with a tropical disease.

The man was identified only as an employe of Cable and Wireless, Ltd., of London.

Rotarians to Meet

JACKSON (UP) — Some 500 representatives from 36 Rotary Clubs in southern Michigan are expected at the annual conference of District 219, Rotary International, here next Sunday and Monday. Dr. Charles L. Anspach, president of Central Michigan College, will be the main speaker at the governor's banquet Monday night.

Call for Volunteers to Aid Flint Victims

A plea for skilled labor to assist with "Operation Tornado Junior" in Flint Saturday and Sunday was made in Pontiac today by Fred Haggard, president of the Oakland County CIO Council.

He asks all CIO members to volunteer for the weekend work bee in which 53 homes are to be resurrected from the ruins. Some 200 homes were rebuilt in "Operation Tornado" on Aug. 29-30.

Volunteer workers are to report to Beecher Fire Hall at Kirtz and N. Saginaw Sts. to sign up with the Flint CIO Services Committee.

Haggard said food and insurance will be supplied all volunteer workers.

Bob Considine Says:

Yale Makes Alcohol Study of College Drinking Habits

NEW YORK (INS) — Yale's Center of Alcohol Studies has been conducting a kind of kidney Kinsey since 1949, peering into the drinking habits of the American undergrad. Now is has come up with a statistic-bristling tome entitled "Drinking in College," by Professors Robert Straus, now of the College of Medicine, Syracuse, N. Y., and Selden D. Bacon, who is director of the Yale experiment.

The survey touched 17,000 students in 27 U. S. colleges. The announced purpose: To examine an age group in which U. S. drinking habits tend to take firm root. Many warning signs of problem drinkers are found in students.

Some of the findings:

Nine out of ten who drink say both their parents drink, one frequently to excess. About 75 per cent of our college students drink. Of these a little under half prefer beer, 42 per cent spirits and 11 per cent wines. Only 21 per cent of the men and 10 per cent of the women drink oftener than once a week.

The researchers found that a majority first tasted alcohol before the age of 11, and a much bigger majority is in favor of drinking, in moderation.

There is more drinking among college students than in non-college groups of similar age, but this is laid to the influence of the households which send their children on to higher education. Conclusion: More people now drink but they drink less than did the Americans of the past, and the caricature of the "Drunken Collegian" is false.

The "Booze Kinsey" is published by Yale University Press.

Apropos of National Newspaper Week, Harry Storms, of New York's press-minded "Press Box" restaurant, sends me a bit of information about a little explored phase of American life: The confederate papers during the Civil War. It is an item about the recent receipt by the editor of the Port Jervis (N.Y.) Union Gazette of a framed copy of the Vicksburg (Miss.) Daily Citizen, printed during the celebrated siege.

The editor of the Daily Citizen maintained as thin a waist line and as stout a heart as any defender of the city. When he ran out of newsprint he unearthed a supply of wallpaper and used the undecorated side as paper for his hungry presses.

As the Union armies pressed closer in the heat of summer, 1863, the Daily Citizen commented in its decorative journal:

". . . The great Ulysses — the Yankee generlisomo surnamed Grant — has expressed his intention of dining in Vicksburg on Saturday next, and celebrating the 4th of July by a grand dinner and so forth. When asked if he would invite Gen. Johnston to join, he said, 'No! For fear there will be a row at the table.' Ulysses must be into the city before he dines in it. The way to cook a rabbit is 'First catch the rabbit.' "

The Civil War was a photographer's war — Brady's — not a reporter's. Or have I missed the standard work on this fabled period?

Headline: Russia Cannot Wage H-War Until 1956 — Secretary Wilson.

That will be a pretty terrible way of breaking up the New York Yankees after what will then be their eighth consecutive pennant and Series title.

The supercarrier USS Forrestal will be the last word in electronic marvels and it is possible it may be propelled by atomic power. But a rather homey throwback to the buggy-whip and side-wheeler days will be added. Its jet and rocket planes will be launched from its wecks by catapults operated by steam.

Nippon Families Adopt 3,490 Occupation Tots

TOKYO (AP) — The Welfare Ministry says 3,490 children of mixed parentage have been turned over to the care of private families in Japan. The ministry report says the children, all were born after World War II. Another 482 children are cared for by public institutions.

The report said 2,004 children were of mixed Caucasian-Japanese extraction, 400 have Negro blood and 86 are listed in other categories.

The report said there were 2,943 children of acknowledged American paternity, 104 of Australian paternity, 35 Filipino, 23 British, 29 Russian, 14 Indian, 11 Italian and 8 Canadian.

While there are many reptiles in the West Indies, no poisonous snakes are found in the larger islands of Cuba, Jamaica, Hispaniola and Puerto Rico.

Career, Family Keep Her Busy

Songstress Had Only 2 Months Training; Is Wed to George Montgomery

HOLLYWOOD—Dinah Shore is a rare personality in the glamorous world of show business.

An immensely popular singing star with the American public, she is held in equal esteem by her fellow artists and people in the so-called "trade."

The sincerity, warmth and charm which permeate her TV and radio performances are a reflection of the real Dinah Shore. These characterisitcs, coupled with her singing voice, have made Dinah one of the nation's outstanding singing personalities.

The honey-haired, brown-eyed songstress is currently starred in two separate musical series over television and radio.

She is seen on TV Tuesdays and Thursdays and can be heard on radio Tuesdays and Fridays.

The saga of Frances Rose Shore (her real name) began in the small town of Winchester, Tenn. where she was born, and in the nearby city of Nashville where she was raised.

Dinah first began thinking of a singing career when she was attending Hume Fogg High School in Nashville. She started taking vocal lessons.

However, her extra-curricular activity as a cheer leader at the football games did not improve her voice, to say the least, and two months after the first lesson, Dinah and her singing teacher came to an amiable parting of the ways.

"That was the sum total of my formal voice instruction," Dinah says. "My original lyric soprano had changed to contralto."

In 1937, Dinah talked her father into a two-week vacation in New York and spent the entire time pounding on the doors of orchestra rehearsal halls, radio stations, record companies and booking agencies.

Her efforts were finaly rewarded with a singing "job" at a local New York radio station for "carfare money." Dinah's New sojourn ended abruptly, however, when a letter arrived from her father to return home and finish her college education.

Finally success began to come her way. She won a two-week engagement at the Strand Theater in New York. Her singing talent was brought to the attention of Xavier Cugat by a music publisher. The band leader recognized her ability before she had sung four bars.

Dianah made her first recordings with Cugat on the RCA Victor label. The success of these first records prompted RCA Victo to sign her to a regular contract as a featured artist.

George was Army-bound, but before Uncle Sam claimed him, his dates with Dinah began a romance that was climaxed with their wedding in Las Vegas, Nev., on Dec. 5, 1953.

Aside from the tremendous success of her TV series, Dinah's most notable recognition came in January 1951, when a Gallup Poll named her the nation's "favorite female vocalist" in all age groups.

At home in Beverly Hills, Calif., Dinah and George live quietly with their chief interest, daughter Melissa Ann, who is six years old.

To every young singer, Dinah offers this very sage advice: "Sing whenever you can and sing for nothing if you have the chance. You'll develop and improve your style whether you're paid or not.

"Feel every song you sing; listen to your own recordings and keep the pleasing gymnastics of your vocal chords; throw out the rest. After you've found a style that suits, you, keep working at it the remainder of your public life."

DELIGHTFUL DINAH—Lovely, honey-haired Dinah Shore returned to her accustomed spot on TV this week following her summer vacation. The Southern Thrush divides her singing time between three completely different programs on both radio and video.

Fair Officials Brighten Dying Tot's Last Days

BALTIMORE (AP)—Funeral service will be held here Saturday for John Hoffman, 4½-year-old brain cancer victim whose last days had been brightened by a pony and cart which state fair officials gave him.

John died at Sinai Hospital late Tuesday after having been admitted earlier in the day in the final stage of his illness.

It was on Sept. 12, the final day of the Timonium State Fair, that fair officials gave him the pony, which he named Punch, and a yellow cart trimmed in red. Johnny took several rides in it before his illness grew worse a little more than a week ago.

LUDINGTON (AP)—Members of the Mason County Fin and Feather club will dedicate their new $25,000 sportsmen's lodge at a dinner Oct. 14. It has been under construction two years.

All but about 20 of the Great Lakes freighters are powered by coal, according to shipping statistics.

General Clark Sees No More War in Korea

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gen. Mark Clark, Allied signer of the armistice, foresees no more shooting in Korea but continued tension in the Far East.

Preparing to end his 40-year military career—and possibly to accept a university presidency—the retiring U. N. Far East commander told newsmen on his arrival from Tokyo yesterday:

"Personally, I do not think a shooting war will start again in Korea. But I'm not too optimistic that the armistice will bring peace and stability to the Far East.

"It's up to the Communists—if they want peace, they'll get it . . . anyone who starts the fight again will bring the weight of the whole free world down on their heads."

The lanky, 57-year-old general and his wife, Maurine, will spend five or six days here before going to Washington where Clark will be retired Oct. 31.

The four-star general responded amiably to newsmen's questions:

"Politics? I have no political aspirations whatsoever . . .

"I have received some interesting offers which I'm not at liberty to discuss. I would like very much to go into education."

Ben Swig, president of the Fairmont hotel and an old friend, said Clark had been contacted about two university presidencies.

Second Child in Family Dies After Home Fire

MUSKEGON (AP)—Dewey Taylor, 14 months, has followed his baby sister Melody Ann, 1 month, in death from yesterday's apartment fire.

Dewey died last night in Hackley Hospital a few hours after the blaze which took the life of Melody Ann.

The fire broke out in the upstairs apartment while the children's mother, Mrs. B. L. Taylor, was in a downstairs apartment. A third child, John, 4, escaped.

Lays Off 600 Workers

DETROIT (AP)—The layoff of 600 Great Lakes Steel Corp. employes Wednesday was attributed to inventory adjustments and model changeovers in the auto industry, the company's biggest customer. Great Lakes, which employs 12,000, said it expects to resume normal operations in two or three weeks.

Fiorello H. LaGuardia, who served 11 years, was mayor of New York City longer than anyone else.

Board Begins Study of Plans

Two-Month Survey by Engineers Lists Mains, Treatment Plant

By AL LOWMAN
Press Suburban Editor

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — A sewage disposal system for Waterford Township took a step toward reality yesterday when Supervisor Lloyd Anderson announced that the board has begun study of a proposed plan.

Tentative plans call for a sewage treatment plant with mains to be laid initially in the eastern and southeastern sections of the township. Site for the plant was not announced.

Anderson stated that for the past two months the Pontiac engineering firm of Johnson & Anderson has been making surveys and mapping plans for the proposed system. Their findings and recommendations were presented to the board at yesterday's meeting.

As to cost of the system, Anderson said the board has not had sufficient time for study to decide on a price.

"Our next step is to meet with a finance expert to discuss methods of financing the project," Anderson said.

A meeting with Louis H. Schimmel, Pontiac financial consultant, has been scheduled tentatively for Saturday.

The supervisor stressed, however, that the entire plan hinges on how township residents will react to the proposal.

"This project had been under board consideration for some time because population growth in the township is causing a serious sewage problem, Anderson pointed out.

Population growth in the township is expected to hit 60,000 by 1960. Basis for the predicted jump was drawn from figures recorded during 1930, 1940, special 1947, and 1950 censuses. The 1950 census showed a population of 24,357.

Population density in the eastern and southeastern sections of the township was the reason cited by Anderson for decision to lay mains there first.

The eland, largest of all antelopes, is edible, having flesh that tastes very much like beef.

Need More Pupils to Open 4 Classes

CLARENCEVILLE —Insufficient number of registrations is preventing the opening of four adult evening courses, according to Stanley Irish, assistant school superintendent.

The courses are typing, shorthand, civil government and driver training.

A call to Farmington 2529 will supply further information desired regarding fees, time and place or possibility of additional subjects, Irish said.

Avon Players to Do 'Jane' With Louise Akers in Lead

ROCHESTER — "Jane", a comedy, is so new it isn't listed in play catalogues yet. In fact, Avon Players of Rochester called New York to secure it release.

So it's possible they may be the first amateur group west of Broadway to present the play Oct. 16-17 in Rochester High School.

Written by S. N. Behrman, "Jane" sparkles with witty, sophisticated dialogue. During a successful run on Broadway, Basil Rathbone and Edna Best played the lead roles. Critics gave unstinted praise for both play and performance.

Avon Players are going all out to make "Jane's "amateur appearance a professional performance with fast pacing of lines, clear-cut characterization and plenty of laughs.

Averyl Clute, who has earned a reputation for producing hit shows, is director. Assistant director is Gertrude Everhard.

The cast includes Louise Akers as Jane; Gordon Miller as William Tower; Karl Seiffert as Lord Frobisher; and Dorothy Seiffert as Millicent Tower.

Others in the cast are Sally McClelland as Ann Tower; Bill McClelland as Peter Crewe; Don Harness as Gilbert Dabney; Jerry Germaine as Wilson; and Phyllis Mitzelfeld as the maid.

Curtain time for "Jane" is 8:15 p. m. Oct. 16 and 17. Tickets are available at Purdy's Drug Store, OL 1-5611.

U.S., Canadian Cattlemen Meet at Hi-Point Farms

By LEE WINBORN
Romeo Correspondent

ROMEO—Hi-Point Farms, locate north of here, played host to cattle buyers from the United States and Canada at the 12th annual Hereford sale held yesterday afternoon.

The farm, owned by E. F. Fisher, and managed by Allen Rush, is recognized by Hereford cattlemen as owning two of the greatest blood lines in America—T. T. Regent and T. Royal Rupert 15.

In the 56 bred heifers, nine bull and four open heifers offered for sale, experts revealed that it was the best selection of females ever offered at a Hi-Point sale.

Buyers from Colorado, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Texas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Florida and Canada partook of a beef barbecue dinner served by WSCS of First Methodist Church before the sale began.

E. F. Fisher welcomed the 250 buyers and guests and introduced his manager, Allen Rush.

L. P. McCann, field representative of the American Hereford Association, cited Fisher as no less a leader in the Hereford business than in the automotive industry. He pointed out that Fisher was a past-president of the association.

"He has spared no money or effort to build one of the best herds in America and he and his organization stand behind the cattle purchased at this sale, and that is more important than the cow itself," McCann stated.

Col. Jewett Fulkerson acted as auctioneer in what is recognized as the top sale of Herefords in the country.

Special representatives at the sale included Jack Turner, secretary of the American Hereford Association; Forrest Fenn, of the American Hereford Journal; Ray Roth, Chicago Drovers Journal; Lloyd Crouch, of the Indiana Farmers Guide; Jim Grehan, breeder-stockman; Leo Leiter, secretary of the Michigan Hereford Association; and W. S. O'Neil of the Ontario Hereford Breeders.

Top price paid for a heifer was $2,925 for Miss Larry 24th, sold to McCormich Farms in Wadsworth, Ohio.

John L. Meurisse of Monson, Mass., paid top price for a bull, $2,500. The average of the sale for the 58 head was $638, and 22 head were sold to Canadian buyers.

ROCHESTER'S NEW MODERN GARAGE — The grand opening of the Crissman Chevrolet garage at the top of the south hill entrance to Rochester presents a new and modern business for this village. The building measuring 67 by 203 feet is of salmon brick an cinder block. Located on a 20 acre site, the building and business is owned by Keith Crissman, a native son of Rochester. Cunningham-Limp of Detroit designed and constructed the building. It was completed October 1 and will be open for business October 9 and 10.

New Crissman Building to Open Friday, Saturday

ROCHESTER — Crissman Chevrolet will open the doors of its new building here, Oct. 9 and 10, for public inspection.

Located at the top of the south hill entrance to Rochester, Keith Crissman, owner and operator of the new complete automobile business, says that part of the grand opening ceremonies will be the presentation of the Chevrolet Corvette.

The new building is constructed of salmon brick and cinder block. Measuring 67 by 203 feet, it has a large modern showroom, a suite of four offices and a 140 by 67-foot garage facility in the rear.

A painting and bumping shop is included in the new building. Crissman also said that a complete truck department will be a feature of the business.

The building has 23,000 square feet of work area and is located on a 20-acre site overlooking the village of Rochester.

Milford CD Post Curtails Service

Signs Off for Periods at Filter Station Due to Lack of Workers

MILFORD — Due to the lack of community response, the Milford Civil Defense Post has been forced to sign off intermittently at the Grand Rapids Filter Center, beginning at midnight Tuesday, according to Mrs. George Eberle, civil defense director of Milford Village and Township.

The decision was reached by the Civil Defense Committee at a luncheon at Hiland-Manor Tuesday. During the past eight weeks, Mrs. Eberle reported she has substituted 85 times between midnight and 6 a.m. in the morning, due to lack of sky watch personnel.

This is the first time in eight months that this procedure has been necessary, and if only ten people were to sign on for the midnight to 6 a. m. shift, the post could resume its status as the top post in the state, Mrs. Eberle said.

Besides operating as the most successful sky watch in Michigan the Civil Defense wardens were called State Police who then kept tornado which hit Milford this spring.

Edward Schmuck, 16, was on duty in the Sky Watch as the tornado approached Milford and calledState Poice who then kept traffic from entering the area. Local police and firemen were also warned by Schmuck.

Earlier this summer, Sam Brock, who was on duty at the time, reported a large transport over Kent Park, apparently off its course. He immediately reported it to the Filter Center.

The plane was contacted, and found to be lost. The Filter Center then guided the plane to a safe landing at Willow Run airport.

Jaycees Hold Regional Meet

Representatives of Ten Clubs Discuss Problems at Rotunda Inn

Representatives of 10 Junior Chamber of Commerce clubs held a regional meeting at Rotunda Inn Wednesday night and discussed various local, state and national problems.

Pontiac Jaycees won praise for their contribution of 195 blankets to the national "Operation Warmth" project for Greek earthquake relief.

Ben Carollo, national director of Jaycee international relations, said 1,327 blankets had been collected in Michigan.

A cancer research, fund raising project, called "Light-a-Lawn," was outlined.

The relation between the National Jaycee organization and local groups was taken up by Pete Baldwin, national director and former president of Michigan Jaycees.

The role of the Flint Jaycee group in tornado relief was described by its president, James Mitchell.

Parliamentary procedures were outlined to the group by Pontiac Jaycee William O'Connor, and George Ely reviewed the Christmas lighting project in Birmingham last year.

State vice presidents Frank Oosterhof and Robert Gamble were co-chairmen of the meeting which included representatives of Jaycee clubs in Howell, Flint, Birmingham, Mt. Clemens, Holly, South Macomb, Farmington, Highland Park, Lapeer and Pontiac.

2 Cars in Collision on Pontiac Lake Road

Mrs. Beverly Bourn, 20, of 2234 Kohler, Waterford Township, was treated for bruises yesterday at Pontiac General Hospital after a two-car accident at Pontiac Lake Rd. and Falcon St., according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies Thomas Brinhall and William Smith.

The deputies said her car collided with one driven by Robert J. Bradburn, 21, of 3003 Glenbroke, Keego Harbor, as Bradburn backed from a driveway onto Pontiac Lake road.

Searched Out Inferior Seeds by Scientists

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP)—Scientists at a federal laboratory here keep a vital watch on U. S. borders and never leave their microscopes. Their job: to make sure immigration laws for seeds are enforced.

Before any shipment of seeds can get into this country, it must be cleared by government scientists at the laboratory here or at other federal seed laboratories in coastal states around the nation.

Customs inspectors send samples of imported seeds to one of the federal seed laboratories, where analysts put them through a three-part test:

1. Are the seeds actually what they are labeled—or are there other seeds, inert matter or weeds in the lot?

2. Are any of nine specified noxious weed seeds present?

3. Will a satisfactory percentage of the seeds develop to produce normal plants under favorable conditions?

Depending on how long it takes a seed to germinate, the tests take anywhere from 3 to 35 days. During that time, the shipment is held by customs awaiting clearance.

As far back as 1912, Congress recognized the necessity for laws governing seed imports. Indiscriminate importation could bring harmful results.

So the Federal Seed Act was set up to weed out the undesirables. Actually, only agricultural and vegetable seeds of major commercial importance are involved in the laboratory inspection. Flower, tree and herb seeds are not considered so vital to agriculture and, though subject to quarantine regulations, may enter with compartively little difficulty.

Last year alone, 117 million pounds of 59 different kinds of seed were admitted through the network of seven government testing centers.

Biggest imports come from Canada, Denmark, Holland, Italy, England, New Zeland and France. They range from alfalfa to wheatgrass, from artichoke to watermelon.

Survey in Kent County Says Bigger Jail Needed

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Kent County needs a jail big enough to house 228 inmates, and it should be built on the outskirts of the city rather than downtown, the Citizens Research Council of Michigan reports after a survey.

Cost is estimated not to exceed $1,500,000. The present jail has been condemned as inadequate and outmoded.

You Too Can Go to Timbuktu

Airplane Now Lands Mere 70 Miles From Earth's 'Farthest Point'

WASHINGTON — Civilization is catching up with fabled Timbuktu, for generations the epitome of far-away places.

A weekly commercial flight across French West Africa from Bamako to Gao now stops at Goudam, just 70 miles from Timbuktu.

From Goundam it is only two days by camel to the sun-baked village on the Sahara's southern edge. By motor across the desert's trackless sands, it is a mere overnight hop.

But though it may have lost its mythical title as the "farthest corner of the earth," Timbuktu's new accessibility has brought little change into its old way of life, says the National Geographic Society.

Lying 800 miles from the nearest coast, it remains a vital trade crossroads for the vast West West African hump — a meeting place of Sahara camels and canoes of the Niger River.

Twice a year, in spring and fall, camel caravans arrive with salt from the Taudeni mines, 425 miles north, and merchandise from Moroccan cities. Up river from the fertile southland come cereals, grain, rice, cacao and ivory to be exchanged.

Timbuktu has no paved streets, autos electricity, sewage or water system, movies, restaurants, or hotels. For eight months of the year the temperature hovers between 100 and 110 degrees in the shade by day and falls only to around 90 at night.

Brief but torrential rains bring some relief in late summer, but each downpour spells grief to many inhabitants. Their two-storied mud-brick houses are apt to melt away.

Moors and Tuaregs of Arabic and Berber stock from the north mingle with native Sudanese and Bellah in Timbuktu's narrow streets of ankle-deep sand. Rice, cooked out of doors in public ovens is the chief food of the city's 7,000 people. Water, scooped from a muddy arm of the Niger, is dispensed from vendors' shoulder-borne goat skins.

In the 15th and 16th centuries Timbuktu was a center of Moslem culture. Learned men came to the "University of Sankore." A fine collection of Arabic classic manuscripts was assembled in the town.

Moslem writers left accounts of its great wealth in gold and ostrich plumes, of camel caravans 10,000 strong that gathered to trade in gold, ivory and slaves.

The Paris Geographic Society offered a prize of 10,000 francs for the first European to penetrate the mysteries of Timbuktu and bring back an account of his findings. Africa was then a giant question mark. On maps nearly the whole interior of the continent was marked "unexplored regions."

Many adventurers sacrificed their lives in attempts to gain the prize, but it was not until 1828 that a Frenchman, Rene Caillie, succeeded in visiting Timbuktu and returning safely. He spent two weeks in the city disguised as a Moor.

Timbuktu, as Caillie found it, was no longer a center of culture and boasted none of the fabulous golden treasures ascribed to it by legend. Plundered by invaders from Morocco in 1591, it was further ravaged by nomadic Tuareg bands.

In 1893 the French took over the city, and today it is officially known as Tombouctou.

Make Sure Your Stove Stands Even

Also Check Up on Accuracy of Range Thermostat

By HUBBARD COBB

We are by no means an authority on cooking. e can produce a pretty fair mess of eggs and bacon and our coffee isn't too bad but that's about as far as we go.

On the other hand, we do know a few things about stoves and why they don't always act the way they should.

Lots of floors aren't level and that means that a stove placed directly on one won't be level either. This, in turn, means that grease in a pan will flow down to one side and cause both sticking and burning.

The solution to this one is to place a level on top of the kitchen range and then insert shims under the legs until it is perfectly level.

Modern kitchen ranges are pretty automatic and this is fine as long as all that automatic equipment is in good working order.

We have found, however, that a lot of range thermostats are most inaccurate. This means that when you set your oven for 500 degrees it may be 500 and it may be 350 and it may be 600. We'd like to be able to tell you just how to adjust arrange thermostat but we don't know how.

You can, of course, use an oven thermometer but it's a darn sight easier to call your local appliance store or gas dealer and let him check this equipment for you.

Even if he charges a few dollars for the job, you'll actually save in unburned food not to mention gas and electricity.

And now that we are on the subject, the best sort of flame from a gas range is one that is about 1-½ inches high with a green cone and darker blue edges.

Some Subjects Are Definitely Taboo in Feminine Conversations With Boys

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

It's hard enough for some girls to think of anything to say — without burdening them with a list of things they'd better not talk about. Yet, the moment has come to discuss a few sore subjects.

Probably the touchiest is to bring up some other boy's name when you're out with a boy. No matter how casually you work him into the conversation, your date is sure to blow his top.

You wouldn't mention him at all, is his theory, if he weren't on your mind. You wouldn't talk so enthusiastically if you didn't like him. QED you like him better than your date, who immediately sees all shades of green.

He, of course, can slide any number of girls' names into his chatter with you, and you're not supposed to bat an eye-winker. You're not supposed to get suspicious and jealous.

You shouldn't mentally start comparing notes and feeling sure you're the last rose of summer. You're supposed to take it with a grin.

But you're not supposed to show any interest in any other boy when you're out on a date. How can you avoid it? Well, first off, you needn't bring up any subject that concerns another boy. Limit your chatter to your own doings and what interests your date.

If he brings up some other fellow's name, let him do the talking while you reserve judgment with noncommittal comments that show you're really neutral. Keep yourself from being pinned down by asking questions (even when you already know the answers).

And even though he brings up the subject, stick to it as briefly as possible, then change it to something safe.

Your feelings about other boys, your experiences with them, your other dates, your letters, phone calls, and casual meetings with them are strictly your business—and aren't to be confided in other boys. Such stuff makes you a mad-chatter.

It'll do you no good to run another girl down behind her back either. Even if she's been particularly poisonous to you or to your date, hashing over her faults will gain you nothing.

Sly, derogatory remarks about every girl your boy friend mentions will make you seem very kitten in his eyes. He'll begin to think you haven't a good word for anybody. "I don't know," when you're on the witness stand saves you from making answers that are embarrassing to you.

Your grades in school are better kept to yourself, too. High or low, talking about them is usually considered bragging. Bragging about how smart you are, how sharp you are without cracking a book, or how little you really care.

"I squeaked through" is enough chatter on the subject. Let any announcements about your relative position in the class come from your teacher.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Children Need Coddling by Doting Grandparents

Suddenly grandparents, particularly grandmothers, are in fashion again. The child experts themselves have brought this about, though a short time ago they had a lot to do with banishing Grandpa and Grandma from the nursery.

The culprits of that period were accused of being too-indulgent menaces to youthful balance and development. The psychologists have reversed themselves and the theory is now that grandparents are an important factor in providing the love and security that children must have to grow up normally.

MISS McBRIDE

This is fine news. Especially for the little boy or girl who will now be permitted to experience some first-rate spoiling.

My own Pa and Ma—as I called them because my mother did—were very important to me when I was small. They lived just far enough away so that seeing them never grew commonplace and visits were occasions invariably graced by presents and petting.

It was fun to know that whatever you did you did you were unlikely to be scolded or punished—much, anyway; that Ma would fix all things to eat that you liked best, beginning and ending with banana ice cream; that Pa would read to you out of a certain book with a red lion on the cover.

I wonder if I ought to confess within the hearing of the psychologists that the first thing I ever stole was from Pa, six little chocolate malted milk tablets from a hoard he kept in a desk drawer and rationed out to me. I've often wondered if that good man knew about my crime.

Pa is the one who decided I was to be a writer. I was not quite five when we agreed on that ambition and, although I've had setbacks, I've never given up.

Ma, who always smelled of lavender and cinnamon, was more concerned with my being a real little lady.

She detested tomboys and issued tart warnings now and then, something like the sayings of Confucius. For instance, she didn't like my favorite playmate and thought I saw altogether too much of her.

"What gets too thick will soon thin out," she would admonish ominously, her trim little mouth a thin line in her Queen Victoria-ish face.

She was right about the thinning out, too. It happened just as she said it would, for my little friend was really deadly dull and besides when I spent a night at her house I came home with red splotches caused, we found out later, by the bite of bedbugs.

Ma kept her cookie jar filled with my favorite chocolate jumbles and, to my delight, braided my hair when I complained about my long curls. Pa taught me that the way to pray is to ask that God's will be done.

When I was so sick at 9 that the doctors gave me up, Pa prayed that, if it was God's will, my life should be spared and his taken instead. To the doctor's intense surprise, I took a turn for the better.

The more I think about it, the surer I am that every little child needs a grandfather and grandmother to make him feel safe and beloved. May the psychologists never reverse themselves again!

The hand is quicker than the eye, and there are plenty of black eyes to prove it.

Wife Right to Offer Guest Choice of Refreshments

BY EMILY POST

A wife writes: "Will you please settle an argument my husband and I have been having regarding the following point of etiquette? When guests drop in for a visit in the afternoon or evening, I always ask if they would like a cold drink, or a cup of tea or coffee.

"My husband thinks that these refreshments should be proffered without asking, since most people would hesitate to say yes even if they did want something."

Answer: I agree with you; what you're doing is best. This gives them a chance to say they prefer nothing.

Dear Mrs. Post: My niece was married last week. Several days before the wedding I went to see her to give her her wedding present. During the conversation I asked where she was going on her honeymoon.

She didn't answer but immediately turned the conversation to something else. I was quite hurt over this and later was criticized for asking this question. I had no idea this was such a deep, dark secret.

In many of the social write-ups of weddings in this town, it is not unusual to see "the bride and bridegroom will honeymoon in Bermuda." Will you please tell me if I showed bad taste in asking this question?

Answer: Your question was one that is not supposed to be asked, but considering you did not press it further, certainly no grave error was committed.

Dear Mrs. Post: When a wedding present is given to the bridegroom by his fellow employes, is it proper for him to thank them for the gift — especially when they do not know the bride —or must she write and thank them?

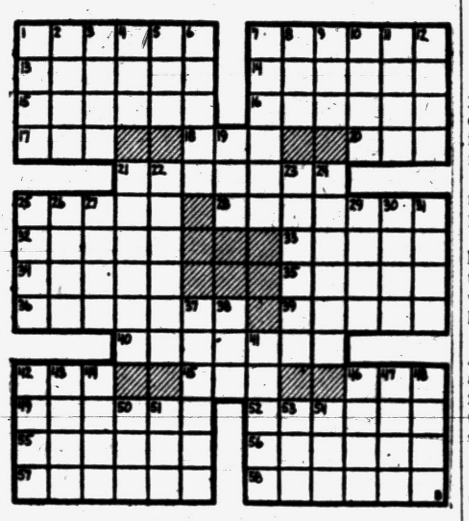

Answer: He thanks them himself. If it is something they are to use together, she might thank them again should she meet them; but double thanks are unnecessary.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it considered bad taste to address a letter (or card) to a person using just his (or her) initials?

Answer: You generally copy the name that they themselves use.

LISTEN, MEN! We don't mind letting you have a light from our cigarette—but, for Pete's sake, be a little careful not to grab the end that goes in our mouth! It's a common fault and a bad one.

Expert Disagrees, Says Cultural Training Needed

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"I am the father of three daughters," an irate businessman said to me the other day, "and I am convinced that all this nonsense about sending girls to college is just that—nonsense.

"My wife has her degree in English literature, and a lot of good it has done her. She is a wonderful wife and mother and all that, but she claims that she learned a lot at college that has enriched her life.

"I claim that it would have been better if she had just taken a year of home economics and child care courses.

"Now," he went on, still fuming, "the vocational adviser at my daughters' high school states that all three of our children are college material.

"But anyone knows that these advisers in schools and colleges are impractical dreamers who don't know anything about the real world.

"What do you think of this nonsense of liberal arts education for girls who are going to end up keeping house anyway?"

After I had counted to 10, I told him exactly what I thought.

To begin with, I don't think that vocational advisers in high schools and colleges are ivory tower impractical dreamers. I think they deserve far more credit than anybody gives them.

It is true that they don't, as a rule, give actual job suggestions and job-hunting tips. But it is far better that they should not.

Instead, they take the young person as she is, and evaluate her abilities without distorting the pattern by premature practical considerations.

They are there to help advise you and your child on what kind of person she is, what kind of interests she has, and how they might best be developed.

Until a girl knows that, she cannot make a decision as to what practical step to take.

Second, I think people take a lot for granted when they assume that every young woman in the world is going to be a fulltime housekeeper the rest of her life.

The merchandising genius of America has already made such advances in appliances, prepared foods, diaper services and the like that we cannot tell what the future will hold.

Many of the young women may work part or all of their lives, married or not, and a home economics course for the girl whose interests may be entirely in French literature or botany, say, is a great mistake.

Moreover, this man admitted that he was happily married to a quite remarkable woman.

I told him that if his wife had never studied widely in the general cultural studies, if she had limited herself entirely to recipes and slip covers, she might have bored him so much that his marriage would have been miserable.

If marriage is to be a companionship, the woman should know something more than pots and pans, just as the man should know something more than how to repair the vacuum cleaner.

My advice to this gentleman was to take the recommendation of his daughters' high school adviser, and let his girls have the studies which their tests and their talents indicate.

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Penny: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily, and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigan Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. Only $1.85 plus tax at better stores.

Chop Your Own Weeds, Knoxville Residents Told

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—If you want the weeds chopped from your Knoxville garden, you'll have to do it yourself.

The city announced a program of chopping down weeds obstructing view at intersections. The announcement set up a flood of telephone calls—many from persons wanting weeds cut from their back yards.

Army Unit Does Rare Sleuthing

Spotter Aircraft Hunts Spent Rockets at White Sands Test Grounds

ALAMOGORDO, N. M. (UP)—A strange job of detection falls to the seven officers and 33 enlisted men of Detachment Three, 9393rd Technical Service Unit.

They track down and recover remnants of rockets and guided missles test-fired at Holloman or at Army Ordnance's White Sands Proving Ground.

Using five single-engined L-19A airplanes and a ground fleet of jeeps and weapons carriers, these soldiers play tag with man-made meteors over the 4,000-square-mile Army-Air Force desert range.

Aloft in spotter-aircraft, pilots of the unit often can follow the path of a missle when it is fired, thus directing the ground crew to the landing point.

Ninety per cent of the air missions are flown at an altitude below 500 feet, the better to keep an eye on the speeding quarry. The average search flight lasts about two hours.

On the easy missions, a puff of smoke pin-points the landing spot and the missiles are found easily. But sometimes the hunting can be hard and prolonged work.

It took 28 hours of desert scouting to find the remains of one rocket, which had parachuted into a canyon.

Planes had to fly low between the canyon walls, and the updrafts of air usually found in canyons considerably complicated the search.

When a pilot spots a missile, he directs the ground team to the site by signals and message drops. A dropped smoke grenade can be used to mark the location of the missile, and often the pilot shows the way by waggling his wings, circling and then spurting in the right direction to keep the ground crew on the track.

Trash Receptacle Looks Like Mail Box to Girl

HOLDENVILLE, Okla. (AP)—Boys, playing on a downtown street corner, upset a trash receptable and an official-looking letter popped out containing a $2,134 check. District School Superintendent W. W. Graham, red faced, explained he gave the letter to his 13-year-old daughter to mail, and she apparently mistook the dark green receptacle for a dark green mail box.

Device Clocks Yardage for Golfing Enthusiasts

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—We have odometers for automobiles, so why not a "yardometer" for golfers?

Arnold Browning, "Mr. Golf" at Huntington's Guyan Country Club, has come up with an ingenious device. It consists of a stick on a wheel and it fastens onto the back of your belt.

Sour Evaporated Milk

Evaporated milk can be made sour to use in baking as you would sour cream. Sour it just as you would cream or whole milk. That is, add 1 tablespoon vinegar to 1 cup undiluted evaporated milk.

Cornmeal Buns Sure to Please

Half cornbread, half rolls, cornmeal buns are sure to be the meeting ground of many varied tastes. These buns can be served with virtually any casual meal, because they are different and refreshing.

Cornmeal Buns

1 cup milk
1 cup yellow cornmeal
1½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons margarine
3 tablespoons sugar
1 pkg. or 1 tablespoon dry yeast
¼ cup warm water
1 egg
3½ cups sifted flour

Scald milk. Into large mixing bowl measure cornmeal, salt, margarine and sugar. Pour hot milk over cornmeal mixture, stirring until smooth and margarine is melted.

Let cool to lukewarm. Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Stir into cornmeal mixture. Add 1 cup flour and beat well.

Add egg, beating thoruoghly. Add enough more flour to make a medium stiff dough.

Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead until smooth and satiny (about five to eight minutes.) Round up dough into ball and place into lightly greased bowl.

Cover with waxed paper and clean towel and set in warm place to rise until doubled (about 1½ hours).

Punch down and let rest 10 minutes. Shape into small round rolls, about 1½ inches in diameter. Let rise in greased pans or on greased baking sheets until doubled.

Brush tops lightly with milk, sprinkle lightly with corn meal. Bake in moderately hot oven (400) 15 to 20 minutes. Serve hot or cold.

Makes about 32 rolls.

Take along a bottle of scrambled egg mixture. Let the chef at the picnic scramble the eggs on the spot. Be sure to sprinkle ground black pepper and vary with a few sliced onions or a drop of fresh lemon juice over the eggs just before they finish cooking.

Enliven Breakfast With Bran Biscuits

Tired of toast for breakfast? Well, why not make up a batch of bran biscuits? Your family will give its unqualified approval to these pineapple-packed, crusty biscuits.

Breakfast Bran Biscuits

½ cup ready-to-eat bran
⅔ cup milk
1½ cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
⅓ cup crushed pineapple, well-drained

Combine bran and milk; let stand until most of moisture is taken up. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse cornmeal. Add bran mixture and stir until combined.

Turn out on floured board and knead lightly a few seconds; roll into a rectangle 11x8 inches and one-fourth-inch thick.

Brush lightly with melted butter and sprinkle with mixture of sugar, cinnamon and pineapple. Roll up like jelly roll and cut in slices. Place cut side down in greased muffin pans and bake in hot oven (450) about 18 minutes. Makes 12 biscuits.

Tight Covers Needed

Make sure your saucepans have tight-fitting covers. Such covers keep steam in the pan, make for uniform cooking, and allow you to cook with low heat and a small amount of water or other liquid.

In the early history of China and Japan, taxes were paid with rice. A public charity granary received the rice, either paid as taxes or given as gifts.

CHILI BREAD—Easy to make, chili bread is a delicious treat for party and family dining. The flavor secret is zestful chili powder, the spice that made chili con carne famous. Serve it for cool weather eating.

Various Parts of World Contribute Bean Recipes

As varied as the opinions of the United Nations are the tastes of different countries and their ways of cooking beans. The three recipes here were brought back to us by traveling friends and each is delectable in it's own way.

From the Caribbean

Soak 2 cups of red beans overnight in cold water. Bring slowly to a boil, reduce heat, and simmer two to three hours or until soft, removing cover during last hour to allow liquid to reduce.

Meanwhile cut 12 strips bacon and six strips salt pork into small pieces and fry in skillet till lightly browned. Add two medium onions, finely chopped, and continue to fry till onions are light brown, stirring often.

Peel, seed and chop two large tomatoes and add to mixture. Add pepper to taste. Cover and simmer gently while beans are cooking.

When beans are tender add tomato mixture and simmer another 15 minutes. Peel, seed and chop three green peppers and add just before serving. Serve hot over dry boiled rice.

From France

2 cups dry pea beans
2 tablespons chopped parsley
½ cup chopped celery
¾ cup diced onion
2 teaspoons dry mustard
½ teaspoon dried thyme
2 teaspons salt
¼ cup brown sugar
1 cup white cooking wine
1 pound lamb stew meat (1-inch cubes)
3 tablespons oil
1 clove quartered garlic

Soak beans overnight. Add all ingredients except oil, lamb and garlic. Simmer till just tender, about 1½ hrs. Heat oil in skillet with garlic and brown the pieces of lamb.

Place beans in buttered casserole and mix in lamb. Add about 2 tablespoons of water to meat juices in skillet, heat till boiling and pour over beans.

Cover and cook in slow oven (325 degrees) for about four hours. Moisten with a little white wine from time to time. Uncover last 30 minutes of baking.

From Canada

2 pounds cooked kidney beans (drained-reserve liquid)
2 medium onions sliced thin
½ pound smoked bacon cut in 2" pieces
3 tablespoons chili sauce
1 small can tomato paste
1 small jar sweet pickle relish
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons sweet pickle juice
1 tablespoon dry mustard

Fry smoked bacon till crisp. Drain off fat. Mix with beans and all other ingredients in casserole. Add enough kidney bean liquid to cover.

Prepare Yams in Many Ways to Spark Menu

The mellow-sweet flavor of yams makes them a favorite vegetable with young and old alike. Here are some suggestions to try when you are serving yams for luncheon or dinner as a part of the main course.

Cut baked yams in half and sprinkle with grated cheddar cheese, salt and pepper. Slip under the broiler until cheese melts. Louisiana yams are good topped with Swiss cheese, too.

Brush cooked yams which have been peeled and cut into 1-inch slices with maple syrup and broil with ham slice. It's a neat trick for a quick meal.

Mashed yams are tastier than ever when chopped pecans are sprinkled over the top at serving time. Substitute finely grated orange rind for the pecans for an interesting flavor note.

Brush cooked yam halves with lemon butter and arrange with spinach, beets and broccoli for an attractive and delicious yam vegetable plate.

Pile mashed yams over well-drained canned pineapple slices and bake in moderate oven until lightly browned. Serve with braised pork chops for an early autumn dinner.

Leftover fresh cooked yams can be mashed and shaped into patties. Roll each one in corn flakes and cook in shallow hot fat until browned on both sides. Yam patties are delicious with broiled fish.

Hot Flavoring Has New Use

Mix Texas Seasoning With Butter for Tangy, Zesty Spread

Chili days are here again!

Autumn's cool evenings turn the appetite to warm and hearty cooking — the kind that's spiced with a dash of he-man chili powder.

Chili powder's the spice behind the Texan's bowl of chili con carne. That dish (with and without beans) has become a national favorite, and homemakers everywhere are discovering many other uses for its delicious red spice.

Chili powder is not a single spice, but a blend of seasonings, most often including ground chili pepper, cumin, oregano, garlic and salt. The combination of these ingredients has its roots in Mexican cooking.

It is generally accepted that early English settlers in Texas ground the spices and blended them into the convenient product we know today.

Chili Bread

1 long loaf French or Italian bread
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
1½ teaspoons chili powder

Split bread in half lengthwise, then slice across — not cutting through well in moderate oven (375) melt butter and mix with chili powder. Spread on slices (or brush on with pastry brush).

Place on baking pan and heat through well in moderateooven (375 about 10 minutes. If desired, the bread may be wrapped in metal foil before baking.

Freeze Mint, Herbs

Bring summer garden time to the table in midwinter! Freezer home economists suggest that you freeze a few packages of mint or other herb leaves in small, flat foil packages. They'll be wonderful for perking up your winter salads and fruit cocktails.

Carrot and Cabbage Make Zesty Salad

It's an old favorite and always a welcome dish—carrots and cabbage salad. Serve it soon, especially if you are having a bland main dish like macaroni and cheese.

Carrot and Cabbage Salad

2 cups coarsely shredded cabbage
1 teaspoon grated onion
1 carrot, shredded
¼ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons cream
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon vinegar
½ teaspoon salt

Put shredded cabbage, grated onion and shredded carrots in colander with ice cubes to crisp. Mix mayonnaise, cream, sugar, vinegar and salt. Just before serving add this dressing to the well-drained vegetables, tossing lightly together. Makes four servings.

Next time you have a small amount of raw hamburger on hand, try browning it in a little fat and adding it to canned spaghetti in tomato sauce for a quick dish.

Planning Ahead Prevents Morning Lunch Box Woe

By JANET ODELL

In this third and last article on school lunches, we are going to suggest a number of ways to eliminate early morning fussing with lunch boxes. Planning ahead is the secret.

By now you have the pattern of each child's lunch pretty well established. You know he needs a substantial protein food like sandwiches, or hot stew or chowder in his thermos; a crispy relish or salad; fruit, milk, and a bit of sweet to top it off.

How can all that be fitted into an already tight schedule of meal preparation?

When you are preparing tonight's dessert, bake a cupcake in a small fluted paper container, make a tiny pie in an individual foil pie pan, or set aside one serving of pudding to send along in a covered paper cup. A baked apple makes a different and delicious dessert with a crisp cookie.

Why not fix carrot sticks, celery curls or radish spirals when you're making the dinner salad? Wrapped in waxed paper or plastic, they will be even crisper after a night in the refrigerator.

Sandwiches can be made ahead of time. If you have a freezer, or even a large enough freezer compartment in your refrigerator, you can have a sandwich-making spree, preparing enough sandwiches for a week or more.

Just be sure to use fillings that take to freezing (no eggs, lettuce, jam or vegetables) and wrap well. A well wrapped sandwich can be kept overnight in a regular refrigerator without impairing its taste.

Freezer owners can do some things for lunch that are different. Break up a block of frozen fruit and send along a piece in a covered cup; by noon it will have thawed to the right consistency for eating.

Containers of frozen juice will be chilled just right by lunchtime. Cakes and pies can be frozen in large quantities, offering a choice to the child.

For a special treat, make up forzen dessert sandwiches: Take either chocolate wafers or fig bars and put together with a cream cheese filling. Wrap separately in foil or freezer paper and freeze.

Use all the ingenuity at your command to pack healthful, attractive lunch boxes. Your child's good health will reward you.

When baking bread or rice pudding, or custards, be sure to set the baking dish in a pan of hot water, then bake in a moderate of ingredients, say home econo-oven. This will prevent separating mists.

If you enjoy baking berry pies, invest in a pie pan with a juice-catching rim that will keep your oven clean and turn out a flavor-rich pie.

FROZEN TURKEY PIES—New on the market now is a third addition to the frozen "meat" pies, turkey pie. The same company that makes beef and chicken pies now puts out the tasty turkey pies. Ready to heat in individual foil pans, they're time-savers.

If some of the yolk gets into the white when separating eggs, you'll find it much easier to take it out with the egg shell than with a spoon.

Turkey Latest in Frozen Pies

There's nothing to the making but fun when you serve the new frozen turkey pies.

Each half-pound pie is a generous serving for one. It contains tender, juicy slices of white and dark turkey meat in the same proportion as on the whole bird.

The gravy is a rich brown, just the kind you'd make at home after roasting a turkey. Each pie contains a few peas and pimientos. There are no inexpensive filler vegetables here. here.

These new turkey pies save work because you just brown them in the oven and serve. You don't even have to thaw them before bakin. They save dishwashing, too, as each individual pie comes in its own aluminum pi e tin in which you both bake and serve each pie.

A turkey pie is almost a meal in itself. All you'll need is a crisp salad and a light dessert.

Cranberries Can Be Frozen a la Natural

Because fresh cranberries need no preparation for freezing in home freezer or frozen food compartment of the newer refrigerators, today's homemaker will buy for next April's menus when she buys her cranberries for this fall's dinners.

The easiest way to freeze fresh cranberries is simply to place the unopened cellophane bag or "window box," in which they come for the market, directly into the home freezer.

Then, when she wants to use them, she may take them out and use them exactly as though they were fresh cranberries. Frozen in this way, fresh cranberries, without sugar, are convenient to use in any recipe throughout the year.

And, if she wishes, the housewife may prepare her fresh cranberry dishes from any of the thousands of the new and different methods of preparing fresh cranberries, and then freeze those. Either way makes this truly American fruit available in its wholesome goodness over a 12-month period.

Care should be taken that the correct container is selected for the type of freezer storage available. Most freezer boxes, containers and heavy-lined bags, are adaptable for freezing mixtures with sugar syrup.

A good big clove of garlic, minced or crushed, cooked in butter or margarine and blended with mustard, salt, pepper and monosodium glutamate makes flavorsome dressing for broccoli. Some like it on spinach and other cooked greens, too.

Here's a delicious topping for hot gingerbread. Soften cream cheese and beat with a little top milk, confectioners' sugar to taste and grated orange rind.

Manufacturers Offer Hints on Using Oven

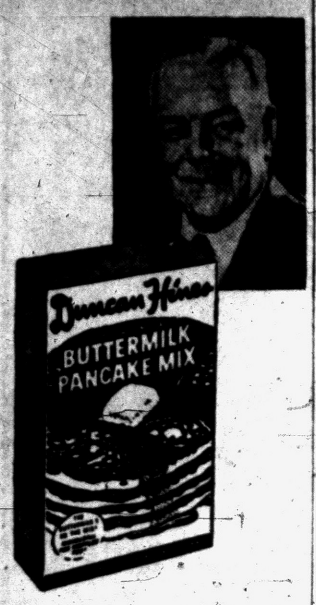

In the fall and winter, when you use the oven more frequently, you'll find these hints from the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association very helpful:

When roasting meat, do not bake uncovered pudding or any other moist food at the same time. The steam in the oven will affect the crispness of the roast.

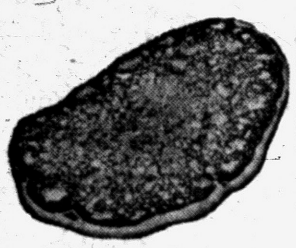

Use covered utensils for baking vegetables and fruits and a shallow uncovered roasting pan for the meat.

Roast poultry breast-side up in an uncovered roaster on a wire rack, after first brushing the skin with melted fat or salad oil. Set the oven control of your gas range at 300 degrees for turkey and 325 degrees for chicken, duck or goose. For best results, do not add water.

Candy Parfait Sweet, Elegant

Main dish cookery can be plain and simple. But when it comes to desserts, everyone looks for something elegant.

Take a recipe such as Delight Parfait. The preparation is simple enough. It features two sure-to-please ingredients: Whipped cream and chocolate.

But it's the chocolate that gives this recipe distinction. For unusual as it may sound, the chocolate ingredient is melted chocolate malted milk bars.

All the special goodness in the original candy bars is incorporated into this dessert. Serve in your prettiest parfait glasses for a dessert that's sweet and elegant.

Delight Parafait

2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
½ cup milk
½ cup hot water
4 chocolate malted milk bars
2 cups heavy cream
4 tablespoons powdered sugar
Few drops vanilla flavoring

Soften gelatin in milk. When softened, add hot water, set aside until gelatin dissolves. Melt candy bars in top of double boiler. Whip cream until stiff. Add powdered sugar and vanilla.

Then add ½ gelatin mixture to cream; other half to melted candy. Place in layers in a dessert dish.

Frost Cupcakes Fast With Broiled Mallows

Here's a simple way to frost cupcakes under the broiler. Just cut marshmallows into eighths with wet scissors. Arrange the marshmallow pieces on the cupcakes—using about 1½ marshmallows for each.

Place the cupcakes on a broiler rack about 4 inches from the source of heat. Broil until marshmallows are golden brown. Serve at once with strong hot coffee for an afternoon or evening snack.

The final soldier's pension for the War of the Revolution was paid to a widow in Vermont in 1906, just 123 years after the termination of that period of conflict.

HAM-PINEAPPLE WHEATETTES—Leftover ham becomes real party fare when combined with wheat germ and pineapple in these delicious easy-to-prepare croquettes. The addition of wheat germ to a recipe makes the food extra nutritious as well as tasty.

Cake Flour Different

In recipes calling for cake flour, nutritionists believe it is important to follow the directions. They explain that cake flour differs from all-purpose flour in quantity and quality of the protein and, therefore, in scientific combination of ingredients, cake flour is important when called for.

Poach Fish Fillets

Nutritious Wheat Germ Comes Back Into Favor

By JANET ODELL

One hundred and fifty newspaper food writers, meeting this week in Chicago, heard Dr. Clive M. McKay, nationally known authority on nutrition, declare, "We are seeing wheat germ come badk into more extensive use as a human food." For years, it has been fed to animals in research laboratories.

Ever since white flohr has been processed, the wheat germ has been removed and sometimes discarded.

"For about 100 years," noted Dr. McKay, "white flonr products lacked the food essentials of the germ. Now, some of the nutritive elements are being restored to these foods through enrichment; and the germ of the wheat, once fed to cattle, is again becoming a part of the human diet."

Wheat germ is really the "sparkplug" of the grain. It is the heart of the wheat. Because flour made with the germ left in does not keep well, and because of the demands of Americans for an all-white flour, our ordinary flour does not contain this valuable substance. Wheat germ is rich in minerals, vitamin B and protein. Its removal is a decided loss to the nutrition of our families.

However, it is possible to buy wheat germ today and to add it to a number of foods without making them dark and unpalatable.

A small amount of wheat germ gives a rich, creamy color to breadstuffs and is hardly perceptible to the taste. But the goodness is there.

Many people cannot tolerate the harshness of whole grain products, and it would be ridiculous to insist that they eat such foods. But in some places it is possible to buy, and in your kitchens you can always make, "super-enriched white bread."

The October issue of a current woman's magazine has an excellent article on Cornell bread, a super-enriched white bread, giving its history and recipes for several versions of it. About six years ago the same Dr. McKay quoted above was instrumental in the development of a bread to be served in New York state hospitals as a means of improving diets at low cost.

The recipe was then made available free to commercial bakers and in many sections of the country Cornell bread now is being sold. It contains unbleached flour, soy flour, wheat germ and an extra amount of dry skim milk.

You can make it for your family if you like.

Cornell Bread

2 packages dry yeast
3 cups warm water
2 tablespoons sugar
6½ cups unbleached or enriched flour
¼ cup wheat germ
½ cup stirred soy flour
¾ cup dry skim milk
4 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons melted shortening

Soften yeast in warm water, add sugar, let stand five minutes. Sift flour, add rest of dry ingredients and mix with the yeast mixture in two portions.

Knead vigorously about five minutes on lightly floured board, using more flour as needed. Put in a large greased bowl, brush top with melted shortening, cover and let rise in a warm place. Punch down when doubled and let rise again.

Shape into three loaves or two loaves and a pan of rolls. Brush tops with shortening, let rise until doubled.

Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes, reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake another 45-50 minutes. Bake the rotls at 375 degrees until nicely browned.

Ham-Pineapple Wheatettes

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1½ tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 9-ounce can crushed pineapple
½ cup wheat germ
1 egg, beaten
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
Salt to taste
2 cups cooked, ground ham (about 1lb)
1 egg, beaten
½ cup wheat germ

In a saucepan, melt butter or margarine over low heat; add flour and blend. Add crushed pineapple and cook until thickened. Remove from heat.

Add one-third cup wheat germ, one egg, mustard, salt and ham; mix thoroughly. Chill mixture. Form into cone shapes, 2½ inches high.

Dip in remaining egg and then in one-half cup wheat germ. In a heavy skillet over low heat, fry a few croquettes at a time in hot shallow fat until browned on all sides.

Device Eases Task of Returning Bottles

There's a solution to that perennial bottle return problem with which food stores, to say nothing of their customers, have been battling for years. A new machine called a 'Bottleline' simplifies things for both customers and the store.

Hre's how it works. The customer brings the bottles to the machine and puts a 2 cent bottle in a small opening for a 5 cent bottle in a large opening.

As the bottles go into the machine it registers each size bottle and when you finish inserting bottles, you press a total button. A slip, similar to a cash register slip, automatically comes out with a total in red figures.

You can finish your shopping leisurely without any bottles to burden you, and then present the slip at the checkout counter for the credit due you. The bottles meantime are automatically conveyed into a revolving bin in a storage room where they can't eat up valuable floor space in the stores and can easily be unloaded and sent back to the bottling company.

Treat Dieters to Sandwiches Low in Calories

Try these on your dieting friends:

Low Cal Sandwiches

Spread circles of bread with nutmeg-seasoned chopped cucumber mixture. Top with a slice of cucumber or tomato, and garnish with watercress.

Cut circles of bread, spread with seasoned cottage cheese mixture. Add a slightly smaller slice of tomato. Garnish with watercress or a small slice of raw carrot or radish.

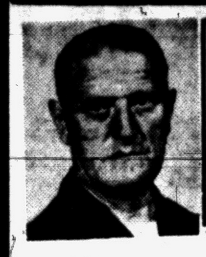

Cucumber-Onion Filling

1 cup finely chopped cucumber
2 tablespoons minced onion
Salt to taste

Peel cucumber, chop, and drain. Add onion and salt to taste. Use as a spread for sandwiches.

Milk Flavor Diminishes

A study of fluid milk showed that bottled pasteurized milk, properly refrigerated, had good flavor up to three or four days after delivery, but its flavor began to get poor after five or six days.

Salad 'People' Amuse Family

These Lettuce Make Believes will be liked so much that you will want to serve them often, especially for informal meals when something novel makes a hit.

Lettuce Make Believes

2 heads lettuce
3 or 4 carrots
A few stuffed olives
2 small tomatoes
Parsley
Celery
Green pepper
Nutmeats
Pimientoes

To make, first place the lettuce heads stem up and cut each almost through into quarters, each quarter being one serving. Now scrape the carrots and cut in halves both ways. Take each carrot section and cut into narrow strips left together at the base.

Let these curl in cold water, then fasten to lettuce as topknots, using toothpicks to pin into place. Be sure to let the toothpicks stick out well so they can be seen and used later as handles to eat the trimmings.

Carrot curls, cut with a scraper are pretty as hairdos. Cut the olives in thick slices for eyes, the tomato in wedges for smiling mouths, triangles of olives or nutmeats for funny noses. Everyone will enjoy making up individual characters by changing faces and hairdos.

When all are done, keep salads cold and covered until serving time, then put on a platter, and to accompany them, pass a dressing of the French or thousand island type.

LETTUCE MAKE BELIEVES—This salad is such fun to fix and so dramatic in effect that your teenagers or their younger brothers and sisters will clamor to make it. It's wonderful eating too, assures everyone of an ample supply of raw vegetables.

Dorm Set Cheers Blonde Brownies

Bake a batch of Blonde Brownies to send to that girl or boy away at school. Send enough, so there will be plenty to pass around to dormmates.

Blonde Brownies

1 cup sifted enriched flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening, melted
1½ cups brown sugar
2 eggs, beaten
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped nuts
½ cup chocolate bits

Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Melt the shortening, cool, add brown sugar and eggs. Mix well. Add flour mixture gradually, mixing until smooth.

Add vanilla, nuts and chocolate bits. Spread in greased pan 7x11 inches. Bake in moderate oven at 350 degrees for about 30 min. Cut in bars.

Mild, Wheaty Taste Is Macaroni Virtue

One of the outstanding virtues of macaroni foods is their mild wheaty flavor. This flavor makes durum foods an ideal companion or vehicle to "go with" all other foods.

The tender, chewy texture of most macaroni dishes seems to call for crisp accompaniments. This crispness might be supplied by enriched hard rolls, crusty French bread, and crisp, icy relishes such as celery sticks, radishes or carrot curls.

Many macaroni casseroles and platter dishes make practically a meal-in-one. They need only such accompaniments as a tossed green salad, bread and the family's favorite beverage.

Very often the crunchiness for casseroles can be supplied through the topping. Crushed ready-to-eat cereal flakes, or potato or corn chips make an ideal "roof," sealing in the creamy macaroni mixture.

Dice leftover cold boiled potatoes and reheat in a thin cream sauce. Sprinkle with chopped chives, minced parsley, or strips of green pepper or pimiento before serving.

Roll Up Steaks With Dressing

Since beef is on the list of plentiful foods these days, homemakers will be interested in a new way of serving cubed steaks. Try this recipe on a crisp, cool fall night.

Stuffed Cube Steak

1 pound cube steak (about 3 steaks)
1 cup chopped celery and leaves
½ onion, chopped
2 tablespoons fat
1 cup soft bread crumbs
Salt and pepper to taste
Little sage, if desired

To prepare the stuffing, cook celery and onion in 1 tablespoon of fat a few minutes, add bread crumbs and seasoning, and mix thoroughly. Put a mound of stuffing on each steak, roll and fasten with skewer or tie in place.

Brown the stuffed steaks in the remaining fat, cooking slowly and turning so that they are evenly browned.

Cover and finish cooking until tender on top of stove or in 350-degree oven. Takes about one hour. Serve with pan drippings.

Sliced tomatoes are far and away the most popular summer salad. For something new and noteworthy dress them with mayonnaise or seasoned sour cream to which grated cucumber and a little horseradish have been added. The last word with fish.

Lower prices for frying chickens and eggs will be features in many of the country's food stores this weekend. Beef prices will show little change, while pork and lamb will range from 2 cents a pound in and lower in others.

Reductions in frying chickens will range fro 2 cents a pound in some New York and Pittsburgh stores to 4 cents a pound in Chicago. Egg prices which have soared in recent weeks, will dip 2 to 8 cents a dozen in many cities.

A number of stores will feature turkeys. In the meat department, weekend specials will include rib roast, lamb shoulder cuts, round and chuck steak, gound beef and hams. In general, prices will be about in line with those of a week ago.

The bargain list of vegetables includes green beans, cauliflower, cabbage, onions, potatoes, spinach, squash and sweet potatoes. Vegetable men called carrots and cucumbers fair buys.

Good buys in fruit weren't numerous. The experts picked seedless and tokay grapes as good investments and noted that limes were cheap. Prunes were described as a pretty good buy. Cantaloupes and honeydew melons have become "luxury items," one fruit specialist said.

And here's some news about the outlook for Thanksgiving. President Bernard Simonsen of the Norbest Turkey Growers' Association reported that consumers will be able to obtain good buys in turkeys for the holiday. He said there will be plenty of birds for everyone but not so many that the industry will have to worry about an oversupply.

Cranberries to go with that turkey may cost you a little more this year. Eatmor Cranberries, Inc., announced at New Bedford, Mass., that the price of fresh cranberries has been hiked 25 cents a case. It said demand was heavy.

Whole Slice Sandwiches Fine for Men

Sandwiches for a mixed group are sometimes hard to prepare, but these versatile ones will suit everyone, both men and women. With very little fuss and an optimum amount of satisfaction, these bread beauties appeal to all ages, and are suitable for any occasion.

The open type sandwich, canape size, will wake the eye of the feminine tasters who are watching their waistline.

These are made from cottage cheese, chopped cucumber spread, and garnished with low calorie vegetables, cucumber, tomato, radish, green pepper, and carrot.

For the folks who like the fancy layer sandwiches—let your freezer play an important role and produce as if by magic, several different kinds of tasty morsels at a moment's notice.

Lots of men prefer a good-sized sandwich. Try tempting these guests with a whole slice sandwich made with your favorite spreads combined for a healthy and satisfying repast.

Cottage Cheese & Watercress Filling

½ cup finely chopped watercress
½ cup cottage cheese
Salt to taste

Chocolate Dessert Is Rich With Eggs

Here's a light and delicious dessert your family and guests will enjoy. We'll admit it has lots of eggs in it, but they cost no more than whipping cream would, and you use that occasionally.

Chocolate Peppermint Dessert

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
3 squares unsweetened chocolate
6 eggs
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
3 candy peppermint sticks

Sprinkle gelatin over water to soften. Melt chocolate in top of double boiler over hot water. Separate eggs, mixing yolks with sugar, cinnamon and melted chocolate until smooth.

Cook gently, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from heat and stir in softened gelatin. Cool.

Beat egg whites to form peaks. Then fold into cooled chocolate mixture. Rinse oblong dish (10x6x2 inches) in cold water. Pour in chocolate mixture and cill in refrigerator until firm.

Slice in squares to serve. Crush peppermint sticks and sprinkle on each serving. Makes six to eight servings.

To keep diced or sliced apples, or avocados from darkening, drop them into canned pineapple juice or syrup drained from canned pineapple, or toss with the pineapple itself. The pieces will stay bright in color.

About two-thirds of the mushrooms produced commercially in the U. S. are grown in West Chester and Kinnett Square in Pennsylvania.

HONEY APPLE CRISP—The apples are picked, the honey has been gathered from the hives. What better way to combine the two than in this delicious dessert, Honey Apple Crisp. Simple to make, easy to cook, it's a wonderful dessert.

Make Jiffy Macaroons

Make coconut macaroons the jiffy way. Combine one and a half cups shredded coconut, one-half cup condensed milk, dash of salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla and one-half teaspoon almond extract. Mix well. Drop from teaspoon onto greased baking sheet, pressing 15 minutes at 350 degrees.

QUICK·EASY

DISHES

Honey, Apples Team Up in Sweet-Tart Fall Treat

Fall time — and the grocer's fresh fruit bins are stacked with the bright, rosy apples of the autumn's harvest. But take another look around the store and you'll see another bountiful food, honey.

These two foodstuffs have a strange affinity for each other. Each complements the other. Take for example, this Honey Apple Crisp. It makes a grand dessert for the family or guests at any time of the year.

This recipe has just enough body to it to add zest to a chilly fall meal. Not too sweet, not to tart, Honey Apple Crisp made in this way strikes the happy balance between the tartness of apples and the sweetness of honey.

Note how easy it is to make. If you like apples, you will love apples with honey.

Honey Apple Crisp

4 cups sliced apples
1 tablespoon lemon juice
⅓ cup honey
⅓ cup flour
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup butter
¼ cup walnuts (if desired)

Spread sliced apples in a shallow baking dish. Add lemon juice to honey and pour over all. In a bowl mix flour, brown sugar and salt, and work in the butter as for biscuits, making a crumbly mixture.

Spread these crumbs evenly over the apples and bake in a moderate oven (375) for 30 to 40 minutes, or until apples are tender and crust crispy browned.

Serve warm, with plain cream, or whipped cream sweetened with honey and topped with a dash of powdered cinnamon.

Fix Pineapple Goodies

Coax your family into eating pineapple instead of candy. Drain pineapple bits and blot dry, then dip them into chocolate that has been melted over hot, but not boiling water.

Drop the pineapple bits into the melted chocolate, swish them with a fork until they are coated, lift out and place on waxed paper to let the chocolate set.

Library Yields Cooking Lore

The Pontiac City Library cookbook collection has gotten out of hand and into the kitchen.

For beginners and advanced students, male and female, the more than 100 books contain recipes for just about every food one can think of and for all kinds of diets.

During the last 10 years the collection has grown tremendously, incorporating the latest procedures for preparing foods for quick freezers.

Even the wife of the hunter is accommodated with recipes for all types of game, including deer and quail.

For those who enjoy trying new foreign dishes, the library has information on Spanish, French, Italian, Danish and Swedish foods.

Several books are devoted entirely to special diets for the diabetic, the reducer and the vegetarian.

Among the eye-catching titles are "The Can-Opener Cookbook," "Food and Fun for Daughter and Son," "Men in Aprons," "Come and Get It!" "How to Cook a Wolf," "The Unprejudiced Palate," "Recipes and Menus for Fifty," and "Pot Shots From a Gross Ile Kitchen."

Mother Nature Offers Lush Fruit Centerpiece

One of the best table decorations offered by Mother Nature is a basket or bowl filled with fruit. Shiny red apples, blue plums, green grapes, yellow bananas and golden pears mix perfectly with each other as a centerpiece.

A bowl of fruit not only makes the table seem festive; it saves time for the housewife. Instead of running to the kitchen for dessert, just let the family dip into the fruit.

Rosy Tomatoes Go Into Several Canned Treats

Canned tomato paste is a concentration of pure tomatoes. Approximately 2 pounds of fresh tomatoes are required to fill one 6-ounce can of thick paste.

Use it for soups or juice by diluting and adding your own seasonings. Or try it as a sauce for cooking pork chops or beef. Here's one pennywise item to keep on hand for a myriad of recipes.

Next, there's tomato sauce, a popular product of tomatoes, peppers, onion, salt and spices. It, too, has wide uses in soups, juices, as sauce for meat dishes or fish, as gravy and in casserole dishes.

Tomato juice is a favorite of long standing. Served "as is" or in a combination with other foods, it's a popular nourishing food to use for any meal. With its high vitamin content, tomato juice makes an important contribution to the daily diet.

Newest of the tomato family on the market are canned stewed tomatoes—the all-seasoned, ready-to-use canned version of a favorite vegetable. The seasonings and bits of onion and green pepper are there for you, ready to heat and serve.

Canned tomato aspic, another recent addition, is now well established as a timesaver salad. The aspic may be kept right on the pantry shelf ready for a quick chill or to slice and serve immediately. It's well seasoned, full of flavor—a favorite salad with men-folk.

Food Editors at Convention

150 See and Learn of New Things to Interest Mrs. Housewife

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

CHICAGO — One-hundred-and-fifty newspaper food writers from every section of the country are gathered together this week for their annual conference.

Sponsored by the American Association of Newspaper Representatives, this conference schedules programs directed by various food and appliance companies.

Six times each day the food editors attend meetings to learn of new products in the food industry, to gain an over-all picture of the national food situation and to gather background material.

Food companies vie for the privilege of presenting their products before the group for the editors represent a reading public of some 40 million people.

Present also are advertising men, newspaper representatives, Louisiana's Gov. Robert Kennon, some national government officials and executives of all the participating companies.

Among themselves the food writers exchange notes, garner new ideas and discuss their mutual problems.

They also gain a new concept of the responsibility they must shoulder in their jobs and of the prestige accorded them by the food industry.

Paul S. Willis, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, stated it this way: "As leaders in your field you are recognized as the fountainhead not only for recipe information, but — increasingly — for news on new products, on nutrition, on scientific food buying, and importantly, for basic economic information about the food and grocery industry.

"I refer to information which helps the American homemaker better to understand some of the things which may baffle her — such as, what is the relative impact of taxes, wages and profits on her grocery bill; what is the relationship between farm prices and retail food prices. . . ."

With a public that has become increasingly "nutrition minded," more and more readers are looking to their newspaper food pages for authoritative information on menu planning and food buying.

As your Pontiac Press food editor, I hope to bring you some brand new ideas.

HOT POTATO SALAD—Here's a flavorsome new way with spuds. Hot potato salad is a tailor-made companion for your leftover cold meat. Make no mistake about it: This is different potato salad, one the menfolks will go for.

Hot Potato Salad Revives Appeal of Leftover Meat

from last Sunday's roast, without giving the family a case of leftover blues? Simple. Just serve them with an accompaniment that's a little out of the ordinary, and enjoy the praise that follows for the tasty way you beat the budget.

Such an accompaniment is hot potato salad — a new way with spuds that makes a snappy appearance at your table, and is a natural companion for sliced cold meat.

And a p. s. for flavor: Treat both the meat and the potato mixture to a sprinkling of MSG — your assurance of smacking good taste from this economical dressed-up dinner.

Hot Potato Salad

6 cups thinly sliced cooked potatoes
2 tablespoons minced parsley
⅔ cup cider vinegar
⅓ cup hot water
1 teaspoon sugar
1 egg, slightly beaten
½ cup salad oil

Few grains pepper
1½ teaspoons MSG

Combine onions, potatoes adn parsley. Combine vinegar and water; heat to boiling; add sugar; stir until dissolved. Add hot mixture slowly to egg. Add salad oil, salt, pepper and MSG. Beat vigorously with rotary egg beater until well blended.

Britain's Red-China Trade to Depend on Hard Cash

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor

British trade with Communist China continues to be a sore spot in Anglo-American relations.

The subject recently was reopened by Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif) who has just returned from a globe-circling fact-finding tour, and again by the liberal Manchester Guardian, one of England's most respected newspapers.

The Manchester editorial was a friendly one—a refreshing change after the "Hate America" theme of the British Labor Party conference—but it challenged charges that British trade with China is a moral outrage and it added:

"We wonder at the hypocrisy which ignores American trade with China, which last year was almost as great as ours."

Here are some figures as supplied by the United States Commerce Department and the British Board of Trade.

In 1952, the United States reported no exports to Red China, but its imports from Red China totaled $27,825,000.

In the same year, Britain exported $10,774,167 in goods to Red China during the first 11 months, while imports in the same period totaled $8,032,091.

For 1952, then, total U. S. trade with Red China was greater than Britain's.

In 1953, the trend has been reversed.

Through July of this year, British exports to Red China totaled $10,175,000 and imports $14,000,000, the U. S. reported no exports and imports dropped to $4,027,000. Without attempting to defend either position, it may be pointed out that figures are comparative and may be misleading.

If British trade with China continues at its present rate, it will approach $50,000,000 for the year.

However, that figure may be compared to the interest and principal paid off by Britain each year to the United States on its postwar loans.

Those payments which the British are keeping up to date total $119,336,000 annually.

While Britain's dollar balance has shown encouraging gains, she still is far from out of the woods financially and she has made no secret of her eagerness to increase her Red China trade where she can without violating her agreement against shipment of nonstrategic goods.

However, in the long run, the extent of Britain's trade with Iron and Bamboo Curtain countries is more likely to be determined by their ability to pay rather than by any U. S. protests.

Sweden furnishes a good example.

Sweden receives no U. S. aid and has felt free to trade where she can.

Her experience with the Iron Curtain countries, including Russia has been uniformly bad. Her trade with Russia and the satellites has been decreasing steadily because the Communist countries keep their prices too high, cannot sell their goods in Sweden, and consequently cannot pay for Swedish goods.

Pay Increase Refused by Israeli Officials

JERUSALEM (Israel) — Israel Parliament members of the Socialdemocratic labour party "Mapai" had it their own way when collecting their allowances for the past month. When the cashier paid them fifty-four Israel pounds more than usual because the House Committee had approved an increase in their representation fees and travel expenses, the Mapai deputies said "No" and returned the money. The State budget is big enough anyhow, they thought, entitled to accept the raise.

Janitor Determined to Work Full 8 Hours

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sixty-three-year-old Charlie Cooper is a determined man, fire or no fire. Charlie was busily cleaning offices on the second floor of a downtown building recently while flames were spouting from every window eight floors above.

Firemen told him to vacate the building pronto, but Cooper insisted that "first, I got 10 minutes more work to finish up." He was persuaded to leave, finally. Salvage corps members appreciated Cooper's feelings and carefully covered things up to protect his labors.

Cooper wasn't even the regular janitor. He was filling in for a friend.

Demoted Navy Men to Appeal

Case of Cheating by 3 During Exam Will Go Before Board

WASHINGTON (AP)—The case of three Navy enlisted men demoted in rank for alleged cheating will be appealed to a Navy board.

Chief Justice Marvin Jones of the U. S. Court of Claims instructed the trio's attorney to present the case to the Board for the Correction of Naval Records.

The attorney, Fred W. Shields, said the board has the power to order the sailors' ranks restored.

The three involved are Commissarymen John M. Donnelly of Detroit, Woodrow W. Patterson of Granite City, Ill., and Alvin L. Valnes of North Chicago, Ill.

They were accused of cheating in examinations for chief's ratings in January, 1952, at the Great Lakes, Ill., naval training station. They passed the exams but six months later were demoted from first to second class rating. The three denied cheating.

Shields took the case to the claim court, charging the sailors' rights were violated and asking about $5,000 damages for each from the government. This, said Shields, would cover the loss of pay the three suffered as a result of their demotion.

Chemistry Building Swept by Flames

IOWA CITY (UP) — A spectacular fire that swept the top of the big University of Iowa chemistry building injured four men and caused at least $200,000 damage, officials said today.

The blaze, punctuated by blasts of orange flame as chemicals exploded, billowed smoke several hundred feet high for more than two hours late Wednesday. A crowd of about 3,000 persons watched, police said.

Firemen from five towns prevented a possible major tragedy by keeping flames away from explosive hydrogen tanks and other explosives in the building. They brought the fire under control about 5 p. m. Some kept guard Wednesday night against new outbreaks.

CARE Itemizes Holiday Parcels

Orders Being Taken for Thanksgiving, Yule Food for Overseas

NEW YORK—Turkeys, with or without the trimmings, are now awaiting orders for Thanksgiving or Christmas delivery overseas in the annual CARE food packages especially prepared as holiday gifts, it was announced today.

Americans who wish to assure festive dinners for relatives, friends or needy families may reserve the birds immediately in a $12 turkey package or an $18.75 holiday package, complete with a whole canned turkey and a generous serving of extras.

Based on recent surveys of food needs, this year's holiday package comes in two variations: One for England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, the other for Austria, Belgium, Finland, France, Greece, Western Germany and Berlin, Italy, The Netherlands, Norway, Yugoslavia.

The turkey alone goes to Japan, Okinawa and the Philippines as well as all the countries above.

All the CARE turkeys are broad-breasted Beltsville Whites weighing a minimum of 8 and 1-3 pounds and have the meat equivalent of a regular 10 to 11 pound bird fully dressed. They are steam-roasted in their own juices and can be served cold or heated and browned.

The slightly over 24 pounds of food in thre British holiday package includes, in addition to the bird, 29 ounces sliced pineapple; 15 ounces raisins; 1 pound each of prunes, butter, lard, sliced bacon; 5 pounds sugar; 2 pounds white rice; 8 ounces egg powder; 24 ounces corned beef.

For other countries, the CARE holiday package adds up to a total of almost 19 pounds of turkey and trimmings, including 1 pound each of chocolates, plum pudding, assorted unshelled nuts, coffee, margarine, bacon, strawberry preserves; 2 pounds sugar; 12 ounces each of roast beef and pork luncheon meat.

Orders marked for Thanksgiving or Christmas delivery may be mailed to CARE, 660 First Ave., New York 16, N. Y., or any local CARE office.

No Feed Money Forces State to Sell 37 Colts

LANSING (UP) — Michigan's Health Department will hold the first colt auction in its history Saturday.

Thirty-seven high-bred saddle colts, which the department is unable to keep because the cost of raising them was not included in the department's budget for this year, will be auctioned.

Normally, the department has about 100 horses. Blood taken from the horses periodically is used for the production of anti-toxin.

The 37 colts were born this year from 40 brood mares the department purchased from the Upjohn Company of Kalamazoo a year ago. Upjohn had used the mares for production of hormones.

"We'd certaily like to keep these colts but our budget just won't let us," said Dr. Albert E. Heustis, state health commissioner.

"It's a pretty expensive proposition to feed them and it would be about two years before we would be able to use them for the production of anti-toxin. We've given this a lot of thought and our best bet is to auction them."

The auction will start at 1 p. m. Saturday at the department's health laboratories on old Dewitt road on the west city limits of Lansing.

EASY DOES IT—Here's a new bathroom accessory that you can put up yourself without marring the tile or walls with nails or screws and without using tools of any kind. It's an attractive plastic towel bar and the secret of its easy application is two concealed, patented wood inserts, adhesive coated and molded into each end of the bar. Just moisten the adhesive thoroughly with water, work it quickly into a soft glue, and press the towel bar into position on the bathroom wall. That's all there is to it and you have an extra accessory to give added convenience to your bathroom. Convenient hooks, three-arm towel holders, toothbrush and tumbler holders, and other pieces, each with the same exclusive Self-fix adhesive feature, also are included among the products.

Scholarships to Be Presents

Exchange Fellowships Will Be Tributes to Ike on His Birthday

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Eisenhower Exchange Fellowships—a scholarship foundation named in his honor—will be presented to President Eisenhower at his 63rd birthday party next week.

Purpose of the unique fund is the practical training of youthful leaders the world over in those problems which beset their individual countries.

Thomas B. McCabe, president of Scott Paper Co., said today the fellowship was the work of a special committee who wished to honor the President with an appropriate gift at a huge birthday party planned for him at Hershey, Pa., next Tuesday.

Mrs. Eisenhower had requested that the President not be given anything of personal value at the affair, sponsored by the Pennsylvania State Republican Committee.

The fund committee, which is private and of a nonpolitical nature, has set up a nonprofit corporation administered by a board of 35 trustees. Initial outlay is estimated at $175,000 for 30 one-year fellowships beginning in September 1954.

McCabe, former chairman of the board of the Federal Reserve System, said the temporary committee, which he heads, is composed mostly of Pennsylvania industrialists. Future plans, he said, call for nationwide subscriptions and an eventual aim of 100 Eisenhower scholarships a year at an annual cost of $770,000.

Candidates will range in age from 25 to 40; citizens of all free nations including the United States are eligible and will be chosen on the basis of proven ability in a given field.

The year of work will be "custom-planned" for the individual. Time will be alloted for university study, a week in Washington to meet the President and talk with government specialists in the fellow's given line of work, several months of on-the-job experience in an American factory, farm or other enterprise, a month of travel and consultation with experts in his field and transportation to and from his home.

'Whoop,' 'Whoop' May Be on Way Out

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The eerie "whoop, whoop" of small town fire signals soon may be a sound of the past.

A radio receiver which could replace the time-honored siren as the alert to send volunteer smoke eaters scampering for their engines was demonstrated yesterday at the International Signal Assn. convention.

Hooked up to radio transmitters such as are used by police, a tone generator is connected with receivers in the homes of firemen. Each button pressed by an operator sounds a tone signal on the home receivers.

Complete with 10 receivers, the set costs about $1,000.

Toy Council Seeks Safer Playthings

Christmas toys will be safer this year than ever before.

And some of those chidren who will benefit from it are right here in Pontiac.

The Toy Guidance Council announced today that all its recommended toys are now undergoing intensive tests by a special educational panel. No toys which do not meet the council's minimum standards for both safety and durability will be approved.

The work of Toy Guidance Council in promoting safer toys was cited recently by the National Safety Council, which presented the educational toy group with a special award for its "meritorious activity in home safety education."

Child, 3, Tries Shotgun on a Rat, Blasts Dad

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Clarence H. Fields, 26, of Obetz, returned from a rat-killing expedition and placed his shotgun in a corner, still loaded.

His 3-year-old son yelled, "There goes a rat,' and blasted away with the gun.

Lid Goes on Sexy Swimsuits in Old Spain

MADRID (UP) — It's back to bloomers and victorian modesty on Spanish beaches this year.

Vogue notwithstanding, Spain's traditionally strict code of morality will be adhered to by all seaside visitors, both foreign and domestic, unless they wish to be arraigned for indecent exposure.

In a memorandum issued by police headquarters here, men and women looking forward to the restful pleasures of sand and sea were reminded to be clothed "with the traditionally modesty and good-taste becoming Spaniards."

The memorandum, published in all the papers, admonished against current indecencies of strapless and two-piece bathing suits, bikinis and G-strings.

The memorandum said, "swimming suits should cover both chest and back adequately. Women's bathing suits should have a skirt and men must wear sports-shorts.

"Swimming suits may not be worn on beaches, at clubs, bars, restaurants, boats or generally outside the water.

"Bathing suits are intended to be worn in the water only and therefore cannot be tolerated elsewhere.

"Sun-bathing cannot be permitted unless a bathrobe is worn or unless the beach is completely isolated, and the sexes are separated. In this case the sun-bather must wear a bathing costume."

Amaze Friends With Simple Numbers Trick

Invite Joe to write down any figure, containing any number of digits—five or six or seven of them is a handy size. He's NOT to tell you the number.

Now have him add up the digits in the number, "crosswise." For example, if he had chosen 524812, the addition would produce 22. He's not to tell you that number, either. Instead, ask him to subtract it secretly from the original, big number. In our example, that leaves 524790. Tell Joe to continue keeping mum.

Now ask him to strike out any digit in the remainder, except a zero. Then have him read aloud to you what is left.

Suppose he struck the 7, leaving 52490. You add up those digits crosswise, and see how much you'd have to add to their sum to make a multiple of 9. In this case it's 7, the answer.

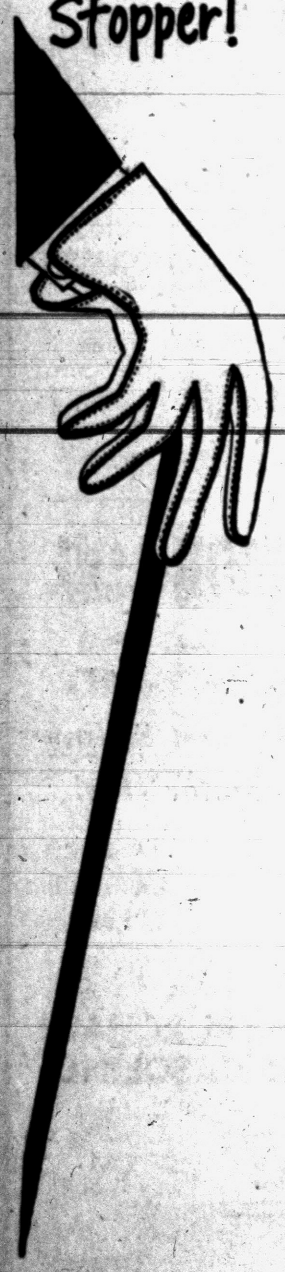

EXPLANATION: Subtraction of the digits making up a number from the number itself always leaves a remainder whose digits add up to 9 or a multiple thereof. To find what digit was struck, just subtract the sum of the remaining digits from the next higher multiple of 9, the "magic number." (If the remainder is a multiple of 9, Joe struck out a 9).

Warren to Undergo Senate Investigation

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP)—Earl Warren will be examined carefully before he gets a green light from the Senate Judiciary committee as chief justice of the United States, Sen. Langer (R-ND) said yesterday.

He told newsmen he had received word from his Washington office that several objections have been filed against the former California governor's appointment, which must be confirmed by the Senate.

Langer said "each of them will be thoroughly investigated" by a special subcommittee of which he is chairman.

Artificial Kidney Is Made for $75

Doctor Creates Device With Pressure Cooker and Sausage Casing

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

CHICAGO (AP)—A young doctor today told of making an artificial kidney for $75 out of a kitchen pressure cooker and sausage casing.

It helped save a young woman in convulsions and coma due to an error in blood transfusion, Dr. William Y. Inouye of the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine told the American College of Surgeons.

Several hours after the kidney was put to work to purify her blood, she woke up, saw Dr. Inouye eating a sandwich, and said, "Doctor, I'm hungry." He was munching the sandwich to relieve his own hunger during the six-hour treatment.

* * *

Dr. Inouye and Joseph Engelberg, an engineer, developed the kidney, starting with a gallon-size pressure cooker costing $19.

Inside it, they put a stainless steel core ($3) and 27 feet of sausage casing or plastic tubing (75 cents) wrapped around this core. There's also a plastic screen or filter ($1). But it costs about $50 to have inlet and outlet fittings machined into the cooker.

Blood from a tube put into the patient's artery enters the cooker and circulates through the tubing, then back into the body. Waste products in the blood ooze through the tubing into a fluid inside the pressure cooker. The cooker supplies an air-tight system so there's less pressure in the fluid than in the blood in the tubing.

* * *

No pump is needed. The artery pressure of the blood is enough to circulate blood through the tubing. The compact little kidney can be sterilized easily, and would be suitable for small hospitals having trained personnel, Dr. Inouye said.

Artificial kidneys can benefit people acutely sick because of temporary kidney failure due to accidents, shock, or blood transfusion reactions. They cannot do much for persons with chronic kidney disease.

* * *

Plastic skulls are being tailored up in 15 to 20 minutes to cover bone defects in human heads, another surgeon said.

A soft plastic is molded to fit the gap, then it is hardened, sterilized, and sewed or screwed into place. The plastic plate is better than metal plates, said Dr. William T. Spence, Washington, D. C.

He has used the plastic since 1947 to repair skulls damaged by accidents or tumors, and the plastic plates have all served well.

Metal isn't a good insulator, he said. It bends easily, and leaves a dead space between the plate and the brain. The plastic lacks these disadvantages, and it can be fashioned to any depth, like a dental inlay.

Industrial Fire Confab Called

State-Wide Meeting Proposed to Prevent Livonia-Type Blazes

LANSING (AP)—A state-wide conference on industrial fire prevention was proposed today to prevent such factory fires as the $60,000,000 blaze which destroyed the General Motors Transmission Plant in Livonia last August.

Gov. Williams presented the idea of the conference to a committe and asked it to lay the groundwork.

The committee consists of W. O. Hildebrand of Lansing, secretary of the Michigan Association of Insurance Agents, chairman; State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs, State Fire Marshal Arnold C. Renner, State Insurance Commissioner Joseph A. Navarre and State Labor Commissioner John Reid.

Hildebrand indicated the conferDence would sek to re-establish some form of a cooperative fire inspection system for factories such as was followed for defense plants in World War II.

It would bring closer relationships, he said, between insurance inspectors, state inspectors and plant protection forces.

Renner told Williams that the movement of industry into metropolitan suburbs and into smal upstate cities was creating a fire prevention problem.

Renner advised the governor that the Livonia plant was of fireproof construction and probably met "every building code' in the country.

Ratio: 6 Miles Paper to 7 Miles Construction

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — It takes six miles of paper work to obtain seven miles of right of way, says A. M. Barton, state reclamation board engineer.

He came up with those figures, and a mass of documents to prove his point, after finishing a right of way project for levee work on the Feather River.

Thomas Willett was the first mayor of New York City, serving in 1665.

Michigan State to Host Editorial Conference

EAST LANSING (UP) — Daily and weekly newspaper publishers, editors, and writers will meet Oct. 30-31 at Michigan State College for a community newspaper editorial conference.

George Van Koevering, Zeeland Record editor, will serve as chairman of the two-day meeting sponsored by the Michigan Press Association and college journalism department.

Treatment Vicious, Says Pontiac PW

'The Tiger' shot a lieutenant and two of the nuns.

"He was vicious and during the nine-day march he killed 24 soldiers. A total of 49 others died from exposure, starvation or lack of proper medical attention."

For the first 16 months of his captivity Strahan said he was held in camp No. 7 under the North Koreans.

"They believed in brutal physical torture," Sgt. Strahan related, "but the Chinese Communists were more adept at mental torture.

"I had charge of 54 men while a prisoner and was punished every time one of them supposedly stepped out of line.

"One day I was taken to the Yalu by 'The Tiger' and his underlings, to be taught a lesson for the disobedience of one of my men.

"I was forced to strip to the waist in 40-degree-below-zero weather and then kneel on the ground with my arms tied behind my back. The first step in the 'lesson' was to be doused with buckets of cold water followed by a vicious flogging. After that I was forced to remain in a kneeling position for almost an hour."

This treatment was repeated on one other occasion too, Sgt. Strahan said.

Another favorite torture was to handcuff a prisoner's arms behind his back and force him to sit in the middle of a locked mud hut known as the dungeon. There was never any heat and the only food served was sorghum tops.

"At one time I was forced to sit in the dungeon for 10 days because I refused to profess Communist teachings. Others were locked up for as long as 90 days at a time."

Conditions in both camp No. 7 and camp No. 3 were primitive, Sgt. Strahan said, and we never had enough clothing, food or heat.

"Probably the best example of conditions under which prisoners were forced to live is the fact that out of 738 military prisoners in the camp only 260 were alive by the time the truce was signed.

"Those that didn't die from starvation or lack of medical care were shot to death by the Reds," Sgt. Strahan said.

"When it came time for repatriation we were loaded on trucks and brought to Freedom Village," the sergeant recalled.

"When I stepped out of the truck I looked up and refused to believe my eyes. My brother, Ray, was standing there waiting for me.

"After a thorough physical examination, Ray and I went to Inchon where we spent four days together."

When asked what he thought of America after a seven-year absence, Sgt. Strahan said it was a wonderful sight.

"I think the thing that impressed me most was the amazing amount of new building going on. When I first came into Pontiac I hardly recognized the place.

"It makes me nervous to be in civilian life," the sergeant said, "and it will feel good to get back into the Army routine again.

"I prefer foreign service to stateside duty and if any more fighting breaks out in Korea, I'd just as soon be there."

12 Federal Banks Supplied Ransom

had to work overtime to count the money and he tried to keep them from knowing why it was being assembled.

"They had a good idea of what they were doing but we tried to keep it a secret," he said.

The ransom was broken down into $200,000 in $10 bills and $400,000 in $20 bills, a total of 40,000 pieces of money. The 20s were placed in one canvas bag and the 10s in another, and those bags were placed in a new duffle bag obtained from an army store.

The huge sum was placed in a bank vault while the Greenlease family awaited word from the kidnapers about a ransom rendezvous.

On Saturday, three days later, Ledterman picked up the money, accompanied by Paul Greenlease, an adopted son of the millionaire, and Robert T. Moore of Oklahoma City, another business partner.

Museums to Close If Guards Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—The Metropolitan Museum of Art says it will close down if its guards go on strike Saturday.

The 170 armed guards and other attendants threaten to walk out over their union demand for a $500 increase in annual wages.

Museum Director Francis Henry Taylor said yesterday the Metropolitan's main building in Central Park and the Cloisters in upper Manhattan would be forced to close in order to protect the famous collections.

The union said present wages now range from $3,005 to $3,400 a year.

Waterford UF Told New Plan

Helpers Learn Benefits of Joining With Pontiac Area Campaign

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — Waterford geographical division captains were told Wednesday night that Waterford's joining in Pontiac Area United Fund's fall drive will "benefit both areas."

The Rev. Walter J. Teeuwissen Jr., president of Waterford United Fund, spoke to captains at a meeting at Waterford Community Activities Building.

Mrs. Donald Weaver, Pontiac area United Fund geographical division cochairman in charge of Waterford, presided. A special film, "The You in United Fund," was shown by Jerry Shroder, assistant director of the Pontiac organization.

Waterford has joined with Pontiac Area United Fund for this fall's drive.

The Rev. Mr. Teeuwissen said that in past years Waterford residents who worked in Pontiac were asked to donate to the Pontiac fund at work and the Waterford drive at home.

"Now," he said, "whether breadwinners employed in Pontiac give at work or at home, the money will be going to the same place."

The Rev. Mr. Teeuwissen added that for working and living purposes, "our two communities are more like one."

Greenlease Crime Parallels Lindbergh

(Hall specified the money, in an Army duffel bag, was to be tossed over a bridge, where he later picked it up.)

Condon had repeatedly asked the kidnaper for a "C.O.D. transaction," but the kidnaper each time refused to deliver the baby as the money changed hands, though he assured Condon the child was safe.

Both Hall and the Lindbergh kidnaper, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, were caught by the ransom money. But Hauptmann, though he eventually died for the crime, cautiously waited two years to start spending the money. Hall went on a spending spree almost immediately.

Hall was quick in admitting he was the kidnaper, though he named an accomplice as the actual murderer.

Hauptman went to his death in 1936 maintaining that he got the money from someone else, and had nothing to do with the crime.

British Guiana Trouble Scene

Troop Arrivals Assailed by Leftists Who Deny Plotting

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—Britain rushed reinforcements by air to this uneasy colony today as seaborne troops were believed disembarking here under tight military secrecy.

The small group of Europeans in British Guiana welcomed the arrival of three troop-carrying British warships but leftist Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan assailed the "show of force."

The airborne troops—120 men of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers—left the West Indies island of Jamaica at midnight for Georgetown aboard five chartered airliners. Other members of the Jamaica garrison had sailed earlier on the three warships which arrived off the capital city yesterday.

Jagan accused the governor of the colony, Sir Alfred Savage, of calling for the troops without consulting his elected ministers.

* * *

"The responsibility for whatever may happen is entirely that of the governor and those who have advised him," the fiery leader of the People's Progressive party (PPP) told the colony's House of Assembly yesterday.

The PPP, which holds 18 of the Assembly's 24 seats, is demanding greater self - government and a trimming of the governor's powers. ritish authorities have accused party leaders of "Communist intrigues" and have warned that attempts might be made to set up a Communist state.

In his speech to the Assembly, however, Jagan denied that the party was plotting against the established rule. "No action on the part of the majority party," he asserted, "has indicated it intends to get its just demands by other than constitutional means."

The Prime Minister failed in an attempt to introduce a motion calling for the withdrawal of the warships because they were likely to "precipitate incidents and endager peace."

The speaker of the House, Sir Eustace Woolford, said he had received no official information of any military or naval forces in the colony and he thought it would be improper to hear a motion for discussion on a decision of the British government.

* * *

The government took extra precautions against disorders last night as authorities veiled the reported troop disembarkation behind a tight curtain of secrecy. Police and military headquarters were floodlighted and armed police guards were placed at the homes of officials and prominent citizens.

Britain has charged that the Communist movement in the colony is run by Jagan's U. S.-born wife, the former Janet Rosenberg. She is executive secretary of the PPP.

Bridge Is Nice, Fellows, but Please Paint It Black

OMAHA (AP)—"This structure is one of outstanding design and warrants more admiration than it gets," wrote the Nebraska State Highway Department of a graceful bridge which arches above a busy transcontinental highway just west of Omaha.

But, the highway department asked Douglas County commissioners, please paint the bridge black or dark green.

Pay 'Protection' Money to Communists, Rebels

RANGOON (AP) — Large estates in the rich rubber-growing area of Tenasserin still pay "protection" money to Communist and other rebel groups, according to planters.

The Burmese army is able to provide protection on a few estates, but its small garrisons are too few and too scattered to insure iron-clad security. Some estates have their own guards, recruited from nearby villages. These have proved satisfactory.

Inurgent activity is confined to slashing of rubber trees, and as a result many wide stretches of plantation have been laid waste and rehabilitation will take years.

No Fan, but He Follows Horses in Massachusetts

LYNN, Mass. (AP) — Horses no longer come to a 110-year-old blacksmith shop in West Lynn; the blacksmith goes to the horses. Hector M. Leal is known as a "traveling horse-shoer."

Because his business is almost wholly confined to show horses, hunters, jumpers, road hacks and ponies in an area from the Massachusetts North Shore westward to Springfield, he has to have a horse shoe index. For each horse needs its special shoe.

Michigan Faces Strongest Iowa Team in Years

By JOHN F. MAYHEW

A crowd of 53,000 was in prospect for the acid test of coach Bennie Oosterbaan's Wolverines, rated fifth best team in the land in the Associated Press weekly poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

Michigan, gaining momentum in intersectional victories over Washington and Tulane was rated a slim one touchdown favorite. But Iowa sounded a serious challenge in its stubborn loss to high-ranked Michigan State and its touchdown romp over Washington State.

Oosterbaan planned to spring lose his band of sprinting backs, led by Ted Kress and Tony Branoff, in a bid to launch a successful Big Ten campaign, and preserve Michigan's unbeaten record against Iowa in the last nine games.

Michigan fortunes were given a setback Wednesday when captain-center Dick O'Shaughnessy suffered a leg injury in scrimmage. Whether a bone in the right leg was broken was not known, pending X-rays.

But Oosterbaan said it was doubtful that O'Shaughnessy would be ready for Iowa even if there was no break.

Manning Michigan's aerial guns will be Kress and sophomore quarterback Lou Baldacci.

Despite the Michigan running power, Evashevski was not without some ground weapons of his own. In their first two games, halfbacks Bob Stearns and Eddie Vincent combined with fullback George Broeder to establish a reputation for dangerous and tricky running.

Quarterback Lou Malykiewicz directs the Iowa T-formation attack and does most of the passing, limited thus far this season.

Both teams have shown defensive skill. Michigan has yielded but one touchdown, beating Washington 50-0, and Tulane 26-7. Iowa gave Michigan State a 21-7 victory, but rolled over Washington State, 42-12.

* * *

Prospect was for a hard fought game with line strength a big factor. Here, Michigan will match its veteran line, anchored to standout tackle Art Walker, against the Iowa unit that fields two sophomores, end Frank Gilliam and guard Cal Jones.

Oosterbaan planned on improved Michigan passing to help beat Iowa. Kress has only missed three of the dozen passes he has made to date, but all were for short gains.

Regardless, the big burden will rest on the shoulders of Kress and Branoff. Branoff, a brilliant all around player, is the top Wolverine scorer.

Michigan angles to the game are many. In addition to Evashevski three of his assistants will be "coming home," Charles "Bumps" Elliott, a star of Michigan's 1947 team, Bob Flora, outstanding 1942 Wolverine linesman, and Archie Kodros, captain of the 1939 team.

Spartans Work on Defense for TCU's Split-T

Maryland, Irish, Iowa Have Utilized Formation Effectively on MSC

By ROBERT E. VOGES

EAST LANSING (AP) — Defense against the split T formation occupied the Michigan State football squad in a long drill here yesterday.

Maryland, last team to beat the Spartans back in 1950, used a split T attack. And although Texas Christian is the decided underdog with an upset unlikely, Munn and his assistants are taking no chances.

Notre Dame also used the split T with effect during the past few years. And two weeks ago Iowa made its sole touchdown with a split T attack in the second half.

Although all the squad participated in the signal drills and the group work, a third string outfit quarterbacked by Johnny Matsock of Detroit was the only unit to get live scrimmage.

Billy Wells, Leroy Bolden and the rest of the pony backs spent a long session of pass defense since Texas is expected to try a lot of aerials.

Two Games in Prep Spotlight

By JACK SAYLOR

Games at Holly and Van Dyke hold top interest on the Oakland County area prep grid scene Friday night as key games in the Wayne-Oakland and Interlakes Conferences are scheduled.

One frost doesn't make a winter and one game may not crown a champion, but these two tussles will go far toward determining outcome of the W-O and I-L races.

Holly and Keego Harbor collide in the big Wayne-Oakland game at Holly's Cyclone Park. While Northville still is a strong contender, the Holly-Keego winner is picked to go all the way.

* * *

Waterford has a 1-1 Interlakes record, while Van Dyke is 1-0, but a win Friday would put the Skippers in good position. Berkley (1-0) and Southfield (1-1) also figure in the running.

Holly-Keego game matches two well-balanced teams. Holly has the better offensive record, while Keego's defense is undented.

President co-captain Johnny Wassell has an injured knee, but probably will start. With him in the Keego backfield are Lester and Jerry O'Shaunghnessy and Dennis Singleton.

Line will have Bob Hobson and John Webber at ends, Hern Kuhn and Ed Van Horn at tackles, Jim Deacon and Jerry Larsen at guards and Orlin West at center.

Quarterback Earl Garner directs the Holly split-T with Jerry Hunter, Dick Smith and Wilbur Hillman in the backfield. Tackle Ralph Wells sparks the line, with Jack Felch and Jim Huber at ends, Ed Mix at tackle, Americ Joslin and Darrell Suber at guards and Bill Roberts at center.

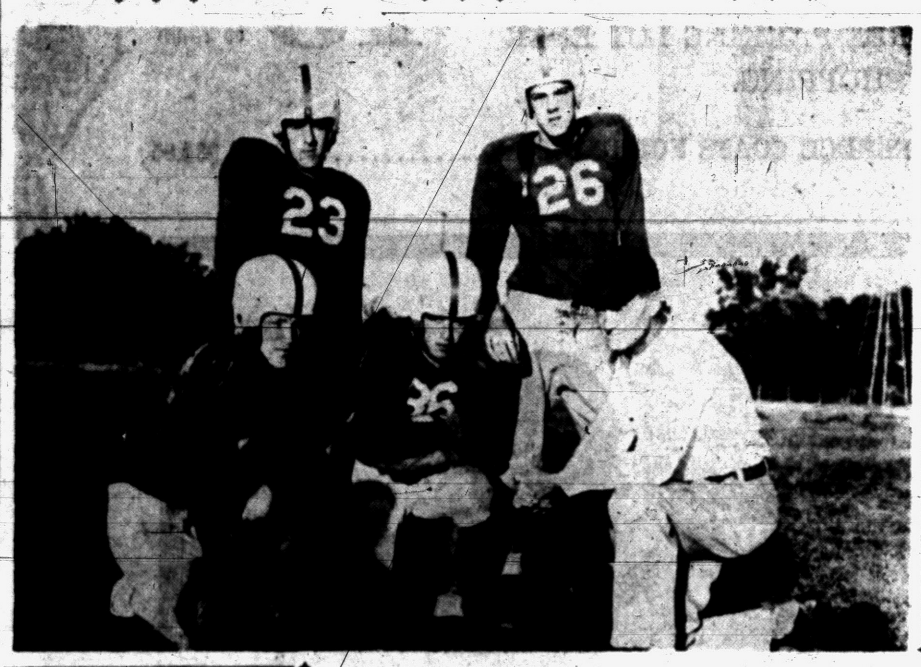

Waterford Coach Walt Ashley credits visual education for getting the Skippers going. Players watched their poor offensive play on film, then went out to block and run their way to a 52-0 win over Walled Lake.

Guard Chuck Koches may be lost for the season and Ron Cordray, also a guard, is a doubtful starter Friday, so Ashley is banking on a trio of sophomores, Al Nestor, Randall Beedle and Ron Kind at that position.

Other leading games in the county Friday send Walled Lake to Berkley, Utica to Rochester, Lapeer to Oxford, Clarkston to Milford and Roseville to Troy.

Browns Seeking Circuit Court Suit Dismissal

Minority Stockholders' Charges Threaten Plan to Move Club

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Attorneys for the St. Louis Browns today resume circuit court pleas for dismissal of an injunction suit which they say would bankrupt the club and threaten the planned switch to Baltimore.

Judge Wiliam B. Flynn in circuit court is hearing the Browns' motion that a suit by minority stockholders be dismissed. The stockholders owning 60,000 shares in the club, filed suit last spring in an effort to keep the American League team in St. Louis. They also asked that a receiver be appointed.

Bill Veeck, who resigned as Browns president Oct. 1 but remains a club director, testified yesterday the Browns now owe $377,000 and would become bankrupt unless the shift to Baltimore is completed. Club attorneys said Baltimore investors may drop their plan to take over the team unless the suit and the receivership proceedings are dismissed.

Representing a group holding about 79 per cent of the Browns' stock, Veeck told the court the club is losing $50,000 a month and will have lost a half million dollars by the end of the year unless the proceedings are scrapped.

Kenneth Teasdale, attorney for Veeck and the team, said president Will Harridge of the American League "has stated positively" the league would take over the Browns franchise and operate with only seven teams next season if another city doesn't play host to the club.

Ryder Golfers Rout Europeans

Burkemo, Frenchman Tie; Ray Maguire Is Only U. S. Loser

PARIS (UP)—America's Ryder Cup players considered their sidetrip visit to France a smashing success today following their near rout of Europe's best pro golfers in a two-day tournament.

Walgast Improved

CAMARILLO, Calif. UP) — Ad Wolgast, the "Michigan assassin," who won the lightweight boxing title 43 years ago, was reported "somewhat improved" at Camarillo State Hospital today.

"If he continues to improve we may be able to take him off the critical list," said Dr. Franklin Garrett, hospital superintendent.

NY 'Bankers'

Yankees Split Record World Series 'Melon'

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees, often accused of acting more like bankers than ballplayers could offer some interesting financial figures today to back up their off-field behavior.

* * *

For their six days work in winning their fifth straight World series the Yankees split a melon of $290,363.48. Twenty-two players plus Manager Casey Stengel, four coaches, a trainer and the road secretary collected a record $8,280.68 each.

* * *

Sixteen other men received partial shares ranging from $6,210.50 for pitcher Bill Miller, shortstop Willie Miranda and clubhouse chief Peter Sheehy down to $400 each for two bat boys.

Nine of the Yankee players collected the big winners' share of the series pool for the fifth straight year. Over this period they have each received $32,112.91. They are Yogi Berra, Hank Bauer, Eddie Lopat, John Mize, Vic Raschi, Allie Reynolds, Phil Rizzuto, Charlie Silvera and Gene Woodling.

The losing Brooklyn Dodgers split their pot of $193,175.65 into 29 full shares and six fractional pieces. A Dodger full share was worth $6,178.42. In losing last year each Dodger collected $4,200.64.

* * *

Milwaukee in the National League and Cleveland in the American, the second-place clubs, received $51,850.62 each. The Chicago White Sox got $34,567.08 for finishing third in the American League and the fourth-place Boston Red Sox received $17,283.54. The Philadelphia Phillies and St. Louis Cardinals, who tied for third in the National League, received $25,925.31 each.

New Orioles Eye Frank Lane for No. 1 Job

Sox' General Manager, Officials Conferring on Situation

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Dynamic Frank Lane, whose numerous baseball deals have involved 170 players in five years as general manager of the Chicago White Sox, was never as cagey as he is today.

The only thing fairly certain is that Lane, a tireless 57, will improve his salary, either getting more from the White Sox to stay or more from the new Baltimore Orioles to leave.

He appears headed to Baltimore as general manager. The lure dangled by the well-heeled syndicate that picked up the St. Louis Browns' franchise is described as a handsome salary, a block of stock and full authority.

Chuck Comiskey, 27-year-old vice president of the White Sox and destined to become the absolute ruler of the club founded by his grandfather, has confirmed that the possible move by Lane is beyond the rumor stage.

He said that "Lane's situation—whether he's going to Baltimore or remaining in Chicago—is now under consideration."

This indicates the White Sox have given Baltimore consent to negotiate and the new American League club cannot be accused of violating the "tampering laws." Lane's Sox contract, reportedly calling for $25,000 to $30,000 annually plus a good bonus based on attendance, still has two years to go.

Lane could not be reached for comment.

Meanwhile, there was a new speculative trend that involved Manager Paul Richards going with Lane if he shifts to Baltimore. It was Lane who insisted on getting Richards for the Sox and they form quite a mutual admiration society.

Late Comeback Results in Tie for Waterford

Junior Skippers Score Twice in Final Period to Stalemate Jeffs

Waterford Junior High scored two touchdowns in the final quarter Thursday to earn a 20-20 tie with Jefferson to feature 2nd-week action in the Suburban Junior High league.

Trailing 20-6 going into the 4th period, Waterford shaved the margin on a short scoring plunge by Mike Rickard and knotted the count on a TD by Lindy Saisthiel and an extra point run by Stan Jones in the final 30 seconds.

Lincoln scored the game's only touchdown early in the opening quarter as the Railsplitters blanked Eastern. Halfback Bob McDonald went eight yards on a reverse for the marker. A holding infraction nullified another Lincoln score minutes later when Bill French passed to Jim Giegler for 35 yards.

Five different players contributed to the scoring as Washington Coach Em Ghianni used 32 men in dumping Walled Lake. Touchdowns were made by halfback Charley Robinson on a 30-yard end sweep; Freeman Watkins on a pass from Art Poe covering 60 yards; Poe on a 5-yard quarterback sneak and Charles Spann on a 55-yard end run. Alex Barge ran for the Braves' only extra point.

Iowa, UM Bands Stage Battle, Too, Saturday

ANN ARBOR (AP) — There will be a battle of bands as well as football teams here Saturday.

Visitors will throw a full-fledged Highland fling. The Michigan band will honor the 100th anniversary of the teaching of engineering at the university.

Grattan Creed Winner

JACKSON (AP)—Grattan Creed, a big three-year-old pacer, captured the Holland feature eighth race at Jackson Raceway last night by doing the mile in 2:07.

Scotland's Lady was second and Mac Abbedale third.

Grattan Creed, owned by Mrs. P. C. Beckner of Indianapolis, paid $15.60, $5.20 and $5.

UCLA Staff Scouts Rams for Pro Rivals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Admitting there is nothing wrong with the ethics of the practice, Los Angeles Ram professional football players from UCLA said today they don't like the idea of being scouted by coaches from their alma mater.

So said Capt. Don Paul, star linebacker of the Rams, protesting over the fact that head coach Red Sanders had permitted several of his assistants to scout the Rams for the Chicago Cardinals.

Sanders, in a vigorous reply, termed the local controversy the outgrowth of a feud between Hampton Pool, head coach of the Rams, and Joe Stydahar of the Cardinals.

Pontiac 'Diana' Downs Buck on 1st Hunting Trip

Kay Nurenberg, 656 Third avenue, downed a buck weighing 70 or 80 pounds with a 26-inch arrow shot from a bow with a 28-pound pull. Mrs. Nurenberg got her prize shortly after 7 o'clock opening day. She shot from a range of 80 feet.

Dressen, Noren Fined $100 for Series Flareups

NEW YORK UP) — When Dodger manager Charley Dressen and Yankee outfielder Irv Noren open their World Series pay checks they'll find $100 missing.

Baseball commissioner Ford Frick disclosed today that he has fined each man that sum as a result of separate outbursts during the series—Dressesn for a fourth-game incident and Noren for a sixth-game incident.

Dressen was fined for arguing loud and long when plate umpire Art Gore ruled that Phil Rizzuto had foul-tipped a two-strike pitch.

Noren was penalized for waving a towel from the Yankee dugout to protest an official scorer's decision that gave Junior Gilliam of the Dodgers an error on Billy Martin's first-inning grounder, instead of giving Martin a hit.

Double Feature Boxing Card Set for Lansing

LANSING (AP)—Completion of a double main event fight card featuring lightweight Kenny Lane of Muskegon was announced here today.

The Capital Sporting Club announced that Ron Stribling, veteran lightweight from Cedar Rapids, Ia., now fighting out of Chicago, will meet Lane in an eight-rounder in Prudden auditorium here Oct. 20.

Second feature bout will be a rematch between Jed Black, former Michigan State boxer turned pro, and Ernie Mosley of Benton Harbor. Black won a split decision from Mosley in a welterweight fight at Chicago last Saturday night.

Smart Obtains Court Order

Injunction to Prevent Enforcement of 1-Year Suspension

DETROIT (AP) — Harness racing driver-trainer Wayne (Curly) Smart obtained a temporary court injunction yesterday preventing enforcement of a one-year suspension by the Michigan Racing Commission.

The veteran Delaware, Ohio, horseman was suspended in connection with the alleged doping of the trotter Abbasong at Wolverine Raceway here Aug. 19.

On Sept. 16 Smart obtained a temporary restraining order similar to today's injunction. The court actions are designed to hold up the suspension pending a decision on Smart's circuit court suit seeking to overrule the ban.

Shoemaker Shooting for 400 Winners This Year

ALBANY, Calif. (AP)—Wee Willie Shoemaker, turfdom's will of the wisp, is closing fast on a national riding record and his personal goal of 400 victories in a single year.

Silent Shoes booted home four winners at Golden Gate fields yesterday to raise his year's total to 373—just 17 short of the record 390 wins notched by Tony Despirito a year ago.

FIVE YEARS AGO—The Indians, behind Gene Bearden, defeated the Braves 2-0 and regained a 2-1 lead in the World Series.

Lovellette Signs Contract With Minneapolis Lakers

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Clyde Lovellette, towering and talented, today donned a Minneapolis uniform and Laker opponents had the cheeriess prospect of facing what may be the tallest basketball team around.

The 6-10 former All-America center who smashed scoring records at Kansas came to terms with the National Basketball Association champions Wednesday after vowing he would never play professionally.

After leading Kansas to an NCAA title in 1952, Lovellette joined the amateur Phillips 66 Oilers. Rest of the NBA clubs bypassed Lovellette in the 1952 draft after he made known his intentions, but the Lakers picked him and gambled that he would change his mind.

Laker manager Max Winter said he would not disclose salary terms, but he said "I think it was a good price when I realize that I can sell him for four times as much to anybody in the league."

Laker coach Johnny Kundla said Lovellette would be used at center and possibly at forward. A double pivot with Mikan and Lovellette operating is a definite prospect.

San Jose Back Tops Nation's Grid Scorers

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Ulm, San Jose State's 190-pound sophomore halfback, is away to a flying start as the nation's leading scorer of touchdowns. And the way he is going the national record is in danger.

Ulm has counted 10 of his team's 13 touchdowns according to statistics compiled by the National Collegiate Bureau.

By the way of comparison, All-America Billy Vessels of Oklahoma topped the field last season with 18 six pointers in 10 games. Record is 26 touchdowns by Jim Leech of VMI in 1920.

Andrews-Davey Sign

DETROIT (UP) —Rumors that Chuck Davey was planning to retire from the prize ring went out the window today. Davey, former collegiate champ from Michigan State College, and Al Andrews of Chicago signed Wednesday night for a 10-round rematch at Olympia Nov. 4.

Walker Starts Fast in Scoring

Doak Has 23 Points in 2 Tilts; Hunchy, Layne Statistical Leaders

The elusive halfback has scored 23 points in the Detroit Lions first two games. Walker has scored one touchdown and kicked eight extra points and three field goals.

Meanwhile, another halfback, Bob Hoernschemeyer, is the Lions' leading ground gainer. The former Navy star has picked up 66 yards in 20 tries—49 of them on a twisting, broken field dash against Baltimore for a touchdown.

Bobby Layne, of course, is the Lions' No. 1 passer. He's completed 19 passes in 42 attempts for 429 yards. Two have gone for touchdowns and three have been intercepted.

Mathewson's Performance of 3 Shutouts in '05 World Series Called Greatest by Veteran Scribe

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK—On many occasions I have been asked to name the greatest pitching performance that has come about in any World Series I have looked at from 1905 to 1953.

* * *

In between there appeared such stars as Ed Walsh, Mordecai Brown, Bill Donovan, George Mullin, Howard Camnitz, Jack Coombs, Eddie Plank, Joe Wood, Rube Marquard, Dick Rudolph, George Tyler, Bill James, Grover Alexander and Babe Ruth.

But I must yield the laurel wreath to the first one. I must name the work of Christy Mathewson in the season of 1905 as the finest, by all odds, that I have ever seen.

* * *

A graduate of Bucknell, he was easily the smartest ballplayer I've ever known. He was the mixture of scholar and gentleman. He was a fine football player. A great pitcher. A fine chess and checker star. A good golfer, who scored in the 70's.

He had a keen, analytical brain, and that year as a pitcher he had blazing speed, and perfect control of a baffling variety of curves, including the famous fadeaway.

* * *

It was the first time I had met Matty and, without any thought of boasting, I believe he had the most confidence in himself of all the pitchers I've seen. Christy Mathewson was an unusually fine fellow as far as his friends went.

* * *

Getting back to that 1905 series, on Oct. 9, he faced Eddie Plank of the Athletics and shut him out 3-0. He allowed four hits.

Three days later, on Oct. 12, he faced Andy Coakley and beat him 9-0. Two days later, on Oct. 14, he hooked up with Chief Bender, who had already shut out McGinnity, and he beat Bender 2-0.

Athletics, who made 14 hits off Matty in the three games, were completely helpless. "I have never seen anything like it," Connie Mack told me once.

Route Seen for '54

Return of Newcombe Makes Brooklyn Big Choice to Walk Off From NL Rivals

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—If the American League is in bad shape from an overdose of Yankees, the rival National League doesn't have much to look forward to either. The only difference is the next World Series will be that the site of the first two games will be Ebbets Field instead of Yankee Stadium.

The Dodgers, even in defeat, still dominate the older circuit as completely as the Yanks do theirs. The baseball expert who doesn't do a perfect job picking the pennant winners next spring will have to be either a rank sentimentalist or a resident of Milwaukee.

If anything, Chuck Dressen's sluggers figure to make a greater shambles of their league than they did this year, provided there are no crippling injuries to key personnel. They could even win a World Series for a change if Allie Reynolds should decide to quit pitching for the Yanks, as he is mildly threatening to do.

* * *

There was a big fellow around the Brooklyn dressing room during the recent playoff name of Don Newcombe, and he will be back pitching for Dressen next spring.

Dressen put the huge Negro fastballer on the scales and was surprised and delighted to find he weighed only 237 pounds, some five less than when he left.

All of which means that instead of having only one 20-game winner, Carl Erskine, on his rather indifferent staff this year, Dressen can reasonably expect the Erskine-Newcombe combination to rack up at least 40 victories. Newk posted a 20-9 mark in his last season, '51, and led the league with 164 strikeouts.

Sooners Slight Favorite

Opponents Too Tough

COALINGA, Calif. (AP)—Superintendent James G. Bunker of Coalinga Junior College cancelled the football team's return game with Yuba JC, explaining today:

Yuba beat Coalinga 57-0 two weeks ago and has totaled 176 points to three opponents' 7.

Texans Have Edge in Series With Oklahoma

Rivalry Is Intense Between Teams in TV Game Saturday

By BOB HOOBING

NEW YORK (AP)—Intense rivalry rides with the 48th renewal of the Southwest's interconference classic between Oklahoma and Texas Saturday which will be telecast to a nationwide audience.

* * *

Texas, the most successful Southwest Conference team over the years, leads the series with 30 victories to 15 for Oklahoma while two have ended in ties. But the Sooners, tops in the Big Seven, have won four of the last five meetings and are expected to enter the game three-point favorites despite a loss to Notre Dame and a tie with Pitt in their first two outings.

The series began back in 1900 with a 28-2 Texas triumph and has been a continuous affair since 1929. In the past the game has been one of thrills and bone-crushing play where favorite roles meant little—and this year's contest figures to be the same.

Last year Oklahoma exploded for 28 points in the first 11 minutes and an overwhelming 49-20 victory—highest score since the Sooners's 50-0 surge in 1908. That's why Oklahomans fear a counterburst Saturday.

Both coaches want this one badly. Ed Price, who never lost to Oklahoma as a star end for the Longhorns (1930-32), is counting heavily on the running of Dougal Cameron and Billy Quinn and the masterminding of the quarterback tandem of Bunny Andrews and Charles Brewer.

Oklahoma's Bud Wilkinson has been experimenting with Gene Calame at quarterback in place of Buddy Leake in preparation for the eighth straight sellout battle in Dallas' huge Cotton Bowl. In other changes Max Boydston moves back to end from fullback and Tom Carroll moves into left half to replace the injured Jack Ging.

Royal Charger was the leading juvenile sire in England and Ireland in 1952 with 13 winners. His Royal Serenade was the winner of the American Handicap and the 1953 Hollywood Gold Cup.

City Bowler Misses '300' by Single Pin

Les Rothbarth, former state Elks singles champion, recently turned in the highest game rolled in Pontiac this year when he missed a perfect 300 game by a singe pin.

Bowling in a non-league game at the West Side Recreation, Rothbarth registered 11 straight strikes before leaving the 10-pin standing on his last ball. He posted 21 strikes in rolling consecutive games of 299 and 256.

A 191 on his 3rd game gave him a 746 series, the highest 3-game total in 12 years of bowling for Rothbarth. A 190-plus average kegler, he participates in the West Huron House League and the Spillwood Classic.

The major league record for most assists by an outfielder in one season is 44 made by Chuck Klein of the Phillies in 1930.

Quinn Predicts Penhant in '54 for Milwaukee 9

BOSTON (AP)—General manager John Quinn of Milwaukee's transplanted Braves, today predicted a 1954 pennant for his National League forces.

"Next year we will have Chet Nichols and Phil Paine back from the service. That means we can give up some pitching strength to get a stronger bench. We're ready to trade and we're shooting for the pennant," Quinn explained.

Turner Is Easy Winner, Wants Another Title Shot

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP)—Gil Turner would like to fight Kid Gavilan again for the welterweight championship—and soon—but Turner's manager says "let's wait and see."

"We'll only fight Gavilan outdoors," George Katz, Turner's manager, said today. "It would be silly for us to go inside when Gil can do $300,000 in an open air show in Philadelphia.

"And, besides, it all depends whether he can make the weight."

Turner weighed 156 pounds—the most in his career — when he trimmed Italo Scortichini of Italy last night in a one-sided 10-rounder in Olympia Stadium. That's nine pounds over the welter limit.

The 22-year-old Philadelphian looked a little flabby around the middle but it didn't seem to hinder his punching power. He raked his back-pedaling opponent with as many as 100 punches in one round.

There were no knockdowns but Turner, firing away like a buzz saw, tried hard to floor Scortichini in the 10th round. The 24-year-old Italian, who tipped in at 155½, refused to go down, although he fled Turner's barrages throughout the fight.

Montreal's Stanley Cup Champs Meet Hawks; Rangers in Detroit

By The Associated Press

National Hockey league, which was still running when the baseball season opened last spring, begins its new year tonight only three days after the end of the World Series.

President Clarence Campbell made his customary prediction of close competition and good crowds.

"The fundamental thing about a successful race is to have balanced competition," Campbell said. "I think we will have it more so than for some years. If that prediction is correct, attendance will almost automatically increase; that's been a proven fact, at least up to now."

Opening action is on two fronts. Montreal Canadiens, Stanley Cup Champions, are hosts to the Chicago Black Hawks while the New York Rangers, last place club last season, visit the league champion Detroit Red Wings.

By Sunday night all teams will have played. Boston Bruins are the last team scheduled for competition. Toronto Maple Leafs meet Chicago in Toronto Saturday night and Detroit plays in Montreal. Sunday schedule calls for Montreal at Boston, Toronto at Detroit and New York at Chicago.

The new season again calls for 70 games for each club.

Detroit Is Host to Last-Place Ranger Sextet

Defending Titlists Don't Rate as Favorites for 1st Time in Years

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Red Wings open their National Hockey League season tonight—and for the 1st time in many years they're not favored to win the league championship.

Montreal, which won the Stanley Cup playoffs last spring, is picked to end Detroit's string of regular-season championships.

Canadiens, bolstered by Jean Beliveau, the fabulous scoring rookie, were selected as the team to beat in a vote of hockey writers at last week's all-star game in Montreal.

This year the Red Wings will be relying on the same players who won the title last year—but flopped in the playoffs. Trying to atone for their sad showing in post-season play are forwards Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay and Goalie Terry Sawchuk.

Sawchuk, perhaps, was the biggest failure. He let easy goals trickle by him and seemed to lose some of the confidence which marked him "the greatest goalie in hockey history,' according to Frank Boucher, coach of the Rangers.

Biggest change in the Rangers is a new goalie—Johnny Bower. New Yorkers picked him up from the Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League.

It will be Bower's first year in the NHL but he isn't without experience behind him.

Tom Dublinski Is Insurance for Lions '11'

Ex-Utah Quarterback Can Fill Position If Layne Is Injured

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP)—A while back, one of the most intriguing questions about the Detroit Lions was:

What happens if quarterback Bobby Layne is unable to play?

If the Lions had a weakness, this was it. They had no one to replace Layne.

Parker will tell you this:

"One quarterback is enough for any team. We're a one-quarterback team."

"We'll have to work with Dublinski an awful lot," said Parker. "It takes time to turn out a polished quarterback."

Chiefs, Central Renew Old Series

Game at Flint Friday Opens '53 SVC Slate

Pontiac Rates Favorite Over Long-Time Rival in 38th Meeting

By BILL MARTIN

One of Michigan's oldest high school football rivalries will be renewed Friday night, when Pontiac High and Flint Central open the 1953 Saginaw Valley Conference campaign in Flint's Atwood Stadium.

Only other league game scheduled Friday sends Saginaw High to Bay City to test the powerful Central Wolves. Arthur Hill entertains Alpena in a non-conference contest and Flint Northern has an open date.

Friday's clash in Flint will mark the 38th meeting of the two teams in a series that dates back to 1910 and has been continuous since 1927. Central holds a commanding lead in the rivalry, having won 25 and tied two of the 37 games. Chiefs won, 21-18, last season.

Pontiac will go into this year's game as the favorite on the strength of its 3-0 record. Central bowed to Muskegon, 20-6, and beat Lansing Eastern, 21-0, in its only starts to date.

Coach Howard Auer's chief threat is the passing of quarterback Larry Horde. The Indian signal-caller hit 6-foot 3-inch end Larry Catlin, for two touchdowns against Lansing Eastern last week. Catlin also scored Central's only marker against Muskegon, scooping up a blocked punt and racing 30 yards for the TD.

Chiefs have not yet faced a strong aerial attack, but lack of height in their defensive backfield leaves them extremely vulnerable in that department.

Backing up the line are Bill Rose (5-6) and Bill McLarty (5-7), while Walt Poe (5-10) and Coley Gracey (5-8) are at the halfbacks and Jimmy Williams (5-5) is at safety. Catlin will tower five inches over the tallest man and, being a star hurdler, is unusually fast and agile.

Pontiac will be at full strength while Central will miss its No. 1 left half Ron Parker, who injured his knee in the opener. He is expected to come in for extra point kicking only.

Bow Hunter Loses Struggle With Deer

LUDINGTON (AP) — Victor Jensen, 44, came out second best in his bow-and-arrow tussle with a deer.

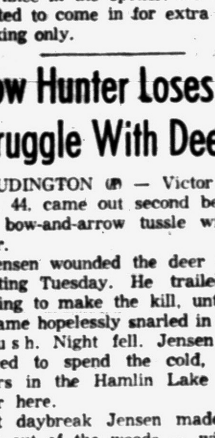

Jensen wounded the deer while hunting Tuesday. He trailed it, hoping to make the kill, until he became hopelessly snarled in thick brush. Night fell. Jensen was forced to spend the cold, dark hours in the Hamlin Lake area near here.

At daybreak Jensen made his way out of the woods — without the deer. A posse of sheriff's officers, conservation men and volunteers had been looking for him.

Got Along With Boss

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Marty Marion, who managed the St. Louis Browns this year, says he got along just dandy with Bill Veeck, his boss. "Mr. Veeck never told me who to play," says Marion, "only he'd like to see me use Satchel Paige more often. Satchel is a great athlete but he's 53."

Hoople Gives Youth Fling With 'Gemetlick's Theory'

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

Therefore this week, I am digressing from Dr. Zlobotny's impeccable system, and giving you the selections of my nephew Leander. Please understand this is all in the spirit of good clean fun.

The other day that mischievous jackanapes Leander approached me with this sort of proposition:

"I've got the best system yet for picking football games, Uncle Bulgy (Hak-kaff! I loathe that name)!

"It's the Gonzalez Gemetlick theory of Kenesmetics, based on rhomboids, thyroids and blueboids!"

Well, I believe in giving every duffer his chance, so this week's predictions are based on Leander's strange-sounding system. Please note that this method is not without its upsets also.

Kansas City Playoff Chances Kept Alive

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Down but not out, Kansas City Blues last night battled from behind to beat Montreal 4-3 and keep alive their slim hopes in the Little World Series.

Blues scraped themselves off the floor and turned in a sparkling performance, scoring the tying and winning runs in the last of the sixth inning last night.

Kansas City, which had played poor ball in dropping three straight at Montreal, performed brilliantly afield behind the two-hit pitching of Bob Ferris and Mel Wright.

Notre Dame Grid Mecca

NOTRE DAME, Ind. (AP) — The Notre Dame football squad this season has players from 10 states, Canada and Hawaii. Illinois produced 17 team members. Of the Illinois group, 14 are from Chicago. Ohio is second on the list with 11, followed closely by Pennsylvania with 10.

Probert Paces Skipper JV's to Win Over WL

Waterford High School junior varsity, unbeaten in nine games over a three-year period, added Walled Lake to its list Tuesday night at Walled Lake with an 18-0 victory.

Norman Probert again paced the junior Skippers with two touchdowns on runs of 46 and 32 yards. Third score came on a 50-yard pass play from Dave Latta to Jerry Harnack.

Pilot Fixes Landing Gear While in Flight

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Nicholas Morohovich, 38, of nearby Conneaut Lake, and Francis Confer, 31, of Adamsville, took off in their four-seater airplane yesterday for a routine flight.

Then Morohovich heard a loud snap and discovered his landing gear had broken and was dangling under the fuselage.

Making a lasso out of two safety belts, he leaned far out of the plane, snagged the gear and tied it to a strut while Confer piloted the plane with one hand and held the other man's legs with the other.

Nation Is Humming Dragnet Theme

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Dumm da dum dummm.

The opening theme of "Dragnet," the cops-and-hoodlums TV show on NBC tonight, has become the most famous four notes in America today. They have eclipsed "da da da dumm"—the start of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony that was the victory symbol in World War II.

Reports Variety: "No show biz phenomenon has captured public interest as much as the musical theme of 'Dragnet' since the pioneer radio catchphrase days of 'Voss you dere, Sharlie?'" 'Wanna buy a duck?' . . . "

Everywhere you go, it's "dumm da dum dummm." It blares from juke boxes and radios. TV comics use it as a punch line. My five-year-old even brought it home from kindergarten the other day.

The craze was set off by Ray Anthony's hard-rocking disc of the "Dragnet" theme. 'Now it is reaching a frenzied climax with a runaway record seller called "St. George and the Dragonet." Heaven knows where it will all end.

I sat down with bandleader Anthony to find out how it all happened. The suave musician, who looks like a trumpet playing Cary Grant, said it started over a year ago.

"My manager, Fred Benson, thought it would be a good idea to get out a record on the 'Dragnet' theme," he explained. "We asked one of my arrangers to whip up a treatment.

"Every month or so, I would ask him how he was coming. He'd say, 'Man, I can't get with it.'

"So we let it slide. There was some doubt whether Jack Webb would release the rights to the music for records.

"When we were in New York last summer, we heard that Buddy Morrow's band was coming out with a 'Dragnet' side on Victor. So I ordered a couple of arrangements in a hurry—one playing it straight and the other in boogie.

"We sat down to the recording date and played both versions. Neither of them sounded right. So we combined them and added some new touches. Four hours later, we came off with the finished product."

Capitol Records put a hurry order on the disc and beat Victor to the market. Anthony's version began selling like hot dogs at a World Series. It was by far the biggest seller his band ever had.

Then came "St. George and the Dragonet." A hilarious satire of Webb's underplaying, repetitive style, it was whipped up by two "Time for Beany" creators, Stan Freberg and Daws Butler, plus Walter Schumann, who composed the original "Dragnet" music.

The record is one of the fastest sellers in history, reaching 900,000 and still climbing. It has naturally cut into Anthony's sales. Why would his own company bring out a competing record?

"That's what I'd like to know," replies Anthony, who is slightly indignant about it. But he added that his sales are beginning to build up steam again. The latest figure is 700,000.

Many people have wondered how Webb feels about the jazzing up and lampooning of his TV show. He appears to favor the Anthony version and tolerate "St. George." But he has frowned on Spike Jones' record and some others.

"Its the small, commercial outfits, which never bothered to secure clearance, that we're out to stop," he said.

The big question about "Dragnet" is whether the show's theme will make the Hit Parade TVer, which is sponsored by a rival cigaret firm. So far it hasn't made the grade among the top seven tunes. Yet it appears in the top three of most record sales, radio and juke box lists. How now, Hit Parade?

Worker Buried Almost Half Hour Found Alive

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A street workman is recovering from shock and bruises after being buried nearly half an hour beneath 10 feet of earth.

A 16-foot sewer ditch caved in to within six or seven feet of the top yesterday while Dave Barlanga 39, was removing timbering which held up the sides.

Other workmen freed one arm in 20 minutes and managed to uncover Barlanga's head five minutes later. Firemen fed air to him by a hose, and after an hour and a half he was released.

Election Laws Draw Criticism

Oklahomans Incensed by the Open Flouting of Statutes

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Open flouting of state election laws, especially campaign spending procedures, has prompted demands for revision of antiquated election statutes and passage of a corrupt practices act.

Latest to join the bandwagon was the Executive Committee of the state Democratic Party, which asked modification of the statutes at the next legislative session. Some state legislators say the situation is acute enough for the calling of a special session.

* * *

The controversy reached a crescendo when it was revealed that the financial backer of Gov. Johnston Murray paid $7,500 to a defeated candidate in the primary for a radio address delivered in Murray's behalf.

Rep. James C. Nance, speaker of the House, said W. C. (Bill) Doenges, the financial angel who is now Democratic national committeeman, admitted paying Frank P. Douglass, who ran third in the primary, for the address.

Douglass touched off the fireworks by filing suit against Doenges for $22,500 more. He said Doenges promised him $30,000 for "certain services."

* * *

The current election law, passed in 1910, limits personal campaign expenditures to $3,000. The governor's expenditure record showed his expenses were about $2,800.

What his friends and well-wishers spend on his campaign is none of his concern, he points out.

Forest Fire Hazards Worsening, Says State

LANSING (AP)—The usual October forest fire hazard is getting worse because of lack of rain, the State Conservation Department said today.

The heightening of the hazard was indicated by 28 fires which damaged 125 acres in the past week. This was the highest toll since the end of August.

The department appealed to all hunters and others using Michigan wild lands to use care with fire in any form.

Wheat Steady, Rallies Others

CHICAGO (AP) — Firmness in wheat helped rally other grains after an early selloff on the Board of Trade today.

Wheat advanced around a cent at times, July leading, on continued dry weather in the Southwest and an overnight boost in the government subsidy payment to exporters.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was unchanged to ⅞ cent higher, December $1.91⅝; corn was unchanged to ⅜ lower, December $1.43⅜, and oats were ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, December 74⅜. Soybeans were ½-1¼ cents lower, November $2.62½, and lard was unchanged to 10 cents a hundred pounds higher, October, $15.85.

Market Higher but Not Exciting

NEW YORK (AP) — The Stock Market was higher today in a quiet way with most major groups participating in the rise.

The advance usually was confined to minor fractions, but an occasional stock went higher.

Trading started briskly and then died down to a walk.

The market yesterday enjoyed a sharp rally in the fifth hour and the day's advance was equal to the losses of the two previous days. There was no new development to account for the rise.

Retailers See Profit Increase

Many Michigan, Ohio and Indiana Merchants Predict Good Year

DETROIT (AP) — An increase in profits in 1954 was predicted by a large percentage of 130 retailers from Michigan, Indiana and Ohio today.

The retailers were polled at a Midwest clinic of the National Retail Dry Goods Assn.

A drop in profits, however, was sighted by 32 per cent of the retailers in anticipating the 1954 picture. Twenty-six per cent expected profits would remain about the same as 1953.

An increase up to 5 per cent in 1954 retail sales was seen by 40 per cent of the retailers. Some 7 per cent predicted sales would improve by more than 5 per cent.

But 23 per cent of the retailers forecast things would remain the same as 1953 sales totals, and 22 per cent predicted a 1 to 5 per cent drop in sales next year. Seven per cent said the drop might exceed 5 per cent.

Seventy-one per cent of the retailers forecast Christmas sales this year would be better than last year.

Husband Is Lost for Days in Supermarket Maze

NEW YORK (AP) — There is a story going around about the discovery recently of a well-preserved skeleton of a husband in one of the nation's smaller supermarkets.

Thousands of wives had passed the poor fellow by, but as he wasn't their husband naturally they did nothing about it. One nearsighted lady finally tripped over the skeleton and complained to the store management.

Not wishing to jump to any conclusions, a stock boy bent down and shouted into the ear of the still figure: "Special sale going on, mister. Three packs of cigarettes for a quarter!"

When the skeleton failed to leap to its feet, the management decided it was a case for the cops.

"Oh, that must be George," his wife cried, breaking into tears. "We went to the store a year ago last week — I remember I was wearing an old house dress and the print had faded — and somehow George and I became separated.

"I would have gone back for him, but they were having a special on soap powders that day, and I hurried on so as not to miss it. When George didn't show up at home later, I didn't know what to think.

"I thought perhaps he had run off with a blonde we used to see in that store occasionally. And all these months he was only lost in the supermarket! Oh, George, George! How could I have mistrusted you so?"

Well, it turned out that George, who had never been in a supermarket without his wife and therefore had never bothered to make mental notes of the landmarks to guide him through the grocery forest, had been unable to find an exit.

He had simply wandered about in circles until he finally collapsed by the dog biscuit counter and expired of hunger in an ocean of food bargains.

The police were unable to fix the blame. George's wife had visited the store dozens of times in the interim but never came across him.

"Of course, we noticed him dozens of times," he said. "But you get all kinds of people in a supermarket. We thought maybe it was just an odd hobby of his — lying on the floor and looking at dog pictures. But we hesitated to interrupt him. You know the policy of our store — 'The customer is always right.'"

He doesn't have the time to learn its pitfalls and dangers — the towers of cans that can topple and crush him, the enticing little paths that lead nowhere, the freezers he can bend over and fall into and slowly congeal into an icicle.

And if, in some desperate emergency, she has to send him to the supermarket by himself, she will provide him with a life-saving kit containing the following items:

1. Sandwiches and a canteen of water.
2. A compass.
3. A Boy Scout ax he can use to blaze his trail by gashing holes in food cans along the way.

She might also include a packet of matches and a blanket. Then, if all else fails, the lost husband can set fire to the broom display and send up smoke signals of distress.

There are so many ways a husband can get lost by himself these days that it is pure wifely mismanagement for a woman to lose her man to a supermarket.

Damascus Steel Excelled Today

Famed Ancient Blades No Equal for Uniform Modern Product

WASHINGTON—Best of its day, steel of the famed Damascus blade that flashed in the sun of Bible lands against the Crusaders of medieval times nevertheless is greatly excelled by the product of modern steelmakers.

The Damascene alloy was of iron and carbon, laboriously smelted and as varying in properties as the natural ore.

Modern steel is amalgamated with metals of which the ancients never dreamed, is manufactured in unvarying quality, and surpasses the Damask product in strength, pliability and willingness to stay sharp.

Saracens wielding swords of Damascus successfully barred the road to Jerusalem, goal of the zealous European Christian knight through all the ancient Crusades. British Gen. Allenby took the Holy City at last in the first World War, in an age when the rifle had replaced the sword.

The steel of which the early Damascus blades were made came from India by dhow and camel caravan to Damascus and other Middle Eastern cities. There it was handwrought into graceful weapons by the armorers of the teeming bazaars.

An armorer's parchment of instructions unearthed in the 19th Century at Tyre indicates there may have been grisly performance tests of swords turned out for rulers and high officers.

The blade, said the parchment, should be tried against a slave bound to a block, the final criterion being its ability to lop off the head of the unfortunate at one stroke without incurring a nick.

One of the armoring industry's chief patrons was the Roman Emperor Diocletian (A. D. 245-313.) The craft perished in 1401, when Tamerlane carried off the smiths. Modern successors of those ancient artisans are gold and silversmiths, and craftsmen who produce inlays of wood, brass and copper.

Tells Dairymen to Cut Prices

Benson's Assistant Says Consumers Should Get Better Break

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Asst. Secretary of Agriculture John H. Davis today urged the dairy industry to give consumers "a better break" by adopting prices and sales policies that will encourage greater buying of milk and its products.

Lower prices can be offered, he said, if dairymen, distributors and processors reduce costs all the way from the farm to the home.

Davis said the present dairy surplus problem largely reflects under consumption of dairy products, rather than overproduction, from the standpoint of an adequate national diet.

* * *

In a speech prepared for a meeting of the Dairymen's League Cooperative, he said the government has had to buy 25 million dollars worth of butter, cheese and dried milk since April 1 to carry out price guarantees to dairymen.

"The disposal of the stocks of dairy products acquired under the price support program poses a very serious problem," Davis said. "And we are looking into every possible outlet we can.

* * *

Davis added:

"It is obvious that we cannot dump these stocks onto the market in a way that would undermine our price support system."

Davis said there are two ways of dealing with dairy surpluses. One, he said, would be a reduction of 3 per cent in milk production. The other, he said, is cooperative effort by the dairy industry to gain greater consumption of milk by "offering greater incentives all along the line."

The latter course, he said, appears to be more desirable.

Would Publicize Law Violators

Conservation Head to Ask No More Secrecy in Game Arrests

LANSING (AP)—Conservation Director G. E. Eddy said today he will recommend abolition of a conservation commission policy against publication of the names of game law violators.

He will propose instead, he said, that the commission authorize conservation officers and other staff members to release the names when they become a matter of public record.

But still undecided was whether the names should become public on arrest or on conviction.

Eddy said he would ask Atty. Gen. Frank G. Millard to rule whether officers' arrest records were public or whether they would have to wait for convictions before releasing the names.

Eddy's recommendation will be made to the Conservation Commission at its Oct. 15 and 16 meetings at Higgins Lake.

He decided to bring the matter before the commission when a complaint was filed with Gov. Williams. The complaint was that a conservation officer refused to release the names of 10 men who had been fined for possessing more than the legal limit of ducks.

Eddy backed the officers' stand, contending the commission's policy was to leave publication of violators' names to the courts which convicted them.

"We have no desire to shield any game violators, and never did. But at the same time, we do not want to crucify the innocent."

Scientist Says Public Blinded to Atom Virtues

DETROIT (AP)—The atom's terrifying potential in the form of a bomb has all but blinded America to its peacetime possibilities, a University of Michigan scientist says.

Dr. Henry Gomberg emphasized in a speech here yesterday that the atom is the first source of energy man has found which does not rely on the sun for its origin.

This, he pointed out, may eventually free man of his dependence on fuels like coal and oil that the sun has created.

Dr. Gomberg is assistant director of the university's Phoenix Memorial Project, a vast program of research into peacetime uses of atomic energy.

Dr. Gomberg cited the development of a method of sterilizing pork by exposig it to atomic radiation. The process stops the life cycle of parasitic worms which pass from hogs to man, causing trichinosis. He said doctors estimated that 25 million Americans carry the trichina worm in their systems.

It also is conceivable, he said, that man might some day learn enough about nature's process of photosynthesis to produce food in the laboratory without benefit of the sun.

Dr. Gomberg also serves as consultant to Dow Chemical Co. and Detroit Edison in their research into peacetime uses of atomic energy.

EDEN WELL — Looking in fine health, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden waves as he arrives to visit Prime Minister Winston Churchill. Eden has just returned to London from Greece after recuperating from a long illness.

Blame H-Mixup on Ike Regime

Dem Senators Call On Administration to Clear Confusion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Several Democratic senators said today confusion is being spread by Eisenhower administration spokesmen on the danger of an atomic or hydrogen bomb attack by the Russians.

"It is high time that the National Security Council or the President himself made a plain statement of the facts as they are known in this matter of life and death," said Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn).

President Eisenhower had an opportunity to speak out at a news conference late today if he wished.

In a speech in New Jersey two days ago, he said the "mysteries of the atom" are known to Russia. He warned that atomic warfare might doom "every nation and society."

* * *

Later the same day Secretary of Defense Wilson said it might be "stretching it a bit" to say that Russia now has a practical hydrogen bomb and the planes to deliver it.

Moscow claimed on Aug. 20 to have tested experimentally a type of hydrogen bomb. The U. S. Atomic Energy Commission said it had detected a Soviet atomic explosion which produced "thermonuclear (hydrogen) reactions."

AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss has spoken of the explosion in Russia of a hydrogen "device"—presumably an experimental model not suitable for use in warfare.

"The Soviets with their smaller industrial establishment were able to test a thermonuclear device within nine months of our own," Strauss said in a Sept. 30 speech in New York.

Wilson voiced doubt on Tuesday that Russia would be able to carry on sustained atomic warfare within three years, and he said he thought this country had a lead of three or four years on the Soviets in atomic weapons development.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) said he had been struck by what he regarded as differences in Eisenhower's and Wilson's statements on Tuesday. "I have a little difficulty in following it," he said.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga), senior minority member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he doubted if the Russians have an H-bomb ready for delivery right now but he added, "I'm not willing to gamble on it."

In a separate interview, Sen. Robertson (D-Va) said administration leaders should get together on whether the Russians have an H-bomb.

One-Man Sack Filling Easier With Funnel

Here's a comparatively simple solution. Cut the bottom out of a bucket and fasten the bucket to the wall with a suitable bracket. Drape the sack around the bucket with hooks suspended from the bracket.

Dairy Equipment Demand Rises Despite Cutbacks

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UP) — Despite cutbacks in home deliveries of milk and consolidations in the dairy industry, demand for dairy equipment has expanded.

Frank A. Selke, dairy equipment sales manager for the Pfaudler Co., said the paradox resulted because companies now require greater storage facilities because of those changes. A 41 per cent boost in sales was reported by this division of the company for the fiscal year ended May 31.

A Bug for Realism

LARAMIE, Wyo. (UP)—A realistic artist shipped Smokey, a favorite horse of "Buffalo Bill's" to New York from Wyoming in 1922 to be used as a model for an equestrian statue.
