England Awaits U.S. Sub After Epic Polar Passage

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American atomic submarine Nautilus headed toward Europe today after pioneering a transpolar path for tomorrow's commerce- or missile-firing undersea craft.

U. S. Navy headquarters in London announced that the Nautilus is expected to reach Portland, England, Tuesday after a history-making voyage from Pearl Harbor under the Arctic ice cap.

In complete secrecy, the Nautilus—world's first nuclear sub. completed its epic 1,830 mile journey under ice four days ago. It traveled from the Pacific to the Atlantic, passing through the Arctic Sea lying between North America and Russia.

News of the dramatic feat was announced yesterday at a special White House ceremony. President Eisenhower decorated the sub commander, who was flown back especially for the occasion. And Eisenhower awarded a unit citation to the Nautilus' 116-man crew.

The news of the Nautilus' voyage across the top of the world was nourishing for an American public that has had a diet of Russian firsts in science and arms.

The White House obviously intended it to be so. By plan, there was first deep secrecy, then a tantalizing hint of a good story to come. This was followed by the dramatic announcement and ceremony.

But to whatever prestige-establishing purpose the government put the Nautilus' feat, the long cruise beneath the sea did compile a record of artful navigation, cold courage and technical skill.

The Nautilus left Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, before dawn on July 23. Sailing silently northward, it passed through the Bering Strait, between Alaska and Siberia, and on toward the arctic.

Cmdr. William R. Anderson, who hails from Waverly, Tenn., was asked by newsmen if he thought the Russians may have detected the Nautilus as it moved through the Bering Straight.

From the Bering Strait on, the Nautilus operated in international waters. But although the Arctic Ocean is designated as international, it is divided into spheres of interest — Russian on the one hand and U.S., Canadian and Danish on the other. Denmark owns Greenland.

96 HOURS UNDER ICE

In charting the "Northwest Passage" from the Bering Sea to the Greenland Sea, the Nautilus traveled for 96 hours submerged under a thick ice cover. The sub was navigated by a form of dead reckoning.

Late last Sunday, the Nautilus reached the North Pole. From there, Anderson wrote Eisenhower a letter noting the event and wishing the President "Godspeed in

3 State Men in Crew

John N. Krawszyk, 34, Eaton Rapids.

Lynus J. Larch, 36, Hancock.

John H. Michaud, 36, Detroit.

OK Strike Deadlines

DETROIT (UPI) — The national councils of the United Auto Workers Union for Ford and General Motors today adopted resolutions calling for strike deadlines to get bogged-down negotiations back in motion.

Moments later, the Chrysler council adopted a similar resolution.

Hail Nautilus Exploration as 'Answer to Sputniks'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The dramatic voyage under the polar ice cap by the atomic submarine Nautilus was hailed today in Western capitals as a momentous achievement opening new vistas for both war and peace.

But there were a few barbed comments—both at home and abroad—mainly directed at the White House.

On Capitol Hill, several legislators called the feat an answer to Russia's Sputniks.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California hailed the news as an example to the world for "not selling America short."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee said "both the military and peaceful applications of this voyage are enormous. It opens up waters adjacent to all of

How Shooting for the Moon May Pay Off

May Bring Valuable Pictures Back to Earth

Moon Rocket May Drop Robot to Roam Surface of Planet

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer

Missile men of the Army and Air Force already are deeply into plans to shoot the earth's nearest neighbor. The ingenious details of their conspiracy are a startling reminder of how close man himself is to taking that first gigantic step through space.

The scientists say they will:

1. Send a rocket careening around the moon to get some pictures of both its known and unknown sides and bring them back to earth.

2. Actually hit the moon with a rocket that might hurl grenades or fire mortars in an effort to find out what the moon is made of.

3. Perhaps, in the distant future, land a sort of automated tank that would roam the lunar surface, measuring conditions and reporting them back to earth.

Earlier this year the Defense Department authorized a half-dozen lunar probes on recommendation of the Earth

Burned Victim's 'Closest Friend' Newest Suspect

Questioning of Keller Continues Third Day; Uncle Still Missing

Teamsters Union business agent Jack Thompson of Flint Local 332, described as the "closest friend" of human torch Frank Kierdorf, was arrested in Flint today on suspicion of arson in the blaze which cost Kierdorf his life.

State Attorney General Paul Adams has pulled together conclusive evidence that Kierdorf, 56, an ex-convict and also a local 332 business agent, was fatally burned while setting an explosive fire at a dry cleaning establishment.

A secret witness said he saw two men running from the burning building and heard the anguished screams of a third man inside.

Kierdorf, fatally burned in his own bungled arson job, goes to his grave in Flint today, with the mystery surrounding his fiery death still unsolved.

Atty. Gen. Adams has definitely tied the 56-year-old business agent for Flint Teamsters Local 332 to the fire that ruined a suburban Flint cleaning pickup station Sunday night.

PROBE FLORIDA VIOLENCE

In Hollywood, Fla., laundry owner Bernard Joseph said today he will ask the FBI to investigate a possible link between two attempted bombings at his laundry in Hollywood and accused arsonist Frank Kierdorf.

Kierdorf owned a home in West Hollywood.

Several bits of information about Kierdorf led Joseph to speculate about the union business agent's possible involvement in jobs pulled here.

A light-colored Cadillac bearing Michigan license plates still is parked in the car port of the Kierdorf home. The license was issued to the General Drivers Union in Flint, Mich.

Hollywood Det. Don Amantini, who has been handling the bombing declined to comment on the Cadillac, but said Kierdorf was

New Models Spark Activity

Auto Plants Call Workers

By Associated Press

The auto industry, gearing to new model production and rosy expectation for the 1959 model year, is calling back laid-off workers for the first time since late last fall.

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler said more than 180,000 will be recalled by mid-November as the big three swing into full 1959 production.

First back will be some 42,000 Chrysler workers-the majority of them Aug. 18 when the company starts production of the new cars.

General Motors' hourly rated employes will be increased from fewer than 200,000 to more than 325,000 between now and mid-November. And nearly 40,000 workers will be recalled at Ford.

A Ford spokesman said a nationwide peak of 102,500 employes is expected there at the height of 1959 production.

In the first quarter of 1957, General Motors had 387,000 hourly rated employes; Ford had 143,000 and Chrysler had 108,000.

With production and earnings off generally throughout the industry this year, the auto makers have looked to recoup with the 1959 models.

The pickup in employment already is reflected in national figures. In Washington Friday the government reported the number of unemployed Americans dropped by 143,000 in July, to 5,294,000.

Recall to automotive plants came as Michigan Employment Security Commission reported that unemployment in the state approximately a month ago (mid-July) has reached 475,000 and as the international executive board of the United Auto Workers Union met in secret to map an offensive on the deadlocked new contract talks.

The board heard reports from bargaining units at the big three yesterday but ended its meeting with no announcement. UAW councils representing workers at GM, Ford and Chrysler hold separate meetings today and will be briefed by union officials on the status of negotiations.

Community Chest Groups Move Into New Home

Community Services Building Open

Opening of the new Community Services building at 132 Franklin Blvd., is announced by the Pontiac Area United Fund. The structure will house ten of the local health, welfare, recreation and counseling agencies which are members of the UF.

"The 15,000 square foot, two-story building represents the culmination of years of planning aimed at reducing overhead expenses and improving agency services," said Glenn Griffin, chairman of the Fund's building committee.

The building is now open to the public, but official dedication ceremonies will be held at a later date.

Designed as a functional structure with no frills, it houses the offices of the Girl Scouts, Family Service of Oakland County and the Michigan Children's Aid Society on the ground floor. In addition the first floor has a meeting room, lunchroom and combination secretary pool and bookkeeping room.

The second floor accommodates the offices of the Clinton Valley Council of Boy Scouts, Big Brothers of Oakland Couny, Camp Fire Girls, Central Volunteer Bureau, Urban League of Pontiac, Visiting Nurse Association, Oakland County YMCA and the Pontiac Area United Fund and Community Chest.

There is a 20,000 square foot parking area for the staff and public.

The building was constructed, financed and will be maintained by Paul A. Kern, Inc., for a 12-year rental period. At the end of the 12 years the building will become the property of the Community Chest under terms of a rental purchase contract negotiated by the United Fund and Community Chest officials.

Oakland Highway Toll in '58 52

Sterling Green, of 21714 Wheeler St., walked into the side of a car driven by Irwin C. Vollbrecht, 71, of 25640 Larkin St., Detroit, said Farmington Township Police.

Vollbrecht was not held. He told police that he didn't even know he'd hit anyone. As he was driving north on Middlebelt Rd. just north of Grand River Ave., he said he heard a thump and pulled over to see what had caused it.

AT SENATE HEARING — Frank E. Fitzsimmons, business representative of Detroit Teamster Local 299, Friday told the Senate Rackets Committee in Washington the local sold a black Cadillac to Herman Kierdorf last Saturday. Investigators here believe the car was used in an arson attempt which caused Frank Kierdorf's death.

Frantic Mother Fails to Break Death-Hold

Bear Mauls, Kills Girl of 7

JASPER, Alta. (AP) — A black bear grabbed a terrified girl as she tripped on the steps of her cottage yesterday and dragged her away to death.

In a frantic effort to save her daughter, Mrs. Jack Coates ran from the cottage, took hold of the child's legs and pulled as the bear backed off with his victim between his teeth.

The bear dragged the screaming mother and daughter 50 feet into a bush and fatally mauled the girl. It dropped the child when startled by three girls who rushed upon the scene in answer to Mrs. Coates' cries.

The bear was shot by a cottage owner as it turned to pounce on the girls. Barbara died en route to a hospital here. Mrs. Coates was not injured.

PICKING BERRIES

When the bear appeared, Barbara and her 5-year-old sister, Alison, were picking berries behind the family cottage at Sunwapta Falls, 30 miles south of this Rocky Mountain resort.

Alison dashed into the cottage. The bear caught Barbara as she stumbled on the steps. He snatched her by the sweater and slacks and began lumbering away.

"He would stop every 10 feet, look me in the eye, shake Barbie and then back off farther," Mrs. Coats said.

"After he had dragged us about 50 feet through the brush, I lost my grip on Barbie and shouted for someone to help."

Other vacationers heard the screams but were too frightened to help.

Park Supt. J. A. Pettis called it "a tourist bear, a 4-year-old and medium sized one. People have been scratched by them before this, but this is the first time anything this serious has happened."

The girl's father was fishing at a nearby stream at the time. Later another bear ambled up to him, and Coats bolted for the cabin. A Mountie shot it.

Flint Teamster Official Arrested in Arson Probe

Still unanswered is why the Flint bombing was done, whether connected with Teamster business at Local 332 or elsewhere, and whether there is a connection with other dry cleaner bombings recently in Detroit.

UNCLE VANISHED

Also unknown is the whereabouts of Herman Kierdorf, uncle of the victim and a former business agent for Detroit Teamster Council 42 in Detroit.

Herman, an ex-convict like his nephew, dropped out of sight Monday after visiting the burning victim in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. Since the disappearance Adams has decided Herman is "definitely connected" to the arson, and suspects he was one of the two men who pulled the job off with Frank Kierdorf.

The fire victim was to be buried today at 3:30 p.m. in Flint's Sunset Hills Cemetery following services at Colonial Chapel. Local 332 had taken care of the funeral arrangements.

DOUBTS CONFESSION

Kierdorf died Thursday without ever admitting vocally that he took part in the arson. Officials believed that he may have signified a confession by a movement of his hand. But Adams doubted the validity of this, since Kierdorf's story up to that time had been "a tissue of lies," he said.

Among the series of Teamsters and non-Teamsters questioned in Pontiac yesterday were William Hoffa, business representative for Pontiac Local 614 and a brother to James, the Teamsters president; and Joseph Baines, a business agent at James Hoffa's home Local 299 in Detroit, currently serving as another business representative for Local 614.

Both Teamsters were quizzed, in part, about their whereabouts Sunday night, it was reported. Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor, who is conducting questioning here, said Hoffa was "completely cooperative."

ATTORNEY PRESENT

Questioning of Donald Keller, 34, of 6512 Lawton Ave., Detroit, is going on for the third straight day. Keller, quizzed for more than eight hours yesterday, is being held in protective custody at the Oakland County Jail. He had admitted he was with Herman Monday afternoon.

Other details about the Pontiac interviews were not released here. Taylor said all announcements would have to come from Adams, who moved his headquarters yesterday to Flint State Police headquarters.

Also questioned and released were six employes rounded up in a raid on the National Meat & Food Foundation, Inc., 15351 Livernois Ave., Detroit.

They were William F. Kenealy, 33, Herman's foster son who lives with him at 29068 Spoon St., Madison Heights; Guido DiMambro, 25, of 6345 Globe St., Detroit; Howard J. Trezona, 57, of 183 E. Dakota, Detroit, and his wife, Ann, 46; Julius Willmy, 68, of 224 Cortland Ave., Highland Park; and David Denning, 27, of 5547 S. Martindale, Detroit.

SIX QUESTIONED

The six were questioned about Herman's disappearance, Taylor said. On the afternoon of his disappearance, Herman reportedly tried to sell his black Cadillac at a Livernois auto lot near the store.

A pickup order was also out for Frank Fitzsimmons, vice president of Local 299, who reportedly sold the local's Cadillac to Herman upon the latter's retirement from the union about four weeks ago, on the day he was to appear as an unwilling witness before the Senate Rackets Committee in Washington, D. C.

SOLD CAR

Fitzsimmons, who himself was testifying before the committee yesterday, said he sold Herman the car for $1,400. But committee investigators later learned that the price was $2,000 and was "paid" for by an IOU.

Herman sold the car Monday afternoon to the Detroit Car Co., 2614 N. Woodward Ave., Royal Oak. He was given a $1,700 check for it. According to the Highland Park Bank of the Commonwealth branch, the check was certified to an unidentified man Tuesday, but has not been cleared yet.

Pickup orders were also out for another of Herman's sons, Richard, an official of Teamster Local 486 in Saginaw, and David Weiss, who reportedly was the third man with Herman on the afternoon he sold the car.

Keller named Weiss as the driver of a green and white Ford station wagon, the last car in which Herman, a heart victim, was known to be riding.

The object of a nationwide search, Herman is sought on the technical charge of possessing a gun with a silencer.

Adams theorized about the answers to other questions facing investigators. He said the motive behind the arson involved either a union organization drive, competition among cleaners, or some kind of protection racket.

The "protection" that might have been sold, said Adams, could have been a pledge from Frank and his accomplices that the payer's shop would not be unionized. The competition motive could be that a rival to William Latrielle's cleaning pickup station in Flint hired Frank and Co. to put Latrielle's out of business.

Latrielle, 29, owner of the pickup station that was burned, said no one had even approached him in an attempt to organize his workers for the last two years. But he said he opened the shop only eight weeks ago.

"It was a little gold mine," he said. There was only one other competing cleaner in the area but other cleaning firm owners were "afraid" to move in, Latrielle said.

Herb Harrison, Flint, was owner of the competing firm.

Adams said a pair of fire-blackened eye glasses were found in the burnt out building yesterday and that the glasses and a scorched flashlight found earlier were being examined for clues in the State Police laboratory in Lansing. Frank wore glasses. A five gallon Army gas can was also found at the scene.

According to the best available information, here's what Adams and investigators believe happened on the night of the fire.

Frank and two accomplices—one of them probably Herman—set a fire explosive device about 10:30 p.m. It either fired before Frank could get out of the building or else Frank dropped his flashlight and was groping for it when the thing went off.

Frank's friends took him home and tried to treat him there. A commercial salve was found on Frank's neck, face, head and shoulders later at the hospital. Burned flesh was also found in Frank's station wagon, on the driveway, in his garage, on the porch and steps, in his kitchen and bathroom.

The friends soon saw, however, that their efforts to treat Frank were hopeless and they drove him 40 miles or so to the Pontiac hospital and made up Frank's story on the way.

The story, which Frank stuck to until he lost consciousness for good, told how he had been taken for a ride by a pair of strangers, who doused him with gasoline and set him afire.

Testimony Ends in Doctor's Suit

Judge Adams Will Give Decision Late This Month or Next

The defense rested its case yesterday afternoon in the suit against Pontiac General Hospital by four doctors charging that medical staff regulations at the hospital illegally prohibit them from unrestricted surgical privileges.

The decision now lies in the hands of Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Clark J. Adams, who left for a vacation shortly after all testimony had been heard in the final afternoon session.

Adams will rule on the suit when he returns to Pontiac late this month or early in September, he told doctors.

Among those who testified for the defense were Frank Gracykowski, administrator of the Gogebic County Community Hospital, in the Upper Peninsula; Dr. Roger deBusck, Grace Hospital administrator; and Dr. E. C. Swanson, executive secretary of the State Board of Registration in Medicine.

Dr. Swanson testified to the effect that "the state board may give a man only a legal right to practice medicine, not a moral right."

"Only men who have interned at credited hospitals may qualify for the examination and all credited hospitals must have a suitable organizational structure," he said.

His testimony added that effective organizational structures always put some limitations on the staff and that a controlled staff was a major factor in efficient operation of hospitals.

The suit was brought against the hospital by doctors Leonard Blackwell, Douglas A. Haddock, Roy V. Cooley Jr., and Maolin Han.

'Hiya Tex,' Crosby Croons

"We were hoping for a girl," proud dad Bing Crosby said yesterday. "But of course we're very happy with the little fellow."

"We were going to call her Mary Frances, but now—

Crosby said Kathy's mother will pick out the baby's name. "You can bet that he will be nick-named Tex, however," Bing said. Kathy and her parents are from Texas.

England Awaiting Nautilus' Arrival

your continuing fight for world peace."

Anderson left the Nautilus by helicopter when it was off Iceland. He was taken to an air base and flown by plane to the capital. Through his matter-of-fact answers to questions shone the high drama of the Nautilus' passage.

Through closed-circuit television, he said, they sometimes could watch the ice above, translucent where thin enough to pass the light of the bright day above — "Quite a fascinating sight, like clouds going by."

The powerful steam turbine, heated by the nuclear furnace, shoved them along at 18 to 20 knots. The ocean was deep—13,410 feet—at the pole.

How did they cross the Arctic Basin, with no stars for the navigator's plot, deep down in the sea?

By "superb navigation equipment," said Anderson — good compasses, an intricate array of gadgets and a form of inertial navigating equipment.

This equipment, recently installed in the Nautilus, is based on an electric brain "memory system" and coordinating device which tells a navigator — or the controls of the ship itself — how far and in what direction the vessel has traveled.

Mideast Peace Plan Is Studied

Crucial Debate Looms in U. N. Assembly Next Wednesday

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — U.N. delegates today studied Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's outline of a peace plan for the troubled Middle East in preparation for the crucial debate in the 81-member General Assembly next week.

Hammarskjold put forward his plan at the opening yesterday of the emergency session of the General Assembly, called by the Security Council at the behest of the United States to "deal constructively with the fundamental, broad problems involved" in the Middle East.

The Assembly organized and then adjourned until 10:30 a.m. Wednesday to permit the foreign ministers of member nations to get to New York to participate in the debate.

Hammarskjold delivered his peace program at the end of a 35-minute meeting of the Assembly marred only by a brief Soviet demand that the Assembly must act to get the western troops out of the Middle East.

Contrary to expectations, Soviet Ambassador Arkady A. Sobolev did not challenge nationalist China's right to the seat which the communists contend is rightfully Communist China's.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge called for an end "to senseless and ill-founded recriminations." He welcomed Hammarskjold's program as "constructive" and said the United States would give it a "most careful and urgent study."

DISSENTING NOTE

Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill), another member of the joint atomic committee, said the White House ceremonies appeared to be "a publicity buildup to make it appear they are interested in science." He noted that President Eisenhower last week "criticized the addition of research funds by Congress to the atomic authorization bill."

★ ★ ★

In London, the British Admiralty sent Washington congratulations "on the Nautilus' remarkable and historic achievement."

One British naval source said the voyage "means that atomic-driven submarines could . . . launch attacks on the northern shores of the Soviet Union."

London's morning newspapers gave the story front page play. "The American answer to the Soviet Sputnik," said the Conservative Daily Telegraph.

In Paris, the Communist L'Humanite gave the Nautilus a prominent place on page one, but said editorially:

"It (the voyage) happened several days before the opening of a historic session of the United Nations as if to recall that American research is in no way orientated toward pacific realization."

A Swedish expert said today in Stockholm the U. S. Navy is at least one year or more ahead of the Soviet fleet in the development of atomic submarines.

The unnamed navy officer, writing for the Stockholm paper Dagens Nyheter, said the cruise by the Nautilus beneath the arctic ice cap "was a final test and a full hit."

He pointed out that the voyage could have been done earlier if the U. S. Navy had so desired.

Beirut Set for Liberty 'Invasion'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—Beirut braced today for a second "invasion" — this time by well-heeled American soldiers and Marines on their first liberty since the landings nearly four weeks ago.

The U.S. military command here announced that some 2,000 troops will get daily noon to sunset liberty passes in restricted areas of the city, once known as the Paris of the Middle East.

The city's hard-pressed merchants, cafe, bar and tourist shop owners welcomed the news. A general strike called by the rebels in the early days of the trouble in Lebanon has hit them hard.

But Saeb Salam, rebel chief in Beirut, said the liberty decision was "regrettable." He said he feared "inevitable incidents between the people and the army of occupation on their soil."

The Day in Birmingham

Housing for 80 Teachers Sought by School Board

BIRMINGHAM — According to Dr. Dwight B. Ireland, school superintendent, about 80 new teachers will begin moving into the area within the next few days. The staff orientation meeting is scheduled for Aug. 27.

"Right now," Ireland said, "our problem is housing. For several years it has been the practice of school administrators to help new teachers find living quarters. We maintain a listing of rentals, apartment houses and single rooms.

"In order to keep the list up to date, we ask persons in and around Birmingham to register any of the eligible facilities with the Board of Education office.

"Because Birmingham is a community in which the majority of the residents own their own home, rentals are, as a rule, difficult to find. We have found that this assistance to our new staff members is one of the best morale builders we know of."

Two persons were injured early this morning in a two-car accident at Telegraph and Square Lake Rds. In critical condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, are Marjorie Ballinger, 37, of 14159 Foch St., Livonia, and Gerald Ford, 34, of 28930 Summerset Rd., Inkster.

Bloomfield Township police said the extent of their injuries had not yet been determined.

Police said Ford, driving on Telegraph, apparently did not see the car driven by John Armstrong, 17500 Santa Rosa St., Detroit, as Armstrong approached the intersection, and was hit broadside. Ford's auto rolled 180 feet after the impact.

Residents of East Lincoln avenue apparently have won the first round of their fight to have the parking ban lifted from their street.

Police Chief Ralph W. Moxey and Traffic Engineer T. M. Vanderstempel will recommend to commissioners Monday night that parking be permitted on the south side of Lincoln except for 50 feet immediately east of Taunton street.

Prohibited parking on the north side of Lincoln will remain.

James K. Flack, moderator of the Congregational Church of Birmingham, will conduct tomorrow morning's 10 a.m. service. He has just returned from Boston where he represented the local church at the General Council Meeting of Congregational Churches, and will make his official report.

Report 34 Dead in Airline Crash

First reports said 34 of those aboard were killed.

It was not immediately known whether any Americans were on the plane.

The four-engine Viscount had scheduled stops at Benghazi and Rome on its flight from Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, to London.

"Although it is impossible to predict how quickly man himself will follow his exploring instruments into outer space," the panel said, "the inevitable culmination of his efforts will be manned space flight and his landing on the nearer planets. It is clear that he can develop the ability to do this, and it is hard to conceive of mankind stopping short when such a tempting goal is within reach."

The moon is a mere 238,000 miles away—perhaps a couple of days by a rocket that takes time to pick its course.

When scientists eventually make the trip in person, they will get a taste of the the difficulties to be encountered on later trips to the next two space stops: Venus, 26 million miles away, and Mars, 48 million miles distant.

For now, however, the scientists must content themselves with much simpler lunar chores—probing for clues as to the nature of the moon, how it and earth were born, and perhaps even the origin of the universe.

Their immediate goals are to measure the moon's size and weight, its gravity, its magnetic field if any, and its atmosphere or lack of it.

By charting the rocket's position at regular intervals against the background of the star-filled universe, scientists could compute the pull of the moon's gravity and its mass and weight. Sensitive telemetering equipment might detect a lunar magnetic field.

BIG WEIGHT ERROR

Estimates of the moon's weight are believed to have a possible error of 0.3 per cent—not much if you are buying a ton of coal. But apply that margin to the estimated weight of the moon and the possible error turns out to be 237 quintillion, 384 quadrillion short tons.

A rocket carrying packages of instruments to the surface of the moon would improve on the earlier measurements and perform some new tasks. They might even stick a scientific thumb into the moon's subsurface.

This could be done by landing a package containing seismic recorders (instruments which measure subsurface shock waves). It also would carry telemetering equipment for relaying the readings of the recorders back to earth.

And the package would be armed with something like a military mortar which would lob a high explosive charge a pre-determined distance away from the instrument package.

Knowing the time of the explosion and its distance away from the seismic recorder, the recorder's readings would be highly informative. It might, for instance, tell scientists whether the moon has a molten core or has cooled into a solid mass.

ROBOT PIONEER

If later a rocket can be landed on the moon's surface more or less gently, the Russians have suggested this: Land an automated tank—a laboratory that could be controlled either from earth earth or from its own electronic memory. The tank would inspect the moon with mechanical hands and electronic eyes and radio or televise its findings back to earth.

"Though all of this could be done in principle there may be a point," said the IGY panel, "at which the complexity of the machine to do the job becomes intolerable, and a man is found to be more efficient, more reliable, and above all more resourceful when unexpected obstacles arise.

"It is, in a sense, an article of faith that man will indeed be required to do the job of cosmic exploration personally—and, furthermore, that he will want to do the job himself, whether required to or not."

MINNESOTA MEN TESTIFY — George Heid, left, of Fifty Lakes, Minn., and Arthur L. Morgan, right, of Minneapolis testified Friday before the Senate Rackets Committee in Washington. Heid said he committed perjury, under threats, as a defense witness in the 1956 Minneapolis trial that convicted Teamster official Gerald Connelly as a bomber. Morgan said that "my life has been a living hell" since he led an insurgent group out of the Teamsters Union in a revolt against Connelly and Hoffa's leadership.

SILENT ON ESTATE SALE — Paul (The Waiter) Ricca Friday refused to tell the Senate Rackets Committee how the Teamsters Union happened to buy his palatial Indiana estate. The aging one-time associate of Al Capone, invoked the Fifth Amendment.

To Open Final Bids on Muskegon Xway

LANSING (AP) — Bids on the final 8.6 miles of the Portland-Cascade link in the Detroit to Muskegon expressway will be opened Sept. 3, the State Highway Department said yesterday.

The section runs west from the Kent-Ionia County line to Whitneyville road southeast of Cascade. The project will raise to 70 the number of miles on the 165-mile expressway opened to traffic or under contract.

The two center lanes of the Straits of Mackinac bridge were designed as grillwork so that the ice and snow that accumulates can fall through into the channel.

Perle Planning Tour

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Perle Mesta will make a personal goodwill tour of South America. She is former U.S. minister to Luxembourg. She told reporters she will go to Washington for a briefing by the State Department and then leave for Brazil, first stop on her tour. She said her itinerary will be mapped in Washington.

Washington Hearings Recess Until Tuesday

Teamster Lied on Witness Stand Under Threat in Bombing Trial

WASHINGTON (AP)—Testimony on the sale of a union-owned Cadillac in the Michigan torch-death of a teamster official climaxed a fast-moving day Friday in the Senate Rackets Committee inquiry into allegations that Hoffa's giant union is involved with underworld characters in a nationwide plot to dominate business and labor. The hearings are in recess until Tuesday.

In other developments yesterday:

1. George Francis Heid, a disgruntled former Teamster, testified that he had lied under oath —because of threats — as a defense witness in the 1956 Minneapolis trial that convicted one of Hoffa's aides on bombing charges.

Heid said he gave false evidence in an unsuccessful effort to save Gerald Connelly, a Minneapolis Teamster official, from going to prison.

Heid said Connelly engineered the dynamiting of one Teamster official's home and the car of another, but that Connelly warned him "he would have me taken care of" if Heid told this at the trial.

2. Paul Ricca, an aging Capone era gangster, invoked the Fifth Amendment when asked why he sold his luxurious home at Long Beach, Ind., to the Teamsters Union for $150,000.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the estate was bought by the Teamsters in 1956 with the announced plan of using it as a training school for business agents.

But Kennedy suggested the real reason for the sale was because Ricca was a friend of Owen J. Brennan, one of Hoffa's Teamster allies.

"Isn't it a fact you needed this money for a tax case you were involved in and that you prevailed on the Teamsters to buy the estate?" Kennedy asked.

Ricca smiled and again pleaded the Fifth Amendment against possible self incrimination.

3. The committee asked the Senate to cite 13 balky witnesses for contempt of Congress, including President Maurice A. Hutcheson of the Carpenters Union.

Hutcheson, the committee said, did not plead the Fifth Amendment but challenged the committee's jurisdiction to ask him questions about possible misuse of union funds.

The testimony about the Cadillac sale came from Frank Fitzsimmons, vice president of Hoffa's home Teamster Local 299 in Detroit. Fitzsimmons said the car was sold to Kierdorf for $1,400 to $1,500 and that Kierdorf gave only his personal note for it.

Michigan police report that before Kierdorf disappeared Monday he sold the Cadillac to a used car dealer for $1,700 and that the title was in the name of the local.

Builder Asks Ouster of Warren Mayor

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams has been asked by a Macomb County contractor to remove Arthur J. Miller as mayor of Warren.

★ ★ ★

Alfred Bogdanski's petition sent to the governor's office yesterday accused Miller of "capricious, arbitrary and willful interference" in a construction project in which Bogdanski was interested. He complained the mayor had unnecessarily delayed issuance of premits on the project for 11 months.

★ ★ ★

The petition described Bogdanski as an officer of the Alfred Building Corp. It was referred to the attorney general's office for a ruling on whether it confers jurisdiction on the governor to consider Miller's removal.

Farm Mishap Fatal

FORRESTVILLE (AP) — Herman Behnke, 68, of rural Forrestville, died Friday of injuries suffered when he was thrown from a runaway farm wagon Wednesday. Behnke was loading wheat bundles ing him out. He suffered a skull down a 30-foot embankment, throwing him oyt. He suffered a skull fracture.

Awaits Sentencing in Stepson's Death

Mercure was found guilty by Circuit Judge Glenn W. Jackson of Gladstone yesterday after the defendant waived a jury trial. The judge said he would set the sentence next week.

Mercure admitted the fatal beating of David Luoma last March 29. He said he beat the boy when his stepson struck him with a tricycle frame during an argument.

THE BRIGHT SIDE

It Seems to Me . . .

Frank Kierdorf Victim of His Own Conniving in Fiendish Act

Pontiac has "made the front page" of nearly every newspaper in the Union in an unhappy and highly regrettable circumstance over a notorious Flint citizen. We have been the scene of one of the most foul and bestial crimes committed in the country.

FRANK KIERDORF is dead. The facts are not clear, but from all indications it would appear that he was a victim of his own foul play.

★ ★ ★

At the moment, there seems to be reasonable uncertainty as to just what did happen. At any rate, The Daily News in New York gave half of the front page to headlines on the affair and the sensational story has run rampant. I wish the community were honored in a favorable light.

★ ★ ★

The whole affair is involved in skulduggery of sorts and many of the various principals and supporting members of the cast have prison records and have testified before investigating committees.

★ ★ ★

One theory holds that Frank Kierdorf himself may have inadvertently concocted a Frankenstein of sorts that turned on its maker. The refusal and the inability of the victim to talk has complicated everything and leaves a baffled law group without too much to work on. Unless someone "sings" somewhere along the line, this may go into gangster records as an event that the "right people" understand completely but who propose to share their guilty knowledge with no one else.

★ ★ ★

The utter bestiality of the incident claimed the imagination of an entire nation. Right now indications tend to show he was maimed by a contraption of his own making.

A complete and honest statement of events was highly desirable but the physical condition of the victim and his frame of mind closed the door.

Had the catastrophe been an honest accident, surely the men that carried Kierdorf to the hospital would have helped him inside, saw that he received attention and then returned to follow his progress. The fact they dumped him unceremoniously at the outer portals and disappeared into the night suggests things weren't on the up-and-up.

If all three of them were criminally engaged, and one of them was seriously injured, they would have proceeded exactly as they have. They would have rushed him to a hospital and then faded away to avoid personal involvement. And in the meantime old Uncle HERMAN is really on the lam.

Apparently there has been dirty work at the crossroads, but the how, when, why and where may never come out.

Churchill Stars Again . . . . .

WINSTON CHURCHILL has given utterance to many significant and cogent ideas in his long and purposeful lifetime. I am intrigued by a current quotation from this great world citizen which I had never seen before.

★ ★ ★

"No one pretends that Democracy is perfect or all-wise. Indeed, it has been said that democracy is the worst form of government — except all those other forms that have been tried from time to time."

In one simple statement, Mr. CHURCHILL grants that our form of self rule is far from ideal, but still it remains as the finest method that has ever been devised.

Here is a great thought for all. Keep it in mind.

Accept what we have with the mental recognition that it isn't the final answer, but that it's better than any of the thousands tried before. In order to correct the special weakness that irks you, at the moment, you would probably sacrifice many other things that were equally or vastly more important.

And in Conclusion . . . . . .

Overheard in Wiggs: "If KHRUSHCHEV comes to New York, he'll never appear on 'To Tell The Truth.'" Incidentally, that's one of the finest programs on the air with a jim-dandy panel and swell moderator. T. T. T. T. gets a straight "A." . . . . . And if the STEVE ALLEN show doesn't scramble out of this summer rut, come fall the folks will be looking at other programs by the millions. LAWRENCE and that fat girl needs gobs more of everything . . . . . IONE BARTHOLEMEW tells me she enjoys all jokes on sack dresses and she ought to be an authority—backed by those eighty-six years.

Frank Gifford, Giant half-back, quit football for the movies, but a pal on the coast says he was considerably less than sensational and will be back . . . . . Overheard at the sparkling new Kingsley: "It's better to have loved and lost — much better" . . . . . The average 1958 All-Star that opposes the Lions, stands 6-1½ and weighs 231 pounds . . . . . Purely personal nomination for an especially attractive girl: Jean Sempere.

One of the A.P. boys in New York tells me there's a sign in the little girls' room at CBS that reads: "Smile, honey. You're on TV." . . . . . A third of the nation's 75,000 licensed civil aircraft are owned by private corporations. Last year they flew more hours and miles than all commercial air lines . . . . . I heard an "authentic" rumor that the auto pact would be signed "by the middle of August." Well, that's the end of next week . . . . . There's a strenuous effort to inject prohibition into the 1960 campaign. Alcoholics have reached an all time high — or low . . . . . Aside from the surface, Lake Superior runs from 38 to 42 degrees, winter and summer. Don't fall out of a boat. "You'll be sorry."

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

HOW AMERICANS WORSHIP

The Catholics

The Cross, the Cup, the bended knee . . . these are but a few of the symbols and signs of an ancient faith that has endured through 20 centuries. Oldest and largest of Christian organizations, the Roman Catholic church has flourished in America, side by side with her Protestant neighbors. Of this country's 100 million and more church members, about one third are Catholics.

As a religious artist, intent on exploring every facet of my chosen subject, I have attended many a Catholic service.

Soon after I first entered one Catholic church, the magnificent ceremony of the Mass began. The eternal beauty of this ancient faith glowed in the eyes of the priest when he raised the chalice at the consecration and repeated Christ's words at the Last Supper:

"Take ye all and drink of this, for this is the chalice of My blood, and of the new and eternal covenant, the mystery of faith, which shall be shed for you and for many unto the forgiveness of sins."

Days of All Faiths:

Monday Marks Lutheran Merger

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

There have been Lutherans in America since the very earliest days of the white man. They were in Florida in 1565 and in the Hudson Bay region in 1619. The first organized congregations on this continent were in Delaware in 1638.

Monday marks the anniversary of the merger, in 1930, of three Lutheran Synods (Ohio, Iowa and Buffalo) to form the American Lutheran Church, one of the largest of the Lutheran groups. All three were of German background.

This American Lutheran anniversary is a good time to correct some figures. In a recent column, writing about the Eastern Orthodox people in America, we said there are five and a half million of them and that they therefore outnumber several of our better known groups. Our mistake was that we included Lutherans in that statement, and a loyal Lutheran reader from Victor, N. Y., will not let us get away with it. She writes that there are over seven million Lutherans in the United States and Canada.

We do not want to get into the middle of an argument about the sizes of the various denominations, but we do owe the lady the correction she asks for. She is absolutely right. The authoritative Yearbook of American Churches, 1958 edition, shows that the 18 branches of Lutheranism in the United States have a total of about 7,300,000 members — and there are more in Canada.

TV'S PATRON SAINT

G. K. Chesterton said of St. Clare's profession as a nun that it was a "regular romantic elopement," and in the sense that a nun is the "bride of Christ," so it was. For Clare — "Lady" Clare, daughter of a noble family in the town of Assisi — ran away from home to devote her life to her Lord.

In the year 1212, when Clare was 18, the great and famous St. Francis had come back to his home town to preach during Lent. From the time she first heard him, there was no doubt in Clare's mind about what she wanted to do. She went to the great man privately and asked him to help her to live "after the manner of the holy gospel."

During her final illness Clare was twice visited by the Pope, Innocent IV. On both occasions he heard her confession and absolved her and both times he is reported to have said, "Would to God I had so little need of absolution."

Verbal Attacks Are Great Trouble Making Force

After World War II we were told America would be destroyed from within. Now as no other time we should be doing some sober thinking instead of verbal attacks against one another, that could lead to something worse.

★ ★ ★

We have in the past 15 years seen group turned against group, class against class, teenagers against elders, and condemned and slandered until, for example, if I were a part of the youth group in America today I would be pretty disgusted. We have seen our wonderful teachers the victims of vicious attacks.

★ ★ ★

For the past 40 years women have worn slacks, shorts, etc. Now, all of a sudden the American woman is evil, unmoral, and unfeminine, and a threat to society. We are human beings, not animals. We are indeed in the last days if it is unsafe for a woman or girl to walk down the street in shorts or overalls.

The Christians being turned out today sound like they believe in the theory of evolution. To see evil in everything is my definition of the carnal mind.

I might add another condition we have with us today, a great force for trouble making, has also turned neighbor against neighbor, and placed them in the role of "Spy" for local zoning boards, that would make Russian Communal planning look sick.

Suggestion to Aid Traffic Situation

I am in full agreement with what the "Cass Lake-sider" said in the August 6th "Voice of the People" section about maintaining a minimum speed law in the Orchard Lake Village part of Commerce road. It would be very helpful especially during the rush hour of traffic that goes through Orchard Lake Village every day.

★ ★ ★

Here is another suggestion that might help. When cars (or trucks) have a certain number of cars behind them or if the lead car in a procession is going under a certain speed, the lead vehicle has to pull over and let the cars behind him go around.

★ ★ ★

Let's get this minimum speed law in effect to show the public that the Orchard Lake Police are interested in helping the people go through safely by giving tickets to the slow driver as well as to the fast driver.

Asks if Pension Bill Necessary

A few days ago I read about Congress putting the finishing touches on a bill to give presidents a nice fat pension together with allowances for offices, clerical help, free postage, etc. Is this necessary at this time?

Tonight I read "President Eisenhower Vetoes the Independent Offices Bill" because he said the extra dollars to be put in the Civil Service Retirement Fund were not necessary at this time.

If Congress puts a final OK on the bill to give presidents a pension (plus) and at the same time sustains his veto on the Independent Offices Bill, it will look like overfeeding the big fat hogs and letting the scrawny, undernourished little pigs starve.

★ ★ ★

Readers; Please do not hold your breath until you read about a presidential veto on a bill to provide pensions for presidents.

No Room for 'Father' of A-Sub at Ceremony

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House ceremony announcing the atomic submarine Nautilus' trip across the North Pole was churning up a controversy today because Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover wasn't invited.

Rickover is generally referred to as the father of the atomic submarine.

Three Democratic members of the House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee were quick to voice criticism. Rep. Carl Durham (NC), the committee chairman, said "It looks as though they left out the man who was most responsible." Sen. Henry Jackson (Wash) and Rep. Melvin Price (Ill) made similar comments.

★ ★ ★

But the White House said there wasn't room for Rickover, a foremost advocate of the atomic submarine program when it was launched several years ago.

"You just couldn't get everybody in," James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said.

Hagerty said the White House had invited Navy officials on the basis of rank. Among those attending were Secretary of the Navy Thomas G. Gates; Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander of the Atlantic Fleet and NATO naval forces; Adm. J. S. Russell, vice chief of naval operations; and Adm. Frederick B. Warder, commander of fleet submarines.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Religion Should Be Dynamic Force

Newspapermen like Fred Giesel preside over vast "Universities in Print" which may have half a million daily "students" (readers). And every good newspaper tries to stimulate thinking and move civilization onward. So discuss this case in church and remember that religion is a dynamic, growing concept and not a dead, sterile code.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

★ ★ ★

We have been friends for over 20 years so I decided to take advantage of a few hours between planes and run in to see him from the airport.

DR. CRANE

And we had a stimulating visit. I told him about the new Scientific Marriage Foundation and its aid in matching cultured people who are tied down by their work so they haven't adequate opportunity to meet suitable members of the opposite sex.

This group includes school teachers, nurses and private secretaries, as well as scientists, business men and merchants who must stay on the job sometimes six days per week.

Mr. Giesel gave me some excellent suggestions, and I finally caught the limousine for the airport.

As I rode along, I noticed a large school building with this motto inscribed above the entrance:

"Come, Children, I will teach you the fear of the Lord."

HOUSECLEANING IN RELIGION

★ ★ ★

Medicine and science in general have thus thrown out many obsolete concepts. It is high time religion also did a housecleaning.

Can you imagine a modern mother calling her children around her with the announced aim:

"Come, Children, I will teach you the fear of your Daddy."

God Almighty told us in the first chapter of the Bible that we are his children, created in his own image.

So it is the task of parents, teachers and clergymen to teach us to LOVE God, not to remain in abject terror of Him!

Alas, all nations have viewed their deities as cruel, sadistic dictators, to be appeased with sacrifices and offerings of rice, wine, bullocks and slain doves.

The ancient Persians and Egyptians, as well as the Greek and Romans, plus the natives of Africa and Australia, the American Indians and the Asiatics, have all viewed their gods as despots, not as loving fathers!

It is time we scrapped such negative theology. We need to renovate our religion, just as we are re-styling the new church buildings which we erect.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Decline to Indict 3 in Race Case

U. S. Grand Jury Won't Bring Charges Against Georgia Policemen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury at Macon, Ga., has declined to indict three Dawson, Ga., policemen accused of beating one Negro to death and shooting and killing another, a Justice Department spokesman said last night.

In Macon, assistant district attorney Joe Davis, who presented the cases to the grand jury, said he had no immediate comment.

The proposed indictments were based on the civil rights statute, the spokesman said.

The grand jury's decision followed several months of statements and counterstatements regarding race relations in Dawson, a southwest Georgia town of about 5,000 and the Terrell County seat.

The deaths of two Negroes and the shooting and wounding of a third were reported in April and May.

The dead Negroes were cousins. James Brazier, 31, was arrested April 21 by McDonald and Cherry on a charge of interfering with an officer, resisting arrest and threatening an officer.

Brazier died eight days later in a hospital after a brain operation for what doctors described as a fractured skull. Cherry said he was forced to strike Brazier once with his blackjack to subdue him.

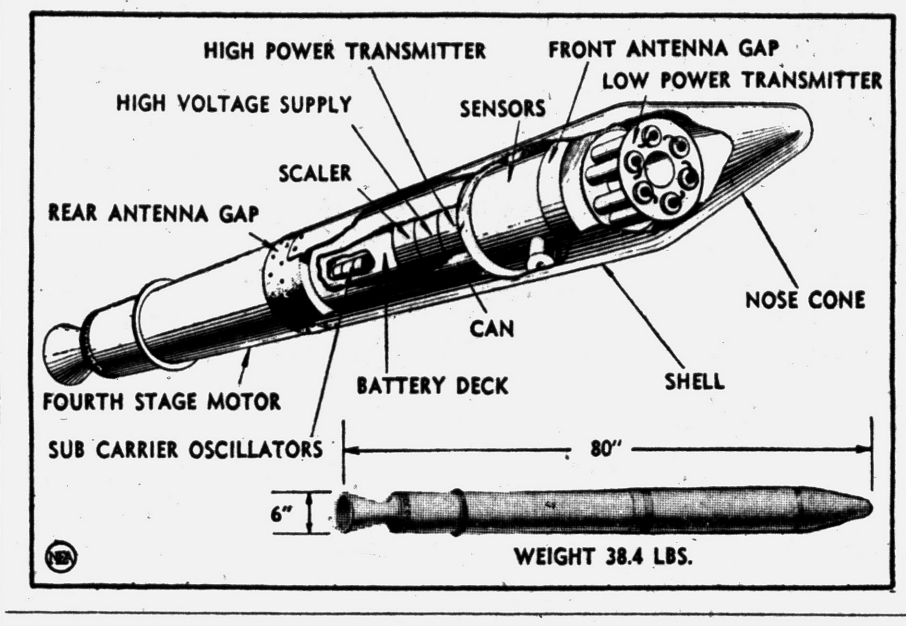

On May 25, Cherry shot and killed Willie Countryman, 32, after he said he and a fellow officer, Robert Hancock, went to investigate a commotion at a Negro house.

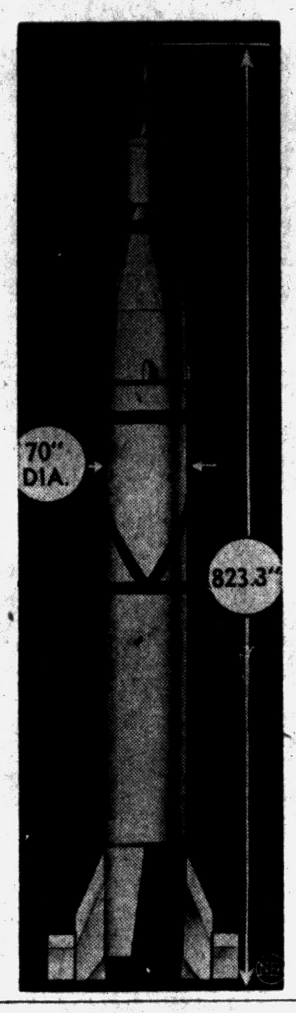

★ ★ ★

Cherry said he fired after Countryman slashed his hat cover with a knife and drew back to strike again. A coroner's jury found that Cherry shot in self defense in line of duty.

Explorer IV Is Busy 'Spying' on Deadly Radiation in Space

Explorer IV, America's newest and heaviest space satellite, is brilliantly performing its planned function of reporting on a field of intense radiation some 600 miles in outer space. For the next two months, the Army hopes, the satellite will give a complete picture of these deadly rays which could delay man's first journey into space unless protection can be devised. The phantom view, below, shows Explorer IV's composition. The instrument package contains four separate radiation detectors, designed by the State University of Iowa. These are expected to provide up to many thousand times the accurate counting rate of the single counters in Explorers I and III. Inset shows how the satellite actually looks. At right, it seems needle-like atop the modified Jupiter C missile which launched it into space. The main stage of the Jupiter C is a modified Redstone ballistic missile booster.

Planes Shifted by Red China

Formosa on Wartime Alert as Communists Move MIGs, Bombers

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—Communist China has moved bombers into coastal air bases within range of Nationalist China and additional MIG-jet fighters into an air base 20 minutes flying time from Formosa, authoritative sources reported today.

All Nationalist Chinese military forces, police and civil defense units are on a wartime alert following reports of redeployment of Communist Chinese warplanes to bases across the Formosa strait.

Air raid sirens sent Nationalist Chinese garrisons on Matsu into full battle positions when four red MIG-jet fighters were sighted to the southwest of the island 12 miles off the Red China coast. But the planes flew on.

Three air alerts were sounded yesterday within three hours on Matsu, Nationalist China's northernmost offshore island group.

Authoritative sources, meantime, said the Communists deployed additional bombers to airbases near Shanghai and in Luchiao in recent days. More MIGs were sent to Lungchi Air Base.

★ ★ ★

Communist fighter planes operating from Luchiao three years ago forced the Nationalists to abandon the Tachen Islands. Formosa is within easy bombing range of Lu chiao.

Blimp's Target Floating Island Near North Pole

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A U.S. Navy blimp was on its way to a floating island less than 500 miles from the North Pole today after penetrating deeper into the Arctic than any non-rigid aircraft ever had before.

The orange-and-silver blimp landed yesterday at Resolute Bay on Canada's Cornwallis Island, within the Arctic Circle, after soaring 1,000 miles in 22 hours with the help of a 10-mile-an-hour tail wind.

Its next scheduled stop was T-3, a floating island manned by scientists as part of the International Geophysical Year.

Pole Sitter Is Seeking New Record

★ ★ ★

The 38-year-old doctor paused after climbing about 25 feet and did some deep breathing with his eyes shut. He paused again just beneath the 6-by-4-foot platform holding Hatfield, apparently having some difficulty maneuvering around the pole and across the struts supporting the platform.

On returning to street level, Dr. Davis reported his 23-year-old patient to be "sound of body and mind" after his first week atop the pole.

Police Ticket Mackie's Car on State Dock

ST. IGNACE (AP) — It was State Highway Department property, but Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie got a parking ticket anyway.

At the direction of St. Ignace Mayor A. G. Phillips, the ticket was canceled out, although Mackie said he was willing to pay the usual $3 fine for overnight parking on state ferry dock No. 2.

Explaining the situation, Mackie said he found the ticket on his car Wednesday when he and his wife went to their car. As he was about to drive off, he said, Parking Lot Superintendent Hugh Forner said the mayor had asked that it be returned.

Mackie who was attending the Michigan Road Builders Conference said he offered to pay the fine but returned the ticket.

The Highway Department has turned the ferry docks over to the city for temporary use pending legislative action disposing of them.

Hungary Blames '56 Revolt on West

BUDAPEST (UPI) — The communist government charged today that "Western Imperialists" organized and financed Hungary's 1956 "counterrevolution" after paving the way with anti-Hungarian propaganda and subversive activities.

A 160-page "white book" charged specifically that a U.S. diplomatic attache identified only as Quade assured rebels in the Kilian Barracks on Oct. 30, 1956, that they could count on American loans.

Quade later tried to stir up trouble, the official report said, by telling a crowd in front of Communist Party headquarters that "catacomb" prisons had been found under the building.

Senator Hopes to Restore Federal Scholarship Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lister Hill (D-Ala) said today he will push his 1½-billion-dollar education aid bill now that the House has passed a smaller measure stripped of college scholarship provisions.

★ ★ ★

The House sent a 910-million-dollar bill to the Senate by voice vote late yesterday after rejecting 233-140 a move to shelve it. Before final passage, the House knocked out the scholarship section, shifting its funds to a student loan program.

However, advocates of federal aid to education were encouraged by the House vote. They said it was the first time the House had accepted a broad education aid bill.

★ ★ ★

Lhere seems little doubt the Senate will vote at least some scholarship money when the bill comes up there, probably Monday or Tuesday. If so, the House and Senate differences on this issue will have to be worked out in conference.

★ ★ ★

Many Republican senators were prepared to support scholarship funds, although not to the extent provided in the Hill bill.

Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming said last night he hoped the Senate would include competitive scholarships in its measure.

As the bill came to the House floor, it provided for about 23,000 four-year college scholarships in each of the four years of the program. The Hill bill carries the same total.

★ ★ ★

House backers at first accepted an amendment cutting the 23,000 scholarships to 10,000 a year, as recommended by President Eisenhower. But a later amendment by Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn) cutting out all scholarships and transferring the funds earmarked for them to the college student loan program was adopted.

Ike Resting, Set to Play Some Golf

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — President Eisenhower arranged to get in an early morning round of golf today as he spent a quiet weekend at his Gettysburg farm.

★ ★ ★

The President played 18 holes at the Gettysburg Country Club yesterday in the relative cool of the late afternoon after he flew here in a military helicopter.

The Chief Executive had nothing but golf and relaxation on his announced schedule. But he might do some work on a speech for delivery before the U. N. General Assembly's emergency session on the Middle East next week. White House sources said it still had not been decided whether the President would go to New York to address the special session.

Also, 22 motorists received summonses for failing to give the right of way to pedestrians. Fines of $5 to $50 will be levied on conviction.

Actress Lynn Fontanne Gives Secret of Youth

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lynn Fontanne says her secret of youth is wrapped up in one rule:

"Don't get bored."

"And funny thing," added the long-time actress who rates as one of the all-time greats of the theater, "in the last couple or three years, I confess I am occasionally bored.

"You may see me beginning to break up." And she laughed heartily.

I don't think so. Frankly, I hope I look as young and have as much vim when I reach her age, whatever it is.

"Questions about how old I am are questions I never answer," she said in one of the rare interviews she has given in recent years.

AGE FORGOTTEN

"I don't really remember how old I am," she insisted. "I'd have to count back. I haven't discussed age since I was 19."

This, she said, may be an "ostrich outlook" on the passage of time, but "it's more fun that way. And you'll have trouble looking me up."

★ ★ ★

"Now with Alfred it's different," said the British-born actress. "He comes from Milwaukee and it's easy to check," Alfred Lunt, her husband for 36 years and her acting partner for 34, was born in 1893, according to "Who's Who in America." Her listing gives no birthdate.

★ ★ ★

Born while Queen Victoria still reigned, Lynn Fontanne has acted since childhood. She came to America in 1916 as a protege of the famous actress, Laurette Taylor.

She and Lunt first teamed in "The Guardsman" in 1924, and have rarely been separated since.

IN BROADWAY HIT

This spring they opened in a new dramatic hit, "The Visit," and in a Broadway theater named for them. After a brief summer vacation at their farm home 40 miles north of Milwaukee, they will re-open in the play Aug. 20.

★ ★ ★

"We always talk about retiring from the theater when we're tired," said Miss Fontanne. "Right now, all I want to do is sit and stare. I love not to work. I like to play scrabble and do all the idle things.

"Cooking bores me, so I let Alfred cook. Why shouldn't I . . . he's a graduate of the Cordon Bleu cooking school. But I'm one whale of a seamstress."

"I'll tell you another theory I have about staying young," said the actress. "A woman's neck and jawline are very important . . . and unfortunately, also the first to go. All my adult life I've exercised the neck muscles by stretching my head back, and I massage with cold cream as I stretch.

"Not too much at first, three or four times," she cautioned. "Work up to seven or eight stretches.

How Did She Ask You?

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am told that when a friend invites me to lunch or dinner, it is the height of rudeness to offer to pay half the check. What is your opinion?"

Answer: When someone asks, "Will you lunch with me?" that should mean as "my guest." Otherwise, she should ask, "Shall we lunch together some day?" or "Let's meet for lunch Tuesday."

"However, when in doubt it could not be wrong to offer to pay your share of the check as a matter of course, but do not continue to argue after being told, "Why no, I invited you to lunch with me."

"Dear Mrs. Post: Whose name is said first in this introduction: "John, this is my Aunt Mary," or "Aunt Mary, this is John." John is my new husband and he and Aunt Mary have not met each other. In other words, when the phrase "This is" is used, should the woman's name be said first anyway?"

Answer: Although "Aunt Mary, this is John" would be more correct, the phrase "John, this is my Aunt Mary" connotes so much more affection for Aunt Mary as to make it natural, and therefore proper.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it ever good manners to let a friend sit in the back seat of the car alone while the husband and wife who own the car sit together up front?"

Answer: If they are merely giving her a lift for a short distance, that would be all right. But if they are going for a drive of any distance it would be very rude indeed. There is, however, one exception: If going on a real trip over unknown roads and the wife is an expert map reader, it would then be permissible, but should be explained.

"Many students put in a tremendous number of working hours and still did very commendable school work."

Dear Abby . . .

Has Mouth Big as His Heart

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: My problem is a big-hearted, empty-headed husband. Our former neighbors wrote and asked if they could visit us for a week this summer. We said yes, so they came. Every meal was a banquet. I washed and ironed their cloths, picked up after them and made them feel at home. I am 63 and get tired easily but I never complained. I got up at 5:30 packed my husband's lunch bucket and waited on the company all day.

ABBY

"When they left, my husband asked them to stop on their way back and visit us again (in about six days) which they sure did. He said he never dreamed they'd take him up on it. I am very mad at him. Did he have the right to invite them back so soon without consulting me?"

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: The only thing bigger than your husband's heart was his mouth when he put his foot in it. The incident is now history, but don't let history repeat itself. Brief your husband, Lady — Briefly and firmly.

"DEAR ABBY: I am getting engaged next month. My fiance can't afford a diamond so he is buying me a pearl ring. My mother refuses to give an engagement party for me unless I get a diamond because she says if I don't get a diamond it will look like I gave the party only for the presents. She says I should insist on a diamond because an engagement without a diamond is no engagement. Please give me your opinion. Abby."

TO BE ENGAGED

DEAR TO BE: A pearl, a fraternity pin or a simple reply in the affirmative to a proposal of marriage constitutes an engagement. A girl who insists on a rock for her finger, has rocks in her head.

"DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine called me up one night when my husband was supposed to be at a lodge meeting and said if I wanted to see my husband and his girl friend to go to a certain bar. I took the bus down there and when I walked in and he saw me you'd think he'd seen a ghost. I made a pass at her and he stopped me with his left. We had a few words and next thing I knew I was in the hospital with four broken ribs and six stitches over my eye.

"I spent three days and nights in the hospital. My husband came up to see me the first night with his parole officer and he brought me a dozen carnations and a watermelon. It's sweet things like that that make me love him so much. Do you think I should press charges against him, leave him, or give him another chance?"

A FOOL IN LOVE

DEAR FOOL: If a dozen carnations and a watermelon can make you forget four broken ribs and six stitches in your head, I think you ought to see one more doctor — a psychiatrist. Women who love men in spite of physical beatings are sick.

"DEAR ABBY: I have a boy friend who wants to grow a "VanDyke" beard. I am very much against this idea. He claims it will aid him in his profession as it will make him look older. As far as I am concerned, I think he should consider my feelings in the matter since he is supposed to love me. Which should come first, his love or his profession?"

FUTURE DELILIAH

DEAR FUTURE: Van Buren is also against the VanDyke. Tell him it scratches — and if that doesn't help — scratch him till he grows up.

Bride-to-Be Feted

Mrs. Gordon Willis of Birmingham honored Frances Cashin, bride-elect of Edmund C. White, at a bridesmaids tea this afternoon at Devon Gables. The couple will be married Aug. 23.

Rainy summer days are never dull at the Robert Nelson home on Illinois avenue. Engaged in a very exciting card game on just such a day are (left to right) James, 13 years old; Marilyn, 11; and Susan, 6. Mrs. Nelson looks on while Dotty, the dog, gets a few lessons.

Cadet Ralph Edward Conlan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Conlan of Eileen drive, has begun studies at the new United States Air Force Academy, Denver, Colo. Prior to winning an appointment to the academy, Cadet Conlan attended the University of Detroit where he participated in rifle and pistol team activities and was awarded a letter. At the end of this month the academy will move to its permanent site 60 miles south of Denver, where the cadets will be quartered in what has been termed one of the world's lovliest college locations with the Rampart mountain range as a natural backdrop.

Can Eat Often

Choose Favorite Foods for Diet

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The old saying, "There is more than one way to skin a cat," can be applied to many situations. There is only one way to reduce and that is to diet — but there is more than one way to do it. In other words, you do not have to make it any harder on yourself than necessary.

Here are a few suggestions which will help. Unless you have a great many dislikes and only a few likes in food, the following idea will be helpful to you. Make a list of all the foods you like and also one of the foods you do not like.

Build your diet with as many of those you like and leave off as many of those you dislike as is compatible with good nutrition. This suggestion is out if you end up with cake, candy, pie a la mode and fried shrimp as your favorite and no meat and fruits, vegetables, eggs and cereals.

It is true, though that you can make many substitutions and have the same calorie count and food value if you substitute in the same classification. There is no use to choke down greens if you prefer cabbage or drink powdered, fat-free milk if you like buttermilk better, and so on.

It will be a great check on you and will be encouraging if you will write down the things you eat and their calorie counts after each meal. In this way you can really see what you are accomplishing before the scales tell you the story. It is challenging to keep within your daily allowance, meal by meal. You will not be nearly so apt to cheat or make mistakes in calculation.

You do not have to take all of your food in three meals. You should eat that often a day, but you can save some of the items for in between times so that you eat five or six times each day. Many women find this helpful.

If your sweet tooth is acting up, you can have ONE piece of hard candy at the end of the meal. (Not every meal.)

If your craving for something sweet is driving you wild, try water-packed fruits or those which are sweetened with an artificial sweetener. Or, you can have ONE small piece of hard candy at the end of the meal. (not every meal). This has about 25 calories.

Consomme or bouillon is comforting in between meals and has few calories.

The main thing is to begin right now even if you are in the middle of a chocolate fudge sundae! Once you decide, begin!

If you would like to have my leaflet "Count Your Calories" send a stamped, self-addresesd envelope with your request for leaflet No. 36. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Crisp Vegetables Fill This Sandwich

For a lunch guaranteed to beat the heat, serve Cream Cheese Vegetable Sandwiches, nicknamed the "cucumber coolie." Crisp fresh garden vegetables have so much color and appetite appeal.

Soften ½ cup (4 ounces) cream cheese and add 1 small clove garlic, minced, and 2 tablespoons finely chopped green onion. Cut 4 enriched hamburger buns horizontally into 3 slices each. Spread cream cheese mixture on cut surface of buns.

Don't Ask Child to 'Love' His Punisher

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

There, in spite of his personal wretchedness, he began to note a strange response to brutality among certain fellow prisoners. They would ask the wrong question, break a rule or otherwise assert their existence as a living human being — and reprisal would immediately follow.

The SS guards would take over, beat them into near insensibility and toss them back to their comrades. But instead of expressing hate of the guards, these prisoners would begin to make admiring comments about them — their strength, their fearlessness, their loyalty to rules.

The psychoanalyst was not critical of this terrible admiration. He knew that there is a point where human beings cannot tolerate humiliation — and to avoid experiencing it, begin to tell themselves that they love the person who has inflicted it. By convincing themselves that the humiliator was justified, they can accept the humiliation as justified, too.

This trick of self-delusion is not confined to concentration camps.

Children who have been severely whipped or otherwise harshly punished can resort to it, too.

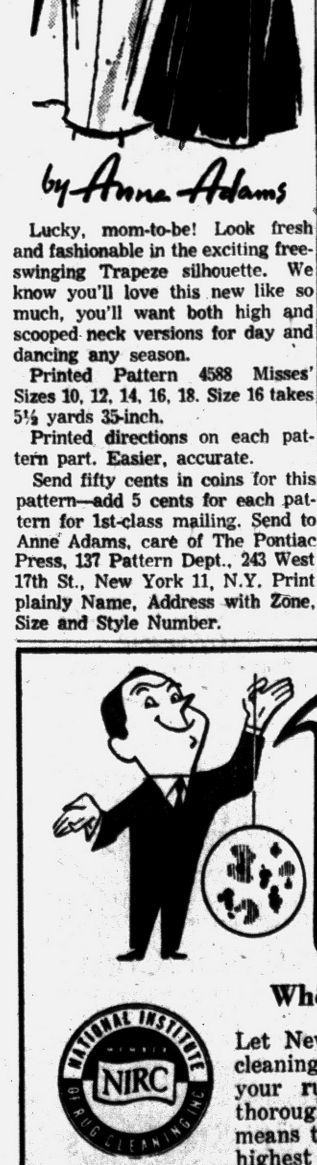

They also will transform their rage at the parent who has humiliated them into admiration — and tearfully protest they love us—in order to make their helplessness endurable.

If this shocks you, just try to forget it.

If it doesn't, you can use it to avoid requiring a punished child to falsifying himself by telling you how much he admires you for hurting him.

We all lose our tempers occasionally. This is fine — so long as we are willing to accept the consequences of our uncontrolled action. It's when we aren't willing to accept the child's resentment of it as a probable consequence that we do him the real injury. By asking him to pretend it is remorseful love, we do him more hurt than any blow can inflict.

The world is filled with people who have been trained to believe that they love their humiliators. Sometimes they never discover that they don't.

Lucky, mom-to-be! Look fresh and fashionable in the exciting free-swinging Trapeze silhouette. We know you'll love this new like so much, you'll want both high and scooped neck versions for day and dancing any season.

Women Can Be Cats With Sweet Speech

By RUTH MILLETT

It could be a compliment, but it usually isn't when a woman says:

"I like your hair. You ought to keep it blonde."

"You have the nicest husband. He's so much fun at a party."

"I'm so glad you cut your hair. Really, you look a hundred per cent better with it short."

"What do you care what anyone thinks? If you like it, that's all that matters."

"Wherever have you been keeping yourself? I simply never see you anymore."

* * *

"I've always liked that dress you're wearing."

"I don't see how you find the time to do all you do. It keeps me busy just looking after my family."

"I envy you your job. I wish Jim would let me work, but he has the silly old-fashioned notion that a wife's place is at home."

"You've got a better disposition than I have. I wouldn't take that for a minute."

"I think it's marvelous the way you never let anything upset you. I'd be worried to death if I were you."

"Your hair is so pretty. I simply adore gray hair. I think you're so wise not to dye it."

* * *

"You've done a marvelous job as club president. It's a shame there aren't more members who appreciate all you've done."

From one woman to another such remarks could be compliments. But they usually aren't.

Welt or slotted seam detail on longer jacket conceals large proportions which show up mercilessly in stark simplicity.

Darts or unpressed pleats in a sunburst design from back neckline give soft fullness to slightly flared jackets. Classic shapes, injected with newness by chemise details, are for women's and half-sizes in the current fall fashions.

Mother of Teenage Girl Asks About Dance Rules

It's the dance season, and the handwriting is in the mail. That first big dance poses many problems, especially when it is a holiday one, and an Oakland, Calif., mother has all the questions well in hand.

She writes for answers so her 15-year-old daughter will be up on dance etiquette:

Q. Where does your head belong — on your partner's shoulder or near him or should it be erect on your shoulders?

A. Only a couple who are engaged may be excused for using each other as cushions when dancing. The ideal stance is relaxed with the head held erect, but not stiffly.

* * *

Q. How should your partner hold you? Where should his hands be placed.

A. A very tall boy dancing with a small girl may be forced to hold her at the shoulder line.

The usual spot is slightly above the waistline. (Some boys do take a death grip, and you can only get him to desist by asking him to take it easy. Don't hes-

Q. Is it permissible for a girl to ask a boy to dance? Where there are more girls than boys?

A. Things can't be that tough for any girl. Think what would happen if he refused. Some boys would, too.

Q. May girls dance with each other?

A. At an all-girl party, maybe, but surely taboo in a mixed crowd.

Q. Do you dance the first and last dance with the boy who took you to the dance?

A. You should certainly reserve these dances for him, and he should courteously ask you for them.

But boys will be boys, so don't expect him to come through with perfect manners. (Also they like to get as much mileage out of a dance as possible, and it presents opportunities to meet other girls).

ANSWERING REQUEST

Q How do you accept or decline a request to dance?

A. If he asks — say "Yes, I'd like to dance." If you want to refuse, decline gracefully, saying something like "I'm sorry, I'm going to sit this out."

(A smart boy will figure out you don't want to dance with him, unless you add: "Later, perhaps," or some such encouraging remark. But it is good manners not to dance that dance with another, if you have turned one invitation down.)

* * *

Q. What do you say at the end of a dance number?

A. Be enthusiastic, not gushy if you enjoyed the dance. Say: "That was fun" or "I enjoyed that very much."

If the dance was a bore, just smile and nod your head slightly when he thanks you (and he should. But who can tell.)

One point every girl should know is that if her dancing partner does anything distasteful, from clutching like an octopus to cavorting like a monkey, he should be left flat on the dance floor. You don't want to be a party to his exhibitionism.

Cover Home With New Raincoat

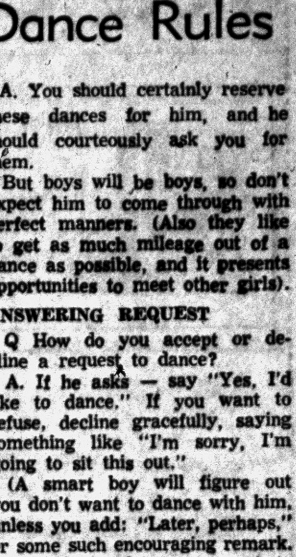

CORVALLIS, Ore. (INS)—Chemical science now makes it possible for you to put a protective raincoat over your house to guard against such weather damage as blistered paint and rotting wood.

Charles Ross, forestry specialist at Oregon State College in Corvallis, says a new water - repellent wood preservative is now available that will add years to the life of your house.

The preservative's scientific name is pentachlorophenol.

But it is more commonly known simply as "penta." It is sold under various trade names and can be bought already mixed in a water repellent solution or as a concentrate with directions for mixing.

Wood-siding, especially when it is in need of paint, soaks up moisture rapidly. Tell-tale signs are paint blisters or streaked stains from wood, building paper or rusty nails.

Confident Living

Body Has Big Influence on Workings of the Mind

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

One of the greatest writers and historians the English-speaking world has ever produced was Thomas Carlyle, who was born in Scotland in 1795. He worked hard at his writing and often labored long into the night. As a result he liked to sleep late in the mornings.

PEALE

One of Carlyle's neighbors owned a rooster that would start crowing about 4:30 in the morning. Finally, Carlyle was so annoyed by this chanticleer's welcome to the morn that he went to see his neighbor to complain.

★ ★ ★

"Does the rooster's crowing bother you that much?" the neighbor asked.

"No," Carlyle answered. "It's the lying there waiting for him to crow."

Carlyle's greatest work was his famous history of the French Revolution. After years of work, he completed the first volume and took it to a friend, James Anthony Froude, the historian, for his opinion. Froude read the lengthy manuscript at his leisure, keeping it on his work table. One day, his maid needed some paper to start the fire. She picked up Carlyle's manuscript and used it.

Froude knew there was no copy and rushed, in consternation, to tell Carlyle of the disaster. He was surprised to find that Carlyle took the news calmly and said, in effect, "I don't want you to feel badly about it and please don't scold that poor maid." Then he remarked that he didn't think the writing had been too good anyway and perhaps it was just as well he had to do it over.

In a real crisis, Carlyle had strength and calmness, and yet a small irritation could drive him to distraction. How true that is of so many of us!

One of the simplest ways to conquer irritation is by systematic relaxation. It is almost universally recognized today that the mind has an enormous influence on the body; it is less often realized that the influence of the body on the mind is also important. And the objective of true relaxation is to get the mind and body working together in harmony.

A combined system of physical and mental relaxation involves loosening of muscle tensions and actually getting thoughts into a state of peacefulness. To accomplish this sit loosely in a chair, resting hands palms up on the knees, fingers uncurled. Let your mind touch first upon one foot, then the other, conceiving of each as letting go, as relaxed. Proceed to relax the muscles of your legs, torso, arms, hands, neck, face, eyes in similar manner consciously feeling them slackening as you would allow a stretched rubber band to return to limpness.

Remaining in this relaxed position conceive of God's hand resting in turn on each member of your body with quieting and healing touch. When you picture God's hand resting upon your heart quietly repeat these words: "Let not your heart be troubled," but stubstitute "my" to personalize the thought.

New Building, Parish Made Possible by Gift From U.S. Methodists

A gift of $50,000 from the Methodist Churches of the Philadelphia Annual Conference has made possible the opening of a new church building and parish house for the 600-member Wesley Methodist Church, in Taipei, Formosa.

The Chinese members of the several language congregations of Wesley Church contributed more than $10,000 for furnishings.

The Rev. Edward K. Knettler, a former pastor in Philadelphia, and now pastor of Wesley Church and district superintendent of Formosa Methodists, presided and preached at the opening ceremonies.

Taking part were also Yu Ruliang, chairman of the official board, and C. Y. Shih, lay leader. Shih expressed the deep gratitude of the congregation to the Methodists of the Philadelphia Conference.

The new church is a two-story structure of reinforced concrete with a washed stone exterior. It was planned in a modern style by a young Chinese architect who is a member of the church.

It has a santuary which can seat 1,000 persons by using an auxiliary room, a small chapel and a larger chapel which is used for the weekly service in the English language.

For there is not a word in my tongue, but lo, O Lord, Thou knowest it altogether. Search me, O God, and know my heart; try me and know my thoughts; And see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting.

Japanese Scientist Wins Scholarship

A biologist at the Methodist-related Kwansei Gakuin High School, Nishinomiya, Japan, is one of ten Japanese science teachers who will study in the United States this year on Fulbright scholarships. Shiyukichi Tabuchi was one of two teachers from private schools to receive science Fulbrights. Other recipients were from government schools.

Kwansei Gaguin, founded in 1889 by the former Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is considered one of the outstanding Christian schools in Japan. It receives $10,000 annually from the Division of World Missions of the Methodist Board of Missions.

Kwansei has acadamic work from junior high school through graduate school and a total enrollment of 8,500. The senior high school division, in which Tabuchi teaches, has 850 students.

Belgian Congo Center Rising

New Methodist Building to Serve Thousands of African Families

A new Methodist social center to help serve the needs of thousands of African families is under construction near Elisabethville in the Southern Belgian Congo.

Ground was broken for the new center by Bishop Newell S. Booth of the Elisabethville Episcopal area, the Rev. Thomas H. Cloyd, missionary of Donelson, Tenn., and several African pastors. The Rev. Mr. Cloyd will be the director of the center, which is designed especially to meet the needs of youth.

★ ★ ★

The new center is located in Kenya, a rapidly growing suburb near the mining city of Elisabethville. Like most cities in the United States, Elisabethville is expanding, especially in its suburban areas. And as in the U.S., churches, schools and businesses must work hard to keep their facilities apace of the new housing developments.

Christianizing new urban and suburban areas such as Jenya is one of the major objectives of the "Lands of Decision" program in the Congo — and the new social center is one way Methodists are seeking to reach this objective.

In turning the first spadeful of earth, Bishop Booth said: "It was only a few years ago that this site was in the midst of open country. Now it is surrounded by a dense population. People have need for fellowship, for creative joy, for the expression of themselves in music and art, for helpful uses of leisure time — to meet those needs we are erecting a Christian social center.

"The Christian church has a message for individuals, but it also has a message for the community. It desires to see the places where people live made into 'the good community.' So it engages in the battle to remove drunkenness, gamblind, fighting, immorality and crime, and to replace these things with fellowship and helpful good times. It is for the purpose of building up the lives of people in the Kenya community that we start this Christian social center."

Among the civic leaders who attended the ground-breaking was the African mayor of Kenya, the first person to hold that office.

FIRST UNITED MISSIONARY CHURCH — Surveying and grading was started in July for the new First United Missionary Church to be situated on three acres of ground at 138 N. East Blvd. The church will be constructed of brick and slag type block by contractors, John E. Roth & Sons, Inc. Birmingham. The first unit will be completed on Dec. 30 at an estimated cost of $110,000. The Rev. O. P. Eastman is pastor.

New Church Goes Up on East Boulevard

Plans have been accepted and work begun on the first unit of the new First United Misisonary Church to be constructed on the three acres purchased at 138 N. East Blvd.

★ ★ ★

The educational unit, the first to be built, will be 46 x 131 feet with basement and one floor above ground. Constructed of brick and slag type block, it will accommodate a Sunday School of 400.

The temporary sanctuary will seat 300 with overflow room for and additional 100. A permanent baptistry will be installed and provision made for a 24-voice choir.

The heating will be hot water. A modern kitchen and dining space are provided in the basement. The Youth Room on the first floor and Fellowship Hall, below, will both have fireplaces.

The over-all cost of the first unit is estimated at $110,000. The completion date is set for Dec. 30. John E. Roth & Sons, Inc. are the architects and contractors.

The three acre site will provide ample room for parking.

CHURCH IN JUNIOR HIGH

Currently worshipping in Eastern Junior High School, the congregation was organized on Jan. 23, 1909 as the Mennonite Brethren in Christ Church. It became the United Missionary Church by action of the general conference in Potsdam, Ohio in 1948.

For two years before the church was organized, a downtown mission was carried on. First located over Kessell & Dickinson Clothing Store, it was later moved across to rooms above the Webb Meat Market on South Saginaw street.

According to Mrs. David Wells, the daughter of former pastor, the Rev. R. M. Dodd, the church was organized by three women, Mrs. Susie Bowman, Ella Ditty and Lenore Annabell of Port Huron.

★ ★ ★

In October 1957, a new parsonage was purchased at 632 Benson St. for the pastor, the Rev. and Mrs. O. P. Eastman, and the three acres purchased.

California School Studies Science in Kindergarten

QUINCY, Calif. (UPI)—A science program that starts simply in kindergarten and continues with increasing complexity through the six elementry grades is preparing students of Plumas County schools for advanced work in chemistry, psysics and other natural sciences.

Lester Nichols, assistant superintendent of schools, explained:

"We are not trying to make nuclear physicists in the first six grades, but we are convinced the groundwork can be laid early for an understanding of the basic physical rules and forces as preparation for more intensive study in high school and college."

★ ★ ★

The county's forward-looking program has been set forth in a printed guide developed by more than 70 teachers four years ago and recently revised in a second edition.

★ ★ ★

The study guide is not only popular in Plumas schools, but in districts throughout the state. Requests have been received from as far away as Japan. Nichols said extra copies have been printed for any further outside requests.

Cleveland Inn to Use Old Theater Organ

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — The nostalgic sounds of the once-familiar theater organ will again delight listeners on Cleveland's West Side.

Found in an old movie house by Gerald E. Brookins, owner of the new Lamplight Inn, the theatrical organ is one of two reaming instruments of its kind left in the city. At one time, at least 12 organs were in use daily.

Although theatrical organs differ greatly from church and concert organs, Brookings plans to use his new discovery in his inn.

Art Carney Wants Role in Gleason's TV Show

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Art Carney, alias Ed Norton, the man from down under (in the sewer), is just as sweet as a sewer isn't.

He spoiled my schemes by being nice. I'd wanted to needle him a little about stealing the "Harvey" role from Frank Fay—and get under his skin about Jackie Gleason signing up fat boy Buddy Hackett.

"I've read about Frank Fay being irate and disappointed—but I wonder if it's true," Art said over a cup of tea at Toots Shor's.

Not being in a vest and T-shirt, as he was so long in Jackie Gleason's "Honeymooners," he looked businesslike.

WILSON

"But I got to be honest with you, because I'm so darn pleased I'm doing it," he said. "Fay has not done a lot of TV. He's not a TV personality. I suppose that enters into it.

"I said to Bill McCaffery, my manager, after doing 'Harvey' in summer stock, 'If they could get the rights to this on TV, I sure would like to do it.'

"Out of the blue, all of a sudden . . ." Anyway, he stars in it on the DuPont Show of the Month Sept. 22 with Marion Lorne in the Josephine Hull part.

"But I hope I work some with Gleason, too. I miss not working with him. I used to look forward to Saturday. We had a ball. Never a cross word. You know, you were around. It was home plate."

"How come you two guys didn't get together?"

McCaffery spoke up. "It had to do with the business end. We couldn't reconcile two points of view."

★ ★ ★

"Did you and Gleason ever talk it over personally?"

McCaffery answered. "Protocol dictates that you talk through representatives."

"If we'd get together personally, business would never have been discussed," Carney grinned.

"In other words, I haven't got my call yet," Art said.

"Is Ed Norton dead?"

"I hope not. I like him too much to see him die," Art said. As I shut my notebook, Art Carney said, "Well, if you see Gleason, tell him hello."

Man Accused of Robberies

Police Catch Suspect After Chase Through Downtown Port Huron

PORT HURON (AP)—William Hartman, 38, of Port Huron, was held on a charge of armed robbery today after giving police officers a merry chase through downtown Port Huron.

★ ★ ★

Hartman was picked up at a self service laundry yesterday, but broke away when officers tried to handcuff him. He took off, ignoring a warning shot, ran around a corner, through a hotel lobby and down a street.

But police collared him when he slipped and fell in the middle of the street.

Detectives said Hartman, an ex-convict, admitted three robberies which netted him a total of some $150. He told police he could not find a job and needed the money to feed his wife and five children.

Swiss Determined to Keep Neutrality

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — The Swiss government said today it never would equip its armed forces with tactical nuclear weapons if this meant abandonment of traditional Swiss neutrality.

The government statement was in reply to a Moscow Radio warning yesterday that the acquisition of nuclear weapons would threaten the very existence of neutral Switzerland.

The Swiss government on July 11 announced its intention to plan the acquisition of such weapons as a long-term objective.

The government said today it "has in no way taken a definite decision to acquire such weapons.

Drivers Urged to Avoid Taking Busy Highways

TRAVERSE CITY (AP) — Secretary of State James H. Hare believes one solution to highway traffic jams in Detroit would be educating motorists in the use of alternative routes into the city.

Hare told a meeting of the East Bay Businessmen's Assn. here yesterday that the big problem of highway safety comes when traffic is returning from outings. He said highway maps could be made to show a number of alternative routes and drivers should be advised to use these routes even though it might mean a few extra miles of driving.

This, he said, would relieve the congestion on the main routes.

Skelton's Wife Sick

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Red Skelton's wife, Georgia, was hospitalized after collapsing in her hotel room. A doctor at Southern Nevada Memorial Hospital said she was suffering from nervous exhaustion. He said her condition was not serious. Skelton is appearing in a night club act at a Las Vegas hotel.

Foreign Visitors Bewildered

New Slang Sinks Cockney

LONDON (INS) — Britain's Cockneys and underworld habitues who have cheerfully massacred the English language over the years, are now even confusing their own countrymen with a new-type slang vocabulary.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

But the advent of rock 'n' roll, American teenage idiom, and even the Russian sputnik, have provided ammunition for the manglers of the English spoken and written word.

After the first day's hearing, some newspapers helpfully printed a glossary of the new slang terms used during the evidence given by some Damon Runyon-like characters.

Prosecutor Sir Harry Hylton-Foster, the Solicitor-General, opened the case in impeccable style. He alleged that a policeman had received £20 ($56) a week for 15 weeks from a nightclub owner in Brighton.

But the newspaper glossary became necessary when the prosecution witnesses started using terms like "a screwing job" (burglary), "boot polish" (blackmail), "a W" (a police warrant), and then referred to gifts of money as "a score" (£20 — $56), "a half" (£50 — $140) and a "ton" (£100—$280).

The new expressions were eagerly adopted on London's East side, where the citizenry for many years has contributed handsomely to language mayhem.

The inhabitants indignantly aver that the old and picturesque rhyming slang has "gone for a burton," (died out).

Hula Girls Join Union—Salaries Promptly Double

Unionization has hit the hula industry and the grass-skirted dancers are now organized in the American Guild of Variety Artists.

There was a time when hula dancers were paid $5 a performance on such occasions as greeting incoming ships, Hawaiian feasts known as luaus, camera shows and private parties.

Dancers who perform solo numbers — such as the youngest Guild member in Hawaii, 9-year-old Debbie Caetano — now get $20 a performance.

Previously, says her mother, "if Debbie made $5 a show, we thought it was excellent."

Twelve major hotels and night clubs at Waikiki beach which regularly employ hula dancers have Guild contracts and can hire only Guild members.

Feature dancers get $125 a week at such places as the Royal Hawaiian Hotel or the Hawaiian Village Hotel.

Some of the lesser-known spots pay $100 a week. These salaries run about one-fourth higher than B.U. (Before Union).

John Tsukano, manager of the Guild's branch in Hawaii, says he will soon visit nearby Hawaiian islands to organize hula dancers outside Honolulu.

The Guild's newspaper, perhaps somewhat ruefully, points out there are difficulties in organizing the casual, carefree Hawaiians.

"Every Hawaiian," says the paper, is a born entertainer. This makes it an increasingly hard job for the (Guild) branch manager to police the area."

Ends New Brunswick Visit

Meg Watches Mock Battle

FREDERICTON, N.B. (AP) — Princess Margaret ends her visit to New Brunswick today by watching a mock tank-infantry battle staged by the Canadian army at her request.

★ ★ ★

The princess's original plans had called for a routine tour of Camp Georgetown followed by a spit-and-polish inspection. But she asked to see maneuvers instead.

An army spokesman said the tank units would fire black shells, but not near the princess.

After the visit to Camp Georgetown, Margaret planned to head for Nova Soctia, last stop on her trans-Canada tour.

Because of fog on the Bay of Fundy, officials readied a transport plane, a destroyer escort, a ferry boat, a helicopter and a string of motor cars to take care of any eventuality.

Before the races an unidentified elderly man in shirt sleeves offered Margaret through her equerry two tickets to bet "on something that might win." The The equerry declined with a smile, explaining that "she never does" bet.

Hollywood Headlines

By DOROTHY MANNERS

(While Louella O. Parsons is in Hawaii her column will be written by Dorothy Manners.)

HOLLYWOOD — Yul Brynner planes into London tomorrow for the sole purpose of talking to Alec Guinness about starring with him and Anthony Quinn in "The Gladiators," He wants Guinness so much for this $5,000,000 spectacle which he will make for his own company (United Artists release) that he thought it worth the trip to London to try to set the deal.

Brynner's been flying around like he owned an airline. In the past two weeks he's flown from Hollywood to Vienna to work with director Anatole Litvak on the rough cut of "The Journey," the film just completed with Deborah Kerr.

He's due to return to Hollywood by the end of the month to start "The Sound and The Fury" at 20th for Jerry Wald. Joanne Woodward is the co-star.

★ ★ ★

The injection of racial controversy into the now bitter battle raging over "Porgy and Bess" shocked Hollywood as it has seldom been shocked. The fight between Sam Goldwyn and Rouben Mamoulian, who was replaced by Otto Preminger as director, is one thing. That's their battle and let it be fought out in the Screen Directors Guild or in a court of law if necessary.

But cluttering up a change-of-directors row by bringing in a racial problem has rocked the entire industry. George Gershwin's American opera is a great work of art about Negroes, sung and acted by Negroes, and has been acclaimed by Negroes throughout the world.

Loren Miller, West Coast chairman of the legal committee and member of the national NAACP today stated: "I repeat what I have said earlier that I have complete confidence that Mr. Goldwyn's production of 'Porgy and Bess' will be done with the utmost regard for the dignity of the Negro people."

It's just a matter of money whether Louis Jourdan accepts Alex Gottlieb's offer to star in "Fragrantly Yours," the biography of perfumer Edouard Cournand of Lanvin.

★ ★ ★

Heard a funny story about Gottlieb try ing to carry on financial talks from Hollywood to Jourdan's agent, Irving Lazar, in Paris.

To which Gottlieb replied, "You could hear it if it was double what you think you heard!"

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Pontiac Press Photos by Tom Gerls

THE PINK HOUSE — Not the title of a novel, but an actual home, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wilton. It is built on the top of one of the Grampian Hills, northeast of Lake Orion. From the front and side there are sweeping views of more hills and Indian Lake. The house is on Markwood, half a mile from the main road. Mr. Wilton and his son Ron did much of the work of building the house.

CENTRAL FIREPLACE — The Roman brick fireplace occupies the center of the house, but has the fire opening only on one corner. Mrs. Wilton, a charming, relaxed hostess, was enthusiastic as she displayed her summer home. Mr. Wilton whose hobby is woodworking made the decorations on the chimney. That "picture" of the horse is interesting; it is merely a wooden cutout of a horse mounted on the brick with the frame hung over it — no backing, no glass. Behind the fireplace is the combination vanity, desk and telephone table. That door at the right opens into a large cleaning closet.

Your Neighbor's House

Pink House Is Summer Retreat

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

"High on a windy hill" there's a pink house. Half a mile away from the main road, the Roy Wilton summer home overlooks Indian Lake and mile after mile of the Grampian Hills.

It is said that these hills were the last stamping ground of the Indians. That it is scenic country there is no question. Joe Haas says the area is full of wildlife too.

The Wiltons are Pontiac residents. They are content to be that in the winter. But they have always wanted a summer retreat. The 17½ acres they now own northeast of Lake Orion they found just by riding around Oakland County.

Four years ago the house was started. After the basement, the plumbing and the fireplace were put in by professionals, Mr. Wilton and his son, Ron, did the rest of the work. Ron graduated from Pontiac Central High School in June. The Wiltons also have a daughter who is an airline hostess.

The Wilton house is used only during the summer months, but it is completely insulated and has adequate heating facilities for cold weather. Only storm windows are lacking.

The garage is in the basement. Only, they don't use it for a garage and are building a separate one a few yards down the hill. Farm equipment takes up most of the space in the garage-workshop. The Wiltons have a big garden in which Ron does the honors with the tractor.

The exterior of the house is pink aluminum siding. Trim is gray. There are large windows on two sides that frame glorious views of the rolling countryside. The Wilton's sole neighbors live a short way up the hill.

Only Ron's bedroom and bathroom are completely closed off. The rest of the house is open. The main room measures 35 x 21 feet and includes living room and kitchen area with eating space. Floors throughout the house are vinyl tile in a mottled pattern of tan, green and rose.

In the center of the house is a fireplace. Built of light colored Roman brick, it has the opening at one corner. The raised hearth has a stone cap.

An aqua sectional sofa divides the big room into its two areas. The living room side has a gray figured rug. All the windows are curtained the same. There are plain beige draperies with figured draperies at each end. In the living room there is a matching valance. Only a valance is used at the smaller windows over the sink.

Furniture in the living room is informal and comfortable. Most of the table tops are plastic. In addition to table lamps there are spotlight fixtures on the walls.

OH! THE STORAGE SPACE

Mrs. Wilton has more storage space in her summer kitchen than she does in her city home. In addition to the usual cupboards built around the sink and stove, there is a built-in buffet on one wall. This contains more cupboards, drawers and a large work surface.

THE WORKING END — It's not work for Ron Wilton to get a cool drink from the refrigerator. But his mother does her work in this end of the main room. There are 24 cupboards and 10 drawers in her kitchen. All are made of natural finished birch to match the paneled walls. Accents are copper. Counter tops are Formica covered in a rosy red shade.

THE LIVING ROOM END — The western end of the 35x21 foot room is used as the living room. There are picture windows on two sides. A beamed ceiling adds to the feeling of spaciousness in this room. The monks cloth curtains closing off the Wiltons' bedroom can be pulled back, making the open area even larger. Patterned draperies have a small print, combining green, orange and tan. Curtains are plain beige. Furniture is informal and comfortable.

BERMUDA INSPIRED — This seven-room ranch style home, inspired by Bermuda architecture, was designed to be built anywhere in the United States, either with or without a basement. The "Bermuda room," an outdoor, partly shielded breezeway, can be fully enclosed if desired.

ONE-STORY PLAN — Excellent circulation patterns are established in this floor plan. The center hall is separated from the living room by a latticed divider. A rear vestibule gives access to the dinette and kitchen and to the cellar stairs or lavatory without going through the living, sleeping or working areas of the house.

Bermuda Architecture Inspires One Story House

By JOHN O. B. WALLACE

A trip to Bermuda by an American architect, seeking ideas for a different type of dwelling with popular appeal for all parts of the United States, resulted in this interesting House of The Week design.

Designated X-18 and created especially for the House of The Week series, the plan captures the charm and atmosphere of homes found on the British Crown Colony 600 miles off the eastern coast of America.

The "Bermuda house" can be built with or without a basement to suit the needs of any U.S. region.

Design X-18 is the work of Lester Cohen, noted for smartly styled small homes. He made the trip to Bermuda, he says, for the purpose of "crystalizing my ideas for a popular American home based on the flexible living features which have distinguished Bermuda architecture for so long."

Its Bermuda characteristics start with the "welcoming arms" of the masonry detail around the front step, the full-length shutters on each side of the door and the fan window over the door.

TRAY CEILING FEATURED

The Bermuda atmosphere is brought inside with a tray ceiling in the living room. The same type of ceiling also may be used in the master bedroom.

A tray ceiling, the forerunner of the cathedral ceiling, is of normal height around the perimeter of the room but toward the center it slants upward on all four sides so that there is an upper "well" rising to a height of one foot above the nine-foot outer ceiling height.

Cohen's plan includes a Bermuda room, 16 by 16 feet 6 inches, which is shown here as an outdoor, partly shielded breezeway between the house and the garage. There is a barbecue grill in one corner.

The front part of this room is sheltered and is entered through a picket door. The roof slopes upward to the ridge for extra height. One wall of the garage encloses the Bermuda room on the right.

Sliding glass doors separate it from the dining room — and the rear is open to the back garden.

The architect believes many persons will want to completely enclose the Bermuda room as a full room, or use louvered glass walls or screens at the back. In warmer climates, the Bermuda room becomes a permanent living room just as it is.

In cooler climates, the area can serve the family as a recreation room or as an outdoor entertaining room.

Although inspired by Bermuda architecture, Cohen points out that his plan is "up to date and American." The room layout includes a wing of three bedrooms, all accessible from either the center hall in the front or from the rear vestibule at the back of the house.

In the kitchen, a snack bar and wall oven separate the work area from the dinette. Each of the two kitchen areas is about 8 by 12 feet in size, and the work area is laid out in an "L" shaped arrangement.

The dining room lies at the back of the living room and between the kitchen and the Bermuda room. It has double windows at the back overlooking the garden, and a simple fireplace. This room has a deep, box bay front window and an arched opening into the dining room.

An exterior feature which catches the full flavor of Bermuda is the roof. Here white asbestos shingles are used; they are most like the ridged, slate roofs so prevalent in Bermuda.

Statistics

House of The Week design X-18 has a habitable area of 1,492 square feet. Add 277 square feet for the "Bermuda room" and 294 square feet for the garage. The overall dimensions of the house are 32 by 81 feet 6 inches. A lot 100 by 100 feet is recommended. The house can be built either with or without a basement.

Use Routine Plan for Quick Cleaning

Table tops, bookcases, the TV set and piano are next in line for dusting by vacuum brush attachment and an occasional waxing.

Then the vacuum attachment is used to dust baseboards, moldings, lamp shades and other grime-collectors.

Woodwork, walls, door panels and any smudged areas are cleaned with a solution of soil remover and a sponge — the sponge mop will handle much of this chore.

Formica. Accents are copper. The drop light fixture in the middle of the room is a combination of brass and copper. The Wiltons eat at an antique oak table.

The Wiltons' bedroom is closed off from the main room only by heavy monks cloth draperies, mounted on a brass pole. If they so desire, they can throw this room open and make it part of the main living area.

They have ample closet space in this room. Just off it, in the hall behind the fireplace, there is a built-in vanity.

This vanity has manifold uses. It is both a desk and a telephone table as well as a spot for the fair sex to primp. The top is yellow Formica. Above is a long mirror. The bench used is covered with the drapery material used in the living room.

Ron's room has a built-in chest of drawers. His headboard is leather. There's an antique rocker with a velour cover where he can relax with a book.

On the first floor there is a full bath. In the basement a lavatory and shower are available for swimmers. There is more storage space down here.

The Wiltons' summer home is near enough to Pontiac for Mr. Wilton to commute with ease. In spirit it is thousands of miles from the hurly-burly of civilization.

Art of Marbling Revived in West

A generation or two ago, marbling was common in many homes, but seen more often in public buildings. However, when Howard Guilkey, designer of the famous California Spring Garden Show at Oakland chose as his theme "Mediterranean Moods," he needed the effect of marble columns, balusters and arches.

This required a search to find a skilled artisan and they found an old-timer, by names James McCully, who could and did transform many of the painted surfaces for the Italian scenes at the show to look like marble.

With tips of small feathers, McCulley traced the thin marble lines. Each feather he used was good for only one small line, so hundreds of feathers were needed to complete the artistry. The basic color was light with the tracery in darker shades to achieve the wanted effect of marble.

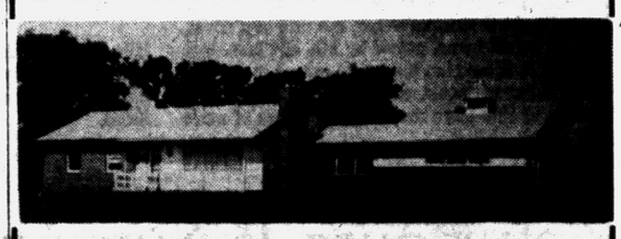

Two and a half tons of glue and 137 tons of lumber went into the 12 laminated wood arches that frame the roof of a new sports arena at Commack, Long Island. The arches provide a clear span of 205 feet at a peak height of 65 feet.

Feathres, particularly eagle feathres, have long been important in the ceremonial life of New Mexico's Indians. Prior to the arrival of the Spanish explorers in the 16th century, Indians of New Mexico traded for the precious feathers by offering turquoise in exchange.

'Ribbon' of Heat

One of the most economical methods of providing central hot water heating in older homes or other structures is by means of a "radiant ribbon" of pipe extending around the perimeter of the room, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. The pipe is covered with a metal baseboard. The simplicity of the installation is said to greatly reduce the cost.

CAFE SHUTTERS — Cafe shutters are a new easy way to use a shutter on a window without the expense of a wooden or metal one. The shutters are made of material, set on a metal frame and hung on hooks. All are washable. They come in a variety of colors, fabrics and sizes. They may be used with curtains or alone.

Mud Room Protects Home From Tracking

Do you have a back porch or back entryway which isn't completely in use? Smart architects with an eye for utilizing space suggest converting this area into a "mud room."

Outfitted with a shower stall, wash basins, cabinets and closets, the mud room becomes an ideal spot for gardeners and grubby children to freshen up before entering the living portions of the home.

Add wall paneling and built-in cabinetry of a handsome and easily tailored wood like west coast hemlock, and the mud room makes a luxurious guest bathroom. Flooring should be of tough, easily washed type, like vinyl tile.

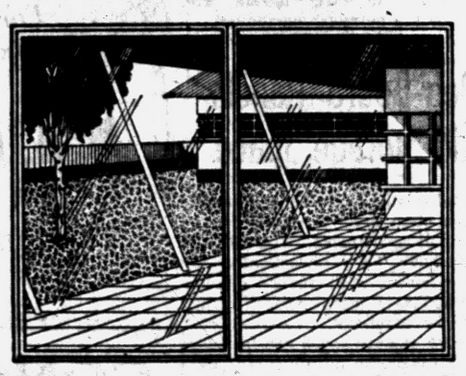

If you are planning to reroof with snow white shingles, make sure your television aerial is covered with a rust-proof coating. Rain spreads rust from the aerial to the roof, discoloring the bright new shingles.

Relaxed Housing Laws Enable Renter to Buy

This permits him to make his 3 per cent down payment on the first $13,500 of FHA-approved loans rather than on just the first $10,000. Previously the down payment was 3 per cent on the first $10,000, plus upward of 10 per cent on the amount above that figure. So now, for example, the down payment on a house valued at $13,000 is $400 instead of $750.

(If you are eligible to apply for a Veterans Administration loan, you need no down payment at all.)

Chances are that opportunity to make a profit also encouraged the man next door to buy now. Economists predict that the home you pay $13,000 for today will cost a good deal more in a few years when the anticipated building boom of the sixties is in full swing.

Experts contend that buyers who move now should be able to sell at a much higher price 10 years from now. A house bought 15 to 20 years ago is worth up to three tims the money today, and there is every reason to believe that the spiral will continue upward.

Greater availability today of quality building materials such as asphalt shingles, insulating board products and fireproof gypsum board makes it possible for builders to offer more house for the money.

These durable materials stand up with the passing of the years, enhancing the resale value of the home and making it easier for future potential homeowners to gain FHA-approved loans.

NO UPKEEP — The Thomas Selbergs of 6575 Manson don't worry about the upkeep on their fence. Made of discarded railroad ties, it will last indefinitely. Neighbors helped Mr. Selberg load the ties into his trailer and erect the fence. Mrs. Selberg did the tedious job of putting white paint on the wagon wheels which mark the entrance.

Wood Fiber Tiles Sound Condition TV Rooms

"Remember the time when people used to just sit around and talk?"

Many persons are quick to blame television as the culprit who has stolen the heart from the Art of Conversation. Television may or may not deserve these charges. At any rate, now something can be done to keep its noise from distracting those who want to "just sit around and talk."

Sound-conditioning provides a means of keeping TV noise from disrupting other areas of the home. Also, it helps in the TV room itself by reducing the noise level to tolerable proportions.

One way to sound-condition a room is with an acoustical material on the ceiling. A number of types are available. By far the most popular, for use in the home, are acoustical tiles made of wood fiber. They combine good sound-absorbing efficiency with low cost. Also, they're easy for the do-it-yourself to install.

Wood-fiber acoustical tiles are available in any of three designs: A casual, "full random" scattering of small perforations; a more formal arrangement of perforations in straight lines; and the newest style, which has a fissured or "textured" surface similar to that of much more expensive acoustical materials.

Tiles in all three designs are coated with washable white paint. When it becomes dirty, the ceiling can be easily swished clean with a damp cloth. If desired, it can be repainted without losing its ability to soak up sound.

Installed on the ceiling of the television room, these wood-fiber tiles sponge up as much as 75 per cent of the noise that reaches them. They're most efficient at absorbing sounds of high frequency—and these high-pitched whines, whirrs and buzzes are the very noises that drill most annoyingly through the eardrums.

The tiny perforations and fissures in the acoustical material trap unwanted sound-waves before they have a chance to bounce off the ceiling and build up the noise level in the room. In this way sound from the television set is "purified," so to speak, by the lessening of echoes and reverberation.

Wood-fiber tiles are lightweight and made in 12"x12" size for easy handling. They may be cemented, nailed or stapled in place. Working together, Mr. and Mrs. Do-It-Yourself can put up the ceiling for a typical room in just a matter of hours.

Wallpaper Blamed for Man's Absence

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you can't keep that man of yours around the house, maybe it's just because there are too many posies on the wallpaper in the den.

That's the wallpaper industry's diagnosis of what ails menfolk who stray from the warmth of the place you both call home. The cure: give the poor guy a chance to pick his own wallpaper, which now comes in two sexes.

The male kind is full of ships and sails, horses and knights, hounds and birds, sports cars and motor boats, soldiers and plumed hats. Everything, in other words. Except pin-ups, that is.

A basement, with as much floor space, sometimes, as the main floor, deserves to be part of the home: For storage, for a future recreation room, laundry or darkroom.

Measure Right to Cut Costs

Whether you do it yourself or let George do it, home improvement projects will cost less and come out better if you "measure-it-yourself." Proper planning is half of any do-it-yourself project. By measuring accurately and knowing in advance how much material you will need and how you will us it, you can order only as much as you need and not be stuck with leftovers. Accurate measurement will also stand the homeowner in good stead if he calls in an outside contractor.

1. Always make a simple scale drawing of the area where work will be done. "One inch equals one foot" is a good working scale.

2. Indicate accurately on your sketch the location and dimensions of such things as windows, doors, water pipes and fixtures that will make necessary special fitting of the materials to be used.

3. Determine the square footage or running footage (depending on the work required) of the area and divide by the unit measurement of the material used.

4. You can measure the area of a peaked roof without climbing the roof by measuring the square footage of the attic floor or roof deck and adding 50 per cent to this total. An attic floor measuring 1600 square feet means that the roof area totals approximately 2400 square feet.

Since a "roofing square" is 100 square feet, you would divide this total by 100 to determine the number of roofing squares needed (in this case 24). Thus you can get accurate estimates from roofers who figure their costs on the basis of so much per "square."

Good Well Is Biggest Need

When planning his dream house beyond the water mains, the prospective owner should make up his mind to settle for nothing less than city-type water service.

That means, according to the National Water Well Association, not less than 50 gallons per day per person. Insisting on a well and a water system that provides this amount of water will guarantee adequate water supply even at times when the peak load is reached.

True, the initial requirements when the family moves into the new home in X-urbia may not be that heavy. But families have a habit of growing; and water requirements go up proportionately.

Every family living in the country has discovered that they use more water than they had expected to use.

In order to be assured of plenty of water and plenty of pressure, the prospective builder in X-urbia should select a reputable and established well drilling contractor and then have confidence in his judgment and in his recommendations. He should choose a member of the National Water Well Association to drill the well, which will guarantee that the contractor is a qualified well-driller.

It is equally important to buy the water system from a dependable water system dealer who knows how to select, install, and service the pumping equipment.

'Peg-Board' Panels Add Storage Space

Inadequate closet and storage space often annoys couples living in small apartments, especially if they have been accustomed to large houses with roomy closets and additional storage space in the attic or basement.

Extra storage space can be added, however, by installing a "Peg-Board" panel to the back of any closet door. The panel should be attached with hinges to a 1x2-inch furring strip so that it can swing freely and provide storage space on both sides.

Hooks on the "free" end can secure the panel in closed position to another furring strip, or more finished catches can be used.

Actually the "Peg-Board" panel forms a "miniature" inside closet for ties and belts. Germents, or even shoes, can be hung on the outside of the perforated panel to take full advantage of limited closet space.

Softwoods Widely Used

The U.S. uses more lumber than any other nation in the world, and has the highest per capita consumption of lumber excepting less-populated Canada and New Zealand. About 28 billion feet of the 40 billion feet used annually in this country is softwood lumber; the balance is hardwood. About 12 billion feet of the softwood is a single species, Douglas fir, largely produced along the Pacific slopes.

Simple Color Scheme

When planning to redecorate a room, stick to a simple color scheme, especially if decorating on a budget. Plan to have one bold style note to add character to the room. If this style note is easily washable, it will be worth a little extra money. It sets off a room, yet is not expensive to maintain.

Will your picture windows let you look out on the world—or the other way around?

Homeowners' Pride Wins

Gloomy postwar predictions that developments of small homes would deteriorate into "subuurban slums" within a few years have not come true. In fact the homes themselves have increased in value except for a few isolated cases, a home improvement specialist for a leading building materials manufacturer reports.

Clarence Hausmann, roofing materials specialist for Allied Chemical's Barrett Division, says that these predictions did not take into account the average American's "pride of ownership."

"Instead of allowing their property to deteriorate, most development homeowners have invested time and money in their homes to improve and individualize landscaping, build garages, finish attics and basements, reroof with wind-resistant shingles, add dormers, patios and even swimming pools," Hausmann says.

He cites the example of the huge Levittown, Long Island postwar project where homes bought for $8,000 are now selling for $12,000 and more in today's market and are "worth the price."

Hausmann also credits the rise in do-it-yourself activity with contributing to the increase in home values. He notes the development of such products as acoustical ceiling tiles, translucent plastic panels and pre-cut wallboard which lend themselves to easy installation.

"Many homeowners have become as familiar with quality building materials as the average lumber dealer. Far from allowing their homes to deteriorate, they are doing their best to make them better than new."

New Storage Spot Under Lawn Seat

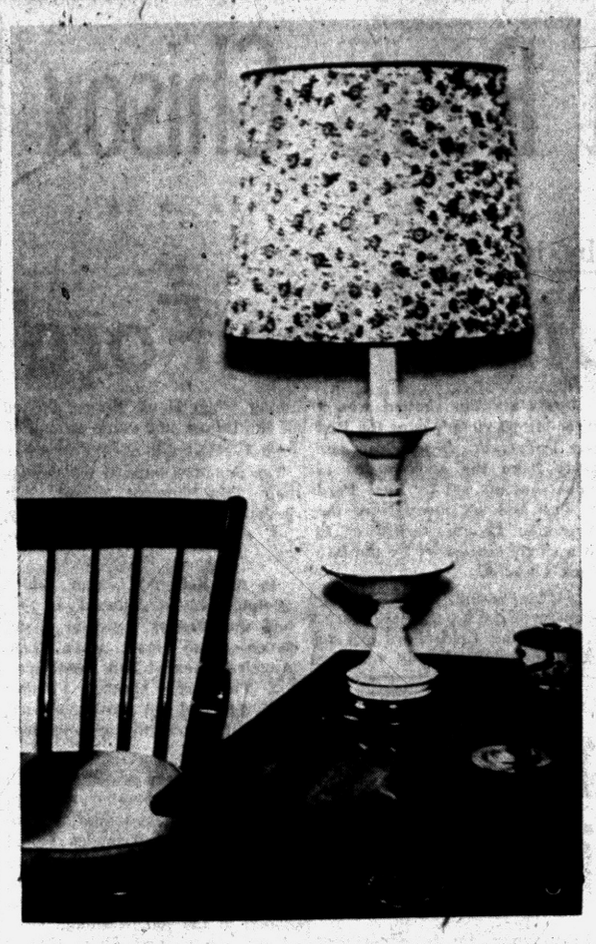

Space for extra storage often crops up in the most unlikely places. The latest wrinkle developed by landscape architect Chandler Fairbank is to use the garden benches for storage.

It's easily done if you construct the benches so that they are like long, low boxes with hinged lids.

The bench-boxes can be very handsome if constructed of a material like western red cedar bevel siding for the sides and cedar 2x4s for the lid. They're a handy spot to keep the youngster's outdoor play gear.

Balls, bats, and toy tractors will fit in with the greatest of ease, and having on-the-spot storage will keep the patio neat at all times.

LAMP CHARMER — Two saucers accent this charming new table lamp, suitable for provincial, Colonial, or informal contemporary rooms. Made of white china, it is mounted on a round wood base. The color of the wood is repeated by the brown floral print on the white fabric shade. Shown with furniture by Consider H. Willett, Inc.

Color Preferences Change Gradually

The use of white as a wall color has declined steadily since 1950, a survey states emphatically. Rather interesting is the fact that, at the same time, use of white as decorative trim—as shown by statistics of sales of interior enamel—has increased. This would indicate that many homes have colored walls with white woodwork and trim. White enameled kitchens and bathrooms continue to be standard.

Dark enamels — as opposed to those of medium or light strength —have risen from 16 to 14 per cent of the market. Even black has its place "in the sun."

Green — with its fresh hint of leaves and grass—is indicated by a paint industry survey to be the most popular paint color. The American Institute of Decorators is forecasting that yellow-green (chartreuse or citron) will increase in popular esteem.

This hue, that is a combination of sunny yellow and popular green, is a good decorating foil for turquoise, as well as the red-purple (mulberry) hues. The paint industry's survey shows, however, that purple paint amounted to "less than one hundredth of one per cent" of sales during the past year.

Glass Top Protects Yard Picnic Table

Covering the tops of picnic tables with heavy sheet glass is a simple and economical way to protect the finish from the wear-and-tear of constant outdoor use.

Water Works Year Round to Heat, Cool

CHICAGO (UPI) — A new apartment building in Skokie, a northwest suburb of Chicago, is real cool or real warm and it's all done with water.

An unusual method of heating and cooling entirely by water has been installed in the apartments. In winter, hot water is piped into units concealed in a ceiling above the closets. There fans blow the heat through wall openings down into the rooms.

The flow of air is from the top to the bottom rather than bottom to top, resulting in "evenly controlled heat and coolness," said builder Sidney J. Sparberg.

The system eliminates radiators or baseboard heating units, but costs about twice as much as conventional heating systems.

Antedate Jamestown

This is the 350th anniversary of the founding of the first business in America in 1608, which was a sawmill erected at Jamestown in what is now Virginia. However, wood products have been found in ancient mounds in the Southwest that date back hundreds of years more, and were products of mysterious cliff dwellers.

Prefabrication of homes is far from a new development, report building historians. As early as 1624 the English brought a panelized home of wood to Cape Ann, Mass. for use by a fishing fleet.

Lary Allows 14 Hits but Beats Chisox

'Little Bulldog' Gains 6-2 Win Despite Hitting

Kaline and Maxwell Bat in 2 Runs Apiece in Ragged Contest

ALL COUNT — Major League pitchers are glad to take victories any way they can get them and Detroit's Frank Lary is no exception. The scrappy righthander gave up 14 hits yet beat the White Sox 6-2 last night for his 11th triumph of the year.

The Detroit Tiger righthander pitched a 14-hitter last night—but held on through one means or another and beat the White Sox 6-2 at Briggs Stadium before a turnout of 25,480.

The White Sox, who had won four in a row, had no trouble at all hitting Lary. In fact, Jim Rivera had three hits including Jim Landis, Sherm Lollar and Al Smith had two apiece.

The Tigers even did their bit for the Sox — committing two errors and being guilty of one passed ball. Even then, the White Sox could not keep Lary from his 11th victory.

His mates got him only four hits through the first six innings—but scored four times off Early Wynn in the first three innings and held on for their seventh triumph in eight games.

Harvey Kuenn led off for the Tigers with a bloop single to center. He stole second, went to third on catcher Lollar's throwing error and scored when center fielder Landis threw the relay into the Detroit dugout.

Things went on pretty much that way throughout the evening. Two walks led to the Detroit scoring in the third inning. Wynn walked only two batsmen but both were in the third—and both scored. Al Kaline, Gail Harris and Charlie Maxwell got run-producing singles in the inning, two of them the "seeing-eye" variety.

On the other hand, Lary was in trouble constantly. The only inning in which Chicago batters did not hit safely was the third—and then Lary got in trouble with two walks and a stolen base.

Rivera's blows were the only damaging ones, however. His sixth inning home run erased Lary's shutout hopes, and the fleet outfielder tripled and scored on Smith's single in the eighth.

★ ★ ★

Faulty baserunning by Smith cost the Sox a chance for victory. When he singled to score Rivera, Smith tried to go to second but Kaline's throw had him by several feet. Had Smith stayed at first, the potential tying run would have been at the plate—since the score was only 4-2 at the time.

Detroit added two runs in the eighth against Turk Lown, Kaline driving one across with his second single and Maxwell plating another with a double.

Three Softball Titles Decided

Mailmen, Police Team and Elks in Districts; Class B Final Today

Three teams clinched City Softball championships Friday and a 4th title was to be decided today as the survivors started looking forward to next week's district games.

The Elks took Class A honors by walloping VFW 1370 11-0 to gain a District 1st round berth against Mt. Clemens in Tuesday's opener here. Pontiac Police won the "C" crown nipping American Legion 4-3 and the Pontiac Post Office edged Spence Rambler 5-4 for Class D honors. Stadium Inn handed CIO 594 its first playoff setback 8-7 to extend Class B until today.

★ ★ ★

L. Grant flipped a two-hitter and Jack Ganzel slammed a two-run homer and two singles to pace the Elks. A game five-run rally in the 7th was just short for the UAW gang. All the runs were in with only one out before two ground outs ended play. Goodell and York belted homers in the wasted comeback. Elmo Burgess flipped a one-hitter and hit a home run for the Police offsetting 10 errors by his mates. The Post Office team trailed 3-1 before battling back.

★ ★ ★

At Waterford last night, Hubert Wall Service and the Waterford Arrows gained the National League semifinals by winning. Hubert's tripped the Eagles 11-5 and the Arrows downed the Pontiac Lake Merchants 7-6.

★ ★ ★

Woman Scores Ace

Moves Yanks Ahead by 16½

7th Shutout for Ford

United Press International

Detroit may be switching to small cars but the Yankees are sticking to their same old model Ford to get them to the World Series.

Whitey Ford doesn't have white walls or power steering. He does, however, have seven shutouts and 14 victories, and if you think the Yanks would give him up in a trade-in, you simply don't know your market, mister.

Ford's seventh shutout was a three-hit 2-0 victory over the Red Sox last night. It put him one away from the club record of eight shutouts set by Russ Ford in 1910 and six away from the American League record of 13 in a single season set by the late Jack Coombs.

Just in passing, it also put the runaway Yankees 16½ games ahead of the field. Ford got the only run he needed in the first inning when Hank Bauer singled off Ike Delock and came around on Tony Kubek's double.

The Senators handed the Orioles their 11th straight defeat, 4-2; Cleveland crushed Kansas City, 10-4, and Detroit topped Chicago, 6-2.

In the National League, Philadelphia edged Milwaukee, 7-6, but the Braves retained their seven-game lead when Los Angeles defeated San Francisco, 6-3. Pittsburgh blanked Cincinnati, 1-0, and the Cardinals won their fifth straight by defeating the Cubs, 6-3.

Russ Kemmerer posted his sixth victory for Washington although Dick Hyde relieved him in the eighth after Gus Triandos belted his 21st homer for Baltimore. The Senators scored their first three runs off Skinny Brown, who was kayoed in the fourth inning.

Russ Nixon and Billy Hunter each drove in three runs in Cleveland's victory. The Indians routed Ned Garver in the third inning by which time they had jumped to a six-run lead and wrapped up the ball game. Don Ferrarese relieved starter Jim Grant in the fourth inning and held the A's to two hits the rest of the way for his first win of the year.

Bob Bowman was pretty much the whole show in the Phillies' victory over the Braves. He drove in four runs with three hits, including a homer and a ninth-inning single that produced the winning run. Solly Hemus also had three hits, including a homer. Reliever Dick Farrell gained his seventh victory while Don McMahon, the Braves' bullpen ace, suffered his second loss against six wins.

A grand-slam homer by Del Ennis and the six-hit pitching of Wilmer Mizell helped the Cards turn back the Cubs. Loser Dick Drott nursed a 1-0 lead until the sixth when St. Louis rallied for five runs. Ennis' homer highlighted the frame and Curt Flood also connected for the Cardinals in the seventh.

Lion Veterans Score 3 Times in Scrimmage

Bobby Layne and Tobin Rote shared quarterback duties and John Henry Johnson, in the fullback slot, was the leading ball carrier of the day with 103-yards in nine carries. Most of the yards came on a 75-yard scoring jaunt helped along by a devastating sideline block from Charley Ane.

Layne threw a 16-yard touchdown pass to Jerry Reichow while Jim Doran grabbed a 68-yard pass in the end-zone from Rote for the other TD.

Doran was among the outstanding offensive players on the field. He caught a total of five aerials, two of them on the spectacular side.

Rugged Jerry Perry was among the standouts on defense as he was continuously breaking through to tackle or rush the ballcarrier.

The enthusiasm was high throughout the workout dispite the warm temperature as the Lions at times showed the spark that provided those crucial comeback triumphs en route to the World Championship last fall.

Lytell Reaches Class D Final

The Lytell & Colgrove nine gained the Class D playoff championship round and the Jets defeated CIO 594 in a regular season Class A contest in city baseball play Friday.

Chuck Kirken, who has turned in top mound showings in both Lytell tourney victories, got his mates back on the winning trail by outdueling Birmingham ace John Dixon to win a battle of three-hitters, 4-1.

A walk followed by Bob Lovell's triple for Birmingham was the only run of the contest until the 6th when the victors scored all their runs on a walk, four errors and a bases-empty homer by Art Ruelle. Dixon had a 12-11 strikeout edge. Lytell will meet Cranbrook for the city title and a District playoff besth in the feature of a four-game championship program tomorrow at Jaycee Park. Midget, Widget and Class F champs will also be decided.

Top Water-Skiing Talent Opens Midwest Tourney

Ace, Deuce, Par—All on 1 Hole

A sizzling threesome hit the golfing jackpot at Bald Mt. course this week. Playing the 172-yard, No. 6 hole the trio carded an ace (second hole-in-one for Bald Mt. this season), a birdie and a par-3!

Nineteen-year-old William Kerr of Romeo, who has been playing golf only four years banged in his five-wood shot for his 1st ace. Then Everet E. Johnston, 132 Oakhill, Pontiac, pitched his approach from the apron of the green into the cup for a birdie deuce. To round out the perfect combination, Cecil Ennis of Rochester dropped his long putt for a par-3.

Birmingham LL State Finalists Today at Ypsi

Birmingham and Hamtramck went into battle for the Michigan Little League championship while Flint and Owosso were battling for the District Junior Legion title and a berth in the state playoffs.

Birmingham had to take two victories at Ypsilanti yesterday to earn the final round as defending champ Hamtramck was eliminating Harper Woods. The pitching of standouts Tom Angell and Dick Mosher did the trick for Birmingham.

Angell downed Port Huron on three hits 2-1 and then Mosher matched that to whip Alpena 4-1. Angell belted a homer against Alpena. Today's victor meets the Ohio champ in a regional elimination at Ypsilanti Monday.

Owosso nipped Flint 6-5 Friday in a battle of Legion unbeatens in a double-knockout tourney after Flint led 4-0. Flint earlier had overcome a 1-0 Lapeer lead to romp 11-1. Lapeer eliminated Southfield in yesterday's opener on Butch McKillen's 6-hit, 10-strikeout hurling.

Mammoth A-Sub to Be Launched

USS Triton, Biggest Ever Built, to Slide Off Ways on Aug. 19

GROTON, Conn. (UPI) — The biggest submarine ever built, the atomic-powered USS Triton, will be launched here Aug. 19 within a stone's throw of the ways from which the USS Nautilis slid into the Thames Rever in January, 1954.

She will be the eighth nuclear submarine to be launched by this country. Eleven more are under construction and seven more are authorized.

Compared to the 319-foot 3,200-ton Nautilus, the Triton will be 447 feet long, with a displacement of 5,900 tons and will be the first submarine with two nuclear reactors. They will be water-cooled, the same type which propels the Nautilus and USS Skate, but of more modern design.

Triton, which must go off the ways with part of its superstructure incomplete, because of its enormous size, is a radar-picket sub which will serve as a "private eye" for the U.S. surface and undersea fleet.

Built by the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp., which constructed the only three A-boats now in operation, Triton will be sponsored by Mrs. John M. Will of Pacific Palisades, Calif., wife of Vice Admiral Will, head of the military sea transportaton service.

Auto Accident Costs Climbing

Upward Trend Seen Despite Drop in Number of Mishaps

LANSING (AP)—The dollar cost of automobile accidents in Michigan is continuing upward in Michigan despite a drop in the number of accidents, the Michigan Insurance Information Service reported today.

Losses paid by auto insurance companies went up five million dollars from 1956 to 1957 to a total of $118,300,000, the Service said. At the same time, it said, traffic fatalities went down 12 per cent, injuries two per cent and reported accidents three per cent.

Some of the reasons it cited for higher costs:

More young drivers who as a group have three times the accident losses of adults.

U. S. Offers Asylum to Polish Seaman

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States has offered to give temporary political asylum — and a chance at permanent residence—to a Polish seaman who said he would be killed or jailed if he went home.

U.S. Immigration Commissioner Joseph M. Swing announced yesterday the offer would be made to 22-year-old Richard Eibel at a hearing in Federal Court at New Orleans. The announcement reversed an original refusal by Swing on grounds the sailor was not a bona fide refugee.

Eibel was released at New Orleans last night in the custody of his cousin, St. Louis rug maker Leo Marmer who has been leading the fight to gain asylum for the youth. They left for St. Louis.

Space Agency Head Subject to Senate OK

Name Glennan to Direct NASA

CLEVELAND (AP)—"You don't do it all overnight," says the new director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in commenting on American progress in space work.

★ ★ ★

Dr. T. Keith Glennan commented that "We've done a very great deal" when asked about American progress since the Russians put Sputnik I into orbit.

Dr. Glennan's nomination as director of the new agency, created last week, was announced late yesterday. Next Thursday he will fly to Washington to appear at Senate confirmation hearings. His assignment will begin about Sept. 1.

The agency, which will handle all non-military space projects, will apparently be built on the foundations of the quasi-public civilian body that handles basic aeronautical research for the government.

Dr. Glennan will take an indefinite leave from his post as president of Case Institute of Technology. He also was on leave from the fall of 1950 to the fall of 1952 as a member of the Atomic Energy Commission.

As a scientist-educator, he still has fresh in his mind a 15-day trip earlier this summer to Soviet colleges and universities. He said the Russians are making better use of the capitalist incentive system to encourage education than the Americans are.

"They have developed a demand for education because it pays off," he remarked. He emphasized that a student "is paid according to the quality of his work," and that there are three to six applicants for every scholarship.

"I came back very much impressed by the dedication of Russian students and faculty," he said. "The American people really don't understand how this dedication affects Russia's progress in science."

Dr. Glennan, a month away from his 53rd birthday, has been an electrical engineer, a studio manager for two big Hollywood movie outfits, and during the war the head of the Navy's underwater sound research laboratory.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, head of the NACA and before that associated with the National Bureau of Standards, was nominated as deputy director. Glennan said he would rely a great deal on the personnel and facilities of the NACA.

New Camera for Oil Industry

Works in Well Holes, Under Great Pressure and High Temperature

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — A compact, ruggedly built camera has been devised for the oil industry to use in snooping into well holes miles below the surface where no human eyes could hope to penetrate. What it finds out is saving thousands of dollars.

★ ★ ★

While its use has been confined to wells, its developers feel it could easily be adapted for other industrial uses—and even such sports as skin diving.

★ ★ ★

The camera was developed by Birdwell, Inc., of Bradford, Pa. Robert D. Clarke, Birdwell's division manager in Tulsa, said the camera already has answered some questions that have been puzzling oilmen for years.

For example, until the camera came along, oilmen did not know what a fractured zone of a borehole looked like. Sometimes, to get more oil out of a well, fluid and sand are forced down the hole at tremendous pressure, causing sand to split or "frac."

But oilmen didn't know how the hole "fraced." Were the fractures horizontal or vertical, or did they show up at all? Came the camera's answer: The fractures are visible, and are vertical 95 per cent of the time.

GOOD UNDER WATER

The rugged little picture-taker, which uses sensitive 16-mm. film, can stand up to pressure of 10,000 pounds per square inch. Such pressures are encountered with gas deep in wells. The camera also can stand temperatures up to 200 degrees fahrenheit — in fact, it could withstand even hotter surroundings, but the film melts at that point.

★ ★ ★

Since well holes often fill up with water or other liquids, the camera was made completely waterproof. Clarke pointed out that the camera would be ideal for skin diving, because it can hold up under water at tremendous pressures.

Its use for such operations as mining and pipelining also were cited by Clarke. The camera also would be a natural for underwater salvage operations, since it can operate at up to 20,000 feet of depth.

As yet, the camera cannot take pictures through muddy water. This is because the mud cuts off most of the light source. The light source is a strobe unit operated synchronously with the shutter from the surface.

The camera also has been put to work in wells to locate broken drill pipe, an expensive item, and to inspect corrosion damage to casing.

NOTHING MISSING—It's just that engineers have yet to complete what will be the nation's highest steel arch bridge 700 feet above the Colorado River. The bridge will carry auto traffic over the river near Glen Canyon Dam, in the vicinity of Page, in northern Arizona. The 1,270-foot bridge will be the only one along a 300-mile stretch of the river canyon. It will not be ready for use before next January.

Low Output Set for Current Quarter

More Auto Firms Joining Changeover Procession

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Writer

More car makers are joining the changeover procession each week. So far most factory closings for the switch to 1959 model cars have involved the medium and higher priced makes. But the closings are reflected in the weekly count of car production.

Scheduled for production in the current quarter are approximately 700,000 cars, the lowest volume for the period since 1952.

But barring work stoppages the industry will more than double that total in the October-December quarter. If final quarter projections are realized the year's output will go slightly over 4,300,000 cars.

All October-December assemblies will be 1959 cars. With the units to be built in the third quarter, the industry will have made about 1,630,000 of the 1959 cars by the year's end.

Of the nation's car makers only American Motors, concentrating on its Rambler line, has garnered greater sales volume this year than in 1957. Dollar volume and unit sales of all other makes have been down from last year.

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler — are counting upon substantial styling changes and 1959 models to spark an upturn in sales. At the same time they emphasize the styling of next year's cars was decided upon many months before the present sales lag developed.

They point this out to further their contention that styling and general design of 1958 models was not responsible for the slowdown in new car buying. They insist the auto industry did not cause the recession but was one of the victims of it.

But new model presentations invariably stimulate some upturn in new car demand. It is not always lasting, but it usually is of sizable volume at the start of a new model year.

One feature of most 1959 model cars will be considerably less lavishness in the use of bright trim. Another will be that most cars will have lower and longer silhouettes. Those not actually lower and longer will have that appearance. Some cars have been lowered without reducing the headroom. This has been accomplished in several instances by slightly reducing the height of seats.

One of the surest things that may be said of the industry and its 1959 models is that introduction of the new cars will touch off a sharp competitive fight in the year's final quarter.

No industry authority has attempted to predict the sales volume for the October-December quarter, but there will be wide disappointment in industry circles should it fail to match the more than 1,381,000 units of the final 1957 quarter.

New, Smaller Loop Will Replace PCC

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Pacific Coast Conference will be dissolved here this weekend, says Glenn T. Seaborg, chancellor of the University of California.

★ ★ ★

For one thing, said Seaborg, a new athletic alliance will be formed—one that is smaller, patterned after the Ivy League and based upon a gentlemen's agreement.

"I think the conference will be disbanded," said Seaborg. "The intentions of all the faculty representatives are to dissolve it."

The meeting to put the 43-year-old conference quietly to sleep began today. The meeting, as usual, was closed to the public and press.

★ ★ ★

Five of the nine Pacific Coast Conference members will form a new conference within a year, Seaborg said. Those schools, he said, are California, UCLA, Southern California, Washington and Stanford.

U. S. Thinclads Set Sights on Grecian Records

ATHENS (AP) — Despite three weeks of gruelling travel through Soviet Russia, Poland and Hungary America's track and field athletes were declared in good shape today by Coaches George Eastment and Ed Temple.

The 39 men and 18 women who comprise the U.S. squad are all set for their two-day meet with Greece which begins tonight.

Upwards of 50,000 are expected to fill the all-marble arena both nights.

★ ★ ★

No scoring of any kind is possible since both countries may enter as many athletes as they wish.

After inspecting "the sharpest turns I've ever seen—even sharper than American indoor tracks," Eastment predicted that many stadium records would fall to the Americans.

Believe Explorer Slain by Aucas

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI)—A Canadian explorer missing in the wilds of Ecuador is believed to have been slain by the same savage Indians who slaughtered five American missionaries in 1956, it was reported today.

Robert Tremblay, who came to Ecuador to study the Auca Indians, had set up camp between the Okland and Curaray Rivers, in the approximate area where the Aucas massacred the missionaries.

A pilot who recently flew over the region said Tremblay's camp has been destroyed. He said Aucas living nearby have destroyed their huts and fled into the jungle, as is their custom after they have killed someone.

More than 40 million aliens have entered the U. S. since the year 1776.

Taker of Dares Seeks Attention

Quest for Acceptance Leads Often to Danger or Destructive Acts

STORRS, Conn. (UPI) — Most persons accept dares to gain social recognition, according to two University of Connecticut phychologists.

Dr. Sam L. Witryol and James E. Calkins reached the conclusion after analyzing 3,208 "dares" reported by more than 700 Connecticut school children.

They wrote in the Journal of Genetic Psychology that there's a strong tendency for youngsters, and some adults, to seek out or "play with" danger.

A child's quest for group acceptance and the unusual and varied ways in which he expresses this drive is often reflected in "marginal behavior patterns," the psychologists said.

Marginal behavior, they added, can be explained in terms of acts designed to satisfy the social drives which might be acceptable to one part of society but are unacceptable to society as a whole.

For example, children may condone pranks which are utterly forbidden by adults. In the case of grownups, intoxicated persons may indulge in antics which are quite "logical" to their inebriated companions but wholly ludicrous to sober society.

2 TYPES OF DARES

Dares reported in the study were both destructive and constructive. Among the former were dares to stay away from home one night, run away, break into a house, steal store things, wreck an old shack, shoot at a man, ride in a car at 60 m.p.h. in a 30-mile zone, set fire to a haystack, skip school or put a tack on a teacher's seat.

★ ★ ★

Constructive dares included dares to milk a cow, clean chickens, bake a cake and get all A's on a report card.

'Newer Metals' Improve Alloys for Modern Uses

★ ★ ★

The "wine" in this case consists of beryllium, titanium, vanadium, tungsten and several other elements, sometimes referred to as "newer metals." Most of them, however, have been known for ages, according to the Illinois Institute of Technology.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Donald J. McPherson, manager of metals research at IIT's Armour research foundation, said the old elements simply are showing new capacity to meet current scientific requirements. He said the elements give promise of fulfilling needs in three categories:

1. Metals for use at moderate temperatures, lower than many commercial alloys, but improved because of lighter weight or higher strength-to-weight ratios.

2. Metals to provide adequate structural strength at temperatures around 1,700 degrees F., above the tolerance level of the commercial alloys.

★ ★ ★

3. Metals sufficiently transparent to thermal or intermediate speed neutrons to be of use in the structure of a nuclear reactor and its fuel cladding.

Sprinter, Hurdler Boxer-Lad Runs on Wooden Leg

MONTCLAIR, N.J. (AP) — The doctor refused to believe it when young Donald Kerr explained that he had broken his wooden leg while running.

"Impossible," the doctor said. "Anyone who has lost a limb above the knee can never run."

"I'm glad you didn't tell me that when you gave me my artificial limb," replied the youngster, who had some convincing evidence otherwise. He was a high school sprinter, ran the hurdles, and once jumped 5 feet 7 inches.

Now, at 45, Kerr is trying to raise $100,000 for a rehabilitation institute to replace the one he started five years ago in an American Legion hall.

Called the National Institute for Amputee Rehabilitation, it has since been moved to the nearby Hasbrouck Heights Hospital but Kerr needs more room.

Kerr's left leg was amputated six inches from the hip after a railroad accident when he was 8. Despite his wooden leg, he determined to run again.

"Fear is an extreme deterrent to amputees," he says. "Handing any patient a preconceived notion that he should never expect to run, play or even walk normally is guaranteeing the development of a handicap he need not have."

Kerr has the record to prove it. Besides his accomplishments in high school, he was undefeated feather-weight boxing champion at Tulane University and was an excellent fencer. He is the current New Jersey state champion in badminton.

Approve Extension of IGY for Year

MOSCOW (AP)—A special committee of the International Geophysical Year formally voted today for a one-year extension of the big international search for scientific knowledge of the earth, sun, and oceans.

The 18-month program originally was set up to end in December, 1958. The one-year extension would be known as the International Geophysical Cooperation of 1959.

Although the scientists' committee agreed to extend the research, it still will be necessary to get the 60 participating governments to pick up the tab.

Sauce for the Goose?

Youth Finds Snakes Valuable for Swaps

Until his parents called a halt to the snake-swapping, Dick had acquired a bicycle light, ball of silicon putty, roll of tape, marbles, marble bag, tape measure, magnet, bottle of glue, balloons and 35 cents in cash.

Mackie Aide to Head Dems' Campaign

LANSING (AP) — Sidney H. Woolner, chief deputy state highway commissioner, will direct the Democratic state campaign again this year, repeating his roles of 1952 and 1954.

Woolner quit his $15,250 a year state position yesterday to take the party assignment. Neil Staebler, Democratic state chairman, said the party will take him on at the same salary.

Regarded as one of his party's ablest administrators and political organizers, Woolner also worked on the 1956 state campaign, but not in a full time, paid capacity.

About 30 per cent of the world rail mileage is in the U. S.

TV Not Show Business, Broadway Writer Says

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

* * *

Smith, who writes best-selling books, hit Broadway shows, big box office movies and TV variety shows, put his feet up on the typewriter and continued:

"Show business is the legitimate theater, the movies and in an odd way, book publishing. In show business, the audience walks up to a counter, puts down its money and buys a ticket.

"A freebie is something you get for nothing. In television, you are given entertainment for nothing. Oh, sure, you're supposed to keep watching while somebody tries to sell you cigarettes or shaving cream, but it's still for nothing. Well, what you get for nothing usually is nothing.

NOBODY KNOWS

"The trouble with a freebie like television is that nobody knows if people are buying tickets. So they have to find people to tell them whether or not people are watching and if they like what they see. I don't think the people who tell them are competent to judge."

* * *

Smith himself isn't jumpy. At the moment he is writing the Andy Williams Show, which is the summer replacement for Pat Boone.

He accepted the chore because it enables him to earn a chunk of money so that later he can stop earning money for awhile and write another book, which is what he considers his serious business. "Where Did You Go? Out. What Did You Do? Nothing" was one recent piece of serious Smith business).

* * *

"A writer is what they call us in TV," he said, "but that's not right. I write ad libs. Think up ideas. I try to figure out somebody for the performer to be—basically performers have no idea who they are. But that's not writing. In the old days of radio they used to call this continuity. In a show with music that just means giving people something to do or say while the musicians are turning the pages."

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A Pacific festival to honor countries of the Pacific area will be held in San Francisco Sept. 12 to 19. Ambassadors of Pacific countries will be invited. Mayor George Christopher announced the event, pointing out San Francisco's historic role as gateway to the Pacific.

Fruehauf Goes in Red

DETROIT (AP) — Fruehauf Trailer Co. reports a net loss of $488,861 for the first six months of this year, compared with a profit of $2,206,877 for the like period of 1957. Sales for the 6-month period of 1958 were $99,938,044 compared with $120,836,314 for the 1957 period.

Ann Arbor Student Burned in Lab Blast

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Noel H. De Nevers, 26-year-old graduate student in chemical and metallurgical engineer, suffered flash burns on both his hands and had part of his hair burned off when gas he was heating exploded late yesterday.

The explosion buckled a cement block wall in the laboratory and smashed windows in several adjoining labs and offices in the east engineering building. Officials said De Nevers, who was doing research on the heat capacities of various gases, was heating propylene gas when the blast occurred.

Expert Offers Tips on Electric Mower

CHICAGO (UPI) — Safety specialist O. L. Hogsett of the University of Illinois college of agriculture says an electric mower will do the best job if you cut that grass in straight lines across your lawn.

He also suggested working away from the cut-over area to avoid risking electric shocks from any frayed wires.

If the grass is wet, it isn't a good idea to work with an electric mower, Hogsett warned. And to keep the cord from kinking or tangling, coil it loosely in a bucket or basket.

Students Urged to Seek Entrance in Small Colleges

EAST LANSING (AP) — Potential college students who have trouble enrolling in overcrowded big-name universities should look to the nation's small colleges. In many instances, they'll find the openings outnumber applications for admission.

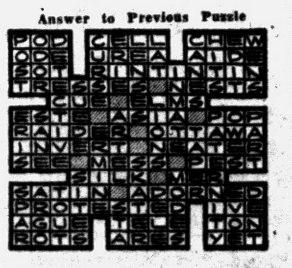

So said the Council for the Advancement of Small Colleges, Inc., in reporting the enrollment outlook for its 65 member colleges. Together, it said, they can handle 5,000 more students in their classrooms than currently are enrolled for the coming school year. About two thousand of these can be accommodated in resident facilities on the campus.

A combined six - million - dollar capital expansion program largely was responsible for enlarged accommodations, the report said.

Beat 'Em or Join 'Em!

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—If Raymond O'Donnell can't beat 'em, he'll join 'em. In the police station to pay three parking tickets he accumulated within the space of a few minutes, O'Donnell took time to file his application to join the force.

University Asks Integration Halt

Head of Memphis State Seeks One-Year Delay in Admitting 8 Negroes

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Violence might result if Negroes are admitted to Memphis State University, says President J. M. Smith in requesting a year's delay in integrating the school.

The State Board of Education heard Smith's request yesterday, then named a committee to study the situation and make a report on Aug. 20.

Eight Negroes have qualified to enter the school next month.

Smith told the board that racial tension at Memphis had increased in the wake of integration trouble at Little Rock, Ark., and unsuccessful efforts to desegregate Memphis buses and libraries.

A few Negroes have attended several other state colleges without incident.

The State Board had decided to admit all applicants who pass a standard screening test after the U.S. 6th District Court of Appeals threw out the board's five-year plan for gradual integration.

Runaway Shovel Kills Motorist

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—A huge runaway power shovel careened down steep Sunset Hill last night, bowling over poles and fire hydrants and mashing a car before ramming into a neighborhood grocery store.

The big steel arm of the shovel broke through the wall of the grocery and scattered merchandise like a giant hand. About a dozen customers were in the store, but none were injured.

The driver of the truck-mounted shovel said the transmission went out as he was coming down the busy hill at the west city limits of Spokane. He tried to control the heavy vehicle with the brakes, but they soon burned out.

The driver said he tried to turn the runaway shovel off the highway — and then he jumped. The shovel driver, identified as Frank Warrington, was treated for abrasions.

To Dedicate Bulls Going to Greece

A service of dedication for 20 Jersey bulls will be held at the Michigan State University livestock pavilion at 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

Among the 20 bulls will be one bull produced on the Lone Cedar farm near Pontiac.

The bulls are scheduled to leave MSU Sunday afternoon by truck for New York. Tuesday they will be flown from Idlewild Airport to Athens, Greece. The Rev. Earl Caryl, pastor of the Ceresco Baptist Church, will be the "flying herdsman" caring for the animals en route.

Queen Frederika of Greece is expected to welcome this shipment since it will be the first of 150 Jersey bulls shipped from the United States to Greece in this project.

Admiral to Tell Hawaii of Future Nuclear Tests

HONOLULU (AP)—Adm. Harry D. Felt, U.S. Pacific commander in chief, says he will give Hawaii notice of any further nuclear tests at Johnston Island 700 miles southwest of here.

Such notice was requested by Hawaii Gov. William F. Quinn. The last high level explosion at Johnston was so clearly visible here some people called police asking if Pearl Harbor were under attack.

Reunion a Great Event

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Forty-eight hours after they entered Los Angeles traffic bumper-to-bumper, the Roy Wheelers and their friend, William Flowers, got back together. Their reunion was especially gratifying to the Wheelers, because Flowers was driving a truck holding all their worldly goods when they became separated on their arrival here from St. Louis.

Pity the Poor Pooches

DALLAS (AP)—W. R. Fine, an art dealer, built an air-conditioned dog house for his collies. His own home has no cooling system. "If I get overheated I can always go to Alaska or take off my shirt," Fine said. "You ever see a collie take off his shirt?"

Alaskan Family Car Often a Pontoon Plane

Our 49th State Is Land of Superlatives, in Size, Weather, Scenery, Resources

WASHINGTON — As the 49th State, Alaska will add to the Union not only a Far-North frontier, but an assortment of superlative, odd, and spectacular physical features.

More than twice as big as Texas, Alaska has two panhandles. One reaches 1,500 miles southwestward through the Aleutian Island chain to face Soviet islands off the Siberian peninsula Kamchatka. The other forms a slim mainland-and-island strip that extends 1,000 miles southeastward along the Canadian coast.

The southernmost point of this eastern panhandle is 500 miles north of Washington State. Alaska's easternmost city, Ketchikan, located within the panhandle, is 500 miles closer to the Orient than is any part of continental United States.

SELF-DRAINING LAKE

East spring and summer, the lake depression is filled to the brim with rain, melting snow, and glacial seepage. At high point, the overflow scours out a channel through the 250-foot glacier and roars through Knik Valley to its outlet. Result: the lake, like a giant wash-bowl, is annually drained, frozen in again, and refilled.

But Alaska is by no means limited to vistas of snow and ice. Though winter temperatures in the interior may plunge to minus-70 degrees Fahrenheit, summer heat often nears 100 degrees. Mild, southern Ketchikan has a year-round 45-degree average, and seldom suffers zero weather.

There are other contrasts, too, as startling as a temperature range of 170 degrees. In this land of Arctic latitudes, midwinter brings sunset at noon, and midsummer the midnight sun.

In much of central Alaska, annual rainfall averages but 10 to 15 inches a year, and in places 6 to 8 inches. The mist-shrouded southeast coast, on the other hand, gets 150 inches or more. People joke that they measure rain not by feet but fathoms.

Alaskan scenery mixes fire with ice, as in the once furiously active volcanic showplace, the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes. Preserved now in the vast Katmai National Monument, the Valley was discovered and explored in a series of National Geographic expeditions.

North America's highest peak, 20,230-foot McKinley rises in another huge federal preserve, Mount McKinley National Park. Roaming its more than 3,000 square miles of forests, lakes, and mountains are caribou, mountain sheep, bears, wolves, and other specimens of Alaska's abundant wildlife.

Economically, Alaska's immense resources in salmon and other fisheries, forests, furs, oil, and minerals have hardly been tapped. Enough wealth, however, has been garnered since the area was bought from Russia in 1867 to repay many times the bargain price of $7,200,000. Though the gold rush days are a memory, the annual gold yield still amounts to more than $18 million a year. One Nome bank will cash a poke of gold if asked.

Giant Alaska is small in one respect. Its population is estimated at about 213,000, including military personnel at various bases and strategic outposts, and the native Eskimos, Indians, and Aleuts. At that, say the Alaskans, they have the fastest-growing population in the country, having tripled their numbers since 1940.

Alaska's vigor is demonstrated by its enthusiastic use of the airplane. The family car is often a pontoon plane. Flying boxcars deliver anything from tractors to prefabricated houses. Doctors fly to patients, women to the hairdresser, fishermen and hunters to their sport. The new State-to-be has 250 airfields and 40 seaplane bases.

Young as You Feel

Mrs. Loehr was divorced from Dr. Doyle M. Loehr, prominent physician at Moscow, Idaho, on grounds of cruelty and separation after 20 years of marriage.

Scout Head Disappears With $525

MASSAPEQUA, N.Y. (AP) — A scoutmaster is the object of a 13-state alarm in the disappearance of $525 belonging to his troop's summer camp fund.

Herbert Zusi, 41, a bookkeeper, master of Boy Scout Troop 66, disappeared July 18, police said, the day he had a talk iwth a Boy Scout executive concerning missing troop money.

Film Idol Loses Fight to Bar Girl's School

AMERSHAM, England (AP) — British screen idol Dirk Bogarde has lost his fight to stop construction of a girl's school next to his country home.

The appeal was dismissed yesterday. "I suppose it could have been worse," Bogarde mused last night. "They were thinking of building a crematorium there at one time."
