VC Suicide Squad Killed in Embassy Attack

SAIGON (AP) — A Vietcong suicide squad perished under fire at the U.S. Embassy today while guerrillas afield pressed attacks throughout South Vietnam that were costing them 10 men dead for every allied soldier they killed.

★ ★ ★

President Nguyen Van Thieu proclaimed martial law.

As darkness fell, U.S. Army helicopter gunships raked Vietcong troops trapped at the west end of the Tan Son Nhut airbase.

Snipers were reported still firing on parts of the sprawling airbase, some of them only 200 yards away from the new "Pentagon East," U.S. military headquarters of Gen. William C. Westmoreland.

The Communists extended their coordinated lunar new year offensive across the country while concentrating against Saigon their biggest assault of the war on the South Vietnamese capital.

Parts of Saigon became a battleground.

Five Americans and 19 guerrillas were killed before U.S. forces regained control of the embassy compound, scene of the most spectacular in a series of raids in Saigon. Eleven Americans were wounded in the six-hour engagement there.

Related Story, Page A-10

Gen. Westmoreland said he believed the enemy attacks were a diversionary effort "to take attention away from the northern part of the country."

★ ★ ★

The threat there is a major offensive by North Vietnamese divisions, some already south of the demilitarized zone.

Tanks, artillery and machine gun fire rattled through the streets. Civilians as well as military personnel fell in the crossfire.

Thieu called on his people to remain calm. His proclamation of martial law means that the Saigon government will rule by decree until further notice, rather than under the constitution inaugurated last year.

He ordered the closing of all places of entertainment but told his people: "Our armed forces have had the situation under control since the very outset."

While peace appeared restored at the embassy, action continued in various parts of downtown Saigon 20 hours after the shelling of the city began, signaling the start of guerrilla action.

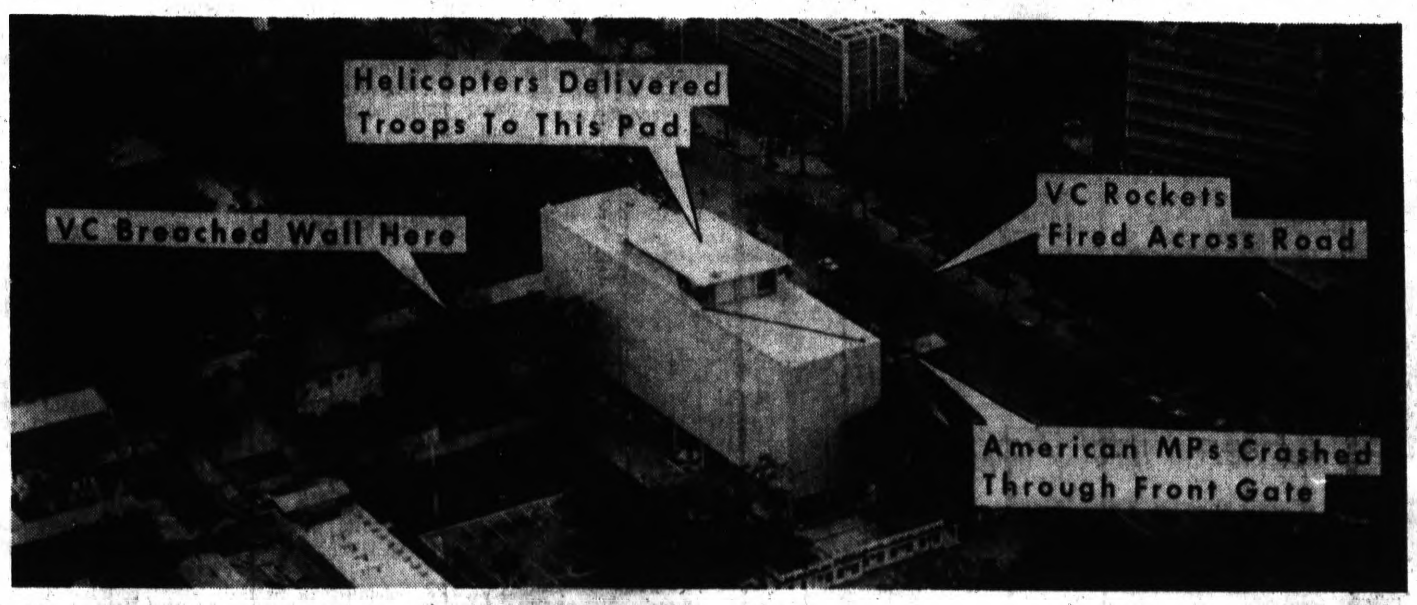

Three explosions were heard tonight in the downtown area, and a military spokesman said it was believed mortar fire was responsible. There was also the possibility that it involved allied rather than Vietcong initiative.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker said the attack in early morning darkness on the new $2.6-million embassy, hailed as terrorist-proof at its dedication last fall, "was obviously premeditated and planned well in advance."

In a general appraisal of the situation, Bunker said "Certainly none of these attacks have been successful."

Military casualty figures were incomplete, but spokesmen said allied forces had killed 2,643 Communist troops across the country in the 48 hours before today.

Millions of dollars of damage were done to U.S. aircraft and other facilities in the shelling of nine American air bases.

Reds Hold Part of Hue

SAIGON (AP) — Vietcong troops apparently have taken control of a section of Hue, the old imperial capital of Vietnam 400 miles northeast of Saigon, military reports indicated today. That city is a center for Buddhists who in the past have voiced opposition to the government in Saigon.

Consumers Plans Expansion in Area

Continuing growth will result in the investment in the Pontiac area of $5.9 million during 1968 by Consumers Power Co., Charles F. Brown, Pontiac division manager, said today.

A new service center for the division is under construction on Featherstone Avenue. Completion of the building, which will include office and warehouse space for 390 employes, is scheduled for this spring, Brown said.

"Total expenditures for 1967 equaled $6.5 million. However, this included the largest portion of the expenditures for the new service center. Construction on other facilities is up in 1968," Brown said.

The gas department will install nearly 85 miles of new gas mains and services to bring natural gas to an additional 3,900 customers this year. In addition, improvement projects involving several miles of older mains are included.

★ ★ ★

A new six-inch steel line is being installed to replace a cast iron main in Waterford, Pontiac and Orion townships.

INCREASE SUPPLY

The supply of gas to Pontiac and nearby areas will be augmented by a 2½-mile 16-inch main to be built on Columbia Avenue from Princeton Road and the Grand Trunk Western Railroad to the intersection of Dixie Highway and Telegraph Road. Part of the new main will replace an existing six-inch line in the same general location.

A general rebuilding of sections of electric lines serving Bloomfield, Rundell and Paddock substations is scheduled, Brown said.

A new distribution substation, labeled Stockwell, is to be constructed near the downtown area.

Construction will start soon on the new Catalina Substation, Montcalm Avenue, to serve the electric metal melting requirements of Pontiac Motor Division. The new Tempest Substation will be placed in operation by summer.

The division serves 14,500 electric and 64,800 gas customers in a 420-square-mile area, Brown said.

RECORD EXPANSION

The Pontiac area investment is part of Consumers Power Co. record $187-million expansion and improvement program in 1968. The company provides electricity to over 1,000,000 customers, and gas to over 750,000 customers, in a combined service area which encompasses all but one of the 68 counties of Michigan's Lower Peninsula.

Three major electric plants account for large shares of the 1968 capital budget of his company, Brown said. The Palisades nuclear plant, 35 miles west of Kalamazoo, is expected to be in commercial operation by 1970, with initial capacity of 710,000 kilowatts, and eventual capability expected to exceed 800,000 kilowatts.

Preliminary engineering work on the Ludington pumped storage hydroelectric plant will get under way in 1968, but actual construction will not start until 1969.

A third nuclear generating station, to be built by Consumers Power, will be located near Midland, and about $1 million will be spent on engineering work in 1968.

Final OK for Open Housing

City commissioners last night gave expected final approval to an open-housing ordinance for Pontiac. The ordinance becomes law Feb. 9. The vote was 4-3.

The same four commissioners who last week gave preliminary approval to the ordinance voted in its favor this week.

Voting in favor were Commissioners T. Warren Fowler, Sr., District 1; Leslie H. Hudson, District 4; James H. Marshall, District 7; and Mayor William H. Taylor Jr.

Voting against open housing were Robert C. Irwin, District 2; John A. Dugan, District 5; and Wesley J. Wood, District 6.

★ ★ ★

The ordinance will prohibit discrimination by reason of religion, race, color or national origin in the sale or rental of any real property located in the city.

AMENDMENT

Violators could be subject to a fine of up to $100 or up to 90 days in jail, or both.

An amendment offered last night by Commissioner Marshall broadened the type of housing to be excluded from provisions of the ordinance.

Specifically excluded are duplexes, three-unit or less apartment buildings, and rental of rooms (to three or less persons) in a single-family residence.

★ ★ ★

In each case the dwelling must be occupied "as a home by the owner or a member of his immediate family, or by the lessee of the entire structure, or a member of his immediate family."

GETS APPROVAL

The amendment was approved by a 4-2 vote. Voting against it were Commissioner Irwin and Commissioner Wood. Commissioner Dugan abstained.

Irwin said the commission was creating a situation where "one type of property owner can discriminate and another can't."

He said the amendment only tends to "sweeten this type of legislation" from a "practical, political point of view."

★ ★ ★

Marshall said the amendment was for the benefit of older residents with large houses and without children at home, who rent rooms or small apartments to "supplement meager incomes."

GM Layoffs Up Despite Accord

DETROIT (AP) — Despite reopening of two foundries and tentative strike settlement at a third, layoffs in General Motors Corp. plants across the country rose to 128,700 yesterday.

While recalling 11,100 to work, GM said that it had laid off 20,800, effective as of midnight.

Related Story, Page A-2

The new layoffs, as have others over the last 10 days, were laid to a parts shortage in supply lines from foundries at Defiance, Ohio; Saginaw, and Massena, N.Y.

GM said it was not yet certain when pipelines will be refilled and all workers returned to their jobs.

The foundries were struck in support of demands made by the United Auto Workers Union in bargaining for new at-the-plant working agreements which supplement the national GM-UAW contract. Together, the foundries employed 11,200 workers.

A central division foundry at Defiance went back into operation Monday, and a Chevrolet foundry at Saginaw returned both its gray iron and nodular iron divisions to work today. Workers at a Chevrolet foundry in Tonawanda are to vote tomorrow on a new agreement.

City Commmission Okays Spending of Income Tax

BY BOB WISLER

Despite opposition of two of its members, the City Commission decided last night to spend the city's income tax money.

The commission voted 5-2 to utilize money collected from the disputed city income tax and to cut the property tax levy by 3 mills ($3 per thousand of assessed valuation).

The income tax was declared valid by Circuit Judge William J. Beer earlier this month, but income tax foes have filed appeal papers hoping to eventually overturn that decision.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren was ordered last night to prepare a revised 1968 budget calling for use of $2,211,000 in income tax revenue and $2,981,000 in property tax revenue.

The total is up some $933,000 from the budget approved by the commission earlier in the month. That would have used only the 10-mill property tax levy authorized by the city charter.

Warren said the increased revenue available will allow some new services including the hiring of 12 new police officers.

EYE PAY HIKES

The bulk of the increase is expected to go for employe pay and fringe benefit increases. Negotiations with city employes are continuing this week.

The commission also voted 5-2 against the city attempting to seek an early hearing in the State Supreme Court to an appeal which might lead to eventual invalidation of the income tax.

In the minority in each of the votes were District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin and District 4 Commissioner Leslie H. Hudson.

★ ★ ★

Irwin said that although there is no question the city government needs the additional money to be derived from an income tax "you can't spend something you don't have."

'CITY NOT SURE'

He said the city is not sure that the income tax will not in the future be invalidated and that the tax money will have to be returned.

Irwin said the city should before spending any of the income tax "make every possible effort to determine whether or not we have an income tax."

Death Toll at 7 in Pennsylvania Blast

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The death toll climbed to seven early today in an explosion that rocked the business district of suburban Ingram, shaking homes a half mile away.

One person was still reported missing and 17 injured after firemen pulled a badly-burned unidentified body from the wreckage.

Workers at the scene said one man was thrown 90 feet across railroad tracks. Three were hurled against an iron fence 25 feet away by the explosion yesterday.

What had been a row of five business shops was leveled almost to the street.

The buildings exploded while a 12-man Equitable Gas Co. crew was ripping up sidewalk outside looking for a gas leak. Five of the dead were Equitable workers.

WORKING ON GAS MAIN

"Who knows what triggered the explosion?" said a gas company spokesman. "Actually, the real cause probably will never be known."

The blast ripped apart a beauty shop, a tailor shop, two real estate offices and a cleaning shop. There were apartments on the second floors of the two-story frame buildings.

South Korea Irked by Pueblo Emphasis

SEOUL (AP) — South Korea's foreign minister asserted today that more attention should be paid to the Communist attempt to assassinate President Chung Hee Park than to North Korea's seizure of the USS Pueblo. His remarks were interpreted as an expression of government displeasure with U.S. handling of the current Korean crisis.

The South Korean government will "categorically oppose" any additional U.S. moves to emphasize the Pueblo case in efforts for an over-all settlement of the Korean situation, Foreign Minister Choi Kyu-hah told a news conference.

Choi said his government also will object to any direct bilateral talks between the United States and the North Koreans and to any proposal to exchange the Pueblo crewmen for North Korean infiltrators.

"A basic settlement of the current crisis lies in taking firm measures to assure the security of the Republic of Korea and prevent recurrence of any provocative acts by the North Korean regime," he declared.

BIPARTISAN SUPPORT

The ruling Democratic Republican party and the opposition Shinmin party put aside their political squabbles to provide bipartisan support for the Park government in the crisis. The National Assembly went into special session and was expected to adopt resolutions asking for decisive action against North Korea.

In Washington, the White House continued to put heavy stress on diplomatic efforts to free the Pueblo crewmen. Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said after breakfast Tuesday with President Johnson he got the impression Johnson was so hopeful of avoiding military action that there was no talk of a deadline for relase of the men.

At the United Nations, a source familiar with U.S. views said he believed the United States would soon abandon its attempt through the United Nations to get the crew released. Security Council members reported no success in their efforts to break a U.S.-Soviet deadlock over an invitation to North Korea to join the council debate.

The most serious of many North Korean infiltrations in recent weeks was the invasion of Seoul Jan. 21 by a 31-man guerrilla squad under orders to kill President Park and other high officials. They were stopped half a mile from Park's residence. South Korean and American troops have so far killed 26 of the intruders and captured one.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

Other developments in the Korean crisis included the resumption by North Korea of intrusion attempts in the American sector of the demilitarized zone, an angry anti-Communist rally in Seoul, and reports reaching Washington that one Pueblo crewman was dead but that the others were being properly treated by the Communists.

GIs of the 2nd U.S. Infantry Division repelled four separate intrusion attempts by small bands of North Koreans Tuesday and early this morning, a U.S. military spokesman said. No casualties were reported on either side.

U.S. BOMB? — Sailor Nikolai Kalnev of the Soviet ship Pereslavy-Zalessky stands beside part of the bomb in Vladivostok that Russia said was dropped by U.S. planes and damaged the ship in the North Vietnamese port of Haiphong. House Near Passage of First Item in Plan to Protect Consumer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House neared passage today of the first item in the Johnson administration's program for consumer protection, a "truth-in-lending" bill designed to make it easier for buyers to find the best credit terms.

The measure has bipartisan support and a final vote was due late in the day after a dispute was settled over interest reporting requirements on revolving charge accounts.

Basic provisions of the measure call for most merchants, banks and finance companies to state to the prospective borrower the annual percentage interest to be charged on his loan or credit purchase.

Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., charging the bill contained "gaping loopholes," pressed for elimination of a provision that would exempt certain merchants from having to state the interest rate on an annual basis.

★ ★ ★

These are catalogue houses, department stores and other businesses that use revolving credit accounts on which interest is charged by the month.

Such firms would gain a competitive advantage over smaller businesses, she said, since a monthly rate seems like a smaller charge than the same rate figured annually.

A second "loophole" Mrs. Sullivan sought to eliminate was a provision exempting transactions on which the annual finance charge is less than $10.

Defense Aide Resigns to Teach at University

WASHINGTON (AP) — Solis Horwitz, assistant secretary of defense, has resigned to become a professor at his alma mater, the University of Pittsburgh.

Horwitz became Tuesday the first top-level Pentagon official to follow the pending departure of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

★ ★ ★

A congressional aide for a decade, Horwitz moved from Capitol Hill to the Pentagon under McNamara at the start of the Kennedy administration and helped draw up the blueprints for reorganization within the Defense Department. He was assistant secretary for administration.

McNamara is to move to the presidency of World Bank by March 1 and will be succeeded by Clark Clifford, whose nomination to become secretary of defense was confirmed by the Senate Tuesday.

OTHER RESIGNATIONS

Several high-level members of the McNamara team have indicated they will remain in their Pentagon posts at least through Clifford's beginning months. But there have been reports Air Force Secretary Harold Brown, a top physicist, may be leaving soon.

The date Horwitz' resignation will take effect was not announced.

NATIONAL WEATHER — Rain is forecast tonight for part of the Pacific Coast and the Mississippi River Valley. The Northern Rockies region is expected to receive snow and snow flurries.

Open Housing for City Given Final Approval

The possibility of a referendum election on the ordinance is more than just that, according to a man who spoke against it last night.

"I'm going to run a referendum if I have to run all over this state barefooted," Bennie Lee Burnett of 23 S. Paddock said.

Commissioner Dugan said that "because of the feelings in this city" there is no question that "there will still be a referendum."

"We're only wasting a lot of time," Dugan said.

Commissioner Fowler said, however, that he thinks a referendum vote might uphold the legislation.

"I have not lost my faith in my fellow man," he said.

Commissioner Hudson said he was convinced last week that a referendum election would defeat the ordinance.

"I'm not convinced of that this week at all," Hudson said.

"I think it is a real possibility the referendum would be defeated," he said.

Hudson said he feels that state open-housing legislation will be passed by the Legislature, if not in the current session in the next session.

He said this would have the effect of enforcing open housing statewide so that Pontiac would not be in the position of being a city with an open-housing law surrounded by cities without such ordinances.

Hudson said, at the minimum, the commission action had the effect of getting the question of open housing out before the people of the city.

"The ordinance will give hope that there are people who care," he said.

GM Parts Lag Not Felt Here

Normal Production Seen by Weekend

General Motors plants in Pontiac will not be affected by a lag in parts supplies, according to company spokesmen.

★ ★ ★

Several plants around the nation are expected to be facing layoffs due to parts shortages caused by the temporary halt in production at three large foundries recently on strike.

The last of the strikes was settled Monday, but due to the lag in production, some GM plants have had to send workers home.

In Pontiac Monday some 6,000 were off. However, production is expected to be back to normal by the end of the week.

Call-backs resumed today at Pontiac Motor Division, where 5,000 were off and at General Motors Truck and Coach Division, with 1,000 off. The Fisher Body plant was not affected by the strike.

★ ★ ★

All three of the plants in Pontiac have approved national agreements. All but Pontiac Motor have reached local agreements. Negotiations are continuing at Pontiac Motor, which is one of 70 out of 168 GM plants without local settlements as yet.

Offices Looted in Waterford

Machines worth $450 were reported stolen yesterday from doctors' offices at 4930 Elizabeth Lake, Waterford Township.

Township police said a typewriter, a checkwriter and an adding machine — total value of $350 — were taken from Dr. J. G. Margolis' office.

A typewriter valued at $100 was reported stolen from the office of Dr. Thomas W. Follis.

Police said entry was gained by breaking the front-door glass and unlocking the door.

Commission Modifies Plans for Ring Road

BIRMINGHAM—The City Commission has acted to modify plans for a portion of "ring road" in the wake of a report from Reid and Cool, city traffic engineering consultants.

★ ★ ★

The portion of the ring road, a planned loop around the city's central business district, affected is Oakland Street between Woodward and Park.

The two lanes westbound planned for Oakland at that point, Reid and Cool warned, would probably not be sufficient to handle traffic flow during peak hours.

Projected flow during the rush hours is 1,383 cars, provided Park becomes part of the ring road's east leg. Two lanes would then be sufficient for Oakland from Hunter to Park, but could not handle the 709-car influx projected from Park.

The consulting firm suggested, and the commission approved, widening the street to three lanes by narrowing the planned center island and cutting the width of the two lanes planned from 12 to 11 feet.

PAVING PROGRAM

Prompt action on the matter was necessitated, according to Assistant City Manager John Saefke, because the Oakland improvement is scheduled as part of the city's paving program for this year.

The report from Reid and Cool also discussed the possibility of testing the ring road plan before making further changes in existing intersections.

The report listed six intersections at which changes will eventually be necessary to handle traffic flow, and emphasized, "Testing the plan without completion of the proposed revisions will result in severe traffic congestion at those intersections."

★ ★ ★

ONE-WAY TRAFFIC

Reid and Cool also recommended that the ring road be one-way when completed. Otherwise, the report said, the heavy traffic volume would make widening of several streets necessary.

City Cabby Is Hammered, Shot, Robbed

A Pontiac cabdriver is in fair condition after being shot and hit in the head with a hammer during a holdup early today.

Two youths, about 19 years old, are being sought by police in the attack of Herbert L. Fraser, 60, of 1108 Myrtle. About $30 was taken in the robbery.

Fraser, admitted to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital following the 3:15 a.m. incident, told police he picked up the pair on South Saginaw and drove them to an address on Howard McNeill.

Fraser, a driver for the Yellow Cab Co., suffered a bullet wound in the head, according to hospital officials.

A spent bullet was found in the taxi. Police did not know immediately if Fraser was shot with his own gun or that of the robbers.

Police also found a claw hammer in the cab.

Searchers Comb High Sierra

16 Missing in Snow Hunted

OROVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — Searchers battled deep snow and bitter cold today in California's High Sierra to locate 16 persons missing or marooned during the Pacific Coast's worst storm of the winter.

★ ★ ★

More than three feet of snow fell above 2,000 feet yesterday in mountain areas north of Yosemite National Park. Some Sierra hamlets measured more than five feet of snow.

Western Pacific Railroad's California Zephyr passenger train carrying 180 persons was freed yesterday from the High Sierra after being stalled overnight by a snowslide.

Zero visibility and drifting snow have closed intermittently Interstate 5 between California and Oregon and Interstate 80, the major trans-Sierra highway. Snow slides shut down U.S. 50 between Sacramento, Calif., and Lake Tahoe last night.

★ ★ ★

Heavy snow also fell over most of northern Nevada yesterday, slowing traffic and hampering air travel. Wind gusts of up to 40 miles an hour whipped snow into drifts and chains were required on all major highways in the storm area.

RARE SNOWFALL

A rare snowfall laid a white blanket of two to three inches on parts of San Mateo and Santa Clara counties south of San Francisco last night.

Warm air moved into Oregon and began melting an accumulation of nearly five inches of snow. Most schools were closed in the state yesterday because authorities believed more snow would fall. Heaviest snowfall was in the Siskiyou Mountains near the California border.

Two days of rain soaked low lying areas of northern California, triggering some minor flooding and numerous power failures. Nearly four inches of rain fell at San Jose, Calif., in a 24-hour period.

★ ★ ★

Heavy snows were expected to diminish today in northern mountains. Weathermen said the Pacific storm would move south with rain spreading to the mountains of southern California.

AWAIT BREAK

Authorities awaited a break in the weather before sending out search teams to look for missing persons. Some of those stranded, including at least nine children, were sheltered in remote cabins and cut off from communications. Others were feared at the mercy of the storm.

Six persons were rescued yesterday.

Rescuers bucked through deep drifts to reach three Sacramento college students snowbound in woods near Oroville. A search team in Plumas County found tavern operator Leo Garney in his car surrounded by 10-foot snowdrifts.

Sheriff's officers at Red Bluff, Calif., found San Francisco police Lt. Eugene Caldwell and his 12-year-old son at at a hunting lodge where they had stayed five days waiting out the storm.

RESCUED BY COPTER

Sheriff's Capt. Richard Stenberg at Oroville said heavy, wet snow collapsed several roofs of homes in the Paradise area.

A helicopter reached one stranded family and dropped a bundle of food to the occupants of the summer cabin who became trapped during a weekend visit.

Search was unsuccessful for the second day in a row for a single-engine plane missing in the Mt. Hamilton area south of San Jose.

★ ★ ★

Near-zero visibility prevented search planes from going up yesterday and a ground party was unable to find any trace of the plane piloted by Vicki Moffitt of Stamford, Conn., a student at Arizona State University, Tempe, Ariz.

Inkster Schools Get Reprieve

LANSING (AP) —Last-minute financial arrangements by the poverty-stricken Inkster School District will permit the district's nine schools to operate at least until April 12, it was announced today.

Inkster Supt. Dr. Edward Fort, who previously warned the district could not afford to operate beyond Friday, said today he had been assured of enough money to meet payrolls at least through April 12.

Some legislators who have worked on the Inkster problem said delaying the district's financial crisis until then would give the Legislature time to work out a permanent solution.

Fort said he had been assured by the city treasurers of Inkster and Westland that some $485,000 in local property taxes, collected by the cities and turned over to the district, can be available in time to meet Friday's payroll.

Irwin said that the commission action to spend the money would be somewhat of a hammer over any future jurist which might have to decide the validity of the tax.

★ ★ ★

He said this theory proposes that by spending the money would make it more difficult for a court to order it returned.

'ANSWER IS OWED'

Agreeing with Irwin, Hudson said: "we owe it to the people we represent to get an answer back." Hudson proposed that the city go to the Supreme Court in an attempt to do this.

The commissioners who approved utilizing the tax cited the Circuit Court decision which has upheld the validity of the income tax and the uncertainties of the appeals procedures.

District 5 Commissioner John A. Dugan said that no matter what steps the city takes the state statutes setting the time limits on referendum elections would rule out an electorate vote on the matter.

★ ★ ★

District 1 Commissioner T. Warren Fowler Sr. said the city was bound by the recent court decision to collect the money and that it should be utilized.

★ ★ ★

"I don't know what in the world we would do with that much money except accumulate it" if the funds were not utilized, he said.

TO REVISE BUDGET

The city manager said that he will revise the budget in accordance with the commission's decisions last night.

★ ★ ★

These revisions will allow an increase of $968,000 in general fund spending, he said.

According to Warren, $500,000 will be needed for employe pay raises and fringe benefit increases.

Other uses for the increase, he said would be:

New police officers, (12), $78,000; longevity pay for employes, $80,000; additional upkeep of local streets including chloriding, grading, graveling, sealcoating and sweeping, $79,600; income tax administration, $60,000; permanent patching program for local streets, $75,000; increased snow clearing and ice removal for local streets, $24,300.

★ ★ ★

Also, an additional attorney for city business, $8,000 (nine months; new library books, $10,000; new street lighting, $10,000; increased catch basin cleaning, $5,000; administrative assistant for manager's office, $4,500; contingencies, $33,500.

VALIDITY QUESTION

The validity of the city's income tax is being questioned by attorneys for Cecil C. Mullinix, chief distributor of petitions which would have called for a referendum election on the income tax.

The City Commission was ready to order a referendum election when Winston L. Livingston attorney for Pontiac police officers and firefighters, challenged the validity of the petitions in Circuit Court.

Judge Beer ruled that the petitions were invalid because of defects in the forms. He declared Pontiac's income tax valid and ordered the city not to hold an income tax election.

★ ★ ★

In doing so, he also ruled that Mullinix did not have the right to intervene in the case and defend the petitions.

★ ★ ★

The suit started by Livingston, of legal necessity, involved only the plaintiffs, a Pontiac fireman and policeman, and the city.

FILE APPEAL

Mullinix' attorneys, Robert D. Coon and Robert D. Cunningham, have filed appeal papers with the State Court of Appeals, in an attempt to overturn Beer's decision that Mullinix could not intervene.

They can't appeal the decision that the income tax is valid because they are not, in the strict legal sense, involved in the case, according to City Attorney Sherwin Birnkrant.

"The appellate process would first determine at the court of appeals level the question of whether or not the Circuit Court decision denying intervention should be affirmed or reversed," Birnkrant told the commission.

★ ★ ★

He said that if it is eventually determined, in the Court of Appeals or the State Supreme Court, that Mullinix should be allowed to intervene, further proceedings on the validity of the income tax would take place in Oakland County Circuit Court, and these also would be subject to appeal.

★ ★ ★

"Needless to say, no one can predict with absolute certainty the eventual outcome," Birnkrant said. He said the final decision could be as much as two to five years away.

Police Probing Theft of Business Machines in City

Pontiac police are investigating the theft of nearly $1,900 worth of business machines stolen in a break-in yesterday of the Herrington Hills Elementary School, 541 Bay.

Entry to the school was gained by breaking a window, according to Chester B. Drobek, a school engineer, who discovered the burglary.

After the thieves gained entry, a side door was pried open, police said, apparently so several trips could be made back into the school to carry out the 10 machines.

Skirts Will Stay Short, Declares Mod Designer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The midi and the maxi will lose out to the mini, says designer Rudi Gernreich.

The man whose mod styles included the topless swimsuit pooh-poohed the trend toward lowering skirts below the knee.

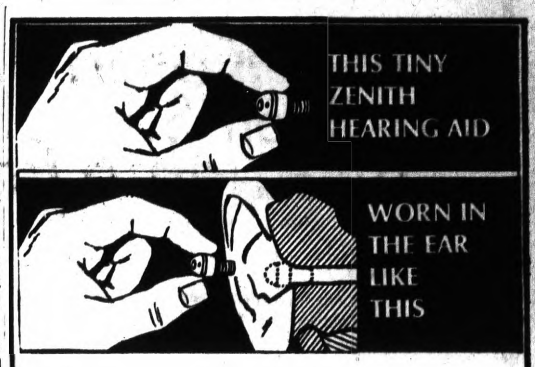

"I really believe that skirts are going to remain short," said Gernreich who was in Los Angeles Tuesday to present a retrospective show of his designs. He called the miniskirt "part of our time."

Gernreich also turned thumbs down on the 1930s look of "Bonnie and Clyde."

Detroit Teen Held

DETROIT (AP) — Kelly Pettway, 16, of Detroit was being held in the juvenile detention home in Wayne County in connection with the fatal shooting of a 13-year-old companion.

Pettway told police he accidentally shot Ronald Franklin, also of Detroit, Tuesday while showing the younger boy his father's 45-caliber pistol.

'Multiage Grouping' Promoted

One-Room School Product Back in Style

By JEAN SAILE

I went to a one-room country school.

Yes, indeedy.

And I am delighted to report that I am so old (at age 37) that I am becoming fashionable.

I have been considered an absolute primitive by people who mentally start recalculating my age on learning of my shadowy educational background. Therefore, I salute "Education U.S.A."

MRS. SAILE

This magazine of learned somebodies is now promoting "multiage grouping." That's not what we called it when we mixed it up back at old Beaver Dam Public School in Saskatchewan.

ADVANTAGES

But it seems about time somebody wised up to the advantages inherent in a one-room country school.

Mine was a one-room-plus-cloakroom eight-grade school complete with barn and outhouses, and a total of about 12 students.

Apparently nobody there had ever heard about the child labor laws—not even my parents, come to think of it.

★ ★ ★

By the time a student had attained a third grade promotion, he was immediately conscripted for an unpaid job as a sort of unofficial teacher's aid.

POWER!

There are today three adults in Saskatchewan and one in Australia to whom I personally taught spelling, arithmetic and reading. I was 9 years old at the time.

Oh, the power!

While the teacher was busy instructing the seventh grade in the lore of the British Isles, I was pontificating on the multiplication tables. I was also listening in on the British Isles, and doing some of my own work at the same time.

It was excellent training for a particularly unorganized adulthood.

All lessons, however, weren't confined to the classroom.

★ ★ ★

On the playground I learned the art of drowning out gophers — a hardening of emotions that has since stood me in good use when getting a mouse out of a trap.

WATCHED STEP

I also learned that in multiage grouping you watched your step.

I didn't throw a snowball at a bigger kid, unless I actually wanted my face washed in snow.

I didn't aspire to a position on the scrub baseball team until I got old enough and good enough to fight for it.

★ ★ ★

Relegated to the backup position of far right field until the sixth grade, I was not even aware that there might be people who would fear for my psyche — failure patterns and all that, you know.

COULDN'T CATCH

The problem as far as I know it —and the other kids yelled it—was that I couldn't catch the dumb ball.

There were other kids there who couldn't get the hang of learning. We had kids in the eighth grade almost as old as the teacher.

But—the educational magazine calls multiage grouping "lifelike and natural."

And it was—it was!

TRAIN DERAILED — Despite this extensive crash that saw 15 cars and four locomotives of a Grand Trunk freight train leave the tracks near the main street of Smiths Creek, St. Clair County, only one crewman suffered injuries and those were minor. The crash took place yesterday when the freight bumped another freight that was moving onto another set of tracks at a switching junction.

Board Quiet on Millage Loss

ROMEO — No immediate action is planned in this school district following Monday's millage setback, Supt. of Schools T. C. Filppula said yesterday.

"The board members got together to receive the election results," Filppula said, "but there wasn't really any discussion. I don't think they'll be meeting for a couple of weeks."

The board's request for eight mills — three renewal and five new — for five years was rejected by a lopsided 1,045-683 count. In November, a request for the same increase had lost by only seven votes.

After the November loss, the administration trimmed spending in several areas, Filppula said. Among them were teaching supplies at all levels, maintenance supplies and down payments on new equipment.

★ ★ ★

More of the same is in line for the district in the days ahead, the superintendent added: "We're facing a deficit budget of $65,000 to $100,000, and we're going to have to sit down and formulate more cuts."

$108,000 LESS

In addition, the loss of the three-mill renewal means the district will have $108,000 less in operating funds for the 1968-69 school year, he said.

Asked about the effect on teacher salaries, Filppula commented, "There are rough days ahead not only for Romeo, but for many other districts.

"It's coming to the point where no matter how we feel about increasing teacher salaries, we aren't going to have enough money."

★ ★ ★

Prior to the election, Filppula had indicated areas likely to be affected by a millage loss, including teacher workshops and conferences, extra-curricular activities, and overtime work.

An increase in the district's average class size, presently at 25-30, probably would also be necessary, he said.

Farmington Student Is Winner in National Science Contest

FARMINGTON — William L. Spence, 17, has been named one of the nation's 40 most scientifically talented high school seniors.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Spence of 31632 Marblehead and attends Farmington High School.

As a winner in the 27th Annual Science Talent Search, he will attend the Science Talent Institute in Washington Feb. 28 through March 4 where he competes for a Westinghouse science scholarship or award.

WILLIAM L. SPENCE

William won his place with a paper on the algebra of baryon fields. Baryons are defined as one of the classes of fundamental particles making up matter.

Contest judges also considered William's school records, recommendations of school faculty, and results of a science aptitude examination.

William's talents put Farmington High School, where he is a member of the debate team, in the winner's list for the first time.

The young scientist taught himself quantum mechanics, relativity, elementary particle theory and other areas of theoretical physics.

He is planning to attend Massachusetts Institute of Technology and do theoretical research on elementary particles.

The Science Talent Search is supported by Westinghouse and run by Science Service, a nonprofit institution.

Troy Firm Names Three

TROY — Holforty Widrig O'Neill & Associates, Inc., an engineering consulting firm located at 177 W. Big Beaver has named three men to positions.

Appointed senior associates are Frederick G. Oleszkowicz and David Silberg. Alfred L. Lopez has been named an associate.

Vote Recount for Avon Twp. Set for Feb. 8

AVON TOWNSHIP — A recount of the Jan. 15 township's vote to incorporate has been set for Feb. 8, according to Mrs. Mabel Child, county election clerk.

The recount was asked in a petition filed Jan. 22 by Lloyd J. Brown, 881 Cobblestone, who charged fraud and error in the election practices and in the tabulation of returns.

Incorporation passed by a 50-vote margin in a 2,687-vote total. It involved all of Avon Township outside the city of Rochester. Nine charter commissioners, charged with the responsibility of writing an acceptable city charter within two years, were elected.

A committee composed of county election officials, the board of canvassers, attorneys for both sides and township officials will visit the 10 township polling places to inspect voting machine counters and vote results, Mrs. Child said.

★ ★ ★

Brown's petition also charged that township funds were used to provide transportation of electors to the polls and that campaign literature was displayed near the polling sites.

'NOT JUDICIAL TRIBUNAL'

County corporation counsel Robert Allen said only that "The canvassing board is not a judicial tribunal."

The assumption is that if Brown wishes to pursue his charges, he must do so through Circuit Court.

MD Talks of Heart Advances

New advances in the treatment of heart patients, like those now in practice at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, could save an estimated 45,000 lives annually in this country, according to a Pontiac area heart specialist, Dr. Michael C. Kozonis.

"The new approach — intensive coronary care units — should cut the mortality rate from heart attacks about in half," Dr. Kozonis said today.

"Since the intensive coronary care unit was installed at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital last October, we've had about 70 patients in it and have lost only three."

Pointing to the serious nature of heart disease in America today, Dr. Kozonis noted that "during all of World War I we had 126,000 military deaths. Last year alone, we had 150,000 coronary deaths in persons under 65. The grand total for all ages in this country last year was 500,000 coronary deaths.

"With the new coronary care units, it was estimated by the Bethesda Conference of the American College of Cardiology in 1965 that we ought to be able to save 45,000 lives per year," he said.

STAFF CARDIOLOGIST

Dr. Kozonis, a cardiologist on the staff at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, will outline these and other advances in heart treatment at a Public Heart Forum in the Pontiac Northern High School Auditorium on Feb. 16 at 8 p.m.

The heart forum is cosponsored by the Michigan Heart Association's Oakland County Heart Information Unit and The Pontiac Press.

Dr. Kozonis, president elect of the Michigan Heart Association, is one of three featured speakers on the program.

DR. MICHAEL C. KOZONIS

The others are Dr. Murray B. Levin, a specialist in internal medicine on the Pontiac General Hospital staff who will discuss why people have heart attacks and what can be done to prevent them, and Dr. Allen Silbergleit, a cardiovascular surgeon on the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital staff.

ADVANCED TECHNIQUES

Dr. Silbergleit will speak on heart transplants and other advances in coronary surgical techniques.

He took postgraduate work with Dr. Christian Barnard and Dr. Norman Shumway, who recently gained world attention with heart transplants in South Africa and California, respectively.

Tickets for the event are free and may be obtained at The Pontiac Press; St. Joseph Mercy Hospital; Pontiac General Hospital; the Pontiac Area United Fund, 132 Franklin Blvd.; Crittenton Hospital in Avon Township; the Heart Information Unit, 277 Pierce, Birmingham; and the Oakland County Health Department.

★ ★ ★

Persons may also obtain tickets through the mail by sending orders to the Heart Information Unit.

Persons without tickets will be admitted if seats are available after those with tickets are seated.

Judge Will Speak on Law and Teens

WALLED LAKE—"The Law and Mr. Teen-ager" is to be the topic of a talk by Municipal Judge Gene Schnelz tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Walled Lake Junior High School cafeteria.

Schnelz, a member of the Walled Lake Youth Protective Service Committee and an attorney was invited to speak by the school PTA, which is conducting the meeting.

★ ★ ★

Also participating in the program are Dean Smith, dean of students at Walled Lake Junior High; Mrs. Charles Duff; Mrs. Floyd Mengel; and Mrs. Robert Upchurch.

As Courts Revamped

JPs Nearing Extinction

By L. GARY THORNE
Assistant City Editor—Suburban

Some justices of the peace often rank somewhere behind a stomach cramp in popularity.

Notwithstanding the popular opinion, JPs are mostly dedicated, upright and respected citizens.

However, there apparently are aspects of the JP system that are considered undesirable.

Thus, Michigan is about to experience an operation known as court reorganization. It is legislative surgery prescribed by the still-new State Constitution.

★ ★ ★

Court reorganization, the reader may recall, was the issue given a back seat to the open-housing hassle at the last special session of the Legislature.

WHITE KNIGHT

With a new session before them, state legislators are expected to again consider the revamping of this state's system of lower courts. Reorganization is cast as the white knight which is to rid us forever of the JPs.

Exactly what form this new animal will take is still largely unknown, although some type of district court system is anticipated.

More than a few local officials are fearful of the proposed new setup which may mean an end to not only JPs, as the constitution so directs, but also some municipal court seats.

A district court system with elected judges is the chief proposal being offered. A district might be a city or several cities in sparsely populated areas.

REVENUE LOSS

Municipal officials, meanwhile, are most concerned about the potential loss of revenue if municipal courts are abolished and none of the new court revenue given to cities.

At least one area official, Lapeer City Manager Arnold Whitney, has lashed out at the plans for court reorganization.

Whitney for some time has claimed that it would cost $120 million to establish the new system, which is planned to begin dispensing justice in about 12 months from now.

Of course, the proverbial white knight is after JPs in the name of greater efficiency and to rid the state of the JP fee system.

TEMPTS HONESTY

The latter refers to the traditional system whereby the judge who sets the fine collects a goodly portion of same.

The framers of our latest constitution objected to this arrangement. Admittedly, it takes great amounts of fortitude to keep the system honest.

Court reorganization is still under consideration, but one thing is almost certain: Should you misbehave next New Year's Eve, your neighborhood JP won't hear the case come Jan. 2.

★ ★ ★

Post Office to Move to Larger Novi Site

NOVI—The Novi Post Office has completed arrangements to rent new larger quarters.

The operation will move within two months from its present home at 25914 Novi to 43539 Grand River.

★ ★ ★

The new location, owned by Mrs. Priscilla Meier of Walled Lake, was formerly the Marquette Realty office.

The new quarters offer 1,798 square feet of interior and 1,946 square feet for parking, reported Novi Postmaster Mrs. Marjorie Watson.

Movie and TV Rights to Book Purchased

BIRMINGHAM—Stephen F. Booth, producer of the film, "Brighty of Grand Canyon," this week announced the purchase of motion picture and television rights to "The Situation in Flushing," a novel by Edmund G. Love. The purchase price was not disclosed.

The book was published by Harper and Row, and excerpts appeared in Saturday Evening Post and Readers Digest. Love is best known as the author of "Subways Are for Sleeping."

Troy Chamber Officers

TROY — Marvin Reinhard, an accountant, has been elected president of the Troy Chamber of Commerce.

Other officers for 1968 are Cleve Masson of Sears Roebuck & Co., vice president; Richard Halpin of Halpin Bros. Printing, secretary; and Wallace B. Hudson of Surplus Lines Corp., treasurer.

Color the Federal Budget Red

Although the spending total spelled out by President JOHNSON's budget message delivered to the Congress Monday surprised few, the text nonetheless hardly makes for something to read yourself to sleep by.

JOHNSON

Over-all, the Administration would spend the record-breaking amount of $186.1 billion during the 1969 fiscal year beginning July 1. It is some $10.5 billion more than the U.S. Treasury is now paying out under the 1968 budget which figures to wind up with a $20 billion deficit—the biggest in "peacetime" history.

★ ★ ★

In submitting his proposed budget, LBJ foresaw a deficit of $8 billion — on the assumption that $10 billion is forthcoming from the 10 per cent income tax surcharge which he declares a fiscal must. Congress has yet to see it his way.

"Defense," of course, cuts itself the lion's share of the spending pie, slicing out $76.7 billion, almost a third of which is earmarked for Vietnam. Other priority areas for Federal dollars, with substantial increases, are attacks on poverty, crime, and pollution.

The total is as much money spent by one President in a single year as was spent by all 32 Presidents from GEORGE WASHINGTON, starting in 1789, through half of the third term of FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT in 1942. That's 153 years, and includes all the wars through the first year of World War II.

Because for the first time the budget is drawn up in "unified" form — a departure from the traditional three variant versions — spending totals $47 billion more than it would under the former format. That is small comfort since, like the old shell game, the pea is demonstrably under one of the three shells.

A sleeper in modern Federal budgets is the interest on the national debt. The latter will hit $387.2 billion by the end of the 1968 fiscal year, June 30. The interest, amounting to $14 billion (total Federal spending in 1941 was $13.26 billion), increasingly becomes a built-in expense as the Government pursues its policy of borrowing money to finance its mounting operating deficits.

★ ★ ★

Two political cliches long favorites of glib politician are "Point with Pride" and "View with Alarm." There is little about the proposed budget to which the Administration can point with pride, much which the Country can view with alarm.

Commend Jaycees, 'Guiding Spirit' on Pageant

We render a well-deserved salute to the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce on the superb Junior Miss Pageant recently staged by the organization.

JORGENSEN

It represented the 10th such event the Jaycees have sponsored, with the entry list growing from nine in 1959 to 47 in 1968. The current winner of the State Junior Miss title, PAMELA SMITH of Northville, will compete for the America's Junior Miss crown in Mobile, Ala., in March. In 1965, PATRICE GAUNDER of Stevensville won the State title here and went on to take national honors.

With the growth of the pageant, preparation of it has become virtually a year-round job. Since 1962, Richard Jorgensen has been the guiding spirit behind the annual productions and, though assisted by the majority of local Jaycees, deserves major credit for their success.

In recognition of his dedicated and continued service in the promotion of the events, JORGENSEN was awarded a State Senatorship by Junior Chamber International which carries with it lifetime membership in the chamber. He is only the second Pontiac man to be so honored.

We commend the Jaycees on their enterprise in making the Junior Miss Pageant the outstanding social and entertainment highlight it has become and congratulate Impresario JORGENSEN on the fine recognition given him.

Ohio's Antiriot Laws Prove Boomerang

Black Power advocates who claim that the law and law enforcement are stacked against the Negro may get a laugh, if not a lesson, out of this:

★ ★ ★

In its last session, the Ohio Legislature gave new powers to city authorities to cope with civil disturbances. Though no one would admit it publicly, the law was a consequence of and a precaution against racial rioting.

★ ★ ★

A Cleveland area mayor was forced to invoke the new powers for the first time in the state the other day—not to clamp down on Negroes in that city's Hough area but to stop a violent altercation between opposing factions of a church in a white suburb.

How Flattery Made a Justice

By RAYMOND MOLEY

If Felix Frankfurter had respected the independence of the Supreme Court as much as he said he did, he would not have written most of the letters and telegrams now published with commentary by Max Freedman in "Roosevelt & Frankfurter: Their Correspondence, 1928-1945" (Little, Brown).

MOLEY

For they portray a man winning a place on the court by lavishly flattering the President who had the power to appoint him and then, securely seated on the bench, a judge continuously meddling in Executive affairs.

And if Frankfurter had cherished the reputation he made on the court after President Roosevelt died, he would not, as an old retired justice, have permitted the publication of this correspondence for years to come. But he was apparently proud of the power and influence he had exercised for years.

The result is a book which may not enhance the reputation of its two principal characters but will be immensely useful as a text for people interested in the wiles and ways of palace politics.

★ ★ ★

The text is 80 to 85 per cent Frankfurter and Freedman, and the rest the restrained responses of Mr. Roosevelt.

PROVIDER OF JOBS

It has become quite generally known that, in his private capacity as an intimate of men in power, Frankfurter was a most active provider of jobs for his friends and proteges.

Those appointees included a score of lawyer-assistants for Justices Holmes and Brandeis and literally hundreds of young men in government offices.

This activity went on even in Herbert Hoover's administration, when Secretary of State Henry Stimson and others responded readily to the recommendations of Frankfurter. He was probably responsible for the appointment of Stimson as secretary of war in 1940.

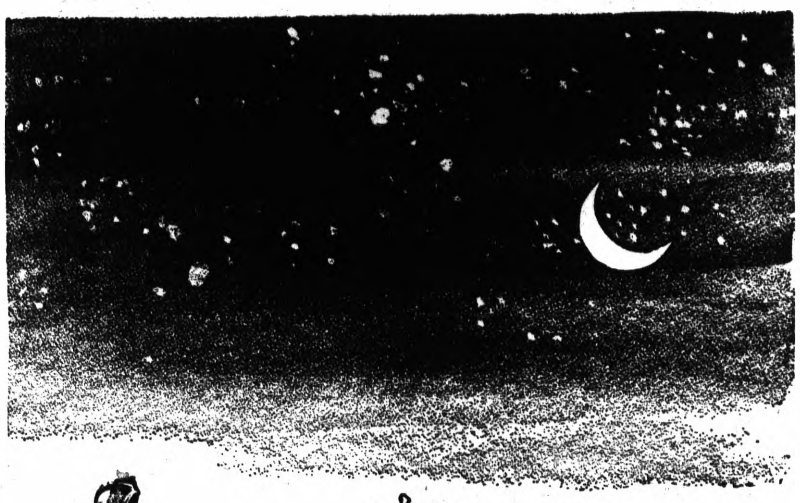

★ ★ ★

In matters of policy he also had great influence with President Roosevelt, for he concerned himself with a whole area of domestic and foreign policy.

EFFUSIVE FLATTERY

The tone of the long correspondence is marked by the effusive flattery of the President by his friend. Freedman notes: "He was an artist in adulation; and sometimes, forgetting the artistry, he laid on flattery with a trowel."

But F. F. knew his man. Mr. Roosevelt loved it.

David Lawrence Says:

Inflation Effect on Budget Seen

WASHINGTON — Everybody here is talking about the $186-billion budget that President Johnson has proposed to Congress. But few people realize that 15 years ago, in 1953, all the items he has just recommended in his budget could have been bought for only $122.4 billion.

LAWRENCE

Going back 23 years, to fiscal year 1945, the same budget would have requried a total of $79.8 billion in expenditures. This is what inflation really means.

Even when one subtracts national defense spending and examines merely the social welfare and civilian segment of the new budget, the 1953 amount would have been $83.8 billion for the same volume of expenditures in the non-defense part of the federal government's list of projects which now cost $106 billion.

The effects of rising prices are as noticeable in connection with U.S. Treasury receipts.

Thus, approximately $178 billion is being collected from taxes and other sources of revenue by the federal government, but it would have been necessary to collect only $94.4 billion to accomplish the same purpose in 1945 and $140 billion in 1953.

This is another way of saying that the 1968 receipts of $178 billion represent an inflationary cost of $84 billion in comparison with 1945 and $38 billion in comparison with the money paid in 1953 by the general public to the federal government to support its programs.

In current dollars, the new budget constitutes the largest annual outlay in American history. But it is only fair to note that much of the increase over other years is due to the wage-price spiral, which sends up costs. Once inflation starts, of course, it is natural for wage rises to be demanded.

Likewise, Social Security benefits, which originally could cover the major part of the expenses of the aged, no longer are adequate because prices of consumer goods have gone up substantially. Hence, Social Security payments have to be raised periodically to offset some of the upward movement in living costs.

It has often been said that "everybody talks about inflation, but nobody does anything about it."

The President and members of Congress are given each year reports from economic experts who tell them that "deficit spending" is essential and that it doesn't really do any harm to the economy.

Thus, the government has been spending more than it has taken in year after year, and will be doing the same thing next year even if the President's proposed tax surcharge is enacted into law.

The theory of government economics should be to raise enough revenues to meet expenditures and not resort to borrowing money, except in emergencies.

Bob Considine Says:

U.S. Is Object of Scorn as a Result of the Pueblo

NEW YORK—The humiliation of the Pueblo case—dramatized by Tass's photograph of the captain and crew being marched ashore, hands up — must delight both friends and foes of the U.S.

CONSIDINE

It is perverse yet human nature to gloat secretly over misfortune visited upon a friend. The nonaffected are made to feel superior. They played things right, see? The friend, the big and powerful and rich friend, somehow goofed, right? Sorry, and all that sort of thing, but certainly glad it happened to somebody else, particularly to the big fellow.

As for the foes, they must have gotten a big lift out of Pueblo. This could keep Ho Chin Minh in the Vietnamese war a bit longer, strengthened by his renewed belief that somehow—like the Republican party—we'll find a way to snatch defeat from the jaws of victory.

The situation, which in all probability was not incited by either Moscow or Peking, has comforted both.

★ ★ ★

The Russians were given the opportunity (and took it) to prove to the rest of the Communist world that it is not, after all those dirty-pool charges by the crazy Chinese, a tool of American imperialism.

RUSSIAN JACKASS

Moscow said it would not lift a finger to intercede with North Korea to return the men and their ship, and the Russian jackass in the U.N. brayed long and loud over the following weekend.

Peking has been effectively snubbed by North Korea for more than a year. It has been a source of embarrassment in view of the fact that a lot of Chinese "volunteers" died in the course of pushing Douglas MacArthur's troops southward from the Yalu to below Seoul just when North Korea was about to throw in the towel in that war.

The Pueblo business enabled Peking, after due deliberation, to issue a solidarity statement which might very well heal the troubles of the immediate past.

★ ★ ★

Fidel Castro may now have second thoughts of stepping down as president-premier-maximus-ultimus if the Pueblo case convinces him that the crowd that masterminded the Bay of Pigs invasion has been given a second chance in Washington.

NOT DICTATED

The writer makes no foolish claims to 20/20 vision in international matters, but would like to put forth the proposition that the North Koreans move against our ship was not in any way dictated by higher and stronger authority.

'Letter to Congressman Brought Prompt Results'

I took advantage of your suggestion to "Write Your Representative" and on Jan. 5, I wrote Congressman Jack H. McDonald regarding our Social Security benefits. His two letters in reply stated he was personally looking into the matter and followed with a telegram advising me of his findings. We received our checks on January 27. My wife and I are grateful to Mr. McDonald for his efforts and feel it was through his help that we received action. In these troublesome times we need many more of Mr. McDonald's caliber in public office. He finds time to assist the little man.

Replies to Complaints About New Airports

I'm amused at letters in your Voice of the People that attack new airports because of many reasons except the correct one: it would force the writer to move and he doesn't want to move.

★ ★ ★

All progress calls for the removal of impediments that are in the way. Otherwise we couldn't have this big nation. When a new airport is proposed 100 years from now, many houses will be in the way. But the writers will squawk about land costs, inflation, the high cost of living, the advantages of another site, and why don't you move the houses that belong to someone else.

They figure those "someone elses" don't count. Just me. I count big.

Mr. Prout of Friend of the Court tells us very little, legally speaking, if there are grounds for divorce, unless it can be shown that both parties have guilt in the matter. In that case, Mr. Prout says the case could be thrown out.

Imperial Sunset

Newsday

Great Britain ceased to be a world power long before anyone would admit it, but her indomitable resolution masked the inevitable day when the sun would set on the British Empire. Now, to the sincere sorrow of her allies, she has been forced to concede the obvious.

By the close of 1971 she will have left the Far East, except for a handful of troops in the crown colony of Hong Kong.

Those who revere the principles of individual and national liberty will mourn the retirement of Britain to a minor role in world affairs.

The country that sired the Magna Carta and thereby inspired our own Bill of Rights, the country whose civilized skills and incomparable bravery helped keep the world at peace for long periods of time has had an unforgettable influence on history.

Americans in particular will never forget. But now the question is: Should the U.S. take up the torch Britons have put down? This is a wholly new era and we already are committed to the defense of Vietnam. We have troops in many other places.

We must recognize the dangers of overextending ourselves. The U.S. cannot police the whole world any more than the British could.

Still, we cannot disregard the challenges that are increased all the more by diminishing British power. It is a good time to remind those independent nations in the Pacific that they must help us in order to help themselves.

The costs of maintaining their independence cannot be borne alone by the American people. Those Asian nations which look to us for support must be allies in more than name. We must be able to count on the active assistance of our friends in the Pacific and Asia.

Bus Problem . . .

Port Huron Times Herald

Clearly the problems besetting bus service in Port Huron are difficult. Unless some answers are found, the Transit Company will be forced to close down in a few weeks.

Just as clearly, the answers will not be found in a quarrelsome approach, or in uninformed carping about what is wrong with the operation.

Yet in the interest of the many who need bus transportation here, an all-out effort to find a reasonable solution is indicated.

Considering the financial troubles of the present system, people might look askance at the reference to "many" who use the buses.

★ ★ ★

If there were "many" riders, the system would, perhaps, be solvent. Yet the reference is accurate because — even though they do not ride buses every day — there are many people hereabouts who have no other practical means of transportation.

Taken together, the needs of the citizenry are urgent. At the same time, obviously, the Transit Company cannot be asked to operate at a loss.

That means that every practical means should be considered to keep the buses rolling while providing a reasonable return on the company's investment.

'Could Be Paupers Cemetery'

Police Probing Prison Graves

CUMMINS PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP) — State police probed in secrecy today seeking to determine if three skeletons recovered from unmarked graves were inmates buried in a paupers cemetery or victims of a vicious prison justice.

The bones were unearthed Monday from a grassy boot-tramped field and their discovery raised the question: How many more bodies might lie beneath the shallow depressions that dot these 15,270 acres of Arkansas River land?

Reuben Johnson, 59, the strapping six-foot inmate who led investigators to the graves said that years ago he helped bury about 10 or 12 convicts who were "shot with a pistol, a shotgun or just beaten to death."

Looking back on his 30 years in prison, Johnson claimed that as many as 2,000 inmates had been quietly consigned to unmarked graves.

★ ★ ★

State police Maj. Bill Streubing, who is conducting the investigation, discounted Johnson's story Tuesday. After visiting the grave site and pouring over prison records, Streubing said he thought the graves probably were in a paupers cemetery.

UNCERTAIN

"We don't know for sure, but in our own minds, we believe it is," he said.

He called off further digging until pathologists conclude tests on the bones already unearthed, and he indicated that his investigation would be conducted in secrecy even after the reports are in.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller told newsmen later in the day that he thought the information should be withheld because of the bad publicity it would bring the state.

He promised to make a "full and complete report" to the people after the investigation was complete, but said he didn't want to" wash dirty linen before the nation for weeks on end as each body is dug up."

POSSIBILITIES

"There might have been foul play. That area might also have been a cemetery — a paupers cemetery — for prisoners who died and had no family," the governor said. "We don't know yet. There is no evidence now to indicate that a mass search should be conducted to dig up all the bodies."

He also said, however, that he wasn't surprised the bodies had been found, and that he thought other bodies would indicate there had been foul play.

He said he had heard rumors ever since coming to Arkansas in 1953 that prisoners had been killed, buried on the prison grounds and listed on the records as escapees.

Former Prison Supt. Dan D. Stephens said he was aware that there was an old prison cemetery in the area where the skeletons were found — one headless, one with the skull bashed in and a third with the legs broken, apparently to get the body into a makeshift, plank casket.

There is a fenced-in cemetery about two miles from the grave sites. Prison officials said prisoners were buried there when they died natural deaths and no one claimed their bodies.

GRAVES KNOWN

Johnson claimed that all the superintendents who have served at Cummins were aware of the secret graves.

He said the men he saw buried were "shot down or beaten to death" by "guards and wardens." He said he had seen "quite a few" killed.

"They killed some white ones on Labor Day in 1940," he said. "They killed a bunch of them — I'd say about 20."

★ ★ ★

Prison records show that 36 men escaped from the prison on Sept. 2, 1940, and that one man was killed trying to escape. The records also show that 24 escapees were recaptured quickly and a prison staff member said it was possible that others were recaptured later.

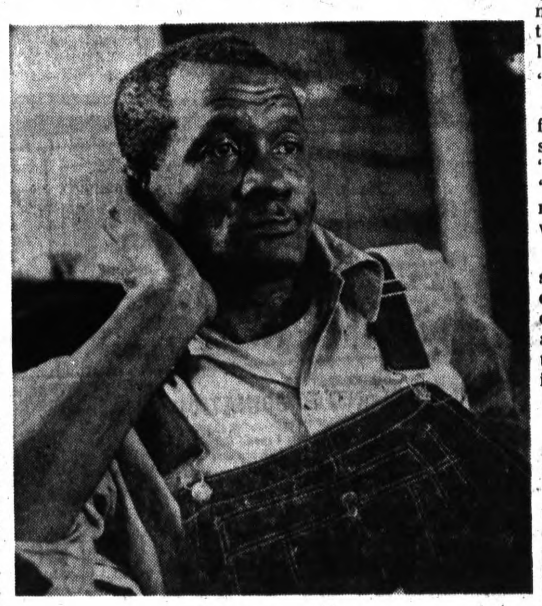

'PROTECTION MONEY'

Asked if he'd ever had to fight for his own life, Johnson said he had paid $2 to $3 a week "protection money," but that, "Many times I got up in the morning and didn't know if I was coming back."

"Some were buried at night, some were buried in the daytime," he said. "We would quit work and go down and dig a hole. We'd put them bodies in, then turn right around and plow it under and plant sorghum cane there the next year."

He said the last time he saw a person killed at Cummins was in July 1960.

He said he had been trying to tell someone about the graves ever since Thomas O. Murton, a penologist, took over as superintendent here Jan. 1. Until then, he feared for his life, he said, and besides, "Nobody asked me."

Long-Haired Students Turn to the ACLU

NORWALK, Conn. (AP) — Boys suspended from Brien McMahon High School for letting their hair hang over their eyes, ears or collars have enlisted the aid of the American Civil Liberties Union.

★ ★ ★

Burton Weinstein, a volunteer lawyer from the Fairfield County ACLU chapter, said Tuesday he has agreed to represent in court four of the boys at first and probably more later.

Most of the 53 students suspended from school for the length of their hair defied a "cut your hair" order. A dozen cut their hair and returned to school Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Weinstein said he would first ask the school board to allow the students to return unshorn to classes while the dispute is worked out. If that didn't work he said, he would seek a court order restraining the board from carrying out the suspensions until the matter is decided legally.

The School Board's ban, Weinstein said, violated such constitutional guarantees as the Ninth Amendment, ensuring the right of privacy.

Weinstein said he hoped the board would agree to let the students back in their classrooms while the matter is settled because it could take a week to get such a restraining order.

It would be better, he said "if the kids are not made to suffer while the abstract question is being tested out."

About 10 parents of students suspended for wearing their hair long appeared Tuesday night at a school board meeting but were not allowed to discuss their position.

Some students picketed the school Tuesday, carrying such signs as "Does Society Hang by a Hair?" and "Jesus, Shakespeare, Washington and Lincoln wore long hair. Who should we look up to?"

Secessionist Biafra 'Will Fight to Finish' Despite Blockade

PORT HARCOURT, Biafra (AP) — The Biafran secessionists in eastern Nigeria are fighting with their backs to the wall. Their leader, Lt. Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, is determined to fight to the finish to keep federal troops out of Biafra's heartland.

★ ★ ★

The army of the Nigerian government in Lagos, seeking to end the eastern region's eight-month secession, has cut off Biafra from all sides, but the bearded colonel is convinced he can hold out for three or four years if necessary.

★ ★ ★

The population is mobilized for total war. As more and more factories close for lack of raw materials, the workers are absorbed by Ojukwu's militia and trained for guerrilla war.

When weapons are short, recruits use machetes or dummy rifles. Notices everywhere call for vigilance. A poster shows a steel-helmeted soldier with fixed bayonet. "This man is ready to meet the enemy. Are you?" asks the caption.

STRANGERS SUSPECT

Other posters urge the 150,000 residents of Port Harcourt, Biafra's largest remaining city, to report any strange faces to the police.

Life goes on virtually as normal in the countryside. Only salt is hard to get.

★ ★ ★

Last week, three fishermen tried to smuggle in a boatload of salt from neighboring Cameroon. They were caught by a patrol boat of the blockading federal navy and summarily shot. An Irish missionary found their bodies.

BLOCKADE

The blockade is virtually complete. Supplies come in only by charter plane. The planes, piloted by American crews, come from Lisbon and land at Port Harcourt by night, with all lights turned off. Before daybreak, they must leave for fear of being bombed by the Soviet built MIGs of the federal air force.

Federal air raids have slackened since the beginning of the year. An exception was last Thursday, when by Biafran account two MIGs repeatedly bombed and strafed a civilian hospital at Itu on the Cross River, killing four patients and wounding the Scottish physician in charge, Dr. Murray Philip.

★ ★ ★

Philip had recently published a pro-Biafra article in a British magazine.

Biafran officials said numerous hospitals and schools have been bombed by the Egyptian-piloted MIGs. All schools in Biafra are closed for fear of air raids.

NEWSPAPERS SHRINKING

Biafra still has more than a score of newspapers, but they are shrinking for lack of newsprint.

★ ★ ★

The press, radio and television continuously call on Biafrans to prepare to fight to the death or be annihilated by invading Moslem troops from northern Nigeria. A photograph of a headless, armless body is displayed throughout the country to show what Christian Biafrans might expect from northern soldiers.

★ ★ ★

Biafra's most popular television comedian, Aniyaogu Okonu, interrupts his routine to draw his finger across his throat from ear to ear as a warning of what will happen if the federals come—then goes back to his clowning.

There have been no telegraph, telephone or mail links with the outside world for six months. The only newspaper on sale at a newsstand in Biafra's biggest hotel is the German Frankfurter Allgemeine of June 20, 1967.

Many Easy Years

Couples in the United States spend about 15 to 40 years together between the time the last child leaves the home and one or the other spouse dies.

Bobby Rejects Challenging Johnson—for Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy publicly rejects—at least for the time being—the idea of carrying his opposition to administration Vietnam policies into a head-on political battle with President Johnson.

Kennedy told newsmen Tuesday he will not run against Johnson in any Democratic presidential primaries "under any foreseeable circumstances."

★ ★ ★

This still left the way clear for the New York senator to enter the race against Johnson if the President seeks his party's renomination as expected. But Kennedy's use of the term "foreseeable circumstances" indicated he feels there's little chance events will change his course.

Some Kennedy backers have been pushing harder than ever recently for him to enter the primaries, especially since Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn. —a fellow Vietnam policy critic —appears to be making little headway in his bid for the presidential nomination.

Although Kennedy would not spell out any circumstances that might cause him to change his mind, it was indicated Vietnam war developments may hold the key to his future position.

A sudden cease-fire or opening of peace talks in Vietnam, some observers have reasoned, could spell political disaster for any would-be nominee critical of Johnson's policies.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy said he would "continue to speak out on issues that affect the United States."

Meanwhile some other Senate Democrats opposed to administration war policies are conspicuously excluding from attacks on war policies a President they expect to head the Democratic ticket in November.

NO VALUE

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has told friends his position this year when he seeks reelection is that everyone knows how he stands on Vietnam.

Fulbright said he sees no value in continuing to criticize the President's war policy on every occasion.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., similarly has toned down his criticism of the President over Vietnam, although he maintains he is standing firm in his opposition to war policies.

Following Demotion

Highway Official's Pay Cut

LANSING (UPI) — The State Civil Service Commission has reprimanded a high-ranking state highway official because of criticism resulting from a Highway Department investigation.

Frederick Tripp, former deputy director for administration, will have his $23,657 salary slashed by $3,000 and reduced to a lower state classification, the commission said.

Tripp was criticized by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley in a report of an investigation of the Highway Department for conducting outside business activities without approval of his superiors and also obtaining a loan from the Highway Department Credit Union by having some of his subordinates act as co-signers.

Tripp, who was demoted from his position as chief of personnel, finance, procurement, equipment and management services, is expected to appeal the commission's decision.

He was named manager for internal services without any responsibility for personnel, finance or other functions he formerly supervised.

"The State Highway Department has reorganized its executive operation and in so doing has substantially reduced the responsibility of Frederick Tripp," the commission said in a statement.

Attack on U. S. Embassy in Saigon

It Was a Battle for Survival

SAIGON (AP) — For the handful of Americans inside the glossy white U.S. Embassy, the fight that began at 2:54 a.m. today was one of survival.

The 19 Vietcong commandos who blasted their way through the embassy's ornate concrete outside wall with explosive charges made it clear early on that day they intended to stay until they were killed, and to take as many Americans with them as they could.

★ ★ ★

For the young soldiers of the 716th Military Police Battalion, crawling along the exposed gutters and sidewalks toward the besieged embassy, the mission was to clean out the enemy before he could get inside the building.

Unlike Americans fighting in the countryside, they did not have the help of fighter-bombers and artillery. They had to do the job themselves.

WELL PLANNED

The Vietcong planned the embassy attack well, a trademark of the C10 sapper battalion that over the years has attacked a number of important Saigon buildings.

They dressed some of their commandos in the black pajamas of the Vietnamese peasant, others in the white shirts of the Saigon white collar worker. All carried perfectly forged curfew passes.

★ ★ ★

When the attack began, those in white shirts fastened the top button as a mark of identification. Those in peasant garb pulled red arm bands up their sleeves.

They were believed to have gathered near the embassy in taxis, by sampan down the nearby Saigon River, and on foot.

CRASHING DOWN

At the designated time, enemy mortars and rockets began crashing down on the capital groggily sleeping off celebrations of the lunar new year.

★ ★ ★

The Communists commandos sprinted down the wide tree-lined boulevard, dodging from trunk to trunk. The Vietnamese guards outside the embassy were crouched down to avoid the incoming shells. The Vietcong laid the charge in an instant. The loud explosion blew in the northern corner of the embassy outer wall and they were inside.

★ ★ ★

Rockets, fired from across the road, tore four jagged holes in the concrete lattice-work facade of the building. Bullets pinked the scalloped portico.

One Marine guard in the embassy fell dead and seven others were wounded. Two Vietnamese embassy drivers were cut down by bullets.

SEARCHED IN DARKNESS

The Vietcong meanwhile, searched in darkness for another entrance to the building. The cherrywood doors of the main entrance, although battered by rockets and grenades, held fast.

One part of the Vietcong force was trying to hold off the American relief troops with grenades and small arms fire while the other part looked for a good place to plant explosives.

★ ★ ★

Pfc. Paul Healey of Holbrook Mass., called from his U.S. military police patrol, was crawling up near the outer wall. He lost one buddy killed, then another, and he was pinned down.

Other military police had scaled an apartment house opposite the embassy and their heavy fire into the embassy garden cut down some of the sappers.

URGENT CALL

Maj. Hillel Schwartz, 33, of Tacoma, Wash., newly arrived in Vietnam, was called urgently to his field radio and told his first helicopter assult in Vietnam would be against his own embassy.

Dawn was breaking in Saigon. The moan of ambulance sirens shivered through a city well aware that an enemy was within its midst and fighting.

★ ★ ★

Crouched outside the embassy, Healey and a score of others were quietly given the order to move.

"My job was to open the front gate and get inside," Healey said. He slammed against it with his shoulder and he was inside, sprawled on the dewy grass.

POURED OUT

As grenades and automatic weapons fire poured out at Healey and his buddies, they presumed that the Vietcong had occupied the lower floors of the embassy building. Not so, a soldier said later: "They tried to get in, they nearly got in. But in the end they did not make it."

By 8 a.m. the military policemen had cautiously occupied the 30-foot wide lawn between the embassy building and the outside fence and were preparing to enter the building. They believed some guerrillas might be hiding in the basement. Fifteen enemy bodies were sprawled on the ground.

★ ★ ★

From the first chopper, Schwartz and six other paratroopers leaped to the roof. Eight seconds later the helicopter was gone and another was hovering in. It was a perfect assault in the most unusual circumstances of the war, but too late for the kill. Moving down through the six-story structure, the paratroopers found no resistance.

The battle for the embassy was over.

Burglars Hit 2 Area Firms, Take Change

Burglars gained entry to two northern Oakland County business establishments and escaped with an undetermined amount of money, Pontiac Police learned yesterday.

★ ★ ★

The burglaries occurred at the Four Seasons Inn at 10197 Dixie, Springfield Township, and the Waterford Hill Country Club, 6633 Dixie, Independence Township.

Entry to the Four Seasons Inn was gained by raising windows, police said. Change was taken from a cigarette machine.

The intruders broke a window pane on a side door to gain entry to the country club. Money was taken from a jukebox, police said.

★ ★ ★

The possible theft of several cases of whisky from the club also is being investigated.

Kelley Fights Halt to U. P. Rail Line

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has filed a brief with the Interstate Commerce Commission opposing a proposal to abandon a passenger train rout in the western Upper Peninsula.

★ ★ ★

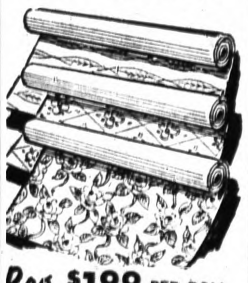

The Milwaukee and Soo Line railroads have asked the commission for permission to abandon the Copper County Ltd. from Milwaukee, Wis., through Green Bay, Iron Mountain, Champion and Houghton-Hancock, to Calumet.

★ ★ ★

Kelley said this is the last passenger train serving the Upper Peninsula west of Ishpeming. He said there is no other reasonable public transportation available to those served by the train.

Navy to Build King-Size Amphibious Assault Vessels

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy plans to build nearly $1 billion worth of battleship-size amphibious assault vessels to carry Marines, helicopters and landing craft to combat areas.

The new ships, designated LHAs, would vastly streamline Marine over-the-beach and encirclement tactics by combining features of four specialized Navy vessels. They would be more than twice the length of a football field.

Industry proposals for the first of several LHAs to cost about $123 million each were submitted to the Navy late last week for evaluation, officials said Tuesday. The Navy will pick the winning design within four months, these sources said.

The fiscal 1969 defense budget unveiled Monday provides the money for one LHA, and other funds will be laid out next year for three more.

The Navy hopes for four or five beyond those.

Although the exact configuration is still being ironed out, the amphibious assault ship would displace about 40,000 tons, extend about 700 feet and measure 100 feet or so across the beam —narrow enough to go through the Panama Canal.

By comparison, the battleship New Jersey, being reactivited for the Vietnam war, is 45,000 tons, 887 feet and 108 feet at the beam.

The LHA could carry at least a Marine battalion landing team of 1,800 men, their necessary supporting equipment, 30 or so helicopters, tanks, other vehicles and several landing boats.

French Convinced Sub Crew Is Dead

TOULON, France (UPI) — The French navy searched only for the dead hulk of the submarine Minerve today. Naval spokesmen said they were convinced all of the missing sub's 52 crewmen were lost.

Hopes were almost as slim at the opposite end of the Mediterranean where Israeli officials reported "nothing significant" in their search for the submarine Dakar, missing since Thursday with a crew of 69.

Radio signals, believed to have come from emergency buoys released by the Dakar, were heard Monday. But officials said the signals were not heard again yesterday and there has been no trace of the buoys themselves.

Cmdr. Emile Beaufort, spokesman at French naval search headquarters, said yesterday it was impossible for the Minerve to be located, fed with oxygen or raised before its emergency air supply ran out.

He said the sub could have, at most, enough air to last only through part of today.

FEARED DEAD

Veteran French submariners feared the men have been dead since the Minerve was first reported missing Saturday. They said the 1,040-ton vessel may have been crushed by the pressure of the water in deep trenches off the sub base at Toulon. The Minerve was on a routine cruise off Toulon when it disappeared.

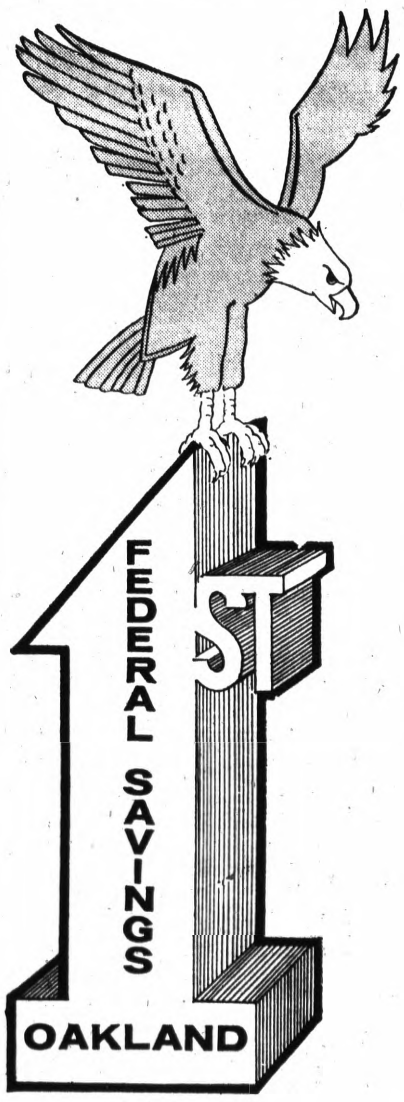

The Minerve's hull would collapse at a depth of 1,700 feet, officials said, and some of the trenches in the search area are 8,200 feet deep.

The searchers' hopes were raised briefly when a sonar device detected the ping of a metal object in an area where the sea bottom was 400 feet. A check revealed the object was an old, unidentified wreck.

The 25-year-old Dakar, which disappeared while en route to Haifa after extensive refitting operations in England, was the object of a search involving units from the United States, Britain, Turkey, Greece and Israel.

Scattered oil patches were photographed off Cyprus where the sub sent its last report, but a navy spokesman said such patches were normal in the mediterranean.

The Israeli government said yesterday that the Dolphin, a newly purchased sister ship to the Dakar, would arrive today in Hafia. The Dolphin has also undergone hull modifications in England and took part in the Dakar search during the homeward journey.

Ghetto Gang Showing Talents

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "We don't want to keep this to ourselves," said Ed Byrd, 18. "We want to show others the right way, too."

Leon Dunning, 15, said: "We're trying to show we can do something creative."

★ ★ ★

Then Ed, Leon and several other members of the Blackstone Rangers, a Chicago teen-age Negro group notorious for gang fights, filed onstage and taped a stirring singing performance for the Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour.

★ ★ ★

Dick Smothers introduced them as "an example of what can be accomplished by the young people living in the ghetto areas of our big cities."

INSTRUMENTALISTS

Four of the 37 performers are instrumentalists. Some dance as well as sing. About half are girls — not members of the gang. The boys represent a cultural flowering of kid gangs that started getting into scrapes about 1957 around Blackstone Avenue in Chicago's Woodlawn area on the South Side. What kind of scrapes?

"The normal things that gangs get into — fights, holdups, the same thing you see in the movies," said the performers' manager, Craig Campfield, 23.

"Police named them the Blackstone Raiders. Later the kids changed it to Blackstone Rangers. There are about 3,000. Now they're a youth organization, interested in civic affairs and a constructive life."

★ ★ ★

But a Chicago news dispatch on the very day of the taping quoted a prosecutor as saying two members of the Blackstone Rangers, one 14 and the other 16, had been charged with murder in two separate killings.

SONGWRITERS CREDITED

Campfield credits songwriter-playwright Oscar Brown Jr. with getting the performers started.

★ ★ ★

"He auditioned Rangers, school dropouts and kids who just lived in the area," said Campfield. "He decided he'd start a program to train and showcase talent that had been locked up in the ghetto."

★ ★ ★

The first show, a revue called "Opportunity Please Knock," opened to full houses and standing ovations and ran for 15 weeks in Woodlawn's First Presbyterian church.

★ ★ ★

Performances followed in two Chicago hotels and, with Harry Belafonte, in a Gary, Ind., auditorium. Borrowing funds from the Chicago Urban League, the Rangers came to Los Angeles last August to entertain at the Watts Festival in that riot-scarred area.

IMPRESSIVE

On the same trip, they played at West Hollywood's Lytton Center. Some of the movie crowd saw them and were impressed.

★ ★ ★

"We decided they'd have to be on national television to tell their story," says Mrs. Ben Benjamin, an agent's wife. The Smothers booking and several in the San Francisco Bay area followed.

★ ★ ★

Sparkplugged by Chicago Sun-Times columnist Irv Kupcinet, a fund was raised to fly the Rangers to California. Contributors ranged from the Playboy clubs to the United Auto Workers and the Greater Chicago Association of Pawnbrokers.

★ ★ ★

Manager Campfield hopes to take the Rangers to Europe during next summer's school vacation. "Their educational background is not the best," he said.

'ANOTHER OUTLOOK'

"If exposed to another culture, they can have another outlook."

The Blackstone Rangers' ultimate goal?

"To the top," he said.

Widow, 70, Is Foster Grandma

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Florence Hepp, 70, a widow for 14 years with limited means, is one of 34 foster grandparents employed by the Commission for Senior Citizens to tend metally retarded children.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Hepp's charge is Valerie, 8, who has lived more than half her life in the Illinois State Pediatric Institute, a facility that cares for mentally retarded children.

Grandparents program, composed of men and women over 60 years of age, earn less than $1,500 annually. This income is supplemented by enabling them to work 20 hours a week for pay at the rate of $1.40 an hour.

The grandparents' role is to provide institutionalized children, dependent-neglected children or any children with contact with an older adult. Most are assigned two children.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Hepp is pleased that Valerie has begun to smile when she sees her.

Kent County Eyes Single Police Setup

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Consolidation of all police departments in Kent County into a single system is being recommended by Leonard Anderson, chairman of the Kent County supervisors.

Anderson, who made the suggestion to the county's safety committee, urged a study get under way soon and pointed out that the cost of maintaining a sheriff's department has tripled in the past 10 years.

He added he was not necessarily advocating consolidation under the Grand Rapids Police Department, although it was understood this would be a matter for consideration by the committee.

College Head Resigns Post

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Msgr. Arthur F. Bukowski announced Tuesday his resignation as president of Aquinas College, effective Feb. 1, 1969, to enter the missionary field.

He has been president of the Roman Catholic college nearly 35 years.

A native of Bay City, Father Bukowski, 62, graduated from St. Joseph Seminary in Grand Rapids and Catholic University of America at Washington, D.C.

Today's Woman

Artist Avoids Monotony

By YOLANDA BENAVIDES

With the annual art show at The Pontiac Mall just around the corner, you won't find 89-year-old Mrs. Charles Kerr biding her time.

Seeing her at her work table with a large supply of sea shells spread out before her, you might imagine her more at ease with knitting needles. Not so.

★ ★ ★

A spritely senior citizen who likes to avoid the "monotonous," she specializes in working with the unusual: using melon seeds, grain stalks or maybe pepper pods to create unique mosaics.

★ ★ ★

Even then, she seldom limits herself to the same materials.

Tops from poppies, oats, peas, beans, and assorted seeds, including apple and cucumber, are just a sample of the varied items she works with.

★ ★ ★

An active participant in the Mall show for the past six years, her first project was entered through a senior citizen's group.

After that she was on her own.

★ ★ ★

"Now I'd hate to miss a year," she says. "Part of the fun is meeting so many people, and I've made a lot of friends, too.

'NOT WORK'

"Of course it's nice to be doing something that you don't think is work," laughed Mrs. Kerr.

"I can't paint, couldn't draw a straight line if I wanted to," she mused, "but its just as much fun making something from nothing."

★ ★ ★

Starting from scratch seems to be the key word when she's at her best, which includes trying a talented hand at another favorite pasttime, making hooked rugs. She's made 80.

Two of her late husband's favorites, each a picturesque home setting, decorate her living room walls.

★ ★ ★

A native of England, Mrs. Kerr came to the United States in 1912 looking for work.

From a family numbering 16, she was only one of four to venture to this country.

She moved to Pontiac after a whirlwind six-month courtship with Charles Kerr, whom she met while working in Bloomfield Hills.

★ ★ ★

"Because of the war, clergymen were scarce and they were only available on Sunday mornings so we contacted a friend and he arranged a small ceremony right here at home," she said.

SETTLED

"When I first saw this house, which was the only one on the block then with just a dirt path in front, I knew it was the one for me."

★ ★ ★

Pontiac seemed to appeal to Mrs. Kerr's liking too as she's been a resident here for 50 years come June.

Should Guest Be Called on for a Speech?

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it in good taste for one of the hostesses at a tea to call upon the person in whose honor the tea is given and request a speech? I have been under the impression that the honor guest made it a point to visit a short time with each of the guests and thank them, and that she personally thanked, in private, the one in whose home the tea was held. And if there were more than one hostess, or it were a club group, she thanked each individually and later sent a written thank you to the group's secretary.

Recently some groups when giving a tea have called upon the honor guest to say something. This is intended to give her the opportunity to thank the guests and hostesses openly. It seems in poor taste to me, but if I'm wrong, I certainly want to be corrected. — Mrs. A. Johnson.

Dear Mrs. Johnson: Your description of proper procedure for the guest of honor at a tea is absolutely correct. Unless it is an official affair and the guest of honor has been asked in advance to say a few words, she should not be called upon.

In theory, at least, everything is done for her enjoyment and comfort, and few people like to be called on to speak unexpectedly, even though the intention is to make their obligations simpler.

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister-in-law is being married in May and has asked me to be in the wedding party. She lives out of state and will not be able to be home until just a few days before the wedding; and then she and her bridegroom will return immediately to that state.

I'm the only one in the party who lives in her home town. Would it be appropriate to give a shower for her in her absence, and in the course of the evening to call her and surprise her and let all the guests talk to her?—Beverly

Dear Beverly: This is one of those "exceptions that prove the rule." Under the circumstances you describe, you would be quite justified in arranging a shower. And what a lovely surprise she will have when you call! Let her know you'll be calling, but not the reason, so she will surely be home!

Independence Must Be 'Earned'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our 18-year-old daughter has graduated from high school and has steady employment, so now she says she can do as she pleases. She is living at home, but she doesn't care what anybody thinks about her actions.

ABBY

Her "old-fashioned" parents want to know if we have the right to set some rules for her. We have asked her to be home by 1 a.m. when she goes out on a date. (She's been coming home anywhere from 2 a.m. until 4:30.) When we object to her going to her boy friend's bachelor apartment to watch TV for an evening she says we have "dirty minds."

She tells us if we don't "get off her back" she will move out and rent with girl friends. Of course she is trying to assert her independence, but we think she's overdoing it. Please give us bewildered parents some guidelines.

BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: Tell your daughter to sit down with a pencil and paper and figure out exactly how "independent" she is.

Advise her that when she is able to support herself entirely — and that means pay for her room, board, clothes, transportation, entertainment, travel, doctor, dentist, and insurance, then she may live where she chooses, and by her own rules. But as long as she lives with you, she will have to live by yours.

DEAR ABBY: This will amuse you, I'm sure: The other evening I was in the company of an elderly couple I have known for over 50 years. The subject of your column came up and the lady remarked that she doubted very much if all those letters in your column were "real." And the gentleman agreed that you surely must make them up yourself because people couldn't be that "peculiar."

Briefly, here is the background of this couple: They are not married, but have been engaged for 49 years! They have traveled all over the world together, she as "Miss" and he as "Mr." They are both independently wealthy and neither has ever been married. I once had nerve enough to ask her why they never got married. She replied, "If I married him today, he would ask for a divorce tomorrow. A man needs his freedom."

This lady is past 80, seems completely fulfilled, and she walks five miles to her stockbroker every day.

J. B. (AMSTERDAM, Holland)

DEAR J. B.: Thank you for writing. (Could your friends have originated "The Dutch Treat?")

DEAR ABBY: You are my last and final resort. I just don't know which way to turn.

I had been in Vietnam for six months when I lost my eyesight in an explosion. I was recently shipped home with an honorable discharge. In February I will be 22.

My problem is my girl friend. Before I joined the Marines we were getting pretty serious, and I told myself that if I came home I would ask her to marry me. Then this happened.

I still love her very much, and she says she still loves me, but how can I be sure she isn't just saying it because she doesn't want to hurt me? Abby, I wouldn't want her to marry me out of pity. How can I be sure? Should I ask her to be my wife?

STILL LOVES HER

DEAR STILL: Love is usually a two-way street. Ask her!

For the ceremony in St. Hugo of the Hills Church, the bride was attired in a Bianchi gown of ivory peau d'ange, fashioned with scoop neckline and accented with pearl and crystal embroidery on the bodice and flared sleeves.

Similar embroidery accented the pill box which capped her fingertip veil. She carried white roses and ivy. A chapel train completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Rush Wilson was matron of honor for her sister, with bridesmaids Edith Rosaen and Patricia Little.

Denis Kasten served as best man with Rush Wilson III and Louis des Rosier as ushers.

s-s-h-h . . . House of Bedrooms has lots of Grand Opening buys that are real sleepers.

Don't let the $110 savings on this set throw you. We'll probably raise the price next week.

After all, it's our Grand Opening and we have a right to do grand things so everyone will know about us. That's why we chose this natural oak finish bedroom as an advertising feature. Of course, with 114 bedrooms in our store we have a problem in choosing which ones to put in the paper. We think they're all grand and this one is no exception. It has a 9-drawer plus 2-door dresser, a 6-drawer plus 2-door chest, a framed mirror, and a headboard and frame. It's another better bedroom buy so maybe you'd better come see it. Later on it will cost $609.00. Right now: $499.

Admission Silences Critics

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: My husand is an only child. Since his father's death two years ago, his mother is at him all the time for neglecting her. Though we spend as much time with her as we can, it is never enough.

As soon as the time comes to say goodby, she starts to complain about how lonely she'll be till he sees her again. He is so upset after seeing her he can't sleep. Mrs. Lawrence, he is a good son but she's out to make him feel like a bad one . ..

ANSWER: Then he'd better decide to be a bad one, because the only way of shutting off her flow of criticism is cheerful agreement with it.

Accusing people like her feel themselves to be quite worthless. So they've got to make us feel worthless, too. That's what makes it a waste of time to even try to defend ourselves against their fault-finding.

The fact is, the more nervously we try to defend ourselves, the happier they are. For in our nervous self-defense, they read our desire for their approval of us as good, right and generally virtuous creatures. But if we cheerfully agree that we are as bad and wrong as they say we are, their accusations fall flat.

I know that such cheerful agreement with a critical relative can turn off the flow of reproaches because I've used it myself to do it.

The relative was not my mother but a sister of hers. For this aunt I could do nothing right. I could utter no opinion that wan't instantly contradicted. And for some time I tried to deal with this compulsive accuser by "explaining" how good had been my intentions and how I merited her moral approval.

Then, one day, when I'd been told how bad and wrong was something I'd done, I said, "You are undoubtedly correct. I do everything wrong. What's more, I am going to continue to. So now let's settle for me as an unregenerate person whom you cannot improve."

That ended the criticism. It replaced my accuser's desire to make me feel worthless with fear of me as a moral stranger.

And that is the point, you see. So long as these compulsive critics of our are sude that we share their standards of rightness and goodness, they can terrorize us with accusations of how badly we've failed to live up to them. Indeed, they derive their whole power from the fact that we share their moral notions.

African Art Shown at OU

On Monday, Oakland University will open a major collection of primitive African sculpture donated to the University by former Governor G. Mennen Williams.

The exhibition features about 50 of more than 200 works given to the University last summer. Williams collected the carvings during his tenure as Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

The collection has been added to the OU Art Gallery's already established permanent collections which concentrate on primitive and contemporary art. The former governor's gift represents mainly the art of West Africa, a vast territory of peoples and nations between the western Sudan on the north and Nigeria to the south.

The exhibit, which will continue through March 3, will be open from 12:30 to 4:30 and 7 to 8:30 p.m. daily Tuesday through Sunday. It will be closed on Monday except for the opening date. The Gallery is located on the main floor of Matilda R. Wilson Hall.

AFRICAN SCULPTURE

Venison Roasting

Place a large square of bacon rind the fat side down over a venison roast during the last hour of cooking. This makes the venison much tastier, for it adds needed fat and moisture.

Former Governor G. Mennen Williams (right) shows Oakland University Chancellor D. B. Varner a secret society mask included in a major collection of African art that Williams recently gave to the University. The first exhibit of the works will open at the OU Art Gallery in Matilda R. Wilson Hall on Monday.

Crayon Scribbles Need Extra Care

During time out from watching television, youngsters still scribble on walls and their clothing with crayons. To remove crayon stain, first loosen it with kitchen shortening, then apply a detergent on the stain and work until the outline of the stain is removed.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Q. I am 18 years old and have a good figure except for a slightly bulging abdomen. I am not overweight. I had an appendectomy a few years ago, and my friends say that is why. What do you think?

A. I do not imagine that your operation had anything to do with it except that when you were inactive, you may have formed the habit of allowing your abdominal muscles to protrude. When allowed to do this, they become lax and weakened.

I suggest that you take some exercises for your abdominal muscles. Also, be careful about your posture. Try to remember to lift your rib cage and pull your abdomen in.

Q. I am 45 years old. Is it too late to increase my bust measurement?

A. No.

Q. Someone told me that my legs would become larger if I would rub olive oil on them every day. Is this true?

A. No. This habit will make your legs nice and smooth, but it will not enlarge them.

Q. When I am dieting, it helps me to chew gum. I chew it almost all day long. Is this okay?

A. Chewing gum once in a while might help. It is sort of like smoking in that it is a mechanical habit. The reason people often gain weight when they stop smoking is that they reach for a cookie or candy instead of a cigarette.

The same principle might apply to gum chewing. However, I do not recommend chewing it as much as you do.

Q. Who is a bone doctor? I have a curvature of the spine and want to see a specialist. How do I look one up and what title shall I use when asking about one?

A. The physician who is a bone specialist is called an orthopedic physician. In order to locate one ask your family doctor to recommend one or call your local hospital and ask them to give you the name of one on their staff.

These are the procedures when locating a well qualified specialist in any field. If you are locating a family physician use one of the last two methods.

If you are moving to a new place, it is a good idea to ask your present doctor to locate a well qualified physician in the locality to which you are moving.

Stress Cleanliness

For the benefit of women who cannot consult him personally, world-famous Mr. Kenneth offers this advice on how to look their best: The most important rule is to be clean. Many people have dirty hair and dirty skin as a major problem, so the first rule is certainly cleanliness.

Flower Talk

FLOWER ART

The finest flower arrangers in the world are said to be the Japanese. To them flower arranging is an art — equal to music and painting.

The word they have for the art is "Ikebana," and it means "Living Flowers." Ikebana is taught in that country by private masters, and also in their schools—and is said to date back to the 15th century.

We have been trained in the art of flower arranging, and we take great pride in the lovely arrangements we send from our shop. For that special occasion, call us at FE 2-0127.

Career Opens in Aerospace

Lt. Colonel Lawrence E. Stephens, Commander of Air Force Recruiting activities in Michigan, announced today that the Air Force has numerous job vacancies for women on the Aerospace team.

Col. Stephens said "Now, is the time, for women to investigate the opportunities for women in the Air Force. Women who are college graduates are needed to fill officer vacancies created by pilots and navigators being returned to full time flying duty.

"Vacancies exist in the personnel, scientific, intelligence, administrative, and education officer programs, as well as many others."

When asked about the opportunities for a girl who isn't a college graduate, he replied "the WAF program is available for these young ladies. They work side by side with their enlisted male counterparts in such career fields as medical and dental technicians, communications, supply, and accounting and finance, to name just a few."

★ ★ ★

Col. Stephens continued, "Above all, don't forget the nurse program. Qualified registered nurses are given direct commissions as 2nd or 1st Lieutenants, or possibly Captain, depending on their education and experience. Nurses are needed at Air Force hospitals throughout the world to care for the sick and wounded."

Any women interested in becoming a member of the Aerospace Team and contributing her part to her nations' defense, may contact their nearest Air Force Recruiting Representative, 33 East Huron.

Empire Gown Is Selected for Nuptials

St. Michael's Catholic Church was the setting recently for the marriage of Karolyn Anne Ingersoll and Richard James Hagerman.

The bride chose an Empire gown of peau de soie with wrist-pointed sleeves and bodice of lace appliques. Her shoulder-length veil of silk illusion was secured by an embroidered petal headpiece of mock orange blossoms. A chapel train completed her ensemble.

ATTENDANTS

Karen Ingersoll was maid of honor with Larry Newton as best man. Ushers were David and Jeffrey Ingersoll, the bride's brothers.

Parents of the couple are the Clarence H. Ingersolls of Snow Apple Drive, Independence Township, and the Clarence A. Hagermans of Leota Drive.

A reception in the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony, after which the couple left for a honeymoon in northern Michigan.

Make Table of Door

DEAR POLLY — A useless door between two rooms can be made very useful. We took our kitchen door off and cut it down to an appropriate size for a table top in the family room. Left-over floor tiles were glued on. We bought four legs, attached them and now our old door is a lovely coffee table that is great for foot resting and sturdy enough to sit on. — DEBBIE

DEAR POLLY — I could not find a terry bath mat to use with my new decorative bath towels so I bought two more and now have a much larger mat in the color and design desired. This also solved the problem of what to put on the towel rack over the tub.

Towels could not be left there when showering, so now the mat hangs there when not in use and adds the desired color. When extra towels would be getting damp from the shower mist the mat is in use on the floor. — EDNA

DEAR POLLY — I do hope some of the readers have some suggestions for a headboard for our full-sized bed. It is a Hollywood style, on casters. We have been unable to find any style or color to match without the expense of buying it at a furniture store. We tried four chair backs fastened together (from a rummage sale) but the wood cracked from too much bracing.—D.A.S.

DEAR POLLY—Shortly after my baby was born I had an operation and could not carry him around, so I removed the top tray from a kitchen hostess cart and placed a baby bathtub in the frame. A baby carrier was then put in the tub.

With the baby securely fastened in the carrier, I was able to push him from room to room and also right up to the kitchen sink, where I could fill the tub and bathe him without any lifting. This is much easier than trying to push the play pen around, and he can be in sight no matter what I am doing.—MRS. T

First Son for Carlos, Sophie

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Princess Sophie of Greece, wife of Spanish Prince Juan Carlos, gave birth Tuesday to a boy. He is their third child.

★ ★ ★

The couple have two daughters — four and two.

They were married in Athens May 14, 1962. Princess Sophie is the eldest sister of King Constantine.

★ ★ ★

Prince Juan Carlos is a grandson of the last Spanish king, the late Alfonso XIII, and a son of the Count of Barcelona, pretender to the Spanish throne.

Juan Carlos is seen by many as Gen. Francisco Franco's choice for the throne if the monarchy is restored in Spain.

★ ★ ★

Franco was said to have been one of the first to extend the couple his congratulations. Doctors said the baby and the mother were doing well.

★ ★ ★

Greece's Queen Mother Frederika and her daughter Princess Irene were at the Nuestra Senora de Loreto Clinic when the baby was born.

★ ★ ★

Practice Speech

Poor articulation or slurring words so that whole sentences run together is the fault of a lazy mouth. To test your own enunciation, hold a match-stick in your teeth the next time you phone your best friend. Can she tell it's there? If so, you need practice.

Terrariums Made by WNFGA Unit

At a recent meeting of Cranbrook branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, members constructed terrariums under the tutelage of Mrs. P. N. Askounes.

The meeting was held in the Bloomfield Hills home of Mrs. Charles Pfister.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Walter Kukleman will open her Cranbrook Road home for a meeting Monday. A prevalentine sandwich luncheon will precede a demonstration in the principles of Japanese flower arranging known as Ikebana.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Earle S. MacPherson will be assisted by Mesdames Glenn S. Glass, Ben F. Glowacki, Jesse P. Judd and R. N. Stack.

Force Is Unlikely as U.S. Seeks Safe Return of Pueblo Crew

NEWS ANALYSIS
By MILTON R. BENJAMIN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — This country's overriding interest in getting the captured crewmen of the USS Pueblo back unharmed appears to have ruled out military action against North Korea.

While the Johnson administration cannot handcuff itself in diplomatic negotiations by eliminating the ultimate possibility of military force, no serious consideration is being given such a step at this time.

Bluntly stated, the primary objective of the United States is to obtain the release of the men.

Officially, the United States will continue to demand the return of the intelligence ship as well. But from a strategic standpoint, the Pueblo is no longer of much value.

★ ★ ★

Any secrets that were not destroyed when the "destruct button" was pressed have long since fallen into Communist hands.

ONE DEAD

But the Americans who were aboard the ship are another matter. There already are unconfirmed reports that one of the 83 has died, and the government is anxious to get the others back unharmed.

It may be weeks — perhaps even months — before the men are freed. It took the United States 21 months to obtain the release of U2 spy pilot Francis Gary Powers. More than six months went by before Russia returned the two crewmen of an RB47 reconnaissance bomber shot down near Soviet borders in 1960.

North Korea can — and probably will — keep the Pueblo to emphasize its allegations that the ship violated its territorial waters.

★ ★ ★

But U.S. officials are hopeful that after North Korea has gleaned every bit of intelligence it can from the crewmen — and reaped maximum propaganda mileage from forced confessions — it will free the men as "unwitting tools of the American aggressors."

WAVE OF INDIGNATION

When the United States learned nine days ago that a third-rate power had hijacked one of its ships on the high seas, a wave of indignation swept the country.

On Capitol Hill, Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, suggested that the United States send a naval task force into Wonsan Harbor to "throw a towline around the Pueblo and pull it out."

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee urged President Johnson to give North Korea an ultimatum: "Return the Pueblo within 24 hours or one of your cities will disappear."

★ ★ ★

As the hours went by and North Korea showed no disposition to give up her prize, it began to look to millions of Americans that the world might once again be on the brink of a major military confrontation in Korea.

MILITARY PREPARATIONS

The aircraft carrier Enterprise, with 100 planes on its decks, led a naval task force onto station off the Korean coast. Two squadrons of jets were flown from Okinawa to South Korean airfields. The President called 14,787 Air Force and Navy air reservists to active duty.

Then Friday afternoon, Presient Johnson made a sudden appearance on nationwide television. His statement was brief and ominous. "Clearly," he said, "this cannot be accepted."

But though the threat of force was implicit in the movement of the Enterprise into Korean waters, though the possibility of military intervention was hinted in the call-up of the reserves, there were no heavy-handed threats.

★ ★ ★

U.S. officials have emphasized throughout that the United States is placing its principal hope of obtaining the return of the crewmen in diplomatic efforts. There really was no other choice.

MILITARY POSSIBILITY

The most obvious of the military possibilities following the capture of the Pueblo was an air or sea attack on Wonsan Harbor. A coordinated attack including the landing of paratroops and amphibious forces almost certainly would recover the ship in short order.

But as long as the crew of the Pueblo is known to be alive — and from all indications the men are being treated well — a raid on Wonsan is out of the question.

In power bargaining terms, North Korea has at least 82 hostages. Any U.S. military move might guarantee the death of these men. It might also trigger another Korean war, opening the second Asian front that U.S. military planners dread.

Even if it did not touch off a general Korean war, a U.S. attack on Wonsan could provoke the North Koreans into retaliating at any point along the 38th Parallel. Most of the 55,000 American troops in South Korea are stationed on the west side of the penninsula. Wonsan is on the east coast.

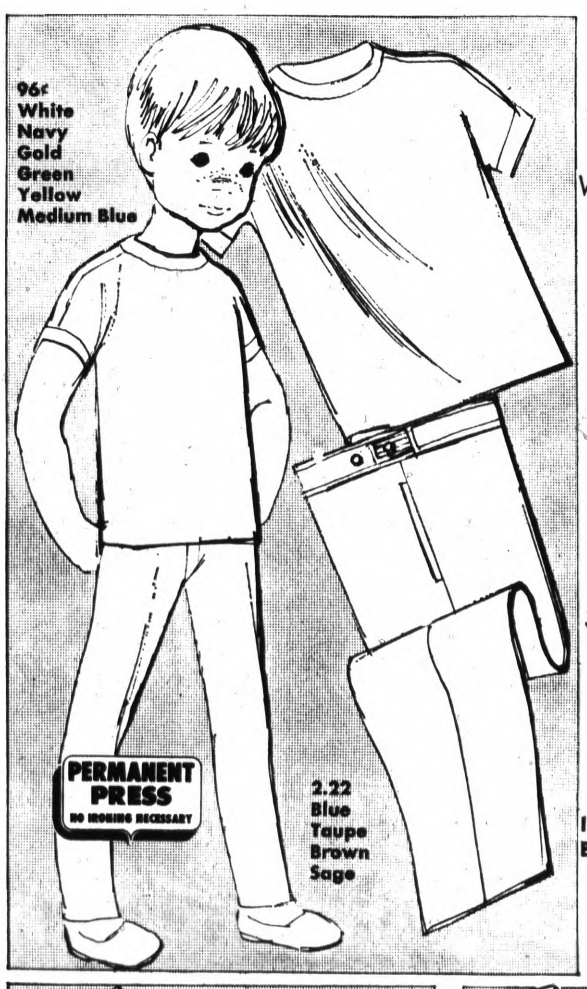

Another possibility no doubt considered by U.S.o fficials was to capture an equal or greater number of North Korean sailors and hold them hostage until the Americans were returned.

To carry out this plan, the United States would have to violate North Korea's territorial waters, since that country's naval vessels have been staying close to shore.

Glare of Publicity Is Inescapable for Celebrated Heart Surgeon

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — The tall, lean heart surgeon hurried along the corridor toward the small lecture room where television cameras and newsmen were waiting for his daily news conference.

At the door he braced himself, trying to erase the tired lines from his face.

Then his face lit up with a smile of genuine pleasure. Waiting just inside the room were the wife and two daughters of probably his closest friend and colleagues,, Dr. Marthinus C. Botha.

Ignoring the newsmen, Dr. Christiaan N. Barnard knelt and hugged Tessa, 9, and Michelle, 7.

AROUND HIS NECK

The two girls threw their arms around his neck as he asked:

"Where have you been? I haven't seen you for ages."

He pointed to the polished table crowded with microphones on the far side of the room lit by the glare of television lights.

★ ★ ★

"I have to go over there and talk to these people," he said.

"But I'd much rather talk to you than any of them, Michelle. Will you come over and sit on my knee?"

Elizabeth Botha shook her head. It was enough that her immunologist husband had been caught up in the swirl of publicity that followed the world's first human heart transplant. She wanted herself and the children left out.

Barnard nodded understandingly. He hugged Tessa and Michelle again and wended his way through the crowd to the table. For him there is no escape.

The glare of publicity following the historic operation has changed Barnard's life forever.

No longer is he merely a respected heart surgeon known mainly by specialists in his own particular sphere. He is the man whose name has been splashed across the headlines of newspapers throughout the world, whose flashing smile has been seen by tens of millions on television.

He is a world celebrity. The mass circulation French newspaper France Soir named him man of the year. Time magazine did a cover story on him. The President of the United States entertained him at his Texas ranch.

Botha probably knows Chris Barnard better than any other man, with the possible exception of the surgeon's younger brother, Marius, who is also a surgeon in the heart transplant team. Botha and Barnard are second cousins, work side by side and often spend their holidays together.

"Has all this sudden fame had any effect on Chris?"

'NOT THE SORT'

Botha's brows furrowed in astonishment at the question.

"Of course not. You can see that, you meet him yourself very day at the press conference. He won't ever change. He's not the sort who does."

But fame and publicity have had their effect on Barnard in another way.

★ ★ ★

Visiting doctors, newsmen and civic authorities, wanting to congratulate him or bestow honors on him, take up hours of his day. People who have never met him want to shake his hand.

All sorts of clubs and organizations seek him as their guest. He is invited abroad to take part in televised discussion with other famous heart surgeons.

REGULAR WORK

On top of all this he has his regular work to do.

Among other things, he has to keep alive retired dentist Philip Blaiberg, the world's third human heart transplant patient. Before that there was Louis Washkansky, the first man in the world to have his heart replaced with another. He lived with it for 18 days.

Somehow Barnard manages to meet most of the requests. Somehow he manages to satisfy nearly all the exhausting demands on him. He is very conscientious.

Has his home life been disrupted?

'NOT REALLY'

"Not really," he says. "I can't take my daughter out water skiing any mone, but my friends take her out instead."

Daughter Deirdre, 17, is one of the world's half-dozen best women water skiers and Barnard has long been an enthusiast.

★ ★ ★

Does he still manage time to relax with his wife?

"Oh, yes."

But friends and colleagues tell a different story.

PHONE RINGS

Even when he is home his phone rings continually.

Barnard's wife, "Louwkie," is fed up.

"All I want now is to get back to normal living," she says.

She is sick of seeing her husband's face lined with tiredness. She is sick of having to attend endless functions with him. And she is sick of not being able to spend quiet uninterrupted evenings with him.

But until the human heart transplant loses its impact on the public, there will be no letup for Barnard. Wherever he goes, people will point cameras at him, seek his autograph and ask questions. Wherever he goes there will be interruptions. He has become public property.

Drug Muscles Worry Experts

LONDON (UPI) — Scientists are worried because of evidence young men are resorting to drugs to build up the mighty chests and bulging biceps that earlier generations earned the hard way by exercise alone.

The drug users of today still exercise, but medical scientists in the field of athletics now find a tendency to rely more on hormones, plus big meals bolstered with protein supplements, than on gymnasium workouts.

Dr. I. J. MacQueen, medical adviser to the Society of Amatuer Weight Lifters and the national Amatuer Body-Builders' Association, recently appealed in the British Medical Journal for recognition by doctors of the dangers of building muscles by drugs.

He noted that the same concern has been expressed by other researchers though the practice has continued to grow nevertheless.

"Unfortunately," said Dr. MacQueen, "My experience in weight lifting and body-building circles suggests that these drugs do, in fact, tend to augment muscle bulk in men who are concomitantly engaged in strength or body-building regimen of heavy exercise and at the same time are on a high food intake with protein supplements.

METHOD COPIED

"I write 'unfortunately' because the success of these athletes in increasing their muscle size by these means is being copied by more and more young men in the hope of finding an easy pathway to massive muscle size and strength."

★ ★ ★

He said a black market in the anabolic steroids seems to exist, particuarly in the United States. Athletes using them are theoretically barred from competing in Britain, but MacQueen said it is almost impossible to determine their use without an actual admission from the competitor.

State Water Standards Okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior Secretary Stewart Udall approved Tuesday the water quality standards submitted by Michigan.

Udall's action, on the eve of a four-state conference in Chicago on the pollution of Lake Michigan, brings to 15 the number of states which have obtained Interior Department approval of proposed standards for interstate waters.

★ ★ ★

All four of the Lake Michigan states agree with the federal government on standards. Illinois standards were also approved Tuesday. Wisconsin and Indiana standards were approved earlier.

★ ★ ★

Today's conference is aimed at a joint federal-state drive to clean up Lake Michigan and prevent the irreversible pollution that overtook Lake Erie.

TREATMENT

The Interior Department said the approved standards call for secondary treatment of waste discharges and require most municipalities and industry to complete the appropriate facilities within five years.

Udall, in a letter to Gov. George Romney of Michigan, said he would formally approve the state's standards as soon as he is notified that the state has adopted them.

★ ★ ★

In another development, Army Engineers told Illinois congressmen Tuesday they need help in finding a site on land to dump Indiana Harbor dredgings.

"If we don't find one," Lt. Col. Ferd Anderson told the congressmen, "Indiana Harbor will go undredged — which could be serious."

The only other alternative, he said, would be to resume dumping of the dredgings in Lake Michigan — a practice that was stopped last fall amid controversy over whether the dumpings pollute the lake.

Includes 5-Year Suspension

Senate OKs Drunk-Driver Bill

LANSING (AP) — A driver convicted three times for drunken driving within a two-year period would lose his license for five years under terms of a bill passed Tuesday by the State Senate.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Robert Richardson, R-Saginaw, passed 30-1 and was sent to the House after deletion of a portion of which several senators said they felt was too stringent.

Originally the bill provided for a five-year license suspension for any driver convicted three times within two years for drunken driving or reckless driving or any combination of the two.

Sen. John Bowman, D-Roseville, successfully offered an amendment deleting the reckless driving portion after several senators protested that while drunken driving convictions required positive proof of intoxication, reckless driving charges often were made at the discretion of an arresting officer.

★ ★ ★

However, the senators turned down an amendment offered by Sen. John McCauley, D-Wyandotte, which would have cut out the mandatory five-year suspension and left it up to a judge to determine whether the offender's license should be lifted.

Study of Accident Rates of Various Makes of Cars Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government announced Tuesday it will finance a study to determine for the first time the accident rates of various makes of automobiles.

The study also is to determine the effectiveness of federal auto safety standards. And officials said it may lead to determination of how long various cars remain serviceable.

The study, announced by the National Highway Safety Bureau, will involve analysis of all vehicles and drivers in highway crashes that occur this year in the state of New York.

The State Department of Motor Vehicles is to conduct the study for the government for about $290,000.

5 MODEL YEARS

Information will be assembled on cars of five model years — 1965 to 1969 — and of at least 13 domestic makes and 14 foreign makes.

Dr. William Haddon Jr., director of the bureau, said the information "is greatly needed as a basis for the emphasis, direction and content of the future vehicle safety standards and to provide information to consumers as to the safety of different vehicles."

Haddon added "it is also needed by manufacturers for improvement of their product."

The bureau said in a statement the decision to finance the precedent-setting study was made after Haddon sent a letter last October to all state governors, asking for all accident data they had by make and model. Haddon said there was no sufficiently detailed and reliable information of that type available.

DIFFERENT RATES?

But in Tuesday's statement, Haddon said, "Preliminary information indicates that different vehicles have greatly different crash and fatality rates."

Haddon said New York was picked for the study made because the state and its staff "have great past experience in analyzing crash data" and have the large computer data necessary for such a project.

Senate hearings will start Friday on the cost of automobile safety equipment.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., announced the hearings will be conducted by the executive reorganization subcommittee of which he is chairman.

BILL INTRODUCED

He introduced a bill last week to require auto companies to provide itemized costs of new safety equipment in motor vehicles sold to the government.

In doing so, Ribicoff said "The government has a right to know how much it is paying for safety, and this information will assist the public in determining whether the prices charged for safety features are fair and reasonable."

Industry critic Ralph Nader recently charged that the auto makers had raised prices more than necessary to cover the cost of shoulder harnesses now required in new cars by federal safety regulations.

Nader is among the witnesses listed for Friday. Others include Federal Highway Administrator Lowel IK. Bridwell, Dr. Haddon and other government officials.

Ribicoff said that representatives of the auto industry have been invited to testify at later hearings.

Meanwhile, Dr. Haddon urged a House Commerce subcommittee to approve limited exemption from auto safety laws for companies producing fewer than 500 vehicles a year.

British Move Seen Creating Gap in Asia

Britain's decision to pull out of all its bases in Asia except Hong Kong poses grave foreign problems, Congressman Jack McDonald, R-19th District, said today.

McDONALD

When the last British troops leave Singapore at the end of 1971, Australia will remain the only major Western ally in that entire region, he said.

Over the years the British presence in Asia has been of immense importance in achieving a certain amount of stability and in slowing the tide of Chinese communism, McDonald added. "It was Britain's long guerrilla war in Malaya that saved the baby republic of Malaysia from communism.

"With Britain leaving, this country must face the prospect of taking on additional burdens to assure peace in Southeast Asia. Happily, we have the strong assistance of our Australian friends, who are in the process of beefing up their air force with swing-wing F111 jets."

This change in the policing of Southeast Asia is going to require much serious thought by both Congress and the administration, said McDonald. "The American people have indicated a growing disenchantment with our role of policeman of the world."

★ ★ ★

McDonald said, "We may be asked to do more than our share. However, it would be prudent to consider this situation with cold reality.

★ ★ ★

"It would not be out of order for us to insist that those countries whose freedom is directly involved indicate a sincere desire to assume their share of the burden," he said.

Got Tax Refund for Birmingham, Legislator Says

LANSING (AP) — Rep. William Hampton, R - Bloomfield Hills, says he has talked the State Treasury out of some money.

★ ★ ★

Hampton said Treasurer Allison Green had agreed to refund to Birmingham $1,665 in motor fuel taxes the Treasury Department previously had refused to pay.

★ ★ ★

The money, to reimburse the city for gasoline taxes paid on fuel for city vehicles, was refused because the city sent copies of purchase invoices rather than the originals, which "had been either lost or destroyed," Hampton said.

Body Found Near Monroe

MONROE (AP)—The body of an Ohio girl was found Tuesday near Ottawa Lake. The body, its wrists and ankles bound, had been wrapped in a rug which was tied in a roll with lamp cord.

Authorities said the girl had been identified by her uncle, who gave her name as Eileen Marie Adams, 14, of Sylvania, a Toledo suburb.

★ ★ ★

The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Adams, had been missing since Dec. 18.

The body bore several head wounds, cause of which was not determined. Coroner Eli Allore ordered that an autopsy be performed.

Roy Knaggs, 27, of Ottawa Lake, told sheriff's deputies he found the body in the rug while hunting in a field near his home.

She's in Driver's Seat in License Office Row

CHARLEVOIX (UPI) — Mrs. Edna LaBlance may wind up collecting rent from the state office which fired her because she gave her husband a low car license number.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. LaBlance was informed Jan. 18 that she would be discharged as branch manager of the Secretary of State's office here effective today.

The secretary of state ordered her to surrender the car license number XZ-0001 which she gave to her husband George. But she refused to give up the number.

The secretary of state's office had directed all its branch managers not to issue "desirable" low license plate numbers to friends or relatives.

★ ★ ★

But the hitch now is that the branch office is located in the LaBlances' insurance building where the state has been paying no rent.

NO NOTICE

"I haven't heard from the state as to whether they are moving some place else or whether they want to stay here," Mrs. LaBlance said.

★ ★ ★

"As of today, however, we will start charging them rent at the rate of $100 per month if they want to stay in our building."

3 Right-Wingers Arrested in Detroit at Talk by Father Groppi

DETROIT (AP) — Three leaders of self-styled "anti-Communistic" groups were hauled to jail Tuesday night after they interrupted a speech by the Rev. James E. Groppi, Milwaukee civil rights leader, with boos, howls and cries of, "Go on home, you rat."

Most of the 2,500 members in the audience in the plush Ford auditorium in downtown Detroit remained silent as they watched helmeted police remove the three from their seats high in the balcony.

Father Groppi, a white Catholic priest and civil rights militant who has led Milwaukee's open housing demonstrations, had just begun his speech when their catcalls began.

A police inspector, Antonio Bertoni, had warned members of the right-wing organizations, Breakthrough and Counterthrust, to remain quiet until Father Groppi finished speaking.

'THAT'S ENOUGH'

"Get out of here, Groppi," shouted Donald Lobsinger, a city parks and recreation worker who heads up Breakthrough.

"That's enough," the inspector said as he ordered police, who assembled en masse at the auditorium, to take the three to jail. They were charged with disturbing a public meeting and were later released on $27.50 bond ach.

They were scheduled to appear in the city's Recorder's Court on the charges today. Maximum penalty for the misdemeanor is $500 fine and 90 days in jail.

★ ★ ★

Arrested were Lobsinger, Pat Tifer, a 21-year-old college student, head of Counterthrust, and Ed Kelly, Breakthrough's director of projects.

★ ★ ★

In his speech, sponsored by the Michigan Branch of the American Civil Liberties Union, Father Groppi told of his efforts to get open housing ordinances in Milwaukee.

Celebrate Chinese New Year With Oriental Type Food

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

No fooling! It's the Year of the Monkey. The Chinese New Year 4666 began yesterday. Celebrations will continue through Feb. 10.

This gives you the best excuse in the world to serve Chinese food.

Chicken is a favorite dish. This sweet sour version is made with a chicken gravy mix without any loss in flavor.

SWEET SOUR CHICKEN WITH ALMONDS

2 large chicken breasts
1 cup diagonally sliced celery
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
2 tablespoons butter
1 can (8-oz.) pineapple tidbits
1 envelope (1¼ oz.) chicken gravy mix
1 tablespoon vinegar
¼ cup toasted slivered almonds
Hot boiled rice

Remove raw chicken from bones; cut into bite-sized pieces. Brown chicken, celery, and onion slightly in butter.

Drain juice from pineapple saving both juice and chumks. Add enough water to pineapple juice to make 1 cup. Add juice, pineapple chunks, chicken gravy mix, and vinegar to chicken. Bring to a boil, stirring.

Cover and simmer 5 minutes. Serve, sprinkled with almonds, with hot boiled rice. 4 servings.

"Salted fish and green vegetables with rice are cause for contentment." So goes an old Chinese folk-saying. You can make it come true with this recipe for fish filets.

FILET OF FISH WITH VEGETABLES

1 pound fish filets sliced ¼ inch thick (Preferably rock cod or striped bass)
½ cup sliced dried onion
½ cup sliced celery
½ cup sliced bamboo shoots
½ cup sliced water chestnuts
½ cup sliced button mushrooms

In preheated "wok" or skillet, place:

2 tablespoons vegetable oil

Bring oil to sizzling point at high heat and add fish filets. Reduce to medium-high heat. Brown filets rapidly first on one side and then the other (no longer than 1 minute each side). Remove from pan and reserve.

In the same utensil, add 1 tablespoon vegetable oil. Bring to high heat and add sliced dried onion, celery, bamboo shoots, water chestnuts and button mushrooms.

Toss and turn 1 minute until all vegetables are well blended. Add:

⅓ cup chicken stock
½ Teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon soy sauce
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate

Cover and cook at high heat from about 5 minutes. Uncover. Add fish filets.

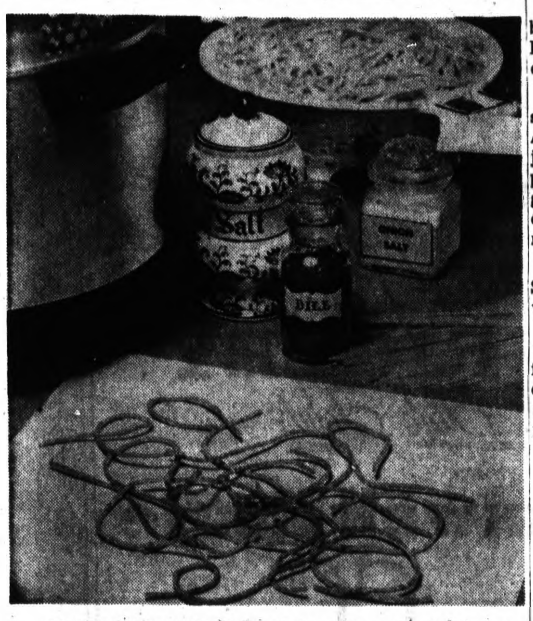

Make paste with 1 teaspoon water and teaspoon cornstarch. Toss and mix all ingredients gently until well mixed and sauce has thickened. Serve immediately with steamed rice. Serves 4.

Chinese Almond Cookies are a delightful dessert for any meal. They are simple to make.

CHINESE ALMOND COOKIES

1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon almond extract
2½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon water
Whole blanched almonds

Cream shortening; gradually add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Beat in egg, and almond extract. Gradually add sifted dry ingredients and water. Chill for about two hours. Form into balls 1-inch in diameter. Place on baking sheet and press down to ¼ inch thickness. Press almond into center of each. Bake at 350 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool. Makes 5 dozen.

SPAGHETTI "SNACK-A-RONI" — Deep-fat fried and sprinkled with dill weed or onion salt, spaghetti is a snack food, fun to make and fun to eat. The National Macaroni Institute, whose home economists developed the recipe, advise you to make a big batch — it's so good it will disappear fast!

SWEET SOUR CHICKEN — This Chinese-style dish is a good one to serve in honor of the Chinese New Year. With it serve rice, chilled kumquats and Chinese Almond cookies.

Fry Spaghetti Pieces for New Snack Food

Spaghetti has always been fun to eat, whether one can successfully twirl it on a fork in the Italian manner, or whether one needs a large spoon as a crutch in the American style.

It's especially fun for children who are permitted, at least once, to slowly draw a strand of spaghetti into the mouth, in the manner of a rabbit eating a blade of grass.

And now, the National Macaroni Institute has come up with a recipe for a truly "fun" food made from spaghetti, a snack which is both fun to make and fun to eat. It's a great idea for teen-age — and adult — get togethers. Your friends will rave about how clever you are, while they gobble up this unique Spaghetti "Snack-A-Roni."

Actually, you hardly need a recipe, the procedure is so simple, but here it is anyway for those who like the directions spelled out carefully.

Spaghetti "Snack-A-Roni"

1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
8 ounces spaghetti, broken in half
Hot salad oil for deep frying
Salt and dill weed

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add spaghetti so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water; drain again.

Separate pieces of spaghetti which may cling together and drop a few at a time into hot fat (375 degrees). Deep fry just enough at one time to cover bottom of fry basket or fryer. Fry about 3 minutes or until evenly and lightly browned. If necessary, separate spaghetti pieces while frying.

Spread on paper towels to drain. Sprinkle with salt and dill weed. (Or sprinkle with onion salt only.) Serve with choice of cold beverages.

WARNING: When you think you've made enough, make that much more. The appealing shapes, delightful crunch and tangy flavor are reasons why this unusual snack food will disappear quickly. If there's any leftover, store in a tightly covered container.

Use 2 Kinds of Tomatoes

In Illinois chili con carne may be rich with tomato.

Illinois Chili

1 pound ground beef
1 large onion, finely chopped (1 cup)
2 garlic cloves, minced
1 can (1 pound) tomatoes, undrained
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste, undiluted
1 can (1 pound) red kidney beans undrained
2 teaspoons salt
10 twists (¼ teaspoon) freshly ground pepper
2 tablespoons chili powder

Heat a wide saucepan (about 3 quarts) and in it over moderately low heat cook the beef and onion, using a fork to crumble the meat into small particles, until the beef loses its red color. (If beef is very lean, you may need to add a tablespoon or so of fat; but if grease accumulates after cooking beef and onion, drain it all off.

Add the remaining ingredients. Simmer for at least 20 minutes, stirring several times and breaking up tomatoes. This makes a hot chili; if you want it even hotter, add chili powder to taste and simmer 5 or 10 minutes longer to blend flavors. Makes 6 servings.

Nice served in rimmed soup plates.

Chop Figs, Add to Mashed Yams

Dried figs lend special sweetness to this yam recipe.

Cook, peel and mash 6 yams. Add ½ cup of chopped dried figs, 3 tablespoons of firmly packed brown sugar, 1 tablespoon of slivered almonds, ½ teaspoon each of salt and nutmeg and ¼ cup of orange juice. Blend. Turn into 1-quart casserole. Sprinkle with additional almonds and garnish with dried fig slices, if desired.

Bake in pre-heated 375 degree oven 20 minutes or until heated through. Makes 6 servings.

Convenience Foods Save Valuable Time for the Homemaker

Sunday is a special day for most of us. It's a day to relax after the busy activities of the week and to enjoy with family and friends. Sunday dinner is a special meal, too, often served at noon so that the remainder of the day is free for sociability and a family outing.

This Sunday special recipe boasts that perennial favorite, corn, the corn is an unusual variety known as shoe peg white corn, earning its name from the shape of the kernels which resemble a cobbler's shoe peg. The delicate whole kernels are frozen in a seasoned sauce made of real 93 score butter.

You can slip the pouches of corn frozen in butter sauce into boiling water during the last few minutes of your meal preparation time. Then, just before serving, drain off the butter sauce and use it to saute perky green onions.

Finely grated Cheddar cheese, sprinkled on top of the corn at serving time, melts to a golden goodness and makes a colorful garnish.

Sunday Special Shoe Peg Corn

Two 10-oz. packages shoe peg white corn frozen in butter sauce in flavor-tight cooking pouch
⅔ cup sliced green onions (include some tops)
½ teaspoon parsley flakes
¼ cup finely grated Cheddar cheese

Slip pouches of shoe peg white corn into boiling water. Bring water to a second boil; continue cooking 12 minutes. Do not cover pan.

★ ★ ★

Partially open pouches, drain butter sauce into medium saucepan. Add green onions; saute until sauce is almost absorbed. Stir in corn and parsley flakes; heat through. Pour into serving dish; garnish with cheese. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Combine Fruit Stuffing With Chicken Breasts

Most fine cooks consider chicken breasts the "supreme" part of the chicken — and that's just what French chefs call chicken breasts. In this recipe from the National Broiler Council, chicken breasts are stuffed with a delectable fruit-nut dressing, baked, and served with a fruit sauce.

Della Robbia Chicken Breasts

¾ cup butter or margarine, divided
1 cup diced apple (1 large or 2 small apples)
½ cup coarsely chopped nuts
½ cup light raisins
½ cup drained crushed pineapple
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt, divided
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
6 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, boned

Melt ½ cup butter in skillet. Add diced apples and chopped nuts; cook 10 minutes. Remove from heat. Add raisins, drained crushed pineapple, bread crumbs, ½ teaspoon salt and spices.

* * *

Sprinkle inside of chicken breasts with ½ teaspoon salt. Place ⅓ cup stuffing on inside of each breast; fold the sides over, and fasten with skewers or string.

Place remaining ¼ cup of butter in 9x13-inch foil-lined baking pan; place in 375 degree oven until melted, about 5 minutes. Place breasts topside down in melted butter, return pan to oven and bake chicken 25 minutes.

* * *

Turn chicken over and bake 20 minutes more. Serve with a fruit sauce Yield: 6 servings.

It's Hearty One

Season ½ pound ground beef with salt and pepper; shape into 18 meatballs. In saucepan, brown meatballs (use shortening if necessary) and cook for 5 minutes. Pour off fat.

Push meatballs to one side; stir in 1 can (11½ ounces) condensed bean with bacon soup, and 1 soup can water. Heat; stir now and then. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

Ice Cream Fills an Orange Cake

Back in the 70's in Los Angeles the forerunner of the Good Humor man went about town with a freezer on his head carrying a circular tin with a place for spoons in the middle and holes for six glasses in which he served his wares.

★ ★ ★

Ice cream was a real novelty then as the first ice was brought all the way from the Truckee River.

Today ice cream has lost its novelty in the United States, but the variety of ways in which it is served is endless.

★ ★ ★

A brand new flavor combination is Double Orange Dessert — tender, moist natural orange flavored layer cake with delicious bits of real orange peel and a crunchy nut topping, split and filled with ice cream. Then a delightfully flavored orange sauce is poured over the cake sundae.

This sunny, good-humor-style dessert is mix-easy to make with the new Sunkist Orange Cake Mix and Frosting Mix, now on your grocer's shelf.

DOUBLE ORANGE DESSERT

Orange Sauce (below)
1½ cups chopped nuts
3 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons soft butter
1 package orange layer cake mix
1 quart vanilla ice cream, slightly softened, or orange sherbet

Prepare Orange Sauce. Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour an oblong pan, 13x9x2 inches. Mix nuts, sugar and butter; spread in prepared pan.

★ ★ ★

Prepare cake mix as directed on package and pour over nuts in pan. Bake 40 to 45 minutes. Cool. Cut into 3-inch squares. Split each square horizontally. Fill squares nut side up with ice cream; top with Orange Sauce. 12 servings.

ORANGE SAUCE

1 package creamy orange frosting mix
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
3 tablespoons butter
⅔ cup milk

Combine frosting mix, corn syrup and butter in top of double boiler. Stir in milk gradually. Heat over rapidly boiling water 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat. Cover sauce and store in refrigerator. Makes 2 cups.

BAKED IN BEER — Unique fresh vegetable casserole is a remarkable melange of flavors achieved with a remarkable cooking ingredient — beer. Besides cabbage and tomatoes, try the same method with celery, carrots, cauliflower, sliced potatoes, or onions.

Beer Lends Its Flavor to Vegetable Casserole

In an era of excellent packaged and prepared foods — including a vast selection of frozen vegetables in sauces — it's hard to come up with a remarkable dish that the professionals haven't perfected already.

★ ★ ★

But it's still possible, as this unique vegetable casserole demonstrates. Here is an unusual vegetable dish that is so startling it might well be a special party dish. But since it's made from any of the year-round vegetable staples, it could certainly be on a frequent family menu.

★ ★ ★

Many combinations of fresh vegetables can be interspersed in the recipe—or even a single favorite item can be cooked this way. It's a medley of flavors and colors and simplicity in the major key of beer cookery.

Vegetables Baked in Beer

1 small head cabbage, shredded
3 ripe tomatoes, peeled and sliced
1 onion, finely chopped
1 cup beer
1 cup tomato juice (about)
1 cup dry bread crumbs
⅓ cup melted butter or margarine.
1 large green pepper ring

Pour boiling water over shredded cabbage to wilt it. Place layers of cabbage, tomatoes, and onion in a greased 2-quart casserole, ending with cabbage. Pour beer all over and enough tomato juice to just cover vegetables. Mix bread crumbs with butter and sprinkle over top.

Bake in hot (400 degrees F.) oven for 30 to 35 minutes or until cabbage is tender. Garnish with crisp green pepper ring. Yield: 6 servings.

RUM COW — For a hot drink invented by the early American colonists, try this recipe. In a preheated shaker or electric mixer mix one teaspoon brown sugar, one jigger Puerto Rican rum, a dash of bitters and one cup very hot milk. Serve in a large mug with a pinch of nutmeg. For hot buttered rum, dissolve one teaspoon sugar in a mug with a little hot water. Add one ounce rum, a cinnamon stick and a pinch of nutmeg. Fill mug with boiling water; top with pat of butter.

Fig Dessert for Gourmets

This is a very simple, yet elegant dessert.

Continental Figs

1 pound California dried figs (about 24)
½ teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup sugar
1 cup Sauterne wine
½ cup dairy sour cream

In saucepan, combine figs, lemon peel, juice, sugar and wine. Bring to a boil; cover pan and simmer 5 minutes. Turn off heat and let figs stand in covered pan at least 15 minutes.

Serve warm or chilled. Top with sour cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

ROCK LOBSTER TERIYAKI—Surprise tea guests with cocktail-type go-withs to start a new trend in entertaining. These kabobs use chunks of South African rock lobster combined with fruit and vegetables.

Lobster Kabobs Replace Sweet Tea Offerings

"I like to be invited to afternoon tea or coffee parties to socialize with friends," a reader wrote recently, "but why should I be tempted to spoil my appetite for dinner by a display of sweet cakes? Why not hors d'oeuvres? Teetotallers at cocktail parties seem to enjoy them with coffee or tea."

★ ★ ★

Why not, indeeed!

To start the trend in your group, select a Japanese recipe as an excuse to switch. Rock Lobster Teriyaki is light, delicate, interesting.

And if you don't serve them at tea, you'll want to remember the idea next time you plan a buffet or other entertainment. They'll be the most popular delicacy on the table!

Rock Lobster Teriyaki

8 (3 oz. ea.) frozen rock lobster tails
16 whole boiled onions
16 whole button mushrooms (fresh or canned)
32 pineapple chunks
¾ cup Japanese soy sauce
⅓ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 clove garlic, mashed
2 tablespoons peanut oil

Drop rock lobster tails into boiling salted water. When water reboils cook for 3 minutes. Drain and drench with cold water.

Cut away underside membrane with scissors and pull out meat in one piece. Cut each rock lobster tail into 6 crosswise slices.

Thread 3 rock lobster pieces, 1 onion, 1 mushroom and 2 pineapple chunks on each skewer. Put skewers into a shallow pan.

Combine remaining ingredients and pour over filled skewers. Let marinate 1 hour. Remove from marinade and broil 2 to 3 minutes on each side brushing with marinade during cooking.

For appetizer serving, use 1 skewer per person and for a lunch or dinner serve 2 skewers per person on top of hot cooked rice. Serve with kumquats. Yield: 16 skewers.

Summer Idea

Devotees of natural foods tell us that elderberry blossom clusters dipped in waffle batter and fried in deep fat are a gourmet's delight. Or the flowers may be pulled from their stems and added to pancake batter.

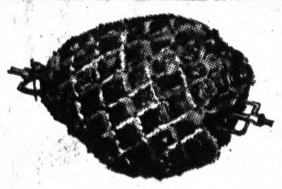

Mix a cup of catchup and one-fourth cup dark corn syrup; pour over meat loaf before baking.

Opening lead—♥ Q

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

Freak hands lend themselves to freak action. If you are vulnerable and your non-vulnerable opponents are competing against you, your general plan should be to bid so as to play the contract at a level you can make.

JACOBY

Thus, if you are sure of making six spades and your opponents are competing in hearts, you may want to settle for five spades as a compromise.

This compromise will surely pay off if it turns out that a six spade call would merely get the opponents to seven hearts down three for minus 500 against the 680 you would score in duplicate or the 880 in rubber bridge for bidding five spades and making six.

There is another side to this coin. An expert who does not know that his side can make a slam may try to stampede his opponents into taking a phantom save against him by leaping into a slam as if he were sure of making it.

Today's hand which was played in a lunch-time office game shows a nearly even division of high cards. North and South have 21 high card points which include three of the four aces and can make a slam in spades.

East and West with 19 points can make only ten tricks in hearts, but those ten tricks will allow them to escape with a 500-point loss if they defend at seven.

The bidding was rather normal up to North's leap to six spades. North had several reasons to make that bid. To start with, he didn't know if his partner could even make five spades.

In addition he didn't know if he could set five hearts. Finally he decided that if he did leap to six, East and West would take the save at seven hearts and he was sure that he could set that contract.

East had a sound pass. He had what looked like good defense. As for West, we feel that a seven heart call should have been automatic but West just wasn't going to take a sure penalty. He passed and South racked up the slam.

♥♣CARD Sense♠♦

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
	2 ♥	Pass	3 ♦
Pass	4 ♥	Pass	4 N.T.
Pass	5 ♠	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠ A K 7 6 ♥ 2 ♦ K Q 6 5 4 ♣ 7 5 4
What do you do now?

A—Bid five no-trump. This will tell partner that you hold the fourth ace and are interested in seven. If his hearts are solid, he will bid the grand slam.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of rebidding four hearts, your partner bids four clubs over your three diamonds. What do you do now?

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Don't churn up the past. There is ample opportunity for recriminations. But if wise you will let bygones be part of what is finished. Build anew and solidly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Don't go too fast. Tendency is to act on pure impulse. This could cause accident of judgment. In turn, the result is accident in literal sense. Count 10 before acting.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 22-Feb. 18): Relatives and money may mix today. Means condition could arise which requires financial consultation with relation. Check sources. Be receptive. Don't try to force issues.

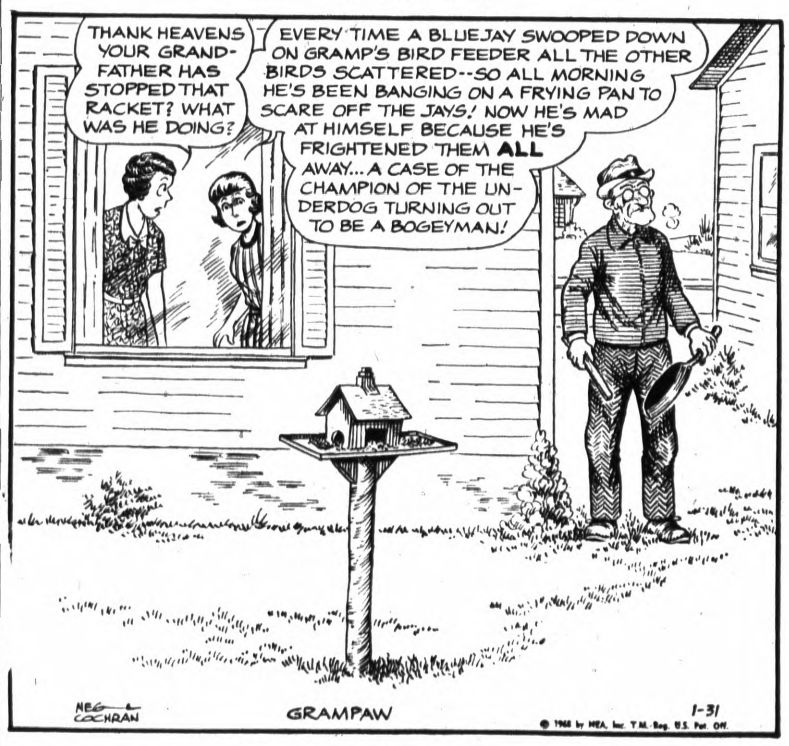

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Cycle continues high. Means you can successfully take initiative, make contacts. Stress originality. Be a self-starter. Don't wait for others. Set the pace.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Good day for planting, fishing. Cycle high for PISCES, ARIES, TAURUS. Special word to SAGITTARIUS: don't argue needlessly.

Lawmakers Eye Loan to Inkster

INKSTER (UPI) — The talk of taxes and money sifted down to one fear in this Detroit suburb today — the kids now in school might not have any schools to go to in a few days. The Inkster School District has a money problem. Right now it needs at least $60,000 to meet its Feb. 16 payroll. It needs much more to finish out the school year for its 5,000 schoolchildren.

In Lansing yesterday, there was growing support among state lawmakers to bail the district out of its immediate crisis by loaning it $90,000.

That much would keep the schools and their 225 teachers in business through March 16 and allow enough time to find a longrange solution.

* * *

On Monday, voters in the district rejected, 746-546, a millage proposal that would have made their school support rate the highest in the state.

INTERIM LOAM

Dr. Edward Forte, superintendent of the district, has said he will have to shut the schools down Friday when the next payroll is met, unless something can be done. Even an interim loan, he said, would only be postponing the inevitable unless a long-range solution comes along.

There are 40,000 persons in Inkster. About 40 per cent of them are Negroes. Of the 5,000 schoolchildren, 80 per cent are Negroes.

Mrs. Idell White has four children in school. Her husband works at a U.S. Army tank center.

* * *

"I'm hoping and praying that something will work out," she said. "We can't pull up stakes and go somewhere else, and we can't afford a private school."

NEIGHBORS WORRIED

Mrs. Barbara Dyell said her neighbors are worried but hoping that the public attention has brought about an upturn in the crisis.

"Really, they couldn't let 5,000 children run wild. And that's what would happen," she said.

She said the worry has even reached her boy Max, 9.

* * *

"When I tied his shoes this morning he asked me how he could go to school if they didn't give us any money," she said.

'A LITTLE UNFAIR'

Mrs. Mary Lagory has one child still in school. She voted for the millage increase, "But it seems a little unfair, the way the money is distributed around the state," she said.

* * *

She reflected the sentiments of Dr. B. Milton, President of the Inkster School Board, who told a legislative committee earlier in the month that surrounding white suburbs had gerrymandered the school districts to leave Inkster without an industrial tax base but with the bulk of the Negro students.

* * *

The state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Albert Wheeler of Ann Arbor, said if the school doors close in Inkster, the people of Michigan will "conclude that race and racial prejudice were the fundamental reasons that the schools closed."

OU Class Will Study Protests

Civil Disobedience, Nonviolence Included

Is civil disobedience here to stay?

In a new political science course to be taught during the spring semester by the Division of Continuing Education of Oakland University, students will analyze the history of civil disobedience and the phenomenon of nonviolence.

According to Richard W. Brooks, a philosophy instructor at Oakland University, the idea of civil disobedience is at least as old as the American Revolution.

In an attempt to give the student a better historical perspective on the rationale behind civil disobedience, the course will include the study of the writings of Martin Luther King, as well as of such earlier advocates of nonviolent protest as Mohandas Gandhi and Henry David Thoreau.

* * *

"Students will attempt to weigh the validity of today's techniques of civil disobedience as they relate to civil rights, opposition to the war in Vietnam and other controversial issues of the day," Brooks said.

"Beyond this, we will investigate the theories behind the techniques of protest so much in evidence today."

Shrine Circus Tiger Dies at MSU Clinic

EAST LANSING (UPI) — An 8-year-old circus tiger who attracted nationwide attention because of his hospitalization at the Michigan State University Veterinary Clinic has died, the university reported yesterday.

* * *

Dr. Paul Tillotson of the MSU clinic said the tiger died Friday of an apparent ulcer complication.

The Shrine Circus sent the tiger to the university for treatment because of a series of ailments.

Nationwide attention was focused on the tiger when a picture was taken of it being X-rayed on an operating table.

* * *

The tiger weighed 118 pounds when it died, considerably less than its normal weight of about 250 pounds.

Artificial Reef Being Built

ATLANTA, Ga. (UPI) — Sportsmen in the Brunswick area are collecting wrecked cars, old refrigerators, concrete slabs and other debris to dump into the ocean.

* * *

The idea is to build an ocean floor junk pile in order to create an artificial fishing reef about 12 miles off the Brunswick coast.

* * *

Sen. H. McKinley Conway Jr. of Dekalp suggested Tuesday that the state's new Ocean Science Center of the Atlantic could use the reef for research. Conway said he is planning to push for funds for this project in the 1969 science center budget.

Tests indicate that the growth rate in an environment free of gravity but with all other factors the same is no different than that on earth.

Woman Bilked of Savings

LA SALLE, Ill. (AP) — A fast-talking "bank examiner" bilked an elderly woman out of $1,800 after he showed her a gold badge.

★ ★ ★

Police Chief Walter Kinczewski said the woman received a telephone call from a man who said he was a local bank officer and that "the examiners were in today."

He discussed her passbook, citing the number of her book, and asked if her account was short $100. She replied, "no."

Then he recited the details of the bank's bookkeeping system, suggesting she withdraw $1,800 from her account so they could watch a young teller they suspected of wrong-doing. He said he was sending a cab to picked her up.

★ ★ ★

In a few minutes the cab came and she went to the bank and made a withdrawal. When she returned home, the man came to the door and she let him in, giving him an envelope containing the money after he showed the badge in a leather folder.

Junior Editors Quiz on FINGERNAILS

QUESTION: Why do we have nails on our fingers?

ANSWER: Our finger and toenails resemble the horns, hoofs, claws and beaks of animals, because they are made of the same kind of material. They are special growths of the outer skin and are composed of hardened skin cells. What a marvelous material skin is becomes clear when you think that a bird's feathers and a reptile's scales are also developed from the skins of these animals.

We have nails because they are of decided value, since they stiffen the end of the finger as well as protect it. They also give a sharp edge to the finger end. Since this has a soft, highly sensitive pad under it, the combination of nail and pad makes a wonderful tool by which all kinds of delicate manipulations may be made.

The next time you use a typewriter notice how the stiffening of the nail enables you to punch down strongly on a key. Pick up a paper clip and you will realize how useful the two nail edges are.

In our picture Karen is filing her nails because this is better for them than cutting. She uses an orange stick to clean out dirt from under the nail.

Oakland Community College Joins Grid Ranks

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Interested in knowing how much high school athletics have grown in Oakland County since 1955?

The figures at first glance are amazing, but in view of the tremendous growth of Oakland County and the projections for just in the next few years, it's easy to realize why athletics have zoomed to high proportions.

In 1955 there were 28 high schools in the county and an average of five varsity sports per school.

Only two class A schools, Pontiac Central and Hazel Park were the sponsors of nine varsity sports.

★ ★ ★

Golf, tennis, wrestling and swimming were missing from most varsity programs in 1955.

Swimming has grown from three teams in 1955 to 13 in 1968, but wrestling has skyrocketed from two varsity teams to 30 this year.

In the past three years, soccer, hockey, skiing and gymnastics have become recognized as varsity sports at several schools, bringing the total to 13 varsity athletic programs in the county.

NEAR TO COMPLETE

However, the nearest any school is to a complete 13-sport program, are the 12 varsity sports at Bloomfield Hills Andover high school. Only North Farmington recognizes gymnastics as a varsity sport, the lone absentee in the Andover program.

★ ★ ★

Andover added hockey and wrestling last year and initiated its new pool this season.

At any rate, there were 152 total varsity teams in the county in 1955 and this season, varsity letters are awarded on 379 teams at 49 county high schools.

What accounts for the number of added sports to high school programs?

The two big reasons probably are the Olympics and the physical fitness program so strongly urged by the late President Kennedy.

BIGGER SCHOOLS

Planners say that the future trend is not for building of new high schools in crowded school districts but for adding to present schools in campus-type plans.

★ ★ ★

This means that as student bodies get larger, the need for student participation will increase, subsequently resulting in larger overall athletic programs.

Don't be surprised when the high school of the future has all 13 varsity sports now in existence plus the addition of bowling, archery, table tennis, rowing, racing (auto & boat), volleyball, speed ice skating, handball, paddleball and many others.

★ ★ ★

The high school of the future will be one with a 5,000 student body and 25 varsity sports.

★ ★ ★

PNH Overpowers Pontiac Catholic '5'

By JERE CRAIG

Pontiac Northern overpowered a spirited but outmanned Pontiac Catholic quintet Tuesday night before more than 1,400 noisy fans as athletic relations began between the two schools at the PNH gym.

The Huskies spurted away midway in the first quarter en route to an 83-52 triumph for their fifth straight conquest — all but one by at least 31 points.

Pontiac Catholic, now 4-8, scrapped to 1-0 and 3-2 leads in the opening minutes.

Northern moved ahead 6-3 but Gary Roediger, playing a fine first half for the Titans, knotted the score with a field goal. From then on it was the Huskies' ball game.

PNH made six straight points, then after a free throw by PCHS' Sam Brady came back with 14 more in a row for a 26-7 lead. All five starters made at least two field goals in the opening period as Northern hit 12 of 25 shots and had a 16-8 rebounding advantage.

TOP EFFORTS

With Don Hayward and Dana Coin playing one of their best games of the campaign that now has PNH at 8-2, the host team padded its margin to 24 points in the second quarter.

Hayward hit 7 of 10 shots in the opening half, Coin connected on 4 of 8 and grabbed nine rebounds; and guards Mike Clancy and Craig Deaton made 3 of 6.

Clancy also sparkled with his playmaking, setting up six baskets by his mates. The Huskies surged in front, 51-30, by intermission.

Only the 7-of-9 gunning — including five straight baskets in the second period — of Gary Roediger enabled the Titans to stay within sight of the battling Huskies.

Northern had a 47-25 edge in shots taken and a 29-17 rebounding margin at the half. It outscored the visitors by nine field goals in the half.

The lead continued to grow in the final half as the losers tailed off in their shooting to make just six baskets in 30 tries. The Huskies' reserves pushed the margin into the 30's.

In all, PNH made 34 of 86 for 39 per cent, to 17 of 55 (30 per cent) for Pontiac Catholic. Bob Traylor (12 rebounds), Hayward (9), Coin (11) and reserve pivotman Stan Allison (9) gave the winners a 67-39 rebounding superiority.

Hayward led the scoring with 22 points on 9 of 13 from the field. Coin hit 16. They were season highs for both boys.

Sam Brady's 19 points and 12 rebounds complemented Roediger's 16 points on 7 of 11 shots. Butch Finnegan had six assists for the losers.

Season Opener Sept. 20; 'Pin' Ryan Head Coach

By FLETCHER SPEARS

Football has been added to the athletic program at Oakland Community College and the school will field its first team next fall.

The announcement of football's addition to the athletic program at OCC was made this morning by Prentice (Pin) Ryan, OCC's assistant director of educational services for intercollegiate athletics.

Word of the move to football came as no surprise, since the Board of Trustees of OCC earlier had given a green light by authorizing the administration to "institute, encourage and regulate a comprehensive intercollegiate athletic program" at the college. That endorsement included football.

While announcing the addition of football, Ryan, who'll also coach the team, emphasized OCC was launching the program on a two-year look-see basis and would either drop it or take a long-range approach after that period.

The team will play seven games — three of them at home — and the squad, which has no nickname as of now, will open Sept. 20 against the University of Detroit football club on the U. of D. field.

OTHER GAMES

Also on the schedule are games against the Air Force Academy Junior Varsity, away, and Northwood Institute of Midland.

Home games are Iowa Central, Oct. 5, Wilson City College of Chicago, Oct. 12, and Grand Rapids Junior College, Nov. 9.

Ryan said that sites for home games have not been selected, but he indicated OCC would be interested in playing at different sites. Southfield, Hazel Park and Pontiac were among those cities mentioned as possible playing locations.

OCC is entering its third year of intercollegiate athletic competition. Auburn Hills and Highland Lakes campuses will continue with cross-country basketball golf and tennis. Swimming is offered at Auburn Hills.

Tentative programs are planned at Orchard Ridge near Farmington, Ryan said. They would include cross-country, and basketball with golf and tennis on the possibility list for next year.

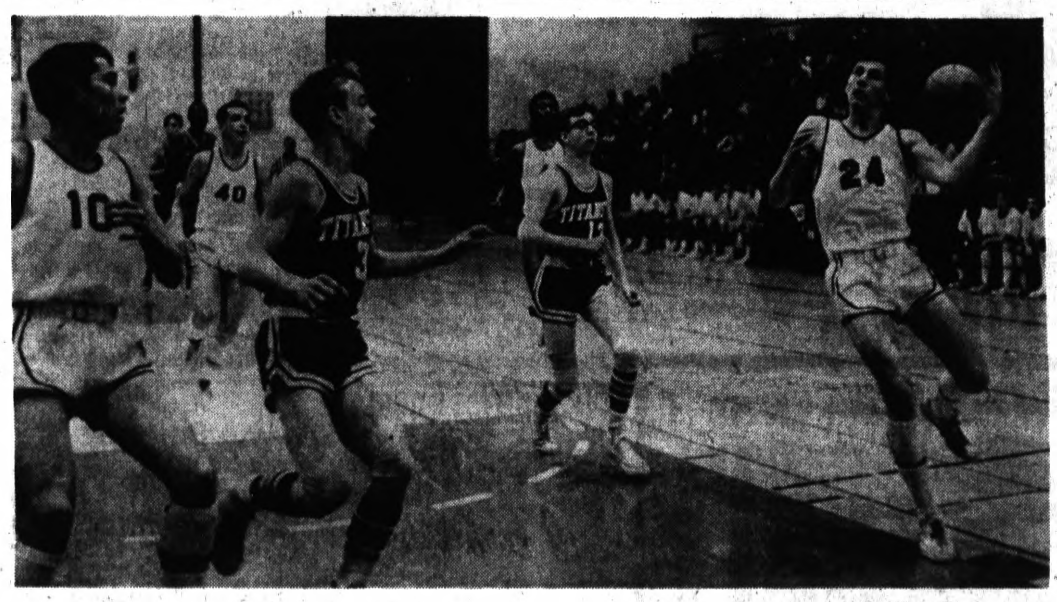

JOINT PROJECT

Sports are now conducted on a campus basis, but the football would bring the best of the three campuses together as one team.

Ryan said plans call for a meeting of all boys interested in football this spring. He indicated that interest among the students is high and that the purpose of the spring meeting would be to see who and how many are around to play football.

OCC has no athletic facilities to accommodate a football squad, so Ryan has made arrangements with Pontiac Catholic to share their facilities at the new high school.

Cost of the program, which includes the initial outlay for equipment, will run $21,000 the first season, Ryan said.

Red Wings Recall Winger Anderson

DETROIT (AP) — Right winger Ron Anderson has been recalled from the Fort Worth farm club to bolster the Detroit Red Wings in their drive to climb from the National Hockey League Eastern Division cellar.

Anderson, 22, played six games with the Wings earlier this season.

At Fort Worth in the Central Professional Hockey League he scored 20 goals and 19 assists for a 39-point total in 39 games. He will play on Detroit's third line with Garry Jarrett and Bruce MacGregor.

Anderson's acquisiton puts the Wings one man over the NHL limit of 16. General Manager Sid Abel said rather than send someone to the minors he will sideline one player for the next game.

The Wings, who now have four victories in their last six games, are in last place, but only 11 points from first. They meet Los Angeles Thursday night at Olympia in Detroit.

Top Rookie in Fold

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tom Seaver, who had 18 complete games and posted a 16-13 mark to be named National League rookie of the year in 1967, signed his 1968 contract Tuesday with the New York Mets for an estimated $25,000.

Mikita Voted No. 1

NEW YORK (AP) — Stan Mikita, Chicago's smooth little scorer-playmaker, is on the way to another double in the National Hockey League's awards sweepstakes.

Mikita topped the ballot Tuesday in midseason voting for both the Hart Memorial and Lady Byng trophies, which he swept last year as the most valuable and most gentlemanly player in the league.

The 27-year-old, Czechoslovakian-born veteran, who won the 1966-67 scoring title and leads the point parade this season after a slow start, held a slim edge over teammate Bobby Hull in the Hart voting and shaded Boston's Johnny Bucyk for mid-season Lady Byng honors.

Mikita, a 5-foot-9, 165-pound dervish has 27 goals, 27 assists and only six penalty minutes.

The 12 NHL coaches also gave second-year pro Bobby Orr, 19, of Boston and his 21-year-old teammate, forward Derek Sanderson, the first-half nod for the James Norris Memorial Trophy (best defenseman) and Calder Memorial Trophy (top rookie), respectively.

The coaches will vote again at the end of the season, with the over-all point leaders nailing the awards and accompanying league bonuses.

Mikita will receive $500 for his midseason lead in two categories while Orr and Sanderson will pocket $250 apiece.

The longest National Hockey League winning streak in 24 years has brought Montreal from last to first in the East Division race — with little room to spare.

The Canadiens, unbeaten in 14 games since Christmas night, reeled off their 10th straight victory Tuesday night, blanking Toronto 3-0 behind 22-year-old goaltender Rogatien Vachon.

In 1944, Montreal won 10 games in succession, breaking open the race, and captured the NHL title by a 25-point margin over runner-up Detroit. This year, however, the Canadiens' 10-game winning string has given them no more than a slim edge over four other pennant contenders.

Joe Frazier Cited

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Ring Magazine has named unbeaten heavyweight Joe Frazier of Philadelphia the fighter of the year and given the progress award to Jimmy Ellis of Louisville.

Pontiac Boxer Bounces Back in Flint Bout

Morris Davis of Pontiac came off the canvas after a first-round knockdown and kayoed Sandy Parker of Grand Blanc in the second round of their light-heavyweight Golden Gloves quarter-final bout last night in Flint.

Davis was one of three Pontiac boxers posting victories. The next round comes Friday in the semifinals. Finals are slated for next Tuesday at the Flint IMA and winners there move to the state finals at Grand Rapids.

Keith Rouser posted a decision over Grand Blanc's Tony Farr in a lightweight bout and Ross Campbell moved up in the welterweight class when his opponent, Milton Henry of Burston, failed to show.

Eliminated from the competition were middleweight Larry Musgrave and novice welterweight Ray Gonzales.

Gonzales, knocked down at the start of the third round, finished strong but lost a decision to Larry Overfield of Davison. Musgrave was knocked out by Tim Florida of Grand Blanc.

Bob Hope Golf Meet Under Way Today

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — This plush resort area echoed with the sound of golf shots today as the Bob Hope Desert Classic got under way for its annual splash in major league competition.

In an event which has raised several hundred thousand dollars for charitable causes, which is why comedian Bob Hope lends it his name, the purse amounts to $122,000.

On hand in a try for a third trip to the winner's circle is Arnold Palmer, the only golfer to win it twice — in the inaugural year, 1960, and in 1962.

Dolphins Pick Florida State Signal Caller

NEW YORK (AP) — Kim Hammond, Florida State's fine halfback, was selected by the Miami Dolphins of the American Football League as the pro football draft resumed today with sixth round selections.

The Detroit Lions picked defensive end Mike Spitzer of San Jose State.

★ ★ ★

Yesterday, the Lions named quarterback Greg Landry, Massachusetts; flanker Earl McCulloch, Southern Cal; kicker Jerry DePoyster, Wyoming; tight end Charles Sanders, Minnesota; Texas Tech linebacker end Mooney and end Phil Odle, Brigham Young.

★ ★ ★

Hammond is a 6-foot-1, 190-pounder who threw 15 touchdown passes while completing 140 of 241 tosses for 1,991 yards last season.

In the sixth round of the combined draft of the American and the National leagues, the new Cincinnati Bengals, who will operate as the 10th club in the AFL next season, had nine choices.

The Minnesota Vikings picked Bob Goodridge, a flanker from Vanderbilt who led the major college receivers with 79 catches. He took them 1,114 yards and scored six touchdowns.

★ ★ ★

The pros went through five rounds in 11 hours, 43 minutes Monday — just one minute less than it took them a year ago. A total of 138 players was drafted the first day.

DEAL MADE

Quarterback Ron VanderKelen, former Wisconsin and Rose Bowl star, was traded today by the Vikings to the Falcons for two draft picks.

The Vikings got the Falcons' seventh draft choice of the current session and one of their picks for 1968. The draft number was not disclosed.

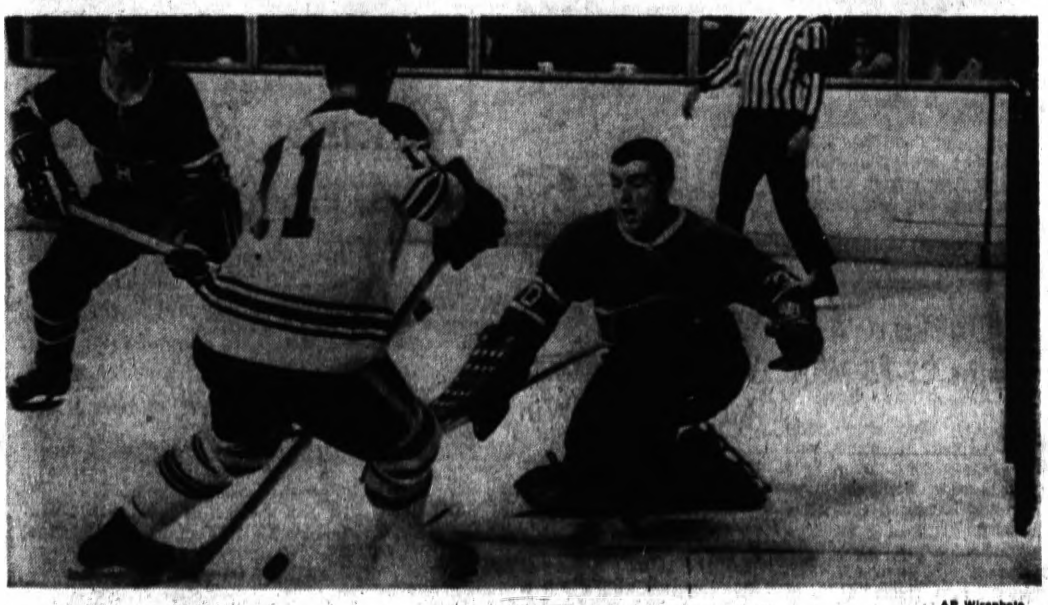

Landry's coach said Tuesday he thinks the star quarterback will be a regular with the Lions within three years.

"They made a good choice. I'm sure he will be a regular within three years. I knew it was his desire to go into the National Football League.

SAULTE STE. MARIE (AP) — Lake Superior State College came from behind in the closing minutes and rolled to a 77-70 victory over Ferris State in a basketball game Tuesday night. Ron Sober of Lake Superior led all scorers with 25 points and teammate John Dorr added 23. Jesse Mangham led Ferris with 21.

DEFENSIVE GEM — Goalie Rogatien Vachon of Montreal knocks the puck away from Murray Oliver of Toronto on this rush during their game in Montreal last night. Local Pro Unmoved by First Ace

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Most golfers show lots of emotion when they card a hole-in-one. Not Gene Bone of Pontiac, however.

Bone, former Michigan Open and PGA champion and now head pro at Bay Pointe Golf Club in Walled Lake, scored the first hole-in-one of his pro career here yesterday and almost forgot it.

"I'll probably fall on my face tomorrow when I realize I've shot a hole-in-one," said Bone, who came up with the shot in the first round of the PGA Senior-Junior Tournament over the PGA course here.

The shot came on the 16th of the East course. Bone's four-iron shot hit about five feet from the cup and the ball rolled in. He carded it and said nothing.

★ ★ ★

Bone carded a 71 to rank fifth along with Robert Walsh of Belmont among the juniors. Tex Ardoyno of Birmingham posted a 70 and shares fourth along with five others in the senior division.

LEADS JUNIORS

Leading the juniors was Bill Capps of Beckley, W. Va., who fired a sizzling six-under-par 66. Ron Howell of Caldwell, N. J., was second with 67 and Joe Taylor of Charleston, W. Va., was third at 70.

★ ★ ★

Sharing the seniors lead with 67s were Marty Furgol of El Dorado, Ark., Herman Keiser of Copley, Ohio, and Al Brosch of Port Washington, N. Y.

Eleventh Loss for Emmanuel

Emmanuel Christian was outmanned, outscored and worn out in taking its 79-38 loss at the hands of Dearborn Annapolis last night.

★ ★ ★

The winners played 15 cagers, 14 of them scored while Emmanuel had only seven players dressed.

It was the 11th straight loss for the Pontiac team which made it close for a half.

Emmanuel had only 10 field goals, five by Clyde Murphy who had 17 points, but the local team could hit only 16 of 46 free throws.

EAST LANSING (AP) — Harrison Stepter led everyone in scoring and Michigan State to victory as the Spartans humbled visiting Notre Dame, 89-68, in a nonconference basketball game Tuesday night.

The Spartans led by 14 points at halftime, much of the lead the result of Stepter's flashy shooting, including several driving layups, a couple of them after he had stolen the ball from the Irish offense.

★ ★ ★

The 6-foot-3 junior guard poured in 17 points in the first half and ended the game with 22.

The Irish trailed by as much as 26 points in the second half, but hit 13 straight points while Stepter was resting on the bench to narrow MSU's margin with about three minutes to go.

FEW MORE

Then the Spartans tacked on a few more points to secure the lead.

Lee Lafayette, who scored 16 points, did a strong defensive job on Notre Dame's Bob Whitmore, who has been averaging more than 23 points a game, but got only 11 against the Spartans.

Bob Arnzen topped Notre Dame in scoring with 20 points.

The decision left MSU with an 8-7 record and put Notre Dame at 13-5.

Piston Attack Falters in Second Half

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oscar Robertson scored 19 of his 35 points in the second half as Cincinnati turned a 49-48 halftime deficit into an easy 121-101 victory over Detroit in a National Basketball Association game Tuesday night.

Dave Bing, the league's leading scorer, poured in 34 points for the Pistons.

In other games, Philadelphia hammered Boston 125-118 in Philadelphia. Baltimore slipped by New York, 134-131 in a doubleheader in Madison Square Garden, San Francisco edged Chicago 123-119 and Seattle downed Los Angeles, 128-116, in Seattle.

★ ★ ★

In the American Basketball Association, New Orleans outscored Kentucky 112-101, Pittsburg beat Minnesota 121-112, and Denver defeated Oakland 137-113.

★ ★ ★

The Philadelphia 76ers lengthened their lead over Boston, but the gap they closed between themselves and the Celtics must have proved more satisfying.

★ ★ ★

Philadelphia, the defending National Basketball Association champions after dethroning Boston in a hard-fought battle last season, had won only one game in five tries against the Celts this year, and that record bugs the 76ers.

But they closed the spread Tuesday night in Philadelphia with a 125-118 victory over Boston, and at the same time increased their Eastern Division lead over the Celtics to three games.

★ ★ ★

Hal Greer and Wally Jones combined for Philadelphia to overcome a 38-point showing by Boston's Sam Jones.

Wally Jones hit 18 of his 24 points in the first half as Philadelphia took a 63-61 lead at intermission before Greer took over.

After Sam Jones had put Boston ahead 86-84 in the third quarter, Greer shot Philadelphia ahead to stay.

The lead grew to 11 and when Boston cut it to 109-106 with 4:36 left, Greer snared four quick points, wrapping it up. Greer finished with 27 points.

★ ★ ★

Baltimore rode Earl Monroe's hot hand as the flashy rookie dropped in 39 points, including a long jumper with 28 seconds left or a 132-131 lead.

He added two free throws with two seconds remaining. His final show came after New York had overcome a 78-60 deficit.

HB Tim Brown Glad to Join Baltimore

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Halfback Tim Brown says he is glad to get away from the aggravation of playing for Coach Joe Kuharich of the Philadelphia Eagles, but may not play next year unless his new team, the Baltimore Colts, makes the price right.

The 30-year-old Brown, one of the top running backs in the history of the National Football League, was traded to the Colts Tuesday for Alvin Haymond, a defensive back, kick-off and punt return specialist.

The 200-pound Brown joined a rapidly growing club of ex-Eagles who were dealt away because they couldn't get along with Kuharich, who is coach and general manager.

Linebacker Maxie Baugham and defensive back Irv Cross, who starred this year for the Los Angeles Rams, are notable members of the fraternity.

Do you know who holds the all-time college basketball record for getting the most rebounds in one season at play? . . . It is not any of the big super stars you might think of first like Wilt Chamberlain or Bill Russell . . . Answer is Walter Dukes who set the record when he played for Seton Hall in the 1952-53 season with 734 rebounds.

★ ★ ★

Who was the shortest man ever to play pro basketball in the National Basketball Association? . . . Two men are tied for this honor . . . Walt Misaka played for New York and Red Klotz for Baltimore in 1947-48 . . . Both were 5-7.

★ ★ ★

Of all the baseball teams, there is only ONE that has been in the big leagues every year since the start of major league ball in 1876 . . . Any idea which team it is? . . . Answer is the Chicago Cubs . . . All other big league teams either started after that or dropped out of the majors for a year or more since then.

Waterford OLL Wins Sixth Straight

Waterford Our Lady of Lakes extended its success string to six in a row and Almont improved its Southern Thumb League title hopes with Tuesday night prep basketball conquests.

Waterford OLL's superior field goal shooting earned it a 71-66 decision over Ortonville Brandon. Almont upset Anchor Bay, 81-73, and dropped the Tars into a tie for first place.

WOLL's Lakers took a seven-point lead early at Ortonville. The Blackhawks struggled into 40-39 and 42-41 leads during the third quarter and were tied, 47-47, at the buzzer.

Then Dan Sioma hit two quick baskets and the Lakers opened a quick 52-47 margin in the final period. Brandon climbed within one at 52-51 but never manged to catch Waterford OLL, again.

Sioma and Brian Haskins gave the visitors control of the backboards at the important stages and the rugged Laker center Sioma led all the marksmen with 10 baskets and 24 points.

* * *

Dennis McCulloch aided the winners' cause with 22 points, 12 in the final period. WOLL is 8-4. Brandon, now 2-9, was paced by Dave Tuttle's 19.

A fine team effort augmented by Tim Reaume's 26 markers spearheaded the Almont victory. Al Currey had 12 points as the Raiders took a 36-28 halftime lead.

In winning their four straight and climbing within one game of Anchor Bay and Capac in the first-place scrap, the Raiders used a running attack to offset the close-in scoring of the visitors' 6-6 Bob Martin who scored 24.

* * *

The Almont quintet amassed a 23-point lead before letting its reserves finish the final four minutes of the tilt. Jim Barnett came off the bench to net 10 points.

Dryden was an 88-85 winner at Richmond.

Mays, Giants in Agreement

Willie Signs Contract for $125,000

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie Mays, who at 35 says he is not ready to start thinking as a coach after his worst season in 1967, has signed his 1968 baseball contract for about $125,000.

Mays' signing was one of six announced Tuesday by the San Francisco Giants. The others and their estimated salaries were pitcher Mike McCormick, $55,000 to $66,000; first baseman Willie McCovey, $60,000, and catcher Tom Haller, infielder Jim Davenport and infielder-outfielder Jim Ray Hart, each about $25,000.

Mays had his poorest season since he joined the Giants in 1954. Last year he batted .263 with 22 homers and 70 runs batted in.

* * *

He got off to a good start last season but pulled a hamstring muscle and then came down with the flu. "I was a little sick; I had an off season, that's all," said Mays. "But I don't want it to sound like an alibi."

WORKING OUT

He and the five others, all of whom live in the San Francisco area, have been working out three times a week in a gymnasium. Mays said he is "ready to go, now. I weigh 186, which I did all year. I feel like I could play 15 more years."

McCovey's salary was reported a little more than in 1967, when he hit 31 homers, had 91 RBI and hit .276.

McCormick, who had a 22-10 record last season and won the Cy Young and Comeback Player of the Year awards, possibly doubled his salary from $30,000.

Pontiac Lake Law Officers Promoted

Three conservation officers assigned to the Pontiac Lake district have been promoted and two field biologist vacancies filled.

Harold Stoll, Rex Glidden and Pat Pyers have been named area supervisors within the district.

Stoll, 49, of 9955 Buckhorn Lake, Rose Township, will have charge of conservation law enforcement in Oakland County. Taking charge in Macomb and the southern half of St. Clair counties will be Glidden, 51, of 158 Croswell, Romeo.

Pyers, 40, of 1412 Oakley Park, Commerce Township, will have charge of Wayne County.

Bill Bullen of Mason is the district's new fish habitat biologist and Dick Elden of Lansing has been named game habitat biologist.

The area supervisor's position is a new one in the law enforcement division. It is designed to improve the effeciency of the division, particulalry in Southern Michigan.

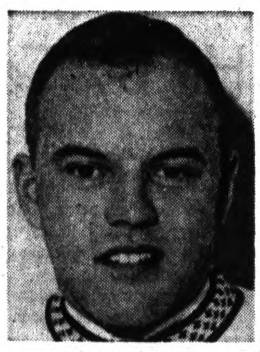

AREA RESIDENTS

Stoll has covered the Fenton and Holly areas since foining the department in 1947. Glidden has been at Romeo since becoming an officer the same year.

Pyers joined the department in 1967 and was stationed at Flat Rock and Cadillac before transferring to Pontiac Lake late last summer.

George Bruso will continue to have charge of overall law enforcement in the district.

Bullen transferred from Mason and will work with district fish biologist Steve Swan. This will be Elden's first assignment with the department. He formerly worked for a chemical concern, and will assist district game biologist Howard Greene.

Writers Give Canada Film Top Billing

Eleven outdoor and travel film producers will be honored at the fifth annual National Outdoor-Travel Film Festival in Cedarville Saturday night.

Sponsored by Michigan Outdoor Writers Association, the festival attracted 40 entries from three countries, a dozen states, government agencies, airlines and companies which make outdoor equipment.

Grand award for best film went to Province of British Columbia for its "Breath of Spring," an essay on how spring comes to a valley and its wild inhabitants.

"The American Sportsman," an ABC-TV program, won three awards: best fishing film, "Panama Sailfish" with Lee Wulff; best hunting film, "The Leopard Hunt;" and a special award in how-to-do it films for "Florida Flycasting" with Lee Wulff.

A free pamphlet describing winning films from this and past festivals and their free sources will be available soon. It can be obtained by writing Charles Welch, Secretary, MOWA, P.O. Box 446, Roscommon, Michigan with a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Violator Sentenced to Jail, $715 Fine

An Oscoda County man has received one of the stiffest penalties for game violations ever handed out in Michigan.

Donald E. Parks of Luzerne was assessed the maximum $200 charge per deer, fined $100, ordered to pay court costs of $15 and sentenced to 15 days in jail for illegally killing three deer near Curran in Alcona County earlier this month.

Justice Morrell Browne of Harrisville levied the $715 in fines, costs and restitution charges.

Under a state law put into effect last year, reimbursement charges, per animal, run up to $300 for elk, $200 for deer and $10 for small game and waterfowl.

Target Program for Civilians Hurt by Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The civilian marksmanship program, long sponsored by the Army, was virtually written out of President Johnson's budget for fiscal 1969.

There's no special allocation for the program in the proposed new budget.

The program — which in past years has helped sponsor the National Rifle and Pistol Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio — received $494 million last year and $428 million this year.

"We thought the money would be there," said a spokesman for the National Rifle Association whose clubs benefitted from the program.

In addition to cosponsoring the matches with the NRA, the Army distributed ammunition to clubs and provided marksmanship medals. It made range facilities available to some clubs and, in some cases, sold ammunition at reduced rates.

Nerves Taut on Area Lakes

Snowmobilers are getting on the nerves of fiishermen and the anglers doing the same to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Only a few of the above mentioned outdoorsmen are causing a tempest to brew, but that's all it takes. The true sportsmen is caught in the middle.

★ ★ ★

Complaints from ice fishermen about being buzzed by snowmobiles are becoming more frequent.

Littering of the ice by fishermen is becoming more prevalent, according to Lt. Don Kratt, head of the sheriff department's water safety division.

"Never have I seen such a mess," said Kratt as he displayed his policing efforts last week on Maceday Lake when over 150 fishermen descended in one day to try for splake.

Empty bottles and broken glass made up most of his unwanted booty. "And this isn't the only lake it is happening on. This littering problem is developing too rapidly all over the county."

Kratt cited daily complaints from lake front-owners regarding litter, mostly empty bottles, and shanties not being properly marked.

TOSSED ASIDE

"Throw-away bottles are the problem," he charged. "It used to be that fishermen would take their empty beer and pop bottles home with them because they were worth something. Now, it's easier to toss them aside.

★ ★ ★

"When the ice goes out these bottles, cans and broken glass seem to zero in on swimming areas, causing a major hazard." Littering violators are subject to jail sentences up to 90 days and fines up to $125.

Shanties that break through soft ice and sink become a hazard to boaters, he said. The sheriff's department removes as many as possible and levies charges and the cost of removal against the owner.

The new law states that all four sides of the shanty must contain the owner's name and address in letters not less than two inches high and with paint that won't dissolve in water.

The safety division officers are now writing tickets for violation of this law. Conservation officers are doing the same.

SLALOM COURSE

War was almost declared on Lake St. Clair last weekend when some snowmobilers started using shanties as a slalom course. Harsh words were sounded and some objects (no known spears) hurled in the direction of the snow machines.

The situation is expected to become more critical on smaller inland lakes.

"Something will have to be done," said Kratt. "We are heading toward the same situation that confronts fishermen, waterskiers and boaters in the summer.

★ ★ ★

"The time is going to come when a certain part of the day will be set aside for fishermen, another part for skiing and another for just boating on lakes. The same probably will hold true in the winter."

Some Confusion on Fish Licenses Noted in State

Some Michigan fishermen haven't been getting what they paid for when they applied for their 1968 licenses, the Conservation Department reports.

In apparent confusion over the new license forms, some dealers have only been handing out identification cards to fishing license buyers this year. By themselevs, the "ID" cards are no more than simple pieces of paper.

Under the state's revised licensing requirements one or more appropriate stamps must be affixed to the "ID" card to make them valid for fishing.

An exception involves senior residents 65 years and older who need a separate license for all types of fishing. They are not required to buy stamps for trout fishing.

BIG TARGET — David Robinson, 3641 Covert, Waterford Township, displays the 18½-pound northern pike he speared Saturday at Watkins Lake. The day before he zeroed in on a 13-pounder. Both pike were taken in about nine feet of water.

Expense Account Probed

Fishing Trip Stirs Senate Tempest

LANSING (AP) — Two Democratic senators have been accused by a Republican of taking an unauthorized $2,050 fishing trip at state expense to north-western Canada under the guise of studying Great Lakes fishing.

Sen. John Toepp, R-Cadillac, said Sens. Basil Brown of Highland Park and Stanley Novak of Detroit made the trip to Great Bear Lake last August while serving on a special interim committee which he headed.

The committee had been formed to study Coho salmon planting, the alewife problem and gill netting.

Brown and Novak turned in to the secretary of the senate expense accounts totaling $2,050 which subsequently were paid without his authorization, Toepp charged.

Answering the charges, Brown and Novak said they had received committee approval to take the trip and that a brochure from the lodge at which they later stayed had been made available to Toepp.

Great Bear Lake is noted for its lake trout and grayling.

DIFFERENT VIEW

Toepp said he had been under the impression Brown and Novak were going to the Sylvania Tract in the Upper Peninsula to study and report on steelhead and coho salmon planting.

Toepp said he and the other two committee members, Sens. Oscar Bouwsma of Muskegon and the late Harold Volkema of Holland, both Republicans, turned in expense accounts totaling "between $400 and $500."

The senator said he has met with the Senate Business Committee regarding the matter and had been instructed to hold a meeting of his committee "for a fuller explanation of the expense accounts."

"As soon as we can we'll hold a committee meeting," Toepp said. "I want to air this. I never authorized a $2,050 fishing trip. I don't like being made a patsy."

"Had a $2,050 expense voucher been presented for my okay I'm positive I would never okay it," Toepp said.

The Republican said his committee work entailed meeting with Upper Peninsula sports and commercial fishermen on gill netting problems.

Meetings also were held in Grand Haven, Muskegon and South Haven, he said.

Brown said he requested at a committee meeting "that a motion be made that Novak and given me in support. I make the trip. It was okayed."

SPORT FISHING

"The committee was set up to study commerical and sport fishing," Brown said. "That's why he went up there."

"The trip was okayed by everybody involved," said Novak.

Toepp said he has, ready to file, a 224-page report on his committee work in the UP.

Asked if he planned to file a report on his trip, Brown said: "I'll give Jack Toepp the same kind of report that he has given me in support."

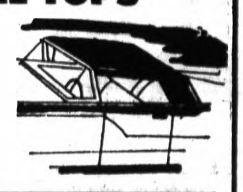

No Politics, Says Bear

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Bear Bryant, Alabama football coach, said Tuesday night he has "no political ambitions" and will not be a candidate for the U. S. Senate.

Stock Market Drifts Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined moderately in active trading early this afternoon as interest in glamor issues continued to wane.

Investors' disenchantment with the recent high-flyers spread again to the blue chips.

★ ★ ★

Brokers said the market also was depressed by the United States' critical problems in Asia and dissatisfaction with which President Johnson's budget has been received.

★ ★ ★

Declines among individual stocks exceeded advances by a margin of nearly 2 to 1.

Steels, rubbers, mail order-retails, electronics, nonferrous metals, tobaccos and drugs were mostly lower.

DECLINE

The Guns of Judgment Day

Cliff Farrell's new Western thriller

From the Doubleday & Co. novel; Copyright © 1967, by Cliff Farrell. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

Chapter 19

Dan Briscoe and Kathleen Royal pulled up their horses and stared. The flock had plunged down a sheer drop. Dead animals were in heaps below the ledge. Other carcasses floated in eddies in the river, or were trapped by boulders in the rapids.

Kathleen did not approach; there was no need. She swung her horse around and headed back. She attempted to veer wide of the sheep ranch, but Lavinia Shannon and her son would have none of that. They climbed into one of the wool wagons, and drove to intercept her.

"Well?" Lavinia Shannon challenged.

"I tell you again, Lavinia, I know nothing about this," Kathleen said. "Nor does my father, I promise."

★ ★ ★

"That's what you and your father said when our best rams were shot last winter. And when my husband died of exertion, trying to save a wool wagon when its brakes failed, and it and the team went through the ice in the river. Somebody had pulled the bolt out of the brakerod. And there was the time that flock had been left to the wolves after our herder was terrorized into deserting by masked riders who—"

DENIAL OF GUILT

"I say it for the last time, Lavinia. Spanish Bell had nothing to do with any of those things."

"Have you asked your father? Just because Bill Royal is in a wheel chair doesn't mean he's completely harmless."

"And who put him in a wheel chair, Lavinia? His horse didn't fall into that coulee accidentally after our beef holdout had been stampeded," Kathleen said. "It was shot. Where were your two hired homesteaders that night, Lavinia?"

★ ★ ★

Lavinia Shannon laughed mirthlessly. "It's an old way, Katey, blackening the kettle, then blaming someone else. Speaking of hiring riders, I suppose you know nothing about this man who's with you."

'HE'S LEAVING'

"Why should I?" Kathleen answered. "He's only a cowboy, looking for work. He's leaving Flat Butte. He's seen all he wants of this country, I imagine."

"Let's hope that's true," Heber Shannon said. "He don't stack up like a cowhand to me. I smell gunman."

Kathleen kneed her horse into motion, and the Shannons made no further move to stop her. Dan rode with her.

Heber Shannon shouted after them, "Tell your riders we shoot to kill from now on if they cross our fences. Night or day."

KATHLEEN WEEPS

After they were at a distance, Kathleen began to weep. "I grew up with Heber and Abel Shannon," she sobbed. "We went to school together. Lavinia was like a second mother to me. Now, Abel is dead and Heber tells me he'll shoot to kill. What has happened? How did we come to such terrible hatred?"

Dan said nothing. Words were useless. Her grief ran too deep, the tragedy too poignant. He waited for the storm to ease. They left Shannon range, crossing the cattle guard at the fence before he spoke.

"Tell me about it," he said. "Don't keep it bottled up."

"What do you want to know?" he asked tiredly.

★ ★ ★

"You say you families were friends in the past. But, sheep and cattle don't mix, so I've been told."

HUMAN VS. HUMAN

"They don't usually fight each other, either," she said. "There have been sheep and cattle feuds, of course. But there has also been sheepmen against sheepmen, and cattlemen against cattlemen. It isn't a matter of cattle against sheep. It's humans against humans."

She added fiercely, "Greed against greed!"

"Is that what started it? Greed?"

"What else? The Shannons decided they wanted to spread out. The only direction they can spread is into Spanish Bell range."

"When did they first get that notion?"

"It's been building up for — it must be going on two years now. It's been about a year since Abel Shannon and Tom Randall were killed."

BROTHER KILLED

"Abel Shannon was a brother of the one back there, I take it. How was he killed?"

"From ambush at night," she said. "The same way Tom was shot.

"We learned the Shannons weren't exactly the friends they pretended to be. We were told they intended to buy us out cheap, or break us so we'd have to sell. Matt Shannon accused my father of passing gossip about the Shannons that wasn't true.

"We heard the Shannons were trying to get their hands on a mortgage the bank in Flat Butte holds against Spanish Bell. One thing led to another. Then my fiance was murdered."

"By the Shannons?"

"Probably not by them in person. More likely by some of those fake homesteaders they've brought in to steal our cattle and cut our fences."

"Such as the one who tried to crowd Emmons into a gunfight in Flag?"

"Yes. That awful Tom Smith, if that's his real name, which I doubt. And that other one who calls himself Jim Martin."

"Their real names are Shepley Sand and Gideon Marko," Dan said. "Killers."

"Are you sure?"

"I'm sure."

"Do they know you?"

"I don't believe they do."

"Then how is it you know them?"

"By reputation, mainly. You called all these homesteaders fakes. They can't all be like Sand and Marko. I saw women and children around those shacks."

"Someone is furnishing them with food and clothing. The women dress better than they ever did in their lives."

"Shannon money?"

"What else? Shacktown serves as a blind for bringing in men like the two you named to drive us to ruin."

"Ruin? Is it that bad?"

"We're in so deep at the bank Sidney Kain says he can't give us an extension. Obie Willit at the store is an old friend, but he can't carry us any longer either. He already holds two of our promissory notes, and wants to be paid."

"From talk I heard in Flag, the Shannons don't seem to be exactly rolling in money," Dan commented. "How can they afford to hire troubleshooters?"

"We didn't know what was going on until it was almost too late," she said. "We thought at first we were just having bad luck."

"Like that bunch of dead sheep in the gorge?"

Her lips tightened. "That could have been an accident. It wouldn't have been the first time a thing like that happened."

"That dead Spanish Bell horse? Was that an accident?"

"I don't know. I only know that it's now a case of survival."

Lightning Strikes Home of Envoy

BLANTYRE, Malawi (AP) — Lightning struck the home of U.S. Ambassador Marshall P. Jones twice Tuesday night, but no one was hurt.

"The first strike hit a step and smashed it," Jones said. "Later another flash hit our phone wires and blew all the jacks out of their sockets."

Cut Your Own Taxes—9

Some of Pay Received While Sick May Be Exempt

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the ninth of 14 articles by a tax expert and veteran newsman aimed at persons with average incomes.)

By RAY DE CRANE
NEA Publications

Some, or all, of the wages or salary you received from your employer while you were absent from work because of sickness or injury may be exempt from tax.

★ ★ ★

The amount depends upon the length of your absence and the percentage of normal pay received.

Let's consider first the income earner who in 1967 received more than 75 per cent of his regular pay (it could have been full salary).

In his case, sick pay exclusion begins after a 30-day waiting period. After the 30-day period the sick-pay exclusion is the full wage payment up to a weekly maximum of $100.

★ ★ ★

For periods of less than a full week compute the exclusion on this basis: If you normally work a five-day week the maximum daily exclusion is $20 or actual pay, whichever is lesser; for a six-day week the lesser of $16.67 a day or actual pay.

DIFFERENT RULES

Entirely different rules apply when sick pay is on the basis of 75 per cent or less of regular pay.

In such cases the waiting period is reduced to seven calendar days. Thereafter, the sick pay exclusion is on the basis of actual pay received or $75 a week, whichever is lesser.

If the employe on such a reduced income basis during illness or injury is hospitalized at least one day his exclusion begins from the first day of such enforced absence.

★ ★ ★

After the first 30 days his exclusion goes up to the weekly maximum of $100 or actual pay, whichever is lesser.

Paper Strike Talks Resume

Teamster Leader Says Union Wants to Settle

DETROIT (UPI) — Negotiations were to resume today between the Detroit Newspaper Publishers Association and the Teamsters union in an attempt to end the city's 77-day-old newspaper blackout.

★ ★ ★

The meeting was scheduled after Robert Holmes, international vice president of the Teamsters, met with members of Local 372 yesterday.

Holmes said the union was anxious to settle the strike which closed the Detroit News Nov. 16 and prompted the Detroit Free Press to suspend publication the next day.

A special State Senate committee investigating the strike was scheduled to hold its first hearing in Detroit today. The committee, headed by Sen. Robert Huber, R-Birmingham, was to probe allegations that some union officials were involved, financially and otherwise, in the publishing of several interim newspapers.

★ ★ ★

A congressional investigation also was launched last week at the request of Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich.

SUSPENDED PUBLICATION

The last two interim newspapers, the Daily Press and the Daily Express, suspended publication last week rather than bow to union demands that they hire all idle News and Free Press Teamster members.

★ ★ ★

In late December, the union overwhelmingly rejected a three-year contract offer from the newspapers that would increase salaries by $27 per week.

★ ★ ★

The newspapers, which bargain jointly through the publishers association, also must settle contracts with 13 craft unions.

Cities Cry for Transport Help

By Science Service

WASHINGTON—Ogden Nash once titled a book of verse "You Can't Get There from Here."

Sometimes, in America's cities, the phrase seems to hold more truth than poetry. Swallowing (and often choking on) a heavy breakfast of automobiles each morning, regurgitating them each night, with kinks in the intestines and grief in the tubes, the city has been crying for help.

Transportation doctors have rushed forward with ideas. These tend to be highly imaginative, and, like many prescriptions, immensely expensive, with no guarantee of health.

At the current Washington meeting of the Highway Research Board and elsewhere, proposals have been made to provide:

- Small busses directed by computer to individual homes;
- One - passenger electric automatics running on exclusive one-way tracks;
- Overhead four-passenger automatic cars;
- Subway systems with rotating loading platforms so the cars don't have to stop;
- Two-passenger overhead downtown carriers combined with suburban highspeed pneumatic-tube trains;
- Huge airliners carrying self-contained busses which would collect and distribute passengers on the ground.

★ ★ ★

All these varied proposals have three things in common: they are aimed at solving the transportation mess, they would be very costly, even on a pilot scale, and nobody knows if they would work.

FACTORS OF ACCEPTANCE

So many factors enter into public acceptance of a particular type of transportation that choosing one to try out is a form of economic Russian roulette. No private industry is going to finance such experiments without government support, and the political consequences of an expensive failure are enough to chill the public blood.

The four-passenger overhead system could cost $700,000 per mile and $12,000 per car, for example.

The Bureau of Public Roads, trying to reduce the odds, had hired a research firm to build a computer model that would give planners some idea of the kind of transportation needed for different situations, and evaluate the chances that a particular scheme would fill those requirements.

The program, called AFT for "Analysis of the Functions of Transportation," is nearing completion of its first-generation form. It is designed to allow planners to feed in data on the amount of cargo, human and otherwise, to be moved; the constraints — natural, man-made, political and human—involved, and the performance required in terms of comfort, convenience, safety and cost.

Out of the model should come information on the kind of transportation system that would meet those requirements.

★ ★ ★

In another mode, characteristics of a particular transportation system could be fed in, and its safety, cost, and convenience determined.

TOOL FOR INSIGHT

With this tool, says Peter J. Mettam of Booz-Allen Applied Research, Inc., which is developing it, the planner should have some deeper insight into the areas that need technological advancement.

There has been virtual stagnation in innovation in ground transportation, says Mettam, with most efforts aimed at marginal improvements in present products. Part of this comes from the expense of trying out ideas; another cause is the big public and private investment in present systems that could become obsolete.

Another problem planners face lies in designing a transport system for existing conditions, knowing very well that new means of transportation can change those conditions radically. Here AFT should also help, making it possible to predict the effect of changing conditions on system performance.

★ ★ ★

But AFT, Mettam emphasizes, is only in the first generation stage. "It won't do anything very sophisticated for some time," he says.

Dr. Harry Weingarten, BPR science adviser who is running the AFT program, says he hopes the Bureau will be able to offer planners, by the end of the year, a tool to make rational decisions on alternative solutions to transportation problems.

Until it does, Russian roulette is likely to gain, if not popularity, at least frequency, among transportation officials.

Scientists believe that regeneration of human organs is suggested by recent experiments showing that it may be possible to take a single cell nucleus from an animal and reimplant it in a fertilized egg cell to produce an animal identical to the first.

GOP Faction Backs Redford Vote Probe

A proposed investigation into alleged voting irregularities in Redford Township during the 1966 congressional primary election has received the support of an Oakland County Republican splinter group.

The organization, known as the Official 19th District Republican Executive Committee, although it isn't recognized by the GOP State Central Committee, is urging legislators to launch a full-scale probe into the election which saw Jack McDonald win the Republican nomination over Richard Kuhn, a Pontiac attorney.

McDonald later defeated Democratic incumbent Congressman Billie S. Farnum.

A recount requested by Kuhn following the primary did not change the vote substantially. Recently more questions about the election were raised in a highly critical book about Gov. Romney, "The Romney Riddle," written by Gerald O. Plas.

As a result of the book, State Rep. John Bennett, D-Redford Township, proposed on Jan. 10 that a legislative committee be established to look into the allegations.

GROUPS' RESOLUTION

In a resolution, the dissident 19th District Committee, said that "public confidence in the integrity of our election procedures (and the willingness of our party to properly police itself) will suffer grieviously should these allegations of weakness or corruption not be thoroughly investigated and explained."

★ ★ ★

The committee said that the investigation should be conducted openly by a House or Senate special study committee "who, with their ability to subpoena witnesses and accept testimony under oath, might quickly establish the truth, or falsity, of the disturbing circumstances."

More Work Needed on New N-Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States disclosed today much work remains to be done on its newest nuclear missile warheads.

But officials voiced confidence that "real, reliable hardware" would be ready for production when newly expanded plants are opened to handle the work.

Word that further, non-nuclear development work remains to be done on the warheads came out only two days after the Atomic Energy Commission revealed plans for a major new expansion of eight of its weapons production plants.

In the earlier disclosure, the AEC said the expansion was designed to produce nuclear warheads for the Sentinel antiballistic missile system ticketed for defense against any Red Chinese nuclear threat. Other advanced weapons systems, including the submarine-launched Poseidon and the land-based Minuteman 3, also will be produced in the expanded plants.

NOT YET READY

The word that these missiles are not ready came out after a reporter asked the AEC for amplification of a terse reference in the commission's annual report today to Congress, declaring:

"A major effort (in weapons development) is being devoted to the development of new nuclear warheads required by the Department of Defense."

★ ★ ★

One AEC weapons official said prototypes of all the newest missiles "have been tested nuclearly, and we are sure of the concepts, but details of design" remain to produce "real, reliable hardware capable of being readily used by the armed forces."

Expansion of the weapons-production plants is expected to be completed by late 1971.

PRODUCTION TIME

The official did not say whether some production might be possible in some plants prior to 1971.

But he said, in answer to questions, it's conceivable further improvements could be made in the missiles in the meantime.

★ ★ ★

Ironically, word of the big thrust to perfect and produce the missiles came in a report in which the AEC said the dominating highlight of the nation's atomic energy program in 1967 concerned the peaceful uses of the atom.

The commission said this was "the surge toward greater use of nuclear power to meet the nation's electricity needs of the future . . ."

OPERATING PLANTS

Indeed, said the report, nuclear power plants already operating, under construction, or on order will yield in a few years a civilian nuclear-generating capacity "comparable to that of the natonal total distribution immediately before World War II.

The commission also reported new advances in humanitarian uses of the atom in a range from two promising new techniques for treating certain cancers with radioactive materials to the development of a method for radioactively tagging disease-bearing ticks that promises help in fighting some of mankind's worst diseases.

The Johnson administration's budget requests for the AEC during fiscal 1969 mark the first time since 1965 that proposed spending for military activities will exceed that scheduled for peaceful purposes. The report did not discuss this point.

Air Condition for Outdoors

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Roy Hoffheinz, president of the Astrodome Corp., who air-conditioned the 9½ acre, 710-foot-diameter Astrodome — is about to air-condition the outdoors as well.

Hoffheinz has announced plans for a family entertainment center adiacent to the domed stadium. Called Astroworld, the 56-acre fun park will open next summer.

William J. Bailey, president of Carrier Air Conditioning Co. of Syracuse, N.Y., said that his firm will supply 2,000 tons of cooling capacity to air condition all shaded outdoor areas, including many of the rides as well as the waiting areas, walkways, etc.

Two Detroit Suburbs OK 'Frisk' Law

WARREN (AP)—In a 5-4 vote Tuesday, the Warren City Commission approved a "stop-and-frisk" law, becoming the second Michigan community within the last two days to pass such a measure.

The day before, councilmen in the nearby city of Fraser supported a stop-and-frisk law. Both are identical to a law passed in Dearborn recently.

★ ★ ★

The Warren ordinance, third in the state, will become law 20 days after publication.

Councilman Joseph Perry, who voted for the proposal, said he has "had it with threats from the Inner City, the rising crime rate and total disregard for law and order.

'LIFE MISERABLE'

"I'll do everything in my power to make life just as miserable as I possibly can for anybody who in any way shows any disregard for law enforcement or thinks they can come out here and raise any kind of cain," he said. "We will not stand for it."

★ ★ ★

Councilman Don Binkowski, who opposed the measure, said he thinks people are being deceived and that the ordinance was passed out of frustration.

"I detected an air of McCarthyism," Binkowski said. "You couldn't really objectively discuss this law because the people think that we have here some kind of miracle solution to a very complex problem."

Wallace Won't Enter N. H. Race

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A spokesman for former Gov. George Wallace said today he will not run in the presidential primary in New Hampshire March 12.

★ ★ ★

"The decision has been made not to run in the New Hampshire primary," said Cecil Jackson, one of Wallace's campaign managers. "There never was any decision made to enter the primary as was reported from New Hampshire last week."

Another Island?

Geophysicists maintain that the forces that produced Easter Island in the South Pacific and Old Faithful Geyser in Yellowstone Park, Wyoming, are manifestations of the same geological feature, a rift in the earth's crust.

Air pollution is costing agriculture at least $500 million a year, experts estimate, in damage to plants and in depressed growth of livestock.

Winner Has No Space for Craft

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — So a 13-year-old-boy writes his name and address on a coupon from a model kit, sends it in and forgets about it.

Time passes. Then back comes a 3,500-pound 3,500-pound spacecraft, 19 feet long.

★ ★ ★

It's a full-scale mock-up of a Gemini spacecraft and won't fly, so he has given it to the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry. Besides, young Robbie Hanshew's home isn't big enough for it.

His consolation, also from winning the contest sponsored by the model manufacturer, consists of a guitar, an asortment of model kits — and a five-year supply of ice cream.

Antismoking Drive Slapped

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina division of the American Cancer Society has registered its disapproval—"in a very polite way" — of an antismoking campaign planned by the national organization.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Rachel Davis of Kinston introduced the resolution, which she called "a very polite expression of disapproval" of the drive to ban cigarette advertisements and discourage smoking in hospitals and doctors' offices.

There were only two dissenting votes when the 100-man board adopted the resolution Tuesday. About half of the board members are physicians.

★ ★ ★

Cigarette manufacturing and tobacco growing are major industries in North Carolina, the only state without a state tax on cigarettes.

Most-Wanted List Drops 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation has removed a man from its "10 most-wanted" list, not because agents caught him but because he died.

★ ★ ★

An FBI spokesman said Monroe Hickson, wanted for unlawful flight to avoid imprisonment for murder, died of apparent natural causes in North Carolina Memorial Hospital, Chapel Hill, N.C., where he was known as Willie Tyler.

The spokesman said Hickson was wanted on the unlawful flight charge in Columbia, S.C.

Small Fire Hits N.Y. Governor's Mansion

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A small fire caused slight damage Tuesday night to the roof of the governor's mansion here.

Firemen, investigating smoke from the mansion roof, found a short-circuit in an antennae cable.

Gov. and Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller were away from the mansion.

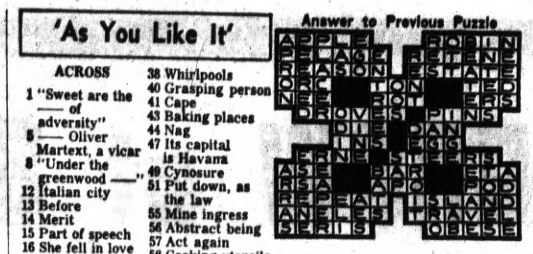

On March 2, 1961, flames swept the mansion and destroyed an irreplacable collection of paintings owned by the governor.

A Look at TV

Ford's Theater Reopens

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The historic reopening of Ford's Theater, where Abraham Lincoln was shot, was preserved for posterity by CBS-TV last night in a broadcast covering the performances and the dignitaries present.

"Inaugural Evening at Ford's Theater" was the title of the one-hour program from Washington, D.C., and the dignified but lively entertainment was keyed to the theme of the slain President's love of the performing arts.

The restored theater fairly gleamed in its new beauty, and was as much a part of the historic impact as the frequent sight of the box where the shooting took place.

After a brief recapitulation of that event by CBS-TV, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey made some introductory remarks to the audience present, which included other high government figures, and then the theatrical program began.

The format was a blend of narrative and dramatic readings, song and dance, and theatrical excerpts, all stemming from the life, humor, historic relevance and entertainment tastes of Lincoln.

SIMPLE, INFORMAL

John Houseman's direction and Paul Shyre's script gave to the event a simplicity and civilized informality.

Helen Hayes was the first performer to set foot on the stage of the theater since April 14, 1865, the night Lincoln was shot.

Others participating in Tuesday night's program were Fredric March, Henry Fonda, Harry Belafonte, Andy Williams, Robert Ryan, Richard Crenna, Odetta, Nine Foch, opera singer Patricia Brooks and dancer Carmen de Lavallade.

There was no attempt whatever at theatrical ostentation. The stage was bare except for the orchestra behind it and the few lecterns for the readers. The performers simply walked on and off.

Six Oregon Deaths Linked to Diet Pills

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Oregon medical official says he believes diet pills caused at least six deaths in his state.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Russell C. Henry, chief medical investigator for the Oregon Board of Health, told a Senate Judiciary subcommittee:

★ ★ ★

"Over a period of a little less than four years, I was able to identify at least six, with possibly two or three more, deaths which I feel were due to these weight-reduction pills, the so-called 'rainbow pills.'"

★ ★ ★

Henry said taking a large variety of drugs is "completely unnecessary for weight control.

"This can best and most physiologically be accomplished by dietary control supplemented by controlled exercise," he said.

★ ★ ★

Dall Holland, county coroner at Effingham, Ill., said: "We in Illinois have had approximately 14 suspected deaths from diet medication pill ingestion."

The comments by Henry and Holland were in statements proposed for delivery today.

Celebrities Have a Feast Filming Cat Food Plugs

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Cats! I never saw so many cats outside a cattery. There were at least 30 cats, all TV performers, prowling their cages in the back room of a studio 'way over west on 59th St.

WILSON

Cat lovers Casey Stengel, Jack Dempsey, Jane Russell and Betty Grable were filming cat food commercials.

A cat named Stinky fell in love with Jack Dempsey's hair tonic, licked Jack's face, then nibbled at his hair.

"Ouch!" said Jack as though Jess Willard'd hit him, and untangled Stinky from his head.

Cat trainer Len Brooks, who owns the cats and rents them to the sponsors, does pretty well with cats.

"Cats don't get residuals," he mentioned. "I charge $125 a day for me and one cat, and if they want a lot of cats, we make a deal."

★ ★ ★

Jane Russell knocked off her commercial in 15 minutes, brilliantly, and even improved the script. She was petting this cat and telling about the cat food. "He eats it day and night," she said. Then slipping in some sex, she said, "By the way, where were you last night?"—to the cat.

Not that Casey Stengel wasn't brilliant, too. Great bunch of cats," ole Case said, "except none of 'em can go to their left."

Oregon's Governor Has Tall Problems

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon rested comfortably Tuesday in a Salem hospital.

There was no change in his physical condition since he entered the hospital Monday with virus pneumonia.

But a spokesman for the governor said there will be a physical change in his room.

The governor, who is 6 feet, 5 inches tall, was given a 6-foot, 6-inch bed. The hospital has agreed to find him a 7-foot bed as soon as possible.

Phone, School Crises Linked

BURLEY, Idaho (AP) — When strong winds piled snow drifts across roads and forced closing of many schools in southern Idaho Tuesday, reports also circulated that telephone lines were damaged.

Not so, said Dean Gibson, Burley manager for Mountain States Telephone.

"School is out and the kids are tying up the lines. It's the biggest mess I've seen in a long time," he said of the telephone situation.

Spaniard Emerges After 21-Year Exile

SAN FERNANDO, Spain (AP) — Juan Rodriguez Aragon, 67, who locked himself up in his house when the Spanish civil war started July 18, 1936, surrendered to the authorities Tuesday, the Spanish news agency Cifra reported.

★ ★ ★

Aragon, a carpenter when hostilities began, told officials he was afraid that political articles he used to write in a local magazine might bring reprisals.

★ ★ ★

Cifra said his family used to tell friends Juan had disappeared. Authorities indicated he would be questioned and then released since there were no charges against him.

19 VC Perish in Attack on Embassy

SAIGON (AP) — A Vietcong suicide squad perished under fire at the U.S. Embassy today while guerrillas afield pressed a mosaic of attacks throughout South Vietnam that was costing them 10 men dead for every allied soldier they killed.

President Nguyen Van Thieu proclaimed martial law.

As darkness fell, U.S. Army helicopter gunships raked Vietcong troops trapped at the west end of the Tan Son Nhut airbase.

Snipers were reported still firing on parts of the sprawling airbase, some of them only 200 yards away from the new "Pentagon East," U.S. military headquarters of Gen William C. Westmoreland.

The Communists extended their coordinated lunar new year offensive across the country while concentrationg against Saigon their biggest assault of the war on the South Vietnamese capital.

★ ★ ★

Parts of Saigon became a battleground.

Five Americans and 19 guerrillas were killed before U.S. forces regained control of the embassy compound, scene of the most spectacular in a series of raids in Saigon. Eleven Americans were wounded in the six-hour engagement there.

Gen. Westmoreland said he believed the enemy attacks were a diversionary effort "to take attention away from the northern part of the country."

★ ★ ★

The threat there is a major offensive by North Vietnamese divisions, some already south of the demilitarized zone.

Tanks, artillery and machinegun fire rattled through the streets. Civilians as well as military personnel fell in the crossfire.

Thieu called on his people to remain calm. His proclamation of martial law means that the Saigon government will rule by decree until further notice, rather than under the constitution inaugurated last year.

He ordered the closing of all places of entertainment but told his people: "Our armed forces have had the situation under control since the very outset."

While peace appeared restored at the embassy, action continued in various parts of downtown Saigon 20 hours after the shelling of the city began, signaling the start of guerrilla action.

Three explosions were heard tonight in the downtown area, and a military spokesman said it was believed mortar fire was responsible. There was also the possibility that it involved allied rather than Vietcong initiative.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker said the attack in early morning darkness on the new $2.6-million embassy, hailed as terrorist-proof at its dedication last fall, "was obviously premeditated and planned well in advance."

In a general appraisal of the situation, Bunker said "Certainly none of these attacks have been successful."

Military casualty figures were incomplete, but spokesmen said allied forces had killed 2,643 Communist troops across the country in the 48 hours before today.

Preliminary reports said 68 Americans and 178 South Vietnamese soldiers were killed.

Consumers Plans Expansion in Area

Continuing growth will result in the investment in the Pontiac area of $5.9 million during 1968 by Consumers Power Co., Charles F. Brown, Pontiac division manager, said today.

A new service center for the division is under construction on Featherstone Avenue. Completion of the building, which will include office and warehouse space for 390 employes, is scheduled for this spring, Brown said.

"Total expenditures for 1967 equaled $6.5 million. However, this included the largest portion of the expenditures for the new service center. Construction on other facilities is up in 1968," Brown said.

The gas department will install nearly 85 miles of new gas mains and services to bring natural gas to an additional 3,900 customers this year. In addition, improvement projects involving several miles of older mains are included.

★ ★ ★

A new six-inch steel line is being installed to replace a cast iron main in Waterford, Pontiac and Orion townships.

INCREASE SUPPLY

The supply of gas to Pontiac and nearby areas will be augmented by a 2½-mile 16-inch main to be built on Columbia Avenue from Princeton Road and the Grand Trunk Western Railroad to the intersection of Dixie Highway and Telegraph Road. Part of the new main will replace an existing six-inch line in the same general location.

A general rebuilding of sections of electric lines serving Bloomfield, Rundell and Paddock substations is scheduled, Brown said.

A new distribution substation, labeled Stockwell, is to be constructed near the downtown area.

Construction will start soon on the new Catalina Substation, Montcalm Avenue, to serve the electric metal melting requirements of Pontiac Motor Division. The new Tempest Substation will be placed in operation by summer.

The division serves 14,500 electric and 64,800 gas customers in a 420-square-mile area, Brown said.

RECORD EXPANSION

The Pontiac area investment is part of Consumers Power Co. record $187-million expansion and improvement program in 1968. The company provides electricity to over 1,000,000 customers, and gas to over 750,000 customers, in a combined service area which encompasses all but one of the 68 counties of Michigan's Lower Peninsula.

Three major electric plants account for large shares of the 1968 capital budget of his company, Brown said. The Palisades nuclear plant, 35 miles west of Kalamazoo, is expected to be in commercial operation by 1970, with initial capacity of 710,000 kilowatts, and eventual capability expected to exceed 800,000 kilowatts.

Preliminary engineering work on the Ludington pumped storage hydroelectric plant will get under way in 1968, but actual construction will not start until 1969.

A third nuclear generating station, to be built by Consumers Power, will be located near Midland, and about $1 million will be spent on engineering work in 1968.

Final OK for Open Housing

City commissioners last night gave expected final approval to an open-housing ordinance for Pontiac. The ordinance becomes law Feb. 9. The vote was 4-3.

The same four commissioners who last week gave preliminary approval to the ordinance voted in its favor this week.

Voting in favor were Commissioners T. Warren Fowler Jr., District 1; Leslie H. Hudson, District 4; James H. Marshall, District 7; and Mayor William H. Taylor Jr.

Voting against open housing were Robert C. Irwin, District 2; John A. Dugan, District 5; and Wesley J. Wood, District 6.

★ ★ ★

The ordinance will prohibit discrimination by reason of religion, race, color or national origin in the sale or rental of any real property located in the city.

AMENDMENT

Violators could be subject to a fine of up to $100 or up to 90 days in jail, or both.

An amendment offered last night by Commissioner Marshall broadened the type of housing to be excluded from provisions of the ordinance.

Specifically excluded are duplexes, three-unit or less apartment buildings, and rental of rooms (to three or less persons) in a single-family residence.

★ ★ ★

In each case the dwelling must be occupied "as a home by the owner or a member of his immediate family, or by the lessee of the entire structure, or a member of his immediate family."

GETS APPROVAL

The amendment was approved by a 4-2 vote. Voting against it were Commissioner Irwin and Commissioner Wood. Commissioner Dugan abstained.

Irwin said the commission was creating a situation where "one type of property owner can discriminate and another can't."

He said the amendment only tends to "sweeten this type of legislation" from a practical, political point of view."

★ ★ ★

Marshall said the amendment was for the benefit of older residents with large houses and without children at home, who rent rooms or small apartments to supplement meager incomes."

GM Layoffs Up Despite Accord

DETROIT (AP) — Despite reopening of two foundries and tentative strike settlement at a third, layoffs in General Motors Corp. plants across the country rose to 128,700 yesterday.

While recalling 11,100 to work, GM said that it had laid off 20,800, effective as of midnight.

The new layoffs, as have others over the last 10 days, were laid to a parts shortage in supply lines from foundries at Defiance, Ohio; Saginaw, and Massena, N.Y.

GM said it was not yet certain when pipelines will be refilled and all workers returned to their jobs.

★ ★ ★

The foundries were struck in support of demands made by the United Auto Workers Union in bargaining for new at-the-plant working agreements which supplement the national GM-UAW contract. Together, the foundries employed 11,200 workers.

FOUNDRIES REOPEN

A central division foundry at Defiance went back into operation Monday, and a Chevrolet foundry at Saginaw returned both its gray iron and nodular iron divisions to work today. Workers at a Chevrolet foundry in Tonawanda are to vote tomorrow on a new agreement.

City Commmission Okays Spending of Income Tax

BY BOB WISLER

Despite opposition of two of its members, the City Commission decided last night to spend the city's income tax money.

The commission voted 5-2 to utilize money collected from the disputed city income tax and to cut the property tax levy by 3 mills ($3 per thousand of assessed valuation).

The income tax was declared valid by Circuit Judge William J. Beer earlier this month, but income tax foes have filed appeal papers hoping to eventually overturn that decision.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren was ordered last night to prepare a revised 1968 budget calling for use of $2,211,000 in income tax revenue and $2,981,000 in property tax revenue.

The total is up some $933,000 from the budget approved by the commission earlier in the month. That would have used only the 10-mill property tax levy authorized by the city charter.

Warren said the increased revenue available will allow some new services including the hiring of 12 new police officers.

EYE PAY HIKES

The bulk of the increase is expected to go for employe pay and fringe benefit increases. Negotiations with city employes are continuing this week.

The commission also voted 5-2 against the city attempting to seek an early hearing in the State Supreme Court to an appeal which might lead to eventual invalidation of the income tax.

In the minority in each of the votes were District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin and District 4 Commissioner Leslie H. Hudson.

★ ★ ★

Irwin said that although there is no question the city government needs the additional money to be derived from an income tax "you can't spend something you don't have."

'CITY NOT SURE'

He said the city is not sure that the income tax will not in the future be invalidated and that the tax money will have to be returned.

Irwin said the city should before spending any of the income tax "make every possible effort to determine whether or not we have an income tax."

Death Toll at 7 in Pennsylvania Blast

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The death toll climbed to seven early today in an explosion that rocked the business district of suburban Ingram, shaking homes a half mile away.

One person was still reported missing and 17 injured after firemen pulled a badly-burned unidentified body from the wreckage.

Workers at the scene said one man was thrown 90 feet across railroad tracks. Three were hurled against an iron fence 25 feet away by the explosion yesterday.

What had been a row of five business shops was leveled almost to the street.

The buildings exploded while a 12-man Equitable Gas Co. crew was ripping up sidewalk outside looking for a gas leak. Five of the dead were Equitable workers.

WORKING ON GAS MAIN

"Who knows what triggered the explosion?" said a gas company spokesman. "Actually, the real cause probably will never be known.

The blast ripped apart a beauty shop, a tailor shop, two real estate offices and a cleaning shop. There were apartments on the second floors of the two-story frame buildings.

South Korea Irked by Pueblo Emphasis

SEOUL (AP) — South Korea's foreign minister asserted today that more attention should be paid to the Communist attempt to assassinate President Chung Hee Park than to North Korea's seizure of the USS Pueblo. His remarks were interpreted as an expression of government displeasure with U.S. handling of the current Korean crisis.

The South Korean government will "categorically oppose" any additional U.S. moves to emphasize the Pueblo case in efforts for an over-all settlement of the Korean situation, Foreign Minister Choi Kyu-hah told a news conference.

Choi said his government also will object to any direct bilateral talks between the United States and the North Koreans and to any proposal to exchange the Pueblo crewmen for North Korean infiltrators.

"A basic settlement of the current crisis lies in taking firm measures to assure the security of the Republic of Korea and prevent recurrence of any provocative acts by the North Korean regime," he declared.

BIPARTISAN SUPPORT

The ruling Democratic Republican party and the opposition Shinmin party put aside their political squabbles to provide bipartisan support for the Park government in the crisis. The National Assembly went into special session and was expected to adopt resolutions asking for decisive action against North Korea.

In Washington, the White House continued to put heavy stress on diplomatic efforts to free the Pueblo crewmen. Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said after breakfast Tuesday with President Johnson he got the impression Johnson was so hopeful of avoiding military action that there was no talk of a deadline for relase of the men.

At the United Nations, a source familiar with U.S. views said he believed the United States would soon abandon its attempt through the United Nations to get the crew released. Security Council members reported no success in their efforts to break a U.S.-Soviet deadlock over an invitation to North Korea to join the council debate.

The most serious of many North Korean infiltrations in recent weeks was the invasion of Seoul Jan. 21 by a 31-man guerrilla squad under orders to kill President Park and other high officials. They were stopped half a mile from Park's residence. South Korean and American troops have so far killed 26 of the intruders and captured one.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

Other developments in the Korean crisis included the resumption by North Korea of intrusion attempts in the American sector of the demilitarized zone, an angry anti-Communist rally in Seoul, and reports reaching Washington that one Pueblo crewman was dead but that the others were being properly treated by the Communists.

GIs of the 2nd U.S. Infantry Division repelled four separate intrusion attempts by small bands of North Koreans Tuesday and early this morning, a U.S. military spokesman said. No casualties were reported on either side.

House Near Passage of First Item in Plan to Protect Consumer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House neared passage today of the first item in the Johnson administration's program for consumer protection, a "truth-in-lending" bill designed to make it easier for buyers to find the best credit terms.

The measure has bipartisan support and a final vote was due late in the day after a dispute was settled over interest reporting requirements on revolving charge accounts.

Basic provisions of the measure call for most merchants, banks and finance companies to state to the prospective borrower the annual percentage interest to be charged on his loan or credit purchase.

Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., charging the bill contained "gaping loopholes," pressed for elimination of a provision that would exempt certain merchants from having to state the interest rate on an annual basis.

★ ★ ★

These are catalogue houses, department stores and other businesses that use revolving credit accounts on which interest is charged by the month.

Such firms would gain a competitive advantage over smaller businesses, she said, since a monthly rate seems like a smaller charge than the same rate figured annually.

A second "loophole" Mrs. Sullivan sought to eliminate was a provision exempting transactions on which the annual finance charge is less than $10.

Defense Aide Resigns to Teach at University

WASHINGTON (AP) — Solis Horwitz, assistant secretary of defense, has resigned to become a professor at his alma mater, the University of Pittsburgh.

Horwitz became Tuesday the first top-level Pentagon official to follow the pending departure of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

★ ★ ★

A congressional aide for a decade, Horwitz moved from Capitol Hill to the Pentagon under McNamara at the start of the Kennedy administration and helped draw up the blueprints for reorganization within the Defense Department. He was assistant secretary for administration.

McNamara is to move to the presidency of World Bank by March 1 and will be succeeded by Clark Clifford, whose nomination to become secretary of defense was confirmed by the Senate Tuesday.

OTHER RESIGNATIONS

Several high-level members of the McNamara team have indicated they will remain in their Pentagon posts at least through Clifford's beginning months. But there have been reports Air Force Secretary Harold Brown, a top physicist, may be leaving soon.

The date Horwitz' resignation will take effect was not announced.

Open Housing for City Given Final Approval

The possibility of a referendum election on the ordinance is more than just that, according to a man who spoke against it last night.

"I'm going to run a referendum if I have to run all over this state barefooted," Bennie Lee Burnett of 23 S. Paddock said.

Commissioner Dugan said that "because of the feelings in this city" there is no question that "there will still be a referendum."

★ ★ ★

"We're only wasting a lot of time," Dugan said.

MIGHT BE UPHELD

Commissioner T. Fowler said, however, that he thinks a referendum vote might uphold the legislation.

"I have not lost my faith in my fellow man," he said.

Commissioner Hudson said he was convinced last week that a referendum election would defeat the ordinance.

★ ★ ★

"I'm not convinced of that this week at all," Hudson said.

STATE LEGISLATION

"I think it is a real possibility the referendum would be defeated," he said.

Hudson said he feels that state open-housing legislation will be passed by the Legislature, if not in the current session in the next session.

He said this would have the effect of enforcing open housing statewide so that Pontiac would not be in the position of being a city with an open-housing law surrounded by cities without such ordinances.

Hudson said, at the minimum, the commission action had the effect of getting the question of open housing out before the people of the city.

GM Parts Lag Not Felt Here

Normal Production Seen by Weekend

General Motors plants in Pontiac will not be affected by a lag in parts supplies, according to company spokesmen.

Several plants around the nation are expected to be facing layoffs due to parts shortages caused by the temporary halt in production at three large foundries recently on strike.

The last of the strikes was settled Monday, but due to the lag in production, some GM plants have had to send workers home.

In Pontiac Monday some 6,000 were off. However, production is expected to be back to normal by the end of the week.

Call-backs resumed today at Pontiac Motor Division, where 5,000 were off and at General Motors Truck and Coach Division, with 1,000 off. The Fisher Body plant was not affected by the strike.

All three of the plants in Pontiac have approved national agreements. All but Pontiac Motor have reached local agreements. Negotiations are continuing at Pontiac Motor, which is one of 70 out of 168 GM plants without local settlements as yet.

City Cabby Is Hammered, Shot, Robbed

A Pontiac cabdriver is in fair condition after being shot and hit in the head with a hammer during a holdup early today.

Two youths, about 19 years old, are being sought by police in the attack of Herbert L. Fraser, 60, of 1108 Myrtle. About $30 was taken in the robbery.

Fraser, addmitted to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital following the 3:15 a.m. incident, told police he picked up the pair on South Saginaw and drove them to an address on Howard McNeill.

Fraser, a driver for the Yellow Cab Co., suffered a bullet wound in the head, according to hospital officials.

A spent bullet was found in the taxi. Police did not know immediately if Fraser was shot with his own gun or that of the robbers.

Police also found a claw hammer in the cab.

Commission Modifies Plans for Ring Road

BIRMINGHAM—The City Commission has acted to modify plans for a portion of "ring road" in the wake of a report from Reid and Cool, city traffic engineering consultants.

★ ★ ★

The portion of the ring road, a planned loop around the city's central business district, affected is Oakland Street between Woodward and Park.

The two lanes westbound planned for Oakland at that point, Reid and Cool warned, would probably not be sufficient to handle traffic flow during peak hours.

Projected flow during the rush hours is 1,383 cars, provided Park becomes part of the ring road's east leg. Two lanes would then be sufficient for Oakland from Hunter to Park, but could not handle the 709-car influx projected from Park.

★ ★ ★

The consulting firm suggested, and the commission approved, widening the street to three lanes by narrowing the planned center island and cutting the width of the two lanes planned from 12 to 11 feet.

PAVING PROGRAM

Prompt action on the matter was necessitated, according to Assistant City Manager John Saefke, because the Oakland improvement is scheduled as part of the city's paving program for this year.

The report from Reid and Cool also discussed the possibility of testing the ring road plan before making further changes in existing intersections.

The report listed six intersections at which changes will eventually be necessary to handle traffic flow, and emphasized, "Testing the plan without completion of the proposed revisions will result in severe traffic congestion at those intersections."

★ ★ ★

Stationing patrolmen at the corners would be required to ease congestion, the report said.

ONE-WAY TRAFFIC

Reid and Cool also recommended that the ring road be one-way when completed. Otherwise, the report said, the heavy traffic volume would make widening of several streets necessary.

★ ★ ★

If the road is one-way, the report added, only improvements at intersections will be needed.

Searchers Comb High Sierra

16 Missing in Snow Hunted

OROVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — Searchers battled deep snow and bitter cold today in California's High Sierra to locate 16 persons missing or marooned during the Pacific Coast's worst storm of the winter.

★ ★ ★

More than three feet of snow fell above 2,000 feet yesterday in mountain areas north of Yosemite National Park. Some Sierra hamlets measured more than five feet of snow.

Western Pacific Railroad's California Zephyr passenger train carrying 180 persons was freed yesterday from the High Sierra after being stalled overnight by a snowslide.

Zero visibility and drifting snow have closed intermittently Interstate 5 between California and Oregon and Interstate 80, the major trans-Sierra highway. Snow slides shut down U.S. 50 between Sacramento, Calif., and Lake Tahoe last night.

★ ★ ★

Heavy snow also fell over most of northern Nevada yesterday, slowing traffic and hampering air travel. Wind gusts of up to 40 miles an hour whipped snow into drifts and chains were required on all major highways in the storm area.

RARE SNOWFALL

A rare snowfall laid a white blanket of two to three inches on parts of San Mateo and Santa Clara counties south of San Francisco last night.

Warm air moved into Oregon and began melting an accumulation of nearly five inches of snow. Most schools were closed in the state yesterday because authorities believed more snow would fall. Heaviest snowfall was in the Siskiyou Mountains near the California border.

Two days of rain soaked low lying areas of northern California, triggering some minor flooding and numerous power failures. Nearly four inches of rain fell at San Jose, Calif., in a 24-hour period.

★ ★ ★

Heavy snows were expected to diminish today in northern mountains. Weathermen said the Pacific storm would move south with rain spreading to the mountains of southern California.

AWAIT BREAK

Authorities awaited a break in the weather before sending out search teams to look for missing persons. Some of those stranded, including at least nine children, were sheltered in remote cabins and cut off from communications. Others were feared at the mercy of the storm.

Six persons were rescued yesterday.

Rescuers bucked through deep drifts to reach three Sacramento college students snowbound in woods near Oroville. A search team in Plumas County found tavern operator Leo Garney in his car surrounded by 10-foot snowdrifts.

Sheriff's officers at Red Bluff, Calif., found San Francisco police Lt. Eugene Caldwell and his 12-year-old son at at a hunting lodge where they had stayed five days waiting out the storm.

RESCUED BY COPTER

Sheriff's Capt. Richard Stenberg at Oroville said heavy, wet snow collapsed several roofs of homes in the Paradise area.

A helicopter reached one stranded family and dropped a bundle of food to the occupants of the summer cabin who became trapped during a weekend visit.

Search was unsuccessful for the second day in a row for a single-engine plane missing in the Mt. Hamilton area south of San Jose.

★ ★ ★

Near-zero visibility prevented search planes from going up yesterday and a ground party was unable to find any trace of the plane piloted by Vicki Moffitt of Stamford, Conn., a student at Arizona State University, Tempe, Ariz.

Egypt Suspends Suez Cleanup

CAIRO (AP) — The Egyptian Foreign Ministry said last night that operations to release foreign freighters trapped in the Suez Canal have been suspended indefinitely because Israeli troops fired on Egyptian boats trying to survey the northern half of the waterway.

★ ★ ★

Despite the official statement, the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram said today that Egypt is "resolutely determined" to continue the canal operation.

★ ★ ★

"Regardless of Israeli allegations and regardless of Israel's stand," said Al Ahram, "we are totally determined to exercise our legal right of sovereignty over our territory and our canal and are determined to go on with the work of clearing the canal and releasing the trapped foreign vessels."

Color the Federal Budget Red

Although the spending total spelled out by President JOHNSON's budget message delivered to the Congress Monday surprised few, the text nonetheless hardly makes for something to read yourself to sleep by.

JOHNSON

Over-all, the Administration would spend the record-breaking amount of $186.1 billion during the 1969 fiscal year beginning July 1. It is some $10.5 billion more than the U.S. Treasury is now paying out under the 1968 budget which figures to wind up with a $20 billion deficit—the biggest in "peacetime" history.

★ ★ ★

In submitting his proposed budget, LBJ foresaw a deficit of $8 billion — on the assumption that $10 billion is forthcoming from the 10 per cent income tax surcharge which he declares a fiscal must. Congress has yet to see it his way.

"Defense," of course, cuts itself the lion's share of the spending pie, slicing out $76.7 billion, almost a third of which is earmarked for Vietnam. Other priority areas for Federal dollars, with substantial increases, are attacks on poverty, crime, and pollution.

The total is as much money spent by one President in a single year as was spent by all 32 Presidents from GEORGE WASHINGTON, starting in 1789, through half of the third term of FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT in 1942. That's 153 years, and includes all the wars through the first year of World War II.

Because for the first time the budget is drawn up in "unified" form — a departure from the traditional three variant versions — spending totals $47 billion more than it would under the former format. That is small comfort since, like the old shell game, the pea is demonstrably under one of the three shells.

A sleeper in modern Federal budgets is the interest on the national debt. The latter will hit $387.2 billion by the end of the 1968 fiscal year, June 30. The interest, amounting to $14 billion (total Federal spending in 1941 was $13.26 billion), increasingly becomes a built-in expense as the Government pursues its policy of borrowing money to finance its mounting operating deficits.

★ ★ ★

Two political cliches long favorites of glib politician are "Point with Pride" and "View with Alarm." There is little about the proposed budget to which the Administration can point with pride, much which the Country can view with alarm.

Commend Jaycees, 'Guiding Spirit' on Pageant

We render a well-deserved salute to the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce on the superb Junior Miss Pageant recently staged by the organization.

JORGENSEN

It represented the 10th such event the Jaycees have sponsored, with the entry list growing from nine in 1959 to 47 in 1968. The current winner of the State Junior Miss title, PAMELA SMITH of Northville, will compete for the America's Junior Miss crown in Mobile, Ala., in March. In 1965, PATRICE GAUNDER of Stevensville won the State title here and went on to take national honors.

With the growth of the pageant, preparation of it has become virtually a year-round job. Since 1962, Richard Jorgensen has been the guiding spirit behind the annual productions and, though assisted by the majority of local Jaycees, deserves major credit for their success.

In recognition of his dedicated and continued service in the promotion of the events, JORGENSEN was awarded a State Senatorship by Junior Chamber International which carries with it lifetime membership in the chamber. He is only the second Pontiac man to be so honored.

We commend the Jaycees on their enterprise in making the Junior Miss Pageant the outstanding social and entertainment highlight it has become and congratulate Impresario JORGENSEN on the fine recognition given him.

Ohio's Antiriot Laws Prove Boomerang

Black Power advocates who claim that the law and law enforcement are stacked against the Negro may get a laugh, if not a lesson, out of this:

★ ★ ★

In its last session, the Ohio Legislature gave new powers to city authorities to cope with civil disturbances. Though no one would admit it publicly, the law was a consequence of and a precaution against racial rioting.

★ ★ ★

A Cleveland area mayor was forced to invoke the new powers for the first time in the state the other day—not to clamp down on Negroes in that city's Hough area but to stop a violent altercation between opposing factions of a church in a white suburb.

How Flattery Made a Justice

By RAYMOND MOLEY

If Felix Frankfurter had respected the independence of the Supreme Court as much as he said he did, he would not have written most of the letters and telegrams now published with commentary by Max Freedman in "Roosevelt & Frankfurter: Their Correspondence, 1928-1945" (Little, Brown).

MOLEY

For they portray a man winning a place on the court by lavishly flattering the President who had the power to appoint him and then, securely seated on the bench, a judge continuously meddling in Executive affairs.

And if Frankfurter had cherished the reputation he made on the court after President Roosevelt died, he would not, as an old retired justice, have permitted the publication of this correspondence for years to come. But he was apparently proud of the power and influence he had exercised for years.

The result is a book which may not enhance the reputation of its two principal characters but will be immensely useful as a text for people interested in the wiles and ways of palace politics.

★ ★ ★ ★

The text is 80 to 85 per cent Frankfurter and Freedman, and the rest the restrained responses of Mr. Roosevelt.

PROVIDER OF JOBS

It has become quite generally known that, in his private capacity as an intimate of men in power, Frankfurter was a most active provider of jobs for his friends and proteges.

Those appointees included a score of lawyer-assistants for Justices Holmes and Brandeis and literally hundreds of young men in government offices.

This activity went on even in Herbert Hoover's administration, when Secretary of State Henry Stimson and others responded readily to the recommendations of Frankfurter. He was probably responsible for the appointment of Stimson as secretary of war in 1940.

★ ★ ★

In matters of policy he also had great influence with President Roosevelt, for he concerned himself with a whole area of domestic and foreign policy.

EFFUSIVE FLATTERY

The tone of the long correspondence is marked by the effusive flattery of the President by his friend. Freedman notes: "He was an artist in adulation; and sometimes, forgetting the artistry, he laid on flattery with a trowel."

But F. F. knew his man. Mr. Roosevelt loved it.

David Lawrence Says:

Inflation Effect on Budget Seen

WASHINGTON — Everybody here is talking about the $186-billion budget that President Johnson has proposed to Congress. But few people realize that 15 years ago, in 1953, all the items he has just recommended in his budget could have been bought for only $122.4 billion.

LAWRENCE

Going back 23 years, to fiscal year 1945, the same budget would have requried a total of $79.8 billion in expenditures. This is what inflation really means.

Even when one subtracts national defense spending and examines merely the social welfare and civilian segment of the new budget, the 1953 amount would have been $83.8 billion for the same volume of expenditures in the non-defense part of the federal government's list of projects which now cost $106 billion.

The effects of rising prices are as noticeable in connection with U.S. Treasury receipts.

Thus, approximately $178 billion is being collected from taxes and other sources of revenue by the federal government, but it would have been necessary to collect only $94.4 billion to accomplish the same purpose in 1945 and $140 billion in 1953.

This is another way of saying that the 1968 receipts of $178 billion represent an inflationary cost of $84 billion in comparison with 1945 and $38 billion in comparison with the money paid in 1953 by the general public to the federal government to support its programs.

In current dollars, the new budget constitutes the largest annual outlay in American history. But it is only fair to note that much of the increase over other years is due to the wage-price spiral, which sends up costs. Once inflation starts, of course, it is natural for wage rises to be demanded.

Likewise, Social Security benefits, which originally could cover the major part of the expenses of the aged, no longer are adequate because prices of consumer goods have gone up substantially. Hence, Social Security payments have to be raised periodically to offset some of the upward movement in living costs.

It has often been said that "everybody talks about inflation, but nobody does anything about it."

The President and members of Congress are given each year reports from economic experts who tell them that "deficit spending" is essential and that it doesn't really do any harm to the economy.

Thus, the government has been spending more than it has taken in year after year, and will be doing the same thing next year even if the President's proposed tax surcharge is enacted into law.

The theory of government economics should be to raise enough revenues to meet expenditures and not resort to borrowing money, except in emergencies.

Bob Considine Says:

U.S. Is Object of Scorn as a Result of the Pueblo

NEW YORK—The humiliation of the Pueblo case—dramatized by Tass's photograph of the captain and crew being marched ashore, hands up — must delight both friends and foes of the U.S.

CONSIDINE

It is perverse yet human nature to gloat secretly over misfortune visited upon a friend. The nonaffected are made to feel superior. They played things right, see? The friend, the big and powerful and rich friend, somehow goofed, right? Sorry, and all that sort of thing, but certainly glad it happened to somebody else, particularly to the big fellow.

As for the foes, they must have gotten a big lift out of Pueblo. This could keep Ho Chin Minh in the Vietnamese war a bit longer, strengthened by his renewed belief that somehow—like the Republican party—we'll find a way to snatch defeat from the jaws of victory.

The situation, which in all probability was not incited by either Moscow or Peking, has comforted both.

★ ★ ★

The Russians were given the opportunity (and took it) to prove to the rest of the Communist world that it is not, after all those dirty-pool charges by the crazy Chinese, a tool of American imperialism.

RUSSIAN JACKASS

Moscow said it would not lift a finger to intercede with North Korea to return the men and their ship, and the Russian jackass in the U.N. brayed long and loud over the following weekend.

Peking has been effectively snubbed by North Korea for more than a year. It has been a source of embarrassment in view of the fact that a lot of Chinese "volunteers" died in the course of pushing Douglas MacArthur's troops southward from the Yalu to below Seoul just when North Korea was about to throw in the towel in that war.

The Pueblo business enabled Peking, after due deliberation, to issue a solidarity statement which might very well heal the troubles of the immediate past.

★ ★ ★

Fidel Castro may now have second thoughts of stepping down as president-premier-maximus-ultimus if the Pueblo case convinces him that the crowd that masterminded the Bay of Pigs invasion has been given a second chance in Washington.

NOT DICTATED

The writer makes no foolish claims to 20/20 vision in international matters, but would like to put forth the proposition that the North Koreans move against our ship was not in any way dictated by higher and stronger authority.

I took advantage of your suggestion to "Write Your Representative" and on Jan. 5, I wrote Congressman Jack H. McDonald regarding our Social Security benefits. His two letters in reply stated he was personally looking into the matter and followed with a telegram advising me of his findings. We received our checks on January 27. Replies to Complaints About New Airports

I'm amused at letters in your Voice of the People that attack new airports because of many reasons except the correct one: it would force the writer to move and he doesn't want to move.

★ ★ ★

All progress calls for the removal of impediments that are in the way. Otherwise we couldn't have this big nation. When a new airport is proposed 100 years from now, many houses will be in the way. But the writers will squawk about land costs, inflation, the high cost of living, the advantages of another site, and why don't you move the houses that belong to someone else.

They figure those "someone elses" don't count. Just me. I count big.

Comments on Cooking School and Show

This is the first year I have attended the cooking school and I thoroughly enjoyed it. The fashion show was very nice; however, why not show clothing more within the price range of most housewives? How many of us are able to buy a $40 dress?

Question and Answer

Is there anything a woman can do to keep her husband from getting a divorce besides contesting?

CONCERNED

REPLY

Mr. Prout of Friend of the Court tells us very little, legally speaking, if there are grounds for divorce, unless it can be shown that both parties have guilt in the matter. In that case, Mr. Prout says the case could be thrown out.

Imperial Sunset

Newsday

Great Britain ceased to be a world power long before anyone would admit it, but her indomitable resolution masked the inevitable day when the sun would set on the British Empire. Now, to the sincere sorrow of her allies, she has been forced to concede the obvious.

By the close of 1971 she will have left the Far East, except for a handful of troops in the crown colony of Hong Kong.

Those who revere the principles of individual and national liberty will mourn the retirement of Britain to a minor role in world affairs.

The country that sired the Magna Carta and thereby inspired our own Bill of Rights, the country whose civilized skills and incomparable bravery helped keep the world at peace for long periods of time has had an unforgettable influence on history.

Americans in particular will never forget. But now the question is: Should the U.S. take up the torch Britons have put down? This is a wholly new era and we already are committed to the defense of Vietnam. We have troops in many other places.

We must recognize the dangers of overextending ourselves. The U.S. cannot police the whole world any more than the British could.

Still, we cannot disregard the challenges that are increased all the more by diminishing British power. It is a good time to remind those independent nations in the Pacific that they must help us in order to help themselves.

The costs of maintaining their independence cannot be borne alone by the American people. Those Asian nations which look to us for support must be allies in more than name. We must be able to count on the active assistance of our friends in the Pacific and Asia.

Bus Problem . . .

Port Huron Times Herald

Clearly the problems besetting bus service in Port Huron are difficult. Unless some answers are found, the Transit Company will be forced to close down in a few weeks.

Just as clearly, the answers will not be found in a quarrelsome approach, or in uninformed carping about what is wrong with the operation.

Yet in the interest of the many who need bus transportation here, an all-out effort to find a reasonable solution is indicated.

Considering the financial troubles of the present system, people might look askance at the reference to "many" who use the buses.

★ ★ ★

If there were "many" riders, the system would, perhaps, be solvent. Yet the reference is accurate because — even though they do not ride buses every day — there are many people hereabouts who have no other practical means of transportation.

Taken together, the needs of the citizenry are urgent. At the same time, obviously, the Transit Company cannot be asked to operate at a loss.

That means that every practical means should be considered to keep the buses rolling while providing a reasonable return on the company's investment.

Today's Woman

Artist Avoids Monotony

By YOLANDA BENAVIDES

With the annual art show at The Pontiac Mall just around the corner, you won't find 89-year-old Mrs. Charles Kerr biding her time.

Seeing her at her work table with a large supply of sea shells spread out before her, you might imagine her more at ease with knitting needles. Not so.

★ ★ ★

A spritely senior citizen who likes to avoid the "monotonous," she specializes in working with the unusual: using melon, seeds, grain stalks or maybe pepper pods to create unique mosaics.

★ ★ ★

Even then, she seldom limits herself to the same materials.

Tops from poppies, oats, peas, beans, and assorted seeds, including apple and cucumber, are just a sample of the varied items she works with.

★ ★ ★

An active participant in the Mall show for the past six years, her first project was entered through a senior citizen's group.

After that she was on her own.

★ ★ ★

"Now I'd hate to miss a year," she says. "Part of the fun is meeting so many people, and I've made a lot of friends, too.

'NOT WORK'

"Of course it's nice to be doing something that you don't think is work," laughed Mrs. Kerr.

"I can't paint, couldn't draw a straight line if I wanted to," she mused, "but its just as much fun making something from nothing."

★ ★ ★

Starting from scratch seems to be the key word when she's at her best, which includes trying a talented hand at another favorite pasttime, making hooked rugs. She's made 80.

Two of her late husband's favorites, each a picturesque home setting, decorate her living room walls.

★ ★ ★

A native of England, Mrs. Kerr came to the United States in 1912 looking for work.

From a family numbering 16, she was only one of four to venture to this country.

She moved to Pontiac after a whirlwind six-month courtship with Charles Kerr, whom she met while working in Bloomfield Hills.

★ ★ ★

"Because of the war, clergymen were scarce and they were only available on Sunday mornings so we contacted a friend and he arranged a small ceremony right here at home," she said.

SETTLED

"When I first saw this house, which was the only one on the block then with just a dirt path in front, I knew it was the one for me."

★ ★ ★

Pontiac seemed to appeal to Mrs. Kerr's liking too as she's been a resident here for 50 years come June.

Should Guest Be Called on for a Speech?

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it in good taste for one of the hostesses at a tea to call upon the person in whose honor the tea is given and request a speech? I have been under the impression that the honor guest made it a point to visit a short time with each of the guests and thank them, and that she personally thanked, in private, the one in whose home the tea was held. And if there were more than one hostess, or it were a club group, she thanked each individually and later sent a written thank you to the group's secretary.

Recently some groups when giving a tea have called upon the honor guest to say something. This is intended to give her the opportunity to thank the guests and hostesses openly. It seems in poor taste to me, but if I'm wrong, I certainly want to be corrected. — Mrs. A. Johnson.

Dear Mrs. Johnson: Your description of proper procedure for the guest of honor at a tea is absolutely correct. Unless it is an official affair and the guest of honor has been asked in advance to say a few words, she should not be called upon.

In theory, at least, everything is done for her enjoyment and comfort, and few people like to be called on to speak unexpectedly, even though the intention is to make their obligations simpler.

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister-in-law is being married in May and has asked me to be in the wedding party. She lives out of state and will not be able to be home until just a few days before the wedding; and then she and her bridegroom will return immediately to that state.

I'm the only one in the party who lives in her home town. Would it be appropriate to give a shower for her in her absence, and in the course of the evening to call her and surprise her and let all the guests talk to her?—Beverly

Dear Beverly: This is one of those "exceptions that prove the rule." Under the circumstances you describe, you would be quite justified in arranging a shower. And what a lovely surprise she will have when you call! Let her know you'll be calling, but not the reason, so she will surely be home!

★ ★ ★

So You're Planning to Give a Shower! This booklet by Elizabeth L. Post tells you everything you need to know — for a bridal shower, a welcome party for a new neighbor, the local minister, or anyone else.

Independence Must Be 'Earned'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our 18-year-old daughter has graduated from high school and has steady employment, so now she says she can do as she pleases. She is living at home, but she doesn't care what anybody thinks about her actions.

ABBY

Her "old-fashioned" parents want to know if we have the right to set some rules for her. We have asked her to be home by 1 a.m. when she goes out on a date. (She's been coming home anywhere from 2 a.m. until 4:30.) When we object to her going to her boy friend's bachelor apartment to watch TV for an evening she says we have "dirty minds."

She tells us if we don't "get off her back" she will move out and rent with girl friends. Of course she is trying to assert her independence, but we think she's overdoing it. Please give us bewildered parents some guidelines.

BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: Tell your daughter to sit down with a pencil and paper and figure out exactly how "independent" she is.

Advise her that when she is able to support herself entirely — and that means pay for her room, board, clothes, transportation, entertainment, travel, doctor, dentist, and insurance, then she may live where she chooses, and by her own rules. But as long as she lives with you, she will have to live by yours.

DEAR ABBY: This will amuse you, I'm sure: The other evening I was in the company of an elderly couple I have known for over 50 years. The subject of your column came up and the lady remarked that she doubted very much if all those letters in your column were "real." And the gentleman agreed that you surely must make them up yourself because people couldn't be that "peculiar."

Briefly, here is the background of this couple: They are not married, but have been engaged for 49 years! They have traveled all over the world together, she as "Miss" and he as "Mr." They are both independently wealthy and neither has ever been married. I once had nerve enough to ask her why they never got married. She replied, "If I married him today, he would ask for a divorce tomorrow. A man needs his freedom."

This lady is past 80, seems completely fulfilled, and she walks five miles to her stockbroker every day.

J. B. (AMSTERDAM, Holland)

DEAR J. B.: Thank you for writing. (Could your friends have originated "The Dutch Treat?")

DEAR ABBY: You are my last and final resort. I just don't know which way to turn.

I had been in Vietnam for six months when I lost my eyesight in an explosion. I was recently shipped home with an honorable discharge. In February I will be 22.

My problem is my girl friend. Before I joined the Marines we were getting pretty serious, and I told myself that if I came home I would ask her to marry me. Then this happened.

I still love her very much, and she says she still loves me, but how can I be sure she isn't just saying it because she doesn't want to hurt me? Abby, I wouldn't want her to marry me out of pity. How can I be sure? Should I ask her to be my wife?

STILL LOVES HER

DEAR STILL: Love is usually a two-way street. Ask her!

Similar embroidery accented the pill box which capped her fingertip veil. She carried white roses and ivy. A chapel train completed her ensemble.

s-s-h-h . . . House of Bedrooms has lots of Grand Opening buys that are real sleepers.

Don't let the $110 savings on this set throw you. We'll probably raise the price next week.

After all, it's our Grand Opening and we have a right to do grand things so everyone will know about us. That's why we chose this natural oak finish bedroom as an advertising feature. Of course, with 114 bedrooms in our store we have a problem in choosing which ones to put in the paper. We think they're all grand and this one is no exception. It has a 9-drawer plus 2-door dresser, a 6-drawer plus 2-door chest, a framed mirror, and a headboard and frame. It's another better bedroom buy so maybe you'd better come see it. Later on it will cost $609.00. Right now: $499.

First Son for Carlos, Sophie

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Princess Sophie of Greece, wife of Spanish Prince Juan Carlos, gave birth Tuesday to a boy. He is their third child.

Prince Juan Carlos is a grandson of the last Spanish king, the late Alfonso XIII, and a son of the Count of Barcelona, pretender to the Spanish throne.

Interested in knowing how much high school athletics have grown in Oakland County since 1955?

The figures at first glance are amazing, but in view of the tremendous growth of Oakland County and the projections for just in the next few years, it's easy to realize why athletics have zoomed to high proportions.

In 1955 there were 28 high schools in the county and an average of five varsity sports per school.

Only two class A schools, Pontiac Central and Hazel Park were the sponsors of nine varsity sports.

★ ★ ★

Golf, tennis, wrestling and swimming were missing from most varsity programs in 1955.

Swimming has grown from three teams in 1955 to 13 in 1968, but wrestling has skyrocketed from two varsity teams to 30 this year.

In the past three years, soccer, hockey, skiing and gymnastics have become recognized as varsity sports at several schools, bringing the total to 13 varsity athletic programs in the county.

NEAR TO COMPLETE

However, the nearest any school is to a complete 13-sport program, are the 12 varsity sports at Bloomfield Hills Andover high school. Only North Farmington recognizes gymnastics as a varsity sport, the lone absentee in the Andover program.

★ ★ ★

Andover added hockey and wrestling last year and initiated its new pool this season.

At any rate, there were 152 total varsity teams in the county in 1955 and this season, varsity letters are awarded on 379 teams at 49 county high schools.

What accounts for the number of added sports to high school programs?

The two big reasons probably are the Olympics and the physical fitness program so strongly urged by the late President Kennedy.

BIGGER SCHOOLS

Planners say that the future trend is not for building of new high schools in crowded school districts but for adding to present schools in campus-type plans.

★ ★ ★

This means that as student bodies get larger, the need for student participation will increase, subsequently resulting in larger overall athletic programs.

Don't be surprised when the high school of the future has all 13 varsity sports now in existence plus the addition of bowling, archery, table tennis, rowing, racing (auto & boat), volleyball, speed ice skating, handball, paddleball and many others.

★ ★ ★

The high school of the future will be one with a 5,000 student body and 25 varsity sports.

★ ★ ★

PNH Overpowers Pontiac Catholic '5'

By JERE CRAIG

Pontiac Northern overpowered a spirited but outmanned Pontiac Catholic quintet Tuesday night before more than 1,400 noisy fans as athletic relations began between the two schools at the PNH gym.

The Huskies spurted away midway in the first quarter en route to an 83-52 triumph for their fifth straight conquest — all but one by at least 31 points.

Pontiac Catholic, now 4-8, scrapped to 1-0 and 3-2 leads in the opening minutes.

Northern moved ahead 6-3 but Gary Roediger, playing a fine first half for the Titans, knotted the score with a field goal. From then on it was the Huskies' ball game.

PNH made six straight points, then after a free throw by PCHS' Sam Brady came back with 14 more in a row for a 26-7 lead. All five starters made at least two field goals in the opening period as Northern hit 12 of 25 shots and had a 16-8 rebounding advantage.

TOP EFFORTS

With Don Hayward and Dana Coin playing one of their best games of the campaign that now has PNH at 8-2, the host team padded its margin to 24 points in the second quarter.

Hayward hit 7 of 10 shots in the opening half, Coin connected on 4 of 8 and grabbed nine rebounds; and guards Mike Clancy and Craig Deaton made 3 of 6.

Clancy also sparkled with his playmaking, setting up six baskets by his mates. The Huskies surged in front, 51-30, by intermission.

Only the 7-of-9 gunning — including five straight baskets in the second period — of Gary Roediger enabled the Titans to stay within sight of the battling Huskies.

Northern had a 47-25 edge in shots taken and a 29-17 rebounding margin at the half. It outscored the visitors by nine field goals in the half.

The lead continued to grow in the final half as the losers tailed off in their shooting to make just six baskets in 30 tries. The Huskies' reserves pushed the margin into the 30's.

In all, PNH made 34 of 86 for 39 per cent, to 17 of 55 (30 per cent) for Pontiac Catholic. Bob Traylor (12 rebounds), Hayward (9), Coin (11) and reserve pivotman Stan Allison (9) gave the winners a 67-39 rebounding superiority.

Hayward led the scoring with 22 points on 9 of 13 from the field. Coin hit 16. They were season highs for both boys.

Sam Brady's 19 points and 12 rebounds complemented Roediger's 16 points on 7 of 11 shots. Butch Finnegan had six assists for the losers.

Speedy Earl McCullouch Among Detroit Selections

There were 12 rounds to go and some tantalizing names still available as professional football resumed drafting the nation's top collegiate players today.

The pros went through five rounds in 11 hours, 43 minutes Monday — just one minute less than it took them a year ago. There were 138 players drafted and many more conspicuous by their absence.

★ ★ ★

Still available were quarterbacks Kim Hammond of Florida State and Dewey Warren of Tennessee; linebacker granville Liggins of Oklahoma; defensive tackle Greg Pipes of Baylor; defensive backs Tom Schoen of Notre Dame and Frank Loria of VPI and guards Gary Cassells of Indiana and Rich Stetter of Houston, among others.

All except Warren were first or second team All-Americans.

The Detroit Lions reached into the grab bag and came out with quarterback Greg Landry of Massachusetts as their No. 1 selection.

SURPRISE PICK

Landry, a surprise choice over glamour quarterbacks like Heisman Trophy-winner Gary Beban of UCLA and Alabama's Ken Stabler, was obscure until he starred in the North-South Shrine game.

The tall signal-caller led Massacsusetts to three Yankee Conference titles, rolling up 4,646 yards in total offense. Detroit coaches feel his excellent running and accuracy on long and short passes will eventually make him a great one.

Haven Moses of San Diego State was probably the Lions' choice for their first pick — jaws of Detroit coaches sagged to the floor when he was picked by Buffalo two selections before the Lions chose Landry.

★ ★ ★

No player from the state of Michigan was chosen until the last selection in the third round, when the Cincinnati Bengals grabbed Western Michigan's Dale Livingston, a kicker. The Bengals followed by nabbing Michigan State defensive back Jess Phillips.

The Spartans' Drake Garrett, a defensive back, went to the Denver Broncos while Michigan State halfback Dwight Lee was tabbed by San Francisco.

Michigan's linebacker Roger Rosema was taken by the St. Louis Cardinals and Nebraska's Wayne Meyland, who prepped at Bay City Central, was picked by the Cleveland Browns.

It was obviously the Year of the Lineman for the 26 pro teams. They picked seven linemen in the first round before Miami chose Syracuse fullback Larry Csonka to break the spell.

FIRST SELECTION

The top choice was Ron Yary, Southern California's powerful tackle, who was snatched up by the Minnesota Vikings. The Vikings were exercising the No. 1 choice acquired from the New York Giants in the trade for Fran Tarkenton last year.

After Yary was selected, Cincinnati, the American League's newest team, made its maiden choice Bob Johnson, Tennessee's highly regarded center.

Then Atlanta took Claude Humphrey, a defensive end from Tennessee A&I State, and San Diego, using a pick acquired from Denver, chose Russ Washington, a Missouri tackle.

Green Bay, using New Orleans' choice, took Fred Carr, a linebacker from Texas El Paso and Boston picked Dennis Byrd, North Carolina State defensive tackle. New Orleans, utilizing Minnesota's regular first-round choice, took Kevin Hardy, Notre Dame's defensive end.

Then Miami chose Csonka, ending the run of linemen.

Landry's coach said Tuesday he thinks the star quarterback will be a regular with the Lions within three years.

Coach Vic Fusia of Massachusetts said, "I was aware that about four clubs had him first on their list a couple of days ago. I spoke with Detroit Coach Joe Schmidt and he was afraid Landry would be gone.

"They made a good choice. I'm sure he will be a regular within three years. I knew it was his desire to go into the National Football League.

WANTS TO EXCEL

"He has all the physical requirements, is dedicated, extremely coachable and just wants to excel."

McCullouch's a member of the world record-holding 440-yard relay team and has tied the world 120 high hurdle mark of 13.2 seconds.

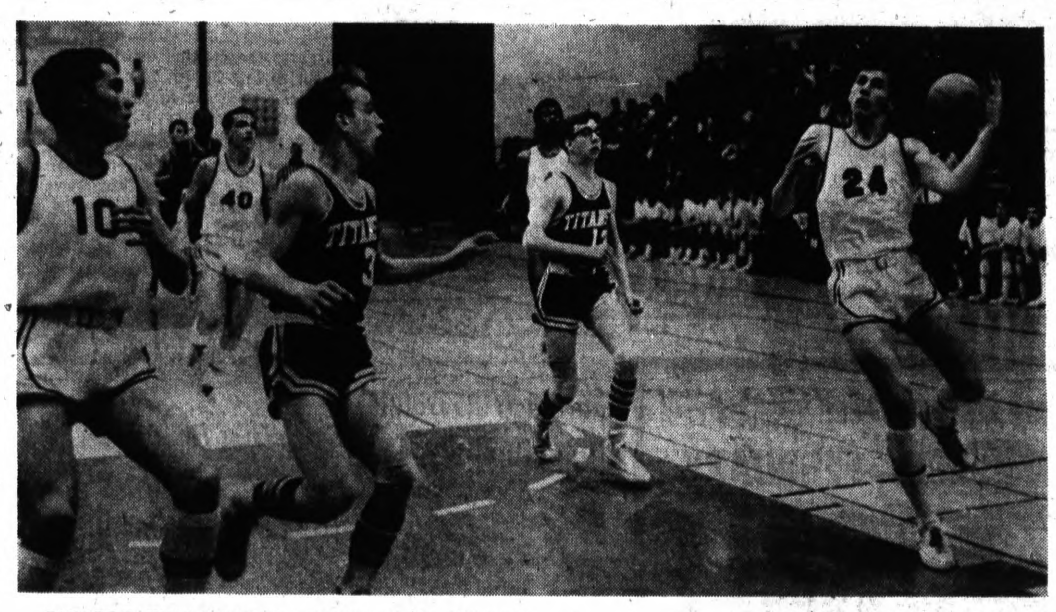

Just after DePoyster was selected, on the second round the club delt its third round choice to the San Francisco Forty Niners for halfback Dave Kopay, a four-year veteran who has gained 556 yards in 150 carries.

DePoyster taught himself to kick so well he booted the old NCAA standard for the longest field goal out of the books with a 55-yard kick in 1967. The strong-legged DePoyster holds the NCAA record most most field goals in a career.

Mooney is described as a middle linebacker with great speed and lateral movement while Odle set oodles of pass-catching marks as a split end.

Red Wings Recall Winger Anderson

DETROIT (AP) — Right winger Ron Anderson has been recalled from the Fort Worth farm club to bolster the Detroit Red Wings in their drive to climb from the National Hockey League Eastern Division cellar.

Anderson, 22, played six games with the Wings earlier this season.

At Fort Worth in the Central Professional Hockey League he scored 20 goals and 19 assists for a 39-point total in 39 games. He will play on Detroit's third line with Garry Jarrett and Bruce MacGregor.

Anderson's acquisiton puts the Wings one man over the NHL limit of 16. General Manager Sid Abel said rather than send someone to the minors he will sideline one player for the next game.

The Wings, who now have four victories in their last six games, are in last place, but only 11 points from first. They meet Los Angeles Thursday night at Olympia in Detroit.

Top Rookie in Fold

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tom Seaver, who had 18 complete games and posted a 16-13 mark to be named National League rookie of the year in 1967, signed his 1968 contract Tuesday with the New York Mets for an estimated $25,000.

Mikita Voted No. 1

NEW YORK (AP) — Stan Mikita, Chicago's smooth little scorer-playmaker, is on the way to another double in the National Hockey League's awards sweepstakes.

Mikita topped the ballot Tuesday in midseason voting for both the Hart Memorial and Lady Byng trophies, which he swept last year as the most valuable and most gentlemanly player in the league.

The 27-year-old, Czechoslovakian-born veteran, who won the 1966-67 scoring title and leads the point parade this season after a slow start, held a slim edge over teammate Bobby Hull in the Hart voting and shaded Boston's Johnny Bucyk for mid-season Lady Byng honors.

Mikita, a 5-foot-9, 165-pound dervish has 27 goals, 27 assists and only six penalty minutes.

The 12 NHL coaches also gave second-year pro Bobby Orr, 19, of Boston and his 21-year-old teammate, forward Derek Sanderson, the first-half nod for the James Norris Memorial Trophy (best defenseman) and Calder Memorial Trophy (top rookie), respectively.

The coaches will vote again at the end of the season, with the over-all point leaders nailing the awards and accompanying league bonuses.

Mikita will receive $500 for his midseason lead in two categories while Orr and Sanderson will pocket $250 apiece.

The longest National Hockey League winning streak in 24 years has brought Montreal from last to first in the East Division race — with little room to spare.

The Canadiens, unbeaten in 14 games since Christmas night, reeled off their 10th straight victory Tuesday night, blanking Toronto 3-0 behind 22-year-old goaltender Rogatien Vachon.

In 1944, Montreal won 10 games in succession, breaking open the race, and captured the NHL title by a 25-point margin over runner-up Detroit. This year, however, the Canadiens' 10-game winning string has given them no more than a slim edge over four other pennant contenders.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Ring Magazine has named unbeaten heavyweight Joe Frazier of Philadelphia the fighter of the year and given the progress award to Jimmy Ellis of Louisville.

Pontiac Boxer Bounces Back in Flint Bout

Morris Davis of Pontiac came off the canvas after a first-round knockdown and kayoed Sandy Parker of Grand Blanc in the second round of their light-heavyweight Golden Gloves quarter-final bout last night in Flint.

Davis was one of three Pontiac boxers posting victories. The next round comes Friday in the semifinals. Finals are slated for next Tuesday at the Flint IMA and winners there move to the state finals at Grand Rapids.

Keith Rouser posted a decision over Grand Blanc's Tony Farr in a lightweight bout and Ross Campbell moved up in the welterweight class when his opponent, Milton Henry of Burston, failed to show.

Eliminated from the competition were middleweight Larry Musgrave and novice welterweight Ray Gonzales.

Gonzales, knocked down at the start of the third round, finished strong but lost a decision to Larry Overfield of Davison. Musgrave was knocked out by Tim Florida of Grand Blanc.

Bob Hope Golf Meet Under Way Today

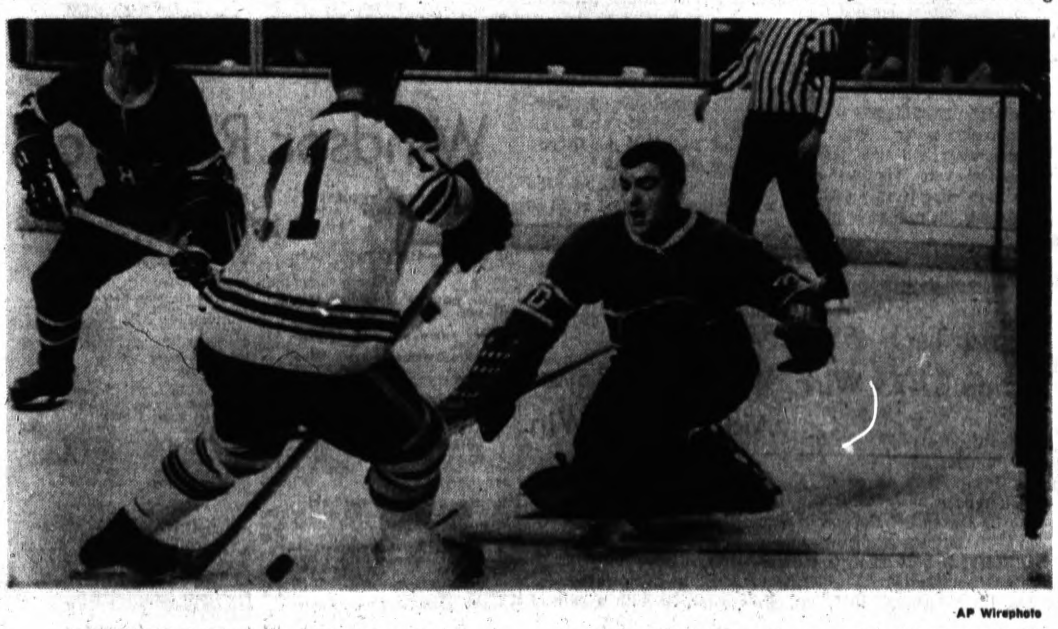

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — This plush resort area echoed with the sound of golf shots today as the Bob Hope Desert Classic got under way for its annual splash in major league competition.

In an event which has raised several hundred thousand dollars for charitable causes, which is why comedian Bob Hope lends it his name, the purse amounts to $122,000.

On hand in a try for a third trip to the winner's circle is Arnold Palmer, the only golfer to win it twice — in the inaugural year, 1960, and in 1962.

Rally Produces Victory

SAULTE STE. MARIE (AP) — Lake Superior State College came from behind in the closing minutes and rolled to a 77-70 victory over Ferris State in a basketball game Tuesday night. Ron Sober of Lake Superior led all scorers with 25 points and teammate John Dorr added 23. Jesse Mangham led Ferris with 21.

DEFENSIVE GEM — Goalie Rogatien Vachon of Montreal knocks the puck away from Murray Oliver of Toronto on this rush during their game in Montreal last night. Out of the play for the moment is defenseman J. C. Tremblay. Vachon came up with similar plays all evening as the Canadiens blanked Toronto, 3-0.
