

Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Power outage, technology service update

An unexpected power outage on one of two main campus lines at 7:50 a.m. Wednesday, July 24, caused an outage of campus technology services. Oakland University's Information Technology team worked with Campus Facilities and Operations, and others across campus to restore power and services as quickly as possible. It is expected that all services will be restored by midnight Wednesday.

The IT team – and university leadership – appreciates the patience of OU faculty, staff and students as technology restoration efforts continue throughout the day. In the event of any delays in the restoration process, the campus community may check the university hotline at (248) 370-2000 for updates. Students, faculty and staff should report for classes and work.

The campus is now operating on one power line. Everyone is encouraged to make an extra effort to conserve power in their area by shutting off lights and equipment when not in use. This will help Campus Facilities and Operations maintain consistent air conditioning and power use in all campus buildings.

SUMMARY

An unexpected power outage on one of two main campus lines at 7:50 a.m. Wednesday, July 24, caused an outage of campus technology services. Oakland University's Information Technology team worked with Campus Facilities and Operations, and others across campus to restore power and services as quickly as possible. It is expected that all services will be restored by midnight Wednesday.

Created by CareTech Administrator (webservices@caretechsolutions.com) on Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Modified by CareTech Administrator (webservices@caretechsolutions.com) on Wednesday, July 24, 2002

Article Start Date: Monday, November 3, 2003