

Thursday, July 12, 2001

OU hosting workshop for counseling professionals

Oakland University's School of Education and Human Services (SEHS) is offering "Experiential Counseling Methods," a participative seminar using games, low- and high-challenge ropes courses and group experiences.

The workshop is August 6-9 from 9 a.m. -5 p.m. at Seaholm High School in Birmingham. Deadline to register is Friday, July 13.

The seminar is designed for counselors, social workers, psychologists and other therapeutic professionals who work with groups. Most of the course will be held out-of-doors and is experiential itself. Participants will identify and develop their own personal leadership skills during the program.

Dennis D. Rozema, LPC, will lead the workshop. He has received training and certification through Project Adventure in Hamilton, Massachusetts. With more than 25 years of experience, Rozema is well known for his work in experiential education and counseling. Many school districts, churches and businesses have adopted his team-building workshops locally and nationally.

The cost of the workshop is $295, if enrolled for continuing education units (CEUs). There is an option to take the course for two university graduate credits.

For more information about the workshop and earning graduate credit visit the Department of Professional Development and Education Outreach Web site. To enroll, call (248) 370-3033 or e-mail pro-development@oakland.edu.

SUMMARY

The School of Education and Human Services is offering a seminar, titled 'Experiential Counseling Methods,' designed for counselors, social workers, psychologists and other therapeutic professionals who work with groups.

Created by CareTech Administrator (webservices@caretechsolutions.com) on Thursday, July 12, 2001
Modified by CareTech Administrator (webservices@caretechsolutions.com) on Thursday, July 12, 2001
Article Start Date: Wednesday, December 3, 2003