

Wednesday, December 5, 2001

OU hosts 'Tribute to the Heroes'

Oakland University will host the last program of its series concerning the aftermath of the events of September 11, "Tribute to the Heroes," on Monday, Dec. 3, from noon to 1 p.m. in the Oakland Center's Fireside Lounge. The program is included in the "December to Remember" annual week of programs.

"Tribute to the Heroes" recognizes the police and fire personnel from Oakland County who traveled to New York City and assisted with the recovery efforts at Ground Zero. About 20 rescue workers are expected to attend the program.

In addition, OU student Ann McDonald will perform several patriotic songs and OU professor and former Detroit Free Press publisher Neil Shine will recite an original essay about the American Spirit.

The event, which is open to the public, will be followed by a reception.

For more information, contact the Center for Student Activities at (248) 370-2400 or csa@oakland.edu.

SUMMARY

Oakland University will host the last program of its series concerning the aftermath of the events of September 11, "Tribute to the Heroes," on Monday, Dec. 3, from noon to 1 p.m. in the Oakland Center's Fireside Lounge.

Created by CareTech Administrator (webservices@caretechsolutions.com) on Wednesday, December 5, 2001

Modified by CareTech Administrator (webservices@caretechsolutions.com) on Wednesday, December 5, 2001

Article Start Date: Monday, February 27, 2006