ATTORNEY TO SPEAK ON PRIVACY RIGHTS

The man who successfully prosecuted former White House official John Ehrlichman and others on charges arising from the "Pentagon Papers" incident will speak at Oakland University Thursday, March 20.

Detroit attorney William H. Merrill will lecture on "American's Rights of Privacy" at 1 p.m. in the Gold Room of the Oakland Center. His free talk is sponsored by OU's Commuter Council.

Merrill was assistant special prosecutor in Washington, D. C., between June, 1973 and Sept., 1974. During that period he was in charge of prosecuting Ehrlichman and others on charges arising from the 1971 break-in of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Ellsberg is the former employee of the Rand Corporation who admitted obtaining the then secret Pentagon Papers and giving the information to the media. The papers were a detailed Pentagon study of U. S. intervention in Viet Nam.

Merrill is now in private practice in Detroit. He is a 1950 graduate of the Yale University Law School, and he had served from 1961-66 as chief assistant U.S. attorney.

INDIVIDUALS MUST FOLLOW OU CONFERENCE POLICIES

OU News.

The Administrative Policies and Procedures Manual states that all campus conference programs, no matter what the origin of sponsorship, must be coordinated through the Conference Department of the Division of Continuing Education.

Some recent violations of the OU conference policy have been noted, university officials said. In the belief that these violations occurred through misinformation about the existing policies, those regulations are summarized in this issue of the

The Conference Department will also provide design services for these conferences as needed. Persons planning to develop or host a conference are asked to call the Conference Department at 377-3272 for the proper procedures.

FINANCIAL AID OFFERED ONLY FOR FALL, WINTER

Thomas H. Atkinson, director of Administrative Services, has reaffirmed the position taken earlier this year that financial aid funds for 1974-75 are available for the regular school year only.

Last year there were financial aid funds available for spring session because loan repayments exceeded expectations. These loan funds were supplemented by limited university grant funds.

This year loan repayments are lagging drastically behind. Thus no loan funds could be made available for spring session, Atkinson said.

Also because of severe budgetary cutbacks throughout the university, there are no extra dollars that could be used to match the nonexistent loan funds. The university has used all of its budgeted financial aid funds during the regular school year in order to maximize support for the largest number of students, a policy that it has followed for over ten years, Atkinson said.

APPLICATIONS OPEN FOR UYA INTERNSHIPS

The University Year for ACTION Program (UYA) at OU is accepting applications now through April 1. Information can be obtained at the Urban Affairs Center, room 374 of South Foundation Hall.

The UYA program is sponsored by ACTION, the federal agency that coordinates all civilian volunteer programs including VISTA and the Peace Corps. OU is the only college or university in Michigan to receive a UYA grant.

Since May of 1973 more than 100 UYA interns have been placed in area social service and educational agencies. Interns receive a yearly stipend of $3,000 plus insurance benefits. Each student intern is expected to serve for one year. The third year of UYA funding will begin May 1. Interns will be placed in approximately 20 area agencies. Applicants must be OU students by May 1, 1975.

STUDENT LEADERSHIP PROGRAM ESTABLISHED

The Department for Student Organizations and Activities and Community House will be sponsoring a variety of leadership experiences during the 1975-76 academic year. Openings are now available for all OU students interested in developing better leadership skills through a two-semester program.

The program will offer varied experiences including research national leadership training methods, workshops, human potential seminars, and specialized readings. A "Leadership House" program is also available with the cooperation of the Department of Residence Halls for those students interested in a live-in leadership experience.

From two to six credits (per semester) may possibly be offered through human resource development, management, or political science. Applications may be picked up at Community House, Charlie Browns, Commuter Services, or the Department for Student Organizations and Activities office. Applications must be returned no later than March 28, 1975. For further information, call 377-3580 or 377-3784.

POPULATION RESEARCH INTERNSHIPS OFFERED.

Internships at a stipend of $600 are available to Oakland University graduate and undergraduate students from the Population Institute, Washington, D. C.

The Population Institute invites students, faculty, state legislators, government, and community leaders to participate in its Intern program in population and environment. The program allows students to do something about problems caused by population growth and distribution while they are involved in their normal academic programs.

The interns assist state and local leaders in defining state population/environment problems and preparing legislative and administrative responses to the problems. Since 1972 the program has sponsored more than 100 students in almost 30 states.

Intern research is intended to be action-oriented. It is designed to produce results by focusing on new activities in government and on full implementation of laws and policies that already exist. The interns serve not as partisans or advocates, but as fact finders, researchers, and organizers. They provide a clearinghouse to bring clarity, thoroughness, and perspective to the governmental process.

Each year, a limited number of highly qualified students are selected to internships which generally last from September until June. The Population Institute staff, in consultation with state and local leaders, identify project subjects on the basis of legislative and administrative priorities and match them with the interests and expertise of the applicants.

Subjects of research are unlimited and include population, birth control, sex education, and equal rights. For further details, contact Michael Riley, chairperson of the Greater Oakland Chapter of Zero Population Growth, at 377-2394.

CONGRESS EXPANDS STUDENT SERVICES

The 1975-76 University Congress has formed a number of congressional committees to expand the area of student services. This action has been taken for a number of reasons, one of which is the introduction of a bylaw amendment by congressmembers

Mike Jay, Marilyn Palliaer, and Jim Bier.

Bylaws are adopted each term of office as the specific operating procedures of the congress for that term. The amendment to the existing bylaw which established a Steering Committee places the responsibility of filling student vacancies in senate committees upon the Steering Committee. If the amendment is adopted, congress will spend less time filling vacancies and more time serving students.

Toward this end, University Congress has established or reestablished three committees to directly aid OU students. The Student Unionization Study Committee was formed due to growing concerns among OU's student employees. The lack of job security in student employment will be the area of this committee's research.

A Book Co-op Study Committee was formed March 6 to research the institution of a one-stop used text book resale station. By students listing their used text books for sale in one area, bargain hunters would have an alternative to buying new books each semester.

The Recycling Program Study Committee was formed March 6 to research the need for a recycling program in the OU area. The committee will look into the feasibility and profitability of such a program as well as the environmental aspects before recommending the spending of congressional funds.

Student services are also being expanded by the adoption of the position of ombudsperson. As is his/her role, the ombudsperson will aid in any way possible in their dealings with the university.

For more information concerning any of these University Congress student-related programs, call 377-3097.
