

BULLET POINTS

- Thank you to Secretary Chertoff and Covington & Burling.
- Dad five boys joke.
- The greatness of the Internet. The very thing that got it to 1/6th of the U.S. economy is under assault. It is not free and open when foreign governments are shutting down websites and stealing endless terabytes of private sector information.
- And if we don't craft the right solution soon, a major attack is inevitable and I think we all know what Congress will do. It will overreact and put a massive, big-government barrier that holds Internet innovation back.
- Worked on bipartisan solution w/ Dutch. We believe the least we can do is information sharing. Our economy is under assault from countries like China and we are losing the cyber war.
- Working with privacy groups, working with the Senate, working with the White House to get to a solution that can pass this year.
- Get involved, you know more than anyone what is at stake. Let's work together for a private sector-driven solution to this problem before Uncle Sam muffles Internet innovation and openness with a big-government, slow moving, ugly regulatory regime.
- Thanks for being interested in such an important issue.
