Studio Company to Premiere Play by ADA Staff Member

If you like to reminisce about the Charleston, Aimee Semple McPherson, the "Talkies," Lindbergh's flight to Paris or the Wall Street Crash--you will enjoy the next offering of the ADA Studio Company.

All of those nostalgic tidbits and more will be found in . . . And All That Jazz. Written by Paul Lee, a charter member of the Academy of Dramatic Art teaching staff, it is a British TV writer's concept of the social, moral and economic conditions of America during Prohibition.

Besides being a television writer, Lee was a theatre director in England and a senior tutor and director with the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London. He was also a lecturer on scripting at London Polytechnic Film School.

In . . . And All That Jazz he captures the fun of the flappers and sheiks, the perils of rum-running on the Detroit River, traumas caused by the Wall Street Crash, and the hopes of the blacks as they migrated to northern cities.

Songs and dances, typical of the decade, are interspersed between

"eye-witness" accounts of happenings in the "era of wonderful nonsense."

The production will be presented in some 15 schools and playhouses in early December, before being given in the Academy's own Studio Theatre in Varner Hall Jan. 7-9 and 13-15.

Tickets may be ordered in advance from the Studio Company box office, 7-3010, at $2 for general admission and $1 for students.

Coach Joins Staff

Swim Season to Open

Oakland's swim team will dive into the new season this week under Mike O'Connor of Detroit, named interim swimming coach to replace Corey Van Fleet this year. Van Fleet is in Florida working on his doctorate.

O'Connor was an outstanding prep star and a member of the perennially strong University of Michigan team as an undergraduate. He was Big Ten champion in the 400 and 800-yard freestyle relays and a member of the NCAA All-American teams in the same events in 1967 and '68.

The Pioneers' first competition will be in the Notre Dame Relays on Friday and the Michigan Collegiate Relays at Eastern Michigan on Saturday. O'Connor is counting on both events to give him an idea of the strengths of his team members in their assigned events.

Sixteen of the 18-man squad are freshmen and sophomores. The only upperclassmen are All-American diver Jack Parker, the lone senior, and distance man Larry Bryh, a junior.

The Pioneers' first action in the Oakland pool will be a two-school meet against Kalamazoo College on Thursday, Dec. 9.

Soccer Team Wraps It Up With a Win

The Pioneers soccer team ended its 1971 season last week with a 1-0 win over Midland Soccer Club.

After a slow start due to lack of practice during the two-week faculty strike, the booters snapped back to finish the season with four wins, a loss and a tie in the last six games. The season record was 6-5-1.

Paul Neeson, team captain and the leading scorer all year, capped his collegiate career with the game's only goal. It was scored at six minutes of the second quarter on an assist by Armond LeComte, East Detroit freshman.

Coach John Motzer had special praise in the season finale for senior goalie Mike McCartan of Dearborn, senior fullback Ed Kamann of Detroit, and halfbacks Dave Dinsmore of Royal Oak and Mark Korzon of Orchard Lake.

Offensively the players were mired down by a cold and muddy field, but Motzer praised the work of Neeson, LeComte, Mike Morrison of Algonac, Mohammad Bah of Sierra Leone, West Africa, and Don Tosh of Spencerport, N.Y.
