

Negotiators for Waterford Teachers, Board OK Pact

Negotiating teams representing the Waterford Education Association (WEA) and the Waterford Township Board of Education last night reached agreement on a 1966-67 master contract for teachers, culminating nearly seven months of bargaining.

It ratified by teachers at a

WEA meeting at 7:30 tonight and by the board tomorrow, classes will open on schedule this week.

The agreement was announced by Harry N. Casselman, an arbitrator for the Michigan Labor Mediation Board (MLMB) who supervised intensified bargaining and mediation sessions last ing 31 hours between Thursday night and 8:30 last night.

The WEA ratification meeting will be at the Community Activities, Inc., building.

Teachers had threatened not to return to classes unless a contract was negotiated by the time school opened.

Teachers are slated to report back to school tomorrow, while students are scheduled to return Thursday.

Terms of the contract are being withheld, pending ratification by the teachers and school board.

Negotiations between the two sides first began last Feb.-1.

In June, a mediator from the MLMB was called into the sessions after teachers had voted to withhold their professional services unless a contract was negotiated before the start of the school year.

CHARGES FILED

Last Monday, the WEA filed charges of unfair labor practices against the school board, and Supt. of Schools Dr. Don O. Tatro appealed to Gov. George Romney to intervene in the crisis in an effort to find a solution.

Thursday, Romney proposed a 60-day moratorium for Waterford Township and eight other troubled Michigan districts to assure that school would open on schedule.

He was turned down, but received pledges from all nine districts that intensified bargaining would be carried out in an all-out effort to prevent any delay in the opening of school.

Waterford already had planned stepped-up negotiations prior to the governor's meeting.

Florida Crash Kills 7 as U.S. Toll Skyrockets

By The Associated Press

Seven lives were snuffed out early today as two cars crashed near Clearwater in western Florida, pushing the 78-hour Labor Day weekend traffic toll toward what the National Safety Council said looked like a "pretty definite" record.

The death toll reached 450. The crash on U.S. 19 a few miles north of Clearwater killed three boys and four girls, all teens, and injured three others.

Morton Assails Senate Dems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thurston B. Morton assailed the Senate Democratic leadership today for "embarrassing" President Johnson by proposing a reduction in the U.S. troop commitment to Europe.

Morton, who heads the Republican senatorial campaign committee, took the lead in an attempt to force hearings on a resolution offered by Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and Democratic Policy Committee members to put the Senate on record favoring a cutback in North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces.

"The proposal at this time is untimely and embarrassing to the commander in chief," Morton said in an interview.

"I am upset and concerned that the Democratic leadership is so little disciplined that it would come out with a proposal like this."

"If we do this — and we won't — Europe would consider NATO as going down the drain and the rest of the world would think we were concerned only with Viet Nam," the Kentucky Republican said.

An Associated Press canvass disclosed that 65 senators willing to take a public position at this time, 48 favor early withdrawal of some American troops from Europe while 17 opposed the action as likely to have far-reaching adverse consequences.

4 U.S. Planes Are Downed in N. Viet Raids

Government Troops Kill Nearly Half of 600-Man Red Force

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — North Vietnamese ground fire shot down three U.S. fighter-bombers during raids near Hanoi yesterday and another American plane was knocked down farther south today, the U.S. command announced.

Only one of the five pilots was rescued, a spokesman said.

The aircraft losses brought the number of U.S. planes reported shot down over North Viet Nam to 31.

While American jets pounded oil depots, missile sites and other targets in the North Vietnamese heartland, government troops in South Viet Nam reported wiping out nearly half of a 600-man elite Communist force in a three-day operation in the sweltering swamps of the Mekong Delta 120 miles southwest of Saigon.

The fighting broke a 10-day lull in ground action in the south.

BRACE FOR TERRORISM

As the allies braced for increased Communist terrorism in advance of the national election next Sunday, 5,500 South Korean troops arrived aboard three U.S. transports at the central coast port of Nha Trang.

A U.S. twin-engine Army Caribou transport plane crashed into a Vietnamese village yesterday shortly after taking off from Dong Tra airfield about 250 miles northeast of Saigon.

Record Jobs, Inflation Woes Backdrop for This Labor Day

WASHINGTON (AP) — Flags wove, workers parade, bands blare and speakers laud labor's role in American life as the nation observes Labor Day today.

The holiday dates back to 1882, when workers staged the first Labor Day parade in New York City. It has been a legal holiday since 1894.

This year's observance comes amid record employment and a growing discontent over inflationary pressures.

The government announced last week that 78.4 million Americans were at work in August, a carryover of July's record-breaking figure. A week earlier, it had announced the cost of living had reached a record high.

Labor's top spokesman, George Meany, president of the 13-million-member AFL-CIO, defended the right to strike as vital to democracy and said in a holiday statement labor is not to blame for rising prices.

EQUAL SHARE

President Johnson said Labor Day is a time to focus on new ways to assure every citizen an equal share in the greatness of America.

"Every segment of American life — labor, government, business, the public at large — has a special stake in extending our prosperity to those it has eluded for too long," Johnson said in his Labor Day message.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz steered clear of controversial economic issues in their Labor Day messages, confining themselves to praising labor's role in seeking a better life for all Americans.

In the background of the Labor Day celebration hung the strong possibility of a major strike in the telephone industry, following hard on the heels of the recent crippling airlines walkout that spurred new talk of anti-strike legislation.

"In recent weeks and months, some of the basic precepts of free trade unionism have been challenged," Meany said in an obvious reference to the airlines furor.

Anyone who says he believes in the right to strike must accept the fact that strikes will sometimes occur," he said.

Congress was considering legislation to end the airlines strike when the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists settled with five airlines. There are signs that new legislation to deal with strikes may come up in the next session of Congress.

Turning to economics, Meany said it was a difficult subject for most Americans to understand except when it comes to "the family budget."

He said labor was unfairly catching the blame for rising prices.

Government figures show that unit labor costs have long remained stable while profits have been climbing at record rates, he said.

"Prices are not being pushed up by inflation, pure and simple."

Political Trip to Detroit First of Campaign

Vows Continued Fight on Guaranteed Pay, Taft-Hartley Repeal

DETROIT (AP) — President Johnson, starting his first admittedly political trip of the campaign season, coupled a blunt call for labor union restraint in wage demands with these promises:

— He pledged he would not forget the goal of a guaranteed annual wage.

— He promised to fight in 1967 for repeal of section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act, which authorizes states to outlaw the union shop contracts that require all eligible employees to join the union.

In a Labor Day address prepared for a union-sponsored memorial service at Cobo Hall for Sen. Patrick V. McNamara, D-Mich., Johnson said he did not want to quarrel with facts about inflation — "a pickpocket," he asserted in his key passage:

"Labor wants — and labor deserves — a growth of real wages, not just money wages. It wants wage gains that will offset some of the recent rise in the cost of living. But it can't make all the gains it wants — all at once."

Car-Muncher Coming to Pontiac

A machine that could spell the end of so-called auto graveyards is scheduled to go into operation in two weeks on Pontiac's North Side.

City officials, including Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., Police Chief William K. Hanger and Fire Chief James R. White, were on hand Friday for a look at the pilot model of the "rhino-autoripper."

The machine has been installed at the scrap processing yards of Sam Allen & Sons, Inc., located on Collier near the city's sanitary land-fill site.

The Rhinotripper is a machine that reduces automobiles to a big lump of metal, cutting and ripping with double sets of 12-inch metal teeth.

The machine, the first of its type to be installed in the country, will rip at the rate of 300 per day.

YEAR TEST

Built by the Richards Shear Co. of Seattle, Wash., the machine has been tested for a year.

Scheldenbrand escaped from the Ionia State Hospital. For the crime he is charged with Aug. 25. The police search began one week later after a grocery store at Higgins Lake, north of Farwell, was held up. Then followed an attempted holdup of another store, four car thefts, an encounter at a rest area with a frightened cabin occupant, plus three gun battles with police.

Junior Editors Quiz on WOODPECKERS

QUESTION: Why do woodpeckers peck wood? ANSWER: When you hear a rapid 'tap tap tap' coming high from the trees outside, you can be reasonably sure you are hearing a woodpecker at work.

These are unusual and interesting birds. Most of them have a special arrangement of the toes, two in front of the foot and two behind.

These enable them to cling tightly to the bark of a tree trunk. There are stiff feathers at the end of the tail which give support to the bird in the upright position he assumes.

A woodpecker's bill is sharp and chisel-like. He uses this to drill holes, searching for insects and grubs which hide under the bark.

His tongue is barbed and has a sticky end, which helps him to pull the insects out.

In the picture, Bill and his sister are looking at a downy woodpecker. This small attractive bird is the woodpecker most commonly seen.

He has a larger cousin, the hairy woodpecker, who resembles him closely. In the upper left, we show a large, handsome woodpecker of the Pacific Northwest with his conspicuous scarlet crest.

FOR YOU TO DO: Put a bit of suet with some wire mesh over it on a tree trunk. Woodpeckers will love it, especially when winter comes.

Strangetaste Strikes Paper Caper Could Bag the Chips

By DICK WEST United Press International WASHINGTON — The Agriculture Department this summer has been running some experiments that involve putting paper in pans of hot grease and frying it.

WEST

I'll swear I'm not putting you on. It's an actual fact and what is more, the scientists doing the research are entirely rational.

His purpose is to discover why potato chips sometimes turn dark and sticky-looking rather than an appetizing golden color when they were browned in hot oil.

Disks of filter paper are impregnated with various combinations of acids found in potatoes. "When heated in deep fat, the paper browns just like potato chips," the department said.

By studying the fried paper, the scientists get a better line on the chemical reactions that take place when potatoes are fried.

SCIENCE FICTION? No one can say at this point what the results will be, but if nothing else, the experiments could provide the basis for another science fiction movie. The plot goes like this:

In the opening scene, we see the tall slender figure of Dr. Milton Strangetaste, a government chemist, entering the office of Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman. He is carrying a bowl full of golden brown disks.

"Here," he says, depositing the bowl on Freeman's desk. "Try some of these."

Freeman pops a couple into his mouth. "Yummmmmmmmm," he exclaims. "They are delicious. What are they?"

"PAPER CHIPS," says Strangetaste. "Paper chips," Strangetaste replies.

Freeman turns pale and reels backwards. "Paper chips?" he gasps. "You mean...?"

"Exactly," says Strangetaste. "I have created from paper a product that is tastier than potato chips, has fewer calories, is easier and cheaper to make and will support a heavier load of cheese dip without breaking apart and dribbling gobs on the neckties of cocktail party guests."

"Aw, gosh!" Freeman exclaims. "This could destroy the potato chip industry!"

DISASTROUS "Yes," agrees Strangetaste. "and then I will have my revenge. Everybody giggled when they heard I was frying pieces of paper. This will show the world it doesn't pay to laugh at Milton Strangetaste."
