Informational meetings set for Master of Arts in Teaching

Oakland University's School of Education and Human Services (SEHS) will host an informational meeting about its Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT) with initial secondary teacher certification program. The meeting is Tuesday, April 8, at 5 p.m. at the Macomb Intermediate School District building (MISD) at 44001 Garfield Road in Clinton Township.

The program is designed to address Michigan's shortage of qualified teachers at the secondary level.

OU's MAT is a teacher certification program is aimed at career changers. Courses are scheduled in the evening and on weekends, with the exception of student teaching. A cohort start is planned for the fall 2003 semester at the MISD. Applications currently are being accepted.

Program details and meeting information are available on the Department of Professional Development and Education Outreach Web site or by calling Professional Development at (248) 370-3033.
