University Relations implementing new phone system

By Dawn Pauli, contributing writer

Reaching employees in the University Relations Division in John Dodge House will be easier when a new automated answering system is implemented in mid-August.

After phoning the main number, (248) 370-3700, callers will need to enter the employee's extension to be immediately connected. At any time, callers can dial "0" to reach a John Dodge House employee for assistance.

"Due to budgetary reasons, we had to eliminate a position," said Rob Saunders, director of development information services. "At the same time, we want to use our phone system more efficiently. Callers will reach an automated answering system that will quickly and easily direct them to who they want to reach and they always will have the option to speak to someone immediately by dialing '0'."

The University Relations offices in John Dodge House include Alumni Relations, Development Information Services (including Gift Accounting), Annual Giving, the Office of the Vice President for University Relations and the Oakland University Foundation.
