

CONTENTS

What Oakland Taught Me Gottfried Brieger	9
Your brain on love: The Three Stages to Euphoria Geoff Potts	16
“Double Life,” “A Brief History of Chinese Food,” “PEACE IN OUR TIME: You can’t get there from here,” “Dictionary of Imaginary Places,” “A Brief History of Taxi Cabs,” “American Poet in Tokyo” Glen Armstrong	28
Not My Fault Cathy McQueen	35
Experience and the Presidency David Levine	40
translation, panic attack, before, after, before, daydreaming, when you leave . . . , close, too often Karen Ballard	50
The Chronicles of Seminarnia Bill Bryne	56

The Politics of Pinyin: Reflections on the differences of Mandarin Chinese in Taiwan and China by a novice Peter D. Coyle	63
The Romantic Imagination in Coleridge’s “Dejection: An Ode” Christine Nguyen	66
A School of Fish (or Students) Jennifer Van Vliet	76
Teleportation Alberto Rojo	80
“Epitaphs from Baghdad” Gottfried Brieger	87
Changing Health Care for Vulnerable Older Adults: Five Programs of Research Linda Thompson Adams	89
Dementia Ann Whall	91
Preserved Implicit Memory Barbara Harrison	99
Promoting the Well-being of Older Adults through Multi-sensory Environments Cheryl Riley-Doucet	108
Successful Aging Karen S. Dunn	114

“Sobriety”	121
Pamela Light
Notes from the Dismal Science:
Just How Good is Oakland University	122
Sherm Folland
FORUM:
Wake-Up Call	128
Peter Bertocci
How to Teach Keeps Changing	132
Dagmar Croom
REVIEW:
The Bottom Billion: Why the Poorest Countries are Failing and What Can Be Done About It (Oxford University Press, 2007).
By Paul Kubicek.	135
Reviewed by Paul Caullier
Contributors	138