Several members of the Future Alumni Network (FANs), the OUAA's student alumni organization, were recognized for their dedication and achievements at the Center for Student Activities' annual Student Organization Awards night on April 18. Among the winners were:

- Genafer Hintz, Student Organization President of the Year
- Lucy VandePutte, Student Leader of the Year (Female) and Greek of the Year
- Stefen Welch, Student Leader of the Year (Male)
- Stefanie Marshall, Commuter Involvement Award

The Future Alumni Network also was nominated for two other awards. The group was nominated for Outstanding Educational/Academic Program of the Year with their Black Alumni panel discussion, "Success through Education" as well as Outstanding Student Organization of the Year.

FANs was created in 2002 to support the mission of the Oakland University Alumni Association. The group focuses on providing its members with opportunities in leadership, networking and ambassador experiences. They encourage current students to be involved with the university before and after graduation, while also welcoming current alumni back to campus. Membership is open to undergraduate and graduate students.
