OU to host Ambassador Leonard Woodcock seminar on China

Oakland University will host the 10th Annual Ambassador Leonard Woodcock Legacy seminar on China on Thursday, April 8, at 1:30 p.m. at Meadow Brook Hall on the university's campus.

The event will feature speakers representing the People's Republic of China and the United States and experts in global economics and politics, legal and trade issues and Sino-American relations.

Oakland's Ambassador Leonard Woodcock Legacy Program promotes understanding between the United States and China in areas such as trade relations, international law, politics and education. It also fosters exchange of faculty and students between the two nations.

The Woodcock project aids Michigan's economic development by providing academic and political leaders and potential trade partners with the latest information on China. The program has also played a significant role in working to establish trade between businesses in Oakland County and China.

The seminar is named in honor of Leonard Woodcock, former U.A.W. president, who served as the first U.S. Ambassador to the People's Republic of China between 1979 and 1981.

There is no charge for this public service program. However, seating is limited and registration is required. To register, or for more information on the seminar, please call Mel Gilroy (248) 370-3339 or e-mail megilroy@oakland.edu.

Oakland University is a comprehensive state-supported institution located in Oakland County, Michigan.
